Based on an estimated total property assessment value of $48,000,000 at a tax rate of $1.43 per $100 valuation the city of Wichita Falls budget for the ensuing year will total $1,187,290.87. The budget was adopted Monday night by the city council.

From this revenue overdrafts amounting to $95,177.77 and street improvement fund transfers of $18,658.71 will be deducted, leaving a net revenue of $1,187.87.

The budget is divided into the following divisions: General fund, $360,766; street fund, $89,158.05; interest on bonded rebt, $188,640; sinking fund, $65,760 and water fund, $228,396.41.

He says he was well well treated by the couple.

LONG ISLAND, N. Y. April 25. That picture wire they are said to have twisted around the neck of poor Albert Snyder was no tighter that the coil of evidence that the state of New York began wrapping around Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray today.

They both must have been gagging a bit under the choke after the session in the hugh yellow-walled, vaugely-lighted old courtroom in Long Island city.

It was a tale of murder that has often been told in print of late, but that somehow never read as blood-curdling as it sounded today.

Old David Belasco sat in the courtroom, an expression of horror on the benign countenance above his priestly collar. He wagged his gary robed head again and again as if to say "this cannot be real."

MEXICO GIVES PEACE PLEDGE

Pres. Coolidge Bares Facts In Dinner Address

NEW YORK, April 25.—President Coolidge tonight revealed that a private understanding has been made between the United States and Mexico which means peace.

Mexico has promised to refrain from confiscating American property within her boundaries, he disclosed. She is alert to prosecute and punish those who commit outrages upon American citizens. She has declared her desire to maintain the most amicable relations, he said.

His revelation of the understanding reached between himself and the Mexican ambassador at a recent private conference in the temporary White House mansion on Dupont circle in Washington was made by President Coolidge in a forcible speech to several hundred newspaper editors at the twentieth anniversary banquet of the United Press in the Hotel Biltmore.

Having reviewed the historical relations between the two nations and the troublesome problems of Mexico's alien-land and property laws which had severely strained relations in the past few months, President Coolidge surprised his audience with a brief, striking announcement of the negotiations for harmony. He declared:

"I am glad to report that the Mexican ambassador has recently declared to me that she (Mexico) does not intend to confiscate our property, that she has shown diligence in capturing and punishing those who have murdered our citizens, and expressed the wish, which we so thoroughly entertain, of keeping cordial and friendly relations.

"With a strong sentiment of this nature, which, I am convinced, animate the people of both countries, it will surely be possible to reach an amicable adjustment.

"Our two peoples ought so to conduct themselves that there

Two Battle For Lives After Burk Car Crash

Survivors Of Auto Wreck In Which Two Died Have "Even Chance" To Recover.

"An even chance to live," was the slim hope physicians held out Monday night for Tom Vancleave, 19, and Eugene Abraham, critically injured in the automobile accident at Burkburnett early Monday morning that claimed the lives of two other youths. John Dan Mitchell Jr., 24, and John H. Abraham, 27, were killed almost instantly when the car in which they were riding left the road just out of the city limits of Burkburnett and crashed into a telephone pole.

The accident occurred shortly after 2 o'clock Monday morning. The two injured youths were making a brave fight for life Monday night. Shortly after 1 o'clock their condition was reported as "unchanged."

Vancleave and Eugene Abraham were carried to the Hargrave-Walker and Clinic hospitals here, Monday night, each of them was reported by attending physicians to be dangerously hurt.

Tom Vancleave, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Vancleave of Burkburnett, with a fracture at the base of the brain, was said to be in a semi-conscious condition. He recognized relatives who visited him, physicians stated. Besides the fracture Vancleave is suffering from lacerations over his right eye and on his right leg. His chances to live are about even, according to the physicians.

Paralysis Hinders Fight

Eugene Abraham, 27, is hindered in his fight for life by paralysis from the middle of his chest down to his feet. His most serious injuries are a dislocated vertebrae and a fractured vertebrae, a physician stated.

The body of John Dan Mitchell Jr., will be forwarded by the Owens Undertaking company of Burkburnett Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock to Dawson, Texas, for burial, according to the Burkburnett correspondent of The Record News. His parents live at Dawson.

Services for John H. Abraham will be held later in the week in Burkburnett. Abraham's body is also held by the Owens Undertaking company.

Mr. Mitchell was an employe of the Key Drug store of Burkburnett where Mr. Vancleave was also employed.

John H. Abraham lived in the Burkburnett shallow field. He was an oil worker and was associated with his father, who lives in Pennsylvania, in oil promotions. He was a cousin of Eugene Abraham.

Auto Hits Post

GRAND JURY TO RETURN TODAY

Judge To Clear Mystery Of Recall

Speculation was rife Monday among court house attaches as to the reason for Judge E. G. Thornton's order re-convening the grand jury Tuesday morning.

Judge Thornton refused to reveal his reason Monday and his only reply to inquiries as to the cause was that he did not believe it advisable to make public the reason until he had delivered his charge to the grand jurors.

May Ask Second Report

The consensus of opinion among the attaches was that Judge Thornton's action concerned the grand jury report returned Friday when that body adjourned for the spring term of court.

Certain charges relative to irregularities in the court house were not set out in the report and it is thought that Judge Thornton desires a more complete report than that returned by the grand jurors.

Judge Silent

However, Judge Thornton declined to state Monday whether the convening of the grand jury was relative to the report, or not. He advised all questioners to wait until his charge was delivered to the grand jury.

The order re-convening the grand jury came as a surprise to officials in the court house, and caused much discussion.

COMMISSIONERS DISCUSS REPORT; FAIL TO ACT

Although the recent report of the county grand jury in which certain alleged irregularities in the the county government were set out was discussed Monday during the county commissioners court, no action was taken.

The report was read and a few remarks made by the members of the court and then was filed.

Advertise Road Hearing

The report set out that the grand jurors had been advised that certain law enforcement officers in the county had been indulging "liquor orgies;" that certain officials in the court house were not co-operating in the administration of the county government and that the court house needed to be cleaned.

Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk, was instructed by the court to advertise a hearing on May 9 for the setting of a date for an election to determine the authorization a $1,125,000 bond issue for road improvements in Wichita county.

The Fox-Brown Chevrolet company, after filing a $500 bond was designated as a headlight testing station by the court.

Mississippi Flood Fatalities Total Between 300 and 500 Lives To Date

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 25. (AP)—Swiftly and irresistibly the flood waters of the Mississippi river and its tributaries rolled across new ground today in three states—Arkansas, Mississippi, and Louisiana—inundating additional towns and thousands of acres of farm lands.

Driving the homeless before it, the floods claimed new victims here and there, swallowing up a Mississippi national guard rescue worker near Greenville, an Arkansas planter near Pine Bluff, and the captain of a government craft assisting in levee strengthening on the Arkansas river near Gould.

With the known death list past the one hundred mark, estimates of the total facilities ranged from 300 to 500. Rescue workers in the Mississippi delta fear that many lost their lives today as the flood waters continue across the region.

In the absence of any official estimates, varying calculations of the damage over the 9500 square miles of water covered area were made by business men here. These ranged all the way from $100,000,000 to half a billion dollars.

Brother of Dead Children Discovers Theri Bodies Inert in Water

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, April 25.—Earl Porter, 9, and Eva Sue Porter, 6, children of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Porter were drowned near their home four miles northeast of Electra while playing in a small lake about 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

It was supposed that the children had been playing on a small raft when Eva Sue fell into the water, the brother diving for her. This theory was substantiated by bruises on the boy's head.

They had gone to the small tank to play shortly after the boy came home from school at 4 20 o'clock. They were first missed when Mrs. Porter called them to supper.

Hour's Search Made.

A search was started which lasted about an hour before the children's brother, Roger Porter, 15, found the bodies under a small gang plank used as a foot bridge. Roger brought the bodies to the bank unassisted. The bodies were found in about four and one half feet of water.

Drs. W. H. Ogden and J. F. Burton of the Parmley-Ogden hospital of Electra were called to the home and pronounced the children dead upon their arrival.

The lake is located about 300 yards from the house and is not more than 75 feet wide at its widest point.

The children were the youngest members of Porter family. They are survived by their parents, two brothers, Roger and Clifford, and two sisters, Mildred and Faye. Faye is seriously ill at the home. Mr. Porter is employed as a pumper on the Honaker lease by the Magnolia Petroleum company.

Funeral Delayed.

Funeral arrangements will not be completed until the arrival of relatives although members of the family stated that services will probably be held at the First Baptist church of Electra of which the parents are members. The bodies were brought to the Cotton Brothers Funeral home here.

Hundreds of people from here motored to the Porter home early Monday night to view the scene of the tragedy.

OUSTED TEXAS SOLONS FIGHT

Decision On Motion to Quash Indictments Set Down

AUSTIN, April 25. (AP)—Alleging faulty indictments, counsel for F. A. Dale and H. H. Moore, expelled members of the house of representatives today stayed off scheduled opening of their trial on charge of accepting $1000 to influence legislation.

Criminal District Judge J. R. Hamilton, after hearing an afternoon's argument, took under advisement until Tuesday a defense motion to quash the indictment, attacked from half a dozen angles, mainly as failing to show Dale and Moore susceptible to legally defined bribery.

Defense argument was that the state had failed to allege that Dale and Moore were in position to secure unfavorable house committee report on the optometrist tax bill involved, even if Dale did pocket $1000 tendered him by Willis Chamberlin, Texas optometry association lobbyist, near a local hotel alley, one night.

Rangers on Hand. N

Texas rangers, forewarned by Chamberlain, who had his money marked testified before house investigating committee which recommended Dale-Moore expulsions that Dale took the money a few minutes after the three principals culminated contacts of several days with a dinner in Moore's hotel room.

Both Dale and Moore, seemingly optimistic, were on hand this morning when Judge Hamilton called court in a crowded little room adjacent to the larger chamber where he heard the Rev. J. Frank Norris murder case, and which is now being used for the $50,000,000 Blaffer oil suit.

In weeding out the jury venire, it was found that those with "sick" excuses and others who could not read and write, so depleted the force that an additional venire had to be called. In the ensuing recess until 2 p. m., Judge Hamilton received and read the motion to quash and let the prosecution examine it.

To Ask Severance.

John Shelton of defense counsel said that severance of the case will be asked so that Moore may be tried first.

Jury selection is expected to take a large part of Tuesday if the indictments survive the quash motion.

Former Senator T. H. McGregor, chief defense counsel argued that the bill to tax stationary optometrists was before the house committee on revenue and taxation and not before the house as a whole, and that since Dale and Moore were identified in the indictment only as members of the house, they could not be charged legally with influencing committee decisions, under bribery definition.

District Attorney J. D. Moore refuted this with the claim that the committee was "creature of the house" and a part of it, and that any transaction having to do with influencing legislation at any stage would be bribery if compensation figured in it.

Argument Drawn Fine

The argument got down to some fine points of law. District Attorney Moore pointed to the fact that Dale was a member of the committee, regardless of whether the indictment recounted such and referred to the possibilities of "collusion."

A. L. Love of defense counsel quoted at length from court opinions frowning on inclusion of two felonies in one count of an indictment as he claimed was done in the Dale-Moore true-bill. The quash motion said the defendants were charged with "agreeing to accept a bribe" and "accepting a bribe" all in one count.

Prosecution later refuted this argument with claims that it is permissible under conditions where one transaction interlocks with another.

Other objection was that the nature of the bill, which the defendant Moore introduced, was not explained in the indictment.

Special Prosecutor W. D. Hart, summed up the state's case with a declaration that "we identify them as members of the legislature and charge that they accepted a bribe to influence pending legislation."

"No matter what kind of a bill it is, even if nothing but a new dog tax," he said, "the term 'pending legislation' would cover it."

He devoted some time to showing that Attorney Love's citation about duplications indictments were from liquor cases, for special reasons that he held foreign to the case at hand.

McGregor Bears Down

McGregor bore down heavily on his contention that "there can be no bribery of anyone not bound by law to duties whose disposition may be influenced."

This was in support of his point that Dale and Moore had not been alleged to be members of the house committee.

But he and Love told of cases where men were tried for bribery in connection with transactions they were not legally empowered to make, and how convictions were reversed.

"As far as the indictment is concerned," McGregor said, "Dale and Moore had no way to influence the committee's disposition of the bill."

Mexico Gives Peace Pledge

President Coolidge took this occasion to declare to the world the policies which prompt the United States in its dealings not alone with Mexico but also with war-torn China and Nicaragua.

He disclosed in his speech an interesting mixture of firmness to protect American life and property throughout the world and of kindliness toward the people wherever they may be struggling for liberty.

At one point, he made this positive declaration for democratic freedom: "In that conflict between freedom and despotism, which is as old as humanity, and which constantly recurs in one form or another, both among ourselves and among other people, it has always been the policy of this government to extend its sympathy and, in so far as it lawfully could, its support to the side of the freedom."

That policy will be maintained in China, where the latent spirit of nationalism is now asserting itself in an endeavor to establish a republican form of government, he declared.

American life and property will be protected there by all the force of the United States, he said. But in emphasis of America's kindliness toward the new movement for freedom and of her refusal to join with other nations in a junker policy, President Coolidge declared:

"The friendship of America for China has become proverbial. We feel for her the deepest sympathy in these times of her distress. We have no disposition to do otherwise than to assist and encourage every legitimate aspiration for freedom, for unity, for the cultivation of a national spirit, and the realization of a republican form of government.

"In the turmoil and strife of the present time, we realize fully that forces may be let loose temporarily beyond their power to control which may do injury to American nationals.

"It is to guard against that eventuality that our forces are in Chinese water and to do what China itself would do if peace prevailed. We do not wish to pursue any course of aggression against the Chinese people. We are there to prevent aggression against our people by any of their disorderly elements.

Peace Eventually

"Ultimately the turmoil will quiet down and some form of authority will emerge, which will no doubt be prepared to make adequate settlement for any wrongs we have suffered. We shall, of course, maintain the dignity of our government and insist upon proper respect being extended to our authority. But our actions will at all times be those of a friend solicitous for the well-being of the Chinese people."

Summing up this policy of the United States toward people's throughout the world, President Coolidge said:

"The recent period has brought America into a new position in the world. We shall have to bear the inevitable criticisms and try to discharge the inevitable obligations which arise from this condition.

"Because some others have pursued that course, it may be feared that we shall embark upon a program of military aggrandizement. Such, however, is not the spirit of the American people. The world knows that the whole genius of America always calls it to the support of the universal rights of humanity."

Monroe Doctrine

With respect to Nicaragua, President Coolidge declared a determination to enforce the Monroe Doctrine that evidently was intended for consumption by nations across the sea. He said:

"Toward the government of countries which we have recognized this side of the Panama Canal we feel a moral responsibility that does not attach to other nations. We wish them to feel that our recognition is of real value to them and that they can count on such support as we can lawfully give when they are beset with difficulties."

President Coolidge strongly rebuked the critics who charge that the administration has shown a military, imperialistic bent in its foreign affairs. American genius and wealth have gone far to develop the resources of other natons, he said, and any nation which wants them in must give them orderly protection.

Testimony Opens In Snyder Case

ing garb that is a terrible mockery. If all that was said today is true—the woman with the icy eyes, "Cold Pan Ruth" some fellow called her, describing her marble mask.

Now and then an expression that might have been contempt crossed the glacial surface of her gaze as District Attorney Richard Newcombs, briefly and acidly, related what he expects to prove against her, and later as he was bringing out the story of what the state claims is the motive for the brutal murder of Albert Snyder by the woman and her erstwhile sweetheart, Henry Judd Gray—the insurance on Snyder's life.

Insurance Man Testifies.

That was perhaps the most important testimony of the day. The blonde woman whispered frequently to her lawyers, Dana Wallace and Edgar Hazelton, when a representative of the Prudential Life Insurance company was relating what seemed to be a most damaging story of her taking but $50,000 worth of life insurance on her husband's life, to double in the event of his death by accident.

This is the thing, the state maintains, that prompted Mrs. Snyder and her weakling paramour, Henry Judd Gray, the corset salesman, to plot for weeks and months against the life of Albert Snyder and to finally wind up that black night of March 19, beating and strangling him to death as he slept in his bed at his home in Queen's village.

It developed in the testimony today that the wire around his neck was the real cause of Snyder's death. Doctors testified that the blows rained upon his head with the window sash weight that has figured so much in the gory story would not have produced death. The wire did the business.

Enmity No Myth.

It became apparent immediately after court opened that the enmity between those once fervid lovers, Ruth and Henry Judd, that we have been hearing about, is no myth. We had the astounding situation of the attorneys for one defendant objecting to questions by the attorneys for the other defendant.

The attorneys for the woman seemed to think the testimony of the doctors about the window sash weight in their favor. You see, Gray, in his confession, said that he slugged the sleeping Snyder with the weight first, then dropped the iron cudgel and that Ruth picked it up and finished the job. Her attorneys will probably now endeavor to show that Gray tightened the wire about Snyder's neck and thus was the real murderer.

State Wastes No Time.

District Attorney Newcombe, a grayish, baldish, legal-looking man, who wears a little black bow tie, wasted little time in his recital of what the state charges and expects to prove against the defendants.

When some of the witnesses were testifying, Mrs. Snyder listened as if what they were saying was complete news to her. This was especially true in the case of Dr. Howard W. Neill, of Jamacia, county medical examiner of Queens for the last 16 years, who performed the autopsy on Snyder's body.

The doctor read a long, meticulous report of his findings in the Snyder murder, going into great detail. He described the various wounds minutely. He referred to Snyder's corpse as that of "a white male adult."

As Dr. Neil read from voluminous notes his description of his findings, Mrs. Snyder sat with her hand on the table in front of her in a listening attitude. The jurymen bent forward, some of them obviously a trifle bewildered by the medical terms.

Death Coil Shown.

It was while Dr. Neil was on the stand that the district attorney produced his first exhibits, the coil of picture wire that was around Snyder's neck and the window sash weight.

The first witness was called at 11:40 o'clock. He was William H. Schneider, brother of the dead man. He said he is fifty, but he looks older. He has a ministerial appearance.

He testified to identifying the body of his brother, whom he handn't seen since January, 1926. His testimony was to prove what the legal sharks call the corpus delicti.

Then came Dr. Neil.

Dr. Neil testified to finding Snyder's body turned face downward, the nose and mouth buried in the bed pillow. Wads of gauze had been stuffed up the nostrils and in the mouth and chloroform was found in the brain, also traces of the alcohol Snyder had been imbibing at the party before he was murdered.

Asphyxia Caused Death.

It was Dr. Neil's opinion that asphyxia had caused death. He thought this would have been produced by the chloroform and the manner in which Snyder's face was buried in the pillow, even if it hadn't been for the wire.

Both Wallace and Miller cross-examined Dr. Neil. Miller finally got an answer of "no" to his question if there had been any signs of a struggle.

William H. Knight of Astoria, testified to making surveys and maps of the murder premises. There were twin beds in the room where Snyder was murdered.

Now came Joseph M. Farrell, office manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, a dark, spare-built man of austere aspect.

Hotel Register Evidence.

He read from sheafs of the register of the Waldorf of no less than twenty-two occasions when Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd Gray had been guests at the hotel, registering as Mr. and Mrs. H. Judd Gray.

Farrell was asked if he knew Gray and he shot a brief glance at the inert Henry Judd and said yes. He stood up to get a good peek at Mrs. Snyder when asked about her, the judge's bench shutting off the view of the lady from the witness chair. Farrell said yes again.

Henry Judd and his sweetheart were at the Waldorf frequently in 1925, 1926 and 1927, especially in January and February of this year just before the murder. They seemed to have a penchant for room 872 and Isabelle Wright and Eleanor L. Foley, floor clerks on that floor of the hotel, were brought forward later to identify the defendants. It seemed to be generally agreed that Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd occupied the same room.

On cross-examination by Wallace, Farrell admitted Gray often remained at the hotel continuously at times. He said he never saw him with any other woman than the woman he had come to know as Mrs. Gray, was in reality Mrs. Snyder.

Suitcase Delivered.

Raymond Bruen of Pagoda, N. J., testified to delivering a suitcase to Mrs. Snyder and some police officers from the Waldorf check room after the murder.

Raymond is a bellboy at the Waldorf. Presently, David Smith, a red-headed, determined-looking young cop, was called to testify about this suitcase. David Smith was one of the officers who went with Mrs. Snyder to collect the suitcase.

The suitcase, a battered old cowhide affair, was produced in evidence and opened just enough to give the jury a glimpse of a blue dressing gown, but David Smith, reading from a list, apprised them of the complete contests. It included one book entitled "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Courtroom Gets Laugh.

The bailiffs had to hammer lustily for order. Mrs. Snyder's cold face seemed to thaw for just one fleeting instant, but Henry Judd continued to look serious.

Leroy Ashfield of Bellaire, N. J., was the next and perhaps the most important witness of the day for the state. It was Ashfield who, representing the Prudential Life, was sent for by Mrs. Snyder, so he testified, in 1925, and told that she wanted some insurance on her husband's life.

She said, the witness related, that she wanted her husband to have a large policy, and said that she would pay the premiums.

Ashfield said Albert Snyder appeared to be interested in a $1,000 endowment policy more than anything else, when he talked with him, so, he, Ashfield, filled out a policy for that amount, which Snyder signed. Then Snyder also signed an application in skeleton form for a $50,000 policy.

Policies in Evidence.

Mrs. Snyder called on him the next day, Ashfield said, and told him to make out one policy for $50,000, modified life policy, to double in the event of death by accident, and he put the applications through without ever seeing Snyder again. The policies, which were all produced and handed around among the jury, were changed before they were delivered to Mrs. Snyder to one for $5,000 and one for $45,000, besides the $1,000 policy.

On cross-examination, Hazleton tried to bring out that the witness had heard rumors in his office some time before the crime that Mrs. Snyder wanted to cancel the policies because she felt the premium was too big.

George Marks, a mail carrier of Jamaica, sandy-haired, mild-mannered and evidently not overly pleased with his spot as a witness, proved very damaging to Mrs. Snyder and Gray. He delivered mail to the Snyder home in Queens Village and said Mrs. Snyder has asked him to deliver to her personally any mail that came from the Prudential company or addressed to J. or Jane Gray.

Marks said he had given her a number of such letters in the past couple of years.

Husky Maid Testifies.

Alice Prinz, a husky young lady in gray, employed by the Prudential and Charles P. Dorschel of Brooklyn, a detective from the district attorney's office, were the other witnesses, piecing out minor details of the first strands of Newcombe's web around Mrs. Snyder and Henry Judd.

Court adjourned at 4:30 until tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. At the rate Newcombe is going, he ought to have his case in by the end of the week.

MODISH MITZI — Mitzi's Awfully Absent-Minded These Days — By JAY V. JAY

Mitzi's little navy blue suit with the navy dotted white blouse has a new jacket with no buttons at all and a skirt with a wide fitting yoke. She wears a little navy blue helmet hat with it—and she almost forgot to take her alligator purse as she left.

Mitzi went to a matinee in a crepe satin gown, with the satin side for the dress and the crepe side for the bands of trimming. She wore another little helmet hat—this one with ear tabs on it—and the usher had to dash after her with her envelope bag of snake.

Mitzi went out in the evening with the Goofer and wore an evening wrap of taffeta, with the top made like a cape and trimming of flat and splashy roses in the proper shade to contrast—the Goofer remembered to pick up her envelope bag of rhinestones.

Mitzi thanked him for it when they got home and he pulled it out of his pocket. Mitzi's dress is of chiffon, diamon studded and matching the color of her wrap. "I carry my Paris ticket with me," she is explaining to the Goofer, "I think it's safer than anywhere else!"

Modern Husband Far Superior To Brand of Olden Days, Says Dorothy

"We Have Raised the Standard of Husband and Improved Them Until the Most Ordinary, Common or Garden Variety of the Modern Species Would Have Taken a Blue Ribbons Prize in a Husband Show 50 Years Ago, Says Dorothy Dix.

A correspondent asks: "How do you think the young men of today compare with the young men of the past as husbands and fathers? Don't you think that nowadays when a girl gets married she takes a far greater risk than her mother and grandmother did? Do you think that the modern man makes as good a husband and father as his father and grandfather did?

I think that the modern young man is the greatest modern improvement and that the girl who marries him has a 50 per cent better chance at happiness than her mother and grandmother did. Also that the modern father is the first father in the whole history of the world who has even tried to understand the obligations of father-hood, to say nothing of making an honest attempt to pull off a good job at it.

And if you throw up your hands and cry out, "Look at the increase in divorce!" and cite the number of sidestepping husbands, I reply that it isn't because there are more unfaithful husbands or more durnken husbands or more cruel or trifling husbands. It's because women won't stand for the things now that they formerly did. Mary chucks her husband out of the door for doing the very things that grandma would have endured in patient, silent suffering because she thought that a wife's role was to be the understudy of a martyr.

The truth is, we have raised the standard of husbands. We have educated them, improved them, grandflorsed them so that the most ordinary, common or garden variety of the modern species would have taken a blue ribbon prize in a husband show 50 years ago.

In fact, the women that we pity and "poor Sally" now have got just about the sort of husbands that grandpa was. For grandfather, without knowing it or intending it, was an overbearing, arrogant, egotistic, selfish tyrant, who talked a lot about gallantry and chivalry and protecting women and then proceeded to make a doormat of poor grandma.

He grabbed her pocketbook on her wedding day and doled her out of it just what he saw fit to give her. And he felt that she should be so eternally grateful to him for saving her from being an old maid that he didn't need to do anything else to make her happy the remainder of her life.

If grandma had asked grandpa for an allowance on which to run the house and for her own personal use, he would have thrown a fit. Why, the thing was unheard of! Didn't he pay the bills? Couldn't she come to him like a beggar every time she wanted a nickel for soap or a pair of new stockings? Perish the thought that a woman had any right to any money that she could spend without giving an itemized account of it to her lord and master!

But it is a mighty mean and tight-fisted husband in these days who does not voluntarily give his wife an allowance, not as a favor, but merely as a square deal and because it is a fair and honest return for her services as housekeeper and wife and mother. The modern man recognizes that financial independence is just as necessary to a woman's self-respect as it is to a man's.

Grandpa was a tyrant in his household. If he was kindly natured and amiable, he was a benevolent tyrant. If he was surly and illtempered, he was a brutal tyrant. But in either event, his will was law, and poor grandma had never a word to say about anything. All that was expected of her was to meekly accept his mandates and do his august pleasure.

The modern man has even eliminated the word ::obey" from the marriage service. He regards his wife as his equal, not his slave. He consults with her, advises with her, makes her his partner, his chum, his companion.

Grandpa thought that being married to him was picnic enough for any woman and that she couldn't possibly desire any more thrilling amusement than sitting at home watching for his return at night. The modern husband realizes that housework is dull and monotonous, and he makes an effort to bring all the pleasure he can into his wife's life. He takes her out to places of divertisement where she will see the bright lights and hear laughter and music and get something new to think about.

Grandpa left grandma at home when he went forth for his pleasures. John takes his wife along and they have good times together. It was grandpa who used to travel. Now it's Mary Jane and the children who run over to Europe, while husband stays at home and makes the money to pay the bills.

If grandma had any talents except for cooking and having babies, grandpa ruthlessly spuelched them. The modern husband encourages his wife to develop whatever gifts she has, and if he is very modern indeed he is willing for his wife to go on with the career that she has spent thousands of dollars and years of study fitting herself for and in which she is winning success. He would not like to give up his life work with all of its interests and its emoluments just because he got married and he extends the same privilege to his wife.

Oh, there are a millioin ways in which the modern man shows justice and generosity and kindness and human fellowship to his wife of which grandpa never dreamed. Indeed," it is not too much to say that nearly all of the bad husbands nowadays, the husbands who are breaking women's hearts and making them miserable, are men who are the old-fashioned kind, just like grandpa.

The modern father is also a better father, because grandpa's idea of being a good father was to be a martinet who enforced implicit obedience on his children and to make them do and think exactly as he did and thought.

He picked out John's profession for him without regard to John's talents or desires. He selected Mary's husband for her, and if John and Mary rebelled there was a grand family row and they were turned out into the cold, cold night.

The modern father tries to help his children make the best of themselves. He studies them and tries to understand them. He sympathizes with them and is their best loved friend instead of their most feared oppressor.

And so I say that ,while the new husband and father has his faults, he is a million miles in advance of the old. Why, no woman of today could stay married a week to her granadfather! Five days of his tyranny would send her to Reno.

DOROTHY DIX.

SOPHIE IRENE LOEB Says—

Money and Hearts

Once upon a time there was a young man and a young woman. They had married young, and had very little with which to start. But they loved each other.

They were always regarded as an ideal couple. Their tastes were alike and they enjoyed the same things, therefore, they got on very well together and worked to each other's interests.

They had no children, and so they had to be all in all to each other, which they were. When he was earning a small salary they chose the simplest of pleasures and got much fun out of everything. They would discuss a movie they had seen for several days.

Their inexpensive vacation, taken in the summer together, was a source of reflection during all the winter months. In a word, in their growing process, when they had very little and necessarily had to be drawn close together, they seemed the happiest couple in the world.

Now, it came to pass, that the young man was given an opportunity as the junior member of his firm—a chance for which he had long hoped. And as he had ambition and was happy, things came his way and he succeeded.

They had more of material things, and they both enjoyed their growing success.

As time went along, the husband continued to progress in his business until he became an equal partner.

And now he had to come in contact with new people, people in the same status of affluence as himself. And quite naturally his wife mingled with the wives of these men.

And naturally, she followed the old adage: "When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

She joined this little club and that little organization; this philanthropic movement and that subscription party, until she found herself very busy indeed. At the same time he was very busy with his very big business.

She had her own automobile and her husband had his. And there were servants and workers and more things to look after. So it happened in the common course of such lives the couple saw very little of each other except at dinner in the evening.

And then it often occurred that even for the evening meal he would telephone he would remain at the club "to go over some matters with Jones," or she would telephone to him, "Did he mind if she dined at the home of one of the women of her set?"

Of course he didn't mind. It was in the air and part of the success habit. Separate visits to separate friends became frequent. He learned to play certain games of which she knew nothing. She continued to join activities which were not particularly to his interests.

It also occurred that occasionally they did not agree on some activity in which each was interested and a quarrel would ensue. One quarrel brought on another until half the time they were not on speaking terms.

Then came the parting of the ways. They awoke one morning to find that they had grown very much apart and the well-known "you go your way and I'll go mine" proposition resulted.

Now the sorry thing about this whole matter was that these two people truly loved each other, but too many material things, with all the cares that they entail, had really separated them.

After they had been apart for a considerable period and had time to get a good perspective on themselves, they saw the truth of their trouble.

I do not know if they ever came together again, but I know each taught this moral to young people who came their way:

"Don't let possessions possess you."

HER DAY of WORK and PLAY

by AMY ABBOTT

In the tenement district of Jersey City there is a pretty 18-year-old Austrian girl who has refused $100,000 for an old family heirloom.

The treasure, reputed to be a true fragment of the Holy Cross, means more to Theresa than a relic; it is a symbol of the answering God to whom she prays. For Theresa was a cripple, and for five years knew what it wasto be helpless. She prayed to her relic of the Holy Cross, and one day her prayers were answered. She slowly became better—not completely well, but her paralyzed limbs began to move.

Theresa says: "Somewhere there must be someone who will help me erect a chapel in which I can place this relic. I want the afflicted and heart-weary to come to it, just as the multitudes came to Him so many years ago, to be cured of all their diseases.

She tells how the sacred monstrance was given to her.

"Emperor Joseph II gave it to my great-great-great-great grandmother, Theresa Elssner, 150 years ago. She in turn gave it to her daughter. It has come down through a long line of ancestors until now I am the owner."

Jackson Memorial.

In a simple little frame house near Guinea Station, Va., where General "Stonewall" Jackson died in 1863, a group of interested women have made the beginning of a Jackson museum. They have transformed the bare little room where he died into a semblance of its appearance that day, as a small memorial to one of the south's great heroes.

Old-fashioned curtains were put at the windows; black iron andirons were set in the fireplace; gay, old-fashioned rag rugs cover the floor, and an interesting collection of pictures, copies of rare prints depicting various scenes in the life of Jackson, were hung over the walls.

The workers were inspired by the presence of Mrs. Charles K. Pendleton, who could remember every detail of the room as it was 63 years ago. She was 11 years old when Jackson was badly wounded, and bought to her home.

Maitresse d'Hotels.

Here is a new angle on a woman's place in the home. Miss Mary L. Bloren believes in domesticity on a large scale. She owns and operates a series of hotels and is very successful in her work.

She has just purchased the Hotel Marlborough, widely known the past 15 years as one of the leading hostelries of the Jersey coast. She owns three other hostelries in Ocean Grove, where she started without capital 18 years ago.

VOTERS AND NONVOTERS

(From the Christian Science Monitor)

THOSE who are convinced that one of the great needs of democratic government is a realization of the necessity of participating more generally in its progress, will find convincing confirmation of their views in a book recently published under the title "Getting Out the Vote." Accepting the theory that no government can be truly representative unless the laws enacted reflect the sentiment of at least a majority of those who are to be governed by them, and unless those who administer the laws are in sympathy and contact with the governing majority, it follows logically that a state or nation is best governed when those comprising its body politic express their preferences at the ballot box, rather than in attempting to hinder the operation of those laws to which they have given silent but none the less binding approval.

Contrasted to this view of the desirability of obtaining the fullest possible expression of the electorate in the decision of all important civic and economic questions is the less frequently expressed opinion that there is greater safty for all concerned in relying upon the deliberated judgment of an enlightened minority than in seeking the informal but binding counsel and advice of those who, if they voted, would vote without taking pains to inform themselves as to the issues to be determined. But it should not be forgotten that the ballot in the hands of those who are ignorant or uninformed is perhaps only half as dangerous a potential weapon as the ballot in the hands of the vicious. The ignorant might, by the law of averages, be counted upon to vote right half of the time. The vicious may as confidently be counted upon to vote wrong all the time.

Apparently a large part of the study devoted to the problem by those who conducted the survey reported in the book referred to was directed to the technical obstructions placed in the way of the uninformed or inexperienced prospective voter. The opinion is advanced that a fuller expression of public sentiment might be obtained at elections by simplifying the process of registration and voting. But such a concession presupposes, we believe, the unrealized desire of the more ignorant elements of society to participate in decision which they have only a theoretical right to share in rendering. Would the conclusion reached be a better one than that reached by an informed minority?

Possibly it will be discovered, after all, that the great need is that the rank and file of educated Americans be taught to appreciate their own responsibilities as citizens and voters. Their margin of voting strength is never great. Yet upon that mere or less narrow thread depends their own and their country's future welfare. There should be no need to marshal this voting strength at election time. Voting should be regarded as a privilege as well as a duty.

RUSSIA OVERDID THE JOB

(From The Dallas News)

RUSSIA'S failure in China has been due to her success there. That is to say, the Soviet regime so effectively inoculated Chinese revolt with the virus of discontent that the dragon is now biting himself at every vulnerable point. The world revolution has such a bad case of rabies that it can't come to grips with the world.

When it gets down to the point that Russia can't be efficient even in propaganda, the end of the chapter ought not to be far. For it is a sad but unmistakable truth that Russia talks more industriously than she does anything else. But of those who fall under the blandishments of her words one-half fly at the throats of the other half, it is clear enough that the ends Russia seeks to serve are but indifferently furthered.

It must be admitted that Chinese conditions give Russia poor material to work with. The absolute want on the part of most Chinese of the natural consciousness of nationalistic patriotism has made cohesiveness a difficult matter. In China soldiering has long been looked upon as a dishonorable calling, and military commands counts upon bribery and treason as weapons of war along with gunpowder and steel.

There is no telling whose soldiers will rob whom. Nor is there any telling whose soldiers they will be tomorrow. Bandits by custom and by common expectation, they respect the pay of their war lords only in proportion as it seems larger one more regular than offers from other quarters. For his family, his property or his ancestors the humblest Chinaman can meet martyrdom, if need be, in the spirit of a true hero. But he is just beginning to learn about patriotism. It is not surprising that it is a new conception in the minds of thousands of brigands in the uniforms of fighting men.

Of course not all Chinese armies are composed of robbers and commanded by turncoats. But the history of the operations thus far has been inspired more for the evidences of uniformed mass aspiration for larger things than for the glory of deeds done or for the wisdom of leadership displayed. The path whereon China treads is not a short cut to anything except violence, travail and bloodshed. But along it have come all the conquering races of the world.

ANOTHER IMPORTANT DECREE

THIS decree by the Supreme court of the United States should not be overlooked by the Texas state highway commission. Nor by the railway commission of Texas. The Oregon law of 1921 under which the state highway commission restricted the use of certain highways to solid tire trucks and reduced to 16,500 pounds the loads they would be permitted to carry at certain seasons, was sustained April 18, by the supreme court of the United States. Protect the highways.

SO THIS IS TEXAS

IT IS announced that the troubles in China have brought together in Chinese waters the greatest international naval concentration ever seen in the Orient, for the protection of foreign lives and interests. There may be hell to pay in the Orient before the year is old. There may be hell to pay in Russia. Is the League of Nations functioning? If so, where?

A STORY OF MYSTERY, SUSPENSE AND LOVE — "THE SOB-SISTER"

By CLIFFORD WEBB AND ROSE ELO. ILLUSTRATED BY R. J. SCOTT.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

DIANA BROOKS beautiful daughter of ROGER BROOKS, owner and publisher of the Catawba City Times and a chain of nine other newspapers, had been kidnaped and then released. Her father is engaged in a persistent fight against the corrupt administration of Catawba City and through the medium of the Times redoubles his scathing attacks on politicians and the Underworld.

Brooks himself is kidnaped, but in five days reappears to find that his newspaper stock is being manipulated. He suspects JOHN W. WALDEN and determines to fight him.

Brooks' closest friend is young DONALD KEENE, his literary editor and guardian of TEDDY FARRELL, reporter and SOB SISTER. Teddy is in love with Don, who, without knowing which one he really loves, flirts with three girls, Teddy, Diana and LOLA MANTELL, Diana's cousin.

Brooks has plans for a meeting to expose the Waldens to the district attorney and the superior court judge.

Lola and Diana visit the Times plant.

NOW READ ON.

CHAPTER XLIV.

There were many sudden exclamations when the visitors were shown into the stereotyping room.

"What's that?" queried Lola, awed, pointing to a huge vat of simmering metal.

"That's th' composition we use in casting these moulds," explained Don, motioning toward a row of hardened cylindrical plates.

"Why, it's positively fascinating!" Lola enthused as Don continued his discourse on "mats" made from the impression of a complete page of printing and headlines.

"And you wrap this—what did you call it, Don?" fingering gingerly a large sheet of something looking like cardboard.

"Mat—that's a mat," elucidated the patient Don. "That liquid metal is poured over it in the casting box."

"Don't omit th' press room," Diana reminded him. "Everyone raves about the 'wonderful presses' of a big city newspaper. And here am I, a newspaper publisher's daughter, and have never yet seen a press in operation. Really, I ought to be ashamed."

Although the presses at that hour were still, the big room was not deserted as the company entered. A few workmen were moving about, adjusting and oiling the myriad of cogs and gears in the complicated machinery. They gazed curiously at the visitors, exchanging references in undertones.

Lola elevated her nose superciliously and took special pains to ignore their presence. Teddy acknowledged them with a comradely smile and a "Hello, boys," as did Diana.

The grimy faces of the men took on broad grins in response to these greetings.

"Do you know, I'm almost inspired to take up newspaper work," remarked Diana when they were all back in the editorial room.

"I've had inspirations like that myself," threw in Lola, a satirical curl of her upper lip defining her meaning.

"Well, why don't you—both of you?" inquired Don, taking Lola as well as Diana seriously.

"Because I'm a rich man's daughter. I suppose that's th' reason I don't or haven't," replied Diana rather dispiritedly.

"And I'm a rich man's niece," supplemented Lola calmly.

Diana looked at her cousin and pondered. That very lovely young lady certainly did take a lot for granted. A rich man's niece! Yes, Lola was that, but the girl's self-satisfied complacency really was amazing. Well, she had always been that way, reflected Diana, ever since coming to live at the home of the Brooks. She seemed to feel that she had a right to expect the good things of life without any effort on her part. Apparently what Roger Brooks had lavished on his niece bored his wife somewhat and kind Lola did not consider as anything except what was to be expected. She took her luxury and her easy existence as a matter of course, seemingly, with the idea that she was just entitled to the best the gods had to give.

"Somebody really ought to 'wise' Lola up to herself," thought Diana. "She's altogether too selfish."

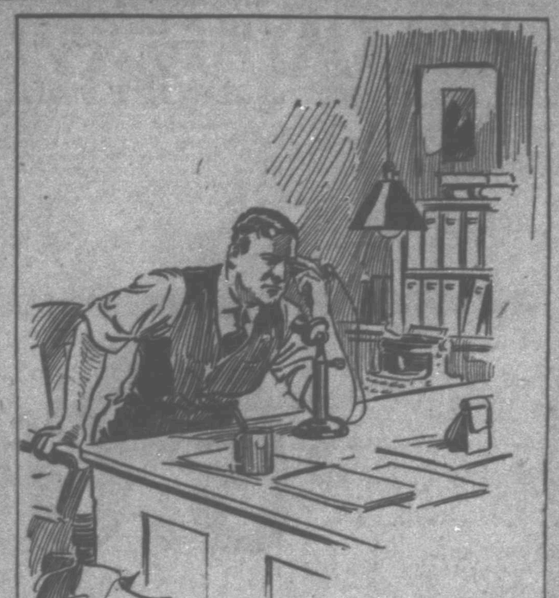

That island affair, for instance. Lola hadn't been a bit generous—had refused at first even to credit the truth of Diana's story. She had made distressing insinuations.

"I don't question her nor doubt her story when she remained all night with Don in a shack," ruminated Diana, as she reviewed that episode in quick detail.

The excursion through the plant for Dinny had not ended as rosily as it had begun. He felt there was something in his suspicion that Teddy was fonder of Don than a mere protege should be. The honest young reporter tortured himself with blind rages of jealousy. There was only one thing to alleviate his sense of hopelessness. Don revealed no such interest in Teddy as her eyes seemed to confess for him.

A clearly definable atmosphere of expectancy hung over the entire plant of the Catawba City Times. A special meeting! It was whispered about from mouth to mouth. The handful who were "in the know" for the four days preceding it went about their duties close-lipped, as if burdened with a heavy responsibility.

"I advice you not to be too busy."

Most of the members of the Times staff were unacquainted with the actual details of the stock problem that had been threatening their beloved paper. The lurking menace had broken out intermittently like the rumble of distant cannons, but never had been made entirely manifest to everyone. To only a select few had this privilege been couchsafed. Among the girls Teddy and Jane Dexter were the only ones to know.

Fanny Blake, in the more or less dignified and responsible capacity of "Heart and Home Adviser," was "just dying" to know what was going on—what the special meeting was being called for.

"You ought to know me well enough to be certain I wouldn't blab about it," she told Teddy on the afternoon preceding the meeting. The oracle of the love-lorn had persistently solicited the information that Teddy doggedly withheld.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," cogitated the little sob sister. "I'll ask Pop to let you be present. How's that?"

"Oh, Ted—WILL you?" exclaimed Fanny, excitedly. "You don't know how grateful I'll be!"

She nearly swooned with delight when Teddy returned and told her that Pop's permission had been obtained.

"We'll stage this little affair with all th' trappings th' Waldens have invited!" Pop had declared with heavy emphasis.

Now the stage-hands were making the preparations. Pop had commissioned his city editor to "get the Waldens to the Times by 2 o'clock on Tuesday."

Bill Canfield had called up the office of the lawyers. The Waldens' distrust and suspicion were plainly evident from the first, both being palpably adverse to acceptance of the invitation. They would be there, they told Canfield, if they weren't "too busy."

"I advise you NOT to be 'too busy' and for both of you to be here at the hour named. The Times, or Roger Brooks, rather, is laying all his cards on the table," Bill informed them with terse utterance.

He could visualize the sneer on the elongated face of Walden Sr., as that man replied:

"All right. We'll be there. Can't figure out what in hell you're up to, though. However, we've nothing to conceal. Yes, of course. We'll be there."

"Nothing to conceal, eh?" The city editor ran his hands caressingly over the telephone receiver he had just hung up and gazed absently before him.

Roger Brooks was taking no chances on any slip in his plans through failure in getting his "evidence" properly submitted. He might get in touch indirectly with Superior Court Judge George Wharton, but he considered that a direct approach would be more effective in cinching the presence of that veteran of the bench. He went to him in person.

Roger Brooks and Judge Wharton had known each other for several years. The judge was not unlike the publisher, both in appearance and temperament. He was respected for his steadfast, clean principles. Therefore, at this particular time he was finding small favor in the eyes of the prevailing administration, the officials of which hated and at the same time feared him.

"I won't take up more'n a moment of your valuable time, judge," said Pop when he was ushered into the inner sanctum of the superior court.

"That's all right—quite all right. Go ahead and state your case," smiled Judge Wharton, with a deliberate wink accompanying his curt command.

They sat facing each other, each one's white, leonine head uptilted. The judge's face registered surprise and acute interest as the publisher, in resounding tones, stated his mission.

"Immense!" declared the judicial luminary after Pop had concluded. "Depend upon it, I'll be there!"

They shook hands. The judge's elegantly appointed office was charged by this gesture with warmth and frank congeniality.

From Judge Wharton's office Roger Brooks went to that of Henry Bolton, the district attorney of Catawba county.

(To Be Continued)

The climax of the long struggle between Pop Brooks and the unscrupulous Walden crowd is approaching. Read the next installment.

Man goeth forth unto his work and to his labour until the evening.

O Lord, how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches.

So is this great and wide sea, wherein are things creeping innumerable, both small and great beasts.

There go the ships: there is that leviathan, whom thou hast made to play therein.

These wait all upon thee: that thou mayst give them their meat in due season.—Psalms 104:23-28.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

ENCLOSE STAMPED ADDRESSED ENVELOPE FOR REPLY

By DR. FRANK M'COY
(Dict Specialist and Author of "The Fast Way to Live")

The Jewish Salmud no doubt contains the first health rules ever written by man. Many of these laws are still practiced by the Orthodox Hebrew who believes that they were divinely inspired. If not of divine inspiration, it is all the more marvelous to know that almost at dawn of civilization many rules about hygenic living were laid down, which have remained sensible and sound in logic through the present scientific age.

Kosher meat is prepared today as it was several centuries before the Christian era. The word Koshes signifies special care and cleanliness, and is also applied to bread, butter and other foods which were prepared with the utmost caution and exactness. The vessels and utensils used must not be employed for any other purpose, and must be thoroughly cleansed each time. Kosher meat must be killed by a "shochet" who is an expert meat inspector and butcher. The animals are killed by cutting their throats with a special knife about 20 inches long and two inches wide. The knife is kept sharp as a razor and one cut almost severes the head from the body. The carcass is then allowed to bleed as freely and as long as it will, the object being to remove all the blood possible from the meat. After the bleeding has bene completed the carcass is then opened and a minute examination is made of the entrails, lungs and all of the flesh. The slightest defect will result in the animal being declared unfit for food. It is then thrown away or parts sold to Gentile butchers. The discarded meat is called "tref" and this term is also applied to certain of the hind quarters of bullocks and sheep.

Kosher corned beef is prepared by first soaking the beef in water, and then packing it for some time in dry salt. It is then again washed and put to soak in salt brine, where it must remain for at least 24 hours. The salting process is to remove more of the blood from the meat.

Fresh fish of the scaly kind is considered "Kosher," but all shellfish and such fish without scales as ells are considered unfit for food and are also discarded as "tref." Swine, frogs, rabbits and rabbit are likewise in the taboo class.

The refusal of all meat not Kosher is a matter of religious principle with the Hebrew, but there is a decidedly practical advantage to them in that the careful inspection of the flesh by the shochet assures them of flesh in a healthy condition.

Another Hebraic law prohibits the use of milk with meat or fish. This is a good rule, but many dieteans of the present day do not know it.

Question: A. T. B. "What is your method of treatment for cancer?"

Answer: It is unwise for me to attempt to tell you the treatment for such a serious trouble through this question and answer department. I would have answered your question direct if you had signed your name to your letter, and had given me your address. When you see this notice in the paper, please write me again, telling me more about your trouble, and I will send you the best advice I can.

Question: Mrs. Laura P. C. writes: "I am 84 years of age and rave had sclerosis of the arteries and high blood pressure. Had illness in December 1919, threatened with paralysis about the head, near the root of the tongue. Physicians say hat the heart trouble is caused by the greater difficulty of the heart in circulating the blood through the hardened arteries. Have taken heart tonic nearly all the time since my illness in 1919."

Answer: You can no doubt be very greatly helped, even at your age, if you will learn more about food chemistry. Hardened arteries can be materialy softened in a few weeks under the proper diet. I have written on this subject so many times in this column that I cannot use any more on the subject at this time.

Question: Mrs. Anna C. writes: "I have a bude case of articula rheumatism and arthritis—hands and feet badly deformed and of late badly sunken. Please tell me what diet, how much and how often, and I will I get terribly weak on this diet? Any danger of stomach collapsing—as I have been told if I go without solid food?"

Answer: The stomach never collapses durnig a fast, and does not diminish in size unless it has been very greatly distented previous to the treatment. If you have any fear of fasting, it will be wise for you to secure ab ook on the subject, and read more of my daily health articles about starting a fst. The mental attitude is very important, and you must believe that you will be helped, if you are to expect the best results.

Dickey's Old Reliable Eye Water cools, heals and strengthens sore, weak, tired eyes. All druggists 25c. —Adv.

BO BROADWAY ..... By Joseph Van Raalte

NEW YORK, April 25.—Out in Iowa lived the creator of a liver pill, not large in size, but perfect in mechanical action. He didn't advertise, the sales of his pill having grown rapidly in an era when products of that sort were in great demand. His name appearing on his packages was only a name to druggists, wholesale and retail, who bought what he manufactured.

His removal to New York did not alter his condition. In fact, it assured the preservation of his privacy. He occupied an expensive apartment on Park avenue, had an estate in Westchester, and died recently without even a notice of his death being published until his will was filed, disclosing that he was the possessor of a fortune that ran into the tens of millions.

Had he remained in the Iowa town where he started, the piercing publicity of the time that brings into relief the "prominent citizen" of the smaller area, would have made a national figure of the old pill peddler. It took a town the size of the metropolis to get him the obscurity he sought.

Famous Men in Unkempt Graves.

Trinity cemetery, at Broadway and Wall streets, was founded 224 years ago. In all that time nothing much has been done to the old burial ground. Bushes grow there, a desultory tree or two and that's all the adornment the place has known. For years stenographers from the neighboring financial houses have repaired there at the fag end of the noon hour to stroll in pairs, munching the festival caramel, and treading above the bones of the illustrious dead, to perfect satorial plans or perfect arrangements for nocturnal pastime.

Some weeks ago a flock of landscape gardners were turned loose among the graves, and the old place has taken on an added attraction. A mosaic of flagstones has replaced the dirt paths, pounded to almost concrete hardness by the feet of millions of sightseers. Shrubbery relieves the funeral bleakness of the tombs, vaults and rickety slabstones.

In Trinity are interred the remains of John Watts, last royal recorder of the city; Alexander Hamilton, Robert Fulton, Captain James Lawrence, commander of the Chesapeake; the impetuous Philip Kearney of Chantilly fame; Francis Lewis, signer of the Declaration Independence.

Musicians Often Noisy.

Noisy musicians who daily use the rooms of the New York Music library have created a problem, which eventually will make necessary the installation of sound-proof rooms.

Musically speaking, the library has listened with tolerance the past seven years to the artistic disturbances created by conductors and singers who have made use of many of the rare works on the institution's shelves.

Even those conductors who, suddenly delirious over a heroic passage in Beethoven, crash out the tempo on the library tables with their fists, have gone unmolested; and many a soprano from the Metropolitian and elsewhere, unexpectedly and shrilly bursting into song, has escaped unscathed.

But the limit has been reached. More self-restrained musicians have complained they cannot visit the library and persue ancient and modern scores with serenity. At any moment, they say, a music lover is likely to start to thump out an andante or to beat up a presto with his foot, while half a dozen songsters, carried away by the beauties of some aria, are quite likely to try out these beauties vocally.

Dorothy Mackaye Accused As 'Covering Up' Killing

LOS ANGELES, April 25. (AP)—Dorothy Mackaye, stage actress and Dr. W. J. Sullivan, Hollywood physician, were indicted by the county grand jury today on two felony counts charging them with "compounding a felony" and with being "accessories after the fact" in an alleged plot to "cover up" details surrounding the death of Ray Raymond, musical comedy star.

Conspiracy Charged.

The indictments were returned at 5 o'clock in the court room of Superior Judge Charles Burnell after witnesses had appeared before the grand jury to tell of the alleged "conspiracy" to hide the true facts in the actor's death.

With bail fixed at $5000 in each case, Chief Deputy District Attorney Haroid L. Davis, instructed detectives to place Miss Mackaye and the doctor under arrest at once.

Although the actress was declared by her attorney, Roger Marchetti, to be suffering from complete nervous exhaustion at her home, she was ordered taken into custody unless bond was posted by the time the warrants were issued.

The evidence was presented to the grand jurors by Chief Deputy Davis and Deputy District Attorney Forrest Murray.

Dr. Sullivan appeared during the grand jury session and requested an opportunity to repeat his story before the jurors.

It was said the physician denied allegations that he participated in the alleged covering up and said he accepted a $500 fee from Miss Mackaye only for professional services in attending her husband after the fatal fist fight with Paul Kelly, screen juvenile, who is under indictment for murder.

Kelly Indicted.

Paul Kelly, avowed friend of Dorothy Mackaye was indicted several days ago on a charge growing out of a fist fight with Raymond, in the latter's home, which ended fatally. Miss Mackaye, as she is known on the stage, admitted that she had visited Kelly in the latter's apartment just before the fatal battle which cost her husband's life. Indictment of Kelly followed Miss Mackaye's appearance before the grand jury investigating the death.

Judgment Won in Suit To Recover Land Note

BROWNSVILLE, April 25. (AP)—Cameron county's school fund has been enriched by $101,301 as a result of a judgment handed down by Judge A. M. Kent against George West et al.

West purchased in 1884 a league of this county's school lands located in Live Oak county giving his note for $20,000. Suit was instituted by the county on the ground that the commissioners court settled with West in 1895 for less than the full amount agreed on. It was contended the commissioners did not have authority to settle in this manner because the land was in a trust fund.

Before termination of the suit West died and the case was pressed against his heirs. The land now is worth about $1,000,000. Defendants entered a motion for a new trial.

Mr. J. Atz and His Cats With Us Today

Fussell Bests Love In Wronghanded Battle, Spuds Winning, 4-2

TOP O' MORN STUFF
By Blondy Cross.

WE MAY NOT BE CHAMPIONS . . . YET, BUT WE CAN WHIP THE CHAMPS ANY OLD DAY!

* * *

Under circumstances like these it is permissable to simper that old one about how our nine just loves to nourish itself on steer meat.

WELL?

More fun out at the plant again this afternoon. Everybody always did like to see Jake's boys blow in, although, often in the past they looked at 'em rather sorrowfully as they departed. The Cats, like Dutch Mantell, aren't very popular, but they give you your money's worth. Not many of the old guard are back. They still have the veteran Paul Wachtel. And there's Ziggy Sears along with Jake himself, but most of the old-timers have moved on. Eddie Moore and Lindimore, two of the last year gang are still on deck. And Dock Smith is with 'em yet. Nearly forgot him, and that after all the dirty dirt he's done our pitchers in days bygone.

Miz Lamb's liable to be putting on a little extra weight the next few days if she doesn't watch out, that is, if sweet stuff really is fattening. For Lucy when he socked that two-bagger up against the fence yesterday not only won the ball game but won himself a five-pound box of chocolates by hitting the A. H. Fell ad. Lucy, by the way, got kind of rough, plopping out a couple of singles to pair with the double.

ANOTHER FUNNY ONE

"Naw, not a thing in the world to it. Why, Snipe and I have been the best of friends all along. You know that. Never had so much as a cross word with him all my life." That was Jim Riley, husky first sacker of the Dallas Steers, talking. Seems both Wichita Falls and Dallas barber shops have been working overtime. The story goes the rounds that reason the Steer pilot isn't with the team and Paddy Bauman is running the club is because Conley and Riley had some kind of a clubhouse run-in with result Jim nearly beat the devil out of his boss and put him in the hospital.

FIRST HAND, YEAH.

Funny thing: not ten minutes after I had asked Jim about the yarn yesterday at the ball lot, Dallas fans sitting in the grandstand told me all about it. Yeah, everything first hand. Jim and Hap Morse or somebody had an argument with an umpire. Snipe got on 'em both and was going to suspend Riley for ten days or so, according to this fan, whereupon about half the ball club told Snipe to take in their uniforms, too. Result: big fight and Snipe gets all disfigured and so roughed up that he's unable to travel with the club. Peculiar how these rumors get out. But every year something like that breaks somewhere on the circuit. And your wild-eyed bugs, gobble 'em up, believe 'em and pass 'em on with extra trimmings added.

How Do They Get That Way?

Fact of the matter, says Jim, Snipe and the Dallas ball club are rocking along together in the best of spirits. Not any friction between pilot and players, not even any little player squabbles among themselves. "Only ball club I ever was on that some couple of guys at some time or another didn't get sore at each other and have a fight," grins Jim. "Darn shame how they rig up these crazy tales ever now and then. Why, not long ago somebody started a story Hap beat up Scotty Perry and Slim Love slept off a drunk in center field right up to game time and then tried to pitch. Just all bunk. As for Snipe and me ever having any trouble, that's not fair to anybody. Snipe's one of the best friends I ever had. Wasn't any real trouble with any umpire, either. And if there was you don't think Snipe would get sore over that do you? Snipe stays right in there with us like one of the boys. Got to working pretty hard, fungoing and batting with the rest of us and strained himself. That's all that is the matter with him, jerked a ligament and the doctor made him go to bed."

And so goes it. You have your scandal mongers in baseball the same as in other walks of life. Some bird even had Fred Brainard figured in yesterday as picking on poor old Snipe, wanting his job or something.

* * *

Next thing you know the'll be getting out a rumor that Fort Worth has fired Jakie Atz. And that, you know, would come only with the millenium.

Umpire Cripples Milwaukee Player

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25. (AP)—Umpire G. L. Magerkurth of the American association was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail, but the sentence was suspended here today on charges of assault and battery on Ivy Griffin, first baseman of the Milwaukee club.

Magerkurth was arrested last night following a fight in Griffin's hotel room. The fisticuffs were an aftermath of an argument during Sunday's game.

Griffin is in a hospital suffering from a dislocated shoulder. He probably will be out of the game for a month.

President Hickey of the association Monday indefinitely suspended Magerkurth.

LAMB'S SMACK GRABS DECIDER

Lapan Comes Through With Another Home Run

By BLONDY CROSS

If you were ou tthere Monday you saw our nine not only look like champs and act like champs, but you saw them kick the stuffing out of the real champs again.

They can yelp their heads off all they want to about our free swingers slowing down and not getting anywhere, but they slowed down yesterday before the sidearm delivery of the impressive Mr. Edouard 'Slimuel) Love, Dallas' potent portsider of the thermometer form and color, slowed down considerably and yet got somewhere. Didn't they?

Wichita Falls followed Freddy Fussell to a 4-2 victory over the Dallas champions, turning back the beridden Mr. Conley's men in the deciding game of the series.

Fred fussed around for seven innings and zeroed the boys, then wavered long enough in the eighth for the enemy to squeeze over a pair of counters, putting 'em in front, 2 to 1.

Made 'Em Sore

That just made our gang mad or something, because they ripped right back in the last half of the round and whipped Slimuel for three runs, one for good measure, and settled matters then and there.

Lieut. Lucy Lamb furnished the money punch, coming up with a full-length double to left that chased George LaFayette and Howard Fitzgerald off the runways. Then Petey Turgeon took an extra wallop for the unnecessary run.

Fussell steamed along in characteristic Fussell form most of the way. Four men faced hi min the opener. Three saw his slants in the second. He teased the boys a little in the third, allowing a hit and awarding a walk, but cracked down on 'em again in the fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh were about the same. Gross and Miller got rosy in the eighth with a single and a double. Then Riley and Elsh paired one-basers, accounting for two tallies. Fred got ired up then and with a thou-shalt-not-pass scowl wreathing his lefthanded mug southpawed 'em to a frazzle the remaining stanza and two-thirds.

LaFayette and Fitz Hit

Pete Lapan stormed out with a bloody bludgeon again in the second frame. Cool-cocked Mr. Love, almost, with a lurid loft over the port barrier. The drive went four bases but only one run because the sacks were empty at the time. For seven innings it looked like Pete's run would be the sum total. Then the Herd got gay in the eighth and Mr. Williams' wallopers came back at 'em in the same chapter to steal the fruits of victory or whatever it is you try to say when you would wax poetic. LaFayette opened with a two-base blister against the green batting screen in center. Mann bunted him to third. Perfect sacrifice. Fitz knocked him on in with a single. Lambie put one up against the boards in left for the victory. Jenkins expired at the plate and then Turgeon plinked a double to port, scoring Lamb.

What else do you want? The defense was tight. Swenson had trouble with a couple of hot ones hit down third base way, but he was lucky he didn't get hurt. Mann moved around at short about like I figure four or five Redferns would do. Anyhow, we'll get to see the muchly ballyhooed Mr. Redfern Tuesday afternoon when the Cats come in.

HERE'S WHY HOOD CAN RUN SO FAST

Rufus Neel of Wichita Falls claims to be the man who made a mile runner out of Pat Hood, Burkburnett mile running genius who Saturday starred in district meet here. Neel was at one time the best mile man in this section of the state.

At that time Neel gave Hood an old cap that he had worn many times to victories in mile runs, and Hood has carried the cap on since Neel's graduation from Wichita Falls high school.

At an invitation meet in Archer City three years ago Hood stood on the sidelines and watched Neel trot off another victory in the mile run After the meet Hood and Neel talked over the mile run and at the end the old baseball cap changed hands.

That old cap has been carried to victory this year by Hood in such meets as the Burleson relays, Oklahoma relays, county and district meets.

MANTELL WOULD PIN SINGH IN TONIGHT'S GO THEN TAKE GRIP

Dutchman Rearing For Gore—Jensen and Charley Painfully Reticent About Their Match

Dutch Mantell, Amarillo, versus Basanta Singh, Calcutta. Welterweights, two falls to a finish.

Thor Jensen, Minneapolis, versus Charley Grip, Buffalo. Middleweights, two falls to a finish.

Place: Palace theater.

Time: 8:15 o'clock tonight.

Everything was declared in readiness Monday night by Matchmaker A. B. Ross for Tuesday night's farewell indoor program of the grappling gentlemen.

Singh, Jensen and Grip were on deck and the promoter had a wire from Mantell saying that he would arrive on an early morning train.

The Dutchman declared that "After I bust that Hindu I want that monkey-brained Grip again."

Somebody gypped Dutch in a match with Charley during the long, long ago and Dutch hasn't got over it yet.

The Amarillo ape-man roughster is said to be in the best of condition and ready to give Singh a real mauling. They'll work New York commission rules, nothing barred. Singh declares he is fully prepared to give Dutch poison for poison.

Jensen and Grip are silent. Neither has much to say and in this case each is quieter than usual. That 's strange, considering the dislike these men have for each other. Jensen's only remark: "Well, I've been trying a long time to get another chance at him."

Grip said: "You know I don't want to have anything to do with that bird, but I've been forced into it."

Hodge Sold To Lincoln Outfit

Shovel Hodge, veteran Spudder righthand pitcher, Monday was sold outright to Lincoln, of the Western league, it was announced at baseball headquarters.

Hodge is expected to go over strong in the Western. He hurled some pretty neat ball with Wichita Falls during the 1926 span but was the prize hard-luck hurler of lot, dropping a number of games by one and two-run margins.

Hodge's sale brings the roster down to 20 players, two over the league limit. Ten pitchers remain on the staff. Manager Williams plans carrying eight heavers including himself, so a couple more throwers must go pretty soon.

WICHITA FALLS POLO TEAM BEATS FORT RENO, 10 TO 7

CROWELL, April 25.—Wichita Falls won the second game of the Minnick polo tournament by defeating the army team of Fort Reno, 10 to 7, at the Minnick ranch south of Crowell Sunday. More than 3000 people saw the game in spite of the threatening weather conditions all over this section Sunday.

Fort Reno outplayed Wichita Falls early in the game and scored two goals in the first chukker, first when Sargeant Gipson made a spectacular drive down the field on two hits for about 100 yards and goal. Chas. Featherstone of Wichita Falls featured the second chukker by scoring two goals in rapid succession on sensational drives. The army held the lead until the sixth when Wichita ran wild and scored five goals. After the sixth Wichita Falls held the lead until the end of the game. Wichita Falls had one point handicap in their favor.

The line-ups were: Wichita Falls: Fastnow, Featherstone, Minnick and Fletcher.

Fort Reno: Cullam, Wheeler, Gipson and Wuiss.

Officials: Dudley Mayer and A. C. Adkins, Dallas.

PANTHERS OUT FOR REVENGE

Williams May Give Herbert Cobb Chance in Box

Old Jawn Jacob Atz himself makes his Wichita Falls debut for 1927 Tuesday afternoon at the Gardner pavilion.

Fort Worth's Mr. Atz has put together what he believes, or at least, hopes will be another pennant-building machine like the old time Cat combination that scourged the Texas league for so many years.

It's too early to tell. Maybe Mr. Atz has and maybe Mr. Atz hasn't. We shall see. Anyhow, there always was color attached to a Fort Worth team whether it be one of the 1923, '24, '25 vintage, any other of those old championship teams, or a club of the 1926 caliber. The Panthers of '26 failed to come through but they gave the customers a real run for their coin. And so the oracles ordain the Cats of 1927 will do, win or lose.

Got Jump on 'em.

Our once more quite arrogant Spudders have got the jump on the Atzmen this year. As a rule in that first two-game series of the season billed at Cowtown, the clubs split with a victory each. They did that last year. The year before, the Spuds copped one and tied the other. But this season our nine jumped on Jakie's gang with all four hoofs and pawed out a double victory.

Mr. Atz, naturally can be expected to come back today and the next two (it's a three-game series) smarting for revenge on Pilot Carl Williams.

Williams in Reserve.

Williams is liable to juggle things around a bit when he starts figuring the Spudder reception committee. There's quite a likelihood the youngster Herb Cobb will open on the hurling knob instead of the veteran Steengrafe who is nursing a small strain. It's Steengrafe's time to work, you know. But if Milt doesn't feel any better this afternoon, Cobb probably will get the call. And they're whispering that Skipper Carl is holding himself in reserve to take a fling at the Cats should anything happen to Herbert. Cobb's been coming along. Looks like a million and if the breaks are his at all, he's expected to stick it on the Cowtowners.

VICTIM IN FIRE BURIED MONDAY

Body of Mrs. G. F. Philips Sent to Goree

FORT WORTH, April 25. (AP)—The body of Mrs. G. F. Phillips, 46, who died Sunday from burns received when her clothing was mysteriously ignited, was sent to Goree today for burial.

After being found in the yard between her residence and the garage, screaming and frantically trying to extinguish the flames which enveloped her and even blazed in her hair, Mrs. Phillips never regained consciousness to tell the story of how her clothing caught on fire.

Neighbors, who tried to beat out the flames with their hands and finally turned a garden hose on Mrs. Phillips, said there were no match stubs or gasoline on the place while gas connections showed no signs of having been recently lighted.

When the fire was extinguished, Mrs. Phillips' clothing was burned away save for the sleeves of her dress and the top part of her waist. Her hair was burned to the roots.

A recent tragedy in the capital city, when a young girl fell to her death by leaping from an automobile in which she was being taken out of the city against her will by a young associate, serves to emphasize a new type of danger to our young women and girls which has developed from the increased use of the automobile.

LACK OF MANAGEMENT FARMERS' HANDICAP.

In every productive enterprise there enter three distinct factors, each of which is vital to success—capital, labor and management. The most important of the three is management, and lack of sound management constitutes the farmers' greatest handicap.

The idea that anyone can conduct any business without giving thought to the innumerable details which fall under the head of management is fatal to success.

THROCKMORTON GUSHER IS FLOWING 2400 BARRELS DAILY

PARROTT NO. 4 IS FEATURE

Breckenridge Lime Is Found At 3909 Feet

The outstanding feature of North Texas development over the week-end was the completion of a big producer by the Red Bank Oil company at its No. 4 Parrott in section 971, T. E. and L. survey of Throckmorton county.

This well is now flowing at the rate of 2,400 barrels daily having topped the Breckenridge lime at 3909 feet Thursday where it made 500,000 feet of gas and filled up 700 feet with oil in three hours.

After deepening 15 feet to a total depth of 3,924 feet, it started flowing better than 25 barrels per hour Friday and Sunday increased to 100 barrels per hour.

This well is diagonally across an 80-acre tract from the Red Bank's discovery well, No. 1 Parrott, which was brought in in April 1926 and is still making 120 barrels daily. Formations in the new well are running 28 feet higher than in the discovery, making the area to the north and northwest look very favorable.

Another nice well was chalked up by Throckmorton county last week in Gulf's No. 3 M. K. Graham which swabbed 175 barrels from sand at 1,807-16 feet. It is located in section 985, T. E. and L. survey.

Mrs. Harrison was lodged in jail in connection with the fatal shooting and will be arraigned Wednesday. She is said to be a sister of Chancellor C. E. Johnson of Arkansas.

The altercation started after Mrs. Harrison spent the night in a barn when she found herself locked out upon her return Saturday at midnight from a dance with neighbors.

Daume Discovery Starts Activity

Four New Wells to Be Drilled In Wichita Pool

The signal for an intensive drilling campaign was sounded when A. T. Wolf et al. completed their No. 1 Daume in the 1,800-foot horizon of southwest Wichita county two weeks ago.

Besides the Wolf et al. No. 2, a north offset, four other wells have been spudded or will start drilling within a few days.

Prospects for a sizeable producing area are considered bright and the discovery has taken its place as the most important development of the month in Wichita county.

Empire Gas and Fuel company is rigging up on its No. 1 Kemp and Kempner, located 150 feet from the north and east lines of the southwest quarter of block 57, Wichita Valley Farm Lands.

Offset Owners Wary of Air Lift Application to Wells in Muenster

Fear that application of the air lift to wells in the Muenster townsite pool in Cooke county will deplete the oil supply in sands beneath offset leases may result in protest being filed with the Oil and Gas division of the Texas Railroad Commission, it was reported here Monday.

Reports from Muenster late Monday, however, would indicate that the fears are unfounded, the one well on which the air has been applied having produced about the same amount of oil in the first 24 hours as it was making by the orthodox pumping system.

The well is Stroube and Stroube's No. 3 Kleiss which was completed two weeks ago in the new 1,600-foot sand. Placed on the air lift Sunday it put slightly less than 450 barrels of oil into storage in the 24 hours ending Monday morning.

Reports here that the well's output had been raised to a figure up in the thousands of barrels daily was discounted by scouts who visited the field Monday.

The reports were probably based on the first few minutes of producing the well on air, as it started off at a high rate and later declined to make the 24-hour average slightly less than 450 barrels.

Oil men who visited the well stated that the yield from wells in the Muenster pool could not be materially increased by the use of air because of the fact that oil comes into the hole too slowly.

Decline in All Areas Shown In Number of Completions Past Week

While the Mid-Continent states of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas had the past fiscal week initial production of 53,474 barrels, from 213 official completions, the survey shows a falling off. A week before the 264 official completions were responsible for an initial flow of 70,213 barrels, gas wells making 135,000,000 cubic feet.

Texas dropped back into second place again, its 102 completions, accounting for but 17,447 barrels of initial flow from 64 oil wells. It had four gas wells for 56,000,000 feet. The dry holes numbered 34.

A flock of new completions in Seminole put Oklahoma up again to 32,542 barrels from 48 oil wells. Kansas just rocked along with 18 oil wells, having an initial flow of 3485 barrels.

West Texas led in the Lone Star state. The table follows:

	Oil Wells	Gas Wells	Dry Holes	Initial Production Oil (bbls)	Gas M. ft.

Cotton--Stocks--Latest Market Quotations--Grain--Cattle

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, April 25.(AP)—Heavy selling for both accounts brought about one of the sharpest reactions of the year in today's stock market. Net losses in scores of issues, including some of the recent leaders, ranged from 1 to nearly 9 points with a drop of 13½ points in Commercial Solvents B. Several of the motors, oils and specialties touched new 1927 lows.

In many banking quarters the reaction was regarded as a correction, at least in part, of a top heavy speculative position resulting from the recent sustained advance in the prices of many issues. In commission house circles there was a tendency to attribute the selling to the steadyily increasing estimates of property damage resulting from the Mississippi river floods, the Chinese and Mexican situations and the reported increase in brokers' loans.

General Motors dropped from 193 to 187⅝, despite the publication of a quarterly report showing $5.50 a share earned on the common stock with total net $7,639,790 above that of the first quarter of last year. U. S. Steel fell back 3 points to 169⅝; closing at the bottom as hope was abandoned for anything more than the inauguration of dividends at the rate of $7 annually on the new stock at tomorrow's meeting of the board of directors. Baldwin closed nearly 8 points lower at 182 and Dupont showed an extreme decline of 4 ⅝ at 237½.

Today's break in the market came with such suddenness as to necessitate the sending out of hundreds of margin calls after the close. Final prices as a rule were at or near the low levels of the day.

Renewal of selling pressure against the oil followed the publication of Marland's quarterly report which showed earnings of only 9 cents a share as compared with $1.79 in the same period of last year. Marland, Phillips, Standard Oil of California, Skelly, Pure Oil, the Barnsdall issues and a few others sank to new 1927 lows, but some of them subsequently rallied on short covering.

Rails yielded with the industrials, although Delaware and Hudson showed independent strength by soaring to a new high record at 215 and then easing to 211⅝, up 5⅝ net. Some of the southwestern shares which were strong last week, were liquidated freely on reports of serious flood damage to track and other property. Atchison broke 5½ points to 180½ and then rallied about a point, while Atlantic Coast Line, Rock Island, Lackawanna, Denver and Rio Grande Western preferred, Gulf, Mobile and Northern, Lehigh Valley, "Katy" common, the Missouri Pacific issues, New York Central, "Nickel Plate" common, Reading, Texas and Pacific, Wabash common and Western Maryland second preferred all close 2 to 5 points lower.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.(AP)—Better Liverpool cables and continued serious flood news gave the cotton market an initial boost of 18 or 19 points. Prices continued to climb in the early trading until they were 24 to 27 points over the opening. Some selling and realizing at this stage was aided by a forecast for better weather in the belt and rumors of large tenders on May contracts tomorrow, the first notice day for that month. After receding to almost the low figures the market rallied in the final hour on covering by shorts, closing finally at net gains for the day of 9 to 11 points.

The English market opened 13 to 15 penny point better than expected and first trades here were at gains of 18 to 19 points, and on flood news, prices continued their upward slant until May traded at 15.12 and October 15.62-'24 to 27 points over Saturday's close. These were the tops.

The early advance attracted considerable realizing and some selling on the prospects of better weather. A report that notices for 30,000 bales of May contracts would be issued tomorrow added momentum to the dip which carried May to 14.93, July 15.23 and October 15.45, or 17 to 20 points below the early highs.

After a moderate rally in the final trading, the market closed steady.

Exports for the day totalled 37,846 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 25.(AP)—After making new high ground for the movement early today, the cotton market reacted to about Saturday's closing figures, but steadied again in late trading. July sold off from 15.42 to 15.21 and closed at 15.28, the general market closing steady at net advances of 8 to 9 points.

The opening was firm at an advance of 18 to 21 points, active months showing gains of 21 to 25 points after the call on active general buying. This was promoted by the relatively firm showing of Liverpool, which was regarded by local traders as an idication that the trade abroad was becoming alarmed over the Mississippi valley situation.

Houses with both Liverpool and continental connections were buyers on the advance here, which carried all months into new high ground for the movement and into new high ground for the season on the new crop positions. May sold up to 15.17 and October to 15.72, while contracts for March deliveries sold through the 16 cent level touching 16.12 on this initial upturn.

The higher prices evidently attracted a good deal of realizing, while there was probably selling for a reaction on a theory that the map and forecast naturally increased the disposition to take profits on long cotton, and prices worked back to just about the closing prices of Saturday during the early afternoon. May sold down to 14.96 and October to 15.51, but nervousness over the Mississippi valley situation remained in evidence and afters on advices emphasizing the seriousness of conditions in the flooded area no doubt contributed to the closing rallies. Last prices were some 6 to 7 points up from the lowest.

May liquidation in preparation for possible notices tomorrow was reported during the day with May closing 25 points under July.

Exports today 37,846, making 8,460,996 so far this season. Port receipts 16,331; U. S. port stocks 2,147,152.

MARKET GOSSIP

J. B. Baldwin and Co., brokers, basement Bob Waggoner building, today received the following from New York, New Orleans and Chicago connections:

COTTON LETTER

NEW ORLEANS, April 25.—While the cotton market today was strongly higher in the early session, because of the growing seriousness of the floods in the Mississippi, liquidation soon was encountered, along with some new selling on the rumor that first May tenders here tomorrow were likely to amount to as much as 30,000 bales. Longs were inclined to take profits on the initial bulge and liquidation increased when the forecast went up for it talked of dry weather to come over most of the belt. The early advance here was helped by the attitude of Liverpool, that market being very strong on the flood news from this side.

We do not believe the north-central belt can recover from this disaster.

It seems like this market as well as New York will get tenders against May tomorrow, but we are inclined to believe they will be cared for promptly.

We think purchases will prove profitable.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Wheat market opened sharply higher with the May future as much as 1½c over Saturday's close due to the pronounced strength in the Liverpool market, but the advance failed to hold as buying appeared to be largely in the nature of short covering, while the upturn resulted in increased selling pressure from commission houses.

Liverpool strength was said to be due to larger takings by the continent and better milling demand, and even though world shipments at 16,690,000 were considerably larger than estimated, the on-passage stocks showed a decrease of about 4½ million bushels. Consumption abroad is undoubtedly on a large scale as even with the heavy shipments of the past several weeks no accumulations are shown in stocks. Ample supplies would seem to be indicated, as Argentina, Australia and Canada have liberal surpluses which they are putting forward. Export business over the week end was fairly good, with sales totalling around one million bushels, but largely of Manitobas and very little was heard of business in our winter wheat, although premiums at gulf and seaboard were firm. Visible decreased little over four million, largely as the result of shifting of positions due to opening of navigation. Receipts here were larger, being principally wheat that is coming in to fill contracts for forward shipment. There were further offers of soft wheat at this market from territory south of us, but the only demand comes from elevator interests for delivery purposes. Weather conditions are much more favorable, both in the spring and winter wheat territories, as well as in Canada, and spring wheat seeding is expected to start again very shortly. We feel that with better weather conditions a much broader and more urgent cash demand must prevail if prices are not to work lower.

CORN: Market was strong early due to some short covering and in sympathy with the advance in wheat, but scattered liquidation again developed and market closed weak and at about the low point of day. Visible decreased 2,592,000 bushels, which is a little larger than expected. Chicago stocks are still 21,150,000 for which there continues to be a very slow demand from the east. Better conditions will permit field work and may result in some increase in movement. We are inclined to feel that there will be quite liberal deliveries on May contracts, and are of the opinion that corn will work lower until a better consumptive demand is in evidence.

OATS: Market was firm early but failed to respond to strength shown in other grains and later some liquidation developed. With good weather conditions seeding will soon be completed. Receipts are moderate but cash demand is not particularly urgent.

RYE: Prices were higher early following wheat and due to reports of additional sales for export but market seemed to run into selling orders on the advance. Visible supplies decreased 2,581,000 and total supply is now about 2,000,000 less than last year. We feel that it will take continued good export demand to maintain advances.

STOCKS: NEW YORK, April 25.—Stocks were under heavy pressure all day. The losses incurred by southern floods, together with Chinese and Japanese situation, has made for some easiness. We believe it wish to lighten up on holdings of speculative stocks on any fair recovery. Reiter Foster closed 7⅝.

Livestock

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, April 25. (AP)—Monday's livestock market was slow on fat steers, stocker steers, yearlings and 15 to 25c lower on beeves. Desirable stocker cattle brought steady values, but prices on the common to fair kinds were weak to a quarter off. Not many cows were available and the market held in line with last week's close. Good yearlings along with calves, also brought steady rates.

Quality of beef steers had a wide range, some being common and a few loads of good to fairly choice flesh. Most of the supply, however, was of medium to good quality. Early trading was within a general range of $7@7.75 for grassers, fed steers $8 and up.

Receipts of cows were small and indicated weakness in spots, the big end of supply finding an outlet at steady figures. The good kinds mostly $5.75 to $6.40 with small drafts around $6.50 to $6.75. Canners $3.50@4 and canners $4.25@5.

Only a small quota of the heifer and yearlings good enough to bring $9 or more, mostly $8@8.50.

Bulls $4.50@5.50 with good ones around $5.75@6.

Small receipts cleared readily $9.50 for good lights, weighty kinds $8@8.65; common $6@6.50.

Useful stockers met with a fairly good call, some yearlings $8.75 but the undesirable kinds moved slow and prices worked downward.

Hogs did not sell until late. Best lights $9.90@10; bulk $9.50@9.75; common $8@8.50.

Good pigs $10@10.25. Hogs ruled 10 to 15c off.

Sheep receipts were the largest of the year. Choice shorn wethers $8, a value that looked a quarter lower. Medium to good, 25 to 50c lower. The double decks of shorn yearlings $12. Stocker yearlings weak and market lower. Around 9500 head were on offer in the shop division with wethers and yearlings in majority.

Cattle 7900 including 700 calves and 1200 cattle on through billing; market slow, 15c to a quarter lower on steers; steady on cows; fat yearlings and calves. Beeves $6@9.75; stockers $5.50@8.75; fat cows $5.25@7; cutters $4.25@5; canners $3.50@4; stocker cows $4@6; yearlings $5.50@9.75; bulls $4.25@6; calves $5.50@10.25.

TEXAS GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 25(AP)—All grains closed practically unchanged from opening quotations on the Fort Worth exchange, much to the surprise of operators. It was thought that with large week-end exports and Liverpool opening strong, prices would go up, especially for wheat. They did advance about a cent but broke to the opening quotation shortly before the close. Winnipeg was weak not responding to Liverpool but that was not thought would affect the local market.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, April 25.(AP)—Like the king of France's army wheat prices marched right up the hill today and marched right down again. Better weather and lack of sustained buying proved to be an offset for a big shrinkage both in the amount of wheat on ocean passage and in the United States visible supply. Wheat closed irregular, ⅛c net lower to ⅛@⅛c advance, corn, ⅛ to ⅛c off, oats ⅛@⅛c to ⅛c down, and provisions showing 2 to 12c gain.

More favorable conditions for field work had a bearish effect on corn and oats. With wheat turning weak, corn and oats declined in the face of visible supply decreases of 2,592,000 bushels for corn and 1,417,000 bushels for oats. Provisions were firmer as a result of strength shown early in the cotton market.

Exchange Market Proves Fast and Furious Monday

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Finance Expert

NEW YORK, April 25.—Selling developed throughout the list today on the expected increase in brokers' loans and the flood and Japanese developments. The market for a number of stocks was entitled to a reaction. Short covering developed toward the close in a number of stocks.

The market gave a good account of itself last week, in view of the calling of $60,000,000 in loans, although the rate held at 4 per cent. Several months of easy money seem assured, and with general business conditions promising to continue as good, if not exceeding, those of 1926, which year is looked upon as a prosperous one, higher prices in a number of standard issues is looked for. Only purchases of high-grade issues is advised by leading interests.

Money loaned at 4 per cent. Wheat was high; cotton lower. Wall street understands that the crop conditions in the northwest are better than they have been for the last 10 years.

Cotton went down although the favorable and unfavorable factors in cotton are fairly well balanced. The unfavorable development is the large supply of cotton overhanging the market. On the other hand the low prices are stimulating a liberal consumption of cotton and a good amount of forwarding purchases by domestic and foreign mills. Any advance in cotton is likely to be slow and steady owing to the large carry-over, unless the flood produces extremely unfavorable growing conditions in the next few months.

Big speculation occurred in Italian lire. One of five million lire blocks changed hands frequently. The best price in six years was attained in the wild trading. Speculators were said to have taken the market away from the international bankers.

Delaware and Hudson sold at the best price in 20 years—$215. The stock furnished the sensation and thrill in Wall street. In the face of a declining market the stock at one time sold up 10 points from the price on Saturday. Most of the buying was for interests representing the First National bank and the rich estates that control this property. These estates include the Astor, Schermerhorn and Goelet, three of the oldest estates in New York, which have always been interested in the property. This column has already pointed out that George T. Baker does not tie-up with Wall street speculators or banker syndicates who merely look for a 5 or 10 per cent profit. Baker's method is to buy the stock, develop the companies and reap the benefit.

U. S. Cast Iron Pipe sold at the best price on the move. Buying is said to be for the account of Pittsburgh, Detroit and New York capitalists. Earnings are reported to be good. Strength is also based on knowledge of the vast amount of public work and the letting of contracts exceeding $100,000,000 in values.

Lima Locomotive was another issue to close higher. Interests in Pittsburgh who dominate and control the equipment field have been buyers of Lima the last few days. They are said to be in perfect accord with the present management and look for the stock to repeat what Baldwin has done. Baldwin could not reach 200 without the consent of these Pittsburgh and Detroit interests who also have bought largely into American Locomotive.

These interests, it is said, do not believe in consolidation but in ownership of the stocks by the different companies. To make this point clear, American Car and Foundry owns 60 per cent of American Locomotive, and as the Lima is said to have the greatest book value, this stock will probably turn up in the treasury of the Baldwin Locomotive works.

General Electric went lower although buying was reported on a scale down. Preference for General Electric is due to the vast amount of new business being acquired in diversified lines and to the unification of several public utility companies into one holding corporation in which a certain railroad has a large interest.

Steady accumulation is reported going on in the Brooklyn Union Gas. Announcement is expected soon of the purchase by these interests that will make the property one of the most valuable gas corporations. Developments in this and other public utility companies are expected to be made known within a few days. Buying is said to be going on in May department stores on prospects of an increase in the dividend. The rights expire tomorrow.

Brokers' loans for the week showed an increase of approximately $20,000,000 (20 million) to the highest peak of the year.

The best kind of buying was reported in General Motors on a scale down. Directors meet in May and may declare an extra of $3 a share or if they vote to split-up the stock, pay an extra distribution the equivalent of $3 a share.

THE SECRET OF GREATER COMFORT—
A HOME IN WICHITA FALLS

There are millions of points on this earth which are each considered home and around which, in the imagination of the individual or family, the whole globe, with its activities rotates. Within certain limits we have all of these points from which to select a place of residence, but select one we must. Even the birds in the air and the beasts in the forests have homes, and to these they return—the eagle to the mountain crag and the fox to its burrow.

Wichita Falls as a home city has all the advantages for home life and besides it is a growing, progressive, agricultural center where property values are certain to increase. People buying property in this community at the prevailing Real Estate prices are almost sure to realize profits in the future.

In Wichita Falls there is an organization known as the Wichita Falls Real Estate Board and its members are Realtors. To be a Realtor one must conduct his business according to the Code of Ethics prepared by the National Association of Real Estate Boards, which insures FAIRNESS, JUSTICE, and HONEST DEALINGS in all matters pertaining to Real Estate transactions.

COUNCIL ORDERS CITY-WIDE CLEANUP FOR C-C CONVENTION

OWNERS MUST CLEAR LOTS

Streets and Alleys Ordered Cleaned, Weeds Cut

All the resources of the city of Wichita Falls government will be employed to "clean up" the city before the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention, according to a resolution passed Monday night by the city council.

The street and sanitary departments were instructed to ascertain that all the streets and alleys were cleaned and that the weeds on vacant lots cut. The police department was instructed to make arrests when property owners refused to "clean up" their premises.

New Sign Ordinance.

A committee to draft a new electrical sign ordinance for the city was appoined by the council. The committee consists of J. W. Pyle, Fred Smith, J. M. Sheaffer, George Wyver, L. E. Hudgins and T. M. Hugley, city engineer. The committee will hold its first meeting Tuesday morning.

H. L. Hunter, member of the board of directors of the City-County hospital, appeared before the council and requested the city to join with the county in enlarging the nurses home at the hospital. Action was deferred by the council pending the receipts of estimates for the construction work.

The council ordered the paving of Baltimore avenue, from York to Lexington; North Travis street, from Brooks to Wichita; Polk street, from Avenue M to Avenue G; Brooke street, from Seventh to Trueheart; Brooke street from Seventh to Eighth.

Laborers Appear.

O. B. Kelley, on behalf of a group of white laborers in Wichita Falls, appeared before the council and requested the councilmen to pass a resolution, instructing contractors to employ white laborers living in Wichita Falls instead of Mexicans. Mayor Shepherd told Mr. Kelley that the city would only award contracts on the understanding that citizens of the city be employed in the work and that the council would use its efforts in having "home labor" employed on all contracting work done in the city.

Bids for the construction of sewers on Sixth, between Bluff and Broad, and Broad, between Sixth and Eighth, were received and given to F. M. Rugely, city engineer, for compilation.

Two bids for an 80-foot front strip of land at the end of Front street, recently condemned by the city, were received. One bid was $1000 and the other $1025. No action on the bids was taken by the council.

Name Streets.

J. W. Hunt, street commissioner, informed the council that names of streets would be painted on the curbs of street intersections having a large amount of traffic. The painting will be completed before the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

The awarding of a garbage collection contract in the city to one firm was discussed by the council. A. W. King, park and sanitary commissioner, was instructed by the council to obtain samples of contracts made by other Texas cities for garbage collection.

On motion of King, the Dr. Glover's laboratories was awarded the contract for the testing of milk and performing other laboratory service for the city. The laboratories will receive $125 a month.

Mayor Shepherd, Oral Jones, finance commissioner, and John Bland were appointed as a committee to supervise the detail work in connection with the erection of the municipal auditorium.

Payment of $9000 to the J. M. Johnson company for the wiring of the auditorium in connection with the construction work and $12,-278.25 to the J. E. Morgan Construction company for completed work on the auditorium was authorized by the council.

The inscrutable Oriental—enigma of the ages—this is the latest role of Lon Chaney, "man of a thousand faces"—who had literally to learn a new psychology to play his latest part on the screen. This is the mysterious mandarin, Wu, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new drama of Oriental intrigue and revenge "Mr. Wu," which comes to the Majestic theater Wednesday.

Lon Chaney in "Mr. Wu," coming to the Majestic theater Wednesday for three days.

Although not his first venture into Oriental roles, it is the first picture in which Chaney played an Oriental clear through the picture, and the first in which he was allowed full sway in plumbing the depths of such possibilities.

The character is that of a powerful mandarin, third man of power in the empire, whose uncanny lore of centuries is augmented by the knowledge of Oxford; whose strange power almost suggests sorcery, and whose character is both lovable and sinister.

"For years," says Chaney, "I have longed to play the real Oriental — the actual product of China's countless ages of introspection. In this story I was given the opportunity. Written by an author who knows every intricacy of the Orient and its psychology, it is the most nearly perfect pen-picture of mysterious China ever done —although the story is laid in ultra-modern times."

The play deals with the uncanny revenge plot of the mandarin when a member of an English family in the Orient dishonors his daughter. It illustrates perfectly the strange code of morals of the Orient wherein life of a human being is held absolutely valueless against the traditions built up through centuries of custom.

The play is staged on a gorgeous scale with a cast that includes Renee Adoree as the mandarin's daughter, Louise Dresser as the English mother, Ralph Forbes, Anna May Wong and others of note.

Chaney's facial disguise in one of the most intricate he has ever attempted, and Miss Adoree wears a make-up no less difficult as his daughter in the strange play.

Do "fine manners" make "fine ladies"?

That's the question asked in Gloria Swanson's latest film, "Fine Manners," which arrives at the Mission on Tuesday. Gloria is seen as a dancer in a burlesque music hall. With a brother, who jealously tries to guard her from the world's tawdry influences, she lives in a tiny tenement apartment.

Then—fate—or call it what you will, has her meet a young, socially bored, society scion. He immediately falls in love with this veritable child of nature. Thinking to improve, and make her wellnigh perfect, the youth tells his sweetheart that a course in "fine manners" will make her a "fine lady."

What happenes? Certainly, this is a situation to bring forth lots of laughs and many perplexities.

Those who have already seen "Fine Manners," say that Gloria has never been better. Richard Rossom directed for Paramount. Eugene O'Brien plays the part of the fiance.

BURGLARS GET $100 IN RAIDS

Knobs Knocked From Safes Of Two Firms

Two local bottling companies were victims of burglars and knob knockers Sunday night or early Monday morning, it was revealed when the establishments of the Nehi Bottling company, 2101 Grant, and the Coca Cola Bottling company, 420 Ohio avenue, were opened for business Monday morning.

The Nehi company was the heaviest loser, the yeggs taking nearly $100 from the safe after knocking the knob. Entrance was gained through the rear door.

Although the knob was knocked from the safe in the Coca Cola company's office the burglars failed in their efforts to open the safe and nothing was taken other than a few packages of cigarets from a desk.

No arrests had been made in connection with the two burglaries Monday night.
