Carter Writing Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter's commencement address at the U.S. Naval Academy on Wednesday will attempt to sum up the relationship between the United States and Soviet Union, an administration official said today.

Carter himself is deeply involved in writing the speech, which is still in draft form, the official said.

Advisers Trim Cut

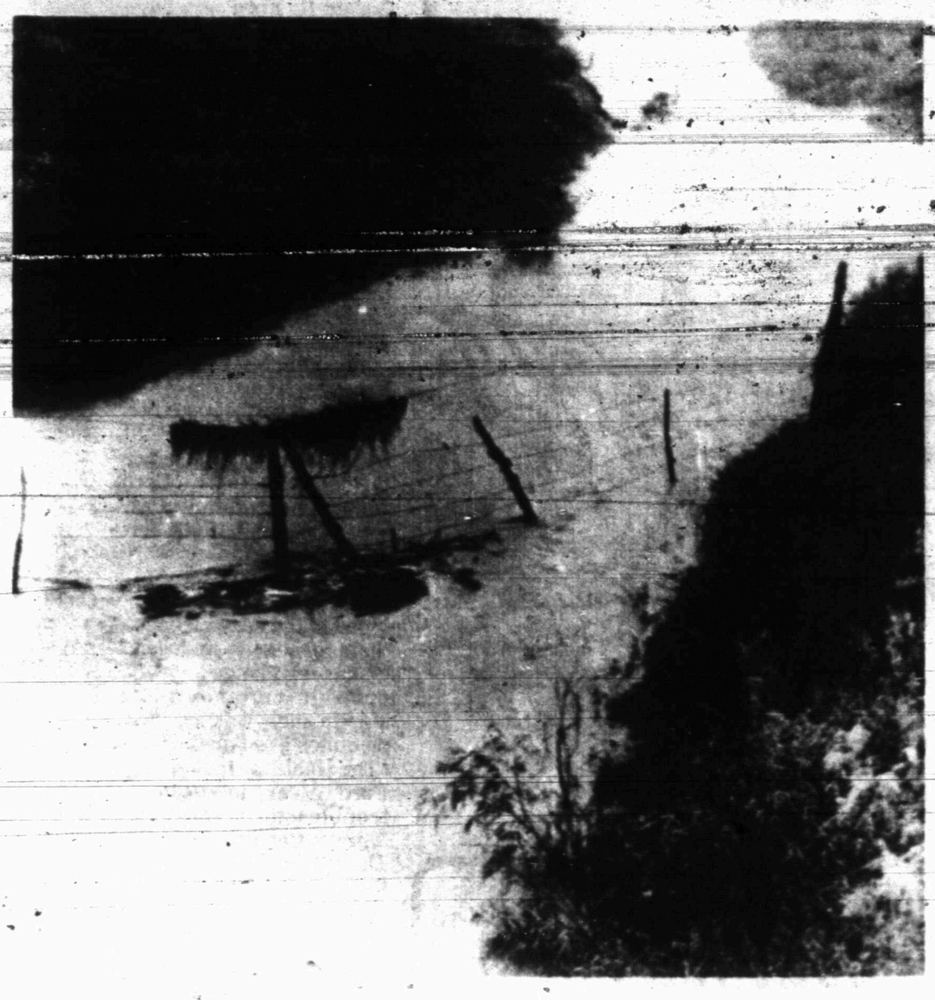

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter's advisers want another $4.5 billion lopped off the administration's tax cut plan as the price Americans must pay for further trimming of the planned budget deficit.

Administration sources, who asked not to be identified, said the advisers want the proposed 1979 tax cut held to about $15 billion, down from a compromise $19.4 billion. Carter originally wanted a nearly $24 billion reduction.

Dollar Improves

LONDON (AP)-The dollar improved today in fairly brisk Tokyo trading and then inched upward in morning dealings on European money markets. The price of gold continued to fall.

The U.S. currency, which dropped below 220 Japanese yen Monday for the first time since April 17, recovered a bit on the Tokyo market to close today at 220.775 yen compared to 219.75 yen at Monday's close.

Rains Put Water Into Lake Thomas

Rains the past month have produced above-average amounts of water over much of the Snyder area, but for the most part, lakes and tanks had failed to make any significant catches as most of the water soaked into the ground.

Today, hopes were raised that this situation was heading for a change.

The Colorado River was flowing 12 feet deep at the west end of Lake J.B. Thomas this morning from hard showers overnight in some areas of Borden County. On the strength of reports from various parts of the lake's watershed, W.P. Odom, assistant manager of the Colorado River Minicipal Water District, said Monday night's rains could put 2,500 acre feet or more of water into Lake Thomas.

Showers were continuing this morning in the lake area and up into Borden County, and apparently streams that had been soaking up the new moisture were beginning to flow and tanks on ranches were beginning to fill up. General rains of an inch to an inch and a half were reported at Gail.

Odom said that heavy rains had been reported last night and early today along the caprock north of Gail. It was not known immediately how much of this rainfall would find its way into streams feeding Lake Thomas.

The Colorado River came up rapidly south of Gail on the Rich Anderson Ranch last night, but had dropped again early today following brief, but intense showers last night. Tanks in that area were reported spilling over this morning, which would indicate any additional rains would flow into the lake.

Bull Creek had not flowed significantly into the lake this morning, but there were hopes that additional showers would touch it off.

"It doesn't sound like a lot of water (2,500 acre feet) but every little bit helps now," said Odom.

The official gauge at the Snyder city water plant had measured 1.04 inches by 7 a.m. today. The gauge at the Lake Thomas dam had 1.30 inches.

Heavier rains were reported around Ira and to the south of Hermleigh

The votes got counted a lot earlier in the runoff primary Saturday night than they did in the first primary on May 6.

In Scurry County, it was all over by 8:30 p.m., which is precisely the hour that County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth had predicted that the vote count here would be completed. In fact, all of the voting precincts but one had reported by 8:10 p.m. The last one to report made it by telephone at about 8:28 p.m. which meant that it was wrapped up by 8:30 almost on the dot. We almost accused Mrs. Ainsworth of arranging for one box to hold out and make its report just prior to her predicted hour of completion, except that we knew she was as anxious to finish it off as we were.

Three factors contributed to the fast vote count here Saturday. The ballot was short, there were fewer votes cast, and the crews at the polls were determined that they were going to avoid delays.

Some of the experiences reported by election judges indicate that many voters have little or no knowledge about our political system. One complaint that always surprises us concerns the separation of the political parties. Some people can't seem to understand why they are not allowed to participate in nomination of candidates for both major parties.

One election official reported a heated argument with an individual who couldn't understand why he was barred from voting in primaries of both parties "because taxpayers are paying for these elections."

Actually, tax money still does not foot the total bill, although, by decree of federal courts, it helps out some. There was a time when filing fees took care of the entire expense of holding primary elections. The county's party chairman (Democrat and-or Republican) merely figured out the expense of holding a primary election and then prorated the cost among the offices at stake. If three candidates sought one office, they shared the assessment for that ofice. But, if a candidate ran unopposed, he still had to pay the full assessment for the office he sought. A lot of candidates relished the idea of paying the whole thing, because that meant that they had no opponent. A few years ago, however, a candidate in one of the metropolitan counties, challenged the filing fee system in federal court and ultimately it was ruled to be out of line. Now, filing fees are set by state law. The fee to run for county office is $300, for a precinct office it is $200 and for [illegible] including governor, it is $1,000. If the filing fees collected by the county party organization are insufficient to pay expenses for holding the election, the state must make up the difference.

Carter To Back Water Projects

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter, who last year infuriated Western governors by attempting to kill 30 federal water projects, today promised to back an unspecified number of new projects.

The new projects were part of the administration's announcement of a new federal water policy designed to give Western governors greater influence over dams and irrigation projects in their states.

Carter proposed that states pay from 5 percent to 20 percent of the cost of federal water projects. This would be the first time that the states would pick up a portion of a cost, now financed almost exclusively by federal taxpayers.

But the administration's proposal also would permit governors and legislatures to "vote with their dollars" for projects they favor, an idea the governors themselves have endorsed.

Carter also promised to propose to Congress starting construction or planning on an unspecified number of new projects.

"This is the first time the Executive Branch has proposed new water project starts since fiscal year 1975, four years ago," Carter said in a message to Congress announcing the new water policy.

The new policy is aimed in part at controlling some of the political damage that Carter caused himself in the water-short West last year through his effort to kill 30 politically popular water projects. The 30 projects became known as Carter's "hit list," and Congress forced him to restore most of them.

The president's broad new policy also:

—Put new emphasis on saving water where it is scarce. "Using water more efficiently is often cheaper and less damaging to the environment than developing additional supplies," the president said.

—Directed the government to draft new rules that would make it more difficult to justify new water projects through a number of changes, including more stringent analysis of the benefits claimed for them.

—Directed the interior secretary to begin charging more, when possible under existing authority, for water which the government now sells at bargain rates to many irrigators and other users. In the Central Valley of California, the federal government sells irrigation water to farmers for as little as $3.50 per acre-foot, while the state sells water nearby for $22.

The cost-sharing proposal would require states to share costs of all new projects.

Ask Us

Q--What can be done--if anything--with children and dogs "playing" in yards other than their own (without property owner's permission)? The children are destructive...break and damage shrubs, trample flowers, "borrow" newspapers, ride bicycles on the yard, driveways, etc. They play ball, tennis and other games in the street. also.

A--We are told that little can be done if these youngsters are under 10 years old, except that, in case a victim wishes to take really stern measures, it is possible to file suit against the parents. In some cases, if parental neglect is suspected, they might be reported to the child welfare department. If the children are over 10, you may file on them in juvenile court. All of these avenues, of course, are not recommended unless efforts to get cooperation of parents proves futile.

Court Changes Mind On Suits

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Supreme Court, overturning a decision it reached 17 years ago, ruled today that persons may sue cities over alleged civil rights violations.

The justices, voting 7-2, said cities do not enjoy total immunity from federal laws passed to protect citizens' individual rights.

The ruling could have major ramifications for all cities and municipal officials.

The test case decided by the court came from New York City, where in 1971 welfare caseworker Jane Monell and a number of city school teachers were forced to take maternity leave in their seventh month of pregnancy. Their doctors had advised them that they could have worked another month without physical harm.

The women sued the city for back pay, but two lower federal courts dismissed the lawsuit on grounds the city was immune from such challenges.

In urging the high court to keep intact those ruling, city lawyer L. Kevin Sheridan told the justices last November that New York faced financial ruin if it were forced to reimburse all women placed on forced maternity leave before the city's policy was changed.

"This could open up litigation that would be ruinously expensive," Sheridan argued.

Today's decision, written by Justice William J. Brennan Jr., flatly rejected the city's arguments while turning its back on a 1961 Supreme Court ruling that cities are immune from such suits.

Congress intended in passing the Civil Rights Act of 1871 to include municipalities as potential lawsuit defendants. Brenan said.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice William J. Rehnquist dissented.

In unanimous decisions in other cases today, the Supreme Court:

-Ruled that states are entitled to set their own eligibility standards for emergency welfare aid under a federally subsidized program. The court overturned a decision of the 7th U.s. Circuit Court of Appeals that struck down an Illinois welfare funding plan.

-Ruled that the federal government acted within its legal authority last year when it ordered a seven-month suspension of proposed rates for transporting oil through the Alaska pipeline.

May Almost $1-Million Building Month In City

May was almost a million-dollar building month in Snyder and the city's building figures for the calendar year are approaching the $3 million mark.

The city issued 38 permits during the month for construction costing $917,279. This pushed the total for the first five months of 1978 to $2,998,406 and the total for the city's fiscal year to $4,105,364. The fiscal year began last Oct. 1.

The biggest factor in the May total was residential construction, which experienced a definite surge. Permits for 13 single-family dwellings accounted for $698,500, or more than two-thirds of the month's total.

There was only one major commercial project launched in May. It was for the Pizza Inn building now under construction on the East Highway.

The remainder of the month's total came from mobile homes, signs, repairs, alterations, additions, etc.

The May figures represent a big increase over May of 1977 when the total was $325,912 and it gave the city building pace a push to help overcome a lag during winter months when weather conditions slowed progress in the construction industry. The over-all total for the calendar year at this time in 1977 stood at $3,855,481.

Continued activity in residential construction and more commercial building are expected during the summer and fall.

One expert's opinion is not necessarily another's - particularly when it comes to forecasting man's future.

Take population growth. The favored prognosis of recent years has it that our numbers will eventually overwhelm planet earth's capability to support us.

Scientist, educator and author Harrison Brown recently reiterated this scenario at an international seminar on the long-range economic outlook with a timetable for doomsday. In 330 years, he predicts, runaway population growth will have reached the point where governments will be forced to limit consumption. Stagnation, not growth, will become official policy.

The pinch in some places will be felt much sooner. If its present growth rate continues, for example, Mexico City by the year 2,000 will have a population of some 30 million, more than the entire state of California today.

But now listen to Dr. Charles F. Westoff, of Princeton University's Office of Population, who made the newswires with a prediction that in the not too distant future the government could be paying couples to have children.

Not overpopulation but declining population will be the problem if, as Westoff believes, contemporary trends in birth control, availability of abortion and a lifestyle indifferent to marriage continue.

In about 50 years, he predicts, the death rate will begin to exceed the birth rate in the United States and the government, concerned about the effect upon the economy and social vitality, will introduce some form of economic inducement to encourage the citizenry to reproduce.

In Europe, Westoff already discerns indications of the negative population future. East Germany's birth rate has dropped to the point that for the past several years the regime has been lending the equivalent of $10,000 to newlyweds and canceling part of the debt for each child born. Three closes the books.

Other countries - France, Sweden and even wide-open Australia - are also beginning to encourage marriage and family growth.

Which expert is right?

It could be either one, or both in certain respects, or quite possibly neither.

Both experts are working with selected current trends and projecting them into a future that will be shaped by many unpredictables.

The tricky thing about trends that deal with people, as individuals and in the mass, is that they may point in one direction today an entirely different one tomorrow. The only certainty about them is that their twists, turns and reverses in the long run are uncertain.

In the end, the only way of determining which expert's view of the future is correct is through a long wait.

women climbing fast

Women are also doing better higher up on the employment ladder.

Currently comprising more than 40 percent of the entire work force, women are moving out of their clerical and service ghetto and into better-paying corporate jobs.

Between 1970 and 1975, the proportion of women in management positions rose from 16 to 19 percent, according to a survey by The Conference Board. The gain was no spectacular, the economic research organization noted, but considering the short time span - which included a recession - it is considered significant.

The corporate economy is still male dominated, employing some 68 percent of all working men compared with 50 percent of women.

But the long-term trend is toward greater parity.

paul harvey

only people are taxed

From some surprising sources you are hearing that the income tax on corporations should be abolished.

From Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wisc.), for one.

But that's less surprising when you realize that corporations don't pay taxes anyway; never have, never will.

Corporations pass along all their taxes to you - in higher prices for whatever they sell.

Corporations don't pay taxes. Only people pay taxes.

From 1913 until F.D.R.'s New Deal the corporate income tax was a token one percent.

Today corporations are taxed up to 48 percent on their profits.

But, as I say, the corporations don't pay taxes, they pass along taxes - as well as other higher costs - in increased prices.

Obviously, this is a major factor contributing to inflation.

And when goods and services produced in this country cost more, that makes American goods less competitive in world markets.

With the Administration wanting to spend half a trillion dollars this next fiscal year, it would be impossible to abolish the corporate income tax all at once. As is this tax produces $60 billion a year - 16 percent of our federal government's total tax take.

What President Carter is proposing is a 20 percent reduction in the corporate income tax, with subsequent successive cuts in the years ahead.

Now, cutting taxes in one place and then taking money out of another pocket is not going to help you and me.

State and local taxes - not federal - increased another 13 percent last year to an average $731 per person.

The average American family's property tax increased another 10.7 percent last year.

So the total tax take from the average American household this year will be $9,600!

So it is government spending - federal, state and local - that is going to have to be reduced if we are to get any genuine tax relief.

Government now takes back almost half our income. And despite that every baby born in America is born $15,400 in debt.

And President Carter proposes a further increase in that debt.

Yet every economy he proposes is resisted by some members of Congress who demand that he make his cuts "somewhere else."

Led by Tennessee, several of our United States are presently enacting laws that will require state government to live within its income each fiscal year.

Surely this is not impossible for our federal government.

With tax-and-spend liberals like Sen. Proxmire beginning to recognize that the income tax on corporations is self-defeating, there is hope that our lawmakers might learn to see over the tops of their pork barrels - and recognize the urgency of drastic curtailment of government spending.

Before our worth less dollars become worthless.

In the past year or a little over, several famous stars have died. Certainly some of these might be called some of the greatest.

Bing Crosby, Elvis Presley, Charlie Chaplin, Jaek Benny, Groucho Marx and Joan Crawford, just to mention a few.

Other old time greats have been in the news recently too.

John Wayne had open heart surgery and then marked another birthday in a very quiet manner, due to his health. He was seen on the Bob Hope Birthday Show through video tape, since he was unable to attend in person.

Jackie Gleason has been admitted to the hospital twice recently and has also had open heart surgery. His new road production, "Sly Fox," has been canceled due to his illness. Xavier Cugat, has been hospitalized recently too.

But I suppose the biggest spotlight has been on Bob Hope. Truly this man must be immortal. No other person has given so freely of his time and talent.

Bob Hope turned 75 last week and is still going strong. It was even reported that he and George Burns were considering teaming up for another road show, which Hope is so famous for. George Burns is no spring chicken either.

When Bob turned 75, the entire nation paused to pay tribute to him. Even President Carter and Congress stopped their work long enough to honor him. Bob first and foremost a comedian, is known for his long nose and his Christmas USO shows he carries to the American servicemen serving abroad. He has been doing a Christmas show for them some 30 odd years.

The new USO headquarters in New York City has been named after Hope and this seems a very appropriate honor for a well deserving individual.

Even the stars of yesterday turned out to honor him on the TV birthday Show.

Dorothy Lamour, one of the co-stars of his many road shows attended. Lucille Ball, another great star, also paid tribute to Hope.

Bing Crosby's widow graciously lauded praise on Hope and his wife. It seemed most fitting that she should recall happier days when Bing was alive and starring with Hope.

Elizabeth Taylor, as beautiful as ever, also had praise for Hope. She looked pretty despite her unusual "attire" and extra weight. Evidently the farm life must be agreeing with her.

But back to Hope ... he will have his place in the American entertainment industry history and in the hearts of many Americans.

As I hear about the serious illnesses and deaths of the greats of yesterday. I wonder how they will ever be replaced.

Today's stars don't seem to measure up to the old ones. But maybe I'm not being fair about this. By the time they have lived as many years, maybe they will be just as great and have done just as great works.

When Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees hit in 56 straight games in 1941 he started and ended with a Smith. Joe began the streak against Edgar Smith of Chicago and had it ended by Al Smith and Jim Bagby of he Cleveland Indians.

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Gerald R. Ford was back at the White House last week. Within the bounds of good manners, he looked and acted very much as though he belonged there.

Ford and his wife, Betty, were on hand for the unveiling of their official portraits, which are indeed handsome. But what lent special piquancy to the occasion was the shine on the former president's political picture.

Only minutes before the Fords arrived at the White House, an ABC-Harris poll was released showing that - for the first time since the 1976 election - Ford would defeat Jimmy Carter, 48 percent to 43 percent, if a rematch were held today.

Although neither man alluded to the survey during their gracious and congenial exchange at the portrait ceremony, its significance was not lost on either Ford or Carter.

The fact is that Jerry Ford is an increasingly troublesome ghost at Jimmy Carter's banquet. The deeper into his term Carter gets, the longer the shadow cast by his predecessor.

Throughout the 1976 campaign, Carter had the luxury of second-guessing, from the safety of the sidelines, the hard choices Ford had made as president. Now the shoe is on the other foot, and it is starting to pinch.

Ford, initially cautious about criticizing his successor, has started to open up. During his recent visit here, he took dead aim on Carter's political sore spots, domestic inflation and foreign policy vacillation in the face of Soviet adventurism in Africa.

Carter no doubt wishes Ford would worry more about his golf score and less about the Consumer Price Index. But Palm Springs does not hold the same allure as Washington for someone who spent more than a quarter century in the capital's corridors of power.

Ford has an excellent excuse for coming here periodically. He is a "distinguished fellow" at the American Enterprise Institute, a fast-growing, conservative-leaning think tank which is to the liberal-oriented Brookings Institution what Avis is to Hertz.

The former president has an office at AEI's headquarters, access to its impressive public policy research collection and courtesy use of its board room for meetings of his own.

On at least four occasions, including his latest visit, the former president has assembled a couple dozen of his former Cabinet members, subcabinet officials and senior White House aides for discussions of current policy issues and developments.

These sessions provide Ford with useful substantive fodder for the scores of speeches he is making, many under AEI aegis, at colleges and universities across the country. But they also serve to renew and cement old ties, creating what amounts to a government-in-exile right under Jimmy Carter's nose.

Whenever he comes to town, Ford also makes a point of meeting with his old friends and former colleagues on Capitol Hill. He has already done some campaigning this year for GOP members of Congress, and has promised to devote a full week in October to stumping for Republican candidates.

Ford still fudges when asked about his own plans for 1980. As long as Ronald Reagan remains in the picture, there is no guarantee that Ford could claim the GOP nomination even if he sought it. But he is clearly keeping his lines open in all the ways that count, and is looking more like a candidate every day.

That is no longer a prospect which Carter can view with equanimity. Ford may have lost the election in 1976, but he never lost the affection and trust of the voters. It was his competency as chief executive which people questioned, not his basic integrity and decency. Now that there is a basis of comparison on the competency issue, "bumbling" old Jerry Ford is looking better and better to a lot of people.

Letters To Editor

To The Daily News:

When I returned from vacation in the summer of 1975 and learned that my daughter had accepted a teaching position at Western Texas College in Snyder, I was a little dismayed. Now I knew that Snyder was on the map, of course, but I had never heard of W.T.C.

Sue Coffman is no city girl; neither is she a country bumpkin. She likes the plain things of life: good books, good music, reliable friends, the outdoors, her church, and many other things which many of us take for granted. I wondered what life would be like away from the cultural advantages of the Fort Worth-Dallas metroplex, and in the dust and dryness of West Texas.

Ironically, within a week after signing a contract at W.T.C., a place opened at UT-Arlington, but Dr. Coffman felt that it would be unethical or unprofessional to ask to be released from a contract that she had signed in good faith.

I was pleased with the rapidity with which new friendships and ties were made, and the ease with which she accepted and was accepted by the community. A home was purchased, roots established, a garden planted; local merchants profited from her purchases of goods and services, and the church received her tithe.

Then, like an evil malignancy, discord began to sound through the magnificent halls of W.T.C. Certain members of the administration began to feel that it was more to the advantage of W.T.C. to show that "X" number of students passed their courses, whether they had made passing grades or not. Dr. Coffman refused to lower her standards of teaching. I applaud her decision. This is a principle on which our great nation was founded. She and all her students were subjected to having all her classes video-taped; this resulted in a letter to the administration stating that the tapes should be used as a teaching instrument for other teachers--a letter that was ignored.

Dr. Coffman learned to read at age 4, was the youngest person in Houston to obtain a library card by virtue of having the ability to write her name, and was reading Time extensively at age 7. She completed public school in eleven years and graduated summa cum laude. As an undergraduate at North Texas State University she received every honor available at the university, and is still known as "Super Sue" for the ease and rapidity with which she received her Ph.D. She has the advantage of having taken courses in Negro literature at Howard University for the benefit of her minority students. Surely the people of the Snyder community who have reason to be justly proud of the educational facility provided for their children will also have reason to expect that the administration and board of trustees woulds have the foresight and common sense to provide the finest faculty available, and surely parents expect their children to learn at the college level and not be taught at the ninth grade level just to make the administration look good. Moreover, I don't presume to believe that citizens of the Snyder area should expect their children to be instructed by less qualified professors merely because they live in a small community.

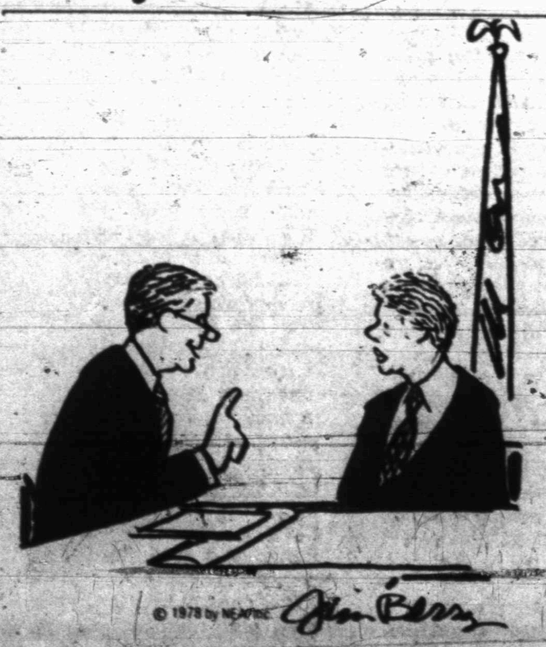

Dr. Coffman's contract was not renewed because the projected enrollment for next fall will not be sufficient to require her services. This means that the present instructors will have to absorb extra students and that students will necessarily have to attend crowded classes. Under the explicit terms of the dismissal, the hiring of a new professor is precluded.

Despite this adverse action, Dr. Coffman bears no ill will against those who sought her dismissal under devious methods. She feels that those persons have to live with their own consciences.

I wish to thank all of those who have befriended "Dr. Sue" and have helped to make her three years in Snyder pleasant. I believe that her experiences in Snyder will eventually prove to be an asset in her life and that she is destined to find a place where her special talents will be appreciated. As my own mother would have said, "I'm glad I didn't raise no dumb kids."

Club Sets Book Sale June 10

Clemey Andress was hostess and Ella Taylor was program coordinator for the May dinner meeting of B&PW Club at the MAWC. Plate favors were individual fragrances, and table decorations featured spring flowers.

Belle Shipp brought two visitors from Washington state, Opal and Eula Wilson, who were also members of the Business and Professional Women's Club in their town near Portland. They won the door prizes, lovely crocheted table mats.

Nellie Smith installed the officers for 1978-79 club year. They are Faye McCollum, president; Laurie Haines, vice president in charge of membership; Ethel Mae Sturdivant, treasurer; Ella Taylor, second vice-president, in charge of publicity; Frances Brown, recording secretary, and Eva Victor, corresponding secretary.

Lee Weaver made the club presentation to Fay McCollum for a successful year of leadership. She also gave her a hoya carnova plant, as the retiring vice president. Mrs. Weaver will be Martha Ann Women's Club representative next year.

Nellie Smith reported that the Eckerd Drug gave permission for the B&PW group to have a bargain table on June 10 in order to raise money for civic projects. Featured at the sale will be second-hand books. Anyone wishing to contribute books may bring them to the table.

In a special program, Laura Holladay presented colorful slides of her trip to the Rose Bowl Parade, and Faye McCollum extended the club's appreciation.

HD Meets At Knapp

The Knapp Community Center was the site for the June meeting of the Knapp Home Demonstration Club. Blanche Murry, hostess, decorated the tables with crocheted (handmade) baskets filled with nuts and candy, and arrangements of crocheted roses. Mrs. J.D. Blankenship, president, presided at the business meeting.

Roll call was answered by comments naming something each member wanted the club to do. The club decided to donate to the 4-H Club scholarship fund.

June Greenway reported on the recent trip to Ranch Headquarters Museum at Lubbock. Nina Garner gave a report on her trip to Demmitt to attend the district meeting.

Agnes Sorrells reported that June 15 the club would make a trip to Burlington Mills in Post. All members are urged to meet at the Knapp Community Center where departure time is set for 8 a.m.

A potted plant was given to Pat Miller in remembrance of her mother. The club was visited by Ruby Butts, former Scurry County home demonstration agent.

Members had a covered dish luncheon. Attending other than those previously mentioned, were Virginia Bloom, Virginia Drake, Nina Garner, Wanda Horn, Allie Moore and Frieda Murphy.

Next meeting for the club will be July 6 with the place to be announced.

How can South bid the grand slam with any confidence?

He can assume that his partner needs both king and queen of hearts for his early bids, or he can check for kings by means of a Blackwood five notrump and bid seven on the theory that even if North does not hold the trump queen the suit will break.

Far better is having some expert method to find out just how good his partner's trumps are.

South's six-club call represents an expert way to find out. It is a variation of the old Culbertson grand slam force.

Specifically, after you ask for aces and follow with a bid of six in a new suit, you want your partner to bid seven if he holds two of the three top trump honors.

Seven hearts makes easily. All South has to do is te draw trumps and claim since dummy will be able to ruff his fourth diamond.

How about all four trumps in one hand? That chance is less than 10 per cent and one anyone is willing to take.

Ask the Experts

A Tennessee reader asks what lead we recommend from: 5-6-B

♠ K 7-2
♦ 8 6 4 3 2
♣ 9 7 3

The hand to our right opened one notrump and his partner raised him to game.

We recommend the deuce of spades. Our partner has some cards. We can help him in spades and lead that suit rather than our own diamond.

Reminders For Those In The Swim

By Ellie Grossman

New York (NEA) - Sam Cynamon is a strong swimmer. The American Red Cross wouldn't have him working as a Safety Services Specialist for Water in the Greater New York Chapter if he weren't.

Still, he says, "There are situations I get into in the water when I'm taken by surprise. I won't panic, but I get this sudden sick feeling in my stomach."

But since Cynamon knows how to react, he probably won't end up as one of an estimated 7,000 who drown each year according to the National Safety Council.

Not only didn't they know what to do, they probably didn't know they were in a dangerous situation to begin with.

Or maybe they overestimated their own ability.

Or ignored safety regulations like the sign that says don't swim near the rocks. There's a reason for that, you know. A rambunctious wave can lift you up and distribute you over those rocks or any nearby jetty or pier or surfacing U-boat.

How did you get out there anyway? If you ran helter-skelter into the surf like Burt Lancaster and Deborah Kerr without reading warning signs on the beach, or testing the undertow, you could find yourself struggling to return to shore because the water gouged whole buckets of sand from under your feet, and pulled you out with it. For company.

Now acknowledge the fact that the lifeguard is on hand not just to pay next term's tuition by sunning himself on his perch.

"If you're not a good swimmer to start with," Cynamon says, "stay near the lifeguard. If the beach isn't that busy, you may even want to ask him to keep an eye on you."

And don't pretend you don't hear him if he whistles you back to shore.

In a boat, Cynamon says, the best safety procedure for everyone, water-lily or not, is to wear a personal flotation device, or PFD. A lifejacket or buoyant ring that fastens around the waist. Make sure it fits — there are sizes for children and adults — and carries a sticker of approval from the Coast Guard.

"All lifesaving equipment should be checked for defects, too, and everyone should practice using it," he says, just like a fire drill.

But suppose you find yourself in the water 20 miles offshore without a PFD, or even a boat to hang onto (which you should always do, he says, when yours capsizes. Better still, climb on top of it if it's not burning or about to sink.)

If the water is warm, you can try drown-proofing, a survival method of flotation created for downed pilots.

The necessity for warm water, Cynamon says, is to combat hypothermia, which is subnormal central body temperature.

"When the core body temperature reaches 90 degrees F, unconsciousness can occur; when it drops to 85 degrees, you can die.

"Fifty percent of body heat is lost from the head, and water conducts heat faster than air. Since drownproofing requires your head to be in the water a lot, that means you're likelier to cool off quicker through drownproofing than by treading water with your head above it — even though you expend more energy treading water."

What drownproofing does do, though, is enable you to rest. You don't breathe too comfortably, but you do rest.

Begin by relaxing everything so the body curves forward in a semi-vertical position, arms and legs dangling, your face in the water. When you need air, bring your arms up criss-crossed in front of you, spread your legs apart, then simultaneously do a scissor-kick — one leg forward, one back — and press downward with your arms.

This will lift you out of the water. Take a breath and then return to the original dangling position. Continue until help or the shore materialize.

If you find yourself swimming alone (bad idea to begin with) and you develop a cramp, you can handle that through the jelly fish float.

That, too, is a semi-vertical floating position with your back at the surface of the water and your face submerged.

Again, let your arms and legs dangle, then reach down and knead or rub the cramped muscle until it eases up.

To breathe, raise your arms and push down, pick up your head and get some air. Then assume the original position and continue massaging the cramped muscle.

"When you feel comfortable enough to swim again," he says, "do a different stroke from what you were doing when you got the cramp so it doesn't happen again."

All of this sounds very good. But the fact of the matter is, Cynamon says, to a person without some facility in the water, survival techniques won't mean much.

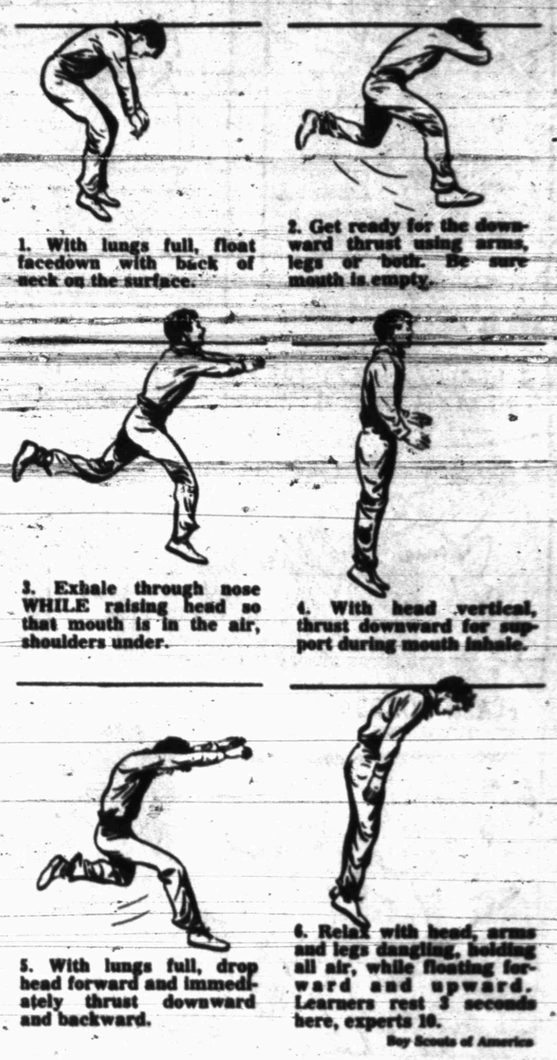

"For a non-swimmer, drownproofing really isn't feasible because his main thing is to keep his head above the water and breathe. Then, too, if you have some background in swimming, you can give yourself a moment to think and adjust yourself to the situation."

That's why it makes the most sense to learn to swim first of all — not just to practice survival techniques.

Playing with water, after all, is just like playing with that other natural element — fire.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

DROWN-PROOFING TECHNIQUE

1. With lungs full, float facedown with back of neck on the surface.

2. Get ready for the downward thrust using arms, legs or both. Be sure mouth is empty.

3. Exhale through nose WHILE raising head so that mouth is in the air, shoulders under.

4. With head vertical, thrust downward for support during mouth inhale.

5. With lungs full, drop head forward and immediately thrust downward and backward.

6. Relax with head, arms and legs dangling, holding all air, while floating forward and upward. Learners rest 3 seconds here, experts 10.

LITTLE LEAGUE

LITTLE LEAGUE
White Sox 10, Cardinals 0

In this first of three make up games played Saturday night, the Sox whipped the Cards handily. Rains have forced a number of make up contests this year, and hit the area Monday evening, causing those games to be postponed also.

Greg Mitchell gave up only two hits and struck out nine batters as the Sox won Saturday. Norman Malone socked a home run and Mike Adams and Jeff Minor doubled to spark the White Sox. Hitting singles were Geoffrey Chamblee, Greg Mitchell and Bill Wilson.

Eddie Collins and Troy Ford slapped the only hits, a pair of singles, for the Cards. Chris Wiman gave up six hits and struck out four batters as losing pitcher. The game was halted after the fourth inning due to the 10-run rule.

Athletics 12, Giants 2

In another game halted by a 10-run margin after four innings, Jay Mayo led the A's in giving up only three hits and striking out eight. John Murphy drilled a home-run and a single and William Cotton and Jerry Comstock knocked three doubles each. Jackie Anderson and Delwin Bane powered a double apiece and Bob Spikes added a single to his double. Jay Mayo added a single also.

Meanwhile, Pat Kottl handed out 13 hits and fanned four A's. Teammate Charles Bollinger slapped a double and Marty Gutierrez nailed a bouncer over the wall for a stand-up double. Fred Fleming singled.

Yankees 8, Cubs 7

Jimmy Velasquez and Rusty James knocked a double apiece, Bobby Velasquez hit two singles and Jerry Garza and Dewayne Williams slapped a base hit each to scoot the Yanks past the Cubs Saturday.

Bobby Velasquez hurled three and one-third innings, giving up five runs and fanning five players. Rusty James hurled one-two-thirds innings and Mike McWilliams finished the job.

For the Cubs, Bobby Butler knocked two singles while teammates Lee Carrol, Tommy Holladay and Mike Bowlin grabbed a single each. Kent Krop took the loss.

FARM LEAGUE
Yankees 11, Cubs 7

The Yankees slapped down eight singles and a double to edge the Cubs 11-7 Saturday in a Farm League make up game. Freddie Howard drilled the double, while singles were collected from Pat Malone, Dickie Widlam, David Jackson, Herb Ashley, Roger Burrus, Bryan Sitton, Jeff Clawson and Mike Byrom.

Todd Dunam knocked a pair of singles for the Cubs. Billy Overhulser, Jerr Featherston and Tray Burton garnered a single each.

White Sox 22, Cardinals 0

A double and a single by Hamp Long, a double by Allen Buchanan and a single each from Tony Thomason and Casey Hale were the only hits - all for the Sox - indicated in the game's final stats. The contest was halted after three full innings. Albert Rodriquez picked up the victory.

Seaver Sets 'Em Afire Again

By The Associated Press

Tom's terrific again.

"I think he's the old Seaver - with improvement," says Cincinnati pitching coach Larry Sheppard of Tom Seaver. "He's been coming on in the last five or six ballgames. He's just been fantastic."

The return to form of the Cincinnati ace has been marked by a five-game winning streak, including Monday night's six-hit, 2-1 beauty over the St. Louis Cardinals.

That improved Seaver's record to 6-4 after a horrendous start that took him until May 6 to gain his first victory.

"My timing was not very good," noted Seaver, ever the perfectionist. "Up until the last two innings, I was struggling."

The classy right hander finished in style, striking out five of the last six batters.

While Seaver continued to win, the Los Angeles Dodgers were going in an entirely different direction. The defending National League champions lost their fifth straight game, a 9-8 decision to the New York Mets.

The defeat was especially galling for the Dodgers, since they had the Mets by 8-2 at one time. The loss kept them 5½ games behind front-running San Francisco in the NL West.

The Giants held onto first place by a half-game over the Reds after a 4-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Mets 9, Dodgers 8

Bill Russell's wild throw on Doug Flynn's grounder with two outs in the ninth inning enabled Tim Foli to score the winning run as New York beat Los Angeles.

The Mets scored three times in the ninth off the third Dodger pitcher, loser Terry Forster.

Phillies 4, Giants 3

Rookie Jim Morrison hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning and Bob Boone followed with a pinch-hit shot to rout Vida Blue and give Philadelphia its victory over San Fancisco.

Blue had pitched a two-hitter until the eighth and led 2-1 in the nationally televised game before the Phillies scored three runs with no out and assumed a 4-2 lead en route to their fourth straight triumph.

Cubs 2, Astros 1

Ivan DeJesus' bases-loaded single in the ninth inning scored Steve Ontiveros from third base as Chicago beat Houston.

DeJesus' hit came off reliever Joe Sambito after home plate umpire Dutch Rennert had ejected starter Mark Lemongello from the game for arguing a fourth ball call.

Braves 8, Pirates 4

Rookie catcher Dale Murphy broke a tie in the ninth with a grand slam home run to boost Atlanta over Pittsburgh. Murphy's drive into the left field seats, his third homer this season, came with none out off reliever Kent Tekulve.

A's 9, Red Sox 7

Oakland built an 8-1 lead, then withstood Boston's furious rally behind homers by Jim Rice, Carlton Fisk and Butch Hobson before 36,463 fans on half-price night.

Wayne Gross contributed a double and two singles to a 13-hit attack for the A's while Rice, who had hit a homer in the last seven games, slammed his 19th, tops in the majors.

Mariners 7, Yankees 3

Seattle broke a seven-game winless skein and handed the Yankees their sixth loss in seven games. Ruppert Jones and Juan Bernhardt had three hits apiece and Lee Stanton homered for Seattle, while New York's Paul Blair and Thurman Munson slammed home runs.

Club Completes Tourney Duo

A pair of golf tournaments were played at the Snyder Country Club recently, noted club golf pro Bill Keys.

Harold and Dena Ellis and Don and Gwen Sealy were the winners of the Twilight Swingers Golf Tournament played last Friday night. The game, Keys said, was played on a points-plus handicap basis with two couples making a team. The first place team scored 112 points.

Earning 110 points to place second in the tournament were Bob and Bobbie Hargrove and Durwood and Barbara Hopper.

Coming in third at the tournament were two teams, Pat and Ethel Patterson and Randy and Timmie Mosley, and Larry and Betty Hildreth and Bob and Bobbie Hargrove. Each team scored 107 points.

A mixed foursome played on a Florida scramble basis by the Women's Golf Association was the second tournament to be played at the country club. That tourney was played Sunday.

Three teams tied for first place. They were Larry and Betty Hildreth and Lloyd and Becky Knipe, John and Retha Pickering and Jack and Kaye Cypert, and Bob and Bobbie Hargrove and Dick and Alice Gray. The first place score was 67.

Placing second with 68 were three more teams. They were John and Carolyn Greene and Don and Wilma Dillard, Jo Sterling and Randy Erwin and Pat and Ethel Patterson, and Sterling and Bernice Parker and Derwood and Barbara Hopper.

Coming closest to the number 5 hole at the second tournament was Retha Pickering.

Epps Qualifies On Top For U.S. Open

ARLINGTON (AP) - Medalist Charlie Epps of Houston led 10 golfers into the U.S. Open Monday by taking sectional qualifying honors at Shady Valley Golf Club Monday.

Epps fired 68-71-139 to lead the 72 golfers who survived local qualifying.

The Open will be played June 15-18 at Cherry Hills Country Club in Denver.

Other qualifiers are Mark Wallach, Fort Eustis, Va., 140; John Fought, Tualatin, Ore., 140; Jim Fetters, Port Arthur, Texas, 140; Bob Byman, Raleigh, N.C., 140; Randy Sonnier, Lafayette, La., 140; Robert Imagalia, Rochester, N.Y., 141; Sale Omohundro, Sherman, Texas, 141; Benny Parsons, Fort Worth, Texas, 141; and Nate Stark, St. Petersburg, Fla., 141.

Bayman's second-round 66 set a course record.

Eight players also finished at 141, but four were eliminated in a playoff and will be alternates. They are Jacobs Ferenz, Broadview Heights, Ohio; Steve Boardwell, Detroit; Rives McBee, Irving, Texas; and Jim Knoll, Palo Alto, Calif.

Sonics In A Familiar Position For Playoffs

SEATTLE (AP)-It's a situation the Seattle SuperSonics have faced before in National Basketball Association playoffs - being crushed by a foe on the road and needing a win at home to come back.

They were in a position to oust the 1977 NBA champion Portland Trail Blazers from the playoffs on April 30 in the Portland Coliseum, but lost by 24 points.

They could've finished off Denver in Game 5 of the semi-finals in Denver on May 14 - but the Sonics were never in it and trailed by as much as 18 points in that game.

In the case of Portland and Denver, the Sonics returned home and played near-flawless ball to win the NBA Western Division crown.

On Sunday, the Sonics were beaten badly by Washington, 117-82, to tie the series. The best-of-seven championship series is down to the final game, Wednesday night.

The Sonics consider Sunday's embarrassment a temporary setback, like 24-hour flu, that will go away.

"We'll have the advantage playing at home," said Sonics Coach Lenny Wilkens. "And you can be sure we'll play better than we played Sunday. That was the worst game we've played in a long time and it's not going to happen again. We had nothing, but we were so bad, it's easy to snap out of a game like that."

"They've still got to win one more," said Sonics forward Paul Silas. "And ain't no way in hell they're going to do that."

UT-Hog Game To Be Aired

DALLAS (AP)-The Oct. 21 Arkansas-Texas football game will be televised once again, a spokesman for ABC television said Monday.

Donn Berrnstein, ABC's coordinator of college football, said that the 1978 contest between the Razorbacks and Longhorns would be televised, but that no decision had been reached as to whether it would be shown nationally or regionally.

"Arkansas is the hottest team in the country for TV purposes," Berrnstein said during the American Football Coaches Association golf tournament. He cited Arkansas' Orange Bowl upset of Oklahoma, its returning nucleus and the charisma of coach Lou Holtz as reasons for the Hogs' TV pulling power.

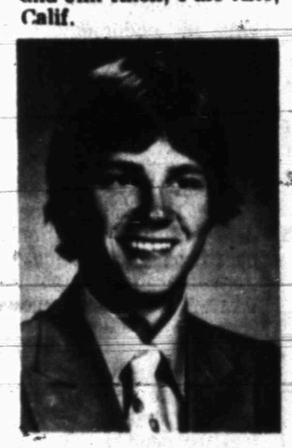

The Razorbacks are scheduled to play Texas at Austin. Kickoff is set for 2 p.m.

Fire Claims Paul Lambert

COLUMBUS, Ga. (AP)-Paul Lambert, Auburn University's new head basketball coach, died in a fire early today that destroyed a section of the airport Holiday Inn, fire officials said.

Fire Chief George Lamb said Lambert, 43, was found on the floor of his room face down.

Lambert, former basketball coach at Southern Illinois, was named Auburn coach in April. His wife and two daughters were to have moved to Auburn from Carbondale, Ill., this week.

SCOTT RUSSELL

Russell Inks With WTC

Scott Russell, a 6-7 player from Southfield, Mich. has signed a letter of intent to play basketball with Western Texas College.

Russell averaged 16.7 points per game in high school and pulled down an average of 11.5 rebounds.

He is the son of George Russell of Southfield.

Vilas Rips Ashe 6-2, 6-2

PARIS (AP) - Defending champion Guillermo Vilas whipped American Arthur Ashe 6-2, 6-2, 6-2 to move into the quarter-finals of the $400,000 French Open tennis tournament.

Dick Stockton also moved into the eight-man quarter-final with a 7-5, 6-1, 6-3 victory over West Germany's Rolf Gehring.

No. 5 seed Manuel Orantes of Spain eliminated American Tim Gullikson 6-3, 7-6, 7-6, and Chile's Hans Guildermeister outdueled Australia's John Alexander 7-5, 6-4, 3-6, 4-6, 6-3 in other matches at Roland Garros Stadium.

Baseball Draft To Commence Today

NEW YORK (AP)-"Why play ball? It is truly the best of all possible worlds."

So says a promotional pamphlet distributed by major league baseball, which is fighting a constant battle against football and basketball for America's blue chip athletes.

Many of these scholastic sportsmen were to be selected today in the annual summer free agent baseball draft. And if they're talented enough, some other sport will also court them, driving up their financial value.

One such player is Kirk Gibson of Michigan State, who has scouts from two sports drooling for his services. A record-setting flanker at MSU, Gibson has avoided serious injury in three varsity seasons and has caught a school record 17 touchdown passes.

At 6-foot-2, 220 pounds with blazing 4.3 speed for the 40 yard dash, Gibson is the fastest man on the football team. He's also the fastest player and hardest hitter on the baseball team, a squad he joined as a junior this past season.

"If I had to compare him with anybody, he's like Mickey Mantle," said Paul Snyder, the Atlanta Braves' minor league administrator. "You don't see that combination of speed and power very often."

The Braves, who had the leadoff pick in today's draft, would love to see Gibson hitting 500-foot home runs and beating out choppers to second base for them, but were expected to pass on this top prospect.

"One of our scouts talked to him and he said he liked baseball, but he loves football, and that's the difference," said Snyder.

Bob Fontaine, once San Diego's scouting chief and now the team's general manager, knows about drafting all-around athletes.

NJCAA Tourney To Begin First Round

Western Texas College golf team was to tee off today in the first round of the National Junior College Athletic Association National Tournament held at Henry Horton State Park near Nashville, Tenn.

The four-day tournament, 72 holes, was to have begun with the initial 18 holes this morning.

Western Texas College clinched conference and Regional championships earlier this year, trimming the rest of the Region V field with a 283-287-279 effort. McLennan Community College of Waco als qualified for the National Tournament.

Playing for the Westerners will be Chris Brown, Terry Kendrick, Miller Scott and Ronald Koerth, all sophomores, and Steve Wise, freshman. Bob O'Day coaches the group.

1978 marks the sixth season in a row that WTC has sent a team or individual to the National Tournament.

Paige Grabs SW Singles Net Title

Neil Paige captured the Southwest tennis singles crown this weekend in Wichita Falls and Jimmy Fowler made it to the finals in an open tournament at Rotan.

The 14 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Paige was judged tops of the 54 players competing in the major zone tournament Saturday when he beat six opponents to win the championship. He won five of his matches in the first two sets.

Paige will be competing this weekend in Abilene.

Jimmy Fowler found himself pitted against athletes four years his senior at Rotan Saturday. There were not enough 14 year olds to warrant a division but he still managed to thrash his way to the finals where he was stepped on 6-4, 6-3 by 18 year old Bobby Williams from Sweetwater.

Jimmy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fowler.

Costello To Coach Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) - Larry Costello, whose total of 407 victories as a National Basketball Association coach ranks fifth on the all-time list, is returning to the game to coach the Chicago Bulls.

Costello compiled a 407-249 record in nine seasons with the Milwaukee Bucks before resigning early in the 1976-77 season. He has since served as a scout with the Houston Rockets.

The Bulls announced the selection of Costello Monday and said he would be presented to the press at a news conference today.

USC Waits For Finals

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)-Top-ranked Southern California and defending champion Arizona State, the only two undefeated teams in the College World Series, meet in a showdown tonight, with the winner in good position to take the national baseball championship.

Southern Cal and Arizona State took the day off and watched two exciting loser's bracket games that sent Oral Roberts and Michigan packing.

Miami's Tony Vila dazzled Oral Roberts' heavy hitters to lead the Hurricans to a 5-3 victory, while North Carolina's Greg Robinson blasted a three-run homer in the eighth to give the Tar Heels a 7-6 victory over Michigan.

North Carolina Coach Mike Roberts, a rookie at the helm who at 27 is the youngest coach in the series, had tears in his eyes during a post-game interview after his young club's come-from-behind victory.

"We were fortunate to win. We gave Michigan several runs and almost beat ourselves. But we came through," Roberts said.

Tower Tells TIPRO He Would Join Filibuster

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - Senator John Tower says a filibuster is possible against the House-Senate conference committee compromise that would extend federal natural gas price controls to intrastate markets.

The Texas Republican told the Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners convention Monday he would join such a fight if a filibuster becomes feasible.

"An extended educational dialogue on the subject would see unlikely allies getting together, some for the wrong reasons, some for the right reasons," Tower said.

Senator Bennett Johnston, D-La., a member of the conference committee, earlier had told the independents he thought a filibuster could be overcome but that defeat of the compromise would merely delay extending the controls to instrastate prices.

"If the bill is defeated, we will have intrastate gas regulation before the spring of next year because Congress will react by passing intrastate controls, supply allocation, and the works," Johnston said.

Policy committees of the trade group placed no recommendation before the convention to endorse or oppose the compromise. Instead, it was suggested the association merely reaffirm its support of natural gas price deregulation and opposition to intrastate controls.

Final action on the matter was postponed until today's concluding session of the three-day meeting.

Floor discussions Monday included no outright calls for endorsement of the compromise bill but there were suggestions any direct action be postponed until final language of the proposal can be studied.

However, George Mitchell, Houston independent and the association's board chairman, indicated the compromise might be the best thing for producers under current circumstances.

"Some of us don't want a bill, some of us do," Mitchell said. "I, for one, feel we need a bill. This bill is so superior to what we are not operating under that it is a step in the right direction."

Johnston said it was true it will take longer to achieve deregulation under the compromise than under the bill approved by the senate.

"But we will have deregulation in seven years," he said.

Tower disagreed.

"If one looks at this measure closely, in the light of our experience with federal energy legislation, the inescapable conclusion is it is likely to lead to vastly increased federal regulation for an indefinite period of time," Tower said.

Woman Has 18th Child

DODGEVILLE, Wis. (AP)-Having an extra mouth to feed at the Zoellick home won't be much of a problem. The big question is whether the bathroom can take it.

"Things get a little crowded around here sometimes, especially because we just have the one bathroom," Helen Zoellick, 41, said Monday, a day after giving birth to her 18th child.

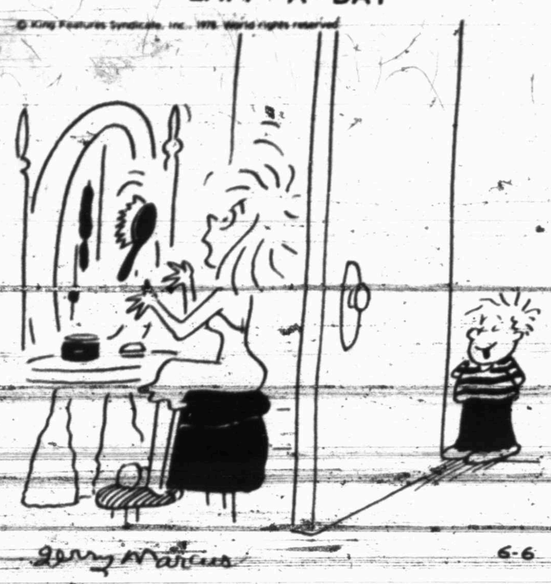

The baby is Beth Candace Zoellick, one of 13 daughters and one of three Zoellick children born at home. A fourth was born in a dentist's office.

Mrs. Zoellick's husband, Herman, 50, had wanted the latest addition to the family to be born in a hospital.

But the mother said, "I would have never made it to the hospital, it came too fast."

Inflation Is Making Americans Defensive

NEW YORK (AP)-Futility is revealed between the lines of the New York Stock Exchange study of American investment attitudes, and it could lead to extreme anger against the nation's political leadership.

It is a sad story of people worried about the decay of their capital and buying power, and who then seek to preserve it through investments in passbook savings, U.S. Savings Bonds and life insurance.

Since such repositories cannot possibly prevent erosion of capital and buying power during inflation of the 1978 variety, the "no risk" refuge that is sought offers little protection at all.

Passbook savings pay a maximum of 5.25 percent interest. Savings Bonds yield 6 percent if held for five years. Interest paid on the cash value of life insurance varies, but falls far short of the inflation rate.

Besides, the face value - that is, the value of the policy on maturity or on death or disability - is defenseless against the assault of inflation, which cuts buying power into little fractions.

A major finding of the exchange study of financial decision-makers, begun after a decline in the number of individual stock buyers and released today, is that Americans have developed an aversion to risk.

The reason, it was found, is that inflation has shaken them so badly they have become defensive. They are not seeking big gains; they are settling for survival. There is no winning, they are saying.

Even those who have never owned stock but who are considering entering the market, it was found, would be attracted mainly by "safety and stability" and by higher dividend returns.

It need not be emphasized that this is hardly the mood that built American - that pushed back the geographical and technological frontiers because the potential rewards made the risks worth it.

But what applies to the nation applies to the individual, too. While the risks are minimal in Savings Bonds, and also in insurance, the rewards are commensurate.

In short: You will not make any money. In fact, you will lose. But your losses will be less than if you stashed your money in the mattress or in a shoebox.

While there is no assurance that riskier investments will grow at a rate faster than inflation, the potential at least is there.

Most of those interviewed - the decision-makers in 2,740 households with incomes of $10,000 or more - said they would consider only the "barest minimum" or "small" risks.

At the same time, 77 percent of them said they believed inflation would increase in the near future, and 36 percent felt the increase would be sharp. Conclusion: They are resigned to losses.

The resignation, however is not total. The survey did confirm what less professional studies had many times hinted at, that many people were rejecting stocks but going into real estate.

You can do it!

Properly installed storm windows provide an extra layer of protection to keep your home energy efficient all year long.

And if you don't want to buy ready-made storm windows, you can make your own. It's easy with Texas Electric's free instruction booklet for energy-conscious homeowners who want to live comfortably and save money on their electric bills. Using basic tools and inexpensive materials, even unhandy people can make their windows into effective barriers against summer heat and winter cold.

Other booklets in the series cover insulation, caulking, weatherstripping, ductwork, and general maintenance. Just call us, or ask for the booklets on the comments section of your electric bill. See how easy it is to make your home energy efficient.

With Deregulation...

EPA Fears Motorists May Use Leaded Fuel

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-As the Energy Department prepares to end ceilings on the retail price of gasoline, The Environmental Protection Agency says it is worried the move might increase the cost of unleaded gas and prompt motorists to use the dirtier leaded fuel.

Energy Department spokesman Jim Bishop said Monday night the deregulation proposal is expected to be sent to Congress shortly - "as soon as the regulations are prepared" - but no date has been set.

Under law, both the Senate and House must block the move within 15 working days or it automatically goes into effect.

The ceilings, a vestige of the 1973 Arab oil embargo, have been felt unnecessary by the Energy Department, especially with gasoline now abundant. The department says it does not anticipate an immediate across-the-board price increase because most current prices already are well below the cutoff point.

But the EPA and a Ralph Nader consumer group, the Center for Auto Safety, believe deregulation could make more difficult their efforts to convince motorists to use unleaded gasoline.

Most late-model autos require unleaded fuel, but motorists have been known to illegally alter the car so unleaded gas can be used.

Critics of the deregulation plan say the cost of unleaded gasoline might go up because it is close to the ceiling price right now, while leaded gas would remain the same, causing the gap between the two to widen.

The gasoline price regulations are based on the retail prices as of May 15, 1973, plus allowances to cover increased costs. The ceiling varies from region to region.

Ben Jackson, an assistant EPA administrator of enforcement, and Clarence Ditlow, of the Nader group, said if the gap increases it might lead to further illegal fuel switching.

EPA studies show about 10 percent of the motorists with cars requiring unleaded gas use the leaded variety because of cost savings. A recent American Automobile Association study said that the average price of unleaded gasoline was nearly 4 cents higher than leaded regular. Other surveys showed the difference in some areas was much as 9 cents a gallon.

"We really don't know which way it would go and nobody has done a detailed analysis to conclude exactly what will happen," said Jackson.

Ditlow, in a letter to Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger, criticized the decision to proceed with deregulation without further environmental impact studies.

Bishop said the Energy Department conducted an internal "environmental assessment" and concluded that no further impact study was necessary.

The government for some time has toyed with lifting the gas price ceiling. President Gerald R. Ford sent to Congress a similar decontrol proposal on his last day as president. But President Carter withdrew the proposal and ordered it to be further studied.

Antitrust Trial Is Cleared

SAN ANTONIO (AP)-A federal judge refused Monday to throw out criminal antitrust charges against Braniff Airways and Texas International Airlines, which are charged with illegally attempting to keep Southwest Airlines out of the lucrative Texas market.

U.S. District Judge Edwin F. Hunter Jr. ruled the activities charged in the indictment were not under the exclusive jurisdiction of the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board.

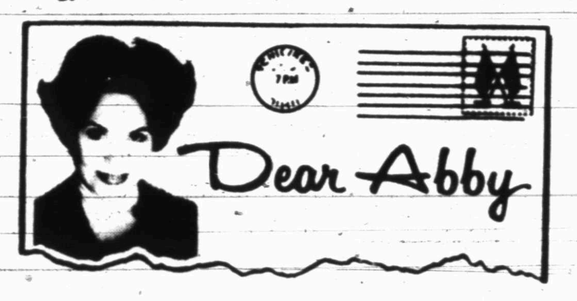

Braniff and TI argued its efforts to keep Southwest out of San Antonio-Houston-Dallas air markets were immune from antitrust laws since they were already regulated by the CAB.

Southwest, an intrastate carrier, is regulated by state agencies, not by the CAB.

Hunter's decision clears the way for a trial in the case later this year.

A federal grand jury here returned the indictment in August 1977 after an earlier indictment was dismissed by U.S. District Judge Adrian Spears.

Spears ruled that a U.S. Justice Department attorney involved in presenting the case to the grand jury had a conflict of interest.

It's Still Best To Tell Mother

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1978 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in reference to the letter from the young girl who said that her foster father had been making advances toward her. You advised her to tell her foster mother at once!

Abby, I know you meant well, but I have learned after many years of experience as a child protection worker in a public welfare agency that telling the mother is useless.

In most cases, the mother would think the child is lying. And in other cases, if the girl is believed, the mother will refuse to bring charges against her husband for fear of the family's reputation and what the law might do to her husband. Then, too, if he's sent to prison, her breadwinner is gone! So she resolves all this by pronouncing the girl a liar and ingrate.

I would recommend that the girl tell her social worker or school counselor. They are trained to help the girl and her foster family.

N.Y. SOCIAL WORKER

DEAR SOCIAL WORKER: Whether she is believed or not, I still think it is imperative that the child tell her foster mother first. Then, if the situation doesn't improve, I always advise the child to seek help from a trusted teacher, adult relative, school counselor, clergyman or neighbor. Otherwise, when the father is confronted, the mother will know that the child has gone to "outsiders"—instead of coming to her—which could create even more difficulties in the home.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a woman who would take a job as a "housekeeper" for a single man? Part of the deal is that the housekeeper has to LIVE on the place.

If a woman sells all her own household goods, and sells (or rents) her own house so she can move in with a man and keep house for him, how do you think that looks?

What does the community think of a woman who would hire herself out this way? And what do YOU think?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Personally, I couldn't care less. But if I were to give it one moment's thought, I would assume that the housekeeper is KEEPING—not PLAYING—house. Now, what's YOUR problem, lady?

DEAR ABBY: Some new neighbors moved into our area, and we share a two-party line. Abby, this woman speaks as good English as I—I have heard her. But when she talks on the phone she always speak a foreign language! I consider this an insult to me. What do you think of a neighbor like this?

INSULTED IN PENNA.

DEAR INSULTED: She's smart. She speaks a foreign language because she suspects that someone may be listening. And obviously she's right!

Are your problems too heavy to handle alone? Let Abby help you. For a personal, unpublished reply, write: Abby: Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Scholarships Go To Snyder Grads

Two 1978 graduates of Snyder High School have been awarded $1,200 scholarships through the Permian Merit Scholarship Foundation Inc.

J. Conrad Dunagan, president of the Permian Merit Scholarship Foundation, said that Debra Ann Littlepage and Rudy Alan England have been awarded scholarships that provide $300 per year each for two years at Western Texas College and two years at the University of Texas of the Permian Basin.

Miss Littlepage's award is co-sponsored by West Texas State Bank of Snyder and Permian Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Monahans.

England's award is co-sponsored by Texas Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Abilene and Permian Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Monahans.

Miss Littlepage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Littlepage, may enter the field of law, psychology or journalism. She has been a member of National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll, and the SHS Band.

England, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud England, plans a career as a radio station manager. He has been a member of National Honor Society and the SHS Band.

OBITUARIES

J. W. Mize

J.W. Mize, 86, died Monday night at Cleveland, Miss., following a long illness.

He was the father of Roger B. Mize, president of Snyder National Bank.

Funeral service has been set for 10 a.m. Wednesday in Cleveland, Miss.

In addition to Roger B. Mize, survivors include his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Ethelene Hatchett of Clarksdale, Miss., and Mrs. E.L. Naron of Cleveland; and two other sons, Johnny Mize of Jackson, Miss., and Bob Mize of Cleveland.

City Changes Mind About Treehouse

SEATTLE (AP)-Eleven-year-old Jode Coble has officials in Seattle's Building Department climbing the trees.

The department told Jode last month that unless he had a building permit, he would have to rip down the house he built in a big cedar tree outside his home. The department, which gave the Seattle boy until Monday to comply, said Jode's only alternative was to have his father face a criminal charge in municipal court.

But Jode's mother said Monday that the city has changed its mind.

"They decided to forget the whole thing," said Mrs. Walter Coble. "Apparently we didn't break the law."

The city building code requires a permit for permanent construction on residential lots. Jode's treehouse is a little more ambitious that the usual - taller than the average one-level house and with seven rooms. But the Coble family contended that a treehouse is not a permanent structure.

"We just wanted them to tell us what we did wrong, and they couldn't do it," Mrs. Coble said.

Gleason Told Away It's Got To Go

CHICAGO (AP)-Doctors are telling Jackie Gleason; "And away it's got to go."

What's got to go? Forty of "The Great One's" 235 pounds and his four-pack-day smoking habit.

The doctors told a news conference at Michael Reese Hospital on Monday that their patient is in satisfactory condition following a six-hour coronary bypass operation Saturday and should be back to normal in two months. But they also added that the 62-year-old Gleason has to lose the extra weight and knock off the excess lighting up.

Gleasons personal physician, Dr. Edward Newman, and attending physicians at the hospital said Gleason probably would have had a heart attack because blocked blood vessels had retarded the flow of oxygen to his heart.

Bridge Will Be Replaced

AUSTIN-Bids for the replacement of a narrow bridge in Scurry County will be received June 14 by the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The bridge is located on Farm to Market Road 1606 at Canyon Creek, 0.4 mile east of FM 2835. The existing structure is 20 feet wide and is deficient.

The proposed new structure will be 24 feet wide. It will be funded partially from federal bridge replacement program monies.

Billy E. Vernon of Snyder is the department's engineer in charge of the project, working under the direction of Abilene District Engineer Roger Welsch.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

A small traffic accident was reported to police Monday evening.

where more than two inches were reported.

In and around Hermleigh, the rainfall last night amounted to an inch to an inch and a half, while about .90 was reported in the Fluvanna area. An inch was reported at the Carl Williams place east of Snyder and about the same amount at Camp Springs.

Odom said the depth of the flow in the Colorado River at the west end of Lake Thomas was somewhat deceptive, since the channel is narrow at that point. Up the river on the Gail-Big Spring road it was about four feet deep and some 150 feet wide.

Monday night's thunderstorm brought some high winds and small amounts of fine hail to the Snyder area. Lightning knocked out a transformer in the west part of town, which left one area without electric power for a time.

The thunderstorms moved from west to east and prompted warnings of severe storms and watches for tornadoes over a big area of the state. Hail the size of golfballs was reported at Sweetwater at the height of a storm.

Forecasts called for more of the same today and tonight. The National Weather Service said some storms could become severe.

Last night's rains ran the official total for the year in Snyder to 11.81 inches. All but two inches of it has fallen since May 1.

Miss Carne Says Charges Hurt Career

CINCINNATI (AP)-Actress Judy Carne, on trial here for allegedly possessing heroin and a forged prescription for the drug Quaalude, says the charges have hurt her career.

"Everything has been canceled," says Miss Carne, the 39-year-old former star of television's "Laugh-In." "Films, television, dinner theater, commercial spots."

Jury selection in Miss Carne's trial in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court was completed Monday. It was delayed for several hours when Miss Carne, who was arrested last November after a performance in a suburban theater, became ill and asked to see a physician.

Testimony was scheduled to begin today.

Sucrets Makers To Pay Penalty

WASHINGTON (AP) - The makers of the throat lozenge Sucrets will pay a $100,000 penalty in settlement of a false advertising suit, according to the Federal Trade Commission. The FTC said Merck & Co. advertising violated a 1966 cease-and-desist order by failing to disclose that the lozenges provided only temporary relief.

Italian Doctors Are Opposed Abortion Law

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP)-Scores of doctors declared themselves "conscientious objectors" to this Roman Catholic nation's first abortion law as it took effect today, denounced by the church and facing the possibility of a repeal referendum.

The law was passed by Parliament May 18 at the urging of feminists and with support ranging from Communists on the left to the Liberal Party on the right. The Vatican and the ruling Christian Democratic Party vigorously opposed the law, one of the most liberal in Europe.

It permits free abortions on demand to women aged 18 or over in the first 90 days of pregnancy. The law supersedes a Fascist-era statute which barred abortion in order to protect "the purity of the Italian race" but which, abortion proponents said, gave rise to an estimated one million illegal operations a year.

The new law faces at least four obstacles:

-Reluctant doctors. Doctors who refuse to perform abortions on moral or religious grounds have 30 days to register as objectors with municipal health authorities. The Rome Medical Association predicted 90 percent of the doctors in the metropolitan area eventually would register.

"To perform abortion goes against my principles as a believer," said Prof. Piero Pesando, head of the gynecology section at the public hospital in Ivrea, northern Italy. "I won't attempt to stop it if my assistants want to perform it, but I won't do it personally. I can't kill a human life even if the law authorizes it."

-Church opposition. Pope Paul VI has deplored abortion as an "abominable crime." His protege, Cardinal Giovanni Benelli of Florence, said abortion is a "mortal sin" and everyone involved in one - the pregnant woman, the man in the case, the doctor and the nurses - will be excommunicated.

-The possibility of a repeal referendum. The Italian Bishops Conference declared, "The Church has not resigned itself," and the Movement for Life, a non-denominational group which collected one million signatures on an anti-abortion petition prior to the law's passage, vowed to use all constitutional means to overturn it.

A petition with 500,000 voter signatures would be enough to force a referendum on repeal, similar to the one that followed the legalization of divorce four years ago. But the divorce law was upheld by a 3-2 margin.

-Hospital space availability. The law specifies that abortions must be performed in established hospitals or general clinics, ruling out development of a system of abortion clinics. Because one-fourth of Italy's hospitals are run by the church, which has announced it will close them to abortions, and beds are at a premium in other hospitals, feminist organizations estimate that less than 320 beds a day are available in all of Rome for abortions.

That is 150 less than the estimated number of daily clandestine abortions.

Military Bands Changing Tunes

SAN ANTONIO (AP) - With recruiting in mind nowadays, the military bands from Lackland Air Force Base are picking Waylon Jennings tunes and belting out Rolling Stones songs. It's almost enough to make John Phillip Sousa turn cartwheels in his grave.

The innovative Air Force Band of the West has largely abandoned the brassy marches and classical concerts that has been the standard fare of military bands, turning instead to specialized bands playing rock, country and classical music.

"Like most military bands, we were playing music to satisfy ourselves. If we were going to stay in business and support Air Force recruiting, we had to adjust to what our audiences wanted," said Maj. Duane Hoff, band commander and director.

The adjustment was well-calculated, according to Air Force figures from Washington, because the groups are the Air Force's busiest, giving 896 performances last year. Their average of 74.7 performances per month topped the nearest competitor by 16.4 per month.

Hoff said it was the first time specialized bands had been used in military music. "Air Force bands had always used all of their musicians at once to play music that the audience probably wasn't very interested in," he added.

The Country Critters, formed in 1972, was the first such specialized group.

"We're located in the heartland of country music and we had some very talented country musicians in the band," said Hoff. "It was accepted immediately by our audiences. We kenw we had hit on the way to increase our productivity and exposure without increasing our costs.

The Country Critters, wearing an authorized Air Force uniform that includes jeans, cowboy boots, hats and colorful shirts, have played with such country and western stars as Freddy Fender, Ferlin Husky, Roy Clark and Johnny Rodriguez.

Traveling in special buses like many other country groups, the Country Critters have played on local and national radio and television shows, at state fairs and at Opryland in Nashville, Tenn. In one year, they played live to 2.5 million persons and on radio and television to an estimated audience of more than 14 million.

Hoff said that type of exposure is vital to recruiting for an all-volunteer force. "I'm not sure how it works," he said.

Sentence Probated

The $200 fine and 30-day jail sentence Albert Ozuna received last week in county court was yesterday set aside and probated.

The Crosbyton man's sentence was altered Monday to a $200 fine and a 30-day jail term, probated for 180 days.

Ozuna was charged with misdemeanor possession of marijuana.

THANK YOU

I would like to say thank you to all those who supported Dusty Rhodes in his campaign for U.S. Representative from the 17th district. Working as Dusty's campaign coordinator in Scurry County has given me the opportunity to meet many people from throughout the district and I have gained a new understanding of the many jobs that are done by volunteers to keep a campaign rolling. Dusty joins me in expressing appreciation to all those people.

Government, from the local level to the national level, involves each of us every day. I would like to urge that more people get involved in working to elect the people best qualified. We all have lot at stake.

Warner Going Back To Farm With Liz

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) - It's back to the farm for John Warner after his near miss at grabbing the Republican nomination for U.S. senator from Virginia in his first foray into elective politics.

But it will be a welcome rest after more than seven years on the road, first as a federal official and in the last 18 months campaigning for the Senate with his glamorous wife, actress Elizabeth Taylor.

On Monday, Warner was cutting alfalfa on his northern Virginia farm, but he also was laying plans to do some GOP fund-raising and hoping to enjoy a bit more time with his wife.

"We're a team in politics and everything we do," he said.

But Warner added that "we'll cut the tempo of travel down."

"I stopped to calculate that I've been traveling and campaigning for 7½ years, counting my time as secretary of the Navy, as administrator of the Bicentennial Administration and the last 18 months as a candidate," he said.

"We'd like to relax a little and sort of resume our honeymoon."

In his campaign to succeed retiring Sen. William Scott, R-Va., Warner was edged out for the GOP senatorial nomination by Richard Obenshain, a former co-chairman of the Republican National Committee.

But it took Obenshain, a well-entrenched figure in the state party, six ballots to turn back the political newcomer. Obenshain won with 1,579 votes - 38 more than he needed for the nomination.

At Warner's urging, the nomination was made unanimous, and at a Sunday reception he gave Obenshain a $500 contribution to show he was "putting my money where my mouth is."

But, Warner reflected Monday, it was "so close, when you figure that if about 18 people had switched their votes, I would have been nominated."

Warner said he does not know what his political future is, despite his strong showing at the convention.

"Those opportunities one doesn't sit down and plot them out. They develop or they don't develop," he said. "This was a particular time for me. I came off a long, if you will, on-the-job training course of public service."

But on Monday, his mind was on cutting that alfalfa in the fields of his Atoka Farm in Fauquier County.

"We've got the prettiest crop of alfalfa hay I've seen here in three years," he said.

"Liz went out on the farm with me a little bit, but then came on back and started fussing around the house ... We haven't spent much time here since we got married. We've been traveling and campaigning."

The Warners were married Dec. 4, 1976.

Your Birthday

June 7, 1978

Breaks and opportunities to advance your financial position could pop out of the blue for you this coming year. However, they're intended solely for you. If you try to bring in others, they won't work.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't let a well-meaning friend prevent you from taking advantage of an unusual opportunity that may pop up today. This lucky break won't be here tomorrow. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Spur-of-the moment happenings will turn out to be the most exciting and fun today. Keep your schedule flexible or you might feel neglected if you're left behind.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You could end up foundering today if you listen to others while ignoring your own intuitive feelings regarding things of a domestic nature.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take your mind off your career or other weighty matters today. Do something entertaining, different and totally unrelated to your worldly concerns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Self-doubts should be given second place in your life today. Lady Luck is waiting to pull a few strings for you if she knows she has your trust.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Seriously consider more progressive methods today, rather than adhere to routines for sentimental reasons. Old patterns may be hard to break, but perhaps they should be discarded.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you sense someone is trying to put something over on you today, ask probing questions. Facts will only be revealed through pointed inquiry.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Keep complaints to yourself today. You'll be amazed how quickly others will spot your annoyance and seek ways to alleviate it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A bonus for a job well done may be bestowed upon you today. Someone who has never been a true ally might try to spoil it out of envy.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Jump at the chance to do something different today, as Dame Fortune will have her hand in it. There is nothing so important that it can't be done tomorrow.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Getting yourself in a frenzy over unexpected disruptions today will solve nothing. Try flowing with events. You'll have quite a happy time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) To become careless with possessions or indifferent with work because something more interesting comes along would be a costly mistake.

GALE E. TITUS

New Manager At Forrest Lumber Co.

Forrest Lumber Company, 2109 25th Street, has a new manager. Gale E. Titus was transferred from his position as assistant general manager at Forrest Lumber Company in Lubbock to head up the store in Snyder.

Titus and his wife, Beth, have three children, Eddie, 10, Chris, 6, and Stacy, 3. The family hopes to be settled into a home in Snyder by the end of June.

Titus says the store will have some remodeling done in the near future. Other than that, there will be few changes, he reports.

"I hope to maintain the same personnel in the store," he said. "They are doing a good job and are helping me as I orient myself to the Snyder business community and get aquainted with the people of Snyder."

Forrest Lumber also has a new bookkeeper. Bob McGee is also from Lubbock and will be making his home in Snyder.

Ulcer medicine

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in your column about Tagamet being available in the United States. My son is 24 years old and has had a duodenal ulcer for at least four years. I suppose because he is a worrier (inherited from me). He is an accountant and just finished getting his masters degree. Is his ulcer the same as a peptic ulcer?

I would appreciate it if you would send me some information about this new treatment.

DEAR READER — Tagamet, also known as cimetidine, is being used extensively in the treatment of peptic ulcer. By the way duodenal ulcers are one form of peptic ulcer. A peptic ulcer can occur in either the duodenum, which is the first part of the intestine just outside the stomach, or inside the stomach itself. Most ulcers, even if they are called stomach ulcers, are really duodenal ulcers.

Tagamet has a different action from antacids. Basically it inhibits the stomach's ability to form excess amounts of acid rather than neutralizing the overproduction of acids. It was used extensively in England before it was approved in this country and received good reviews there.

I'm certain that your son's doctor knows all about it since Tagamet has been the subject of a heavy promotional campaign both in the lay and medical press. In fact I have seldom seen a medicine given so much promotion and publicity. Perhaps because of this it received unusually rapid approval from the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). Ordinarily the FDA is rather cautious about approving new medicines until they have been completely evaluated by scientists in the United States.

While it appears that the drug has a very good place in medicine and probably has few side effects, there have been a few warnings. One of these is a suggestion by a Baltimore physician that Tagamet might affect the bone marrow and its ability to produce blood cells. This was discounted by the pharmaceutical firm marketing Tagamet.

However, the doctor's suggestion as published in Lancet Medical Journal raises some questions about how thoroughly the adverse effects of Tagamet have been studied. An earlier question about Tagamet concerned its role in the cause of tumors in rats. However, this data was reviewed by the FDA before they approved the drug for public use. It has also been reported in Lancet that Tagamet was ineffective in stopping bleeding, a complication of peptic ulcers.

I am a bit concerned about the way many medicines produced by drug companies are studied before marketing. Often the scientists and laboratories involved are not totally without bias as often they are investigators one way or another for the drug company involved.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-5, Ulcers: Duodenal, Stomach, which will give you the basic information about ulcers. Others who are interested in this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Tagamet or other medicines are not a substitute for proper living which is essential to the management of all peptic ulcer cases. That includes removal of stress and the eliminations of ulcerogenic habits such as the use of coffee, alcohol and smoking cigarettes.

Army Couple To Germany

Spec. 5 Larry O. Miles and Spec. 4 Linda M. Miles reported to Mainf, Germany, on April 23 for a three year tour. Their four-year-old son, Larry Gene, accompanied them.

Miles is a Nike-Hercules missile radar repairman and has served over six years in the U.S. Army. Mrs. Miles is a personnel management specialist and has served over two years in the U.S. Army.

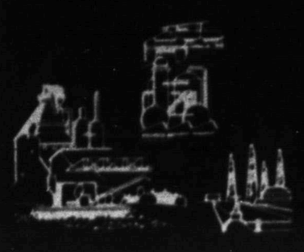

This is Miles' second tour of Germany. He also served a short tour in Korea.

Mrs. Miles is serving her first overseas tour.

The Mileses were married April 1, 1977, while they were at their last duty station in Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

Miles is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Miles of Snyder and Mrs. Miles is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Vajcner Sr., of Monroe, Mich.

A space telescope to be orbited above earth in 1983 will be aimed and held steady with a perfection roughly equivalent to a marksman in Boston zeroing in on a dime in Washington, D.C., and then keeping the target motionless in the sights for 30 to 40 hours, according to National Geographic.

Snyder Book Store Has Special Table Of Gifts For Fathers

Wives and mothers, if you have been wondering what to get that man in your life for Father's Day, then you should consider something from Snyder Book Store.

A gift from Snyder Book Store is one that is sure to last. To help in your selection, Betty Shelburne, owner, has arranged a special table of gift ideas for sons, fathers and grandfathers. It includes books on history, Texana, humor, inspiration, and intrigue. There are desk accessories, Bibles, dictionaries, and Father's Day cards.

To help make the gift selection complete, Mrs. Shelburne will gift wrap or imprint his name on the cover for free if the gift is over $10.

Soon to be the most important people in many homes this summer are the brides. This is probably the busiest time of year for weddings but Mrs. Shelburne is prepared to help make your special occasion just right.

Snyder Book Store has just about everything for the bride except the cake and the dress. She has cake ornaments, bride's books, feather pins, serving sets, photo albums and just about everything you will need for the perfect wedding.

Snyder Book Store is also known for its rental items. Just call Mrs. Shelburne and make plans to rent table clothes, crystal, coffee service, flat silverware or other items for that formal occasion.

Also for brides is a wide variety of invitation choices and all the paper products you would need to complete your wedding or anniversary.

It is also important to note that Snyder Book Store has a number of translations of the Bible including the new Parallel Bible which includes four translations. The new Open Bible clarifies the meaning of many passages without changing the King James version.

They also have a large number of Spanish Bibles and books at Snyder Book Store located at 3902 College Ave. or phone 573-6447.

FATHER'S DAY IDEAS- Mrs. Betty Shelburne of Snyder Book Store looks over the special display of gift ideas for Father's Day. Snyder Book Store is known throughout Snyder for its gift ideas and complete bride's section. It is located next to Lota Burger on College Ave.

NEW WRECKER AND MINI KARTS — Owners Jimmy Farmer and Stanley Clark stand by the new wrecker which is used in their new wrecker service.

Carley Clark, Stanley's son, is shown inside one of the many mini-karts on display at Bill's Auto.

Bill's Auto Salvage Offers 24-Hour Wrecker Service Now

Jimmy Farmer and Stanley Clark have formed a new partnership in conjunction with Alert Wrecker Service, located at the traffic circle and the East Highway.

Alert Wrecker Service offers 24-hour service and emergency road service. Alert is also on city call for wrecker service.

With three vehicles on standby, Alert can handle your wrecker needs when you need them. Call 573-9331 during the daytime or 573-2714 or 573-3727 nights. They can also be reached by contacting the Snyder Police Department.

In addition to a new wrecker service they also offer the newest in small cars, mini-karts, designed for youngsters and all ages. They have received a new shipment of mini-karts with new body styles.

Jimmy said the next two weeks will see a special price on the karts as he offers an "out-of-school" special. They will be $525.00 on sale from the retail price of $595.00.

Farmer and Clark are also partners in the used car business. Currently on the lot for sale are: '77 Corvette, '75 Ford pickup four-wheel drive crew cab, '73 Chevy four-wheel drive pickup, '75 Chevy crew cab one-ton, '76 Lincoln Mark IV, '77 Caprice Classic, '73 Grand Prix, and a '32 Ford Custom pickup.

Jimmy has 25 acres of junked cars from which used and road-tested parts can be picked from.

Remember, whether it be used cars, used car parts or emergency wrecker service, you can trust Jimmy Farmer and Stanley Clark for their best in customer service at East Highway and the Traffic Circle.
