Hitler's New Chancellery Is Hit Hard

Tortured Capital Has Worst Night Of New Campaign

BY GLADWIN HILL,
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 3—Berlin, the RAF's first target for 1944, was given its second seething bath of fire and bombs of the new year today by British airmen who delivered their 100th great blow against the charred capital.

The newest attack came while fires still were burning from a

CHANCELLERY DEMOLISHED

LONDON, Jan. 3 (U.P.) — The Royal Air force, striking its second straight blow at Berlin, sent more than 1,000 tons of explosives crashing down on the blazing Nazi capital early today, and authoritative reports from Sweden said Adolf Hitler's reichschancellery was virtually demolished in the attack.

The big office building had a concrete roof nine feet thick that the Nazis believed was immune to anything except possibly a direct hit by a super-block buster.

Hundreds of the black-winged night bombers swarmed over the city in one of the briefest and most concentrated assaults of the war, and an Air ministry announcement revealed that at the height of the raid bombs were falling at the rate of 70 tons a minute.

1,000-ton or bigger assault that was made early Sunday and while German rescue workers still were digging dead and injured from the ruins.

The Air ministry, describing today's attack as "heavy," said 28 aircraft were lost in the Berlin raid, Mosquito stabs in western Germany and northern France and minelaying operations in enemy waters.

Two large concentrations of fire were left roaring in the city the communique said, and Swedish dispatches declared the tortured German capital had had its worst night since the "destroy Berlin" campaign began Nov. 18.

Nice Suburbs Attacked

At the same time the Vichy radio said the suburbs of Nice in southern France had been attacked by British or American planes. The broadcast gave no date for the attack, however.

About 21 hours elapsed between the two attacks on Berlin, but Swedish correspondents said the menace of delayed action bombs had kept residents of the city in shelters until 3 p.m. yesterday and that less than eight hours later the sirens were shrieking again. The main blow fell several hours later however.

Berlin has now received up-

Solon Suggests New Tax Plan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. (AP)—A major legislative operation designed to make it unnecessary for millions of persons to file any federal income tax returns at all was proposed today by Rep. Carlson (R-Kans). Most income taxes would be deducted automatically from wages and salaries under his plan.

"The Kansan, a member of the tax-initiating ways and means committee and author of the Ruml pay-as-you-go bill, described present revenue statutes as "a hodgepodge of language that can not be correctly and definitely interpreted by a Philadelphia lawyer."

Has Three Suggestions

Declaring simplification to be "the No. 1 tax job" for 1944, he inserted in the congressional record his own suggestions for remedy, as follows:

1. Simplify and improve current withholding provisions so as to eliminate the need for any returns to be filed by 30,000,000 of the 40,000,000 to 50,000,000 taxpayers. "This could be done by adopting a graduated withholding from wages and salaries," he said, "and at the same time allowing a percentage of income exemption" in lieu of the present deductions for other taxes paid, interest and contributions to churches and charity.

2. Combine existing personal income tax laws into one base and

Cab Operators To Cooperate

Safer Driving Of Taxis Planned

BY H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

Operators of the four taxicab companies serving Lubbock pledged their cooperation to the city commission this morning in a campaign in behalf of safer driving of taxicabs.

Furthermore, the operators agreed upon the need for such a campaign, and commended members of the city commission for their efforts in the matter.

"The operators need this evidence that the city is behind them when they demand that their drivers observe traffic regulations," commented Ray Farmer, a partner in the ownership and operation of the City and Bryant cab companies. "The action of the city commission gives the operator a sort of club to use in dealing with drivers who drive recklessly."

Other Operators Present

The operators present, additional to Farmer, were Clif Cocanougher, manager of City Cab company; Walter Jay, manager of Bryant Cab company; Ed C. Abbott, operator of Yellow Cab company; and E. G. Abbott, operator of Domino Cab company.

Present for the city were Mayor Carl E. Slaton; Commissioners J. O. Jones, who is police commissioner, and Garland Newsom; City Manager Marlin R. Smith, jr., and City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley.

The general plan agreed upon to enforce more careful driving includes the following:

1. Cab company operators are to keep police supplied with up-to-date lists of their drivers.

Rules To Be Devised

2. Rules will be devised under which a taxicab driver will be asked, after a given number of traffic offenses, to surrender his license voluntarily for a given period of time. If he refuses to surrender it, then steps will be taken to have his license cancelled. These regulations are to be worked out by Police Chief Don Reeder, City Traffic Sgt. Lewis Kittrell, Police Commissioner Jones, the city manager and the operators. In some instances, involving serious offenses, one violation will be grounds for suspension of license. In others less serious, two or three violations may be allowed before a suspension.

3. Police are to keep operators informed of drivers named in traffic complaints. It often happens now, it was explained, that the driver simply pays his fine, and the operator never knows any-

Lubbock Pilot One Of First To Land On Jungle Field

WITH UNITED STATES FORCES ON BOUGAINVILLE, Jan. 3 (AP) — Carved out of heavy jungle at the base of the fuming volcano, Mount Bagana, a 6,500-foot field for light and medium bombers is now in operation in these northern Solomons.

WOOD

It is within less than 250 miles of Rabaul and only 850 miles from Japan's mighty naval base of Truk. Called Piva field after the river village of that name, it was built with dis-regard of danger from enemy bombing and ground patrols. It was dedicated Christmas day.

When ten big C-47 transport planes roared in over the field to deliver the first airborne load of bombs from a Solomon base, Marine Col. William K. Pottinger, Hillsboro, Tex., commander of Bougainville air operations, called: "Thanks for the bombs, boys."

Pilots making the initial landings included Lts. James W. Smith, Donald Zedler, and Urban Couvillion, all of Houston, Tex.; Orion G. Wood, Lubbock, Tex.; and Kenneth Kidd, Mason, Tex.

Mahon, Here, Sees Victory Over Nazis In '44; Defeat Of Japanese Before 1946

Congressman George H. Mahon, in Lubbock for a two-and-one-half day visit, said here this morning:

1. The European side of the war will end "sometime in 1944" with complete victory for the United Nations;

2. The Japanese phase of the conflict will carry on for about a year following the victory in Europe with defeat of the Nipponese;

3. Congress will do everything it can to co-operate with the individual states to permit uniformed citizens, at home and abroad, to vote in this year's national elections, and,

4. He is a candidate for re-election.

The tall, dark representative has been in Texas about a week, having left Washington on December 26, going directly to his father's Mitchell county farm where he spent the holiday season with members of his family. He arrived in Lubbock late Sunday and will leave here Wednesday afternoon, going back to Washington via Mitchell county, to say goodbye to his father, J. K. Mahon, now 83, and to brothers and sisters farming in that area.

Family In Washington

While in Lubbock, Mahon will attend to various official business and had several appointments set for today with constituents residing here and in adjacent areas. Mrs. Mahon and their teen-age daughter, Daphne, did not accompany the representative home.

Ired at recent strikes and threats of strike, Mahon expressed an opinion identical with that of the great majority of his constituents in his 25-county district: "A law with teeth in it should prevent wartime strikes." However, he is not optimistic over the passage of such legislation despite reports from Washington that numerous

Boris' six-year-old son, Simeon II, succeeded to the throne under the regency after his father's death.

Big Nazi Plants Are Damaged By Raids

Opposition On Beaches Light

Landings Threaten To Isolate Japs

BY MORRIE LANDSBERG
Associated Press War Editor

American landings at Saidor on the jungle-lined north coast of New Guinea pointed a serious threat today at Japanese security along the sea lanes leading to enemy island fortresses that stand between the advancing Allies and the Philippines.

Midwestern units of the 32nd infantry division landed without opposition at three Saidor beaches at dawn Sunday and quickly overcame slight resistance which developed after the veterans of earlier New Guinea campaigns had dug in around the captured airfield.

Have Firm Hold

"The harbor and airfields are in our firm grasp," said the communique telling of General MacArthur's third blow at the Japanese in 18 days.

A fight with the Japanese was in prospect, however, for the latest landings placed the American Sixth Army troops only 55 miles southeast of Madang, big enemy air and supply base on Astrolabe bay.

The landings, carried out with the support of heavy naval and air bombardments, threatened to isolate a considerable number of Japanese who have been falling back for weeks under prodding by Australian forces. One Aussie unit has moved beyond Blucher point, 30 miles north of Allied-held Finschhafen which in turn is 115 airline miles from Madang. Another force driving up the Ramu valley is less than 35 miles from Madang, but a rugged mountain range separates it from the Saidor beachhead.

Japanese Barge Sunk

American Marines on Cape Gloucester, New Britain, enlarged their 10-day old beachheads, while patrols made contact with the enemy south of the seized airdrome, and a Japanese barge attempting to sneak into Borgen bay was sunk. The count on enemy dead has gone over the 1000 mark.

The Gloucester and Saidor operations gave the Allies a foothold on both sides of the Vitiaz straits that lead to Truk and other Japanese bases in the Caroline

Canadians Now In Artillery Range Of Port

Troops Fight Way To Within Nine Miles Of Pescara

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 3. (AP)—Heavy fighting raged north of Ortona where Canadian troops have fought their way to within nine miles and artillery range of the strategic Adriatic port of Pescara, Allied headquarters announced today.

Rain, snow and high winds limited ground operations elsewhere in Italy to patrolling, but strong forces of medium bombers attacked rail communications at Taggia, Ventimiglia and Arma Riva on the Italian Riviera yesterday, while other medium bombers attacked the rail yards at Terni, 49 miles northeast of Rome, causing explosions and fires.

Damage Is Widespread

An air communique said fighters and fighter bombers caused "widespread damage" in sweeps against motor transports and rolling stock on roads in the battle area.

Two Allied aircraft were lost in the operations.

As an official Allied statement said the Germans were showing signs of exhaustion after throwing divisions piece-meal into the battle for Italy, the Allied Fifth Army gathered strength for a drive on Cassino and the road to Rome. British troops of the Fifth Army, it was announced, made a new bold foray across the Garigliano river, penetrating to Castel Forte and then withdrawing.

War Of Attrition

The Germans "are waging a war of attrition, but the attrition has been heavier on their side," said an official review of the fighting in Italy. "Some German divisions have suffered such heavy casualties, sometimes up to 50 per cent, that they have been unable to stay in the line more than two weeks."

As one of the worst snow, wind and sleet storms of the Italian campaign raged on the Eighth Army front, Canadian troops captured San Tommaso, two miles west of Ortona, it was announced yesterday.

Canadian Troops Advance

Canadian troops advanced to within nine miles of Pescara, from which an important lateral road leads to Rome, after fighting a

Curley Faces New Indictment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP) — Representative James M. Curley (D-Mass) was indicted for a second time today by a federal grand jury here in connection with the operation of Engineers' group, Inc., described by the department of justice as "a government war contracts brokerage racket."

In addition to Curley, three-term mayor of Boston, former governor of Massachusetts and now the state's Democratic committeeman, the indictment named six dependents, five them previously indicted. The new defendant is David E. Desmond, Boston, described as a salesman for Engineers' group, Inc.

Contains 16 Counts

The indictment, alleging violation of the mail fraud statute, contains 16 counts.

All the defendants except Desmond were indicted on identical charges September 16, 1943, but the indictment was set aside November 1 on the technical grounds that the order impaneling the grand jury had not been signed by the chief justice or the senior associate justice of the District of Columbia federal court.

Postal Receipts In City Set New Record

Lubbock postal receipts set a new all-time record in 1943, increasing approximately $60,000 over the 1942 total, Postmaster Amos Howard revealed today.

Receipts for 1943 totaled $373,213.94 compared to $313,343.63 in 1942.

December's receipts totaled $45,170.36 to bring the year's last quarter to a total of $115,289.16. December, 1942, receipts were $43,546.05.

Increase in the receipts for an average of $5,000 each month kept Postmaster Howard's record of increased receipts unbroken. In the nearly nine years he has been postmaster, the receipts have shown a steady increase month by month over the same month the year before. Not a single month has shown a decrease.

Poll Shows Civilian Automobile Transportation Near Breakdown

Only 30,000 To 40,000 New Cars Are Left In Rationing Stockpile; More Woe Seen In '44

BY PETER EDSON
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—The shortage of spare parts and the difficulty of obtaining repairs on civilian passenger automobiles is getting more and more serious, but civilian auto transportation isn't at the breakdown point yet.

This is the conclusion obtained from a nation-wide consumer requirements survey just completed by the Office of Civilian Requirements division of the War Production board. It is the first definite information on this subject to be obtained, everything previous having been based on guesswork or spotty local checks. This OCR survey was a scientific sampling of 4937 families in 68 communities of 120 counties, conducted during the second week of November by the U. S. Census bureau in the most advanced poll-taking technique, making it as accurate as any such survey can be. The information it contains will be used in figuring what to do about civilian shortages in the coming year.

EDSON

The survey showed the parts and repair situation to be worst in the far west, easiest in the east.

On the average civilian's experience in trying to obtain services, difficulty in obtaining auto repair work was the sixth most frequently reported, being exceeded only by difficulty in, obtaining shoe repair, dry cleaning, laundry service, radio repair and watch and clock repair. Trouble in obtaining tire recapping service was reported tenth on the list and difficultly in obtaining tube repair was thirteenth.

SCIENTIFIC SAMPLING

NUMERICALLY, of the 4937 families checked by the poll-takers, 930 reported having tried to get service within the previous two months. Of these, 351 reported no trouble, 517 reported trouble in obtaining service and 62 reportred trouble in obtaining spare parts. So scientific a sampling is this survey that the poll-takers believe it will give an accurate national picture of the auto repair situation if each of these numbers is multiplied by a factor of 7400, since one family out of approxi-

Ukraine Army's Arrival At Old Border Imminent

Key Rail Junction Imperiled 50 Miles From Rumanian Border; Whole German Line Crumbling Before Red Onslaught

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 3—Russia's triumphant first Ukraine army sped on today virtually in sight of old Poland following the capture of Poyaski, last main fortified stronghold on the Kiev-Warsaw railway 10 miles from the border.

The latest communique, announcing the capture of Poyaski, northwest of Korosten, placed the Red army 10 miles from the old frontier and disclosed that Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's first Ukrainian army had made a spurt of 17 miles in a day in some places—a pace which if continued in the Poyaski sector would put it inside old Poland today.

At the same time other units of the victorious First surged southwestward toward Zhmerinka, key rail junction on the Odessa-Warsaw rail line serving the lower Ukraine, less than 50 miles from the Rumanian frontier.

The whole German line from Korosten south to Berdichev appeared to be crumbling before the

RAIL CENTER CAPTURED

MOSCOW, Jan. 3 (AP) — Advance columns of Gen. Nikolai Vatutin's Ukrainian army have smashed into the approaches of Novograd Volynsk, railway center about 15 miles from the old Polish border and last important obstacle between the Soviet forces in the Zhitomir sector and the pre-war boundary.

(Farther to the north, in the drive northwest of Korosten, the latest communique broadcast from Moscow and recorded in London placed another Red army column within Poyaski, a railway town only 10 miles from the old Polish frontier).

unflagging Red army onslaught and the exhausted remnants of Gen. Fritz von Mannstein's once imposing army of 22 divisions were being slashed to ribbons.

The Russian communique told of tremendous stores of Nazi war material being abandoned —fleets of tanks, parks of field guns, armored carriers, trucks, rolling stock and huge ammunition dumps —and reported that more than 4,000 Germans were killed yesterday on this front alone.

Prison cages behind the Russian lines were filled to overflowing with "long lines of German prisoners, underfed and grey from privations, and many suffering from frostbite," a Moscow broadcast said in emphasizing the desperate plight of the retresting Nazis.

U. S. Destroyer Explodes, Sinks

At Least 168 Men Known Survivors

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Jan. 3—A United States destroyer sank in lower New York bay today after an explosion of undetermined origin which shook many sections of the metropolitan area and awakened thousands before dawn.

There were at least 163 known survivors, including 108 injured. Fifty-four of them, many with third degree burns, were at the Army hospital at Fort Hancock, N. J.

There was no announcement regarding loss of life. The wartime complement of a destroyer, depending on type, varies from 150 to 300 men.

Men Blown Overside

The explosion, which occurred at 6:18 a. m. (EWT), as the ship, which anchored three hours earlier six miles northeast of Sandy Hook, N. J., was preparing to move, was so terrific, the Navy said, that men were blown overside.

The Third Naval district gave this description of the explosion:

"All communications on the ship were disrupted. The mast toppled, the bridge buckled and collapsed and one man said he saw the barrel of the forward five-inch gun go whirling through the air.

"Many men were blown overside into the water by the blast.

Was No Disorder

"There was no disorder and fire fighting companies were organized.

"After the blast engineers secured the number one boiler and left number four on to keep light power and steam up.

"The ship was ablaze forward and in the bridge. Fire fighters could get no closer than the number one stack.

"Survivors said she seemed to break in two under the number two gun turret."

Coast Guard craft went to the scene. One nosed into the side of the ship and ran lines aboard, the Navy said, taking survivors aboard their boats.

Ship Ordered Abandoned

The fire was fought until 7:05 a. m. when the ship was ordered abandoned.

"She went down soon after," the Navy said.

It was the first wartime sinking of a naval vessel so close to New York.

Gas For Pipeline To Bring High Price

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (AP)—The Tennessee Gas and Transmission company will pay a substantially greater price for natural gas it will transport to West Virginia than prevailing prices now paid for most gas in Texas, President Gardiner Symonds testified before a state Senate investigating committee today.

The committee heard Symonds as the first witness in a hearing which Chairman Houghton Brownlee explained was for determining the effect upon the welfare of Texas of the 1,188-mile line the Tennessee company is building under Federal Power commission and War Production board authority.

Symonds made a detailed statement as to capitalization of the company, its operating plans, conservation practices related to its gas purchases and uses to which it would be put when received in the Appalachian area and Assistant Attorney General Richard Fairchild led into questions on price.

Symonds said Tennessee Gas and Transmission was committed to purchase 216,000,000 cubic feet daily from the Chicago corporation, Tennessee's parent, in the Stratton-Agua Dulce field at 5 cents per thousand cubic feet for five years and at existing values thereafter for the 30-year term of the purchase contract.

Asked by a reporter whether it was a fair deduction that the President had been advancing to some degree the view subsequently replied:

"I don't know whether there is any relation or connection. One probably is a little bit more military than the other, you see. That is his responsibility, entirely and completely, and so is it the President's as commander-in-chief.

ITALY, Tex., Jan. 3 (AP)—This Ellis county town of 1,000 population proved again last year that it is a paradise for pedestrians and a bore for coroners.

There has never been an automobile death here. In 1943 there wasn't a single traffic accident. There were no homicides, either, and no suicides.

No man from Italy in the armed forces has been reported killed. Since the town was organized 67 years ago, no murder has been committed among the white population.

Three Gunmen Loot Houston Hotel Safe

HOUSTON, Jan. 3 (U.P.) — A trio of gunmen climaxed an early-hour spree of terroristic robbery here today by taking between $1,000 and $2,000 from the William Penn hotel.

Most of the money taken from the downtown hotel belonged to guests who had left it with the desk clerk for safekeeping.

It was the gunmens' third and final appearance reported to police. Earlier they had robbed a northside residence and a garage.

They spent about 10 minutes in the lobby of the hotel, brandishing pistols and terrorizing persons who walked in. Manager Louis Marchette set the content of the hotel safe, which was left bare, at between $1,000 and $2,000 and explained that most of the money belonged to guests.

After forcing three employes to lie down behind the desk and damaging the hotel switchboard in an attempt to destroy it, the robbers fled. A fourth man was believed waiting for them in a stolen car which they had pulled up to the curb before the hotel.

Council Plans Are Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP) — Senators Hatch (D-NM) and Ball (R-Minn) proposed today that the State department submit to Congress an outline of plans for the immediate formation of a United Nations council to carry out the post-war pledges of the Moscow conference.

The two senators, members of a team which led a Senate fight for strong international commitments before the adoption of the Connally post-war resolution, told a reporter they believed such action would force a showdown on foreign policy that might clarify that issue during the presidential campaign.

Time To Act Now

"It's time to get down to cases," Hatch declared. "Everybody is for the formation of an international organization to preserve the peace but the real test of their support of such a proposition will not come until some of the details are mapped out."

"We believe this could best be done by the formation of a United Nations council and the time to set up such an organization is now, before the problem is deposited on our doorstep by the end of the war," Ball said.

In Peace Resolution

The section of the Moscow agreement calling for establishment of the international organization was incorporated almost bodily in the Connally post-war peace resolution, but Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the foreign relations committee pointed out that the American, British, Russian and Chinese foreign office representatives had specified that the action was to be taken "at the earliest practicable date."

Connally said he doubted that date had arrived.

Two Negro Men Held In Burglary Cases

Two negro men were held by police today in connection with investigation into informal charges of burglary and robbery Sunday.

One of them, 24, allegedly broke into the house of Eddie Fletcher at rear of 1617 Avenue D, knocked Fletcher down, drew a knife on him and took from Fletcher 30 cents.

The other was said to have been arrested as a suspect into burglary of the Demon Thomas residence at 1011 Fifteenth street.

Someone entered the Thomas place by a bathroom window and prowled through dressers and other furnishings, taking a woman's watch, a man's suit, two pairs of trousers, a carton and a half of cigarets and a man's jacket.

Police wanted to question the suspect in connection with a burglary recently in Plainview, they also indicated.

Police transferred to county authorities Isadore Bustillos, 69, a Mexican found in possession of four cases of beer, and Willie Richardson, 26, a negro, for liquor law violation.

They also arrested six persons over the weekend for drunkenness, three for violation of the liquor curfew, one for Army officials.

Civilian Auto Transportation Near Breakdown

mately every 7400 families in the entire nation was interviewed for this survey.

Carrying out this calculation, the Office of Civilian Requirements comes up with the finding that in the survey period, 6.8 million auto owners tried to get service, 2.5 million got it all right, and 4.3 million had trouble.

Project those figures on the total number of passenger cars supposed to be still running and maybe it will give an idea of how serious this is.

At the beginning of the war there were 28 million cars on the road. Today, 24.5 million cars are supposed to be in service, 2.5 million having been scrapped and a million cars having been stored. And if 4.3 million of the car owners are having difficulty in getting repairs, that's more than one car out of every six. Degree of trouble is of course not indicated. It may be a forced wait to get a grease job, and therefore unimportant.

But these delays can easily become important, later. Of the 24.5 million cars on the road, 15 million are now over seven years old, which is a good long life for any jallopy. Office of Defense Transportation estimates there will be a million fewer cars on the road this time next year than there are today.

STOCKPILE DOWN

THEY could be replaced by forcing the million cars out of storage. The stockpile of new autos, being held for rationing to essential users such as doctors and police, is now down to between 30,000 and 40,000. When they're gone, the only hope for replacement would be to force sales by the estimated 4.5 million non-essential drivers still operating cars. The minimum number of autos needed for essential transportation of war workers is estimated at 20 million.

American Automobile Association reports it had 31 million road service calls in 1941 and 38 million calls in 1942. For 1943 it estimates the calls will number 40 million and will be up in 1944.

The dispatch said many of Tito's divisions now were commanded by Allied officers, presumably American and British.

New Year's Holiday Death Toll Is 242

(By The Associated Press)

The nation awoke from another gay New Year's weekend today to find violent accidents had taken at least 242 lives.

During 54 hours preceding last midnight 150 persons were reported killed in motor vehicle accidents, and 92 died in fires, drownings, gas poisonings and other mishaps.

Gasoline rationing and other factors was believed to have kept traffic deaths down considerably. The National Safety council estimated the normal automobile death toll for a three-day holiday period would have been at least 225.

Highest death toll for any state was that of California, where 39 persons were killed.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3 (AP)—A cargo plane overshot Mines field and crashed last night, killing three men and damaging three houses and a power line.

The falling craft crushed an automobile, decapitating its occupant, Louis E. Westphalen, 23, of suburban Lennox.

Francis A. Pluff, 35, Dallas, a civilian radio operator on the plane, was injured.

Slavs Occupy Half Of City

LONDON, Jan. 3 (AP) — Yugoslav partisans have occupied half of the city of Banjaluka, mining and agricultural city in central Bosnia and staff headquarters for the second German tank army entrusted with the defense of the Nazi-held Adriatic coast, the Yugoslav liberation army announced today.

Marshal Josip Broz' (Tito's) war bulletin, broadcast by the free Yugoslav radio and recorded by the Associated Press, declared that bloody fighting was raging in the streets of Banjaluka, and that many German officers and men have been taken prisoner.

The German garrison in Novo Mesto, 40 miles east of Zagreb in eastern Slovenia and 30 miles from the Italian border, also was being besieged, and Tito's communique said all German attempts to break out had failed.

Nazis Taken By Surprise

The attack on Banjaluka was launched late on New Year's eve and took the German garrison by surprise. The city lies 42 miles north of the town of Jajce, reportedly main headquarters of Marshal Tito's Army staff, and is the southern terminus of a military railway running from Zabreb to the Vrbas river.

The Yugoslav communique reported hard but inconclusive fighting throughout eastern Bosina, Hercegovina and Montenegro, with the partisans on the offensive in the two latter provinces.

The German high command Sunday claimed the capture of the island of Mljet off the Dalmatian coast in the Adriatic sea, in what was regarded as a renewed flurry of Nazi naval activity reflecting their nervousness over the possibility of an Allied Balkan invasion by that route.

There's a New Glow in Texas Skies Tonight

The men and women of this new Waco industrial unit take pride in the essential part they play in filling the nation's wartime needs. For glass containers, made of noncritical materials, are more important than ever in distributing products of all kinds to our armed forces and to the home front as well.

South of Waco, the Texas sky reflects the glow from the fiery furnaces of America's newest and most modern glass container plant.

Construction of the plant was started by Owens-Illinois before we entered the war. Now it goes into operation at a time when glass containers are more urgently needed than ever before for the transportation of vital products.

Serving industries of many kinds, this new Owens-Illinois glass container plant typifies the progress that has been made by the Southwest in enlarging its manufacturing facilities and adding further to its other great natural resources—agriculture, lumber, minerals and oil.

Throughout Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Louisiana, you can see almost daily new manufacturing and processing plants that are creating this essential part of the Southwest's economy—a new and vitalizing factor in its constantly growing prosperity. Some, such as dairies and beverage bottlers, serve their local areas. Others send their products into many states, near and far.

Owens-Illinois dedicates its new Waco plant to the service of industries in the Southwest. With them we share a deep-rooted confidence in the future of this great region.

Wild Scramble Due In Southwest Loop

Cage Race Opens Wednesday Night

(By The United Press)

Although there's a non-conference game on tap tonight, interest in Southwest conference cage circles today centered on Wednesday night, when the 1944 basketball campaign breaks from the tape in what promises to be one of the wildest scrambles in the loop's history.

Before the end of the week, every one of the seven teams will have seen conference action, with four of them — Southern Methodist, Baylor, Arkansas and Texas Christian — playing two games.

Texas Plays Bergstrom

Texas plays the non-title game tonight, meeting Bergstrom Field at Austin, and also plays the only other non-counter of the week, engaging Southwestern university at Austin Wednesday night.

The pre-season favorite, Arkansas, opens its campaign with a two-game series at Fayetteville against Texas Christian Friday and Saturday nights.

SMU and Texas A. & M. play at College Station Friday night, while SMU moves into Houston against Rice Saturday night and Baylor shifts to Austin to meet Texas.

In pre-conference games to date, Arkansas boasts the best record, winning five and losing two, both losses coming on a three-game swing through the East last week in which the strong Porkers won from City college of New York, but lost to Albright and Depaul.

Baylor wound up its practice schedule with three wins against two losses; Rice with three wins and four losses, SMU with two wins and three losses and TCU with three wins and six losses. Texas has won four and lost five to date, while the Aggies have not played any practice tilts.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 — Instead of making high-sounding speeches about post-war plans, pro football leaders are busy planning for the 1944 season, war or no war . . . The Boston club, which has nothing but a franchise, has hired Tillie Manton, the old T. C. U. and Dodger back, to scout for players; the Philly Eagles, who probably will split away from Pittsburgh, recently signed Marvin Bleeker, ex-Southern California fullback and Harry Thayer was looking for more prospects at Saturday's East-West game . . . and Owners George (Wetwash) Marshall of the Redskins and Harry Howren of the Norfolk Shamrocks have been talking over a 'farm' deal if the Dixie league operates . . . Howren, incidentally, reports that Atlanta and Birmingham are anxious to join the Dixie league.

PRIDE GOES FOR A RIDE

Charles L. "Bumpus" Jones, who celebrated his major league baseball debut in 1892 by pitching a no-hit game for Cincinnati against Pittsburgh —and never won another National league game — is even more famous among old timers for his wildness than for that singular record . . . On one occasion Bumpus, pitching for Toledo, gave 15 bases on balls but the scorer recorded only 14 . . . Jones was so steamed up about the omission that he visited the newspaper offices to rebuke the writers and then jumped the ball club.

TWIRLING THE DIALS

Ear witness impressions of Saturday's bowl games . . . Louisiana State's Steve Van Buren must be a whale of a football player, but what really won for the Tigers was their ability to intercept passes when the going was tough . . . What? Another touchdown in the Sugar Bowl? . . . Who's winning anyway? . . . If the war doesn't last too long, Glenn Dobbs is likely to make pro grid fans forget all about Sammy Baugh. He couldn't do much passing with a wet ball, but those 60 and 70 yard kicks must have been something . . . And Alvin Dark didn't do anything to contradict the folks who claim he was the best back in the South this season. Wonder if those Arkansas A. and M. Boll Weevils feel seedy? . . . Too bad the all-East team couldn't have borrowed Aram Ehramjian from Zeke Bonura's "Arab bowl" game and Georgia Tech's Ed Scharfschwerdt to team up with Hoernschemeyer and Sensanbaugher . . . The football broadcasters aren't always clear about the plays, but they seldom miss a substitution.

NATIONAL UMPIRE — Lynton "Dusty" Boggess (above) pauses for a thought while writing a letter in his hotel room at Dallas. He will be a National league Umpire next year, having just signed a contract sent him by the League's President, Ford Frick.

East Outplayed West, Statistics Show

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3. (AP)— East and West football squads battled to a 13 to 13 draw in the annual Shrine charity game Saturday but a second look at the statistics shows that the underdog easterners turned in a greater performance.

The East sparked by the great offensive play of Dean Sensanbaugher of Ohio State and Bob Hoernschemeyer of Indiana university, piled up 229 yards on the ground against a minus 15 for their opponents. The East made 15 first downs to the West's five.

The eastern team was on the offense most of the game, the last half of which was played in a heavy rain and on a slippery turf.

The contest served as a starring vehicle for comparative newcomers to the gridiron sport. Hoernschemeyer and Sensanbaugher are 18-year-olds with but one year of college football experience.

Herman Wedemeyer, 19-year-old freshman from St. Mary's college, was the outstanding performer for the West team. He tossed two touchdown passes.

APPLING MAY QUIT

CAMP LEE, Va., Jan. 3. (AP) — Luke Appling, American batting champion, who arrived at this quartermaster center for his basic training a few days ago, said he probably would not return to the major leagues as an active player after the war.

The nation's automotive plants have produced more than four billion dollars worth of airplanes, engines, and aero equipment in three years.

Spotlight Shifts To Basketball

Illinois Strong In Big Ten Loop

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. — With football having written its own seasonal obituary in the Jan. 1 bowl games, college basketball hops to the task of dominating the writer's sports pages.

While the business of determining the various conference champions is slated for the coming weeks, enough has transpired in preliminary games to indicate that Illinois again will be strong in the Big Ten, Kansas in the Big Six, Arkansas and Rice in the Southwest, Southern California in far West, Dartmouth in the East and Duke and Kentucky in the South.

Illinois, with five triumphs in six starts, tangles with Wisconsin tonight at Madison and the 1944 edition of the Whiz Kids apparently is well enough equipped to carry on the Illini pace of the past few years. Doug Mills' outfit was the first to down Great Lakes, 64 to 51, after the Sailors previously had won, 52 to 44.

Kansas, Oklahoma Favored

Kansas, winner of a Kansas City doubleheader, and Oklahoma, champion of the annual Oklahoma City tourney that listed the Oklahoma Aggies among the entrants, are top rated in the Big Six but Iowa State, now that Price Brookfield of recent West Texas State fame is a member, also is strong.

Probably the best team in the sprawling Middlewest is Depaul, owner of an 11-game winning streak that was climaxed Saturday with a 59 to 30 massacre of Arkansas, highly regarded Southwest circuit member.

Dartmouth already has conquered one of the major threats to its seventh straight eastern collegiate flag by dropping Pennsylvania, 54 to 48, and now regards Cornell, a 41 to 39 winner over Princeton, as its next big title obstacle. The New Hampshire five is the host to Columbia's spotty quintet Saturday.

Holiday Excursions

Duke and Kentucky, No. 1 teams in the Southern and Southeastern conferences, respectively, made holiday excursions to pick up experience for the flag races.

The Wildcats knocked off St. John's, national invitational king of 1943, by a 44 to 38 score in Madison Square Garden while Duke, although beaten in an overtime by Long Island university, 59 to 57, saw its Gordon Carver hike the season's individual scoring mark at the garden to 27 points.

On the west coast Southern California's Trojans are regarded as tops in the coast circuit until proven otherwise and Gonzaga's independent quintet also is powerful. The Spokane Bulldogs punished Washington, 76 to 39, for the Huskies worst court defeat in 20 years. Saturday they trimmed Washington State, 57 to 38.

Dopesters Take A Beating As Upsets Feature Bowl Games

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. (AP)—Whether it was Cpl. Jack "Shoeless" McKenna of Long Beach, Calif. scooting across the North African sand or Alvin Dark of Southwestern Louisiana Institute ploughing through the mud of Houston, Texas the baby new year has been welcomed with the traditional football bowl games.

Added starters to the usual coast-to-coast holiday schedule were the festivities involving G I. talent known as the Arab, Potato and Lily bowls in Oran, Algiers; Belfast, Ireland; and Hamilton, Bermuda.

Navy won the Bermuda battle, 19-0, Army triumphed in Africa, 10-7, and the two services played a scoreless tie in Ireland.

280,000 Watched Games

Over 280,000 watched the games in this country where the form players took a beating as two underdogs won, two others tied and only three favorites came through in seven starts.

Southern California made the dopesters look bad with a decisive 29-0 decision over previously unbeaten-untied Washington at Pasadena. Jim Hardy's feat of throwing three touchdown passes stole the show and tied Russ Saunders' 1930 Rose Bowl record against Pittsburgh. A crowd of 68,000 was on hand.

Steve Van Buren ran for two touchdowns, and passed for another as Louisiana State upset Texas Aggies 19-14 in the Orange Bowl before 27,000 and cancelled an early season loss to the same Texans.

Freshmen State Show

The favored western all-stars could get no better than a 13-13 tie with the underdog easterners in what simmered down to a flashy display of youthful freshman talent before 60,000 in San Francisco's benefit Shrine game. Herm Wedemeyer, Hawaii-born St. Mary's college ace, pitched for two scores for the West.

Texas managed to avoid being upset by holding Glen Dobbs to one touchdown pass and his Randolph Field eleven to a 7-7 tie at Dallas. Although 30,000 Cotton Bowl tickets were sold only 15,000 braved what Coach Dana X Bible called "the worst football weather I've ever seen."

Prokop's Performance Great

Georgia Tech was a winning favorite before the day's largest crowd, 69,000, in New Orleans but it took an inspired performance by Eddie Prokop and his mates to pull it out of the fire and beat Tulsa in the last quarter, 20-18. With the pro scouts in the stands, Prokop picked up 199 yards and averaged 6.9 yards per try in the Sugar Bowl.

Dark put on his show for Southwestern Louisiana and 12,000 at Houston where his club defeated Arkansas A. and M., 24-7, in the first Oil Bowl game. Dark scored a touchdown, threw for one, kicked a field goal and three extra points.

Southwestern of Texas had to come up with a last period pass to beat underdog New Mexico 7-0 to the astonishment of 18,000 in the Sun Bowl at El Paso. Southwestern had been expected to romp home.

Tuskegee Institute downed Clark college, 12-7, in the Vulcan bowl at Birmingham, Ala. and Allen blanked Winston-Salem Teachers, 33-0, in the Flower Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla.

Baseball Meet Is Due Soon

Post-War Plans Will Be Laid

BY JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 — One of the most important meetings in baseball history will be held sometime this month — probably about the 17th at Chicago—when the post-war planning committees of the major and minor leagues convene for the first time to consider the game's future set-up.

Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis will announce the date and site for the huddle in a day or so.

Chief items on the agenda will be: (1) procedure of return to the game for players now in the armed services, and (2) re-organization of the minor leagues.

Machinery Needed

Machinery must be set up soon to handle returning service players, some of whom already are trickling back because of physical disabilities. How shall the sport best absorb them after demobilization? Shall the current major league player limit of 25 and reserve list of 40 be increased for a period after demobilization? Or shall clubs be given a month or six weeks of grace in which to absorb or trade off each demobilized player? And shall a player automatically become a free agent if he gets no action from his club within a reasonable period after discharge or demobilization?

In this connection, there is an ultra-important question which may be handled by the meeting or by Landis personally. That is: what is the status of service-players whose contracts have been sold or otherwise disposed of after they entered the armed services? Many believe that Landis will rule such transfers of "frozen contracts" as illegal or at least unethical, and that he will declare said players free agents — at liberty to deal with any clubs they desire. This would be a blow to outfits that have bought up "pools" of frozen contracts.

Haegg Believes He Has Reached Peak

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 3 (AP) — Gunder Haegg, the Swedish distance ace who was named the No. 1 athlete of the year, is convinced that he has reached the peak of his career and won't break any more world records but today predicted that his fellow countryman, Arne Andersson, will be 1944's great track star.

Haegg says that he will not compete this year unless, perhaps, against the Hungarians or Danes.

It was Andersson who wiped out Haegg's mile standard with a 4:02.6 performance in the Swedish national festival at Goteborg while Gunder was touring the United States.

Two Negroes Held In Cafe Man's Death

WACO, Jan. 3. (AP)—Nash Oliver, assistant district attorney, said murder charges would be filed today against two negroes in the death of William H. Braswell, 45, cafe operator at McGregor.

Braswell was shot to death about midnight Saturday while en route home from his cafe. Officers said he apparently resisted a holdup, and that two negroes had made statements in connection with the case.

Funeral services will be held today and the body will be sent to Gainesville for burial.

Texas farmers, through cooperatives or other business organizations, own at least 453 manufacturing firms and processing plants.

TWENTY years on the same job sounds like a long time. But take it from The Plainsman, who today rounds out 20 years behind the Lubbock editorial desk, it doesn't seem like a long time, at all.

In fact, and in retrospect, it seems only last week—or, at the most, last year—that we swung off a bob-tail train and got our first view of Lubbock. Since that January day of 1924, the weeks, months and years have literally flown by.

It is only as we compare the Lubbock of today with the Lubbock of 1924 that we realize something of the changes time has wrought.

There were 6,500 people here in January of 1924, the chamber of commerce proudly claimed—and there may have been that many. But there are 42,000, or thereabouts, of us now and not 10 per cent of the people living in Lubbock today were here 20 years ago.

That means about 38,000 of us are newcomers of various degrees.

ABSENT today—at least from the posts they then filled—are nearly all of our original Northwest Texas editorial colleagues.

E. I. Hill, of Tahoka's Lynn County News, is still on deck. So is Homer Steen, of the Hesperian at Floydada. Herb Hilburn and Frank Grimes, of Plainview's Evening Herald and Abilene's Reporter-News, continue their good work while Andy Jack Stricklin, dean of the area's blue pencil wielders, like Old Man River, is still rolling along in the front office of Brownfield's Terry County Herald. Luther Watson, of the Nolan County News, at Sweetwater, also is still with us. But that's the crop of the hangers-on.

From Sweetwater to Dalhart and from the New Mexico line to Spur, none others of among 1924's editorial gentry are still at their original desks.

The change in the picture of downtown Lubbock tells a graphic story.

J. A. Hodges is still carrying on at his same job and in his same location. So are C. E. Maedgen and L. C. Ellis, if you don't hold against them a 60 or 70 foot move eastward from the northeast corner of Texas avenue (in 1924 Avenue D) and Main street. Hay Davidson is still another not yet rousted out, as are Drs. J. T. Krueger, J. W. Rollo, M. C. Overton, W. L. Baugh and Chas. J. Wagner. Dr. J. T. Hutchinson was here in 1924, of course, but his offices were in First National bank building, not in Lubbock General hospital, then Lubbock Sanitarium. C. E. Hunt, still superintendent there, was in his same post when we hit town. Walter Posey and O. L. Slaton were at First National bank 20 years ago today, but Mr. Posey then was vice-president instead of president, and Mr. Slaton was actively the president and now, as board chairman, spends only what time he chooses on the job. John Denman was at First National in January 1924 and still is. However, his work has been somewhat changed from time to time. L. C. Montgomery, the transfer and storage man, today continues to carry on, as he was doing in 1924 and has done since.

R. F. Bayless was Santa Fe agent that day we climbed off the train, too. He has been on the same job since 1915.

There are two lawyers still in their original locations. George R. Bean and E. L. Klett, then partners, were in Citizens National bank building, where they remain today, although not in exactly the same offices.

SMYLIE WILSON was, as he still is and has continued to be, the head of Western Windmill company but, we seem to remember, his firm has changed locations. W. C. Rylander and Neil Wright, we're almost positive, are the only remaining life insurance men still on the job and Mr. Rylander continues in the Conley building, where he was in January of '24. However, the present Conley building is only a little over 12 years old, its predecessor having been wrecked by fire.

Those hardy perennials of the Panhandle Construction company are still on the job, too. They are John Dalrymple and Bob Moxley. (Homer Grant came a little later.) Only pastor still doing business at the identical stand is Rev. Dr. Jack M. Lewis, of First Presbyterian church, who in those days was a pretty doggone good baseball player and caught in numerous games benefitting the milk and ice fund for needy children.

Otherwise, as far as we can remember, there is not a Lubbock business or professional man, who still holds the same job, in the same place, and has throughout the two decades since January of 24. The Plainsman is outside that category, too, since he worked first in an office at Fourteenth and Texas and later at Tenth and Texas, before moving to 1211-13 Texas.

A few—a very few—businesses continue in the same locations they were in 20 years ago today.

These include the banks, the Lyric theater and the Lindsey theater, which then was the R & R Lindsey. There were mercantile establishments, then, too, at the northwest and southeast intersections of Broadway and Texas, and at the northwest intersection of Broadway and Avenue J. The Levine location was the site of Barrier Brothers, largest mercantile firm in town at that time. However, none of those locations today house stores operated by the same management or ownership.

There was a hotel—the old Merrill—at the Hilton's location and the Lubbock Inn of that day now is the St. Francis. Andersons had a jewelry store here in January of '24, but in a different location from today. Rix's operated an undertaking business in connection with a furniture store, but Wallace Rix still lived in Big Spring and his brother, Jed, was running the business here.

Hemphill - Wells company, then Hemphill-Price, was in Lubbock and Jake Hassel is the only one of the store's executives who has remained through the years. That concern was operating in 1924 at the present Montgomery Ward location—which location, incidentally, has been occupied by one mercantile establishment or another ever since there was a Lubbock.

THERE was only one Jewish family in Lubbock 20 years ago today, the S. Replins. The few Catholics here drove through all kinds of weather, over a none-too-good dirt road, to Slaton to attend mass.

As best we can remember, the only three dentists still here who were local molar mechanics in 1924 are the Bloom brothers, Harry and Edgar, and Dr. R. B. Hutchinson. T. R. Prideaux was even then in the lumber business, as was W. B. Atkins, although Mr. Atkins at that time was manager for Higginbotham-Bartlett.

Only man still in an elective office and who has held that office throughout the 20 years is Dr. J. T. Hutchinson. He was president of the school board in 1924, still is and has been ever since. This year he will round out 30 years on the board, 25 of those years as president.

W. Ed Twitty was first fire chief, still is and has been all through the years. He has been a member of the fire department since 1909, and has been chief for the past 24 years. George T. Woulard, building custodian at the courthouse, is another connected with officialdom who has had two decades — 21, to be exact—in the same job.

The Plainsman came here on The Journal, a few weeks after that paper was established and before its machinery arrived. A weekly, The Journal was printed under contract in Amarillo and we used to go up each week to help get it out and bring the printed copies back on the train.

The Avalanche, however, was an oldtimer, even then, and two printers then on the job have stayed with the paper right on through. They are Alfred Eubanks and Anthony L. Borho. W. C. Edwards and Tim Stovall have been Lubbock printers for more than 20 years but briefly over the past two decades were in other employment.

MAYBE our memory has been dulled a little by the hurly-burly of 20 years on the job. If we've missed anybody we should have mentioned, we regret the oversight and ask to be informed of it.

But, anyhow, the last 20 years have been happy years spent among people unexcelled anywhere. For their innumerable acts and words of kindness, for their forebearance with his peccadilloes, The Plainsman is truly and sincerely grateful.

We came here as a kid of 21; feel like a kid of 21 today, and are looking forward to the conclusion of a second 20-year stretch when we expect—and hope to be—just a kid of 61!

The Doctor's Daughters

BY FAITH BALDWIN

(Copyright, 1943, NEA Service, Inc.)

THE STORY: When Jim Thompson becomes Doctor Hall's assistant, he joins the Hall household. Nancy Hall, spoiled and bored, is flattered by his attentions but cannot forget Drew Warner. Mrs. Hall would like Nancy to encourage wealthy Frank Edgar. Edgar, however, seems more interested in the other daughter, Emily, a Visiting Nurse intent on her job. Mrs. Hall sees Nancy and Jim go alone to his apartment over the garage.

CHAPTER XIV

Her voice was cool, controlled. Emily said, with an effort:

"I know. He expects a call, she went over to make him some coffee."

"I'm not going to be stuffy about it," said Millicent, "it doesn't make sense in this day and age. But I am very displeased with Nancy." She sighed. "I don't know what she's up to—a boy like that—mind you, I like Jim. He's charming, he's attractive, your father thinks the world of him even in this short time. But," and she set her full pink lips firmly, "I am not going to have Nancy encouraging him. It isn't fair to him if she doesn't mean it and if I thought she meant it—I don't know what I'd do!"

"Why?" asked Emily after a pause. She turned her face a little away so that it was in shadow.

"If it were you I wouldn't mind as much," said her mother, "you—I suppose you're cut out for that sort of life, you're like your father. But Nancy and I are alike. She would be miserable, married to a small town doctor, leading the sort of futile, boring life I've always led."

"You were in love with father," Emily reminded her, shortly.

"You're like him when you speak like that, I am," said Millicent and added surprisingly, "I still am. Why do you suppose I've stayed here all my life? I've wanted to break away often enough."

"But if you felt like that—why—?"

"Oh, you wouldn't understand," said Millicent impatiently. "Jim Thompson's a nice boy but he isn't—he can't compare with your father!"

Emily wanted to laugh, wanted to cry, wanted to hug this small, dissatisfied woman whose love for her husband remained stubborn and unalterable despite her disatisfaction and what she believed was her unhappiness.

"Nancy," said her mother, immediately, "is like me, as I've said. But this a different generation. More impatient, more restless. She'd never stick with Jim no matter how much she cared for him. And I don't believe that she does. This is just—amusing herself. If she cares for anyone—now—it's Frank Edgar, and he's perfectly suitable. They would be very happy together. I—I want you to realize that, Emily. I was distressed when I overheard you and Jim—"

"Just what do you want me to do?" asked Emily bluntly.

"You needn't do anything," said her mother carefully. "You needn't encourage Frank for one thing. If you don't, if he and Nancy are together a good deal for the rest of the summer—"

She rose, put the top back on the cold cream jar, moved toward the door.

"Wait a minute," said Emily, "what did you mean when you said you didn't think Nancy cared for anyone now—except Frank?"

Her mother turned.

"Your Aunt Martha wrote me," she said, "about a man on that last trip they took. Nancy has snapshots of him in her desk, I saw them. I saw a letter she started to him and tore up—"

"You read it!" asked Emily, aghast.

"Why not, she's my daughter," said Millicent. "I pieced it together. It was—hysterical. . . . Thank God, she didn't send it. The man," she added, "wasn't at all suitable; Martha made that clear. He's been married before, he has very little money and less reputation . . . You can imagine how grateful I felt when I realized that Frank was becoming interested in her. The letter said," she went on, "that if he would write her, Nancy would manage to go to New York and meet him. Now perhaps you understand why I've been nearly crazy with worry. I haven't spoken to her, I know better than that. I can't tell your father. But I am telling you, Emily, because I want you to know how unhappy she's been—must have been to consider anything as insane — and how much I've counted on someone like Frank making her forget this Drew Warner."

"She's never spoken of him to me since she came home," said Emily, "or in any of her letters."

"She wouldn't," said Millicent. "I judged that, from what she wrote him . . . or meant to write him."

Emily said, "Perhaps she rewrote it."

"I watched," said her mother calmly, "I don't think she did. Besides, he isn't in New York now. I saw a clipping on Nancy's desk, Martha must have sent it. He's off on some woman's estate."

The door closed behind her.

At least, thought Emily, I've my orders. I know where I stand.

She felt the tears sting in her throat again. She thought, I must try to sleep. But she could not until she heard the office telephone ringing, in its impatient way, blurred by distance. It had been turned off in her father's bedroom but it would be ringing wildly and unceasingly in the garage apartment until answered.

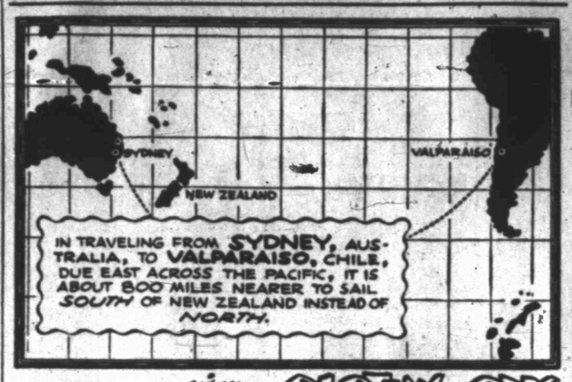

It stopped ringing.

A moment later she heard Nancy's step on the gravel and the back door closed. She heard the car snort out of the garage, turn and drive off down the street.

This Curious World

Today's Journal Editorial

A BANG-UP SELECTION

As much as we dislike to agree with the publishers of "Time" magazine about anything, we are impelled to applaud their selection of Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army, as the 1943 "man of the year."

Although frankly admitting that we long have been an enthusiastic admirer of General Marshall, and thus are biased on the subject, it is beyond us to see how any man could be placed ahead of him as THE "man of 1943."

Beyond any question, the most important nation to the world and to posterity during the year just past was the United States. More than was true of Great Britain, Russia, China or any other nation or group of nations, the fate of the world and of civilization rested during 1943 upon the broad shoulders of Uncle Sam.

And, of all the people in the United States, the most important and the most difficult job was that of General Marshall. It was the job of master-minding the training of the men, of getting them and their equipments to far-flung battle fronts, and of exercising the over-all supervision of fighting during the most critical stages of the global war. As the man doing the most important job in the most important nation, how could it have been honestly possible to choose anyone else as the man of the year?

For once, we must admit, "Time" magazine is right, which just helps to prove that, in this war, anything is liable to happen, and probably will!

Under The Lone Star

BY GORDON SHEARER

United Press Correspondent

AUSTIN, Jan. 3 (U.P.) — A new plan for paying state legislators is churning around in the mind of Rep. Augustine Celaya of Brownsville, and he may propose the idea for passage at the next regular legislative session in January, 1945.

Celaya believes that legislators should be paid directly by the districts which they represent. Salaries would be based on tax valuations in the districts. Celaya thinks maximum salaries of about $5,000 a year could be paid, with duties on a full-time basis.

In addition, the Brownsville legislator would forbid the state's lawmakers from practicing in any matter before state agencies, commissions and departments.

Celaya has not worked out details of his plan, but he believes the basic idea is superior to the present system of legislators being paid $10 a day during the 120-day session every two years, and $5 daily for an extended session.

Earlier Plan Fizzled

At the last legislative session, Rep. Charlie Pigg of Waxahachie offered a resolution providing salaries of $10 a day on an annual basis.

The resolution came to the floor several times and received some votes, but never enough to justify submission to the electorate.

While many people believe legislators should receive higher pay, the legislators themselves are skittish about voting it because it would be the opposite of a feather in their hats when seeking re-election.

Because their remuneration is fixed in the state constitution, any change in the method of payment of legislators must wait for a regular session of the state legislature and the next one will be in 1945.

IF Gov. Coke R. Stevenson finds it necessary to call a special session of the Texas Legislature to provide a method of soldier voting, there will be no scarcity of other topics proposed.

Already a clamor has been started in San Antonio for a new health code.

Rep. W. O. Reed of Dallas has announced that at the first opportunity he will propose a bill to make a county tax collector issue a receipt up to date, when all taxes are paid. Receipts now issued cover only the payment made. By looking at the records, Reed believes, the tax collector readily could ascertain if any back taxes were due. If not, he would have the receipt show all taxes paid to date.

Revised taxing of natural gas already has been under discussion as a result of the building of a gas pipe line from South Texas.

A method of state refinancing to relieve the state general fund of a part in supporting schools also is another discussed topic.

Same Old Racket

Capitol visitors show much interest in tiny carved elephants of solid ivory and colorful metal goblets which Lt. Henry H. Rogers sent his mother, Mrs. Daugherty from the China-Burma-India war theater.

Mrs. Daugherty is receptionist for the attorney general's department. But there was something else which struck her attention. Some of the gifts were packed in a copy of a newspaper, the Sind Observer, from Karachi, India, dated Aug. 31, 1943.

Printed in English, the newspaper had an editorial titled "Election Scurrility," which reminded several readers of some of Texas' famed political expressions.

In part, the editoral read: "Election campaigners without a good cause and bankrupt of brains find an easy way of provoking passions by traducing Hundus on their platform and painting their opponents as friends and slaves of Hindus and enemies of Islam . . . An intelligent electorate through experience is generally able to separate the chaff from the grain and to distinguish between a hired stump orator indulging in hysterics, bravado and communal mud-slinging, and a genuine man . . ."

"Politics is the same wherever you find it—even in India," one reader observed.

AMONG publications, possibly one of the newest is the "Lone Star," official publication of the 99th U. S. Naval construction battalion, which also bears the name "Lone Star" under official designation by Gov. Coke R. Stevenson.

Published on "Island X," where the naval Seabee unit is now stationed, volume 1, number 1, of the "Lone Star" reached here recently.

Managing editor of the six-page mimeographed publication is Lieut. Comdr. Ivan H. Morgan of Austin. Its editor is Tom E. Foster, SK3c, former publisher of the Kilgore Daily News, later absorbed by the Kilgore News-Herald, now owned by Navy, Lieut. Charles K. Devall.

In heralding its initial issue, the "Lone Star" says: "The sole purpose of the publication is to afford a few minutes of regular entertainment and relaxation to the officers and men of the best damn outfit that ever dropped anchor on Island X."

Texas Days Recalled

Seaman-Editor Foster contrasts launching of a privately-owned newspaper — possibly remembering when he founded the Kilgore paper in East Texas oil field boom days—and birth of the "Lone Star."

Writes Foster, "Here there is no whir of giant presses, or the noise and bustle of a busy editorial room . . . no flowers . . . no speech by the mayor to greet the first edition . . . no words of felicitations, and alas! no champagne to celebrate the venture with.

"Yes, it's different—with a one-man staff; a banged up typewriter and a second hand mimeograph machine for equipment . . ."

THE editor finds consolation, however, amid the woes of his new publication because "there are no doting society matrons to bow to; no irate readers threatening to cancel their subscriptions; no pressure from big advertisers; no deadline to goad one, and blessed be! no income tax to pay."

The "Lone Star" publicizes Movie Actress Susan Hayward as an honorary citizen of Texas. Her official certificate, issued by Governor Stevenson, "was presented to the titian haired 'Queen Bee' by Lieut. Comdr. Morgan," the "Lone Star" says, noting that autographed pictures of Miss Hayward are available for those wanting them.

The publication includes a column of sports news, a message from the battalion chaplain, amusing comments labeled "barrack scuttlebutt" about personnel, a column of typical jokes, and other informative material.

Author Of "Guadalcanal Diary" Is Convalescing From Injury

Ernie Has Visit With Wounded Dick Tregaskis

By ERNIE PYLE

Journal War Correspondent

IN ITALY, Jan. 3. (By Wireless) —On the way back from the front the other day I stopped into an evacuation tent hospital to see Dick Tregaskis, the war correspondent for International News Service who was so badly wounded a few weeks ago.

Dick got a shell fragment through his helmet and it ripped his skull open. He is alive at all only by a seeming miracle. Even after he was wounded, other shells exploded within arm's length of him, yet he escaped further injury.

ERNIE PYLE

He still has his battered steel helmet. It has a gash two inches long in the front and a smaller one at the left rear where the fragment came out. The blow knocked off his glasses but didn't break them.

Even with such a ghastly wound Dick walked half a mile down the mountain by himself until he found help. Late that night he arrived at the hospital, was put to sleep on morphine, and Maj. William Pitts performed the brain operation.

Victim Is Improving

It was Major Pitts' fourth head operation that night. He took more than a dozen pieces of bone and steel out of Dick's brain, along with some of the brain itself. He and the other doctors are proud of pulling Dick through—as well they might be.

At first Dick had little use of his right arm, he couldn't read his letters, and he couldn't write. Also, he couldn't control his speech. He would try to say something like 'boat' and a completely different yet related word like "water" would come out.

But his progress has been rapid. During my visits he made only a couple of small mistakes such as saying "flavor" when he meant "favorite." But he always keeps trying until the word he wants comes forth.

THE doctors say he is a marvel. While other patients usually lie and wait for time to do the healing, Dick works at it. He constantly moves his arm to get it back into action, and he reads and talks as much as he can, making his mind practice.

While I was visiting him the second time, a corporal in the Medical corps came in with a copy of "Guadalcanal Diary," which Dick wrote, and asked if he would autograph it. Dick said he'd be glad to except he wasn't sure he could sign his name.

He worked at it several minutes, and when he got through he said, "Why, that looks better than the way I used to sign it." And after the boy left he said, "I always like to be asked to sign a book. It makes me feel important."

Carries Library With Him

Dick Tregaskis is a quiet and scholarly type of newspaperman. His personal gear is in the same room I'm living in back at the base camp, and I notice his books are the Shakespeare type. He wears tortoise-shell glasses and talks slowly and with distinctive words. He is genuine and modest.

His manner belies the spirit that must drive him, because he has by choice seen a staggering amount of war. He has been through four invasion assaults in the Pacific and the Mediterranean. He wrote the famous "Guadalcanal Diary," which sold half a million copies in America and has been made into a movie. He is a very thoughtful person and was as eager to know about my book as if it had been his own.

DICK is married and his home is in Elizabeth, N. J. He is the tallest correspondent over here, being 6 feet 5. Gen. Mark Clark, who is 6 feet 2, always says he's glad to see Tregaskis because he's one of the few men he can look up to.

One of the surgeons, laughingly remarked that if Dick had been short like me he might never have been wounded, but Dick said no, that where they were that day, with no cover anywhere, even "the tallest midget in the world would have got it." He meant the shortest midget, but we understood.

Dick wears a size-14 shoe and once had to travel all the way from Guadalcanal to New Caledonia to find a new pair. He is strong and muscular, but really thin, and his health is not too rugged. The last thing he did before going to sleep with morphine the night he was wounded was to warn the doctors against using any drugs that would stimulate his diabetes.

He'll Be Brought Home

The hospital where he spent the first three weeks was only a few miles behind the lines. It was swathed in mud, and Dick lay on a cot in the middle of a dirt-floored yard tent crammed with other patients.

A few days ago they moved him to a general hospital farther in the rear, and in a short time the Army will send him back to America for final recuperation. They've now taken a big patch of skin off his left leg and grafted it onto his head to cover the wound. They predict he will be ready for the front again within six months.

You'd think that after as much war as he has seen, and after such a hairbreadth escape, he'd be ready to call it a day. If I had his wound I would go home and rest on my laurels forever. But not Dick; he expects to be back over her by spring.

He is no adventurer, but a deeply sincere and conscientious man who does what he does because he feels he's good. His next ambition is to make a combat parachute jump.

About 14,000 men have been graduated from West Point since it was founded in 1802.

rate. "Under existing law we have one base and varying rates for the regular income tax and a separate base and rate for the victory tax," he said. "Every taxpayer must wade through this nightmare of confusion in order to determine his liability."

3. Repeal earned income credit. "There is sound argument for retaining the earned income credit, but its retention greatly complicates our tax return and is of little actual benefit to the taxpayer."

Carlson said there is danger that taxpayers "will become so confused and bewildered that it will affect our national morale," unless the statutes are simplified. He conceded it is too late to do anything about the computations due this March 15, but he demanded action before another tax accounting date rolls around.

cast recorded in New York by the Federal Communications commission, quoted Stockholm sources as asserting that Gen. Kurt Zeitzler, chief of the German army general staff, and Gen. Alfred Jodl, Adolf Hitler's personal military adviser, had arrived at Von Mannstein's headquarters on the Russian front.

(Jodl, the broadcast said, had been given "very great powers" by Hitler, including authority to remove army commanders from their posts).

The rampaging Soviet forces also were reported advancing far to the north in White Russia. There, the First Baltic army was said to be less than 45 miles from Latvia after storming 40 villages and killing 3,000 Nazis north nad northwest of Nevel, in a drive helping to encircle the German-held bastion of Vitebsk.

Taxicab Operation

thing about the violation.

4. Everyone will be urged not to tell the cab driver to "step on it." Drivers already are under orders not to travel at excessive speeds, regardless of the emergency. The driver who does "step on it," does so at his own risk.

To Practice Courtesy

5. Operators said they will urge their drivers to practice "courtesy in driving." Officials and operators were agreed that one reason for prejudice against cab drivers is that too many of them adopt the driving attitude of, "Here I come; you'd better get out of the way."

Those participating in the meeting were agreed that most cab drivers are careful. They were agreed, too, that no driver is superior to a competent and careful cab driver. But they also were in agreement that a very few reckless cab drivers can quickly give all drivers a bad name.

"It is to our interest, and the driver's interest, to get rid of those who drive recklessly," Farmer remarked. "All operators and most drivers appreciate this."

The operators also agreed that they will cooperate more closely in dealing with the driver who is inclined to be "cocky" and independent because of his confidence that, if he is "fired" from one job, he can get another quickly. Henceforth, it was indicated, the driver who is discharged from one job in Lubbock will find it difficult to obtain another.

Special Incentives

All the operators reported that they attempt to offer special incentives to encourage careful driving.

Farmer, Cocanougher and Jay related that, in their companies, they have put a bonus plan into effect under which the driver can make up to $30 extra for a month he completes without an accident. But if he is involved in an accident, regardless who may be at fault, he loses the bonus.

Ed C. Abbott reported that women drivers are helping to solve his driver and safety problems. They are proving the most careful of drivers, he said.

Mayor Slaton expressed the hope and confidence that, by working together, cab company operators and officials can eliminate most of the causes which have led to numerous recent complaints because of the manner of driving taxicabs. There already has been improvement since the commission gave warning about 10 days ago that cab drivers had to become more observant of traffic regulations, the mayor said.

However, the mayor and Commissioners Jones and Newsom made clear that the commission is prepared to take more positive action if cooperation fails to bring about the desired end.

Commissioners W. B. Price and Hub Jones were out of the city and did not attend the meeting.

New Guinea Landings

islands to the north and to the Philippines to the northwest. First of the three recent thrusts was the Dec. 15 landing at Arawe, on the southwest coast of New Britain.

Evidence that Rabaul could no longer be counted on as a primary Japanese base to stem the Allied tide was seen in the destruction wreaked by American planes in recent raids and disclosure of a new bomber base only 250 miles from the smashed bastion of New Britain.

New American Field

Solomons-based planes have downed 129 and probably 146 fighters, by count at South Pacific headquarters, over Rabaul in the eight days ending last Thursday. Still heavier blows appeared likely with disclosure of a new American field for light and medium bombers near Piva on the west-central coast of Bougainville. A fighter strip at Torokina has been in operation since Dec. 12.

Enemy positions on Bougainville itself shared attention with often-bombed Rabaul. Liberators and Mitchells raided the Kahili bivouac and supply areas on the island's south end Friday. Kieta, on the east coast, came in for another bombing.

Chinese Undertaking

While the Allied campaign progressed in the Southwest Pacific area, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek declared in a New Year's statement that the task of encircling the Japanese on the Asiatic mainland would be primarily a Chinese undertaking because, he said, "Japan will have to make the China theater her last line of defense where she will make her last, most stubborn stand."

China's president predicted 1944 would see "the beginning of the decisive stage" of the Pacific war, and disclosed that President Roosevelt agreed with him at the Cairo conference that "all Japanese militarists must be wiped out."

Stock Market

DEALINGS ARE SLUGGISH

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (AP) — The stock market refused to put on a New Year's celebration today and, in the first session of 1944, trends were cloudy and dealings relatively sluggish.

Transfers for the full proceedings were around 500,000 shares.

In front most of the time were Douglas Aircraft, Bethlehem, Sears Roebuck, Goodrich, Johns-Manville, Pennsylvania, Anaconda and Kennecott. Intermittent losers were Southern Pacific, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Goodyear, J. C. Penney, Oliver Farm and Western Union "A".

Federal And State Bank Call Is Issued

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP) — The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all national banks at the close of business Friday, December 31, 1943.

The Federal Reserve board at the same time issued a call on state banks that are members of the federal reserve system, and the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation a call on insured banks not members of the federal reserve system.

STATE BANK CALL ISSUED AT AUSTIN

AUSTIN, Jan. 3 (AP) — The banking department today issued a call for a statement of the condition of all state banks at the close of business Friday, December 31, 1943.

Ruling Is Given On Draft Objectors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP) — The Supreme court ruled today that a draft registrant who objects to the classification given him by a draft board must report for duty before he can test in the courts the validity of the board's action.

The 8-1 opinion by Justice Black, with Justice Murphy dissenting, said it was "well understood" that "dire consequences might flow from apathy and delay" and that the selective service act was "passed to mobilize national manpower with the speed which that necessity and understanding required."

Black explained that an order to report for induction is not the "equivalent of acceptance for service" because 'the selectee may still be rejected at the induction center and the conscientious objector who is opposed to noncombatant duty may be rejected at the civilian public service camp."

"Thus," Black asserted, "a board order to report is no more than a necessary indeterminate step in a united and continuous process designed to raise an army speedily and efficiently."

The decision specifically involved Nick Falbo, of West Newton, Pa., a member of "Jehovah's Witnesses." Falbo contended he should have been classified as a minister completely exempt from military training and service.

Congressman Mahon

lawmakers are ready to revolt against the Roosevelt administration's labor policies and the dictatorship of union bosses.

"Every Southern Democrat in Washington," he said, "favors stern legislation to control recalcitrant labor. But the trouble is, members from labor districts will not support such legislation, being cowed by labor which is organized politically, as well as for its own affairs. Furthermore, even if strict legislation were passed by the Congress, it would be vetoed by the President and there would not be strength enough in the Congress to re-pass the legislation over the presidential veto."

He characterized the labor situation as "intolerable" in wartime.

On Appropriations Committee

A member of the powerful House Appropriations committee, Mahon, now in his fifth term, stands No. 11 among 25 Democrats. With indications that the Republicans will capture the House in next November's balloting, Mr. Mahon, upon re-election, likely would stand from fourth to sixth on the committee which is the House's most powerful next to Ways and Means.

As a member of the seven-man sub-committee on Military appropriations, Mahon frequently has opportunity to peer behind the military scenes and his committee often gets necessarily secret war information from Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Chief of Staff, and other military leaders.

"I know," Mahon said, "that the war at both ends of the globe is in fine shape. I am not at liberty to be specific, but we do have numerous fine weapons of various kinds which we are just now preparing to use and which will play a big part in the United Nations victory. In General Marshall, we have the finest soldier in the world and his over-all direction of the field activities of General Eisenhower, General MacArthur and others will play a big part in the offensive which will be climaxed in victory."

Jap War "Half Over"

Mahon believes the European end of the war is "two-thirds over," even though the last third is expected to "see most of the bitterest fighting." He considers the Jap end of the conflict "half over." In both cases, he bases his calculations on the war's opening date of Dec. 7, 1941.

As to the soldier vote, Mahon believes "that if a man dons a uniform; if he fights for his country or is ready to, he certainly has a right to vote. The Congress cannot, alone, give the uniformed men and women the right to vote, but it can give co-operation to the individual states so they may do so. I am for all the co-operation the federal government can give and so is the majority of the Congress."

Although a lawyer by profession and a district attorney in the Big Spring-Colorado City area before being elected to Congress in 1934, Mahon has small farm and stockraising interests in Mitchell county. Therefore, he said, the "feed situation hits home to me, personally, as it does to countless thousands of the people of the 19th district." He expressed hope that War Foods Administrator Marvin Jones, who preceded him as representative in the Lubbock area, would "work the problem out," and said Jones was doing everything possible in effort to improve the situation.

On Two Other Sub-committees

In addition to his membership on the sub-committee on Military appropriations, Mahon also is serving on two other sub-committees, having to do with appropriations for the Postoffice and Treasury departments. Under congressional rules, a member of the House Appropriations committee may not serve on any other major committee.

Mahon brought to Lubbock a complete set of material issued to overseas Army units and contributed it to the West Texas Museum, at Texas Tech. Intrinsic value of the material probably is not in excess of $10, he said, but in years to come will form a very interesting memento of the war. Included in the material are the various booklets, covering U.S. soldier conduct in the various countries where war actively is being waged; phonograph records on the same subjects; books covering languages, customs, etc., of the world's people; materials for camp shows and entertainments.

Strike Threats

Year's eve that the strike situations and the taking over of the railroads by the government may have delayed victory over Germany was denounced by railroad union leaders who said they would ask the Truman Senate committee to investigate the source.

One union chief declared the statement was 'resented bitterly" and that he and his associates would "take very definite steps to find out the source."

Cites Message To Unions

Early referred to a transcript of what the President had told rail brotherhood chieftains Dec. 23, a week before they had scheduled a strike growing out of a wage controversy.

"We have now come to an action date," Early quoted the chief executive as saying. "We have been talking here since Sunday. If you can't take action by agreement, I will have to take action myself."

The President secretary said he had noticed that some people had appeared to be surprised when Mr. Roosevelt subsequently ordered government seizure of the railways and that he had always wondered where the surprise element came in, since the chief executive had been so plain and blunt to the union executives.

"Thinking Of U. S. Forces"

Early quoted the President as saying further;

"I am thinking about the American forces all over the world who are trying to win this war. They must be sustained and they will be sustained. The overwhelming majority, 99 per cent, of the American people want our forces, who are trying to win this war, sustained.'

The President told the labor officials the war could not wait and he, as commander in chief, could not wait, so "I am going down the list of those here and I am going to ask you a very simple question. I want to know whether you have any objections to my deciding this controversy and whether you will agree at the same time that you will abide by my decision."

Called "Great Tragedy"

The government figure, who stipulated that his name was not to be used, described the labor disputes as a "great tragedy" which may eventually cost the lives of thousands of Allied soldiers. German propagandists have used them, he asserted, to picture chaos in the United States and thus bolster Axis resistance.

Although the best known figures in the labor movement refrained from immediate public comment, there were indications that the last of the anonymous criticisms had not been heard.

One of the railroad union leaders, evidently more resentful even than when he first heard of the criticism Friday night, said labor probably would ask the Truman committee to see where the responsibility lies for seizure of the railroads and failure to settle wage demands.

This official insisted upon anonymity because generally he makes public statements only in conjunction with associates. He said a formal statement probably would be made in a day or two.

Rail union chiefs previously had blamed the administration for the situation and disclaimed any union responsibility for any "psychological comfort" Hitler may have got out of it.

Senator Truman (D-Mo), chairman of the committee investigating the war effort, has demonstrated sympathy with the railroad union's demnads.

Two New Raids Blast Berlin

wards of 14,000 long tons (15,680 U. S. tons) of bombs in the 10-raid knockout campaign, and between 20,000 and 25,000 tons of explosives and incendiaries since January, 1943. As an example of the destructive power of the explosives dumped on the Nazi nerve center, only about 11,000 tons of bombs were used in virtually wiping Hamburg from the map.

A Berlin announcement said briefly that "fresh devastations were caused in several districts" in the "terror attack against the population of the Reich capital."

Few Nazis Raid England

While the big bombers were over Germany, RAF aircraft at home were chasing a handful of German planes which raided England. Four of the attackers were shot down. Bombs fell in a southeast England residential district injuring a few persons. Some of the planes got through to the London area, causing an alert but accomplishing little else.

Last night's raid was "one of the worst since the battle of Berlin began" said the Berlin correspondent of the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet, as reported in dispatches received here.

In spite of bad weather, the RAF struck around 3 a.m., hurling down a terrific load of high explosives and incendiaries which greatly augmented the previous devastation of official and residential sections.

Berlin's Defenses Disrupted

Swedish reports indicated that Berlin's defenses were being thoroughly disrupted by canny RAF strategy.

A Swedish expert in air raid protection who was in Berlin during the Nov. 22 attack when 2,300 tons were dropped said enormous fire damage was done because the German fire fighters organization was slow in starting to work. He said a special force of RAF planes circled the city for 90 minutes dropping small bombs and keeping the German services under cover until the heavy bombers roared over with their blockbusters.

Then the concussion of the big bombs formed a hurricane that made buildings burn like blowtorchers.

One woman was reported killed in the raid on England.

One of the attacking German planes was chased back to France before it was shot down.

The RAF's cross channel pursuer was Wing Commander John Cunningham. It was his 19th night victim which put him in a tie with Wing Commander J. R. D. Braham as the RAF's star night fighter pilot. Braham got his 19th in September.

Santa Still Visiting Lubbock Residents

Santa Claus is still coming to town!

At least some of his packages are still arriving at the postoffice.

A lot of people who thought they could mail Christmas parcels after Dec. 10 and get them to their destinations by Christmas are the instigators of the late Christmas for hundreds of Lubbock residents.

All of the packages arriving daily now bear postmarks after Dec. 10 ranging from Dec. 16 to as late as Dec. 24.

All of the packages which arrived here prior to Christmas were delivered on time, Postmaster Amos Howard reported. But since Christmas the packages have been coming in a steady daily stream and late trains today brought more of them.

U. S. Destroyer Sinks

ment reported only one blast, residents of the boroughs of Brooklyn, Queens and of north New Jersey communities said they heard others.

Hundreds telephoned police headquarters and newspaper offices for information. Some said the blast felt like an earthquake, which rocked their homes. Windows were broken in many stores along the Coney Island boardwalk and storm windows were blown from their fastenings.

The announced location of the sinking, six miles northeast of Sandy Hook, would place it only two miles south of Rockaway Point, the Long Island promontory marking the northern entrance to New York harbor. Fort Tilden occupies the northern point, while Fort Hancock sprawls along Sandy Hook.

Hancock is also a coast guard center and has superior landing facilities.

The explosion was heard throughout a considerable area of New Jersey, but apparently attracted minimum attention in communities nearest the Hook.

Red Offensive Is Beginning Of End

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Russia's great new offensive, which is plowing into the German line with such devastating effect, represents the formal opening of the decisive and final phase of the European war—the beginning of the Allied land onslaught that soon will see the inauguration of the vital second front in France.

This time a year ago the Red Army at Stalingrad was putting the finishing touches on Hitler's hopes of winning the war. From that moment the master gangster went on the defensive.

In the intervening twelve months the Russians have forced the powerful German war machine back across the steppes until today the Muscovites are battling at the old Polish border west of Kiev. From Stalingrad to that border is more than 700 miles, each foot of which has been wet with the blood of the hundreds of thousands of men who have struggled there.

Weather Is Big Aid

Russia's winter finally has come to the full aid of the Soviet forces.

Big Rusian offensives are under way in three sectors of the thousand mile front: In the Dnieper bend, where the Germans are gravely endangerer; in the Kiev bulge, which now is a corridor to the Polish border; further north in the Vitebsk-Nevel zone, where the attacking forces are headed for the neighboring Latvian border.

The position of the Germans in all three sectors undoubtedly is serious. It would be a delectable morsel to roll under the tongue if we could say that catastrophe was imminent for the Hitlerites but, while they're certainly going to crack one of these days, we shall be wise if we see more of the battle before assuming that this happy moment has arrived.

I think we shall get a more balanced picture of the situation if we take another look at Hitler's strategy. After Stalingrad, the German high command adopted a program which was divided into two phases:

Fight Delaying Actions

1. They were to fight delaying actions on all fronts, in the hope that some fortuitous circumstance—such as Allied discord or internal trouble in some Allied country—might bring luck.

2. When the pressure got too hot the Hitlerites would withdraw on all fronts to their own borders—their inner fortress—where they would make a final stand in an effort to achieve a stalemate.

Now there's no indication that the fuehrer has altered this strategy. Indeed, it's a logical plan for him to pursue, and all his tactics have been in that direction.

Many times the Germans have been in terrible danger, and their losses in men and materiel have been colossal as they have retreated. But despite the frequent appearances of disaster they have continued to maintain their battle line as a whole—or at least they have done so up to now. As this column has said before, their retreats have been great military achievements.

So, while anything may happen at a time like this, we must recognize that Hitler's strategy calls for retirement under present circumstances.

Hitler's business now is to pull back towards his inner fortress, so as to get set for the attack on two fronts. He may try to hold at new lines as he falls back, but one would expect him to try to keep moving pretty consistently until he is close to home. In short, his retirement doesn't necessarily represent a rout though, of course, an army retreating under heavy enemy pressure always is in danger of collapse.

World Crude Output Hits All-Time Peak

TULSA, Jan. 3 (AP) — World production of crude oil, under stimulus of war demand, rose to an all time high of 2,256,635,000 barrels in 1943, the Oil and Gas Journal reported today.

The total compared with an estimated output of 2,050,000,000 barrels in 1942 and the previous all-time high of 2,220,000,000 barrels in 1941.

Improved transportatoin facilities contributed to the increase, the publication said.

Principal production increases this year, the Journal said, have been in the United States, up an estimated 123,355,000 barrels to a total of 1,510,000,000 barrels; Venezuela up 32,500,000 barrels; Soviet Russia, up 23,250,000 barrels, and Iraq up 12,775,000 barrels. Iraq production rose as a result of the opening of the northern leg of the pipe line to the Mediterranean early in the year.

Georgia Plans Service Voting

ATLANTA, Jan. 3 (AP)—Governor Ellis Arnall recommended to a special called session of the Georgia general assembly today "that a war ballot commission be created to harmonize voting laws and to serve as a tribunal to expedite and facilitate soldier voting."

The governor also declared "we must abolish the $1-a-year poll tax as an assessment and prerequisite for voting against the men and women in the military service of our country."

Primary, General Election

Calling attention to the fact that 1944 is a year of both primary and general elections, Arnall urged the general assembly to make Georgia "the first state of the union to enact such legislation in this war."

The legislation, he said should be "temporary," terminating with the first regular general assembly after the war.

The general assembly was summoned into extra session for the "sole purpose," Governor Arnall announced, of adopting measures to facilitate voting by Georgia's nearly 250,000 absent servicemen and women.

Ration Workers To Receive Certificates

As a token of appreciation for two years of service the Office of Price administration is presenting to each ration board member in the Lubbock OPA district a certificate of award for meritorious service. The Lubbock district comprises seventy-one counties throughout West Texas.

The boards have handled the following rationing programs during the past two years: in 1942, tires, effective January 5, automobiles, effective February 2, typewriters, effective March 13, sugar, effective April 28, national gasoline, effective December 1, bicycles, effective May 15, rubber footwear, effective September 29, fuel oil, effective October 22, coffee, effective November 21, and heating stoves, effective December.

In 1943, shoes effective February 7, processed foods, effective March 1, and meats and fats, effective March 29.

Today in the seventy-one counties in this district the number of board members has been increased from 213 to 980 members, not counting the hundreds of men and women who assist the boards regularly. All of these board members are unpaid volunteer workers.

Speedier News On Casualties Asked

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (AP) — Looking ahead to the opening of the second front in Europe, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) submitted to the War department today a plan for speeding official reports of combat casualties to the fallen men's families.

O'Mahoney proposed in a letter to Secretary Stimson that a reported "surplus" of newly-appointed and trained officers, particularly in the lower grades, be assigned to divisions in the field "with the sole duty of gathering and transmitting in the speediest possible manner the information which the families of the soldiers so anxiously desire to receive."

Many Soldiers With Brains Exposed Live

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 3 (AP)—Highly-skilled brain surgeons have 'salvaged" hundreds of wounded soldiers, many with brains exposed by gaping wounds, who otherwise would have died, the surgeons' office of the North African theater of operations reported today.

Many of these wounded men are already being returned to duty as efficient soldiers.

Soldiers suffering head injuries, which are ten per cent of all wounds, are given the most expert treatment available by the Army's neuro-surgeons in completely-equipped evacuation hospitals and in general hospitals, the report said.
