HOOVER SUPPORTS TREASURY'S ARMED 'DRY WAR'

Mac Donald And Dawes Launch 'New Epoch Of Peace' With Many Platitudes

English Gatherings Fail To Find Expected Formula Of Peace

'YARDSTICK' BARED

Universal Service Correspondent Deprecates Naval Plan

By WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, June 18. (US)—The mountain has labored and brought forth a mouse.

Hopes of the English speaking world—and perhaps a part of the non-English speaking world as well—that a new epoch of peace to result from Sunday's picturesque conference between Ambassador Dawes and Premier MacDonald at Forres, would be revealed by both or either of the principals speaking at the same time tonight, were pricked by platitudes.

General Dawes before a glittering assemblage of diplomats and in the presence of a former prime minister at the banquet of the Pilgrims society at the Hotel Victoria in London, delivered himself of 5,000 words of handsome generalities. He revealed nothing of what passed between himself and MacDonald two days before.

MacDonald "Casts Sop"

The Labor premier, addressing a much less resplendent gathering of hardy burghers in the fishing village of Lossiemouth, in the Highlands of Scotland, did little besides cast a sop to France where they have been riding him hard for the last few days. The French explosion was due to the trick of the Conservative press in publishing Sunday under the name of the premier an article on European diplomacy which MacDonald wrote three months ago as an M. P.

If it may be taken that Ambassador Dawes revealed President Hoover's new yardstick for the measurement of international naval parities, that yardstick might be used to check the first faltering footsteps of a baby inchwork.

It is no exaggeration to say that in official circles late tonight there is profound disappointment and mystification that the much heralded announcement of a new dispensation of peace between English speaking peoples developed such a damp fuse."

Dawes Embarrassed

"I learn that among the press there is a disposition to believe that General Dawes was suddenly called off by Premier MacDonald from the intent determined upon mutually at the Sunday conference, and that this was much to General Dawes' embarrassment because his initial public appearance here was made anything but happy thereby.

There is a strong belief backed by MacDonald references both at Lossiemouth and in his letter read to the Pilgrims, that he has made at twelfth hour concession to French susceptibilities even though General Dawes told correspondents returning from Forres that he would spill all the beans."

He didn't even spill a little bean.

Premier MacDonald, addressing the Lossiemouth town council, said:

"Regarding our Sunday conference, we did not meet to threaten other nations or to dominate peoples, nor indeed did we meet to form alliances and pacts.

Assurance to France

"We have no intention of presenting to other nations an accomplished fact which they can take or leave. We met, inspired by the hope that we might be instrumental in preparing a board around which other nations might ultimately sit in cooperative fellowship, studying the arts and ways of peace."

That was MacDonald's assurance to hostile France that he and General Dawes were not cooking up a

Hoobler 'Makes Peace With God' As Pastor Pleads Through Bars

Moved by the words of an evangelist who has been pleading through the bars of the Wichita county jail during the past three days, D. J. Hoobler, awaiting sentence of death for the murder of Arthur Pendergraft last January, has joined in the prayers and avowed a new conversion. "I have made my peace with God," the evangelist quoted Hoobler as saying.

The prisoner's response, made in tears and on his knees within the cell, came when Rev. G. E. Gray, who has been working with the prisoners, read from the third chapter of the book of Matthew:

"Bring forth therefore fruits meet for repentance."

The evangelist, extending his arms through the separating bars in his plea to the prisoner, went on quickly to quotations from the eighteenth chapter of Ezekiel, reading:

"Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions; so iniquity shall not be your ruin."

The condemned man broke into tears and knelt for prayer as the minister, urging repentance, spoke of the necessity for the restitution of wrongs.

"You must restore what you have taken," Rev. Gray began, "that is the fourth and final step in true repentance."

For three days the gentle, mild-mannered minister, preaching a gospel of love and forgiveness, has visited the county jail.

His worn Bible in his hand and a supply of religious tracts in his pockets, he peers into the dimness behind the bars at the half-clothed, indolent figures within the cells.

Throughout the long, hot afternoons he stands before the jail "tanks" preaching five brief sermons, one for each of the "blocks" in the jail. The prisoners, at first inclined to resent his coming and to "bait" him with questions, are quieter now and seem to welcome his coming. They lie on their bunks or crouch in silence on the floor while he reads, talks and prays. Many have asked for special mention in the invocations. A few have invited him to return. Rev. Gray is conducting an interdenominational meeting here and expects to visit the jail every afternoon during the coming 10 days.

His first convert, Hoobler, was sentenced to death here last March after his conviction for the shooting of Arthur Pendergraft, his employer on an Oklahoma farm for 12 years, on the afternoon of Jan. 27. His motion for a new trial, denied in the 89th district court, is before the court of criminal appeals.

Burkburnett Athlete Found Lying Unconscious Beside Car on Road

Pat Hood Brought to Hospital Here After Suffering Injury In Unexplained Manner; Struggle Indicated

Pat Hood, 22, of Burkburnett, well know in athletic circles of the schools in this part of the state, was found unconscious shortly before one o'clock Wednesday morning on the Burkburnett road near the Panhandle Refinery. Several men in a passing car noticed the young man lying in the road and stopped their car to investigate.

Hood was lying with his head on a large rock, entirely unconscious. The men called an ambulance and the injured man was taken to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital for treatment. The extent of his injuries was not determined immediately but it was thought he was not badly hurt. The only mark on his body was a large swelling on his head.

When found, his clothes had been torn almost off his body, and there were evidences of a struggle about his car, which was parked near the place where he was found. No evidences of a motive for the struggle could be found.

The young man was well known as an athlete, having won many races in inter-school track meets in this part of Texas. He was immediately recognized by the men who found him, all of them having attended schools in Wichita Falls when Hood had starred in track meets.

The men who discovered Hood identified him but had not seen him earlier in the night, they reported.

Moody to Sign Resolution Voted As Result of White House Tea Party

AUSTIN, June 18. Governor Moody said he would sign the resolution but indicated he would do so with some reluctance.

The vote was 99 to 10.

FORMER CALL FIELD OFFICER HELD IN OHIO

Marion T. Meyers Jailed After Body of Co-Ed Is Discovered

MRS. SNOOK GRILLED

Wife of Former Professor Questioned on Death Of Theora Hix

Marion T. Meyers, held for questioning in Columbus, Ohio, in connection with the hammer slaying of Theora Hix, 23-year-old Ohio State university co-ed, is a former resident of Wichita Falls, and was well known here several years ago as an instructor in aviation during the world war.

Meyers, a former suitor of the girl and a friend of Dr. James H. Snook, also held for investigation in the slaying, is now a research worker in the horticulture department of the university. Snook was until Monday a professor in the university school of veterinary, and with Meyers, has been held since a few hours after the girl's body was found on a rifle range near Columbus Friday. The girl had been beaten and cut to death, and her body thrown from an automobile.

Meyers was in the first detachment of aviation cadets to come to Call field here for training during the world war. He entered the school here after graduation from the ground school at Berkeley, Calif., and was subsequently commissioned as an instructor. Later he was transferred to Hicks field, at Fort Worth, but maintained many of the friendships that he made with residents here. Meyers' home is in Ohio.

OFFICERS GRILL PROFESSOR'S WIFE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 18. (AP)—Mrs. Helen M. Snook, wife of the deposed Ohio state university professor, Dr. James H. Snook, who is held for investigation in the hammer murder of Theora Hix, 24, co-ed, became the dominant figure in the inquiry today when she was submitted to a four and one-half hour quizzing by County Prosecutor John J. Chester Jr.

The murder investigation passed its fourth day with federal authorities taking a hand to determine if narcotics had any part in the murder, the announcement of the discovery of a kitchen knife near the place where the body was found and the continued detaining of Doctor Snook and Marion T. Meyers, graduate student at the university, who have been in jail since last Saturday.

Mrs. Snook was reported on the verge of collapse near the end of her questioning. Two policewomen rushed to the room where the quizzing was in progress with a glass of water. One of the police women remained. The other returned, saying that Mrs. Snook was "overcome and in a bad way."

The prosecutor revealed that he went over all details of the crime with Mrs. Snook and said that she was unable to provide any new information.

State to Demand Death Penalty For Deputy Accused of Killing Youth

Prosecutor Calls Killing 'Most Brutal' He Has Known; Boy At First Thought to Be Texan

NEWPORT, Ark., June 18. (UP)—An announcement by Prosecuting Attorney Hugh Williamson here today said the death penalty would be asked for Deputy Sheriff George Johnson imprisoned at the state penitentiary at Little Rock for shooting Glenn Quay, 22-year-old Thayer, Mo., boy whom he had arrested on a charge of drunkenness and possession of liquor.

Relatives of Quay, who was shot twice through the back Sunday night when he broke away from Johnson at the door of the jail here, identified the body today. He previously had been known as Mickey Dillon of El Paso.

"The killing was the most brutal and uncalled for I have ever known," Williamson said. "If ever a man deserved the death penalty Johnson does, and I shall do my utmost to see that he gets it."

The deputy has a wife and three children living at Grubbs, Ark.

Johnson was removed from the Newport jail to Batesville Monday when Quay died in a hospital and a crowd of angry citizens stormed the jail and asked for the prisoner. Later the deputy was taken to the penitentiary where he will await preliminary hearing Friday on a charge of first degree murder.

Quay had been here about two weeks. The name Mickey Dillon was said to have been used by him while he was an amateur prize fighter.

DEPUTY DESCRIBES SHOOTING OF BOY

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., June 18. (UP)—Deputy Sheriff George M. Johnson of Newport today told the United Press his version of the killing of Glenn Quay, 22, whom the officer had arrested on a liquor charge.

"I wanted to frighten him and had no intention of shooting him. He had been drinking and I was taking him to jail on a warrant charging intoxication and possession of liquor."

SENATE CURBS SECRET VOTING

150-Year Rule Changed; Two-Thirds Necessary

WASHINGTON, June 18. (US)—The senate modified its 50-year-old secrecy rule today when it adopted a resolution providing that presidential nominations and treaties shall be considered in open executive session unless a majority of the members present vote for a secret session.

Under the existing rule, it required a two-thirds vote to force an open session. Thus one-third of the members could invoke the closed session.

Advocates of complete publicity were defeated, 39 to 34, in an attempt to authorize publication of roll calls taken secret sessions. Any senator is authorized, however, to make public his own vote in a closed session.

HOUSE ADOPTS RECESS DATE

The house consented to the senate's resolution recessing that body from after tomorrow's session until Aug. 19, and the senate promptly accepted to the wish of the house to take the longer holiday.

STATEMENT BY CHIEF LAMENTS RUM KILLINGS

President Asks Help Of Border Towns But Regrets Shootings

REPLIES TO PROTESTS

Executive Deplores Killing Of Anybody but Blames 'Leggers

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

WASHINGTON, June 18. (US)—In a formal statement today President Hoover squarely supported the treasury department in the armed conflict to end rum running across the Canadian border.

He declared that while he deplored the killing of any person, the communities along the border should help end the "systematic war" of international criminals against the laws of the United States.

Answer to Queries

His statement given in answer to queries submitted by press correspondents, follows:

"I have some questions as to the incidents on the border.

"I deeply deplore the killing of any person.

"The treasury department is making every effort to prevent the misuse of arms.

"Any case of misuse will be determined by the orderly proceedings of the department and the courts.

"I hope that the communities along the border will do their best to help the treasury end the systematic war that is being carried on by international criminals against the laws of the United States. It is these activities that are at the root of all our difficulties."

The statement of the president was regarded as a reply to protests from the citizens of International Falls, Minn., against the slaying of Henry Virkula, an innocent citizen. He was shot and killed by a dry agent while driving a motor car on his way home with his wife and two children.

Protests Continue

The storm of national protest which followed this and other recent shootings still raged here today. Treasury officials ordered that their agents should no longer use sawed-off shotguns, or riot guns, such as were used in the killing of Virkula, but permitted the continued use of service revolvers.

With this exception and that the president declared that any misuse of firearms will be determined by the treasury department and the courts, there is to be no change in enforcement methods, it was indicated.

While the president was making his statement, members of the senate and the house continued to protest the indiscriminate use of firearms by prohibition agents and the shooting of persons, even if guilty of transporting liquor.

The Minnesota delegation in congress held a long caucus at which the slaying of Virkula and the protests from the citizens of International Falls was the chief topic. The delegation endorsed a bill, to be introduced by Representative Goodwin, prohibiting the use of sawed-off shotguns, or other

Red Radiance Rose Gains on Larkspur in Flower Vote

An unusually large number of votes for the Red Radiance rose, received Tuesday in The Record News poll to select the official flower of Wichita Falls, indicated that this popular blossom will likely press the larkspur for lead in the contest within a few days.

Many reasons for selecting the rose were given in the ballots received by the Flower Contest Editor, the most frequent being that the radiance rose, one of the most popular varieties, grows in unusual profusion in Wichita Falls for from seven to nine months of the year. The larkspur continued to lead in the balloting, however, and was well in front in the total number of votes cast.

"The most profuse blooming flower in Wichita Falls" and "Beauty coming back each year without cultivation" were among the reasons given in support of the larkspur.

HOOVER NAMES CANAL BOARD

Eminent Engineers to Study Nicaragua Project

WASHINGTON, June 18. (US)—A board of army and civilian engineers to begin at once a study and survey of the advisability of constructing the proposed Nicaragua canal, was appointed by President Hoover today.

The board is composed of: Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers, U. S. army; Maj. Earnest Graves, U. S. army, retired; Sidney B. Williamson, Anson Marston and Frank Williams, civilian engineers, Lieut. John Paul Dean, of the engineering corps, will act as secretary.

With the appointment of the special board the war department made immediate plans to send a force of 22 experienced army engineers and 425 engineering troops to Nicaragua. The special engineering board will go to Nicaragua with the expeditionary force and remain there for considerable time on a location survey of the probable route.

After the location survey the members of the board will return to Washington while the special engineering battalion will remain in the field and submit reports to the experts in Washington. From these reports the board will decide whether it is feasible to construct the interoceanic canal across Nicaragua or enlarge the Panama canal to take care of the rapidly increasing traffic.

The special battalion and the engineering board will go to Nicaragua on an army transport which is also taking the necessary field equipment. This will consist of various surveying instruments, airplanes for photographic maps of the terrain, tents, housing, food and animals. The party is to be divided up into at least three groups. One working from the approximate center of the route and one each from the Pacific and Atlantic slopes.

The army members of the board have had long experience in such work, as have the civilian members.

Williamson was engineer in charge of the construction of the Pacific locks of the Panama canal; chief of construction, U. S. reclamation service; chief of engineers for the Guggenheims, and served as an engineer in the Spanish-American and world war. He commanded the 55th engineers of the A. E. F.

Marston is a native of Illinois, and professor of engineering at Iowa State college. He commanded the 97th engineers overseas. He was a member of the engineering board of review for Chicago in 1924-25 and later consulting engineer for Miami.

Williams is a native of Durhamville, N. Y., and graduate of law and engineering at Colgate and Syracuse. He was state engineer for New York; chairman of the Barge canal commission 1910-11, and consultant in most of New York's tunnel and canal work.

Belgian Prince Votes Quietly in Brussels

BRUSSELS, June 18. (INS)—Prince Charley, youngest member of the royal family of Belgium and rather well-known for his pranks throughout the country, walked to the polls unnoticed recently and cast his vote for the general elections. He was the only one in the family who voted. The king has not that privilege and his brother, Crown Prince Leopold, is now abroad.

Although the elections happen only once in four years and the three large parties did a great deal of electioneering before the battle, the general attitude of the voters was one of indifference. They seemed to be voting only because it was compulsory.

Women Create Stir In Recent French Election

PARIS, June 18. (INS)—The women made themselves heard in the recent elections held in France.

At Mitry-Mory, small commune near Paris, a woman figured on the assembly list and Madame Amelie Martin, housewife, was elected municipal councillor on the Communist ticket. The law, however, forbids a woman to accept this office and a new election must be held.

At Macon, a woman who figured on the Socialist ticket received a large majority of the votes polled. And at Ariege, the women, not being allowed to vote, invaded the voting booths and upset the boxes. The police were obliged to restore order to the place.

Nervous Women Praise Capudine

Delicately poised women who suffer from high nerve strain and nervous pains, such as periodic pains, headache and pains in the back and sides are high in their praise of Capudine because it quickly soothes the tense nerves and relieves the pain.

Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instantly—much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach. Sold by druggists in 30c and 60c sizes.—Adv.

15 FATALITIES IN LANDSLIDES

Earthquake Brings Disaster To New Zealand

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, June 18. (UP)—Landslides caused by a violent earthquake which shook all of South Island, took a toll of at least 15 lives, according to advices today describing the disaster in various villages.

Two women and two men were buried when a great rush of loosened earth buried their house in the Murchison district and blocked the valley for a distance of about half a mile.

The quakes and landslides, according to survivors in the worst stricken areas of South Island, were accompanied by a mighty muffled booming sound. The landslides buried four workmen in one valley on the north coast of South Island and two in another region. The other deaths were isolated cases.

Apparently the tremors continued far out to sea from the northern coast and many points reported feeling them.

Two airplanes left Christ church en route to Westport, which was hard hit by the quakes. Wireless attempts attempted to establish communication with the isolated town to learn the full extent of damage.

An airplane also was searching for five passengers in a motorbus in Buller gorge, near Blenheim, but no trace of the bus could be found.

Plaintiff Says Doctor Left Gauze in Wife

OKMULGEE, Okla., June 18. (UP)—A piece of gauze, 24 by 12 inches, allegedly left in his wife's abdomen, causing her death after an appendicitis operation, today was the basis of a suit for $51,000 filed here by H. S. Cowan of Henryetta, against Dr. I. W. Bollinger, prominent Henryetta physician.

Mrs. Cowan, mother of three small children, became ill three months ago and Doctor Bollinger operated, leaving the gauze inside, the petition stated. Other physicians operated to remove the gauze and Mrs. Cowan died the next day, it was charged.

The husband seeks $20,000 for himself and $10,000 for each of the children. He asked $1,000 to pay medical costs.

Graham Man Freed After Sheriff Admits He "Poured Out" All Evidence

Judge Allan Montgomery instructed a verdict of not guilty in the 30th district court at Graham Tuesday afternoon when Sheriff J. B. Foster, witness for the state in the trial of Roy Smith on charges of possessing beer, testified that he had poured out all the evidence and could not say, on oath, just what had been in the emptied bottles. Smith was released at once.

Sheriff Foster described a raid on the Smith home in which a number of bottles were emptied of their contents.

"It was just like this other stuff we're getting around here, but I couldn't swear it was beer," the officer said. He was unable to say whether it was home brew, choc, or bootleg beer, the witness continued.

Smith was called to trial after Atolinar Cruz and Jeses Grasias, Mexicans, had entered pleas of guilty to two charges of theft and had been sentenced to two years imprisonment on each count, the terms to run concurrently.

Trial of Louis Young, charged with the manufacture of whisky, is set for 9 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Selection of the jury was completed late Tuesday afternoon.

Munich Excited Over Woman Cured by Miracle

BERLIN, June 18. (INS)—All Munich is excited about a miracle cure at Lourdes through which Frau Marie Amalie Stroebel, whose legs had been paralyzed for years, is now able to walk.

Frau Stroebel, a resident of Munich, was near death, when she reached Lourdes. Four women placed her in a linen sheet and immersed her in the water at Lourdes. She recited:

"'Let me go, I can walk,' I shouted, and tried to rise. But the women tried to keep me quiet. I tore myself away, however, walked through the water to the statue of the Virgin Mary and kissed it. Then I went home—cured."

KISSES SPEAK PLAINER THAN WORDS

When your little ones are half-sick, out-of-sorts, they can seldom tell you what is wrong. You have to read their symptoms in order to chose the right medicine. If, when you kiss them, you detect unpleasant breath, you have a sure sign that the bowels are sluggish; that the stomach is sour and bilious.

For a child constipated, feverish, languid, fretful, wakeful at night, lacking appetite and subject to colds and sore throat, you will find a reliable remedy in California Fig Syrup. It is the finest laxative in the world for children. Little ones previously always half-sick, fretful and backward through sluggish bowels and poor digestion, take a wonderful turn for the better and thrive amazingly when the bowels have been helped back to healthy regularity by an occasional dose of California Fig Syrup. Millions of mothers have proved its merit and have been relieved of further worry and anxiety from their child's constipation.

If you have a child bothered like this or one who is subject to frequent bilious attacks and sick headache, save the little one this suffering, and yourself constant anxiety by giving California Fig Syrup. Get a bottle today. All drug stores.

California Fig Syrup has been trusted by the world's mothers for over 30 years. That is why the word "California" should be emphasized when buying.—Adv.

Asylum Patient, Posing as Tailor, Cuts Strange Suits for Wichitans

The consternation of a customer who found his made-to-order summer suit cut for a man half his size resulted Tuesday afternoon in the recapture of a former patient at the Wichita Falls State hospital who has been at large during the past several weeks.

The patient, armed with a tailor's measuring tape, has been going about the streets of Wichita Falls, making careful measurements for clothing and delivering, when he thought of it, suits cut in fantastic modes. More often he delivered no suit at all, according to information given Warren W. Belcher, deputy sheriff, who made the arrest. Mr. Belcher placed his prisoner once more under the treatment of physicians at the hospital.

Veteran Wichita Officer Reported Improving After Heart Attack

The condition of Traffic Captain J. H. Scott, who is suffering from a severe heart attack at his home, 1617 Lucile street, was greatly improved late Tuesday night, according to Dr. R. C. Smith, attending physician.

Fear for the recovery of the city officer had been felt due to his age, 64 years, and because of the severity of the attack which struck him suddenly as he was retiring late Saturday night.

His daughter, Mrs. Roy C. Moyston, after having been located Monday by broadcasting at interval over station KGKO, was at his bedside following an airplane flight from San Angelo Monday night. Many visits and calls were made Tuesday by friends of Captain Scott who were anxious to hear about his condition. The captain has been a member of the Wichita Falls police force for more than 11 years and has hundreds of friends in all parts of the state.

A crowd of approximately 3,000 employes and guests of the Panhandle Refining company attended the annual picnic held Tuesday afternoon and night in Boone's grove near the Wichita river. About 1,500 of this number were visitors, according to J. G. Kilgore, advertising and service station manager of the company.

The activities began about 5 o'clock in the afternoon with games and sports of various kinds. A baseball game between teams selected from the employes was played at 5 o'clock, and potato races, barrel races, greased pole races and other sports, with prizes for each race, were held during the evening. Paul Seeds' band furnished music for the picnic from 5 until 8 o'clock.

The picnic supper was furnished by the ladies, each of whom brought a basket with enough food for several persons. Following the supper, service buttons were awarded to employes who had been in the employ of the company for five and for 10 years. Ten-year buttons, made of silver, were awarded to about 30 employes, and five-year buttons, of bronze, were given to about 55.

Nurse and Brother Sought in Shooting

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 18. (UP)—Authorities here tonight had failed to find Mrs. Tressa Yates, 35-year-old nurse, and her half-brother, E. D. Ferguson, wanted for the shooting of Dr. George C. Haughey in his Odessa, Mo., hospital Monday night.

Dr. Haughey was brought to a hospital here where a bullet was removed from his side. It was believed he would recover.

The doctor said he had discharged Mrs. Yates last January. She came to his hospital last night, he said, to obtain belongings which he objected to her taking because he believed they had not been fully paid for and did not want the bill sent to him. Ferguson shot him in the side during the discussion. He said he was unable to assign a motive for the act.

CHINA NEEDS NEW ROADS FOR ECONOMIC PROGRESS

CANTON (AP)—The number of automobiles in Canton is increasing slowly. There now are 625 motor cars of all types, or approximately one for every 1,000 of population.

No motor cars are allowed to run on the island of Shameen, where practically all the foreign population of Canton lives. Road construction in heavily populated areas such as Canton is expensive and the continuance of civil warfare makes progress difficult.

The authorities believe that an extended period of peace and stability would enable them to build the long projected motor road to Hongkong.

A used car that paid for itself in one summer

A MAN who bought a camp in the woods last summer said that he and his wife decided not to take their new car with them. "We had seen too many beautiful cars hurt by the rough treatment they get at camp."

They bought a sturdy but very inexpensive used car. "Aside from the great convenience of having a car in the city and another car in the country," he said, "we figure that the used car paid for itself in saving wear and tear on our new car."

In selling more than a million and a half new cars every year, General Motors dealers accept many used cars in trade.

Every one is unused transportation and represents a real bargain for somebody.

General Motors urges its dealers to move their used cars quickly, at fair prices, and in a way to build public good will. It cooperates with them by providing the convenient GMAC Payment Plan for both new car and used car sales.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

On Meeting People

Theodore Roosevelt was celebrated by cartoonists for the wide way of his eager and happy smile when meeting a person, he said, "Delighted!"

Here was a president who, in spite of his knowledge of life and the calculated purposes and shortcomings of man, still tingled to the thrill of what he hoped would be a pleasant experience.

There are, however, some people who st will not allow themselves to get as much a thrill out of people as they will out of a flower or bird.

To love thy neighbor as thyself is more than a Biblical injunction. Properly oriented, it is part of a fruitful philosophy of life. To shut out people by declining to bring to meetings with them a willingness to enjoy each other sanely is not only negative but restricting and undermining.

No person is sufficient unto himself or herself and anybody who thinks so is doomed to morbidness, irascibility and ultimate decay.

Contrariwise, a person who brings eagerness to a new meeting finds his or her attitude spiritually fulfilled when that meeting, casual though it may be, leaves behind it a fine and fragrant impress and feeling. And when I meet a person who responds in kind I feel much as R. L. Stevenson did when, travelling one night through France with his donkey, Modesty, a storm came up and he sought shelter at several farm houses.

It was refused him. Finally he led Modesty to some nearby woods, tied the little animal to a heavily foliaged tree, removed his sleeping-bag from the donkey's back and lay down on some leaves.

Presently the rain stopped. The stars peeped out from behind the storm clouds. Donkey and man fell asleep. Some hours later Stevenson awoke to observe the miracle of night changing to dawn. Star after . . blinked and faded from the sky. The heavens changed colors, shade by shade. The sun came up and when it had risen high Stevenson packed his bag, unhitched Modesty and then, profoundly grateful for the thrill he had experienced, reached into his pocket for some coins and sprinkled them about on the leaves, and went on his way!

I know how he felt when he was refused shelter in the storm. I also know how he felt when he sprinkled coins on the leaves.

I have a blending of those feelings when I meet people for the first time and if humanness is shut out I always know that life will still be good even if some people won't be.

Life is truly what we make it, and a good way of making it agreeable is to be agreeable when meeting people.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self-addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, June 18. (US)—If she hadn't been so pretty they wouldn't have hired her. She never sold shoes before—but everybody from the errand boy to the manager was anxious to help her.

When a clerk saw a lady customer becoming irritable, he told the dear dumbell he would fit the shoes. "Bring me that pair over there," he told her.

She was obliging.

"But," he protested, "you've brought me one brown shoe and one blue shoe?"

"Yes I know," said dear dumbell, "but the other pair was the same—one brown and one blue!"

If Talulah Bankhead, who is having her nose lengthened, succeeds in getting it made long enough, the government may draft her into the prohibiting department. It wouldn't be a compliment to one in her profession, because they all seem to be such bad actors.

She was a big fat one, and she stood on the corner smilingly waiting for a street car. The conductor had to help her on, as did another passenger, and then she turned around quickly and got right off again.

"What's the matter with you?" said the conductor, hopping mad.

"Nothing," she answered, very nonchalantly. "My husband won't take me any place because he says I'm too big to get into a street car, and I wanted to see if I was."

Doorbell.

"Special delivery."

He got in. He must see the lady of the house. About what? Some furniture.

It worked.

He wore a sailor blue suit, a sailor's cap and there was an anchor on every button. He talked in a surreptitious voice. He had something grand to sell—"Us sailors have to do it, to make a little on the side." No—no liquor. No indeed! Although sometimes he did that too for friends. Lingerie and Persian rugs—very cheap!

A lady and a bargain!

He brought in the rugs.

"Smuggled," she said to herself. "Not stolen, just smuggled, so it's all right to buy them."

He unrolled them carefully. He wanted $15. She took two.

A woman who knew rugs called a little later. The bride boasted. "How much are these worth," she asked, excitedly.

"Oh," said the lady, giving them a good look, "I'd say about $8.50 or $10. Did you get them for the porch?"

That's a new game. If he comes to your house—laugh, but don't buy.

They never saw an ocean liner. Neither did he, but you'd be surprised how many customers he finds. The low sneaky voice does it.

WOMEN DEBATE GREATEST GIFT

"Brains or Beauty?" Asks Dorothy Dix in Talk

Is Beauty, Brains, a Sense of Humor, Tact or a Sympathetic Ear Responsible for the Feminine Charm That Turns an Indifferent World Into an Eager Audience?

A group of women were leaning over the bassinet of a new-born girl baby.

"If you were a fairy godmother what gift would you bestow upon her?" asked one one them.

"I would give her a peaches-and-cream complexion, a willowy figure and hair with a natural wave in it," replied the first woman, "because if a girl has beauty she can get all the balance for herself.

"From her credle up she will be petted and spoiled and have all the good things of life presented to her on a silver salver. Even her family will make a difference between her and her homely sisters. She will get the prettiest clothes because a living picture has to have a suitable frame. Nobody will expect her to ruin her lily white hands washing dishes or to burn out the roses in her cheeks over a cooking stove. She will never have to stand up in a street car or wait in line at a ticket office or carry her own bag, for men's gallantry and sympathy to women is in direct ratio to their pulchritude.

"And when it comes to having good times and getting a husband, beauty is a woman's one best bet. You never hear of fair Lillian sitting at home of an evening with mama and papa listening to the radio, while as for marrying, the girl with starry eyes and a rosebud mouth can make the journey to the altar as many times as she pleases. Even in business it is the good-looker who gets the job whether she can spell or add two and two together or not over the plain-faced expert.

"So I'd give her beauty. It is woman's greatest graft. If she has it she can be anything she likes and get anything she wants, and she can get away with murder. And frequently does."

"I'd give her a good pair of eardrums," said the second woman. "A classical profile and a peaches-and-cream complexion and a string-bean figure are all well and highly desirable to have, but they are more or less temporary blessings which are bound to vanish, no matter how desperately a woman clings to them with claws and teeth and toenails. But the patient listener has a magic that she can conjure with as long as she lives.

"Besides, not every man has a highly developed esthetic sense and is a worshiper of beauty, but every man has a sizable bump of vanity, and loves the sound of his own voice and is fascinated by the woman who will sit for hours listening with an absorbed expression on her face while he sings the saga of his own life and tells her how great and wonderful and marvelous he is.

"Also, women are jealous of the beauty of another woman and given to knocking her and disparaging her and putting stumbling blocks in her way.

"But they get out the salve-spreader for the woman who asks them to tell her all about their minor and major operations and who begs them to repeat the cute thing their little Bobby said and exhibits a real heart interest in Johnny's football game and Mary's beaux.

"The secret of popularity consists in being interested in other people and being able to listen unwearyedly while they descant upon their own affairs. None of us are ever bored or even weary of the society of those who will let us talk about ourselves.

"So, if I could make this baby a present that would secure her success if she went into business and that would enable her to get a husband if she wanted one and keep him after she got him—for most men marry to get a permanent audience that will give them the glad hand—I would make her an intelligent listener."

"I would give her a funny bone," said the third woman. "The ability to laugh it off will do more to secure a woman's well-being in the world than anything else, and it is the secret of how to be happy though married. The trouble with us women is that we have cultivated our tear ducts instead of our risibles, and that causes us to make tragedies out of things we should turn into jokes.

"There are so many things in a woman's life over which she must either smile or cry and the lucky one is the one who can get a grin instead of a barrel of tears out of any situation. A woman can sit down and bemoan herself because she is an old maid or because she is tied down to a husband, because she has a household of brats or because she hasn't a chick or a child, because she has nothing to do or because she has a grouch of a boss.

"Or she can get a kick out of just living in this jolly old world where there are so many queer and amusing peole who do such funny things. She can kid her husband about having a roving eye or she can get pea-green with jealousy over every passing skirt.

"Everything depends upon the point of view, and the woman who can get a cheerful slant and who has a laugh hung on a hairtrigger is the one who is adored by her family and friends and whom we all like to have about us. She is literally a ray of sunshine in our darkness, and that is why I'd give this baby a sense of humor if I could as the most precious possession a woman can possibly have. And the one she needs most."

"I'd give her the ability to walk on eggs," said the fourth woman. "Tact will carry a woman farther than anything else in the world and do more to promote her success in society, in business and in domestic life.

"The women we like best are those who always say the right right thing, in the right way, at the right time, in the right place, who subtly flatter us by asking us about our brilliant son or favorite grandchild, who remember just what we like to eat and recall some story or witticism of which we delivered ourselves upon some occasion and who never rub us the wrong way by introducing topics that are like a red flag to a mad bull to us or remind us of our mistakes and blunders.

"And it is the women who are diplomats whose husbands eat out of their hands, for it is never what you say or do to our husband that riles him and makes him put his back up. It is the way you say it and when and how you do it.

"So, if I wanted to assure a girl baby's prosperity, I would put a glib tongue instead of a silver spoon in her mouth when she was born."

"And I'd put brains in her head," said the fifth woman, "and if she had enough of them she could make shift to get along without your present, useful as they would be."

Violent Eruption of Ancient Mount Komagatake Brings Many Deaths

HAKODATE, Japan, June 18. The sudden and violent eruption of the ancient volcanic mount, Komagatake, continued tonight. A check up of missing raised the fear that more than 30 persons had been killed.

The postoffice was advised that 30 bodies had been found buried under six feet of ashes between Temenoyu and Shikabe. Reports from other villages said a number of persons were missing and at least 100 were known injured.

The village of Gungawa, near Onuma, was burned. It could not be determined if there was serious loss of life there.

About 100 school children at Shikabe, who were reported missing, were found to have escaped in boats. They were landed at Iosye.

Evacuation of Hakodate continued today, spurred by a fresh eruption which shot great flames and thick smoke from the volcanic cone at 10 a. m. About 2,700 refugees have boarded trains there.

All street car services have been halted, and light and power lines are shut off because of the danger of breaking high tension wires. The Gungawa electric plant is buried under 10 feet of ashes.

Observers believed at one time early today that the eruption was subsiding but the second outburst caused greater alarm here although the rocky peak of Komagatake is 40 miles away.

Reports from the various county officials indicate that the Plateau singers membership now embraces approximately 200,000 people in the various New Mexico and Texas counties, and that the organization is expanding rapidly. According to officials of the convention, the Plateau singers is now the largest institution of its kind in the United States.

The convention sessions were held in the large district court room at the Deaf Smith county court house, and at no time was the large crowd able to be seated in the hall and balconies. The entire four stories of the building were turned over to the visitors, as well as many of the homes of the city for the two days and Hereford has probably never had a greater gathering than during the convention.

House Tables Request For Federal Flood Aid

AUSTIN, June 18. (AP)—The house today laid on the table subject to call a resolution by Senator W. A. Williamson, San Antonio, asking the government to furnish an emergency appropriation of $1,000,000 to aid Texas in rebuilding roads and bridges damaged by recent flood waters.

The resolution, which the senate approved almost unanimously, was attacked by Rep. George C. Kemble, Fort Worth, who declared "the state shouldn't appear bankrupt by begging congress for funds."

Curtis Given Gavel From Ship's Rudder

WASHINGTON, June 18. (INS)—Vice President Curtis today was presented a gavel made from the rudder of the steamer Minne A, which once sailed the waters of Devil's lake, in North Dakota. Senator Nye, Republican, of North Dakota, made the presentation in the senate after announcing that by drainage the lake had shriveled from a width of 40 miles to four miles, so that the steamer could no longer be used. He said the state had hopes of refilling the lake by diversion of water from the Missouri river.

MORE HONORS GIVEN FLIERS

But French All but Snub Audacious Stowaway

PARIS, June 18. (INS)—Idolized by all Paris, Jean Assolant, Rene Lefevre and Armeno Lotti, the first French aviators to fly across the Atlantic, continued today on a seemingly endless round of ovations, receptions and welcome ceremonies.

With them went Arthur Schreiber who invited himself along on the flight of the Yellow Bird with hopes of gaining fame and fortune.

The three fliers have made the stowaway one of them and insist upon him accompanying them everywhere. Nevertheless, although many admire the Portland youth for his audacity, he is admitted to most of the welcoming functions on sufferance only.

This was pointedly apparent at receptions tendered the aviators yesterday at the Aero club of France and at the American embassy. Schreiber was present at both and treated politely but otherwise ignored.

At the Aero club, Assolant was presented with the club's gold medal and Lefevre with a bronze medal. Pierre Etienne Flandin, former minister of aviation and president of the club, eulogized all three fliers in a speech. At the American embassy, Charge d'Affaires Norman Armour also eugolized the fliers but made no mention of Schreiber.

Schreiber is still wearing a suit of Lotti's supplemented by a hat and shoes donated by two Paris shops. He is living at Lotti's father's hotel where he is accorded every possible comfort and convenience and treated very hospitably.

Young Schreiber was received today at the French air ministry where he spent some time describing the flight to M. Laurent Eynac, air minister.

SCHREIBER SEEKS RETURN PASSAGE

PARIS, June 18. (INS)—Arthur Schreiber, young Portland, Maine, stowaway who was the "uninvited guest" of the French crew of the monoplane Yellow Bird on its transatlantic flight last week, was making every effort today to obtain return passage to the United States on liner Leviathan, which sails on Thursday.

Armeno Lotti Jr., sponsor of the flight of the Yellow Bird, has indicated that he would like Schreiber to depart for home as soon as possible in order to spike, definitely, a report that Lotti is exploiting the youth.

Hoover Enforcement Commission Reconvenes

WASHINGTON, June 18. (INS)—President Hoover's law enforcement commission reassembled in the capital today.

Meeting behind closed doors, the commission discussed future procedure, and examined a mass of statistics which were gathered during the recess.

Indigestion Stopped Quickly by Stomach Antiseptic

What is commonly known as indigestion is a fermented condition of the stomach which keeps the undigested food sour, creating acids and poisons. Fermentation is the worst obstacle in the way of overcoming stomach disorders.

GORDON'S—an internal antiseptic, gets immediately at the cause by stopping fermentation—soothing and healing the inflamed and irritated membrane lining—driving out the acids and poisons. It strengthens weak or disordered stomachs.

Surprising results may be expected in cases of indigestion, dyspepsia, excess acid, gas, bloating, heartburn, sour stomach and that "tired feeling."

Committee Gets Love Farm Aid Resolution

AUSTIN, June 18. (AP)—To the senate agricultural committee will fall the lot of determining whether the president and congress shall be commended by the Texas legislature for passage of a farm relief bill as a result of today's action in referring a resolution by Senator Thomas B. Love, Dallas, to the group.

Senator Love's resolution was ordered to the committee after it became apparent the senate would act adversely on it in the form it was prepared by the Dallas lawmaker.

Senator Tom DeBerry, Bogata, warned that Texas might endanger the chance of former Congressman Eugene Black being named a member of the board to administer the farm relief act if the senate acted adversely on Love's resolution.

Love was charged with playing politics by Senator T. J. Holbrook, Galveston.

The Belgian government has invited other nations to a conference on a proposal to do away with rail transportation of mails, entrusting the entire task to airplanes.

AMERICA spends three thousand millions a year to purchase rainy daisies for widows and orphans.

Life insurance premiums reached that staggering sum for 1928—in which international records were splintered by the writing of $20,000,000,000 worth of additional business.

A figure that fairly coruscates with significance when we realize that it represents 20 per cent of all policies in force hereabouts.

The population of few European countries carry that much family protection between them.

Paraphrasing the late Mr. Lundy Foote's carriage blazonment: "Just see what prosperity done!"

A far cry to pre-Rebellion days, when superstitution and stupidity were not only avowing that the bathtub was a symbol of sinful pride and a short cut to the graveyard, but even more busy-bodily engaged in opposition to "death lotteries."

Organized antagonism even went so far as to undertake proof that individuals, who thus made provision for their dependents, instantly diminished their life expectation.

Pamphlet and pulpit fulminated against the practice. Wives wept and shuddered at news that their future had been financially safeguarded.

And pioneer agents grew hoarse and haggard, protesting the cancellation of contracts at home folks' insistence.

THE DARK AGES are seldom an entire century distant.

Each generation is amazed at some benighted behavior of its predecessor just as our own is dumbfounded at the continual resistance to smallpox vaccination, diphtheria inoculation and compulsory isolation for infected households.

Shot-gun quarantine is still necessary in serious emergency, and a multitude of otherwise intelligent citizens prefer to writhe in agony rather than be relieved or mended by the simplest surgical operation.

The use of quinine was once banned by secular authorities because it had been introduced through Jesuit missionaries.

And such bitter battle was offered to the use of cotton, by English weavers, that procured legislation (as late as the seventeen hundreds) imposed $25 fine on wearers of the forbidden cloth and $100 penalty an each retail sale.

Germany at one time actually uttered anathema on indigo, condemned it as an invention of the devil, and delivered solemn prayers to halt its further invasion of the crafts.

Railroads combatted terror and suspicion for several decades, and there are scores of native-born adults who have yet to ride behind a locomotive.

Benefactions and innovations all wear sprigs of poison ivy in their myrtle wreaths.

A bull-brained minority regularly "sees red" in every enlightened movement and tries to "put" it off the track.

Progress never yet staged a new play, without an overture of assbrays.

Today in Texas History

JUNE 19

1836—Beale's settlement at the mouth of the Rio Grande had been abandoned.

1865—General Granger, commanding federal forces at Galveston, proclaimed all slaves in Texas free.

1874—The Atchison Institute of Navasota held a grand concert and commencement exercises.

Women prevented an aviator from allowing a monkey to drop out of his plane on a parachute in New York the other day. They'll still let a man make a monkey of himself, though.

A New York woman has opened a studio where she will make a recording of your voice. Great stuff, boys, you can take a record of the wife's voice along with you on your vacation.

Piracy—We Must Insist

IT IS all very well to explain that the recent attack on the city of Willemstad, in the Dutch West Indies Island of Curacao, was the work of disgruntled revolutionists from Venezuela. We know better than to believe anything like that. The pirates are coming back!

Willemstad, you must remember, is a town that has known piracy from of old. It lies in the middle of the great stamping ground of the buccanneers; it has known forays like this of the Venezuelans, time without number.

To be sure, this is the year 1929, and the Caribbean sea has been free from pirates for many years. Yet this story is too good to spoil. Every man who has any taste at all for the wild tales of an earlier day will insist that Willemstadt was raided, not by crack-brained insurrectos, but by regular, sure-enough pirates.

Consider the facts of the case. In the dead of night a band of some 200 armed men creep into the peaceful harbor. They seize the governor and various other functionaries, shoot down sundry policemen, take possession of an American steamer and clear out, in typical pirate fashion, just as the tropic dawn comes out over the sea to the east.

Naturally, this has caused a stir. The Dutch have sent a warship or two to the spot, post-haste. Gomez, swarthy dictator of Venezuela, protests that the business was none of his doing. The American state department, mindful of the Monroe doctrine, cocks a wary eye toward Curacao and prepares to do what may be necessary.

But the rest of us, who have no direct concern in it, must not let it be dismissed as an act of revolutionists. If we have any love at all for the romance that is fast disappearing from a mechanized world, we must insist, to the last gasp, that it was piracy. We must scan the Caribbean horizon for the Jolly Roger, and prepare to read that the raiders' captives have been made to walk the plank.

Think of it—around Point Gallinas, a few miles west of Willemstad, lies the fabled city of Caragena, backed by Drake. To the eastward is Port of Spain, famed in pirate lore for centuries. Northward is the magic isle of Hispaniola (called Haiti by a prosaic age), where pirates got the name Buccaneers. Toward the sunrise lie the Leeward and Windward islands—Tortuga, Antigua, Barbados, San Domingo and the rest. The stubby corronades of unwashed pirates have crashed and rumbled all over this part of the map. Hardly a cove along the shore line but has harbored some battle-smitten galleon or other.

We must stick to it. Presently, let us hope, these raiders will be captured—to be hanged on execution dock, and then exposed in chains for weeks afterward, to terrify evil-doers. It would be a splendid ending for a refreshing tale.

War-Born Emotions Are Dead

EMOTIONS born of war-time excitement do not last long.

If any further proof of this were needed, it is furnished by the recent action of the British election in returning Ramsay MacDonald to the premiership.

During the war MacDonald was an out and out pacifist. He was subject to bitter criticism, lost his seat in parliament, and apparently his political career was ruined for good. Britain, in those days, had no use for pacifists.

But he is now prime minister for the second time. The war-time rage against pacifists has died down. The word is still a term of deep reproach in some circles; but Englishmen, figuring up what they got out of the war, can hardly be expected to consider pacifism as terrible a crime as they did a decade ago.

The Way Science Gambles

SCIENCE, in some ways, indulges in gambling on a grander scale than any other branch of human endeavor. There was a total eclipse of the sun in the far east recently. For years in advance, British and German scientists had spent much money and effort preparing to make observations of it. They established a base in Siam, established themselves there and waited for the day to come.

And then the sky was so cloudy that they were baffled. Not a glimpse of the eclipse did they get. Their time and money were completely wasted. There was nothing to do but go home and wait for the next one.

Who but scientists would gamble so heavily on the chance of good weather.

A Queer Sort of Job

THE THINGS men will do to earn a living are sometimes very queer. In Berlin there died the other day a man who had made a fortune by dealing in circus "freaks."

He scoured Germany, for years, looking for dog-faced boys, bearded women, grotesquely misshapen cripples, three-headed calves and so on. When he found such a specimen he would take the luckless individual to Berlin, train it, add a few touches that nature overlooked and then contract with a circus for its exhibition.

He was highly successful, and made a great deal of money in this way.

Quotations Worth Noting

"Discoveries from the geological strata and the ancient cities and cemeteries of the Orient reveal a new and imposing panorama of advancing human development. At its beginning man visibly emerges from the geological ages and, after several hundred thousand years, he rises from purely material conquest to visions of brotherly love."—Prof. James H. Breasted, director of the Oriental institute of the University of Chicago.

"Probably few of you realize that the use of power has grown three and three-quarters times faster than our population has grown; or that we use as much electricity as all the rest of the world combined. This spread in the use of power has made it unnecessary for factories to cluster in certain districts; there's a decided trend of industry to move to the smaller-seized centers and to the country."—Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce.

The GREEN SHADOW - By Herman Landon

(Copyright by Public Ledger)

Adele Castle has just had the weirdest adventure of her life. She has been taken by a mysterious Miss Conway to meet Dr. Moffett, whom she meets but odes not see. For as she enters the room of an old house in a part of New York she does not recognize she is met by a green light through which she observes only the vague outline of a man. He tells her he knows her father is the "Mr. Graves" whom police seek as the associate of Daniel Forrester, who died after getting $10,000,000 by fraud. He claims to have papers which, if made public, would result in Mr. Castle going to jail.

Mr. Castle's face sagged. "You—you know?" he echoed dully.

The Mysterious Mr. Graves

The semiannual meeting of the board of directors of the Knickerbocker Finance corporation had been a stormy one. Several members had mutinied against the lately adopted policies of the chairman Virgil Ellsworth Castle. Heated invective and sharp retorts had passed along the mahogany table, disturbing the decorum of a severely plain room bordered by soundproof walls and sanctified to weighty deliberations. Otherwise dignified gentlemen in frock coats had forgotten they were gentlemen. Faces had flushed and voices had risen above the limits of good behavior. It had been the most turbulent meeting in the history of the corporation.

It was over now. Mr. Castle had returned to his private office, furnished in the manner of classical dignity that became his position. He adjusted the flower in his buttonhole and mopped his face. A smile played about his lips as he stood at a window looking out over the harbor with its argosies from many lands.

It had been a good fight. He had thrown all his strength and the full force of his personality into it. His voice had alternately cooed and thundered. He had cajoled and bluffed; his tongue had flattered and lashed, as the occasion required. He had leaped from playful satire to vitriolic denunciation. And in the end he had won.

It had been a victory for Mr. Castle and his faction. Hence the satisfied, if somewhat tired, smile that now twisted his lips. It was a great satisfaction to know that he was a master of men, even if he was not at all times the master of himself. For the time at least he had drowned a burden of fear and guilt in the tossing billows of a battle from which he had emerged victorious.

Almost soundlessly the door opened. Adele, the one person privileged to enter his inner sanctum without formality, stepped lightly inside and closed the door behind her. Mr. Castle, absorbed in his thoughts, heard nothing. She advanced a few steps over the rug, then paused and regarded the figure at the window. Her dark eyes, with a brooding haze in them, widened slightly.

Her father was standing straight and erect once more—just as she had been accustomed to seeing him until recently, with head held high and shoulders thrown back—rocking slowly on his heels while he jingled a few coins in his pocket.

She wondered at the transformation. But she did not wonder for long. Too many things, some of them weirdly inexplicable, others poignantly real and clear, had happened in the last few hours to permit her to inquire into causes and effects. She was still seeing things through a green mist. There was a distant drone in her ears—Dr. Moffett's voice! Things that were incomprehensible thronged her brain, but uppermost was a sharp anxiety.

The last hour had been like a foggy dream in the morning. She had listened to Dr. Moffett's adroitly phrased proposition, asked time to think it over, and then she had departed as she had come, escorted by the langourous Miss Conway, too preoccupied with the first tragedy that had altered her young life to attempt to elude the surveillance of the silent woman at her side.

And now she was here, hoping against hope that her father's words would shatter the clouds that had gathered over her head and assure her that it had been all a hideous dream.

"Dad, I Know"

"Dad!" she whispered.

Mr. Castle swung round, and the expresison of triumphant belligerency faded out of his face, yielding to a look of pleasure and tenderness.

"Well, my little girl," he exclaimed, "this is a nice surprise!" He reached out and gave her a little hug. The chairman of the Knickerbocker corporation had retired in favor of the fond parent. "It isn't often you favor your old dad with a visit. Sit down here and tell me all about it. I'm in a generous mood this morning. If you have been a reckless little girl and overdrawn your allowance—"

He faltered and paused. He had just seen the white, stricken look in his daughter's face. Despite the handsome morning frock she wore, there was a crushed, despairing air about her.

"What on earth's the matter?" he asked anxiously.

"Dad," said Adele in a thin, even tone. "I know."

Mr. Castle's face sagged. He gave her a blank look. A dread premonition tightened his lips and darkened his eyes. "You—you know?" he echoed dully.

"Everything," said Adele. "Let's sit down, dad. We must talk."

Mr. Castle's hand shook as he gripped the arms of the swivel chair—the chair from which he directed the destiny of the Knickerbocker Finance corporation—and sat heavily down. With a limp motion Adele slipped into the chair beside him. For a few painful moments they faced each other in silence.

"Dad," Adele began, "is it true that you are the mysterious Mr. Graves?"

Though prepared for the question Mr. Castle winced. He slumped down a little in the chair, then drew himself up again. His face was suddenly gray and drawn.

"Some one has been talking?" he said in a flabby tone.

Adele nodded.

"Who?" her father demanded.

She hesitated. Her brain re-enacted the bewildering scene—the room with the green lights, the shrouded face, the stifling oppression that had weighed upon her. Then she shrugged. These were nonessentials. Her mind fastened on the only tangible thing that mattered.

"Some one who calls himself Doctor Moffett," she replied.

Mr. Castle sat stonily still. A gray look spread across his face. A groan came. She reached out and squeezed his cold, trembling hand.

"Buck up, dad. Maybe it isn't as bad as we think."

A sickly smile twisted Mr. Castle's lips. "So he has come to you," he muttered brokenly. "It wasn't so bad while he confined his hounding to me. I could bear it somehow—find a way out, perhaps. But now you have been dragged into it. Oh, good heavens!"

"There, dad." She patted his arm. "You musn't take it so hard. Maybe I can help you. We'll fight it out together, you and I. I've been no good to you in the past—only a silly, frivolous creature. I want to make up for it now. Let's see if we can't plan something."

Her father shook his head despondently. "I'm afraid it's no use, dear. Doctor Moffett can break me. If it was a fair and open fight it would be different. But Doctor Moffett doesn't fight fairly. He strikes in the dark and from behind. He struck a blow from behind when he dragged you into this. I had been afraid he would. The viper!"

"Please, dad, don't take on so. I'm sure we can do something."

A Pawn in the Game

Mr. Castle went from cringing dejection to a mood of grim, savage vindictiveness. "If I could only get my hands on him6! I would crush the life out of his yellow hide. I would—But trere's no chance. He won't fight in the open. He prefers to skulk in the dark. Don't you see what he is doing? He is trying to influence me through you. He is using you, a girl, as the pawn in his dirty game. The contemptible rat! The treacherous, poisonous snake!"

"Darling, darling!" Adele murmured. "You mustn't!"

Mr. Castle calmed himself with a grim effort. There was a strained ashen look in his face, a mingling of mental agony and biting scorn.

"Let's see what we can do," Adele suggested. "But first you must tell me everything. It is true that you are the mysterious Mr. Graves, isn't it?"

Her father nodded heavily. "Yes, it's true. But don't despise me, dear I could stand anything else, but not that. Oh, I've been a fool! For fifteen years I have been making money for the Knickerbocker Finance corporation, but my personal affairs have suffered gravely.

"A year ago they were in a dreadful muddle. They are in a somewhat better condition now, but even today I wouldn't know where to borrow even such a sum as $50,000. I have been lying awake nights scheming and planning. Everything I touched on my own account seemed to go wrong. I have worried night and day."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" Adele murmured.

"Why didn't you tell me, dad? I've been extravagant—terribly. If I had only known—"

"There, there, don't reproach yourself. It's all my fault. If I had planned better, things wouldn't have got into such a mess. You are all I have, dear. I have always wanted you to have the best of everything—the finest education, the finest clothes, everything your heart could desire."

"Yes, I know, dad, but I feel so guilty—"

"You mustn't feel that way. I could have afforded it easily, if only I hadn't bungled things. I was careless with my investments, and afterward I got reckless. One project after another collapsed. But there, I shan't worry you with the details. It's enough for you to know that when Daniel Forrester came to me one day about a year and a half ago I was on the brink of ruin."

Mr. Castle groaned. "Forrester was a glib talker. He had a brilliant scheme, one that promised enormous returns on a very small investment. I was able to raise a little money, enough to put the project on its feet. We became partners, although I stipulated that my name mustn't be associated with the enterprise.

"It wasn't that I had any doubt as to the honesty and legality of the undertaking, but I didn't want it to become known that my interests were divided between the Knickerbocker Finance corporation and this other thing. If I had looked a little more deeply into Forrester's brilliant scheme, perhaps I would have become suspicious. But I did not; there were too many other things on my mind, and Forrester had come to me with the best sort of recommendation.

"I took an active part in the management of the project and reaped half the profits. The profits tided me over the crisis, and that was all. I had but a very little left over. And it wasn't until Forrester was dead and the investigation got under way that I discovered that I had been associated with a criminal enterprise."

$100,000 Blackmail

"Poor dad!" Adele whispered.

"I—I don't deserve your sympathy," said Mr. Castle brokenly. "I was careless. A man in my position should have known better. And I am not making excuses for myself. If I had paused to give the matter adequate consideration, Forrester could never have inveigled me into such a crooked business. I just saw a chance to recoup my personal fortune, and I jumped into it with my eyes only half open. There's the story. I had hoped to keep the disgraceful secret from you but now it's out. Do you hate me?"

"I love you," said Adele passionately.

"Don't," said her father. "I don't deserve it, and so it hurts."

She leaned over and kissed him.

"My first thought when I saw how things were," Mr. Castle went on, "was that I must reimburse the investors who had been victimized by Forrester and myself. I knew it would take years, and it would have to be done very quietly, but it seemed the only decent thing to do.

"I hoped to set aside a portion of my income each year for that purpose. I thought there would be only a slight chance that my participation in the scheme would become known. Then, soon after Forrester's death, the police and the newspapers began to talk about a certain mysterious Mr. Graves who was supposed to have been associated with Forrester.

"Even then I had little fear that my secret would leak out. I knew there were compromising papers in Forrester's desk, including a partnership agreement, but during his illness Forrester told me he had destroyed them. It's possible that his mind wasn't clear, that he confused the intention with the accomplished fact. At any rate, one evening about a month after his death, I received a telephone message."

"From Doctor Moffett," Adele surmised.

"Yes, from Doctor Moffet. I have received numerous telephone calls from him and a great number of typewritten notes, all to the same effect. Doctor Moffet is a blackmailer, of course. He claims to have documentary evidence of my partnership with Forrester, and he has repeatedly pointed out to me what would happen if this evidence should be made public."

"Exactly what would happen, dad?"

Her father drew a long, shuddering breath. "There is a possibility I would be sentenced to imprisonment for a number of years. Yes, we might as well face the facts. There is a strong public sentiment against the mysterious Mr. Graves. A jury would be very likely to convict me. But even if I should be acquitted I would be absolutely ruined. A man can never live down a black mark like that. My career would go to smash, and you—"

"Don't consider me, dad," said Adele with a smile. "And I'm sure it will never come to that. Dr. Moffett is willing to sell you the evidence for $100,000, isn't he?"

"Yes, and he might as well ask a hundred thousand millions."

"Couldn't you borrow the money from some one?"

Mr. Castle shook his head with a hopeless expression.

"Wouldn't Doctor Moffett accept half a loaf rather than no bread at all?"

"Moffett thinks I am rich, and that I am only stalling when I tell him his demands are impossible."

Adele considered for a moment. "I tell you what we'll do, dad. We'll go away—far away—where nobody will ever find us. I don't mind being poor for a change. It will probably do me good. Let's do it, dad!"

"No, my dear. I don't like the idea of running away. Besides, it would take me a long time to make a fresh start in a strange place. Your future—"

"Pshaw! I don't care a fig about my future. All I care about is you. We could be ever so happy, dad. I could do something to help toward our support—teach music or French or swimming perhaps. I'd just love it. Won't you consider it, dad?"

Mr. Castle smiled feebly at her eagerness. Her face was radiant again. Her eyes shone as brightly as if she had never gazed into the mysteries of a green room.

He shook his head with something of his old-time vigor and determination.

"No, little girl. I couldn't think of it. You can see what would happen. Doctor Moffett would fly into a rage. To satisfy his spite he would turn the evidence over to the authorities. My flight would be a confession of guilt. I would be a hunted man for the rest of my life. I would never have a moment's peace. And you—you would be dragged into all this. It's out of the question."

Adele's face fell. She knew her father was inflexible when he spoke in this tone. Besides, she could see now that the idea of flight had its drawbacks. She could picture her father a broken, hunted man, fleeing from place to place, always pursued by the fear of detection.

She nodded soberly. "Perhaps you are right, dad. It may be better to stay here and fight it out. But we must fight together. You mustn't keep anything from me." She paused for a moment. "You say you have never seen Doctor Moffett?"

"No. He has communicated with me only by mail and telephone. That's what makes it so hard. An enemy who doesn't come out in the open is doubly dangerous."

"Maybe we can force him out." A vague smile touched Adele's lips. "Tell me exactly what he has threatened to do."

"He has threatened to destroy me by degrees if I fail to meet his demands. Little by little, blow by blow, he intends to increase the pressure until I pay what he asks. Just as if I could! The first blow has already fallen. He has told you that your father is a crim—"

"Hush, dad! It isn't true. You made a mistake, that's all."

"Anyway, Doctor Moffett has struck the first blow. He had to convince me that his bite is as bad as his bark. Besides, he probably thought you would be horrified at the prospect of your father being exposed as a—lawbreaker, and would prevail on me to buy his silence.

"He made a miscalculation there. He didn't know you. But the first blow has fallen. The next will come when he tells the board of directors what sort of man their chairman is. If that fails, he intends to notify certain influential friends of mine.

"If I still resist, he means to scatter various vague clues which will accelerate the search for the mysterious Mr. Graves without giving the authorities any definite information regarding his identity. He thinks that will frighten me into submission. If it fails, he will retaliate by taking his evidence to the authorities. And that will be the end."

He flung out his arms in a gesture of despair. A spurious smile played about his lips. "Now you know it all, little girl. Maybe it's just as well that you do. You had to know some time. But tell me"—and he straightened up a little—"what did Mr. Moffett say to you? Where did you see him?"

"At the house. That is, I didn't—" Adele hesitated. It was impossible to explain. Her father would either think she was out of her mind or else he would be freshly alarmed by the amazing tale she had to tell. "It's a strange story, dad. I can't tell it now. I want to be alone and think. There!"

She flung her arms about his neck and kissed him. Then she ran quickly from the office. On the sidewalk she started to hail a taxi, but changed her mind and rode home in the subway instead.

"I've been extravagant long enough," she told herself.

A letter awaited her when she reached home. There was no stamp on the envelope, which bore a typewritten address, so evidently it had been delivered by messenger. Her eyes widened in amazement as she read the brief communication inside:

The grass in Central Park is still green, and green is a lovely color. There is a comfortable bench near the 72d street entrance. If you should happen to be seated there at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, some one would be pleased to discuss nature's color scheme with you, with particular emphasis on green.

In the meantime, don't worry.

THE PICAROON.

"The Picaroon?" said Adele in a dazed tone, looking up from the typewritten letter. Then she looked down again. She read the note a second time.

"Green—green," she mumbled.

The Day Book of a New Yorker ◆ ◆ ◆ Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon ◆ ◆ ◆

NEW YORK, June 18.—Take it from Mrs. Eddie Cantor, her famous comedian husband is by no means a panic of humor at home. Days off, says Ruth Morris, who talked with Mrs. Cantor, are days off.

Mrs. Cantor told one story about a maid. As a treat Eddie got her a seat to see him in a musical comedy. Up to that time she had been a good servant and was most respectful to him. But after she saw Eddie knocked around on the stage by the entire cast, she wouldn't take an order from him. Even in front of company she'd laugh in his face.

And this isn't publicity, either—at least, it isn't if Eddie is sincere in saying he is through with the stage.

The Market Place

A little known but quiet market place is located under the Queensboro bridge. The booths of the city's concessionaires are housed in spacious, airy quarters, between graceful pillars reaching up to curved domes. It is a stopping-off place, you might say, for vegetables in from the country.

The nationality of the vendors is miscellaneous: Italian and staccato French resound through the place; sign over one concession announces Isador Kaminsky selling vegetables; another asserts that J. Katz is delighted to dispose of salt herring; cavair is in abundance and ice crates are at one stand. At the extreme end of the market place is a sign announcing that it is the Benefit Shop of the Madonna House. Cast-off clothes and whatnot are donated by neighboring supporters.

Statistics About a Season

Now that the theatrical season is over it is possible to take a look at the statistics regarding successes and failures. Variety, the Broadway bible, records 25 successes, 28 intermediate successes with moderate runs and 122 failures. The latter figure indicates the trend of the season.

In the list of 122 failures I find only one production, "Rainbow," an operetta, which did not deserve its fate. The others were mediocre and do not prove that the public is unappreciative but rather that it is discriminating. The 25 successes listed none that were poor plays. The intermediate plays included a few that deserved more success, particularly "Wings Over Europe," "Mima," "The Red Robe," and "Machinal."

Observed and Noted

Madison Square Garden used a new stunt to eliminate intoxicated seat-holders at the recent dance derby. An orchestra played "Star-Spangled Banner" and the house officers scanned the tiers for those unable to rise. Then the officers went for the recumbent ones.

Tammany Young, rival of One-Eyed Connolly, crashed a motor bus to Buffalo.

Georges Carpentier arrived in town from France. The same "georgeous Georges." Not here to fight, not here to make money, not here to get publicity. Just here for a vacation.

The People's theater, at the Bowery and Delancey street, is going under the auctioneer's hammer. Henry Brady is offering it for sale. The highest bidder will not get much in the way of real estate values, but plenty in the way of theatrical memories.

The recent dance derby in Madison Square Garden—called by the wise ones "Milton Crandall's Eternity Hop"—was a terrible failure, the audience consisting for the most part of vacant chairs. The dance ran on for 534 hours, a record of some kind, but New York paid little attention to it. The newspapers ignored the publicity efforts of the promoters and a terrible time was had by all.

Mr. Sidney Franklyn Tells the Story of His Success

(Sidney Franklyn, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the only American to seek a career as a bull fighter, has become the idol of Spain. In a recent fight in which he slew two bulls, he was carried from the arena on the shoulders of cheering throngs.—News item).

"Well, folks, it is the old story of hard work and ultimate triumph over adversity. As a child I had few of the advantages which help a lad to become a bull fighter. My parents were very poor. They were too poor to keep a bull. Up to the time I was 10 years old I had to practice on a Great Dane. Later my father bought me a goat. Then my parents, realizing that I showed great promise as a bull fighter, hired a tutor who owned his own bull and used to bring it to me for the lessons.

"How I used to dread those lessons! He used to make me practice two hours every day. It was pretty tough having to go out two hours every afternoon and wrestle with a bull when I wanted to stay in and play the piano like other children.

"Well, anyway, I rapidly became the most proficient child bull fighter in our neighborhood. I was called a child prodigy and when I was 12 years old I gave a bull fighting recital. All the masters said I had a rare touch and predicted great things for me in the bull-ring.

"Then came a severe blow. The professor's bull died. The next bull he bought was no match for me. I went to work as a newsboy and earned enough money to buy my own bull on the time payment plan. It was a beautiful bull, a dull mahogany. Then I decided to waive my amateur standing and come out as a professional bull fighter.

"Even my best friends turned awhy. They said there was no future in bull fighting and urged me to take up something that promised speedy financial returns, like prohibition enforcement or golf lessons. But I was firm. I believed in myself. I believed in bull fighting. I believed in America.

"It was a hard road I had chosen, no bull. Attempts to interest my native land in bull fighting were futile. Penniless and hungry, I went from house to house trying to interest people in bull fighting. Laughter and derision greeted me.

"Then I turned to Spain. At first the country was indiffesent. To attract attention I stole a bull and fought it outside a restaurant in which the king was dancing. He ordered that I be given a chance. Well, the rest is history. I made my debut at Seville, fought six bulls in one night and made a grand slam."

"What is your advice to American boyhood?" he was asked.

"Get out of the newspaper business before you are 30," he replied firmly.

IT MIGHT BE WORSE

Tree-spray, it has been discovered, is being used in making just-offaboat liquor for the New York trade. Well, tree-spray—if it's genuine pre-war tree spray, of course—is pretty good stuff as liquor goes these days.

OKLAHOMA HIGHWAY COMMISSION TO ASK $150,000,000 BONDS

VOTE ON ROAD ISSUE URGED

Resolution for Election to Be Introduced

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 18. (UP)—The state highway commission of the Holloway administration will ask the people to vote a $150,000,000 bond issue—$100,000,000 to be used first and the $50,000,000 to be used as needed, it has been decided by the commissioners and administration leaders.

A committee of 13, including all house factions, was named Tuesday by Speaker Nance to confer with a senate committee, the governor and the highway commission on the proposed bond issue.

The committee is composed of Charles A. Moon, chairman, Cham Jones, R. H. Stanley, E. W. Snoddy, E. E. Sams, O. O. Owens, J. A. Patterson, Tom Knight, Allen Street, Claude Briggs, Bruce L. Keenan, Dave Stovall and George A. Hutchinson.

A resolution submitting the bond issue in the form of a constitutional amendment is expected to be introduced in the legislature either Wednesday or Thursday, Governor Holloway indicated today.

Two proposed constitutional amendments have been submitted to the attorney general for consideration. One was drawn by Judge Samuel W. Hayes of Oklahoma City and the other by George S. Ramsey of Tulsa. Hayes and Ramsey are expected to have a conference with Atty. Gen. Edwin Dabney and Debney's assistants late today. Both amendments are alike on the main questions.

Each provides for the $150,000,000 bond issue—$100,000,000 to be spent after being voted, and the other $50,000,000 to be issued if the commission and the legislature determine it is necessary to spend this money. The $100,000,000 bond issue is to be issued after being voted but only to be sold as needed. Each amendment provides for a highway commission of three members serving six-year terms and subject to removal only by impeachment. The amendments provide that the counties which have issued bonds to build state highway shall be reimbursed.

The proposed amendments will be submitted to the house committee which Speaker James C. Nance is to appoint late today to consider a road bond issue.

The senate today reconsidered its action in killing the bill providing for a judicial council to work out court procedure in Oklahoma.

The bill then was amended to authorize the council to recommend judicial procedure to the legislature instead of permitting the council to put into effect proposed procedure. The bill then passed the senate and was sent to the house for consideration.

Turkish Diplomat Will Ask Redress

WASHINGTON, June 18. (INS)—Indignant over his arrest by Fairfax county, Virginia, authorities as an alleged drunken automobile operator, Kemel Djenany said to be second secretary of the Turkish embassy, was prepared today to appeal to the Turkish ambassador for redress.

Ambassador Ahmed Mouktar Bey, now absent from the city, will be asked to protest to the state department on his return, Djenany declared.

The young diplomat was arrested Friday night while driving along the main street of Fairfax court house, by State Prohibition Inspector Virgil Williams and Deputy Sheriff Wilson Darr, of Fairfax. Arraigned before Mayor Thomas P. Chapman, Djenany produced his diplomatic credentials, pleaded his immunity, and was released.

According to the arresting officers, Djenany, who was accompanied by a friend, Frank Thyson, of Chevy Chase, Md., fought them viciously when they were trying to take him to jail.

Djenany returned to Washington with two black eyes.

His arrest Friday recalls another clash he had with New Jersey police last August when he was arrested in Trenton, following injuries received in an automobile accident. A Trenton policeman refused to hear his protest of immunity and took him to jail where he remained several hours. A statement was issued at the time by the Trenton authorities that an apology was being sent the Turkish ambassador.

Raley Tax Suit May Go To Trial Wednesday

Efforts will be made to start trial of the $18,000 suit brought against the county by Guy C. Raley, tax collector, for delinquent tax commissions, at the opening of the 78th district court Wednesday morning, according to attorneys in the case.

The suit was called at 9 o'clock Monday morning but postponed until T. R. Boone, attorney for Mr. Raley could complete a case pending in the 89th court. Both sides have declared ready for trial and the case is expected to get underway Wednesday unless other business intervenes.

M'DONALD AND DAWES SPEAK

Platitudes Comprise Two Addresses

broth such as Briand and Chamberlain cooked against America in the naval pact of last September.

General Dawes, promising some disarmament conference in the indefinite future, said:

"The attitude of the two great English speaking peoples upon this question, (disarmament) unmistakably assumed as out of the realm of debate, even by the nationalistic demagogues of both countries, while decorated by reason, is based under the providence of God upon fundamental human instincts and the commingling of blood."

Statement Amiss

That is the statement of a shrewd statesman who, perhaps acting under orders, nevertheless has missed the psychological moment to catch the imaginations on both sides of the Atlantic at full flood.

Whether for reasons of policy decided upon in that talk at Forres or because failing to catch the tempo of the world's expectations, both shrewd politicians missed the opportunity tonight to satisfy the demands of that "human nature" to which General Dawes constantly constrasted "human reason" in his Pilgrims society address.

When Lord Desborough, the toastmaster, rapped for order over the distinguished assemblage of 400 pilgrims and their guests who included diplomats from Germany, France, Brazil, Belgium and Japan, he read Premier MacDonald's letter of regrets.

No Great Issues

In his letter the new premier told the pilgrims:

"Fortunately there are no great issues standing between our two countries. We are like men between whom there are a few neglected roads with a slightly rough surface, but who are determined to smooth them out so they can get more directly on contact with each other.

"However, our coming together in no way means that we are leaving somebody else out. It is the great world impulse to get side by side which both America and ourselves are feeling.

"We long for no alliance, either in common offense or for future defense, but rather for good will which when demonstrated to the eyes of men will make the whole world applaud as being both example and encouragement for other nations to come into the same companionship."

In introducing Ambassador Dawes to the distinguished guests of the Pilgrims society, foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson said:

Goal Is Disarmament

"I hope and believe that our repective countries, inspired by true comradeship in peace, are both anxious to join other nations in a new concerted effort—and successful effort— to reach the goal of definite disarmament."

In answering the foreign secretary's words of introduction, General Dawes announced:

"My theme tonight is what methods of procedure are best to be adopted to translate the policy of naval reduction into a fixed agreement between the two nations."

Details Omitted

If his hearers perked their ears to get the details of that theme they were doomed to disappointment, for throughout his lengthy address he did not "come down to cases" once.

After an analysis of the reparations conferences in which the economists and statesmen found themselves each on a separate plane, he drew an analogy between them and the naval experts and statesmen failing to coalesce a unified opinion on disarmament, saying:

"It would be vastly more difficult, other things being equal, for a mixed commission of navy technicians and statesmen to agree on a plan for disarmament that for a mixed commission of economists and statesmen to agree on a reparations settlement—practically impossible. As history has shown the latter to be."

The nearest approach to a definite statement of President Hoover's recommendations, if any, was when he said:

"At the beginning of the work of the disarmament conference, the contribution of the naval experts to the problem should be a definition of abstract equality, which is certainly possible. But I say frankly that from a commission of naval experts of respective nations meeting together to evolve a final definition of a naval yardstick I would expect failure to agree."

Separate Definitions

Each government, General Dawes added, should separately obtain from their respective experts their definition of the yardstick.

"Then," he added, "the inevitable compromise between the conflicting definitions should be made by a committee of statesmen reinforced by these separate expressions of abstract, technical, naval opinion and able to again see further naval advice.

"The importance of early agreement on naval reduction by the nations is of outstanding importance at the present time and would seem to be the next step to be taken toward world peace.

"A matter of first importance at the present time is that friends of world peace move unitedly toward that objective with a clear understanding among themselves that any effort which is not a united effort is liable to be ineffective, tending toward disintegration."

Theater Sponsors Contest to Name 'Yo Yo Champ

Persons of from 4 to 100 years will be eligible for the first citywide yo yo tourney, it was announced. Entrants will be required to register at the box office of the Olympic, giving name, address, telephone number, sex and age, not later than Tuesday noon.

Boys and girls of from 4 to 16 will unleash their pet oh-yos in competition on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, while the men only tangle will be conducted on Friday and Saturday nights. Judges will select two contestants each night for the finals, which will be held on Monday, July 1.

TARIFF STRIFE UNDIMINISHED

Many Amendments Before Senate Members

WASHINGTON, June 18. (AP)—A multiplicity of developments in the tariff situation occurred today but only one echo of the controversy over revision was heard in the senate.

Many amendments to the house bill were proposed; four senate finance sub-committees heard numerous pleas for changes in that measure; the tariff commission issued a tabulation showing agricultural and sugar products would benefit most by the bill; Representative Tilson, the Republican leader, defended it and Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, served notice that he would propose a new debenture plan as a rider to the measure.

Brookhart declared with reference to the defeat yesterday of the Borah resolution to restrict the revision to agriculture and related products that those who voted against it upset the president's program for "limited" readjustment. He saw little help for the farmer in the house bill and said he would press his debenture rider as the only solution of the surplus crop problem.

Amendments offered today would levy a tax of 5 per cent on all stock exchange transactions involving securities held less than 60 days; increase the house duty on hides; transfer oil and gasoline from the free to the dutiable list, and make 5-cent cigars weighing over three pounds to the thousand pay an internal revenue tax of $1.20 a thousand.

The tariff commission tabulation compared the averaged rate of protection, based on 1928 imports values, granted by existing law and the house measure and showed the sugar schedule rates are increased nearly 24.51 per cent; agriculture schedules 11.29 per cent; cotton manufactures 3.32 per cent; flax, hemp, jute and by-products 64 one-hundredths of one per cent and wool and by-products 8.43 per cent.

In his statement, Representative Tilson said the industrial sections had "shown no disposition to deny equality of protection to agriculture."

Red Radiance Gaining in Vote

Record News in the contest and will officially canvass the votes and declare the winner, urged Tuesday that Wichita Falls residents vote their preference as to flowers in the contest. The flower which receives the largest number of votes in the contest will be declared the official flower of Wichita Falls. Its use in all public and semi-public events will be sponsored, and every effort made to encourage its growth by Wichita Falls residents.

The gladiolus and petunia also made their appearance in the voting Tuesday, as new entries since the printing of the first ballot Monday. Votes have also been cast for the poppy and redbud.

Sponsored by newspapers and garden clubs all over the nation, scores of cities within the last few months have selected an official flower. In Wichita Falls, leaders of the Garden club, with Mrs. Frank Timberlake as president, have urged that residents of the city give consideration to the flower's adaptability to this climate and section most popular flower.

weapons which scatter shot, in the enforcement of the prohibition laws. The delegation also endorsed legislation which would compensate the dependents of persons slain by prohibition agents.

$30,000 Asked

Representative Pittenger, Republican, of Minnesota, introduced a resolution appropriating $30,000 for the dependents of Virkula. The sum would be divided equally between the widow and their two children.

While the president and congress had the tense situation uppermost in their consideration, the president's special commission on law enforcement resumed its hearings here today to delve into the cause and the cure of crime. Their session was executive, but it is understood that the commission took cognizance of the crisis brought about by the recent slayings in Minnesota, New York and Georgia.

Report Not Asked

Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury, in charge of prohibition enforcement, had earlier set at rest widely circulated rumors that the president had stepped in and taken personal control because of dissatisfaction growing out of the mounting death toll.

Lowman declared the president had not asked for a report on the Virkula case. Neither has the president asked for a report either on prohibition enforcement or liquor smuggling he said. He added that he had not conferred with Mr. Hoover on the subject.

A huge mobilization of bootleggers and smugglers on the Canadian border in the Detroit area was reported by Lowman who said the treasury was taking steps to combat the flow of spirits across the international line.

He said:

"Confidential reports of our agents show an unprecedented number of bootleggers and smugglers have gathered along the Canadian side of the border from Vancouver to the Atlantic seaboard prepared to run liquor into the United States. We have strengthened our forces all along the border in preparation to meet this situation."

Plane for Bridge Parties

Completely equipped for bridge parties, a plane is being constructed in Europe. It will cost $150,000, the ceiling being specially decorated by hand, representing an outlay of $5,000. There is room for eight passengers, and the appointments include a room with bridge tables and reclining chairs, an electric kitchen, and an electric refrigerator.

in making their selections. A committee named by Mrs. Timberlake will count the votes in the contest and declare the winner the official flower of the city.

Ballots in the contest should be addressed to the Flower Contest Editor, care The Record News, and either brought or mailed to this newspaper. Only one vote may be cast by each person, but each member of a family is entitled to register his or her choice for the city's most popular flower.

Tobacco Chewing Best Thing for Longevity
ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., June 18. (UP)—Moses Hatfield begins by junking all the talk about eating spinach and twisting the back in morning calisthenics in an effort to prolong life. His formula simply is to chew tobacco long and often and to eat in moderation.
Moses feels he occupies a position of some authority in these matters. He has the benefit of 101 years and six months research in right living.
If you eat temperately, the aged man believes, you can shatter almost all other temperate practices with one kick from your copper-toed boot.

RELIEVED HER BAD HEADACHES
Kentucky Lady Suffered If She Traveled or Worked Too Hard.
Science Hill, Ky.—"My nustand and I both used Black-Draught, and have for about ten or twelve years," says Mrs. W. M. Foster, of this place.
"I used to have very severe, sick headaches, especially if I took a trip, or worked too hard. These headaches would last about two days and nights, leaving me nervous and weak for some days.
"I found that if I would begin taking Black-Draught—a few doses—I would get relief in a few hours.
"Black-Draught seemed to act so well, relieving me of the bloated and uncomfortable feeling after meals.
"I cannot say enough for Black-Draught. It relieves constipation, and is an all-around good medicine."

The Keystone of Community Growth
BUY IT AT HOME
TEXANS LETS TALK TEXAS
BUY IT AT HOME is not just an empty expression. Upon this practice is based community growth. When the people of any community consistently patronize local institutions for whatever goods or services they can get from them, they are laying the foundation for growth. When they fail to do this they retard progress.
Many people feel that when they give their business to some firm outside their own community it is just the "hard luck" of the local firm which loses the business.
This is not the case.
Purchases made in your community starts that amount of money in circulation in your community. Rent and taxes are paid with that money; shoes, dresses, groceries, radios, hats, needles, thread, automobiles, tires, gasoline, dentistry, school supplies—everything that is sold by anybody is bought with a part of the money that is paid for anything bought and sold in your community.
It is not any more a matter of local loyalty to buy at home than it is a matter of self-preservation. When you buy a pair of shoes, for instance, somewhere else which you might have bought at home, you not only take business away from your local shoe merchant, but you take money from your local bank and the whole town loses just that amount of circulating wealth.
It is just good, sound business practice to buy things at home. Buy at home and help your town to grow.

TURGEON, BENTON, STAPLETON AND CROUCH LEAD SPUD WIN

PAYNE PITCHES STEADY GAME

Blackerby Clouts Season's Seventeenth Homer

Special to The Record News.

WACO, June 18.—Wichita Falls resumed its winning ways today. The Spudders captured the opener of the series from the Cubs, 8 to 6, thanks to mighty and opportune clouting.

Pete Turgeon hammered a home run, double and single to lead the attack; Benton clouted a double and triple, Bud Stapleton smashed a home run in his only legal time at bat and Jack Crouch bashed two hits.

The Spudders pounded Stein and Cheeves for 12 blows.

Waco clouted 11 hits off George Payne, but except in the sixth when the Cubs bunched three hits in two errors the screw ball chucker was master of the situation and pitched a competent game in this bandbox park, where good hurling is exceptional.

Vigare Also Hits Homer

George Blackerby and Felix Vigare led the Cub offensive, with three hits, including a home run, apiece. It was Blackerby's seventeenth circuit drive of the season.

Ray Andrews played third base in place of the departed Swenson and save for one error the kid looked good. He also made a hit that drove home a comrade.

Pete Lapan hurt a finger in the first inning and was forced to retire from the pastime but the injury was not serious.

The Spudders tallied two runs in the first inning when Benton tripled and scored ahead of Turgeon's homer over the left field wall, and they added another in the third. Turgeon singled but was forced by Fitzgerald. Vigare threw out Benton. Stapleton walked. Andrews singled past third, scoring Fitzgerald.

Wichita Falls scored four in the fourth, to eventually prove the winning margin. Crouch singled but was doubled stealing when Payne was called out on strikes. Benton and Turgeon whaled doubles, scoring Rabbit. Battle booted Fitzgerald's grounder, Turgeon scoring and Fitz going to second. Bennett doubled, scoring Fitzgerald. Stapleton strolled. Cheeves replaced Stein. Bennett and Stapleton worked the double steal and Red tallied when Vigare missed the catcher's throw.

The Cubs counted two in their half on Blackerby's circuit smash over the left field wall and Vigare's four-base blow over the right field barrier.

Cubs Tally Four in Sixth

Waco threatened in the sixth with four runs. Sanguinet was safe on Andrews' low throw, went to third on Blackerby's single, and scored while Turgeon was throwing out Johnson. Battle hit past third. Turgeon threw wild to Benton on Heath's bounder. Vigare scoring and Battle advancing to third. Battle scored while Benton and Turgeon were retiring Heath on Windle's grounder.

Stapleton's home run over the right field wall in the ninth gave the Spudders their last run.

Steengrafe probably will hurl the second of the series tomorrow for the Spudders.

FRANK BALL

The name of John Ball the peerless ranks in England with Tom Morris and the clan of Parks. And a distant relative of the great amateur came to America last year and set the world by the ear when he stole the lead in the national open. He lost it later, but it was his for a day.

Frank Ball was pro for several years at a Westchester, N. Y., club and now handles the shop at East Lake, Atlanta, Ga., one of the most famous in the country—it was at East Lake that Alexa Stirling and Bob Jones first swung a golf club.

The stocky young Briton uses an abbreviated swing with an astonishing lot of power going into the shot. His irons are strong enough and his putting good enough to rank him with the promising younger professionals.

FANS PARADE FOR SPUDDERS

Plans Made for Welcome to Athletes Friday

Tentative plans for welcoming the Spudders when they return home Friday from their present road trek have been made by the Junior chamber of commerce, which is sponsoring the reception of the fans. A parade to start at 3 o'clock will be the feature of the day.

The parade is to be headed by a band and all fans of Wichita Falls and vicinity are urged to have their cars in the line of march, which will be through the business section of the city. Those who will drive their cars in the parade are asked to telephone Frank Haley, 4383, or Lloyd Weaver, 2-0377.

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, June 18.—If you see an average baldheaded man trying to scald a poultice of postage stamps off his skull you will know than he has just crossed the great divide by air mail.

You can travel in the governmental cloud bureau these days and enjoy all the privileges of a souvenir postcard en route.

It took the covered wagon six months to trek the united works to Oregon. And then they didn't get there with the covers.

Now, you leave New York right after breakfast and reach California with egg on your chin.

The registered cost of coasting by air mail is the same as other bundles. Two cents an ounce, for every ounce after the third mile.

You save three days this way and age the same number of years.

A man weighing 200 pounds would weight 3,200 ounces if he were divided equally among all the guests.

At two cents an ounce he would still be perishable goods. It is a splendid way of getting to California. Especially, if the forgotten letters in your coat pocket are addressed to Cuba.

If you want to stop en route, that is easy. You are entitled to a parachute made out of cancelled postage stamps.

Even if the chute breaks, it is much easier to fall on Pike's Peak than to climb it.

We advise everybody to travel by air mail to the coast. The sleeping accommodations are great and the lower berths are only seven miles high.

We have traveled by air mail. And while the deliveries are fast, we do not care so much for the postoffice.

However, it solves the swift transportation problem. You look down a long flight of steps that ain't there. You see human beings crawling around like beetles.

And, here you are, away up into the sky, flying around like the great American eagle, which looks better on a dollar.

If you have never flown then you cannot realize how rubber heels absorb the shocks of 10,000 steps between the dining room and the kitchen.

Buy yourself a transcontinental set of postage stamps and waft yourself through overtaxed space to the coast.

As you zoom and zipper around the mezzanine of the universe, you wonder how Paul Revere ever got famous on a hoss.

The Lindbergh influence is so strong that after flying three miles we wanted to address a Rotary club.

From now on, if we want to go anywhere, we are going to fly. And we are going to fly just as fast as a stolen bicycle can take us.

Babe Ruth Returns To Diamond After Rest

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW York, June 18. (INS)—Babe Ruth returned to the diamond today following his week's vacation. The big fellow reported early and took hitting and fielding practice with the Yanks. He plans to be back in the lineup Friday.

Ruth, sitting on the bench, saw his home run rival, Lou Gehrig, pound out his 18th homer of the season in the first inning of the game with the Red Sox. The blow was off one of Morris' slants.

Lou's latest homer put him eight circuit clouts ahead of Ruth.

The Amateur Threat

The amateur threat in the coming open golf championship is one of the most dangerous the pros have been called on to face in many years.

No one took amateur golfers seriously until Francis Ouimet crashed through in 1913, and Jerry Travers followed him two years later at Baltusrol. When Hagen won in 1914 at Midlothian Chick Evans was only a stroke away. And then Chick took the hurdles at Minikahda in 1916. This gave the amateurs three open championships in four years.

After this the amateurs subsided until Bobby Jones took up the burden in 1923, to tie in 1925, win again in 1926 and tie again in 1928.

The amateur entry list for next week's golf war includes Bobby Jones, George von Elm, George Voight, Jimmy Johnston, Eddie Driggs, Maurice McCarthy, Eddie Held, George Dawson and one or two more.

Jones, Von Elm and Voight are all dangerous, and Jimmy Johnston and Eddie Driggs can play their share of fine golf.

You can usually count on Jones to be near the front of the parade, if he isn't leading. You can usually count on Von Elm to have his chance, a chance he has blown more than once on the greens. Voight is a straight-away hitter with wood and iron, and this type will carry a stout chance at Winged Foot, where they have left no great margin for wayside wandering. Many of the traps are cavernous, and the rough is full of tigers. It isn't a course that lends itself steadily to spectacular recoveries, for there are too many spots where a missed shot carries a certain penalty, where nature reaches out with a grip of steel.

Putting will not play the same part that it has played in so many past championships. The greens are none too large, and they are devoid of any tricky, baffling quality. There will be few approach shots stopping 60 or 70 feet from the cup, for if they are that far away they will usually be resting in a bed of sand. There isn't a hole on the course that can be used as a haven of rest, but there will be less nervous wear and tear upon the greens.

The medal play that Voight put on at Braeburn last September would make him a vital factor, for there he was always straight and his deadly accuracy more than made up for his slight loss of distance when stacked up against the bigger hitters.

Accuracy at Winged Foot can make up for any number of yards lost through lack of uncontrolled power.

The First Ten

The first 10 in the open last June at Olympia Fields included Johnny Farrell, Bobby Jones, Roland Hancock, Walter Hagen, George von Elm, Bill Leach, Henry Ciuci, Joe Turnesa, Waldo Crowder and Ed Dudley.

Almost no one had mentioned at least six of these as having a chance. Most of them had not been mentioned in the first 10 group. Such names as Mac Smith, Sarazen, Armour and Diegel got most of the play.

It will be the same this June. Most of the first 10 groups include the names of Jones, Hagen, Horton Smith, Mac Smith, Armour, Farrell, Diegel, Turnesa, Von Elm and Sarazen.

But not all of these will finish in the first 10—or the first 15—and there will be other names at the finish that now get almost no public comment.

Half-Strides

"Schmeling figures Paulino a soft target." There are a number of things you might call the Basque, but one of them isn't "soft." If he is soft, so is a hydrant.

Those who counted the Giants out of the pennant party a few weeks ago have now started counting all over again.

Australia kept the Davis cup from 1914 to 1920. The United States held it from 1920 to 1926. The term of office for the Davis cup seems to be around six years, and that is about as long as it will stick around France.

It must have occurred to the Giants two or three times that they could still use a pretty fair ball player around second by the name of Frank Frisch.

Apparently the easiest way to become a star pitcher is to get some ball club to fire you or trade you for a bat bag.

"I played with a bunch the other day that were so slow," says Rube Goldberg, "that I had to go through my own foursome."

"What is the longest or shortest put that should be conceded?" asks L. W. If the other side is doing the conceding there should be no limit.

BOYS' DISTRICT PLAY SATURDAY

Two Teams Lead in Race To Represent Wichita

It will be necessary to finish the American Legion league baseball season by next Saturday in order to have the winning Wichita Falls team ready to play Vernon in the district playoff, it was announced Tuesday, following receipt of a wire from the San Antonio office of the athletic director of the American Legion for the state of Texas.

The winner of the Wichita Falls league will play Vernon at 10 o'clock Saturday morning, and the winner of this game will play Olney at 4 o'clock the same day. In order to finish the scheduled games it probably will be necessary for the local teams to play double-headers this week, it was said. The Lone Stars will play the Seymour Roadsters in a rained-out game Thursday.

The present standing of the teams makes it doubtful as to which one will earn the right to play Vernon. The Knight Whippet-Pat Carrigan team has won six games and lost one, and the Gaines Motor sales team has won four and lost two, the former having two games to play and the latter having three. This means that there is a chance either team to be in the district game. With Knight-Whippet playing Northside and Gaines playing Seymour Roadsters on Wednesday, the outcome is doubtful, it was stated.

The final winner of Saturday's games with Vernon and Olney will play Corsicana for a bi-district championship, the winner of this game playing other districts on down to the selection of state champions, who will then go into a series with other states for the national championship.

British to Challenge U. S. for Polo Trophy

NEW YORK, June 18. (AP)—England is not going to wait any longer than the law requires before making another try for the international polo cup now held by the United States, it was indicated today.

The Hurlingham club of England, through Lord Cowdry, already has made inquiries of the United States Polo association relative to a resumption of the Anglo-American rivalry in this country next year.

The British last challenged in 1927 and as rules provide for challenge only after a three-year interval, they are taking their first opportunity of making a new attempt.

Water in Wading Pools Changed Every Other Day

Water in the city's two wading pools for children will be changed three times a week, according to C. C. Bunenberg, park superintendent. Cleo Creecy, in charge of the O'Reilly pool, and Glen Wharton, in charge of the Scotland pool, have been instructed to drain and refill the pools with fresh water every other day.

The pools are "a cross between a wading and a swimming pool," Mr. Bunnenberg said. They measure 20 by 40 feet and have depths of 18 inches at one end and of four and one-half feet at the other.

DAILY DOPE

A WRITER of sports was telling me last spring that Babe Hunt was a great fighter, fit to mingle with the best of the heavyweights. "This fellow Hunt can 'take' all the heavyweights in the racket, with the exception of Sharkey, Paolino and Schmeling," my scribe friend says. I asked him how about some of the other beezarks who are pretty good, like Stribling. "Why," says my friend, "Hunt can whip Stribling in any ring. I saw Stribling fight and I have seen Hunt fight and Stribling is made to order for him."

Now this scribe's perspective was all wrong. He had seen Hunt in several battles down here in the Southwest with fellows of like caliber, Red Fitzsimmons and others, nothing better than second or third-raters. Hunt had beaten most of those fellows. He had seen Stribling in one or two mills with pushovers. I had never seen Hunt fight. But it was significant to me that Babe, while he won practically all his battles, was not beating that sort of opposition with great decisiveness. And I had seen Stribling fight several times, with some rugged fellows as his foes.

As for Hunt whipping Stribling, that was a laugh.

For the very good reason that Stribling is a first-rater.

THERE ARE three or four classes of fighters. First-raters, second, third and fourth. Hunt is a second-rater. At the best. A second-rater can't fight second-rate battlers and then jump into the big league class and whip a first-rater. Oh, it happens occasionally that some unknown will arise to smite a first-rater. But once in a blue moon does that happen. For class and experience count in pugilism as in all things.

Stribling administered a severe lacing to Hunt Monday night in their ten-round fight. In fact, the Georgian gave the Oklahoman such a shellacking as to prove the difference between first and second-raters. Babe was floored for the eight-count in one of the late rounds, and W. L. coasted along the rest of the way. A kind-hearted boy is Stribling, and judging from press accounts of the fight he did not try with great effort to knock out Hunt before a lot of Babe's admirers.

I DOUBT if Babe Hunt ever is a first-rater. It seemed about a year ago that the big Sooner might join that select class of topnotchers. Perhaps had he been handled differently he would have become a first-rater. But Hunt was kept down in this country, mingling with the second and worse raters, beating them but learning little and gaining nothing from such victories. He has been fighting such fellows for two or more years with little or no improvement.

A fighter passes the peak of his greatest fighting ability rapidly. Particularly a heavyweight. If Hunt had the potential quality of greatness, which is doubted, the only manner in which he should have been handled would have been to have sent him to New York, to fight the setups first and gradually work his way to the top. That is the way the first-raters are built up. By increasing the class of their opposition in each fight.

It was asking too much of Babe Hunt to expect him to beat a first-rater when all he has known in the past has been scrappers of inferior class.

And particularly when that first-rater was this rough, smart Willie Stribling.

Chronic and Acute Bronchitis

Acute bronchitis is sometimes known as a cold on the chest. It is not usually serious with healthy adults, but may turn into bronchial pneumonia in the ver, young or very old. Usually, it begins as a cold, but spreads into the large air passages to the lungs (the trachea and bronchial tubes) which become inflamed, congested, and covered with mucous and pus. In its acute form, bronchitis is quite contagious.

The disease seems to be predisposed by overheated rooms, bad air, or contact with fumes or dust. The bronchial tubes become less resistant when there are diseases of the heart, kidneys or liver, and almost always become inflamed during measles, typhoid fever, asthma and whooping cough.

The beginning spreads to the trachea and bronchi, producing a cough, with a feeling of oppression and pain in the bones and back. The fever may be very mild, or range up to 103 degrees. There is also a constant desire to clear the throat. There may be a very intense oppressive feeling in the chest and the cougn may be very distressing. The secretions are at first scanty and tenacious, but after a few days becomes softer and more abundant. As soon as a large amount of sputum can be raised, much relief is experienced. In healthy persons, the fever should subside by the end of a week and recovery should have taken place by the end of another few days.

In children and elderly people, the bronchial tubes do not seem to expel the mucous as readily, and it oozes into the lower parts, spreading inflammation throughout the lungs and smaller tubes. If you have had several attacks of acute bronchitis or are troubled with lung infections, heart or kidney disease or gout, the probability is that you will develop a chronic bronchitis, producing a shortness of breath, chronic cough, especially severe in the winter months and more distressing at night. Sometimes there is no expectoration. At other times the mucous may be abundant and very acrid. Fever is not usually present.

In children, chronic bronchitis is usually accompanied by enlarged tonsils and adenoids. The chest is usually thin and underdeveloped. Perhaps a slight fever will occur toward evening. Sometimes this trouble is mistaken for tuberculosis and there is a tendency in this direction. An X-ray study of the chest is especially valuable. A cure cannot be expected by any medicines, but it can be accomplished through the use of a good fasting and dieting regime in either acute or chronic bronchitis.

Bronchitis often results from improperly treated acute eruptive disease, or colds that have been stuffed with food. Anything which will tend to build a catarrhal state of the body will prevent a cure of bronchitis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Hyperacidity

Question—A. M. asks: "Will you please advise me what to do? I have an acid system."

Answer—What you probably mean is that you have hyperacidity of the stomach. This can be cured if you will learn to live on the proper food combinations. Follow the menus suggested in this column, and you will soon notice a change for the better.

Symptoms of Poor Elimination

Question—C. J. asks: "What causes a bad taste in my mouth in the morning and sometimes all day. Also, what causes my tongue and mouth and throat to be always coated? Does the fact that I don't drink very much water have anything to do with this?"

Answer—Insufficient elimination of toxins from the body is probably responsible for the coating of your tongue and the bad taste in your mouth. You can increase kidney elimination through drinking large quantities of water, but you must also diet and exercise to overcome the sluggish condition of your colon, and to make the bile from your liver flow more readily.

Cereals and High Blood Pressure

Question—J. L. B. asks: "Is flaxseed meal good to use as a cereal or breakfast food? And should a person with high blood pressure use cereals at all?"

Answer—It is better to mix the flaxseed meal with some other breakfast food, such as real wholewheat grain, or with one of the dextrinized flake breakfast foods. Those with a very high blood pressure should not use cereal foods at any time until they have well conquered the tendency to arterial tension or hardening of the arteries.

Psoriasis

Question—Mrs. J. K. writes: "I have found your column very helpful, but I have not seen anything published on psoriasis. I have had many electric treatments, salves, ointments, etc., and several skin specialists have failed to help me.

Answer—Your trouble can be entirely cured if you will follow the correct diet treatment. Space does not permit me to print the complete instructions, but if you will write to me again, sending your name and address, I will be glad to send such information to you.

Closing quotations showed rallies of a few points the market closing steady net unchanged to 10 points lower.

The opening was steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 6 points under relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Prices worked gradually lower under the pressure which was attributed chiefly to liquidation and offerings increased slightly during the early afternoon. July sold off to 18.37 and December to 18.79 making net declines of about 11 to 15 points. These prices seemed to attract some covering, however, and closing quotations were five or six points up from the lowest on most positions.

At the close July was 28 points under October compared with a difference of 23 points at the close of the previous day.

Rumors of a less urgent spot demand and somewhat easier basis in some sections of the belt attracted no special comment and the ruling of July was attributed to further liquidation in preparation for possible notices next week.

Part of the selling otherwise was supposed to be in anticipation of a favorable weekly report from the weather bureau tomorrow.

Exports today 13,302 making 7,874,266 so far this season. Port receipts 4,268. U. S. port stocks, 919,604.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 18. (AP)—After ruling dull before noon, cotton became more active towards the close and prices declined on selling by bear traders. There was a rally in final trading and October closed at 18.55, or 5 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net declines of 5 points on all active months.

Liverpool cables were steady and the market here opened 1 to 5 points up. Favorable weather in the belt induced desultory selling after the start and prices receded to 18.58 for July, 18.57 for Oct. and 18.69 for Dec. or 4 to 6 points down from the opening.

Offerings appeared absorbed at the decline and the market turned decidedly quiet. The dullness was attributed to the reluctance of traders to enter new commitments in advance of tomorrow's weather and crop summary.

In the last hour business became more animated on selling induced by the approach of the last notice day for July contracts and favorable crop advices. July declined to 18.49, Oct. 18.50 and Dec. 18.63, or 11 to 15 points under the highs. Covering in final trades made prices slightly higher.

Industrial Shares Lower Speed But Utility Stocks Race Ahead

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 18. (US)—Utility and Electric stocks featured as the Industrials slowed down today. Profit taking kept the recent leaders back on the theory that the recovery therein was becoming a little too rapid. Offerings were well taken, however, and losses were confined to a point or so in most instances. Westinghouse with gain of 8¼ led the Electric shares while in the Utilities Public Service gained 3⅞. American Power & Light 4, and International Telephone & Telegraph 3⅝. Copper shares enjoyed better demand and gained almost a point on the average. Oils and Coppers remained quiet and somewhat irregular. The call rate was held at 7 per cent throughout with expectations of a higher charge voiced by brokers toward the close. Turnover dropped under the 3,500,000 share level.

Fear of money conditions for the last half of the month is being dissipated. Important interests have word from Washington that harmony reigns supreme in reserve circles and bankers here are in accord with reserve board that nothing should be done to destroy reviving confidence. The main thought in mind is handling the agricultural situation but the stock market benefits. However, there are big payments ahead and some rise in the call rate should be expectd. There is $108,871,000 for Anaconda subscription for new stock and $51,000,000 Bethlehem rights due today. Thursday the $41,000,000 Baltimore & Ohio stock is paid for and Friday the $142,324,000 on the U. S. Steel subscription. These should tend to tighten money rates for awhile and also add to brokers' loans. However, so long as the market does not assume runaway possibilities no disciplinary action from the reserve is expected.

Those who sold power stocks short on brokerage advice are none too happy. Deals of the powerful leaders of the industry are not consummated. The official announcement of terms of the New Niagara Hudson Power will be made tomorrow bringing together Buffalo, Niagara & Eastern and other important upstate companies. Allied power is again actively in demand. Ultimately it should go into either the new upstate companies or the United corporation. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore is attractive to United corporation interests, it is maintained, despite the quasi-denials. Electric investors' benefits through its stockholdings and its splitup of stock should be announced before very long.

Cutten working in Graham-Paige with the Graham Brothers. Such was the word from Chicago that revived interest in the stock. There are good judges who have believed right along that Graham-Paige has been selling out of line with other motor stocks. It has shown progressive monthly gain in sales this year. Texas Land Trust was mentioned also as attracting the interest of an important market group. Atlantic Refining holds its position as the best of the oils. Earnings this quarter should run between $3 and $3.50 a share. Continuation of such income should mean extra payment.

It has been maintained consistently here for several months that American Radiator-Standard Sanitary would be merged with Johns Manville eventually. The deal now is in the "conservation stage" so that officially some of those in the companies can say they know "nothing about it." But it is known that those who influenced the grouping of Radiator and Sanitary want to close with Manville. On the basis of three shares for one which is talked of it would mean that current earnings of the combined companies would equal well over $8 a share on the stock that would be outstanding.

Murray corporation stockholders will get valuable rights. Directors at meeting tomorrow are expected to vote offer of new stock at $30 a share on the basis of one share of new for every two and a half shares owned. At tonight's close rights would be worth $20 a share.

KANSAS CITY, June 18. (AP)—Further strength developed today around the 11 market circuit on the better grades of fed steers and yearlings. Choice quality steers and yearlings at midwestern points cleared at $15.00 and above. Chicago had a top of $15.60 on choice 1,497 pounds steers, while the same figure was paid at Omaha for 1,130 and 1,454 pound averages. Grain and fed pulp fed 1,298 pound Wyoming steers in Kansas City cleared at $15.00. Grass steers were offered in negligible numbers. Receipts estimated at 33,100 about the same as a week ago, but 6,500 short of the corresponding day last year.

Moderate supplies and a fairly broad shipping demand stimulated trade in hogs, prices were uneven steady to 25c higher, most centers 10c or more higher. CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 18. (AP)—Reports pointing to necessity for soaking rains in the spring wheat region south of the Canadian line led to late upturns in wheat values today. Besides, there were persistent advices that parts of Alberta province, Canada, are yet badly short of moisture, and that farm relief plans are already taking shape. Under such circumstances, offerings of wheat future delivery contracts here became scarce toward the last, and buyers were in a decided majority.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1c to 1⅜c above yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾c to 1c up, oats at ⅜c decline to a shade advance, and provisions varying from 2c setback to a rise of 17c.

Highest prices of the day in wheat were reached just as dealings came to an end. Commission houses were active buyers during price breaks which took effect at the outset of business and which resulted largely from news of further rains in Canada on top of yesterday's downpours. Unlooked for declines in Liverpool today promoted setbacks here as did favorable world crop reports.

Freshly harvested wheat from the Southwest is rapidly going to faraway centers, a notable instance being one shipment from Oklahoma which has reached millers in Minneapolis, grading there as No. 1 hard.

Unfavorable wheat threshing returns from parts of the Southwest, principally Oklahoma, were a subject of considerable notice near the end of the day. In some quarters, fear was expressed that recent high expectations concerning the wheat yield in Oklahoma would not be realized, and that a similar condition prevails in the southern part of Kansas.

Corn and oats sympathized with the late strength of wheat. Rural sales of corn to arrive were small compared to what was looked for, and a good shipping demand here was in evidence. Reports were also heard that a large organization of growers has advised the holding back of corn at present prices.

Provisions held within narrow limits, and developed only moderate activity.

CATTLE OWNERS HOLD STOCK

Good Grazing Adds Many Pounds to Weight

Prolonged rains which fell during the month of May and early in June, together with the sustained hot weather which has prevailed during the last two weeks, have resulted in a pronounced decrease in the movement of beef cattle in this community.

Many owners who were preparing to sell large numbers of cattle early in May, when a summer of scant pasture seemed to face them, changed their plans when the heavy rainfall renewed an unusually good growth of grass. The stock has been put out on the grass to pick up many dollars' worth of extra weight on the natural forage.

Marked curtailment in the consumption of meat which regularly occurs with high temperature weather has been noticeable with local retail and wholesale dealers. Sales of milk, eggs, fruit and particularly fresh vegetables have increased in more than equal proportion, it was reported.

JURY REFUSES $500,000 PLEA

Oil Company Victor In Young County Trial

A jury in the 30th district court at Graham Tuesday afternoon returned a verdict holding that the Roxana Petroleum has "exercised reasonable diligence" in the development of a 640-acre Young county oil lease and refused to award to H. M. Ford, plaintiff in the suit, any part of $500,000 damages sought.

By the same verdict the jury granted the cancellation of the lease on about 400 acres of the land as yet undeveloped, a part of the petition which was uncontested by the oil company. The six contested issues were all answered in favor of the defendant. Four other questions, dealing with the cancellation of the lease, involved no contest.

The verdict was returned at the close of a trial before Judge Allan D Montgomery which lasted nine days. The case has twice been filed in the United States district court here, both times being remanded to the state courts upon the ruling of Judge W. H. Atwell. No motion for a new trial had been filed late Tuesday afternoon, but court officials were expecting an appeal.

ONLY MEMORY OF TROUBLES LEFT

"About all that is left of my many years' suffering is the memory of it," said Mrs. I. Perkins, who resides at 201 Patterson street, Wichita Falls, Texas, in relating her experience with Orgatone.

"If I could only have had Orgatone 10 years ago," continued Mrs. Perkins, "I would have been saved a world of suffering and many a dollar besides, all of that time was just one unbroken period of misery for me and I had almost despaired of ever getting well. Sometimes I was almost frantic with pains in my stomach. I simply haven't words to tell how badly I did suffer, not only with my stomach but also with dizzy spells and other troubles as well. It seemed to me that I hardly ate enough to keep soul and body together, and my nerves were so upset that I could hardly lift a cup of coffee to my mouth without spilling it. At night I was so restless that I would just roll and tumble from one side of the bed to another. And I would get up in the morning feeling as badly as if I had not slept at all.

"Like anyone will, who is suffering, I tried many medicines, but kept getting worse until I reached the point where life was a burden to me. But thanks to Orgatone, all my despondent, down hearted feelings have disappeared and I am just like a new person, because I have been completely relieved of the troubles that made life miserable for me so long. I began using Orgatone because I saw it so highly endorsed in the public press. Well, I thought the statements were exaggerated, but I found out by trying the medicine that everything and more that is said about it is true. It just seemed to be exactly what I needed and I had not taken it but a short time until I felt a very decided change in my condition. I soon got to where I could sleep like a child at night. My appetite is just fine now and I can eat just anything I want without the least trouble afterwards. Neither my stomach nor back ever trouble me now and I am feeling better in every way than I have in 10 years."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific preparation and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison's Drug store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

Press Leaders Praise Hospitality Of Wichita Falls at Convention

Letters expressing commendation of the handling and entertainment of the Texas Press association convention here last week have been received from O. C. Harrison of Seymour and R. H. Nichols, Vernon, members of the executive committee of the state organization.

Both Mr. Harrison and Mr. Nichols state in their letters that subsequent to an eleventh hour decision to hold the state meeting in Wichita Falls, they had made glowing promises to other officers and members of the association relative to the ability of this city to stage the convention successfully. Not only the smoothness, dispatch and punctuality with which business sessions were carried through, but the program of entertainment made the convention one of the best and most satisfactory ever held, according to the communications received.

Luncheon Praised

Mr. Harrison made particular mention of the buffet luncheon served to the visitors at the Wichita club last Friday noon, declaring that the excellence of the menu and service "converted the pen-pushers from idealists to unparalleled devotees of materialistic pleasures."

The letter received by the chamber of commerce from Mr. Nichols, who was largely instrumental in bringing the convention to this city, follows:

Mr. Hubert M. Harrison,
Wichita Falls, Texas.
Dear Hubert:

I want to take this opportunity to personally express my appreciation for the splendid manner in which you and your associates handled the convention of the Texas Press association. I am especially pleased, because of the part I had in bringing the convention to Wichita Falls. I had assured the newspaper men that Wichita would do as well as any city in Texas could possibly do, and I was very much gratified to have assurances from every hand that it was the best handled convention the Texas Press had ever had.

Women Visitors Pleased

We usually expect some hitch to occur in the plans or some untoward incident to mar some detail of the convention, but so far as I know, and I watched very carefully and made inquiries along that line, there was not a single jar or discord in the whole program. In all my experience with conventions I say, without any wish to indulge in flattery or exaggeration, that you and your committees did the best job of convention management I have ever witnessed. And, as already indicated, I watched with a rather critical eye because I felt something of personal responsibility.

The women visitors were especially pleased with entertainment provided for them. It seemed to me that you had planned just the right kind and the right amount of entertainment. Wichita Falls sent the visitors home feeling that they had visited a very friendly city and had no regrets and no criticisms. From my contacts with the newspaper men I know that Wichita Falls will profit. I am very happy as newspaper man and as a friend of Wichita Falls.

When I can be of service, please command me.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) R. H. NICHOLS.

30 Boys Enrolled In Summer Scout Camp

A total enrollment of 30 boys was reported at the first period of the Boy Scout summer camp at Camp Ephriam Griffin on Diversion lake Monday, according to Frank B. Creighton, scout executive.

Assisting Mr. Creighton are Scoutmasters Bill McClure and John Kauffman. The extensive improvements at the camp this summer will provide more time for activities and scoutcraft, it was said.

SHRINE LUNCHEON

Shriners present at the weekly luncheon held Tuesday noon at Maskat temple were entertained with a variety of musical selections. The program, arranged by Dr. C. R. Lanphere, opened with a group of Scotch songs by Joel MacGregor. A singsong and dancing number was given by Miss Marjorie Faye Hoenscheidt, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Pitman, and Miss Merrill Strong presented a violin number with Miss Lois Baber at the piano. The program for next Tuesday will be arranged by Otto Lambert.

NATIONAL GAME

200 Play Baseball In Parks; Equipment For Boys Needed

Every other morning 200 boys under 15 years of age play baseball in the parks of Wichita Falls, according to C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. These boys make up between 15 and 20 teams.

The games are played under the supervision of the park department and are directed by C. C. Frazee, recreational director. Among the entire 200 boys who play in the parks, there is not one catcher's mask, according to Mr. Bunnenberg, and there is a lack of mitts and gloves and other baseball necessities.

"If the business men of the city would donate masks and gloves to these boys, it would help the enthusiasm of the baseball teams and would be greatly appreciated by all the boys," Mr. Bunnenberg said.

Realtors Oppose "Free Lot" Offers

Discussion of "free lot" offers reported to have been made locally in connection with proposed sale of sub-divisions resulted in the passing of a motion by the Wichita Falls Real Estate board Tuesday noon condemning any such proposition "that any corporation, association or individual may offer to the public."

A paper dealing with the "light rights" of a property owner under the old common law of England was read by Clarence Dodge. Cases were cited in which court action resulted from erection of structures which cut off the light from buildings previously completed.

Citizens of Wichita Falls, particularly the business men, were urged in a talk by Walter Nelson Jr., president of the Junior chamber of commerce, to take more interest in the rapid aeronautic development now in progress. Wichita Falls, Mr. Nelson said, is slow to accept and take advantage of commercial aviation as an established factor of great importance in future industrial development. He said that an exclusive residential district recently opened in Oklahoma City has a central area reserved as a private airport for residents of the district.

National Advertising "Tieups" Urged in Talk

National popularity is an absolute requisite to good sales, and demands a close tieup between the local merchant and national advertising campaigns, according to an address given by Malcolm Putty before the Ad club Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel.

National advertising gives a product the appearance of complete reliability, the speaker said. It was announced at the luncheon that a picnic for members of the club will be held soon.

The house of lords, after debating a bill to raise the permissible marriage age to 16 for both sexes, appointed a commission to investigate the subject. The present law permits girls to marry at 12 and boys at 14.

Following a week of inactivity in the issuance of building permits, five applications were granted Tuesday at the office of the city engineer in the Memorial auditorium.

They were as follows:

W. M. Frank, to construct a brick residence and garage at 2109 Indian Heights boulevard, requiring 90 days at a cost of $8,000.

R. P. Tooley, to remodel frame residence at 2816 Avenue S, requiring 30 days at a cost of $2,500.

Barber, Aggrieved at Bottling Company's Trucks, Sues for $3,000

Charging that trucks parked in front of his barber shop and using his sidewalks as a driveway have injured his business and endangered his family, I. V. Martin, 1710 Holliday street, Tuesday afternoon asked $3,000 damages and a restraining injunction against the Uncle Jo Bottling company, operating next door to his shop.

Judge P. A. Martin, before whom the petition was filed, set Saturday morning at 9 o'clock for a hearing on the plea for an injunction forbidding the continued parking and the use of the walk.

The plaintiff alleges that his business has dropped $20 a week because of the trucks and that the value of his property and the safety of his children has been impaired to the extent of a $2,500 damage.

RICKENBACKER HAS ANALOGY

War Time Ace Tells How Public Feels

LOS ANGELES, June 18. (US)—"Put a fool at the throttle of a fast locomotive—zowie! Train wreck! Put a fool at the wheel of a speedy motor car—bang—accident!

"But put a fool at the stick of a perfect airplane and, if he crashes, the public shakes its head knowingly and says:

"'Ah! Dangerous sport — aviation!'"

In defense of the air, Capt. E. V. Rickenbacker, wartime ace, made this analogy today.

Captain Rickenbacker, affiliated with the Fokker Aircraft corporation as vice president, represents the 40 per cent General Motors interest in the concern.

"We are not faced with the problem of producing fool-proof planes. We have practically that now. What we need are fool-proof fliers," Rickenbacker declared.

"We also need sufficient facilities to give aviation an even break with the other modes of transportation.

"Can you imagine sending the fastest train from here to New York without a semaphore or a signal light along the road? It wouldn't be attempted.

"Well, we need those same semaphores and signals for aviation travel in the shape of an ample number of emergency fields, beacons, and other safety measures.

"Give us all these and I am not afraid to predict that we'll travel from here to New York in 24 hours, and grumble at the slowness of the journey."

THE GREATEST RESPONSIBILITY

The Greatest Responsibility in purchasing a motor car is in the new car you purchase, rather than in what you receive for your used car.

An extra two or three years of dependable service will greatly offset a difference of even a two hundred dollar or more appraisal on a used car.

Many Dodge Brothers Cars were registered January first for their sixth and seventh year of service—Consult the records.
