Gamma Pi Alpha Pledges Are Introduced Formally Last Evening At Large Country Club Dance

A feature of a dance at the Country Club last evening was the formal introduction of Gamma Pi Alpha pledges by members of this Tech college organization.

The dance was one of the largest of the fall season and more than a hundred invitations had been issued to friends of the club. The torches furnished music and McAndrews, of Saint Louis, announced.

At 9:20 o'clock and preceding the dancing, the pledges were presented. They came through gates and under a trellis that had been constructed at one of the doors leading into the main hall of the club were met there by their escorts after which the couples advanced across the room. Roses and greenery over the trellis and gate were which featured all appointments.

The pledges and their escorts were as follows: Miss Anna Belle Collins, Dallas, escorted by John Burroughs; Miss Rachel Cole, of Dallas, escorted by Melvin Dow; Miss Mary Frank Nichols, of Georgetown, escorted by Clarence Washington; Miss Ulla Houston, of Paintrock, escorted by Charlie Woodbridge; Miss Alysne Felmet, of Abernathy, escorted by Walker Stanton; Miss Ann Hurston, of

Paris Dotes On Fringe And Contrasts In Color, Says Germaine After Viewing France's Distinctive Frocks

White evening gown with sapphire-trimmed bodice. Evening ensemble of Russian flavor: black silk net the skirt shading from a sapphire to white.

PARIS, Oct. 5.

My dear cousin:

So you are going to buy a fur coat? I do wish you could have seen the perfectly adorable model Larvin is showing of white shaggy lamb with a regular Lord Byron collar trimmed with bands of rose gazelle and cuffs and pockets of the gray fur.

It absolutely has a little string tie of fur if you can imagine anything more delightful. And the line is so youthful, close at the shoulder with a gradual flare as it is quite wide at the hemline.

For sport wear coats here are ever yplain and slim, with small tailored collars, belts and patch pockets. Quite often they are kasha-lined. In furs, goat stands right at the top, with pompante, calfskin and all the furs that never before had much standing, following closely.

They're Not Bulky.

One reason for the popularity of these furs is that they are not thick and bulky, and of course not heavy, so warm as the heavier pelts, and they take the narrow silhouette we all want now.

For the general wear, caracul, Persian lamb, krimmer and such furs are much employed in gray and tan as well as black. Natural, in matrix, seal, beaver, and skunk are reaching a high state of development. Collars seem less ex-positive to me than usual, and the shawl line with the deep V opening is much in evidence.

Everywhere I notice the tendency to bring back more important and more distinctive looking clothes. Two of the most festive gowns I've seen were made for Florence Tamar, who is a favorite dancer in the Folies Bergere, by Paul Poiret who is usually a season or two ahead of anyone else in his ideas, and who has no hesitations to dramatic and exotic effects.

These frocks—I'm sending you pictures of them—emphasize the line of fringe and color contrast. The white evening gown has a bodice trimmed with sapphires and a band of sapphire velvet filling in the low cut neckline and forming sleeve caps. That fringed skirt shades from sapphire to white.

Even more unusual is the evening ensemble which has a slight, W. Russian flavor. The cape is in black silk net with delicate wavy lines of gold and silver threads forming scallops upon a deep border of black satin.

The frock has an upper section of black satin, with rhinestones forming the collar, the front edge, and the fringe which turns into an apron and adds a little fringe for good measure. The skirt and the sleeves are of white crepe de chine, the sleeves being the new hairpin effect very wide at the wrist.

They cover the knee. You will notice that the knee is not featured in either frock. Poiret having lowered his neckline this season by several inches. The effect of the lace, transparent cape with this very unusual gown is most unusual. It could not be worn by every type of woman, but of course it would probably not appeal to the baby doll type.

Paquin is showing some delightful clothes in red and henna shades. One evening frock is made of pink chiffon with ruffles and a pointed circle of deep red tulle. He also has a lovely wool frock of deep red lambs with a scalloped hem and a side drape that is worn under a coat of the same shade with a high standing collar of black ostrakhan.

Little Straight Blouses.

I love the little straight blouses of gold or silver cloth that are worn with the wool and velvet skirts. Little too beige or gray kasha heavily embroidered in dull metallic threads, combined with plain kasha. The dotted velvets are going to be overdone, I fear, but I do love the very Chanel uses black velvet, with white dots and then poses lovely sash-like flowers on the shoulder.

Let me know about your costume, I'm dying to know what you get. And don't forget those pictures of your house.

Devotedly,
GERMAINE

Girls Work To Give Mothers A Vacation

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 5. (AP)—Reversing the usual order, a group of Connecticut farm women went on vacation this summer while their daughters stayed at home and did the housework.

Fifty or more girls, all members of the I-H Club, decided that it was time their mothers had from the arduous duties of making. Cooperating with the helpful services of the Connecticut Agricultural College, they sent here for a week.

During their visit the mothers were the guests of the college which arranged tea, picnic, classes in domestic science, their benefit. The plan proved successful that it promises to be carried out again next year.

Fresh Air Oven Construction

AN EXCLUSIVE ESTATE GAS RANGE FEATURE

A feature that is patented and therefore found exclusively in ESTATE GAS RANGES, is the fresh air oven construction. Air passing through the oven, NEVER comes into contact with the flame, and it is possible through this method, to place the recipe right up against the oven walls without fear of damage. The feature insures even temperature throughout the oven area in every portion. It costs no more to get this feature, so why be content with anything less than an ESTATE GAS RANGE?

See Mr. Dunn, The Cookery Expert, Bake His Famous "Checkerboard" Cake

Wherever he has been, wherever his demonstrations have been offered, Mr. George E. Dunn's CHECKERBOARD CAKE, has proven a sensation. Many women have thought it impossible to produce such a cake, but if you'll attend our 8th Cooking School and Demonstration, you too, will be able to produce the checkerboard effect. A printed recipe showing how to make the Estate Checkerboard Cake will be given every woman who attends this cooking school and demonstration Thursday.

26 PIECE SET SILVERWARE FREE!

With every Gas Range sold during this Cooking School and Demonstration, we will give ABSOLUTELY FREE a 26 piece set of Silverware.

SEATS FAR SHORT OF DEMAND FOR WORLD SERIES OPENING GAME

PENNOCK TO BE READY AS TEAM RETURNS HOME

PLENTY OF PITCHING IS IN PROSPECT DESPITE SOUTHPAW'S BRUISE

BY BRIAN BELL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—World series guessing gave way today to solid facts as the Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Yankees are to say it with baseball bats and curves.

Opening of the series found everyone satisfied that a large number of fans and Herb Pennock. Many of the cheer leaders during the regular championship season had no definite and certain plans for getting in the park today, and the star Yankee left-hander was limping about with a bruised knee.

Seats Insufficient
There were not enough tickets to go around, for Forbes field, home of the National league champions, can seat only a few hundred over 40,000 under normal conditions, with standing room for several thousand more. Many of the faithful fans were wondering how they could make arrangements to witness the first test of the problem whether the craft of Pirate pitchers can still be the far-famed attack of the Yankees.

Hundreds who failed to get tickets stood and waited throughout the night for the gates to open this morning. They carried their places in the temporary stands erected outside the park but commanding a fine view of the field.

Pennock To Be Ready
Pennock's injury, suffered in batting practice yesterday when he was struck above the knee by a liner from the left-hander but of Cedric Durst, appeared serious, although his physician declared that the left-hander who has never been charged with a world's series defeat, will be ready to work when the teams move to New York.

Some of the pitcher's team mates shook their heads in doubt. If Pennock should be denied participation in the series he will lose an opportunity to tie or break the record of Jack Combs, former pitcher for the Philadelphia Athletics and Brooklyn Nationals, who won five world series games and got back in the Athletics in 1910, one the next year and one in 1916 for Brooklyn. Pennock won two games for the Yankees in 1923 and two last year. He pitched three innings for the Athletics in 1914, but the performance did not mean anything in world's series records.

Pitchers in Good Shape
Even without the services of Pennock the Yankees' pitching staff is in good shape, with Hoyt, Moore, Shocker and Pipiras capable of assuming the full burden if need be. Manager Huggins has declared that he takes no stock in a popular superstition that the Pirates are "joined" to southpaws. If Pennock's leg permits he will start a game.

Ray Kremer, big, strong and smart, was expected to prove the keystone of the Pittsburgh defense. The huge California, named to start the ball rolling for the Pirates, was forced out of the game by injuries in early season and got back just in time to play a decisive part in the victory drive of the Corsairs. He was informally and unofficially named by Pittsburgh fans to pitch two games, regardless of the series, and three if it goes the limit.

Plenty Of Pitching
To follow Kremer, the Pirates have Vic Aldridge, Carmen Hill and Lee Meadows to start and John Miljus, with a great change of pace standing in the front rank of the rubeau squad.

The Yankees went into the championship tussle, by a slight edge in popular support, won by their reputation for long distance hitting. The sports world loves the wallop and the Yankees have it. The Pirates are no mean hitters but they do not slun the ball high and far away as do the Yankees, inspired by the super-slugging of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

Conceding the power of the American league attack, the National league counter with a conviction that they will be able to prove that the best offense is not the best defense in baseball. The Buccaneers believe that they match the slugging of the Yankees with speed. If the series could be decided by a relay race the home team would win.

Opening Day Welcomed
Arrival of the opening day was welcomed by players and fans alike as the players from a mental standpoint and the fans, who stood in line all night, for physical reasons.

The box seats were sold by boys and men and brought prices ranging higher as the night wore on. Running largely to soap boxes, they could be purchased early in the evening for 25 or 30 cents but after midnight they became much dearer.

Many major league ball players will see their fellows contest for the championship of the baseball playing world. The National league representatives can see nothing but the Pirates and the American leaguers are blind and deaf to any sight or discussion of any ball club but the Yankees.

His Injury Will Handicap Yanks

HERBERT PENNOCK

A broken-knee caused in one of his legs, sustained in batting practice just before the opening of the World series, may keep Herbert Pennock, star Yankee southpaw out of the money games. Pennock, it will be remembered, was the New York ace in the series last year, defeating the Cardinals twice in highly contested games. He is the premier left hander of the American league, excepting, perhaps, Lefty Grove, of the Athletics.

PADDOCK WILL CONTINUE HIS RACE TRAINING

FASTEST HUMAN TO GO WITH OLYMPIC TEAM HE DECIDES

It seems as if Charley Paddock who has been running for 14 years and who holds 13 world sprint records, would have enough of the running racket—or at least would be slowed down to such an extent that he couldn't be considered dangerous now against a strong field. Strange to say, Charley is not through. Neither does he think he is so terribly slow. Far from it, if you will only take note of his plans for next year.

The smiling young man who is generally termed "The Fastest Human," wants to make Uncle Sam's 1928 Olympic team and he wants to break Roland Locke's mark in the 220 before he calls it enough.

Paddock once held the record for the 220 that Locke now holds. That then was his 14th world record. And he prized it highly, as he does the other ones. But Locke came along in 1925 and covered the 220 in 30.5 seconds to shatter Paddock's mark.

From his home in Pasadena, Cal., comes word that Paddock is going to start an intensive training campaign in February for a place on this country's next Olympic team. Nothing, says Paddock, is going to interfere with his siege of training. Not even the movies.

A sprinter who has been keeping up with the best of them for 14 years must seem an "old man." In years, Paddock is still young, having celebrated his 27th birthday last August, but as a runner he is stamped a veteran.

His first race was in 1913. Likewise, his first race was also his first championship—he won the southern grammar school championship. In 1915, he won the 100 in the Far-Western meet and from then on, until he enrolled at Southern California, he competed in high school meets with success.

In quick succession followed enviable marks in the inter-allied games in Paris, the 1920 Olympic games, and other important meets until he began shattering world records as a Trojan runner at Southern California.

Paddock has created 32 records in his career, 14 world records and 13 of the day's still standing. His 50 yards—300 meters for turf as well as regulation tracks. Between 1921 and 1924, he ran the hundred 11 times in 9.6 seconds.

Paddock created his 9.5 mark for the hundred on May 16, 1926, just two years after a pulled muscle during the Olympic games had caused many predictions to be made that he was through.

But he's not through yet—and "The Fastest Human" hopes to prove it next year by again being a member of Uncle Sam's Olympic team and, perhaps, setting a new world mark for the 220.

Barnes And Mangum Pitch Today's Game

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 5 (AP)—Managers of the two rivals for the "little world's series" have run the gamut of their pitching talent and today they returned to the twirling selections of the inaugural game, last Friday, Jess Barnes for Toledo and Leo Mangum for Buffalo for the fifth contest. The score today stood three games to one in favor of Toledo, with games here today and tomorrow and the rest of the nine game series, if necessary, at Buffalo.

HARRIS HOPES YOUNG HADLEY WILL DELIVER

WASHINGTON SENATORS PRIME HIM TO FILL JOHNSON'S SHOES

By BILLY EVANS

A second Walter Johnson, Those are strong words, mate, but Owner Clark Griffith of the Washington club and Manager Stanley Harris, have such hopes for Pitcher Irving Hadley.

If Hadley were about two inches taller he could pass as a brother of the great Walter. There is a striking facial resemblance and, except for being shorter, Hadley is built along the same physical proportions as Johnson, broad shoulders, small waist line, long arms, as well as strong legs and long arms.

Walter Johnson didn't cost the Washington club a cent. Neither did Hadley. So financially as well as physically there is much in common between the two. I am told that Papa Hadley, knowing Clark Griffith, asked that this son be given a big league trial after finishing his college career.

When Hadley reported to Washington, it didn't take him long to make it apparent that he was an excellent prospect. Manager Harris at once turned him over to Walter Johnson for schooling in the art of pitching. Walter changed his delivery which was rather jerky to a smooth easy style. So as to watch Hadley in action, he at once reminded you of Johnson.

Sent to the Southern league for experience Hadley made rapid progress. Last season with the Birmingham club he won 14 games while losing only seven for a third place club. Washington scouts who looked the former collegian over pronounced him ready.

When I struck Tampa, training quarters of the Nationals this spring, looking over the half hundred players in action for the familiar face of Walter Johnson, I saw him off to one side of the field working with a youngster. That kid proved to be none other than Irving Hadley. In a sense he's a protégé of Johnson.

Among his team mates Hadley is known as "Bumps," but the opposition never suspects him to such treatment. The nick name came about in a peculiar manner. In the spring Hadley suffered an attack of mumps, a disease common to children, but he had been immune as a kid. He had many marks to show for it, bumps, so to speak.

Nick Altrock gave him the sobriquet of "Bumps" and it will probably stick to him through his entire career. Nick who enjoys a joke, even if it is at his expense, dropped into Hadley's room one day while he was confined to bed and after having a good laugh, said: "You look funnier than me, you're full of bumps, just as if you had been stepping into Johnson's fast ones."

Four or five other players in the room joined in the laugh and that day the nick name of "Bumps" was coined for Hadley.

While Hadley's fast ball doesn't rate with the one that Walter Johnson turned loose when he broke into the big show, he has plenty of speed. To this, add a good curve of two species, one a slow breaking slant the other fast and deceptive. At present he is working on a change of pace and doing nicely.

Hadley should win 15 games for Washington this year, possibly 18. The first figure is a high mark for a first year performer, but Hadley is almost sure to reach it, with 10 already to his credit. Not only can Hadley pitch but he can also bat. He takes a mean cut at the ball and is always dangerous. He believes in swinging on the old theory you can't make base hits with the bat, keep your eye on it.

Hadley for the most part is a long and successful career in baseball, even if he doesn't reach the mark Walter Johnson has already set, 20 years of continuous service with the same club.

Jumper Revealed As Star Discuss Hurler

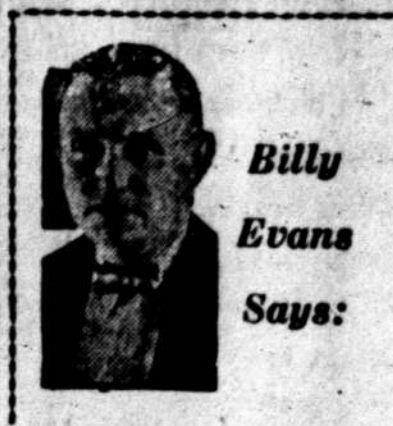

STORRS, Conn., Oct. 5 (AP)—Truth may be stranger than fiction in discussing throwing witnesses the experience of Alan S. Farwell, who cherished the ambition of becoming a good high jumper when he came out for the Connecticut Aggie track team. And then something happened.

Farwell volunteered to help return the discus after the competitors in that event had made their throws. Soon observant spectators were registering astonishment because Farwell was unconcernedly hurling the discus back farther than the competitors threw it out.

At the demand of Aggie coaches he was entered in the event and out-threw his competitors, only to have his heaves ruled out because his innocence of technique caused him to foul. That difficulty was straightened out in subsequent training. Farwell now holds the college record of 116 feet, 4 inches.

Cosmetics, including sticks of graphite, possibly used as eyebrow pencils, lumps of ochre, and receptacles containing rouge, used by women centuries ago, have been found in excavations in lower Austria.

Billy Evans Says:

Praise For Quinn.
"Ty Cobb, I will admit, is the world's greatest ball player. Walter Johnson, the premier pitcher and Babe Ruth, baseball's outstanding slugger, as you have often proclaimed in your writings. However, in passing out words of praise, I feel you have overlooked a most deserving athlete.

"I have reference to Pitcher Jack Quinn of the Philadelphia Athletics who, by the excellent care he has taken of himself on and off the ball field, is still, at 42 years of age, a twirler able to baffle the best batsmen in the game.

"I am sure Jack Quinn's remarkable record is deserving of praise. It stands to reason he cannot go on for many years more, so slip the fans some kind words about this great veteran when he is still hitting off all six."

Coach At Oregon
"While coach of the Oregon Aggies in Corvallis in 1919, I referred a high school football game in McMinnville. The field had no bleachers and a low fence failed to keep the crowd from swarming on the field. For three periods the game was scoreless. Near the end of the last quarter the McMinnville team started a drive and carried the ball to their opponents' 10 yard line.

"All this time the cheering was deafening. The quarterback had been yelling at the top of his voice to make signals heard and was wearing himself out. Finally, unable to make himself heard above the din, he pulled off his headgear, threw it on the ground and yelled:

"Come back here, you guys, and I'll tell you what the play is."

Gather For Signal
"The Aggie came back gathered around him. He gave them the play and they went through it without additional signals. This was repeated and the ball was carried over the goal line for a touchdown. Play required much less time than when he tried to call his signals.

"This gave me an idea. In the spring of 1920, during the few weeks practice for the next fall, I tried it out at the Aggie school. At first it was awkward, but eventually it became better and I have been using it ever since."

Investigation in recent years have convinced Hargiss that no coach was using the system before he tried it on the West Coast. Now the huddle is universally used.

Hargiss is one of the old timers of the Kansas conference, ranking with Dr. Garfield Weede of the Pittsburg Teachers' College, Pittsburg, Kan. In the four years prior to his graduation from the Emporia Teachers' College, then the Kansas State Normal, in 1909, Hargiss starred in football, basketball, and track. In 1909 he coached the Marion, Kansas, high school. The next three years he coached the College of Emporia here, leaving in 1913 to take over basketball and track at the University of Kansas. The next four years he was coach at his alma mater, leaving there to coach the Oregon Aggies in 1918. Since 1920 he has been with the Emporia Teachers as athletic director and head coach, actively coaching football and track. Last year his eleven won the football championship of the Kansas conference.

Waner Brothers With Bucs Form Good Combination
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 5.—The Yankees have their Ruth and Gehrig, the greatest home run hitting pair of all time, but the Pirates, National league standard bearers in the world's series, boast one of the most colorful of outfield combinations, the famous Waner brothers.

Born and raised in Oklahoma, sons of an old time baseball star, where they learned the rudiments of the game by pitching and hitting corn cobs behind the barn, Paul and Lloyd Waner have been the "hits" of the National league. Paul, 24, established himself as a top ranking star last year and this year has run away with the league batting crown. Lloyd, 22, like his brother, has made good in his first season.

Both are natural players and born hitters. Paul is less colorful than Lloyd in personality, but his batting performances this year stamp him as one of the greatest all-around hitters in the game. During most of the season, Paul has not only topped all rivals in percentage, but has led the league in runs, doubles, triples and driving in runs. Lloyd, aided by Paul's timely wallops, leads the league in runs scored.

They call them "Little Poison" and "Big Poison" around the circuit because of their constant and timely ability at bat, as well as their brilliant defensive work.

The picturesque brothers came to the Pirates from opposite sides of the country. Paul was purchased, along with Hal Rhyne, from the San Francisco Seals during the 1925 world's series for $50,000. Lloyd came direct from the Columbia club of the South Atlantic association.

He batted .345 in that circuit last season and has done just as well against major league pitching.

KANSAS COACH TELLS ORIGIN OF THE HUDDLE

STARTED IN DEAFENING ROAR DURING HIGH SCHOOL BATTLE

By J. H. ANDERSON
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

EMPORIA, Kan., Oct. 3.—H. W. (Bill) Hargiss, veteran mentor of the Emporia Teachers' College here, is generally credited with being the first to use the huddle system in football. A high school quarterback of McMinnville, Oregon, gave Hargiss the idea.

Is discussing the huddle recently Hargiss told the story of its beginning.

French Chefs Cut High Eating Cost By New Scheme

(By Associated Press)

TOULON, France, Oct. 5.—The world can cut down the high cost of eating by the adoption of the Provencal scheme of cooking. This is the informal decision of the chefs of south France.

The one maxim of the Provencal cuisine is that one well cooked savory dish makes a meal. Economists agree that an average household in Provence eats better and spends less than in any other district of France.

The economic arguments in favor of the Provencal scheme are unanswerable and therefore not worth treating," said one famous chef. "Everything in the world revolves around the question of food. It seems, however, that there are many people in the world who claim they can not afford to eat well. The true gourmets and epicures say that a Provencal one-dish meal is the height of perfection. Provencal knows that the cost is minimum. But the preparation of a genuine Provencal pot-au-feu is a task as difficult and painstaking as the preparation of the finest dish served in any restaurant in New York, London or Paris. The dish not only must be tasteful, but also as nutritious as a three course meal.

At the chef's dinner each person was allowed one small appetizing dish, which was followed by his one course meal a la Provencal. Provencal onion soup made with a duck base and thickened with toasted bread, browned onions and cheese was one of the most popular dishes. Cassoulet a la Langue-docienne was another. This dish is made of white beans, goose, onions, tomatoes, beef, stock, fresh pork and pork sausage. Other typical Provencal dishes included pot au feu de la Midi, filet de bœuf a la Provencal, rabbit piffaffe and agnoul, the true Provencal bouillabaisse.

To License Kansas Athletic Officials

TOPEKA, Kas., Oct. 5 (AP)—Judging officials for inter-high school athletic contests will be inaugurated in Kansas this fall.

No person without authority will be permitted to act as umpire, referee or head linesman at any football, basketball game or track meet in which any high school belonging to the Kansas State High School Athletic Association participates. Nearly all of the 600 high schools in Kansas are members of the association.

License fees will go into the organization's funds. Persons getting authority to officiate in only one sport will pay one dollar a season while those arbitrating in more than one sport will pay two dollars for the season. The governing board of the association has power to pass on a prospective official's qualifications.

Sammy Bohne Sets New League Record

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5 (AP)—Shunted from club to club and finally dropped from the majors as "through," Sammy Bohne has become a sensation in the American Association. Bohne played 28 consecutive errorless games as third baseman for the Minneapolis club, setting a new record for the league. The previous best mark for third sackers was held by Julian Worn, now a member of the New York Yankees, who played 22 perfect games in a row while with the St. Paul Association team last year.

Bohne had a hard time fitting into the Miller machine before Manager Mike Kelley finally decided to make him a "hot corner" fixture.

NEW ORLEANS TRADING

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5 (AP)—The cotton market opened steady, first trades showing no change to five points above yesterday's close. Prices promptly turned easier, however, possibly because the weekly weather and crop report was not quite as bullish as expected. December declined to 20.95 and January to 20.93 or 30 points on both months below the previous close.

NEW YORK TRADING

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (AP)—The cotton market opened steady at a net advance of 2 points to a decline of 3 points, but weakened after the call under renewed liquidation, southern and local selling, stimulated by increases in private crop estimates, and a favorable weather map. December sold off to 20.85 and March to 21.15, about 24 points net lower, but trade buying on scale down orders and covering checked the decline and caused a rally of a few points by the end of the first hour.

Mr. Woodward is ex-president of the local Kiwanis club.

Illinois School Boys Make Profit In Farm Projects

(By Associated Press) SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 5.—School boy farmers in vocational agriculture classes in Illinois high schools last year earned more than $250,000 from their projects. The students are required to raise a small plot of grain or bring an animal to maturity, as a practical demonstration of the theories taught them, before they are given credit for their work.

Rotation Method Given To Check Cotton Crazy-Top

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Rotation with alfalfa and methods of irrigation that keep a constant supply of moisture in the lower root zone, biologists believe, will be the most practical measures for controlling acromania, or "crazy-top" disorder of cotton.

forms of reduction and distortion of the leaves, involucres, and floral organs. The change in the branching habit results from the fact that the fruiting branches of the upper part of the plants are partially or completely transformed or replaced by vegetative branches. Partial transformation is the more frequent condition, and is shown by the abortion of the floral buds at very early stages, leaving a tiny bud scar on each internode of the branch. Association of the more striking and serious injuries with cemented soils, impervious soil strata, steep grades of land and areas continuously cropped to cotton indicate that these factors have some influence on the appearance of the disease as well as on its severity. Whether "crazy-top" is an infectious disease distributed by insects or a disorder carried by the soil, is yet to be determined. It is conceivable that peculiar physical conditions exist in certain soil areas and that they may produce more extreme stress reactions than are produced in other cotton-growing regions. There is also the possibility of toxic effects, from some

Two Communities To Build Churches Soon

Canyon and Harlowood Methodists are planning the erection of buildings in their respective communities, according to statement by Rev. G. R. Fort, pastor of the Lubbock church. At the close of a revival just held in Harlowood, a Methodist church was organized with 33 members. Members of the Canyon church are to meet Thursday to dig a basement and build a foundation.

Rice "Slime" Girls Facing Hard Rules

HOUSTON, Oct. 5 (AP)—Freshman girls at Rice Institute, Houston, must skip the rope to classes on each Friday until Christmas, according to one of the six rules laid down for their conduct by sophomore girls, which they have posted on the bulletin board at the institute. "Disobeyment of these rules," the seventh rule provides, "is subject to any punishment the sophomore girls see fit to execute." The other rules provide that on the same day "slime" girls must wear Mother Hubbards without belts; wear their hair in curls; wear tennis shoes and cotton hose; and "must not talk or walk with boys all-day Friday."

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

Four Lubbock county girls members of home demonstration clubs have this week for Dallas where they will enter the state-wide contests sponsored for rural girls clubs by the extension department of Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college.

Contrast, if you will, the contests to be held in Dallas with that held in Galveston—the Annual Pageant of Pulchritude or "Parade of Panties" or whatever you prefer to call it. Which does the most good for most people? Which, in the long run, will benefit the contestants themselves? These questions are not hard to answer for the busy things of life are always better than those which offer only froth and foam.

The paramount principle of life is service. There is little room for selfishness in the life of a girl who will better conditions through learning to do most accurately the tasks which count for most are boundless. The Plainsman would rather have one daughter who could sew, operate a household and fill four-square the niche which God Almighty intended her to fill, than have a dozen names from coast to coast for the triteness of ankle, thigh and waist.

That girl on Broadway says she knows some women who appreciate their husbands only for automatic check-strings.

That man on Avenue Q says most nations elect their officials in a jumble of ballots but in Mexico it seems to be done in battles of bullets.

We hear a great deal nowadays about the so-called "finer things of life" but as the Plainsman sees it most of the people raising the hue and cry over this Utopian endeavor see as the end of their campaign only the side-stepping of some honest laborer who is hand-in-glove with the business men upon whom they are heaped upon hours in heated discussions based upon those "finer things" when underlying truth discloses that after all there is no finer thing in life than doing the work of a woman well. There is nothing finer than keeping a house that satisfies husband and children; alike, or than bringing up boys and girls to the point where they are a credit to a family name and ready to take their places as respectable law-abiding citizens.

And in all fairness, it must be said that women are not the only ones wasting time in useless discussion of this, that or the other thing which has no more connection with them and their life work than a donkey has with a street car. Many men, too, are procrastinating—neglecting their daily tasks to loaf off a lot of half-baked ideas upon what our country ought to be on the general public, which as a whole is attempting to benefit things as they are by improving individually. All the talk in the world won't accomplish any finer things. Work and right living make up the only recipe.

The Plainsman's almost willing to bet that out of ten boys and girls between the ages of 18 and 22, haired at random, more will be able to sing correctly some popular song of "America" or "The Star Spangled Banner." But before you come on the youngsters step an equal number of men and women between the ages of 38 and 42 and the chances are most of them won't even know a popular song. While our youngsters in grade school, high school and college alike, are learning about the myths of ancient Greece and Rome, the myths of the Vikings and that will know Latin anthem, "Gallia est omnia divisa," it might be a good idea to have them learn the two songs mentioned above. Most of them are not even taught that "The Star Spangled Banner" is also in the national anthem, and that "America" is an unofficial patriotic song.

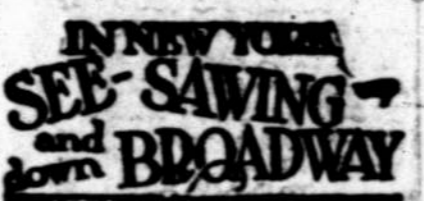

I want a drink of water, quick. He heard the maiden scream, and did he lend assistance? Sure! He pushed her in a stream. Nine-tenths of the people in this country are unable to think for themselves. They are content to follow. We are just wondering how that other tenth ever got into his class room. The farmers asked for relief. They got serious on business efficiency. Now they do need relief. Cold weather has its charm, too. We wouldn't have to listen to the radio next door.

Al Smith Still Faces Hurdle Of Opposition In South, Which Will Be Big Job, According To Rodney Dutcher

ABROAD THE S. S. PARIS. Somewhere at Sea—Notes from the log of a Paris-bound Gothelmit.

Here, caught upon a sea as blue as the old family wash tub on Monday, is a little world that echoes all the desires, frustrations and achievements of humanity. Here we are, a few hundred people packed indiscriminately from society, and hence typical of all the world's struggle, romance, pathos, comedy, wealth, power and poverty.

Up a few steps and we are second class—And here is a little girl of seven dressed in a trim sailor suit with a jaunty hat slanted off-oneside. She has come along from San Francisco. And now she travels alone to Paris—Her fame has spread from the engine room to the captain's cabin—Queen Marie traveling in state to America received not one-half the attention that comes unasked to this pretty youngster with French eyes.

Up another stairway and we are in first class—At the head of the stairs we all but collide with a Junoesque nursemaid—She is garbed after the fashion of the nursemaids pictured in Harper's Pictorial, "Faints Fair and the other so-called 'Journals of society.' Almost in leash run two children, slight—If she would dare to divert her attention for a moment and they were to run about alone, but there is no such chance. For these are the children of Mr. G—the multi-millionaire, and member of the "406." Suddenly we note that for each of these children there is an individual maid.

They appear out of nowhere as if summoned by a Goliath. Often, wandering up Fifth avenue, Madison, or Park we have seen other children of other rich

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—It becomes more and more apparent that Governor Al Smith will not have many southern delegates behind him when the Democratic convention opens next summer, if he has any at all. His best hopes seem to lie in Louisiana, where he is likely to pick up a few, and there may be two or three Smith delegates from Florida. But the great solid south is lined up against him and will defeat him if it can.

Smith's tactics in the south is to elect Smith delegates to the convention under protective coloration. Numerous instances are reported where Smith men are out to land on delegations by convincing the voters that they are strong for favorite sons, or else want to be sent unopposed. If these tactics were successful, enough instances they might win Smith the nomination, but they won't work in states where the party has a well-organized machine or where the unit rule is favored. The south seems to support delegates who will be anti-Smith whatever else they are.

Quite a few southern politicians would like to see Smith nominated but they don't dare say so for fear of punishment at home. Whether they will help Smith at the convention is doubtful. Such sentiments, however, are distinctly not those of Democratic politicians in the border states who feel that with a tick of the scales carrying the flag would ruin them wherever they have a strong Republican minority at their heels.

The powerful Simmons machine in North Carolina, for instance, is death on Smith. Former Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels is one of those who have been mentioned as a possible vice-presidential candidate with Smith to "balance" the ticket. For some time it has been reported that Tammany was seeking a distinguished southerner to pair up with Al, but this strategy may not work. Daniels might accept the honor once Smith was nominated, but he has always fought the party machine in his state, and it might decide to fight him for the second-place nomination.

SMITH'S strength on the first few ballots is likely to decide whether he can win the nomination. He seems likely to enter the convention with something short of 500 votes and may soon roll up a majority of delegates. Then the fight will really begin, for there doesn't seem to be a chance that the party will ever abrogate the two-thirds rule for his benefit. This is a serious situation for Smith, for he is in a tight spot. He has to win in the first ballot, or he will be in a tight spot. He has to win in the first ballot, or he will be in a tight spot.

Philadelphia's first mayor elected, 1743. Here is the place where Lovellness keeps house. Between the river and the wooded hills. Within a valley where the Springtime spills. Her firstling wind-flowers under blossoming boughs. Where summer sits braiding her warm, white brows with braunle-roses; and where Autumn fills.

Her lip with asters, and old Winter fills. With crimson haw and hip his snowy blouse. Here you may meet with Beauty. Here she sits Gazing upon the moon or all the day. Tuning a wood-thrush flute, remote, unseen. Or, when the storm is out, the snowing fills. From '76 to rock a form of flying spray. Shouting, beneath the leaves' tumultuous green. —Madison Cabela: Here Is the Place Where Lovellness Keeps House.

It is a repetition of the disastrous Madison Square Garden dog fight is not at all unlikely, but Smith seems assured of more strength than McAdoo had when the latter was the leading candidate in 1924.

The principal weakness of the anti-Smith element seems to be its lack of a strong dry candidate to back behind. It will look rather silly if it seatters around among favorite sons and doesn't assemble at least half as many votes as Smith has for someone else. The latest report is that some of the anti-Smith leaders plan to solidly behind the dry Governor Vic Dohoney of Ohio. But most of them admit that Dohoney, for all his ability to carry Ohio, might not be much of a presidential candidate.

WOMEN AS CANDIDATES

A suggestion to both Republicans and Democrats that they seek a woman presidential candidate is made by a Washington writer, who discusses the possibility that either Mrs. Longworth or Mrs. Wilson might prove acceptable as a standard bearer. If not for the presidency, then they are a woman candidate for the vice presidency is the suggestion offered.

Mrs. Longworth, who is better known as Alcee Roosevelt than as the wife of the speaker of the house, is said to have the best political brains in the national capital. She inherited from her illustrious father a keen interest in politics, and from both father and mother she inherited a brain that admittedly is equal to the mental equipment of any man.
