National Nursing Home Week Is May 13 - 19

Red River Haven is joining with thousands of nursing homes across the nation in celebrating Nursing Home Week, May 13-19.

"Memories Were Made To Be Shared" is the 1984 National Nursing Home Week theme. It was selected as a reminder to everyone that nursing home residents want to share their many experiences with family and neighbors not only during National Home Week, but every day of the year.

Nursing Home Week began at Red River Haven on Mother's Day with a special church service honoring mothers. It was followed with a reception in the dining room.

On Monday, residents with May birthdays were honored with a party. Music teacher Neva Oates brought her third grade class who entertained with square dancing and singing.

Gayle Roach, who recently recorded a gospel album, entertained residents Monday night with songs from her release.

Another singer, Calvary Music Group recording artist, Wayne Huffman of Bogata, previewed his road show Tuesday afternoon for the residents. Wayne, a former volunteer at the nursing home, will soon be traveling across the country promoting his soon to be released album.

The Bogata V.F.W. held their regular third Tuesday bingo games for an appreciative group Tuesday evening.

A balloon release was scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at 3 p.m. A balloon was released for each of the 154 residents of Red River Haven. Approximately 90,000 other Beverly Enterprise residents across the nation were also releasing balloons at the same time. A note attached to the balloon requests that the finder write a letter to that resident and tell him where the balloon came down.

In addition to the regularly scheduled activities on Thursday, a picnic was planned for Thursday at noon in back of the nursing home. Friday will be filled with activities including a Fun Auction and singing that night.

Memories were made to be shared, not only during National Nursing Home Week, but every week of the year.

BOOSTER Award—Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson Sr. have been presented the Rivercrest Booster Award. This is given to people that go far beyond the normal requirements of time and effort to support athletics at the school. The coaches felt that such people make an outstanding contribution and presented the Andersons with a plaque in an effort to convey their appreciation and that of the athletes. (Staff Photo)

Music Class Entertains Haven Residents

Mrs. Neva Oates and her third grade music class presented a variety of entertainment for the May birthday party recently held at Red River Haven. Group singing, solos and even square dancing was done for the resident's enjoyment.

Honored residents included W.N. Dodd, Nona Reppond, Minnie Harris, Verah Cotton, Newton Whitten, Essie Cole, Bud Bryant and Troy Smith. Mrs. Essie Burton, who will soon be 93, was presented and recognized as the oldest honoree.

Ice cream and cookies were served to the residents and the third grade class.

Farm Bureau Events Being Planned

Nichols Worth

By: Nanalee Nichols

By Nanalee Nichols There are several old jokes about "if you have to ask the price you can't afford it" or "if there isn't a price tag on it you can't afford it".

Well, here are a few other thoughts that have occurred in these days of expensive items, and their affordability.

If the REBATE amount is more than you expected to pay for the whole item....you can't afford it!

If the label has a mile-long, unpronounceable Italian name on it....you can't afford it.

If it comes in a tiny, tiny little bottle, smells very, very good and has a famous person's name on it....you can't afford it.

If it is marked "Top of the Line, none better", you can't afford it.

If it is marked 14K gold....you can't afford it....same goes for silver....diamonds bigger than a pin head and most other stuff to be found in a jewelry store.

If it is marked "Special cut" at the meat market....you may be able to afford it, but only in small quantities.

If it comes from a car lot, is new, and has a steering wheel, motor, tires and seats....you can't afford it.

If it comes from a tractor place, is new, and is bigger than a riding lawn mower, you can't afford it.

If it is the summer air conditioning bill....you really can't afford it.

If it's too good to be true, you can't afford it.

Now of course, lots of you probably can afford one, or even several of these items...but if you can afford ALL of them...well, congratulations.

Visitors To Be Honored

Friends and relatives are invited to a covered dish lunch at the Bogata Community Center Sunday, May 27 honoring Sidney and

Dear Editor:

The mowing season is here again, and like everyone's lawns, the cemetery in Talco needs caring for, just as our lawns. It costs money to keep it in shape, and the Cemetery Association needs everyone's support to do the work as it should be done.

Many people think the Cemetery Association is well endowed, but it just isn't that way at all. The cost last year exceeded the income. When everything is going as it should, contributions cover current expenses.

We urge everyone to send their contribution to Mrs. Edith Cato, Talco, Texas or Mrs. T.L. Barton, Talco, Texas. Some may want to give a memorial contribution as an alternative to flowers when funerals occur. Thank you very much. Talco Cemetery Committee

Kyle Leftwich Receives Many Honors

Editor's Note: Kyle Leftwich grew up in Talco, his wife, Irene, grew up in Bogata. The following is a copy of a letter Irene sent to the Bogata News, and the copy of a feature in the Carthage First National Bank ad. It's always nice to hear from ex-residents.

Dear Mrs. Grogan, Since I grew up in Bogata and Kyle grew up in Talco, I thought maybe some of our friends may be interested in these articles on Kyle. I know we look forward to reading the Bogata paper. Through it we found out where some of our friends live. Kyle was chosen by the Pine Burr Yearbook Staff as the 1984 dedicatee. He was presented a plaque and carnation by editor Jennifer Hanlon. He was also elected as the Kiwanian of the Year award.

I hope this reaches you in time for this week's paper, if not maybe next week.

I still have my beauty shop and Merle Norman Cosmetics. If things go well for us, I will attend Merle Norman's 53rd annual convention in Nashville at the Opryland Hotel May 23-26. I will also receive my 25 year pin.

I'm enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and the picture of the other article, I would like very much to have my picture back. Thank you. Sincerely Irene Leftwich

Kyle Leftwich has seen many changes since coming to Carthage as a teacher of agriculture on July 1, 1985.

A native of Talco, Texas, Leftwich is a graduate of Talco High School. He attended East Texas Teachers College in Commerce and received his B.S. degree in agriculture from Sam Houston State Teachers College in Huntsville.

After serving in the U.S. Navy during World War II, Leftwich returned to Sam Houston State Teachers College and received his masters degree in agriculture. He then taught agriculture at Paris Junior College, Sam Houston State Teachers College and East Texas State Teachers College before coming to Carthage. He studied toward his doctorate in agriculture in Michigan.

The first year Leftwich was in Carthage, the first annual FFA rodeo was held. The 31st FFA rodeo will be May 4-5 and Kyle Leftwich is again working to make it a success. The FFA rodeo is a local production with the FFA students and ex-FFA students doing all the work and performing.

Leftwich has served as chairman of the Panola County Junior Livestock Show Committee for many years. He recalls that a pig show on the square was the beginning of the junior livestock show. The Kiwanis Club furnished ribbons for the winners. The show began to grow with the addition of steers and it was moved to the rodeo grounds. It was a big improvement when the junior livestock show was moved into the Duckworth Arena. Now it is held in the new Panola County Exposition Center, the ultimate according to Leftwich, and includes many different kinds of livestock.

Leftwich said that it was not until the last few years that the participants in the junior livestock show received premium prices for their projects. He credits industry and business with the great success of the sales.

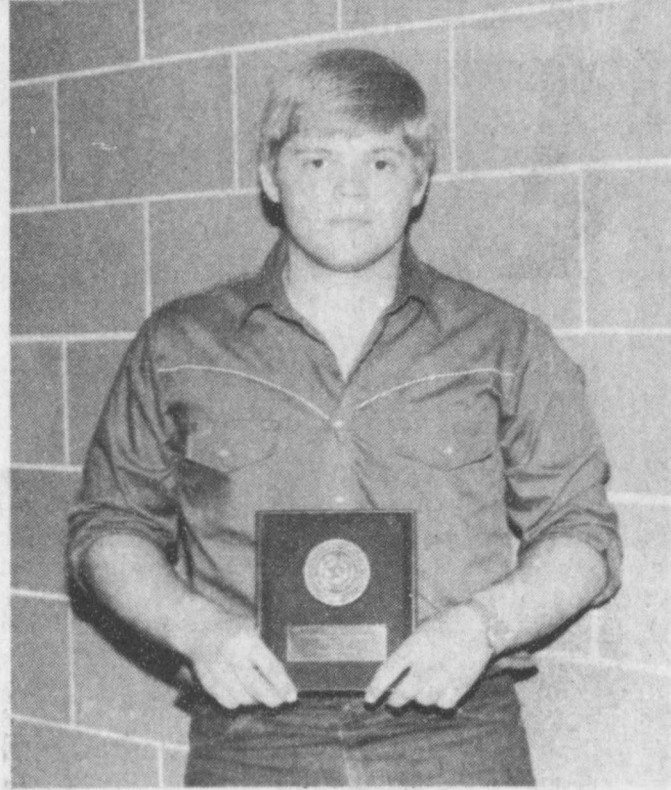

A past president of the Kiwanis Club, Leftwich was named the Kiwanian of the Year in 1983. He has been active in the Panola County Development Foundation and served as Secretary-Treasurer of that organization for three years.

His wife Irene is the owner of Irene's Beauty Shop and his hobby is fishing.

Although Leftwich has seen many changes in the last 30 years, he has worked to bring many of them about. Our agriculture department at CHS and the junior livestock show have benefitted from his unselfish dedication.

Art of Oral Communication

When talking computers and teleconferencing via wall-sized televisions are part of every home and office, people once again will have to learn to express themselves clearly through the spoken rather than the written word. A Texas A&M professor of education says the effect will be a return to the days of yore when almost all communication was oral instead of written.

East Texas Eating

By Margie Rice
If you would like to add a new touch to your family's Tex-Mex fair, try fajitas. Fajitas are thin strips of broiled beef made from skirt steak, the thin layer of meat that covers the ribs of cattle.

Fajitas are eaten, wrapped in a hot, soft flour tortilla. You can add shredded lettuce, guacamole, chopped tomato, grated cheese and as much hot sauce as you like. The result is festive eating.

I tried fajitas out on our taste panel, Nanalee and Thomas Nichols, and my husband, Sam. They all proclaimed the "little belts", as fajitas mean in Spanish, to be delicious.

Part of the secret to really good fajitas, I think, is to serve both the meat and the flour tortillas hot.

I like to make my own flour tortillas. I place each tortilla into a covered Pyrex bowl in a 300 degree oven as soon as it comes from the griddle. The tortillas go to the table in the bowl, which is placed on a warm tile, on top of an insulated hot mat to protect the table.

The skirt steaks are sliced very thinly across the grain, as soon as they come from the grill. The slices of beef are placed on a hot platter and taken directly to the table, along with the flour tortillas. If there is a wait, the beef slices can be kept, covered, in the warm oven.

Put the garlic, pepper and camajito into the meat.

Marinate the seasoned meat in the soy sauce, lemon juice and enough water to barely cover it. Marinate overnight in the refrigerator.

Put the steaks on the grill, yes, even though they are this thin, and sprinkle with the marinade. Cook over medium heat 10-12 minutes on each side, or until they start to get tender, will kind of break up a bit.

Remove from the grill and cut into thin slices, across the grain. Serve rolled or folded in warm flour tortillas. Add your choice of shredded lettuce, guacamole, chopped tomato and grated cheese. Fold tortilla and top with hot sauce. Ole!

Flour Tortillas
1 pound all-purpose flour
1/2 cup Crisco shortening
2 teaspoons salt
1 cup warm water

Cut the shortening into the flour with a pastry cutter or with your fingers.

Dissolve the salt in the warm water and add it to the flour mixture. Knead the dough well for about three minutes. Set it aside, covered, for at least two hours. Do not refrigerate.

Heat a cast iron griddle or skillet over a medium flame.

Knead the dough until it is pliable. Pinch off a piece of dough and roll it into a ball about 1 1/2 inches in diameter. Press the ball out evenly between two sheets of heavy plastic. Roll the ball into a paper-thin circle about seven inches in diameter. Keep turning the dough around to help keep the circle roundish.

Place the tortilla on the hot griddle, it should sizzle slightly when the dough touches it. Bake for 20 seconds, or until light brown speckles appear on the underside. If bubbles appear, press them down. Turn the tortilla and cook it for about 15-17 seconds.

Place the tortillas, one on top of the other, in a pyrex bowl, covered, and keep warm in a warm oven. Or, place in a plastic bag and reheat them, one at a time, on a hot griddle, just a few seconds on each side will suffice and will make them soft and pliable.

The tortillas can be stored for several days in the refrigerator or they can be frozen, kept flat. The frozen ones do not need to be defrosted before reheating.
