Spooky night looms for Snyder residents

It's Halloween, and Snyderites are in a festive spirit, popping up as witches, goblins and ghosts all over town.

Parents who allow their children to trick-or-treat tonight are cautioned to dress them warmly — the forecast calls for colder weather.

Kiddoes should also be in light-colored clothing, travel in groups and be supervised by at least one adult or responsible teen-ager.

Kids can stay off the streets and still get treats by attending one or more of several festivals scheduled today.

Among them:

—A Fall Festival at North College Avenue Baptist Church from 6 until 8 o'clock. Everyone is invited to come dressed as a Bible character.

—The Fall Festival of Fun at the First Baptist Church Family Life Center from 6 until 8 o'clock. This festival is for kids through the sixth grade.

—The annual spook house at Worsham Auditorium, put on by the high school Drama Department. It will open at 7 o'clock. Admission is $3.

—McGruff the Crime Dog invites kids to pick up treats at the Law Enforcement Center from 5:30 until 8:30.

—Snyder Healthcare Center will also hand out treats from 6 until 8 and invites participants to its spook house.

—Snyder Oaks Care Center will welcome trick-or-treaters from 6:30 until 8 o'clock.

THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Halloween tip: never tell a bald guy a hair-raising story."

Scare Plainview!

Polls are not limited to presidential politics. Now, the candy makers are being scientific about Halloween trick-or-treating.

The HalloweenScene survey says kids with "friendly greetings" will generate a bigger handful of treats. A smile is helpful, but often hard to see behind the Elvis or O.J. mask.

We learned that 80 percent of the kids try to make their goodies last, but seven percent don't make it past the first night. Goodies are all gone in one week for 12 percent, usually with some help of adult family members.

It was no surprise to Harold Denson. Among both kids and adults, Snickers are the favorites of givers and recipients of Halloween treats.

The survey also revealed that the dark house on the block likely isn't haunted. More than 50 percent of homes run out of candy before the ghosts and goblins finish making their rounds. No lights probably only means the family is pretending to be away from home.

More than three-fourths of all kids still go from house to house while the rest attend a party. A pillow case is still the favorite for collection of goodies.

After rounds are made, the real work begins. Some 90 percent of trick-or-treaters sort their Halloween goodies, most into "good" and "bad" piles.

What about costumes? Favorites among kids this year are a witch, vampire, ghost, princess and clown. The majority of girls wanted to be a witch while most boys wanted to dress as a vampire.

Power Rangers' costumes have dropped to fifth place. Given a choice of our monsters, favorites were a Mummy, Frankenstein, Werewolf and Dracula.

We also learned something about Snickers. More than 15 million bars are made each day — approximately 450 tons.

The daily output of the favorite candy bar contains 99 tons of roasted peanuts, enough to feed 285 elephants for a year. And in just three days of production, there are enough bars produced to stretch from New York to Los Angeles.

We knew Harold Denson had good taste!

Happy Halloween!

Bleak cotton crop equals poor ginning season

By Ronda Parker
SDN Correspondant

Dry weather conditions have dampened Scurry County gin managers' hopes of a profitable ginning season.

Managers are expecting to gin a much lower number of bales of cotton this year as opposed to last year. This will greatly affect the revenue coming into the gin, since profit is determined by the number of bales ginned.

"It's a total disaster," said Jim Edmonds, manager at Paymaster Gin. "There will be no profit this year."

Edmonds expects to gin 1,000 bales this year, far away from his break-even point of slightly more than 5,000. It takes 5,198 bales to pay the cost incurred during the ginning season, he said.

Robbie Robinson, Farmer's Co-op manager, expects to gin 1,500 bales, a major decrease from last year's 12,500.

The lack of rainfall is the major factor in this year's cotton crop.

David Server, gin manager at Inadale Co-op, said there was not an adquate amount of rainfall before planting season this year. Therefore, when seeds were planted, there was not enough moisture available for the seed to sprout, break through the topsoil and produce a healthy plant.

Joe Hefner, county executive director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farm Services Agency, said out of the 68,000 acres planted this year, about 10,000 acres will be harvested. Hefner estimated the average yield will be a third of a bale of cotton to the acre.

Edmonds said the quality of cotton will also differ from last year's crop. The bolls are smaller this year.

It's just not going to be there due to dry weather conditions," Edmonds said.

All three Scurry County gins are open, regardless of the conditions, to provide a service to the farmers. The managers said farmers have to have a place to take their cotton, even on a bad year.

As far as the financial well-being of the gin, Edmonds said he will try to cut ginning costs, be as efficient as possible, and hope that next year will be better.

Long-term care rooms...

CMH board approves rate hike

Cogdell Memorial Hospital board of managers this morning approved an increase in long-term care room rates and a capital lease for ultrasound equipment.

The board also approved medical staff recommendations for credentials and two months of financial reports.

Long-term care room rates will see an increase to $90 a day at the first of the year, the board decided in a 4-0 vote. Cogdell CEO Jeff Reecer made the recommendation, saying it was needed because costs to the hospital have gone up.

Rates were increased in the fall of 1993 from $80 to $85, but 15 residents were grandfathered in, and had no increase. However, as approved by the board this morning, all rates will be increased to $90, effective Jan. 1.

Board member Jimmy McMillan abstained from voting because he has a family member in the long-term care wing.

The board also approved a capital lease for ultrasound equipment. The equipment had previously been approved for purchase; however, administrators said this morning it would be more advantageous to lease it.

Cost for the $142,800 in equipment will be $4,300 a month for 36 months at a 6.8 percent rate of interest.

Dr. Bid Cooper thanked the board for the ultrasound equipment on behalf of the staff and requested that privileges for seven emergency room physicians be changed from temporary to

Work begins on new showroom

The 1900 block of 25th Street is beginning to take on a different look as Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Company has begun a project that will see a new home center being built and its current facility torn down. Three adjacent buildings were torn down this week for the project.

There will also be a new manager for the facility.

Wayland Walton will be retiring at the end of the year and Greg Rains will assume the position of manager.

Rains, who is already working at the local store and has moved to Snyder, is an 11-year employee of Higginbotham-Bartlett at the Rotan store. He has a total of 23 years in the lumber business. Walton, who will actually leave the store in mid-December for some vacation time, is working on his 44th year with the firm.

The store's expansion plans include construction of a new 10,000 square foot showroom, just west of the present building which will be torn down on completion of the new structure in the spring and the lot will be used for parking. said Rains.

The new facility will be known as the Higginbotham-Bartlett Home Center and will have "everything from barbed wire to VCRs," added Rains. One portion of the complex will contain a garden center.

The new building will face east with the entrance on the southeast corner of the building. Higginbotham-Bartlett has been a fixture in Snyder since 1905 and has been in its present building since 1911.

"We're certainly looking forward to the opening of our new facility where our customers will continue to get the same hometown service they are used to from us," said Rains, adding that during construction of the new business, all the present services and supplies will continue.

"I appreciate the warm welcome my wife, Patricia, and I have received since moving to Snyder," added Rains, who is an avid Texas Ranger baseball fan.

Halloween masks utilized in robbery

McALLEN (AP) — Two robbers, one wearing a Halloween mask, held up an ATM machine today as it was being restocked with cash. Two bank employees were taken hostage but released unharmed, authorities said.

The robbery occurred just before 9 a.m. at a Texas State Bank in north McAllen. Two bank employees were refilling the ATM machine when the robbers came upon them, said Hidalgo County Sheriff's Department spokeswoman Mary Ann Martinez.

"They took the victims as hostages and they left with the money," Ms. Martinez said.

One suspect drove west toward Mission, where he was apprehended by authorities. The other suspect and the two hostages drove northwest toward McCook. Along the way, the suspect dropped off the two hostages, a male and female who were unharmed, Ms. Martinez said.

Authorities still were searching for the second suspect, she said.

Ms. Martinez did not know whether the suspects were armed or how much money was taken.

Juices pulled off store shelves in wake of bacterial outbreak

SEATTLE (AP) — A popular brand of fruit juices was pulled off store shelves in seven Western states and Canada after health officials linked the product to an outbreak of E. coli bacterial poisoning.

As of Wednesday, health officials in Washington state had confirmed 13 cases of E. coli infection and at least 10 of them involved Odwalla fruit juices. At least eight possible cases were also being investigated.

Most of the victims have been children. One boy remained hospitalized; the other victims were not seriously ill.

Health officials used dietary histories taken on the victims, coupled with genetic "fingerprinting" of the bacteria, to trace the outbreak to a batch of unpasteurized apple juice that Odwalla uses as an ingredient in many of its fresh mixed-fruit beverages.

"The public is admonished not to drink Odwalla fruit juice containing apple juice," Dr. Alonzo Plough, director of the Seattle-King County Department of Public Health, told a news conference.

Odwalla Inc., based in Half Moon Bay, Calif., on Wednesday issued a nationwide recall of all its products containing apple juice. Thirteen types of juice were being taken off the shelves, Odwalla said.

"Our first concern is for the health and safety of those affected," Stephen Williamson, Odwalla chief executive officer, said in a statement.

Company spokeswoman Sydney Fisher could not say what volume of juice was involved in the recall or how much it will cost the company.

Odwalla sells its products in select markets in Washington, California, Oregon, Colorado, New Mexico, Nevada, Texas and British Columbia. The company markets its drinks as natural.

Ten of the 13 confirmed victims drank Odwalla beverages containing unpasteurized apple juice, Plough said. Nine of the 10 were children ages 10 and younger. All drank the juice between Oct. 11 and 21.

Plough and officials from the state Department of Health said they did not immediately know if the other three victims also drank Odwalla juice.

Homeless men cared for 2 little sisters

DALLAS (AP) — Two little sisters who were abandoned by their mother lived in squalor for more than a month in a deserted warehouse, cared for by a group of homeless men who were hailed as heroes.

Now the older girl claims she was molested by one of the men.

The children were placed in foster care. Police Sgt. Jim Chandler said they had not been interviewed as of Wednesday afternoon.

A homeless man who goes by the name "Phil," who spends his days panhandling from drivers at a busy downtown intersection, said he found the girls, ages 3 and 5, a month ago. He said he cared for them while their 24-year-old mother came and went.

The woman, a reputed prostitute, finally left her daughters for good a week ago, Phil said. The graffiti-lined two-story warehouse consistently houses the indigent despite sporadic police sweeps. Dozens of beer bottles, and urine and feces were strewn just feet away from where the children played in the corner of the first floor.

Police were looking for the girls' mother Wednesday, and they arrested a man on suspicion of sexually assaulting the child, said Sgt. Fred Rich.

Phil said he, "Big Man" and a handful of other homeless men watched over the girls for at least a month at the fenced-up former book depository. He said he bought them fast food and things to drink, but ultimately decided to turn them over to the authorities when the 5-year-old claimed she was molested by one of the vagrants.

"That baby was abused and fondled," Phil said. "I told people that I couldn't take it anymore."

On Monday, he took the girls — wet and dirty from the rain — to a nearby county probation office, where juvenile probation supervisor Linda Garcia took them in.

"It was a blessing to those little girls that those homeless men brought them in," said Ms. Garcia, who confirmed the 5-year-old's abuse claim. "They took a measure of risk, because they left before the police got here. They said (the girls) needed more help than they could give them."

The girls were then placed with the state Child Protective Services.

Margie Wright, program director for the county children's agency, said she was surprised the children survived this long.

"It's fairly uncommon to have kids living like this for so long that we don't find out about it," she told The Dallas Morning News.

In the warehouse Wednesday, two Bibles, children's clothing and a kiddie book were strewn near a dusty mattress. The children played in that area and slept on the equally dirty second floor, up two flights of a darkened stairwell, warehouse resident Mary Alviso said.

We've got that hometown spirit and we're passing it around!

The edges add up

By Phillip Alder

The English satirist Samuel Butler, back in the 17th century, wrote, "As the ancients say wisely, have a care o' th' main chance, and look before you ere you leap; for as you sow, ye are like to reap."

It is the same in bridge. The expert tries to find the line of play that gives him a little extra edge. True, often it doesn't help, but periodically it harvests a contract that would otherwise have withered.

Take today's deal as an example. How would you plan the play in four spades against a heart lead by West?

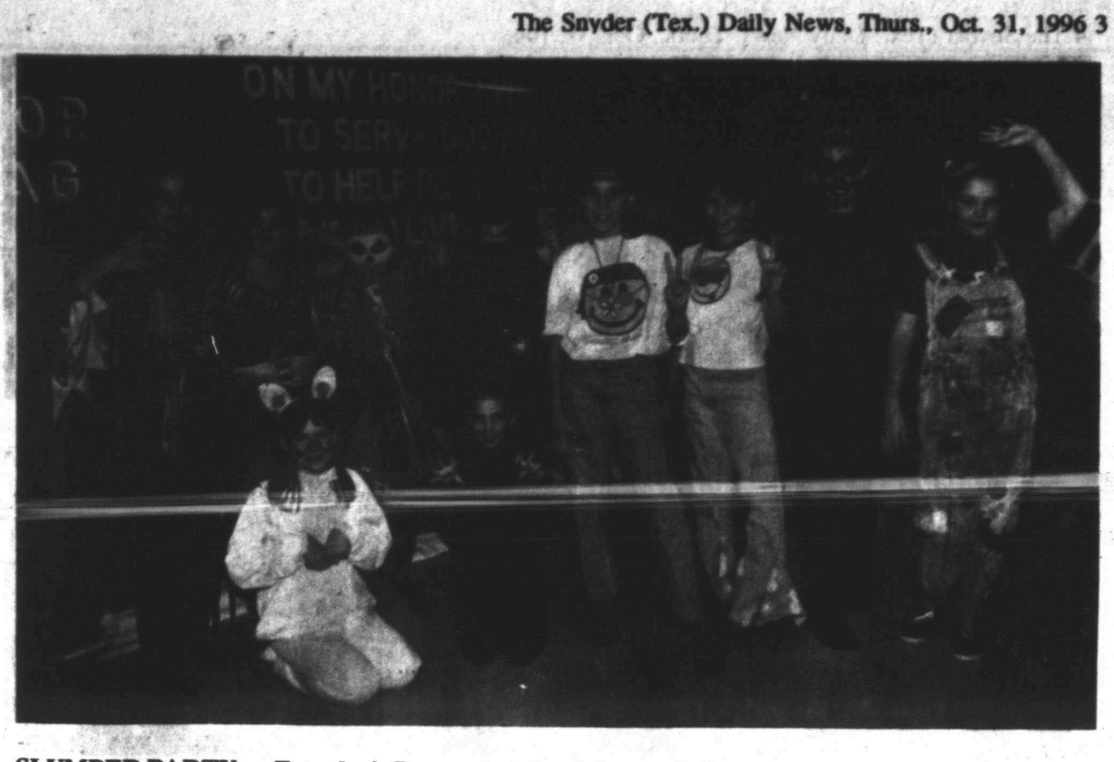

That lead is annoying, leaving South faced with four losers: two hearts, one diamond and one club. If only West had led a minor instead. A diamond blows the defense's trick in the suit, whereas a club allows declarer to establish dummy's 10, on which he throws a heart from hand, reducing his losers in that suit to one.

However, West has led a heart, East winning with the ace and returning the jack to South's king.

At the table, declarer decided he had no chance unless the diamond finesse was working. So, after drawing trumps, he ran the diamond queen, going one down without the option. After winning with the king, West cashed the heart queen, and the defense had a club trick to come.

It is better to draw trumps and exit with the heart 10. West might switch to a diamond rather than a club. Of course, if he does play a club, you will fall back on the diamond finesse, going down when it fails. However, you tried your best — no one could ask more, even your partner.

Westerners to open year in Oklahoma

Coach Anthony Portley's Lady Westerners from Western Texas College will open the 1996-97 season Friday in Seminole, Okla.

The Lady Westerners will open the Seminole Junior College Classic at 8 p.m. Friday against the host school. Saturday, WTC will take on St. Gregory's College of Shawnee, Okla. at noon.

WTC rodeo set to ride at Texas Tech

After a couple of weeks off from the college rodeo circuit, the Western Texas College rodeo team will be riding in Lubbock beginning tonight at the Texas Tech Intercollegiate rodeo.

"Both teams are strong and have been practicing since Vernon and they look good," said WTC rodeo coach Todd Danley. "With a strong showing from both teams, there is a chance both will be in the top two at the end of the semester."

The men's team is currently in second in the region with 825 points after four events. Tarleton is in first with 937½. For the women, WTC is third behind Vernon and Tarleton. The local cowgirls have 575 points while Vernon has 720 and Tarleton 695.

According to Danley, in the national standings, WTC men are ninth and the women eighth. Danley also received word Monday that the College National Finals is being moved from Bozeman, Mont. to Rapid City, S.D.

"Tanner Boyd is in first in the nation in team roping," according to Danley.

Performances begin at 7:30 p.m Thursday through Saturday in the Lubbock Municipal Coliseum.

Tigers hope to take a bite out of Bulldogs

By Brent Taylor
Sports Editor

For the past two weeks, the Plainview Bulldogs have been kept off the scoreboard and the Snyder Tigers will be trying to be the third team to do the same.

The Tigers and Bulldogs will tangle Friday on the Bulldogs' home turff with kickoff set for 7:30 p.m.

Snyder finds themselves in a must-win situation if it is going to have any chance of making the playoffs. With three loses, Plainview is out of the playoff picture.

The Bulldogs opened league play with a touchdown loss to Frenship, 21-14, but since then, Estacado shutout Plainview, 25-0, in a game that saw the Matadors hold the Bulldogs to only three yards of total offense.

Last week, it was Levelland that pitched the shutout to the Bulldogs, 10-0. Plainview was able to pick up only 96 yards of offense.

Plainview's only win this year was the season opener, 14-3, over Amarillo Palo Duro. Since the first week, the Bulldogs have dropped contests to Clovis 16-3; Pampa 9-6; Amarillo High 26-7; and Amarillo Tascosa 38-7.

According to SHS coach David Baugh, "Plainview is a good defensive team." The Bulldogs rank seventh in the area, giving up 271.4 yards a game. Snyder is eighth at 303.5.

On offense, Plainview is 10th, gaining only 124.5 yards a game. The Tigers are fifth at 275.9.

The Bulldog offense is led by Seth Parr who has completed 53 of 103 passes for 518 yards. Parr has thrown seven interceptions and two touchdown passes.

The leading receiver is Justin Quebe with 12 receptions for 149 yards.

The Tigers are coming off a 390-yard performance last week with Estacado. Despite the yards, Snyder came out on the short end of the score board, 23-14.

L.S. McClain continues to be one of the top running backs in the area, sitting third with 958 yards for the year. McClain added 130 yards to his total last week, carrying a little extra weight on his left forearm in the form of a cast.

Russell Riggan is third in the area in passing with 787 yards on 48 of 134 attempts with three interceptions and five touchdowns. The interceptions all came during the first game of the season.

Jeremiah Johnson is seventh in receiving with 12 catches for 187 yards.

The Tigers are 1-2 in district, 3-5 for the season. Plainview is 0-3 and 1-7.

The other district games this week find Lamesa at Lowrey Field in Lubbock tonight to take on Estacado while Frenship will travel to Levelland to face the Lobos Friday.

Big spreads the order of the day

By RICHARD ROSENBLATT
AP Football Writer

If the oddsmakers are on their game, the nation's top eight teams should have little trouble remaining the nation's top eight teams.

No. 1 Florida, No. 2 Ohio State and No. 5 Nebraska are favored by nearly five touchdowns each on Saturday, while No. 4 Arizona State, No. 7 Colorado and No. 8 North Carolina are favored by more than three TDs apiece.

Florida State and Tennessee, meanwhile, are favored only by two-plus TDs — the No. 3 Seminoles are at Georgia Tech and the No. 6 Vols are at South Carolina.

In typical coachspeak fashion, Nebraska's Tom Osborne dismissed the fact his team should breeze past Oklahoma (2-5) in their annual showdown.

"We expect a tough game and we need to prepare well for them," Osborne said. "I think we will. I think we'll play well."

True, this rivalry has decided many a Big Eight championship. But the teams are now part of the Big 12 and the Sooners, under first-year coach John Blake, are not in the same class with the Huskers this season.

The Gators, led by Danny Wuerffel and a tenacious defense, play SEC foe Georgia (3-4) as the "World's Largest Outdoor Cocktail Party" returns to Jacksonville and a renovated Gator Bowl.

Florida has outscored its last two opponents — Top 25 teams LSU and Auburn — 107-23, but Gators coach Steve Spurrier never worries about points. Last year, Florida threw a TD pass in the closing minutes of a 52-17 rout of the Bulldogs.

"I don't think we've ever run the score up against Georgia, although some of their players thought we did one year because we threw a pass in the fourth quarter," Spurrier said. "We don't go into any game worrying what the score is going to be. We just concern ourselves with playing our best for the entire game."

Big 12 women say new league could rival SEC

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Maybe the best measure of how far women's basketball has progressed is the fact that Kansas coach Marian Washington says her point guard is the best athlete she's ever seen — male or female.

Washington may wind up rethinking that statement about Tamecka Dixon — but she made a point Wednesday during Big 12 media days.

"I couldn't begin to talk about the changes that have taken place in the game in the last 15 years," said Texas Tech coach Marsha Sharp, whose team tied with Kansas to finish first in the preseason media poll.

"The caliber of the athlete, the fan support, the television, all of the opportunities open to women now. We're getting 8,000 people now. Fifteen years ago, you would know everybody in the stands because most of them were my relatives who I begged to come."

Women have achieved a skill level at basketball that has created a market for two professional leagues, and their competitive style of play has created an interest that few would have thought possible a couple of decades ago.

The merger of the Big Eight with four Southwest Conference has created a new conference that put seven schools in the NCAA tournament last year and has several fine players, including Dixon and Erin Scholz of Colorado.

Dixon was the Big Eight player of the year last year after making the adjustment to point guard for a Jayhawks team that won 22 games last season.

"She's our catalyst, she gets our up-tempo game going," said Washington. "She has matured to the point where she is able to embrace all the players and keep them focused, keep them directed."

Washington, along with Joanne Rutherford of Missouri, Ceal Barry of Colorado, Jody Conradt of Texas and Sonja Hogg of Baylor gives the Big 12 a group of the most respected coaches in women's basketball.

Hole in heart

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sylvester Stallone's 2-month-old baby girl was born with a hole in her heart and may need surgery, but the actor is optimistic that his daughter will be OK.

Sophia Rose was born in a Miami hospital Aug. 27 with the defect.

ROSS PEROT can beat BILL CLINTON! How?

If you're 18-30 years old, Vote for the Reform Party! Your future has already been spent - help us get it back. Ross has given the last five years of his life in an effort to make sure we pass on a better, stronger country to you and your children. Our country has huge financial problems that will devastate your future unless we correct them now.

If you're a baby-boomer, Vote for the Reform Party! Social Security as it exists will not be there for you - the county is bankrupt and over $5 trilion in debt. How will you retire, how will your children and your grandchildren pay for your care?

If you're one of the twenty-seven-and-a-half million men and women who have proudly worn the uniform of our armed forces, or have a veteran in your family, Vote for the Reform Party! You fought and your friends and family died so that America would be FREE FROM PACIFIC CONTROL AND INFLUENCE. Now your government is being bought and influenced by Pacific rim countries and their LOBBYIST MONEY. Ross has worked closely with America's military forces for 30 years. "I HAVE NEVER asked you for a single thing in the past, but I am going to ask you to do one more thing for your country. VOTE for the REFORM PARTY in 1996 so that your great country can have a party that BELONGS ONLY TO THE PEOPLE and is not manipulated by the special interests."

If you're an active serviceman or fought in Desert Storm, Vote for the Reform Party! Ross Perot privately sponsored and funded studies to investigate Gulf War Syndrome when the Pentagon wouldn't. It's time for a President who will honor, respect, and take care of our men and women in the armed forces.

If you're a small business owner, Vote for the Reform Party! Ross has been a strong advocate for the six million small businesses in this country and the 80 million people who work in these small businesses. You are the heart and forgotten heroes and the backbone of our economy. Ross once had a small business - it was called EDS.

To all of you who are DISGUSTED with the two candidates and the politics as usual in a country run by the special interests. Vote for the Reform Party! You can create a new party that has absolutely equal funding and equal status with the two political parties if 25 percent or more of the American people vote for the Reform Party in 1996. We can put our country's house back in order with a party that BELONGS TO THE PEOPLE. We THE PEOPLE will have the final word (not special interest), through refrendums any time we make major changes to programs like MEDICARE, MEDICAID, SOCIAL SECURITY or the TAX SYSTEM, before they become law. We THE PEOPLE would have this right. These programs are for our benefit. Paid for with OUR TAX MONEY.

'Amber's Plan' set by radio stations

DALLAS (AP) — Twenty-seven radio stations in the Dallas-Fort Worth area joined forces Wednesday in an emergency broadcast agreement to alert the community about confirmed child abductions.

Dubbed "Amber's Plan," the effort calls for stations to air a bulletin when a confirmed child abduction has occurred.

The lead police agency will ask stations to alert listeners and ask for them to call investigators if they know or see anything. The station determines how to broadcast the information.

The plan is named after 9-year-old Amber Hagerman of Arlington, who was kidnapped in January while riding her bicycle in the parking lot of an abandoned building. Her body was found days later in a creek bed, her throat slashed.

Police said instant radio broadcasts might have helped.

"It's possible that someone could have seen the abduction suspect still while the person was very close to the scene," said Arlington Police Chief David Kunkle.

Dallas Police Chief Ben Click said the first few hours of a kidnapping investigation are critical.

"If we don't recover the child in those first few hours, the chances of finding the child unharmed or alive greatly diminish as time goes on," he said.

"If we can save one life, it's worth all the effort of everyone," said R.W. "Skip" Schmidt, president of the non-profit Association of Radio Managers, which unveiled the emergency broadcast plan.

3 men arrested in fires

GREENVILLE (AP) — A judge on Wednesday granted defense motions for mental competency examinations for three Greenville men indicted in connection with eight arson fires.

Attorneys for the men sought the exams during an appearance before state District Judge Richard Bosworth.

Arthur Hale, 46; Vicky Darnell Burnett, 40; and Marcell Stevenson, 42; were arrested Monday following a task force investigation into more than 40 suspicious fires in Greenville over the summer.

Dozens of fires, mostly at vacant buildings, followed two fires at predominantly black churches in Greenville in June. A black teen-ager has been indicted in connection with the church blazes.

Hale has been indicted on five counts of arson; Burnett is charged in connection with two fires; and Stevenson is alleged to have set one fire.

Hale's attorney, Jeff Thomas, said he didn't believe his client was mentally competent to understand the charges against him.

"We would report to the court that Arthur Hale is a severely retarded individual," Thomas said in filing a motion for a competency hearing, which Bosworth granted.

Court-appointed attorneys for Stevenson and Burnett also asked that their clients undergo competency exams.

In considering the charges against Stevenson, Bosworth noted Stevenson had recently been a patient at a local mental health facility, where he had been treated for schizophrenia.

Denise Brown against tours of Nicole's condo

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nicole Brown Simpson's sister is fighting an auction company's plans to charge $25 a person to tour the condo where Ms. Simpson and her friend were killed.

The money is to be donated to the Nicole Brown Simpson Charitable Foundation, which campaigns against domestic violence. But that's not the way the group wants to raise money, said Denise Brown, the foundation's chairwoman.

"I found this particular arrangement inappropriate and exploitive," said Brown, who has asked the auction company to drop the plans.

The house where the bodies of Ms. Simpson and Ronald Goldman were found in 1994 has been for sale for two years and still draws camera-toting tourists.

Gamson & Associates is handling a Dec. 8 auction and is charging admission for an open-house viewing of the property on a few scheduled days in November The condo has been listed at $795,000.

"We've got to limit the lookiloos to some degree," Barry Bierman of Gamson & Associates said Wednesday. "If it was free, they'd be lined up along the street three blocks."

Bierman planned to speak with Brown to try to clarify any misgivings about the $25 charge. If the foundation doesn't want the money, Bierman wants to find another charitable group.

Proceeds from the auction are to go to the two children of Ms. Simpson and O.J. Simpson, who was acquitted in the slayings. The victims' families are suing him.

City says it will close doors to outside trick-or-treaters

INDIAN LAKE (AP) — For outside trick-or-treaters, the mayor of Indian Lake is trying to do to Halloween what the Grinch did to Christmas.

The mayor says the town will be closed to all outside traffic Halloween night because hundreds of parents usually bring their children, blocking roads for emergency vehicles and causing a safety hazard.

A recently passed city ordinance will authorize officials to shut entrance gates Thursday starting at 5 p.m. and only let residents pass.

Residents of the town have stickers on their cars.

Mayor Mildred Gilmore said that in the past years, approximately 350 rural area outsiders bustle in on Halloween night because they do not live in neighborhoods or feel the town is safer.

"Too many kids come to Indian Lake," Gilmore said. "We can't get an ambulance in, we can't get fire trucks in."

While it is legal for city officials to close streets if the safety of residents is at risk, some say the town just doesn't like outsiders.

"The reason they're doing it is to keep trick-or-treaters out," said Cameron County District Attorney Luis Saenz.

"And to me, that stinks."

Constable Juan Mendoza said that while his officers will patrol the area as normal, they won't be enforcing the ordinance.

"Anyone has access to public streets," Mendoza said. "As far as I'm concerned they can't do this."

West Point cadet charged with raping another cadet

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — For the first time since the Military Academy began enrolling women 20 years ago, a cadet was charged Wednesday with raping a female cadet.

James P. Engelbrecht, of Conroe, Texas, was charged with raping the woman at a house in Stockholm, N.J., on Memorial Day weekend. He also was charged with committing an indecent act in the presence of another person, said Capt. John Cornelio.

Few other details were released Wednesday.

Lawyers for Engelbrecht told The New York Times in Thursday's edition that the house is owned by another cadet and that someone was sleeping in the room when the alleged attack occurred, leading to the indecent act charge.

The Army officer charged with investigating the incident concluded that there was insufficient probable cause to support the rape charge and recommended dropping it, the Times said.

The officer also recommended that the Army handle the second charge administratively, but Army officials overruled him and referred charges against Engelbrecht, the Times said.

Engelbrecht, a 22-year-old senior, remains a cadet at the academy pending a general court martial trial, which is the equivalent of a civilian criminal trial. No trial date has been set.

If found guilty, Engelbrecht could face dismissal and a life prison sentence, Cornelio said.

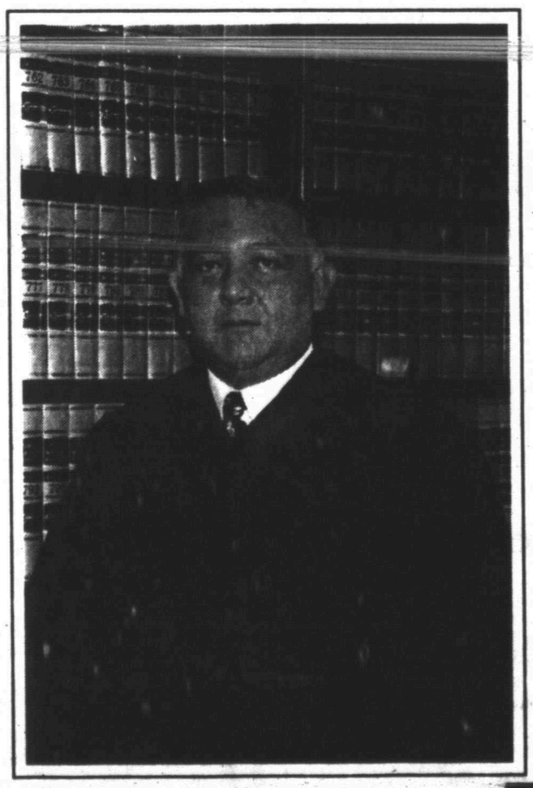

The woman also remains a cadet at West Point, located about 55 miles north of New York City. Her year and age were not released.

2 Canadians detained in cocaine bust

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A federal judge ordered two Canadians jailed without bail after Oklahoma Highway patrol troopers found 500 pounds of cocaine in a hidden compartment of their truck.

Richard Aupin, 46, and Siegfried Stumpf, 39, were detained following Wednesday's hearing before U.S. Magistrate Ronald Howland. The pair, both from Montreal, are charged with possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute, which carries a mandatory prison term of 20 years under federal sentencing guidelines.

"These individuals are part of a large criminal organization," special agent Michael Bakios of the Drug Enforcement Agency said, noting that the seizure was the largest in Oklahoma history.

Aupin was driving the tractor-trailer rig northbound on Interstate 35 early Saturday when Trooper Paul Hill stopped him for three traffic violations.

While Hill was waiting for confirmation on Aupin's drivers' license, he took his drug-sniffing dog around the edge of the truck, Bakios said. The dog ducked under the flatbed trailer and scratched at the plywood cover on a hidden compartment, Bakios said.

When Hill unscrewed the cover, he found 10 50-pound bundles. Inside one of the bundles, he found 10 smaller sacks. Opening one of the sacks, he found a white powder which came up positive in a field test for cocaine, Bakios said. The rest of the sacks were left intact, he said.

While Stumpf refused to talk to authorities without a lawyer, Aupin spoke to Bakios after the DEA agent was called to the scene. Bakios said he tried to convince Aupin to deliver the cocaine to its final destination under agents' supervision.

But Aupin refused, saying "They'll kill my family," Bakios said Wednesday.

A box of screws matching those used in the secret compartment was found in the cab of the truck. A receipt indicating the screws had been purchased from a Wal-Mart store in Houston on Friday was found in Aupin's wallet, Bakios said.

"Houston has taken over for Miami as the source city for cocaine," Bakios said.

The Highway Patrol estimated the cocaine's value at $100 million, and said the bust was one of the biggest in its history. Bakios said that estimate might be high. He mentioned a price of $1,200 per ounce, which would bring the drug's value to $9.6 million.

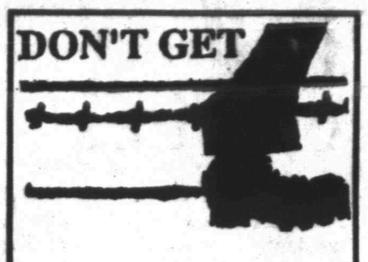

"It's a whole lot of money, judge," Bakios told Howland.

Both Aupin and Stumpf have been targets of drug investigations by the Montreal police department, Bakios said. Aupin was convicted of cocaine possession in 1994 after a raid on a bar in La Valle, Quebec, Bakios said. While Stumpf has an extensive criminal record dating back to 1976 and was a target of that raid, he has no drug convictions, Bakios said.

Under cross-examination by defense attorney Kindanne Jones, Bakios conceded that he had no direct evidence linking Stumpf to the cocaine found the in the truck, but said he believed.

Jones said Stumpf intends to plead innocent if indicted on the charges.

Anita Hill resigns from position at law school

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Anita Hill resigned from the University of Oklahoma law school, saying she wants to work in an "uncompromising" academic environment and pursue other opportunities.

The university's Board of Regents unanimously accepted the resignation Wednesday of the law professor whose sexual harassment allegations rocked the 1991 Supreme Court nomination of Clarence Thomas. The resignation is effective at the end of the fall semester.

"Hill has made a decision which she believes is in her personal and professional best interest," university President David Boren said in a statement.

Hill's letter did not specify her future plans.

"In deciding to pursue other opportunities, I balanced my desire to teach at one of the flagship research institutions in the state of my birth against my desire to work in an academic setting whose support of diversity of ideas and perspectives and appreciation of academic freedom is uncompromising," she wrote.

While her statement sounded critical, Hill said her departure should not be seen as an indictment of the school, which she called "a fine academic institution with potential to be a great academic institution."

Efforts to get additional comment from Hill were unsuccessful. A message on the answering machine at her home near the Norman campus was not returned.

Hill, 40, has taught at Oklahoma since 1986 and took leave during the 1994-1995 school year to write two books.

Hill's accusations against Thomas at his Senate confirmation hearings in focused the nation's attention on the issue of on-the-job sexual harassment.

Dreams of Parenthood Are Painful for Infertile Couples

DEAR ABBY: I was very disappointed in your response to "No Regrets" who thinks infertile couples should realize that "an empty womb is not a tragedy." "No Regrets" would rather mentor the children of friends and family than be a mother. She self-centeredly concludes that infertile people should give up their dream of being parents and instead volunteer at a school. That may be fine for her, but it is outrageous for "No Regrets" to say that because she has chosen not to be a mother, others must abandon their dream of becoming parents.

You praised her for being generous and for exemplifying the adage "Life is what we make it." In doing so, you set back the hard work done by infertility support groups such as Resolve who try to educate the public so that employers, insurance companies, legislators, doctors, families and friends of infertile couples can understand that infertility is a devastating medical crisis, not a minor inconvenience.

We infertile people are fully aware of the need to come to some resolution of our crisis. Some succeed in becoming parents after medical treatments or through adoption. Some foster or volunteer to help children. Others focus on enjoying the advantages of an adult-only life. But the road to resolution is painful. Our pain is deepened when, out of ignorance, people imply that we are making a big deal out of nothing. It is considered perfectly natural for people to be joyful about expecting a baby. Why then is it so hard to understand the flip side — not being able to be parents causes the same measure of grief?

My husband and I have had to distance ourselves from family and friends who were insensitive when we needed their compassion. When they disregard the feelings of infertile couples, we must, in self-defense, withdraw from sharing our feelings.

Thank God for the friends who understood. Our Resolve support group was a lifeline. They gave us courage to get through the worst days of a seven-year struggle. No one understands like one who walked in our shoes. I'm glad we didn't give up. This year we were finally able to adopt a beautiful boy. Becoming his parents has filled our hearts with joy.

Abby, it is my hope that this letter will sensitize others to the pain of infertility, and bridge the gap, fostering greater understanding.

Brazilian jetliner crashes

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP) — A Brazilian jetliner crashed into a residential neighborhood in Sao Paulo shortly after takeoff today, igniting a river of fire that engulfed apartments, homes and cars. A civil defense official said all 95 people on board were killed.

Three other bodies were pulled from the rubble, and the death toll was expected to rise as firefighters searched homes and apartments struck and set on fire by the crash.

At least one U.S. citizen was on the plane — David Francis Tobolla, a financial director at Citibank, a company official said in Sao Paulo. His hometown was not released.

One resident of the middle-class neighborhood where the plane crashed said he saw "a river of fuel on fire flowing down the street."

Dozens of bodies lay covered with black plastic on the sidewalk, while firemen sprayed water on smoking rubble. Pieces of the plane were strewn over the neighborhood, and parked cars were burning.

Police and firemen used plywood planks as makeshift stretchers to carry bodies to black morgue trucks.

Roberto Pacheco de Toledo, head of the police's Special Operations Group, said 98 bodies were in the morgue.

"They all were mutilated and carbonized," he said, asking families to bring dental records to help identify the victims. "There's no sense in just coming (to the morgue), because they won't recognize anyone."

Col. Leopoldo Correia of the Sao Paulo fire department said the flight data recorder was found.
