'SLOW DOWN JERRY' — That seemed to be the reaction of the elected officials sworn in at ceremonies in the Howard County Courthouse, held in spite of the weather and icy roads. The officials seemed to have trouble keeping up with Jerry Spence, 118th District Court Reporter, as he read the oaths to be repeated by the recently elected officials. At top, Jim Gregg, right, new 118th District Court Judge, repeats the oath after Spence. In the middle photo, Spence, left, issues the oath to County Commissioners Paul Allen, precinct four, David Barr, precinct two, and County Judge Bill Tune. Taking the oath left to right after Spence, in the bottom paragraph are Lulu Adams, Justice of the Peace precinct two; C.R. Crim, County Surveyor; Lewis Heflin, Justice of the Peace, precinct one, place two; Bonnie Franklin, County Treasurer; Margaret Ray, Couny Clerk; and Peggy Crittenden, District Clerk.

By bitter cold weather

Celebrants hampered

The icy roads had a few good effects on holiday traffic, though most were bad.

A rash of traffic accidents, stranded vehicles, and one two-mile tie-up on IS-20 were among the bad effects, but there was one small bright point.

For whatever reason, there was not one driving while intoxicated report or arrest recorded by the Big Spring Police Department, Howard County Sheriffs office, or Texas Department of Public Safety.

"Either the bad weather kept the parties and the drinking at home, or even the drunks had sense enough not to drive," said one law enforcement officer. "Watching people drive and slide around so, it would be tough to tell the drunks from the rest of us, anyway."

It took two wreckers and six law enforcement units some two-and-one-half hours to reopen two lanes of IS-20 near the Howard-Mitchell Couty line.

A truck spun out on the eastbound side of IS-20 in what is commonly called "Rattlesnake, Gap," rear the east edge of Howard County. The truck didn't turn over, but it slid sideways, blocking both eastbound lanes.

By the time the DPS and others could respond to the site, traffic had backed up two miles or more, extending into Mitchell County.

"There wasn't damage or an accident, so we never took the truck driver's name. It was mass confusion anyway," said Bill Jennings one of the DPS officers who responded. "We had to have two wreckers, one to help the truck get straightened out and one to pull another vehicle that couldn't get traction."

Two DPS cars, one Howard County Sheriffs Office unit, two Coahoma Police cars and a Mitchell County Sheriffs Office unit in addition to the wreckers were required to get the two miles of vehicles moving again. The efforts were hampered by the fact that there is no service road at that point, making it impossible to even detour other vehicles around the blocked area.

Some travelers braved the icy roads, but most will be taking an extra day off from work unless roads clear enough later today for visitors to make the journey home.

Most Big Springers elected to stay home today rather than chance an accident on the treacherous streets and roads.

"The less people on the road, the better it will be for us and them" said Chief of Police Stanley Bogard. "If you have to drive use extreme caution and stay away from streets that have an incline. Also, the more traveled streets will have a little better surface for traction.

"We are hoping for a thaw today, but if it stays this way, it will make for complications with businesses opening Tuesday," Bogard continued. "We just suggest that the businessmen use common sense in deciding whether to open up. So far, our only problems have been the multitude of minor accidents and stranded vehicles on the streets.

As of this morning, there had only been one major accident. We are just hoping the weather improves before any major problems can arise," Bogard said.

Local schools, scheduled to open for classes Wednesday, may have problems if the streets don't clear.

"It is supposed to thaw and clear before Wednesday, and we're hoping the forecast is right," said Lynn Hise, Big Spring Independent School District Superintendent. "The roads will improve some as people travel on them, but the best we can hope for is that the ice will thaw so we can open on schedule."

FUN FOR SOME — The icy roads may have kept many drivers inside, but that didn't slow down some young funseekers at what is commonly called "Thrill Hill," just west of Driver Road. No drivers would be foolhardy enough to attempt the hill, which made it ideal for the "kids" who ranged in all ages and used anything from sleds to inner tubes to race down the steep incline.

Era passes; port closes

The Howard County Airport officially closed Friday, according to County Judge Bill Tune.

"We got verbal permission to close it last week, and official confirmation came in the mail," Tune said. "We put the lights out and officially closed the airport Friday, which means all air traffic now goes to the Big Spring Municipal Airport."

The official letter from the Albuquerque, N.M. district office of the Department of Transportation, Federal Aviation Administration, said that the audit of the records had been completed, and more than the required amount of expenditure on airport improvements at the Big Spring Municipal Airport had been made.

Since the closing must be coordinated with the Washington office of the FAA, complete release permitting disposal of airport property, was not issued, although the transfer of air traffic to the Big Spring Airport was approved.

The County must, by FAA regulations, paint yellow crosses in a central portion of the runways, and light and mark during nighttime hours for two weeks, although the runway lights can be extinguished on the closing date. The only other stipulation is that the Midland Flight Service Station be notified as soon as the air traffic is transferred.

"We've taken all the steps except painting of the markings on the runway, and that has been delayed by the ice," said Tune. "Weather permitting, we'll have the markings on Tuesday."

TV news team films UFO

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — The Royal New Zealand Air Force ordered an alert today after a television news team filmed what they said was an unidentified flying object.

Aviation authorities reported the UFO apparently was tracked by radar as well.

The air force put a Skyhawk jet fighter on special standby alert to chase any newly sighted UFOs.

A Melbourne, Australia, television station said it had film of a UFO taken Saturday night by a camera team flying over the Kaikoura area in the eastern region of New Zealand's South Island.

The TV team, led by reporter Quentin Fogarty, was investigating a UFO report by a New Zealand Airline pilot at the time the film was made.

About the same time the TV crew reported seeing the UFO, an unidentified radar blip showed up on screens operated by the civil aviation staff in Wellington, New Zealand, aviation officials said.

Capt. Bill Startup, pilot of the plane carrying the TV crew, said he spotted "a very bright white light" that moved around his Argosy aircraft.

Startup, a pilot for 23 years, said that when he first noticed the object it was about 20 miles in front of his plane.

"It appeared to stay still until we got within 10 miles, then it turned with us as I changed course," he said. "It then went above us and circled and came down beneath us. It was making definite movements in relation to us."

An air traffic controller in Wellington identified only as A. Causer said: "We now have recorded sightings by six pilots on three Argosy aircraft over 10 days and a host of radar sightings. There is obviously some strange phenomenon and it needs to be investigated."

The film of the purported UFO has been bought by the British Broadcasting Co. and the CBS television network for an undisclosed amount. CBS said it would show the film on its nightly news show tonight.

New shaving technique is developed for black men

CHICAGO (AP) — Black men find it difficult to get a clean shave, and it's causing problems for the military, say two researchers who have developed a new shaving technique to overcome the problem.

Facial hairs grow differently on blacks and repetitive shaving can be harmful, Dr. Maurice Conte and Tech Sgt. James Lawrence of Bergstrom Air Force Base at Austin, Texas, report in the Jan. 5 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Associaton.

The result is "much misunderstanding and social unrest in the military" the two medical researchers said.

Except in the Navy, where beards are permitted, blacks who refuse to shave are faced with disciplinary action, including administrative discharge — the same punishment given to illegal drug users, the researchers said.

But they refuse because an estimated 45 percent of black servicemen are affected by a medical condition called "pseudofollicilitis barbae," commonly called "shaving bumps," they said.

Conte and Lawrence said shaving bumps cause bleeding, inflammation, irritation and pain.

Facial hair on black men grows at a more acute angle than the facial hair on men of other races, they said, and close shaving causes the sharpened hairs to grow into the skin.

This can result in the side of a follicle being penetrated, causing a pustule. Or the hair may grow between the layers of the epidermis, resulting in "shaving bumps."

In a study of 96 black servicemen, the researchers found that the problem could be prevented 96 percent of the time with a special shaving technique.

The men were advised to let their beards grow for about four weeks so that ingrown tips were pulled away from the skin. Then they used a coarse polyester skin sponge to tug at hair loops to prevent the tips from penetrating the skin.

Shaving is done with a hair clipper rather than a regular electric razor. This leaves about one millimeter of beard protruding from the skin.

Conte and Lawrence said this program "would, in theory, permit the men to satisfy the Air Force grooming code" and not suffer from shaving bumps.

Death toll heavy on nation roads

By the Associated Press

The homeward rush began on the final day of the New Year's holiday weekend today, with more than 200 people already killed in traffic accidents on the nation's highways.

As of 9 a.m. EST, 217 people had lost their lives in auto mishaps.

Holiday travelers were severely hindered by a major winter storm that plastered the nation's midsection with snow, sleet and freezing rain. The storm moved toward the East as the holiday period approached its midnight termination.

The National Safety Council had estimated that in the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight tonight 350 to 430 people might die in traffic accidents.

Over the three-day New Year a year ago there were 314 traffic fatalities.

The most traffic deaths ever recorded for a three-day New Year holiday was 564 in 1965.

Action/reaction: Not off limits

Q. Why do so many trucks run up and down Birdwell all day? Isn't there some kind of ordinance against it? We have oilfield trucks going by early in the morning and it's very disconcerting.

A. "Birdwell is a designated thoroughfare, and there is nothing we can do about truck traffic along there as long as the speed limit is obeyed," said City Manager Harry Nagel. "As a matter of fact, I don't think there is a street in the city that is off limits to trucks."

300 sing Chinese anthem

Embassy flag lowered last time

WASHINGTON (AP) — A crowd of about 300 persons, some of them weeping, stood in a cold drizzle and sang the National Chinese anthem as the nation's flag was lowered for the last time at the Taiwanese embassy.

That symbolic act Sunday marked the end of three decades of diplomatic relations between the United States and the Chinese government on the island of Taiwan.

As of today, the United States recognizes the People's Republic of China — the Peking government — as the sole representative of the Chinese people.

President Carter marked the change by sending a message to Chinese Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng saying, "The cause of world peace will be served by this historic act of reconciliation.

"The estrangement of our peoples has sometimes produced misunderstanding, confrontation and enmity. That era is behind us. We can now establish normal patterns of commerce and scholarly and cultural exchange."

No official functions were scheduled today in Washington in connection with the change.

However, Vice President Walter Mondale, Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and others were to represent the Carter administration at a reception this evening at the Chinese liaison office.

Most of the 300 people at the Taiwan embassy Sunday for the final flag-lowering were Chinese, but there were a few American supporters. Many of the onlookers were moved to tears as Vice Minister for Foreign Affairs H.K. Yang vowed his people will continue to resist the Peking government.

"Fight we will," he said. "We in the Republic of China have the courage not to bow before the brutal forces of communism. We may be facing a long dark night, but I should like to assure you, that with conviction and confidence, we shall return.

"And we shall return with this same flag, the flag of the Republic of China."

In Cambodian fighting

Insurgents take town

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Pro-Vietnamese Cambodian insurgents said today they had captured the key Cambodian town of Kratie on the Mekong River. Analysts said the capture of the town might signal the start of a long-expected Vietnamese offensive against Cambodia.

The insurgents' news agency, SPK, claimed its troops "in concert with the local population" captured the town Saturday, killing or capturing hundreds of defenders and seizing large quantities of food and military equipment.

SPK, official organ of the Cambodian National United Front for National Salvation, which was formed Dec. 3, also claimed victories in the northeastern province of Ratanakiri over troops of the regular Cambodian army.

Radio Hanoi also carried the insurgent's victory claim. But it otherwise could not be confirmed.

The fall of Kratie could mean the loss of about one-fifth of Cambodian territory for the Phnom Penh government. The town sits astride vital Highway 13 leading to the Vietnamese border, and beside the Mekong River, flowing south from Laos toward Cambodia's capital, Phnom Penh.

There had been earlier speculation here that if Kratie fell the insurgent front would set up a rival government.

The front said its forces also "liberated" the areas of Bung Lung and Bor Kev along Highway 19 in Retanakiri Province. Bung Lung is 40 miles from the Vietnamese border and more than 200 miles northeast of Phnom Penh.

Least he could do

CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. (AP) — To prove that drinking and driving don't mix, a radio disc jockey got loaded on the air New Year's Eve as a "public service."

"If you can't talk straight on the air after a few drinks, you certainly can't drive," said C. David Bennett, 24, an announcer for WIKZ-FM and operations manager of the Chambersburg Broadcasting Co.

Starting at 8 p.m. Sunday, Bennett drank an ounce and a half of whiskey every half hour until he went off the air at midnight.

He said his effort was aimed at the New Year's Eve partygoer who planned on taking to the highway after downing a few.

Local police administered a sobriety test at 10:10 p.m. that found Bennett to be one-tenth of a percent from being legally intoxicated.

At one point during the night, Bennett started a song called "Boogie Nights" at 33 rpm instead of 45. Midway through the record he started laughing so hard an engineer had to take over the controls for the rest of the evening, according to one station employee.

"He was being very sloppy an he was rambling on the air. He kept saying, 'Don't drink and drive.' That was his message all night long," said Jack Miller, another announcer.

Miller said Bennett was helped out of the studio at midnight and driven home by one of the station's reporters.

Site is dedicated

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP) — Charles Lindbergh made a more celebrated flight later, but this Georgia community has a first to its name.

His first solo flight, to be exact.

Americus has marked the site with a 2,000-pound slab of granite and a plaque, a monument dedicated Saturday. Lindbergh purchased a World War I-era Jenny here in 1923, then flew the plane solo.

U.S. Attorney General Griffin Bell, an Americus native, and state Sen. Hugh Carter of Plains, President Carter's cousin, attended the ceremony.

In 1927, Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, becoming the first person to complete the flight alone.

Fiedler remembered

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Pops Conductor Arthur Fiedler missed the orchestra's New Year's Eve concert, but he was not forgotten.

Band leader Mitch Miller, invited by the orchestra management to help fill in, paid tribute to the octogenarian conductor during the nationally televised concert.

"All of us here know Arthur Fiedler is watching us tonight," said Miller Sunday night. "We know he's getting better and thank him for inviting us to his party."

Assistant conductor Harry Ellis Dickson also helped with the show as some 2,400 Pops fans danced and sang along at Symphony Hall.

Fiedler, 84, was hospitalized for brain surgery earlier this month. He is home from the hospital and reportedly may return to the conductor's podium after recovery.

King rites planned

ATLANTA (AP) — President Carter plans to attend ceremonies marking what would have been the 50th birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. later this month in Atlanta.

Coretta Scott King, the civil rights leader's widow, said Saturday that Carter will speak Jan. 14 as part of the six-day observance.

U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim, U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young and Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., are also due to participate.

Major woes caused by massive storm

By The Associated Press

Winter took a firm grip on the Lone Star State as the first day of 1979 arrived.

Snow covered the Texas Panhandle and parts of the South Plains, freezing rain and drizzle caused major problems in Northeast and Central Texas, and thunderstorms, rain, drizzle and fog occurred elsewhere.

Snow accumulations of about one inch were reported in the Panhandle. A coating of ice made highways slippery over a large portion of the state.

A utility official in Dallas said the ice storm that moved in Saturday night and still lingered today was "the worst in 30 years."

Thousands of residents were without electricity in the Dallas-Fort Worth area, as power lines snapped either from heavy coatings of ice or from being downed by trees wiped out by the heavy ice cover.

Prime Minister quits

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Antishah mobs attacked a military garrison, set fire to tanks and stabbed a major to death during a weekend of bloody fighting in the northeast city of Mashhad, the state television said today. It said "no more than 170" persons died, but opposition reports said between 700 and 2,000 were killed.

Iran's military prime minister resigned, meanwhile, to make way for a civilian government amid reports Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi was still refusing to leave his strife-torn country.

An opposition source said soldiers in Mashhad opened fire on a mob that lynched three agents of SAVAK, the secret police, and a soldier Saturday. The fighting, which flared in front of the house of an antishah Moslem leader, continued Sunday.

The casualty reports could not be independently verified.

A longtime confidant of the shah said the monarch told him Sunday he would not leave Iran for any reason or give up the throne. He quoted the shah as saying government media reports that he planned to go abroad resulted from a "misunderstanding."

The ruler made a brief appearance for news photographers outside his palace and appeared tired and preoccupied. Asked whether he planned to leave the country for a vacation, he said he would like to take a holiday "if business permits." He did not elaborate.

Mounting anti-shah and anti-American violence prompted the U.S. Embassy to urge American wives and children to leave Iran. Other Western diplomatic missions told their "non-essential" nationals to go, and Canada sent military planes to evacuate Canadians.

Most embassies told their nationals to use commercial transportation, but few flights were available. IranAir, the national airline, was shut down by a strike against the shah. Airport sources said ground crews were refusing to handle American and Israeli planes because of the U.S. and Israeli governments' support of the shah.

Other labor trouble was reported at the airport, and a loudspeaker announcment there in the early afternoon said all flights were cancelled today. But it was believed Swissair and El Al, the Israeli airline, each got a flight off earlier.

CLOSE WORDS — Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, left, and Ardeshir Zahedi, the Iranian ambassador to Washington confer as they walk on the grounds of the Tehran palace Monday before the Shah's brief meeting with members of the press.

Witnesses said mobs in Tehran attacked several buildings housing offices of American firms Sunday. Staunch American support for the shah has spurred anti-American violence by his foes.

About 30,000 Americans remain in Iran, and at least half are expected to leave.

Sources in the political-religious alliance opposed to the shah said more than 200 demonstrators were killed in clashes Saturday and Sunday with troops in the northeastern city of Mashhad. There was no confirmation of the report from other sources.

One source said in Mashhadthe army opened fire on a mob that lynched three agents of SAVAK, the secret police, and a soldier.

The government radio service said the shah accepted the resignation of Gen. Gholam-Reza Azhari, who was named prime minister Nov. 6 after riots in Tehran in which at least 122 persons were killed. Azhari, who suffered a mild heart attack last week, will remain in office until a new prime minister is designated.

Pilot may be able to help

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — In3 vestigators hope the pilot of the United Air Lines jet that crashed here, killing 10 persons, can help them unravel what happened before the plane went down.

The pilot, Malburn McBroom, 52, is among 14 persons still hospitalized. Although he was reported to be in good condition, investigators Sunday decided to postpone his interview until today.

Investigators hope McBroom can tell them if the plane ran out of fuel before impact. One of the aircraft's fuel tanks was pried open Sunday night, and one quart of fuel was taken out.

"That doesn't mean one quart was all that was in there, but then again, it might be all, " said Robert Buckhorn, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board.

The other fuel tanks were destroyed in the crash Thursday just short of Portland International Airport. Witnesses said what they believed to be aircraft fuel was around the wreckage.

McBroom suffered a broken ankle, broken ribs, head cuts and back injuries when the plane smashed through two vacant houses, demolishing them, and hit several trees.

Most of the 184 persons aboard the DC-8 escaped injuries. Investigators revised the number of persons on board the aircraft again during the weekend. It was previously reported that the jet carried 185 and 186 persons.

The plane, a flight from New York and Denver, had circled the airport for nearly an hour, and the pilot reported there were problems with the landing gear.

Why can't rest of the world help?

Andrew Young has gained a reputation as a national figure who has a habit of making ill-timed and ill-conceived remarks and has taken his lumps for it.

The other day, however, Young was moved to speak out about something that concerns a lot of Americans. Young wondered aloud why the United Nation's General Assembly didn't do more to promote peace in the Middle East.

THE WORLD, sad to say, has been standing by and watching Jimmy Carter try vainly to make Israel and Egypt work out their problems, applauding where it had to but doing little else.

Young noted with distress a series of anti-Israeli resolutions that did not place the United Nations where he thought it should be — in the forefront of peace efforts.

"It should not allow itself," the United States Ambassador to the UN said, "to be swayed by political doctrines which claim to advance peace but only hinder it."

It is hoped that Young was speaking for the record and not in revelation of any sudden realization on the part of the government of the true state of UN affairs.

The organization is not only swayed but controlled by the political doctrines of its dominant factions.

By and large, member states have always sought to use the United Nations as a vehicle for advancing their own doctrines, a stance to which the United States contributed massively back in the first postwar years when, with a preponderance of the world's military and economic power and a pack of allies poised to follow its lead anywhere, it made most UN policy in Washington.

A NUMBER OF balances since have shifted, and whatever cutting edge UN actions have in these latter days is largely determined by the axes the Third World states and the single-minded Arab bloc have to grind.

The United Nations still serves a purpose as a world forum, and as an occasional policing group in keeping small power combatants at arms' length. It is not and never has been, however, a force for peace and international cooperation it was initially projected to be.

It's a shame it didn't live up to its original dream but, then, no one nation trusts another enough to develop such thrust.

The Kemp slander

Evans, Novak

WASHINGTON — During the recent election campaign, two senior members of President Carter's political family purveyed malicious and untrue gossip to newsmen about a leading Republican — a despicable practice becoming commonplace in backstairs politics.

The slander was transmitted by one of Carter's hard-boiled aides (whose name cannot be revealed) and, more surprisingly, by gentlemanly John White, the Democratic national chairman. Both dredged up an old calumny that Rep. Jack Kemp of New York had engaged in homosexual activity.

Submerged in the political sewers since 1967, this bit of ugly gossip never had credibility. For many months, we have delayed disclosure of the whispering role played by Carter's operatives until we could report that there was no truth in what they whispered. Now, after tracking down sources of impeccable veracity, we can report exactly that.

SINCE POLITICAL SLANDERS are often impossible to disprove, they are passed on verbally for years, though seldom printed. With the rise of the "gay" political movement and its anti-homosexual reaction, unsubstantiated charges of homosexuality have multiplied. They played a subterranean part in a half dozen statewide races during the past campaign.

It was in this climate that national chairman White, normally a politician of civility and decency, was discussing the then-rampant Kemp-Roth tax-reduction bill with a reporter. White told the surprised newsman the bill was burdened with political problems, one of them being Kemp's record of homosexuality.

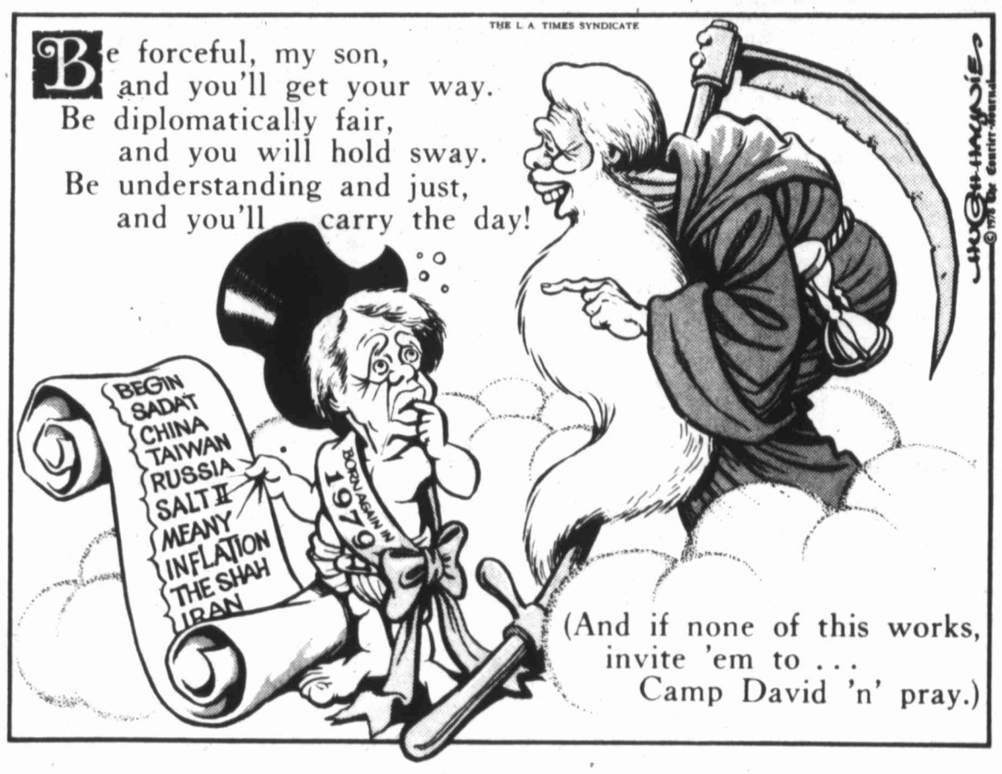

At about the same time, the White House aide was informally discussing Republican presidential prospects with another reporter when Kemp's name came up. The Carter man said there was no need to worry about him; Kemp is a "queer." This reporter also was astounded.

When we checked the story with White, he seemed genuinely apologetic; he said he had had the rumor from another newsman and was merely passing on what he had heard. The White House aide, informed later by the reporter that there was apparently no substance to the story, asked the reporter to forget about it and to be certain not to disclose his identity.

Although it was news to both reporters, this garbage dates all the way back to Ronald Reagan's first year as governor of California. When two of Reagan's aides suddenly resigned, published reports charged that they were involved in homosexual ring with other politicians. Syndicated columnist Drew Pearson wore that an "athlete" was among them. Rumors spread that he was Jack Kemp, then a star quarterback for the Buffalo Bills serving as off-season aide to Reagan.

Kemp considered bringing suit against Pearson but was advised not to, because his name had not been mentioned. Since then, the story has repeatedly surfaced, causing reporters to question Kemp. After his denials and the lack of any factual substantiation, the inquiring reporters ended up writing nothing. While lacking substantiation, newsmen also lacked evidence of disproof. Therefore, the story took on a life of its own in gutter communications, finally leading to involvement by Jimmy Carter's political agents.

THIS WAS INTOLERABLE to writer Jude Wanniski, a close Kemp adviser who wants him to run for president. Against Kemp's wishes, Wanniski decided to expose the canard to full public view and end the rumors once and for all.

Halting dosage early may cause recurrence

By Paul E. Ruble, M.D.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Just what is moniliasis? I understand it may effect various parts of the body. Which parts are most apt to show it? What about treatment? — M.K.

It is a yeast infection, also called "candidiasis" for the specific organism that causes it — candida albicans, a kind of fungus. It causes more than its share of trouble.

The organism may be present normally in the body and cause no undue symptoms until constitutional changes occur to alter the normal balance of bacteria. A reduction in normal bacteria, for example, can be just what the yeast needs to flourish. Pregnancy, diabetes or a number of other disturbances of body chemistry may contribute.

The chief infection sites are the mouth (a condition called "thrush"), the skin, as in breast folds, and the nails of the fingers or toes. While not strictly a venereal disease, it can be transmitted via the genitals and appear, for example, on the penis of males, especially of uncircumcised ones. It may appear as diaper rash in infants.

Longterm use of bacteria-fighting medicines (antibiotics) may set the stage for the yeast to "take over." Some suggest that the birth control pill is involved, but no definite relationship has been found.

The standard treatment is with mystatin or amphotericin B. Other, more potent medicines can be used with more stubborn infections. The medicine can be in the form of oral pills, creams or suppositories. Often, combinations of these applications may be needed to bring an infection under control. For instance, if nails are invaded by the yeast both the creams and oral medicines may be required.

I have noted many complaints of "recurrent" infections of the monilia type for women who I suspect have simply failed to continue the full course of their prescribed medicine. With monilia the usually effective length of dosage is about 14 days. If stopped too soon, the yeast will take advantage of the break in medicine and begin multiplying again.

Tight-fitting, non-absorbent undergarments (as pantyhose) may provide a helpful environment for the little troublemaker as it may for other similar organisms.

Dear Dr. Ruble: I am almost 15 and have had a bad case of arthritis in my fingers. I have an awful habit of cracking my knuckles. Please tell me if this is a part of my problem. I try soaking my fingers in hot water but it only gives me temporary comfort. — S.P.

At your age, I suspect this is a mechanical problem brought on by your habit. Knuckle-cracking is seldom troublesome, but you may have managed to cause some injury to the joint capsule. Osteoarthritis is the "wear and tear" variety, and that is probably what you have in mind. It seldom affects the muscles and it would be unusual at your age. As I see it, your only solution is to avoid the knuckle-cracking. The pain should disappear shortly.

Dear Dr. Ruble: Please tell me what kind of ointment or salve to buy. I just about always have sores in my nose and also cracks on each side of my mouth. My kids get the mouth cracks too. — A.J.

These cracks often mean a vitamin deficiency. A daily capsule containing vitamins A and B usually help if that is the case. I presume the sores are on the inside of your nose. The most frequent cause, especially in children, is finger irritation. Healing can be speeded up with any ointment containing bacitracin in a petroleum base. Chronic ulceration (sores) may produce infection, and if that has happened an antibiotic ointment would be needed. You may have to have the family seen by a physician. He may be able to pinpoint a specific cause among those I mention.

Dear Dr. Ruble: What is connective tissue disease? How does it affect the retina of the eye? What can be done for it? — Mrs. M.J.E.

Connective tissue disease is similar to "collagen" disease, perhaps a bit more descriptive. Collagen (KOL-uh-gen) is from a Greek word meaning "glue." The skin contains collagen tissue, as does any that serves to hold organs in place, etc. There are several puzzling disorders involving inflammation of this tissue, including, of course, rheumatoid arthritis. Steroid drugs are sometimes used. It is possible for the eye retina to be affected, resulting in retinal detachment.

Arthritis sufferers can be helped. For a copy of the booklet, "How You Can Control Arthritis," which discusses many types of arthritis and related joint diseases as well as effective treatments and medications, write to Dr. Ruble in care of the Big Spring Herald. Enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 50 cents.

Dr. Ruble welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters.

Anniversary

Around the rim

Carla Walker

One year ago today was on a Sunday, and I was wondering what Monday, January 2, and my new job with the Herald would bring.

I didn't know what I was in for, but knowing now and looking back, I wouldn't change a thing.

I had just finished college at Angelo State, and couldn't decide what job I wanted to take — the San Angelo Standard-Times, the Big Spring Herald, or apply to another newspaper.

Having grown up in Big Spring and worked at the Herald as backshop general flunky during and immediately after high school, I knew Tommy Hart. He had a lot to do with my decision to come to the Herald.

TOMMY HAD always been nice to me, and while interviewing for the Herald job, he seemed to be genuinely interested in helping me as well as in hiring a reporter. He offered me a little better salary than the Standard-Times, and when I stacked the salary on top of the attitude he had, the Herald won out easily.

Looking back, that was probably the best decision I ever made, and I'm sure luck had more to do with it than brains.

I've been able to be with my family, to spend time with my parents and my brother's family. And, I think I've grown up a lot and realized that some things that were important to me as symbols of "independence" aren't nearly so important as I had thought.

Marriage, jobs, life in general may take me away from Big Spring, so I am grateful to be able to spend time here while I can with the people I love.

For my career, Big Spring has been good to me. Because I am a native, I know many people here and have had an endless supply of feature stories literally dropped in my lap by tips from friends, relatives and strangers alike.

A lot of good material came my way, several stories that would have turned out good in spite of bad writing. Because of those, and because of the people who remembered me from high school or recognized me as Ray Walker's daughter or some other Walker's niece or kin, I gained some readers.

KNOWING THE WRITER, a lot of folks will read a little farther in a story before giving up on it as "boring" or "dull." So, I've probably had a few extra paragraphs to catch the attention of some readers.

Everywhere I looked, I saw interesting people and interesting stories, so many, in fact, that I haven't had time to write even half the ones I've heard about.

All in all, Big Spring and the whole area has been good to me. I owe much to the people I've worked with, to those who have given me tips on stories or have let me write about their lives, and to those who have read what I wrote. Without all of them, Tommy Hart wouldn't keep me on the payroll, and I wouldn't have been so sure that I've chosen the right profession. It's been better than my highest expectations.

After a year, Big Spring has had a chance to judge me as a writer. I hope I've lived up to their expectations.

Enlarges growth

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — With each passing year, a haunting fear is turning into an ominous reality. The "nuclear club" — that exclusive society of nations with atomic arsenals — is expanding dangerously.

Official estimates warn that some 40 countries theoretically could produce nuclear bombs by 1990. The main concern is over countries like Brazil, Egypt, Iran, Israel, Libya, Pakistan, South Africa and South Korea — nations that for one reason or another might feel compelled to unleash a nuclear war to protect themselves.

FOR OTHER nations, it is a matter of national pride to possess nuclear weaponry. Still others feel the need to maintain balances of power in local disputes.

The United States, as the charter member of the nuclear club, is thus faced with this dilemma: How to promote the peaceful uses of nuclear energy without giving our military technology to irresponsible governments that might ignite an atomic holocaust.

There is evidence that Jimmy Carter has had no better luck with this difficult problem than his predecessors had. Indeed, an unreleased study by the Congressional Research Service indicates that the president's determination to slow down the spread of nuclear technology has put him at serious odds with our European allies.

The Nuclear Non-Proliferation Treaty of 1968 barred countries without nuclear capability from acquiring the world-threatening weapons. At the same time, these nations were guaranteed access to the technology for peaceful nuclear uses on a non-discriminatory basis.

To date, only six countries — the United States, the Soviet Union, Great Britain, France, India and Communist China — are known to have nuclear weapons. It is assumed that Israel has some, too, or at least has the technological capability to produce them.

The congressional study, compiled for Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., points out the basic problem Carter faces: United States, with its greater non-nuclear fuel resources, is being unreasonably strict in controlling the flow of nuclear knowledge to oil-starved nations, which see atomic power plants as their only hope of becoming independent of the Arab oil sheiks.

AFTER THE ARAB oil embargo of 1973, "many European states found themselves without any fossil fuel resources of their own to speak of," the congressional report notes. "At this time many European states began to view nuclear energy as an important part of their future electric power generation needs." France, for example, hopes to be producing 55,000 megawatts of electricity from its nuclear power plants by 1985.

The report adds: "European publics, when faced with the apparent choice of a strong likelihood of economic stagnation or the almost infinitesinal chance of reactor catastrophe, seemed inclined by early 1978 to continue their nuclear power programs."

After the March, 1978 non-proliferation act and President Carter's recent policy statements on the subject, "many Europeans simply shook their heads in bewilderment," the report says. "They asked themselves if the new U.S. policies were not simply ostrichlike and whether by pursuing them the United States might not in fact isolate itself from the mainstream of peaceful nuclear development, and in doing so lose its ability to contribute to international proliferation policy."

The new, complex controls and Carter's interpretation of them may be self-defeating, the analysts warn. "It is so demanding on potential U.S. nuclear fuel and technology that they (the have-not nations) may take their business elsewhere, thus escaping most or all of U.S. regulation."

For example, France is currently negotiating with mainland China for the sale of an American-built Westinghouse nuclear reactor. The Chinese don't want to buy it directly from the United States because they would be restricted by U.S. fuel-purchase regulations.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Although I became a Christian some years ago I have not grown spiritually. Now I have two small children and suddenly I want to base our family life on Christ. Am I too spiritually immature to do this? — S.G.

DEAR S.G.: It would be better if you had grown in Christ. However, God has given you an important responsibility, and you must not run away from it. It is important that your children — as well as your wife and yourself — grow together spiritually.

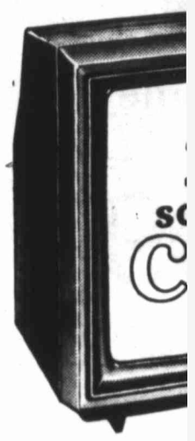

What steps can you take? First, be sure you have really committed your life to Jesus Christ as Lord.

Then you will want to become active in a church where Christ is preached, if you are not already active in one. You especially will want to know what your church provides in the way of spiritual nurture for children. It is important that your children grow up with the memory that their parents placed God's work first, and wanted to hear the Word of God in church.

There are also many ways you and your wife can help your children learn about Christ at home. Get a good Bible story book and read it to them regularly. (Be sure it is one they will understand.) Teach them how to say simple prayers, at meal times, for example, or before going to bed. As they grow older you will want to include them in family devotions.

Don't be afraid to ask your pastor or other parents in your church what they do to help their children come to faith in Christ. Do all you can to teach them about Christ. "These commandments that I give you today are to be upon your hearts. Impress them on your children. Talk about them when you sit at home and when you walk along the road" (Deuteronomy 6:6-7, New International Version).

PLANE WRECKAGE — A twisted frame is all that is left of the single-engine Cessna that crashed late Friday five miles east of Abilene Municipal Airport. Two former Brownwood residents, Bryant Hansen and his son, Phillip, were killed. Hansen's wife, Lisa, survived the crash and the ensuing nine hours in sub-freezing temperatures before walking to a nearby ranch house.

Oswald's mother

Finds vindication

By the Associated Press

Rose Kennedy refused comment, not wishing "to be reminded of past things," but the mother of the man accused of killing President Kennedy found vindication in a House committee's conclusion that conspiracies were involved in the assassinations of Kennedy and the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr.

Elsewhere, reactions to the House assassinations committee's conspiracy finding varied from satisfaction to disappointment.

The Kennedy family was silent on the development. Tom Southwick, press secretary to Sen. Edward Kennedy, the late president's brother, said: "He (the senator) said he will not have any comment, and that goes for the family."

Southwick said Kennedy's position in the past has been that he and the family were satisfied with the findings of the Warren Commission, which reported that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone in shooting the president.

But Southwick said Kennedy "understands the House's desire to look into it."

An unidentified woman who answered the telephone at the West Palm Beach home of the late president's mother, Rose, said "she does not wish to discuss it. She doesn't wish to be reminded of past things."

In Dallas, Marguerite Oswald predicted the committee's report would eventually vindicate her son. "My late son Lee Harvey Oswald was framed for the murder of President Kennedy," she said. "...my late son was not part of that conspiracy.

"I will hope and know the future will vindicate my son entirely. It took us 15 years to come this far. I probably won't be around. But the world will know that Lee Harvey Oswald was 'innocent.'"

The conspiracy conclusions were too little and too late, said the committee's former chief counsel, Alvin Lewis Jr., now practicing law in Lancaster, Pa.

"That they came to the conclusion that there were conspiracies was fine, ...but to leave it with this loose and hanging, it really is rather distressing," said Lewis, who criticized the committee for not pursuing the investigation to identify possible conspirators.

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, a former top aide to King, said the House panel should have gone farther in its report. "I feel it is most unfortunate that the committee did not find out the other conspirators, which I firmly believe included the FBI, the Memphis police and some other individuals," Abernathy said.

The House committee said James Earl Ray killed King with a single shot. It said it believed no federal, state or local government agency was involved with King's death, and did not elaborate on its finding that a conspiracy was likely.

The slain civil rights leader's widow and father had no immediate comment on the report.

Garrison says he stuck to belief

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Jim Garrison serves as a state judge these days.

He's no longer the colorful district attorney who insisted to no avail that President Kennedy was the victim of an assassination conspiracy. But he feels vindicated by a House Assassination Committee report which concluded that a plot existed the day Kennedy was gunned down.

"I faced with being discredited for more than 10 years," Garrison said. "But I would not compromise, because I felt the conspiracy theory was right all along."

Garrison said, however, he is disturbed the House committee left so many unanswered questions — such as the identity of those involved in the alleged conspiracy.

His prosecution of businessman Clay Shaw, who was acquitted, was a watershed in Garrison's political career. He insisted Shaw and others had conspired with Lee Harvey Oswald to plot Kennedy's death.

His prosecution of Shaw consisted primarily of an attack on the Warren Report — which concluded thatt Oswald acted alone — and of testimony by a number of shady characters.

The presiding judge at that trial described the proceedings as "one of the most bizarre episodes in American political and legal history."

The jury deliberated less than an hour before finding Shaw innocent. Later, Garrison tried to prosecute Shaw for perjury, but that case was thrown out of court without ever coming to trial.

Shaw sued for $5 million, claiming Garrison and his financial backers had irreparably damaged his reputation. Although Shaw died — leaving no heirs — before the case came to trial, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled his suit was still valid.

Garrison later was elected to the Louisiana Court of Appeal and now serves as a judge on that court.

But his political power has never been as great as it was before he devoted almost all his energy and the resources of his district attorney's post to trying to prove that the Warren Report on the killing was wrong.

Saturday, the House Committee ended its two-year investigation of the Kennedy assassination and concluded the president was probably the victim of a conspiracy.

The House committee also concluded, however, there was no Cuban connection with the assassination of the president; Garrison insisted Cuban elements were involved.

As late as six months ago, Garrison said he was convinced that CIA operatives, operating without the knowledge of toplevel CIA authorities, were involved in killing Kennedy.

At that time, he said, "I think history is going to prove that I was right about some of my statements that were called controversial."

He said Saturday he would make no comment beyond his indirect "I told you so." Garrison feels he made his point 10 years ago.

King will cut short his talk

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Inauguration ceremonies for Bruce King as New Mexico's 33rd governor were planned for today in the rotunda of the Capitol.

The 54-year-old rancher was to be sworn in at noon and then deliver his inauguration speech.

An aide to King said the new governor's address would be short, lasting only about five minutes, because King wants to save what he has to say that is of substance for his state of the state speech, scheduled for delivery when the Legislature convenes Jan. 16.

King is embarking on his second term as governor, having served as the top state official from 1971 to 1974. If he completes the term he will have served longer than any other person as the governor of New Mexico.

Edwin L. Mechem, now a federal judge, would have served eight years as governor but resigned six weeks before the end of his fourth and final two-year term and was appointed to fill a vacancy in the U.S. Senate.

Roberto Mondragon, who served as King's lieutenant governor during King's first four-year term, also was returned to office with King by voters in the November general election and was to be sworn in as lieutentant governor just prior to King.

King and Mondragon are Democrats as are 11 other state officials who also were to be inaugurated in ceremonies planned for New Year's Day.

The 11 include Jeff Bingaman as attorney general; Shirley Hooper as secretary of state; Alvino Castillo as state auditor; Jan Hartke as state treasurer; Alex Armijo as commissioner of public lands; and Columbus Ferguson as state corporation commissioner.

Others are Supreme Court Chief Justice John B. McManus Jr., who was re-elected to the high court; William Federici as a Supreme Court justice; and Mary C. Walters, William R. Hendley and Leila Andrews as state Court of Appeals judges.

Following inauguration ceremonies, a reception was to be held at Sweeney Convention Center during the afternoon and three inaugural balls were planned for tonight.

Charles Kilburn death victim

CARMEL, Calif. (AP) — Retired Army Brig. Gen. Charles Solomon Kilburn, who commanded the 1st Armored Division at the Battle of the Bulge, Hitler's last major World War II offensive, died Thursday at the age of 83.

Several state officers take office oaths today

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Somewhere between New Year's Eve headaches and the football bowl games, Texas' successful politicians begin to take office Monday.

Many new office holders decided to delay their oath-taking ceremonies until after the New Year festivities.

However, among those planning to step into their new jobs on the first day of the year was Mark White, new Texas attorney general.

White scheduled an 11 a.m. swearing-in ceremony in the Texas Senate chamber with Dr. Abner McCall, president of Baylor University, presiding. Gov. Dolph Briscoe plans to take part in the ceremony.

White succeeds John Hill, who was an unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor. He defeated Republican Jim Baker, Houston attorney, in the general election.

Another ceremony Monday sees Presiding Judge John F. Onion of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals swear in Austin attorney Sam Houston Clinton as a new member of the state's highest appellate court for criminal cases. The ceremony was set for 10 a.m. in the Court of Criminal Appeals.

In a dual ceremony Tuesday, Associate Supreme Court Justice Price Daniel Jr. will retire from the state's highest bench and be succeeded by Franklin S. Spears, San Antonio district judge. The oath will be administered by Chief Justice Joe R. Greenhill.

On Thursday in Kerrville, former Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, will be sworn in as a member of the Texas Railroad Commission by Greenhill. Nugent was appointed to the position by Briscoe after Commissioner Jon Newton resigned.

The biggest oath-taking of all comes Jan. 16 when Bill Clements is sworn in as the first Republican governor in more than 100 years to succeed Briscoe. The swearing-in takes place at noon on the Capitol steps followed by an afternoon and night of parades, programs and inaugural balls.

Also honored Jan. 16 will be Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, now the top elected Democratic official. He will be sworn in for another 4-year term.

APPEALS — Pope John Paul II has called on Roman Catholics to reject abortion and divorce, saying they must do so to "help make human life more human."

From Texas to Montana

Wide area in deep freeze

By The Associated Press

Howling winds combined with frigid temperatures, snow and freezing rain to create a New Year's Day deep freeze from Texas to Montana, from Spokane to the Straits of Mackinac.

At least five deaths were attributed to the stormy weather during the weekend, as snowfalls topped 12 inches in some areas.

In Dallas, an ice storm coated trees, sending branches crashing to the ground and knocking out power for up to 75,000 customers.

Ray Ward, a spokesman for Dallas Power and Light, called it "the worst ice storm in 30 years." And another power company spokesman warned Sunday: "If you are living near tall trees, you are eihter without electric power or soon will be."

About 3,500 telephone customers were also without service in Dallas.

Elsewhere, thousands were forced to alter travel plans because of hazardous driving conditions and disrupted airline schedules. In some areas, New Year's Eve revelers stayed home because of snow-covered highways.

In St. Louis, snow and ice felled power lines, cutting off power to more than 10,000 customers. Emergency shelters were set up for residents without heat or lights. Outages were also reported in Washington, where record cold snapped power lines and caused transformers to burn out, and in Idaho.

Sub-zero readings were common in Washington, the northern Plains and Rockies. In Stanley, Idaho, the temperature plunged to 49 degrees below zero. In Havre, Mont., a temperature of 25 below zero combined with 25 mph winds to produce a wind-chill factor of 81 degrees below zero, and the 22 below zero recorded in Spokane, Wash., broke a record for Dec. 31 set in 1884.

Ten inches of snow fell in the Kansas City area, and temperatures hovered in the teens or lower in Kansas and Missouri.

Chicago and northern Illinois were buried under 11 inches of snow, and five of the six runways at O'Hare International Airport were closed for snow removal Sunday.

In Missouri, a neighbor found David Sade, 21, of Lamar lying in his yard Sunday, and officials said he died of exposure. Samuel Anderson, 72, was found dead in his stalled car Sunday in Kansas City.

Storm-related highways deaths during the weekend claimed three lives, one each in Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin.

Ice jams were reported on Montana rivers, and the storm produced an ordeal for more than 200 passengers aboard an Amtrak passenger train. The train broke down in temperatures of 30 degrees below zero in northwestern Montana Saturday, and its passengers were taken to Seattle in six buses.

In Iowa, where up to a foot of snow fell, some restaurant owners reported heavy cancellations for New Year's Eve.

But in Moline, Ill., another restaurateur wasn't worried. "I can remember when the snow was far worse than this and they still came," said Sam Gnatovich of the Wells Fargo. "The snow's not going to stop 'em."

Europe is plagued by storms

LONDON (AP) — Snow and ice froze much of northern Europe to a standstill New Year's Eve and today, and 30 people were reported dead or missing in storms off the English and Spanish coasts.

Power failures hit England and parts of Denmark, and hundreds of rail, bus and auto passengers were stranded.

Spanish authorities said 25 seamen from the Greek supertanker and the wife and son of the ship's captain were missing in a gale off northwest Spain after their lifeboat capsized, but two other crewmen were rescued by helicopter and a third survivor was reported aboard the ship. Officials said the 218,665-ton tanker did not appear to be in danger of sinking, but leaking oil from its cargo of 26.6 million gallons of Iranian crude was spreading across two miles of Atlantic waters.

Two men were reported dead and one missing in the grounding of a fishing boat off southwest England, but 11 were rescued. Eight were picked up by a navy helicopter that was talked in by radio to the cliffside wreck in a blinding blizzard.

Ice cloaked the bronze horses and war heroes of Paris' Luxembourg Gardens and glazed the tree-lined boulevards of the City of Light with a winking glitter.

London drivers moved gingerly over whitened streets in what a senior police officer called "one of the quietest New Year's on the roads in a long time."

Despite a temperature in London of 21 degrees, a few dauntless revelers plunged into the fountains of Trafalgar Square for a midnight dip, warmed by the sight of two girls performing an impromptu topless dance.

Italians basked in brilliant sun that raised the temperature to 57 degrees. But the mercury dropped in Czechoslovakia from 68 Sunday afternoon to 12 this morning, and Moscow had its coldest New Year's Day since 1905, with the temperature down to 31 below zero.

Chrysler boosts price of cars

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. is boosting the suggested retail price of most 1979 cars an average of $85, or 1.2 percent.

The increase takes effect Tuesday and does not affect cars already ordered or on dealer parking lots. Prices on the Omni and Horizon were not increased.

The company said the increase was prompted by higher costs of purchased material and labor. A statement issued by the No. 3 automaker said the increase "is in line with the president's wage and price guidelines."

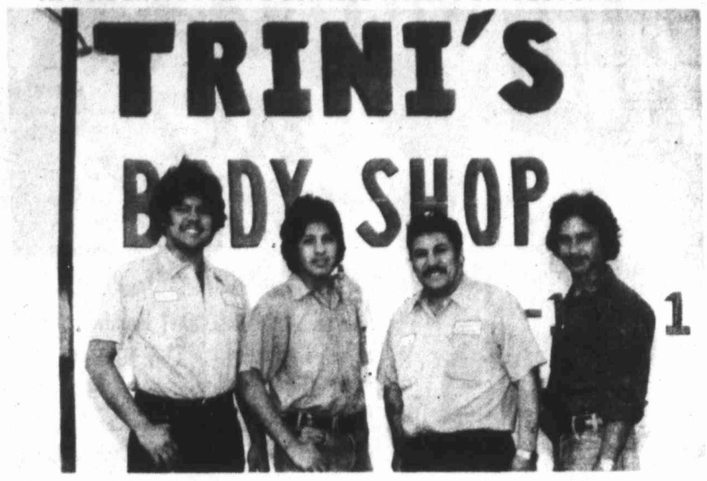

The biggest increase, $244, will be on the four-door Chrysler New Yorker.

Teen Poets

By Robert Wallace, Ed. D.

It's that enjoyable time of the month when I introduce our three teen poets. Jack Davis, 19, comes from Galesburg, Ill.; Kim Westrope, 20, from La Habra, Calif.; and Ann Minter, 15, who hails from Goshen, Ind. Welcome!

ALONE
Here I am again,
All alone.
Trying to sleep,
But unable.
Jobless, unnoticed.
A tiny atom in this great universe. — Jack Davis

THE RESTLESS SLEEPERS
They toss and turn many times
Till their covers are in a heap.
They glance at the clock
Again and again, and give up counting sheep
They finally decide on getting
Up and down the stairs they go,
Then into their beloved kitchen
Quietly on tiptoe.
Cold bologna, macaroni, peanut butter pie,
They devour these tasty morsels
With a hint of greed in their eye.
With a bloated stomach, guilty
Heart and rather sleepy head,
They quickly turn out the Kitchen light and bounce off
Back to bed.
Now what I've explained
May seem to some an
Odd and dangerous plight,
But many find it a necessity
To raid the refrigerator at night! — Ann Minter

A PRECIOUS GIFT
Fireplaces, presents
And silver-tinseled trees.
Excitement fills each house,
For it is Christmas Eve.
When the morning comes,
We'll awake with dawn's first light,
To open up our gifts
With laughter and surprise.

But no other gift could equal
What you've given me today,
A simple lovely flower
Of delicate white lace.

But that single white flower,
With a simple little card,
Carried love wrapped up inside them,
And I knew it was from the heart.

Today you gave me a happiness
That I've never had before.
And today you made me realize
What it is I'm living for.

For it is love that's the easiest,
Yet the strongest gift you can give,
And I thank you, my dearest friend,
For giving me that precious gift. — Kim Westrope

If you write and enjoy poetry, please send me one or two and I will try and get them in print. Please send your poems to me in care of this newspaper. Please give your age and include a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Improve flavor or lamb chops

Next time you broil shoulder lamb chops, you might enjoy marinating them before cooking in a little pineapple juice and curry powder.

New product eelskin softer than kidskin

HUNTSVILLE, Texas — "It's softer than kidskin; it has natural elasticity. But it has an amazing recovery factor once it's stretched."

Those words come from Jerry Register, principal of Cor'don Accessories, in describing a new "exotic leather" produce his firm is introducing into the U.S. market.

That product, as described to Rosanne Kostus, senior editor of Fashion Showcase, a national newspaper for women's apparel buyers, is eelskin.

Cor'don Accessories, Register explains, offers men's and women's eelskin accessories. Styles range from men's wallets and travel cases to women's shoulder and clutch bags, as well as small purse accessories, he says.

Register, a lawyer, says the venture all started after he purchased an eelskin wallet in Seoul, Korea.

Friends and acquaintances were interested in the wallet he brought back to the States, Register recalls, so he went back to Korea and purchased more items in eelskin. "Everyone loved it," he remarks.

When he returned again to Korea, Register says he purchased part of the eelskin tannery on a joint-venture basis with an investment group.

"The corporation is now set up in such a way that we can manufacture about anything (in eelskin) that's manufactured in clothing."

In addition to the men's and women's accessories items, Register says the company is considering making leather apparel items as well as footwear.

He notes the man who originally developed the process for tanning eelskin into leather soft enough to make accessories and apparel is a "story in itself."

"In the Orient," Register explains. "eel is a food source — a staple."

However, he continues, after the eel is caught, normally the skin is discarded when it is processed for food.

It was not until the son of a Korean port captain discovered a process for tanning the skins that they became useable for such items as wallets, he indicates. The method devised, according to Register, results in a "soft, supple skin."

"He (the port captain's son) discovered that the secret of the tanning process is the time period between cleaning of the skin and initiation of the tanning process."

The developer of the process went on to capitalize on his discovery.

Sammy Davis celebrates

NEW YORK (AP) — Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. apparently doesn't believe in single celebrations.

On Monday Davis marked three events: his 53rd birthday, Hanukkah, and the 23rd anniversary of his conversion to Judaism.

Davis made an appearance before 5,000 persons at Congregation B'nai Jeshurun on the city's West Side, and was praised by Rabbi William Berkowitz as "not afraid to stand up for what he believes in."

Author sues Alex Haley

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Harold Courlander says that when he filed suit against "Roots" author Alex Haley he "wasn't interested in destroying the guy."

Courtlander reportedly received a $500,000 out-of-court settlement from Haley, who admitted that some material from Courlander's novel "The African" found its way into "Roots," a Pulitzer Prize winner.

"I brought the suit because I wanted to protect my literary creation," said Courlander.

Meeting Death With Dignity

DEAR ABBY: I want to thank you for the most wonderful present I have ever received. Because of an item in your column last year, I sent for "The Living Will." Now I have peace of mind, knowing that if my husband or I should ever become terminally ill, our loved ones will never have to watch us die slow and agonizing deaths as some we have witnessed.

I saw my handsome, 6-foot, 200-pound father waste away to an 88-pound skeleton after fighting a two-year battle with cancer. The doctors told us it was hopeless, yet kept that poor dear man alive month after month with transfusions, tubes, needles and drugs, while he prayed to God to take him.

Abby, you would do millions of readers a priceless service by acquainting them with "The Living Will" as you did me.

GRATEFUL IN JOLIET, ILL.

DEAR GRATEFUL: Thank you for giving me this opportunity to publicize "The Living Will" again. It reads as follows:

TO MY FAMILY, MY PHYSICIAN, MY LAWYER AND ALL OTHERS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

Death is as much a reality as birth, growth, maturity and old age—it is the one certainty of life. If the time comes when I can no longer take part in decisions for my own future, let this statement stand as an expression of my wishes and directions, while I am still of sound mind.

If at such a time the situation should arise in which there is no reasonable expectation of my recovery from extreme physical or mental disability, I direct that I be allowed to die and not be kept alive by medications, artificial means or "heroic measures." I do, however, ask that medication be mercifully administered to me to alleviate suffering even though this may shorten my remaining life.

This statement is made after careful consideration and is in accordance with my strong convictions and beliefs. I want the wishes and directions here expressed carried out to the extent permitted by law. Insofar as they are not legally enforceable, I hope that those to whom this Will is addressed will regard themselves as morally bound by these provisions.

Female death rate doubled

If your spouse or someone in your family continues to smoke no matter how fervently you implore, the Health Insurance Institute suggests the following tactics:

1. Point to the health warning that the government has made mandatory on every pack of cigarettes.

2. Explain that since the initial Surgeon General's warning in 1964, 100,000 physicians have quit smoking.

3. Then produce the following American Cancer Society data:

A man who smokes a pack-a-day by age 25 runs the risk of living six years less than the young man who doesn't.

Where once lung cancer death was rare among women because few smoked, the female death rate from this cause has doubled in the last 10 years as more women have taken to smoking.

Cleaning out your garage easier than you think.

Americans masochistic

PARIS (AP) — Americans want to feel guilty, says Eugene Ionesco, one of the world's greatest living playwrights.

The 66-year-old Ionesco says in an article published Monday in the Paris daily Le Figaro that the United States is "masochistic" because Americans blame themselves "for all that is wrong with the world."

He said that on a recent trip to the United States, "I found myself trying to raise their morale."

He said he found "anti-American Americans" obsessed with guilt about such things as Vietman, Indian rights, and Watergate."

Old rivals meet again

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Rick Leach, the quarterback of Michigan, and Dennis Johnson, who calls the defensive signals for Southern California, have a reunion in today's 65th Rose Bowl football game.

They played against each other in high school with both coming from Flint, Mich.

"I remember he beat us every time," said Johnson, a 230-pound inside linebacker who led the Trojans with 108 tackles during the regular season.

"Leach can do so many things," Johnson said. "He likes to keep the ball. He has balance, competitiveness and speed.

"The Big Ten passing attack has not been too strong in the past, but I'm looking for Michigan to open up the passing."

Johnson said he chose Southern California "because of the weather and the organization and I always wanted to get away from home and be independent."

Leach, a four-year starter and now a senior, holds the key to the Michigan attack and is the man Johnson and his defensive cohorts must stop.

During the regular season, when Michigan went 10-1, the quarterback of the option attack rushed for 589 yards and 12 touchdowns. He completed 68 of 137 passes with 16 going for scores.

"There is pride on this team, and particularly the seniors want to win a bowl game," Leach said before the 5 p.m., EST kickoff of the nationally televised (NBC) game.

The past three years Michigan not been able to win a postseason game, losing first in the Orange Bowl and then twice in the Rose Bowl, to Southern California and Washington.

Johnson said he isn't at all surprised that Southern Cal won the chance to play Michigan again. "We think positive all the way," he said.

Southern California won the Pacific-10 Conference title and posted an 11-1 record, losing only to Arizona State. Michigan's defeat was at the hands of Michigan State, a school on NCAA probation and not eligible for postseason games.

Southland hopes high

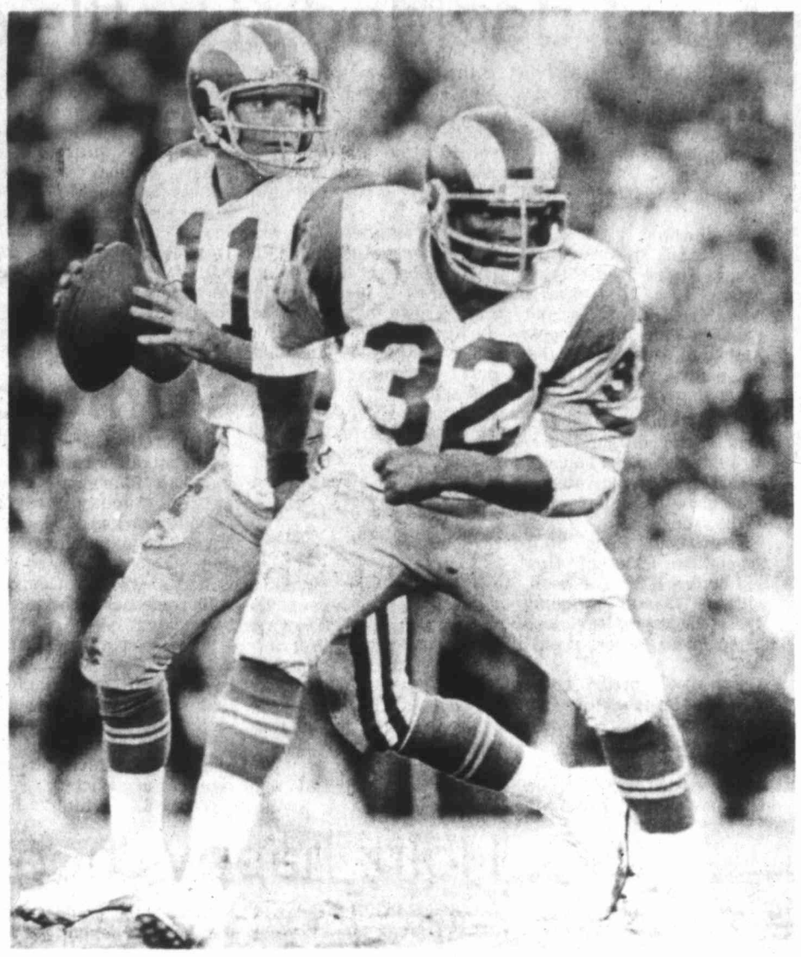

By The Associated Press

Southland Conference basketball teams were hoping for better luck in the New Year than they had in the last week of the old when they lost three tournament games by a total of six points.

Louisiana Tech finished second in the Senior Bowl Tournament in Mobile, Ala., losing to host South Alabama 71-69 Thursday after defeating crosstate rival Centenary 94-71 in the opening round.

Arkansas State, the other tournament participant in the SLC, came back from a 20-day layoff to drop a pair of twopoint contests in the Evansville Invitational, one to the host squad and the other to Navy.

It's back to business this week with a full slate of games.

PORTECTING HADEN IN THE POCKET — Los Angeles Rams Cullen Bryant (32) protects quarterback Pat Haden (11) in the pocket during the second half in Los Angeles Sunday against the Minnesota Vikings. The Rams defeated the Vikings 34-10 sending the Rams into the NFC championship game of Super Bowl eliminations next Sunday against the Dallas Cowboys.

"Can't be beat": Stallworth

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ring out the Denver Broncos. Ring in the Houston Oilers.

It's a new year and another shot at the Super Bowl for the Pittsburgh Steelers, who beat Denver Saturday in their playoff opener and face familiar Houston here next Sunday for the American Football Conference title.

"The Steelers deserved to win. They were the better football team, and they'll probably win the whole thing," Denver defensive end Lyle Alzado said after Terry Bradshaw passed Pittsburgh to 33-10 win over the Broncos.

On Sunday, the Steelers watched on television as Houston, runnerup to Pittsburgh in the AFC Central, beat New England 31-14.

"Dan Pastorini looked super. Earl Campbell looked super. The whole Houston team played extremely well," said Steeler wide receiver John Stallworth.

"But if we play the type of ball we did yesterday against Denver, we can't be beat," added Stallworth, who caught 10 passes against the Broncos to set record for a National Football League Divisional Playoff.

One key for Pittsburgh next Sunday could be playing at home, where the Steelers have won six of seven playoff games since 1972.

In Saturday's game, thousands of Pittsburgh partisans twirled yellow "Terrible Towels," a playoff gimmick devised by a Steeler broadcaster.

But beyond the terry cloth, the difference was Terry Bradshaw.

"Terry Bradshaw was incredible," Alzado said after Bradshaw hit 16 of 29 passes for 272 yards and a pair of fourth-quarter touchdown bombs to Stallworth and Lynn Swann.

"It's a travesty if Bradshaw isn't the Most Valuable Player in the AFC. He had a hell of a game," said Denver backup quarterback Norris Weese, who tried in vain to turn the tide after Craig Morton was ineffective.

What did Bradshaw have to say about all that?

Well, he praised Stallworth, pointed out that double coverage on Lynn Swann made Stallworth open, and then talked about the "Terrible Towels."

"Wasn't that nice. We had our fans behind us, doggone 'em, bless their hearts," gushed Bradshaw.

The past two years the Steelers were eliminated from the playoffs in road games. Last year, it was a 34-21 first-round loss in Denver.

"Hopefully, our fans will have an effect on Houston," said defensive end L.C. Greenwood.

"If they get fired up like they were against Denver, maybe some of that electricity will flow out onto the field and hinder Houston."

At this time of new beginnings we wish you a year worth remembering... a perfect future! Thanks.

Fran calls Pokes-Rams game even

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Having finally defeated Minnesota in a Super Bowl elimination playoff game, the Los Angeles Rams were yelling, "Bring on the Cowboys."

Nobody will have to bring the Dallas team to Los Angeles for Sunday's National Football Conference championship game and the right to meet the AFC champion in the Super Bowl at Miami on Jan. 21. The Cowboys will come west on their own.

Fran Tarkenton, the veteran quarterback of Minnesota which lost to Los Angeles 34-10, termed the Cowboys-Rams game an "even match."

He said, "There is nothing much to choose between those two teams."

Until Sunday's setback, Minnesota had met Los Angeles four times in playoff games and hadn't lost. This time it was different.

"This was the day when we all played our best," commented 245-pound defensive end Fred Dryer. "We all played to our potential. We all have our little space to protect and we all did it well.

"We were emotional and it will carry over to the Dallas game." The Cowboys are the defending Super Bowl champions but lost to both Minnesota and Los Angeles in the regular season. They reached this NFC championship game with a 27-20 triumph over Atlanta on Saturday.

Los Angeles rookie place kicker Frank Corrall, the leading NFL scorer during the regular season, observed, "Dallas is a great team, but we are a better one. We've the momentum now, and we've got much more versatility on offense now than when we last played Dallas. We are not just a ground team, not at all."

It was the passing of quarterback Pat Haden and the running of 235-pound Cullen Bryant that supplemented the stubborn Los Angeles defense.

After a 10-10 first half, the Rams scored on a pass by Haden to Ron Jessie and a Bryant run in the third period while the defense throttled the Vikings to a minus three yards for the quarter.

The Vikings' rushers gained only 36 yards all afternoon.

SWC teams to open battle

Southwest Conference basketball teams open the battle for the conference crown this week after rolling up an impressive 56-31 winning margin against nonconference opponents.

Texas Christian and Texas will be first off the mark when their SWC matchup starts at the Longhorns' Super Drum Thursday night.

On Saturday night, there is a full slate of action with the Texas at Texas Tech game featured at 12:40 p.m. on a regional television network.

Other openers Saturday night include defending SWC champion Arkansas at Houston, Rice at Baylor, and Texas Christian at Southern Methodist.

Arkansas remained the only unbeaten team in the SWC during the weekend by whipping Memphis State 82-69. The Razorbacks will start SWC play with an 8-0 record if they can control North Texas State Thursday night in Little Rock.

The upstart Texas Aggies and Texas Tech made the biggest splashes in weekend holiday basketball play.

The 12th-rated Aggies, who are now 11-2, mauled the University of Vermont 104-76 behind freshman center Rudy Woods' 24 points Saturday night for the Vermont Basketball Classic title.

The Aggies earlier had captured the San Francisco Classic and earned third place in the Wildcat Invitational.

Tech shocked nationally ranked Michigan 87-85 Thursday in the Sun Bowl Classic, but fell 58-58 to Clemson Friday night in the finals on a last-second shot.

Baylor grabbed third place in the Las Vegas Holiday Basketball Classic with a 101-73 trouncing of Loyola of Los Angeles.

Tech is now 8-2 while Baylor is 6-4.

Texas' record dipped to 6-3 on the West Coast as the Longhorns bounced the University of the Pacific 70-53 but lost Saturday night to San Francisco 69-48.

Houston, now 7-4, lost both its games in the Pillsbury Holiday Basketball Classic, falling 84-77 to Brigham Young Saturday night.

SMU evened its record to 5-5 with easy victories over small college foes.

TCU is 3-5 and Rice is 3-6.

Sands wins

Sands cagers stomped Eula in Friday's meeting, with the girls varsity breezing through with a 30-point margin.

The girls topped Eula, 50-20, with Jill Floyd taking high-point honors with 14. Other top scorers were Tammy Nichols with 11, Lesli Guitar with seven and Elva Arismendez with four.

The boys varsity fared nearly as well, downing Eual, 80-61. David Mosley led the scoring with 30 points, followed by Van Gaskins with 12, Shane Wiggington with 13, David Long with 11, and Larry Feaster with 10.

The boys' record is 18-3; the girls', 20-2. Both will travel to Klondike Tuesday where JV action will begin at 5:30 p.m.

STEPPING FOR TOUCHDOWN — Stanford's Darring Nelson (31) stepped out of the reach of Georgia's Scott Woerner (19) in the third quarter of the Bluebonnet Bowl game at Houston Sunday night as he went for a touchdown in the third.

No. 1 decided at battle of New Orleans?

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — No. 1 ranked Penn State met No. 2 rated Alabama today in the Sugar Bowl for what has been billed as the game for the national collegiate football championship. But is it?

The answer is yes if All-American quarterback Chuck Fusina leads State's Nittany Lions to a triumph over coach Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide. But suppose Alabama wins? Does that automatically make the Tide the champs?

Even Alabama Coach Bear Bryant isn't sure.

"I'll be damned if I know," said the crusty old veteran. "I'm going to let the voters do the voting."

How about Penn State Coach Joe Paterno? How will he feel if his 11-0 team, with a 19-game winning streak, longest major college string in the nation, should lose?

"I'm not worried about that," Paterno said. "We would have to win. I would expect that's the way it should go."

The reason for the indecision should Alabama win is the Rose Bowl game later Monday between Southern California and Michigan. Each has one defeat and is rated in the top five. And Southern California whipped Alabama earlier in the season.

Should Southern Cal win impressively over Michigan, and Alabama beat Penn State, the Pac-10 team might have a legitimate claim to the title.

The Associated Press final poll rankings will be released at 6:30 a.m. Wednesday. And it's the first time since 1971 that the poll awaits a head-on confrontation between No. 1 and No. 2. Nebraska walloped Alabama 38-6 in that one played at Miami's Orange Bowl.

The Penn State-Alabama game appears a tossup. In some areas, the Tide is give a one point edge. But if you look at statistics, Paterno's Nittany Lions appear to hold the edge.

State led the nation this past season against rushing and in total defense.

Paterno's defense allowed just 8.8 points per game against a schedule that included five teams chosen for bowl games.

The offense is led by All-American quarterback Chuck Fusina, with All-American tackle Keith Dorney keying the offensive line. Fusina, runnerup in the Heisman balloting and winner of the Maxwell Award as College Player of the Year, completed 371 of 665 passes for 5,382 yards and 37 touchdowns in his Penn State career.

Quarterback Jeff Rutledge keys Alabama's offense. He broke Joe Namath's career touchdown mark of 28 by throwing 30.

Paterno is 6-3-1 in bowl games since becoming head coach at Penn State in 1966. He's never won in the Sugar Bowl, losing to Oklahoma in 1972. His overall record of 123-24-1 for an .834 percentage is among the best in history.

Bryant, a legend among college coaches, has a mark of 283-77-16, ranking only behind Amos Alonzo Stagg (314) and Pop Warner (313) on the alltime victory list.

Penn State and Alabama met one other time — other than the 1975 Sugar Bowl — and State won 7-0 in the first Liberty Bowl in 1959 at Philadelphia.

Alabama has won three national championships — 1961, 1964 and 1965.

Stanford edges Georgia

HOUSTON (AP) — The script got rather confusing in the 20th Bluebonnet Bowl battle Sunday night. Eleventh-ranked Georgia acted like a passing team and Stanford upstaged the Bulldogs with a Georgia-style comeback in the second half.

When tte exciting dramatization was over, however, it was Stanford that carried out its lines best with three touchdown passes in the third quarter by quarterback Steve Dils en route to a 25-22 victory.

Georgia, which had specialized in comebacks during the regular season, fashioned a 22-0 lead on touchdown catches of 22 and 8 yards by Carmon Prince, Rex Robinson's 31-yard field goal and a 1-yard dive by quarterback Jeff Pyburn.

But through the nightmare, Stanford Coach Bill Walsh never gave up hope.

"I reminded them at the half that we had come back before," Walsh said. "Our style of football gives us a shot at coming back. We can score quickly."

Pyburn's touchdown capped a vicious 75-yard drive in only six plays to start the third quarter, and the Bulldogs appeared ready to end a three-game losing string in postseason play.

But then the Cardinals started showing just how fast they could score.

Dils, the game's outstanding offensive player, turned three Georgia fumbles and a short punt into 25 points over a 6:13 span starting in the third quarter.

Dils hit split end Ken Margerum with a 32-yard touchdown pass to start the rally, followed up with a 19-yard strike to Darrin Nelson and hit Margerum again on a 14-yard touchdown pass play.

Coupled with a pair of 2-point conversions, the touchdowns knotted the score at 22-22 and set up Ken Naber's game-winning 24-yard field goal with 14:50 left in the game.

"The problem wasn't blown assignments, it was just intensity of play," Dils said. "They were just blowing by us. The difference was right here in our gut. I felt good in the first half, but little things threw me off. In the secnd half I got some time to throw."

Dils completed 17 of 28 passes for 210 yards and three touchdowns. Nelson led Stanford rushers with 100 yards on 16 carries. Georgia's secondteam All-America tailback Willie McClendon, despite losing three of Georgia's five fumbles, gained 115 yards on 27 carries.

"I don't know what happened," Pyburn said. "I thought the opening drive in the second half was the best drive we'd had all year but they came back as a result of our mistakes."

Holtz happy 'hog'

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — University of Arkansas football Coach Lou Holtz says that although he's an "Ohio boy," he plans to remain at Arkansas and not become Woody Hayes' successor at Ohio State University.

Hayes was fired Saturday as Ohio State's head football coach for striking a Clemson University player during the Gator Bowl game. Holtz, a native of Liverpool, Ohio, and a former assistant coach at Ohio State, is regarded as a leading candidate for Hayes' old job, sources have said.

University of Arkansas officials say they have not been contacted by Ohio State officials about Holtz being offered a job with the Buckeyes.

Holtz said Sunday he does not know whether Ohio State officials plan to offer him a job, but as far as he's concerned, he's happy coaching at Arkansas.

"We have beautiful people in Arkansas. My family is happy there, and I'm just looking forward to coaching at Arkansas," he said.

Holtz made the comments during a telephone interview from Honolulu with KATV-TV in Little Rock. Holtz is in Honolulu to coach the West squad Saturday in the Hula Bowl.

Asked if he would accept the head coaching job at Ohio State, Holtz replied: "I have a job. That's what people don't understand. Ohio State is a great job, and they're great people, and I'm an Ohio boy.

"But we have a great place at the University of Arkansas.

SLUGGED — Clemson University middle guard Charlie Baumna, above, was allegedly hit by Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes in the closing moments of Clemson's 17-15 Gator Bowl victory over the Ohio State Buckeyes Friday night in Jacksonville, Fla. The incident led to Haye's firing Saturday.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JAN. 2, 1979

GENERAL TENDENCIES: There could be some confusion and muddled thinking in the atmosphere today and you would be wise not to jump at any conclusions and maintain poise in all your activities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Study and figure out the details of a new plan that will give you greater income in the days ahead. Be alert to opportunities.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure you explain a plan you have carefully to an associate and avoid confusion later on. Take no risks with money.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be willing to make needed changes that could give you increased abundance in the days ahead. Be more cheerful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take care you don't go off on a spending spree at this time. Study the future well and make sensible plans.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) A new attitude now could be most beneficial in your line of endeavor. Try to meet the expectations of loved one tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) An associate needs your support, so don't fail to give it. Be sure to make a long, overdue payment and avoid trouble.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Talk over business matters with associates and come to a fine understanding. Obtain the data you need from the right sources.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get busy on creative work early in the day and handle routine duties in the afternoon for best results today.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) There could be some confusion at home during the day, but it is best to wait until evening to clarify it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Much care must be exercised in motion today, otherwise you could get into serious trouble. Relax at home tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You could be confused about your financial standing, so get it cleared up now, and be sure. Strive for happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) It is difficult to make the progress you want in early in the day, but by evening all changes. Plan to improve your health.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will require the best education possible in order to have the success and happiness that is possible in this chart. Be sure to give the right moral training so that the energies will be channeled in the right direction.

Possible witness

Gacy employee sought

CHICAGO (AP) — A former employee of John Gacy Jr., the contractor suspected of killing as many as 32 young men and boys, is being hunted as a possible witness to the sex slayings, the Chicago Sun-Times reports.

The police search for the unidentified man was begun after a victim of an alleged assault involving Gacy said he was convinced Gacy had an accomplice, the Sun-Times said Sunday.

Twenty-seven bodies have been unearthed from beneath Gacy's suburban Chicago home. Two bodies found in the Des Plaines River have been linked to the investigation.

Gacy, a painting and redecorating contractor, reportedly has written letters from jail in which he said that "some things said about me are true" and asked his mother to "please forgive me."

Philip Hardiman, county director of corrections, confirmed that Gacy wrote two letters last week, but he refused to disclose their contents. One was to Gacy's mother, he said.

The Sun-Times reported that one of the letters was intended for Sun-Times columnist Mike Royko and WBBM-TV anchorman Walter Jacobson. The paper said that letter was intercepted and turned over to the office of the state's attorney.

The Sun-Times quoted unidentified investigators as saying the letter said, "Some things said about me are true."

In the letter to his mother, the Sun-Times reported, Gacy said he had been "sick for a very long time, both mentally and physically" and "please forgive me." The letter also said "the end is near" and Gacy asked to be buried next to "Uncle Ray...if I die," the Sun-Times said.

Gacy, 36, reportedly confessed to sexually molesting and murdering 32 boys and young men, including five he reportedly claimed to have thrown in the Des Plaines River. He has been charged with murdering one youth, Robert Piest, whose body reportedly was thrown in the river but has not yet been found.

The Chicago Tribune has said that the investigation is spreading to checks of murders with sexual overtones committed in Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and downstate Illinois.

Police departments in those areas have notified authorities in Cook County that they want to check Gacy's movements in connection with unsolved sexkillings of teen-age boys within their jurisdiction.

Jeff Rignall, 27, the man the Sun-Times quotes as claiming Gacy had an accomplice, said he met Gacy last spring when Gacy offere him some marijuana. Rignall said he got into Gacy's car and was chloroformed.

According to the newspaper, Rignall said he regained consciousness in Gacy's home, where he was restrained on a rack-like device and Gacy was sexually abusing him.

Rignall said he based his theory about an accomplice on seeing a light come on in another part of the house while Gacy was with him.

A WAVE FROM THE QUEEN — Orange Bowl Queen Barbara Bowser waves from atop her float in the parade as it makes its way down Miami's famous Biscayne Boulevard Saturday night under balmly skies. The Oklahoma and Nebraska football teams will meet in the New Year's night game in the Orange Bowl to highlight the festivities.

Hopes for peace in Mideast dim

By the Associated Press

Israel and Egypt began the new year saying they are ready to reopen peace talks but they appeared to be still far apart on the issues that deadlocked the negotiations six weeks ago.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin announced after a Cabinet meeting Sunday that Israel was ready to resume negotiations. He told reporters the talks may resume this week or next and diplomatic efforts would begin immediately to set a time and place.

However, Israel again rejected Egypt's demand that the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty be linked to progress toward self-government for the 1.1. million Palestinians on the West Bank of the Jordan River and the Gaza Strip.

A Cabinet statement said Israel would renegotiate a joint letter outlining the procedure for establishing Palestinian autonomy in the two occupied territories "but without setting a target date" for the election of a Palestinian government council.

An Egyptian Foreign Ministry spokesman welcomed Israel's call for renewed talks but stressed that a settlement must include a timetable for Palestinian autonomy, the offivial Middle East News Agency said.

Begin and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat agreed at the Camp David summit in September to sign a treaty by Dec. 17, but Washington negotiations between the two nations broke down in mid-November and the target date passed without a settlement.

Israel said Egypt was trying to make last-minute changes in a U.S. draft treaty that Jerusalem accepted. Washington said the Egyptian proposals were reasonable and should have been approved by Israel.

Israel fears Egypt will back away from the entire treaty if it is unable to meet a timetable for Palestinian autonomy, especially since West Bank and Gaza Palestinians have rejected the self-rule plan.

Israeli troops, meanwhile, blocked an attempt by Jewish nationalists to set up a new West Bank settlement near Nablus. The government has the final say on settlements and imposed a freeze on new ones at the Camp David summit. Both Washington and Cairo claim the outposts are illegal and a hindrance to peace.

Troops stopped the would-be settlers at a roadblock half a mile south of their objective.

Newark city help idled

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The New Year means some sort of new beginning for 441 city workers who lost their jobs to ease a budget crunch for 1979.

"Some are looking for other jobs and probably won't come back," said Thomas Possumato, head of the local Fraternal Order of Police. "Some are just sitting home and hoping to be called back to work."

The employees, including 200 policemen, were the victims of a fiscal crisis created by the loss of federal anti-recession funds for 1979.

A similar fate awaits about 1,750 board of education employees, whose jobs will be lost between now and Feb.

Honors list varies widely

LONDON (AP) — Ex-communist trade union leader Hugh Scanlon, auto racer Jack Brabham and singer Olivia Newton-John have one thing in common — each is on Queen Elizabeth's New Years honors list.

The list, released by the government twice a year in the queen's name, marks successful careers and milestones of residents or former residents of the British Commonwealth.

Three Conrail employees slain; ex-worker nabbed

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — A former railroad worker sought in the New Year's Eve slaying of three Conrail employees was arrested today a mile from the scene of the slayings here, authorities said.

The arrest of Rudy Bladell, 45, of Elkhart, Ind., was reported by Elkhart police. Authorities in Jackson, Mich., would not immediately confirm the report.

Bladell had been sought for questioning in the shotgun ambush of the three Michigan railroad workers, who were gunned down Sunday night just 100 feet from a crowded Amtrak waiting room.

Bladell, who apparently lost his job when the railroad he worked for merged with Conrail, was convicted of aggravated assault and battery in 1971 in Elkhart Superior Court for shooting a railyard employee in Elkhart. Police said he also was questioned in connection with two other shootings at the railroad yard in Elkhart, but was not arrested in either case.

While a crowd gathered for the 7:40 p.m. train from Chicago to Detroit Sunday, someone slipped into the crew room at the Jackson station, blasting the three men in the head with 12-gauge slugs — a projectile used for hunting deer.

Killed were Charles Lee Burton, 22, of Michigan Center; William Gulak, 50, of Lincoln Park; and Robert Blake, 42, of Southgate.

There were no witnesses to the shooting, police said.

Thomas Tucker, a Pinckney man who had been waiting for his daughter and son-in-law to arrive on the train from Chicago, said he saw a man lying on the platform.

"I never went inside; I just went down to see if I could help," the 50-year-old Tucker said later. "Two of them weren't moving. One of them was just gasping with blood all over his chest."

McGowan had left his colleagues to get something to eat, he said.

Police had no motive for the shootings, said a statement read by Sgt. Norman Grace.

Margaret Estes calls it quits

LONGVIEW, Texas (AP) — Margaret Estes, publisher of the Longview Daily News and Longview Morning Journal, retired from her chief executive officer position with the two dailies Friday.

Tom R. Meredith, associate publisher for the last several months, was appointed her successor.

Mrs. Estes sold the two newspapers to Cox Enterprises, Inc. last summer, but agreed to remain during a transitional period.

This week's Hustle Column will be a pot pouri of facts, philosophy and forecasts highlighting some concerns of our state and nation in general and our Big Spring Area in particular.

First, do you know that a person does not have to be connected with the Shrine in order to receive assistance for children who are burned or crippled? All that is required is a need for help. So whenever that need exists you can call toll free, 1-800-621-1113 or get in touch with us here at the Chamber.

You don't have to be a doctor or a medical person to save a life. Quite often, all it takes is a small gift from you — just a pint of blood which is so important to one in need and costs you only 15 minutes to a half hour of your time. Please give more in '79 and you can start Tuesday, January 2, at Malone-Hogan Hospital, 12 noon til 7 p.m.

Uncle Sam is cracking down on the use of regular gasoline in cars designed for unleaded gas. Several municipalities and fleet operators have been given stiff fines. So be sure that you get the right gas for your car — the fines apply to both the purchaser and the person or firm who dispenses the gasoline. By the way, the government is also looking at ways to bring the price of unleaded gas closer to the price of regular as a means to counter these violations.

Here's another "you don't have to be." You don't have to be a law enforcement officer to effectively lower the crime rate in our community. All you need to do is to participate in Operation Identification and Neighborhood Watch. Mark your valuables — notify the police when you will be away from home and follow some very simple — actually common sense guidelines. For more information call 263-8311 or get in touch with us here at the Chamber.

Free Enterprise isn't free. It costs. It costs in responsibility. It costs all of us — government, business, employees and consumers. Responsibility is measured in businesses that offer good products at fair prices. When we all stand up and do our part — it works. The results are profits — for all of us. And profits enrich our lives. They create jobs and improve the quality of life. So Free Enterprise is still the best bargain around — until somebody comes up with a better system — well, just imagine the alternatives.

Hustle is getting the job done because you got there first, or stayed with it after everyone else gave up.

Hustle is shoe leather and elbow grease and sweat and missing lunch.

Hustle is getting people to say "yes" after they've said "no" twenty times.

Hustle is doing more for people than any other organization is doing for them.

Hustle is believing in yourself and your community.

Hustle is the sheer joy of winning.

Hustle is being the sorest loser in town.

Hustle is hating to take a vacation because you might miss a piece of the action.

Jimmy Carter saluted

Chinese leader ecstatic

PEKING (AP) — Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping today toasted the dawn of a new era in U.S.-Chinese relations and saluted Jimmy Carter for his "far-sighted view" in taking the historic step.

Teng and Leonard Woodcock, chief of the U.S. Liaison Mission here, were among 150 Chinese and Americans who crowded into Woodcock's modest home for a party celebrating the establishment of formal diplomatic ties between the two nations, which became effective today.

The Chinese leader said he felt certain the "far-reaching influence" of the new relationship on world peace "will become more and more evident with the passage of time."

Teng recalled that in announcing the move President Carter said the United States "did not undertake this important step for transient, tactical or expedient reasons."

"I appreciate this far-sighted view," Teng said.

Woodcock called today "a great day in the history of mankind."

A similar social gathering was planned for the Chinese Liaison Mission in Washington this evening.

Just before Washington and Peking established relations at midnight Sunday, China made a new overture to the Nationalist regime on Taiwan, but the Nationalists promptly rejected it.

The communist government that for nearly 30 years vowed to "liberate" Taiwan announced that it wants to negotiate a reunification that would preserve the "status quo" of the capitalist island.

A New Year's message from the Standing Committee of the National People's Congress proposed the start of transportation, postal services and trade between the mainland and the island of 17 million people 100 miles off China's southeast coast.

The statement said China favored a reunification plan that would "respect the status quo on Taiwan and the opinions of people in all walks of life there and adopt reasonable policies and measures in settling the question of reunification so as not to cause the people of Taiwan any losses."

The message also said China wanted to end military confrontation and was halting the 20-year bombardment of the Nationalist islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

The Nationalist government rejected previous overtures from Peking for negotiations, and the response today to the latest one was the same. A government spokesman in Taipei, the Nationalist capital, repeated President Chiang Chingkuo's statement last week refusing to deal with the communists.

"This is our set policy," the spokesman said. "We will not change our position."

There were no formal ceremonies to mark the establishment of diplomatic relations between Washington and Peking for the first time since the communist conquest of the mainland in 1949. President Carter and Communist Party Chairman Hua Kuo-feng exchanged messages.

"The cause of world peace will be served by this historic act of reconciliation," said Carter in his message. Hua said the normalization of relations "accords with the fundamental interests of the Chinese and American peoples" and will "exert a favorable influence on the international situation."

"LOVE We want to have more contact with the American people in all fields," said a wall poster which youths put up on Wangfuching, Peking's main shopping street.

"It should have happened a long time ago for the sake of the peace of the world," a gray-bearded passerby, Kao Chi-cheng, told an American reporter. "It's very good."

The decision announced by President Carter Dec. 15 meant an end to U.S. diplomatic ties with Taiwan, and the termination of the U.S.-Taiwanese mutual defense treaty at the end of 1979.
