Dallas Firm Hire To Help in Salt Fork Dam Work

A contract was let Tuesday night to R. A. Underwood & Company of Dallas under which the firm was employed to assist the Greenbelt Municipal and Industrial Water Association in completing necessary steps leading up to construction of a dam on the upper Salt Fork of Red River. The contract was completed at a meeting of water association representatives in Hedley, according to Orval Couch, alternate delegate from Collingsworth.

Among matters on which the Dallas investment firm will work are the passage of legislation creating a water district, and finding industrial users for water which the proposed dam is expected to impound.

The Dallas law firm of McCall Parkhurst and Crowe and the engineering firm of Freese & Nichols of Fort Worth already had been employed to help the association in making the dam a reality. The Dallas attorneys specialize in water district bonds, Couch said.

The contract with the three firms are on a contingent basis under which they will receive no money unless the dam project is successfully completed, according to Farmer.

R. A. Underwood, of the investment company, has indicated that he already has some good prospects in the way of industrial water users, Couch said.

Elect Three County Trustees

Three county trustees will be elected in the annual trustee elections Saturday, April 3, B. W. Baird, county superintendent, has announced.

They will be to replace W. S. White, whose term expires for Precinct I; Wallace O'Rea whose term expires for Precinct III; and L. D. McMinn, trustee at large.

Fain Johnston Funeral March 3

Funeral services for Fain Johnston, 48, widely known through the north part of this county, and a brother of Mrs. Milford Harris of Wellington, were held Wednesday, March 3, at Aztec, N. M., and burial was in the Farmington memorial cemetery. Rev. Wade, pastor of the Aztec Baptist church, officiated.

Mr. Johnston was killed Sunday, February 28, his 48th birthday, when his car overturned near Shiprock. Mrs. Harris said highway patrolmen told them they surmise that there must have been two cars on a bridge he was approaching and he swerved to avoid hitting one.

Mr. Johnston was employed by the El Paso Natural Gas Company. He was reared near Shamrock.

Surviving are: his widow of Aztec; two daughters, Mrs. Doris Mae Taylor, Tatum, N. M.; and Carolyn Johnston of Aztec; two sons, Bob Johnston who is in the military service in Germany; and Mack Johnston of Aztec.

Also surviving are two grandchildren, his father, B. Johnston, Shamrock; four brothers, Sidney Johnston, Floydada, Bryant Johnston, Lela; Everett Johnston, Lamar, Colo.; and Edward Johnston, Guymon, Okla.; three sisters, Mrs. Luther Shipley, Quanah; Mrs. Fannie Ashby, Groom; and Mrs. Abbie Harris, Wellington.

Light to Signal Law Officers

A light to signal city and county law enforcement officers at night has been installed on a 20-foot tower on the court house.

The red signal will be operated from the General Telephone Company.

The set-up under which it will work, according to David Robinson, county clerk, is that if law enforcement officers are not available at their homes when a night call comes in, the telephone operator will switch on the light, and since all officers are alerted to the light, immediate contact should be made.

This is a joint city-county project.

FUN FOR A GOOD CAUSE

Never have those who finance the Annual Youth Project Show had such a good time doing it! These are scenes from the big community box supper Friday night, March 5, when over $500 was raised. At top are some of those who had a good time, Mrs. Hezzer Jones, Herman Crowley, Mrs. Herman Crowley and Judge Raymond Horton. Next are the boxes as they were ready to be auctioned off. Just below, John Coleman holds up one of the boxes as it was being auctioned. This one belonged to Mrs. Jim Light. In the bottom picture are Mr. and Mrs. Mish Dukeminier. He was top bidder on the cake that was auctioned off.

Box Supper Raises $500 for Project Show

The box supper for the benefit of the Youth Project show turned out to be a solid success financially grossing $507 in an evening of halibut old fashioned entertainment.

Sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, the event was planned as a method of raising the necessary funds for prizes for the show without having to solicit individual firms for donations.

Something over 40 beautifully decorated boxes were auctioned off as well as two giant suckers and a large cake.

Prizes were awarded for the four best decorated boxes with Mrs. Walter Starr winning first and Mrs. Claude Howe, Joy Martindale and Mrs. Ross Wilkerson winning the remaining prizes in that order.

Judge Raymond Horton started the auction but soon gave out of wind and turned the microphone over to M. L. Burks, Wellington vocational ag teacher, who did the job in professional style according to the old A&M manner. Chief spotter was Cameron Beam who was assisted by Herman Crowley. John Coleman displayed the boxes as they were auctioned off.

The boxes averaged slightly over $10 each with Mrs. Pink Sullivan's and Joy Martindale's boxes bringing the highest amounts, $27 and $28 respectively.

The two giant suckers donated by the Nowlin Wholesale Supply brought over ten dollars; but the greatest amount of money for a

Wellington C-C Membership Drive Plans Advanced

A Chamber of Commerce membership drive is being mapped under the direction of Dr. Carter Holcomb, and one of the most intensive membership building campaigns in the C-C history will get under way within a short time, it was announced following a meeting of the board of directors Monday night, March 8.

Complete details of the drive will be announced next week, Dr. Holcomb said.

Climaxing the drive will be the annual Chamber of Commerce Banquet, when an outstanding speaker will be invited here to address the group, Mrs. J. W. Thomas, C-C secretary, said.

The directors also voted to ask Judge Luther Gribble to write the state senator and representative regarding the question of farmers in areas where natural gas is produced using the gas produced on their farms for pumping irrigation wells.

St. Pats Celebrants To Go In Body

Wellington residents attending the St. Patrick's Day Celebration in Shamrock Wednesday, March 17, are asked by the Chamber of Commerce to go in a body, Mrs. J. W. Thomas, secretary, said.

The group will leave the court house at 10:00 a. m. and this will give ample time to find parking places in Shamrock before the parade begins at 11:00 a. m.

Free arm bands bearing the town name will be distributed at the Chamber of Commerce office, Mrs. Thomas said.

Those going from here are asked to stay in a body in Shamrock in order that Wellington may best be represented, Mrs. Thomas said.

Gas Activity Steps Up In North Part of County

Oil and gas activity of the past week has centered in Northern Collingsworth County, with the completion of several gas wells, at least three others being drilled, and four new locations announced.

All of this is in the shallow gas south line and 1,200 feet from the east lines of section 7, block 17, H&GN Survey, 4 miles southeast from Shamrock. Probable depth 1900 feet.

Raymond B. Scott Prominent Loco Farmer Dies

Raymond B. Scott, familiarly known to his friends through the years as "T." Scott, died unexpectedly in St. Joseph's Hospital at noon Tuesday, March 9, of a heart attack. He had been hospitalized for the past two weeks, and his death came only a few hours before he was planning to return home for convalescence from an earlier heart attack.

Mr. Scott, 54 years old, was a member of a pioneer area family, his parents, Mrs. Hattie Scott and the late J. H. Scott, having settled early in the area. He was born at the family home south of Dodson May 27, 1899 and had lived his entire life in the Dodson and Loco section. The family home for some years had been on the county line south of Wellington.

He was a farm and community leader of his area, a man whose judgement was respected and whose friendship was valued by a wide circle of friends. For a number of years he had been a member and leader in the Farm Bureau at Hollis.

Mr. Scott was a faithful member of the Church of Christ.

He was married on August 3, 1923, to Miss Mary Lawrence of the Arlie community, whose family had long been identified with the progress of the area.

Funeral services for Mr. Scott were to be held at the Church of Christ in Wellington Wednesday, at 2:30 p. m., with Minister Paul Lusby of Amarillo, former minister of the local church and close friend of the family, officiating.

Pall bearers named were Charley Bearden, Earl Alexander, Granville Clark, Walter Easter, John Brim and Bill Harbin.

Burial was to be in the West Wellington cemetery under the direction of the Kelso Funeral Home.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Summers of Amarillo; and three sons, Dewane Scott, who returned only recently from service in Germany with the armed forces; Cpl. Harold Scott, serving with the Air Force in Japan, and who reached home a few days ago on emergency leave; and Jerry Scott, a high school student. Other survivors are his mother, Mrs. Hattie Scott of Wellington; and two brothers, J. A. Scott of Wellington and Hiliard Scott of Dodson.

Snow Gives .11 Inch Moisture

Moisture from the snow that blanketed the county Thursday, March 5, amounted to .11 inch, J. H. Williams, who has the government rain gauge, said.

All the snow soaked in where it fell and wheat growers are of the opinion there will be some benefit in carrying the grain until additional moisture is received.

Surplus Commodity Work To Begin Late This Month

Collingsworth will be one of the 12 lower Panhandle-South Plains counties to participate in the surplus commodities program approved for the area suffering from the effects of drought, County Judge R. L. Templeton said following his return from Austin, where he and judges of the other counties conferred with Governor Allan Shivers.

It will be late this month before distribution can be begun, the Judge said.

Collingsworth will receive its proportionate share of four car loads of commodities in the first shipment, he said, or about one-third car. The commodities will include butter, dried milk, cheese and shortening. It is anticipated that other commodities will be added later.

Pointing out that it is work projects and not direct relief that this county wants, Judge Templeton said he was encouraged for the prospects of such work as the proposed Salt Fork Dam and road construction. He described the governor as interested in their problems.

Relative to the distribution of the surplus commodities, Judge Templeton said that John Bevers will be in charge of receiving and dispensing the surplus commodities. The various officials in the court house will co-operate in handling the paper work and there will be no extra help hired.

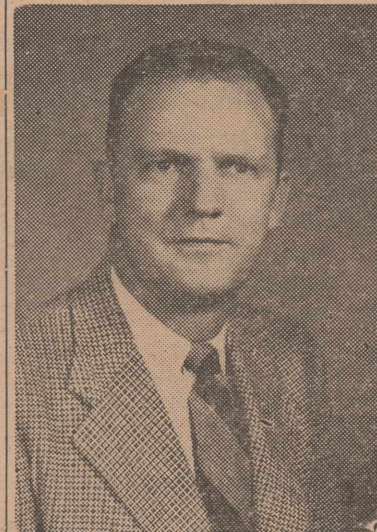

Applications for surplus commodities will be received one day a week, that day to be announced later, and those whose applications are approved will return one week later to receive their commodities.

Eligibility standards have not been set up, but the county judge stressed that a fair and equitable distribution to everyone eligible. They will be more liberal in approving those over 65 years of age than those under 65.

Fuller explanation of the operation of the program will be made in The Wellington Leader next week, Judge Templeton said.

While stressing the fact that what this county needs is a work program and not direct relief, Judge Templeton also pointed out that surplus commodities used in the present program will be just that much off of the huge surplus that is holding farm prices down. Governor Shivers was much interested in the proposed dam on Salt Fork, according to Judge Templeton, who acted as spokesman for the group at Austin.

He said he would recommend to the next legislation that they pass (Continued on Page Twelve)

Agronomist Speaks Friday Night

Farmers of 6 Counties To Silage Meet Here

Farmers of six counties of the southeast Panhandle will hear Paul Marion, agronomist of the Spur Experiment Station at Wellington Friday night, March 19, in a discussion of silage, County Agent J. W. Thomas has announced.

The meeting will be held at the court house beginning at 7:30 p. m.

Farmers will attend from Harmon County, Oklahoma, and Childress, Cottle, Hall and Donley counties.

"Silage is used in the livestock feeding programs of farmers of the lower Panhandle has become more and more important in the last few years, and it will play an even bigger part in the farm economy in 1954, with the decreased cotton and wheat acreage," Mr. Thomas declared.

Mr. Marion will show slides and give the farmers some pointers on supplementing silage with alfalfa hay.

"This silage meeting fits right into the growing interest in beef and dairy production—programs that are becoming realities in this area. Feed put up as silage is good insurance, for a crop put up this way will keep for years and years.

"Silage is proving to be one of the most economical feeds we can use on our ranches and dairy farms, and it is especially important in a country as susceptible to drought as ours," the county agent added.

Kiwanis to Sponsor Circus Here March 16

The Wellington Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the All Star Circus—one of the largest indoor circuses in the country—for two performances in Wellington Tuesday, March 16. There will be a matinee performance at 4:00 p. m. and an evening show at 8:00. It will be at the high school auditorium.

Kiwanis brings the show here for the benefit of their Needy Children's fund.

"Fun for all and real entertainment has been assured," Cicero Gulley, Kiwanis president, declared. "All the performers are artists in their field and those who have seen the fine motion pictures and televisions of the circus have seen many of the performers of these shows. Now they're here in person."

There's Tony and Mary Ridola with their table act of bringing a hair-raising climatic performance; Harry Ross and Pal direct from Hollywood; Lew Kish the kids friend, Coca and Moka will add to those never-to-be forgotten clown antic without which no youngster would have seen a circus.

For those who delight in more sophisticated thrills and beauty, Rosa Patine is superb in her acrobatics; the Cathalas and Juanita with their aerial spin, bring new daring to the ring.

"There'll be everything, even to cotton candy and red balloons," Mr. Gulley assured.

Tickets for the performance are now being sold by Kiwanis members.

Cunningham Warns Of School Ad Salesmen

Orville Cunningham, superintendent of the Samnorwood Schools, this week notified Wellington business men that his school had no part in an advertising scheme which operated here last week.

The salesman solicited advertising from local business houses on a folder which they were told would be distributed to Samnorwood students to hold worksheets, and similar work.

"I don't know what kind of folders they were, for I was never contacted on this deal," Mr. Cunningham declared.

"We have many opportunities to get into these rackets but we do not. The people in Wellington are our merchants and we want to protect them from such."

"We do allow our students to sell advertising on their school annual and a few other occasions, (Continued on Page Twelve)

EDITORIAL COMMENT — THE WELLINGTON LEADER

Working For Fun

It is right to be concerned about our children. It is good to provide them with every opportunity to improve themselves. It is vital that we help them develop the basic qualities necessary for successful living.

In America we are failing, to a great extent, to do one thing that bears heavily upon all basic attitudes of the individual. We are not building within our children the best attitude toward work. We have told them that work is the thing we do that we don't like but must do to make a living. And we have told our children that fun is what we enjoy and that it somehow repays us for the drudgery of work.

It is true that success depends upon fruitful work. It, in turn, depends upon how much real enjoyment we get out of doing that work.

I like the way Hebert L. Brown, managing editor of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine, expresses his view on this subject.

"Much nonsense is said and written about work, the thing that most people do every weekday of their lives. The main piece of nonsense is that daily work is basically different from fun and is something which keeps people from enjoying themselves. Yet the truth is that the people who have been deluded into believing this are usually restless, uninterested and unhappy.

"The happiest people, as well as those who do the most and the best for other people, are those who get a big kick out of their daily work. Aristotle, who was no long haired simpleton, wisely observed 2,300 years ago that happiness is an activity, not a passive thing. Nobody gets happy lying around waiting for some diversion to come along and make him happy.

"Get busy, and there's your opportunity to be useful and contented. Get busy, and you also erase that artificial distinction between 'high' work and 'low' work. You realize that ALL work, from developing the theory of relativity to washing the dishes, is important because it is there to be done and contributes something to the human community. Get busy, and you purge yourself to self-pity and of a dreary envy of the other fellow's job.

"Any work, particularly your own, becomes tedious at times. Everybody gets fed up . . . But that is not the same as having a persistently sour view of the work which lies in front of one.

The notion that living can or should be divorced from work is more than unwholesome. It is immoral.

"Yes, daily work is something important and exciting, which is why we talk so much about job and work, and how to do them better. After all, it is not love of reward, not love of prestige, not love of work that spurs people to do their very best and gives them life's biggest bang."

Abilene Christian College seeks to impress upon its students the God-given privileges and responsibility of work. Youth needs to know that work is a basic Christian virtue and that it produces more of the real joy of living than we perhaps know . . . From Horizons, published monthly by Abilene Christian College.

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note: The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson Grass Farm on Buck Creek must have gotten the wrong number the last time he was in town to use the telephone, his letter this week indicates.

Dear editor:

I was reading in a copy of a newspaper which my wife had lined a bucket with to keep the eggs from breakin she was takin to town, some people thought radio would put the newspapers out of business, then they decided television would, but I've got my first time to see anybody try to line an egg bucket with a radio or a television set, at any rate, I was out here reading this newspaper paper and tryin to stay warm on the south side of the barn durin the recent cold snap and an article attracted my attention.

It was about telephones in Japan. Accordin to it, up to now the public telephones in Japan have been on an honor system, after you get through usin one you're supposed to drop a coin in the slot, instead of before, which goes to show how backward the Orientals are, because the telephone company found out most people, after they got through talkin, didn't figure the conversation was worth a nickel, and left nothing.

However, I sort of like some aspects of the system. Under our system here in the United States, you pay a nickel at a public telephone before you get to talk to your party, and while this it fine for the telephone company and maybe all right with the person makin the call, it leaves out of consideration the rights of the party bein called. Maybe he wasn't interested in being bothered at all. Under the Japanese system, at least one side of the two parties had a chance to decide whether he'd gotten his money's worth, but under ours niether has.

I suppose the telephone company could install a coin box on both ends of the connection, requiring a nickel to start the call and a nickel on the other end to receive it, but most people are so curious they'd go ahead and drop a nickel in just to see who's callin and all it would amount to is just another rate increase.

The system I prefer is to put a meter on telephones, with a loud ticking noise ticking off the seconds at so much a second. This I figure would cut down on telephone conversations by at least 50 per cent, and I believe you could cut 50 per cent of the talkin out of telephone conversations and still get just as much factual information transmitted. Under the present system, some women get twenty-five times as much use out of a telephone as others, but they're both charged the same.

Chargin by the minute though would bring a storm of protest from a lot of women, and I want it understood I am not sponsorin this move. I haven't even got a telephone. I can't even keep my fences up, let alone a telephone wire.

Bible Comment For March 14

Unemployment and Christian Teachings

Saint Paul was very specific on the matter of earning the right to live.

He reminded the Christians that they were members one of another. He said that the strong should serve the weak, and that all Christians should by love serve one another.

But when he saw unworthy individuals taking advantage of the good will of others using these fine Christian principles of brotherly love to infringe upon the work of others—he was blunt and decisive.

If a man did not work, he said, niether should he eat. In the Christian economy, everyone should help his brother. There was no place for loafers.

That was a sound principle, but what Paul did not foresee was the situation in a modern, complex society when, in periods ask only for work and self-help, are unable to find it.

What would Paul have had to say about this? We do not know, but we do know that all the problems associated with work, unemployment and living are moral and spiritual problems with which Christian teachings and principles have much to do. Those who, for various reasons, find themselves dependent upon relief are not necessarily unworthy, dishonest or indigent. A few are, and they bring unjust criticism to the many who are not.

At the foundation of all welfare, individual and social, is character. The very conditions of life today are character-testing, and the only character that stands the test is the one built upon the ancient Judiac and Christian standards of integrity and regard for others.

These things need emphasis in every community and in our national life.

7 Deadly Sins Now Showing at Ritz Theatre

The new multi-starred French and Italian production, "The Seven Deadly Sins" to which seven of Europe's outstanding directors have each contributed an episode, has been booked for an engagement in the Ritz Theatre opening next Wednesday, it was announced by Manager Emmett Passmore.

The seven deadly sins, in spite of, or perhaps because of, their inextinguishable raised-eyebrow connotations, have been a source of inspiration for creative artists through the ages.

Writers have written a great deal about them; painters have delineated them in loftier or lesser detail and with greater or less delectation; musicians have composed works of varying tonalities based on them — and now comes a film production to add to their realm.

Rarely, Manager Passmore points out, has so distinguished and so varied a company of talents joined together to create so diverse, yet unified, a work of dramatic art as this septuple cinematic entertainment.

With a host of continental favorites, including 14 top stars, the collaboration has fashioned seven witty, amusing, ironic, satiric and dramatic — as the case may be — illustrations of those moral evils of which "the least that can safely be said is that they have not been neglected."

The result is a full two hours of richly satisfying adult entertainment, and aside from the levity in which they may have been interpreted it is certain they have been presented in all their fatal fascination.

For instance, "gluttony" is a hilarious variation on an ancient traveling-salesman-and-farmer's wife anecdote, winding up tongue in cheek, with an O. Henry plot twist and a gentle admonishment to the audience to remember that Honi soit qui mal y pense.

The participants in this herculean film achievement read like a Who's Who in French and Italian film making: Directors Roberto Rossellini, Yves Allegret, Eduardo de Pila, Claude Autant-Lara, Jean Dreyer, George Lacombe and Carlo Rim — and a huge cast that includes Gerald Philipe, Michael Morgan, Noel-Noel, Vivian Romance, Isa Miranda, Francoise Rosay, Frank Villard, Andree Debar and Henri Vidal.

On the same bill with "The Seven Deadly Sins," showing through Friday, is Tom and Jerry Cartoon and Late World News.

Lowell Wells Wins Hog

Davis & Kindrick Show Grand Champions

Bueal Davis showed the grand champion female hog and David Kindrick the grand champion dairy heifer at the annual Quail project Show Friday, March 5.

This show was held in connection with the all-day open house and program in observance of Public School Week.

Lowell Wells, Wellington business man, won the fat barrow that was given away by the chapter. Wells returned the hog to the chapter, to be traded for a registered gilt and put out by the chapter on its revolving plan. Under this plan, some Future Farmer is awarded a gilt and he returns a gilt to the chapter from the first litter, and it in turn is given to some other member. The Chapter now has 9 gilts out under this plan.

"This show was equally good as any we have ever had," Frank Kennedy, vocational agriculture instructor, said. The quality of the animals shown was excellent, although the number of entries was smaller than in some years, due to several factors.

This was the ninth annual show. Winners in the various events were:

Registered gilts: first, Bueal Davis; second, Wayne Hamby; third, Hoyce Kennedy; fourth, James Stephens; and fifth, R. A. Newman.

Grande gilts: first and second: Earl Farris; third, Terry Smith; fourth, Don Johnson; and fifth, Gene Pate.

Sows: first Red Young; barrows, first and second 'Don Johnson.

Feeder Pigs: first and second, Wayne Parker, third, Don Johnson. Beef steers: first, Don Baker. Beef heifers, first, Z. J. Neeley Jr.

Dairy heifers: first, David Kindrick; second, Jerry Peebles; and third, Wayne Parker.

Jake Tarter, Wellington farmer and former county agent of Wheeler county, judged the show.

Crossroads Report

Dear Ike:

Being situated as you are, I expect that you agree with those who say that finding fault with the performance of high-ranking people is getting to be a leading indoor sport here in the U. S. A., as if it hasn't always been. A man can't even get to be a prominent flag-pole sitter without having the crits nipping at his heels.

I have heard the theory advanced that praise is a better lengthener of human shortcomings than criticism, but there is better evidence that it is more like a dangerous sedative. A little shot of applause has soothed many a man's zeal for self-improvement.

I am possibly eligible, myself, for the first string on any All-American team of fault-finders. There is not very much talent or brains required for his activity, although a sour disposition is helpful. Most of the people that I grumble about are actually doing a better job than I could do, but that doesn't necessarily disqualify a man as a participant in the popular pastime of booing the performers. After all, you don't have to know how to hold a bat in order to tell a home-run from a pop-fly.

Sheriff, Assessor and Collector of Taxes

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

These are the sort of times that breed petty rackets and frauds. The latest concerns some boys who posed as working here and went around pawing their watches in the grocery stores. In some stores they borrowed as much as $20 on the pawed watch. Investigation proved that the watches were cheap affairs worth perhaps $3 to $5; but by the time the first merchant got suspicious the young men had left town.

Another was the case of the unauthorized salesman selling ads in a pamphlet or booklet that was to be given to the Samnorwood School, Orville Cunningham reported the incident; but he did not know exactly what it was they were selling; for he had not been contacted. However all superintendents of the county have repeatedly warned business men not to buy anything for the so called benefit of the schools from unknown solicitors unless they have a letter from the school superintendent written on school stationery. They very seldom write these except for the students selling advertising in the school annual and school papers.

Another report reaching The Leader was the case of a very rude magazine salesman whom some ladies had trouble in getting out of the house. In a case like this just phone the sheriff or the city marshal.

There is nothing wrong with door to door selling; but it is a good rule to refuse to buy if you do not know the salesman. After all there are reputable merchants in town, who are paying taxes to support our schools, fire department, etc. who are selling the same things and who will stand back of them. The same thing concerns out of town buying in one sense. You may know what you are getting and the firm may be reliable; but you are spending money that you have no chance of getting back from a fellow townsman.

Orval Couch and Bessie Rainer are publishing a bulletin for the Greenbelt Rural Electric, Inc. It is really a small magazine and is edited in an excellent manner and each issue contains many items valuable to members using REA power. It is the sort of house organ that can do much in promoting greater understanding and greater efficiency.

The box supper to raise funds for the Youth Project Show turned out to be an enjoyable affair and a welcomed evidence of enthusiastic community cooperation. It is the sort of thing that demonstrates that this is a wonderful place to live.

Patrolman Noel Calloway says that there has been only one highway accident in Collingsworth since the first of the year. No person was injured in this accident and the damage was only $400. That is a mighty good record. Lets hope we can keep it up.

Meeting at Dodson On Fertilizer

Farmers of the Dodson area heard the pros and cons of fertilizer on land of this area in a meeting Monday night, March 8. Speakers were County Agent J. V. Thomas and Mr. Newman, field man for the Oklahoma Fertilizer and Chemical Company of Oklahoma City.

Mr. Thomas urged the judicious use of fertilizer and discussed local experiments with fertilizers of various types. Results, both outstanding and those in which the use of fertilizer did not pay, were brought out. The agent pointed out the importance of tilth of the soil and also explained the fertility demands of such plants as alfalfa and other crops grown here.

Mr. Newman gave the results of fertilizer tests in Oklahoma and showed a motion picture on the use of fertilizer.

Approximately 65 farmers and their families attended.

IN MEMORY OF BETTY JEAN ALEXANDER

Betty Jean was born November 11, 1928—died February 25, 1954.

She became a member of the Church of Christ at the age of 15 and during that time her faith in the Redeemer of mankind was unshaken. I have known Betty all her life—have watched her grow from a sweet little girl into a noble woman and from her early childhood she was always courteous and friendly and greeted everyone with a smile. She was truly a chosen favorite and her friends were numbered by the score.

It has been five long years since she was taken ill. The doctors knew from the very beginning that it was serious but Betty didn't give up and through all the years and months of suffering she bore it with courage and fortitude of a soldier.

Her loving father and mother and brothers as well as her many friends stood by with anxious care to make any sacrifice to help her. Everything humanly possible was done to the very end but it seemed she had to go. And so it was without a struggle she left this house of clay to go to that house not made with hands. It was a triumphant death. Such a victory does not seem like death—we call it death but it's only a flower transplanted from earth to Heaven to bloom forever.

We can't bring Betty back to us but Thanks to God we can go to her. I believe that on the morning of the Resurrection when the trumpet sounds Betty will awaken and hear those blessed words "Enter in to the joy of thy Lord." And if we have been faithful we will meet her on that morning.

Yes meet her where the faded flowers shall freshen

Freshen never more to fade

When the shaded skys shall brighten

Brighten never more to shade
Where the sun flazes never scorches
Where the star beam ceases to chill
Where no tempest stir the echoes of the wood or wave or hill
Where the child has found its mother

Where the mother finds her child
Where dear families are gathered who are scattered on the wild
Betty sleep on in thy slumbers
We shall meet and rest
Mid the Holy and the Blest.
Written by one who loved her.

"Finest Natural Lefthander"Jameson Praised By Opponent's Coach

Chicago—Duggie Jameson, the 16-year old bantam from Wellington High School, probably made a bigger impression in the Chicago Golden Gloves than any other lising boxer.

Duggie lost his first bout on a split decision to Al Escobar of Los Angeles, the California champion, with a knockdown in the final 10 seconds deciding the issue. The fact the knockdown left Duggie out for several seconds was the decisive factor in the voting.

Before that time, Duggie had floored Escobar twice officially and another time that the referee didn't see or count. Ironically, had the referee been in a position to see the third knockdown which came in the third round, an eight-count would have been necessary and time would have elapsed before Escobar could have landed his winning punch.

Art Martell, veteran California coach, was the praise-leader for Jameson.

"He's the finest natural left-hander I have seen in a long time, and next year anybody who beats him will be the national champion," Martell said.

"His right hook, unusual for a left-hander, is a natural. I could teach a boy for 10 years how to throw that kind of hook, and then he wouldn't have it down like this Texas boy has," the coach continued.

Martell was amazed to learn that Jameson was only 16 and comparatively inexperienced.

"Escobar was lucky to beat him," he said flatly.

Martell said the California bantam won on conditioning and experience, which came to his assistance when Jameson floored him for the second time in the second round.

"Escobar runs four miles every day, week after week, and he has the conditioning to come back after the hard punches he took. His daddy is a former professional, and he has been training Al ever since he was a toddler," Martell said. "I picked Escobar to go all the way this year before any of our qualifying tournaments started, and I still think he will do it now that he escaped from that close one."

Girls to make the trip were Linda Kay Elbert, Evelyn Leonhardt, Wanda Langford, Judy Smith, Joy Hartman, Donna Beth Moose, Gwen Killingsworth, Diane Owens. They had a wonderful time.

Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Gill and sons of Oklahoma City, visited over the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Ball, and her sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. King.

DO-IT-YOURSELF STYLE—Cold water poured over a bucketful of red-hot stones provides this Frenchman with a homemade steam bath—Finnish style. The one pictured above was built in the heart of Paris by an enthusiastic cameraman after he saw such baths while covering the 1952 Olympic Games in Finland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ingram were in Morton during the week end to visit in the home of their son, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ingram and daughters, Joy Ann and Cynthia Beth.

Here visiting with their father, John Anderson, are Mrs. Earl Jones and J. L. Anderson of Meeker, Colo. Both were reared here, but Mr. and Mrs. Jones moved to Colorado in 1935 and Mr. Anderson went there a few years later.

Mrs. A. L. Cochran had as her guest Sunday her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ola Hopkins of Hollis. Mrs. Hopkins recently was selected by the Hollis Chamber of Commerce as "Woman of the Year" in that city. She lived here before her marriage and taught school at Kelly many years ago.

Condition of Mrs. J. A. Mahan Fair

The condition of Mrs. J. A. Mahan, who has been at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Allen Harper in Edinburg for a number of months, is fair, according to another daughter, Mrs. C. W. Poling of Hollis, who was here Friday.

Mrs. Mahan is up most of the time and can get around on crutches. She underwent a long period of hospitalization here after breaking her hip in a fall.

Mrs. Mahan was one of the earliest settlers of the county, coming in 1888.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. White were in Shamrock recently to visit the Rev. and Mrs. W. B. Gilliam. Rev. Gilliam, a retired Methodist pastor and long-time friend of the White family, has been ill a number of weeks.

Maggie Deahl Weatherly of Panhandle

Woman Honored by TCU Pioneer Area Resident

Editor's note: Mrs. John F. Weatherly, who recently was granted an honorary LLD degree from Texas Christian University, had her first taste of pioneer life when her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George F. Deahl, brought their family to the Arlie community. Mrs. Weatherly, the former Maggie Deahl, is a sister of Mrs. Dolly Whisenant of Dodson, and a cousin of Mrs. Misha Dukeminier of Wellington. Although she left here many years ago, she often returns here to visit.

PORT WORTH—With a right-angle made of 2x4's, she helped her husband survey their four sections of land along the border of Hutchinson county, southwest of Adobe Walls.

Packing their two-year old, they worked on foot over the hills and through the arroyos, taking a day and a half to finish the job. That was the spring of 1897. The lines they ran still stand as property boundaries in the area.

Later, in 1926, they sold the land on which the city of Borger now stands. They watched the Texas Panhandle grow from raw frontier into a populous and thriving region.

To Get Degree May 9
On May 9, 1954, on the occasion of the dedication of its new Religion Center, Texas Christian University will present an honorary LLD degree to Mrs. John F. (Maggie) Weatherly of Panhandle, the "surveyor" of 1897. The citation will praise her great pioneering spirit and her significant contributions to her church, community and state.

But Maggie Weatherly, a spry 78, doesn't cling to the past. Far from it. She drives her own car and comes and goes as she pleases. She still faces resolutely ahead.

"I like to look in the future and not in the past," she says firmly. "That's what made it so hard to tell this story of the past."

Born May 122, 1875, near Grafton, West Va., she was one of the eight children of George and Rachel Deahl. When she was two, the family moved to Texas and rented a farm near Grand Prairie. Her earliest memories are of milking many cows before daylight and of eating dinner in the fields where they hoed and picked cotton.

When she was 14, in 1889, they moved to Arlie community. The school, a half dugout, was three miles away and the kids walked or rode horses. She went through the ninth grade, spending the last two years with a sister in Childress.

One Sunday afternoon in 1892, Maggie Deahl was entertaining a boy friend when a young fellow came up and ask the way to another farm. She stood in the door to direct him and one glance was enough.

"That's the girl for me," young John F. Weatherly told a friend.

They were married three years later at the Deahl home and mounted their horses to ride to his half-section homestead in Greer county.

Texas and Oklahoma were feuding over Greer county in the Federal courts, Sensing that Oklahoma would win, John Weatherly sold his holdings for $100 and moved to another spot.

About 1896, a new law permitting settlers to file on four sections of land in the Texas Panhandle was passed. The Weatherlys sold out for $1,000 and headed for Hutchinson county.

"It was about 150 miles the way the road ran then," Mrs. Weatherly recalls. "We loaded our wagon and took four days to make it. Now you can do it in two hours by car."

From Panhandle, the trail led across Dixon Creek Pasture (now known as the 6666 Ranch.) The road looked like two cow trails running close to gether. Late in the day they seemed to be lost on the vast prairie until they topped a hill and found a fence John had been looking for. They reached "home," a half dugout with dirt floor and roof John had constructed the summer before, just at dark.

"The rats had carried in a lot of cactus," Maggie Weatherly recalls. "It was dark so we didn't see them but pretty soon we began to feel them."

Her nearest woman neighbor was 15 miles away and they didn't meet until the next July 4th. However, three bachelors were "close neighbors"—only four miles to the east.

"The country was settling up on the North Plains," she remembers, "and our dugout was a halfway stop between Plemons and Panhandle. At first we fed all moved toward Hutchinson county. "Our bankers advised us to sell off a portion of our royalty," Maggie remembers, "but we had some friends who had done that to their regret. So we decided to hold on."

In 1919, they returned to Panhandle and for the next few years had a meager income. Then in 1924, an oil well came in on one of the four sections in Hutchinson county and the boom hit Panhandle.

"The verflow at the hotel, Panhandle Inn, was terrific so I decided to help out," Mrs. Weatherly recalls. "I made over $300 in one month, bedding people."

In 1926, with the whole area booming, they agreed to sell land for a townsite to A. P. Borger. On the first day, March 8, 1926, some $100,000 worth of the city lots were sold and the city of Borger came into being.

In 1927, a town by the name of Isom was started directly south of Borger. The first day there, another $100,000 worth of lots were sold.

It was on May 4, 1944, that the "Weatherly team" was broken up. On that day, Mr. Weatherly died. His wife continued to make her home in Panhandle.

Through the long years, Maggie Weatherly worked for the community, State and church. She was a charter member of the First Christian Church of Panhandle and helped to organize it. She is a member of the Mother's Self-Culture Club, holds an honorary life membership in the Order of Eastern Star, a life membership in the Panhandle Parent-Teachers Association and is a patron of the Panhandle-Plains Historical Society.

She has three children, Mrs. J. B. Howe and Mrs. Opal Purvines of Panhandle and A. D. Weatherly of Amarillo. She enjoys her six grandchildren and 16 great-grand children.

A staunch supporter of Texas Christian University and all Christian education, she contributed materially to the construction of TCU's new Religion Center. Weatherly Hall, a place for fellowship and meetings, has been named in her honor. It is located in the Brite College of the Bible wing. Still young in spirit, it is certain that when she receives the hood and honors of her LLD degree on May 9, Maggie Weatherly will still be looking in the future not in the past.

The Look of Tomorrow is in every '54 BUICK Today
With completely new "years-away" styling —keynoted by the dream-car design of the panoramic sweep-back windshield.

Take it Easy you don't have to prove a thing!

Let's be sensible about this subject of horsepower.

An all-American tackle doesn't go around tackling people in everyday life.

A world-record sprinter doesn't have to demonstrate his prowess on city sidewalks.

The better you are, the less you have to prove it.

And that's how it is with a Buick Century.

Of course it's a spectacular performer—a car with instantly responsive action.

It has to be, for this one combines a high-compression 200-horsepower V8 engine with a nimble weight of only 3866 pounds as it comes off the assembly line.

That's a power-to-weight ratio that chalks up a new record—a ratio that no other Buick has ever reached before.

It can spin your wheels on a dry pavement if you give it the gun, but why waste rubber?

If some show-off wants to get the jump on you at a traffic light, why not let him have fun? He isn't kidding anyone but himself, when the name on your car is CENTURY.

The real pride of owning such a car is simply this: You know so well what it can do that you never have to prove it.

That lets you enjoy the tireless ease of its gait in ordinary driving, when only a fraction of its eager power is working. It gives you a quick reserve for breasting a hill—and the happy knowledge that there's still more to come in a sudden emergency.

Sure, this is more power than most people really have to have. But you can hardly call it extravagant, when you are buying more horsepower per dollar in a CENTURY than you get in any other car in America.

Regarding road construction, Governor Shivers told Judge Templeton that he will ask the highway department for construction of all eligible roads in Collingsworth this summer, with emphasis on using as much local labor as possible. These would include 5 miles of construction east of Luttie, now being built; the five miles approved from Rolla to Swearingen; and two miles near Dodson.

White Leaders Help

Negro Men Form Civic Improvement Club

Organization of the Civic Improvement Club to work for the improvement of Wellington's Negro community was completed at a recent meeting of about thirty-five citizens of that section.

"The purpose of this club is to work toward the improvement of the civic and social standards that exist in the city," a spokesman of the group said.

Before the organization was formed, leaders of the Negro section had conferred with some of the town's white leaders regarding such an organization for the improvement of the section. Present for the meeting and speaking to the group were Judge R. L. Templeton, Jimmie Lee, and D. C. McKinney. Dr. E. W. Jones also worked with the group.

Officers elected were Willie Nickleberry, president; Alonzo Price vice president; James Randle, secretary; and Ocean Archie, treasurer.

Among the first projects of the club will be to sponsor a clean-up of that section of town, to seek some means of expanding the Negro section whereby better homes can be built, and the organization of a Boy Scout troop.
