Leaders Of 19 States Seek Job As President Of Texas Tech College

THE presidency of Texas Technological college is a much sought position.

Take the word of Clifford B. Jones of Spur, chairman of the college board of directors, who was here Friday holding a meeting of the executive committee of the board.

"We're simply flooded with applications," Mr. Jones said. He did not indicate the number but said college men and educational leaders from nineteen different states had made application for the Tech presidency.

Mr. Jones said no member of the board was committing himself or herself on the appointment of the new president. He said he did not know just when the selection would be made.

Mr. Jones seemed highly pleased with one phase of the situation. He said the large number of applications from so many states indicated the recognition of the state's institution at least and also evidenced the general belief in its future.

Close observers of the situation are of the opinion the appointment will be announced before the close of the present summer session which opens Monday.

The executive committee busied itself with matters pertaining to the budget for the next biennial, Mr. Jones said. He did not indicate whether any persons interested in the presidency appeared before the committee here Friday.

John Carpenter of Dallas and Roscoe Wilson of Lubbock are other members of the committee.

Motherly Plea Fails To Halt Marchers Of This State

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, June 3.—A quiet, motherly plea from Mrs. R. S. Sterling, wife of the governor of Texas, to a section of the "Lone Star expedition," of ex-service men bound for Washington to picket congress for cash payment of the bonus, failed to send the men back to their homes today.

The men, mobilized at San Antonio, detrained from a freight train shortly afternoon, marched up Congress avenue to the foot of capitol Hill, turned into a park fronting the mansion and "rested on their arms."

Must See Governor

"The first thing we must do is speak to the governor," said Pat Viola, spokesman for the caravan. Some one pointed towards the mansion. Viola got his color bearers to unfurl the Texas and United States flags and a small group fell in behind the banners for the mansion grounds.

Half way up the walk to the executive residence door, the marchers were stopped by Captain Frank Hamer and a group of rangers who had just driven up in an automobile.

Sterling Is Absent

"There isn't anyone in there but women folks, and there's no need of exciting them," Captain Hamer told the men. "This is a holiday and Governor Sterling is out of the city."

The men were grouped around the rangers answering questions when Mrs. Sterling appeared on the porch. Captain Hamer told her that he was under the impression the governor

CLARION, Pa., June 3. — An anonymous gift-giver is making Mr. and Mrs. John Neely richer but puzzled and uneasy.

Since Hallowe-en, 1928, they have received presents of jewelry three times. They have no idea who is their benefactor.

Although reassured in an unsigned note in one of the packages that they need not fear to wear the gifts—that they were given in return for a favor to the donor by Mrs. Neely—the Neelys have no recollection of ever having bestowed any unusual favor on anyone.

The gifts include a man's watch, a woman's mesh bag, a woman's diamond ring, and a man's diamond ring, a man's ruby ring and a woman's white gold pendant set with two diamonds.

Plane Christened

Flier May Land At London If Gas Is Low; Final Port Of Call Is Warsaw; Ships Give No News Of Plane

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, June 3. —Alone in a flame-colored monoplane Stanislaus Felix Hausner, "mystery" flier of Newark, N. J., rode eastward into the darkness tonight headed for his native Poland.

A wave of farewell and shouted wish of good luck from his young wife, Martha, sent the reticent 31-year-old amateur pilot on his projected 4,400 mile flight soon after he lifted his heavily loaded Bellanca plane from Floyd Bennett field at 8:46 a. m. eastern standard time).

Prays For Husband

Mrs. Hausner, who stayed close by his side and prepared the food he would need for his aerial jaunt, accompanied the silent Hausner to land's end as he headed out above the cold waters of the north Atlantic. She then instructed her pilot, John Coyne, to take her to Newark airport from where, accompanied by the Rev. Paul Knappek, a family friend, she went to St. Casmir's church to pray for her husband's safety.

Although no reports were received from ships along the eastern coast that might have sighted Hausner as he sped northeastward toward the great circle course, a plane, described as orange-colored, circled Sydney, Nova Scotia, at 5 p. m. (E. S. T.), then headed toward the sea and disappeared.

Aviator friends of the pilot said "that must be Hausner," pointing out that observers might have mistaken the red of his plane for orange in the approaching twilight hours. They also computed the distance to Sydney as approximately 850 miles which, at Hausner's cruising speed of about 100 miles per hour, would be the distance he might have been expected to cover in the eight hours and 14 minutes which had elapsed.

Associated Press Financial Editor

NEW YORK, June 3. The might of Morgan, Rockefeller and other large banks of Wall street is about to be thrown against the stream of selling in the securities markets, particularly bonds, it was announced today, after close of a session of rapidly recovering prices in the New York stock exchange.

Thomas W. Lamont, one of the leading partners of J. P. Morgan & Co., announced formation of one of the most extraordinary corporations in the history of American finance. The corporation, to be known as "The American Securities Investing Corp.," is expected to begin operations next week with initial funds of $100,000,000, subscribed by the 18 leading New York banks, and two leading private houses.

This is the "bond pool" which has been rumored for several days in Wall street. The rumors were so definite today the bond market enjoyed its swiftest upturn of 1932, many issues advancing $20 to $90 per bond of $1,000 face value. Stocks also recovered briskly for a time, and while advances in shares were reduced substantially in a late sag, closing prices found many of the principal issues up $1 to $3, or more.

Revenue Plans Are Up Today

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Bulging with new taxes sufficient to meet the government's 1933 budget demands, the compromise revenue bill, providing $1,119,000,000, was laid before the house today. It will be taken up tomorrow morning.

The senate will consider it as soon as the house has acted and predictions were confidently made tonight that the legislation would be in hands of President Hoover early next week.

Congressional leaders said the revenue bill would balance off the treasury's deficit with the aid of $250,000,000 in economies and eyes turned intently then on the pending senate contest over the $238,000,000 national economy bill.

Conditions Here Reported Better

Lubbock business conditions are better than those of any other city in the large West Texas area that Sidney C. Mason, collector of internal revenue, serves, he declared Friday. Mason recently has occupied offices in the new federal building.

"Lubbock's location in the center of the South Plains has much to do with this improved condition," the income tax expert said. "Again, this city has no competition from any larger city, and consequently draws trade from a wide area."

Mason's conclusion of the better conditions here is based upon actual figures of income tax reports made through him this year.

Huge Garner Relief Proposal To Be Shoved Through House By Democrats

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 3. — After wrangling nearly four hours in caucus, Democrats tonight bound themselves to shove the $2,320,000,000 Garner relief program through the house Tuesday.

The iron-bound rule of caucus was clapped on the majority party as President Hoover left for his mountain retreat in Virginia with plans to discuss over the week-end methods of bringing about a solution of the relief and fiscal problems of the nation.

Determined to fight for substitution of the administration's relief program for the Democratic proposal, house Republicans are to confer Monday to lay their plans.

Meanwhile William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in a statement more than 10,500,000 persons were out of employment in March and "are looking to congress for help and work."

The Democrats met behind closed doors in the house chamber and debated the advisability of giving President Hoover $100,000,000 to distribute in direct relief and other provisions

Lubbock Folk Who Are Leaving For Summer Are Honored At Parties

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

WE'RE always discovering something that the heathen Chinese knew a few centuries before. Now, the discovery that athletics are making women's feet larger may bring the additional information that the Chinese or somebody else learned this several centuries ago and that was what caused the gentle retirement of the ladies.

You know, of course, that ladies haven't always sat around with their hands folded and a simpering smile on their faces. That picture didn't come along until comparatively recently. A generation of two ago.

And women may go back again, now that feet are growing so large with all the present day activities.

This, in spite of the present day attitude of not caring. Comfort is about every thing and most women just admit that their feet are whatever size they happen to be and wear shoes accordingly. The foolish ones get bunions and limp and a lot of discomfort, they know.

TALKING POINTS

SOME of these days when you meet some masculine scoffer sitting around with his feet on his desk talking about how little women know of business while his stenographer puts out his work, you might use some excerpts from an address on "Women as People" as talking points.

This address was made by Mrs. G. A. Young of Fort Worth this spring during National Business Women's week. Some of the things that Mrs. Young said sound good to those of us who have listened to a lot of masculine talk that we knew was hollow but for which we were not always ready to make an answer.

"The business woman has become necessary to the business man, so necessary that should every woman today in commerce decide to stay at home for a week, it would paralyse the body economic. The business woman likes man—she always has, and she always will, but thank Heaven she no longer has to think of him, or marry him, as a meal ticket. . . .

"Has woman suffrage brought the millenium? Noe yet, nor will it ever. Men were on the job almost 2,000 years before we took a hand and as yet the world has not become a Utopian Dream Country, because of their management. Women believe they have just as much right to be wrong as men. But give us time, and we believe that a merging of the man viewpoint and the woman viewpoint will produce a human viewpoint that will argue well for the world. . . .

WANDERLUST FOR AGE

SOCIAL workers will tell you that the old men are among their greatest problems — old men who simply decide to leave home and wander away.

This lure of far away places gets them, it seems, something like it does the young persons. But the old men are not as able to care for themselves and come sooner or later to the welfare agencies.

A happier story of wanderlust that struck old people was told the other day in Kansas City. Clark Noble, 71, and his wife, 69, decided one evening to go places. Accordingly, they left their home in a little Iowa town, caught the Rock Island train out after midnight and landed in Kansas City with a lunch. They had passes on the train. Mrs. Mrs. Noble prepared the lunch but forgot all about wearing a hat. At the depot, this mistake was discovered and the destination was decided upon.

Arriving in the city, the old couple didn't have much to do. They saw a few sights, ate their lunch and returned to the depot to wait for a train going back. But typical of this wanderlust of the older folk, Mrs. Noble told the traveler's aid worker there that "If I only had a hat I think we might have traveled right on out to California."

HOUSEHOLD HINT

A FEW drops of light oil will do wonders in stopping annoying squeaks in the home. Door hinges on room and cupboard doors, rocking chairs, chair casters, curtain roller sockets, drawers, sliding windows and closed bookcase doors are a few of the places where a little oil can be used to eliminate nerve-irritating noises.

WHY

HILLS BROS COFFEE

IS THE MOST ECONOMICAL COFFEE TO BUY

If you are sincerely interested in quality and economy, you will read these facts about the largest selling brand of coffee between the Pacific Coast and Chicago.

Millions, who are as careful about their household budgets as they are about the goodness of the coffee they buy, have made the discovery that Hills Bros. Coffee is the most economical.

That is one reason why more people, from Chicago to the Pacific, buy more Hills Bros. Coffee than any other brand.

They know that the quality of coffee determines the flavor. They know that the strength of coffee determines the number of good cups you can make. Flavor without strength is expensive. Strength without flavor is unsatisfying.

Only the highest quality selected coffees are used at the Hills Bros. plant. These coffees plus perfect roasting, grinding and packing, give Hills Bros. Coffee its full bodied strength and rich, delicious flavor.

Why Hills Bros. Coffee goes further

This abundance of flavor is the reason Hills Bros. Coffee goes further. It is why Hills Bros. offers the greatest value. Indeed, Hills Bros. Coffee gives you such unusual goodness that your first cup is a notable and remembered occasion.

The U. S. Customs Districts' records of coffee imports offer substantial proof of the unusual quality found in Hills Bros. Coffee. These records show that the per pound value of coffee received in the San Francisco Customs District in 1931 was 30 per cent higher than New York's importations and 50 per cent higher than New Orleans'. Hills Bros.' plant is located in San Francisco. The enormous quantities of high-grade coffee used by Hills Bros. are responsible for the quality showing of this port in the United States records.

The high quality and flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee account for its popularity throughout major area of United States

Back in the eighties, A. H. and R. W. Hills paved the way for their product to become the most popular coffee from the Pacific Coast to Chicago. They concluded that a worth-while coffee business could be built only by selling the finest quality of coffee. For fifty-four years, the attention of every individual in the Hills Bros. organization has been centered on the production of quality.

Quality in coffee cannot be seen with the eye nor measured in the laboratory. It can be determined only by tasting and smelling—how it tastes in the cup. Seven men devote their entire time to the blending of Hills Bros. Coffee. None of these men has less than nine years of experience; one has been blending and testing coffee for fifty-four years. The buying of good green coffees is not the whole story. These testers know how to take the finest of green coffees from every country of the world that grows good coffee and blend them into one harmonious whole, and secure the same result year in, year out.

Hills Bros. took the guess out of roasting their coffee

It is interesting that almost every step in the coffee business seems of equal importance. First, to market good coffee, you must buy high-grade green coffee. And even though the green coffees are good, they must be properly blended. Yet, the finest blend cannot be developed to full flavor by poor roasting.

The common method of roasting coffee is in batches of several hundred pounds, but Hills Bros. roast in small quantities by their exclusive process — "Controlled Roasting". It is precise. Every berry receives the same even roast—just the roast required to develop the delightful goodness that nature makes possible. The process never varies, neither does the flavor. People who appreciate the same fine flavor in their coffee, meal after meal, continually praise this feature of Hills Bros. Coffee.

Quality insured and safeguarded by grinding and packing

Through scientific tests, Hills Bros. have determined the degree of granulation that will give the most satisfactory results in making coffee. The grinding is done by machines which, like Controlled Roasting, embody certain exclusive principles developed by Hills Bros. If you make coffee in a Drip Pot, Percolater, Urn, or even in a saucepan, the granulation of Hills Bros. Coffee will give perfect results.

In July, 1900, Hills Bros. originated the vacuum process of packing coffee. The vacuum process is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness — the air is removed from the can and kept out. And remember, there is no magic about a vacuum can, it will not make poor coffee good but it will keep good coffee fresh.

A month's trial will be a revelation in value received

Drink Hills Bros. Coffee! Every steaming, fragrant cup will be a thrill to your taste. You will enjoy a flavor and satisfaction such as you never dreamed of. Compared with Hills Bros.' flavor and quality, any other coffee would cost you more.

Here is the coffee of coffees. The choicest berries of the world's crop, expertly blended, perfectly roasted, ground to the correct degree and packed in vacuum to keep fresh always. Order Hills Bros. today. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can. Hills Bros., San Francisco, California.

Hawks To Fly After Crackup

New Plane Being Built; Texan Still In Hospital Suffering Of Injuries Received In An Accident In April

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP)—Capt. Frank M. Hawks, still in a Boston hospital recovering from a crash in April, soon will be in the air again and this time in even a faster plane than the one in which he established innumerable speed records.

W. S. S. Rodgers, vice-president of the Texas company, for which Hawks is technical adviser, announced today that a new plane was being built for the injured aviator by the Northrop corporation of Inglewood, Calif.

The new plane, which will be ready in September, is of transport type and will be powered with a newly-developed engine of 14 cylinders. It will have a cruising range of more than 2,500 miles at a speed of more than 200 miles an hour.

These two motor cyclists of the British Armored Fighting Vehicles Corps seem to be suspended in mid-air, such is the excellence of the photography. The stunt shown here was part of a rehearsal for the Royal Tournament to be held at Olympia, London, this summer. The daredevil cyclists dash up an inclined runway and are hurled into the air. Their jump spans a distance of 39 feet.

Publicity Man Relates Story

John J. Raskob Awaits Chance To Testify In Senate Banking Committee's Inquiry As David Lion Is Heard

WASHINGTON, June 3. (AP) — While John J. Raskob waited to testify, the senate banking committee listened today to the story of a publicity man's activities on Wall street.

The Democratic national chairman sat among the spectators while David Lion, a New York writer, was asked by William Gray, committee counsel about how he provided publicity for brokers and received stock for which he was not required to put up money.

Raskob was summoned for questioning about his dealing in General Motors stocks. His name already has figured in the inquiry as a participant in a $32,000,000 pool in Anaconda copper.

Gray said the committee would make a further investigation today of this pool's operations and that officials of the National City bank would testify.

Gray had said Lion was reputed to have made a million dollars in pool operations.

Asked about it by newspapermen just before he started to testify, Lion said:

"I never heard that was a crime, did you?"

"When you say you are a publicity man, won't you say to the committee what you do?" questioned Gray.

"I receive calls on various stocks," the witness said.

"What actually happened, was it not," Gray queried, "that when some broker or operator was interested in the management of a pool through which he anticipated trading in certain stocks and was desirous of boosting the price of the stock, he indicated to you that he wanted publicity boosting the stock and would give you a 'call,' which meant that he put aside 25,000 shares of stock for you which you could call upon at any time, thus making it possible for you to sell that stock at any time if the market went up and make the difference in cash."

Lion replied that sometimes he "didn't have to do anything."

Sometimes the publicity was in pools and sometimes not, Lion said.

Dickens Crops In Very Good Shape

Crop conditions in Dickens county are good at this time, with plenty of sub-soil moisture, O. C. Newberry, county judge, said while here yesterday.

Farmers have planted crops and most of them report their crops are up to a good stand. "One thing, we did not have a serious sand storm at all this spring," Mr. Newberry said.

Cotton and row crops look good and the farmers believe they have excellent prospects for good yields this summer.

Nudism Comes To Catskills Where Old Rip Van Winkle Took His Long Siesta

CAMP OLYMPIA, N. Y., June 3. (AP)—Nudism has come to the foothills of the Catskills where old Rip Van Winkle took his peaceful 20-year siesta.

Here, on a 400-acre estate 9 miles west of the Hudson river at Highland, N. Y., 77 miles from the Fifth avenue of fashionable clothing, men and women and children are sunbathing, swimming, fishing and playing.

The camp, operated by the Olympian League which has heretofore confined its activities todisseminination of nudist propaganda, was opened a few weeks ago. It has been designated to accommodate 400 persons.

The chief playground for the nudists is a large lake which abounds in fish. The lake and the major portion of the estate is secluded and the nudists fear no trouble with the law since outsiders would be forced to trespass to enter the estate.

While the league makes no secret of the camp, neighbors, mostly farmers, have not learned of its character. The owner of the property, who has leased it on a co-operative basis, is not himself a nudist.

For the most part, the guests have been professional people. During the past two weeks they included several lawyers from New York, an office manager from Albany, several writers, an accountant, a retired Baptist minister and son and daughter.

The camp is not patterned after the famed "Nachtkultur" centers of Germany and there are few rules about clothing—they can be worn or taken off according to bodily comfort. Guests must be dressed for meals, or any point where they can be seen from public thoroughfares.

Talbot Tells Of Cotton Contract

DALLAS, June 3. (AP)—Completion of a contract for the manufacture of 500,000 cotton bags was described today by W. E. Talbot, director of the southwest industrial development bureau, as "the largest single step yet taken" in the movement to assure the consumption of southern cotton and products."

The contract was between the Fulton bag and cotton mills of Dallas and the Tex-O-Kan feed mills.

"As a result of this transaction alone, more than 200 bales of southern cotton will be taken off the market," Talbot said. "A large portion of this cotton would be untenderable for other purposes because of being off color.

Joe Mitchell, president of the feed mills, said, "we feel that each time a Texan buys anything contained in a cotton bag he increases the south's prosperity.

"If all flour, cement, fertilizer and other commodities were packed in cotton bags it would add, by conservative estimate, over $100,000,000 yearly to the south's prosperity."

An old, old film story that makes women weep

THERE IS A FILM STORY that is as old as life—

It wasn't produced in Hollywood—it's the film story of soaps made with a tallow base.

It's the story of clothes rubbed and rubbed and rubbed.

It's the story of clothes boiled and boiled and boiled.

It's the story of clothes which, after all this tremendous amount of labor, come out of the rinse with a grey or yellow film sticking to each tiny fibre, the film caused by using soap with a tallow base.

Use White King Granulated Soap. White King contains no tallow base to stick and give your clothes that greyish, yellowish hue. It contains no silicate of soda* to coat the clothes with more soil to remove.

White King Granulated soap is made of pure, sweet, clean vegetable and nut oils—the same as you eat.

It washes thoroughly in luke-warm water—it requires no destructive boiling—no rubbing—no bleach and no bluing to get clothes white. It rinses freely—leaving no soapy smell, no soapy film to stick and yellow under the heat of ironing.

It's kind to your hands—it leaves them soft and white and smooth—it does not ask you to roughen them in hot water.

Try White King Granulated today—it is the original soap in granulated form—it gets the immaculate results you want in every household washing task.

*(Silicate of soda serves only as a weight maker in soap—it has no cleaning value)

Gehrig Ties Homer Record As Yanks Beat A's, 20-13

John McGraw, Baseball's Most Dynamic Leader, Resigns As Giant Boss

Larrupin' Lou Hits Four For Circuit Trips

Cleveland Sweeps Double Bill With Detroit; Yankee Star Equals Record Set In 1894 As A's, Yanks Go Crazy

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, June 3. —Lou Gehrig performed a feat that is unequalled in "modern" major league history, that of hitting four home runs in one game to carry the Yankees along into a series of record - breaking slugging stunts today as they pounded out a 20 to 13 victory over the Athletics.

Lou Gehrig

Not since 1896 when Ed Delehanty of the Phillies turned the trick, had a player hit four homers in a game and only one who ever hit four in a row was Robert Lowe of the Boston Nationals, who did it in 1894

Lou touched big George Earnshaw for his first three homers and LeRoy Mahaffey for the fourth, all but one of them coming with bases empty.

The homers came on Gehrig's first four trips to the late. He grounded out the fifth time and Simmons snared his liner on the sixth attempt.

Three other Yankees, Babe Ruth, Earle Combs, and Tony Lazzeri hit homers while Mickey Cochrane and Jimmie Foxx of the A's hit for the circuit to tie two other standards. They were the major league record of seven in a game by one team and the American League mark of nine by two clubs.

Other Records Fall

Other records which fell were the modern major league mark for total bases by one team and the American League standard for both teams. The Yanks hits for 50 bases and Philadelphia for 27. The marks that fell were 46 by Brooklyn and 76 by the Yankees and Athletics in 1930.

Foxx's homer, which came in the ninth inning, was his 19th of the season, leaving him four up on Ruth, who clouted No. 15. Lazzeri's four bagger, coming with the bases full in the ninth inning, finally settled the game and topped off a slugging performance which included a triple, a double and two singles.

Golf as the STARS play it

by ART KRENZ

Reaching for the ball causes a tension in the spinal column which must be avoided in the golf swing.

Due to a round and compact swing, no doubt you have often noticed that you can shoot straighter with the shorter sticks. The golfer can achieve this swing if he will keep the hands close to the body. This is impossible if one reaches for the ball.

Reaching often will overthrow balance, causing one to fall into the stroke, with a heeled or missed shot the result.

In the illustration of Mac Smith, notice how he stands well up to the ball, the position of the hands, his looseness and lack of tension.

Twenty to forty per cent of all trees is made up of gases, trapped in the minute cells that all wood is made of.

Bill Terry Is Named Leader New York Club

Illness Forces Withdrawal Of McGraw; "Memphis Bill" To Assume Leadership Today At Game

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 3. — After 30 years as manager of the New York Giants, baseball's most dynamic leader, John Joseph McGraw, suddenly announced his resignation today and turned over the management of the club to his 33-year old first baseman, William Harold (Bill) Terry.

Illness forced McGraw to relinquish his pilot's job. He has been affected for some time by a sinus condition.

He reached his decision to resign, he said, after being advised he could make no further trips with the Giants this season. He then selected Terry to succeed him because: "It was my desire that a man be appointed who was thoroughly familar with my methods and who had learned his baseball under me."

McGraw made it plain, however, he will not retire from baseball.

Over a year ago, president Charles A. Stoneham announced McGraw had signed a new five-year contract. Then it was supposed Dave Bancroft, former shortstop and so far this year McGraw's first assistant, was being groomed for heavier responsibilities. Bancroft ran the team when McGraw was absent and apparently held the place of confidence.

Now, however, with selection of Terry, there is doubt as to whether Bancroft will remain with the club at all. Neither the club's officers, McGraw nor Terry committed themselves as to Bancroft's future status.

Terry has been known chiefly as one of the game's foremost sluggers, a brilliant defensive player, otherwise a quiet, workmanlike fellow without particular aggressiveness. His only previous managerial experience was for the latter part of the season of 1923 with the Toledo club of the American Association.

National League Champ

He came to the Giants the following year, soon replaced Long John Kelly as first baseman and clubbed his way into the top flight of hitters, capturing the National League batting crown with a mark of .401 in 1930 and finishing in a virtual tie last year with Chick Hafey and Jim Bottomley at .349.

To make the circumstances all the more extraordinary, Terry has had a reputation for being ahnually at odds with his club president, Stoneham, as well as McGraw, over salary matters. Told this spring he would have to take a 40 per cent cut in salary under the figure of $23,000 he was paid in 1931, Terry engaged in a sharp verbal tilt with Stoneham. Finally he came to terms. At that time, however, he had no inkling he was to be singled out as McGraw's successor and confessed today the appointment came as such a surprise that he was momentarily speechless.

Bought For $750

Then, with a laugh, Terry recalled the Giants bought him for no more than $750 from the Little Rock club of the Southern Association, then sent him to Toledo for seasoning.

"Memphis Bill" will assume charge of the Giants at the Polo Grounds tomorrow.

McGraw Wins 10 Flags

Product of the old "iron and oil" circuit upstate, famous in the 90's as an infielder with the old Baltimore Orioles, McGraw took command of the Giants in 1902 and subsequently won ten National League pennants as well as three world championships. He retires from the bench "oneup" over his old rival, Connie Mack, in pennant triumphs but it is a touch of irony that the one-time "little Napoleon" of baseball took the occasion to resign while the Giants were in last place, so far this year one of the big disappointments of the campaign.

It also is a coincidence that when McGraw took over the Giants 30 years ago he found them in last place.

Wichita Falls Ace Who Lost To Quails Here Last Year Defeats Nowlin In River-Crest Club Tourney

FORT WORTH, June 3. (AP)—L. T. "Bobby" Burns, Wichita Falls veteran and Byron Nelson, Fort Worth's 20-year old hope, will meet in a 36-hose match tomorrow for the title of the 14th annual invitation tournament of the River Crest Country club.

Burns, wielding a deadly putter eliminated Louis Nowlin, Dallas' powerful driver by a 3-2 count in the semi-finals this afternoon. Nelson downed Matty Reed also of Fort Worth, 5-3 to reach the last bracket. Neither of the finalists has ever gone to the final match in the River Crest play before.

Burns' defeat of Nowlin while no startling upset was unexpected in some quarters. The 18-year old Dallas high school boy outdrove Burns consistently but the Wichita Falls player struck his second shots on the greens with as great consistency and his putter rolled in birdies and pars with monotonous frequency. Nowlin's tee shots while tremendous as usual often went wild and cost him several chances.

They started out by halving the first three holes with pars. Burns however, began to move up on the fourth and took four, five and six in a row to take a commanding lead which he never lost. Nowlin, however, rallied momentarily and took seven and eight and was only one down again but he messed up nine and they turned with burns two up again.

They halved ten and 11 but on 12 Burns dropped one of his perfect putts to go three up. Playing easily, the Wichita Falls star held his own through 13, 14, 15 and 16 and the match ended on the sixteenth graeen 3-2. Burns was even par for the round and Nowlin was three over.

Homer By Tony Piet Wins For Bucs In 11th

Boston Gains A Game On Cubs By Defeating Dodgers With Ninth Inning Run; Swetonic Wins Fifth Straight

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, June 3.—A long home run into the lengthening shadows in centerfield gave the Pirates a six to five victory over the Chicago Cubs after 11 innings of good and bad baseball today.

It was Tony Piet, hustling Pittsburg second sacker, who broke up the ball game.

With none on and none out, Tony cracked Jakie May's first pitch out to the flagpole and then jogged home.

The Cubs threatened in their half of the eleventh. The first two batters singled, but Steve Swetonic, who went the route, tightened up to fan Hornsby. The next two were easy.

Swetonic registered his fifth consecutive win under difficulties. Three errors behind him stretched the game.

Nearly 500 Track Stars To Enter Stagg Interscholastic Track Meet At Chicago Today

CHICAGO, June 3. (AP)—Lured on by a chance to land positions on America's Olympic teams, close to 500 track and field stars from 20 states will wage assaults on national records in the twenty-eight renewal of the Stagg interscholastic meet on the midway tomorrow.

While most of the field marks appeared safe from the assault, those of the speed variety were in danger. One mark that has stood the test for thirty years in the Stagg meet, the 100 yard dash at 9.8, was threatened as several entries boasted better time.

Jimmy Owen, Maplewood, Mo., winner of the century last year, was back to defend his crown but found plenty of competition from Randall Herman and Bobby Grieve, two Chicago suburban stars, who reeled off the distance one-two in 9.7 in the Illinois State meet recently.

Here's Hand That Rocked Chisox

"I can lick the whole White Sox team, one at a time," said Umpire George Moriarty, and he started out as though he meant to do just that, following a fretful Memorial Day double-header in Cleveland.

But after George had knocked out Pitcher Milt Gaston, with the right hand you see bandaged in the picture, the Sox began coming on by twos and threes.

George was doing pretty well, at that, according to testimony revealed at the investigation conducted by President Will Harridge of the American League, but Cleveland players finally intervened and hauled George away to the hospital where it was discovered he had broken his hand.

The White Sox skirmishing party was fined all around, including Manager Lew Fonseca—and Mr. Gaston, besides being knocked out, was suspended along with his fine.

Trans-Miss Champion Gains Finals Of Southern Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., June 3. (AP) —Mrs. Walter Beyer, Tulsa, the Trans-Mississippi champion, and Mrs. Ben Fitzhugh, Vicksburgh, Mississippi state champion, battled their way today to the finals of the women's Southern Golf Association tournament.

The title, surrendered by Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake, formerly of New Orleans but now of New York, never has been west of the Mississippi.

The youthful Oklahoma woman eliminated Mrs. Ralph Randolph, Dallas, two and one, after a hard fight.

Mrs. Fitzhugh, co-medalist, won over Mrs. Tomas Wallace, Sapulpa, the Trans-Mississippi runner up, one up.

Mrs. Fitzhugh must play Miss Aniela Gorczyca, Fort Worth, for the honor of tournament medalist. Each scored a 78, one more than Mrs. Fitzhugh made to become Trans-Mississippi medalist and set a women's course record.

Two Games Are Scheduled For Sunday Here

Hubbers Meet Olton In Opener With Alley Rats Taking On Abernathy In Second; First Game Starts At 2:30

A baseball double header is scheduled for Merrill Park Sunday afternoon. The Lubbock Alley Rats meet the Abernathy nine in the nightcap following the opening at 2:30 o'clock between the Lubbock Hubbers and Olton. The fact that neither team plays two games does not alter the announcement that a double header is in prospect.

The Hubbers met and defeated Olton here two weeks ago by a score of 7 to 1. Charles Pressley allowed Olton half a dozen hits but kept them scattered. Olton's Pitcher Monroe was touched for more than that and they were bunched, but they say Monroe is better than that when he's right.

According to Manager Clarence Fox of the Hubbers, Olton is coming prepared for victory. The team has been strengthened by the addition of several likely baseball players and a new pitcher has been recruited.

Pressley probably will toss for Lubbock again tomorrow.

Lubbock's Alley Rats claim distinction by defeating nearly every team they have met this season and by beating the Hubbers in a practice game not long ago. Several games have been played with Abernathy and there has been considerable interest. Hollis Payne, Lubbock High school star, is manager and catcher of the Alley Rats, Payne has at times played with the Hubbers. Bill Davidson, sensation of Lubbock sandlots, probably will hurl for the Rats Sunday afternoon.

The two games may be seen for the price of one admission, and 25 cents is general admission ticket price.

International Sunday School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

General Topic: JOSEPH THE WORKER

Scripture Lesson: Gen. 41:46-57

Lesson for June 5, 1932

International Sunday school lesson for June 5.

Gen. 41:46. And Joseph was thirty years old when he stood before Pharaoh, king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt.

47. And in the seven plenteous years the earth brought forth by handfuls.

48. And he gathered up all the food of the seven years, which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities: the food of the field, which was round about every city, laid he up in the same.

49. And Joseph laid up grain as the sand of the sea, very much, until he left off numbering; for it was without number.

50. And unto Joseph were born two sons before the years of famine came, whom Asenath, the daughter of Potipherа priest of On, bare unto him.

51. And Joseph called the name of the firstborn Manasseh: For, said he, God hath made me forget all my toil, and all my father's house.

52. And the name of the second called he Ephraim: For God hath made me fruitful in the land of my affliction.

53. And the seven years of plenty, that was in the land of Egypt, came to an end.

54. And the seven years of famine began to come, according as Joseph had said: and there was famine in all lands; but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

55. And when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread: and Pharaoh said unto all the Egyptians, Go unto Joseph; what he saith to you, do.

56. And the famine was over all the face of the earth: and Joseph opened all the storehouses, and sold unto the Egyptians; and the famine was sore in the land of Egypt.

57. And all countries came into Egypt to Joseph to buy grain, because the famine was sore in all the earth.

Golden Text: Seest thou a man diligent in his business? He shall stand before kings.—Prov. 22:29.

Time: Joseph in Potiphar's house, B. C., 1728. Joseph in prison, B. C., 1728. Joseph exalted, B. C., 1723. The seventh year of plenty, B. C., 1717. The seventh year of famine, B. C. 1710.

Place: Zoan, the capital of Egypt, on the eastern part of the Nile delta.

Introduction

The proverb which is our Golden Text is wonderfully illustrated in the experience of Joseph: "Seest thou a man diligent in his business? he shall stand before kings." And the principle of reward for faithfulness is as operative today as it was in Joseph's day. It is a law of the kingdom of God, expressed by our Lord in the parable of the Talents: "Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things; enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Do not fail to read the story of Joseph's experiences between our last lesson and this. However familiar we may be with it, it contains a fresh blessing, as it so beautifully tells the story of a pure soul, in whom the energy and strength of youth are combined with deep religious faith. The dreamer shows that he can match his wits with enterprise, that he does not conceive of greatness apart from work, that he can work with equal faithfulness in the dim light of a prison and in the glow and glitter of the royal place, the humility of a slave and the honor of a prime minister.

The Dreamer, The Toiler

Joseph was not a mere dreamer. He believed in his dreams, doubting not that God gave them and that one day they should be fulfilled. But his eyes were not so full of the future that he could not see the demands of the present. He did not think that the promise in the dream freed him from the responsibility of living a true and dutiful life on the way thither. We have known of some of the heirs sure of a large inheritance, who felt no urge to be men on their own account, and so made shipwreck of character and destroyed the worth of their promised wealth. But in the case of Joseph, the dream, far from making him credulous and passive, or reckless, seemed to challenge and strengthen him for noble living under all conditions.

Joseph a Slave In Egypt, Gen. 39

It was a terrific experience for the seventeen-year-old boy, who dreamed of authority and enjoyed the best love of his father, to find himself a slave in a foreign land. For many that would have been condemnation worse than death, enslaving their souls as well as their bodies. Not so with Joseph. He did not sulk or think, or in any way compromise the honor and genuineness of his young soul. Made a house-servant of Potiphar, the Egyptian courtier who bought him, he so fulfilled his tasks that he drew the favorable attention of his master. It is said that "his master saw that the Lord was with him, and that the Lord made all that he did to prosper in his hand." He did not work like a slave, grudgingly and in slovenly manner. Reward came in consequence in Potiphar's choice of Joseph to be his personal servant and finally the overseer of the house, trusted with all its affairs. "The Lord blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake."

Joseph In Prison

Even in prison that happened to him which had happened in Potiphar's house. He was so trusted as to become assistant warden of the prison, in charge of all the work or prison superintendence; and all that he did, "Jehovah made it to prosper." By a strange turn, among those committed to the prison after Joseph's promotion were Pharaoh's chief butler and chief baker, who had offended their monarch, and one night each of them had a dream so vivid and evidently so meaningful that they were greatly disturbed. In the kindness of his heart, Joseph interpreted the two dreams for them, telling the chief baker that in three days he would be hanged, and the chief butler that in three days he would be restored to his important office. In each case this came about. Joseph begged the chief butler to hold him in remembrance when he went back to his post, but the butler ungratefully forgot his promise, and dropped Joseph from his mind for two long years.

Joseph Interprets Pharaoh's Dream, Gen. 41

Once more a dream played a conspicuous part in Joseph's life, and this time it was a dream of Pharaoh's. In his dream Pharaoh saw seven fat kine coming up out of the Nile, and after them seven lean kine which ate up the seven fat kine. This was followed by another dream quite similar. He saw seven ears full of grain, and seven thin ears sprang up beside them and ate up the seven full ears. These dreams Pharaoh, greatly troubled, told to all his wise men, but none of them had any idea what they portended. So Pharaoh sent for Joseph to interpret his dreams. Both dreams, he declared, had the same significance, both foretold seven years of plenty in Egypt, to be followed by seven years of scarcity and famine. The doubling of the dream was by way of confirmation.

Joseph, Prime Minister in Egypt, Gen. 41:41

Joseph went about his new duties with energy and thoroughness. He "went throughout all the land of Egypt," and "gathered corn as the sand of the sea." "No grass grew under his feet. He was ubiquitous, personally overseeing everything for seven long years. Wasteful consumption of the abundant crops had to be restrained, storehouses to be built, careful records of the contents to be made, after Egyptian fashion. The people who could not look so far as seven years ahead, and wanted to enjoy, or make money out of, the good harvests, had to be looked after, and an army of officials to be kept in order. Dignity meant work for him." (Maclaren).

And so efficiently did he work that when the famine came Egypt was prepared, not only to feed Egyptians, but the peoples of other lands also. The task of distribution was not easy. It required quite as much energy and a great deal more wisdom and will power. But Joseph was equal to the requirements. See Genesis 47: 13-26. Besides saving the lives of the people, he did two things for Egypt. He extended its influence among the surrounding peoples, and gave to it an economic organization that worked happily for the welfare of all. So he showed himself also a true statesman in making "a temporary distress to the occasion for permanent benefit."

Joseph Stores Food For The Famine Gen. 41:48

"And he gathered up all the food of the seven years which were in the land of Egypt." That is, all the grain not needed for the immediate sustenance of the people. "And laid up the food in the cities." The Egyptian monuments preserve many pictures of the granaries, of the reception and storing of the grain, and of its registration by the scribes or clerks. The 'superintendent of the granaries' was one of the most important members of an Egyptian government; far more so than a modern Secretary of Agriculture, because the government kept great stocks in their granaries. This is probably the most conspicuous and forcible lesson in history teaching the importance and value of saving. It was often brought before the American public in connection with the conservation efforts during the World war.

Adversity a Blessing In Disguise

Hindrances are helps. If one of Joseph's misfortunes had been omitted, his good fortune would never have come. If his brethren had not hated him, if he had not been sold, if he had not been imprisoned, he would never have ruled Egypt. Not one thread in the tapestry could have been withdrawn without spoiling the pattern. We cannot afford to lose one of our sorrows or trials." (Maclaren). Of course it was not adversity alone that led to power, but adversity plus the use Joseph made of it; and the use he made of it was due to the faith of his heart.

The Dignity And Reward Of Work

Joseph did not believe that idleness was the mark of nobility. In his home, although he was best loved and possessed the insignia of rank, he still was taught to work. Hard work, whether manual or mental, or both, which requires self-discipline, patience, and industry, is the way up. And many of the world's greatest have had their training in that school. "David rose from the sheepcote to be the greatest king of his time. Elisha from the plough to be the greatest prophet of his time. Peter from the fishing boat to be the greatest apostle of his time. Livingstone from the weaver's loom to be the greatest missionary of his time. Lincoln from the tanner's yard to be the greatest statesman of his time."

Clark Held In Lieu Of Bond

Corbett Graves Is Seriously Injured Friday Morning In Affray; Condition Regarded As Very Grave

Prentiss I. Clark, 29, charged with assault to murder in connection with a knife attack on Corbett Graves, 29, remained in Lubbock county jail late Friday in lieu of $500 bond set by Justice H. K. Porter.

Graves, of 1911 Avenue L, who suffered a punctured lung and an 18-inch slash across his back, was resting at Lubbock sanitarium last night. Graves' condition had been critical and he still was not out of danger, his physician said.

The stabbing occurred in the 1200-block of Nineteenth street shortly before 1 o'clock Friday morning. Graves, police were told, was wounded in an attempt to drive Clark from the Avenue L address, which Clark also gave as that of his home.

"There was no fighting," Alvin Graves, brother of the injured man, told the Avalanche-Journal late Friday in a discussion of the case. "We had been holding him (Clark) in order to prevent him from going back to the house.

"We told him to go on home and he said he would. We turned him loose and had started back home. I was ahead of my brother. Clark started to run past us and my brother stepped out to stop him. He then cut him in the back."

Mrs. Graves, her son explained, had been very ill with pneumonia and other complications, since about Christmas. She has been very nervous since that time. It was to keep her quiet that the family had refused Clark entrance to the Graves home Thursday night.

R. W. Graves, the aged father of the wounded man, said Clark came to their home soon after midnight. Clark's wife, who is Graves' daughter, asked Clark to leave because of the serious illness of Mrs. Graves, the father said. The altercation occurred after Corbett and Alvin Graves started to town with Clark, it was said.

Sterling Denies His Endorsement

AUSTIN, June 3. (AP) Governor R. S. Sterling said today he had been informed his name was being used by solicitors for memberships in organizations to aid the aged in Texas to obtain pensions and other benefits.

"I wish to make it clear that I have not endorsed or agreed to support any such movement, that I am not acquainted with the sponsors of this 'membership drive' and that my name is being used without my authority," Governor Sterling stated.

"The only way an old age pension can be effected is for a bill to pass the legislature in regular session and then be presented to the people of Texas for their vote, as creation of a pension requires a constitutional amendment. During the last session of the legislature this bill was introduced but failed to get the necessary number of votes for passage. It cannot again be brought up until the next regular session of the legislature which begins next January. The governor has no power to set aside money for such purpose."

Governor Sterling said he was told the "memberships" being solicited varied in cost from twenty-five cents to one dollar, the benefits supposed to go to those over 50, 55 and 60 years of age.

Poor Old "Uncle Andy"!

SATISFACTION of the most soothing kind has come to hundreds of thousands of Americans who, during the past few years, have learned to dislike Czar Andy Mellon of the GOP. Many who have gritted their teeth at the mention of the name of the former secretary of the treasury may now relax. Instead of a frown his name may now summon up only a good old American grin.

For Uncle Andy, whose name is chiseled on the cornerstone of Lubbock's new Federal building in letters so large that one might think he paid for it personally, has appeared in the Court of St. James in knee pants and buckled shoes! Before all the world he has exhibited his skinny shanks, attired in the costume of generations ago. As Ambassador to Great Britain he has "strutted his stuff" and what a strut it must have been!

The man whose financial connections link a score of great corporations doing business in every state in the Union; whose banks are legion and whose fortune is estimated in the hundreds of millions, has been bull-dozed by custom! They rigged him up in a comic opera—or, if you please, a masquerade dance—costume and they made him like it!

Unlike his predecessor, the hardboiled Charlie Dawes, Uncle Andy has bowed his head to lace collars and cuffs, to silken breeches and the like. He traded his tycoon birthright for a mess of pottage—or whatever it is you trade birthrights for—and now all the world can smile.

So forget your animosity for Uncle Andy, who stands for everything in the Republican party that is distasteful to Democrats, and give him the merry ha-ha. No use disliking him any longer. He's paid the price! We might even feel sorry for him now.

ECONOMY AT WASHINGTON

The spirit of economy supposed to be working mightily among officials at Washington would do well to take a look at some of the special services and "perquisites" of office representing substantial sums in each successive budget. They will find that many of these are the merest meaningless hoidovers from former times.

Away back in the Civil war period Fernando C. Beaman, for many years representative in Congress from the Adrian, Michigan, district, made an interesting discovery of this kind. Strolling about the capitol during a leisure spell between sessions, he came upon two watchmen keeping guard in a crypt beneath the great dome. As there appeared to be nothing of special value for these men to safeguard, the congressman made inquiry and learned that this function was part of a scheme which never had been brought to completion.

It was originally designed that the body of George Washington should find a final resting place in that crypt in the capitol, and Congress had regularly made an appropriation that the resting place of the first president should be suitably guarded by a couple of deserving Democrats or Whigs or Republicans, as the case might be. The money was furnished, the guard was provided, but Washington's remains were left at Mount Vernon. And for nearly three-quarters of a century that useless expense had been continued because nobody had undertaken to eliminate it.

Of late attention has been called to a similar item, the $226,000 appropriation for mileage to take senators and representatives to and from the seat of government. That provision was made when the journey to Washington was something of a hardship and involved much greater expense than now. For the majority of the members of Congress the trip to Washington requires but a few hours or at most an overnight snooze in a Pullman car. Even for those who must cross the entire country there are great transcontinental trains equipped with every luxury and the cost is much less than the 20 cents a mile appropriated for the purpose.

These representatives of the people who are supposed to be extorting their wits to the utmost to discover means of effecting economies, are accepting this extra compensation as due. It recently has been pointed out that the chairman of the senate economy committee collects $1,347.20 mileage for the trip that actually should cost him but $272.98. A senator, who on occasion is something of a stickler for governmental economies, collects from the government for mileage $1,292.80 for a trip which can be made in the best of style for $274.76. And other congressmen are accepting these overdrafts seemingly without a notion of the inconsistency.

If you would achieve immortality for any scheme or plan you may cook up, have it placed on the federal payroll.

Practical Health Problems

TREATMENT FOR EPILEPSY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, And of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

IN an epileptic attack there is nothing immediately necessary, except to prevent the patient from injuring himself or from biting his tongue. Powerful sedatives may be administered to induce rest and to prevent exhausting seizures.

Emotional excitation may bring on an attack and patients must avoid such stimulation. The attitude of people who surround the patient who has epilepsy is of the greatest importance in maintaining normality. There should be an attitude of cheer and hopefulness rather than one which causes dread and fear.

As soon as possible the intelligent patient should be given some understanding of his trouble, but this should be done in such a way as to prevent the feeling of despair.

There are now many drugs which are useful in lowering the number of attacks. Many of these drugs taken constantly in large dosage may bring about skin eruptions, digestive disturbances, or dullness, so that they must be administered with care.

Most of the patent medicines sold as cures contain large amounts of dangerous drugs. The patient thinks he has been benefited because his attacks are less frequent, whereas he may actually be harmed by continuous use of the preparation.

Some years ago it was shown that fasting was of aid in diminishing the number of attacks. Then it was found that the use of a diet called the ketogenic diet brought about a state in the body similar to that brought about by fasting.

A ketogenic diet provides a low mineral intake, the removal of water from the body, a change in the bacteria of the intestines, and a mild acidosis. All of these factors seem to be important in lowering the number of convulsions.

It has been found advisable, particularly in epilepsy in children, to develop diets which provide a fair amount of food but which are ketogenic in character, and which at the same time lower somewhat the water intake. Such children must also be given yeast or yeast extract, orange or tomato juice, and cod liver oil to provide the necessary vitamins.

With proper control of the diet and water intake, with rational physical and mental hygiene, a child with epilepsy can today be kept in fairly satisfactory condition.

Waves Of Letters Pour In

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Few things are clearer than that "business" desires congress to balance the budget and go to the conventions or the ball game or anywhere else, away from the capitol building, and stay away until December 5, when it is due to meet again under the constitution—although the impression I get is that "business" would be glad if an amendment could be put through in the meantime, staving off another session indefinitely.

James Couzens

This, as I say, is the impression I get—from whole sacksful of mail arriving at the office of every senator and representative I know.

These letters, coming in, as they do, in what can perhaps best be described as "waves"—almost word for word alike per "wave"—bear evidence, altogether too plain to be interpreted otherwise, that they result from an organized "drive". There are similar "waves" of telegrams, too.

THERE APPEARS to be no question but that "business" believes congress, by its presence in Washington, is delaying an economic recovery.

Or maybe it is not "business" in general which believes so, but a comparatively small group of prominent business men, of sufficient influence with the smaller fry to induce the latter to write letters and file telegrams to the capital as suggested to them.

Senator Couzens of Michigan, for example, who ought to understand "business" extremely well, gives it is his opinion that few business men pay any attention to congress whatever. "In fact," he assured me once, "I don't think the average among them could tell you, off hand, whether we're in session or not."

* * *

"BUT OF COURSE," added the senator, "the big fellows keep informed.

"And when there is something they are trying to 'put across'," he admitted, "it can't be denied that they prefer not to have congress around to interfere.

"It frequently is easy," continued the Wolverine statesman, "to explain satisfactorily to an individual executive a proposition that a certain type of legislator would be nearly sure to find fault with, and to make him see the necessity of treating it confidentially until the plan actually is in effect and it's practically impossible to do anything about it.

"With congress on the job, however, the risk is ever present that an unsympathetic lawmaker will discover what's afoot and shout out a version to the public that will wreck the whole program."

ON ANOTHER OCCASION which I recall, Senator Couzens, though personally he never "plays politics" and often expresses himself impatiently concerning those who do, drew between politicians and the nation's captains of industry (and it must be conceded that his contacts have been numerous with the headliners in both groups) a comparison by no means unfavorable to the politicians.

"Talk all we will," he said, "if the weaknesses of men in elective office, the fact remains that unless they maintain a pretty high standard, they don't last long.

"They're answerable to the voters at regular intervals and the American voter is a severe critic.

"The big business man is answerable to hardly anyone.

"Even the law is elastic in his interest if he is big enough.

The ethics of the politicians are made for him by his constituents. His private as well as his public life must stand scrutiny, or he isn't re-elected."

THUS it would appear from Senator Couzens' account that the business men who are so clamorous for the adjournment of congress are a small group—a group which doubtless is extraordinarily wide awake to its own advantage. It is a group, however, of which the Michigan senator does not seem to feel so confident, regarded from the point of view of the general public's advantage.

And these are strenuous times—with, here and there, conservatives in posts of real responsibility going so far as to suggest an emergency fascist government; indeed, attracting President Hoover's attention to the extent of denying that he contemplates such a step as a resort to the wartime methods of a national defense council.

Ah, but may the business group not contemplate it?

Naturally the ideal time ot put the idea "across" would be during a long congressional recess.

MAN'S FIVE SERVANTS

When one has a cold nothing seems to taste right. The wife may have done her best with the apple pie, the mashed potatoes may be as fluffy and smooth as your desire, but it's task to down it.

There's a simple reason for it. A cold obstructs what scientists call the olfactory epithelium, located in a little niche in the skull just above and behind the nostrils. It's your smeller.

The senses of taste and smell are so closely linked it is almost impossible to say, sometimes, which is which. Sugar and salt are exceptions. We cannot detect them by smelling as a rule.

Take your nose out for a walk some day. As you pass the grocery, the meat market, the hotel, the bakery and the book store, note how your memory and your sight are helped out by the sense of smell. Each place of business has its distinctive odor. Every human has five wonderful servants. They are sight, hearing, touch, taste and smell. Learn to use them all with intelligence.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

SUSAN CAREY, pretty secretary who is in love with BOB DUNBAR, has a proposal of marriage from BEN LAMPMAN, penniless young musician. She refuses him. Ben is jealous and several weeks later when Susan agrees to marry ERNEST HEATH, her employer, Ben shoots at Heath, then turning the gun on himself. Meantime DENISE ACKROYD, has informed Bob that Susan is going to marry Ben. Ben's condition is serious and Susan is distressed. JACK WARING, Heath's assistant, tells Bob that Susan is still free. Bob tries to find her but can not. Susan's aunt who is ill goes south and Susan stays with friends. She does not get Bob's message.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVI

Susan did not sleep at all the night after the shooting. She lay tense and shivering, wondering what would happen on the morrow. Each time she closed her eyes she could see that horrible scene again. Ben with the gun raised in the air firing at Heath and then at himself. How could she have dreamed that jealousy would drive Ben to such lengths! What if the newspapers should hear of the affair? Heath's position and hers would lend themselves to vivid headlines. No, she would not even think of such a thing. Heath had assured her the matter would be hushed up. But what is Ben died? It would be difficult keeping that quiet. The whole wretched story would be blazoned before the world.

"I mustn't let Aunt Jessie know", Susan said to herself. "She must leave in the morning without finding out anything about it." Somehow the girl arrayed her shattered forces. She lashed herself into a state of calm so that the older woman suspected nothing. Grumbling a little, but well pleased on the whole, the invalid allowed herself to be stowed away in a drawing room with the crisp nurse. The train men began to give warning and Susan kissed the thin cheek, feeling a rush of emotion.

"You be good now!" she admonished, "Do just as you're told and you'll be fat and sassy in no time at all." Aunt Jessie promised with unexpected meekness.

"I feel easy about you as long as you're staying with the Miltons," she said.

Susan dashed to the platform stepping off just before the train began to move. She ran after it, waving for a minute or two. Then suddenly it dwindled into a mere speck along the track. She felt forlorn.

She was quite alone now. Was it or was it not a bad omen that the expected telephone call had failed to come through before she left the house? She felt now that she could not possibly wait to know of Ben's condition until returning home. She stopped at a pay station and called the number of Heath's club. After a long wait during which her heart palpitated frighteningly she heard his voice.

"How is he?" she asked fearfully.

"He had a bad night," Heath told her, "and he's running a high fever, but Blake says it's not alarming and you're not to worry."

"Where are they keeping him?" Susan wanted to know. Heath mentioned the name of a small, private hospital.

"It's going to be all right," he told her cautiously. "There's no need to worry, Blake has fixed everything."

Susan understood and was grateful, but she was not entirely reassured about Ben's condition. A high temperature might mean many things. She never knew how she got through that day. It was a godsend to have the task of straightening the house after Aunt Jessie's departure. There were innumerable little things to do but as Susan went about these tasks she listened apprehensively for the telephone to ring. Ben must get better. He simply must!

At four o'clock she went to Rose's home. Mrs. Milton noticed the girl's silence and put it down to a natural reaction following her aunt's illness.

"Your aunt's going to do fine now. Don't you think another bit about it," Mrs. Milton said. "Let's you and I have a cup of tea, lovely." Mrs. Milton eyed her young companion appraisingly. "You look mighty peaked to me," she announced. "Did you have any lunch?"

"I don't remember. No, I guess I didn't."

"Lord love you! Did anybody ever see such a girl," Mrs. Milton said fondly.

"You'd better not go around looking like a ghost or your man won't like it." Mrs. Milton had been taken into the secret of Susan's engagement.

The girl flushed. "He won't mind," she said wearily.

Mrs. Milton went about the business of making tea but her heart was not in her work. She was puzzled over Susan. The child didn't look happy. There were no two ways about that. Could she be marrying this old fellow (thus did Mrs. Milton designate Ernest Heath in private) for his money? She dismissed the thought. Susan wasn't that kind, she decided. Nevertheless there was something grieving the girl.

At six Heath telephoned again. He said, "If I send a car for you at 7:30 will it be all right?" Something in his tone frightened Susan.

"Yes, of course, but what is it?" she asked.

His voice was very low. "I can't tell you just now."

Simon was too well trained to speak of the events of the night before. Susan rode along wondering what her destination might be. Her heart beat rapidly when she observed they were turning into the street on which she knew the hospital was located. What could have happened. Was Ben dead? She had never known such misery. As the car slid to a stop Heath, who had evidently been waiting within, came to meet her.

"I'm glad you're here," he said with emphasis. Susan searched his face for a sign of what might have happened but found none. She was afraid to ask. She might stave off disaster by pretending it did not exist but she found as she went up the stairs, that her knees were trembling so she could scarcely stand.

"Are you all right?" Heath glanc-

Arson Cases Are Terminated With Dismissal Of Charges

GAINESVILLE, June 3. (AP)—Arson cases resulting from the Sherman riot of May 9, 1930, were terminated yesterday when District Judge Ben W. Boyd, with the consent of the district attorney of Grayson county, dismissed six charges against Jeff Jones and five each against Webb Purdon and Jess Roper.

These men had been charged with arson in connection with the burning of the Grayson county courthouse in the riot. A negro accused of attacking a white woman lost his life in the fire.

Druggist Gives New Formula To Stop Headaches

Realizing that no one drug can relieve all headaches, as they come from so many causes, a North Carolina pharmacist has developed a combination of several ingredients, so blended and proportioned as to relieve almost any headache in a few minutes. You can get this formula wherever drugs are sold under the name "B.C." 10c and 25c packages, and when you have one of those violent, nerve-racking headaches, from inorganic causes, "B.C." will give you soothing relief in three minutes. "B.C." should also be used for the relief of muscular aches and pains, common colds and neuralgia, reducing fever, and for quieting a distressed nervous system without opiates, narcotics or such habit forming drugs. —(adv.)

san felt shaken but somehow ed. Heath, pacing up and down corridor, was startled by the nous light in her eyes. She took arm impulsively.

ell Dr. Blake he must save she whispered, "They mustn't e poor boy die."

th looked puzzled. "He's going to be fine. It's almost a miracle."

"Oh," Susan collapsed against him. He led her into the little elevator and pressed the button.

"You've had a frightful day," he muttered. "I don't wonder you're upset. Poor child."

It was sweet to be taken care of in this fashion. Susan wanted to delax in the comfort of this man's affection but something hard within her told her she must not. There was something she must do. Ben's eyes had showned her that. Love was a driving force. It was something fierce and elemental. She would be doing Heath a wrong to marry him feeling as she did.

She began to speak but he stopped her. "Later you can tell me all about it."

Susan hesitated. She hated to hurt anyone. She would bide her time, but of one thing she was certain. Marriage without love seemed an impossibility.

What about Aunt Jessie if she decided to take back her promise to Ernest Heath?

At the thought Susan shivered. Was ever a girl so torn? No matter which way she looked the way seemed black. She did not know what to do.

CHINA'S RELIGIOUS LAW HITS AUSTRALIAN TRADE

CANBERRA. (AP)—With the nationalist government of China frowning upon many religious rites of old Cathay, one Australian trade has been hard hit.

Hundreds of sandalwood cutters are out of work, and railroads built into the country where the timber grows are idle.

Formerly this wood, yellow and aromatic, was cut into "joss sticks" and sold to the Chinese to be burned in temples and wayside shrines.

Laws before Congress in Uruguay, if passed, will make gasoline prices prohibitive for a great par of autoists.

Cotton Cotton Prices Very Feverish — Livestock Steady Prices For Livestock — Grain Quick Setbacks Shown In Wheat

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP) — Cotton prices moved in a feverish manner today, and at one time showed advances of 5 to 8 points, but eased off rapidly toward the close under selling by disappointed longs and in absence of more than a moderate demand. The close was 12 to 16 points net lower.

The undertone was steady during the greater part of the day owing to evidences that the recent liquidating movement had about run its course and on the show of firmness in the stock market, although the crop accounts as a whole were considered too favorable to encourage active buying, especially in view of the unfavorable conditions prevailing in the textile market. The July position at one time sold at 5.30 an advance of 8 points, but later declined to 5.07 and closed at 5.10, a net loss of 12 points.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 3. (AP) — Quick setbacks of more than 2 cents a bushel in wheat late today accompanied announcement the $2,300,000,000 Garner relief bill had been favorably reported.

Wheat traders construed the announcement as bearish, and a flood of stop loss selling followed, with the market collapsing to the lowest point touched in almost a month. The fact that a proposed 400 per cent tax increase on produce exchange transactions might remain in the new tax bill did not conduce to improve trade sentiment.

Wheat closed nervous, 7-8 to 1 1-8 under yesterday's finish, corn 1-4 to 3-8 down, oats 1-8 to 1-2 off, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents up.

Security Markets Forge Steadily To Front In Anticipation Of Tax Action

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 3. (AP) — Security markets forged ahead sturdily today in anticipation of final action on the tax bill and of an announcement that banking support was to be provided contingent upon a satisfactory balancing of the federal budget.

It was no secret in Wall street that the bankers were to reveal, after the close, their plans for organized buying of securities, and both stocks and bonds rallied eagerly. Extreme gains, ranging from 1 to 5 points, were reduced by most shares, but fixed income securities, including preferred equities, held buoyantly to the finish. In bonds net gains of several points were numerous. Common stocks cut their rise to an average net advance of two points.

Profit-taking and belated liquidation served to dampen the ardor of shares generally, although utility and tobacco finished with good gains. Light and power company issues appeared to like the final decision of congressional conferees in the electricity tax; but the spirit of the general market was distinctly one of encouragement at what was to be and had been done to change financial prospects. Trading was active, especially on the advance; transactions totaled 1,686,642 shares.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, June 3 (AP)—Limited offerings of fed steers and yearlings brought steady prices with a few loads within a spread of 5.25@6.40. Kansas City noted a five-car string of medium to good fed Texas steers, scaling 1356 lbs., at 5.75 and two loads of Oklahomas at 4.50@5.25, respectively. Texas grassers elsewhere ranged at 4.25@4.90. A few fed heifers and mixed yearlings brought 4.75@5.60 with choice yearling heifers to Chicago up to 6.40.

Accumulated arrivals for the week at eleven markets numbered 112,400, which totals around 34,000 less than a week ago and 27,000 under a year ago.

Twenty Dead

the Canadian river and treacherous Lightning creek fell away from Capitol Hill, southern suburb. Authorities said a horseman, trying to ford high water near the Taylor school for boys where 65 hungry youngsters were marooned also was swept away and drowned.

Heroism was at its best in the rescue of whole families from housetops and trees, but around a score persons were reported missing. National guardsmen went into action early with civil officers. Fourteen persons, suffering from exposure, were taken to hospitals.

Buildings Flooded

The water poured into the downtown section, flooding many basements including that of the historic Huckins hotel, where furniture in the fashionable dungeon dining room floated about. Cattle and sheep were drowned at the union stockyards and business was suspended.

The city dam at the Lake Overholser reservoir held, however, and danger of higher water was believed past.

Leadership in the relief work was assumed by the Red Cross, which sought $3,000 from its St. Louis headquarters as well as larger funds, food and clothing locally. Governor Murray transferred $1,000 in state relief funds to agencies here and at Shawnee.

Boys Are Removed

County officers removed the boys from the county owned Taylor school this afternoon. They had perched since early morning on the second floor, their food supply ruined.

All through the early morning a six to ten inch rain pounded at a 50-mile area around Oklahoma City. Smaller cities, including Shawnee, Seminole and Norman, had their quota of evacuating lowlanders.

There was no estimate of the property damage, which included many railroad and highway washouts.

Series Of Quakes Felt Over Mexico

MEXICO CITY, June 3. (AP) — Fourteen persons were reported killed today in a series of earthquakes that were felt through a large area of Mexico.

Mexico City itself suffered considerable damage, several small buildings being toppled over. In downtown streets numerous cracks were caused.

Alarm Is Caused

Reports of the casualties, which were not officially confirmed, included eight dead and 14 injured in Colima, Mexico, smallest state, and six dead in the state of Jalisco.

Alarm was caused by the fact no report came from Caxaca, where ordinarily earthquakes cause much damage.

If the epicenter was reported correctly, it would appear the entire Pacific coastal area from Cape Corriento to Point Angel was shaken.

Shock Is Recorded

The shock was reported recorded by seismographs in London and New York. Computations in those cities agreed in the main with the computation in Mexico City.)

Mexico City proper was jarred by three distinct shocks beginning about 4:55 a. m. The first was most severe and lasted three minutes. The other two were short and came at about ten-minute intervals.

Communications lines were down in all directions to the southwest, giving rise to fears a heavy death toll may have occurred in some isolated area.

Garner Plan

of the bill calling for a gigantic public construction program and an increase to $3,000,000,000 in the capital of the reconstruction finance corporation. It was the first time since the Underwood tariff act was passed before the World war that the Democrats resorted to the caucus to secure a majority for legislation. The final vote to bind themselves was 123 to 18, but it came only after strenuous efforts of the speaker's followers were made to marshal the necessary 111.

That the Republican senate will revise the measure appears certain in view of President Hoover's desire for his program. This calls for an issue of $1,500,000,000 in securities by the reconstruction finance corporation and a $300,000,000 fund for loans to states for direct relief.

Sheep As Airport Helpers

This strange combination of airplane and sheep is not as incongruous as it appears at first. It is not a thoughtless pilot landing his plane in the midst of a flock of woolies. It is merely the manner in which the authorities at the Berlin, Germany, airport keep the grass on the landing field close cropped. The sheep enjoy their job much more than a man would enjoy chasing a lawn mower over the extensive acreage.

NEWS BRIEFS

After treatment early Friday morning for a minor bullet wound in his ankle, Glen Marcy, 6-year-old Morton boy, was dismissed from Lubbock sanitarium. The boy was wounded when his mother accidentally discharged a .22 calibre rifle, sanitarium attaches said they were told.

Liquor Raids

Lindsey set his bond at $750. No pleas were entered by Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Hillis, Hicks, Rodriquez, McGowan and Isbell. McGowan's arraignment is set for today and the others will be given an opportunity to plead Monday, Mr. Lindsey said.

Can't Find Work

"I had rather work, but I can't find work," said Thornton, 55, who has been unemployed for a "long time." "A man has to eat."

Mrs. Hillis, a widow, told officers without emotion she supported her three children and her aged parents (her father is 75) with "sewing when I can." In a raid on her home, it was alleged 75 pints of beer were found in a closet and 16 on ice. A raid at the Bruce home allegedly netted 53 bottles of beer and 10 gallons of beer mash.

Confiscate Autos

Automobiles of McGowan, Williams and Isbell are being confiscated, Tibbetts said. Tibbetts began his undercover work in Plainview May 25, and will return to Amarillo Saturday. Three other persons, not arrested, are to face charges as a result of the investigation, it was said.

J. K. Hooper, deputy sheriff, aided in bringing the Plainview persons here. Some of the accused group appeared with their attorneys and those held last night were attempting to make bond arrangements.

and about fifty freight vessels plying along the approximate route Hausner maped out for himself were scarcely expected to sight him, at least until he approached the British Isles sometime after noon tomorrow.

May Stop At London

Should his 525 gallons of gasoline be near exhausted at that time, Hausner planned to set down at Croydon airport, in London. If his plans are carried out without a hitch, he merely will sail above the airdrome, drop a packet of mail, and continue toward France, where he will repeat the mail delivery at Le Bourget field in Paris.

Then he will wing his way toward Warsaw in a gesture of friendship from the land of his adoption to the land of his birth.

Plane Christened

Unlike the first start he made last Saturday, Hausner's bright colored monoplane carried a name today. It was christened the St. Rose Maria by Jane Eisle, a close friend, yesterday.

The four year old plane has a cruising speed of 100 miles an hour which should enable Hausner to reach London in around 31 hours, Paris in around 33 and Warsaw in about 44. The flier estimated he would fly about 4,375 miles to reach Warsaw.

His plane has no wireless equipment.

The girl was assaulted and then choked to death with an electric light cord at her mother's rooming house two months ago.

Motherly Plea

was not in Austin and had so advised the marchers.

Marchers Advance

"Send the boys up, let me speak to them," Mrs. Sterling said. Viola and his companions advanced. Ernest C. Cox, former state commander of the American Legion in Texas and former national committeeman, and other leaders of the Legion already had arrived to make an effort to dissuade the marchers.

"I know you men are out of work and probably you are hungry," Mrs. Sterling said. "But I can not believe that you can do any good in Washington. It is a long road up there and I am afraid you will be worse off than you are at home with your families."

Son Follows Dad

Viola, whose ten year old son was with him determined to follow his dad to Washington, said the Salvation Army and other organization would provide milk and other necessities for his wife and children at home.

Mrs. Sterling and Cox had been pleading with the men to reconsider and abandon their march for several minutes when Governor Sterling and Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo, a lieut. colonel during the world war, came from within the mansion.

"I am with you boys for almost anything you want, but I can not for the life of me believe but that you are merely making matters worse in attempting this march on Washington," Governor Sterling said.

To Be No Retreat

Viola said it would be useless to try to lead the men back to their homes, but consented to call a caucus of the leaders and discuss the matter with Cox, Governor Sterling, Thompson and others, but after a short conference the marchers said there would be no retreat and headed for the railroad yards to catch a ride north.

Cox told the men that he and other American Legion leaders who had been working for payment of the bonus felt the march on Washington was a mistake and would undo the good that already had been accomplished.

"Congress will have adjourned before you can get to Washington," Col. Thompson put in.

Mascots In Group

"Congress will be in session at least another 30 days," Viola countered.

A Texas donkey, a goat and dogs were being escorted on the trip as mascots.

Viola said there was not more than 1.50 in money in the entire crowd.

Mrs. Sterling showed special interest in Viola's little son, who tagged after his father and wanted to know from him if the soles of his shoes were "good and thick."

The men said they intended to present the donkey to Congressman Wright Patman of Texarkana, Tex., champion of the cash bonus, and give the goat, which they had dubbed "Herbert," to President Hoover when he signed the cash bonus bill.

While waiting for a freight train the men received a contribution from Austin business men and ex-soldiers of fifty loaves of bread and a quantity of smoked sausage.

plained its funds would not necessarily be limited to $100,000,000, and insisted "bond pool" or "stabilization corporation" were misnomers, inasmuch as the concern was not planned as a temporary measure, and may stay in operation some time. It also was asserted the corporation strictly was an investing organization formed for the purpose of making profits.

Lamont Is President

Mr. Lamont, who heads the organization as its president, declined to state when it begin operations. The formal announcement said, "its policy in acquiring investments must manifestly be based in large measure upon its confidence in final action by congress in effectively balancing the budget, and thus manifesting its determination to maintain intact the government's credit."

Bankers widely expressed gratification over rapid progress of congress in whipping the tax measure into shape for a final vote, and pointed to the prompt agreement of the house and senate conferees as an important factor in today's rise in security prices.

futile as the party spent less than two hours here, most of which was in inspection of the college grounds.

Needs Are Cited

A commercial textile plant and larger agricultural buildings are the greatest needs of the Tech, Senator Greer said after he had inspected the campus.

"This is a technological college and technical work should be stressed," the senator told officials, "especially the textile and the vocational agricultural courses. What you need is a commercial textile plant here, a place where these young men studying the course can work and get actual experience."

He also said vocational agricultural courses should be made a strong part of the college work.

Ag Building Needed

"You are badly in need of an agricultural building," he said. "You seem badly crowded here."

The East Texan, upon being shown the college gym, said "it would suit Malakoff high school."

The senator seemed more interested in the textile plant at the college than any other unit and spent more time in its inspection, it was said.

He complimented the campus plan declaring that "it was a wise move when the college employed an architect who knew his business."

Dickens Suit Cleared Here

Judgment Favoring County Is Returned By Jury In Court Friday; Other Cases Are Brought To Close Also

Judgment in favor of Dickens county against E. C. Edmonds, former president of the City National bank of Spur; P. H. Miller, a former director of the closed bank; Mrs. Oran McClure, as administratrix of the estate of the late Oran McClure, and Nellie J. Davis, was given by a jury in United States district court Friday afternoon.

At the same time the jury, on instructions of Judge William H. Atwell, found for the defendant L. B. Withers, receiver of the bank. The amount of judgment is estimated at $50.0000, the amount of a bond which the defendants had signed guaranteeing deposits of the county in the bank.

Agreement Stipulated

Stipulated in connection with the case was an agreement between the county and the American Indemnity company, covering a $16,000 settlement by the concern on a portion of one of the bonds given by the bank to the county.

W. D. Wilson, Spur and George W. Dupree, Lubbock, argued the case for the county and Dallas Scarbrough, Abilene, for the defendant. There were a number of lawyers in the case, including W. E. Lesson of Abilene and Warren Scarbrough, Dallas, for the indemnity company. Dallas Scarbrough is a member of the firm of Scarbrough, Ely and King, Abilene.

Use Five Witnesses

Besides Mr. Wilson of Spur, Alton R. Chapman, county attorney of Dickens county and H. Brummett, Dickens, represented the county as did Charles C. Crenshaw. Henry Andrews, Stamford, of Coleman and Andrews, represented the receiver.

The plaintiffs used five witnesses: O. C. Newberry, county judge and one of the plaintiffs to the suit, Frank Speer, former county superintendent of schools; Austin Rose, J. N. Johnson and H. O. Albin who were all members of the county commissioner's court at the time of the making of the contract with the City National bank for a depository for county funds.

Defense witnesses were: E. C. Edmonds, former president and P. H. Miller, a former director, as well as W. M. Hazel.

Attorneys submitted the witnesses to serve cross examination.

Members of the jury were: H. F. Hudson, D. Yoder, Ben Manskin, W. O. Ballew, J. W. Bickell, Tom Sims, L. A. Lewis, R. E. King, Tom Davis, John Pfemmer, L. C. Green and J. E. Bryson.

The case of L. B. Withers, receiver for the City National bank vs. L. W. Davis, et al, was transferred to the Abilene division.

Texas Capitol Is Closed On Friday

AUSTIN, June 3. (AP)—State departments in the Texas capitol were closed today in observation of Jefferson Davis' birthday anniversary. Governor R. S. Sterling, taking advantage of the lull in official business, labored in the executive office on planks for his re-election platform. The governor is expected to release soon a statement listing accomplishments of his administration and enumerating additional things he hopes to realize should he be returned to office for a second term.

Plans for opening his speaking campaign were under consideration but incomplete. It was reported the governor had about decided to accept an invitation of friends in East Texas to open his race in that section with a regional rally.

Louisiana Solons Table A Motion Against Huey Long

BATON ROUGE, La., June 3. (AP) The Louisiana house of representatives today voted 71 to 12 to table a resolution by Malcom Dougherty accusing United States Senator Huey P. Long of "meddling" with the legislature and urging him to return to his senate seat in Washington.

"Long's place is in Washington," the East Feliciana representative had said in urging adoption of the resolution, "and he should not be here trying to steal credit from the governor."

There was no debate prior to the tabling vote.

Joseph Weldon Bailey Tells Of Congressional Platform

DALLAS, June 3. (AP) — In announcing his platform as a candidate for congressman-at-large, place No. 2, Joseph Weldon Bailey, jr., declared today he believes the government should remain out of business entirely.

"If elected I shall insist at every turn that the federal government get out of all business enterprises and keep out for good," the Dallas attorney declared.

He said he would work for a balance of the federal budget by a reduction of expenditures, and not by increased taxation.

States rights should not be encroached upon, Bailey believes.
