Mrs. John H. Walker County Pioneer, Dies August 26

Mrs. John H. Walker, who had been identified with the activities of this county for 61 years, died in a Shattuck, Oklahoma, hospital Wednesday evening, August 26, at 6:00 p.m., following a critical illness of several weeks.

Mrs. Walker had made her home on the same farm in the Needwood community since she came here as a young woman of 16. She was 77 years, 9 months and 17 days at the time of her death.

Born November 9, 1875, near Corsicana, she was before her marriage Lela Mae White. Both parents had died by the time she was five years old, and she grew up in the home of an uncle and aunt, the late Mr. and Mrs. W. S. White, parents of "Infield White and Fletcher White, who also settled early in the Kelley community.

Mrs. Walker's girlhood was spent near Nocona, and she was married to John Henry Walker January 23, 1890, at Bonita.

From the time she came to Collingsworth County from St. Jo, Mrs. Walker was a vital part of the community. She was interested in the school, and did much to see that children of that community received the advantages of education. This was one of the oldest schools of the county and many teachers through the years have recalled how much her advice and encouragement have meant to them.

Mrs. Walker was an astute business woman. In the early years Mr. Walker entered the cattle business and since his death she has continued the management of their enterprise.

For more than sixty years, the hospitality of her home has been known to uncounted hundreds. She liked people and enjoyed being with them — people of all ages and in every station of life. Her vital interest in all that went on about her, and her youthful spirit remained to the end of her life. Even after her health had begun to fail, and friends insisted that she lessen her activities, she continued them, according to the pioneer tradition of hospitality.

Likewise Mrs. Walker's generosity was extensive, both to organizations and to individuals.

She was a member of the Kelley Methodist Church.

Funeral services for Mrs. Walker were held at the Needwood school Friday afternoon at 3:00 p.m., with the Rev. J. M. Fitzgerald, pastor of the Kelley Methodist Church, officiating. Active pallbearers were C. M. Simpson, Joe (Continued on Page Twelve)

HUDSON GINS FIRST BALE

Kenneth Hudson ginned the first bale of the 1953 crop to be gathered in Collingsworth County on Friday, August 28. It was sold at auction in Wellington Saturday and brought 50c a pound. Pictured with the cotton are Mr. Hudson and Ed. Crowder, manager of the Farmers Co-op Gin at Dodson.

Brings 50c A Pound

Kenneth Hudson Gins First Bale Of 1953 Crop In Dodson Friday

Kenneth Hudson, who lives three miles north of Dodson, ginned the first bale of the 1953 cotton season Friday, August 28. The bale was ginned at the Dodson Farmers Co-operative Gin about 5:00 p.m., Ed Crowder, manager, announced.

The second bale to be reported in the county, and the first for Wellington, was ginned by Grover Graham at the Farmer's Co-Op Gin early this week, according to Dick Sweat, manager. Mr. Graham, who farms in the Fresno community, brought in 2,000 pounds of seed cotton and got a 463 pound bale with 850 pounds of seed. He reported he will get another bale soon.

Saturday, the first bale was sold at public auction on the court house square in Wellington with the First State Bank of Dodson topping the bidding with 50 cents per pound. Floyd Teutsch was the bidder for the bank.

In addition to the $243 paid by the bank, a premium of $155.45 was paid Mr. Hudson by the merchants of Wellington and Dodson, and the Dodson Co-Op Gin bought his 1,000 pounds of seed for $27, giving the grower $425.45 for his cotton.

The cotton, which graded middling 15/16, was gathered from a 90 acre field, planted April 13, which Mr. Hudson believes will yield around 35 bales. Altogether he has 140 acres in cotton this year. He had 2040 pounds of seed cotton in his first bale.

Of the premium money, $96.50 was raised in Wellington and $58.95 in Dodson.

Merchants contributing to the premium from Dodson were J. C. Howell Grocery, Davis Gin, Fillpot Hardware, Hunt Implement, McKinney Service Station, Owens Cash Grocery, J. H. Baird Service Station, King's Blacksmith Shop, Dodson Cafe and Farmers Gin.

Loco School Added

Wellington School Set For Opening Monday

School is only a matter of a few days away and some five teachers are needed to complete the Wellington High School faculty for the 1953-54 school term, Superintendent of School C. T. Roberts said to the Leader in an interview on Tuesday, September 1.

However, the school head took an optimistic attitude to the situation and cited that other schools were having troubles getting teachers. "Most area schools are from three to five teachers short," Mr. Roberts revealed. "We still lack a band instructor, a high school science teacher, a junior high coach, and two special teachers," he went on to say.

He reminded the parents that the beginners will have to have a birth certificate and for them to bring the certificate with them. Elementary will open its doors to the youngsters on Monday morning, September 7, at 9:00 a.m. The children will find their names on the door of the school room to which they have been assigned. If your name is not on the door then report to the principal's office for further instructions, he declared. "Also, it is recommended that all beginners and others that have not had smallpox vaccination, should get theirs before the school term," Mr. Roberts reminded.

Loco school has been added to the local system this year. This will bring about 18 students to be added to the system for this term.

Faculty members are: Elementary, Miss Mary Alston, Mrs. G. W. Lane, and Mrs. Bill Roberts, first grade; Mrs. R. H. Burquist, Mrs. Lee Plante, and Mrs. W. L. Full Calendar For District Court Set for September

A full calendar through the remainder of September is scheduled in the 100th District Court, Judge Luther Gribble said Tuesday.

Jury cases are set in three of the five counties of the district, with a full week allotted to each.

Judge Gribble will open court in Memphis Monday, September 7, where an assault with intent to murder and a child desertion case are on docket, along with two civil cases.

At Wellington, beginning Monday, September 14, Judge Gribble is due to hear the case of the state vs. J. T. Boyd, charged with swindling by worthless check; and two damage suits, James W. Bayless et al vs. Steve Owens, and Denny T. Hill and Dawn Elaine Hill vs. D. A. Moore.

A workman's compensation suit and personal injury suit are on docket at Panhandle, where Judge Gribble will open court Monday, September 21.

He will return to Wellington September to hear non jury cases, go to Childress Tuesday, September 29; Memphis, Wednesday, September 30; Clarendon, Thursday, October 1; and Panhandle Friday, October 2.

Dove Season Now In Full Swing

Hunting was fair in Collingsworth County as the dove season opened Tuesday, September 1, with a number of hunters reporting that while they got several birds, not many doves were to be seen in the county as a whole.

The season will continue to October 10. The bag limit is 10 mourning doves per day and not more than one day's kill in possession. The shooting hours are noon to sunset.

David Robinson, county clerk, reminded that birds must be placed on storage within three days after the close of the season.

Migratory game birds may be possessed for only 90 days after the close of the season. The court may revoke hunting license and right to hunt for one year upon conviction for violating this law.

The law regarding the means of taking game birds says: Shotgun, not larger than 10 gauge fired from the shoulder, may be used. Automatic loaded or hand-operated repeating shotgun capable of holding more than 3 shells unlawful, unless magazine has been cut off or plugged with one-piece metal or wooden filler incapable of removal through the loading end (Continued on Page Twelve)

Panhandle Firemen Hold Annual Convention Here

Wellington will be host to the top event of the year for firemen of the area, when members of the Panhandle Firemen's Association meets here Tuesday, September 8. The first time the city has played host to this organization in some 10 years.

Around 300 firemen and their families will attend, Bura Hnadley, Wellington fire chief, said, and a full day of activities that include a study of the serious business of firefighting, as well as plenty of fun, will be worked out. Business of the convention is scheduled for the morning session, and the election of officers for the coming year will be held. The morning program will also deal with fire prevention and other affairs of the association. Jay Taylor of Amarillo will appear on the morning program.

Contests will be held on the south side of the square during the afternoon. First of these will be a water polo contest, when a large number of the Panhandle departments will enter two-man teams. In this test, the competing teams will attempt, using powerful streams of water from the fire hose, to force a large ball strung on a wire, into the opponent's goal. Prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be given.

The pumper hook-up contest is a test of skill. Six-man teams will pull 100 feet of fire hose off a truck, connect the pumper and get a jet of water over a designated point. Prizes will be $25, $15, and $10.

Entertainment for the women is scheduled during the afternoon, also, at the home of Mrs. Mish Dukeminier. Show tickets will be available for those wishing to attend.

A barbecue at Ellison park will be held in the evening.

Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys will play for the Firemen's Dance in the evening. While this event is to honor the firemen, it is open to the public, according to Russell Yates, who is in charge.

The Panhandle Firemen's Association is now 28 years old. In charge of the plans for this convention is Mr. Handley, one of the men who helped with the organization and who served as the first president of the Panhandle Firemen's Association.

President of the Association during the past year are J. P. Wilkinson of Canadian, president; R. D. Mayfield of Dimmitt, first vice president; T. S. Furlow of Tulia, second vice-president; V. E. Hafner of Childress, secretary-treasurer; and K. G. Purcell of Dalhart, assistant secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Cameron Beam Dies Suddenly Wed.

Mrs. Cameron Beam, prominent in many phases of Wellington's life for a number of years, died at her home about 5:00 o'clock Wednesday morning, September 2, following a heart attack.

Close friends of the family said that she and Mr. Beam had attended a show Tuesday night and although she was experiencing some pain, she felt it was not serious enough for medical attention. She awakened with intense pain about 3:00 a. m., and although a doctor was called immediately, she failed to rally from the attack.

No funeral arrangements have been made, pending the arrival of a son, Cameron Beam Jr., stationed with the Navy Air Corps in Bermuda. They will be announced by the Kelso Funeral Home.

Mrs. Beam was born at Vernon and before her marriage to Mr.

Beam was Miss Emma Louise McCrary.

The family moved here 16 years ago from Abilene, when Mr. Beam was named manager of the West Texas Utilities Company. She had been active in many phases of the city's life, including school affairs, work of the Baptist Church, and in study clubs.

Surviving are her husband and three sons: Louie Beam, who arrived home recently after his release from the Navy; Cameron Beam Jr., who was home on leave last week but who had returned to his post in Bermuda; and Tommy Beam of Wellington. Other survivors are four brothers and two sisters, Dr. J. W. McCrary Jr. of Commerce; Innes M. McCrary and Tommy McCrary of Vernon; and John Lee McCrary of Dallas; Mrs. Mildred Warlick and Mrs. J. Iver Caney of Albuquerque.

Escaped Prisoner Arrested Here

Freedom was short for a Quana Negro, charged with cattle theft, who broke jail in that city at 4:30 p.m. Thursday, August 27, and was arrested again in Wellington at 4:30 a.m. Friday morning — just 12 hours later.

Robert Pope, the Quana man, was arrested at a house in the Flats, where he was asleep, by Sheriff Claude McKinney, and Sheriff Malon Owen and Chief of Police Floyd Hatcher of Quana. Sheriff McKinney had located the man within 15 minutes after the Quana officers arrived here and notified him they were hunting Pope.

They reported Pope walked out of his cell in the Quana jail when the door was left open momentarily as a plumber was preparing to leave after doing repair work, he locked the plumber in his vacated cell, and went out through the jail kitchen where Mrs. Owen tried to stop him with her broom.

Pope walked a railroad right of way to Acme, three miles west of Quana, hitched a ride to Childress, and was brought to Wellington by another Negro man.

Faustino Tienda Killed In Farm Accident Friday

Faustino Tienda Jr., 18, was fatally mangled and burned in a hay baler accident on the Zook Thomas farm north of town Friday afternoon, August 28. The body was discovered by Mr. Thomas about 6:30 p.m. when he went to the field to see how the work was progressing.

Mr. Thomas had returned home a little after 5 o'clock and attended his daughters birthday party and then went to a nearby field where young Tiendas father was plowing. Upon approaching the hay field he heard the tractor engine running but did not observe the fire until he had passed through some high weeds on the edge of the field.

The burned body of Tienda was lying on the elevator of the hay bailer with the young man's head pressed against the rollers of the bailer and with both arms severed.

Mr. Thomas notified the boys father and called an ambulance and notified the county officials. Judge Raymond Horton and Sheriff Claude McKinney investigated the accident. They said that they believed Tienda had been dead for two hours or more before the body was discovered and that he was dead before the fire started.

It is believed that Tienda got off his tractor, leaving the motor running, to make some adjustment on the bailer. The elevator is automatic and stops when a full bale is in the press and it starts again when the bale of hay is kicked out of the machine. Sheriff McKinney said that apparently Tienda had crawled up on the elevator while it was stopped and while he was on it the bale had been kicked out automatically started the elevator which dragged the young man into the rollers. It is thought that his arms locked the rollers causing the belts to slip and that the friction started the fire.

The body was taken by the Kelso Funeral Home to Kyle, Texas and funeral services were held there Saturday August 29.

Tienda, who lived with his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Faustino Tienda Sr. and his three sisters, had lived in Collingsworth County for the past six years. For several years the family lived on the Darwin Nix farm.

Tienda death makes the second fatal farm accident to have occurred in Collingsworth County in 1953.

SALT FORK NEWS

By MRS. R. H. ISBELL

It's dry and hot out our way. Surely need a good general rain. Cotton is wilting badly again. But there's some mighty nice looking watermelons in spite of the dry weather.

Sunday was a good day at Salt Fork. James Glasscock preached his farewell sermon. It was a good sermon. Every one enjoyed it very much. We surely will miss James, but wish him well in his college work and hope he'll be back with us again in the future. We need more good boys like James.

Several from here attended church at (Bethel) Loco Sunday night. Their revival is going on this week. Hope everyone is in reach of Loco will attend the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Cummings have been very busy getting water piped in their house lately. Kenneth Ward has been helping do the work.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Wischkaemper and daughter were recent visitors of Mrs. Henry Wischkaemper and Carl.

We were all so glad to know Mrs. W. W. Johnson was better from her recent illness.

Our heart felt sympathy goes out to the Mexican family that works for Zook Thomas in the loss of their loved one who had such a tragic death last Friday.

Dinner guests in the Wright and Isbell home Sunday were James Glasscock, Charles Wright, Edna Ellen Wright, Mrs. Maxwell, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wright and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Isbell and Billy.

The Allen Peters family gathered at the home of their parents Sunday with a birthday dinner in honor of Richard Peters. A good time was had by all present. Every one was so glad that Mother Peters was better from her recent sick spell.

Ernest Maxwell, Wayne and Don have come home from the harvest fields, so the boys can enroll in school.

IMPROVED PASTURE

Farmers and stockmen in Collingsworth County have found that one good way to improve their beef yields is by using an irrigated pasture, according to Fred Squyres, local head of the work unit of the Soil Conservation Services assisting the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District.

"A good irrigated pasture consists of the right mixture of seeds. Mixtures of five pounds of Kentucky Fescue 31, five pounds of Smooth Broome, five pounds of Perennial Rye, three pounds of orchard grass, and two pounds of alfalfa. With this mixture plant it with a good drill you can increase your beef production as much as 500 and in some cases nearly 1000 pounds per acre. You can plant around 15 to 25 pounds of this seed mixture and that is depending on the soil, the SCS head stated.

"Charles Allen has planted four acres of the grass and the Henard brothers, Dan and Rusty have about 30 acres each. The Fescue is a thriving plant and will stand grazing about 10 months out of the year. It is a good idea to let be idle for July and August each year so that a new growth may be obtained. This grass mixture has been tried in the river beds and this only on a field trial basis. However, it could be one more step to good beef production at low cost to the producer, Squyres declared. Zook Thomas, Wood and John Coleman are trying this in the river.

Terrace lines have been built on Spurgeon Morgan, W. W. Oldham, Jess Deger, Wayne Johnson, and Lester Parish places. "On the Parish place he had 200 acres of watershed that was coming down across his field. The first thing that we did was to build a diversion terrace at the top of the field. After this had been accomplished we used the surface panning method for each terrace and this includes the block system. This means that when the head diversion terrace is full it will run into a terrace one and one-half feet below it, and this will continue until it reaches the bottom of the field. With this method we will check the water erosion and at the same time store moisture in his field," he stated.

The United States and World Trade

(Editors Note: The following article was submitted by congressman Walter Rogers as a news item. We are publishing it as an editorial because of its thought provoking content.)

The problems incident to world trade are fast reaching an acute stage. These are not problems that affect only a few countries. They effect all of the countries of the world and especially the United States of America, the basic reason being that the United States has long led the world in its production capacity. This, coupled with the vast natural resources with which God blessed us and the tremendous production of agricultural crops, points up the need for world markets. There is also the fact that under our present situation from a defense standpoint, as well as an economic standpoint, we are not self-sufficient insofar as our materials are concerned. To give you a brief picture of our position in this regard I have gathered together some facts and figures that I thought would be of interest to you concerning the imports and exports of our country.

On an average day about 418,000 tons of imports worth $42,000,000 are unloaded in our ports. The 418,000 tons may be of raw materials, foodstuffs, semi-manufactures or manufactured goods. Consider certain strategic minerals, for example. The United States imports all her natural rubber, tin, chromite, industrial diamonds, graphite and sisal, 99 per cent of her nickel, 93 per cent of her manganese and cobalt, 92 per cent of her mercury, 55 per cent of her lead, 42 per cent of her copper and 40 per cent of her zinc. Of the sixteen basic materials vital to American industry, the United States is relatively self-sufficient in only six.

Take a medium-sized tank. One such tank requires:

Material	Pounds	Percent of Imports
Chromium	1,915	100
Manganese	950	99
Nickel	520	93
Tin	100	100
Bauxite	6,512	65
Copper	1,418	42

Multiply those and similar figures by the thousands of tanks, planes, ships, guns and other items our defense program needs and one can see how our economy relies on imports. Many of our peace-time needs, too, are dependent on imports. One needs only to cite such foodstuffs as coffee, tea, cocoa and bananas to realize the extent of our dependence upon other countries.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company reports that 48 imports from 18 countries go into each telephone. Of the 184 materials necessary to produce an automobile, 38 are largely imported. The same might be cited for many articles in every-day use: pots and pans, paints, ingredients for medicines, cosmetics, and many other items.

Over one-half of today's imports are minerals and other materials for use by American industry—things like copper, lead, tin, zinc, natural rubber, fuel oils, fabrics for strings and ropes, industrial diamonds, etc.

For some essential materials substitutes could probably be found within our borders, but substitutes are usually more expensive and are less satisfactory.

United States imports by major commodity groups indicate why this country would find great difficulty in isolating itself from the world. The imports for 1952 show that the United States relied upon foreign sources for products valued at $10,714,000,000. More than 50 per cent of this total was crude materials and foodstuffs. The following tabulations (based upon the first 11 months of the year) shows imports for consumption in 1952.

CRUDE MATERIALS	$2,933,000,000
Rubber, Crude	$633,000,000
Wool	$387,000,000
Petroleum, Crude	$418,000,000
FOODSTUFFS	$3,097,000,000
Coffee	$1,337,000,000
Cane Sugar	$433,000,000
Cocoa or Cacao Beans	$168,000,000
Meat Products	$157,000,000
Semi-Manufactures	$2,498,000,000
Wood Pulp	$266,000,000
Copper	$321,000,000
Gas and fuel oil	$221,000,000
Tin	$232,000,000
Finished Manufactures	$2,075,000,000
Newsprint	$565,000,000

We must also keep in mind, in considering the above facts and figures, that we now have on hand surplus agricultural commodities in excess of three billion dollars.

The Buck Creek Philosopher

Editor's note. The Buck Creek Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Buck Creek has an answer to the farm surplus problem this week, but it's his answer, not ours.

Dear editor:—

I was sittin out here on my farm yesterday not doin anything except sittin and whittlin when a man brought me a clipping from a newspaper quatin a United States Department of Agriculture official to the effect a farmer who sits and whittles doesn't deserve to succeed.

"There is no substitute for a good job of farming," the official went on. "Efficient farming methods, harder work, better production, that's what it'll take to keep farming prosperous."

I wish to say that me and the knife manufacturers both resent this statement.

In the first place, why do you think the price of cattle is cheap? Because too many people have been raisin cattle instead of sittin and whittlin. Why would the price of cotton or corn or wheat drop way down below what it is now if there wasn't price supports? Because too many farmers have been efficient.

As I understand the agricultural expert's position, he wants us farmers to work harder and produce less, and the only way to accomplish that is to outlaw the tractor and return to the walkin plow. Personally, I prefer whittlin. It accomplishes the same thing and doesn't put the tractor people out of business.

Efficiency is a fine thing, it's almost necessary in a bank, but it can be carried too far out in the country. The reason we're gonna have crop controls on some items next year is because us farmers are producin too much, and if you'll tell me a better way to cut down on production than sittin and whittlin, I'd like to know it.

You know, people in town like to say if a farmer worked harder he would be better off, but that's on account of the way business men in town define the word work. A business man, if he has his store's front door open, considers himself workin, and it's a fine definition, exactly the one I've adopted out here on my Johnson grass farm. When my front gate is open, this farm is open for business and I'm at work, doesn't make any difference if I am sittin in the shade whittlin, the same as it doesn't make any difference if the business man is leanin against the counter or easin back in a swivel chair readin the comics or standin out on the curb lookin at the clouds.

Next year, when they get crop controls into effect, some farmers are gonna worry themselves sick over what they can plant on their idle acres, and they'll think of something and year after next whatever they plant will have to be controlled too, but if the government would distribute a lot of free pocket knives and encourage whittlin, instead of making speeches against it, we could bring this control. It ain't the pocket knife problem of over-production under that's causin farmers to have financial trouble, it's the four-row planter.

Yours faithfully,

The Last Supper

The Last Supper of Jesus with His disciples stressed the communion as the symbol of fellowship in the Christian church.

This is marked to such an extent that denominations, or sects, are called "communions," even in their very separateness which denies the unity that ought to be in Christ.

For that, of course, there are historic reasons, which to a large degree are being overcome by many who in mind, soul and heart accept as fellow Christians all who love the Lord, regardless of barriers of organization and formal creed.

But there ought to be even deeper implications of fellowship as we contemplate that Last Supper in the upper room.

That Last Supper was the celebration by Jesus and His disciples of the Passover, the most sacred rite in the Jewish religion, which was their heritage as Jews and which Jesus said He had not come to destroy, but to fulfill.

That fact ought to give the Last Supper a significance that it has never had, neither for Jews nor Christians, and a meeting place in fellowship that they have never found.

Surely the supreme task of all who believe in the Christ and the fellowship of the upper room is to bring to reality and fullness in the world the spirit and the practice of brotherhood.

We know that there was one present in that room with Jesus who renounced that spirit, who betrayed his Master. What we do not realize is that everyone who professes to share in the communion, but who does not live in its spirit of brotherhood, is more akin to Judas than to those who loved their Master.

To partake of holy communion "in remembrance of Jesus" is not merely an act of conformity, an expression of outward faith. Its reality is found only in a renewed commitment of the soul to the Christian way — the way of brotherhood.

Looking Ahead With George S. Benson

SOCIOLOGY'S NEW RELIGION?

Sociology textbooks widely used for the past 25 years in high schools and colleges throughout America are fostering a new kind of "religion" which, if accepted by a generation of youth, could destroy the Church as the well-spring of our spiritual life and supersede the Bible with a social worker's handbook. This, in effect, is the stunning conclusion drawn by Dr. A. H. Hobbs, professor of Pennsylvania, in a comprehensive analysis of 83 widely used sociology textbooks.

His analysis of sociology's teachings on the subject of religion is so shocking and so vitally important I'm going to quote at length from his book, "The Claims of Sociology: A Critique of Textbooks" (The Stackpole Co., Harrisburg, Pa.).

ASTONISHING TEXTS

"Fifty-four" texts contain statements which evaluate religion," Dr. Hobbs reports. "Thirty-three texts contend that religious organizations should reorient themselves in the direction of secularization . . .

"Religious organizations (the 33 textbooks contend) should decrease or eliminate the supernatural appeals, their abstract moral doctrines, their ritual, mysticism, and allegiance to traditional codes. Eight additional texts emphasize that these factors hinder 'social progress,' and nine other statements claim that religious organizations perpetuate themselves primarily because of pressures which are exerted on them by 'economic

BANKRUPTCY LAW EXPLAINED

Always, there will be families in the United States who are having financial difficulties. At this time, the number is relatively few. To those few and to their creditors, this article should be of particular interest.

The principal reported causes which throw families into financial difficulties are: Inflation and high taxes, inability to resist "impulse" buying, combined with easy credit, illness or other emergencies, or just plain bad judgment and mismanagement.

Some people in financial difficulty, when threatened with legal proceedings to collect outstanding debts, seek relief offered them by the federal bankruptcy law.

The purpose of bankruptcy laws is to permit an honest, but unfortunate or weak debtor to surrender or account for all his property for the benefit for his creditors and in exchange be discharged of his debts.

Any adult who owes debts may become a voluntary bankrupt by having his attorney prepare for him a bankruptcy petition, together with schedules of his assets and liabilities and then filing the same in the proper United States district court.

After he is adjudicated a bankrupt he is required to appear for examination as to his assets in the bankruptcy court, and if he fully accounts for his assets and has not violated any of the bankruptcy laws he will thereafter receive a discharge of his debts.

If he is granted a discharge of his debts, he has started a new financial life as of the date he filed bankruptcy. All wages and assets acquired by him thereafter cannot be reached to satisfy the old debts, nor will creditors be permitted to sue him on the old debts.

Dishonest debtors may endeavor to gain advantages for themselves not allowed by the bankruptcy laws. In these instances on objections to discharge by creditors they not only will be denied a discharge of their debts, but the courts will be prone to deal harshly with the offenders if they have violated the criminal laws.

The head of a family is entitled to claim as exempt any property which is exempt under Texas homestead laws, which in the ordinary case will be his home, household furniture, wearing apparel, the family automobile and tools of his trade or profession. However, if any of this property is covered by a mortgage or conditional contract he must pay any balance due thereon, or the owner of such mortgage or contract may repossess.

Bankruptcy has a lasting effect upon a person's future credit and in the usual case causes the creditors to lose their entire debt.

Many bankruptcies could be avoided if the "overloaded" debtor would make a timely effort to sit down with his creditors and work out plans for reduced payments over extended periods.

OTHER EDITORS SAY:—

The Wetback Problem

The troubled problem of the wetbacks, the Mexican laborers who enter this country illegally, has been brought into new focus by Attorney-General Brownell's demand that adequate facilities for enforcement of the law be provided. One estimate is that there are 175 illegal entries per hour. In one month recently there were 85,000 arrests, and the 1952 total of illegal entries is placed at 635,000. To stem the invasion, the immigration and naturalization service has only 1080 agents to patrol both the Mexican and Canadian borders.

The Mexican laborers cross the Rio Grande because they know they can find employment on this side at higher pay than they could earn at home. They know that while their standard of living in this country will not be high, it will be substantially better than in their native land. Some of them hope to remain. Many of them hope to return with some money in their pockets. Even if they did not, they will have fared better in this country, during the harvesting season, than they would have at home.

Their presence in this country is welcomed by those who can hire them for less than would have to be paid American farm workers. It is resented by the latter, whose pay is necessarily affected. Mexico, while it would like for the migrants to stay at home, hasn't yet solved the problem of providing remunerative work, with a high standard of living.

Either the law should be adequately enforced or it should be changed, made less strict and more realistic. We are inclined to believe the latter alternative is both the wisest and easiest.

Good News: State Senator Andy Rogers notified Paul Spillman that the Texas National Guard Armory Board approved Wellington for an Armory. Sen. Rogers said that construction might begin next spring.

Better get busy if you want a reserved seat ticket to the Rockets' home games. There are still some excellent ones left but they have been going pretty fast this week. If you are one of those who like to sit high up in the stands and many people do, the place to apply for tickets then is Pruden' Drug. If you want to sit way down on the first three rows then go to Cochran Drug and if you like the in-between tickets then go to Parsons Drug or the Palace Drug.

Went out to see the boys practice and they looked pretty good for this early in the season. Sports writers don't predict that Wellington will win the district — and that is as it should be. They pick Childress; but I wouldn't be so sure of that. Childress does have the most lettermen and the biggest squad; but there are a lot of other good teams in the district. It might be one of the Southwest Conference affairs with almost any team able to defeat almost any other if it catches them a little let-down or with too many injuries.

About the mystery farm pictures: None of us down here at The Leader office know who these farms are. Therefore we cannot tell whether one has been identified correctly or not until the owner comes in for his free picture. The company that made these does it on a pattern basis and they can come back next year and take more without a single duplication; but they don't know who the owners are either. Incidentally, if you are one of the owners who can buy some wonderful full color pictures if you so desire.

Considering the amount of virus, dysentery, diarrhea or whatever it is, it would not take much of a propagandist to convince a lot of people that the Russians have already started germ warfare in Collingsworth County.

Since Virginia Robey was out of town, I picked up the phone to do a chore for her in reporting the first bale of cotton in Collingsworth. Instead of getting such ugly old boys at Cotton John Smith of the Amarillo News and Glenn Shelton of The Record News at Wichita Falls I got to talk to two old girl friends of mine. The first was that alert Mary Kate Brotherton of the Globe-Times and News that I had known since she worked on The Hereford Brand. The other was the lovely voiced Laura Tannehill of the Wichita Falls Times and Record News that I knew when she worked in Paducah. I asked Laura what her married name was and she said: "It is Doing — isn't that awful?" Anyhow, I had a good time visiting over the phone at the expense of the Amarillo and the Wichita papers.

W. L. (Smitty) Smith, who operates the Autobody Shop on 8th Street is of the opinion that advertising pays. A man in Dallas saw his large display ad in the paper a few weeks ago and brought his car to Wellington to have it upholstered, new seat covers, etc.

It seems to me that the above is one of the answers to those merchants who complain of people trading out of town. The answer is more advertising of the desirability of your merchandise — the excellence of your service. Smitty did not mention price at all — since his is mainly a service institution — he just told of the equipment he had — with pictures — and how well his experienced men could do the work.

The time to sell merchandise by advertising at a profit is when it is new. You do not make much money holding a sale.

Funeral Held Here Recently for Early County Resident

Funeral services held here Thursday, August 13, for Mrs. B. F. Crawford of Rock Port, a member of the county's earliest families.

Mrs. Crawford who will be remembered here as Bertie Buerger-Zigler, died in a Mineral Wells hospital of injuries received in a car accident near that city August 10. She had formerly lived in Mineral Wells and members of the family reported she had planned to stop there to attend to business, then drive on to Wellington to visit relatives.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church, with Rev. J. F. Michael, pastor, in charge. Pall bearers were Earl Hunter, Ruben Crawley, Thad Roberts, Billy Hatch, James Sullivan and Zook Thomas. Honorary pall bearers were C. W. Roberts, J. W. Chapman, R. F. Curry, Hugh Longino, J. A. Leach, John Trew, Paul Wauer, Paul Brewer and Bob Brewer.

Burial was in the Wellington cemetery directed by the Ellis Funeral Home.

Mrs. Crawford was born at Terrell April 7, 1879, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Buerger, who came here about the time the county was organized in 1890. She grew up here and much of her life was spent here until she moved to Mineral Wells about 22 years ago, later moving to Rock Port.

She is survived by her husband, B. F. Crawford of Rock Port; a son, Raymond Zigler of Jacksonville, Fla.; a sister, Mrs. Rock Lowry of Wellington and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Otto Buerger, also of Wellington. There are two grandchildren and one great grandchild, as well as a number of nieces and nephews.

Rotarians Hear Coach McKnight

Coach Maxey McKnight outlined for Rotarians at their luncheon meeting August 25 prospects of the Wellington Skyrockets for the coming year, comparing their chances for the season with those of other teams in the area.

He introduced Assistant Coach John Hurley, who comes here this year from Kermit.

A surprise event of this meeting was a visit from the Rotary Anns, who had told Rotarians nothing of their plans, only notifying Mrs. Calvin Aaron, who is in charge of the dinners.

Denzil Bevers, president, was in charge of the meeting.

WELCOME !

Panhandle Firemen !

On the occasion of the annual fall meeting of the Panhandle Firemen's Association, this bank is proud to extend congratulations to these men who give so freely of their time and whose services are so valuable to the public.

Such loyal service cannot be measured in dollars and cents, but the financial savings which these men bring their communities year in and year out can be totaled up. Far too often we fail to realize this, or to express to the firemen of our department our appreciation for their work.

Sandown Smith Builds Granite Home North of Wellington

Mystery Farm No. 4 proved to be no mystery for 34 people as they guessed the correct answer, namely that of the Sandown Smith farm, one mile north of Wellington.

Two clues gave the farm away. One was the red granite block home and the other was the familiar jeep pick-up. Mr. Smith did major part of the construction on the house by his own labor, although at times he did call in skilled craftsmen to help him. Before starting he hauled all of the granite from Oklahoma in his spare time. After that was completed he started construction. The walls of the building are two feet thick and it is considered one of the most durable homes in this area.

Those guessing correctly were: Mrs. Billy Hajek, Troy Gardner, Billy Morris, Tommy Beam, Jimmy Leggett, John Alf Thomas, Bruce Hite, Jr., Barbara Shanks, Sam Adams, Mrs. Ellis LaHue, Merle D. Phipps, Louise Mabery, Mrs. Owen James, Carolyn Scott, Mary Morrow, Mrs. V. E. Warwick, Richard Mauldin, Louis Berg, De Ray Uselton, Mrs. J. W. Thomas, George Barton, Oral Bishop, Mrs. E. W. Jenkins, James Colson, Mrs. Lena Martin, Mrs. Frank Light, Glenda Phipps, Glenn Carter, J. B. King, Mrs. Denny Judd, Mrs. A. C. Parrigin, and Mrs. George Stephens. Mrs. Albert Fulcher, Velma McCasfety made the only incorrect identification on the farm. Her guess was the Grove Graham farm. Mrs. Billy Joe Hajek won the complimentary tickets.

Mrs. Smith was the former Miss Marie Barnes until she married Mr. Smith in 1934. Both have been long time residents of Wellington. They have four children, all girls. The oldest is Mary Carol, age 17, who is a senior in Wellington high school; Sandra Kay, 14; Nell, 12; and Beth, 3. All of the family is active in the First Christian church and are willing to do all that they can when some work is to be done.

The house is on 20 acres of Mr. Smith's land, but he has 260 acres north of the home place. As most of the farmers in this area depend on cotton as their main cash income crop, so does Smith. However, he supplements his regular farm income with buying and selling hogs and cattle. He has recently deep broke his land.

To pass the hours when he isn't doing something, he likes to get one of his trusty guns and retire to the fields for some hunting.

It's a honey! And behind the massive good looks of its grille is a heart of 60. Ford alone offers your choice of the lowest-priced V-8 or America's most modern Six with your choice of three great drives: Fordomatic, Overdrive and Conventional Drive.

It's terrific! More glass area than any other car in its field—that's what Ford gives you! And there's handy Center-Fill Fueling, suspended brake and clutch pedals, and many other features which explain why you can't buy better than Ford.

It's sensational! Nobody can match Ford's Crestmark Body! It's hull-tight to seal out weather and noise. And no matter which beautiful baked enamel finish you choose for your Ford, inside colors and upholstery are color-keyed to it!

Take Ford's new ride, for example, which reduces front end road shock alone up to 80%. Take Ford's power steering . . . the newest and finest in the industry! And take Ford's choice of 18 models—the widest choice in Ford's field. No wonder Ford has won the title of America's "Worth More" car!

Raymond Ross Home is One of New Ones Near Quail

Mystery Farm No. 5 proved to be the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ross on the Bourland and Ross ranch northwest of Quail. Fourteen people brought in or phoned in correct guesses with only one person making an incorrect answer.

Durant McInnis brought in the first correct guess and received the theatre tickets given each week. Others who turned in the right name were: Millard Brown, Mrs. Pete Brock, Ted Brock, Mrs. J. W. Thomas, John Thomas, Hershel Tyler, Mrs. E. K. Jones, Dave Brewer, Joe Lindsey, Janice Davis, Sherri Graham, and J. W. Boen.

Frank L. Bourland and his brother, W. M. Bourland bought the original ranch from John Browder of Memphis in 1897 and built it up to 14 sections. In 1945 the partnership of the brothers was dissolved and the land divided.

At the present time Raymond Ross is charge of operations of the Bourland and Ross tract, which consists of 4 1/2 sections of farm and range land. Of this 380 acres are in cultivation consisting of cotton and row crops with most of it devoted to the production of feed. Mr. Ross has practiced extensive soil conservation practices such as sage and shinnery mowing, the construction of earthen dams, on the range land. On the farm land he has practiced deep breaking and crop rotation. He has used peas extensively as a soil building crop and rye as a cover crop in the winter months.

The ranch is the home of a herd of registered Hereford cattle of the Anxiety strain as well as a grade herd with the greatest percentage being registered animals.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross, the former Jean Bourland, were married in Clarendon in 1939. and have one daughter, Jamie, age 8. They are members of the Methodist Church in Wellington, having joined as a family, and of the Clarendon Country Club.

Mr. Ross attended Ottawa University in Kinsley, Kansas, and before World War II was employed by the Stanolind Oil and Gas Company as permit man and surveyor in the West Texas area. During World War II he was in the Navy in a radar unit that was attached to the Marines in the Finian theatre of operations in the Marianas. He is a member of the V. F. W. and of the American Hereford Association.

Mrs. Ross attended Clarendon College where she was intensely interested in fine arts, an interest that she has continued. She is a member of the Les Beaux Arts Club and the 1926 Book Club of Wellington and the Quail Friendship Club.

Crossroads Report

Dear Mr. Ike:

Seems like there was surprise in some circles when the wheat farmers voted for production controls by such an overwhelming majority. There was some bad expressed the belief that rugged individualism would cause these fellows to reject the idea of somebody telling them how much wheat they could sow, but maybe this rugged individualism can be carried too far.

You take a vote among the bricklayers, for instance, whether they wanted to get $30 a day or $15 a day for their work and you are apt to find a slight majority favoring the higher figure, just like the wheat men decided they could make more money selling wheat for $2 than they could for $1, even if these was a few strings to the proposition.

Might be it takes some of the spice out of a farmer's life to know somewhere in the neighborhood of what he can sell his stuff for before he takes it to town, but there is drawbacks to the rugged individualistic system, too. Doubt if a carpenter would be contented, either, if he didn't know when he picked up his hammer of a morning whether he was going to get paid or charged for that day's work.

Farm Subsidies Comparatively New But Not New In Industry -- Rogers

Subsidization of agriculture is relatively new to the political thinking of the United States, but subsidization in other forms is almost as old as the nation itself, Congressman Walter Rogers pointed out to members of the Wellington Kiwanis Club and their guests Friday, August 28, at their noon luncheon, when he was the guest speaker.

Mr. Rogers reminded the group that the belief is general that the agricultural economy is a subsidized economy, but that it is an open and apparent subsidization. All phases are open to public knowledge, principally because every phase of the agricultural program has presented a controversy on the floor of Congress.

Agricultural subsidies are relatively new as compared with other business generally. Long existent has been the protective tariff, instituted originally for the protection of America's infant industries. Railroad subsidies came during the period following the Civil War, when a number of them received grants of land from the government in return for building westward across the nation.

"Our economy is a controlled economy and has been for many years," Mr. Rogers declared, and a natural consequence is that the farmer would be granted subsidies, since he is forced to sell on an unprotected market and purchase on a protected market. Even the labor market, through the labor unions, is a protected market.

Turning directly to the livestock market situation, the Congressman said that generally livestock prices maintain a level with feeds, which have been and are supported. Periodically, however, we have a liquidation in certain commodities, and one, livestock, was approached last year. The drought hastened the liquidation and without a support price, the bottom fell out of the market.

The emergency measures taken this year failed to include all forms of livestock.

Mr. Rogers declared that he and others working for a support program acceptable to livestock men couldn't make it understood to many lawmakers in Washington that every farmer as well as rancher has chickens, hogs, sheep — livestock other than cattle.

The government price support program for storable items has been a success, as is shown by the history of wheat, cotton, corn, etc., but the program on non-storable or perishable items, such as eggs and potatoes, failed. The latter program, however, was actually an exploratory program, and some benefit was gained in the way of knowledge. Livestock is a non-storable commodity and therefore any support program in that field will require much effort and thought, Mr. Rogers pointed out.

Congressman Rogers in the past session introduced a resolution to make public all subsidies, especially the hidden ones. This resolution was killed in the committee.

Explaining in his talk Friday what he meant by a hidden subsidy, Mr. Rogers cited as an example the Pakistan wheat, which the United States government gave to the government of Pakistan to help alleviate famine suffering.

This wheat, 100 million bushels, was bought by the government from the Commodity Credit Corporation (and will have to be replaced in the CCC with other purchases). Then arose the question of how to ship it to Pakistan. After much controversy, the bill finally provided that one-half of the wheat MUST be transported in American ships at a minimum cost of $26 a ton. The other half could be shipped in ships of foreign registry at approximately $12 per ton. What this amounts to, Mr. Rogers declared, is an approximately 15 million dollar subsidy to American shipping, although it is not labeled as such.

Mr. Rogers concluded his talk here with a short discussion of the foreign trade situation. He said that the United States provides money for the building of industrial plants in foreign countries, yet because of the high tariff wall those nations cannot sell their products here, and we do not want them to sell to Russia. This leaves free trade as the ultimate solution.
