STOLEN RANCH EQUIPMENT RECOVERED

Burglars Hit Three Times During Week

Burglars hit three business firms on three successive nights in Wellington and Dodson, with office equipment taken from two and money from coin operated machines in the other.

The National Guard Armory was entered Wednesday night, March 24, Sheriff John Rainey reported. As this concerns the theft of government property, the Federal Bureau of Investigation is conducting the investigation.

The Farmers Co-op Gin at Dodson was entered Thursday night, a month and a day after it was previously burglarized.

The Wellington Recreation Hall, owned by Scott Neill, was entered Friday night.

The loss from the three burglaries is estimated at between $1,750 and $2,000.

Texas Ranger Bill Baten of Pampa has joined county and city law enforcement officers on the latter two cases.

Numerous persons were questioned during the week end and early this week, but so far there is no break in either case, Deputy Sheriff Troy Marsh said.

The armory was entered

Clean-Up Campaign to Be City Wide April 4-11

A city-wide Clean-Up Campaign is slated in Wellington for the week of April 4 through 11, with special attention to be given vacant lots throughout the town.

Sponsoring the work is the Builders Club, with Quinton Brewer as chairman. Cooperating are the City of Wellington, the Chamber of Commerce and the Wellington Garden Club.

In order that the vacant lots may get the attention they need, the sponsors are asking that business houses and offices in Wellington be closed Monday afternoon, beginning at 1 p.m., and that owners and employees meet at the City barn to join work crews that will be dispersed through town.

"Tractors, brush cutters and trucks or pickups are needed, and if you have one, bring it along," Brewer requested. Men who do not have equipment are asked to come and help with the work.

While emphasis is on vacant lots, it does not mean that any other part of Wellington is to be neglected, and all residents are asked to clean up around their premises.

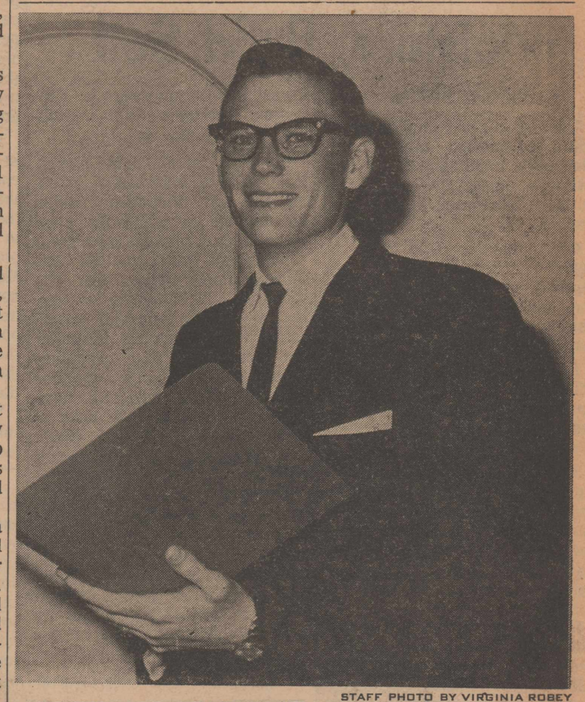

The city will add extra trucks to its garbage disposal during the week, City Manager Doc Barjenbruch told Brewer.

However, both the city and the Builders Club have asked that tree branches and trimmings not be put out for the city to haul off. It does not have the facilities.

Mayor Hiram Cudd suggested that residents with old, rotted down car bodies sell them to local sources if they have salvage value. If not, and the owner wants to get rid of them, Joe Coleman, county road administrator reported he can use them in fills along county roads. Someone from the road department will pick up the car bodies as they are needed if Coleman is notified. It was pointed out however, that the county is not paying anything for these. It is just getting them off the owners' hands.

Working with Brewer on the Builders Club committee are Zook Thomas, J. B. Oney, Sam Adams, George Shadid, Earl

At Emmert Ranch

Two Oklahoma Youths Charged in Burglary

Charges of burglary at night were filed here against two Oklahoma youths after Collingsworth County officers recovered ranch equipment and power tools stolen from the I. E. Emmert ranch more than a month ago, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

Charged were Donald Eugene White, 17, of Erick, and David Easter, 19, who lives 23 miles south of Erick, Okla. They were released from Collingsworth county jail on $2,500 bond each.

The two had worked on the Emmert Ranch, located in the extreme northeast part of the county, a few miles south of Texola, Rainey said. It is operated by Mrs. I. E. Emmert and her son, Ervin Emmert.

Sheriff Rainey and Deputy Troy Marsh recovered three saddles, a large box of tools, socket sets, electric solderers, a spray can, part of an arc welder, three electric drills, an electric sander, power saw, tire and wheel, wrenches, and other items.

Most of the stolen articles were found at Erick, but several were located in Shamrock and one saddle in Sweetwater, Okla.

The articles were taken on three nights, about Feb. 4, 11, and 13, the White youth said in a signed statement.

Sheriff Rainey estimated the current value of the stolen goods as at least $1,000.

Use Spade Test

Crop Residues Save Moisture, Build Soil

By Max Manley

Utilization of crop residues, while conserving moisture, is also very important as an economical, dependable and easily initiated protection against wind erosion.

Crop Residue Use may be defined as the leaving of plant residue on the surface of the soil during that part of the year when wind erosion is most critical.

People who live on and work with the soil should never pass up a chance to investigate the results of the Conservation practices used on the land.

Some investigations which are simple and graphically illustrate the benefits of crop residue use only require the use of one's eyes and in some cases, an implement as readily available as a spade or grubbing hoe.

It doesn't take much effort this time of the year to drive over the country and see the difference between protected and unprotected cropland. In certain places over the country 12 to 14 inches of top soil has been deposited in furrows and around farmsteads, covering up tools and implements, and settling on window sills and in the wife's kitchen cabinets.

Frequently we see two fields side by side with the same soil type, with both being subjected to the same punishment from the elements, yet one with only a small amount of protection will receive no damage while the other with no protection contributes significantly to our dust storms.

Moreover this is frequently true when some expenditure has been made, using mechanical methods, to protect the plot where there are no residues. With operating expenses of farm machinery what they are and labor as expensive as it is, proper use of residue could be the answer to lower production costs.

With a spade, one can quickly ascertain the benefits of crop residues as a conserver of moisture. We will find that moisture is always present in greater amounts closer to the surface of the soil at any time of the year. This is true for two reasons, one—the residues lower soil temperatures, preventing moisture from "cooking out" of the soil.

Residues also hold run-off from rainfall, allowing it to enter the soil. Residues cushion the impact of raindrops upon the soil and prevent soil from "splashing" into solution and flowing down slopes into the streams, stock tanks, or municipal water storage reservoirs. The foregoing indicates the possibility that residues properly used may produce higher yields on cropland. Does it not seem possible that if costs are reduced and yields increased, more profits would result?

The Soil Conservation Service has a hand for the use of the farmers, technical information concerning crop residue use, how much residue is necessary, how to estimate pounds of residue per acre, etc., which is available at our office in the courthouse.

Dissemination of this information to interested people is one of the services rendered by the Soil Conservation Service, assisting the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District. We are anxious to be of service to all landowners and others interested in the welfare of this county. Please let us know if we can help you.

Farmers Notified of USDA Policy on Alien Workers

Farmers seeking U.S. Department of Labor endorsement of their offers of employment to alien farm workers under the Immigration and Nationality Act were notified in a USDL March 1 policy statement that effective April 1, 1965, they must offer general farm hands not less than $1.25 an hour and ranch hands not less than $207 a month plus room and board.

"We wish to make it clear that this action in no way establishes wage rates for domestic agricultural workers," the statement, released by Regional Administrator Tracy Murrell of USDL's Bureau of Employment Security's Dallas office, explains. "The employer can, as in the past, employ domestic workers at any rate agreeable to the domestic worker."

In addition to the rates above USDL endorsement of an offer of employment to alien workers requires that general farm hands be guaranteed $50 per week, with all hours in excess of 40 hours paid at $1.25 per hour. Housing, utilities, and transportation to and from the worker's house to the field must also be furnished free by the employers.

For ranch hands, all hours in excess of 208 during a calendar month shall be paid at the rate of $1.25 per hour. If the alien ranch hand is going to bring in his family, the employer must pay the worker $260 per month plus $1.25 for hours over 208, including $53 in lieu of board. In the case of both farm and ranch hands, the employer must carry on-the-job insurance at no cost to the worker.

"This action is being taken solely to preyent adverse effect (upon domestic workers) in the United States," the statement declares.

An agricultural employer's offer will be endorsed only when Murrell determines "on the (basis of) best available current labor market information" that domestic workers are not available at the rates of pay and other conditions described above.

Murrell points out that upon certifying that domestic workers are available, he does not obligate the Bureau of Employment Security or the Texas Employment Commission to produce such workers.

"While the Employment Service is expected to cooperate fully with the employer, in the final analysis, the employer is responsible for obtaining the worker," the statement explains.

If a farmer applying for alien workers protests a "domestic labor available" certification, the Regional Administrator will closely examine "the adequacy of the employer's efforts to obtain domestic workers," considering such things as: a job order placed with TEC offering wages and employment conditions as outlined above to domestic workers, including transportation from workers' residence to job site at no cost to the worker; using "every reasonable means of independent recruitment effort" to obtain U.S. workers, including use of appropriate publicity media; offering transportation to and from place of employment for workers housed in off-the-job-site facilities; and offering suitable housing for single or family workers when employment is outside the recruitment area.

Copies of the full USDL policy statement are available at the Texas Employment Commission offic at 228 Avenue B, N.W., Childress.

There will be a demonstration of mouth to mouth resuscitation at both meetings, Garcia announced.

This is the first fire reported directly by Citizens Band Radio since the organization of the club. According to White's brother, Elvis White, the blaze was first seen about 9 p.m. by J. M. Morgan of Samnorwood, several miles away and north of Salt Fork River. He notified N. E. Childers of Marella, who in turn radioed Dee Coleman in Wellington. The Wellington Fire Department was called, along with other members of the CB Radio Club who went out to fight the fire, along with the men of the area.

Sparks from the burning house ignited soil bank grass in an adjoining field, but Joe Coleman, county road supervisor, brought a maintainer and plowed a fire guard to stop the spread of the blaze.

There Is Much Material for a 75th Anniversary Observance

This year marks the 75th anniversary of the organization of Collingsworth county.

Several local groups have indicated they will use this in their activities during the year, but as yet nothing has been worked out for a county-wide celebration or observance.

Much rich history of the southwest lies behind to provide material for a backward look. This was the meeting place of the Indians from the east and those from the west. We have barely studied the remains they left behind, buried now in some of the fertile fields along Salt Fork.

Collingsworth was one of the areas in which English syndicates established large ranch holdings, and these in themselves are a unique chapter in the settling of the west.

This county never saw violent conflict between Indians and Whites, or between the cattle men and the nesters. It has always been a land of peaceful growth.

Only nine months of this anniversary year remain if we wish to observe it.

RACING AWAY FROM IT ALL

Humiliated and embarrassed because while a practicing author she has had the weakness to fall in love just like any other woman, Natalie Wood flees on a motorcycle from Tony Curtis, the unprincipled magazine editor she adores. Scene is from "Sex and the Single Girl" the new Warner Bros. comedy in Technicolor due to open Sunday at the Ritz Theatre.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

People keep writing in the papers in favor of paying our school teachers on the regular business and politics merit plan —according to how good they are and who they know.

But my sub-equal neighbor is against this, because he says it might foil the Great Society plan, under which nobody will be poor, and only a few choice Democrats will be rich.

Says he's against any kind of proposal to pay people strictly according to what they are worth, on account of most weeks he would come out owing the place where he works.

Newspapers recently have carried a lot of learned and complicated instructions on how to hold down our losings in Uncle Sam's income tax sweepstakes.

My detaxed neighbor says he used to think relief from hypertaxation might some day come from the people electing a crew of compassionate Congressmen, but Nature seems to be against this hope.

So he did some calculating and figured out how to cure himself of April 15 phobia. He quit working and got on welfare and now he can look a Form 1040 in the face and just laugh.

From down here it looks like the politician class aims to Overcome any states that won't let people vote who can't read and write.

My high-hep neighbor says this move obviously will stabilize democracy, because illiterates make more dependable voters, on account of not being confused by knowing what is going on.

He says also that when having a name and address is all it takes to qualify a voter, there hadn't ought to be any more quibbling about whether a vote is valid when cast by somebody whose name is in marble and whose address is a cemetery.

My mainscream neighbor says he's real happy when paying his income tax, because it makes him feel like he is participating in the world.

Like he's figured that his tax this year will pay for 1/10 of 1 percent of the vital federal research program on American drinking habits, which makes him a pretty important cog in the machinery of getting the Great Society crocked.

Says he could have used the money to buy new shoes for his kids, but they are patriotic little fellers and will be proud to go around barefooted so the drinking research team won't have to buy their own liquor.

By Vickie Mayhugh

Wellington Future Homemakers will observe National FHA Week April 5 through 12, with a series of events in which they will honor their parents and teachers, work in community and school service projects and have some fun on the side.

Tuesday will be observed as traffic day in WHS with the FHAers as the traffic officers.

Wednesday is to be a day of neatness when on each teacher's desk will be placed a litter bag reminding students to keep their school clean.

Thursday, each teacher will be presented a red rose.

Friday the girls will be dressed in the organization colors, which are red and white.

Saturday will be a bake sale.

And Monday, April 12 will close the activities with a Salad Supper honoring the parents of the girls.

The FHA Beau is Walter Campbell, and Parents of the Chapter are Mr. and Mrs. Zook Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. David Peters, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Barker, and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cudd.

Three girls were in the Area Chorus and these were Karen Childress, Patricia Wilson and Patricia Thomas.

Each year the FHAers give a party for incoming freshmen who are interested in becoming better acquainted with FHA. The girls carry out a full program of work, some of which is based on the national program, part of it continuing from year to year, and other parts of their own planning for a particular season.

The meetings are held each second Monday night of each month.

They have also helped with the Red Cross, sent cards to the State Hospital, and sent stamps to help fight tuberculosis.

Smith Elected to Honor Fraternity

Student members of this national honor society are those with outstanding records in the engineering department. The Tech chapter, with a limited membership, includes ten post graduate students and seven professors, along with the undergraduates.

Smith, the son of Mrs. Allen I. Smith, is studying electrical engineering. He was graduated from Samnorwood high school.

This summer he will work for Southwestern Public Service Company in Plainview.

Cars Collide at Intersection

A collision between cars driven by Mrs. Wilson Porter and W. A. Gollihugh of Quail occurred Saturday morning, Mar. 27, at the intersection of West Avenue and 14th Street, Deputy Sheriff Troy Marsh reported.

Mrs. Porter received medical treatment and was released, he said. Considerable damage was reported to both vehicles.

SALT FORK SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

SCS NOTES

DROUGHT INSURANCE

By Norman Wilson, Soil Conservationist

The past years of below-average rainfall have given local ranchers an insight of what to expect in the future. The good years last only so long, and the bad ones are bound to come. For some, another year like the last would put some ranchers out of the cow business for lack of sufficient grass.

The principle of proper range use—take half and leave half—will come into its own during the dry years. Those who have practiced this the last few years when moisture and grass were plentiful have reserves which will carry them through the dry years.

The best way to determine the amount of use is to select the key grass in each pasture and graze so that at least 50 percent of this species is left about April 1. There should be seed heads produced on at least half the key plants. These key species are different on each type of range land according to the texture of the soil.

The ranchers of this area this coming summer can expect a larger amount of weeds on their range land than normal because nearly every year following a drought, you will have a large infestation of weeds.

The Soil Conservation Service personnel assisting the Salt Fork SCD will be available to help any rancher or farmer in selecting the key grass species and any other conservation problem on their ranch or farm.

FENCING FOR MORE PROFIT

By D. R. Lowe

Many of the ranches and stock farms in the area have pastures which are losing money due to poor distribution or uneven grazing by livestock.

Much of this uneven grazing and poor distribution is caused by pastures being too large. A good cross fence will solve this problem and give another advantage by allowing a system of rotational — deferred grazing — to be practiced on the pastures.

Clipping studies have shown that a deferred-rotational grazing system can increase forage yields significantly.

Fences are also beneficial in separating separate range sites. Some sites produce grass species that are more desirable during one season of the year than another site. If the different sites can be separated by cross fences, the land operation can best carry out the desired management. Different sites may have different carrying capacities for livestock. Stocking rates for these sites cannot be adjusted without cross fences.

Collingsworth county ranchers and livestock operators can contact the Soil Conservation Service personnel assisting the Salt Fork Soil Conservation District for plans on constructing cross fences and using a deferred-rotational grazing system.

Surviving Spouse Files Joint Return

You may file a joint return with your deceased husband or wife if he or she died during the 1964 tax year, Internal Revenue's administrative officer, Hubert B. Hamill of the Amarillo office says, provided you have not remarried by Dec. 31, 1964.

You may compute your tax at the rates applicable to joint returns for the next two years following the death of your spouse if you have not remarried, maintain your home as the principal abode of your dependent child, and were entitled to file a joint return in the year of death, whether you filed jointly or not.

Document 5107 which furnishes more detailed information on this subject is available upon request from the Internal Revenue Service.

"The girls, defending district champions, are going all out for the district crown and would like to get their final shot at state, since they know what it is like.

"For the next two weeks we will be working out twice a day at 6:30 a.m. and in the afternoon. We have more district competition this year than last and will be absent one member," Miss Childs continued.

Pioneer Theatre Seeking Cast

Tryouts for "Thundering Sounds of the West" to be given in the Pioneer Amphitheatre from June 16 through Sept. 6 in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park will take place in the Fine Arts Building on the campus of West Texas State University on May 7 and May 14, from 2 to 5 p.m. and on Saturday May 8 by appointment.

"Thundering Sounds of the West" will be a sound and light show, gaining its massive effects from the interplay of stereophonic sound and the natural wonderful acoustics of the theatre and powerful lights and the natural excitement and beauty of the canyon in which they can reveal.

However, in order to use the intimate qualities which the theatre also has, the show will include a number of scenes in live action.

The directors of the live part of the show, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. A. Moore, are looking particularly for ballad singers, folk singers, roping acts, very good guitar players or western fiddle players, or other types of musical instruments, interesting riding acts, etc.

The show will run every night except Tuesdays and the pay will be $5 a night with an added bonus on the nights when the crowd is 500 or more.

English Class Completes Study

The third year English students of Wellington high school recently completed a study in their literature course about immigrants and the customs of other nations.

As a climax, the class held a "foreign food" dinner Monday evening, March 22, and special guests were two Wellington women who grew up in Europe. Mrs. Verrell Leeper came here from Scotland, while Mrs. Bill Rainer formerly lived in Germany.

They told the students of their native countries, as well as of their ideas of the United States, both before they came here and since this has been their home. The boys and girls were amused to learn that both had thought that only cowboys and Indians lived in Texas.

GUAR IS SOMETHING TO SMILE ABOUT

Ralph Tennison, one of the major Guar growers in Collingsworth, examines some of the products of that plant. At his hand is a sack of beans, which brings a good price on the open market. Next is protein derived when the beans are processed and at right is guar gum, used in a growing number of products that have resulted from mid-20th century research.

Better Than Grain Sorghum

Guar Profit Equal to Half Bale Per Acre Cotton, Says Grower

"Acre for acre, guar is equal to half bale per acre of cotton —and that's net."

Ralph Tennison, the speaker, raised both on his sandy-land farm northwest of Wellington in 1964, and he is one of the growing number of farmers sold on guar as another money crop for Collingsworth.

He planted guar for the first time in 1964, when he received enough seed from the foundation stock of the new certified Brooks variety to plant 80 acres. After harvest this fall, he figured his average yield at 1050 pounds per acre, a total of 84,000 pounds.

As this is certified seed, his entire crop will go into seed channels and Tennison will make considerably more than he would have from an equal amount of guar sold on the open market.

Yet it was guar for the commercial market—not seed—that he was referring to when he compared it to half-bale per acre cotton.

He sat down with The Wellington Leader and explained how he figured it.

The price of guar beans this year, industry-wide, is $3.90 cwt. Tennison figures a gross return on a yield such as he had this year as a little more than $40 per acre.

Production costs are low. Certified planting seed are selling for 15¢ per pound and the recommended rate is 6 to 8 pounds per acre, plus an additional small cost of inoculating the seed, a total of from $1.15 to $1.45.

("Inoculate your seed. It makes a difference to you," Orbie Cannedy, manager of Stein, Hall & Co., Inc., guar buyers at Chillicothe, told growers in a meeting here recently.)

How does cultivation compare with cotton?

"I knifed my guar twice and cultivated it twice, about like grain sorghum," Tennison said. Harvesting was by standard combine equipment with only minor easily-made adjustments.

Then the guar grower gets a bonus a year later.

"I will plant cotton on my guar land this year and it will save me around $7 per acre on fertilizer," Tennison remarked. Guar is one of the finest nitrogen-producing legumes adapted to this area, and the amount of saving a farmer would realize would depend on his own fertilizer program.

With guar, there is none of the multiple-sprayings with insecticide, as with cotton.

"Guar pays off better than grain sorghum," Tennison said.

"You can make half the yield per acre on guar that you do grain sorghum and still make as much money, and under some conditions, your guar bean yield will be more than half," confirmed Dwayne Scott, research demonstration assistant of the Northwest Texas Research Demonstration Program who has worked closely with guar here.

Jones Singley of Singley Mill and Elevator secured the seed from the Brooks variety foundation stock last spring and worked closely with Tennison, who had the county's largest acreage of the new variety.

The Certified Brooks seed was developed by Lester Brooks of Iowa Park, until his retirement superintendent of the Wichita Valley Experiment Station at Chillicothe. The foundation stock was released in 1964 jointly by the Texas Experiment Station, the Oklahoma Experiment Station, and the United States Department of Agriculture, Brooks said on a recent visit in Wellington. It is available on the market this year for the first time.

It is a heavier yielder than the older Groehler variety. "It has more branches and all of them have beans," Tennison explained. He had only the Brooks variety, but his crop averaged 250 pounds per acre more than the other varieties grown under similar conditions.

Brooks is more disease resistant, a distinct advantage, and the seed grow in a way that makes for easier harvesting.

Tennison planted his guar on June 8 and 9.

This year he will plant not only Brooks, but other experimental varieties which may excell it in a few years.

Guar will grow anywhere that cotton will, if it is west of the 35-inch rain belt, says Herbert Partridge, field agronomist for General Mills, one of the nation's major guar bean buyers, who works with county growers.

Self Employed Must Report SS

Self-employed business and professional persons were reminded this week that their earnings must be reported for social security purposes at the same time they file their final Federal income tax returns for 1964.

Hal Geldon, social security district manager in Amarillo, explained that a self-employed person's earnings are covered for social security if he had a net profit of $400 or more. If net profit is $400 or more, social security tax must be paid.

To report his earnings for social security purposes, a businessman must complete Schedule C Profit and Loss from Business or Profession) and pay the self-employment tax due. The tax is 5.4 percent of his net profit up to $4800. In cases where no income tax payments are due, the self-employment tax must be paid and the tax return filed with the Internal Revenue Service.

Geldon emphasized that tax payment to the social security program may help provide protection to the taxpayer and his family in the form of monthly payments if the taxpayer retires or becomes disabled. Payments may also be made to the family if the taxpayer dies.

Geldon advised any self-employed person who wants more information to get in touch with the Social Security District office, located at 1006 Adams Street in Amarillo.

Firemen Visit at Paducah

Four members of the Wellington Volunteer Fire Department recently visited the department at Paducah, one of a series of trips to towns of the area.

Going were Fire Chief Buster Hughs, J. B. Oney, Joe Coleman and Jim Sikes.

"They have an excellent department and I think we learned a lot," Hughs commented.

"We can learn more visiting other departments and seeing how they operate than in any other way. Other members of our department will visit other towns."

Wellington members have visited Shamrock department a number of times, also Hollis and Memphis. Childress is next on the list, Hughs said.

100 IN A ROW

ENGINE PLANT

The first industrial plant built exclusively for the manufacture of internal combustion engines rose in Cologne in 1864. Three years later, N. A. Otto produced a four-stroke gas engine, which was one of the forerunners of modern internal combustion motors.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

We have new neighbors in our block downtown. The Vumore Company has moved its office to the building just north of the Stevenson Implement Co. One of the reasons for the move is to make their office more accesible to their subscribers. The new office will be within a half block of the electric, gas and water utilities, not to mention the post office.

Some weeks ago there was an item in this space about the income tax and its effect on business each year. Mention was made of those who have been receiving a refund each spring and now find they must dig up $100 or more to pay the government. One party asked: "Is that what they call a tax cut?" Another commented that when the IRS owed him money that he sent in his form the first week in January but now that he owes them he will wait until April 14 to mail his report. On the other hand most potential customers have this painful ordeal behind them and merchants can look for an upturn in business in April and May. It happens practically every year.

Spring is that time of the year when the hopes of people rise along with the sap in the trees. It is a time for increased activity for man and beast and fowl; so it is only natural that it is a time of increased business.

Recently I wrote about the birds deciding that March 10 was the first day of spring instead of the 21st; but since that time we have had more than one taste of winter. Here is a bulletin from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department which reports the same thing. It says that the birds that were building nests are now more interested in keeping warm.

Richard Gilbreth, principal at Lakeview, writes to say that he believes that even at the age of 38 he could add a good foot to that 5 foot 5 inch we published in the paper as a track record for WHS. And he goes on to say that he doubts that Randy Matson of A&M could equal the shot put mark of 78 feet and 6 inches. Well, I will tell you Mr. Gilbreth—we do things differently at good old Wellington High. Incidentally, the record of John Ford of 5'6" should have been listed as the high jump and Joe Rudy's shot put should have been 48 feet and 6 inches.

Bowie Street Church Opens Revival April 4

The Bowie Street Church of Christ has set Sunday, April 4 to Sunday, April 11 as the date for their spring gospel meeting. James O. Wilburn, minister of the Canadian, Texas Church of Christ, is the preacher secured to present the Bible lessons throughout the course of the meeting, according to Grandol Forehand, minister.

Minister Wilburn has preached in the Pacific Northwest, as well as in New Mexico and other surrounding states and has worked in Canadian for more than five years.

Services will be conducted each morning at 10 and each evening at 7:30. Sunday services will be at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m.

"The public is cordially invited to share the opportunities of these special worship and study hours," said Mr. Forehand, minister of the Bowie Street congregation.

All-Sports Banquet Set for April 15

The second annual All-Sports Banquet for Wellington high school will be held Thursday night, April 15, at 7:30 p.m., in the school cafetorium.

This banquet is sponsored by the Skyrocket Booster Club, and tickets went on sale this week. They may be had from members of the club, the high school athletes and coaches, according to Barney Glenn, club member.

April 8 is the deadline for buying tickets, and none will be sold at the door.

During the banquet, awards will be presented the football team, boys and girls basketball and the track teams, said Coach Don Beck.

Entertainment will be from among the athletes themselves.

This affair is informal and a sports coat and tie will be appropriate, Coach Beck said.

"Hillbilly Courtship"

Norwood Juniors Give Class Comedy Friday

The Juniors of the Samnorwood high school are presenting a three-act comedy. "Hillbilly Courtship," in the gymnasium Friday night, April 2.

The cast includes Luke Stilsby, played by Ken Baxter; Emmy Peppin, played by Kay Purkey; Ma Peppin, who is Sue North; Lulu Triffet, Eunice Stice; Seedie Triffett, Marilyn Colson; Wash Jeddo, Dale Darrow; Sol Silverstein, Johnny Ross; Louis Cattaro, Nelson Dwyer; Pappy Stilsby, Don Bodine; Bridget O'Flannigan, Jackie Tate; and Reverend Boswell, Bill Lisle.

The setting is in the living room of Ma Peppin's cabin in the Ozark Mountains on a fine day in June.

This play is filled with fun and excitement. There is a "marry" mix-up, and Hog Mountain is stirred up because of a feud between the Stilsbys and the Peppins.

Tickets will be sold for this play this week, or they may be obtained at the door.

Finley and B. F. Chance.

Mrs. Ernest Harwell is representing the Chamber of Commerce on the steering committee, and Mrs. Luther Gribble is the Garden Club representative.

"We were told by representatives of the Area Redevelopment Administration and the Department of Commerce that one of the first things an industrial prospect checks is to see if the town he is considering is a clean town," said Brewer.

"Industry is big on the program of the Builders Club and the Chamber of Commerce and this clean-up campaign is one part of our work," he continued.

Growing out of this also is added beauty to the town, as well as the elimination of health hazards.

Sanders Named Manager of Vumore Here

Jack Sanders of Childress has been named the new manager of Wellington's Vumore branch, succeeding Hurshel Tyler, who has resigned. The announcement was made Tuesday, March 30, by Fred McElroy of Altus, division manager.

At the same time he announced that the office is being moved to 903 West Ave., in the Spillman Building.

Burglars

through a window on the east side. Taken were two typewriters, one of them new, other smaller office items, and military tools and equipment, the sheriff's office reported.

The bolts and hinges were removed from the vault where weapons are kept, but the burglars were unable to get into it, according to officers. The door to the supply room was pried open.

The burglary was discovered Thursday morning by Sgt. Jack Frost, permanent employee of the Guard Unit, who reported it to officers.

The loss was estimated at approximately $640.

At the Farmers Co-op Gin in Dodson, a glass pane was broken out of the west door and the latch released, Sheriff Rainey reported.

The loss included two adding machines, one of which was new, a calculator and a transistor radio. The loss was estimated by Edwin Crowder, manager, at about $1,000.

The burglary a month ago, which included radios and a television, amounted to about $500, he said.

Crowder discovered the entry when he opened the office about 7:30 a.m. Friday morning.

Entry into the pool hall was made from the roof of the building, when the burglars went through second-story windows into the abandoned stair well between that building and Lewis Grocery. A boarded up door leading into Neill's building was torn out, Sheriff Rainey said.

Mrs. Neill told The Wellington Leader that the coin containers on the cigarette machine and two soft drink machines were pried open, and the cash register, which contained no money and was not locked, was destroyed. The coin container of one pinball machine was broken open.

The Neills estimate that between $70 and $80 in money was taken and damage to equipment will be around $100.

Holton Honors Five Hundred at Barbecue

An old-time barbecue was staged Thursday night, March 25 by John Holton, Enco jobber, for farmer-rancher and business men customers, and for operators of Enco Stations of the county and their employees.

Almost 500 men attended.

The barbecue was held in the community building.

The meat was prepared the day before in traditional western style, in pits at Ellison Park, this in spite of the intense cold.

Traditional foods were served with it, potato salad, pinto beans and apricots.

The entertainment centered around the Enco theme, and several of the songs presented by a high school girls sextet were original. Members were Karen Richardson, Susan Sullivan, Beverly Singley, and Joyce Holton. Regina Ferguson was the accompanist.

Jan Glenn presented a tap dance routine, and Richard and Randall Sims, 6-year-old twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Sims, sang western songs with their mother as accompanist.

Holton served as the genial master of ceremonies.
