Dozen Milling Firms Are Indicted

Johnson Asks For More Money In Poverty Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson decided today to add $10 million to his program for boosting the ailing economy of the Appalachian area, to take care of special problems of the coal mining industry.

Press secretary George Reedy said this will bring the total amount asked for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to $228 million instead of the $218 million in the original plan.

The total does not include an estimated $34 million to be available to the Appalachian area under the nationwide anti-poverty program. The $10 million added today is in addition to $3 million in the original plan for research to find new markets for coal.

Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania called on Johnson late Monday to urge the additional $10 million for use in mining areas.

Reedy said Johnson or members of his staff contacted all the other Appalachian governors except George C. Wallace of Alabama and they all gave wholehearted support to Scranton's proposal. Reedy said Wallace could not be reached directly, but members of the Alabama governor's staff said he was not in a position to take a stand one way or another on the Scranton proposals.

In advance of the decision on the extra money request Johnson urged Democratic congressional leaders to try for quick action on the Appalachian measure.

Speaker John W. McCormack said he assured Johnson, at the weekly White House breakfast for the Democratic leaders, that the House leadership would do everything it can to get action on the Appalachian legislation as quickly as possible.

McCormack said Johnson indicated that the Appalachian message definitely would be sent to Congress today.

The message originally was scheduled to go to Congress on Monday.

Reporters overheard Johnson tell Scranton he had presented "a very persuasive and meritorious case." Reedy said the President promptly ordered his staff to get in touch with the other eight Appalachian governors to see whether they all would go along with Scranton's proposals.

For the fiscal year starting July 1, Johnson is asking in the neighborhood of $220 million to get the program under way.

Ultimate costs have been estimated in the neighborhood of $3 billion to $4 billion.

Kennedy's Civil Rights Bill Is Unpassed But A Legacy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Against a backdrop of racial violence, President Kennedy sent to Congress a sweeping civil rights bill that has become one of his legacies.

Today, after more than 10 months, the bill the slain President hoped to see enacted last year has passed the House and locked the Senate in a marathon debate.

The bill stands much as President Kennedy submitted it last June 19.

President Johnson has said he wants the Senate to approve the bill as it passed the House Feb. 10.

But many senators on both sides of the civil rights struggle concede that amendments will be adopted. The best bet is that these changes will dilute the House version.

Stiffer Respects

Its provisions are in some respects stiffer than those Kennedy proposed.

Here are the key provisions of the bill before the Senate:

Public accommodations: Lodging places with more than five rooms, restaurants, places of amusement and gasoline stations are barred from discrimination. That is about what Kennedy recommended. The House wrote in exemptions for small rooming houses and retail stores without eating facilities.

Employment: Kennedy recommended an extension of regulations against discrimination in federal jobs or government contract work. The House voted to create a fair employment opportunities commission to deal with discrimination in private industry. A year after enactment, it could seek injunctions to bar discrimination by unions or businesses with 100 or more workers or members. The pay roll figure—applied to organizations in interstate commerce—would go down to 25 after the fourth year.

Federal Aid

Federal aid: The administration version would have permitted the government to cut off grants, loans, contracts, insurance or guarantees in programs where discrimination occurs. The bill now says the government must refuse new grants and end existing aid to recipients who discriminate in administration of federally aided pro-

Engle Pulls Out Of Senate Race

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Sen. Clair Engle's campaign managers today announced his withdrawal from the race for re-election.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner earlier today had forecast that Engle would withdraw this afternoon.

Engle is in a Washington hospital recovering from a second brain operation performed last Friday.

When Engle announced after the first surgery last August that he would seek a second six-year term without providing Democratic party leaders details of his physical condition, it touched off a bitter row.

Engle's right side has been partly paralyzed and his speech severely handicapped but aides have denied repeatedly that he would drop from the race. Engle has maintained that he is physically capable of campaigning and serving if elected.

Contract Let For Operation Of Airport

Charles King and Associates of Wichita Falls was awarded a five-year contract by the City Council Monday night to provide services of a fixed-base operator for the municipal airport.

King will pay $28,000 annually for the lease.

The councilmen took several steps to pave the way for the formal takeover of Wichita Falls Air Transport Co., and the creation of a complete municipal airport facility.

They announced that an ordinance authorizing sale of $375,000 in airport revenue bonds May 15 would be acted upon May 11 at a council meeting.

City Manager Jack Davis said that Bill Ryan, an employe in the airport manager's department in Fort Worth, has been named manager of Wichita Falls' airport. He will begin duties Monday.

Other business handled by aldermen included:

Appointed Henry Mundy, an employe in the city tax office, as city clerk, replacing Bill Hicks who has resigned to go into private business.

Okayed final plans and authorized the advertisment of bids on the new $250,000 central fire station, which will be located at Tenth and Bluff. The fire station project was authorized in last June's $6.9 million capital improvements bond election.

Gave permission to negotiate for right-of-way for the extension of Kell west from Kemp to Fairway and granted approval for condemnation proceedings to acquire certain properties east of Kell.

Awarded a contract to B&G Construction Co. of Burkburnett for sewer extensions to the Rancho Heights and Seymour Vista

Hoffa Retreats From Union Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa has backed off from a crackling Teamsters Union row over whether the union should continue paying his legal fees, stirring speculation he is losing his iron grip on the Teamsters.

Hoffa, never known for ducking scraps but now beset by troubles with the law, yielded to a demand by one of his vice presidents that the union stop paying the bills until it can be determined whether or not it is in violation of federal law.

Edward Bennett Williams, the Teamsters general counsel who has defended Hoffa in some of his legal battles, is reported to have ruled that the union will be breaking the law if it pays the fees.

Hoffa, according to an aide, made his decision in Chicago where he is on trial on federal charges of misusing $20 million in union pension reserves.

An attorney representing 12 members of Teamsters Local 107 in Philadelphia sent a letter which contended the union payment of Hoffa's legal fees is illegal, Gibbons explained, and copies went to all the union vice presidents.

Williams' opinion that it is illegal to use union funds to pay Hoffa's trial expenses had the potential of putting both the Teamsers strong man and the 15-member execuive board on a financial spot.

Williams reportedly told executive board members they could be made personally responsible if they continue authorizing use of union funds for Hoffa's legal defense.

Further, Williams reportedly advised that Hoffa could be liable for personal income taxes on union money used to pay his trial costs estimated in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Termed Angry

Hoffa was said to be angry, emotional and upset about Williams' opinion, which informed sources say came as a bolt out of the blue and reversed an earlier opinion.

It appeared to be the second sharp blow in succession to the stocky union leader who until recently had weathered a sea of troubles in courts, in congressional hearings and in the labor movement.

Last month Hoffa was set back by a federal jury tampering conviction in Chattanooga, Tenn., in which he was sentenced to eight years in prison.

Bakery Flour Price Fixing Is Alleged

WASHINGTON (AP)—Twelve flour milling firms were indicted today on charges of conspiring over the past six years to fix prices.

A federal grand jury in Buffalo, N.Y., handed down the indictment against the companies, which produce 65 per cent of the bakery flour sold east of the Rocky Mountains. The indictment also names as defendants six officers of the firms.

As a result of the alleged conspiracy, it is charged, commercial buyers of flour have been subjected to artificially high and noncompetitive prices.

Defendants Named

The indictment names these defendants:

General Mills Inc. and William A. Lohman Jr., vice president; The Pillsbury Co.; Archer-Daniels-Midland Co. and Lawrence J. Weidt, vice president; International Milling Co. Inc.; The Peavey Co. and William R. Heegaard, vice president, all of Minneapolis; Bay State Milling Co. of Winona, Minn., and Bernard J. Rothwell II, president; The Weber Flour Mills Co. and The Western Star Mill Co., both of Salina, Kan.; Gooch Milling & Elevator Co. of Lincoln, Neb.; Inland Mills Inc., of Des Moines, Iowa, and John J. Vanier, who is president of Weber, Western Star and Inland and vice president of Gooch; The Colorado Milling & Elevator Co. of Denver and Earl F. Cross, its president; and Seaboard Allied Milling Corp. of Newton, Mass.

About $305 Million

The indictment says the defendants' annual total business in manufacturing and selling flour is about $305 million.

The indictment says their price-fixing conspiracy began in 1958, and was carried out at a series of meetings during which company officers agreed on prices for sales to commercial buyers.

Maximum penalty on conviction on the antitrust charges would be one year in prison and $50,000 fine for each individual and $50,000 for each firm.

Battle Rages On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Greek Cypriot forces brought the Turkish-held Kyrenia Pass under fire for the first time today and sporadically attacked the castle of St. Hilarion from positions only about 200 yards away.

A U.N. officer said the Greeks threatened to plaster Kyrenia road, a link between Nicosia and the Turkish-held highlands near the north coast, with mortar shells.

Compared to earlier actions in the area, however, the scale of the fighting remained minor. There was a brief flurry of shots about dawn. Greek guardsmen lobbed three mortar shells at gunposts near the 11th century castle.

Greek forces worked through the night to fortify advanced positions at the base of the lofty crag on which the castle is perched. By the light of the moon, they dug elaborate foxholes and camouflaged them.

The commander of the U.N. peace-keeping force, Indian Lt. Gen. Prem Singh Gyani, said the Greek offensive could have serious implications on the role of the United Nations in Cyprus. He said he has sent a full report to Secretary - General U Thant.

The general—whose car was stoned by Turkish Cypriots on Sunday in the belief he favored the Greek side—issued a general appeal for peace.

The offensive opened before dawn Saturday with a surprise attack that overran Turkish positions. The Greek Cypriots swept four miles forward toward the castle along the 2,500-foot-high crest of the Kyrenia Range.

Greek Cypriot officers said the Turkish defenders rejected a surrender ultimatum relayed by Canadian U.N. troops.

Below the steep mountain sides, Canadian soldiers patrolled the Turkish villages of Phileri, Krini and Aghirda to protect inhabitants. Most Turkish families had fled.

U.N. officers were reported trying to arrange a cease-fire.

The twin objectives of the Greeks were the castle itself and the high point of the Nocisia - Kyrenia highway, a pass over the mountains about a mile east of the castle.

Capture of these points would remove the last important Turkish threat to the Kyrenia area, on the north coast of the island, and would isolate Turkish villages on the mountain sides.

Navy Will Search For Exploded Star

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy, an old hand at spotting seagoing derelicts, is planning to launch a rocket this summer to hunt for wreckage of a star that exploded in the year 1054 A.D.

This was reported today by a Naval Research Laboratory astronomer who said that the novel experiment is designed to prove or disprove a theory that mysterious, celestial X-rays, discovered last summer by another rocket flight, are generated "neutron stars."

These are believed to be the ultimate remnants of supernovae, or exploding stars.

Oddball X-Rays

Dr. Herbert Friedman, in a report prepared for the 101st annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, said the oddball X-rays—so soft that they couldn't penetrate a piece of paper—were discovered coming from the general vicinity of the constellation Scorpius and of the Crab Nebula, in widely separated sectors of the Milky Way.

He said Navy scientists believe the X-rays may be the farflung, invisible fingerprints of tiny but extremely hot and heavy stars made up entirely of neutrons—stars that are the final collapsed wreckage of giant stars that exploded about 1,000 to 2,000 years ago.

It is believed that the "neutron stars" may have only a diameter of 10 miles, yet pack a billion tons of matter per cubic inch of area, and burn with temperatures exceeding one billion degrees.

Exploding stars which could have left such heavenly wreckage are known to have occurred in the bailiwicks of both Scorpius and the Crab Nebula.

Scorpius entertained such fireworks in the year 134 B.C., and in the years 436 A.D., 891 A.D. and 1584 A.D. The gaseous Crab Nebula itself is a major remnant of supernova that thrilled Chinese and Japanese astronomers in the year 1054 A.D.

Star Wreckage

This summer's rocket experiment is specifically designed to determine if there is neutron star wreckage in the vicinity of the Crab Nebula.

On July 7, the moon will be positioned in such a way as to occult or block out the nebula from direct view from the earth for about five minutes.

An especially instrumented Aerobee nonorbiting rocket will be shot aloft from White Sands, N.M., just before the lunar occultation begins.

If the X-rays suddenly stop when the block out occurs, scientists will know that the rays have been coming from a lone source within the nebula—that is, from a neutron star.

TB Association To Honor Trio

Three veterans of the age-old fight against tuberculosis will be honored by the Wichita County Tuberculosis Association in the assembly room of Wichita General Hospital at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Those to be honored include Oral Jones, retired banker, who will receive a gold lapel pin for his 36 years as a member of the board of directors; Mrs. Abby Cooper of Electra, who will receive a pin for 26 years on the board; and Mrs. T. M. Black of Iowa Park, who will receive a pin for 33 years on the board.

Dr. Hal Dewlett, assistant director of the Dallas Public Health Department, will discuss the Dallas County tuberculin skin testing program. He will discuss phases of the fight against tuberculosis and its relation to the over-all health campaigns of public health work. His discussion is expected to help evaluate the work done here.

In addition to the service awards the veteran board members will be made life members of the board of the Wichita County Tuberculosis Association.

The session, which will begin at 1 p.m. Thursday and last for less than an hour, is open to the public as well as physicians and interested friends of the work.

THE WORRY CLINIC

College Profs Criticized

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE S-450: Prof. X was one of my professors in psychology when I was a student at Northwestern University.

Our class met in the original frame building called Old College.

There were 96 chairs and the professor used a-seating chart to take the roll.

Thus, if your chair was occupied, you were credited with being present.

So it was customary for many sleepy upper classmen in the fraternities to compel freshmen pledges to attend this senior class for them.

And that wasn't too bad, even for the freshmen pledges, since they could sit and study their Spanish or French during the boring lectures.

And "boring" is an understatement! The professor never looked at the students, for he focussed on the juncture point of the back wall and ceiling. The lectures were deadly, dry and monotonous.

He never called on students to recite, so that was why freshmen could easily occupy the seats of their fraternity brothers who wanted to stay home and sleep.

Often Sneak Out

Even the students who were in class couldn't stand the lectures, so they would often sneak out.

For the window to the fire escape was open and only about three feet above the floor level.

The male students would slide down out of their seats and then crawl toward the window. We students seated in the classroom could thus see a dozen men on hands and knees at one time, just waiting.

For as soon as the professor would turn his back as he started to write on the blackboard, then these men would go over the window sill and out upon the fire escape.

They looked like rats as they crawled along the floor and then leapfrogged over the window sill.

Indeed, since I had a statistical mind, I once counted 32 seats at the end of a class period which had been vacated in this way.

Of the 96 seats, all occupied at the start of that class, 32 were now empty!

And the prof never even noticed the difference!

It wasn't virtuousness that kept me in the class, either, for I would gladly have fled, too.

Need Housecleaning

But I was working my way through college so I knew it was smart to attend every class, just to be sure I saw where the profs would put their major emphasis.

It is often smarter to study your prof than to peruse the textbook!

For then you can guess quite accurately as to the final exam questions he will fire back at the students.

Other profs, who were equally inferior speakers, would then load the class with huge collateral reading assignments, figuring that if the students moaned and groaned about their excessive homework, then that would make it seem that the courses were very profound and "heavy."

College faculties are in need of a drastic housecleaning, for college teachers, despite more advanced degrees, are much inferior to high school teachers in the classroom.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

California Youth Is Over His Head

LA HABRA, Calif. (AP)—Jim Stokes, 15, got in over his head when he tried to find an owl's nest in the hollow trunk of a giant oak.

In fact, that's the way he was when he got stuck—his feet in the air.

Stokes was on a hike Sunday with his father, Eugene, 47, and Alan John Thatcher, 15. He climbed the tree and crawled head first down into a hole in the trunk with a rope tied to his feet.

"He tried to back out and said, 'I'm stuck'," explained young Thatcher, who was holding the rope.

A dozen firemen first tried to pull the boy out by his feet, but gave up when he cried that it hurt his back.

For an hour, crews sawed the opening, then rescuers pulled the boy free.

Stokes never did find the owl's nest.

C. Of C. Plans Member Drive

Eighty members of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce heard plans for a membership drive to be held May 4-9 during "Chamber of Commerce Week" when they met in Action Hall Tuesday.

Winston Wallander, mayor of Wichita Falls, addressing the group on the vital importance of a good strong chamber of commerce, stated:

"City officials and the chamber of commerce, working together, will continue to make Wichita Falls a progressive and prosperous community.

"I cannot think of any other work that citizens could be doing to help their city than working to strengthen their chamber of commerce, as you are doing here this morning."

Glen Atkins will head the new member invitation drive. Working with him will be five division leaders and 125 other workers.

Division chairmen will be D. C. Bailey, Clarence Cheshier, Kenneth Callaway, Darrell Cannan Jr. and Grady Cantrell.

The drive will kick off at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Each worker in the campaign will contact a list of propsects and point out to them the many advantages of being members of the chamber.

The prospective members will be invited to attend a downtown stew feed May 4 which will be held outdoors on Eighth. Members of the chamber's board of directors will serve up the food, which is also available to all chamber members. Dr. Travis White, president of Midwestern University, will be guest speaker for the occasion.

Each of the prospective members will also be invited to a full membership meeting of the chamber to be held May 7 in the Rider High School auditorium.

Guest speaker at this meeting will be Attorney General of Texas Waggoner Carr.

Action Wanted On Medicare

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told Democratic congressional leaders today he wants the bill for medical care of the elderly passed during the present session of Congress.

House Speaker John W. McCormack told newsmen Johnson does not want action postponed until the next session of Congress and feels the legislation to put medical aid to the aged under Social Security is long overdue.

McCormack said he told the President he feels there is a reasonable possibility that a bill can be worked out at the present session. He said he assured Johnson of his cooperation.

The discussion came up at the weekly White House breakfast of Democratic chiefs from the Capitol.

The medical aid bill long has been tied up in the House Ways and Means Committee and the administration has lacked the necessary votes to send it to the House floor for action.

Senator Discusses Screwworm Stand

Senator Ralph Yarborough, Texas' senior Senator, announced from Austin Tuesday that he was strongly in favor of the proposal that the federal government should assume full responsibility for maintaining the screwworm fly barrier south of the Rio Grande since eradication had been achieved in Texas and the Southwest.

The livestock producer groups of the Southwest had asked the agriculture subcommittee of the House Appropriations Committee to increase the money budgeted for the program from $2,750,000 to $3,500,000.

"The ranchers of Texas and the state government had the imagination to get this program started, with federal matching money," Sen. Yarborough said. "Now the screwworm fly has been driven south of the Rio Grande. It has become a natonal problem and an international one.

"I believe this is a proper function of the federal government, and will so urge when the bill gets to the Senate. It must be carried on."

Dandelions Among Our Lovely Plants

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions:

Dandelions, now gleaming like gold coins on millions of American lawns, are among the loveliest plants known to man. Anybody who uproots them before they are through blooming is a snob and a horticulttral social climber—and may his green thumb turn blue!

Flying from Chicago to New York last week, I heard a fellow passenger complain. "The trouble with this flight is you get there before you can finish your second martini."

It is said that one of the things Gen. Charles de Gaulle detests most is talking over the telephone. Any man who holds this view can't be altogether bad.

During the 400th anniversary of William Shakespeare's natal year, he is being widely praised as the greatest writer in the English language. If we all weren't so terribly busy, it would be nice to pick up one of his plays and see what the man had to say.

No matter how many people in an office use a pencil sharpener, there usually is only one who will uncomplainingly take the trouble to clean it when it gets full of shavings.

There are only two types of middle-aged people—those who are grateful for bifocal glasses, and those who'd rather bump their heads against a brick wall.

Even if we didn't have television, we'd probably find something else to bore us. Most of mankind's progress has come from a desire to avoid either work or ennui.

Lonely Feeling

One of the loneliest feelings in the world is to go to a circus by yourself after 40.

No matter how agnostic a man may be, he still likes the sound of church bells.

Cab drivers say they hate to follow in traffic a car driven by either a woman or a doctor because they feel neither keeps his mind on the job at hand.

The odds are at least 9-1 against a young man who likes to do handstands at public beaches ever becoming a business success later in life.

The thing a fat man wonders most about a thin man is how he manages to keep his shirtfront in. The ordinary fat man gets most of his exercise fighting his shirtfront back into place.

Platoon System

Baseball was the national sport when it was a game played by nine men who went the whole nine innings. With the arrival of the platoon system, it became just a form of outdoor automation, more enjoyable to computers than fans.

One of our biggest objections to the higher culture is that no one yet has had the common sense to suggest selling hot dogs at the average symphony concert.

If you haven't had a headache lately, think it over. Maybe you are shirking doing your fair share of the national worrying.

Natural Gas Firm Plans Big Project

LT. GEN. J. E. BRIGGS

ATC Chief To Speak Here

Lt. Gen. James Elbert Briggs, commander of the U.S. Air Force's Air Training Command, will be guest speaker at the Armed Forces Day luncheon to be held Friday, May 15, in the non-commissioned officers club at Sheppard Air Force Base.

Announcing this at Tuesday's meeting of the chamber of commerce's military affairs action group in Action Hall, J. W. Martin, chairman of the luncheon project, stated that Lt. Gen. Briggs was one of the Air Force's outstanding officers.

Tickets for the luncheon — and there are only 400 — are available from the chamber of commerce offices, phone 723-2741.

Gen. Briggs was born in Rochester, N.Y., and entered the New York Military Academy in 1920. As an honor graduate from the academy in 1920, he received a presidential appointment to the United States Military Academy. He graduated as 31st in a class of 261 from West Point in 1928.

Enters Service

His first assignment was to the Sixth Field Artillery Regiment at Fort Hoyle, Md.

In May, 1942, he was appointed operations officer of the Eighth Air Force Fighter Command in Europe, and in September, 1943, became air officer of the European Section of the War Department General Staff.

He later served as deputy commander of the North Atlantic Division, Air Transport Command with the Central Intelligence Group in Washington, D.C.; chief of staff for the Fifteenth Air Force; commander of the 92nd and 98th Bombardment Wings; commander of the 306th and 307th Bombardment Wings; deputy commander of the Far East Air Force Bomber Command; and a number of other posts.

He undertook his present duties in 1959.

In addition to the Distinguished Service Medal, General Briggs' decorations include the Legion of Merit with One Oak Leaf Cluster, the Distinguished Flying Cross and the Air Medal.

Parade Plans

Elton Welchel reported to the action group that arrangements are going ahead for the Armed Forces Day parade on Saturday, May 16. Besides a number of missiles from Sheppard Air Force Base, two Army missiles from Fort Sill, Okla., will also be seen in this year's parade. "The parade promises to be better than ever," Welchel added.

Final judging for the Miss Missile contest will take place Thursday, May 14 in the Center Theatre at SAFB. It was reported that 16 entries for the contest had been received so far.

The base will hold open house on Sunday, May 10, from 1 to 4:30 p.m.

AIRPORT—

Additions on the firm's low bid of $122,981.67, despite efforts of the construction company to withdraw its bid.

Passed a resolution regarding participation by the City of Wichita Falls with the federal government in the Lake Kemp reconstruction project following a discussion on federal requirements.

Gave permission for advertisment of bids on a new animal control center, cost of which has been estimated at about $10,000.

Use Of Bonds

The airport bonds will be used to purchase properties of the air transport company from heirs of the late Fulcher Armstrong and to cover other contingencies.

The work on extension of Kell also will be done under capital improvement bonds.

In connection with awarding of the Rancho - Vista contract, Wichita Falls attorney Charles McClure appeared for B&G Construction Co., and asked that the firm be allowed to withdraw its bid without forfeiture of an existing performance bond.

McClure said the "extremely low" bid was due to a mistake on figuring price of pipe, and that the contractor would lose money if forced to perform under the bid as submitted.

Although councilmen voted to accept the firm's low bid, McClure was told that the council could rescind its action if the city administration were provided with evidence the job was figured incorrectly.

Agreement

The Lake Kemp project resolution drew comment from Dr. D. Clifford Burross, mayor pro tem, and Davis, who argued that the federal government was requiring the City of Wichita Falls to guarantee "free access" to the Lake Kemp area for a period of 50 years.

Davis said it was his belief that fees for water recreation should be charged just as green fees in golf or other forms of recreation, and that the signing of such an agreement with the federal government would preclude possible fees for water recreation.

Burross also pointed out that although taxpayers of Wichita Falls would be paying the city's share of the project, records at the lake indicated that Wichita Falls residents constituted only about 10 per cent of those who use the lake, and that some provision should be made for charging fees.

Councilmen voted to have their desires conveyed to the federal government in the form of a cover letter which would accompany the resolution.

Davis also presented a progress report on the capital improvements program, predicting that the program, which was planned to take three years to complete, would in fact be completed "long before" the end of the three-year period.

Other actions taken Monday night:

Other Contracts

Awarded contract for lighting of four baseball fields; okayed payment of additional fee for design work on sanitary sewer plant; appropriated $6,550 for purchase of two eight-acre tracts adjoining Lucy Park which will become a part of the park;

Authorized advertisement of bids for purchase of several articles of equipment; approved payment of existing reimbursement, water and sewer contracts; closed the south 200 feet of an alley between Loop 165 and Lee and running from Sixth to Seventh; and approved minutes of recent meetings of several city boards.

Police Hunt For Baby Boy

CHICAGO (AP)—Hundreds of policemen combed a South Side neighborhood house-to-house today for a two-day-old baby boy abducted from his mother's arms in Michael Reese Hospital.

Dora Fronczak, 28, told police she was feeding her baby Monday, when a woman dressed in a nurse's uniform entered and took the infant, saying it had to be returned to the nursery.

When a nurse asked Mrs. Fronczak for the child a short time later the abduction was discovered and police were called.

Chester S. Fronczak Jr., 33, an aircraft machinist, broke the news to his wife that the baby, Paul Joseph, had been stolen. He is their only child.

Police said a cab driver, Lee Kelsey, 34, told them a woman 40 to 50 years old entered his cab with a baby and rode to 35th St. and Union Ave., a few miles from the hospital.

The police search fanned out from that point, a block from the home of Mayor Richard Daley.

School desegregation: The attorney general is authorized to file public school desegregation suits. This is in line with the administration proposal.

Voting rights: The administration bill called for written literacy tests, equal voting standards for whites and Negroes, and the presumption that a sixth grade education is enough to make a person a qualified voter. Those provisions apply to federal elections.

The measure is in much the same form now, although the House added a provision permitting the attorney general to request appointment of a three-judge panel to hear voting rights cases. The House also eliminated an administration provision that would have authorized appointment of temporary referees to register voters who claim they have been denied a chance to register because of race.

MU Has Early Hour Bomb Warning

Dormitories at Midwestern University were evacuated about 1:20 a.m. Tuesday after city police received a call from a woman who said that "a bomb has been placed on the MU campus."

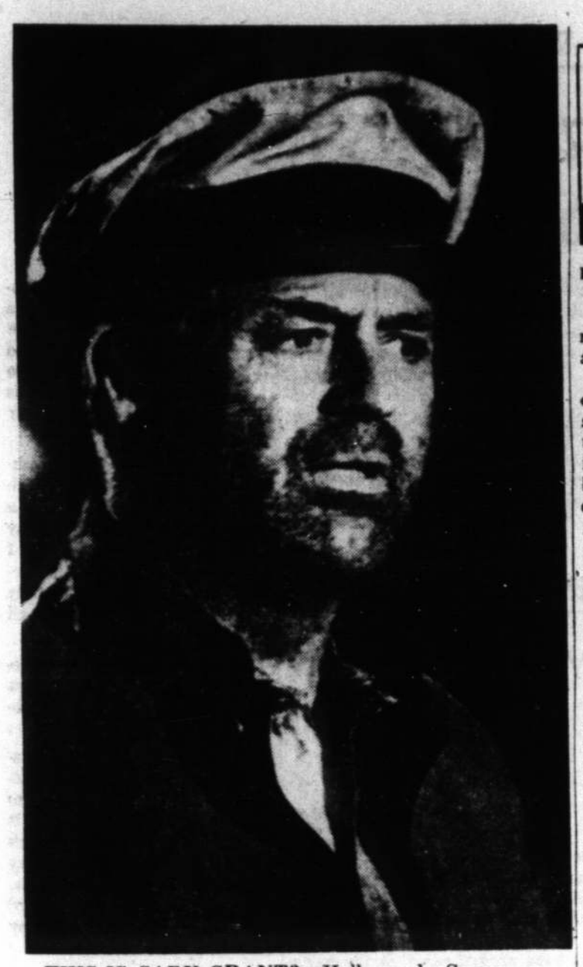

The parking lot east of the dormitory area was checked and found free of any bomb, and students were sent there to wait until each dormitory was checked b police, firemen, and sheriff's deputies.

By 2:15 a.m. all the dormitories had been checked and residents were allowed to return to the buildings. No bomb was found.

This is about the fourth time in recent months that bomb threats from a female caller have been received.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Raynaud's Disease Cause Is Unknown

By W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My doctor says I have Raynaud's disease. What causes it and what can be done for it?

A—The cause of Raynaud's disease is unknown. The victims suffer from spasmodic contraction of the small arteries of their fingers, or toes. The attacks may be brought on by emotional stress or exposure to cold. First the fingers become white, then turn purple or blue. As the spasm relaxes, the blood rushes into the fingers and they become very red. There is no danger of losing the fingers through gangrene.

Lack of vitamin B-6 can be a cause. You should also take special care to protect your hands and feet from the cold. Moving to a warm climate is sometimes advisable. Women with this disease are somtimes helped by taking estrogens (female hormones) especially if they are nearing the menopause.

Smoking will aggravate your condition. Some victims whose disease is severe and of long standing can get relief after surgical cutting of some of the sympathetic nerve roots as they come out of the spinal column, but the effect is not permanent.

Q—Several years ago after I had an electrocardiogram, my doctor gave me Tetrasules. What are they for? Will this drug cause any harmful effects or lose its effectiveness when taken for a prolonged period?

A—This drug is given to dilate the arteries in persons who have angina pectoris or coronary heart disease. There are no harmful effects or loss of effectiveness with prolonged use. Anyone who is taking this drug should be checked for glaucoma twice a year. The drug does not cause glaucoma but when this disease is present the drug will aggravate it.

Q—What causes Sjogren's disease? My tongue is dry and I have no saliva. Is there any cure for this?

A—Sjogren's disease is characterized by dryness of the eyes and mouth and rheumatoid arthritis. Constipation may also be a problem. The cause is unknown. Methylcellulose eye drops and throat spray help to relieve the dryness and chloroquine may benefit the joint pains, but there is no premanent cure.

Q—After a bad cut for which I had several stitches, my doctor gave me tetracycline for five days. Could this drug cause any side effects?

A—Tetracycline is an antibiotic that is used to prevent infection. In some persons it may cause mild nausea or diarrhea.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Bishop Is Critical Of Recent Sit-Ins

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Civil disobedience can be justified as a civil rights technique only where "all remedies, within the structure of law and order, have been exhausted," Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike said Sunday.

The bishop's statement made in a pastoral letter, said illegal acts are not justified "when the law is on the same side as the cause of the demonstrators."

Bishop Pike, a supporter of the civil rights movement, has been critical of recent sit-in techniques employed by demonstrators in San Francisco.

Bishop Pike predicted sit-ins will continue unless "full freedom of employment opportunity" is soon achieved.

Industry Seeking Qualified Negroes

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— Qualified Negro college graduates are being sought by industry this year as never before.

A survey indicates that unprecedented numbers of industrial recruiters have swarmed over campuses to hunt out, talk to and in many cases hire Negro graduates at top starting salaries.

The search for outstanding Negroes is a part of an all-out hunt for able June graduates, but many companies are showing an especial interest in the graduating Negro.

And, says Business Week magazine, which conducted the survey, there is a general feeling that industry really wants the Negro, that the recruiting rush isn't merely a desire to provide "window dressing."

One student was quoted as saying:

Not A Fad

"We believe the new jobs are for real, that this is not a fad. There is some uncertainty about the future, but the general belief is that more jobs are opening up."

Fisk University in Nashville has had to extend its normal recruiting sessions for at least another month. Howard University in Washington, D.C., turned away more recruiters this year than visited the college five years ago, and has logged 50 per cent more interviews than last year. In Texas, Prairie View College and Texas Southern University report a tenfold increase in visiting industrial recruiters over the past few years.

The main targets of the recruiters are top Negro graduates majoring in science, biology, physics, mathematics, chemistry and engineering.

Starting salaries in these fields run up to $670 a month with an average just under $600. These compare favorably with starting salaries for all graduates.

Placements directors say they could place many more science and engineering graduates than they have available.

Engineers Grabbed

The survey showed that one metallurgy student has had five job offers. A coed with honors in mathematics received 10 job offers. Thirty of 40 engineers at a college in North Carolina were grabbed quickly.

Business administration, especially accounting, is proving to be a good field for Negroes. The placement director at Fisk said he was "amazed at the tremendous thrust for students majoring in business administration."

A problem is that the supply of qualified Negroes in business fields, as in engineering and science, fails to meet industry's demand.

A factor is the matter of emphasis in Negro institutions. Many of these colleges have stressed such subjects as education and nursing, areas where Negroes traditionally have been able to get jobs.

Because of previously closed doors, most Negro students didn't study in business and engineering fields. The process of updating curricula and encouraging Negro students to broaden their studies is only slowly getting under way.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

Verse Clarifies Values Of Life

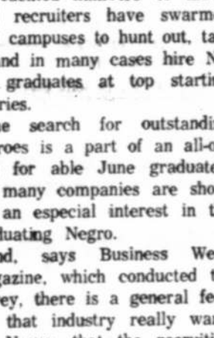

QUESTION: Please explain Matthew 19:30: "But many that are first shall be last; and the last shall be first."—A.B.

ANSWER: The previous verse gives us the key. "And everyone that hath forsaken houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or land, for my name's sake, shall receive an hundredfold, and shall inherit everlasting life."

In these words our Lord is clarifying life's values. He is saying, many that are first in wealth, in prestige, in honor (in this world) shall not necessarily be "first" in the next. Because we attach such importance to material things, He is telling us, that in the light of eternity, these things will not seem important.

Some time ago I counseled a man of great wealth. He had been twice divorced, had a drinking problem, and was generally mixed up about life's values. Then he said: "My older brother who is what we might call a failure, is a greater success than I." He went on to tell me that his brother had a happy family, a faithful wife, the respect of his neighbors, and faith in God. Materially, his brother was last, but in real values, he was first. As we look around us, we can see this law working out in everyday life. When the books are balanced in heaven, many successful men will be counted failures, and many failures, as the world reckons, will be first.

CORVAIR by Chevrolet

Mountain-conqueror, turnpike-shrinker, curve-straightener

(and you couldn't pick a better time to buy one)

This year we gave Corvair more power. Nearly 19% more in the standard engine—to go with the maneuverable size, light steering and rear-engine traction.

And it's been busy winning new friends and making enthusiasts even more enthusiastic. Take the 1964 International Canadian Winter Rally, for instance—1,300 miles of snowy roads, roller-coaster hills and tricky curves that tested the rally-equipped cars and expert drivers to their limit.

Out of 141 entries Corvair was first overall winner, taking top honors for the second year in a row. And two other Corvairs finished in the top ten spots.

Nice car to have, wouldn't you agree, when you're out to do some mountain conquering, turnpike shrinking or curve straightening of your own.

Nice car to have, too, if you do most of your driving in the city. Because the same things that make Corvair such a great little performer out in the hinterlands stand it in good stead on city streets.

You just couldn't ask for a more agile, more sure-footed, more peppery car in traffic. Or a sportier looking number to do the town in. Or, as we mentioned under the big black type, a better time than right now to buy one.

GIRLS SHOULD LISTEN TO ADVICE OF BOY FRIENDS

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Actress Jill Haworth, 18, says girls should not resent suggestions boy friends make about their clothes. In fact, they should invite their comments.

Jill's best friend, actor Sal Mineo, makes suggestions from time to time and she trusts his judgment. "When Sal tells me something about fashion, I go along with it. He has weaned me away from high heels, which made me walk like Minnie Mouse.

"I wear medium heels, since low heels also don't look good on a small girl." Jill contends you can learn a lot from men about clothes, because they want to see you looking your best. On the other hand, many girls dress for other girls, which Jill thunks is a big mistake.

Blonde Jill is 5 feet 2, weighs 93 pounds. She thinks small girls like herself should emphasize their femininity. She likes straight line dresses and never wears high style colors. Basic colors are better than dramatic ones on little poeple, she says. She wears blue a lot because it makes her eyes look violet, which she likes. She avoids wide belts and anything that can cut her height. She doesn't like horizontal stripes.

"Young girls shouldn't wear too-sophisticated clothes. They just make themselves look even younger that way. I once tried to wear my mother's hats, and she said I looked ridiculous."

Born In England

Jill met Sal a few years ago when they were making the movie "Exodus" in Israel. She was born in England where she lived until she was 15.

"No one here will believe that I graduated from high school at 14. The school system is so completely different there," she explains. "We went to school from 8 until 5, then we had three or four hours of home work. There was never time to get into mischief with a schedule like that."

Jill thinks this concentration on school work makes European young people more mature than others although they "are behind in social life."

Jill is in "The Cardinal." She is getting set for an important new role. But she plans to return to school meanwhile, and study psychology, "maybe so I can understand my friends." She hopes to go to the New School for Social Research in New York, where she lives with her mother.

Hints from HELOISE

New Trick

Dear Heloise: I just discovered a new trick — new to me, anyway.

To wit — connect your plastic garden hose to the drain on the bottom of your HOT water heater and drain the heater. Then proceed to unsnarl the kinks and knots in your synthetic hose, stretching it out to its full length.

Now disconnect the hose from the water heater, coil it and put it back into its original storage place.

So . . . you have killed two birds with one stone. First, you have drained off the sediment from the bottom of your hot water tank, which should be done once a month anyway. Second, the hot water softens the plastic hose and makes it pliable and manageable again. Leave garden hose stretched completely out before re-coiling again. — Mr. R.

Ladies, if you will look on your hot water heater you will see (perhaps for the first time) that directions do say "Drain this tank every month or two".

Draining keeps hot water heaters from rusting out and perhaps might save your budget because you won't have to buy another one if you follow the directions on the heater. Right now go and look at your water heater and see what the directions say. Sure would be nice to use the money (you might have spent on repairs) for something else. Eh? Heloise

Dear Heloise: When the middle of my cotton sheets wear out, I cut off the top and bottom and sew them on the ends of our flannel sheets, thus making them long enough to tuck in at the end and foot.

This sure keeps these short flannel sheets in place. — Jennie Guzzetta

Dear Heloise: With a family of young children, I discovered a way to use up those small pieces of leftover soap: Here's what I did:

I took a wash cloth, turned down about one-half-inch hem at top, then sewed up the other sides. I then ran a tape through the hem for the drawstring. Presto, a small bag!

I hang this bag on the faucet of the bath tub and put all small pieces of soap into it. When reasonably full, I tie the tape, but still keep it on the faucet. It scrubs the little ones clean and saves soap and the children just love to use this bag of soap pieces. — Martha

Dear Heloise: Some of your readers have asked for ideas for the use of old nylon stockings. I give mine to a friend who uses them for quilt stuffing! I'll bet they wash and dry nicely.—Mary Johnson

I would not take your bet. YOU would win! — HELOISE

Dear Heloise: I place my pastry board across the wash basin when cleaning out my medicine cabinet. I find it a very handy table to hold all those bottles and jars while I am cleaning the cabinet. — Mrs. D. Vigo

Dear Heloise: I had some faded artificial flowers. I sprayed them with gold paint (and some silver spray paint) and used them for ornaments. These gold artificial flowers are very cute for decorating gifts. They could also be pinned on a curtain for added beauty. — O. E. G.

This 'n' That

Miss Janice Hays of Lockney, Tex., was a week - end guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Varnell Sr., 1030 Ridgeway Drive.

Miss Hays and John Varnell, a student of West Texas State College at Canyon, will be married June 9 in Lockney.

Varnell also spent the weekend here at his parents' home.

Hang-Tag Habit

One of the best habits to get into these days is that of saving the manufacturer's hang - tags that come with your clothing. With the complicated world of fabrics today, no homemaker can be expected to keep all the specialized information in her head. It's much better to collect it in a recipe file box or post it on a bulletin board on the inside of your closet door, or even keep the tag right on a certain hanger which would be assigned to a specific garment. These are ideal ways to keep laundering instructions of garments at your fingertips suggests Mrs. Anne Sterling, Director of Consumer Relations for the American Institute of Laundering.

MRS. WALKER READS

Chronically Ill Patients Like To Hear Stories

(Third in a series on volunteer workers at the Wichita Falls State Hospital. The public is invited to open house at the Hospital this week.)

By ANNIE LEE WILLIAMS

Tuesday afternoon each week is a special time for Mrs. Jason Walker of 1206 Denver. She lets nothing interfere with her plans for that day, because she knows two dozen or more people are expecting her to come to see them.

Mrs. Walker reads to two groups of chronically ill patients at the Wichita Falls State Hospital each Tuesday, and come rain, hail or heat, she is there.

Charming Mrs. Walker, a great grandmother who has the looks and bearing of one much younger, began her work at the Wichita Falls State Hospital as a Gray Lady. Now her visits are as an individual volunteer, and she has become so attached to her groups that she considers this service as important as her church work.

"I like to take some refreshments along if I can," Mrs. Walker says. "Even if it's just a small box of cookies or a tiny piece of cake for each one I take it to add a note of festiveness to our meeting. Frequently I take my electric popper and we have hot popcorn."

She makes no bones about being happy to accept refreshments her friends would like to contribute.

Simple stories that have a dramatic appeal and are easy to follow are the ones she selects to read to her groups. Perhaps it is her kind face and gentle manners that appeal to the patients more than the stories. Whatever it is, they love her and look forward each week to seeing her, say hospital authorities.

"I'm doing what anyone could do," says Mrs. Walker, "and I guess I'm selfish. I do this because I enjoy it much, much more than the patients!"

(Wednesday: Teen Age Club helps patients).

WE THE WOMEN

Manners Of Many American Women Are Deplorable

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The public manners of an ever-increasing number of American women leave a lot to be desired. If you doubt this, just begin to notice how many women—

Take up two parking places in a shopping center, rather than bother to put their cars between designated lines.

Never bother to say "Thank you" to the person who pauses to hold a door for their convenience.

Create real traffic jams in front of public schools by double-parking so their own little darlings won't have to walk to a properly parked car.

Go into public restaurants, looking as though they are dressed for waxing floors or washing windows.

Fail to keep beauty salon appointments or come in late, thus inconveniencing the shop and other customers.

Talk so loud in public places that their private conversations are anything but private.

Let their small children grab everything in sight in stores and jump up and down on the chairs and sofas in reception rooms.

Disturb neighborhood peace by sitting in their autos and honking for the person they are picking up, instead of getting out of their cars and going to the door.

Block sidewalks and driveways when they go to a big party, so as to park as close as possible to the house they are going to.

Make a disgraceful shambles of restrooms, putting out cigarettes by throwing them on the floor and stepping on them, wiping lipstick-smeared fingers on walls, throwing paper towels at trash containers—in short, doing everything humanly possible to make the word "Ladies" on the door a misnomer.

Ray HD Club Hears Talk On Strokes

An illustrated talk on strokes was given for the Ray Home Demonstration Club at a meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. E. Collins, Harlan Lane. Mrs. C. E. Frazer introduced Mrs. Delores Smith, a registered nurse, who gave the talk.

She used diagrams and slides to show how strokes occur and how they can be treated. A booklet on the subject was distributed to members.

Miss Thelma Wirges, home demonstration agent, thanked the club for its efforts in aiding tornado victims. Her letter was read before the business session, directed by Mrs. Doyle McAda.

Mrs. T. J. Cobb will be hostess for the May 8 meeting at her home on Sunset Lane.

Cure For Sniffles

Bothered by sneezing spells when you first get up? You are probably allergic to dust in the air, a common irritant indoors, particularly during early Spring. In the new film, "The Air Around Us," the noted allergist of Philadelphia's Albert Einstein Medical Center, Dr. Jay Spielvogel, says air conditioning is the best answer for allergy sufferers, because it cleanses such irritants as dust from the air.

FASHION TIPS her hat this year as brims turn up or down with gay, feminine abandon. Inspired by the wind-swept plains of Texas, Dallas millinery designer, Jan Leslie, creates a collection of "cavalier" brimmed hats, combining new imported straws and printed fabrics. Balibuntal brim (left) sweeps back from the face, providing a flattering contrast to the crown of flower-print fabric. Guatemalan colors of vivid greens and pinks form the fabric brim of the hat (right) as a bright contrast to the tall straw crown.

'Summer Home' Blues Start About This Time Of Year

A flowering tree, open windows, the sound of small - fry playing in the yard — these signal the balmy days' return.

And with them, a rising discontent in the heart of the homeowner's help meet as she surveys rooms still stuffy and cluttered with the impedimenta of shut - in months. Her heart quickens with longing for a simple "summer" house, clean-swept and airy — and requiring a minimum of care.

This little tableau might be observed through millions of picture windows about now, declares Jessica Thomas, home furnishings specialist for the Flexalum division of Bridgeport Brass Company, as homemakers face the problem of how to dispel winter's lingering aura and make their homes livable for the summer.

The objective, Miss Thomas agrees, should be, indeed, to reduce household chores to a minimum while at the same time giving your home that clean airy and inviting look that the summer months demand.

You can begin, she continues, simply by putting out your hand —and firmly grasping the nearest knickknack. Putting away for the summer (or forever!) the books, magazines, games, photo easels, paperweights, smoking stands, candy dishes and other decorative, accessorial odds and ends that accumulated during the long months of family introversion will see you well launched on the road to summer - house simplicity.

Next, look to your windows. Send those drapes out to the cleaners, the specialist suggests, and install custom aluminum venetians in combination with cool, pastel - print panels. Venetians come in a variety of decorator colors, and tapes in contrasting hues can add dramatic effects.

Now continue through the house, advises Miss Thomas, improvising as you go. For instance:

Send your heavy floor coverings and throw rugs to the cleaner and put down bright and inexpensive grass and jute rugs.

Slip - cover upholstered pieces in smooth, cool - colored fabrics.

Substitute bright prints in simple frames for dull pictures and heavy oil paintings.

In the dining room, use wipe-clean plastic cloths and mats and stock paper plates for buffets.

In the bedrooms, use printed sheets or gay summer - weight blankets for spreads.

Place colored glass or ceramic vases and bowls about to receive a full quota of summer flowers. For the moment, if the flowers aren't yet available in profusion, spray your rooms with fresh floral fragrances.

And there you are, a genuine "summer" home ready for months of carefree living.

Opening lead: Ace of ♡

The South holding in today's hand presented a series of pitfalls which snared several players who encountered it during a recent tournament.

The bidding presented in the diagram took place at one of the few tables where North and South succeeded in winding up with a plus score on the deal. South's opening demand bid of two spades certainly conforms to even the most orthodox requirements. While a positive response by North would not be subject to criticism, he chose to play a waiting game until he had heard more from partner.

When South rebid three diamonds, North's hand acquired a definite slam luster. A raise to four or even five diamonds at this stage would hardly do justice to the holding, particularly in light of the original negative response of two no trump. In fact, some Norths chose to jump directly to six diamonds over South's rebid. At one table, West failed to open a heart and declarer succeeded in taking all the tricks.

At the table under discussion, North resolved to investigate for the full potential of the combined holdings. Over three diamonds he made a temporizing bid of four clubs, intending to show the diamond support next. South returned to four spades, and now North could do no better than carry on to five diamonds, since he lacked a high heart honor. Had South been able to control the suit, he would have been expected to proceed to slam. Inasmuch as the opposition usually cashed the first two heart tricks, an 11 trick contract proved to be the limit of the hand.

At one table, South chose somewhat unwisely to persist to five spades. [He was motivated by desire to obtain the higher score awarded to a major suit contract which is often of crucial significance in match-point play.] West opened the ace of hearts and, when he received an encouraging signal from partner, he continued with the queen and another heart. The ruff-and-sluff presented to South on the third round of the suit proved to be the kiss of death to the declarer for, whether he accepted the ruff in his own hand or in the dummy, a trump trick thereby became established for West.

THE COOK'S CORNER

By GAIL COOKE

Hot Dog! According to my pal the dictionary, these two words are an American term denoting approval. And this tasty little sausage has won the approval of millions.

COOKE

As a very, very wise man once said, "The dog is the noblest of animals and the hot dog is the noblest of dogs. It feeds the hand that bites it."

Red Devils

1 pound hot dogs
2 garlic cloves minced
½ teaspoon salt
1½ tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1½ teaspoon sugar
1 cup chopped onion
¼ cup oleo
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1½ tablespoon mustard
½ cup chili sauce

Saute onion and garlic in oleo over low heat for about ten minutes. Stir often. Add remaining ingredients save hot dogs and heat.

Split hot dogs lengthwise and arrange split side up in a shallow pan. Spoon sauce over them. Heat under broiler and serve in split hot dog buns with extra sauce on top.

One-Dish Frankfurter Meal

1 pound hot dogs
1 bunch green onions sliced
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon salt
3 cups cooked rice
¼ cup oleo
6 tablespoons flour
1 box frozen mixed vegetables
¼ teaspoon pepper

Melt oleo in skillet and in it cook green onions until lightly browned. Stir in flour and gradually add milk, stirring constantly until thick. Add vegetables which have been cooked according to package directions.

Add mustard, salt and pepper. Add hot dogs which have been sliced in ½ inch thick pieces. Cook about ten minutes and serve on hot rice. Serves 4.

Hot Dog Wedgies

6 Hot dogs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Chili sauce or catsup
1 cup macaroni
3 tablespoon chopped pimento
⅛ teaspoon pepper
½ cup grated cheese

Cook macaroni as package directs. Drain macaroni and add milk, pimento, salt, pepper, Worcestershire sauce and cheese. Pour into a greased baking dish.

Split hot dogs lengthwise. Cut in half and arrange on top of macaroni mixture. Fill slits with chili sauce or catsup. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Serves 4.

Dear Abby

Let It Ride!

Abigail Van Buren

Dear ABBY: Four of us mothers in the neighborhood have a car pool. We alternate driving our children to school in the morning. One mother made all the children late five times last month. The late mother always has an excuse (small baby at home, she overslept, she forgot to set her alarm clock), but no excuse is acceptable at school and it goes against the children's records. Should we drop this mother from our car pool? I hate to cause hard feelings but I would just as soon drive the kiddies myself to be sure mine get there on time. How should this be handled?—ON TIME MOTHER

DEAR ON TIME: Since the school term is almost over, don't tell her you want to drop her from the car pool. Tell her you have the time, and do not mind driving the youngsters in her place. And next year, when you organize a car, include Mrs. Always-Late OUT!

DEAR ABBY: About three years ago someone asked you why a man who has a lady for a wife will pick up some tramp and treat her like a lady, but then he will turn around and treat his wife like a tramp. You gave a terrific answer, but I can't remember how you worded it. Will you please give it again?—ANNAPOLIS

DEAR ANNAPOLIS: "A man picks up a 'tramp' because he wants a female companion who is no better than he is. In her company he doesn't feel inferior. He rewards her by treating her like a 'lady.' He treats his wife, who IS a lady, like a 'tramp' because he feels that by degrading her, he will bring her down to his level. This makes him feel guilty. So, in order to get even with his wife for making him feel guilty, he keeps right on punishing her."

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, I flipped for a guy and in order to make him like me more, I tried to make him jealous. But that was a mistake. He got sore and started to date my best friend. I pretended I didn't care and got HIS best friend interested in me. So now the four of us date all the time (my date is a creep). And it's killing me to see the man I love with his arm around my best friend. What to do?—SUFFERING

DEAR SUFFERING: Having outsmarted yourself you had better pull out of this foolish foursome and look around for new friends and a fresh outlook on life.

CONFIDENTIAL TO N.J.R.: Cheer up. The only man I ever heard of who got his work done by Friday was Robinson Crusoe.

Get it off your chest. For a personal, unpublished reply, write to ABBY, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Voters' Consideration

With primary elections only four days away, voters generally should have made their decisions, and by now should know pretty well for whom they will vote in every race.

Looking through the primary of next Saturday and to the general election, which, after all, is not so far off, The Times endorses the Democratic candidacies of the following:

For president, Lyndon Baines Johnson; for United States Senator, Ralph Yarborough for governor, John Connally; for lieutenant governor, Preston Smith; for attorney general, Waggoner Carr; for supreme court justice, Jack Pope; for railroad commissioner, Jim Langdon; for commissioner of agriculture, John White; for state sentor, Jack Hightower.

These judgments have been made after careful consideration and investigation of all candidates in the races involved. We sincerely believe these men will do the best jobs for the nation, for the state, for the city and for all of us as individuals.

Most of these candidates The Times has endorsed in earlier editorials — and has offered its reasons for so doing. Some it has supported in prior elections, but in each instance this newspaper believes the candidate named best qualified for the office he seeks.

The Times believes it is every voter's duty to make his own decisions, to vote as he sees fit, and this newspaper certainly is not attempting to tell its readers how to vote; it is offering its well considered opinion for whatever value you might place upon it.

And above all, DO vote in the primary, either Democratic or Republican, Saturday.

Not Easy As It Looks

To many Americans, the war in Viet Nam is a far away, tedious affair that is more of an annoyance than a danger. Knowing little about it, they feel irked by news of reversals and prone to wonder irritably why we don't "get in there and win or get out?" It was the same way during the Korean War. The people at home didn't like the idea of fighting a war so far away, but once we were in the war, they couldn't understand why a country, so powerful militarily as the U.S., couldn't quickly win it.

The answer, of course, is that such a "brush war" is complicated in many ways, and cannot be simplified merely to a decision to "get in there and win." It must be by its very nature a nagging, involved, irritating thing.

The appointment of Lt. Gen. William C. Westmoreland to command the U.S. forces in South Viet Nam will give rise to new hopes in respect to this particular conflict. Gen. Westmoreland is known to be a tough leader who also wants to "get in there and win" any war in which he's involved. He is famous for that determination.

Therefore the American people will hope that the prolonged and unhappy war in far-off Viet Nam will shortly be resolved in our favor. Knowing the type of general Westmoreland is, they'll expect better news in the future from that part of the restless world.

Spring Dress Looks Good

It was the poet Robert Browning who sighed, "Oh, to be in England now that April's there." He might as well have been referring to Wichita Falls. Recent April showers (or were they driving rains?) have laid a mantle of clean green over the Wichita Falls countryside. Lawns and parks have responded with a new look. Fields of wheat have become rippling seas of emerald.

Indeed, Wichita Falls is most beautiful in late April and in May as seasonal rains make the trees leaf out. Often part of that beauty fades as the winds grow hot in June, and is gone entirely if July and August are dry. But in late April, it is a great big, wonderful world we live in.

There are years on the record books in which "April showers" continued right on through the summer. In those months, the green remained until autumn. It would be nice to think that this will be one of those years.

Whether it is or not, Wichita Falls today has on its spring dress. And it looks mighty good in it.

His Baton Laid Aside

Another era in the history of the fine Wichita Falls Symphony ended Saturday when the final concert of the season was presented under the baton of Dr. Walter Charles. It was also the final appearance here of the popular conductor.

Under Dr. Charles' leadership the musical organization continued to grow both in numbers and in artistry. It has become, over the years, a cultural asset for which Wichitans can be justly proud. It is, moreover, an institution which helps attract to the city desirable citizens and industrial plants.

No community can become well-rounded and prosperous without offering something of cultural value. The Wichita Falls Symphony offers culture and entertainment here, and does it in excellent manner.

The Dr. Charles era has been one of growth and progress. Wichita Falls regrets losing him, but is grateful to him for the contribution he has made both to the symphony itself and to the musical climate.

And we wish him success as he takes over the baton of the Blue Jeans Symphony in Estes Park.

Castro Peddles Myths Of Cuba's Well-Being

By VERNON LOUVIERE
Times Washington Bureau

Fidel Castro has been telling the world the people of Cuba never had it so good, but a careful analysis of comment appearing in the Cuban press and aired by government radio, together with eyewitness accounts of refugees, tell a wholly different story.

And it's not so much the story of Communist treachery and deceit — already well documented — but the day-to-day erosion of human rights that reaches down into the home, the school and the job.

On Par With CIA

Much of the information coming to light is being assembled by the Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba whose network of sources may almost be on a par with that of the Central Intelligence Agency.

As an example, the committee monitors the Cuban radio around the clock while CIA is understood to spot check these broadcasts only a few hours during the day and night. Also, virtually every refugee questioned by the CIA on his arrival in this country is interrogated by the committee.

This documentation has made it easy to torpedo some of the popular myths Castro has been trying to sell to the outside world.

Education Compared

For instance, the myth that "today, everyone can get a good education in Cuba."

Before Castro Cuba had eight universities. Tuition in state universities was a token $5 a month. Forty per cent of the students were given scholarships. These universities had some of the finest faculties in this hemisphere.

Now, Cuba has only three universities. Entrance requirements depend solely on whether the applicant is a member of the Communist party, the Young Communists or can prove he is not militantly anti-Castro.

Discharged Or Fled

Over 5,000 Cuban elementary and high school teachers reportedly have either been discharged for resistance or have fled. Last fall the ministry of education recruited 6,000 children as teachers. This was their qualification: "12 years of age or over and successful graduates of the sixth grade."

Cuban children who are self-taught by parents to escape regimentation and Communist indoctrination have their ration cards withheld by neighborhood informers and are not permitted to buy shoes when they are available.

For each day that a child misses school the father has one day's pay withheld. If absences continue, he loses his job and risks being sent to a concentation camp.

Blame Laid

Castro frequently lays the blame for the steadily declining agricultural production on "inexperienced young administrators" or the "brutal economic blockade."

There have been 19 government decrees to curb "popular sabotage" such as the burning of sugar cane. Decree 988 provides for summary execution within 48 hours.

Castro has had to resort to conscripting every Cuban male between 17 and 45 to fill the labor gap. They are paid slave wages of $7 a month in a country that has always been plagued by a surplus of labor. More than 500,000 workers were pulled off other jobs and sent to the cane fields. Forced to work Saturdays and Sundays this additional force still was unable to finish the harvest on time.

Housing Declines

Another myth is that housing is more abundant for the Cubans today due to "social progress" under communism. What are the facts?

Cuba's civilian construction industry dropped from a $61 million private enterprise in 1958 to government investments in mid-1960 of less than $10 million. Only 11 construction permits for housing were issued in the last quarter of 1961. Yet Cuba has an annual average need of 20,000 new urban and 10,000 rural dwellings. Since then, 90 per cent of Cuba's concrete and wood has gone into military construction.

Center Set Up

And there is the boast that Cuban students take kindly to Communist indoctrination and follow Castro's direction unhesitatingly.

A special center has been set up to reorient the thinking of scholarship students who show a lack of discipline in their studies of Marxism - Leninism. Those who fail to change are drafted into obligatory military service. And these students range from 13 to 18 years of age.

From these accounts it can be seen how the Communist strangulation in Cuba is virtually complete.

Polls Find Our Youth Not So Conservative

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — One of the great political myths in the United States is that youthful voters are aligning themselves in large blocs on the extremist wings of the Republican and Democratic parties.

This myth has obviously been fed by the actions of the Young Democrats and the Young Republicans who have lately been getting hold of much of their party organizations in California — and getting national headlines by so doing.

The evidence is that in the nation as a whole voters in the youngest age bracket stand overwhelmingly in the political center of both parties.

Clearest Proof

The clearest proof of this fact is the Gallup Poll which shows:

That voters from 21 to 29 years old give President Johnson a better than 2 - to - 1 lead over the more conservative Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge.

That voters from 21 to 29 years old predominantly make Ambassador Lodge their first choice for the Republican presidential nomination.

That even their second choice does not go to the more conservative side of the party but rather to Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

The results of the latest Gallup soundings are these:

First Choices for GOP Nomination	Voters 21-29 Years Per cent
Lodge	39
Rockefeller	16
Goldwater	14
Nixon	14
Others, No Preference	17

This 69 per cent combined vote for Lodge, Rockefeller, and Nixon indicates that the young voters are not on the conservative wing of either party, but are strongly on the middle - to - left of center.

Where, then, is the Republican center and who are its more authentic spokesmen?

Is it, for example, accurate for the supporters of Sen. Goldwater to claim in the California primary campaign that California's senior senator, Thomas H. Kuchel, a Rockefeller backer, is a "Republican extremist" and "out of the mainstream of the whole party?"

Some of the most pertinent facts which help to answer these questions are:

During the whole eight - year span of the Eisenhower administration Sen. Kuchel supported 81 per cent of President Eisenhower's policies when they came before the Senate for approval; Sen. Goldwater, 59 per cent.

On all of the 25 major policy positions unanimously enunciated in the 1960 Republican national platform, unanimously adopted by delegates from all over the country, Sen. Kuchel supported party policy completely. The record of some leading senators is as follows:

Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, minority senate leader, supported 18, opposed 4.

Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, supported 17, opposed 8.

Leverett Saltonstall, chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, supported 20, opposed 4.

Thomas H. Kuchel, assistant minority leader, supported all 25.

Barry Goldwater opposed all 25.

Opposed By Minority

Some of the major measures which were supported decisively by Senate Republicans, opposed by only a small minority, were: the United Nations loan, the Arms Control Agency, the nuclear test ban (first advanced by President Eisenhower), the first civil rights bill in 80 years, the Kerr - Mills medical care bill favored by Republicans 31 to 1.

As to the current civil rights bill, four-fifths of all the Republicans in the House voted for all of the provisions of the bill which is now being debated in the Senate.

Obviously there can be wide and honest differences over what Republican policy ought to be, but I see no better way of defining actual Republican policy than to look at the body of measurs supported by a Republican president, advocated by the last Republican national platform, and voted by the great majority of Republican congressmen.

Republicans who support these policies can hardly be "out of the mainstream of the party."

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

Texas Stays Big Even At World's Fair

By EARL WILSON

World's Fair — It was those Texans' fault.

I was Shangai-ed on a World's Fair excursion boat - I was a black-tied stowaway on the Circle Line.

WILSON

My story, I suspect, will make the admirers of Joseph Conrad feel ... very secure.

It's a simple story. I had boarded a World's Fair excursion boat to have a small courtesy drink. I suddenly found that we were out in the Hudson ... they hadn't rememberd to let me off. My long black limousine and a couple of friends were waiting for me back at the pier. It wasn't funny to me, matey!

Limousine With Chauffeur

You see, the rich Texans putting on Morton DaCosta's "To Broadway With Love" gave me a limousine and a chauffeur to get to the Texas Pavilion.

I wanted to tell the excursion boat crowd and the March of Dimes beneficiaries that I would go by car as it would be faster.

"I'll just pay a courtesy call aboard," I said. "Pick me up at Pier 81, at 41st St. and the river. I may be a little late getting off."

Things happen, like a gal putting a lei around your neck, or you buying some scrip to exchange for a drink ... and you look out and see the dock is moving! You're out at sea (in the Hudson River). They've forgotten to let you off.

"Take me to your Captain," I said, in some panic.

Permitted To Phone

Skipper Joe Miller drew his oilskins about him and said he ought to refuse to let me use the ship-to-shore phone as that was a violation of the sea. But he relented and permitted me to phone my wife that I'd stupidly overlooked the laws and was now practically a kidnap victim.

Finally, we landed at the World's Fair Marina ... and I got an impression of the fair. Hardly anybody knew where anything was. Two bus rides later, I was in one of the "champagne boxes" at the Texas Pavilion, mingling with Ethel Merman, Julia Wilson, Richard Adler and others who'd come to see this show.

Girls came out doing the can-can up on a high stage. Other girls kept coming out serving drinks. This will go on all summer.

The rental on a champagne box for the season is $25,000. The champagne, of course, comes extra. It does seem cheap, doesn't it? To Texans.

The Midnight Earl

Liz and Richard Burton, with Sammy Davis Jr. and Leonard Bernstein, watched the frug and twist madness at Shepheard's then went to Danny's. (SD Jr. later flew to a UNICEF rally in Stockholm — Mai Britt was already there) ... Katharine Hepburn saw "Funny Girl" ... Vaughn Meader returned to the Blue Angel, where he got his start, to help the cafe in its financial woes; he'll get minimum salary ... Paul Newman and comic George Hopkins raced their motorcycles uptown at midnight, and right up to the bar at Charlie Bates saloon ... Edie Adams ducked out between her shows at the Waldorf to see the McGuire Sisters' big, bright Persian Room premiere; their act is tuneful and clever ... Liz Ashley and George Peppard got back together, at Gallagher's.

Comic Godfrey Cambridge'll tv-tape a show about Harlem, a la "Liz Taylor's London," for the Jack Paar program ... One of the recent well - publicized marriages has developed trouble, and he's showing up around town alone ... Paris Buzz: Novelist Francoise Sagan may re-wed her ex-husband, American sculptor Bob Westhoff.

Paintings Loaned

The paintings in the art gallery scenes of Jerry Lewis' movie, "The Patsy," were loaned by his co-star, Ina Balin ... A foreign actress who got good reviews in her first B'way show hasn't been able, for some reason, to get a job since ... Actor Alain Delon gave his agent a nice present — a Rolls-Royce ... Howard Keel, who'll tour in "Camelot," is asking for Constance Towers as his Guinevere ... There's a movie cooking about the Bobby Baker case, and Mamie Van Doren's been invited to join.

Oscar Levant will title his memoirs "Duet for Three Heads," and Morey Amsterdam'll call his "I Remember Me" ... Boris Karloff, the original "Frankenstein" monster, says today's horror films are so gruesome he'd hesitate to let his grandchildren watch them.

I'd Rather Be Light

TODAY'S WORST PUN: The Dukes of Dixieland say they'll dedicate one song to Lassie: "Hello, Collie."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Behind every woman in a new mink coat is a husband who once swore she'd never get one.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "If you look forward to Monday with more enthusiasm than you did to Friday, you're in danger of becoming successful" — Pic Larmour.

EARL'S PEARLS: Robert Q. Lewis defines homework: "That's something a teen-ager does between phone calls."

Yul Brynner broke 100 on his first try at golf, and his partner Dean Martin said, "Hey, that's pretty good for a guy who drinks as little as you do." ... That's earl, brother.

Auditorium Face-Lifting Job Well Under Way

By PETER HINCHLIFFE

When Van Cliburn—the nation's most sensational pianist—strides onto the stage of Memorial Auditorium 128 days from now to open the 18th Wichita Falls Symphony season, he will probably rub his eyes, then think he is in New York, or Chicago, or Los Angeles.

For the virtuoso will be looking out at one of the finest auditoriums anywhere!

This probably sounds like an Arabian Nights dream to those who attended the Symphony's final concert of its 17th season last Saturday. To those lucky enough to attend the Van Cliburn concert on Oct. 3 though, the metamorphosis will be true.

The auditorium is presently getting a big face lifting job and it's not only the auditorium. The whole of City Hall is being given an ultra-modern new look: The sort of look that will make a guy feel proud every time he goes to pay his water bill. They are even going so far as to employ the services of a giant electronic brain to figure out those water rates!

Work on the $460,000 improvements to City Hall, part of the recent capital improvement bond issue, is already well under way.

Phase One, which will be completed by the end of September, includes a new heating and cooling system for the whole building, a new roof on the building and the construction of a brand new freight elevator—besides the auditorium face lift.

Workmen have begun to rip out the auditorium's seats. They are being replaced by sumptuous theatre-style seats which will provide far more leg room and make sitting a real pleasure. There will be 2,710 of these seats. This is a reduction of 400—but then everybody will have much more elbow room than before.

There will be carpeting in the aisles, and also in the lobby of the auditorium. And for the first time ever, it will be air conditioned. Artists will no longer roast in the small dressing rooms under the stage, and shows can be presented in the auditorium all year long, instead of merely during the winter season.

Special accoustical materials are being used in the auditorium so that an opera soprano will be able to set the ears of those sitting on the back row tingling as merrily as those on the front whenever she hits a high C.

Scaffolding is being erected inside the auditorium, so that workmen can tackle the job of redecorating walls and roof. Incidentally, those who pass along Seventh Street during the next few days will see this scaffolding being hoisted into the building through an upstairs window.

The elevator will serve the rear of the stage. Touring stage shows will be able to draw their vehicles up at the rear of the building, and then use the elevator to move scenery and other equipment up to stage level.

The exterior of the building is not being altered in any way. However, a new roof, made of fibre glass placed over felt, has been fitted. Workmen busy on this roof had to battle the clock last Friday as a damaging hail storm rolled in towards the city. Fortunately, the roof suffered no major damage.

The old twin boilers have been removed from the basement of the building, and the new 13-ton efficient giant will shortly be moved in.

The work is being carried out by a local contractor, M. A. Verdenbaum and Sons. The job superintendent is Bob Lyles. So far, 15 workmen are engaged on the task though Lyles stated that the work force would be increased later.

The most remarkable newcomer at City Hall this year will undoubtedly be an IBM data processing machine — an electronic brain which can in some ways think like a human being, only millions of times faster.

This machine will be installed in a specially prepared room on the first floor of the building. Information will be stored in it, and the machine will handle all water billing. The tax rolls will also be fed into it, and as time goes on it will also handle information concerning many other city departments.

The machine, which is presently in Fort Worth, will be installed and operating long before the end of May. The room where it is kept will have huge glass windows to enable the public to see the "mechanical monster" in action. It will improve efficiency in tax and collecting operations.

Just to give you some indication of how fantastic this machine really is, it can pick out one particular record from 5 million different records in way under one second. Yes, under one second! If you had to set the metal brain to adding two six digit numbers together over and over again, by the end of fifteen minutes its deliberations would have filled a tape 110 miles long!

Information is stored on two discs, which serve as the machine's memory. Unlike a human memory though, the machine never forgets!

Phase Two of the City Hall improvements should be completed before the end of 1965. This will include the complete remodeling and redecorating of the building's offices. Additional offices will also be provided in the basement of the building.

LET 'EM ROLL!—The figure on the World War I war memorial outside the Wichita Falls City Hall seems to be giving instructions to workmen replacing the building's roof. The ramp on the left is used for getting parts of the old roof down to ground level. This re-roofing job is just a small part of the massive face lifting operation presently under way at City Hall.

Sen. Yarborough To Visit Thursday

A rally for Senator Ralph Yarborough was held at the "Let's Re-elect Ralph Headquarters," 902 Lamar, Monday night, and supporters were welcomed by co-chairmen Tom Huckaby and Mrs. Dorothy Wise.

Yarborough, a seven year veteran in the U.S. Senate and opposed in the May 2 Democratic primary by Gordon McLendon of Dallas, will arrive by chartered plane Thursday at 9:30 a.m. to spend two hours in Wichita Falls touring Times Square and will be guest at a reception later at campaign headquarters.

Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. the Senator in a 30-minute television broadcast from Houston will answer charges of accepting monies from Texas financier Billie Sol Estes.

Speaking of opponent McLendon's campaign, Huckaby said Monday:

"It is inconceiveable that a man could offer himself to citizens of Texas as a candidate for the United States Senate and conduct a campaign based on libel and malicious slander . . . and the citizens of Texas will answer such a candidate at the polls.

"I have every confidence that Sen. Yarborough will be re-elected by an overwhelming majority (May 2)," Huckaby said.

Special guest at the meeting Monday was Mrs. James V. Allred, widow of Texas Governor Allred and an honorary campaign manager for Yarborough in Wichita Falls.

Coffee, doughnuts and soft drinks were served to the workers.

"Sen. Yarborough's opponent has been hurting our campaign in an unbelievable way," Huckaby told the group.

"People believe what they hear, and we've got to get the true image of Ralph Yarborough over to the voters of Wichita County. It would be a disgrace to send two Republican senators to Washington, and that's just what we'd be doing if McLendon were elected," he said.

"We've got to work as individuals, to call people and gather contributions," he said.

The Senator was last in Wichita Falls April 5 to view destruction of the tornado which claimed seven lives.

"That was an emergency trip for the senator," said Huckaby, "but this time he is making a political trip. We hope to have as many well-wishers on hand as possible."

The Texas legislator took office April 29, 1957, and was re-elected in 1958. He has served on committees for Commerce, Labor and Public Welfare, Post Office and Civil Service, Special Committee on the Aging, and Special Committee on Poverty.

He is noted for his work in passing bills favoring conservation and recreation, war veterans, agriculture, maritime interests, national defense, and economic advancement.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Drysdale, the last healthy member of Los Angeles' Big Four, has given the Dodgers' beleaguered pitching staff its most impressive streak since putting together three consecutive injuries.

Taking over where Phil Ortega left off Sunday, Drysdale pitched the Dodgers' second straight shutout Monday night, winning his first game in four starts by limiting Houston to six hits in a 6-0 victory built on a three-homer salvo.

Only one other game was scheduled in either league. In that, Washington whipped the Los Angeles Angels 6-2.

Drysdale's performance and home runs by Frank Howard, Ron Fairly and Willie Davis—the Dodgers had collected only eight homers in 12 previous games—topped off a heartening day for Manager Walt Alston.

Possibly the most imporant piece of news came from Los Angeles, where Sandy Koufax has been undergoing treatment for a muscle strain in his left arm. Dr. Robert Kerlan reported Koufax might be given permission to throw on the sidelines this weekend.

Besides Koufax, the Dodger staff has been depleted by injuries to Johnny Podres and relief specialist Ron Perranoski while the attack has lost the services of two-time batting champion Tommy Davis. Nevertheless, Alston said the Dodgers' poor start could not simply be traced to injuries.

"The injuries have hurt us," he said, "but the team was not playing up to par before anyone got hurt. Yes, we're crippled but that isn't all the reason for our troubles.

"What we've got to do is win as many as we can while we're crippled," he continued, "then move when we get all the injured men back. There is nothing wrong with the morale of this team right now that a couple of good wins and some base hits won't cure."

Howard and Fairly took care of the base hits. Each hit a two-run homer and also collected two singles. Willie Davis added a solo homer and a fine running catch that preserved Drysdale's shutout. With two men on and two out in the seventh, pinch hitter Al Spangler lashed a curling drive to left center that Davis speared with a final lunge after a long run.

Howard's homer was his sixth and his three hits lifted his batting average to .265. He is runner-up to Willie Mays in both homers and runs batted in in the National League. Mays has hit seven homers and driven in 18 runs to 11 for the Dodger slugger.

Two-run singles by Mike Brumley and Don Zimmer gave the Senators four runs in the fourth inning off Angels starter Ken McBride. Fred Valentine drove in the other two tallies, one with his first major league homer.

The victory went to Buster Narum, who went 6 1-3 innings in his first major league start before needing relief help from Marshall Bridges.

The Pressbox

By CHARLES WOLSTON
Sports Editor

Who's Next Mr. Alston?

"There is nothing wrong with the morale of this team right now," spoke Walter Alston, manager of the world champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

Alston had some reason to feel good. His beloved Bums just snapped in another win by another shutout, this time by Don Drysdale.

If someone wanted to break the grin on Alston's face into a sobbing mass, they could have been cruel and asked who he planned to pitch tonight against the Houston Colts.

The Associated Press' Today's Pitchers earlier listed Johnny Podres.

But everyone (at least those who read) knew that Podres is on the ailing list and was said to be out of action for at least a few more days.

Currently the Dodgers have won only four games and three of those were shutouts.

Only the Mets have managed to stay below the Dodgers in the standings and that took supreme effort.

Trademark

Pitching has always been the Dodger's trademark. It was hurling that beat the Yankees and it was the same item which put the National League pennant in Los Angeles.

But now the proud Dodgers are badly crippled in the pitching department as Sandy Koufax, Johnny Podres and Ron Perranoski are hurt.

If this isn't enough throw in outfielder Tommy Davis.

Don't kid yourself, the morale is bound to be just a shade above terrible.

The Dodgers are champions and proud champions.

They know they contain the capability to win. But being capable and being actually able is two different things and currently with the injury jinx riding their shoulders they aren't able.

Poor Start

Said Alston, "the injuries have hurt us, but the team wasn't playing up to par before the injuries. The poor start can't be blamed on injuries."

But he didn't mention that the injuries have moved the poor start into a poor month and one which could (if the pre-season experts are right on the closeness of the race) cost the Dodgers the pennant.

Certainly Philadelphia, San Francisco and St. Louis aren't waiting for the Dodgers and don't intend to.

As someone said, "the plight of the Dodgers has its irony, the thing which won them the series is now going to cost them the pennant—pitching."

Koufax Works On Condition While Waiting

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Sandy Koufax, Los Angeles Dodger star, is making sure that when his arm is ready to pitch again, the rest of him will be, too.

Even though the team orthopedic specialist, Dr. Robert Kerland, says that day will roll around Friday at the earliest, Koufax is keeping in shape. Monday he started running regularly at Dodger Stadium.

Kerland says Koufax might be given permission to throw on the sidelines Friday when the Dodgers come home for their series with the San Francisco Giants.

The Los Angeles ace strained a muscle in the left forearm pitching to the St. Louis Cardinals last Wednesday.

"Sure, the arm hurts, but it does feel a little better," Koufax said Monday night. "All I can say is that I'm sorry it happened, and I hope that it gets over as soon as possible."

Brosnan To Throw Voice, Not Baseballs

CHICAGO (AP)—Jim Brosnan, a writer who is now going to take a fling at broadcasting, hasn't abandoned hope of returning to baseball, but says he is beginning to feel like an ex-pitcher.

Brosnan was hired by the American Broadcasting Co. Monday to do two five-minute spot shows each Saturday and Sunday on a radio network broadcast.

Along with his writing, which currently includes six magazine articles and a book which must be finished by May 15, the scholarly looking right-handed relief specialist is a busy man, but not too busy to get back in baseball.

"I don't believe my pitching record last year indicated I had lost my effectiveness," Brosnan said. "Maybe the White Sox felt I was expendable but I certainly feel other clubs who admittedly need pitching might at least have contacted me."

Brosnan, 32, was given his unconditional release by the Chicago White Sox when all the other major league clubs waived on him at the ridiculous price of $1.

Brosnan tried to land a job with other clubs and even advertised for a baseball job, but found no takers.

"I've been waiting for someone to contact me but I've heard from no one," he said. "Apparently the only people who think I can still pitch are the fans, newspaper columnists and radio and television commentators."

Brosnan said he couldn't conceive of a conspiracy to keep him out of baseball.

"That would mean 20 clubs would have to agree on the matter and usually it's difficult to get five clubs to agree on something," he said.

Brosnan admitted his desire to pitch and write at the same time might be a drawback to landing a job, but he added:

"I read where Casey Stengel says he needs pitching help but I haven't heard a word from the New York Mets. I'm in reasonable shape and if anybody wants to get in touch with me all they have to do is phone YO 5-0905 in Morton Grove, Ill."

Layne To Aid Texas Squad

ORANGE (AP) — A couple of pretty well known football players will assist Bobby Layne in coaching the Texas squad that meets Pennsylvania at Hershey, Pa., Aug. 1.

Layne, the Texas and pro football great, has selected Doak Walker, the Southern Methodist all - america and star of the Detroit Lions, and Harley Sewell, former Texas lineman who was outstanding in pro football.

So everything appears to be ready for the big game that will pit the high school seniors of the two states against each other.

Fred Cervelli, sports editor of the Orange Leader is handling the Texas squad, which will be selected when the spring sports season is at an end. Pennsylvania already has announced its squad which will feature Bob Bazylak of McKeesport, Pa., who had 2,353 yards total offense last season.

Ft. Worth Last In Texas League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Everybody is tied for something except last place Fort Worth in the Texas League race.

Tulsa pulled into a deadlock with San Antonio for first place Monday night as the Oilers clipped the Bullets 6-4 with a 12-hit attack.

El Paso snapped a five-game losing streak by edging Fort Worth 9-8 while Austin slammed Albuquerque 10-4 and it created a triple tie for third place among El Paso, Austin and Albuquerque.

Joe Patterson led the Tulsa attack in beating San Antonio in the opener of a crucial series, getting three singles and a double and batting in two runs. San Antonio left 16 men on the base paths.

Vincent Ferguson was the big gun for Austin when he drove in six runs with a double, triple and homer as Albuquerque failed for the third straight time to win at home.

U.S. Hold On Cage Titles Near End?

MOSCOW (AP) — Is U.S. Olympic basketball supremacy threatened at last?

It could be. An American squad with five members of the 1964 Olympic team lost three straight to the Soviet national team here, despite some fine college players, seven men over 6-6 and four teammates from the AAU championship club.

"We should have risen to the challenge here — there's no alibi," said Cliff Buck of the AAU, head of the team.

He said his team "hasn't played good ball." And he said the Russians are much better than they were three years ago when an American team won eight straight.

But, he said, "I feel we can win the championship at the Tokyo Olympics." He said the Americans will have a stronger team at Tokyo, with more depth and more experience of playing together.

Buck said in a telephone interview from Kiev that one of the problems has been that the U.S. team has not played together long enough.

However, four of the 12 men on the U.S. squad are teammates on the Akron, Ohio, club that won the AAU championship this year.

They are Larry Brown, 5-10, Dick Davies, 6-1, Pete McCaffrey, 6-7, and Lloyd Sharrar, 6-10. Davies and Sharrar are 28.

Brown, Davies and McCaffrey are members of the 1964 Olympic team.

Jerry Shipp of Bartlesville, Okla., also 28 and 6-6, and Bad News Barnes, 23 and 6-8, are the other two Olympic team members on the club.

The U.S. squad plays in Kiev tonight and Wednesday, and in Tbilsi on May 3 and 4, before leaving the Soviet Union.

The Soviet national team whipped the Americans 82-65, 79-60 and 62-59. The Americans beat a Leningrad local team Sunday, 74-65 for their first win in Russia.

Buck said his team was in a slump after the long basketball season at home.

"There was a letdown for these boys after they had reached their peak for the Olympic trials," which ended April 4, he said.

He added that the Soviet players are more resourceful than they used to be.

"Before, we'd break up their patterns and they were at a loss," Buck said. "Now they can free lance. They don't fall apart. They can salvage the situation.

"Three years ago they got practically all their baskets in close or on long sets, but they can score on those middle jumpers now."

Buck said the third game was the best American effort here.

"We should have won, but the boys came apart and made mistakes in the late part of the game. We out-rebounded them almost two to one, but we just couldn't hit anything. We missed easy ones.

"We should have won it, but we deserved to lose it on mistakes."

4-AAAA BRIEFS

Colts Are Darkhorse For Coming Season

Arlington's Colts, if you will forgive the pun, think of themselves as a darkhorse in the coming 4-AAAA football season. With eight defensive starters back, coach Doyle Malone is out to halt the opposition then muster his hereto sagging offense.

Malone figures he has too many players to replace in making a bid for the title. However, with 17 lettermen he feels he has the start of a squad. Reserves and sophomores may make the difference to the Colts.

"We didn't have a starter back last year. We didn't score many points last season either. This year we have a few boys back, so maybe we will score better," Malone says.

The offense will be born around left-half Richard Key. The speedy 150 pound junior won the 880 yard district track championship title this year. The other mainstay in the Colt scoring punch will be Walter Osborne, a 180 pound end. Osborne played at left end last year and was a proficient pass receiver.

Osborne is the right end on defense and Key plays at defensive safety. The rest of the Colt wall is made up of right tackle Robert Allen (198); middle guard Don Callan (170); corner back Bill McCraw (170); linebackers Ken Kunkel (178) and Jerry Holmes (182) and defensive halfback Kenny Palmer (165).

Malone is of the opinion the newer schools may make quite a splash in the league. He rates Bell as a tough customer with plenty of potential and tosses Rider and Irving's name in among the favorites.

The Voters Of Wichita County

The late Rev. George K. McMackin and I joined hearts and hands in rearing our son George, who is candidate for Tax Assessor-Collector for your county.

We taught him to seek first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and he was an active member of our church at nine years of age.

It was easy to convince him that honesty was the best policy, by practicing it ourselves.

He was taught to be energetic, and to always give a full day's work for a day's pay.

We sent him to the best schools in our area, to prepare for later life.

He took the accountant course at Missouri State Teachers College, completing it within two years.

He is now taking a newer course in the same subject, to maintain proficiency.

The following letter from Okla. State University, might help you to decide that he is worthy of your vote. It would be appreciated by his mother and stepfather.

The R. L. Yarbroughs.

April 16, 1964

Dear Mrs. Yarbrough:

I have recently learned that your son George is offering his services as a public servant in the office of Tax Assessor-Collector.

You probably have heard George mention my name as one of his university professors during the time he and his good wife Lois were here in school. Among the thousands of students I have had in 45 years of teaching, he is still outstanding in my memory after more than 20 years.

You see, my boyhood home was just across the river from Wichita Falls, in Oklahoma, and through my relatives in your city I not only know some of what is going on, but I do have a personal interest in the public welfare of Wichita Falls and my native state of Texas.

I am sure that if the voters could see and know George as I have known him as trustworthy, of high moral character, and a most efficient worker, that they would not hesitate to vote for him.

Sincerely yours,
Dr. Haskell Pruett

Haskell Golf Tourney Next

For area golf buffs, the next tournament in this area begins Friday at Haskell.

The tourney runs through Sunday and I understand they will have a special tourney for golfers over 50 in addition to the regular one.

This area's amateur golf season started last week at Electra where home-towner Bill Jarrell took top honors.

The 12th annual Las Vegas Tournament of Champions will be held at the Desert Inn Country Club beginning Thursday.

This, of course, is one of golf's most colorful events with just a select field composed exclusively of winners of major PGA-sanctioned tourneys within the past twelve months.

The defending champion is Jack Nicklaus and there will be a record 29 players trying to wrest away his title.

There will be many new faces to qualify for this year's tourney.

Of course, many of the one's that didn't make it will be in Burneyville, Oklahoma, for the Waco Turner golf tournament. This is called the poor man's tourney.

But, a pro has a chance to pick up some extra money with payoffs for birdies, chip ins, eagles and low round each day.

So you think you have troubles. What about Bob Margan, movie stunt man, who won the 1963 Ben Hogan award?

In Golfing, a national magazine, there's a feature about his comeback after an accident which nearly took his life.

He was substituting for Richard Widmark in "How The West Was Won" and had to crouch behind a pile of chained fiberglass logs—20 of them weighing 300 pounds apiece — on a moving freight train.

As the train was speeding down the tracks, he had to hang onto them and was supposed to crawl off the logs and onto the brake-rod of the flat-car.

But, something went wrong and 6,000 pounds of logs crashed on him and two flat-cars and the caboose ran over him.

He looked like a torn-up rag doll with his face torn away, his left leg nearly torn from the hip and bones sticking out everywhere.

He was taken to a hospital and his heart stopped beating twice on an operating table, but he was brought back to life when doctors massaged his heart.

Now after having his left leg amutated, plastic surgery and being patched up, Morgan is playing golf again and scoring in the 70's.

That's pretty remarkable, to say the least.

Pack, Raiders Spring Games Are Announced

The Wichita Falls Coyotes and the Rider Raiders, two city high school grid teams, will go to bat for North Texas Crippled Children Clinic and the Youth Fund by staging a football game to climax Spring Football Drills.

No, they aren't going to play each other as that is against the rules under the University Interscholastic League, but both teams will hold intra-squad tilts to give football fans and coaches a preview of things to come for the 1964 season.

Heretofore, the Coyotes, being the only city school of AAAA classification, were the only team to hold the spring intrasquad game as schools under AAAA are not allowed spring drill.

The Coyotes' annual Spring Game was sponsored by the Kiwanis Club in a benefit to aid the crippled children.

This year the Kiwanis Club will have two shots at aiding the crippled kids as they will sponsor both Coyote and Raider games.

Walter T. Fowler, games chairman of the Kiwanis Club, said "We feel very fortunate to have both Rider and Wichita Falls High School helping us to raise these badly needed funds.

"We hope that every citizen will turn out for one game or the other and we hope both.

"They will see a wonderful exhibition in football, get a first-hand look at next season's prospects and even more important know that the money they spend will be put to one of the worthiest causes known.

"It is a fine chance for Wichita Falls as a city to show their appreciation to our fine school system and also help a worthy cause like the North Texas Crippled Children Clinic and Youth Fund."

Rider coach, Joe Bob Tyler, said the Raiders will stage their intrasquad game on Thursday, May 7, at Midwestern University Stadium.

Hunter Kirkpatrick, Coyote head coach, said that his team will follow the Raiders and play their game on Friday, May 8, in Coyote Stadium.

Macabre Twist Added To Growing Soccer Scandal

LONDON (AP)—The death of a parttime bookmaker with friends in bigtime sports added a macabre twist today to Britain's stinging soccer scandal.

The drowned body of Joseph Hancock, a 52-year-old car dealer, was pulled out of a midland reservoir during the weekend.

Police instantly called for a coroner's inquest into the death —and disclosed that Hancock had been questioned twice about the bribes-and-bets sensation that has shaken Britain's national sport.

Hancock lived at Mansfield, a Derbyshire mining town which police believe was the center of a betting ring that scooped in big sums on fixed soccer matches and corrupted many star players in the process.

His wife told newsmen that she last saw Hancock on Saturday evening.

"He seemed terribly worried," she said.

"He came home as usual in the evening from the bookmaker's. Later he went out for what I thought would be a couple of hours with his friends at the Conservative Club.

"The next day I was told he was dead."

Police said privately that the circumstances of Hancock's death pointed to suicide.

The soccer scandal erupted three weeks ago with the first of a series of articles in The People, a Sunday newspaper with a circulation of five million.

The People charged that 32-year-old Jimmy Gauld, a Mansfield player until two years ago, ran an elaborate betting ring, using his contacts with players still in the game to fix results.

It went on to name more than a dozen players who it charged were in Gauld's pay, some of them star names of British soccer.

The Football Association, governing body of the sport in England, called three of the men before an inquiry commission Monday.

They were Peter Swan of Sheffield Wednesday and England center half; David Layne, Sheffield Wednesday centerforward, and Bert Linnecor, Lincoln City inside forward.

All three were accused by The People of throwing matches for profit. A Football Association statement said they had denied taking bribes.

The Mansfield Club's directors held an inquiry of their own into charges that its players bribed Hartlepools United into throwing a vital match that won Mansfield promotion last season. Jack Taylor, Mansfield chairman, said: "The board was pleased to hear their emphatic denials of the allegations."

Colt Dandy K. Up For Derby Honors

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—If Cecil Carmine's Dandy K. wins the Kentucky Derby, Carmine can go into business with Jack Price of Carry Back fame showing the big names of racing how its done.

Just about everything, from the breeding to the way Dandy K. breaks from the starting gate, is contrary to the traditions of racing. And, just about everything Jack Price did with Carry Back raised the eyebrows of the industry's diehards.

Dandy K. whose stretch running is similar to that of Carry Back's has won four of his last seven races — including the Fountain of Youth Stakes—and will be a big threat in the Derby if the pace is fast.

The colt was on the sidelines today as the $15,000-added Derby Trial Stakes held the spotlight at Churchill Downs.

The one-mile trial—the last prep for the Derby—attracted a field of seven, headed by Run for the Roses favorite Hill Rise. The track was expected to be sloppy, giving Hill Rise his first race in the mud.

Dandy K. had his last race in preparation for the Derby Saturday in the seven-furlong Stepping Stone Purse and finished a fast-closing third behind Mr. Brick and The Scoundrel after stumbling and nearly falling down as he left the starting gate.

"We got Dandy K. by breeding the best we had to the best we could afford—and to me that's just as good as breeding what's supposed to be the best to the best," Carmine said Monday.

Dandy K. is a son of Chris K., who commands a stud fee of $150.

The colt's dam is Speed Trust, one of two broodmares in Carmine's stable at Lexington.

R. E. (Red) Wingfield, who trains Dandy K., said he believes the colt "has a real good chance in the Derby. If the pace is fast, we should give them a real battle when they start running in that stretch."

Today's trial field was rounded out by Roman Brother, Clem Pac, He's a Gem, Mr. Moonlight, Grand Garcon and Robair. An impressive win by Hill Rise could send most of those in the trial looking for cover.

The trainers of Grand Garcon, Clem Pac and He's a Gem have said definitely that their horses would have to run good races today to get a crack at the 1¼-mile, $125,000-added Derby Saturday.

A field of about 15 is expected to go after the first jewel of racing's triple crown.

Mrs. Dorothy J. Smith has cooked on both gas and electric ranges and she knows from experience.

The new gas advance called Burner-with-a-Brain lets you set your temperature and forget it. Makes all your pans automatic. No burned food or boil-overs.

What else does a new gas range have for you? The Cook 'n' Keep oven that cooks then turns itself down to ideal serving temperature. And stays that way. Time doesn't matter. So you want to wait four hours. O.K. Your meal's still perfect and ready to serve piping hot. Smokeless broiling—with the broiler door closed. What doesn't it have? Hangover heat. When you turn off the gas—that cools it! These features sold Mrs. Smith. You're next! Soon as you see these new gas ranges on sale at your gas appliance dealers now.

FIRST LADY FROM TEXAS

Johnson's Political Star Rose Rapidly In 1949-50

EDITOR'S NOTE: Ruth Montgomery says of her new biography, "Mrs. L.B.J.," that it "is the culmination of twenty years of friendship with a truly remarkable woman—Lady Bird Johnson." To obtain background for the first and most authoritative, revealing and objective account of the new First Lady, Mrs. Montgomery obtained quotes freely from exclusive interviews from the President, his wife, friends and relatives. The Wichita Falls Times continues today, the exclusive serialization of Mrs. Montgomery's book, "Mrs. L.B.J."

Lyndon Baines Johnson was going places politically in a hurry in 1949. It was unusual for a freshman Senator to receive a major committee assignment of his choice, yet Johnson won a coveted seat on the Armed Services Committee. Throwing his tremendous energy into the work, he began performing yeoman service for Chairman Richard Russell, just as he had for Chairman Carl Vinson on the House Naval Affairs Committee in the New Deal days.

The purposeful Texan had made himself a big man in the House. He was on a first-name basis with more Congressmen and their secretaries than most of his senior colleagues. The extroverted new Senator found it difficult to adhere to the unwritten rule that freshmen members should be seen but not heard.

As a result of his wartime experience and ten-year tenure on the House military committee, Lyndon became increasingly alarmed by President Harry S. Truman's postwar reduction of U.S. defensive strength.

Early in 1950 he made a signal speech, calling for a penetrating review of American foreign and military policy. Four months later, at the outbreak of war in Korea, he praised the President's prompt action in sending troops to defend the strategic peninsula against the Communists, but more importantly, he introduced a resolution to establish a Preparedness Investigating Subcommittee of the Senate Armed Services Committee. The Senate promptly passed the resolution, and Lyndon was designated its chairman.

Busier Than Ever

Now he was busier than ever, and if Lady Bird wanted to catch a glimpse of her husband she had to attend the hearings in the Senate committee room. It was a momentous task that Lyndon had undertaken, but L.B.J. proved such a master of cajolery and persuasion that all forty-six of the committee reports were unanimous. The hearings were estimated to have saved several billion dollars in tax money.

Bird, now a member of the Senate Ladies' Red Cross unit, wrapped bandages every Tuesday and poured milk for underprivileged children. All the while she ran her growing radio-television business interests in Texas and took care of the two little daughters, Lucy and Lynda.

Lucy was now three and pining for a dog. Lady Bird was not. Thirteen years later, seated in the upstairs family quarters at the White House, Bird and Lucy chuckled together over that long ago incident. Bird began the narrative: "Our Lucy Baines, when she was three years old, began to ask for a dog. I had any number of reasons for not wanting one. In the first place, after years of yearning for them I had just acquired some beautiful carpets of which I was very proud; and second, we were moving back and forth between Washington and Austin each year. I had had the experience of traveling with a cat, and I didn't want to repeat it with a dog, so I just sorta delayed.

"Then one night, when a blizzard was raging outside, Lyndon came home with a big smile, a heavy overcoat, and a big box in his arms. He put the box down on the living-room rug and called Lucy Baines to come and look.

"Lucy got down and peered into the box, and when she raised her face, I have never seen such a beatific expression on any angel. In the box was a beagle, age six weeks, and as cute and lively as he could be. He came to be the joy of the whole family . . ."

Ranch Rundown In 1951

At this point Lucy excitedly took over the story, saying: "Mother's only reaction when I opened that box and my eyes nearly popped out of my head was to groan, 'Oh, my rugs!' "

They named him, of course, Little Beagle Johnson, so that his initials would match those of the rest of the family.

The thriving LBJ ranch near Johnson City, Texas, is a thing of beauty now, but the same could not be said for it in the fall of 1951. The Johnsons and Senator and Mrs. Stuart Symington flew to Texas one weekend on a pleasure trip—or so Bird thought. The two couples were house guests of their mutual friends, the Wesley W. Wests.

From the Wests' ranch they flew to the Dallas stadium for a football game in their host's private plane, and Evie Symington was frankly dazzled. "The planes were lined up like a fleet of cars, but the owners were carrying thermos bottles and rugs, just as if they had arrived by family sedan.

"We visted many luxurious ranches that weekend, and it was like another world to me. Then we drove over to the ranch that Lyndon wanted to show us. There was no bridge, so we had to ford the stream to reach the little stone house on the place. Bird seemed appalled, and frankly I shared her feeling, but Lyndon looked at the run-down old place and exclaimed excitedly: 'Let's buy it!' " The ranch had belonged to his grandparents, but his eighty-year-old aunt owned it then.

As usual, Bird subjugated her desires to those of her husband. Discussing it years later in the White House, she said: "After I came to sense how completely Lyndon was immersed in the rocks and hills and live oaks of this, his own native land, and how much strength he drew from it, I gradually began to get wrapped up in it myself. I always have loved living on the land. It was just that I had grown up on such a completely different sort of land."

When they bought the four-hundred-acre ranch, Lady Bird plunged energetically into the task of restoring, adding onto, and redecorating the main ranch-house.

Became Minority Leader

The ranch never earned a profit, in part because of LBJ's expansive hospitality, so despite Bird's growing affluence, she had to continue to watch the family pennies in Washington.

Largely through the influence of Senator Richard Russell, Georgia, the powerful Southerner whom Lyndon had taken pains to cultivate, LBJ was elected Democratic Whip in 1951, although he had held his Senate seat for only two years. (As Whip, he was responsible for securing party members' attendance on crucial votes.) When the Republicans won control of the Congress for the first time since Hoover's Administration the next election year, first-termer Lyndon Johnson became the Minority Leader.

In the off-year Congressional elections of 1954, Democrats again regained control of Capitol Hill. Lyndon, having won reelection that year, now became, at forty-four, the youngest Senate Majority Leader in American history.

Because of the campaigning and the speech-making trips, Bird and Lyndon frequently had to leave their two little girls behind with a nursemaid. Sometimes devoted members of Lyndon's staff—Mary Rather or Willie Day Taylor—also slept at the house to oversee the lively children.

The tempo of life for Lady Bird and Lyndon had stepped up to such a pitch that neither of them had as much time as they would have liked for their high-spirited daughters, who began referring to themselves as de-privileged children. This saddened Bird, who says: "Naturally they crave more of our companionship and attention, but I have tried to impress on them that their father's job is important. I assure them, however, that such importance doesn't rub off on them. Self-importance is nuts, I tell them; self-responsibility is the thing to aspire to."

Lady Bird, having been a motherless child, showered her two little girls with affection. She called them "loved one" and "cupcake," and never parted from them without saying gently, "Remember, you are loved."

Lyndon's pace continued unabated, but something had to snap and it did, on Saturday, July 2, 1955. That day he worked as hard as usual at the Senate, although it was Lucy's eighth birthday. In the morning he held a press conference.

GIFT — "For Bird — A lovely girl with ideals, principles, intelligence and refinement, from her sincere admirer, Lyndon," was inscription on photo the future President gave to Claudia "Lady Bird" Taylor, the summer of 1934. (Courtesy of Mrs. Lyndon Johnson; from King Features Syndicate.)

He lunched with his old friends, Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senator Symington, and they told him he was working too hard. He admitted to them that he was tired, but said that he was going out to the Virginia estate of an old Texas friend, George Brown, to spend the Fourth of July weekend and rest.

Called Doctor

By the time they reached the Brown's estate, he was so uncomfortable that he asked his chauffeur to wait, in the event that he had to return home. His host gave him some bicarbonate of soda and he lay down, but had difficulty breathing. Senator Clinton P. Anderson, who had had heart trouble, thought he recognized the symptoms and persuaded Lyndon to let Brown call a doctor. When the physician had examined his patient, he, too, worried about a heart attack, and the suffering patient exclaimed, "If you think it might be a heart attack, let's act as though we know it is."

While he waited for the ambulance to take him to Bethesda Naval Hospital near Washington, Lyndon told his friends to call Lady Bird and his personal doctor. In the ambulance he smoked a cigarette, although the doctor had asked him not to. It was the last one he has smoked.

Bird was at the Naval Hospital. As the Senator was lifted from the stretcher, he reached for his wife's hand and gazed deeply into her concerned and loving face. "Stay with me, Bird," he pleaded, like a small boy, before he went into shock.

Lady Bird moved into an adjoining room at the hospital and remained throughout the two months Lyndon stayed there. Bird converted her hospital room into a combination bedroom-office, from which she helped Lyndon's staff to handle the business of his office, and worked on her own radio - television interests. Her task was compounded by the fact Lyndon asked for her twenty-four hours a day, and he wanted her to wear bright lipstick—and laugh.

Lynda and Lucy were aware of a change in their parents, when the family was reunited at home. They were closer to each other than ever before, and Lyndon could scarcely bear to have Bird out of his sight. Lynda Bird says of the relationship: "Daddy worships Mother. He tells her his problems and seeks her advice. It's just that he doesn't realize that sometimes she might want to weep on his shoulder."

Kept Medicine Handy

To a close friend Bird had observed: "When Lyndon is out of danger, and the crisis is past, I just want to go off alone somewhere and cry."

At first, Lyndon was a surprisingly docile patient at home; but as the danger receded, he was like a penned lion pacing his cage.

As soon as Lyndon was able to go to Texas, Dr. Willis Hurst accompanied the Johnsons on their flight to the ranch. The famous heart specialist remained until his patient was well settled and he had briefed local doctors about the case. He then left Lady Bird with minute instructions as to diet and rest, and urged that Lyndon be kept free of visitors, irritations, decisions, or work. This was a sad, still period in Bird's life.

Mary Rather spent the fall with them at the ranch. "Whatever Lyndon did, Lady Bird did with him," Miss Rather says. "How she managed to run the house, attend her children, talk to visitors who came uninvited but with good intentions, and still take care of her husband, I sometimes wondered."

The threat of another heart attack was ever in Bird's thoughts. She kept digitalis handy, but it never had to be used.

Hanging over Bird was the decison he would soon have to make about whether to resume his position as Senate majority leader. To risk another heart attack by doing so was unthinkable, but so —for LBJ—was the thought of giving up, Bird knew.

As his strength and interests gradually returned, Bird invited three sharp domino players, A. W. Moursund and Melvin Winters of Johnson City and Everett Looney of Austin, to spend the evening. Like everything else that he does, Lyndon played to win, and the heated bouts helped to restore his competitive spirit.

Lyndon's interest in his work gradually grew, and he would sit at a card table in the living room to handle his mail. Mary Rather worked at the desk, and long telephone cords were strung across the living room so that he could keep in daily communication with aides Walter Jenkins in Washington and George Reedy at his Austin office.

Visit By Rayburn

Speaker Sam Rayburn came to the ranch with Adlai Stevenson one moonlight night, and they sat on the lawn talking till past midnight. At dawn the next morning the yard was full of newspaper and television reporters, and the three men held an impromptu press conference, Lyndon's first since the day of his heart attack. Other visitors on the political scene began to make the pilgrimage to the ranch.

Bird seldom knew how many would be there for dinner or how many would spend the night. The one thing that Bird asked of all guests was that they laugh as much as possible and show no visible reaction to Lyndon's loose-fitting clothes. She knew how susceptible he was to the dispositions of those around him.

Everyone co-operated so beautifully that his spirits began to soar. By December he was well enough to take a trip to California with Bird and Mary, to show Lynda and Lucy the charm of Disneyland. It was during that journey, Mary Rather believes, that LBJ determined to resume his duties as majority leader. It was an historic decision, since it was to lead ultimately to the Presidency.

Richard Crenna Has Prediction Come True

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fifteen years ago, Fox studios let Richard Crenna's option lapse because he "wasn't leading man material."

Did the young actor fret over it at all? Not for a minute.

"They were absolutely right," he now reasons. "I had a hunch nothing would happen to me in movies until I was 35. I photographed too young, and there aren't many good parts for young men. Anyway, female stars don't like to play opposite someone who looks like a kid."

The kicker to the story is that Dick Crenna is now back at Fox playing the title role in "John Goldfarb, Please Come Home!" opposite Shirley MacLaine. Crenna is now 37, which makes him two years late on his prediction. He might have made it sooner, but he's been busy.

Busy Since 11

Matter of fact, he's been busy since age 11. That's when he started as a radio actor, and one of the series he performed on was "Our Miss Brooks." When the show converted to television, Dick had just been dropped by Fox and he signed on.

He played the daffy high school student for four profitable years, finally graduating at age 27.

Were the studios ready for him then? Obviously not. So he signed on for six years as Luke in "The Real McCoys." He emerged a rich, unhurried man.

"I did some directing on 'McCoys'; otherwise I don't think I could have lasted," he said. "When the show was over, I didn't even want to do guest shots, although I finally did one. I started directing some Andy Griffith shows, which I found very gratifying. And I just waited."

Turns Down Comedy

Dick turned down 25 or 30 proposals for comedy series before committing himself to an hour drama out of the Bing Crosby stable, "Slattery's People." He plays the minority leader in a legislature, representing an unstated party in an unspecified state. CBS snapped it up.

Then Fox started romancing.

"You know those things happen," Dick said realistically. "A studio starts out casting by asking Jack Lemmon, Rock Hudson and 10 other big stars. They're unavailable, so the studio keeps going down the list of actors. Finally they came to me."

Director Impressed

CBS let him show the "Slattery's People" plot to Director W. Lee Thompson, who was impressed. But the acid test was Shirley MacLaine's reaction. She was flitting about Africa or someplace, and Dick's deadline for starting the series was approaching.

BIG SWEEPER SATELLITE MIGHT CLEAR RADIATION

By JOHN BARBOUR
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There may be a new job opening in near space some day—for a sort of grim sweeper to clean out the lethal nuclear neighborhoods that circle the earth.

Physicists reported today on the possibility of a sweeper satellite that would push-broom its way through the earth's radiation belts—a merry-go-round of high speed electrons and protons.

Those bits and pieces of atomic debris, trapped in the earth's magnetic field, could be a hazard for living creatures, especially space pilots caught for any period of time in their path.

Already the delicate electronics of space satellites whirling through the great belts have been damaged by the countless, tiny, bullet-like impacts.

Drs. S. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland and F. E. England of Westinghouse Electric's Aerospace Division discussed some of the possibilities in a scientific paper presented to the American Physical Society meeting.

It appears, they said, that the radiation belts—for instance those formed by the sudden, intense injection of electrons from nuclear explosions in space—are not rapidly worn out.

There is some leakage of electrons from the bottom of the belts. However, it takes little supply of new electrons to keep up the belt's strength.

So one way of diminishing the belts is by introducing an artificial earth satellite into orbit which could absorb some of the particles.

Such a satellite could be used, for instance, to sweep up the high energy electrons injected above the earth's atmosphere by the nuclear explosion called "Starfish" in July 1962.

The scientists estimated that a satellite, or a group of satellites with a cross section of about 10,000 square yards could sweep a band some 260 miles wide.

Rocket Clusters May Launch Big Payloads

By WILLIAM C. HARRISON

SUNNYVALE, Calif. (AP) —Unprecedented 100,000-pound payloads soon can be hurled into orbit by mass-produced solid rocket motors locked into clusters, says an aerospace expert.

Such loads would be seven times greater than the heaviest the Russians have been known to orbit.

Cylinders of rocket power stacked like tomato cans will be able to loft the 50 tons of useful cargo within three years, Barnet R. Adelman, president of United Technology Center, a division of United Aircraft Corp., predicts.

Segmented Rockets

The center is already producing segmented rockets for the Titan III-C, which the Air Force expects to be a work-horse booster for the next decade of space launching.

A pair of five-segment motors on the Titan III-C will provide more than two million pounds of lift-off thrust. The vehicle is scheduled for its first flight tests in 1965.

Each steel-jacketed segment of the first-stage booster is 10 feet in diameter and weighs about 50 tons when filled with rubbery fuel.

Adelman suggests clustering eight stacks of such segments, seven to a stack, for the first stage of a superspace launch vehicle. This would develop 11 million pounds of lift-off thrust.

The second stage of the superrocket would consist of four, four-segment solids, while the upper stage would be a storable liquid-propellant rocket.

Extensive design studies prove the aerodynamic soundness of this cluster configuration, Adelman says, and show a reliability of nearly 99 per cent.

Cluster Fired

Clustering rockets isn't a new idea. Last year the center test fired a cluster of 24 smaller solid-fuel segments, four six-motor stacks. Anchored to the test pad, it produced 140,000 pounds of thrust during a 14-second burning time.

The superlauncher would be as tall as a 26-story building and weigh more than seven million pounds.

It would cost substantially less than a launch vehicle of the same payload capacity using an all-liquid propellant, Adelman says.

He cites as other advantages greater reliability and simplicity with capability of launching a variety of payloads on short notice.

Rider Installs Quill, Scroll

Members of Rider High School Quill and Scroll were officially initiated at a banquet at the Western Dude Restaurant.

Miss Alma McNeill and Mrs. Jackye Plummer, sponsors of the organization, conducted the initiation ceremony with the assistance of Jackie Carrow and Connie Wilburn, members of Rider's Quill and Scroll last year.

Guest speaker was Peter Hinchliffe, reporter on the Wichita Falls Times. Also on the program were musical numbers by Joe Justin, Kathy Majewski and Elaine Bryant.

The invocation was given by Chuck Dennis. Decorations were planned by John Easterling, Terry Mill and Janice Peterson, and banquet arrangements were made by Donna Elliott and Sandra Harrison.

David Bates, president, was master of ceremonies.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Leon Parish, Mrs. S. H. Rider, Miss Louise Lipscomb, Mrs. Peter Hinchliffe and Maj. Harvey Plummer.

Valda Jones' freshmen health classes are studying the standard Red Cross first aid course now required in the health program.

This course will enable the girls to give "immediate and temporary care to the victim of an accident or sudden illness until a doctor can be obtained." At the conclusion of the course each girl will be issued a certificate if she has satisfactorily completed the course.

BAND SWEEPSTAKES — President of the Rider High School Raider Band, Johnny Crespo, is shown presenting the Sweepstakes Trophy won by the Raider Band last weekend to Principal Perry Goolsby. The trophy was won in the University Interscholastic League contest at Vernon. Since its organization, the band has won nothing but first divisions in all the contests it has entered and, consequently, has received the trophy each year. The trophy represents first division in marching, concert and sight reading. Harold Jackson is band director.

Math Teacher Is Lecturer

By KATHY MAJEWSKI

Dr. Herbert Parrish of North Texas State University, Denton, recently spoke to the Rider mathematics faculty and Glyn Wooldridge's and Donald Mahaffy's mathematics classes.

Dr. Parrish was participating in the Secondary Lectureship Program sponsored by the Mathematical Association of America and the National Science Foundation.

The general aims of the visiting lecturer were to strengthen and stimulate the mathematics programs of secondary schools, to encourage cooperation between college and secondary school mathematics staffs and to provide staff and students in secondary schools an opportunity for additional contacts with productive and creative mathematics and the teaching of mathematics.

Dr. Parrish spoke to the advanced mathematics class on "What Is the Limit Process?" He gave a lecture on "Infinite Mathematics of General Sets" to advanced algebra IV and on "The Nature of Mathematical Proof" to Wooldridge's algebra II class and to Mahaffy's advanced geometry class.

After school he spoke to the Rider mathematics faculty on "The Revolution in Mathematics."

Each of the lectures was followed by a question and answer period in which Dr. Parrish answered any of the problems the students had.

Soaring to new heights will be the boys of the Hirschi track team who participate in pole vaulting. The reason is a new lightweight fiberglass pole, that, when properly broken in, will bend and snap the vaulter to greater heights. The new pole was used in the Iowa Park tournament and helped Hirschi to take second place in pole vaulting.

ELLA MAE JESSEL

POPULAR TEACHER — Homemaking teacher at Hirschi High School is Mrs. Ella Mae Jessel, popular with students and adults alike. Mrs. Jessel keeps her students busy with interesting projects and these same girls acclaim: "Never a dull moment in her class." This teacher received her master's degree from University of Illinois after receiving her bachelor's degree from Stout State College in Menomonie, Wis. She taught in Wisconsin and then in Illinois she set up a new home economics department before coming to Hirschi. She was homemaking instructor at Zundelowitz Junior High before her transfer to Hirschi when that school was opened two years ago. Mrs. Jessel also teaches nutrition two nights a week to nurses and she sponsors the Hirschi Future Teachers of America chapter, belongs to the American Home Economics Association, Texas Home Economics Association, Delta Kappa Pi, Delta Kappa Gamma and Texas State Teachers Association. She and her husband, Merton L. Jessel, a mission programer at Sheppard Air Force Base center operations, reside at 4629 Mistletoe. Their son, David, is a freshman at Southern Methodist University.

Rules state that there can be only one entry per student and said entry must not exceed 24 lines. The poetry may be on any subject and, likewise, any form may be used.

There will be three cash prizes presented: $5 first prize, $3 second prize, and $2 for third place. There will also be one honorable mention given.

Titles of poems turned in from Hirschi are as follows: "Books," "The Old House," "Reflections on Mirrors," "Phantasmogoria," "Veni, Vidi, Vici," "Someone," and "Geometry."

FTA Scrapbook Made At Hirschi

By KAREN HILLER

A beautiful replica of the American flag first meets the eye when examining the scrapbook of the Reba Lindsey chapter of Future Teachers of America at Hirschi.

The book, compiled by Glenda Petty, FTA historian, Lois Jean Petty and Nancy Streety, is centered around the theme, "FTA in America."

Contained in the scrapbook is a tribute to late President Kennedy and also one to President Johnson. A picture of Hirschi on a background of Texas is a feature in the book.

Also featured are numerous newspaper clippings which depict the various activities in which FTA club members are involved. Such things as pictures of the sports teams and various clubs are presented.

Certain sections of the book contain pictures showing the activites of the club over the year. One such incident was the club's morning meeting at Uncle John's Pancake House earlier this year. The book is concluded with a reproduction of the school's song.

This book was entered at the state convention in Austin along with many others from numerous schools over the state. The top 10 scrapbooks received trophy awards. Hirschi's book was also displayed at the open house held at Hirschi.

THURMAN D. DAVIS

Choir Director Takes Up Art

By JOYCE YOUNG

Thurman D. Davis, choir director at Hirschi, has been participating in student art classes.

For 15 minutes each school day, Davis listens and learns the art techniques which are taught by Mrs. Linda Prevost, art instructor at Hirschi.

Davis discovered his talent for art last year when he started attending art classes and has since developed a strong feeling of perfection for his art work.

Some of his projects have been oil painting, water colors, and now sculpture which gives him a great sense of accomplishment.

His sculptured figure, "The Passion," a scene of Christ and three Marys, is done in ceramic clay. Davis plans to enlarge the figure in order for it to be cast.

Although art began as a hobby, Davis now plans to work toward a degree in art.

Other hobbies enjoyed by Davis include swimming and diving. He resides at 6715 Jeronimo with his wife, Ann and three children, Jay, Dana, and Trent.

Classroom Teacher Speaker For FTA

Mrs. Joe Haddon, Wichita Falls elementary teacher, spoke to the Rider Madge Davis Chapter of Future Teachers of America recently. Mrs. Haddon spoke on music in the elementary grades.

Mrs. Haddon, a graduate of Texas Technological University with both a bachelor's and a master's degree, has taught in all levels of school. She has taught at Texas Tech, Midland and Wichita Falls. Her teaching skills vary from math to music, but she says no matter what a person teaches he should enjoy his work and help his students to enjoy it.

Mrs. Haddon closed her speech by passing elementary music books around for the FTA members to inspect.

Mrs. Haddon is the mother of Rider teacher Miss Judy Haddon, one of the sponsors of the group.

By GLENDA BRIGHTWELL

Discipline. What is it? How many of you, when younger, thought of discipline as punishment commonly used by your parents for something which you had done wrong? Probably all of us.

But now that you have grown older, discipline should be thought of as a means of arriving at self control and self improvement and not just as a punishment.

How may we arrive at self control? By experience? Partially, but a certain virtue is also needed, that of disciplining yourself. Shouldering responsibilities plays a very important part. This leads the way to self control, self improvement and discipline.

Most of us are not trained sufficiently to entirely shoulder the responsibility of disciplining ourselves. For this reason teachers are placed in the classrooms — not to rule tyrannically, but to guide us in training ourselves.

Mrs. Brecheen Gives Talk To Homemakers

Mrs. Martha Brecheen, representative from Kruger's Jewelry, recently gave a presentation of table service to 400 Rider girls in the homemaking classes of Miss Cathryn Sands and Mrs. Nellie Cobb.

Mrs. Brecheen presented different arrangements of Lenox china, glassware and silver and gave advice on choosing these. The demonstration was given in preparation for the Lenox China 10th Annual Creative Table Setting Contest. Mrs. Brecheen also gave the girls literature on table arrangements.

Mrs. Brecheen stated that the American homemaker has a big responsibility. She stressed that it is important for girls to grasp all the knowledge possible while they are taking homemaking.

Rider Musicians Go To College Festival

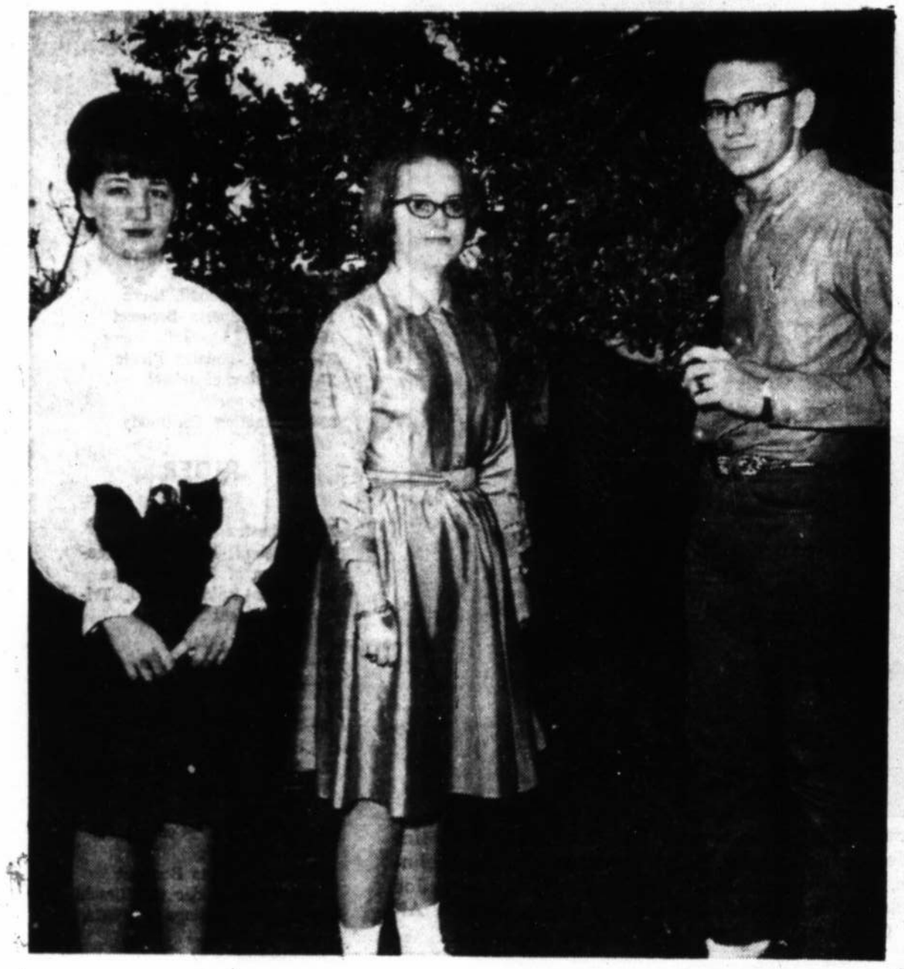

Four Rider Orchestra students recently attended the Texas String Invitational Festival, held annually at Sam Houston State College in Huntsville.

The four students, recommended to participate in the festival by David Sloan, Rider Orchestra director, were David Grote, violin, Pat Mason, violin, Sharon Owen, cello and Don Grote, viola.

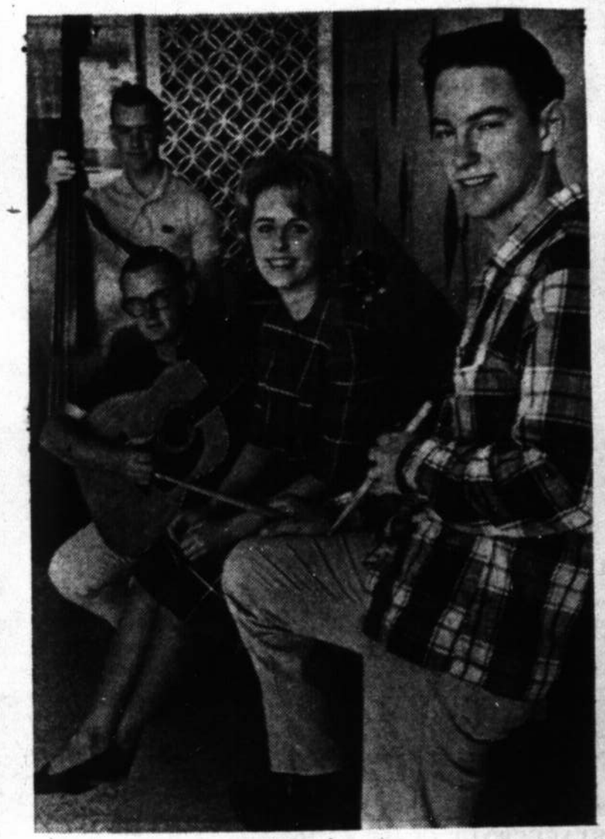

The Festival Orchestra, composed of music students from many Texas cities, rehearsed at the college and then presented a concert. The pieces played were "Fantasia" by Vaughn Williams, "Jubilee Overture" by Nelson and the "Mendelssohn Violin Concerto."

WFHS BIOLOGISTS — In front of Wichita Falls High School are three biology students who have been busy collecting plants grown in this area. The trio has been studying local plant life in the class of William T. Falls, head of the biology department at WFHS. The students are, left to right, Wyvonna Mullins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Mullins, 1604 Best; Dixie Boyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boyle, 2128 Avenue J and Mike Du Shane, son of Mrs. Leretta Tomerlin, 1500 Broad.

Civics Teachers Use Newspapers

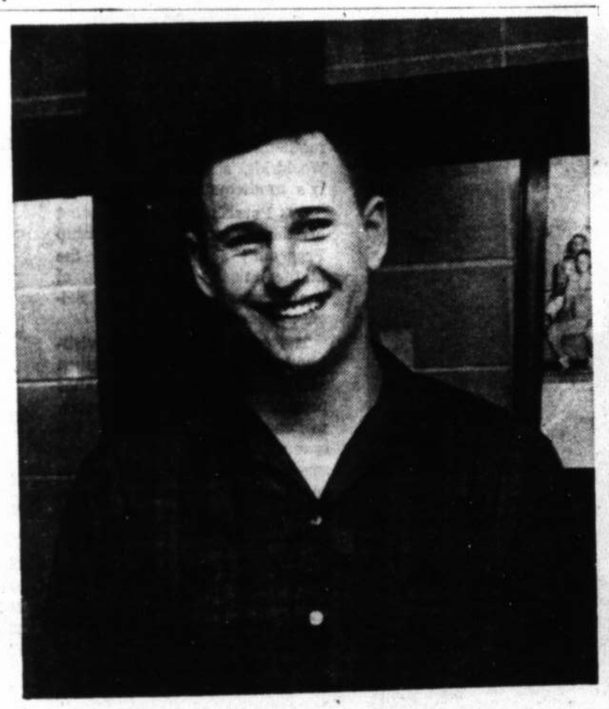

The civics teachers of Wichita Falls High School make use of the local newspapers in their classes in an effort to stimulate interest in civics and current events among their students.

The local newspapers are used to bring the textbook study of civics up to date and to illustrate the fundamental use of civics in everyday life.

Miss Mary Byrd, civics teacher at WFHS, emphasized this point by stating, "The real importance of civics is its practice and use in the daily lives of all citizens."

She added that the students learn of new legislation which affects civics through the daily newspapers, and therefore, they should always read the newspapers to become familiar with all current events.

Mrs. Johnette Ray, the new Spanish teacher at Wichita Falls High School, not only teaches her first year students the basic fundamentals of Spanish, but she lectures once a week on the cultural points of interest of American neighbors. Subjects she has previously discussed are the pageantry of bullfights, historical landmarks around Mexico City and a weekend excursion in Acapulco, Mexico.

DON PARKER

NO STRANGER — This new senior at Hirschi High School, Don Parker, is no stranger to the school — he recently returned to HHS from Chateaurous, France, to graduate with the Hirschi class. His father, Col. Charles H. Parker, a dentist in the Air Force, is stationed in France. Last year Don was president of the junior class, president of Boys Gym Leaders and a member of the Husky golf team. While in France Don participated in many activities and was an outstanding athlete, earning All-France honors as a member of the Chateaurous Sabres football team. An honor student, Don plans to enter Texas Technological College next fall.

Advertising Is Basis Of Talk

By CHERYL ELAM

The Wichita Falls High School senior distributive education class heard Stuart Beck, advertising manager of Wichita Falls Times and Record News, speak about retail advertising after touring Times Square recently.

Retail advertising, which the class was studying, is only one phase of advertising, Beck pointed out. Advertising is classified as retail, general or national and classified, which includes want ads and display.

The purpose of advertising is to turn the attention of others; to be successful in advertising, he stated, a store owner should spend approximately three per cent of his gross business. No matter how a businessman advertises, all advertising is good, the speaker stressed.

What a store advertises depends on what it sells, Beck said. A store's image reflects its volume of business, price range and merchandise mark up. Beck compared various types of stores, such as prestige, promotional, popular price and outlet stores.

Beck has nine salesmen who call on stores that decide on advertising in the newspaper. The stores decide on the size of their ads; and the salesmen design the layouts. The newspaper's responsibility is to print the ads correctly.

Every ad is basically the same and very simple in layout, Beck said. The layout, or design, must have a headline to attract attention; art work, which can be a mat or a glossy picture; selling copy to let the reader see and "feel" the merchandise; the store's signature.

A new printing process for advertisements is called hi-fi, which uses slick paper and lots of color.

Mrs. Julia Moose, D-E coordinator, and her husband Dr. J. E. Moose, accompanied the group.

High School Guild Takes Dallas Trip

Recently the Amateur Guild of Wichita Falls High School took a bus trip to the Dallas Theatre Center to see Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors."

The group did some sightseeing and had a luncheon before the play which was followed by supper in downtown Dallas.

The members of the Guild were accompanied by their teachers, Mrs. Elizabeth Moss and Miss Delenna Rogers.

Of the play Miss Rogers said "It was especially interesting to the class because of its Roman style and the various costume combinations."

Stocks Stage Mild Recovery

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market staged a mild recovery late this afternoon. Trading was moderate. Airlines were strong.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.7 million shares compared with 5.09 million Monday.

Key stocks advanced from fractions to a point.

The market was higher from the start and improved gradually in later dealings.

Airlines, some of which have been subject to sharp profit taking, rebounded. Western Air Lines rose more than 4, Delta more than 2, Northwest about 3.

Texas Gulf Sulphur continued in heavy demand and rose more than 2, making a new high. Curtis Publishing strung along with a fractional gain.

Some of the cigarette stocks appeared unsettled by the proposed new advertising code for the cigarette industry. Liggett & Myers sank more than a point.

The nonferrous metals group improved slowly. Anaconda climbed about a point.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mostly unchanged.

Cotton Mart Shows Hike

NEW YORK (AP)—Cotton was mostly higher today. Nearby May strengthened on short covering. Two May delivery notices were issued, but one circulated in the trade going into the early afternoon, dealers said. Buying was credited mostly to commission houses.

The market was hesitant, pending clarification of the new cotton bill and its effects on open market prices.

Late afternoon prices were unchanged to 65 cents a bale higher. May 33.95, July 31.30, October 28.62.

Lodge And Barry Battle It Out

BOSTON (AP) — The Lodge and Goldwater forces are battling it out today for delegates in the Massachusetts presidential primary.

Rival slates are on the Republican ballot for delegate at large and also in 10 of the 12 congressional districts.

Slates in two of the congressional districts are running as pledged to Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz. However, under Massachusetts law, pledges are not finally binding on delegates to the national political conventions.

Regardless of the outcome in the delegate contests, Lodge is expected to be the front runner as a favorite son in the presidential preference write-in on the Republican ballot. The preference write-in is not binding on the delegates.

On the Democratic side, President Lyndon B. Johnson is expected to be the winner of the preference poll.

However, many Massachusetts Democrats who would like to see Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy become the vice presidential candidate, are expected to enter his name in the preference box.

The attorney general and his brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy—both younger brothers of the late President John F. Kennedy—are candidates for delegate at large.

Brockett said first quarter earnings were seven per cent higher than last year.

World-wide volumes also touched new highs with net crude oil production in the United States exceeding 400,000 barrels per day for the first time.

Increases were recorded also in natural gas output and the world-wide sales of refined products and petrochemicals. Crude oil processed was up 10 per cent to average 1,106,386 barrels per day.

Primary Officials Offered Schools

Two schools of instruction for officials who will work in the election primaries Saturday—one open to both Democrats and Republicans and the other exclusively for the GOP—have been scheduled.

The training session which is open to anyone, regardless of political party affiliation, will be held at 7.30 p.m. Tuesday at the court house, according to County Judge Calvin Ashley. He said the meeting is open to anyone interested in learning how an election is conducted.

In connection with this traditional training school, W. T. (Dub) Zimmerman, Democratic chairman for Wichita County, has urged all Democratic election judges and primary officials to plan to attend since "important announcements and instructions will be made."

Zimmerman said that all precinct chairmen, whether or not they are election offieials, are invited to attend.

The second training class—for Republican election officials only—will be held at 7.30 p.m. Thursday at the Young Men's Christian Association, according to N. A. Steed, GOP county chairman.

Democrats and Republicans alike will go to the polls between 7 a.m. and 7 p.m. Saturday.

Methodist Church Hears Racial Talks

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Methodist Church is under appeal from a Philadelphia minister and a lay leader to cleanse itself of racial segregation.

The two speakers asked Monday that the 900 delegates at the 1964 General Conference rid the church of the Central Jurisdiction.

The conference, which convenes every four years to set policy for the 12-million member church, opened Sunday in Pittsburgh's modernistic Civic Arena for a two-week session.

The Rev. Robert A. Raines, pastor of the integrated First Methodist church of Germantown, said in a sermon that "God clearly is calling Methodists in 1964 to eliminate the racial cancer of the Central Jurisdiction from its body."

Separate Division

The Central Jurisdiction is a separate division of the Methodist Church which is composed of 375,000 Negroes.

Abolishment of the jurisdiction and the merging of its conferences with white conferences is one of the top issues to be considered during the meeting.

"We are not asked to demonstrate," he said, "to march in the streets, to lie beneath bulldozers."

Segregation Urged

Dr. W. Astor Kir, a Negro and a layman serving on the General Board of Christian Social Concerns in Washington, told newsmen that the church should not stop with eradication of the Central Jurisdiction.

The church should "abolish all other forms of segregation all the way down to the local church level," he said.

The Methodist Board of Missions informed the conference by report that nationalism and the emergence of new nations have had contrasting affects on the missionary movement.

The report noted that the spread of nationalism among new nations has caused difficulty to American and European missionaries in some areas.

It added that other nationals "are led to see the Christian religion not merely as a Western importation but as a faith for all men everywhere."

Two Capture Wanted Man

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—A barefoot policeman and a former college wrestler teamed up Monday to capture one of the FBI's 10 most wanted criminals.

He is Frank Dumont, 42, convicted six times since 1936 and wanted in Pocatello, Idaho, on charges of burglary and the assault of a 14-year-old girl.

The manager of a Tucson apartment house spotted Dumont rifling through an apartment, and alerted two tenants, off-duty policemen Richard Milne and Robert Wilson.

A third tenant, Dennis Favero saw Milne race barefooted after the fleeing Dumont and joined in. Wilson had gone to get a car.

Milne caught up with Dumont and as the two battled, Favero, a University of Arizona graduate student and former Notre Dame wrestler, arrived and applied a hammerlock on Dumont.

"All right," Milne quoted Dumont as saying, "There's too many of you. I'll go peacefully."

Center Fund Now $106,716

Contributions to the Salvation Army's Welfare Center building fund soared to $106,716 at a Tuesday report meeting where it was decided to extend the drive until May 12.

Goal in the campaign is $150,000.

The drive office, which has been furnished free by E. F. Hutton Co., in the Hamilton Bldg., will be closed Wednesday and all contributions should be taken or mailed to the Salvation Army headquarters, 810 Seventh, Brig. William T. Johnson, said.

Presiding at Tuesday's meeting was J. Howard Morgan, general gifts chairman. Special gifts totaling $79,616, were reported by Marvin E. McCullough, general chairman of the campaign.

"Sally Awards" were presented to Ed Baggett and his team, captain Woody Partee and worker Jim Cargal. Tuesday's team award went to Steve Howle.

Bill Bass gave a short pep talk, expressing appreciation for the workers' efforts.

Because there are still some 400 prospect cards yet to be worked, it was decided to extend the drive.

Johnson related that while the average gift in the general campaign has been $85, even the very small donations are greatly appreciated. He cited the instance of the first contribution which was turned in at the office in the Hamilton Bldg. It was a $1 gift from a maid who worked there.

He told how one well-to-do man told him that he felt his wealth was a sacred trust and by giving to the Salvation Army's fund he was putting that trust to proper use.

Johnson also said that mail-in contributions are numerous and are expected to continue coming.

President Gives Masterful Performance Before Chamber

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson, sailing high with increasing confidence in himself and his campaign to be all things to all people, has just given a masterful performance and a great insight into how he is going about it.

In his speech to the U.S. Chamber of Commerce Monday he pulled out all the stops, touching each listener, and each reader later, with appeals to the various motivations of a man in the American society today.

There was something in it for the rich, the poor, for conservatives, for liberals, for the sick, the old, the untrained, and the young ambitious.

What he said Monday and how he said it—since he is going to run for election in November—can be taken as the key to the directions his political campaign will take, and how he'll handle it.

While this was a speech to businessmen it was also a tremendous political speech.

He appealed to his listeners' desire for frugality in government and their own desire to make money; to their desire for peace and at the same time for military security; to their humanity, their compassion, and their patriotism.

It was all there but he was careful, although you might not notice the various transitions, to humanize himself in the process by shifting from soaring sentences to homey phrases and homely images, like the old house where he was born. He says he keeps a picture of it in his bedroom.

The implication he got across was that what he could do any American could do in his rise from humble beginnings to the White House — if he had the chance. And he was asking everyone to pitch in to help everyone get the chance.

Thus the picture of Lyndon Johnson which emerged from all he said—modestly, as if in passing, but certainly intentionally—was that of an American epic which didn't have to be unique.

In short, he made the widest kind of appeal to the greatest number of people for he knew far more people would be reading later what he said than could be jammed together to hear him Monday.

He started out with a fairly short, prepared speech which might have taken 13 minutes to deliver. By the time he got through adding to it, sometimes in a rambling but humorous way, he had talked an hour.

The chamber members and their wives at the end gave him such a prolonged, standing ovation that he had to take what amounted to two curtain calls. Twice he had to return to wave thanks.

Some of the techniques—

The homely phrase: "You can go home and tell your friends that you have an independent, taxpayin', light-bill-savin' President in the White House."

Patriotism: "I believe this strong and this rich and this successful nation can bring peace to the world and I believe it so strongly I am going to work for it and fight for it and I hope I get it."

The homely image: "I have a little house where I was born, the son of a tenant farmer, a picture of which is hanging up in my bedroom (in the White House), because every night when I go to bed and every morning when I wake up, I call it the 'opportunity house.'"

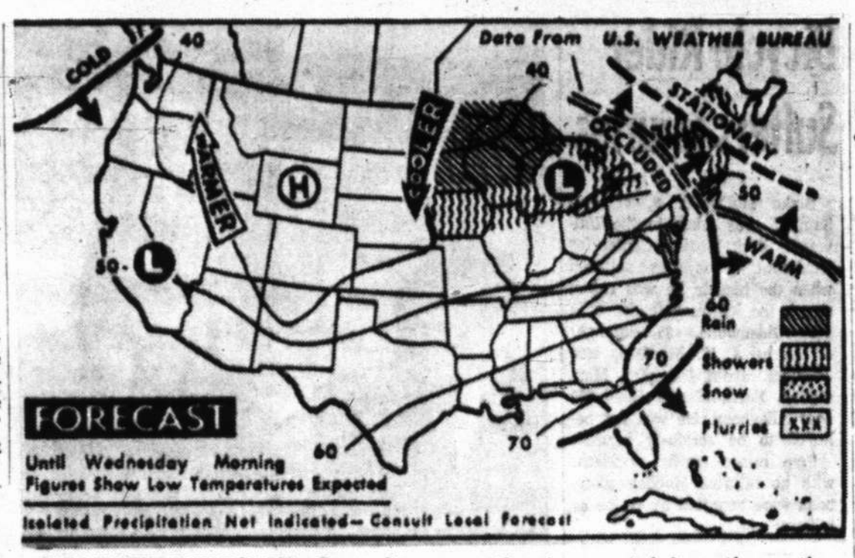

His appeals—

To frugality and the desire to make money: he promised less government spending, pointing out he reduced the budget, less government jobs, and predicted 1964 would bring industry $30 billion in profits.

To humanity and self-interest: in soliciting help for his fight on poverty, unemployment, medical care for the aged, job training, he said, "Unless you attack the causes of poverty itself, you are going to be shoveling it out to the tax-eaters instead of producing and training tax-payers.

As indications of his efforts and good times ahead he pointed to the rail dispute he helped settle; the tax cut he got through Congress; figures on a rising economy; military strength; shutdown of needless military installations.

He didn't quite follow the advice he quoted from George Washington: "Let your discourse with men of business be short and comprehensive." Johnson's speech wasn't short but it was comprehensive.

WEATHER FORECAST—Generally fair skies and warmer temperatures are predicted through Wednesday for the Wichita Falls area while elsewhere, rain is predicted Tuesday night for the upper Mississippi Valley into New England. Cooler weather is expected from the northern Plains to the North Atlantic states. A warming trend will continue over the Plateau states and southern Plains with little change elsewhere. Johnson's Reception By Chamber Astonishing

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—If his reception by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce is a reliable indicator, President Johnson has won the general approval of the nation's business community.

But many of those who applauded or laughed 60 times during his hour's rambling discourse before the group Monday obviously are going to take a hard look at Johnson's dealings with the big labor unions before they reach any final political judgments on him.

Johnson's reception by the chamber was an astonishing one. After his speech, one member of the overwhelmingly Republican audience observed:

Damaged Republicans

"Maybe not a soul here will vote for him. But he's sure done some damage to Republican campaign contributions."

Another commented: "This fellow is trying to get elected unanimously."

The chamber is historically a poor audience for Democrats. The late Paul Butler, when Democratic national chairman, was booed during one hot debate on government welfare spending.

President John F. Kennedy, in his lone appearance at a chamber session, received little more than polite applause.

Although former President Dwight D. Eisenhower never missed addressing the chamber's annual meeting in his eight years in office, the friendly receptions he received never approached the storm of applause that Johnson won Monday.

More Remarkable

The chamber's applause for Johnson was the more remarkable because Edwin P. Neilan, retiring chamber president, has been stumping the country for months denouncing the administration's domestic policy.

Johnson warmed his business listeners with a forecast that profits after taxes will reach $30 billion this year, up nearly $3 billion over 1963.

But some were not so enthusiastic about his statement that he is going to call on industry later to reduce some prices for the benefit of consumers.

Perhaps Puzzled

They may have been a little puzzled as to just what he meant, but they clapped loudly when he added: "And then, in the same week, I am going to call in the leaders of the working men and tell them the same thing."

The general feeling among politicians is that Johnson will be presented with a number of opportunities to try out his persuasive powers on labor before the election. His roughest test may come in the United Auto Workers' bargaining with the motor manufacturers late this summer.

Top labor leaders have endorsed Johnson and can be expected to back his bid for election. But as AFL-CIO President George Meany made it clear to the chamber audience, labor is less than charmed by Johnson's efforts to establish guidelines beyond which he doesn't think their wage demands ought to go. Meany said the government has no right to set wage and price guidelines and to exert pressure at the bargaining table.

Issues Warning

The President has laid down the general principle that increases ought to be pegged to productivity gains and living costs. He has cautioned against inflationary settlements.

Johnson needs the support of labor, which is best organized and most effective in the big industrial states where he presumably is weakest politically.

While he hangs on to this essential backing, the President clearly will try to avoid dampening the good will among business men which has contributed to the widespread popularity now credited to him.

In general, business men seem to feel that Johnson understands their problems. They have noted his long connection with the oil fraternity and that some of his best personal friends are business men. They like his announced intention to run a frugal government.

Candidates File Reports

AUSTIN (AP) — Figures at the secretary of state's office show Democratic Senate candidate Gordon McLendon has reported the biggest spending among Texas politicians.

McLendon has spent $231,182 through April 26. Sen. Ralph Yarborough reported spending $75,246.

Republican Senate candidates showed $123,922 spent by George Bush, Jack Cox reported $32,665; Milton Davis, $16,810; and Robert Morris, 13,614.

Gov. John Connally has outpent his main opponent, Don Yarborough, $98,164 to $49,218.

McLendon reported gifts of $37,997, loans of $100,000, payments of $231,182 and a deficit of $93,184. Yarborough said his gifts totaled $74,262; payments $75,246 and debts, $59,097.

Humane Group Yells At LBJ

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals said today the organization is "very much against" President Johnson, or anybody, picking up dogs by the ears.

The President picked up his two beagle pups, Him and Her, by the ears on the White House lawn Monday. He said he did it "to make Him bark."

"It's good for him," Johnson said, "and if you've ever followed dogs you like to hear them yelp."

The spokesman for the SPCA in New York said picking up dogs by the ears hurts them as much as it would hurt people to pick them up by the ear.

Asked whether yelping was good for dogs, he said his only comment was that "If somebody picked you up by the ears, you'd yelp too."

John Neff, executive vice president of the American Kennel Club, said he had never heard that Johnson's treatment was good for beagles.

Evelyn Monte, New York dog expert and field trial judge, said the dogs probably yelped because of pain, and that handlers sometimes pinch a dog's ears to punish him.

She said Johnson's remarks were strange "coming from a man who says he likes dogs."

Junior Editors Quiz on DRYCELLBATTERY

QUESTION: Can a dry cell battery be recharged?

• • •

ANSWER: Batteries have one or more units called cells and each of these has two "electrodes" inside made of different materials. These give off the electricity and have terminals at the top to which the wires are attached. In the dry cell (upper left) the central electrode is of carbon and the outer one of zinc—this being the battery container. Batteries also contain a chemical substance called an "electrolyte" which attacks the electrodes and builds up electricity in them as it does so. In the upper battery the electrolyte is a moist paste of various chemicals. Such a battery will give out electricity as long as the materials inside go on attacking each other; but when they are used up, the battery goes dead. After this it cannot be recharged.

This is not the case with the other main kind of battery, called a secondary or storage battery. In this, such as in the battery in your family car, electricity must come into it first—it is electricity made by the electric generator of your car's engine which charges up your battery. The battery stores this power, and when you need to start your car it will send out electricity by its own chemical process. It will go dead, however, unless a generator charges it again.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Ask your father or mother to point out, on the instrument panel of your car, a needle or light which shows the battery either charging or discharging. Watch this as you drive and you will see how the car charges up the battery so that the battery can start the car.

Oklahomans To Visit City

A three-bus caravan will bring 75 Oklahoma City businessmen on a goodwill visit to Wichita Falls Thursday.

One of the main events of the visit, which is part of an annual goodwill tour sponsored by the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce, will be a 7 p.m. dinner meeting in the Holiday Inn. Wichita Falls businessmen are invited to attend this function. Tickets are available from the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce offices in the Hamilton Building.

Truett H. Coston, nationally known architect, who has offices in Oklahoma City, will be guest speaker for the dinner.

Another part of the program will include the famous all-girl Kiltie Band from Oklahoma City.

Major purpose of the goodwill tour is to become better acquainted with all citizens in the southwest. The first tour was made by the Oklahoma City Chamber of Commerce in the early 1900s by train. There has been a trip each year since that time, with the exception of the war years.

Jack LaMonte, president of the Mistletoe Express Co., is leading the tour. Other members of the delegation are R. G. Miller, Cowboy Pink Williams, William E. Ware and James Bullard.

The Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors will greet the goodwill delegation along with some 10 officers and directors of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

Accident Delays Candidate Visit

Dan Sullivan, candidate for the Democratic nomination for congressman-at-large, who was scheduled to arrive in Wichita Falls Monday night, was delayed due to an automobile accident near Plainview.

Neither he nor his father-in-law, Vernon Anderson, who is traveling with him during his final swing through Texas cities, were injured in the accident.

Sullivan, an Andrews, Tex., attorney who is making his first race for congress, was en route from Lubbock, where he had campaigned earlier in the day, Monday, to Amarillo when the accident occurred.

He said, in a telephone call to the Times Tuesday morning, that an accident had happened, blocking the highway, and when he came upon it he swerved to avoid a collision and rammed into a guard rail.

His car was badly damaged and had to be left at Plainview for repair while he took a bus onto Amarillo. The delay caused him to miss a dinner which had been scheduled for him in Amarillo.

A former district attorney for three West Texas counties, Sullivan said that he would be on into Wichita Falls sometime Tuesday afternoon. He will have to leave Tuesday night for Sherman and planned appearances there.

SEARS' DAYS SALE OPENS WEDNESDAY

SALE HEADQUARTERS—Bargains galore will be available for thrifty shoppers who visit the downtown store of Sears, Roebuck & Co., Ltd., in Wichita Falls during Sears Days Sale, which runs from Wednesday, April 29, to Saturday, May 9.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. — the most famous name in retail trading in the length and breadth of America — will offer a bargain bonanza to cash-conscious North Texans during the Sears' Days Sale which opens Wednesday and runs through Saturday, May 9, at the firm's downtown store in Wichita Falls.

During the 10 day sale, bargain-priced goods will be on offer in all 46 departments of the store, which is located at Ninth and Scott. Savings of up to 50 per cent will be offered on some items.

Incidentally, sale priced goods will also be offered at Sears Automotive Center, which is located at Twelfth and Lamar.

Door Prizes

Sears will hold open house at the downtown store Tuesday evening from 6:30 to 9 p.m. to give customers a preview of merchandise being offered during the sale days.

Also on Tuesday there will be door prizes, free movie shows for the kids while mom and dad shop, and free refreshments for the family. The prizes include a hi-fi phonograph, a boy's or girl's bike, a coffeemaker, a hand-mixer, a gym set and a choice of either a man's or a woman's watch.

Sears' of course, sells just about everything you can name: from a safety pin to the very latest color tv set. You can buy an item for a nickel; or some luxury product which will cost almost $1,000.

The firm has some 170 employes in Wichita Falls. Besides the downtown store and the automotive center, they operate warehouses on Pecan and Barwise Streets. They also have a service center, located at 1101 Indiana, which provides service for every mechanical item sold by the firm.

The downtown store was one of the first to be remodelled in Wichita Falls after World War II. Down the years, its handsome exterior has become synomous with good - quality merchandise and fair-price trading.

Here Since 1928

Sears is in its 78th year as a trading organization, and the firm has been in Wichita Falls since 1928. The firm is an active participant in civic affairs, doing its share to see that Wichita Falls progresses as a city.

Of course, Sears is still king of the mail order business, and its world famous catalogue gets bigger and better every year. This year's catalogue for example contains more than 200,000 separate items.

D. J. Battle stated that preparations for the Sears Days Sale began as long ago as last December. Sears buyers went on a nation - wide search to secure the very best goods for the sale.

when you need your phone
you can count on it

A freckle-faced miss invites a playmate over . . . Dad tracks down a hard-to-find gadget for the workshop . . . Mom gets a recipe from a friend. Whatever the need, people take it for granted their phone will work. What else that you use so often is so dependable?

Making telephones so reliable takes complex equipment, technical improvements and, above all, carefully trained telephone people.

The payoff for these things comes when you pick up the receiver and your phone works, and works well. Our goal is telephone service that continues to grow in dependability, convenience and personal value.

Scranton Popularity Due Test In Primary

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Gov. William W. Scranton's stature as a potential Republican presidential candidate may be rated by his home state voters Tuesday.

It will be by a write-in vote on a primary ballot that lists no presidential possibilities, either Republican or Democratic.

The main contest is for the Democratic nomination as U.S. senator.

Scranton backers, apparently acting on their own, are behind a drive to get so many write-ins that it will cause the 46-year-old, first-term governor to change his stand that he does not want the nomination.

None of the Republican presidential hopefuls campaigned in the state but backers of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona say they expect to pick up six to eight of the 54 convention delegates to be chosen.

Scranton has asked for an unpledged delegation, with himself as chairman in a "favorite son" role. The 10 at-large delegates already picked have agreed to this.

Goldwater forces say anything less than 800,000 write-ins for Scranton should be regarded as repudiation of him as presidential timber. Craig Truax, state GOP chairman, calls the Goldwater claim ridiculous.

Truax says he is hopeful of 100,000 votes for Scranton. He points to the difficulty of writing-in names on automatic voting machines—used in much of the state—and says he doubts one voter in five will take the time. Truax says he distributed 500,000 write-in stickers with Scranton's name. Party leaders in Philadelphia have come up with a rubber stamp that can be used for Scranton on the machines in this city which has about one-fifth of the state's population.
