

Fire Department Members Assume Duties As Waiters Friday For Fish Dinner At Theodore's

Along The Waterfront

C. E. Ussery and friends were out on his boat, the "Cat Bird," Friday and spent the night at Cedar Bayou, where they caught 150 trout.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Paschal of Dallas were Rockport visitors this past weekend. On Friday they brought in 30 reds, 19 trout and four gafftops, caught from his own boat. The Paschals would like to build a home in Rockport or vicinity if they can find a suitable building site.

Frank Merritt and party of Waco, Texas, went fishing with Henry Ballou Wednesday and brought in 102 trout and one redfish.

Mills Wharf reports some mighty good fishing over there this last week even though they have two of their boats in dry dock for repairs and repainting, and when the weather permits. For instance, Mr. and Mrs. Graham McCullum of San Antonio went out with Harry Mills on the "Sonata" and brought back 55 trout, 12 medium sized redfish, four drums, five gafftops and 13 redfish that weighed 55 pounds dressed. The largest one weighed 10 pounds after it was dressed.

J. D. Gunn and Marlin Tatum of Austin went out with Herbert Mills last Thursday and caught 96 trout.

Ellis Dentler of Houston and Grover Shoemaker of Lamar went fishing with Herbert Mills and caught 55 trout last Monday.

Harry Mills took Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Wells of San Antonio and H. H. Roberts of Fulton for a fishing trip Sunday morning and they brought back one large red, 12 good-sized reds, five drums, and seven trout.

Roadside Improvement For Aransas County Gets Underway

The Citizens' Organization for Roadside Improvement of Aransas County met at the Court House with the District Chairman Judge B. S. Fox and Rudolph Riefkegel, Senior Landscape Advisor of the Highway Department, to get organized for a campaign to have a county-selected tree and shrub to be planted by the highways and roadsides of Aransas County as a Living Memorial to the members of the armed forces of World War II.

Mrs. Jack Hagar, County Chairman, and Morgan C. Wheeler were present to discuss with Riefkegel and Fox the program and methods of inaugurating this program in this county. The program also has as another objective the clean-up of property adjacent to the highways and will include the planting of shrubs or trees in private yards in memory of those who served in the armed forces.

They made plans to ask the various civic organizations of Rockport, such as the Chamber of Commerce, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the various church groups, to work with the Citizens' Organization in accomplishing this program for Aransas County.

Mrs. Hagar was selected to serve as County Chairman by the District Engineer, Thomas C. Davis, upon the recommendation of the Maintenance Foreman.

Rio Theatre to Open At Seven on Friday

Ed Barnard announced today that the Rio Theatre will be open at seven p.m. Friday, Sept. 27, and will be open until ten p.m. with only one show being run. During the rest of the football season, there will be only one shown on Friday nights when the Pirates play in Rockport, and it will be from seven to ten p.m.

Local Fishermen Donate 100 Pounds of Trout And Red Fish

There will be several members of the Fire Department acting as waiters at Theodore's Cafe Friday, September 27th, between the hours of eleven a.m. and seven p.m. to serve the fish dinners Theodore is giving for the benefit of the Fire Department.

They will act as the entire staff with the exception of the kitchen for Theodore during the time the dinners are being served. The entire proceeds from these dinners will go to the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department for the purpose of repairing the old fire truck. If there is anything left over from the expenses of repairing the truck the balance will be placed in the Fire Department's equipment fund for use when the need for new equipment or repairs arises.

Fish Donated By Local Men

Shorty Townsend furnished his boat the "Snooks" and Gerald and George Adolphus, Alvin Linn, Fred Hunt, and Lloyd Lassiter went out fishing Wednesday morning to furnish what fish they could catch to Theodore for the dinners. They brought back about one hundred pounds of trout and redfish. The only large redfish caught were brought in by Lloyd Lassiter who caught five of them. Townsend, Linn, and Gerald and George Adolphus all turned down fishing parties Wednesday morning to make this trip for the benefit of the Fire Department.

Gerald Adolphus caught more fish than George Adolphus and Alvin Linn together, according to Townsend. Ernest Tedford, Jake Weber, and Alvin Brundrett furnished the bait for the party and Charlie Silberstein iced it down and took care of it for the fishing trip.

Correction Of Article In Last Week's Pilot

In the story of these dinners in last week's Pilot, the Editor failed to correct his notes of the Fire Department meeting to show that Theodore intends to give the total amount that is received to the Fire Department. He originally planned to keep twenty-five percent of the proceeds to pay his employees, but since the Fire Department members will be acting as waiters he will give the entire amount that is received to the Department. The Pilot regrets very much that the discrepancies in the two stories occurred and takes this means to correct that error in the article regarding the Fire Department meeting.

BEACH PURCHASED BY NAVIGATION COMMISSION

The Navigation Commission announced today that it has purchased the buildings at The Beach from F. C. Simpson and C. A. Duck, with Simpson and Duck to retain their personal property and equipment and to quit business and move out by October 15, 1946.

The Commission said that it had purchased these improvements on the property in order to settle the controversy between the Commission and the proprietors of The Beach. In the agreement, the owners of The Beach were allowed until the 15th of October in order to facilitate the removal of their equipment and personal property.

City Council Lowers Tax On Taxis; Study Idea of Dairy Law

The City Council in its regular meeting Tuesday night lowered the occupation tax on taxis from one hundred dollars per year to twenty-five dollars per year after it had received complaints that the tax was too high for the amount of business a taxi can do in Rockport.

The council studied the possibility of setting up a dairy ordinance or an ordinance regulating the staking of domestic animals on property within the city limits. The council was informed that the staking of cows, horses, or other such animals within the city limits definitely creates a health hazard and should be regulated much more closely if not eliminated entirely. There was no final action taken on this ordinance, but it was to be brought up at the next meeting for final consideration.

Mayor Albert Collier sitting as Judge of the Corporation Court listened to evidence for and against H. V. Duncan of Aransas Pass for violation of the house moving ordinance of the City and assessed a fine of $25.00 and ordered Duncan to post a bond with the City for any future work he may wish to do in Rockport, after Duncan pleaded guilty to the charges.

The evening program began at 8 o'clock and was open to the public. It opened with the presentation of the flag and the pledge to the flag. Mike Peveto gave the principle address which was followed by a one-act play and a tap dance and skit by the Kingsville and Sinton lodges respectively. There were other numbers on the program by the various lodges present, followed by a talk by Miss Ida Mae Harvey, second vice-president of the Blue Bonnet Association, on the "Purpose of the Blue Bonnet Association."

Miss Katie Lee Clarke was program chairman for the meeting.

Fire Prevention Week To Be Observed October 6-12

The President has proclaimed October 6th to 12th as Fire Prevention Week, to focus the eyes of the nation on an important problem.

There will be close to ten thousand deaths and around five hundred million dollars in fire damage during the year 1947. Now is the time to check war-weary equipment and wiring and to repair it or replace it as soon as possible. Now is the time to clean up attics, cellars and flues - - to place inflammable materials away from fire exposure.

Now is the time to promise yourself not to be careless with matches, not to be careless while smoking. The President said that much of this tragedy and economic loss can be avoided if people will exercise more care.

San Patricio County Has Date Set For Dry Election

Voters of San Patricio county will go to the polls Saturday, October 5th to decide whether the county will remain partly dry or entirely dry following the filing of a petition with the court September 9th requesting such an election.

Meeting in Sinton Saturday the Court set the election date after most of the 760 names had been certified. The present laws permit local option, some of the communities of San Patricio County being dry while others are wet. A negative vote will leave the County as it is; whereas an affirmative vote will place the entire county in the dry classification.

The petition was presented to the court by a committee representing the Ministerial Association of San Patricio County and bore names from all of the 17 precincts in the county.

The council requested that season tickets be honored and that the programs that have been printed for use in Rockport be sold at the game also. The Refugio officials agreed to this proposal.

Aransas County To Be Sprayed With DDT

The Rockport Chamber of Commerce announced Tuesday that it had contacted Representative John E. Lyle in Corpus Christi and requested that he try to obtain a Navy plane to spray Aransas County with DDT to destroy the mosquitoes that have descended on the County as a result of the heavy rains lately.

Representative Lyle reported that the U. S. Public Health Service had authorized the purchase of enough DDT to spray 276 square miles and that a Navy plane will be sent down from Washington D. C. in a few days. Just as soon as the rains have ceased the plane will spray all of Live Oak Peninsula and Aransas Pass.

Motorcade To Refugio

There will be a Motorcade leaving the high school at 6:15 p.m. and any persons who have room to take someone with them are asked to please arrange to go by the high school so that everyone who wishes to see the game may be able to go. Morgan C. Wheeler, Superintendent of Schools, said that there will be two extra busses leaving the high school at the same time to furnish the students with transportation to the game.

This will be their fourth game of the season which they have started very successfully. The Pirates have looked very impressive in running up a total score of 65 points to their first three opponents total of six points. However, that is not the entire story on their game as they have gained a total of 821 yards from scrimmage in the three games to their opponents total of 262 yards.

The Shallow T formation devised by Jack Sanders, now coaching at Trinity University in San Antonio, has worked beautifully for the Pirates' offensive game. But it has been put pretty well in the shade by their Shutting Line on the defense. They have held their first three opponents, among them being one Class A team which outweighed them at least 15 pounds per man, to an average of 87 and a half yards per game gained from scrimmage, and this figure includes both the ground and air attacks.

In addition to allowing only one touchdown for three games, which was pushed over by Aransas Pass late in that game, the Pirates have held their opponents so well that they have only threatened to score seriously one other time.

Here's how the Pirates scoring has come about. Joe Johnson, Jr., leads in points with five touchdowns and four extra points to his credit for a total of thirty-four points. Russell Rowe follows with three touchdowns for a total of 18 points. Denny Smith and Gene Lassiter have credit for one touchdown each for six points, and Vincent Corpus scored one extra point to bring the total to 65 points for the Pirates first three games.

A capacity crowd is expected to turn out for the Pirate-Bobcat game. The Pirates have played to near capacity crowds at all of its games so far under adverse weather conditions and large numbers of mosquitoes.

Chamber of Commerce Meeting Wednesday

The Chamber of Commerce will meet at the Delmar Grill at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday night, October second for its regular monthly luncheon and business meeting.

A report is due from Hugh Morrison on the plans for constructing a shuffle board and other types of activities for Rockport's winter guests close to the turning basin.

Miss Iris Sorenson has been selected as the corresponding secretary for the Chamber of Commerce and the office will be a Judy's Library. Morgan C. Wheeler, requests that all members be present at this meeting as there will be several subjects brought up for discussion that will be of interest to everyone.

Richard H. Deupree, president of Proctor & Gamble Co., was once a soap salesman.

Three months of formal schooling comprised the education of Thomas Edison who patented 1039 inventions.

Eastern Star

Holds Initiation

The local Order of the Eastern Star met last week in the Masonic Hall with Mrs. Ruth Hayden as Worthy Matron and Clyde Hayden as Worthy Patron for a regular meeting and initiation.

There were three new members initiated at the meeting. They were Houston Ratliff, Mrs. Mary Cook, and Mrs. Falba Brown. The initiation was conducted by Mrs. Zella Haynes, Conductress, and Mrs. Alma Ratliff, Social Conductress. Refreshments of cake and punch were served by the refreshment committee which consists of Mrs. Doris Ramseur, Mrs. Verna Smith and Mrs. Wyoma Donnalson.

About 30 members and guests were present. The hall was decorated for the meeting by Mrs. Elizabeth Brundrett and Mrs. Sarah Brundrett.

San Patricio County Has Date Set For Dry Election

Voters of San Patricio county will go to the polls Saturday, October 5th to decide whether the county will remain partly dry or entirely dry following the filing of a petition with the court September 9th requesting such an election.

Meeting in Sinton Saturday the Court set the election date after most of the 760 names had been certified. The present laws permit local option, some of the communities of San Patricio County being dry while others are wet. A negative vote will leave the County as it is; whereas an affirmative vote will place the entire county in the dry classification.

The petition was presented to the court by a committee representing the Ministerial Association of San Patricio County and bore names from all of the 17 precincts in the county.

Editorial

The Chamber of Commerce of Rockport will have an opportunity to do a great service for Rockport and Aransas County at its next meeting on October 2, when the Citizens' Organization for Roadside Improvement requests its aid in putting over the program for the planting of trees and shrubs as a Living Memorial for the veterans of World War II and its efforts to clean-up the property adjacent to the highways of Aransas County.

A great many people, in fact, the majority of citizens do not realize what roadside development really means or involves. Most of them call it highway beautification, and think in terms of planting trees, flowers and shrubs. Roadside development is highway beautification in the sense that all features employed pertaining to the roadsides ultimately result in beautification as a whole.

Highways and roadsides are protected from erosion by planting the right-of-way with grasses or other turfing, and with trees and wild flowers. For safety purposes, curves are often outlined with trees to aid in sight distance, and posts with reflector buttons serve as warnings.

No matter how much time, effort and expenditure goes into the practical principles of roadside development, they can be minimized by many seemingly little things such as snipe signs on fences, or by large billboards, especially at the entrance to a town or city. During the last ten years many such blights have been cleared away, but there are still too many. One of the aims of the Texas Roadside Development Program is to encourage both local and state-wide restriction on the indiscriminate placing of such signs and billboards. Property owners along the highways can help immeasurably by refusing to allow the placing of these signs on their property. These signs can either be eliminated with no loss to the business concerns, or can be designed to add attractiveness to a highway or roadside.

The roadside extends as far as the eye can see and is the display window of our community. Every day is visitor's day and we have visitors on our highways every hour of every day. A favorable impression carried back home by our visitors will help greatly in creating more interest in our community and by creating a desire to see this part of Texas by friends of our visitors.

Roadside establishments such as filling stations and restaurants or food stands have become conscious of the advantages to be gained by neat improved ground planted with some flowers or shrubs. It is financially sound practice, too, for the traveling public is going to stop in the town that is attractive and at business places that stand out in cleanliness and are pleasing to the eye.

The Living Honor Plan currently sponsored by the Texas Roadside Development Program provides a great opportunity for Rockport and Aransas County to carry out a unified motif of town and county beautification. The Citizens' Organization urges the cities and towns of Texas, through their Chambers of Commerce and various civic organizations to inaugurate the planting and propagation of a county-selected indigenous tree and flowering shrub to be planted in all the yards of homes, on public building grounds, and at entrances to towns and cities, thus reflecting a uniform and pleasing planting motif as a living honor to Texas men and women in the service in World War II.

The Chamber of Commerce can do a great deal to aid the Citizens' Organization for Roadside Improvement in its efforts to carry out the Living Honor Program for Aransas County by the planting program and the clean-up of properties. The Chamber of Commerce should support this program to the fullest extent for it will do much to make Rockport a greater and more popular resort for tourists from all over the nation. It is a program that fits perfectly into the framework of the objectives of the Chamber of Commerce, since it has very definitely for its objective the improvement of Rockport.

Each and every citizen of Rockport should tell the Chamber of Commerce, along with the other civic organizations here, just what they think of the program and should furnish their ideas and suggestions as to the means and methods of getting this job done. It will not be a simple job, nor will it be a short one; it will require a lot of hard work and a lot of time to achieve the objectives. But it is certainly one to which every person in Aransas County can donate a little time and effort at very little expense if any to make this a better place to live and work.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a certified check, bank draft, cashier's check or bidders bond, with a reputable surety or sureties, in an amount equal to one year's rental bid for such lease. However, provided, that The Aransas County Navigation District No. 1 reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

THE ARANSAS COUNTY NAVIGATION DISTRICT NO. 1

By TED R. LITTLE, Chairman C 23

CITATION BY PUBLICATION IN DELINQUENT TAX SUIT

STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF ARANSAS
To W. M. Miller, whose residence is unknown; heirs and legal representatives of C. F. Bailey, deceased, whose name and residence is unknown, and the unknown heirs and legal representatives of all the above named parties, and the unknown owner and owners of the hereinafter described property and their heirs and legal representatives—whose names and places of residence are unknown, and all other persons owning, having or claiming any interest or lien in the property hereinafter described.

YOU ARE HEREBY NOTIFIED AND COMMANDED to appear and defend at the first day of the next regular term of the 36th District Court of Aransas County, Texas, to be held at the Court House thereof in the City of Rockport, Aransas County, Texas, at or before ten o'clock a. m., on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1947, the same being the 10th day of February, A. D. 1947, then and there to answer a petition in a delinquent tax suit filed in said court on the 24th day of September, A. D. 1946, in a suit numbered 2396, styled The City of Rockport, Texas, et al vs. the unknown heirs and legal representatives of C. F. Bailey, deceased, et al, on the docket of said court in which the City of Rockport, Texas is plaintiff, and the State of Texas, the County of Aransas, the Aransas County School District, and Aransas County Navigation Dist. No. 1 are impleaded party defendants, and the unknown heirs and legal representatives of C. F. Bailey, a deceased person, Travis Bailey, W. M. Miller, their unknown heirs and legal representatives, and the unknown owners and claimants of the property described below are defendants, and show cause why judgment shall not be rendered condemning said hereinafter described property and ordering sale and foreclosure thereof for said taxes, penalties, interests, and costs of suit.

Said suit is a suit to collect taxes, interest, penalties, and cost on the following described property: Lots 8, 9 and 10, Block 14, D and M Subdivision of the City of Rockport, Texas, as shown by the map or plat thereof of record in the office of the County Clerk of Aransas County, Texas, to which reference is here made.

The amount of taxes alleged to be delinquent, due, owing, and unpaid for the respective years and in the respective amounts for each of said plaintiffs, intervenors, and impleaded party defendants, taxing units, on the above described property is as follows:
Plaintiffs, impleaded party defendants, and intervenors that are taxing units: the City of Rockport, Texas; taxes due: $771.99; years delinquent: 1919 through 1945; to whom assessed: C. F. Bailey et al. and W. M. Miller; together with interest, penalties, cost, charges, and expenses of suit, which have accrued and which may legally accrue thereon.

Each party to this suit shall take notice of, and plead, and answer to all claims and pleadings now on file or thereafter filed in said cause by all other parties therein.

Plaintiffs, intervenors, and defendants that are taxing units also seek the establishment and foreclosure of the lien securing payment of such taxes as provided by law.

The officer executing this writ shall promptly serve the same according to requirements of law, and the mandates hereof, and make due return as the law directs.

WITNESS MY HAND AND OFFICIAL SEAL OF MY OFFICE in Aransas County, Texas, this the 24th day of September, A. D. 1946.

J. M. SPARKS,
Clerk, District Court.

Rooms Will Be Available In Dallas for Those Attending State Fair

Rooms will be available in Dallas during the State Fair of Texas, October 5-20. Despite a severe housing shortage, jam-packed hotels, and tremendous influx of visitors, a housing bureau composed of representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, the Dallas Hotel Association, and the State Fair of Texas have secured many rooms in private homes for rental and are using every feasible means to secure more, according to Z. E. Black, Chamber of Commerce convention manager.

A registration booth for visitors requiring rooms will be set up in a lobby of the Adolphus Hotel and will operate until midnight every night during the State Fair. Mrs. Pauline Foster and Mrs. Mary Belle Arnold will be in charge of the booth for the Chamber of Commerce. Every effort will be made to secure accommodations for all visitors to the State Fair, Mr. Black said.

MEAT:

New Crisis

As housewives scoured their neighborhoods for scarce meat and exercised their culinary arts for putting up more meatless meals, men folk were left to tussle with the difficult task of overcoming the distressing shortage.

It was hard to tell which job was harder, the women's or the men's, for the heavy shipments of livestock to market during the recent suspension of OPA and reluctance of feeders to fatten up the small supply of range cattle under OPA ceilings complicated the policy-makers' problems.

As the crisis sharpened, department of agriculture had the only word of encouragement, stating that late fall runs of grass-feds would partially relieve the stringent shortage. But their predictions were tempered somewhat by livestock experts' statements that the high prices for range cattle would make feeders' purchases less profitable and further cut the supply of finished animals in late winter and spring.

With packers laying off thousands of workers in the face of diminished receipts of livestock, AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen called for restoration of free markets to stimulate shipments. President Truman was asked to recognize the "futility of OPA and chuck it out the window."

Leather and pharmaceutical industries also felt repercussions of the livestock situation, with shortages of hides and animal organs affecting their production.

With supplies of hides approximating only 35 per cent of needs, tanneries have been forced to lay off numerous workers, it was reported. And with supplies for October and November estimated at even less, more employees will have to be laid off.

Previously affected by black market waste of animal organs because of lack of processing facilities, pharmaceutical producers were faced with further diminution of supplies for insulin, liver extract, pituitary extract, adrenal cortex, hormones, ovarian solutions and other medicinal by the drop in slaughtering.

REPARATIONS: U. S. Stand

The U. S. does not contemplate priming the reparations pump for European nations. Willard Thorp, state department representative in charge of economic affairs, clearly enunciated this country's policy after Italy's wartime enemies had put in claims for 7 billion dollars in reparations against it. He declared that the U. S. was averse to seeing money advanced Italy for reconstruction, siphoned off in reparations, leaving it in further need of aid.

Thorp indirectly slapped at the various claimants' moving cries for reparations to compensate for war damages and expenditures for fighting the allied battle by pointing out that the U. S. had spent 335 billion dollars in battling the axis and consuming valuable resources but did not intend to assess Italy for part of the cost. Since the armistice, this country has advanced Italy 1 billion dollars and paid out more than 100 million dollars for cost of troop occupation.

Against the claims of 7 billion,

STATES:

State action to spur housing through passage of appropriations and enabling legislation for municipal action is reported by the National Association of Housing Officials.

Since the first of the year, four states have appropriated funds for emergency housing. New York appropriated 35 million dollars early in the 1946 legislative session for statewide projects under the federal Lanham act, such as converting military barracks to civilian use.

Italy asked that the sum be pared to approximately 250 million dollars. With 11 billion dollars, Great Britain is the largest claimant.

CANADA:

Farmers Strike

Following the technique of "direct action," 20,000 members of the Alberta Farmers' union in the western Canadian province withheld all produce except milk from market in their drive for a readjustment of parity prices.

Pickets appeared at many points but concentrated their strength at grain elevators. Some operators were warned that they would lose striking farmers business if they accepted deliveries from non-strikers.

With the strike in full swing and union members of neighboring Saskatchewan joining the movement, government officials promised thorough consideration of the parity question. Farmers demanded an increase in the parity level to compensate for the higher cost of commodities they must purchase.

GREECE:

Reconstruction Plan

Long-range plans for the reconstruction of Greece, serving as a postwar pattern for recasting the economy of other backward nations, were formulated by a special United Nations commission headed by F. S. Harris, president of Utah Agricultural college.

Presented at the conference of U. N.'s food and agriculture organization in Copenhagen, Denmark, the plan envisaged:

—Irrigation of one-fifth the total area and erection of hydro-electric projects with capacity equal to Boulder dam's.

—Revitalization of the soil through fertilization and expansion of the fruit industry.

—Increase non-profit merchandising of co-operatives and take the co-ops from politics.

—Aid small industries like spinning, weaving, clothing, shoes and harnesses and olive oil refining.

Reconstruction would be started with a 100 million dollar loan. Credits would be advanced upon agreement to carry out reforms in government, shifting of the tax burden from the peasants and development of educational facilities.

BLACK MARKET: OPA Gets Tough

A woman photographer's picture of a burly Los Angeles OPA agent gripping an automobile salesman by the throat and wielding a blackjack graphically revealed the agency's toughened enforcement policies in the drive to stamp out the black market menace.

While the salesman pictured later was freed, six other salesmen were arrested on charges of selling cars over ceiling prices and arraigned with 65 more before a U. S. commissioner for OPA violations. Acting on complaints of purchasers, the OPA drive was pointed toward stamping out an alleged multi-million dollar black market in new and used automobiles.

As OPA critics decried the employment of armed agents in tracking down OPA violations, agency officials in Washington snapped: "Enforcement of price ceilings is not a cream puff affair and sometimes we have to use a blackjack in self-defense or to apprehend a reluctant suspect. We're not dealing with nice people but with... law breakers."

LABOR:

Teamsters Revolt

With union officials branding the strike of 25,000 members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in New York City "the worst rank and file revolt in history," I.B.T. Pres. Dan Tobin stepped into the picture at the request of Mayor O'Dwyer to help settle the walk-out.

Tobin acted after O'Dwyer had cited the union's refusal to permit the transport of essential food and medicines and warned him that the I.B.T. would have to accept responsibility for "bloodshed and injury." Tobin ordered 10,000 sympathy strikers of 23 locals in New York and New Jersey to return to work and suggested that employer approval of an 18 1/2 cent an hour raise for 15,000 strikers would serve as a basis for negotiation.

Besides curtailing the supply of food, the walkout threatened to seriously affect many industries. National Sugar Refining company was forced to suspend operations, more than 25 soft drink bottlers closed and bakers ran low on sugar stocks. In all, some 1,270,000 workers were faced with lay-offs as a result of the trucking and maritime strikes.

POLITICS:

Taft Leads

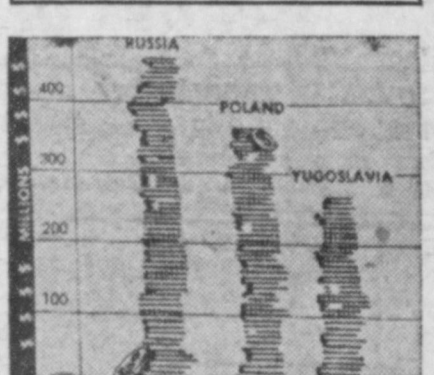

Mother of Republican presidents, Ohio witnessed another native GOP aspirant to the White House hoist his standard at the party's state convention in Columbus. Taking the conservative lead, Bob Taft served warning that a Republican congressional victory this fall would mean formulation of a program along traditional GOP lines, including:

- Removal of price and wage controls by April 1, 1947, except for rents.
- Expiration of the second war powers act.
- Termination of conscription unless war threatens.

After enunciating the program, Taft then ominously added that the GOP intended to put it into effect in 1948 if President Truman disapproved before then.

Meanwhile, politicians attempted to read a meaning into the sweeping GOP victory in Maine, with Democrats finding some comfort in the fact that Republican congressional majorities were below the 1944 level.

U. S. Aids Red Bloc

Evidence of U. S. efforts to promote good will with Russia and the soviet bloc in eastern Europe despite recurring difficulties is emphasized by its substantial postwar relief and reconstruction contributions to these countries. Since the end of hostilities, Russia alone has received $290,000,000 in lend-lease credits and $175,000,000 in UNRRA funds for a total of $465,000,000. Poland has obtained $367,000,000 in U. S. goods; Yugoslavia, $267,000,000; and Romania, Hungary and Albania $20,000,000.

GREAT BRITAIN:

Squatter Trouble

Staid John Bull, renowned for his reverence for law and order, adgedged uneasily over the communist-led squatter drive in Britain which saw hundreds of homeless families take over swanky vacant apartments and mansions without permission.

Although put into power by the liberal and working man vote, the Labor party showed no stomach for the radical movement and Prime Minister Attlee's own spacious estate was guarded by troops against the squatters. Charging that both civil and criminal law was being violated by the unauthorized invasion of buildings, the government warned that "anarchy may result unless lawless measures of this sort are stamped out."

First starting out as an independent influx of individuals into vacant army huts, abandoned public buildings, etc., the movement developed into formidable proportions under skilled communist direction. As the government moved to oust the squatters, rabid reds exhorted them to hold fast and called upon all organized workers to fight the evictions.

URBAN TRANSIT:

Setting a new record, 23,254,000 passengers were carried on the nation's urban transit lines last year, according to American Transit association. This was an increase of 237,000,000 above the 1944 peak.

The new record was attributed to the quick shift which most industries were able to make from war to peace activities which kept unemployment at a minimum, and to the reduced registration of passenger automobiles due to the inability of people to purchase new cars.

Mills-Husted Exchange Vows in Aransas Pass

In The Pilot last week the article regarding the Mills-Husted wedding was incorrect in that it stated that Mr. and Mrs. Albert Luke were the parents of Miss Betty Husted. The name of her mother, Mrs. J. M. Cowan, should have been listed and Mr. and Mrs. Luke should have been listed as guests at the wedding. Also Mrs. Hoyse Atwood should have been listed as attending the wedding. The editor regrets very much that this error occurred.

New Hampshire was named after the English county of Hampshire.

Miss Jean Hinton Has Party Friday

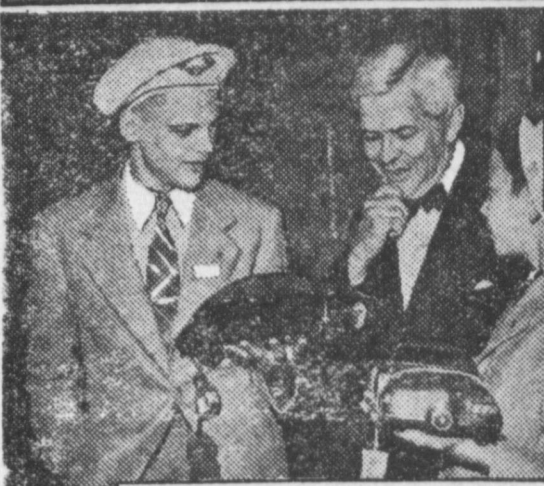

Miss Jean Hinton entertained with a dance followed by a slumber party last Friday night after the football game with Odem. Miss Hinton, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Roy Hinton, served refreshments of potato salad, assorted sandwiches, olives, cookies, potato chips and cold drinks.

The table was decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and asters as the center piece.

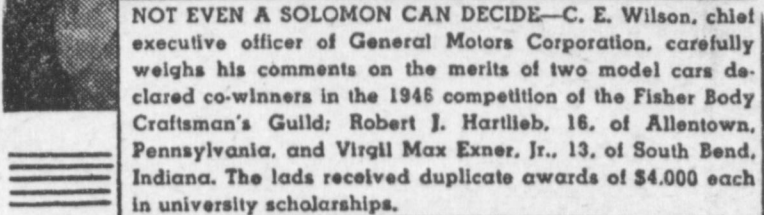

Those present for the dance were Russell Rowe, Joe Johnson, Jr., Bert Haney, Bobby Hewitt, C. M. Brundrett, David Herring, Claude Roberts, Roy Lee Lassiter, Toni Tamberine of Ingleside, James New of Ingleside, Leon Brundrett, Bobby Morrison, Jimmy Morrison, Johnny Rowe, Jimmie Little, Glenn Owens, Robert Franklin, Sam James, Jack Blackwell, Bill Vickny of Junction, Bobby Landrum, James Wallace, Billy Joe Hunt, Ronnie Williams, and James Bracht.

The girls present for the dance and who stayed for the slumber party were Wilma Rouquette, Lucille Haynes, Colleen Smith, Dasey Prophet, Wilburn Hamblin, Mary Ruth Dervage, Mary Evelyn Vickny, Shirley Rattiseau, Bonnie Cron, Sissy Rowe, Mary Lou McLester, Patti Ballou, Stella Townsend, Loretta Townsend, Pat Wallace, Fannie Theodore, and the hostess, Jean Hinton.

SET YOUR SIGHTS

It takes planning to achieve a goal

Some young men know what they want and plan for it. Others are still looking for their niche. The new Regular Army can help both.

Perhaps you want to go to college but can't afford it. If you enlist in the Army, you'll get your chance. Honorably discharged after a three-year enlistment, you are eligible for 48 months of education at any college, trade, or business school for which you can qualify. The Government will pay your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year, plus $65 a month living allowance—$90 a month if you have dependents.

If you haven't found your spot, an Army enlistment offers you training in any of 200 trades and skills. You leave the service eligible for further training at the best civilian schools.

You can assure yourself of the benefits of the G.I. Bill of Rights if you enter the Army on or before October 5, 1946. See your nearest Army Recruiting Station for details.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REGULAR ARMY ENLISTMENT

1. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
2. Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
3. A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.
4. A furlough for men who reenlist within 20 days. Full details of other furlough privileges can be obtained from Recruiting Offices.
5. Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to enlist or reenlist.
6. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
7. Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open) on 3-year enlistments.

JUVENILE PROBLEMS?
The following ordinances were taken from the records of the City of Rockport at the City Hall for the possible interest they might have for the readers of the Pilot regarding the problems that faced the City Fathers in times past:

An Ordinance regulating automobiles or motor vehicles on the streets of Rockport:

Section 1. Any person in charge of an automobile or motor vehicle on any public street, alley, or driveway of the City of Rockport, shall not drive the same at any speed greater than 15 miles per hour.

Section 2. Any person driving or operating an automobile or motor vehicle upon the streets of the City of Rockport shall at the request, or signal by putting up the hands, or by other visible signal from the City Marshall, or from persons riding or driving a horse or horses or other domestic animal, cause such vehicle or machine to come to a standstill as quickly as possible, and to remain stationary long enough to receive the Marshall's message, or to allow such person riding or driving such animal to pass.

Section 3. Every driver or operator of an automobile shall carry lighted lamps, of sufficient brightness to drive by, and said lamps to be lighted and in operation between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise.

Section 5. Every one who violates any of the preceding sections of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine of not more than $25.00.

Enacted July 2, 1913.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Rockport that the implement known as a "Nigger Shooter" is hereby declared a nuisance, and any one found using the same shall be fined in a sum of not less than $250 or confinement in the City Jail of not more than twenty four hours. Enacted March 2, 1875.

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Rockport that playing of marbles or any other game upon the sidewalks within the limits of the City, be considered a nuisance and unlawful, and parties so offending shall be fined each in a sum not less than one nor more than five dollars for each violation of this ordinance. Enacted February 7, 1876.

Massachusetts was the first state to receive an Indian name. It was named after a bay and means "near the great hills."

To those who eagerly await their new Chevrolets...
Here Is the Latest News about Chevrolet Deliveries

Everybody from factory to dealer is doing everything that can be done to speed deliveries to you

We have been informed by the Chevrolet Motor Division that the past month has witnessed only a slight improvement in the rate of production of new Chevrolet passenger cars. As a result, shipments of new cars to dealers for delivery are still far below the level we and the factory had hoped to attain by this time. In fact, through August, Chevrolet's output of cars in 1946 was only 22.6% of the number turned out during the corresponding period of 1941.

We know that Chevrolet is doing everything possible to step up its production totals—to ship more and more cars to us and to its thousands of other dealers throughout America . . . and we know, too, that we are assured of getting our full proportionate share of the current output and of future production gains.

Disappointing as the total figures have been—and despite the fact that Chevrolet was out of production entirely during the first three months of the year—it is nevertheless true that Chevrolet led all other manufacturers in production of passenger cars during June 1946, and has continued to maintain its lead in total production from that day to this.

We shall continue to make deliveries of new Chevrolets to our customers just as fast as we receive them; we regret delays as deeply as you do; we thank you for your friendly patience and understanding; and we promise you a new high motoring experience when you take delivery of your new Chevrolet, giving BIG-CAR QUALITY AT LOWEST COST!

Keep Your Present Car Alive

Meanwhile, may we suggest that you safeguard your transportation by bringing your car to us for service now and at regular intervals. Let us help you to keep it in good running condition—to maintain its performance, appearance and resale value—until the day when your new Chevrolet comes along.

News & Views From RHS

(By Wilbern Hamblin)

If you've seen some of the high school "kids" walking around town barefooted—don't think we've gone primitive! It's just that we've had to do a little wading at school!

Due to the fact that the football game has been moved to Refugio, there will be no social Friday night.

Say, "Chicken" Evans, Bobby Morrison and Gene Lassiter were some pretty loud plaid shirt the other day! Wouldn't be trying to 'rush the season' would you boys?

A lot of the 'kids' had a good time at the Hinton home Friday night after the football game. They really have a swell place and Mrs. Hinton surely does know how to fix delicious 'eats'!

You know, I think the football players and 'yell' leaders, (from last year) secretly wish it would get cold—so they can wear their football jackets! Do you blame them?

The Pirates should have earned the nickname of "The Ducks" last Friday night, because they played such a wonderful game in the water and mud! You'd have thought they had webbed feet!

The new "coke" machine has been very popular this week! Pretty good deal for the 'kids'.

All you people who go over to the game Friday night remember to give your full support to the boys. In other words YELL!

Farewell Party Given For Mrs. Virgil Sanders

Mrs. Virgil Sanders was given a farewell party Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Urban Hemmi by her neighborhood friends in honor of her leaving for San Angelo where she and her husband will now make their home.

Mrs. Sanders was presented with several gifts and the refreshments consisted of jelly rolls and hot chocolate.

Those present were Mrs. H. C. Mullinax, Mrs. Dan Gilstrap, Mrs. Robert Key, Mrs. Ernest Russell, Miss Eva Mae Davis and Mrs. Elaine Hoffman.

Gypsy Rose Lee Will Play State Fair

The glamorous Gypsy Rose Lee, actress and authoress, is bringing her own company of girls to the State Fair of Texas auditorium Oct. 5-20 and will be a feature of the Tommy Dorsey Show during the State Fair, announced Julius Schepps, chairman of the entertainment committee of the State Fair Association.

Miss Lee, prima donna nuda of the American stage who finds time in her strips about the country to write first rate detective novels with a burlesque background and to study the writings of Marcel Proust, has been starred both on the Broadway stage and in Hollywood movies.

The engagement of Gypsy Rose Lee and Company for the star-studded auditorium show marks her first State Fair of Texas appearance.

Pirates Defeat Odem Owls for Third Win by Score of 12 to 0

The Rockport Pirates met and defeated a fighting Odem eleven on a water-covered field Friday night to the tune of 12 to 0 before a crowd that overflowed from the stands in spite of having to practically swim into the stands and having to fight off the mosquitoes all evening.

The Pirates scored their first touchdown late in the first quarter when Joe Johnson Jr. went around left end for the score from the 24 yard marker. The touchdown followed a series of ground plays that began on the Odem 48 yard line. In two plays they made a first down on the Owl's 35 yard line, then on the next two plays they again made a first down on the Owl 24. From there, Joe Johnson went around left end for the score. The try for extra point failed. The second touchdown came midway in the second quarter, when the Pirates blocked a lateral pass back of the line of scrimmage and recovered the ball on the Owl's thirty yard line. On the next play, a pass from Rowe to Johnson in the flat zone connected and Johnson scampered on over the goal standing up for the second and final score of the game. The try for extra point again failed.

The rest of the game was a defensive duel between the two hard fighting teams. Rockport only threatened seriously one other time and that was early in the first quarter when they were stopped on the Odem 12 yard line. The Owls never seriously threatened to score and were held most of the time in their own end of the field.

The last few minutes of the game were played by Rockport's lightweight substitutes. Coach John Ramseur sent ten men in to replace a tired but victorious first string late in the last quarter. These youngsters allowed one first down for the Odem Owls in three plays, and then held them for three downs with a total gain of four yards. On the fourth down the Owls fumbled and the Pirates recovered the ball on their own 43 yard line. Tommy Cron and Woody Hunt were standouts for the Pirates in the last few minutes of play. They were both on the bottom of every tackle that was made on the defensive and did some very effective blocking after they went on the offensive.

Statistics

First downs, Rockport 9; Odem 5.
Penalties: Rockport 8 for 80 yards; Odem, 4 for 30 yards.

Punts: Rockport, 1 for 39 yards; Odem, 3 for 20 yard average.

Passes: Rockport, 3 with one completed; Odem, 4 with none completed.

Yards Gained: Rockport 205; Odem 85.

Dahman - DeForest

Vows Exchanged

September 16

Mrs. Cathryne Inez Dahman, daughter of Johnny Sipes of Rockport and Bernie Clair DeForest, son of Commissioner and Mrs. T. E. DeForest of Fulton, exchanged wedding vows in Fulton on September 16th at the Fulton Community Church.

Mrs. Herbert Dares was the matron of honor and Monore DeForest was the best man.

Mrs. DeForest attended Sinton High School and DeForest attended the Rockport High School. He has just recently been released from the Navy after serving about two years in the Pacific area.

Kidneys Must

Work Well—

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence.

TREASURE OF THE SEA

BY George E. Walsh

WNU. Release

THE STORY THUS FAR:

The crew of a small sailing vessel in the Caribbean pick up Dick Jordan, adrift on a raft. He realizes that he is among men little better than pirates. They come upon a drifting schooner with only two people aboard, the demented captain and his daughter, Rose. Tucu and his pirates capture the ship and tie up Rose and Dick. After a fruitless search for the "treasure" supposed to be on the schooner, Tucu goes away, taking Dick with him. Dick escapes and returns to the schooner just in time to rescue Rose from two of the pirates. Rose tells Dick the treasure really exists. Next day they plan how to sail the schooner to land.

CHAPTER IX

A noise from the cabin interrupted, and Rose turned swiftly. "It's Father. He needs me."

Dick remained on the deck, watching the tantalizing object with new interest.

Rose suddenly came out of the cabin, and approached him in great agitation. Her eyes were glistening, and her whole face seemed aflame with some powerful emotion that transformed her into a radiant creature.

"Dick," she called eagerly before reaching his side. "Dick, it's happened—the miracle! I can hardly believe it, but—"

She stopped, trembling all over, her hands clasped in the attitude of prayer. He was by her side instantly, more startled by her happiness than by any fear that he had seen written there before.

"What is it, Rose?" he asked anxiously, catching one of her fluttering hands in both of his.

"It's Father," she breathed softly. "Is he—is he—dead?"

The question came out before he had time to think—abruptly, and without premeditation.

"Dead!" she repeated, and then laughed softly. "Dead! No! He's just come to life. He's sane again, Dick. He knows me—remembers everything! He's—he's—"

The tears bubbled from her eyes and rolled down her cheeks; but they were the tears of joy and relief and not of fear or desperation. Dick held one hand and supported her trembling form with an arm.

"I'm silly!" she laughed hysterically, smiling through the tears. "But I can't help it! And I don't care! I can cry for happiness, can't I?"

He barely resisted the temptation to sweep her into his arms and kiss the pouting lips.

"Come," she added a moment later, clutching his arms. "Come and see the miracle."

In the cabin Dick found a much changed man lying on the bed where he had helped put him the night before. The feverish red had died out of the face, and the eyes, inspecting him critically, were as sane as any man's. The blow of the Carib's bludgeon had restored to Captain Bedford his reason. Rose had partly prepared him for meeting Dick by explaining briefly the series of events that had taken place while his mind was under a cloud. He extended a hand suddenly, and said:

"You've saved my little girl's life, I understand. Then—then you can count on me as an everlasting friend."

"I don't know what Rose's been telling you, Captain, but I'll bet she never told you how she saved my life. Let me tell you."

The girl placed a hand before his lips, but he removed it, and went into details of their adventures that she had either omitted or slurred over. At the end, Captain Bedford sat up.

"I reckon now," he said, "I'm all cured. That little girl o' mine's just like—just like her mother."

"Then her mother must have been a wonder," smiled Dick.

"She was!" was the solemn retort.

Captain Bedford Takes Command

The captain struggled to his feet despite Rose's protestations. "No, I ain't goin' to lie here any more," he added. "I got to get on deck. You've had enough on yer hands, daughter. Now it's my turn. Reckon I'm well enough to take a watch." He clutched at the rail and stared across the sea.

"Where's that lugger?" he demanded truculently.

"Over there," replied Rose, pointing.

Until then none of them had glanced in the direction of the puzzling object that had caused them so much debate, but when their eyes focused on it now they gave a little start. Captain Bedford grunted and recovered his voice first.

"Ye call that a ship!" he snorted. "Great Jehosaphat, ain't ye got eyes! That's land! An island!"

It was an island rising abruptly from the sea—not one of your coral-girted, palm-fringed islands of the tropics, but of rock-battered headland that caught the breaking surf and hurled it back shattered into foam. Perhaps a mile or two in width, and fifty feet high, it offered a safe asylum for shipwrecked sailors in the stormiest weather, could a safe landing be effected.

"We're drifting straight toward the island," Dick remarked. "In a couple of hours we'll reach it. Any danger of being wrecked on those rocks?"

"If we could work around to the other side o' the island," muttered the skipper, "we'd be safer."

After much awkward and difficult maneuvering, they brought the ship to safety in a sheltered cove. Captain Bedford was anxious to begin making repairs so the Betty could sail out of her prison at the earliest possible time. "We can't reckon on more'n a week of fine weather," he said. "An' we got about all we can do to get off afore that."

Dick's curiosity to land on the island and survey the scene from the top of the cliffs was greater than any fear of future disaster. "I'm going ashore," he announced.

"What fur?" growled the skipper. "Ye won't see anythin' but water an' an island, an' ye can see them here."

"The island may be inhabited on the other side."

"Great Jehosaphat, ain't you got eyes! That's land! An island!"

Captain Bedford snorted. "Ye expect to find a hotel an' a ship waitin' to take ye home?"

Dick shook his head and laughed. "No, but I'm curious to walk up there and get a look. I won't be gone long."

When he was near the summit, he increased his pace, eager to get a glimpse over the top.

The island was long and narrow, with the opposite side disappearing in the sea gradually, a fine sandy beach fringing half of it in the shape of a crescent horseshoe. The descent from the rocks to the beach was sharp and abrupt. One could make it in a brisk run or walk.

Dick took this all in swiftly like the flash of a cinematograph. Then his eyes came to a sharp halt on an object in the cove formed by the crescent beach. With a quick intake of the breath, he exploded:

"The lugger! Tucu's crew's on the island!"

The lugger was anchored near the beach where she had probably ridden out the storm in perfect safety. Tucu had known of the island and its protecting cove. The sails were flapping idly in the breeze, stretched for drying in the warm sun. The deck was deserted. There was no sign of any one aboard.

Dick Makes Another Dismaying Discovery

But this was easily accounted for by the presence of two boats drawn up on the sands. The crew was all ashore. Dick could see them in scattered groups. A sudden fear that they had discovered the Betty on the opposite side of the island, and were preparing to attack her from the land side, made him wary and watchful. He ducked a little lower to avoid any possible detection.

Then his eyes took in other features of the beach. Some distance back from the water where the rocks broke through the sand, an other group of seamen were huddled together. They were standing in an attitude of watchfulness and waiting. One of their number was advancing to confer with the Caribs.

Dick gazed in puzzled surprise and stupefied amazement. These others were white men—seamen, shipwrecks! He could make that out without difficulty. It flashed through his mind they had been wrecked on the island, and were bargaining with Tucu to take them off.

There were seven in all, counting their leader who was parleying with the Caribs. Dick frowned for no other reason than that something in their appearance, or in their leader's attitude, reminded him of the past and for a long time he was silent and thoughtful, striving to recall a fleeting memory that disturbed him.

Then with a little grunt, he sat up, shaded his eyes with both hands, and crouched as motionless as a tiger, stalking his prey. His breath came in short, labored gasps.

"Hen Pettigrew!" his lips murmured finally.

The explanation of the group of white men on the beach was all comprehensible. One of the boats of the City of Bahia had landed on the island or been wrecked there.

The discovery was not pleasant to Dick. His recognition of the man who had pursued him half around a continent, shadowing him as persistently as a bulldog, and finally capturing him in a small, out of the way corner of the earth, gave him a distinct shock. With a quiver, he recalled Hen's parting words:

"If we meet again on shore—I'll pinch you. It's my duty."

He glanced back of him. The schooner was resting quietly in its protecting prison, rising and falling lazily. On the deck Captain Bedford was busy making repairs to the sails and rigging, preparing for escape before another storm came. Rose stood alone at the bow, and as Dick looked she waved to him.

He groaned and waved back to her. Then violent words sprang to his lips. "Damn Hen! He shan't take me! I'll kill him first! It isn't fair! I've paid—paid enough for another's crime! I'll die fighting for freedom! Damn it, I'll jump into the sea first!"

Rose was still waving to him, cupping her hands occasionally as if shouting words of encouragement. He listened, but the distance was too far to catch her voice.

Suddenly the fit of angry passion deserted him, leaving him limp and weak. He groaned aloud: "She will know! Hen will tell her! I can't escape it!"

Her name sprang to his lips, and with a cry of anguish he dropped his head on the hard rocks. The inevitable fate that had pursued him was closing about him, and he was glad now that he hadn't spoken to her. He shivered at the thought. At least he had saved her that humiliation.

When he glanced up again his mind was calmer and his white face, drawn and strained, had less of the rebellious lines in it. The men on the beach were still parleying. Dick wondered what sort of bargain they could make with Tucu. The old pirate would demand all he could get and take it. Tucu was like Hen—inexorable and greedy.

While he looked the parley suddenly terminated, and Captain Tucu, who had been conversing with Hen, turned on his heels to walk back to his waiting Caribs; but half way there he wheeled so swiftly that Hen was taken off his guard. There was a puff of smoke, and a sharp report. Hen Pettigrew staggered back and nearly fell, reeling as if suddenly bereft of all powers of locomotion.

At the same instant a group of Caribs, led by Black Burley, started forward on the run, firing as they came. Dick saw Pettigrew reel again, and this time pitch head first into the sand. The Caribs rushed past him, filling the air with their shots.

Stones Poor Weapons Against Guns

Dick waited to hear the returning volley from the white seamen, as the Caribs advanced, dodging from side to side, but no response came from them. Tucu had armed every one of his crew but they were poor shots.

"They're waiting until the Caribs are nearer," Dick mused joyfully. "I wish—a little regretfully—"Hen was there. Hen's a dead shot."

Nearer and nearer came the Caribs to the entrenched fortress of the seamen. Dick noticed for the first time they were protected by a rampart of rocks they had gathered for a breastwork.

"Hen's work," he chuckled. "Hen's shrewd in a fight. Didn't trust old Tucu."

The attacking party was within a stone's throw of the breastwork, and still the white men held their fire. Ten feet nearer, and the sailors rose as one man. Dick held his breath, expecting a withering volley from them; but instead a shower of rocks and stones filled the air.

Two of the Caribs went down, and a third stumbled and halted. The others dropped to the beach to escape the flying missiles, and the attack was temporarily checked.

"Why don't they shoot now?" growled Dick. "They could get them if—"

He stopped and drew a deep breath as the unpleasant explanation forced itself sharply upon his mind. The seamen from the wrecked steamer carried no firearms, or if they had taken them away with them, as Hen must have taken his, the salt water had rendered them useless. They were unarmed, except for the stones, while the Caribs were plentifully supplied with guns.

Dick's hand reached for his own pistol, and then dropped limply to his side. Captain Tucu had disarmed him when he was made a prisoner, and Dick hadn't found any substitute weapons. Were there more firearms aboard the Betty? Probably not; Captain Tucu had robbed the schooner of every weapon he could lay his hands on.

With a groan at his impotence, he turned back to the beach. The Caribs were attacking again.

Notes of a Newspaper Man:

The Justice Dept. members (who are planning to ascan the edition case) are as spineless as spaghetti. The defendants aped Nazi tactics and still are echoing Nazi propaganda. . . . It provides a galling contrast: Thousands of American soldiers lost their lives fighting nazism. Others lost their eyes, hands and limbs. But some defeatists in our justice dept. refuse to take Hitler's stooges into court for fear of losing a case! . . . And remember that any American soldier who refused to fight when it seemed like the Nazis would be victorious—could have been shot.

Vignette: Laura LaPlante, the movie star, who is still a looker, tells herself. . . . She drove up to a gas station recently where the attendant did a double-take and said: "Say, did anybody ever tell you that you look like Laura LaPlante?" . . . A bit cagily, Laura replied: "Why, yes. As a matter of fact several people have." . . . To which he hastily added: "Oh, don't get me wrong, lady. I don't mean the way she looks NOW!"

An American newspaper man and a Russian scribe got chummy at the peace conference. "I can't understand you, Stalin," said the Yank. "It took a world war to get us American reporters into Russia."

"What are you complaining about?" chuckled the Russian. "It took a world war to get us Russian newspaper men out!"

Another newsmen, recently back from the Balkans, explained the Tito regime's arrogance with this yarn. . . . He asked a Yugoslav leader why his tiny nation insisted on alienating a powerful friend such as the U. S. . . . The Yugof sneered: "Tiny nation? We and the Russians number more than 200 million!"

New York Novelleter: Not too long ago a pretty newcomer chorine phoned a newspaper man, she knows. . . . She said she had a weighty problem for him to help solve. She said her chief ambition was to wed a millionaire, but she didn't know any. . . . Could he introduce her to some? . . . Nothing came of it. . . . A few weeks ago that girl married a multi-millionaire, who settled nine million dollars on his ex-wife for the divorce. The newlars are still honeymooning. . . . She is Marianne O'Brien. . . . He is the Camel ciggie heir, R. J. Reynolds.

Broadway Torch Song: (By Don Wahn): The mob is back—the nights take on a tang. . . . New shows, new gals, new blood is in the veins. . . . Yet I remember all the songs we sang. . . . When wine was king and glamour held the reins. . . . That was an autumn tintured with delight. . . . When life was lush and all the chips were down. . . . And we would wait like culprits for the night. . . . To steal the gold that drifted on the town. . . . But we were ripe for all the pranks of Fate. . . . And so we came to terms with discontent. . . . And suddenly we found the hour was late. . . . The wine was low—the gold was strangely spent. . . . I turned to you as solace for a Fool. . . . But you and autumn both turned very cool!

Many of the misunderstandings between nations can be traced to a lack of knowledge. Some newspaper men in an enlightened city such as Paris know very little about the United States. . . . Several months ago a gazette in Paris referred to "a village of 200 souls in the half savage state of Texas."

Sounds in the Night: At Leon & Eddie's: "Tommy Manville must be getting old. He took a vacation this summer instead of a honeymoon." . . . In the Cub room: "Oh, stop giving yourself 4 stars!" . . . At the Singapore: "He's a typical Broadway success. Doesn't know anybody any more." . . . In Village Vanguard: "Her tongue's an express train, and rumors are its only passengers." . . . At the 400: "Every time one of those guys at the United Nations conference shakes a threatening fist he's taking your life in his hands." . . . At the Copa: "He took me to breakfast last night." . . . At the Stork: Be careful! She looks like the plaintiff type."

Boston blue-pencillers added another slice of stupidity to their non-censorship record. Although "Life with Father" has been running there for more than a year, the Boston censors finally decided to delete a line from the play. . . . It recalls the time the same blue-pencillers issued the following instructions for a film: "Eliminate scene showing man kicking girl." . . . And then the censor's report added: "This elimination required only on Sunday showing."

Convicts Prepare For Prison Rodeo In Huntsville Pen

Huntsville, Texas.—For almost a year, some four thousand Texas Prison System inmates have been preparing for their 15th Annual Prison Rodeo.

Now, they have only to wait for October 6, the first of the four Sunday shows that begin at 2 p.m. in the stadium next to the Huntsville penitentiary.

It's the world's wildest and fastest show. It's also plenty rough on plenty of tough inmates.

In fact, there just isn't a sport that's rougher than the bull riding contests when Brahman bulls lock horns with Texas lock-busters. Right now, the riders are ready to go. For that matter, all the convicts are ready, although their "going" is somewhat hampered by legal red tape and numerous shotgun guards. Just the same, they're ready.

Albert Moore, director of this 15th Annual Rodeo, says this will be the fastest show yet. He has added 15 Montana bucking horses to his string.

W. Albert Lee, of Houston, Prison Board member and chairman of the rodeo committee, says he has signed up Guadalupe Partido, charro (Roping) champion of the Republic of Mexico. Partido

'46 Registration Sets Record at Kingsville

KINGSVILLE—With men outnumbering the women students three to one, Texas A&I College set a new record for enrollment during last week's registration.

Of the 1,524 students completing registration 1,143 were men, 381, women. Final total, following Wednesday afternoon's late registration, is expected to reach 1600. Previous record was 1,173, set in 1940. Last fall's enrollment was 524, about a third of this semester's registration.

George H. Bucher started work as a shop apprentice at 18 cents an hour and rose to the presidency of the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co.

will bring Valentino, his horse.

The convict band, aided by inmates transferred from other units, is about ready and promises plenty of hot licks during the show.

"Piddlers," as inmate craftworkers are known behind the walls, are working every spare minute to manufacture novelties for sale at the show.

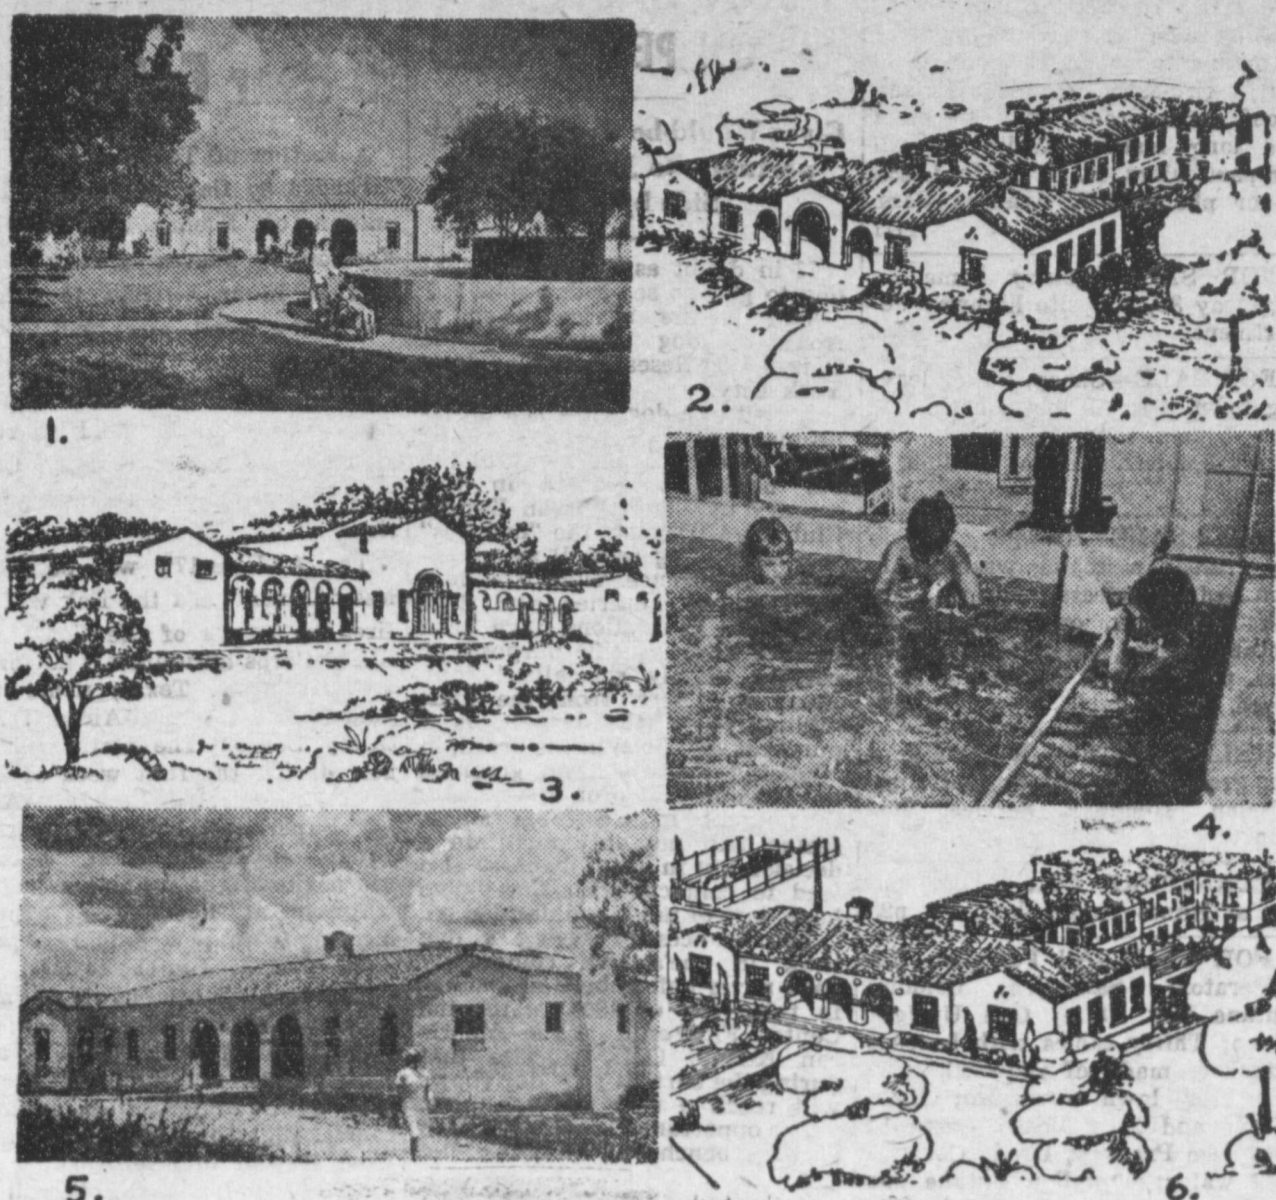

Piddlers are inmate merchant-manufacturers who buy their own leather, silver, semi-precious stones, and other raw goods, and turn out purses, billfolds, belts, buckles, rings—even an occasional blackjack.

"The novelties are sold throughout the year as well as at the rodeo."

Performers are recruited from the ranks. Practically all are rank amateurs. A limited few have had previous cowboy experience.

Don't forget—the 15th Annual Prison Rodeo will be held at Huntsville the four Sundays in October beginning at 2 p.m. each Sunday. October 6, 13, 20, and 27 are the dates.

Texas' Answer to Challenge of Polio

The Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation, where the people of Texas are building the State's only comprehensive center for treatment of infantile paralysis victims, is expanding its facilities to provide for more than 400 patients a year to answer the challenge.

These pictures are typical views of the Foundation. (1) Famous Gonzales Warm Springs, wonderful, health-giving waters which flow 200,000 gallons a day, and the original unit where more than 250 children from 81 Texas counties have received rehabilitation. (2) Forty-bed, air conditioned treatment unit donated by generous Fort Worth citizens, one of three new buildings under construction. (3) Cullen Center, the Foundation's specially-designed wheelchair chapel, school and theatre, where patients will study, worship and play. (4) In the warm, buoyant Gonzales Warm Springs waters, infantile paralysis victims exercise their crippled limbs. Pools like this are in each treatment unit. (5) New $75,000 Doctors' and Nurses' Residence, where staff lives in year-round air-conditioned comfort. (6) Open-handed Houstonians donated this 40-bed treatment unit, another air-conditioned building with home-like atmosphere.

Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation Expands

Gonzales, Texas. — Infantile paralysis has laid a hard hand upon Texas children during recent years. This year almost 600 Texas children have become victims of the disease.

While nationwide efforts continue to isolate the cause of the disease and to determine how it is carried, the people of Texas, cognizant of their responsibility to the hundreds of Texas children who become crippled as a result of this dread disease, have built in the center of Texas, near Gonzales, a treatment center where these children may receive treatments designed to reduce the crippling effects of the disease.

"The Warm Springs Foundation

does not benefit from the annual March of Dimes collections, nor from the funds of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, nor does it receive aid from the state or federal governments," President Ross Boothe said.

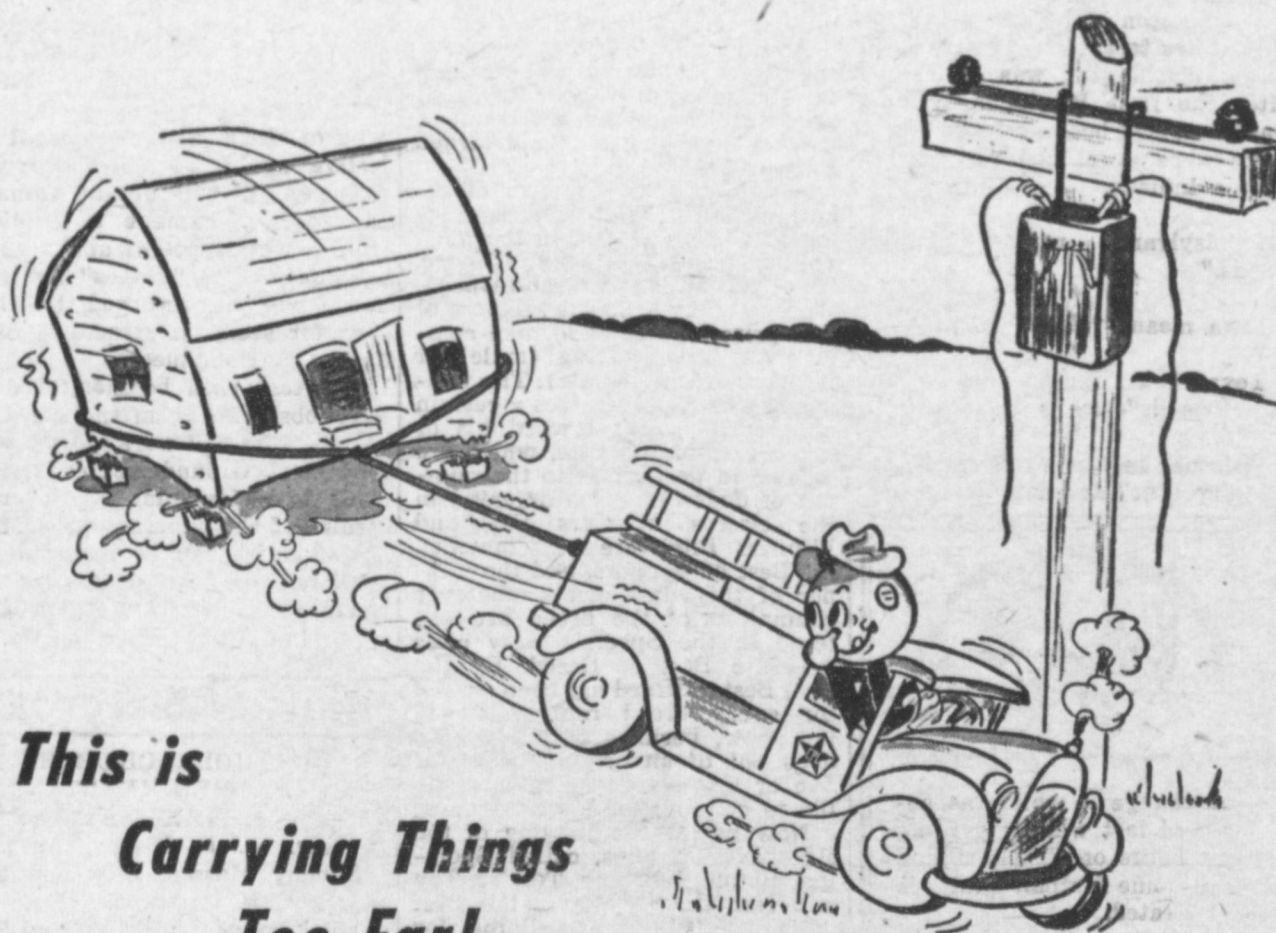

The treatment center is located on a 40-acre tract adjacent to beautiful Gonzales-Palmetto State Park, 10-miles north of Gonzales just off State Highway 29.

The Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation is built around the famous Gonzales Warm Springs, which flows warm, health-giving water at the rate of 200,000 gallons daily.

The process of gaining admission to the Foundation's treatment center is simple; red tape is kept at an absolute minimum. Only two steps need to be taken: First, the parents should write, wire or telephone the foundation for copies of the admission form. Second, they should take the patient to the nearest orthopedic surgeon for examination. If this doctor believes the foundation's treatment can benefit the patient, he will recommend admission. His recommendations for treatment are to be entered on the application form.

When the complete admission form is received at the foundation, the parents will be immediately notified of the date to bring the patient.

This is Carrying Things Too Far!

SHORTAGES haven't made it necessary for anyone to move his house to get electric service. But critical material, equipment and skilled labor shortages have caused us to do a lot of stretching, improvising, substituting and engineering to extend service to new customers.

Since the war, the number of folks wanting electric service has increased very rapidly. Our job of serving these new customers has been slowed down because of the shortage of copper wire, poles, transformers and dozens of other items necessary to extend and maintain service. Delays in production throughout the nation have caused these critical material shortages which are beyond our control.

However, one way or another, we are connecting most new customers promptly and we are also making every effort to maintain the kind of dependable electric service you have come to expect—around the clock, around the calendar.

IF YOU ARE WAITING FOR ELECTRIC SERVICE...
You can be assured that we are doing everything humanly possible to get to you as fast as we can. Your understanding and cooperation will be appreciated.

Student Nurses Urged To Enroll Before Oct. 1

In a final appeal for student nurses for the state's 37 accredited schools of nursing, Miss Lucy Harris of Fort Worth, president of the Texas League of Nursing Education, Thursday urged girls between ages of 17 and 25 years who might qualify to enroll at their nearest hospital before Fall classes close Oct. 1.

Miss Harris termed a recent intensive campaign for student nurses conducted by six state-wide organizations as "extremely successful for the brief period involved," but pointed out that the openings still are available and asked that prospective students who could not enroll before the Oct. 1 deadline consider making applica-

HOW SAME STATES DERIVED THEIR NAME

Oklahoma is Choctaw for "red people."

Kentucky is the Wyandot name for "land of tomorrow."

Michigan is an Algonquin name meaning "big lake."

Wisconsin is Sak for "wild rushing channel."

Careteret named New Jersey
for the Isle of Jersey.

New York honored the Duke of York when it selected its name.

Champlain gave Vermont its name after its "green mountains."

California means "land of oven's heat."

Maine was named after an ancient province in France.

Montana is aptly named as the word means "mountainous."

Washington and Indiana are the only states technically American in name. Washington was christened after the first President. Indiana was so named because large tracts there were purchased and settled by the Indians.

Pennsylvania means "Penn's woods."

Iowa means "sleepy ones."

Texas is an Indian name meaning "friends"—as is Dakota.

Arizona means "place of the small springs" and not "arid zone."

DOG SHOW GOOD SPOT TO DECIDE ON PET WANTED

Gives Would-be Dogowner Opportunity to Judge Breeds Side by Side

If in doubt as to the breed of dog to get, go see a dog show!
This is the advice given to would-be dog owners by the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

A visit to a dog show is a pleasurable opportunity to see and study at close range many of the 110 breeds recognized in this country by the American Kennel Club. Strolling past the "benches" is a fascinating as well as educational experience. Here are dogs from many countries, and dogs which for generations have been bred to fulfill specific purposes or perform highly specialized jobs.
Every dog here, from the most diminutive to the largest, is a purebred specimen of his breed, in blooming condition and groomed to perfection. Two or three hours thus spent in enjoyable sightseeing will not only facilitate a decision but in all probability also lead to contacts with those who have dogs of the breed decided on.

The chances of seeing a dog show in one's own community have never before been as good as in this year of 1946, states the Center. Figures from the American Kennel Club indicate that during the current year dog shows will reach a new all-time high.
The opportunity of viewing dogs on their benches is, of course, not ica's largest 1946 outdoor dog event.

all there is to a dog show. Equally interesting and thrilling—particularly to the seasoned show-goer and fancier—is to watch the actual judging of the dogs.

Often a first-time spectator, after watching from the ringside awhile, will ask, "What is the judge looking for when he goes over the dogs?"
How does he compare them? The answer is that each breed has its own official Standard which describes in detail the conformation and qualities that constitute a faultless specimen, and that when the judge examines the dogs in the ring before him—inspects their teeth, feels their muscles and watches them walk back and forth —he is simply trying to determine which dog comes closest to measuring up to this Standard.

Another frequent inquiry from spectators is, "How is the best dog in the show selected? By what procedure is one dog lifted out of several hundred to be crowned Best-in-Show?"

A dog show is a sort of elimination contest. First, there is judging of various classes in the individual breeds (Puppy, Novice, American-Bred, Limit and Open), segregated by sex. The winners of first prize in each class then compete for Winners Dog (male) or Winners Bitch (female). The winner of this class receives a certain number of points toward his or her championship title, which are figured in proportion to the number of dogs he or she defeated in the classes. Winners Dog and Winners Bitch are now matched for Best of Winners, and the winner of this class meets whatever champions of the breed are entered in the Specials Only class for title Best of Breed. By the time Best of Breed has been chosen every breed is represented in the show, perhaps only 40 or 50 dogs out of an original entry of five or six hundred remain eligible to contend for higher honors.

Now begins the judging of the six variety groups, called Sporting, Hound, Working, Terrier, Toy and Non-sporting. Only the Best of Breed winners are eligible for competition within their special group; consequently group contests are very keen and the quality of the contestants of the highest order. The six dogs that are placed first in each of these groups are then brought together to contend for the final and highest honor of Best in Show. This is the climax of the judging and the most exciting part of the show.
Amid tension that almost crackles,
the six finalists are examined, gauged and re-examined. Finally one of them is motioned to the center of the ring amid cheers and applause, to take his place in the limelight as champion of champions—Best in Show!

Vote Cocker Spaniel
The Favorite Breed

The Cocker Spaniel leads as the favorite breed of visitors at the Gaines Research Kennels, Ridgefield, Conn., it is revealed by Elias C. Vail, Managing Director. A group of 524 visitors, while signing the Kennels' guest book, were asked to also indicate their favorite breed. Listed are the ten breeds mentioned most often, in the order of popularity: Cocker Spaniel, Irish Setter, Collie, Wire Fox Terrier, Great Dane, Boxer, Scottish Terrier, English Setter, Pointer and German Shepherd.

Joint Service Tests to Be Held In Near Future

A section of Texas sky will be darkened by flak bursts as a formation of Boeing B-17 Flying Fortresses weaves through the barrage in an attempt to escape the anti-aircraft fire and arrive over its "target" in joint Army Air Forces and Army Ground Forces tests to be held shortly, according to James F. May, Captain of the Victoria recruiting office.

The AAF B-17's will be pilot-less "drones," and the flak will be fired by troops of the Coast Artillery Corps anti-aircraft batteries at Fort Bliss, Texas, under the guidance of the Anti-Aircraft Artillery School. The tests will be held during the first week of December. Personnel of the AAF's 1st Experimental Guided Missile Group, at Eglin Field, Florida, has begun flight training with the "drones" at Fort Bliss, experimenting with new guiding equipment to be used in the tests.

Members of this newly formed AAF group has considerable experience in flying crewless aircraft during the Bikini tests and later in the long-distance, remote-control flight of two B-17 "drones" from Hawaii to California.

The forthcoming flights will be the first flight of a large number of crewless bombers in simulated combat conditions. At least 10
"drones" will be used.

The obsolete B-17's will not be used as mere target planes to offer gunners practice in firing on actual aircraft, but will afford both anti-aircraft technicians and AAF observers an opportunity to determine the effect of newest types of flak on large bomber formations and to increase the efficiency of anti-aircraft fire control and direction equipment.

Newer bombers are capable of drastic evasive action (weaving from one side to another and rapidly changing altitude) and require only a short bomb run.
Ground Forces fire control equipment has been designed to compensate for sharp turns by aircraft, but no conclusive study was possible during hostilities.

Anti-Aircraft Artillery technicians will be enabled to analyze what happens in actual firing conditions against a large formation of attacking aircraft, using radar to plot the barrage bursts against flights staggered at different altitudes, and coming into the target area from several directions.

Each burst of flak will be permanently recorded by a battery of cameras photographing the tests from various angles, highlighting a prolonged flak analysis program on the part of the Ground Forces. These films will be studied by technicians to determine the type of shells and fuses most effective against armored aircraft.

The AAF will obtain valuable data on the damage to bombers from newest types of anti-aircraft equipment. The "drones" not shot down will be returned to their base for study of structural damage by AAF engineers.

The tests will be monitored by AAF observers from the Air University, who will work closely with AAF and Ground Forces technicians in determining the over-all results of the experiments so that new theories can be included immediately in the science of air warfare taught in the Air University at Maxwell Field, Ala.

Rockport Residents

To See Broadway Plays

In Corpus Christi

Seven residents of Rockport are subscribers to the Civic Drama Guild series of plays to be shown in Corpus Christi during the 1946-47 season, according to Mrs. Paul Bluntzer, chairman of the drama committee of the Pilot Club.

Season ticket holders are Mrs.
C. A. Duck, Miss Wilbern Hamblin,
Miss Bonnie Cron, Miss Jean
Hinton, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Cope.

The Broadway plays booked for one-night stands in Corpus Christi by the Pilot Club are "Dear Ruth"
"The Philadelphia Story", and
"Therese".

A recipe for beef sausage loaf was the first manuscript sold by Mary Jane Ward. It brought her $10. She has received $100,000 in royalties from her novel, "The Snake Pit."

There are many different calendars in use in the world. Four types predominate. They are the Gregorian (U. S., Europe, South America), the Chinese, the Jewish, and the Mohammedan calendars.

The Fourth of July was first celebrated nationally on July 4, 1799, or 23 years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence.

MRS. JIM HAGUE NOW WORKING AT PILOT

Mrs. Jim Hague is now working as a linotype operator with the Rockport Pilot. She started to work Tuesday of this week.

She has had a good deal of experience in this type of work since her father, J. O. Blackwell, used to own the Pilot and she helped to publish the Pilot in those days.
