Texas Sharply Cuts Back Oil Production

State Mover To Protect Resources, Slashing Heavily Into Allowables

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Aug. 31.—Texas, he nation's greatest oil-producing state, today cut its allowable crude oil production 395,588 barrels daily in the first step toward reconverting the oil industry to peacetime needs.

The railroad commission accomplished the severe cut back in production by replacing the number of producing days permitted in each field. It made no change in the basic allowable, but merely cut the number of days in which oil might be produced.

Down 16.7 Per Cent

The percentage of reduction for the state as a whole was 16.7. It ranged downward from a top slash of 27.25 per cent in district 2, Southwest Texas. The reduction precentage in the big East Texas field which feeds the Big Inch pipeline was 17.24.

Under the order, the allowable daily crude oil production for September will be 1,973,813 barrels. The allowable production as of Aug. 26 was 2,369,401 barrels.

The railroad commission's figures, all in terms of allowable or permitted production of crude oil alone, do not take into account estimated under-production, or production of distillates and condensates.

Last available estimates on under-production were 6.50 less than the allowable, and production of condensates and distillates amount to approximately 165,000 barrels daily.

New Postwar Basis

Thus while what the cut will amount to in actual production of all petroleum liquids will not be known until actual production figures for both August and September are compared, members of the commission emphasized that the cut was important because it set up a new basis for postwar production.

The Petroleum Administration for War had called on Texas for production of 1,978,000 barrels of crude daily in September.

The East Texas field, which had 25 producing days in August, was cut to 20 days for September in the shutdown order which revised the number of producing days for virtually every field in the state on a basis which Railroad Commission Chairman Olin Culberson said he believed was equitable.

Commission Statement

In a statement accompanying the order, he explained the process by which the commission arrived at the cut in production by reducing production days as follows:

"According to instructions given by the commission, all fields now producing above the maximum efficient rate have been reduced to

OWI Is Out, New Plan Set

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (AP) — President Truman today ordered Secretary of State Byrnes to set up America's first peacetime foreign propaganda program in the State department.

Abolishing the Office of War Information effective Sept. 15, the chief executive directed Byrnes to take over part of the OWI operations overseas.

The aim, Mr. Truman declared, will be to give the peoples of other nations "a full and fair picture of American life and of the aims and policies of the United States government."

Sweeping Order

In a sweeping executive order, Mr. Truman accomplished these things, some of them revolutionary steps in the conduct of American foreign policy:

1. Abolished the Office of War Information.

2. Placed under the State department the foreign information activities of OWI and of the Office of Inter-American Affairs which has operated in Latin America. An "interim international information service" was created in the department, to operate until Dec. 31.

3. Directed Secretary of State Byrnes to work out by the end of the year an information program "which he considers should be conducted on a continuing basis."

The long-range program undoubtedly will have to be approved by Congress.

Two-Fold Intention

The intention, Mr. Truman said, is two-fold—to assist private enterprises in spreading information abroad and to supplement them where necessary.

Officials construed this general statement as broad enough to allow the government information service to distribute news in areas of the world in which it is not profitable for private enterprise to operate. The provision for supplementary service was generally interpreted to mean the dispatching abroad of texts of official documents and speeches and the amplification of spot news developments in this country through press officers to be attached to American embassies and legations abroad.

Youth's Helper Lands In Jail

A 15-year-old Amarillo youth, who came to Lubbock Friday to "help" his brother, held in Lubbock county jail in connection with two armed robberies here and a string of other hijackings and car thefts in Texas and Oklahoma, wound up in jail himself—admittedly an accomplice in all the offenses except those in Lubbock.

Brother of Hubert O'Pry, 17, of Amarillo, under charge here along with two other 17-year-old youths and a 19-year-old girl for robbery of two service stations, the youngster aroused suspicions of alert officers who quickly subjected him to a verbal grilling.

Admit Another Robbery

Meantime, officers drew from the suspects admissions of another offense, burglary of a tailor shop in Ardmore, Okla., on Aug. 21.

Officials planned to question the five in regard to the severe beating and robbery of a truck driver 10 days or more ago near Ardmore. Oklahoma officials informed local law enforcement agencies that three youths and a girl came upon the truck driver while he was sleeping in his parked truck, held and beat him and relieved him of about $20.

Others charged here in robberies Wednesday night of Onyx service station, at Seventh and College, and Lowrimore station on East Broadway, are Ruth Wilder of Monahans, Jessie Williams of Bay City, Tex., and Gerald Davis of Lubbock (Davis is not the Gerald "Dingy" Davis on the Westerner football team).

Identified As Montague

Williams was revealed Friday, after the charge was filed, as Jessie Montague, who was liberated at pistol point from the state training school at Gatesville on Aug. 17. The girl and Hubert O'Pry were

Daughter Of Musso In Allied Custody

ROME, Aug. 31 (AP)—Countess Edda Ciano, Mussolini's once-glamorous daughter whose husband died before a firing squad on Mussolini's orders, was in custody of Italian authorities tonight, headed for internment on an island near Naples or off Sicily.

The countess, widow of former Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Caino, was turned over to Italian authorities by Allied security officers a few hours after her expulsion from Switzerland yesterday.

LITTLE WONDER JAPS SHOW HUMILITY — Undoubtedly a contributing cause to the humble and "so solly" attitude of Japs today are scenes like this top, showing more than 1,000 carrier-based planes of Adm. In V formation, a small portion of the huge number of planes in the air roar over a unit of the fleet. Right, officers and men of the Fourth U. S. American Fighting Men Stagger In Growing Numbers From Gravelike Jap Torture Camps

TOKYO BAY, Saturday, Sept. 1 (AP)—American fighting men staggered from the gravelike confines of Japanese torture camps today to describe savage gantlets through Tokyo streets, murderous "setting-up exercises" in the snow, and a series of more refined cruelties of which solitary confinement was least.

In those camps, where calculated brutality was routine and death was a commonplace, aviators evidently were the special objects of barbaric attention.

Clubbed By "Civilians"

Army and Navy fliers who were shot down over Japan said they had been clubbed by civilian mobs when they parachuted to earth, led blindfolded through packed masses of hate - spitting Japanese in Tokyo's main streets, and deliberately denied mail and Red Cross packages in the unregistered cells where they lay alone for interminable months.

Submariners came in for the same type of treatment, they disclosed, as they and the fliers emerged to freedom amid constantly-growing streams of war prisoners of all categories many of whom had suffered their living hell for three years.

Some were from ships sunk in the desperate, delaying actions of the war's first days and from islands seized by the Japanese in their initial victory surge. Others were airmen who had been shot down over Japan.

Held Near Bomb Target

Prisoners from a camp in the Kawasaki suburb of Tokyo declared they had been held there, a short distance from the prime Nippon steel works military target, while American air raids were going on.

Eight American and 15 British prisoners, unable to seek shelter, were killed in recent raids on the camp.

Some of the nearly naked, half starved prisoners couldn't wait for boats to take them to hospital ships and transports. They were picked up swimming.

Nearly 2,000 liberated prisoners had reached the ships by last night for processing and hospitalization.

Cmrd. Harold Stassen of Admiral Halsey's staff, in charge of the evacuation program, said the Americans would be sent home by plane or ship as soon as possible.

An estimated 36,000 Allied prisoners, 8,000 of them Americans, were expected to be freed from the camps in Japan.

Associated Press correspondent Vern Haugland reported that 95 American and eight British fliers, some of whom had been denied the privilege of writing or receiving mail for three years, were discovered in the Ofuna camp near Yokohama.

The camp was described by Haugland as a hidden and unregistered torture farm.

Prisoners there, he reported, included aviators from the Marianas, China and the Aleutians and from such famed avy carriers as the Wasp, Hornet, Lexington and Langley.

There were survivors from Wake island and from the Destroyer Pope and Submarine Perch. One of the latter said the entire crew survived the Perch's sinking early in the war.

All Malnutrition Cases

Stassen declared that all liberated prisoners were malnutrition cases in varying degrees and that some bore wounds of torture, such as scarred finger tips.

Stassen reported that evidence was accumulating of prison deaths from beatings and lack of medical care. The Japanese themselves announced early in the war that they had executed some of the captured Doolittle fliers.

Information obtained from prisoners, Stassen said, will be turned over in full to those responsible for pressing charges to be brought against Japanese war criminals.

Liberated Men Recount Hideous Treatment In Jap Prison Camps

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

OFUNA PRISON CAMP, Near Yokohama, Aug. 31. — Accounts of hideous treatment by Japanese captors and guards — one prisoner beaten to death; seven dead of malnutrition; a flier covered with his parachute and shot; men forced to sit for 14 hours with metal bits in their mouths — were given me today at this unregistered torture farm.

They came from the lips of 103 brutally treated Allied men—95 American, eight English — interviewed after a Swiss representative uncovered the camp Sunday. Most of them were fliers. I was among the first three American visitors in the camp.

Has Business Elsewhere

The camp commander, Lt. Gen. Kakuzo T. Kaku Oidada was reported "in Tokyo on business" when we called.

The grim experiences had been undergone by pilots from the carriers Essex, Wasp, Hornet, Franklin, Lexington, Langley and Shangri-La.

Men are here who survived Wake island and the Java sea battle only to undergo a living death.

Beatings were commonplace. The Japanese compelled the men to go out in winter in the snow, clad only in shorts, and squat in awkward positions with arms over their heads.

Transfer Frequent

No one knows how many Americans passed in and out of Ofuna. Transfers were frequent.

At least eight died. One was a flying associate of film actor Wayne Morris, a carrier pilot. I was told the names of these victims. They must be withheld until the families are notified.

Ensign Fred Turnbull, 21, Highland Park, Mich., a carrier flier shot down during a raid Oct. 12, 1944 off Formosa, said:

"My captors tied by hands behind me, made me lie down and covered me with my parachute. Twenty minutes later, I heard two shots. I didn't feel the first one in the left upper arm because my left shoulder already was full of shrapnel and was hurting too much. The second bullet went through the right side of my chest.

Tests Sword On Neck

"I tried to die and made peace with my God.

"Twenty minutes later, they made me sit up. A Jap rolled my collar down and tested his sword on the back of my neck. He made a practice swing.

"A first aid man arrived, a Formosan, who thought I didn't move fast enough so he struck me in the back with a bayonet.

"At a hospital close to an airfield, shrapnel and bullets were removed without an anesthetic but they did give me glucose and blood plasma.

"The next day American fliers strafing an airfield put 31 holes in the hospital room, including four in the bed I had been using and killed two Japs. The Japs told me if it happened again, they'd kill me."

The Japanese gave the "bit treatment" to eight survivors of a 12-man crew on a Privateer plane shot down while on reconnaissance

Solons Urge Truman To Relieve Pressure

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—A plan developed in Congress today to ask President Truman to get the lawmakers off a very hot seat.

The proposal, advanced by members of the House Military committee, is that Mr. Truman either address Congress or the nation to explain:

1. Why he and the Army want the draft continued.

2. Why discharges from the armed forces aren't occurring faster.

Those two questions have congressmen in hotter water, they say, than any issue in months. They figure if the President will do some explaining it may take the pressure off them.

Quisling Branded Murderer And Thief, Death Penalty Demanded

OSLO, Aug. 31. (AP)—The death penalty was demanded for Vidkun Quisling today by Prosecutor Annaeus Schjoedt, who declared Quisling was a murderer, a thief, a man lustful for power, and guilty of the "most extensive and most evil high treason Norway ever experienced."

Summing up the state's case, Schjoedt declared Quisling, puppet leader of Norway under the Germans, should be given "the most severe punishment of the law"—death.

The prosecutor charged that Quisling began his treachery in 1939 by telling Nazi leaders that the invasion of Norway was necessary.

That on invasion day he took Germans to the defense ministry and personally telephoned several military commanders telling them to cease fire.

That he was responsible for deportation of more than 1,000 Jews to Germany, of whom only 12 returned.

That he tried to change the constitution and introduce "government based on German power and the 'fuehrer' principle."

After Schjoedt's summation, the court adjourned until Sept. 5, when the defense will make its summation.

Quisling told the court he had lost 40 pounds while in prison, and declared the laws under which he was being tried were illegal.

Official Surrender By Japs Is Set Tonight

American Control Spreads Swiftly And Smoothly Over Tokyo Bay Area

(By The Associated Press)

YOKOHAMA, Saturday, Sept. 1.—U. S. troops in swelling numbers stood at Tokyo's southern gates today and Allied dignitaries were arriving in Yokohama for tomorrow's historic surrender ceremony (Saturday, U. S. time).

American control was spreading smoothly and swiftly through the area of Tokyo bay, where the U. S. Eighth Army of Philippines liberation fame was scheduled to begin moving in before nightfall in force.

Eighth Army To Land

Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's Army will land in Yokohama, sixth city of Japan, where General MacArthur's headquarters in the customs house pulsated with preparations for the surrender ceremony in Tokyo bay.

The hour of this event has not been announced. (A dispatch from Washington said the White House was standing by for word of it between 9 and 10 p. m. Central War Time Saturday, which would be from 11 a. m. to noon Sunday, Japan time.)

Japanese imperial headquarters tried to put off this final, humiliating act of a lost war by asking MacArthur for further conferences on the terms, but it was asserted here that the ceremony will go off on schedule.

Signatories Arriving

Most of the Allied signatories to the surrender were arriving by transport ships in Yokohama harbor and were being put up in the new Grand hotel—untouched by the terrible fire raids that struck the city—where MacArthur and his staff have their living quarters.

(Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, liberated hero of Corregidor, had arrived in Yokohama to witness the surrender and had been warmly greeted by MacArthur, his superior in those black and early days of the war.)

With but a single incident—the shooting of a Japanese who refused to halt in a restricted area—American troops and Marines fanned out over the bay area.

Troops of the 11th Airborne division sped up to the south bank of the Tama river, at the southern edge of Tokyo, but observed that temporary line of demarcation. On the north bank armed soldiers of the emperor mounted guard.

Main Garrison Disarming

Associated Press correspondents inside the ruined capital said that the main Tokyo garrison was disarming, and repairs were rushed on the fire-damaged roof of the American embassy, which will become MacArthur's headquarters upon his triumphant entry into the city.

The Japanese asked that Tokyo, its hungry population cut two-thirds to a total of 2,000,000 by

Wainwright In Yokohama

By SPENCER DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 31. — Lt. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, liberated hero of Corregidor, reached here tonight and on landing on Japanese soil declared that "the shoe is on the other foot."

Wainwright arrived at General MacArthur's headquarters at the supreme Allied commander's invitation to attend Sunday's signing of the surrender articles in Tokyo bay.

Thin and haggard and leaning on a cane, Wainwright nonetheless had a sparkling eye as he reached here.

Among Greatest Thrills

"It is one of the greatest thrills of my life to come back to witness the surrender," he said.

"The last surrender I attended, the shoe was on the other foot. It's good to be back a free man and an American soldier wearing a gun again."

Wainwright was wearing a 32-caliber pistol.

He had just seen his old chief, General MacArthur, for the first time since that fateful day in March of 1942 when MacArthur left Corregidor for Australia to direct the American comeback in the Pacific.

They had dinner together in MacArthur's quaters in the new Grand hotel here.

Treat To See MacArthur

"I particularly enjoyed seeing General MacArthur again," he said. "It was a great treat to see him and have dinner with him."

Wainwright said he was feeling much better and that while he had lost considerable weight he would recover quickly.

He had flown from Mukden, in Manchuria, where he had been held a prisoner of war, to Chungking, thence to Manila.

He landed at Atsugi airdrome, where he was driven to Yokohama in a Japanese bus.

Wainwright had little to say of his dramatic rescue, other than to mention that he had some trouble getting to Mukden and that a Russian detachment had helped his party out.

Percival Also Present

Lt. Gen. A. E. Percival, the British commander of Singapore when it was captured by the Japanese, also arrived to attend the ceremony. He had been released at the same time as Wainwright and was flown out with him.

Percival smiled broadly when questioned about his feeling on arriving on Japanese soil and thought his answers a big obvious—"I am delighted to be here."

Unlike Wainwright, he said he had been in good health throughout his imprisonment.

British Halt Escape Of Jap Suicide Boats

SYDNEY, Australia, Sept 1. (AP)—Three Japanese suicide boats, attempting to escape from Hong Kong's Picnic bay, were attacked by British aircraft a British Pacific fleet communique announced today.

The attacks were effective. One was sunk; one beached and the third was forced to return into the harbor.

The naval dock yard at Hong Kong has been seized by a British naval force which entered the port Thursday.

All Japanese, including naval military commanders, were ejected.

Returnees On 'Queen' Go Wild With Joy

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—Nearly 15,000 servicemen—"the singingest bunch we've ever met"—came home today on the British liner Queen Elizabeth, largest of 10 troopships bringing 25,881 veterans to three east coast ports.

A din of whistles and a paper shower were set off as the "Lady" slowly moved out of the haze of lower bay.

"Name" bands—Cab Calloway's and Sammy Kaye's — serenaded the returning servicemen for the first time. A WAC band also played.

When the vessel docked at 12 noon (CWT), Nancy Norman, soloist with Sammy Kaye's band, sang "I Wanna Get Married" and the troops went wild.

They threw caps, shirts and equipment over the side into the water. They whistled, shrieked and yelled. Kaye finally quieted them by quickly swinging into a jazz number as the ship's public address system barder orders to prepare for debarkation.

Frustration Marks Efforts To Learn Identity Of Tokyo Rose

By AL DOPKING
Associated Press Staff Writer

YOKOHAMA, Japan, Aug. 31. The American fighting man has found frustration at the end of the long road to Japan—"Tokyo Rose" is a figment of the fertile brains of the propaganda office. Or is she?

That feminine charmer whose tantalizing voice used to issue from Radio Tokyo to the accompaniment of music made-in-America in fact was several Japanese girls. Or was she?

An American-born Japanese girl who guided me through Yokohama says that "Tokyo Rose" was any number of different gals who spoke the English language.

My guide is a 25-year-old woman, pretty enough to satisfy any dream conjured by a lonely Marine on Guadalcanal, or a soldier in a foxhole somewhere in the Pacifi clistening to Radio Tokyo.

She claimed she knew of at least three who worked at being "Tokyo Rose." The story bandied about Tokyo, she said, was that two were Nisei born in Los Angeles and the third was born in Canada.

Now she speaks nice English, was born at Downey, Calif., returned to Japan in 1940, and says she has been working for Domei for two years.

Every time she mentioned "Tokyo Rose" to me or the four other correspondents she smiled slyly.

'Really," she protested. "Tokyo Rose was a mystery even to us Japanese. We never heard her. She was on short wave."

H-m-m-m-m. Come now, Missy. Weren't you "Tokyo Rose?"

First-Flag Honor Held By Marine

WITH THE FOURTH MARINE REGIMENT, In Japan, Aug. 30, (Delayed). (AP) — A young Marine lieutenant from New York state was the first man to hoist the American flag today on Futtsu peninsula on Tokyo bay.

He was 1st Lt. Arthur [illegible], 46 Franklin St., Poughkeepsie. As soon as his outfit was ashore Jones headed straight for the central and largest of three fortresses on the peninsula — Fort Okahotai.

Had To Circle Most

Once inside the fort — he had to enter from behind because a semicircular moat guards the frontal approach — he climbed the weather and lookout station steel tower and ran up his flag.

It rippled in the strong morning breeze and in the bright sunlight the Stars and Stripes were visible to hundreds of American and British ships riding in Tokyo bay.

Raising the national banner over Japan fulfilled the Marine corps goal, sought since Pearl Harbor. And it was flown by the reborn Fourth Marine regiment, the Leatherneck outfit which won fame for its stand with the defenders of Corregidor.

CANCELLATION DEFENDED

LONDON, Aug. 31. (AP) — Discussing the end of lend-lease, the left wing New Statesman and Nation said today it was "unfair both to ourselves and the Americans to ask for American dollars or American supplies as postwar payment for our achievements in the defense of democracy."

SECRET WEAPON

THAT fabulous insecticide, DDT, that worked miracles at Saipan, North Africa and Naples, against such pests as fleas, lice, mosquitos and cockroaches, is being dusted in the seven city schools, as you perhaps noticed in a news story. That secret weapon for the postwar world has three properties which set it apart from all other insecticides: it kills more varieties of insects than do any of its predecessors; its rate of kill is always close to the maximum and the lasting power is so protracted that no one yet is certain how long it will retain its potency.

While DDT has its flaws, thousands of tests under every conceivable condition have convinced conservative scientists that its virtues are both undeniable and unparalleled. It is sure to deliver man from the nuisance of house pests and many of the economic miseries of major crop destruction. Soon DDT may be in every medicine chest or kitchen cabinet. From there on it will be up to the rest of us to make these possibilities come true.

FAVORITE DISHES

IF you were to go to the kitchen and whip up a few dishes for famous movie stars, what would you serve? Would you try to concoct a high powered dish or would you stick to the simple things?

Edward G. Robinson, popular "tough guy" of the movies, puts sea food at the top of his list of favorites.

Joe E. Brown, the comedian with the big mouth and big heart, prides himself on being able to keep his slender figure without dieting. He likes chocolate sundaes with lots of whipped cream and nuts, and can eat fried chicken any time it's offered.

Barbara Stanwyck spurns figs, dates and prunes, but will come a-running for a good dish of spareribs and sauerkraut.

James Cagney's favorite meal is a vegetable dinner—without the spinach. He drinks quantities of tomato juice and is extremely fond of bran muffins and cookies.

Dolores Del Rio was born in Mexico but prefers American dishes for a steady diet. She drinks a great deal of milk.

ICED TEA

ICED TEA has been served since the St. Louis Exposition of 1903. It came about when an English tea commissioner set up an elaborate booth, constructed in Moslem style and imported five good-looking Sengalese in highly-colored jackets and neat turbans to sell the product. New to this country, the Englishman had no way of knowing how hot a real mid-west scorcher can be. He soon discovered that fair-goers passed up his exhibit to cluster around soft drink stands.

To save his investment, the commissioner turned inventor and soon was serving an iced version of his black tea that was an immediate success.

CORRECT MONOGRAMS

THE sweet young thing who has just received a beautiful cedar chest from her fiance doesn't lose much time in starting to fill it. Before she buys her linens, however, she may be puzzled over the correct way to have them monogrammed.

While the experts suggest the bride's maiden initial for silver, linens may carry the monogram of either the maiden name or her married name. For example, if Mary Jane Jones is engaged to John Doe, she may have her linens monogrammed with either MJJ or MJD. If she chooses a monogram design with the center initial enlarged, the last initial should be placed in the center.

Centuries ago, it seems, when girls started their hope chests years before they were of marriageable age, their maiden initials, of course, were always used. In 1890, however, the bride-and-bridegroom combination initial became very popular. Today, it's an even split and either is considered permissible.

New Day Room Adds To Entertainment

A new day room was opened at South Plains Army Air field Thursday night for the recreation of enlisted men on their off-duty hours. Heretofore, the post's entertainment facilities consisted of a gymnasium, theater, one day room with library, and a non-commissioned officer's club.

The room was converted from one wing of an unused mess hall, and, in addition to its comfortable furniture, contains a "coke" machine, juke box, small stage with piano, and library of donated books and magazines. The walls are two-tone; the lower half is of a light brown basket weave design, while the upper parts are painted a powder blue. The ceiling is creamy white.

The "opening ceremony" was graced with the presence of several hostesses from the Lubbock USO who came out to help the men celebrate. After dancing to the music of the juke box, the crowd was entertained by the singing of T/Sgt. Richard Dubois, a young tenor who formerly sang on the weekly radio program at Truax Field, just outside of Madison, Wis. Some free movies followed this, and festivities ended with a late snack of sandwiches and lemonade.

Mrs. Adeline Rodgers of 2318 Twentieth, left by plane yesterday morning to visit her son, Fred T. Rogers, who is in the naval training school at Southwestern university, Georgetown.

Seamen's Bonus Lost, But Pay Hike Granted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The bonus to merchant seamen for habardous duty in the Atlantic and Pacific was abolished today, but the War Labor board immediately granted $45 monthly pay increases in its place.

In its first peacetime wage boost the relaxed wage policy, the board sought to offset the loss of the bonus, effective October 1, by granting the basic increase to 100,000 seamen in offshore dry cargo operations.

Joseph Curran, head of the CIO National Maritime union, told the maritime war emergency board last week that failure to adjust seamen's pay would interfere with recruiting for vessels on which victorious servicemen could get home and on which supplies for occupation forces could be carried.

Mindful of this, the WLB made its order effective when the "voyage" bonus, which at its maximum amounted to 100 per cent of the base wage and now averages $53, is wiped out.

Services Encourage Enlistments But Still Plug Hard For Draft

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—The armed services sought today to encourage voluntary enlistments but kept plugging also for continuance of the draft.

Navy and Marine corps officers told the House Military committee that those services do not believe recruiting alone will keep them up to needed strength.

The committee was informed, however, that draft calls can be cut if volunteering exceeds expectations, and a joint Army-Navy board presented a program of proposed inducements for volunteers. The outline consisted largely of financial benefits with special allowances for reenlistment and for long overseas service.

Navy Recruitment

The Navy meanwhile set in motion an all-out recruitment drive.

The joint Army-Navy program was offered to a committee several of whose members had indicated a desire if possible to go on a stright volunteer basis for occupation armies and cut out the draft entirely. There was talk in the committee also of asking President Truman to explain to the country why he thinks Selective Service is still necessary.

Some committee members want Mr. Truman to speak not only on the draft but also on why men aren't discharged from the services faster. People back home are turning the heat on some of their congressmen on those two questions.

To expedite release of aviators, the Navy meanwhile reduced the number of points required for their discharge, putting the figure at 44—the same as for enlisted men. It takes 49 for all other male reserve officers.

But with the idea of continuing the flow of new pilotes into the fleet, the Navy announced it will continue to offer flight training to 17 and 18-year-old high school graduates or students in their last semester of high school or secondary school.

This is the Army-Navy program for volunteer benefits:

1. Increased pay for overseas duty, beginning with 20 per cent and increasing 5 per cent yearling to a maximum of 35 per cent above continental duty pay.
2. Increased number of noncommissioned grades and ratings.
3. Continuation of free postage.

Mustering Out Pay

4. Assurance of mustering out pay for men discharged for the purpose of reenlistment.
5. An option for Army men regarding payment to them of money in lieu of quarters.
6. Transportation costs for reenlistment furloughs.
7. A guarantee of most benefits now accorded to inductees.

The proposals will be taken up at a subcommittee meeting tomorrow.

The military committee also heard that the nation's shortage of doctors for civilians is to be alleviated somewhat soon.

News Briefs

The Lubbock U. S. Employment service offices, 1207 Thirteenth, will be closed Monday, Labor Day. M. W. Waldron, office manager, made the announcement Friday afternoon. Office hours have been staggered in the past few weeks to take care of the recent government order for federal employes to only work 40 hours weekly. The office is open all day Saturdays.

Dep. Sheriff Raymond Land, Ranger Raymond Waters and a negro trusty of Lubbock county jail went Friday afternoon to the Newman farm three miles south of Shallowater to investigate a report that a "bomb" had been buried at the end of a turnrow. The negro dug down the length of a buried insulated wire that was moored in an electrical conduit. Officials discovered the "bomb" was only a former ground connection for a hgihline.

A carload of Irish potatoes shipped here under the War Food Administration for distribution to school cafeterians is expected in the next few days, Roy Boyd, distributing agent, said Friday. The potatoes will be distributed to school lunchrooms in 10 counties in this area.

Cablegrams To POW Now Are Permitted

Cablegrams may now be sent to men held as prisoners of the Japanese the War department has announced. Lubbock parents with sons in prison camps have been notfied.

This new service being arranged by the War department is a duplication in a way of the service previously offered by the Red Cross. The Lubbock chapter of the Red Cross recently aided "next of kin" living in this area to send air-mail messages to 49 men held as prisoners in Japan.

Clinic Is Set Here Next Wednesday For Crippled Children

A crippled childrens clinic is to be conducted here Wednesday, Sept. 5, by two orthopedic specialists. All children who have muscular, bone or joint defects of any kind are told to be present at the Boys' club, 2323 Ave. K, beginning at 8 a. m., for diagnosis and free prescribing of treatment.

Doctors who will contribute their time to make the clinic possible are Dr. Walter G. Stuck of San Antonio and Dr. Chas. F. Clayton of Fort Worth, both of whom limit their practice exclusively to orthopedics. Sponsors are the Lubbock Crippled Children's council which obtains its funds from an annual Easter stamp sale, and which makes possible treatment of crippled children in the Lubbock district whose parents cannot afford extensive treatment.

Over 50 Registered

Over 50 children have been registered thus far, but J. E. Maisen, speaking for the council, said that it is hoped at least 150 children will attend. He said that such defects as cleft palate and hare lip will also be examined at the clinic and come under the heading of "crippled," and are of interest to the council if help for treatment is needed by the family.

Committee heads for the Crippled children's clinic: transportation and X-ray, Neil Wright; nurse's aides, Miss Ruth Skemp; Publicity, J. E. Maisen; services, Earl Hunt; supplies, Paul Hardwick; refreshments, George P. Kuykendall.

All children who are to attend should be registered as soon as possible, but if it is impossible to register them before the clinic opens, they may still register at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. Registrations before Wednesday can be made by writing J. E. Maisen or Miss Ruth Skemp at Box 89, Lubbock.

Transportation will be furnished to and from the clinic for any crippled children who live in the immediate Lubbock district and who do not have transportation facilities.

A 19-mile coastal belt on Kyushu between Moji and Yawata had pre-war metal-working plants that turned out one-third of Japan's production of pig iron and half of her steel.

Registration is in the Hilton hotel beginning at 2 p. m. today and a "get acquainted" session will be held during the afternoon. At 8 o'clock tonight a barbecue and dance will be held at the Lubbock Country club.

Business Session

City May Purchase Trenching Machine

Costing in excess of $7,000, purchase of a new trenching machine is being considered by the City of Lubbock.

The machine, which will be used to dig ditches for water and sewer lines, may be ordered at the next meeting of the City commissioners. The commissioners have instructed City Manager M. R. Smith, jr., to supmit recommendations as to the type of machine needed.

Bids have been submitted an four different types of trenching equipment, but further study is necessary, according to city officials. A machine that will cut a trench 24 inches wide and six feet deep is preferred.

Black Market On City Water Here Indicated

City water officials are encountering trouble with "bootleg water."

In the negro district, certain consumers are alleged to be buying water from the city for 15 cents a 1,000 water-feet and reselling it to persons, who do not have water service, for 50 cents a barrel.

B. C. McCasland, head of the water department, has suggested to the City commissioners that the plumbing of all persons, living outside the city, should be required to meet city sanitation inspection standards before being accepted for city water service. The new State Sanitary law, which becomes effective September 5, may provide more rigid sanitation regulations for those outside the city and aid in assuring that the city water supply is not contaminated by careless, suburban water users, according to City Attorney Vaughn Wilson.

Purchase Of Club Property Approved

Boys' club committee of the American Business club was authorized by club members at their luncheon Friday in the Hilton hotel to purchase the Lubbock Boys' club property from the Lubbock school board.

Certificates of appreciation were presented to members of the ABC club baseball team, champions of the Junior League, who won 19 games out of 22 played this season. Billy Tatum, captain, read batting averages of each player and Dorrance Guy, co-captain, speaking on behalf of the team, thanked the ABC club for its support.

"We think the ABC club is the best civic club in town because of its work with the Boys' club," Dorrance said.

Announcement was made that net profits on the ABC rodeo were approximately $9,000.

It was revealed that the 14 South Plains counties will be called upon to raise a quota of approximately $120,000 in the approaching campaign, scheduled from Oct. 1 through Oct. 31.

Local Grid Camps Official Start Scheduled For Today

State Schoolboy Grid Camps Open

(By The Associated Press)

The Texas schoolboy gridiron legions start the long grind leading toward a state championship Saturday.

It is the official opening of practice in all divisions—Class AA, Class A, Class B and—with some 18,000 youngsters due to don the moleskins.

BIG AUSTIN TURNOUT

AUSTIN, Aug. 31 (AP) — Four full teams will report for fall football practice tomorrow morning at Austin High school.

Coach Standard Lambert said it was the largest squad in history to come out for practice.

The Class AA division, the only one playing through to a state title, will be making its twenty-sixth annual race with 103 teams lined up for the start.

More than 70 of these teams will play their opening games two weeks hence with such early season attractions as Denison vs. San Angelo, Lubbock vs. Odessa, Childress vs. Amarillo, Breckenridge vs. Paschal (Fort Worth), Tyler vs. Lufkin, North Side (Fort Worth) vs Graham, Stephenville vs Sweetwater, Bryan vs. Austin and Electra vs. Pampa.

The race will open with a definite favorite for the state championship—Highland Park's Scotties of Dallas, who pack speed, power, experience and everything it takes. Highland Park was a finalist last season, losing to Port Arthur.

Other top-rated teams are Amarillo, Wichita Falls, Electra, Austin (El Paso), Abilene, Denison, Crozier Tech (Dallas), Paschal, Breckenridge, Waco, Lufkin, Goose Creek, Austin (Houston) and Austin.

Dove Hunters Take Into Fields Today

South Plains sportsmen take to the fields today with the opening of dove hunting season, but hunters are warned to stay out of Garza county, where the season is closed.

Firing will start one half hour before sunrise and continue until sunset from today until Oct. 30.

Indications are that game has been plentiful, but there have been some reports that recent rain and cold weather have chased the birds from the caprock, with better hunting expected beyond the rim of the big rock.

Texas Tech's Red Raiders started checking out uniforms Friday afternoon, and the Lubbock westerners will follow suit this morning to start officially Lubbock's two gridiron camps at Tech stadium and Chapman field, respectively.

Many of the college teams in the Southwest, most of the foes of the Red Raiders, have already had a week of entensive drills, but Coach Dell Morgan, ringmaster of the Red Raiders circus, promises plenty of action once the camp has been opened.

Real Grid Action

The Westerners have had a week of pre-season conditioning at the High school gym, but move into the turf at Chapman field today along with the rest of the football teams of the state, who must wait by league rules until Sept. 1 to start training.

E. J. "Pinkey" Lowrey, athletic director of Lubbock schools, said Friday night that Westerners and Cowhands are urged to be on hand at the Chapman field club house this morning at 9 o'clock. Many, however, will not start training until school opens next week.

When the camp gets into full swing, Lowrey said he expected about 100 Cowhands and 45 Westerners to be on hand.

Games Start Early

The school boys will have only two weeks to get into shape for the first test on the program. All three teams, Westerners, Cowhands Gold and Cowhands Black, have games scheduled for Sept. 14. The Westerners will open at Odessa, the Golds will go to Post, while the Blacks play Meadow here.

Coach Dell Morgan said Friday night that uniforms were issued to 31 Red Raiders Friday, and many more are expected to be on hand today for the first time.

Veterans Report In

Veterans who received their playing equipment Friday were Cecil Norris, scatback from Beaumont; Billy Joe Snodgrass, the man mountain from Brownfield; Otis Turner, veteran center from Wink; Jiggs Jackson, a speedy squadman from Monument, N. M., and Jay Kerr veteran end from Odessa. Ed Orr, lineman from Vernon, arrived in camp Friday, but too late to receive his equipment.

Several newcomers were on hand, some of them very promising lads. Among those to show up Friday were T. C. Williams from Quanah, just released after serving three years with the Navy. He is a backfield candidate. Another dischargee on hand Friday was Whitehead, a guard from San Angelo. Benny Tidwell from Bowie was back on the Tech campus, after spending one summer semester here some time ago.

Other New Faces

Another back that comes highly recommended is John Carter from Crowell. Milburn Haydon, 180 pound guard from Weatherford came in Friday, highly recommendde by Tolly McKown, former Tech player, Lamesa assistant coach, and last year grid mentor at Weatherford. Frank Ottmers, an end from Fredericksburg, and Garland Durham, a 17-year-old center from Canadian, were others on hand Friday.

Several other promising boys are expected to be uncovered when workouts get started today.

Among the veterans expected to reach camp today will be Floyd Lawhorn, big lineman from Temple, Walt Schlinkman, the Tech Atomizer returning from the College All-Star game in Chicago, Arthur Shahan, backfield flash from Graham, Gene Hardey, quarterback veteran from Hugoton, Kans., James Gimmell from Littlefield, and two Lubbock Westerner stars, R. W. Moyers and Billy Bob Harris.

Morgan urged that all boys be on hand this morning by 9:30 o'clock. There was no workout Friday, but the squad will limber up this morning, and launch into the drill on fundamentals this afternoon.

Hunters Get No Aid In Rationed Shells

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31. (AP)—Nimrods will be limited to 100 shot-gun shells during the forthcoming hunting season.

Ration in the first year of peace will be no larger than in the last year of war.

Because of the continued shortage of lead, the War Production Board announced today, the same limits as last year will remain in effect.

In addition to 100 shotgun shells of any gauge, a hunter also may purchase 150 rounds of .22-caliber rim fire cartridges, and 40 rounds of center-fire rifle ammunition (or 50 rounds if packaged 50 to the box).

This makes a total of eight boxes of ammunition of all kinds. To get it, a hunter must sign a certificate provided by WPB to suppliers.

Farmers, ranchers, professional hunters and trappers, including Alaskans and Eskimos, may obtain larger allotments by signing a certificate saying they need it in connection with the safe-guarding of crops or the earning of a livelihood.

Area Grid Clubs Ready To Start

King Football will take over his throne in West Texas today, and football grid camps over the South Plains will take on a lively outlook, although a few teams will not start until next week.

Class AA teams on the South Plains will jump into action today, with Coach C. T. Brannon taking over in the new post as head mentor of the District 1-AA Brownfield Cubs, replacing John A. Bost, who recently resigned the job.

Brannon will issue equipment this morning, aided by W. A. Bishop, assistant coach, formerly of Shallowater. Brannon was head coach at Seagraves last season, and was at Dublin the year before.

Lamesa Starts Today

Coach H. J. "Choc" Sanders will also issue uniforms at Lamesa today, with more than three dozen expected to be on hand for the start of training for the District 3-AA lads.

Bill Fortenberry, Edd Hawkins, John Hurley Bill Matlock, Orville Nieman, Donald Hoover and Bill Taylor will be the lettermen reporting to Sanders for the start of the grid camp.

Both these Class AA schools will open the season Sept. 14 against tough Clas A foes. Brownfield will play Slaton at Brownfield, while Lamesa battles the always tough Tahoka Bulldogs.

Tubbs Opens Monday

Coach Gano Tubbs announced Friday that he would start the Levelland Lobos off Monday to get ready for the rough District 5-A race. The Lobos are seeking a home game for Sept. 14, but at present, the opening game is scheduled Sept. 21 at Denver City.

Plans of other schools in the district have not been announced.

Over in District 4-A, after a fast change of coaches, Floydada's Whirlwinds will issue uniforms this afternoon at 2 o'clock, with Coach L. F. Greshman in charge of the club. Gresnman has been coach at Bowie for the past three seasons.

Floyd Murray resigned earlier in the year to take a job as coach at Perryton, and Aldene Hudson of Rochester, former Seminole coach, took the post. Hudson resigned early this week, and returned to his home town to become head coach.

Sid B. Thomas expects a squad of about 25 boys at the camp of the Lockney Longhorns.

Some schools over the area are still reported without coaches, but are going ahead with plans for starting football practice. Truett Little, former assistant coach at Odessa has taken over at Seagraves, and Tahoka is reported to have signed a new coach, and is ready to go.

Herbert Reid Noses Out Junior Victory

SAN ANTONI, Aug. 31 (AP) — Young Herbert Reid, jr., of Lockhart had only one birdie in his bag today, and he finally let fly with it after 40 holes of cutthroat golf to shoulder aside soldier Gilbert Cavanaugh of San Antonio and Camp Hood for the championship of the 19th annual State Junior Golf tournament.

Golfers Tune Up At Wichita Falls Club

WICHITA FALLS, Aug. 31 (AP) Jim Ditto of Arlington, qualified by a margin of nearly 20 years for the senior flight, and Dick Martin of Dallas were among ambitious golfers trying out the Wichita Falls Country club course before the club's 18th annual Labor Day invitation tournament opens tomorrow.

All qualifying rounds will be finished tomorrow. Finals will be played next Tuesday. Pro Ray Garrett is predicting 200 starters.

Ditto and Martin played trial rounds today. Billy and Bobby Maxwell, Abilene twins, were reported on their way here after Billy had been sidetracked in the state junior links tournament at San Antonio.

Martin was one of the favorites for top honors. Coyal Francis of Wichita Falls, winner of the event in 1942, posted a 68 for the par-72 course in a practice round yesterday. He won the local club membership title last week.

Other favorites are Jack Parr and Hub Meyers of Electra, Van Ligon and Guy Underwood of Wichita Falls, and Cpl. Don Cherry of Sheppard Field, winner of a recent Lubbock tournament.

More than $600 of merchandise has been set up as prizes for winners and runners up in all flights.

Brecheen Hurls Two-Hit Victory

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 31 (AP)—Southpaw Harry Brecheen handcuffed the Chicago Cubs with two hits tonight as the second-place St. Louis Cardinals took the first of a four game series, 4 to 1, and cut the Bruins' National League lead to three games.

Ed Sauer was the only Cub player who gave the frail left hander of the Cards any trouble. The Cub outfielder slapped out a home run in the first inning for the only Cub run, and later singled for the second hit off Brecheen. Adams and Kurowski both homered for the Cards.

It was Brecheen's tenth win against three losses, and the ninth loss for Wyse, against 18 wins.

Hogan's Birdies Grabs Big Lead

NASHVILLE, Aug. 31. (AP)—Wee Ben Hogan strung a line of birdies over Richland's tight fairways today and stepped off to a first round lead in the Nashville Open golf tournament with a seven-under-par 64.

Nailing his shots in a fashion reminiscent of his prewar triumphs, the 135-pound Texas walloper gained a two-stroke advantage over the field and a six-stroke edge over his old rival, Byron Nelson.

The favored Nelson lost three strokes to par on the first two holes and never fully recovered. He came scrambling in with a 70, one under par, trailing a full dozen others.

Pressing Hogan with 66's were Herman Barron of White Plains, N. Y.; Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., and Jimmy Johnson of Dearborn, Mich.

Then following by a stroke came Bob Cochran, St. Louis amateur, and Sammy Byrd, the ex-baseballer from Detroit, who shared 67's Amateur Freddie Haas, jr., of New Orleans, Nelson's nemesis at Memphis, tied with Mike Demassey of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., at 68.

Hogan, making his second tournament try since his return from Army service, uncorked the kind of golf he shot to lead all money winners in 1940-41-42.

The mighty Texas atom hit tremendous woods that only twice strayed from the fairway. He putted for birdies on every green and the fact that he canned only seven can be attributed to a cold putting stick. He missed dropping five putts by a hair.

WTNM Loop To Hold Meet Soon

West Texas-New Mexico baseball league likely will hold a meeting late in September to map plans for resuming play in 1946, it was announced Friday afternoon by Sam Rosenthal, president of the Lubbock Hubbers.

Questioned on a rumor that started here Friday regarding a proposed six team league, made up of teams from Albuquerque, N. M., Monterey, Mexico, Amarillo, Big Spring, Lubbock and El Paso, Rosenthal said he knew nothing of such a league.

A telephone conversation with Bob Seeds, owner of the Amarillo Gold Sox, revealed that he had not been contacted, and this conversation led to approaching Milton Price, president of the WT-NM league, and secretary of the Texas League.

Price said that steps would be made to hold a meeting later in the month to work out plans for resuming play.

Amarillo, Clovis, Lubbock, Lamesa, Borger and Pampa were the six members in the league when war cancelled play on July 5, 1942.

The famous "Long Count" fight in Chicago, in 1927, between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, set a record gate $2,658,660 and drew 104,943 people.

AP Chief Warns On Compromise As Free Press Struggle Nears Climax

NEW YORK, Aug. 31. (AP)—Kent Cooper, writing in the September issue of "Free World," warns against compromise in this critical phase of the movement to achieve world wide freedom of the press.

"With a full picture of what we have in the way of a newspaper press," wrote Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, "we should, without apology, hope that our kind of press freedom may be guaranteed to the peoples of all nations.

"I do not start with the idea that such a hope may be impractical in this troubled world, that we want less than that, or that this is the time to talk of compromise.

Accepted As Details

"So when others use such phrases as 'free flow of news' and 'free access to news,' I accept these as some of the things that go with press freedom. They are the details of the larger grant of the right to print.

"Referring specifically to the newspaper press, we have seen through the years, an unusual growth with a widening scope of responsibility, in this and certain other lands where the press has been freest from government restriction or control and from political or private subsidy.

"It is significant that where the newspaper press has achieved this full stature of independence, the principles of full and unbiased reporting, of presenting facts both pleasant and unpleasant, favorable and unfavorable, has made greatest congress."

Patronage Of Readers

Cooper said that in some quarters "it has become popular to view with alarm the fact that a newspaper publishing venture requires considerable financial capital. What is important in a free society is the kind of press that owes its continuing existence to the patronage of its readers, who thus make it free and independent. Whether a newspaper is owned by an individual, by a group, by its employes, cooperatively, or however, is unimportant, so long as it is free. In a free society, there is nothing to prevent any of these forms of censorship."

Discussed In Russia

Cooper said it was "a most hopeful augury that in the Soviet Union, where the definition of 'press freedom' is divergent from ours, the subject is being written about and discussed." He added it had been predicted in Russia that improvement could be made in "mutual communication between the Soviet and the American or any other press."

Cooper went on to say he was aware "that an occasional voice has been raised to warn that this great American objective for world-wide press freedom is a part of some sort of imperialistic scheme."

Cooper explained that what was needed was reciprocal exchange of news among all peoples, saying "American newspapers should not, and do not, desire to take news out of a country without a return of news to that country. Nor should the newspapers of any country do so."

Help From Others

He said that while the objective was American in its origin, it had received "profoundly important contributions from other lands," mentioning particularly the active support of Reuters, the British news agency, and its owners, the British press.

Cooper concluded, "there will never be an end to the differences of opinions, of philosophies, or objectives, and the Almighty be praised that this is true, because and end of these differences would mean an end to progress. But let us provide the means of permitting these differences to perform their constructive function of the enrichment of civilization, rather than to enclose them again in vast pressure areas which would certainly explode into another war."

Juvenile Charges

identified here yesterday by a Coryell county deputy sheriff, E. M. Sharp, Floyd Bell, officer of the reform institution and Rabon Balch, a former reform school official, as the pair which figured in the hold-up of a nightwatchman at the school and obtained Montague's release. Montague formerly lived at Tahoka.

Balch now owns a grocery in Gatesville which was burglarized on the same night of the incident at the school. Officers were working to link the trio with the break-in, in view of the recovery here of a .380 pistol which the suspects had traded to an army officer.

Montague had sought to conceal his identity by having his natural blond hair dyed at Oklahoma City, he related.

Amarillo Store Robbed

In addition, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Willmering of Amarillo came here with two Amarillo officers, Capt. J. L. King of Amarillo police and Leo Uselding, Potter county deputy sheriff, and identified O'Pry and Williams as two gunmen who robbed their liquor store Tuesday night of $118. Willmering said he was shot at by someone in the getaway car and that he fired at the gunmen twice.

Other officers in different sections of the country were interested in the recent activities of the four, or part of them. Amarillo asked that a detention order be placed for that place. Sheriff J. L. Jameson of Bowie and Chief of Detectives D. F. Brown of Oklahoma City and Sheriff Durkee of Norman, Okla., asked that statements and pictures of those held be sent there immediately and indicated grand juries would investigate.

Officials said the youths, or some of them, had admitted, exclusive of the Lubbock hijackings, stealing cars at Monahans, Dallas, Bowie, Weatherford, Okla., (the car they were in here), and hijackings at Edmond, Norman, Oklahoma City and Amarillo.

They were ordered held by C. E. Lynn, justice of peace, in denial of bail.

Jap Tortures

south of Tokyo Aug. 11 — while Japan was moving to surrender.

Among the eight was the pilot, Naval Lt. John B. Rainey, 34, Houston, Tex., who said:

—"They bound our feet, tied hands behind our backs and tied metal bits into our mouths to keep us from talking. Every half-hour, they came in to test and, if anyone complained, made the thing tighter. After two weeks, my left hand still was numb. All our arms were scarred by the bindings.

"They kept the bits in our mouths 14 hours. They were as thick as a man's finger. Our hands were tightly bound for 24 hours at a time . . . I still have a bump on my head where a guard tapped me with his rifle butt every time he came to the place to amuse himself and the villagers."

All Have Facial Sores

All eight men have facial sores from the bits.

Lt. Charles Buchalt, 23, a Pennsylvanian, who bailed out of a torpedo bomber from the aircraft tender Langley over Formosa, said:

"Formosans beat me five days. After that, I couldn't see. They beat me until I was numb all over. Here at Ofuna, I was in solitary confinement five and a half months.

"They beat me up every day, sometimes at night. They let me out of confinement last March 17 but wouldn't let me speak to anyone until May 7."

Turnbull In Group

Ensign Turnbull was in this group.

Continuing with his account, Turnbull said:

"I spent a month in a Formosa jail and 12 days in a Tokyo hell hole jail. They made us sit crosslegged from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. We couldn't stand, move or speak.

"A fellow from the Carrier Essex who flew as wingman for Wayne Morris developed beriberi, diarrhea and other diseases, yet the Japs continued beating him every day from Dec. 8 to Jan. 15. I was in his room when he died last July 23."

A Saipan-based Superfortress downed last May 23 over Tokyo has four survivors in this camp.

Beaten By Civilians

One, Lt. Laurel Boline, 26, related:

"I landed in a field and surrendered to civilians who beat the living tar out of me with fists, umbrellas and clubs."

Capt. Everett Zweifel, Cedar, Tex., survivor of a B-29 shot down the same night, also was badly beaten.

"I landed right in the middle of Tokyo," he related.

"There had been several cases of Japanese beating their own pilots to death by mistake when they saw them parachuting down, so we knew what to expect."

Shot At On Landing

Lt. Russell Stephens, Evanston, Ill., said:

"I bailed out of a (Navy) Hellcat over southern Kyushu. A man shot at me when I landed. I shot back and maybe killed him. The civilians put me in a building and lined up outside to take turns beating me.

"Later at Nagasaki they stripped me and told me they were going to kill me. I heard two shots. I had heard Americans talking in the back of a truck after a B-29 raid so I figured they were shooting them.

"At Kanoya, a civilian beat me across the face and a schoolteacher stood me in front of children and told me he was going to cut my head off."

Another inmate was Lt. Newin Collins, San Antonio, who had been shot down three times in the European theater before coming to the Pacific. He was tortured after being shot down in a B-29.

But if the Missouri ceremonies occur too late at night he will broadcast his proclamation the following morning.

Texas Oil Output

the maximum efficiency rate first

"East Texas was then given 20 producing days which brought the allowable down from 384,810 to 318,452 barrels. All fields in the state were then placed on a 20 producing day basis with the exception of the Panhandle which was exempt from shutdown days due to the fact that the last report showed that the field produced only 87,667 barrels per day. Therefore, it was our opinion that if the field had been placed on shutdown days some of the wells and leases which are able to make their allowables would have been penalized. Therefore, all the asphalt type crudes, such as Sayuga, Talco, Sulphur Bluff, and Hawkins were put in a class by themselves, and Sulphur Bluff, Talco and Cayuga are still exempt and Hawkins was placed to the nominations.

Plus Maximum Efficiency

"Since September is a 30-day month, in order to place all fields on a 20 producing day basis for September, the plus maximum efficiency rate fields which were first reduced to the maximum efficiency rate were then reduced further by 5 days to place them on a parity basis with the other fields in the state, and those fields which were on the exempt list in order to allow them to produce oil for the war effort and those exempt fields which were not on the exempt list due to water conditions and other physical conditions, were also taken off the exempt list and 5 day shutdowns placed on them."

The net daily allowable by districts, and the percentage of reduction authorized under the order, follow:

1. Southwest Texas, 24,812, reduction 3.83 per cent.
2. Southwest Texas, 125,979, reduction 27.25.
3. Gulf coast, 450,003, reduction 19.22.
4. Southwest Texas, 196,445, reduction 17.55.
5. East Central Texas, 38,021, reduction 16.42.
6. East Texas (outside) 92,992, reduction 11.18.
7. East Texas proper, 318,452, reduction 17.24.

7B. West Central Texas, 31,063, reduction 9.73.

7C. West Central Texas, 24,248, reduction 10.86.

8. West Texas, 445,857, reduction 14.49.
9. North Texas, 124,900, reduction 13.44.
10. Panhandle, 101,041, same.

Exercising State Rights

"By this aggressive action, Texas is again exercising her right as a sovereign state during peace time to control the production of oil within her own border," Thompson commented.

"During the war, we took orders from the PAW like good soldiers. But now the war is over, we are seeking to prevent a flood of oil that would be a wasting surplus."

The next statewide proration hearing was set for Sept. 14. Culberson said by thus setting it early, operators would have an opportunity to say whether the new order has worked any injuries, and the commission would have ample time during the balance of the month to make adjustments if necessary.

BUYING BOLSTERS PRICES

NEW YORK, Aug. 31 (AP)—Investment demand continued to bolster the stock market today and buying, while hardly of the run-away variety, lifted industrials to another eight-year peak with advances of fractions to more than two points.

Bullishness revived to some extent as tax relief was brightened by the sharp cut in the federal budget eventuating from a shortened war.

In view of the lengthy week-end — major markets will recess Monday — brokers were pleasantly surprised by the turnover of 1,110,000 shares compared with 890,000 the day before.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was up .7 of a point at 67.6. The industrial average rose 1.1 points to 91, equaling the high of Sept. 1, 1937.

In the "new high" class were Bethlehem, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck and Lockheed.

Bonds steadied.

Toward the close, prices weakened as commission houses and New Orleans lightened their commitments. The market closed 40 cents a bale lower to 20 cents higher. Private advices reported a moderate improvement in buying of spot cottons during the week.

Japs Say Identity Must Remain Secret

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31. (AP)—Allied war correspondents are "invading" the Japanese Domei agency office demanding to see "Tokyo Rose," a Tokyo broadcast said today.

But the visiting journalists were disappointed when they were told that the identity of Tokyo Rose, the Japanese radio's best known woman propagandist throughout the war, must "remain a mystery," said the broadcast, heard by the FFC.

The overseas department of Domei, particularly the European-American division, was the office most visited by the Allied newsmen.

"If this avalanche keeps up," Domei said, "it may be necessary to put up a sign 'Allied war correspondents reception bureau,' the broadcast declared.

Only 35 Of 1,800 In Burma Come Through

(By The Associated Press)

The British-controlled Hong Kong radio said last night that all but 35 of a group of 1,800 Allied prisoners of war had "died or become ill" when the Japanese compelled them to work 18 hours a day, on scanty rations, building a railway through the Burma jungles.

Survivors told the story after their liberation, said the broadcast recorded by the FCC.

Governor Names Two On Wildlife Board

AUSTIN, Aug. 31 (AP) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today announced appointment of Dr. Will Watt of Austin and A. T. McDannald of Houston as members of the Game, Fish and Oyster commission.

Gov. Stevenson said that neither Reed nor Martin was an applicant for reappointment.

Stevenson said that he had considered more than 1,500 letters and other recommendations in making the appointments, and that he felt Dr. Watt and McDannald would "give satisfaction to all the different elements in the game and fish world."

Watt is a physician and surgeon and McDannald has wide ranching and oil interests. Both, said the governor, have for many years been keenly interested in wildlife development in Texas.

the bomber raids that ruined it, be placed out of bounds to American troops during the disarming to avoid incidents

All Yokohama was under American control as was adjacent Kawasaki.

Admiral Nimitz and Admiral Halsey, setting foot in Japan for the first time, inspected the great naval base of Yokosuka, which was being repaired swiftly for the waiting tide of Allied shipping.

Back to Flagships

Then they returned to their flagships, Nimitz to the Battleship South Dakota and Halsey to the superbattleship Missouri, where the articles of surrender will be signed.

American troops occupying the nearby city of Yokosuka, once with a population of 150,000, found it deserted save for the black-uniformed Japanese police.

Next on the occuation list was the naval anchorage of Kisarazu, across the bay, which will be taken over by airborne troops making their first appearance on the eastern shore.

Farther south, the Marines took over Tateyamahojo naval base and air station, standing sentinels at the east approaches to the bay.

Need Not Be Trouble

Eichelberger's Eighth Army, which would have had to fight its bloody way over this same area had invasion been ordered, also will land on this strategic spit of land and will spread over the plains eastward.

"If the Japanese continue their present attitude there will be no trouble for them nor for us," Eichelberger declared.

In nearby Atsugi, Skymaster transport planes were landing at the rate of 20 to the hour with their loads of troops and supplies, swelling the total of more than 6,000 men brought in on the first day of occupation Thursday (Wednesday, U. S. date).

The premier who was one of the prime-movers of the events that led to this sad day for Japan —Gen. Hideki Tojo—was in seclusion at his home in a Tokyo suburb, Japanese civilians told Associated Press correspondents.

Variously Pictured

He was alternately pictured by the Japanese as ready to commit hara kiri and ready to stand trial as a war criminal.

The men Tojo sent to war against America and Britain were surrendering or getting ready to quit all over the Pacific.

The great naval fortress of Truk, which the Japanese fortified in days of peace while they held a mandate over the Caroline islands, will be surrendered aboard a U. S. cruiser off the island tomorrow. It has a garrison of 38,000.

Japs Get Good View Of U. S. Submarines

YOKOSUKA, Japan, Aug. 31. (AP)—Japanese who began returning to their homes in this naval base city had a long range glimpse today of American submarines which played a big part in defeating Nippon.

Eleven American submarines are in Tokyo bay today. They are the Runner, Trigone, Seacat, Razorback, Gato, Pilotfish, Haccow, Cavella, Segundo, Archerfish and Muskallnge.

Servicemen who visit Chicago Service Men Centers consumed 41,208 hot dogs, 50,220 sandwiches, 69,800 pieces of cake, 33,400 cups of hot coffee, 9,920 glasses of milk, and 4,670 cups of hot soup in one week.

Let's Face The Facts

The Truth Is, 1945 Isn't 1942

HOW soon will I be able to buy a new car? What will it cost?

South Plains residents, along with millions of other Americans, are pondering those questions today, as they eagerly await first-hand evidence of reconversion in the automobile manufacturing industry.

And while OPA and manufacturers wrangle over the prices to be charged for new American-made automobiles, Britain displays true British ingenuity by shipping small, low-priced automobiles to the United States.

As Ray Tucker, one of our Washington correspondents, pointed out recently in his National Whirligig column:

"America's automobile world has been amazed to discover that the British are shipping small, low-priced automobiles to the United States at the very moment when government controls and lack of materials prevent U. S. manufacturers from swinging into large-scale production for almost 18 months. They have submitted their protests to Washington."

The OPA has announced that the price of new cars will be "at, or near, 1942 levels." Explaining that retailers and wholesalers are supposed to 'absorb" increases so the public won't suffer, OPA officials have ruled that the prices of new goods—not produced in wartime—must be at, or near, 1942 levels, although manufacturers have in some cases been allowed to charge slightly more because of increased production costs.

Through the heads of their national organizations, the retailers have been quick to protest this OPA rule, declaring that they cannot operate on the small margin of profit that will come to them if they are forced to "absorb" increased manufacturing costs.

This OPA rule, the dealers, contend will ruin them in a 'price squeeze," and result in a slowing down of the entire reconversion program. This, in turn, they argue will retard the re-employment of millions of persons, who are being thrown out of work by war plant cut-backs—with the result that the nation will be heading into a minor depression instead of prosperity in 1946.

Governmental agencies appear to be determined to maintain themselves in power and to force the economy of the nation back into the 1942 grove. Will it work?

Efforts to prevent GI loans on property, which government appraisers find to be inflated above "1942 values," is also blocking veterans from obtaining money under the GI bill. In trying to roll back prices to a level that has ceased to exist, the "hold-the-line" officials are adopting the role of the graybeard who spent all of his time dreaming of the "good, ole days." Those days and those prices are gone with the wind.

Do we want them to return, or do we want to go ahead with fuller employment and good prices?

Eventually the people will have to decide. It looks like we are going to have to be realistic and face the fact—1945 is not 1942.

Lubbock, "The Air Hub!"

INAUGURATION of two more daily flights, one southbound out of Amarillo in the afternoon and the other northbound out of Houston in the morning, means that Essair Lines, Inc. is going to give Lubbock double service.

At this time more than 50 Texas cities are planning to submit bond issues for the construction of new airports—with federal aid. Large orders for new planes have been placed by Texas air lines. Most of these planes will be delivered within the next two years.

Lubbock, already the ground "Hub of the Plains," appears destined to become the "Air Hub" for West Texas. It is a logical station for a "feeder" line, such as that established by Essair.

Getting such a sought-after line is one thing, holding it is another One way to make certain that Lubbock maintains this advantage is to patronize to the fullest extent the new air service.

The Job's Not Over Yet

THE request of President Truman and Army heads for a continuation of the peacetime draft is easily understandable.

While the shooting war is over, there is still an important job to be done in Japan and Germany, if we are not to have another war on our hands. Americans, like other peoples, are inclined to forgive and forget—especially forget. It won't be long before some of the boys sent to Japan to watch the Japanese will be feeling sorry for them. We are an easy-going friendly people and we are inclined to like people once we get accustomed to seeing them around.

There is also another reason for the continuation of the draft. Would it be fair to make the boys who have borne the brunt of the fighting stay abroad and do the guard duty that must necessarily follow the war? Or should we arrange to relieve them by sending over fresh replacements—boys who have remained safely in the United States during the fighting? The boys, who have remained in this country, were just as willing to fight, of course, but they did not get the chance. Now they can help, and the boys, who have been away for many months — even years—deserve a chance to come home.

The people of the United States can not say: "Well, we've won the war. Let's forget it."

"It seems to me," Hildred said, her voice crisp but her eyes kind, "that the mistake you all make is in skirting the subject of Brock's injury or refusing to mention it at all. Brock's future must be lived face to face with the fact that he'll never have another natural leg, and pretending the situation doesn't exist wont clear it up. I've talked to Dr. Lacey — he's worth six of Henry Pelham no matter what Corinne thinks!—and I asked about cases like Brock's. He said all men go through a bad time at first, but when he gets his artificial leg the time will come when he'll forget for hours and then for days that is not his own." Eventually he'll make him see that."

"Try, Thayer. It's Corinne who's your real problem. She's enjoying the situation."

"Enjoying! Aunt Hildreth, she's heart-broken.

Hildreth shook her head. "This injury brings Brock back to a state of dependence upon her. Thayer, if she has her way she'll keep him like this."

"Oh, Aunt Hildreth, she loves him . . ."

"She loves her domination," stated Hildreth dryly. She rose as Thayer did and took the girl's hands in hers "I sound like the jealous, childless aunt, but I've a better chance for the long view than you have, my dear. I want to see you happy; I believe you love Brock; I know he needs you." She walked to the door to say goodby. "Talk to Brock, Thayer; don't let him shut himself behind that wall." She fixed a thoughtful gaze on Thayer. "Might be a good idea if Corinne went out tonight. Seems as though you young people need an evening to yourselves." She winked deliberately as Thayer went down the steps.

So—Aunt Hildreth had managed Thayer, meeting Brock's eyes could not keep a twinkle from her own. Somehow dinner was a gayer meal than any she remembered.

Which helped give her the courage to talk to Brock as Hildreth had counselled.

All during dinner Brock was conscious of the quickened tempo, and conscious each time he looked at her of his pride in Thayer. Donating at the Blood Bank without a word! It wasn't quite clear in Brock's mind but something in the knowledge that both Thayer and he had given their blood in a common cause brought them closer. Sunddenly he was impatient for his mother to be gone, and when at last the front door closed behind her, it was his suggestion that he and Thayer go out on the terrace. For the first time since his homecoming she seemed neither distant nor unattainable; for the first time in his awareness of his wife he forgot the crutches beside his chair.

And then Thayer opened the subject hitherto unmentioned. A chance sentence precipitated it. He said, "Today has gone so slowly." He intended to add, "because I missed you."

But he had paused, and her voice broke in, grave, intent, as if she spoke of something heavy on her mind which must be said. "Brock, all the worst is behind you really, if you can just see it."

"Sure, I know. I wasn't meaning to complain. It's just . . ."

"Brock, when you get your artificial leg it will be no time until you learn to use it as your own. You'll be able to do most of the things you used to do."

"Sure." But I haven't got it yet, is that it? Was she trying to hold him away from her? Unwillingly his gaze fell to the pinned-up trouser leg and awareness came sickeningly of the stump it covered. Then bitterness began to churn in him, because he dared not let her see how much it mattered. "Who's the pep talk for, Thayer, you or me?" He should have bitten out his tongue before he said that, but the sight of her standing there, so whole . . .

He heard her catch her breath. "Did you think I needed one, Brock?"

"Oh, forget it, I didn't mean it."

"Brock," Thayer said desperately, "don't turn away from facing things. Not with me. What has happened doesn't change you, the real you, Brock, can't you see that?"

"What was the real me, Thayer?"

Taken off guard she fumbled to put into words things she had been to shy to bring into the open. "Why—why . . ."

"I bet it had two legs." His fist struck the chair arm. "Oh' hell, what's the use!"

"Brock . . ." It was a whisper. The things he wanted to say and could not came hotly into his throat. It hurt as if he might cry but there were no tears. Never had he seen her more beautiful than standing there in the half light. Momentarily, despite everything, he forgot, completely forgot. He moved to rise, and found himself imprisoned in his chair. Stunned he sat there looking up at her. As if his mind were past believing, he tried again, then sat straining forward, fingers white-knuckled in their grip upon the chair arms. The night wind had risen, sweeping against her, revealing the outline of her young body, giving to her the attitude of someone poised for flight. A trick of the wind, yet his reaction as he sensed his helplessness wrenched the words from him in a sort of fury. "Don't stand there as if you were ready to run. I'm harmless."

For a moment she just stared at him; he felt rather than saw the anger gathering in her dark eyes. "No, she said in a low tense voice, "you're not harmless; you've an amazing capacity for hurting people" Before he could answer she turned swiftly and went through the screen door into the house.

Ford Gives Special Equipment For Vets

Disabled war veterans who need special equipment for operation of an automobile may have installation made in the new Fords at the expense of the company, Harry Morris, Lubbock Auto company manager, has announced. The Ford motor company informed him they will pay for the equipment and installation.

Morris plans to go to Dallas within a few days for a dealers' preview of the new Ford. A press preview of the car, attended by approximately 75 Texas newspapermen, was staged at the Dallas plant last Tuesday.

Looking At Life - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

TO judge by the mail I get from my readers, no other subject seems to occupy the mind of our people so much today as that of religion.

"How can I reconcile my faith in God," writes one of them, "with the awful suffering mankind has gone through in war?

"I am a mother and prayed every day for the safety of my boy who was in the Pacific for more than a year.

"That boy has never done anything wrong, and I myself have lived as decently and righteously as I know how. Yet near the end of the war I received word that he had been killed.

"I want to keep my faith in God. But how can I, under the circumstances? I wish you would give me something to lean on, something that will restore my faith."

I have received many a similar letter, and, frankly, I am at a loss as to how to answer them.

The nearest I can come to it is to repeat a sentence from a sermon delivered by the Rev. Dr. T. C. Speers at the Central Presbyterian church in New York.

God, in failing to answer our individual prayers in just the way we would have them answered," he said, "may be, in actuality, answering a prayer of far larger proportions. These beloved lads of ours move into the savagery of modern battle with magnificent confidence that, though their individual prayer for safety may not be answered, the prayer of all mankind for peace will find an answering response. If these lads can do that, can we be worthy of them, save as we do as much?"

Not very long ago I talked about this very matter with one of my dearest friends, the Bishop of Columbus, Michael J. Ready.

I told him that all my life I had been trained to arrive at conclusions by logic, and that it was extremely difficult to harmonize logic with religion.

"But my dear boy," he commented, "logic is man-made, while religion is divine.

"The workings of God in His wisdom are often beyond human understanding.

"To be a true believer you must have perfect faith in His goodness and His wisdom, without any of the quibblings that logic may encourage."

So, to maintain your religion you must put these two together —the words of the Presbyterian and the Catholic.

In all these things that have happened and are happening maybe prayers of "far larger proportions" are answered. And, although you may not be understanding the workings of God, if you have faith you will approve of them, no matter how your logic makes you doubt.

If your personal sacrifice has brought mankind one little step closer to perfection, then your sacrifice has not been in vain.

British Will Get Help

Truman Wants A Strong England

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

PRESIDENT Truman has already given substantial evidence of his personal and official desire to help England in the critical years which now confront the empire, despite his sudden termination of lend-lease advances. Indeed, a gentle reminder of our Chief Executive's attitude, as reflected in his Senate vote, has served to suppress British complaints against the withdrawal of this particular form of assistance. Here is the whole story:

When the question of extending the lend-lease program was submitted to the House this Spring, Democrats and Republicans on the House Foreign Affairs committee tried to frame an amendment that would prevent postwar assistance to our Allies through this medium.

TUCKER

The legislators were afraid that FDR, who was then in the White House, would find some means of shipping goods and machinery and raw materials abroad even after the guns ceased firing.

Rep. John M. Vorys of Columbus, Ohio, led the opposition in the House committee. He wrote what he thought was a copper-riveted amendment that would block extralegal handling of the lend-lease account. At first the Democratic majority fought his restrictions, but they accepted them after they got word that the Vorys scheme was satsifactory to the State department.

However, when the measure reached the floor, the Vorys safeguard was weakened, and the final House bill contained no definite assurance that lend-lease orders or shipments would not be sent abroad for years after the end of the conflict.

During the controversy, however, Lend-Lease Administrator Leo Crowley and State department representatives appeared before the House Foreign Affairs committee.

The Roosevelt spokesmen gave their word as public officials and private gentlemen that the Executive department would not try to flout the Congressional mandate against establishment of lend-lease as a permanent or semipermanent institution.

TRUMAN: Sen. Bob Taft, a close friend of Congressman Vorys, was not satisfied with the bill extending lend-lease as it passed the House. As a matter of fact, Vorys suggested that the senator try to load it down with additional checks against possible Executive generosity.

Taft centered his senatorial fire on the House paragraph which provided that lend-lease goods ordered before the end of the war could be bought by our Allies at an interest charge of 2 3/8th per cent, with the full amount to be paid up in 30 years. The Ohioan contended that this amounted to a free gift on the ground that foreign purchasers would never be required to make good on the bond.

So many senators agreed with him that thev vote on his proposal to knock out this provision was a tie.

The even break required the Vice President, who happened to be Harry Truman, to exercise his prerogative of casting a ballot. He voted against Taft, thus expressing his belief that some sort of postwar help should be extended to Britain and our other Allies for a fairly long period.

SELF-INTEREST! These generous terms—2 3/8th per cent for 30 years — apply only to lend-lease material that has piled up overseas. The present plan is to demand 4 per cent for long term loans for heavy machinery needed for industrial rehabilitation.

The same rate of interest will be charged on raw materials required by foreign nations, but the time for repayment on advances of this kind will be restricted to five or 10 years at the most However, at the White House and on Capitol Hill there is every disposition to give England all possible assistance, if only for selfish reasons.

Washington does not want Britain to become a second-rate power, leaving only the United States and Russia to fight it out alone for world supremacy. Mr. Truman is not such an Anglophile as FDR, but he thinks that there should 'always be an England."

ICKES: Although Harold Ickes entered the Roosevelt cabinet in 1933 because he was sponsored by such liberals as the late Hiram Johnson of California, Burton Wheeler of Montana, Robert La Follette, jr. of Wisconsin and the late Bronson Cutting of New Mexico, he will hang on indefinitely in the present administration because of the endorsement of "the interests" which he attacks in his speeches. They seem to recognize that he never follows up his bark with a bite.

When the press carried suggestions that the Secretary of Interior would be ousted in a cabinet reshuffling, the White House was swamped with protests.

The wires and letters praised "the Curmudgeon" as one of our greatest occupants of this particular position, and urged that he be retained.

ADMIRERS: But, oddly enough, many of these endorsements came frof some of the wealthiest oil magnates, cattle raisers and mineral producers in the country. They were solid for the man who, in his speeches and magazine articles and books, has condemned them mercilessly, and posed as a friend of their so-called "victims."

No recommendations came from the La Follette-Pinchot-Wheeler liberals. Nor were there any eulogistic commeunications from Poor Lo!, the Indian, whose lot under Ickes has become increasingly heavy and pitiful. Nor was there any praise from John Lewis and his United Mine Workers. The under dogs remained silent.

Harold(however, has somehow kept his union card with the liberals and the leftists. They regard him, as they do Henry Wallace, as one of their heavy duty men in Washington.

So, since he commands the support of the rightists and leftists, President Truman figured that he may be a good man to have around in the next few years.

TEXAS
By Gordon Shearer

AUSTIN. — Judge Robert W. Stayton, professor of law at University of Texas, believes courts should work the year around like other departments of government.

Under the terms of the Texas Constitution, the Court of Criminal Appeals may sit legally only from the first Monday in October of each year to last Saturday in June.

The Supreme court was similarly restricted until 1930 when a constitutional amendment provided that it may sit at any time and that its "terms" shall coincide with the calendar year.

Sitting time for Courts of Civil Appeals and for District courts are set by statute.

Although permitted to sit at any time the State Supreme court usually has a vacation for August and September. It is always arranged that one or more of the justices shall be in Austin during that period with power to act on applications for emergency writs.

DODGE: Judge Stayton in his investigation reached the conclusion that the effect of summer vacations delays the decisions per case over half a month a year.

Judges, however, say vacations are demanded by the practicing attorneys. It would not do any good to set cases for trial or argument in midsummer, they say. The lawyers on opposing sides would get togther and agree to a postponement, anyhow.

One effect of the enforced three-month vacation of the Court of Criminal Appeals is the filing of a large number of appeals just before the end of June. Then the cases, automatically, go over until October. Frequently the appeal is withdrawn when October arrives.

It is astounding how many things pass through the mind of the average person without leaving a trace

LONDON.—This is more on what I'll be remembering as I ride the bounding main back to the land of the free. This is a tough situation over here. We're heavily involved and it's not by any means certain that we've got our best representation in the field. All sorts of funny looking Americans are beginning to show up now wearing queer sorts of shoulder patches on officer's uniforms.

As the Army moves out the records unfortunately will reveal that there've been plenty of joy riders over here in berths of perfect safety. There are plenty who are undoubtedly sorry that it's over. There are plenty who have fallen into the wine at our expense. We had to overlook a lot then because we were in trouble. At this point, however, we've just bought something at a very high price. We need some good people to protect it for us instead of these broken down parsons and broad beamed refugees from an ironing board stumbling around over here in abortions of the military uniform. I'd screen the young officers of the Army, who are the finest people I know, and see how many of them were willing and could qualify for foreign service. They know the score over here and they have a very definite idea of what moving in here cost us, of what it is we're entitled to expect in return. What I would throw the hados out as fast as I could pay 'em up to date is that breed of unctious dogooder who's been over here so long that he's decided the United States isn't entitled to a very deep bow from everybody who had anything to do with this war.

Send 'Em Home!

Evidently such a person can stay away from his own country too long, I've met 'em both here and in Paris who've been away 20 years. Those who've been here talk like the British, the others shrug like the French. Maybe that can't be helped. What can be is the type of gent who takes it on after very slight exposure. We've got some. They ought to be moved home and fumigated.

Instead, many of them are looking for new opportunities to stay. The opportunities are in these new fields of special service. I'm for the special service but not as sinecures for these half-melted Americans.

WHILE we're at it—and this is neither any loose use of words nor the unfortunate result of incomplete observation — there seems to be a conspiracy against the fair name of the United States both in England and France, but especially in France. The conspiracy is against seeing the United States get any credit for anything it has done but the fighting, and that part couldn't very well be obscured. The better people in Britain are excluded from this sort of charge, and the British newspapers seem to have been reasonably fair in all matters, but somebody in this island has started stories to the effect that Americans moving out have deliberately burned their surplus stores of food and supplies as a taunt to the hard-put British people.

This absolute lie has been passed by word of mouth and has made a lot of trouble. It's a hard libel to nail because no charge has been made in the open and thus there's nothing officially to deny in the open. Officials have done their best to stamp it out privately but it still goes around and lately it has crossed the channel and caught fire in France. Rather it seems to have been carried across tenderly guarded enroute set down and blown to a blaze.

French Lie Nailed

In France, first the Paris newspaper Figaro came out with a story to the effect that Americans had burned their supplies when breaking camp at a certain place. It gave names and dates. The story looked factual and official. Nothing much happened for awhile but then the other papers began to take the charge up and to play it.

Our authorities made a complete investigation and officially verified what they already knew, which was that there wasn't a word of truth in the story. Nothing like that had taken place anywhere in France, nor anywhere else at any time. This complete denial was made available to the papers that had published the falsehood. No retraction was printed. The readers were entitled to continue to believe that the United States units were deliberately destroying their food to keep the French from having it.

THE dirty part about all this is that the very opposite is true. The American Red Cross has distributed to the French people 10½ million dollars worth of supplies including food. The U. S. Army at this moment is turning over to them the vast stores of unused medical supplies we had in the country. Powdered milk and other foods are being brought from the States for the benefit of the undernourished French children, and you can believe this or not, as you will, but I'm quoting high authority when I tell you not one word of thanks has been given, no publicity has been given these benefactions and, unless the recipients have passed it by word of mouth, the bulk of the French public doesn't even know about it.

One school of thought maintains it's because the French newspapers are Communistic in their politics and are out to do their share toward whittling down the United States as a capitalistic power. Another says there's a definite and deep-dyed plot to discredit the United States in all parts of Europe. Concerned Americans have laid the matter in the lap of Ambassador Caffrey as something the U. S. government should look into.

Jap Hunger, Fear Of 'Rice Riots' Plagues Allied Occupation Chiefs

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Human hunger is one of our great remaining enemies in Japan.

The hunger of the people is obvious from the graphic stories being sent back by American correspondents who are wandering through Tokyo and the country to the south.

WHITE

The people in Tokyo are skinny and living in shacks thrown together from bomb-burned sheets of tin roofing. The Imperial hotel, one of the more luxurious establishments of Japan, serves a meal of poor soup, a small fish cake, and noodles made of a Manchurian maize like kaffir-corn.

Masses Get No Meat

The masses in Tokyo apparently have had no meat or fish this year at all, and live on beans, peas and rice.

Correspondents driving through the country nearby report the farm people better fed.

But there is inflation, which will make the Japanese farmer hoard even more of what he grows. He distrusts his own money now, and it may be questioned if the introduction of American occupation currency will alleviate this general distrust.

Until Japanese factories reconvert from war production such goods will be scarce. And in the meantime the nation's rail system—its only really effective transportation network—is crippled through the loss of rolling stock and the destruction of bridges.

Terrifying Picture

All this, coupled with unemployment and the demolition of soldiers, can add up to terrifying picture.

Japan doesn't feed herself normally, and while part of her inability to do so has been traced to the country's feudal agricultural system, the fact remains that the Japanese today are actually conscious that they probably will get no more sugar from Formosa, no more rice from Burma, no more soybeans or wheat from Manchuria.

Ordinarily quiet and docile, the Japanese in the past have staged violent "rice riots" when poor distribution or outright oppression has caused masses of the population to fall below their already low diet.

ever Adequately Fed

For the Japanese people as a whole never have been adequately fed, and there are deep-seated conomic and political factors behind the nation's short legs, defective teeth and bad eyes. The fear of "rice riots" is always with the Japanese police and authorities.

As Americans occupy more and more of the country, it will be strange if some of the more fanatic of the discharged Japanese soldiers do not brew trouble sparked by hunger.

Tojo In Retirement, People Don't Care

TOKYO, Aug. 31. (AP) — Gen. Hideki Tojo, Japan's premier for most of the war, is living quietly in retirement at his home in a Tokyo suburb, it was learned today.

And, as far as the people of Nippon are concerned, "we don't care much for him any more," said Eaijo Hasegawa, chief of the Domei news agency foreign service.

Some people here think Tojo may commit hara kiri. Others think he won't and is prepared to accept full responsibility as a war criminal.

"We do not attribute any responsibility for the defeat to the emperor," Hasegawa said.

"The stigma of losing the war will fall on those men who actually directed it. The Americans do not understand that the emperor's word is our people's voice," the 42-year-old editor explained.

"That has saved Japan from internal trouble," he added.

Jewess Given Death As Collaborator

BRUSSELS, Aug. 31. (AP) — Helga Zweig, a 20-lear-old German Jewess who came to Brussels with her parents just before the outbreak of the war, was found guilty by a military court martial today of "ruthless collaboration" with the Germans and sentenced to death.

The young woman was charged with frequenting Brussels bars and night clubs during the German occupation where she gained the confidence of Belgian patriots and denounced them to the Gestapo.

The court was told that Helga reported her own parents to the Gestapo as Jews in order to obtain their personal effects, mostly objects of art. The parents were deported to Germany and have not been heard from since.

WLB MEMBER RESIGNS

100F Session Is Held At Ranch

An inter-state meeting of International Order of Odd Fellows, held at the Winberly ranch near the New Mexico-Texas line, attracted 359 members of lodges in both states, it was announced here Friday.

The meeting was sponsored by Denver City lodge 68 and Seminole lodge 47, both of Texas district 70.

Lodges represented were Hobbs and Lovington, N. M., and Lamesa and Seagraves in Texas.

Ralph L. Hendrickson, past grand master and present grand representative to the sovereign grand lodge, was master of ceremonies.

Address Of Welcome

Former special District Judge J. E. Garland of Lamesa made an address of welcome.

Lyle C. Garner, grand treasurer of the grand lodge of New Mexico, made the response.

Seth Alston of Lovington made an oration, and Mrs. Belle Garrett read.

Rev. C. F. Dyke of Seminole made the principal address.

In a mock trial, Tom Efird, noble grand of the Denver City lodge, D. C. Shaw, noble grand of the Hobbs lodge, Weaver Patterson, noble grand of the Seminole lodge, and M. S. Green, vice grand of the Seagraves lodge, pleaded guilty of going on summer vacations without getting permission from their lodges. They will be sentenced "at 7 o'clock next year," the master of ceremonies announced.

Steer Barbecued

A big steer from the Llano Estacado was barbecued, and there were two barrels of lemonade, a barrel of ice water and 20 gallons of coffee served.

Others who arranged the meeting were: J. R. Teague, Jimmy Fairweather, Hervert Stillwell, J. L. Ford, John Ellison, V. V. Higgenbotham, R. A. Zinn, Harry Scown, Ed Gorman, Ben Schleinat, Isaac Ford, H. M. Suttle, A. J. Dyke, D. Parnell, Elias Ivey, Pat Garrett, all of Denver City; and W. R. Pittman, Edd Evans, S. A. Willmon, Tom Long, Fred Belt, Ed Wilkinson, Harry Stone, W. S. Wimberly, all of Seminole.

Elevations in Missouri vary from 230 feet above sea level on the St. Francis river, to 1,800 feet above sea level at Taun Sauk Mountain.

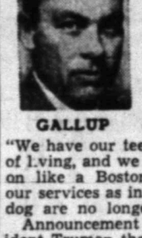

Gallup Finds Opinion Is Overwhelming

Public Demands Retention Of Price, Wage Controls

By GEORGE GALLUP, Director
American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J.—The overwhelming majority of the voters in this country are of the opinion that wage and price ceilings should be retained even though the war is over.

The administration policy on price controls was stated recently by Chester Bowles. He announced ceilings "at 1942 prices" on such items as ironers, washing machines, aluminum ware, which are going back into manufacture, and took price controls off a long list of other items. He said: "We have our teeth set in the cost of living, and we are going to hold on like a Boston bull pup until our services as inflationary watchdog are no longer necessary."

GALLUP

Announcement came from President Truman that wage stabilization will remain, with the War Labor board given authority to relax wage controls to a limited extent.

In testing sentiment on the dual problem of wage and price controls as a means of combating postwar inflation such as followed World War I, the Institute had field reporters in all parts of the United States ask three questions:

1. "Do you approve or disapprove of removing all wage ceilings now?"
The replies:
DISAPPROVE 82%
APPROVE 25
NO OPINION 13

2. "Do you approve or disapprove of removing all price ceilings now?"
The replies:
DISAPPROVE 74%
APPROVE 16
NO OPINION 10

3. "Some people believe that wage ceilings cannot be removed without also removing price ceilings. If you had to vote for or against keeping both wage and price control, would you vote to keep both or do away with both?"
The replies:
Keep Both 77%
Do Away With Both 18
No Opinion 5

Careful analysis of the vote of the various occupational groups on these questions finds every group—businessmen, professional men, white collar workers, farmers, manual workers — all with high majorities favoring retention of wage and price controls for the time being.

Diplomatic Relations With Finns Resumed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31 (AP)—The United States resumed diplomatic relations with Finland at midnight.

Relations were broken off on June 30, 1944, after the Finns had been at war with Russia for three years and with Great Britain for two and a half.

The State department announced resumption of diplomatic relations yesterday.

The state of Missouri is bounded by eight other states — Iowa, Illinois, Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska.

DSC Goes To Former Georgia Grid Star

ATLANTA, Aug. 31. (AP)—The Distinguished Service Cross, the nation's second highest military decoration, has been awarded Lt. George W. Poschner, former University of Georgia football star who killed 20 Germans in a one-man charge before he was critically wounded.

In the battle of the bulge at Kohlhutte, France, last Jan. 8, Poschner lost both legs and part of his right hand. He lay unattended on a frozen battlefield for two days.

He starred in the 1943 Rose Bowl game.
