United States Urged To Aid Soviet Cause

Italian-German-Japanese Pact Declared By Russia To Be A Plot To Seize Territory

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Nov. 10—The communist party organ, Pravda, declared today that the real purpose of the Italian-German-Japanese anti-communism agreement was to grab territory in a new world war.

The newspaper urged collective action by the United States, Britain and France against the three powers.

United Front Urged

"The interests of peace call for opposition to block the fascist war incendiaries by a united front of countries interested in strengthening collective security on a basis of the indivisibility of peace," Pravda said.

"An end must be put once and for all to the policy of protecting the aggressorsr. Italian and German fascists and Japanese militarists must be made to understand that attempts to provoke a new world war for territorial plundering will bring collective resistance from all peaceful countries.

Must End Aggressive Acts

"The sooner the necessity of the policy of collective defense of peace is realized by all governing circles in the bourgeois democratic countries, especially England, France and the United States, the easier it will be to put an end to the aggressive acts of fascist countries preparing for new world slaughter."

This editorial, the first authoritative Soviet comment since the tri-power protocol was concluded in Rome last Saturday, repeated the week-old warning of the government organ, Izvestia—that an anti-communist alliance could only bring retaliation from the Soviets.

Close Cooperation With U. S. Is Being Sought By Britain

LONDON, Nov. 10. (AP)—The British government today was seeking its closest cooperation with the United States since the World war, advocating a "hand-in-hand" policy in the far east and elsewhere on the troubled world diplomatic front.

The strong movement apparently was the outgrowth of President Roosevelt's Oct. 5 Chicago address which encouraged Britain, after close scrutiny, to believe the Washington government might relax somewhat its traditional policy of isolation.

Collaboration Urged

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, who in a speech at Birmingham Oct. 8, had welcomed the Roosevelt plea for concerted action for peace, went a step further last night in a speech at Guildhall, calling for fuller British-American collaboration.

The prime minister praised United States participation in the current far eastern peace conferencea at Brussels, and added.

"We are convinced that closer understanding and more complete community of purpose between our two nations may do much to assist the cause for which the president has pleaded and which also is nearest to our hearts," Chamberlain said.

Tributes Paid Famous Scot After Death

Britain Divided In Appraisal Of Ramsay MacDonald's Life; Called Savior And Traitor

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Nov. 10—The death of James Ramsay MacDonald, the son of a poor Scottish farmer who lived to decline an earldom, divided Britain today in appraisal of his life.

Against those who lauded the three-time prime minister as savior of the nation in the dark days of 1931, there were others who regarded him as a traitor to the labor party he built.

Had Sailed For Rest

The 71-year-old Scotsman, Britain's first labor prime minister and the first prime minister to visit the United States, died last night aboard a South America-bound ship on a quest for the peace and happiness he had failed to find in his unique, stormy political career.

He had sailed last Thursday in search of what he called "the most elusive of all forms of happiness—rest."

Death apparently was due to a heart attack following a long period of poor health. His daughter Sheila, his sole companion on the voyage, messaged that the body would be taken off the ship, Reina Del Pacifico, at Bermuda Monday and returned for burial either in England or at his beloved Lossiemouth, Scotland.

Tributes Are Paid

Tribute came from all parties for the man who rose from an humble dwelling to No. 10 Downing street. But the tribute was for two distinct phases of his career.

Conservatives praised MacDonald's momentous action in forming a national government at the behest of King George V in the financial crisis of 1931—an action which cost him the friendship of virtually all his old labor and socialist colleagues.

But his one-time co-workers, who in 1931 had denounced him as deserting them "for the drawing rooms of the rich," today praised his work for labor before the great split.

Fortune Was Left

Only six weeks ago the Scotsman who never accumulated wealth was bequeathed about $200,000 in trust by Sir Alexander Grant, a biscuit manufacturer and close friend of the former prime minister.

After resigning as prime minister June 7, 1935, MacDonald remained in public life until last May.

As lord president of the council he shared duties in connection with the abdication of Edward VIII last December and the coronation of George VI. Last May he gave up his office and was offered a peerage, but declined the honor.

Later he remarked that he hardly could expect his north country friends, who had always called him "Jamey," to call a native of Lossiemouth "milord."

Leaders of all parties in the house of commons planned a tribute at this afternoon's session.

Eighty-Three World War Vets Daily Joining An Old Comrade, The Unknown Soldier, In Death

BY EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Between tonight's civilian sunset and tomorrow's military taps 83 Americans now living will join an old comrade in death.

They are veterans of the World war who 19 years ago on Nov. 11 laid down their arms in Armistice and who now, the veterans administration said, are dying at that daily rate.

Their comrade is that mute sentinel of the warrior dead—America's unknown soldier.

Many of the survivors are well and happy, but:

Fifty-two thousand are in hospitals and institutions . . . six times that number are without regular jobs . . . some have no eyesight . . . others are maimed of limb and mind.

The veterans administration has expended $22,236,749,241 . . . adjusted service certificates have gone out to 3,468,967 veterans . . . about $1,400,000,000 of the bonds have been turned into cash.

The treasury, on the eve of Armistice day, checked back over the yellowing ledgers and estimated that the World war has cost the United States—$46,193,000,000!

Destiny in 19 years has kicked the scene upside down.

The war president, Woodrow Wilson, is long dead.

The wartime assistant secretary of the navy—Franklin D. Roosevelt—will go to the sloping hills of Arlington cemetery tomorrow to lay a wreath on the unknown soldier's tomb.

Soldiers have become senators . . . generals have died . . . captains are colonels . . . heroes of battle are leaders of industry.

Mothers, wives and daughters still write the war department frantically searching for information about the unknown soldier . . . "he may be ours."

Japs Drive On Capital

Invaders Land More Troops In War Area

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 10 — Japanese reinforcements landed on the shores of Hangchow bay today for what may become a major drive toward Nanking, China's capital.

Chinese feared the reinforcements would attack Hangchow as the first step in a Nanking drive, now that Shanghai is in Japanese hands — except for Nantao, native quarter in which are remnants of the Chinese army which retreated from Shanghai yesterday to defense lines further inland; and the international settlement and the French concession.

Many Bombs Dropped

Japanese utilized airplane and artillery bombardment today in an effort to drive out the remaining Chinese.

Many bombs fell along the Nantao Whangpoo river waterfront, within a few hundred yards of American and other foreign war vessels.

Chinese said 34 Japanese transports already had arrived off the Chekiang coast in the new Hangchow move, carrying approximately 40,000 soldiers.

Chinese Are Confident

Chinese authorities declared the government was confident Chinese forces now being rushed to Yuao would be able to check the new Japanese reinforcements.

Shanghai harbor tonight was the scene of a machine-gun battle between Japanese war craft and Chinese troops.

At nightfall three Japanese vessels joined the efforts of their land forces to expel the Chinese from Nantao.

Warned To Withdraw

The renewed shelling of the Shanghai area followed a Japanese announcement that Nantao would be bombarded unless the Chinese troops, variously estimated to number from several hundred to several thousand, withdrew.

The Japanese shells and bombs probably took a smaller toll of life than might have been expected because of wholesale evacuation of civilians from Nantao within the last 24 hours.

A detachment of marines landed from the French flagship, the cruiser Lamotte Picquet, to strengthen French forces manning the borders of the concession.

Chinese soldiers near the French concession border indicated they had no intention of withdrawing.

Planes ranging west of Shanghai bombarded the airdrome area of Nanking, the nation's capital. Some Nanking residents said they feared a resumption of extended raids which had been interrupted by Japanese intensification of the Shanghai campaign.

Aged Rancher Defeats Hooded Marauder In Duel To Death; Hand Is Cut Off In Fight

(By The Associated Press)

SANTA ROSA, Calif., Nov. 10 — A courageous 79-year-old rancher shot and killed an unidentified hooded marauder armed with a butcher knife last night after beating off his assailant with a sword and receiving critical injuries himself.

The rancher, Thomas Elliott was in a Santa Rosa hospital today and attendants said he had an even chance to recover.

Responds To Knock

Late last night Elliott responded to a knock at the door and was told it was a messenger with a telegram. He opened the door and was confronted by a man, hooded with a barley sack with slits for eyes.

Threatening Elliott with a butcher knife the intruder said:

"This is a robbery, I want your money."

Elliott ran upstairs to his bedroom, the marauder, a stocky man of about 50, followed. The rancher grabbed an old sword from its scabbard and turned on his adversary. On the defensive the hooded stranger backed from the room and down the stairs to the living room where Elliott with surprising strength for a man of his age forced the fighting.

Hand Is Cut Off

A sudden swipe of Elliott's sword cut off the stranger's left hand. The stranger stooped, picked up the hand, stuffed it into his pocket.

Then, despite loss of his hand, the intruder suddenly overpowered the elderly rancher, threw him to the floor and waved his butcher knife menacingly.

"I surrender! I'll get the money!" the rancher shouted. The man let Elliott up and attempted to stem the flow of blood from his arm.

Elliott stumbled toward a cupboard. But instead of cash, he grabbed a gun turned and fired. The invader dropped dead.

Elliott staggered a quarter of a mile to the home of his nearest neighbors.

Here's An Instance Of Real Faith In The Fairer Sex

MARION, Ind., Nov. 10 (AP)—Deputy Clerk Harry Wigger was puzzled when a prospective bridegroom handed back a marriage license application with only his part filled out.

The man explained he would be out of the city until the wedding and said the bride would "come in about the first of the year" to fill out her half of the application.

"That's what I call confidence in women," commented Wigger.

Control Plans Being Pushed

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — Sponsors of crop control legislation, seeking its quick enactment at the special session of congress, noted these developments today:

1. Impatient members of the senate agriculture committee said they would try to assemble the group to begin work on a bill immediately, without awaiting the return of Chairman Smith (D-SC).

Seek Price Guarantee

2. Wheat belt representatives said they would ask the house agriculture committee to include in its bill a guarantee of a wheat price that would at least meet production costs.

3. Informed persons said the administration is considering separating the crop control bill and the revenue measure which would finance it.

4. A new estimate of the 1937 corn crop was due (at 3 p. m. E. S. T.). Some officials said an increased estimate might add to demands for compulsory control of next year's production.

Woman Who Claimed Relations With Mussolini Barred

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 (AP)—Barred from this country on grounds of "moral turpitude" Magda de Fontanges appealed from Ellis island tonight for an opportunity to tell Washington authorities all about the romantic interlude she said she had with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Smouldering ashes covering the area about two city blocks, were too hot for officers to check reports that several others perished. About 500 residents lived in the section.

"Might As Well Get The Chair Ready," States Woman Slayer

(By The Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 10 — "They might as well get the chair ready," Anna Marie Hahn declared today, if the state moves her to prison and she cannot see her 12-year-old son.

The convicted poison slayer would "grieve herself to death," she told Sheriff George A. Lutz. He quoted her as adding, "they might as well get the chair ready, for I'd die anyway."

Sheriff Lutz said Mrs. Hahn urged him to make every effort to "see that I stay here among friends I have made in the jail," and near her son, Oscar.

Lutz said Mrs. Hahn, critical of the jury, was "very much disappointed" in John Granda, its single male member.

"I felt the women would convict me and I was sure of it as soon as I saw them step into the jury box," she asserted.

Ohio law requires removal of a condemned person to the penitentiary within 30 days after sentencing. A hearing will be held Monday on her motion for

Grange Leader Gives Advice

(By The Associated Press)

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 10—Louis J. Taber of Columbus, O., master of the National Grange urged American farmers today to "preserve their independence," in a keynote address, opening the organization's seventy-first annual convention.

Referring to regimentation as a "sinister influence," Taber said, "agriculture must be the last of all institutions in our land to surrender to the philosophy that individual initiative, ability and freedom of choice are things of the past. The Grange should today dedicate its future not only to fight for cooperative purposes, but fight against unnecessary regimentation in every form."

Desired Results Missing

Declaring that neither our tariff system nor our reciprocal trade treaties are bringing the desired results, Taber said:

"We all rejoice in the revival of world trade, but when we bring the matter back to agriculture and confine it strictly to farm schedules, we find the startling fact that in the first six months of 1937, our trade deficit is serious."

Taber recommended increase of the farmer's share of the nation's income to give to agriculture parity of income; loans for crop storage on farms and increased funds for the surplus commodity corporation, with definite strengthening of marketing agreements and provision for

Fight Against Dictators Is Church Plea

(By The Associated Press)

EL PASO, Nov. 10.—Texas Baptists renewed their denunciation of dictatorships today when Dr. E. D. Head of Houston in the annual convention sermon flayed "domination of the church" by totalitarian states.

His message followed President J. B. Tidwell's warning last night that control of agriculture and industry in this nation may be followed by state regulation of church and school. Already the government has shown a disposition to meddle in church and school", Tidwell said.

Christ Alone Can Do It

"Christ alone can make the world into a brotherhood", Dr. Head asserted.

"Contemplate the growing tendency toward the totalitarian state with its most dangerous feature, domination of the church. Are we to turn back the pages of history and commit this unspeakable adultery? As the clouds of war grow more ominous and the streams of blood flow on fierce battle fronts, we recall the appropriate warning of Jesus nineteen hundred years ago: 'Put up again thy sword'.

"It is our duty to tell the youth of the world, restlessly marching, that Jesus, not Hitler, nor Mussolini, nor Stalin, is the one under whose banner we must march if we are to know the sweets of victory."

Gifts Are Reported

The Woman's Missionary union reported to the convention that gifts of Texas Baptist women last year totalled $1,176,749.

The convention heard Doctor Tidwell appeal for a restoration of Christianity "to its former place of esteem"; heard him warn against the totalitarian state as a menace to a free church, and heard him urge to "clean house if need be" of ungodly members.

Mrs. B. A. Copas, Fort Worth, president of the Woman's Missionary union, at the closing session of the missionary society, assailed beauty contests and liquor and tobacco advertising.

The laymen's final meeting heard the Rev. H. H. Hargrove of Waco plead for religious tolerance.

BY OPAL McMAHON
Journal Staff Writer

Flood lights, hundreds of colored lights, welcome signs, and a huge bonfire will create a brilliant setting for the opening of the 12th annual homecoming celebration at Texas Technological college at 7 o'clock tonight.

Cheers of students and "exes" collected about the bonfire will signalize the approach of the Tech-Duquesne football game and the opening of the Homecoming observance. The celebration will include a dance tonight, chuck wagon lunch Thursday, the football game Thursday afternoon, and numerous lesser events.

Bob Calvert To Speak

Robert W. (Bob) Calvert, speaker of the Texas house of representatives, and Gerald Mann, Dallas attorney, former secretary of state, and one-time gridiron star at the Southern Methodist university, will be featured speakers. The football game will be dedicated to Calvert and he will speak, after introduction by Rep. J. Doyle Settle of Lubbock. Several other legislators will attend as guests of Settle. Mann will speak at the chuck wagon lunch.

The campus assumed a colorful appearance early today, as lighting was tested. A huge Double-T at the entrance of the campus could be seen from downtown. Flood lights played upon several buildings and colored lights outlined the administration, chemistry, textile engineering, and main engineering buildngs.

Ask Early Reservations

The college has become "homecoming conscious". After calling the college number, 1280, a person may merely say "chuck wagon" and will be connected with members of the ticket sales committee for the chuck wagon lunch, said Calvin Hazlewood, secretary of the Alumni and Ex-students association. Request has been made that tickets be purchased or reservations made early so that the chuck wagon committee may know for how many to prepare.

Welcome to returning alumni and former students will be offered by Miss Maxine Fry, president of the student council, at the bonfire rally. Jason Gordon of Farwell, president of the Alumni and Ex-students association, will respond.

Pep Talks Scheduled

Pep talks will be made by Pete W. Cawthon, football coach, Herschel "Red" Ramsey, captain, and Hurley Carpenter and any other ex-captains of the Matadors present at the rally. James Forbis, head cheer leader, will lead cheering, and will introduce ne assistant leaders, Parker Brown of Eastland and Harold Gierhart of Shamrock. The band will play. The program will be broadcast over Radio Station KFYO.

The bonfire will be the first conducted in five years.

The student council made arrangements for lighting, and installation was by the Tech branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineering. The flood lights and colored lights will be on tonight and Thursday night.

Dance To Be Held

The Alumni and Ex-students association will sponsor the dance in the gymnasium from 9 to 12 o'clock. Ned Bradley's orchestra will play. The dance will not be restricted to alumni and former students.

Registration will begin at 9 o'clock Thursday morning in the lounge of the men's dormitory. Arch Lamb, president of the Men's Dormitory association, has invited those returning to use the lounge as headquarters throughout the day. Refreshments will be served during registration by the dormitory association.

Prospective Groom Hoping To Earn Marriage By Saturday

Marital agencies "two dollar you to death," so a disappointed negro couple was forced to defer payment.

This week the prospective bridegroom divides his attention between his cotton sack and the marriage he hopes to "earn by Saturday."

The negro was whisked from the county clerk's office by his prospective father-in-law, after contents of his pocketbook suffered in comparison with an estimate of the cost of marriage: "Two dollars for the license, two dollars for a health certificate and two dollars for the minister."

The incident was one of several that have lent spice to the business of issuing marriage licenses, according to Louie Moore, chief deputy clerk.

There was the Mexican who pleaded with Moore to wait in the office until he could "steal" his bride from a cotton field near Lorenzo.

Moore returned to the office at 7 p. m., by agreement, and the

Special Days Slated During Show Here

Special days have been designated for various schools of Lubbock territory because of the expected large attendance at the Parade of Progress of General Motors corporation which will arrive here Nov. 21, according to announcement at the chamber of commerce Tuesday.

The chamber likewise was advised that approximately 90,000 square feet of space will be required to set up the "silver top" and the especially designed motor buses in which scientific exhibits will be shown. The pageant, traveling in motor caravan, will be set up on Texas Technological college campus.

Special Days Set

Days which have been set aside for schools of specific counties were announced as being:

Monday, Nov. 22—For schools of Gaines, Dawson, Borden, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Garza, Kent, Cochran, Hockley, Crosby, Dickens, Andrews and Lubbock county outside the city of Lubbock.

Nov. 23—For Parmer, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Hale, Bailey, Lamb, Floyd, Motley, Cottle and Scurry counties, Texas, and Lea, Roosevelt and Curry counties, N. M.

Letters have been addressed to school superintendents in each of those counties inviting them to be here and stating, among other things:

Show Veritable "Parade"

"This miniature world's fair offers a wonderful opportunity for the students in your school to see a parade of the past, present and future, and it will give them an opportunity to see the modern marvels of science—liquid light, music on a light beam, how a voice looks in a sound wave, water boiling and an egg frying on a cold stove, frozen motion, the magic eye and other phenomena which modern industry puts to work in the solution of problems."

Many schools, information to the chamber said Tuesday, will be dismissed for half a day or longer and buses will be used to bring pupils here.

SUSPECT ARRESTED

CONROE, Nov. 10. (AP)—A negro suspect in the shooting of J. H. Inglehart, Santa Fe freight agent at Montgomery, last Wednesday, was held in jail here today.

On the inner walls of the Arc de Triomphe, Paris, are inscribed the names of 96 of Napoleon's greatest victories.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c

Unruly Pampa Harvesters Seek To Dethrone Amarillo Sandstorm

Holiday Tilts Are Featured Over State

BY FELIX R. McKNIGHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Nov. 10—Three years the iron-fisted ruler of Texas schoolboy football, Amarillo's Golden Sandstorm invades the wheat country tomorrow to meet one of the most unruly of all its rebellious subjects—the Pampa Harvesters.

Important games come in profusion from Armistice day through Saturday, but this attempt of the Harvesters to assassinate the monarch even before the bi-district battles is tops.

Expect Record Crowd

Some 12,000, a record crowd for the Pampa region, will bulge the stadium to witness the scrap between two of district one's three leaders. Borger, in the triple tie, plays oft-beaten Plainview. Amarillo has taken but one defeat this year, a 33-0 licking from the disputed Port Arthur team. Pampa did a better job of holding the South Texans, giving up by a 0-14 score.

Out in the same section another game on Armistice day has the West Texans agog. Vernon, leader of the potent district 2, plays an Olney team that has been tied but not defeated in eight games.

Port Arthur Meets Galveston

Down south the Port Arthur Yellowjackets, who have taken the fight to an appellate court to prove their right to remain in the league despite protests that their use of twelfth graders is illegal, bump into Galveston, also undefeated in the district at the resort city. Beaumont, also undefeated in conference play, meets a meek Goose Creek team Saturday.

Abilene, leader of the district three scramble after easing past Stephenville's wonder team, puts its newly gained lead right back into circulation against Breckenridge, while Thomas Jefferson, the San Antonio powerhouse on top in the district 12 fight, can't make any mistakes if it hopes to get by Kerrville in another headliner.

Eight Are Undefeated

Eight teams remained undefeated and untied, including Abilene, Austin of El Paso, Highland Park of Dallas, Longview, Lufkin, Temple, Conroe and Corpus Christi. Of these, Temple faced a faded power of the league in Corsicana, a team that has slipped but may be able to pull just one upset out of the bag.

Matadors Will Be Alert For Dukes

Mackey And Cummings Are To Do Battle In Wrestle Show

Cyclone Mackey, who used to be a headliner in these parts, does battle with Bomber Bob Cummings in the main attraction at Sled Allen's Auditorium tonight.

Mackey returned to the local ring last week, after a long absence, and plans to be around for a spell.

Neither of tonight's main eventers covered himself with glory in last week's proceedings at the Auditorium; they worked on the preliminary card. Cummings winning the prelim on a foul from the German newcomer, Otto Ludwig, and Mackey tussling to a draw with angular John Nemanic of Denver. Both Mackey and Cummings are qualified, however, for top notch assignments in this league.

It just might develop into a wrestling match, since both Mackey and Cummings are of the scientific sort. But Mackey's short temper probably will explode in a sudden burst of fury, and Cummings can use a "fore-arm shivver" punch to great advantage when his ire is aroused.

The supporting card tonight promises fitful action. There's Frank Wolfe, conquerer of Tex Kirby Watkins last week in the main go, fighting Ace Freeman, stout young feller from the Bronx who loves a good fight. They go together in the semi-final, and it should be 30 minutes or less of real action, with the more accomplished Wolfe holding the "paper" advantage.

To start the show, Indian Bill Cazzell, who is about to outgrow the middleweight ranks, takes on the Teuton Terror, Ludwig, who resorted to choking once too often in his debut last week with Cummings and was waved off the field for "unsportsmanlike conduct" and "unnecessary roughness."

Bierman Seeks Strong Backs For His Team

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The fine-looking youngster playing center for Dartmouth's undefeated Indians is the son of Billy Gibson, the old fight manager, who piloted both Benny Leonard and Gene Tunney to world championships . . . Like Max Schmeling, Tunney was a good business man and often preferred to sign his own contracts . . . More than once he left a boiling Gibson sitting in the anteroom while Gene closed for important fights . . . But when he came into the big dough, Tunney didn't forget . . . If you believe the stories told in the Broadway spots, Gene did so well by Gibson that all Billy has to do now is doze in the sun at the Polo grounds in the summer and drop into Leonard's joint for a spot or two of ale in the winter.

A good yarn is going the rounds about the source of Minnesota's football players. . . . Each spring, just about plowing time, Bernie Bierman hits the grit for the hinterland . . . Every field that has a young man working in it is a Bierman stop . . . He asks the youth the way to the next town . . . If the kid points a finger, Bierman drives on . . . But if the youngster just picks up his plow and points to the town, he shows up at Minneapolis the next fall.

Those wild and woolly Texas sports writers not only pick winners, but try to guess the scores as well . . . Col. Dick Freeman of the Houston Chronicle has missed three of Rice's major games by only five points . . . He guessed: L. S. U. 14, Rice 0; Rice 13, Texas 7; Rice 10, Auburn 7 . . . Scores were: 13-0 for L. S. U.; 14-7 for Rice, and 13-7 for Rice . . . Move up to the head of the class mister . . . This week's Rose bowl guesses are Pitt and California (with Fordham in the eastern ante room) . . . Up to now we've stuck to Alabama in the east, but it lost a lot of ground Saturday and hasn't played anything near the schedule of either Pitt or Fordham.

Class B Busy During Week

Class B teams of the neighboring Districts 4 and 5 take up warfare amid Armistice festivities where they left off last weekend.

Levelland entertains Littlefield in the most important clash of the holiday. The Wildcats are still in the District 5 titular race, but can expect trouble from the Lobos.

Other Games Slated

Other games in District 5 are: Post at Brownfield, Ralls at Crosbyton, and Tahoka at O'Donnell. The Bulldog-Eagle game is a non-conference affair slated for Thursday morning.

In District 4, Matador plays at Floydada, Spur journeys to Paducah, Flomot visits Lockney, and Quitaque invades Silverton for conference contests.

Tough Outfit Arrives Here Last Night

Mental "brushing up" almost crowded out physical "touching up" as Texas Tech's gridsters worked out in preparation for their important clash with Duquesne in tomorrow's Homecoming battle.

Importuning his athletes to remember that "football is played with the head, not altogether with hands, feet, shoulders and hips," Coach Cawthon spent a lot of the time stressing the need of being "mentally alert," particularly on defense, when the Dukes and the Techs engage each other in the holiday game Thursday.

The drill was not without its physical aspect. Half the time was devoted to defensive measures against Duquesne's Notre Dame attack; the other half to Texas Tech's Notre Dame attack. There was no hard and tough scrimmage, the lads being exhorted to conserve their energies for what is bound to be one of the toughest games on the schedule.

Arrived Last Night

Coach John P. "Little Clipper" Smith led his Dukes into town last night, ending the long train ride from Pittsburgh. It was the longest trip made so far this season by the Dukes, who do quite a lot of traveling around the country.

The party of 50 from Duquesne, arriving at 10 o'clock, resorted soon afterward to hotel rooms at the Hilton for a long snooze before taking the field this afternoon in final workout.

Coach Smith said his team regarded Texas Tech with more than passing respect, that Tech had come to be a recognized power in Southwestern football, and that its intersectional games, here and away, had made it quite widely known. "We expect a lot of trouble here, and we are prepared to make as much as possible for you."

Tech coaches Cawthon, Dutchy Smith and Huffman, and other athletic department attaches, as well as a hundred or so students and townspeople, met the Dukes upon arrival at the Santa Fe station, assisted in escorting the visitors uptown. The invading athletes impressed the welcoming committee with their manly size. They'll outweigh the Red Raiders by several pounds.

Good Seats On Sale

Meanwhile, advance ticket sales soared, indicating a sellout of all reserved seats long before game time. While they last, the pasteboards are on sale at the Hilton lobby box office. The price for the Homecoming game is $2.25 for reserved seats.

"Wanted: 15,000 fans on November 11 at Tech Stadium," is the slogan of Tech's athletic

Most Valuable Player Award For Medwick

BY DREW MIDDLETON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Joe Medwick, the payoff guy of the St. Louis Cardinals gashouse gang, has the National league's most valuable player award for 1937 to add to his record string of batting "firsts."

"Muscles" did all he could to earn the prize. He won the batting championship, led in hits, runs batted in and doubles and tied with the Giants' Mel Ott for the home run title. Even so he barely nosed out Gabby Hartnett, the spirited Chicago catcher, who drew 68 votes to Joe's 70.

Makes Up Deficit

Eight members of the Baseball Writers' association made the selection. They gave Gabby more first-place nominations than Medwick, but Muscles more than made up that deficit with votes for second and third place to grab the award and the Sporting News trophy.

During the past season, Medwick compiled a batting average of .374; he hit safely 237 times, batted in 154 runs and hit 57 doubles and 31 home runs.

Hubbell Third Choice

Carl Hubbell, the shrewd, smooth left-hander of the New York Giants, who won the award last year, was third choice with 52 points. Two newcomers to the headlines, the Boston Bees' venerable rookie pitchers, Jim Turner and Lou Fette, wound up fourth and fifth. They edged out such well known players as Dick Bartell and Mel Ott of the Giants and Paul Waner of Pittsburgh.

In the balloting among the eight writers—one from each of the seven cities and one borough in the league—a first place vote counted ten points, second nine, and so on for ten selections. Medwick drew two first-place nominations. Hartnett three.

Dogs retain many of their wild ways; among them is that of turning around in a circle before lying down.

Hard Sledding Reported For Grid Leaders

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 — The football champions of a year ago are finding out it's a tough assignment to stay on top of the heap.

As the 1937 campaign draws to a close in the nation's seven major football conferences, only Duke, defending its Southern conference title, is in a favorable position to repeat.

Face Biggest Hurdle

With Eric (The Red) Tipton and Elmore (Honey) Hackney as holdovers from the 1936 outfit, the Blue Devils have won all seven of their conference games, but they face their biggest hurdle this week in North Carolina.

Nebraska, no longer power-housed by Sam Francis and Lloyd Cardwell, is scrapping stubbornly to keep its Big Six crown properly poised. But the Huskers may be eliminated by too many ties — two too many. They have been held even twice, won two and have one more to play. Kansas, with two to go, has won twice and been tied only once.

Hubbell Third Choice

Arkansas's Razorbacks, who won their first Southwest conference title a year ago after losing it the year before by playing an ineligible man, may yet emerge as repeaters. But only a complete collapse by Rice and Baylor could bring that about.

Washington, Northwestern, Utah State and Louisiana State also are pretty much behind the eight-ball as far as repeating is concerned.

California, though tied by the coast champion Huskies last Saturday, seems bound to finish on top of the pile this season and jump from there into the Rose Bowl.

Northwestern Is Out

Northwestern is virtually out of the Big Ten race now, and is in for a further mess of trouble Saturday against Minnesota's conference leaders. The Gophers, tough at

When Is A First Down?

By Collier Parris

NICE BUNCH OF fellows, these Duquesnes—Head Coach John "Little Clipper" Smith, Assistant Coach Aldo T. Donelli, Captain Joe Maras, Graduate Manager John Holahan, and all the ball players.

This bureau bids them welcome, extends them the keys to the stadium and Bo Williams' office, and wishes them a pleasant visit here—except for a couple of hours tomorrow afternoon.

Of all the Duquesne Night Riders, however, we are especially appreciative of their great halfback, Boyd Brumbaugh. Brumbaugh is, without a doubt, one of the best halfbacks of the country. Some say he is All-America without a quibble. He runs, passes, punts and possibly prays. He is probably the difference between a Texas Tech victory tomorrow and a Duquesne triumph.

Brumbaugh didn't make the trip.

He would have been the focal point of all eyes had he boarded the train at Pittsburgh for Lubbock. As it is, he is still important.

We are not laughing up our sleeves because Brumbaugh is not here. We regret very much the accident of last Saturday in the game with Carnegie Tech when he sustained a serious knee injury, and we offere sincere sympathies.

As announced above, Brumbaugh probably is the difference. Because of his absence, Tech is given a better chance to win. That is the reason we are picking Tech to win.

On the other hand, a man who has lost one arm usually is very strong in his other arm, the latter making up for the lack of the former. The Dukes, having lost Brumbaugh, probably will fight all the harder. And the Techs, knowing the ace threat is not with the opposition, may "let up." But we think they are made of sterner stuff.

Did we say something about picking Texas Tech to win? Well, since we're on the limb, might as well go ahead and guess a score. At the rate the Red Raiders have been going recently, and considering Duquesne's possible strength without the services of Brumbaugh, we'd suggest a 13-7 tally, second guessing, 6-0.

Another football team, on a long road tour, is leaving its star backfield man at home this week. It's the Hardin-Simmons outfit. It came through Lubbock yesterday, headed for California and its Armistice Day game with Fresno State.

Coach Frank Kimbrough, who is an all right guy whether it's on the golf course, at the banquet table or on the field, jumped off Cowboys' Pullman to exchange a bit of banter with your reporter.

"Had to leave Cherry (that's Ed Cherry, the Cowboys' big backfield ace who has been doing most of the heavy work) and Clary (that's Leslie, regular end) at home with injuries. We're not in such hot condition. Don't get there until midnight Wednesday, and play at 2:30 Thursday. Haven't had time to work out for this game at all. So-oo-o if you can find me a job on your paper, I may be needing it after Thursday."

NOW TO GET ALONG to the "meat" of this column. We have a guest columnist with us today. (Incidentally, the local woods will be full of "guest columnists" for tomorrow's game). He is Judge Landis, the energetic skipper of Station KFYO.

Some time ago, over a couple of root beers, the Judge and your reporter were talking about football, a strange subject for this time of year. The Judge advanced a fact that struck us like the Baylor-Texas score. But take it away, Judge.

BY DEWITT (JUDGE) LANDIS

Now take this game of football. Some pretty queer things take place out there on the gridiron. One of them that always gives me an odd feeling is when a team has almost achieved a first down—or

Centenary Heavy Favorite To Topple Luckless Loyolans

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10. (AP)—The Centenary football team was due in here today for the Gentlemen's intersectional grid battle with Loyola university tomorrow in Memorial coliseum.

Local officials expect a large Armistice day turnout despite the recent record of the luckless Loyolans, who have been trimmed successively by Hardin-Simmons of Texas, St. Mary's, Santa Clara, San Francisco and Arizona.

Centenary rules a heavy favorite to brush aside the Lions, coming here heralded as a big, clever team.

Enough lumber was used in the construction of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge to build homes for 15,000 people.

when it is so close that the headlinesman has to come running with the chain to measure. The referee, the rival captains, the umpire and sometimes the coaches watch the proceedings carefully — sometimes they measure down to the smallest part of an inch. Sometimes they fuss bitterly about it. It's just as if that chain were a pair of calipers, or the Supreme Court. There's just no disputin' what the chain says.

Now it's all right to have something to measure by—a yardstick, as FDR says. But did it ever occur to anyone that there's no fuss, no hullabaloo and often not much care exercised when the chain on the sideline is placed in position after a first down is made? You see the headlinesman motion to the boy carrying the stick on the sideline to put the thing down at a certain place, not even going to the sideline to look at the position of the ball when placing the chain. Did it ever occur to anyone that this method is most inaccurate, often as much as a yard wrong? And that the very outcome of a ball game might depend upon accurate measurement?

Why in heaven's name, if it is so important to take the stick out and measure the gain of a team, is it not just as important to see that the chain is properly placed when the series of downs starts? Why aren't those inches just as important at one end of the chain as at the other? An inaccurate placing of the chain at the start might cause a team to be required to make as few as nine or as many as eleven yards. You say, "What's the difference—just a foot or two one way or the other?" But that foot or two is mighty important when they bring the chain out. Why isn't it important when the chain is placed in position?

And another thing—since when did football umpires start toting horns? And what business have they got tooting the aforesaid horns when a play gets under way and they see an offside? At first blush, this would seem like a goofy question. But consider some of the consequences. I saw a game end in a tie last year that one of the teams would have won had not the umpire been totin' and tootin' a pesky whistle. A pass play started. Someone on the attacking side was offside. A defensive player intercepted the pass that was thrown and had an open field for a touchdown. But because that pesky headlinesman stood there blowing his horn the boy stopped and tossed him the ball.

Now, when a team is guilty of an infraction, especially an offside, the offended team has the choice of taking the penalty or letting the play stand. The play is supposed to go to completion and then the headlinesman should blow his horn and tell the referee. Perhaps the point will be raised that the boys shouldn't stop until the referee's whistle is blown—that they should ignore the horn. But why have the confusion? Why have that ironhead blowing a horn before the play is completed?

A lot of people thought Weldon Chapman was griping at the officiating when he jumped on Referee Stony Wall at the recent Lubbock-Pampa High school game here. Chap was plenty mad all right. But he was howling about the headlinesman tooting his horn before a play was completed, causing the Westerners to stop on a play which might have resulted in a Pampa touchdown. The simplest answer is to see that the headlinesman puts his horn away before the game. He might even read a rulebook during his spare time instead of practicing his horn tootin'.

department, and it is not without reason to suspect that this number will attend, given fair weather. It is now practically impossible to procure seats between the 25-yard lines, on either side of the field, but plenty of grandstand accommodations remain. Then there is the north end of the horse shoe stadium, ready to accommodate another five thousand or so fans.

The Red Raiders themselves, more serious in yesterday's workout than they have been for several days, are fully aware of the job at hand. They anticipate a rugged battle. They are not fooling themselves by thinking it is "just another ball game," because they have heard of Duquesne's reputation. They are content to labor under the "underdog" situation, but they are not giving up in advance.

Tech Has New Attack

Tech's fine running attack that has carried it through four tough games and which provides a football show well worth watching will bear the brunt of tomorrow's offensive gestures. The overhead game has not looked so hot. In fact, one thinks of Tech nowadays as a running team, not a passing eleven. The hot-footed attack displayed at New Orleans last week, including fast and sincere blocking for speedy runners, looked like a million dollars. If it keeps up in the same tempo tomorrow, fans will see something in the way of attack that has almost been forgotten in today's razzle-dazzle, hipper-dipper offensives of forward and lateral passes.

Hard Sledding

any time, have been aiming for a year at revenge for the Northwestern victory last season.

Utah State and Louisiana State also are laboring in the shadows of better-liked rivals. The Utes, who shared the Rocky mountain title with Colorado in 1935 and won it outright in 1936, have found Colorado's all-winning pace too fast this year. Alabama is top dog in the Southeastern circuit and should add to its stature at the expense of Georgia Tech.

Unofficial sectional pace-setters are having easier going. Pittsburgh, the Rose bowl winner, Yale, Penn and Dartmouth led the east a year ago although all were beaten. All but Penn, replaced by Fordham, are up there again. Santa Clara, non-conference ace of the west coast last year, still is riding high as one of the few major all-winning elevens.

Aggravated Assault Charges Are Filed Following Fight

LEVELLAND, Nov. 10. (Special) Two complaints charging aggravated assault were filed here Tuesday as sequel to a fight Monday night in which Mexican women armed with a shotgun and a razor allegedly participated, according to Sheriff Ed Hofacket.

A slug fired from the gun inflicted a minor wound in the face of one of the women. She was taken by authorities to Levelland for medical treatment, Hofacket said. The shooting was near Lockettville gin 8 miles west of Levelland.

A negro who has five years of a 12-year penitentiary sentence to serve was arrested here today and is being held for penitentiary authorities, officers said.

An aggravated assault charge probably will be filed against a cotton picker who was arrested after he assertedly drove his family from their home at the point of a gun.

Investigation will be continued into the Sunday night burglary of the Elvin Lawson farm home 6 miles northwest of Levelland, but no arrest has been made, Sheriff Hofacket said last night.

Armistice Day

1918 NOV. 11th 1937

The scene changes . . . and so do the actors . . . but gratitude and memories never die. Today, 1937, is tremendously different from that wonderful morning in 1918 . . . our country is following peaceful pursuits, business is prospering as are our people. It is to those many veterans who served through it all . . . and are still serving their country, town and community that we pay tribute to this Armistice.

PROGRAM OF THE DAY — SPONSORED BY V. F. W. AND THE AMERICAN LEGION

The Armistice Day Program will begin at 6 a. m. and will continue until after the dance at Sled Allen's Auditorium Nov. 11.

The parade will form at Broadway and Avenue Q and will start moving promptly at 10 a. m., according to C. A. Hubbard, marshal. The line of march will be on Broadway to Avenue G, north to Main street, west to Texas avenue and north to the city hall to disband.

The order of march will be: parade marshal, Texas Technological college band, Tech R. O. T. C. unit, Civil war veterans, United Daughters of the Confederacy, Spanish War veterans, national guard band, colors and standards of Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion, World war veterans, Gold Star mothers in automobiles, auxiliaries, Senior High school band, Sons of the American Legion and national guard units.

Scene next will shift to the part west of the ctiy hall at which a brief memorial program will be given. City Attorney Durwood H. Bradley will preside. Former District Judge Clark M. Mullican will be the principal speaker. Gold Star mothers will occupy places of honor on the speaker's platform. In charge of arrangements for the parade and program are R. J. Allen and Chas. A. Whitacre.

Colorful Interlude Offered

The flag presentation will occur between halves of the Texas Technological college-Duquesne university football game Thursday afternoon. At that time, national and batallion colors will be presented to the Tech R. O. T. C. unit on behalf of Lubbock camp of Veterans of Foreign Wars and Allen Bros. post.

SIMULTANEOUSLY with the Associated Press report that John Nance Garner had packed his bags for the Congressional trek to Washington comes a report from a Washington correspondent that the hawk-nosed Texan has cut out for him in the coming special session a task worthy of a Socrates.

Says the correspondent:

"Vice-President John Nance Garner, the real boss of the Democratic majority in Congress, is about to execute the delicate duty of saving the President's face while denying his most important demands for legislation.

"Garner is guardian of the Democratic party. He is utterly out of sympathy with FDR's party irregularities and eccentricities. At the same time, he intends to avert a break that would tend to destroy the prestige of the President and titular leader of the Democratic party.

"With unquestioned authority as Democracy's chief legislative strategist, Garner and his confidants in Senate and House intend to make sure that the program proposed by FDR shall not pass. They regard this program as ruinous to their party—and disastrous to the South.

"No matter what lip-service is paid to the President's program, the outcome is settled. Senator Alben Barkley, of Kentucky, is nominal Democratic leader. Actually, Garner is boss, with Pat Harrison, James Byrnes, Millard Tydings, 'Cotton Ed' Smith, Carter Glass, Harry Byrd, Royal Copeland, William King, Burton Wheeler, David Walsh, Walter George (all "old line" Democratic senators and all but four Southerners) and other holders of important chairmanships as his lieutenants. These are the key men by reason of the places they hold.

"Senate and House members know the inside situation. They felt the master's hand last summer when Garner killed the court plan with a minimum of damage to FDR and the Democratic party.

"Two vitally important features of FDR's program already are marked for defeat by the 'chief engineer' of the Congress. The wages-and-hours bill as it stands, and compulsory control of farmers."

All very interesting, whether entirely accurate — at this early date—or not.

But something which makes it even more interesting is the report which has come down from Washington almost hand-in-hand with that on the situation of the coming session.

A number of ace capital newsmen had luncheon the other day and betook themselves of an off-the-record vote.

They were almost unanimous in the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt will run for a third term if he can use as an excuse for precedent-smashing a Congressional fight upon his ideas and policies of government.

Thus, if the President is stymied between now and 1940 the wisest observers up there expect him to run again. They say they are sure he wants to and is looking only for a logical — to the voters — reason.

Incidentally, if FDR does not run to succeed himself, they expect his tailor-made candidate to be Assistant Attorney-General Robert Jackson, of New York, who already is "under wraps" awaiting happenstances.

THE staff of The Avalanche-Journal yesterday received a letter of thanks which it prizes highly and the reporters and desk men have asked The Plainsman to please print it. They say they appreciate it more than any letter they have ever received, because they have long had such cordial relations with the children who wrote the letter and in their efforts to work with the school in various events.

The letter:

"Dear Sirs: We want to thank you for publishing the stories about our carnival in the daily newspaper. It sure did help us out. We appreciate it.

Your friends, Sanders school."

That gang of kids over there at Sanders is a coming bunch and along with a lot of other "men downtown." The Plainsman has a lot of faith in and admiration for them.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

PRISCILLA PIERCE — heroine, young woman attorney.

AMY KERR — Cilly's roommate and murderer's victim.

JIM KERRIGAN—Cilly's fiance.

HARRY HUTCHINS — Amy's strange visitor.

SERGEANT DOLAN—officer assigned to solve the murder of Amy Kerr.

Yesterday: The clipping which Cilly had taken from Amy's hand proves to be news notes from a small town Utah paper. Curiously Cilly is examining it when she hears the dumbwaiter passing her apartment. Who would operate it at this early morning hour, she wonders?

CHAPTER IV

Cilly awakened with a start next morning to an insistent ringing. She sat up in bed sleepily. It had been a fitful night. The little clock on the dressing table pointed to 8:30. Hurriedly, she jumped out of bed.

Eight-thirty! She'd overslept a whole hour. They'd both be very late for work. She turned around to awaken Amy. Then, in a flash, the whole ghastly nightmare came back to her.

It wasn't a dream, then. Amy was gone.

Again the bell rang. Thoroughly awake now, Cilly recognized it. The doorbell. She slipped on her kimono—the same Japanese kimono she had worn last night to interview Sergeant Dolan and the doctor—and went to the door. It was Sergeant Dolan now, perhaps.

But it was not Sergeant Dolan at the door. It was a woman, a nervous, indefinite little woman whom Cilly did not recognize.

"Good morning," the little woman said in a frightened, shy manner. "I'm sorry to get you up like this—but I had to see you right away. I'm Mrs. Corbett, from across the way."

Cilly opened the door wider. "Will you come in, Mrs. Corbett?" she invited.

"Thank you. You're Miss Kerr?" Cilly paled.

"No. I'm sorry, but Miss Kerr is not here. . . ."

Mrs. Corbett put her hand up to her mouth apologetically, as if admonishing herself not to make another blunder.

"Oh. I'm very sorry. She must be the other one . . . I didn't know. I just looked at the names here above the bell. Hers was the top one. You're Miss Pierce, then?"

Cilly nodded, leading the way into the living room. She noticed that the bridge table was still set up as it had been the night before; the ashes had not been removed. She must tidy the house immediately. Amy's Aunt Harriet would be here. She drew a chair for Mrs. Corbett.

"It's about her—about the other young lady—I wanted to talk to you," Mrs. Corbett said, seating herself on the edge of the chair. "It's about what happened last night."

"Yes?"

"I tell you, Miss Pierce, I'm so upset I don't know what to do. And my mother's in an awful state. You see, I live over there, in the St. Ann apartment, on the fifth floor. My mother lives with me, and this week Mr. Corbett is out of town. We were both alone last night. We went to bed early—about 10:30, I guess. Mother wasn't feeling so well."

Cilly listened attentively.

"She has asthma," Mrs. Corbett continued. "Terrible attacks of it. Well, last night I guess I must have fallen asleep right away, but mother felt badly. She couldn't get her breath—you know how it is with asthma. So she got up and sat at the window to get more air . . . she was sitting there when it happened.

* * *

"You mean—she saw her fall?" Mrs. Corbett shook her head. She leaned forward and lowered her voice dramatically. "She didn't fall, Miss Pierce," she whispered. "She was thrown off that roof. A man picked her up bodily and threw her off."

"Oh, my God!"

"I know, it's terrible. I've asked my mother a dozen times this morning if she's sure. But she insists on it. There was a ship down the bay swinging its searchlight back and forth. And mother says just as that light passed the roof, she saw it plainly. Then I woke up—the noise of the fall, I guess. And everybody shouting out of their windows. But mother had fainted. I thought she was having another attack, and I was too busy with her to pay much attention to what was going on over here."

"Murdered! Amy murdered!" Cilly gasped.

But of course that was it. Amy would never have taken her own life. She had everything for which to live.

"Amy murdered!" Cilly repeated the words dully. Again she had that feeling of unreality, of utter disbelief. It was all a terrible mistake. Nobody could have murdered Amy—gentle, kind-hearted Amy. It was all so impossible.

Mrs. Corbett fidgeted nervously on the edge of her chair.

"I'm sure I don't know what to do about it," she said. "Seems as if I had to tell you, Miss Pierce. It's such a terrible crime . . . and right here on St. Ann's avenue. We've lived here for seven years, and it's always been the nicest, quietest neighborhood. But now . . . I don't want to stay here another night. I tell you—"

"Have you told the police?" Cilly interrupted.

Mrs. Corbett's pale eyes widened in horror. "Oh, no! I couldn't do that! Why, I've never had any dealings with the police—and I'm sure Mr. Corbett wouldn't want me to get mixed up in a—a murder."

"You'll have to tell the police just what your mother saw," Cilly said emphatically. "They believe it to be suicide. . . ."

"But I really don't want to go the police—not until I get in touch with my husband, anyway."

"I'm afraid you'll have to, Mrs. Corbett," Cilly insisted. "Because, you see, I will have to tell them of your visit this morning, and naturally they will want to question you. It would be much better, I think, if you went to them yourself."

* * *

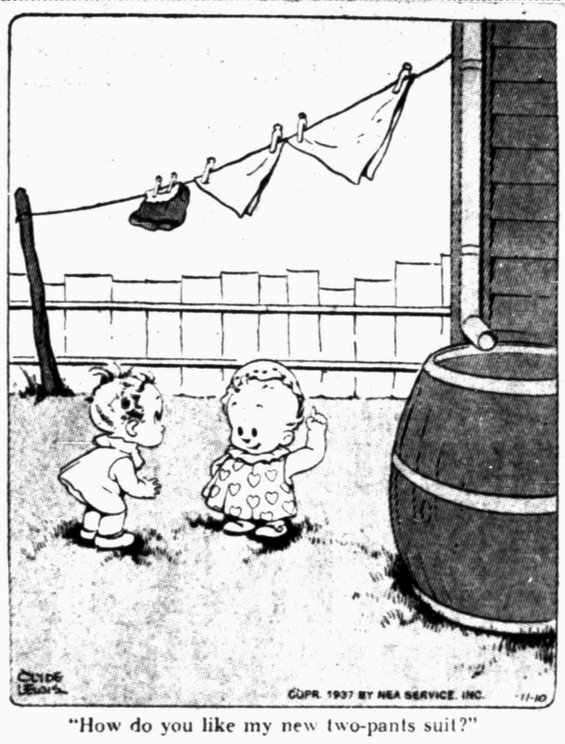

"I hate to be mixed up with the police," Mrs. Corbett whined. "It might have been some gangster. . ."

"You need only tell the police what you have told me. You can phone from here, if you wish. Ask for Sergeant Dolan. He is handling the case."

"Sergeant Dolan. I guess I'll wait

GOOD NEWS FOR OUR STUDENTS

The three thousand young people attending Texas Technological college, members of their families and the parents of thousands of pre-college students on the South Plains will be interested to know that it is definitely proven that a college education is a great aid to success in the outside world.

While we are prone to laud the self-made man who got no further than the third grade, cold statistics show that he hasn't much more than the traditional "Chinaman's chance" when forced to compete with his better trained, better educated rival from the college campus.

America is more and more turning to her college graduates for leadership.

For example: 59 per cent of the people represented in the Hall of Fame went to college. Seventy-seven per cent of the people currently listed in "Who's Who" are college graduates. Eighty-one per cent of the members of the 75th Congress hold college degrees.

The young person of outstanding ability eventually will make a place for himself in the world, of course. But his way will be immeasurably helped if he has the advantage of a college education. The lack of it is a steadily increasing handicap these days.

We thought this would be good, reassuring news, especially to the students out at Tech. When they're boning for examinations and working at their daily assignments they must remember that they're working for themselves, and for their own futures.

That, after all, is the background for one's seeking higher education.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 10. — Your correspondent had a very nice vacation, thank you, even if it did turn out to be a busman's holiday. During the past two weeks I drove a good many hundreds of miles, but it seems that I never quite got out of Hollywood.

At first I thought it would be a good idea to fritter away my period of idleness, tourist fashion, with forays to the mountains, lakes, desert and waypoints which the guide books consider noteworthy. But the desert fringes are full of location companies grinding out horse operas.

There's an Ohio river steamboat on Lake Arrowhead, and Cecil DeMille's pirates have landed at Catalina. Studio trucks are choking the road to Chatsworth, and the usual calm of Lake Malibou is shattered by whistles and the yells of assistant directors.

Arrowhead is 90 miles away, but it might as well be in the middle of Culver City. First I found John Barrymore, Carole Lombard and others of the "True Confession" company there. Miss Lombard's whoops could be heard for miles because the water is pretty cold at that altitude, and she, and Fred MacMurry were obliged to dunk themselves for two whole days.

Follies And Lions

Moving into location nearby was a company from the Goldwyn Follies. They were occupying the site just vacated by Ginger Rogers, Doug Fairbanks, jr., and the crew of "Having Wonderful Time." As soon as Miss Lombard quit whooping, the Follies troupe went to work. I went home.

A week later we were driving eastward again. There was El Monte and Gav's Lion Farm. We stopped. There were 235 lions at the place, and apparently most of them were movie actors. The lecturer introduced them by name and regaled us with their screen credits. Then he put one of them through some tricks which it soon is to perform in a Tarzan picture. We excited sadly and drove on to Pomona.

At the Pomona race track, Jane Withers, Stuart Erwin, Una Merkel and a crowd of hired spectators were cheering for a sceen in the horsey picture, "Checkers." We kept right on going, deciding to try Arrowhead again. Surely, by now, the "True Confession" and "Follies" companies would have checked out.

And so they had. The first thing we saw was Jimmy Stewart chucking rocks at a sign board. We passed a lot of MGM trucks. Pretty soon we came upon a complete village, brand new but of the vintage of 1865. This, I discovered, was a set for "Benefits Forgot," and it was peopled by more than 700 technicians, laborers, extras and actors, including Walter Huston, Beula Bondi, Guy Kibbee and Stewart. The San Bernardino mountains are about as close as Huston likes to get to Hollywood.

The town was an Ohio river town, and an old side-wheeler was tied up at the dock. They were loading the River Queen with sheep and crates of freight. It tooted a couple of melancholy toots as I turned the car westward, down the mountain and into the gathering dusk.

More Celebrities

It's early for the season at Palm Springs, but we happened to hit it right at the opening of the Dunes. Joe Schenck was there, and little Mary Maguire. In fact, I believe they were together. So were Claire Windsor, Raquel Torres, Sophie Tucker, George White, Eddie Cantor, Jack Benny and a lot of people we didn't stop to count.

And so it went, wherever we went. "Buccaneer" was being filmed at Catalina. The "Wells Fargo" production seems to be split up into location companies all over California, with the railroad sequences being shot at Chino, near Pomona, and many other scenes at Angel's Camp near Sonora, in the gold country.

"Bad Man of Brimstone" is still at Kanab, Utah, and "The Adventures of Robin Hood" mostly are taking place at Chico, nearly 600 miles away. I didn't go to either location, though I'm told that each spot boasts a sign reading "Los Angeles City Limits."

Every two or three days during my vacation, I went to my dentist. The minute he'd get a drill into my left third molar, thus rendering me helpless and speechless, he'd start telling about the marvelous porcelain inlay he made for Francis Lederer, or about Margo's remarkable incisors, or Katharine Hepburn's stoic tolerance of pain.

There's just no getting away from Hollywood. I'm glad I like it.

A Thought . .

The Badge Of Leadership

New Deal's Major "Economic Prophet" Says Taxes Are Key To Success For Democracy

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10 — The New Deal administration, once widely accused of a crime called "planning," more recently and with more justice has been criticized for lack of plan or consistency in policy. A general uncertainty as to the future is often linked with this apparent lack.

The uncertainties are not being removed. But five years after the 1932 election, what informed persons in Washington are calling "the enduring economic philosophy of the New Deal," has been bound up in book form. The book is "Why Pay Taxes?" by David Cushman Coyle. You can call Coyle a New Deal major prophet. Roughly, more than

DAVID CUSHMAN COYLE

75 per cent of the key men in the administration who are "close to the President" agree with him on essential points.

The degree to which these points will appear in subsequent administration programs is problematical, but Coyle's small volume is a guide book for those who want to know what the New Deal today is shooting at. Follows a summary of "Why Pay Taxes?" and certain conversations with the author:

Taxes Seen As Key

Democracy's fundamental problem, says Coyle, is to keep democracy going. When economic power becomes concentrated in a few hands it's democracy's business to break or control that concentration and to encourage growth and survival of small businesses. It is also the government's duty to provide public services necessary to keep the country in a sound condition.

Taxation is the device which democracy must use to preserve itself, first by control and second, in order to finance the public services. Taxation can be used to control and adjust the economic system. The tax system can get revenue most simply by leaning on the middle income brackets. Higher brackets should be taxed at still higher rates (says Coyle), not primarily for revenue but to keep individuals from getting "too much" money and power. The future calls for heavier income, inheritance and state taxes.

Keep Money Moving

Money must be kept circulating. Poor people spend it. Rich people invest it. Unlimited investment, which leads to dangerous booms, must be curbed. Taxes are not a burden, but a saving of expense when public services are cheaper than private costs for the same services. Coyle quotes a Danish farmer who, asked how he could possibly stand paying out 30 per cent of his income in taxes, replied: "What do you mean? We get it all back." Money paid in taxes goes right back into the system with increased velocity which swells the national income, according to this theory.

Under the present tax system in America about 75 per cent of taxes hit poor people. The smaller a person's income, the higher a proportion of it is paid in taxes. Real estate, tobacco, movie, liquor taxes, all nuisance taxes, tariffs and — most conspicuously — sales taxes, soak the poor. This violates the ability-to-pay theory of taxation.

Usefulness Is Test

The question of budget deficit or surplus should be made to depend on whether there's enough money in the country, says Coyle. Most people think there is enough money, so that the treasury ought to have a surplus. But although most people appear convinced that the surplus should be attained by economies, the matter of budget balancing (says Coyle) really has no relation to what the size of the budget should be. Size should be determined by the answer to the question: "Is government work being done?"

The American people, Coyle concludes, should pay taxes enough to keep the country in good condition. If we balance the budget and still continue a spending program, making up the difference with higher taxes, we can employ a huge number of people on improvement of the country through soil erosion work, conservation, public health work, retaining of workers. Dust Bowl efforts and so on.

Coyle believes in discouraging big business monopolies, but would like to see corporations make big profits and individuals receive big incomes so that the government would have that much more to take away from them in taxes.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

IT IS believed that fish reached the Rocky Mountain region from the Pacific Ocean by swimming up the Columbia River, then up its tributary, Pacific Creek, the headwaters of which mingle with Atlantic Creek, on Two-Ocean Pass, in Wyoming. Once over the pass, the fish came down Atlantic Creek into Yellowstone River.

"No, it'll just cost $30. I've already checked up", replied the prospective bridegroom.

Traffic Light Suit Filed

Long threatened suit of the National Electric Signal company of Dallas against the city of Plainview alleging infringement on a patent involving traffic lights was filed in federal district court here Tuesday afternoon.

Plainview had rejected the company's suggestion that an out-of-court settlement of the claim be made.

The petition set out that the City of Plainview "is committing and threatens to commit infringement" in its use without acquiring a right or license of "systems for operating traffic controlling and fire alarm."

The suit grew out of the alleged use in Plainview of an electric switch which puts traffic signals on a special light so as to establish emergency lanes for fire trucks, ambulances, and police patrol cars.

Injunction, Damages Asked

The Dallas company, in its complaint, alleged the patent rights were obtained from the inventors by the company in 1929 along with rights to sue for infringement.

The company asked: A decree adjudging plaintiff's ownership of patent and infringement by defendant; a writ of injunction restraining continued alleged infringement; a preliminary injunction; an accounting by the city of Plainview for all "gains, profits and advantages" and a judgment for damages for three times that amount; and payment of court costs by defendant.

Recent Demand Denied

The company recently threatened suit against more than 20 Texas cities. West Texas cities threatened were Abilene, Amarillo, Plainview, San Angelo, Vernon and Electra.

Lubbock was not threatened since the city does not use that system for creating emergency lanes, preferring fixed sirens.

City authorities pointed out that federal district and circuit court rulings in a similar action against the city of Wac refused the plaintiffs a judgment awarding damages.

Cotton And Feed Show The Way

IDALOU, Nov. 10.—This enterprising town, center of the oldest agricultural section of Lubbock county, is enjoying more business than it has had since before the well-known depression. Harvesting of a record cotton crop, not to mention feed, is bringing in the cash.

Idalou was one of the hardest hit places on the Plains. Nearest town to Lubbock, it lost heavily in population and business when the trend towards the larger places came. The depression did not stem the outbound tide—in fact it accellerated it.

Conditions Looking Up

Nevertheless the town is coming back in a big way. More people are coming to town to do business; there are more people here than at any one time in recent years, although not all of them are residents. Stores on the one main street are busy all day with transients as well as home trade.

Harvesting of cotton has pepped up the town; cars whiz past on the highway every few seconds and many turn into town. Farmers haul cotton by the trailer load to the three gins, leave the cotton on the yard and go back for more.

Town's Mayor Busy

Bailey Guess, mayor 10 years, can see business growing and better prospects for the future. "Of course," he said, "we'll probably not be as big as we'd like to be—we're too close to Lubbock. But for all that, there is a good business here."

Bailey runs the town's one lumber yard. He said he had been having brisk business, especially in selling material for repairs to farm and town houses. Plumbing fixtures, building supplies, hardware and parts are the popular items sold. A few farm houses have been built in recent months and when cotton harvesting is over, he anticipates more.

Postmaster "Backs" Optimism

"The town itself is in good shape," the mayor pointed out. "We have never forfeited a bond nor have we been behind in our payments. Our indebtedness is not large, although it is a pretty good sum for a town as small as this, but we are in good shape financially. The town is filled up now, there are almost no vacant properties."

Postmaster Baxter Orr says the receipts of the office are slowly climbing back to what they were in the latter part of the 20's. Income is better than for four or five years or more. Idalou is a fourth class office. Transients are bringing Uncle Sam a lot of business.

The Santa Fe depot and J. O. Barnhart, agent, have their hands full. Next to the gins or perhaps busier than any one gin, is the railroad. Much of the cotton being ginned is being sold and shipped. Almost every night train picks up a few cars to go to Lubbock and down state.

12,000-Bale Crop In Prospect

Something like 7,500 bales of cotton have been ginned here. It looks like there will be 10,000 to 12,000 bales. There seems to be a "world of cotton" everywhere. One gin had 300 bales in the house unginned and 250 more on the yard. Another gin had from 50 to 100 bales on the yard and 150 to 200 more in the house, while a third gin had about the same.

Gathering of the grain sorghum crop is progressing. When it is done, farmers are expected to feed out a few head of livestock each. There are between 50 and 100 head on commercial feeding here.

Not only is the immediate territory about Idalou sending in business, but Becton, Acuff and other inland points are good patrons. Scores of people from these communities daily come here, bringing cotton or coming to trade.

Not all of the wheat expected to be sowed has been planted. About 7,000 acres is in the ground and growing. If farmers can get enough drills there will be several thousand more acres planted.

Count Off! He's Their Eighteenth!

Eighteenth Child Is Born To Wilson Couple Here Sunday

Sons and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Moore of Wilson should not suffer from boredom.

They could organize a football team or baseball club and still have several left as substitutes.

A son born to Mr. and Mrs. Moore Saturday night in West Texas hospital was the 18th child born to the couple. The baby was the first not born at home.

The 16 living children all are "healthy and happy," said the mother.

She smiled at the mention of "scientific" child care.

"When you have that many children, you don't have time to think of scientific care," she said. Her children have "slept and eaten when they wanted to" for the most part, she said.

Three sets of twins have been born to the couple. One twin and one other child have died. Those living are: B. L., 24; Mrs. Preston King of Meadow, 22; Juanama, 21; Lamar and Lavar, twins, 18; Larovce and Lavovce, twins, 17; Wilella, 13; Mary Arthur, 11; Hythen Juanelle, 10; Billye Gem, 8; Wandel F., 6; Clarence Franklin, 4; Harold Ray, 2; and the three-day-old.

Some have been named for persons, and some of the names were original, said Mrs. Moore.

Moore operates two farms of about 300 acres each. He has farmed in Wilson vicinity 15 years.

Mrs. Moore would advise against "any person with a large family living in the city." Her children get exercise helping on the farm, besides in many games they can play which smaller groups could not enter into.

Have they organized a football team yet?

They "haven't thought of that," she said.

Loss Reported In Littlefield Fire

LITTLEFIELD, Nov. 10. (Special)—Frame business building in which four business establishments were housed was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin at a total loss estimated at $10,000 to $12,000 here Tuesday.

Part of the roof of the structure was falling in when the fire was discovered.

Businesses located in the building were the Chili King cafe, owned by W. A. Vallis; George's Electric Shoe Shop, operated by George Mallouf; Johnny Walker's Auto Supply, and Littlefield produce house, operated by Bob Boykin.

Firemen's Work Praised

Estimates of losses later in the day included $5,000 on the building; $2,500 on the cafe; $2,000 on the auto supply business, and $1,000 to $1,500 each on the produce house and electric shoe shop.

Excellent work by the fire department, of which Bob Cox is chief and Jim Roles is full-time caretaker, was credited with having prevented heavier damage. Despite the fact that nearly all the structure was in flames when the alarm was given, part of the frame work still stood when the fire was extinguished. The framework was too badly damaged, however, to be of value.

Youth Confesses Robbery Of Wigwam Theater In El Paso

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10 (AP)—Police Capt. Albert Wetzel reported today a youth, who he said had confessed robbing a theater in El Paso, Tex., also had admitted jumping a $500 bond in Hackensack, N. J., on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

The youth, who said he was Theodore Jones, 20, told the officer he jumped the bond Aug. 3, "bummed" his way to the west coast and then to Texas.

Wetzel telegraphed El Paso and received an answer Jones was wanted there for the $105 holdup of the Wigwam theater.

Jones was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen William Newman and Theodore Perking, who reported he had admitted robbery of a small cafe here. He was questioned about the El Paso theater holdup after the officers found a newspaper clipping in his room telling about it.

Seminary Teacher Raps Possibility Of Women Clergy

EL PASO, Nov. 10. (AP)—Rev. Jeff D. Ray, 77-year-old professor of homiletics at Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary at Fort Worth, predicted today that there will be women preachers in the Texas Baptist concention in the next 50 years.

Ray, here to attend sessions of the convention, said in an interview that he "hated to think of it, but the trend is that way." "I would not want to see it," said the teacher who has "turned out" three thousand preachers during his professorship. "It's against the teachings of the Bible for women to preach."

Ray criticized the preacher who gets the reputation of a moral reformer.

"When a preacher gets that reputation, he has belittled his office," he said. "Half the preachers do not spend their time working on the job. They are giving their time to social affairs and committees. I've never known a preacher who gave his full time to his job who did not make a success. The preacher's big job today is to comfort people."

Museum Exhibit Is Of Photographs

A collection of 24 photographs by Miss Carlotta Corpron, associate professor of design at Texas State College for Women, Denton, are being shown at the West Texas museum on the Texas Technological college campus through November 15.

Flowers, architecture and portraits, are subject matter of the collection, brought to the college by the applied arts department of the division of home economics, of which Miss Martye Poindexter is head. When the pictures are taken from the museum they will be on display for a week in the entrance hall of the home economics building.

Miss Corpron, who was reared in India, educated in the United States, and who taught in the applied arts department of the University of Cincinnati before coming to Denton, has followed photography as a hobby for several years. She belongs to a national photographic society and her work has been exhibited widely in the United States.

Museum hours are from 10 to 12 o'clock and from 2 to 5 o'clock on week days, and from 2 to 5 o'clock each Sunday afternoon.

Gold Exporting To Be Resumed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10. (AP)—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau announced today gold would be exported from the United States Wednesday for the first time in nearly two years.

He said $10,250,000 worth of the metal would leave New York on the Normandie for France. The French stabilization fund purchased it to prevent the franc from increasing over the dollar too sharply.

Although declining to say whether other countries have contracted to take gold, the secretary left the impression that other sums would cross the Atlantic this week.

Gold Now Profitable

Morgenthau explained the price of gold in London has reached $35.22 cents an ounce, thus making it profitable to transport gold from this country to Europe.

Morgenthau confirmed reports the American stabilization fund had been selling gold in the last few weeks from its deposits in foreign countries. He added these foreign deposits now were exhausted and any further sales of gold under present conditions would require actual exports across the Atlantic.

Franco's Drive Impeded When Counter Offensive Staged

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Nov. 10. (AP)—Insurgent officers reported tonight sharp counter thrusts by government forces were impeding the drive of Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops in northern Spain.

They said the dogged government defenders were holding a number of "important points" which must be "cleaned up" before the start of any decisive insurgent drive against Catalonia.

County Offers Suit Answers

Answers in two damage suits growing out of the closing of a road were filed in 72nd district court here Tuesday afternoon on behalf of the county commissioners court which has been named defendant in the actions.

The suits were filed by J. W. and Miller R. Boyd and J. W. Phillips.

The suits grew out of the closing in 1935 of a strip of public road northeast of the City of Lubbock. The Boyd brothers and Phillips alleged in their original petitions that they were damaged $9,000 and $13,150, respectively, as a result. They also claimed the process by which the road was closed was illegal and that the commissioners court had failed to live up to alleged promises.

Dismissal Asked

In the first section of the answer, the commissioners, represented by the firm of Crenshaw and Dupree, County Attorney Robert J. Allen, and his assistant, Hugh Anderson, asked dismissal of the case on grounds that the state parks board should have been made a party since the land adjoining the road on both sides belonged to the state. It was set out that the land was in sole and exclusive charge and control of the parks board and that barricades on the road were placed there, not under orders of the county, but by the parks board.

In the event of a mandatory order by 72nd district court to open the road, asked by the plaintiffs in both cases, the county commissioners would have to bring suit against the board and that, in turn, might result in a judgment denying commissioners right to do that, it was explained. To avoid "such mutiplicity of actions" the board should have been made a party, the answer said.

Defendants denied liability personally and individually in that they were working as a court and they excepted to the allegation that the closing of the road had been illegal.

The commissioners concluded their answer with a justification of their actions, explaining they were working "for the best interest of the residents of the county." They set out that a movement to close the road and to build a park had been under way for "sometime" and that the state and federal government offered assistance. The state had demanded discontinuance of the road.

The road had been difficult to maintain and there are nearby roads usually in better condition, according to the answer.

The firm of Vickers and Campbell is representing plaintiffs in both cases.

Attorneys saw possibility of the case being brought to trial late this month.

Plumbing Inspector Will Be Selected

Appointment of a city plumbing inspector was indicated this morning as another problem likely to be discussed at the semi-monthly meeting of the city commission at the city hall this afternoon.

The city has been without an actually designated inspector of that type since D. J. Schlag resigned more than a month ago. Since that time, Jim Reid, who was Schlag's assistant, has served as acting building, plumbing, electrical and gas inspector.

Work Is Praised

Reid's work since has received praise on numerous occasions among city commissioners and he is regarded at city hall as being certain to continue as building inspector and supervising head of the department. However, he has had no assistance in handling the large volume of inspections which have been the natural result of Lubbock's rapid growth.

The commission also is scheduled to consider and probably approve an amendment to the parking meter ordinance which will clear the way for installation and operation of new meters recently purchased.

Aptitude Test Will Be Given To Students At Texas Tech

Aptitude test will be given Dec. 3 for Texas Technological college premedical students who expect to apply for entrance in a medical college before next September, according to announcement Tuesday.

The test, given by the Association of American Medical colleges to students in colleges throughout the United States, is designed to measure the ability of a student to learn material similar to that which he will have in medical school. It also is an indication of general information and scientific background, and it shows the ability of the person to draw accurate conclusions from a given set of data.

Dr. R. C. Goodwin, head of the department of chemistry and chemical engineering at Tech, will be in charge of the examination, which will be given in the chemistry building. Sixteen students have made application to take the examination and others are expected to do so before the last of this month.

SANDERS FUNERAL HOME

Time, in its relentless march moves on, and brings today the nineteenth anniversary of the cessation of hostilities in history's greatest and most devastating conflict—the World War.

The patriotic love of Americans for America burns anew on this occasion. Thoughts are turned to the debt of gratitude owed by those who did not sacrifice their all to those who did . . . Poignant memories suffuse the minds of countless thousands who directly or indirectly suffered through the dark and anxious days of '17 and '18. . . .

It is fitting, then, that America should pause and celebrate the day which meant the end of forced marches and long night vigils; end of the horrors of War. We join the populace of the Nation in honoring the men who "stopped not to reason why" when the call came to protect the freedom of their country.

OLDEST ESTABLISHED

SPECIALIST OPTOMETRIST AND MANUFACTURING OPTICIAN IN LUBBOCK

We were first to champion the merits of optometrical methods vs. other methods of eye examinations.

We were first to educate the public on pupil dilation.

We were first to install an optical shop.

We were first to shop up eye glasses.

We mastered the science of optics and optometry long before there were any regulations or requirements by state laws (enacted in 1921). Evidenced by the fact that we successfully passed the rigid State Standard board examination in optometry when at that time, we could have obtained (as the majority did) the same license by passing what was termed limited examinations. Also evidenced by a diploma awarded us in 1913 for a personal course and satisfactory grades in advanced optics and clinical ophthalmology.

Since then at different times on up to recent years you'll find on the wall of our office a number of other diplomas and certificates conferring highest honors, post graduate, etc.

Oh yes! We have the new modern analytical optometry by Lesser, Alexander et al, and what's more, our equipment and instruments are thoroughly modern.
