Twister Gets Blame For Snyder Damage

Heavy thunderstorms hopped, skipped and jumped around the Snyder and Northwest Scurry County area last night as West Texas logged an evening of turbulent weather.

Police received several reports of storm related damage during heavy thunderstorms Thursday night between 10 and 11:30 that hit mainly the north and northeast parts of town. Two roofs, a carport and a wall were blown down by what was believed to have been a twister.

Police dispatchers, Carolyn Sutton and Jean Hataway, said they received about 55 phone calls between 11 and 11:50 p.m., with all three phones going at once almost constantly. People were reporting lines down, funnel cloud sightings and signs down.

Mr. Price, at 304 26th, called police and said he saw a funnel cloud come down and take a carport off a trailer across the street from him. The carport then hit a car and a fence. Wanda Price said, "I just heard a big old noise."

Kwik Car Wash, on East Highway, had a wall torn down. A block away from that, a tin roof on a building was rippled and torn.

On-duty patrolmen were watching the storm and reported several low hanging clouds but none could see any funnels.

"In my opinion, it was a twister that hit," Sgt. Burns said. But, since he didn't actually see one, he couldn't confirm the reports.

Larry Ball, deputy sheriff, was scouting the Fluvanna-Dermott area and reported heavy rains, high water and hail the size of quarters. He said that the hail covering the road was three inches deep in some areas.

A bus driver reported hail was an estimated four inches deep on U. S. 84 between Justiceburg and Dermott.

Fluvanna had three inches of rain mixed with hail, and hailstones as big as golfballs were reported north of Dermott, where 2.50 inches of rain fell.

Very little rain fell in the west and southwest part of Snyder and the high winds apparently skipped around.

A pickup truck parked in front of the Busy Bee convenience store on the East Highway was pushed over on its side by the wind and then was righted again, witnesses said. It was then driven off. A portable sign was lifted up and moved across the street from where it was retrieved without any apparent damage.

The heavy rains in the Fluvanna and Dermott areas put Deep Creek on a rise. By mid morning it was flowing a stream more than six feet deep through Snyder.

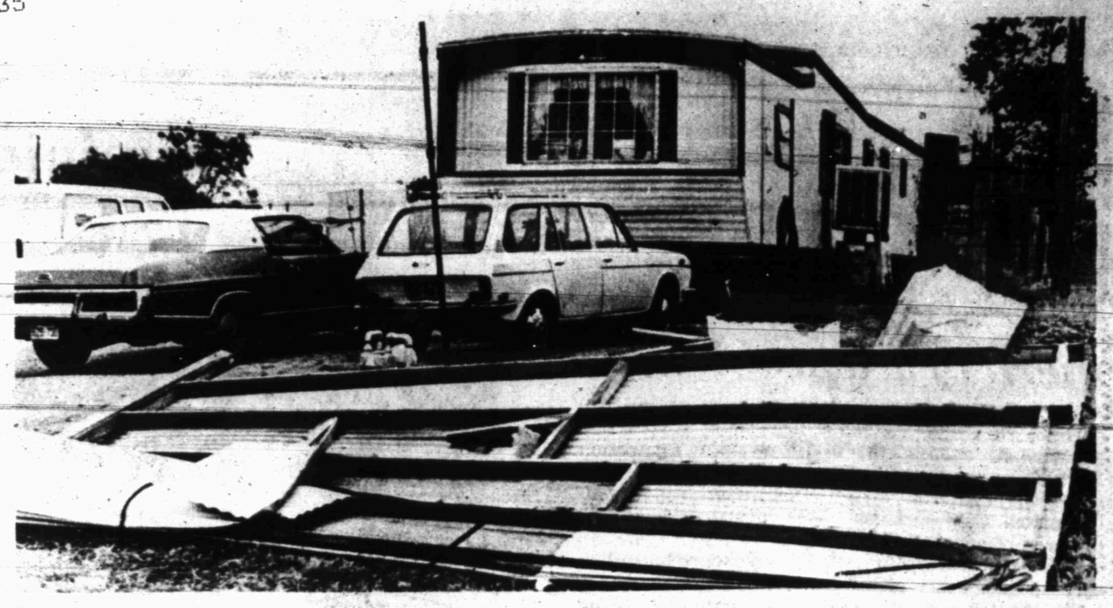
The rainfall generally was light in and around Snyder. The official gauge at the city water plant measured only .08 inch. Only a sprinkle fell at Lake J. B. Thomas.

Thunderstorms, including some severe storms, moved eastward across North Texas early today bringing strong winds, heavy rain and hail to some areas.

The thunderstorm activity was expected to die out in North Texas by noon, but forecasters warned that new thunderstorm activity would resume in western portions of North Texas and begin moving eastward across the area late today and tonight. Some of the new activity could become severe, forecasters warned.

Forecasts called for partly cloudy skies statewide today. Highs were to be mostly in the 80s and 90s except in the Panhandle where highs were to be in the 70s.

Except for North Texas, partly cloudy skies were reported early today across the eastern half of the state while the western half had clear skies. Some fog was reported in South Texas.



STORM DAMAGE—High winds and what was believed by many to be a tornado, caused damage in several areas late Thursday night. The roof was torn off the home of Raymond Ramos at 15th and Ave. I in the picture above. Below, the mobile home belonging to Jack Bryant at 307 26th, lost its carport which can be seen in the foreground. (SDN Staff Photos)

Friday update

Cooperation Pledged

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, asking visiting Japanese Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki to work with him so "we do not exhaust ourselves," is acknowledging that the United States and Japan have become competitors as well as partners.

The two leaders promised increased cooperation Thursday as they began two days of talks designed to help them get to know each another while forming a foundation for future efforts to resolve policy differences on trade, defense and foreign relations.

Cooley Robbed

HOUSTON (AP) — Three men wearing ski masks and wielding a pistol broke into the home of Dr. Denton Cooley, forced the noted Houston heart surgeon to lie down on the floor and robbed him of $250, police said.

The bandits broke through a glass-enclosed porch and forced the surgeon to lie on the floor of the library, said Lt. D.L. Sitz.

Cooley's wife, Louise, heard a noise and went downstairs. When she discovered the bandits, she ran to a neighbor's house and called police, Sitz said.

Three suspects were arrested and questioned late Wednesday, but only one man — who carried a 9mm pistol — faces charges, the detective said.

Cooley was unable to identify the suspects and a laboratory analysis of their clothing, shoes and hair was inconclusive, Sitz said.

Missiles To Stay

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syria said today its surface-to-air missile batteries will stay in Lebanon as long as Syrian forces remain in this war-torn nation. Israel has demanded Syria remove the missiles and has threatened military action if it doesn't.

"Air defenses, including missiles, are part of Syria's armed forces. They exist now and so they will in future, anywhere Syrian troops are, to be ready for use whenever the need arises," the Syrian Defense Ministry said.

The announcement followed the departure from Damascus of the Soviet Union's first deputy foreign minister, Georgy M. Korniyenko, who held three days of talks with Syrian government leaders.

Spectator Killed

DALLAS (AP) — One man was killed and several other persons received unknown injuries late this morning when a tree limb fell and struck members of the gallery at the Byron Nelson Golf Classic at Dallas' Preston Trails Country Club, authorities said.

A spokesman at Presbyterian Hospital, where the injured were taken, would not identify the dead man pending notification of relatives. The injured were believed to be two men and a woman.

Rioting Continues

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Sniper fire, a gun battle and some rioting occurred in Northern Ireland after the Irish Republican Army buried its new hero, hunger-striker Bobby Sands, and renewed its vow to free all of Ireland from British rule.

In Dublin, police reported a bungled attempt to assassinate a former foreign minister of the Irish Republic, Garrett Fitzgerald, leader of the opposition Fine Gael Party and an outspoken critic of the IRA.

Phone Rates Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Long-distance phone calls within the United States will likely cost more next week as overseas calls become cheaper and the telephone bills of government and the nation's largest businesses skyrocket.

It's all part of a series of rate actions granted American Telephone & Telegraph Co. that, more by chance than planning, came together Thursday before the Federal Communications Commission.

SNYDER TEMPERSTURES: High Thursday, 81 degrees; low, 58 degrees; reading at 7:30 a. m. today, 65 degrees; precipitation, .08; total precipitation for 1981 to date, 8.64.

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy most sections today with widely scattered thunderstorms mainly east today and southeast tonight. Fair most sections and cooler north Saturday. Highs mid 70s north to low 90s extreme south. Lows mid 40s north to mid 60s south. Highs Saturday upper 60s north to low 90s along Rio Grande.

A.—The tab picked up by the college was $4,218, or $703 each, including economy air transportation, lodging, registration fees and meals for five board members and the president of the college for five days and four nights. Their wives also made the trip, but they paid all of their expenses.

Boy Dies When Hit By Pickup

Jason Shawn Stansell, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stansell of Post, was dead on arrival at Cogdell Memorial Hospital shortly after 2 p. m. Thursday after he was hit by a pickup truck.

It was reported that the pickup accidentally backed over the child while he was visiting his grandparents at Fluvanna.

Inflation Rate Shows Signs Of Improvement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation at the wholesale level moderated to a 9.9 percent annual rate in April as surging energy costs slowed significantly and food prices held steady, the government said today.

The jobless rate remained at 7.3 percent of the workforce for the third month in a row, the Labor Department said in a separate report.

April's seasonally adjusted rise of 0.8 percent in wholesale prices was down markedly from a 1.3 percent jump the month before. The March rise, which translates into a 16.2 percent annual inflation rate, was buoyed by steep increases in energy costs that produced the largest jump in the monthly index since last summer.

The April increase is in line with wholesale price rises recorded during January and February.

Energy costs last month rose 1.6 percent at wholesale. In March, energy prices had jumped 6.1 percent, reflecting in part President Reagan's Jan. 28 oil-decontrol order.

Food prices at wholesale showed no change from March, when food prices rose 0.8 percent.

The wholesale price report — which the government calls the Producer Price Index for finished goods — usually provides a good indication of future price trends at the consumer, or retail, level.

Finished goods are products ready for sale at retail.

During the 12 months ending in April, wholesale prices climbed 10.6 percent.

Consumer prices rose 12.4 percent during 1980, but slowed to a 9.6 percent annual rate during the first three months of this year.

Despite renewed surges in interest rates, some economists see encouraging signs of a continued slowing of inflation in 1981.

The economists say energy price inflation has been slowed by the current worldwide glut of oil while spiraling housing prices have been cooled off by high mortgage interest rates.

The government, which also measures price changes at earlier stages of production, said that prices at the intermediate stage rose 1.1 percent in April, the same rise as in March.

Prices for crude materials jumped 1.5 percent in April, after declining 1.3 percent in March. This sharp rise was at-

Keeping tab on our neighbors:

Speedy Nieman of the Hereford Brand says he has read reports that the three major television networks are beginning to worry over repeated surveys showing a dwindling TV audience, especially during the prime time evening hours.

"There are a lot of reasons advanced as to why fewer people are tuned in these days," says Nieman. "The cable TV industry has boomed and now offers a variety of programs independent of the networks.

"The studies show that network audiences are dropping at the slow but sure rate of two percent every three months, and it has the networks worried.

"The Networks have overlooked the obvious answer, of course. The reason people don't sit in front of the tube every night to watch network programs is that most of these programs are generally lousy. Have you wondered what kind of weirdos come up with these programs and with many of our movies?"

We have, indeed, and that's the reason we have been watching Barbara Mandrell and the Mandrell Sisters the past few weeks on Saturday evenings. Their show is like a breath of fresh air in the midst of virtual stagnation.

Somehow, the "soaps" continue to hang on, and apparently they will continue. After all, they pre-date network television by at least a couple of decades.

Jerry Tidwell of the Hood County News figures they have a purpose.

"The best thing you can say about soaps, I guess, is that they are usually very moral dramas. That doesn't mean they don't depict immoral goings-on by the bucketload---it means that the immoral people usually get what's coming to them in the long run, even if it's only a lifetime of worried-face closeups leading into the Geritol commercial," Tidwell concluded.

merit board problems

There is a Catch 22 situation concerning at least one government agency, the Merit System Protection Board. Created to track waste, mismanagement and fraud within government, it is often wasteful, frequently mismanaged and has been accused of being downright fraudulent at times.

It should not surprise anyone that the board has fallen several leagues short of fully achieving its goal.

The Merit System Protection Board came into being three years ago to protect those who wished to report improper acts by other government workers. So far, the board's most obvious shortcoming has been its failure to convince employes they will not face reprisals for turning in offenders.

A recent survey of federal employes showed that nearly half — 45 percent — had observed fraud, waste or mismanagement in their agencies within the last year. Of those who were knowledgable of wrongful acts, 70 percent did nothing about it.

The survey also shows that, had those who viewed abuses reported them, an estimated $23 million could have been saved.

Most of the silent observes said they feared losing their jobs or otherwise having their careers adversely affected. Others believed nothing would have been done even if they had taken their information to the board.

The Merit Seytem Protection Board is a good idea. More importantly, it is necessary to police bribes, kickbacks, fraud and poor management. However, considering its success rate, it is apparent the board needs a strong shot of credibility.

That boost can only come from President Reagan.

For the merit system program to be workable and meaningful, honest government employes must know the administration is sincere in its effort to eliminate waste and abuses of funds from government.

They must know they will not be punished for providing information. For that message to be made clear, it may be necessary to offer some type of incentive — not with the idea that it is a reward, but simply to reassure workers their careers will not suffer.

We should not assume most people in government service are dishonest. However, we know some are, and we should not assume their dishonest practices will disappear.

It is no secret many government workers tend to be free and loose with tax dollars. The Merit System Protection Board was designed to be a way to bring some of those abuses under closer scrutiny.

But unless President Reagan is able to convince government employes they will not face reprisals, and that the government is truly interested in curtailing abuse, the merit system program will take the same route as others whose roles have become useless and their power ineffective.

You may not sleep tonight after I tell you this, but it's something you have to know.

For 16 years. I have conducted an informal survey among parents that requires a simple answer to a simple question: "Does your son or daughter pick up anything besides a fork?"

Some parents became quite violent. Two had to be sedated. A dozen or so reminded me they had served in the war. And here's the scary part. Of those queries, NOT ONE PARENT HAD A CHILD WHO FOUND TIDINESS A WAY OF LIFE.

Somewhere between boiling the pacifier and buying black towels, we lost 'em. I don't know where we failed, but we have unleashed upon society a generation of kids who think self-cleaning bathrooms have already been invented.

What most parents fear is that they will be considered incompetent for not teaching cleanliness. This simply is not true. My own children come from a good family. I use soap when I do the dishes. I don't wear a shirt the fourth day by turning it wrong-side out. I do not store Slushee cups under the gas pedal. I do not sleep on pillows that have no cases on them, nor do I drink milk out of the carton. When I saw my son's locker, didn't I pass out?

Some naive little fools think that low-quality air is the fault of too many automobiles and industries.Think about it. We started to note pollution the year this generation found out they had locks on their bedroom doors.

I resent people thinking that slovenliness comes from a mother who was too busy to teach organization. When my first-born was just a toddler, before I would let her at the table. I'd say, "Did you wash your hands and face?" I never got an answer. Just a 24-inch tongue that came out of the mouth and like a street cleaner made a path, bordered on the north by a nose, east and west by cheeks, and on the south by a chin.

I lost ground every day after that.

I hate to go whining to the government every time there is a problem, but perhaps a Child Neatness Agency could be established to set up some health standards.

Yes, the real problem today is not the threat of UFOs bringing alien people from another planet to earth. It's how are we going to find them in all this mess after they've landed.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock brokerage firms, it appears, are losing some of their enthusiasm for one of their most successful products, money-market mutual funds.

Sure, the funds earn them management fees, and have helped introduce them to thousands of new customers.

But it turns out that many of those customers aren't showing any interest in the firms' other wares.

Therein lies the problem. Individual brokers dealing with the public, whose paychecks depend on commission earnings, derive no commissions from selling money funds.

The Wall Street Journal reported recently that some brokers at Merrill Lynch were actively discouraging customers who were interested only in Merrill's money funds, suggesting to them that if they were looking for a bank, they should go to a bank.

"That story could just as easily have been written about our firm," says an executive of one Merrill Lynch competitor.

Indeed, many major firms are now said to be considering steps to deal with the complaints of their sales force by "repackaging" their money funds. Some of the possibilities: imposing fees for opening new accounts, or raising the minimum initial investments.

If such measures are indeed taken, the small saver won't lack for other places to turn. There are numerous money funds operated by mutual-fund organizations, with minimum investments generally of $1,000 or $2,500, and a few with even less than that.

To judge by the number of their ads in the financial pages, many of these funds are just as eager as ever for new customers.

Meanwhile, banks and credit-card organizations are readying vehicles to compete with the money funds. Visa USA, for example, recently announced a plan, scheduled to begin operating later this year, that would allow cardholders to earn money-market interest.

So all the evidence suggests that the public will continue to have a wide range of choices.

Still, the situation points up a problem that is about as old as Wall Street itself — the potential conflict of interest created by the compensation system for brokers.

The broker is supposed to be able to help decide what types of investments and strategies are best suited to each individual. But, being human, the broker has a natural inclination to want to push the products that earn him the biggest commissions.

So the customers he is likely to be fondest of are the heavy traders — the options and commodity speculators, the stock-market players who like to jump in and out looking for fast profits.

This does not make every broker a rapacious, evil person. There are, it is reliably reported, many honest, God-fearing brokers out there serving small-time investors with patience and competence.

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

On behalf of the Senior Citizens' Center and senior participants I would like to express our deep felt gratitude to our community for the fantastic support given to our recent "MAY DAY" fund-raising project.

"May Day" surpassed all expectations and brought the center in excess of $18,000. Monies profited from our day will be applied to the center's total operating budget. Each year the center is obligated to raise approximtely 30 percent of its total budget. With President Reagan's proposed federal budget cuts, it is not known at this time to what extent our Senior Center in Snyder may be affected. However, even if such a cut should be felt on our level, you, the community, have made it possible for your Senior Center to continue its present quality of service to the 1,000 senior citizens it serves in Scurry County for another year and possibly to expand our services. Services at the center include a nutritious noon meal Monday though Friday, Experience Unlimited program, Outreach program, Information and Referral, Transportation, home-delivered meals to shut-ins, along with various forms of recreation programs.

Once again, THANK YOU Snyder and Scurry County for your support of the "home away from home" for many of your elder citizens. Your contributed support is heart-warming and deeply appreciated.

WASHINGTON (NEA) —This city's journalists, quite content with their traditional role of reporting on others' trials and tribulations, now find themselves in the uncomfortable position of having their work scrutinized by outsiders.

Recent weeks have seen the publication of no fewer than three major books examining, analyzing and criticizing the techniques, impact, strength and weaknesses of the nation's largest and most influential press corps.

Two of those volumes offer fascinating clinical studies of journalism as currently practiced in this capital. They are "Portraying the President: The White House and the News Media," by Michael Baruch Grossman and Martha Joynt Kumar, and "Newsworks: The Washington Reporters," by Stephen Hess.

The third book is by far the most compelling, however, because its authors' critique of the news media (they emphasize coverage of the federal government and national politics but also discuss foreign and local reporting) is advanced in explicit and provocative arguments.

"Media Power Politics," by David L. Paletz and Robert M. Entman, identifies five areas in which news-gathering organizations exert great influence over public opinion: "They stabilize prevailing opinions, set priorities, elevate events and issues, sometimes change opinions and ultimately limit options."

But have the news media been willing to accept responsibility consonant with the vast power that has accrued to them? Paletz and Entman, both members of the faculty at Duke University, answer that question with a resounding "no."

They offer compelling evidence to support their position that "the media tend to limit the ability of mass citizens to comprehend and respond intelligently to the political events, issues and power holders that compose the news — to wield power successfully."

In campaigns for public office, for example, the news media invariably subordinate reporting on issues to coverage of political strategy, poll results and presumably tell who is winning the "horse race" and controversy — sometimes legitimate and sometimes artificially stimulated.

"The Washington world perceived by many reporters is one of ambition and elections in which policy is often at best an expedient," the authors add. "The reasons for disagreement over the substance of (congressional) legislation are rarely laid to conflicting versions of the public interest."

Like others who have examined the news media's relationship with major institutions in our society, the authors conclude that journalists (and their work) are regularly manipulated by those wealthy or powerful enough to develop and implement elaborate public relations strategies.

But the book goes beyond merely describing that phenomenon, arguing effectively that it insulates the society's most elite individuals and organizations from the legitimate criticism that presumably would follow comprehensive scrutiny.

Moreover, the authors note that there is a fundamental imbalance produced by the almost total lack of access to the news media on the part of the vast majority of the nation's citizens, many of them with legitimate causes, proposals or grievances that merit broad circulation.

The most notable exception to that rule occurs when some segment of the population becomes so frustrated and angry that its members publicly rebel by protesting, demonstrating or (on limited occasions) rioting.

"Dramatic, disruptive, controversial events are news," the authors explain. "Thus, dissident and unconventional voices are sometimes heard. But they are usually treated in a way which deprives them of their eloquence and force" and in a manner that avoids explaining the issues or weighing the equities involved.

"The major consequences of media depiction are frustration, misdirected anger and apathy, not insight and political activism," the authors conclude. "The structure of power persists, sporadically tarnished but fundamentally unchallenged."

Husband's friend is a creep

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — My husband's best friend is a real creep with women. He has left a long trail of broken hearts behind him and, in fact, he was so rough on one woman that she became a lesbian.

He is very friendly to me but I just can't be nice to him because of what I know about his past relationships.

The problem is that I have to work with him because he and my husband own a store and I help out from time to time.

What should I do?

DEAR READER — Although his behavior sounds far from admirable, I think you are viewing this in a simplistic way because you are over-identifying with the women involved.

You consider him to be the bad guy, solely responsible for what happened in all these relationships. But what about the women who allowed themselves to be hurt?

I really think you are going too far when you hold him totally accountable for the one woman you mention who turned to lesbianism after her encounter with him. Isn't it possible that she might have been a latent homosexual before she met him? Perhaps she was drawn to a rejecting and manipulative man in order to justify her desire to outwardly change her sexual orientation.

It's possible your negative feelings really stem from your fear that he may influence your husband in his treatment of women. After all, they are best friends.

Rachel Jackson, wife of President Andrew Jackson, at the advice of her doctor relieved her bronchial condition by smoking a corncob pipe.

I get nothing out of these affairs. I can't for the life of me understand why I deliberately get myself into such miserable situations that offer no sexual fulfillment, knowing if I'm caught I'll lose my husband and children and everything that is dear to me.

Men Quit Smoking More Than Women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women find it harder to quit smoking than men, but for the first time in 15 years, less than 30 percent of the nation's adult women are reaching for cigarettes, new government statistics show.

Of the 8 million men and 8 million women who tried to give up cigarettes last year, 24 percent of the men succeeded compared to 18 percent of the women, according to data compiled in the 1980 National Health Interview Survey. Officials at the Department of Health and Human Services could offer no reason for the disparity.

The interview survey estimated that 3.5 million persons succeeded in quitting smoking in 1980. A total of 16.3 million tried to give up the habit.

The National Center for Health Statistics, which conducted the survey, said the total number of adult Americans who smoke dropped from 33.7 percent of the population in 1978 to 32.6 percent in 1980.

Less than 29 percent of women over 16 now smoke cigarettes compared with 30.4 percent in 1978, John Pinney, director of the Office of Smoking and Health, said Tuesday.

Smokers now make up 36.7 percent of the adult male population compared with 34.7 percent in 1978.

There were 100,000 more smokers in 1980 than the 52.3 million in 1978, but the adult population increased by 5.6 million people, to 160.8 million, during the same period.

Dr. Joanne Luoto, the Office of Smoking and Health's medical staff director, said the figures show for the first time since 1966 that the number of women who smoke fell below 30 percent of the female population.

The Professor ruffed the second heart and cashed his ace and king of trumps. Then he led a low club toward dummy's jack.

West rose with his king and led a diamond, but the Prof was home free. He was able to discard dummy's low diamonds on two good clubs and wind up with just three losing tricks.

"Your play worked," said the student, "But it would have cost you the contract if East had held both the ace of diamonds and king of clubs, or could you have pulled some other rabbit out of your hat?"

"There was no way for me to lose the contract," replied the Prof. "West needed the king of clubs or ace of diamonds for his opening bid. East needed one of those cards for his raise. Thus, they were going to be split. My only real problem was whether or not I should have played for an overtrick. If West held the ace of diamonds I could lead diamonds toward dummy and finesse for the king of clubs in the East hand and make five odd."

The game was duplicate, but the Prof had been wise not to think about the overtrick. Only a few South players were in four spades so that the important declarer consideration was to make sure of the contract.

Plastic Is Number 1

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1979, more plastic than steel was produced in the United States on a volume basis, according to the Society of the Plastics Industry.

If ranked by volume, plastic is now the number one material in the U.S., says SPI.

Steel always ran ahead of plastic in volume, and it still does in tonnage. But in 1979, 1,040 billion cubic inches of plastic were produced (41.6 billion pounds). During the same year, steel output was 940 billion cubic inches (272 billion pounds).

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Twins and blood types

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is it possible for two people with type O positive blood to have a child with AB positive blood? What blood type will a child have if both parents are type A? Is it possible for identical twins to have different blood types? My mother was told at birth that my twin and I were identical but we look entirely different.

DEAR READER — All of us have two genes that can influence our blood type. One comes from each parent. There are two strong genes, A and B. The O gene is weak and will not affect your blood type unless you have no A or B genes.

If both parents are type O, they have no A or B genes and all their children will be type O. Both parents have two O genes in that case and do not have an A or B gene to transmit.

If both parents are type A it could mean that either or both have one A gene and one O gene. They would still type out as type A. These parents can have both type A and type O offsprings.

If one parent has type A (with AO paired genes) and the other type B (with BO paired genes), the possible pairs for offsprings would be for type A, type B, type AB or type O.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-4, Blood Type, Rh Factor and Transfusions, which contains a chart you can use. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now, identical twins have the same genes. The single ovum with its full complement of genes from the mother and father divides, producing two identical genetic twins. So they will have the same blood type. Fraternal twins may have, and usually do have, different genes just as other brothers and sisters do. Perhaps you are one of fraternal twins. It is not too uncommon for some brothers and sisters to look and act entirely different. And don't be so sure you know your parents' blood type. There are lots of laboratory errors in this world. That is why doctors often repeat tests when something doesn't fit for any number of laboratory tests done for their patients.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Is there such a thing as "too much vitamins?" I am a good eater and I take a daily multiple vitamin pill that contains vitamin E, C and B complex. Is this be too many and can my body become dependent on the vitamins?

DEAR READER — In reasonable amounts — two or three times the Recommended Daily Allowance — you should have no problems with the water soluble vitamins. This includes the B vitamins and vitamin C. The excess is eliminated through your kidneys.

But your body can adjust to high levels of vitamins; taking large doses of vitamin C is a good example. If you do and stop the extra vitamin C suddenly, your body will have a temporary vitamin C deficiency, producing a scurvy-like reaction. For that reason people popping lots of vitamin C should decrease the dosage gradually rather than stopping suddenly.

Large doses of niacin, one of the B vitamins, can cause flushing and in some people can cause liver damage.

The fat soluble vitamins, A, D, K and E, are not rapidly eliminated. Large doses of A and D can be harmful. Some authorities have described fatigue and vague symptoms to large intakes of vitamin E also, but this is less well founded.

Judge Orders Man To Study

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A 28-year-old man who told his hostages in a 1½-hour siege that illiteracy made him unable to support his family has been sentenced by a judge to learn reading and writing.

Richard L. Gates Jr. was sentenced Tuesday to 10 years probation on condition that he takes courses, seeks psychiatric treatment and gets financial counseling.

He pleaded guilty to charges of burglary, attempted robbery, theft and recklessly endangering another person in connection with the November incident, in which he held seven people hostage in a home.

Dodson House Work Advancing

A progress report on the Dodson House and a reminder that Texas will celebrate its sesquicentennial in 1986 were heard at Wednesday's meeting of the Scurry County Historical Commission.

A furnishings committee for the Dodson House will meet Monday to look over some items which may be used to furnish a bedroom and kitchen in keeping with the period in which the house was built. Those would be "look-in" rooms only, while the other rooms of the house would be furnished for use as a hospitality and tourist center.

Jean Everett, commission chairman, appointed Drew Bullard to chair a committee to check on the condition of historical markers erected throughout the county. Commission members also voted to work toward securing a marker for the old jail building on College Ave. Study is underway on a dugout marker and several persons who were born and lived in dugouts have been contacted.

The Scurry County Historical Commission received the Distinguished Service Award from the state for its work last year and each member will be given a certificate commemorating the award. Mrs. Everett expressed the thanks of the commission to Paul Sizemore, Ernest Sears, and Dr. Harry Krenek, commission members, for their efforts in moving the Dodson House to its new site near the coliseum, and to the Jaycees and Phi Theta Kappa members from Western Texas College for their assistance.

The Dodson House, believed to be the oldest structure remaining in the county, was built in 1883 and was given to Historic Scurry County, Inc., by First Federal Savings and Loan Association with the provision that it be moved to make way for a new office building. Persons who would like to help with the restoration are invited to send donations to Historic Scurry County in care of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. Historic Scurry County is a non-profit organization and donations are tax deductible.

Oil Port Test Is Successful

GRAND ISLE, La. (AP) — Oil companies that spent nearly $700 million to build the nation's only offshore oil port say its first test has so far been successful.

The Louisiana Offshore Oil Port was built to provide an unloading point for supertankers that hold more economically than small ships but are too big to reach inland ports.

A 1,074-foot Texaco tanker began emptying its $48 million cargo at the offshore port Wednesday and pumping continued Thursday, the day that the LOOP officially opened. Another test is due in May. When complete, officials of the five companies estimate the port, with a capacity of 1.4 million barrels, can handle about 330 ships a year.

Taylor's Debut Is A Letdown

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — She triumphed over a bad cold that caused cancellation of a Wedneday matinee preview. But sadly, Elizabeth Taylor isn't triumphant in her much-ballyhooed Broadway debut as the star of "The Little Foxes."

She opened Thursday night in this revival of Lillian Hellman's 1939 tale of the hateful, rapicious Hubbard family, playing Regina Giddens, the most ruthless of them all.

Hers was a Hollywood-style premiere with all the trimmings — celebrities galore inside and two spotlights, a crowd of about 200 and some 16 crowd-control cops outside the packed Martin Beck Theatre.

Solid tribute to her drawing power as a star, a legend. All the more sad, then, that here she seems more a vaguely comic figure of wickedness than a truly evil, power-hungry, money-mad Southern belle.

The real star here is Maureen Stapleton, who as her sweet, ill-treated sister-in-law, Birdie, offers a brilliant, wholly believeable display of sweetness, innocence and pathos that just about steals the show.

Of course, it doesn't help Miss Taylor that "Foxes," set in 1900 in the Deep South and once considered a stinging attack on capitalism, doesn't wear its years well, at least in this production.

Sure, Regina and her rotten, hard-drinking brother, Benjamin (Anthony Zerbe) still do mighty battle over a family fortune that would markedly improve should a business deal with a Northern industrialist go through in their hometown.

And their weak but equally predatory brother, Oscar (Joe Ponazecki) again sides with his brother in the tribal war, as does his spineless, wayward and crooked banker son, Leo (Dennis Christopher).

Again, she's willing to marry off her pure, honest 17-year-old daughter, Alexandra (Ann Talman) to Leo — much to the daughter's disgust — to keep the family fortune within this terrible clan.

And again she cooly drives her invalid husband (Tom Talmadge) to his death by calmly refusing him medicine he needs to save his life — after he discovers fiscal perfidy on the part of her brothers.

Oh yes, she still blackmails the brothers to again emerge triumphant, guilt-ridden and deserted by her daughter. It's tribal corruption and family feuding in the grand Southern style, to be sure.

But this proceeding, directed by Austin Pendleton, who has done much better, isn't powerful drama. It seems more the kind of melodrama where you boo the villainess and cheer the heroes (in this case Regina's feisty, dying husband and her daughter).

Miss Taylor shows guts in tackling it and her name alone has built a heavy box-office advance. But after all the buildup, Elizabeth Taylor' Broadway debut in "The Little Foxes" is a letdown.

INFLATION

tibuted to the first increase in food prices since last November.

With the April increase, the Producer Price Index for finished goods stood at 267.7, which means that a basket of goods that cost $100 in 1967 now costs $267.70.

In its unemployment report, the government said the number of people holding jobs increased by 564,000 during April to 99 million, while the number of jobless Americans edged down by 18,000 to 7.7 million.

The nation's jobless rate has shown little change since last spring, when it jumped from 6.3 percent to 7.6 percent.

Most economists are predicting a modest rise in the rate later this year because of an anticipated slowdown in economic activity. The slowdown may be hastened by recent jumps in interest rates.

Two Students At State UIL

Snyder High School has two students in individual contests as well as its one-act play cast and crew in Austin to compete in University Interscholastic League academic and literary events.

Jackie Pylant is competing in typewriting and Chip May is entered in newswriting.

The SHS one-act play is scheduled to be presented at about 8 p. m. tonight.

All of those competing in the state meet qualified in the regional meet two weeks ago in Odessa.

Bush Says Cuba Worst Offender

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush, in the administration's harshest attack on Cuba, said today the Castro regime was "the worst offender of human rights in this hemisphere."

He said that "whatever the faults" of governments in Central and South America in the area of human rights, "the Castro communist alternative would condemn the people of those regions to the most repressive form of government."

The vice president made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery at Duquesne University in Pittsburgh.

"The Castro regime is a perfect minuscule model of its sponsor and master, the Soviet government," the vice president said. "And the revolution they seek to export is not a revolution of freedom and human dignity, it is a revolution of tyranny and the brutal repression of human rights — including the precious right to worship one's God, the very foundation of Western civilization and culture."

"When was the last time Cuba had a free election?" the vice president asked. "And if the people of Cuba are, as Fidel Castro claims, happy in the communist paradise he has created, why is he afraid to risk such a free election, an election he promised when he took power 22 years ago?"

"To condemn the repressive policies of any nation in Central America, without recognizing that the worst offender of human rights in this hemisphere is Russia's satellite in Havana isn't simply hypocrisy, it is short-sighted foreign policy that ill serves the cause of peace and freedom," Bush said.

The vice president said that the election of President Reagan last November was a "mandate for an even-handed, consistent approach to the question of human rights."

The 1980 report by Amnesty International, the London-based human rights organization, said there were about 250 long-term political prisoners in Cuba, some held since the Cuban revolution.

However, the Amnesty report contains no allegation that the Cuban government engages in torture or murder of political opponents.

Fish Fry Set By Explorers

Snyder High School Explorer Post 242 will be hosting its second annual fish fry Saturday, May 9. Serving will begin at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Tickets for the all-you-can-eat affair are $4 for adults and $2 for those 12 years and under. There will be door prizes and an auction of homemade pies, cakes, cookies, etc., at the conclusion of the meal.

The club member who sells the most tickets to the meal will be awarded a prize. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Money raised from the fish fry will help pay for the club's summer float trip down the Guadalupe river.

Mexico Wanted Sale A Secret

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States made no announcement of its sale of 12 F-5 jet fighters to Mexico late last year because the Mexican government wanted the $115 million deal kept secret, according to Pentagon sources.

Texans Play Key Role In House Budget Vote

By CHARLES RICHARDS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The voting began at 4:39 p.m., and the big cheer went up six minutes later when the 216th "aye" vote went up on the electronic scoreboard in the U.S. House of Representatives chamber.

President Reagan — with the help of a coalition of conservative Democrats — had won his first major legislative battle.

But Thursday's 253-176 victory on the president's blueprint for economic recovery was also a major triumph for the Conservative Democratic Forum, a band of 47 Democrats, mostly from the South, established only months ago.

"It surprised me, the final margin," said Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, the president of the group that delivered 38 votes to the solid bloc of 190 Republicans — a swing more than enough to overcome the Democrats' 51-vote edge in the House.

The swing of 38 votes by the conservative Democrats was about what Stenholm and many of his associates were predicting, but they were pleased to see 25 other Democrats go with them.

"I think it was a significant vote in that we did change the fiscal direction of the government," added Stenholm, a cotton farmer who came to Congress in 1979.

"But this was the easiest vote we'll have," he said, referring to the battles ahead in earmarking appropriated funds to the programs recommended by the president. "It was just the beginning, but it was a good beginning."

Texans played a significant part in the vote. Of the 63 Democrats nationwide who voted for the bipartisan Gramm-Latta bill endorsed by Reagan, nine were from Texas, including all eight of the state's CDF members.

Rep. Phil Gramm, D-College Station, was swarmed by newsmen and cameramen from all three networks after the bill he co-sponsored ran up its 77-vote margin.

The Democratic leadership, including Majority Leader Jim Wright of Fort Worth, had tried to persuade Democrats to support its budget package, which Wright said gave Reagan 75 percent of what he asked in the way of spending cuts.

The Gramm-Latta bill, which is similar to the Senate version, differed from the Democratic leadership bill in its severe cuts to social programs, including elimination of several of them.

Repeatedly, Democrats rose during six days of floor debate to condemn the administration proposal as one which benefits the rich at the expense of the poor.

"Time and again we've heard this depicted as detrimental to the poor and the elderly, but surely with $419 billion we'll be able to find a bipartisan effort to meet the needs of the poor and needy," Stenholm said. "I believe we can do that."

The Gramm-Latta bill provides total spending of $689 billion, including $270 billion for defense and in interest payments, leaving $419 billion for anything else.

Joining the eight conservative Texas Democrats in voting for the bill was Rep. Charles Wilson, D-Lufkin, who said he discovered during a trip to his district during the Easter recess that his constituents wanted Congress to let the president see if his plan would work.

Wright said the Gramm-Latta bill won so handily because many lawmakers came to that identical conclusion.

Jackson Showing Signs Of Aging

STONE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (AP) — Stonewall Jackson is showing his age.

A likeness of the Confederate general carved in the side of Stone Mountain now has a dark line of mold running along its neck and nose, making it appear that the granite has cracked. The carvings of Gen. Robert E. Lee, Jackson and Confederate President Jefferson Davis were dedicated in 1970 and covered with silicone. The mold has grown where the silicone wore off, says George Willis, manager of the state Stone Mountain Park.

"It's not very pretty right now, but it's not serious," Willis said, adding a new coat of silicone probably would cost $100,000.

The annual loss from insects and disease in all United States forests equals 2.4 billion cubic feet of timber.

Chamber Drive Gets Underway

Workers in a Snyder Chamber of Commerce membership drive hit the streets this morning as they went into competition with their counterparts in Lamesa and Big Spring.

The chamber organizations in the three neighboring cities will be locked in a contest through May 19. The group signing up the most new members during that period will be honored by the other two groups with a steak dinner in the winners' home town.

Late this morning, 16 workers had gone out to contact 96 prospective members, Bill Warner, manager of the Snyder chamber, reported.

"We have cards here for about 160 more prospects," said Warner. Other workers were expected to join the drive here later today and during the coming week.

Officials of the chambers in the three competing cities made arrangements several days ago to hold the contest. They plan to make their first progress reports Monday. Staff members of the three are scheduled to exchange figures in a call set for 10:30 a. m.

Weather Permitting....

Tiger 9 To Try 'Stangs Tonight

Fingers were crossed in hopes that overcast skies this morning would not let loose with a downpour, possibly causing officials to postpone tonight's District 2-AAAA baseball game here between Snyder and Andrews high schools.

The second-round contest is scheduled for 7:30 at Moffett Field.

SHS athletic director John Gary said the field would be usable despite last night's brief but heavy rain, if no more showers occurred.

Weather has already stopped several Tiger games this season, including their first-round contest with Pecos, which was finally cancelled because Snyder had already won the round.

Tonight's game is expected to bring Gerald Don Hicks, 3-2-1, to the mound for Snyder and Jamie Price atop the hill for the Mustangs - the same matchup used when the Tigers edged the Mustangs 5-3 in Andrews back on April 10.

"They didn't pitch Price against Monahans earlier in the week (a 14-2 loss) so they must be saving him for us, trying to knock us off," said Snyder Coach Albert Lewis. "He's a tough one."

Price's record was unavailable, but he's been pegged for all-district honors since early in the season. He held the Tigers to one run on 10 hits through six innings in their previous meeting, until Snyder overcame a 3-1 lead with five seventh-inning hits.

Hicks' last decision came against Andrews and he did a stellar job, striking out nine batters, walking only one and allowing six hits over seven innings.

Along with his pitching, Snyder hopes to counter the Mustangs with a .357 batting average - the primary strength of the Tigers this season. In fact, with a frequently used nine, the hosts are hitting .379.

Lewis' bunch has come up with 29 home runs in just 25 games and is averaging 10.36 hits a contest to its opponents' 5.6.

Knepper, Astros Shut Out Chicago Cubs, 6-0

CHICAGO (AP) - The Houston Astros have shown Bob Knepper a few things about playing baseball, and the left-hander acquired from the San Francisco Giants is showing the Astros a few things about pitching.

Although Knepper was without his good fastball Thursday, he had enough to hurl Houston to a 6-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs as he effectively scattered six hits, struck out five and walked only two.

It was his third victory of the season since going to Houston in a trade for third baseman Enos Cabell last winter, and all three have been shutouts.

Knepper, who soon will be 27, hurled successive 1-0 shutouts against Los Angeles and Cincinnati but was involved in a non-decision start against Pittsburgh before blanking the Cubs.

"The defense certainly helps a pitcher," said Knepper in assessing his new teammates. "And the overall attitude of the team is positive. It's contagious. You might fall behind, but the team never quits. They're always battling."

Knepper also felt his pitching has been a positive factor toward the Astros' recent surge, which includes nine victories in the last 11 games and an 8-2 record on the current road trip, which will end with a four-game set in Cincinnati.

The Astros got their early lead by jumping on starter Randy Martz, 1-1, for two runs in each of the first two innings before Ken Kravec came in and put a halt to things.

A walk to Terry Puhl, singles by Craig Reynolds and Danny Heep and a sacrifice fly by Jose Cruz gave the Astros a pair in the first inning.

Knepper singled to open a two-run second, which included a pair of walks, another sacrifice fly by Cruz and a run-scoring single by Art Howe.

Rangers Rally To Defeat Sox

ARLINGTON (AP) - In the first 22 games of this season, the Chicago White Sox had been charged with 18 errors, which put them about in the middle of the American League statistically. But after 23 games, the Sox have collected 22 errors, three of them in one inning.

That was the eighth inning of Thursday night's 9-4 loss to the Texas Rangers, who took advantage of the three miscues for seven runs, four of them unearned.

It gave the Rangers their first sweep of a series with Chicago since 1976.

"The errors they made were on real tough plays," said Rangers outfielder Leon Roberts, who scored the first run in the eighth inning outburst. "It's not like they caved in."

Roberts opened the inning with a single and was moving on the pitch when John Grubb laid down a bunt to advance Roberts to second. But Chicago relief pitcher Ed Farmer was not able to field it cleanly.

"The ball rolled into a little hole and fell away from me," said Farmer, 0-2. "I couldn't grab it good and I had to hurry the throw."

He threw it into right field. Roberts charged around third and headed for home where he collided with Chicago catcher Carlton Fisk.

Roberts bowled Fisk over and scored, Harold Baines' throw from the outfield skipped into the Chicago dugout and a hard running Grubb - who scored three runs for Texas - came home too.

That gave Texas a 4-3 lead with no outs and the damage had just begun.

Jim Sundberg singled, Mark Wagner doubled and Bump Wills drove them both in with a single.

Wills stole second, Al Oliver walked, both players moved up on an infield out and scored on a single by Bill Stein.

To complete the scoring, Stein crossed the plate when Chicago third baseman Jim Morrison booted a ground ball by Roberts, who was batting for the second time in the inning.

Chicago had taken the lead on Baines' bases-loaded triple in the sixth that scored Tony Bernazard, Greg Luzinski and Lamar Johnson.

Bob Babcock, 1-0, won the game in relief of Jon Matlack.

Request Nixed

MADRID (AP) - Soccer's ruling body rejected the North American Soccer League's request to change any playing rules and warned that the NASL would be suspended from official recognition if it did not apply the international regulations.

Rockets Claim Second Game

BOSTON (AP) - The Boston Celtics, having lost the battle against overconfidence, are a step closer to losing the war against the Houston Rockets.

The dominant feeling among observers was that the contest for the National Basketball Association title would be no contest. Rarely has there been such a disparity in the records of the final combatants.

The Celtics were 62-20 in the regular season. The Rockets were 40-42. Going into Thursday night's second game of the championship series, Houston had lost its last 14 games against the Celtics and was 3-31 in Boston.

Like many others, the Celtics apparently expected the series to be brief - until Thursday night.

Showing strong defense in the last half of the fourth quarter and capitalizing on sloppy Celtic play, the Rockets rallied from a seven-point deficit in the final 7:09 and won 92-90 to even the best-of-seven series at one game apiece.

"We just played a very poor basketball game. It's a demonstration of what guys do when they get a big head," said Boston forward Cedric Maxwell.

The Rockets didn't win their eighth post-season road game, a playoff record, simply because Boston played poorly. The brilliance of Houston center Moses Malone, coming off a mediocre opening performance, had a lot to do with the victory.

Malone had 13 points and 15 rebounds in the Celtics' 98-95 victory Tuesday night but came back with 31 points and 15 rebounds Thursday night. After Boston took an 82-75 lead with 7:09 to go, Malone scored seven points, blocked two shots and stole a pass.

Larry Bird led Boston with 19 points and, for the second straight game, grabbed 21 rebounds. He also had five of Boston's 22 turnovers. The Celtics had 19 in the first game.

Until Thursday night, Boston had won all 29 games this season in which it had held its opponent below 100 points.

Pair Share Lead In Nelson Classic

DALLAS (AP) - Tom Watson, trying to capture his fourth consecutive Byron Nelson Golf Classic over a course where he is a dues-paying member, shot a 4-under-par 66 Thursday, but had to share first-round honors with 23-year-old Tim Norris, a rookie who has won only $1,922.

Watson, seeking to equal Walter Hagen's record as the only player to win the same tournament four consecutive times, got off to a blazing start over the Par 70 Preston Trail Golf Club by making birdie on three of the first four holes.

He birdied two of the first three holes on the back nine after turning in 32 but suffered his only bogey of the day when he bunkered his second shot on the 428-yard par 4 No. 16.

Norris, who attended Fresno State and has a PGA Tour high finish of 41st at the Doral Open, fashioned fine iron play into six birdies that were offset by two bogeys.
