Ezell-Key expands feed production capability

Facilities at the Ezell-Key feed plant east of Snyder have undergone a sizeable expansion this harvest season — part of an expanded marketing effort by the Scurry County farm and ranch operation.

John Jarrell, Ezell-Key vice president and general manager, says the addition to the facility is in part response to what is seen as a farming trend for the area — more farm storage of grain.

Due to the nationwide surplus of cotton, Jarrell said the feeling is that county farmers will want the alternative sorghum or grain sorghum or Thanksgiving.

I'm with an expanison he's had cake and feed the st pellet sales in cattle raising areas south of Snyder, Jarrell said the company needed increased storage areas.

This will serve the double needs of increasing plant production as well as accomodating area farmers and the projected stepped up planting of grain crops.

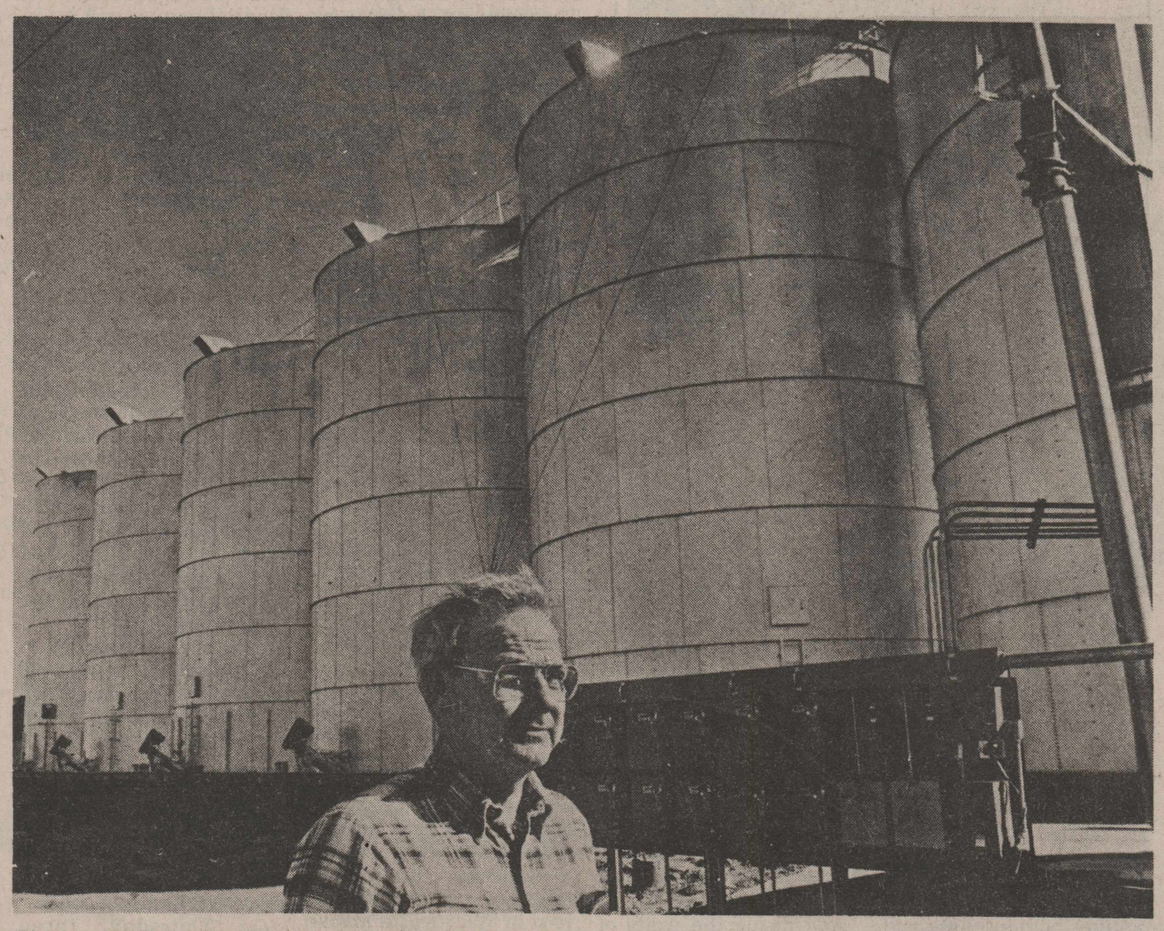

By providing a nearby marketplace where this grain may be sold — eliminating the "middle" costs of transportation — Jarrell said Ezell-Key will be able to offer competitive purchase prices.

The recent plant expansion at Ezell-Key is projected to increase the feed plant's production capabilities from 120 tons to 160 tons of feed cake per 10-hour shift.

The storage expansion — which has nearly doubled the plant's previous capacity — involves the addition of six metal storage tanks. To feed these tanks, a bucket conveyor-type "elevator" has been added plus a new grain dumping pit.

Each tank measures some 32 ft. in diameter and stands 48 ft. tall. The storage capability for all

The agreement was announced at a joint news conference in Damascus by Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Saud al-Faisal and his Syrian counterpart, Abdul-Halim Khaddam.

The accord, read to reporters by Khaddam, calls for a permanent cease-fire in and around Tripoli, a negotiated settlement of the PLO's internal differences and departure of all Palestinian fighters from the Tripoli area.

Prior to the announcement, there was a 90-minute exchange of mortar and machine gun fire between the rival forces in Tripoli which Arafat's aides described as "probing attacks" by the rebels to test loyalist defenses in the city.

Shells fell in a seaside shantytown and the Azmi commercial district during the exchanges. One or two shells landed in the city center and the harbor.

Arafat had been reported ready to bow to the rebels' demands and leave his last Middle East stronghold to avert a bloodbath, provided he got sufficient guarantees for the safety of loyalists and local militia allies he would leave behind.

In Beirut, 50 miles south of Tripoli, warplanes flew low runs over the city early today as Lebanese troops and Shiite Moslem militiamen battled near the Marine base at the international airport.

Marine spokesman Maj. Robert Jordan said three shots were fired into the Marine base but caused no casualties.

To missile buildup...

Response is low key

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — President Reagan, dismayed by Moscow's announcement to retaliate against the United States for deploying new missiles in western Europe, is keeping his response low key in an apparent effort to prod the Soviets back to the bargaining table.

The Soviet Union has been threatening since March to respond to the new U.S. missiles in Europe with new deployments of its own close to the United States, but the questions of where and how remained unanswered.

On Thursday, Soviet President Yuri V. Andropov announced that the Soviet Union will increase its nuclear weapons at sea, at home and in Eastern Europe.

Reagan's muted reaction to the decision was made in a written statement issued soon after the Soviet news agency Tass relayed Andropov's statement.

"We can only be dismayed at this Soviet statement," said Reagan, who is spending a five-day vacation out of public view at his ranch in the Santa Ynez Mountains.

He said Andropov's statement was "at sharp variance with the stated wish of the Soviet Union that an agreement be negotiated" to limit medium range nuclear weapons in Europe.

"While we are dismayed, we are determined to renew our efforts to entirely do away with the land-based intermediate range nuclear missile systems," said the president. "We continue to seek negotiations in good faith."

Reagan was informed of Andropov's statement in a telephone call from his national security adviser, Robert C. McFarlane, according to deputy White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater.

Andropov said the Soviet Union considers it impossible to continue negotiating with the United States in Geneva because of NATO's decision to deploy U.S. Pershing 2 and cruise missiles in western Europe.

In March, Georgi Arbatov, director of the Soviet U.S.A.-Canada Institute, said in an interview in Pravda, the Communist Party newspaper, that the United States and Soviet Union were roughly equal in missiles and should stay that way.

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Daily Record, says on the American scene that Thanksgiving is his favorite.

"It's basically a very simple one-day break in a busy schedule when a person can remain at home, be close to family, piddle around the house, watch a little football and reflect on the many things to be thankful for.

"We don't know of anyone who can't find real joy and happiness in such a day as this...

"It's distinctly and truly an American holiday with its beginnings many years ago in New England. The pilgrims and their hardships, far beyond that even we might comprehend, but they paused for a feat of Thanksgiving to express their thanks for survival and for the meager possessions they had.

"Thanksgiving has grown over the years. It hasn't been moved to Monday by the federal government, it hasn't been declared a three-day holiday, it hasn't been tampered with, it has simply remained Thanksgiving Day."

Happy Thanksgiving!

Department's fire runs increase in city, county

The number of fire runs were up substantially for both calls inside and outside the city limits of Snyder during the past 12-month period, fire officials report.

The number of either house or business fires, however, remained essentially the same.

The reporting period involves the City of Snyder's fiscal year, which runs Oct. 1 through Sept. 30. During this period, the fire department answered a total of 426 fire calls as compared to 302 for the previous 12-month period.

This is broken down into 216 inside the city limits and 210 to rural Scurry County. Comparative figures for the previous year were 157 and 145 respectively.

For fire calls inside the city, eight categories are noted. With last year's corresponding total in parenthesis, these included: house, 15 (19); mercantile, 3 (1); vehicles, 29 (28); trash, 4 (16); grass, 38 (17); smoke scares, 15 (21); public service, 66 (41); and miscellaneous, 8 (46).

Rural fire runs divided by precincts include:

—Pct. 1 (northeast Scurry County), a total of 51. These included: house, 2; vehicles, 1; trash, 1; grass, 27; smoke scares, 6; public service, 4; miscellaneous, 7; oil field, 2; and rescue, 1.

—Pct. 2 (northwest Scurry County), a total of 41. These included: house, 1; vehicles, 1; trash, 1; grass, 26; smoke scares, 1; public service, 3; miscellaneous, 6; and rescue, 2.

—Pct. 3 (southwest Scurry County), a total of 62. These included: house, 7; vehicles, 2; grass, 34; smoke scares, 5; public service, 4; miscellaneous, 2; oil field, 5; and rescue, 3.

—Pct. 4 (southeast Scurry County), a total of 56. These included: house, 5; vehicles, 3; trash, 1; grass, 29; smoke scares, 2; public service, 5; miscellaneous, 11.

Braniff to fly some routes

DALLAS (AP) — Braniff International Corp. is keeping the details of its new aircraft design under wraps — literally.

The first airplane to be repainted in preparation for the grounded airline's resumption of service is in a Dallas Love Field hanger wrapped in white paper and masking tape, Braniff spokeswoman Barbara Potter said.

But the airline has said it will scrap its multicolor fleet concept and repaint its aircraft red, white and blue when it begins operating heavily traveled routes March 1.

The airline will be back in the air with 70 to 80 flights daily from Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport and a tentative schedule that covers 20 cities.

Braniff ceased operations in May 1982 shortly before filing for protection from its creditors in federal bankruptcy court. The airline was revived by a $70 million injection from Hyatt Corp. of Chicago in a deal scheduled to be signed in mid-December.

Children suing murderer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The children of a man serving a life prison term for hiring the murder of his wife have filed a $200 million lawsuit against the wealthy businessman.

The complaint filed recently in U.S. District Court said Paul F. Leverett, an executive in a fast-food restaurant business, had an obligation to disclose to the children his involvement in the slaying of Elizabeth Leverett.

"Leverett intentionally and fraudulently suppressed and failed to disclose to plaintiffs this material fact, and plaintiffs were damaged thereby, all of which constitutes legal fraud," the suit alleges.

The lawsuit was brought by Kathleen L. Rhea and Paul F. Leverett III, both living in Texas. Ms. Rhea is Leverett's stepdaughter and the younger Leverett is the defendant's son, according to the suit.

A jury six months ago convicted Leverett, 49, of capital murder for the May 30, 1980, slaying of his wife. Prosecutors said Leverett arranged the murder so he could marry another woman.

Rickey Allen Prewitt, 23, of Weir, Miss., who testified against Leverett, was convicted of carrying out the murder for a payment of $10,000.

Striking driver is arrested

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — The FBI says it has arrested a striking Greyhound bus driver suspected of shooting at a bus and its driver on an east San Antonio street.

The 53-year-old man was being held in the Bexar County Jail after his arrest Thursday, said Bill Dalseg, special agent in charge of the San Antonio FBI office.

Federal authorities planned to file charges against the man today in a federal complaint alleging destruction of an interstate motor vehicle, Dalseg said.

Kids, mom reunited

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — A man sought in Texas since Oct. 29 for allegedly spiriting his two daughters away from their mother has been jailed following an eight-hour standoff with police who feared he might kill his 2½-year-old child.

The girl and her 11-year-old sister were reunited Thursday with their mother in Anaheim and returned to Texas Thursday morning, Sgt. Richard Zschoche said.

James Gordon Clark, 29, of the Dallas suburb of Garland, was booked in Anaheim in Orange County for assault with a deadly weapon, his pickup truck, on a police officer. He was also booked for resisting arrest and failing to yield to a police officer, Sgt. Jack Parra said.

"No one has inquired about him yet" to help post his $50,000 bail, Parra said late Thursday.

Clark was also held on a Texas warrant for investigation of child stealing, Parra said, adding that he believed the California charges would be handled before extradition proceedings would begin.

"He has threatened to kill the daughter and himself," Detective Dwain Briggs said during the incident, which began at 7 p.m. Wednesday in Anaheim near Disneyland. It ended at 3:40 a.m. Thursday about 60 miles to the east on Interstate 15 north of San Bernardino.

A .22-caliber pistol was found in the trailer behind the truck, but no weapon was found inside the truck, police said.

Natalie Clark, 2½, was unharmed and her sister Stephanie, 11, either escaped or was released by Clark when the truck stopped in traffic. She ran to waiting officers, Zschoche said.

Garland police Lt. Pat Martinkus said the Clarks have been divorced for about a month and Mrs. Clark has custody of the children. He said Clark failed to return the children to Mrs. Clark after a visit Oct. 29.

Clark called his former wife Wednesday and told her to meet him in front of Disneyland at noon Thursday, allegedly threatening to harm the children if she failed to show up, Martinkus said.

In the last five hours of the standoff, which backed up Thanksgiving traffic for miles as officers blocked the freeway, police sharpshooters ringed the area near Devore in the mountainous Cajon Pass. But officers did not rush the truck for fear Natalie would be harmed, Briggs said.

Few end up with jail time

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Justice Department sampling has found that fewer than half the people arrested on state felony charges are prosecuted and only 5 percent are sentenced to more than a year in prison.

The sampling of more than 400,000 felony arrests in four states also found that people arrested for felonies were 12 times more likely to be prosecuted in the Eastern state surveyed than in the Western one.

The department's Bureau of Justice Statistics, which released the figures Thursday, had no explanation for the wide disparity in how states deal with people arrested for felonies.

The bureau called the figures surprising, but warned against drawing broad conclusions from them and said they demonstrate the need for greater reporting on the disposition of criminal cases in the states.

The figures came from an Eastern, a Mid-Atlantic, a North-Central and a Western state. Each state reported on a different 12-month period between 1979 and 1982. Two of the states had populations below 10 million and two above that figure.

The bureau's director, Steven R. Schlesinger, said the states provided the data on the condition that they not be identified by name.

People share holiday with family, strangers

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

Millions of Americans stepped out for parades or just settled back to watch football, but Thanksgiving meals formed the holiday's centerpiece as families both intimate and impromptu gathered for the oldest of national observances.

In Massachusetts, where the hardy people of Plimoth Plantation first gave thanks for a bountiful harvest 350 years ago, the family of Marine Cpl. John L'Heureux felt especially blessed Thursday. L'Heureux, a wounded survivor of October's terrorist bombing in Beirut, was home from Lebanon for his first Thanksgiving outside a barracks in three years.

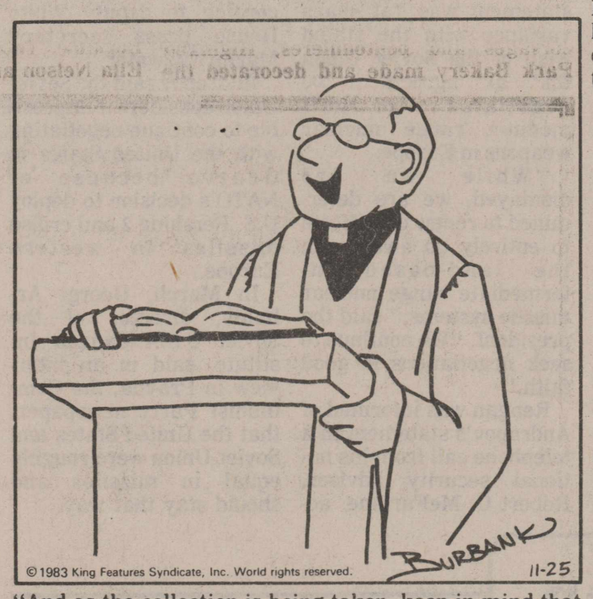

And inside the walls of the North Dakota Penitentiary, it was the biggest day of the year for more than 400 inmates whose friends and relatives came to visit, said Warden Winston Satron.

A half-million people stood in brisk winds and temperatures in the low 30s to watch Detroit's big Thanksgiving Day parade, while parents in New York hoisted tots who screamed and cheered as a helium-filled Superman, Woody Woodpecker and other favorite characters floated past in Macy's 57th annual parade.

"We're not used to this kind of weather," said a shivering Sharon Kaddyama, a hula dancer in the Mililani, Hawaii, high school band before her unit stepped off in New York's chilly drizzle.

The New Life Evangelistic Church in St. Louis served hundreds of hungry people and delivered food to an additional 2,350 families.

"And as the collection is being taken, keep in mind that the larger the offering is, the shorter the sermon will be."

Security increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move that appeared to be designed to foil any Beirut-style bombing, the Secret Service tightened security around the White House during the Thanksgiving holiday by parking seven sand-laden dump trucks at five metal-gate entrances.

White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the move was "not in response to a specific threat," but security also was tightened at the State Department six blocks away, where spokeswoman Anita Stockman said authorities were reacting to "possible bomb threats."

President Reagan and his family were at Reagan's ranch in Santa Barbara, Calif., for a five-day Thanksgiving vacation, ending Sunday.

At the State Department, five entrances were blocked by cars or vans and police cars blocked part of a street that leads to a sixth. Ms. Stockman said "extra security has been taken and will be in effect until we can evaluate this possible or potential threat." The State Department security measures were implemented Wednesday, while the trucks were moved around the White House on Thursday.

The parked trucks at the entrances to the White House grounds were the latest episode in a series of increasingly stringent security measures prompted by a late-night bomb blast at the Capitol on Nov. 7 and the attack on the Marine headquarters in Beirut. The Oct. 23 Beirut bombing, which killed 239 servicemen, occurred when a dynamite-laden truck with a suicide driver at the wheel rammed the Marine barracks.

Last week, in reaction to the Capitol bombing, guards began to use dogs to sniff all cars and trucks entering the White House grounds for explosives. Guards also searched the handbags and briefcases carried by reporters, normally exempt from such measures, in what was described as a spot check.

On Thursday, three dump trucks were parked at the southwest gate across the entrance to the closed-off street separating the White House from the Old Executive Office building next door. Those trucks were outside the fence surrounding the White House.

All the lights on the south lawn of the White House were lighted, which is unusual when the mansion is not in use.

Women smokers increase risk of heart problems

NEW YORK (AP) — In a study of heart attacks in middle-aged women, researchers have found that those who smoke are five times as likely to have heart attacks as those who don't.

Sixty-five percent of heart attacks in women under 50 could be prevented if the women gave up smoking, the researchers wrote in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

In a separate report published in the same journal, researchers said smoking reduces the blood flow to the brain, possibly increasing a smoker's chances of having a stroke.

Researchers found that women under 50 are subject to many of the heart attack risk factors identified in other groups — high blood pressure, elevated blood cholesterol and a family history of heart attacks at relatively young ages, for example.

Smoking, however, is the most prominent risk factor, according to the study conducted by Lynn Rosenberg and colleagues at the Drug Epidemiology Unit at the Boston University School of Medicine, in collaboration with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration and the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

The researchers studied 255 women under 50 who had had heart attacks and 802 women who had not. The relative risk of myocardial infarction (or heart attack caused by damage to heart muscle) rose with the amount smoked.

In women who smoked 35 or more cigarettes a day — almost two packs — the risk of heart attack was 10 times greater than in non-smoking women.

Almost 600,000 Americans suffered heart attacks from various causes in 1980, according to the most recent figures available from the American Heart Association.

Our country is not a "democracy." You will not find the word "democracy" in our Constitution, in our Declaration of Independence or in any of our several state constitutions.

Technically, the United States is a representative "Republic."

In a democracy everybody votes on everything: mob rule.

In a republic we elect men to make decisions in our behalf.

Theoretically, we elect our best men.

So...

Socially we are a democracy — "equal rights under the law."

But politically, we are a Republic.

Feast on Cardinals...

Cowboys crush St. Louis, 35-17

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Thanksgiving Day has become the Dallas Cowboys' favorite holiday, serving once again as a springboard into the National Football League playoffs.

The Cowboys rolled over the St. Louis Cardinals 35-17 Thursday and counted the following blessings:

-An 11-2 record, their fastest start since 1977.

-A 12-3-1 record on Thanksgiving Day.

-The return of the NFL's worst pass defense from the grave, including a season-high seven sacks of St. Louis quarterback Neil Lomax.

-Tony Dorsett's inspired running which placed him eighth on the all-time list. Dorsett had touchdown runs of 5 and 55 yards, and tallied 102 yards on 17 carries.

-It was Dorsett's 38th 100-yard game. Dallas has won 36 of them.

The Cowboys, who have already clinched a playoff berth, moved a half game ahead of Washington in the torrid National Conference Eastern Division race.

They don't play again for 10 days, traveling to Seattle Dec. 4. Dallas has won 14 of 15 games in its history the game AFTER Thanksgiving.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry, who has developed a hardline attitude toward his players this year, was most pleased.

"The players went about this game in a very businesslike manner, and because they did, I'm going to give them three days off," Landry said. "They've played well the last two games and the break will do them good."

Dallas gave up a 71-yard Lomax to Roy Green touchdown pass in the first period then built a 35-10 lead and coasted.

"We had a good game on defense and that's what we needed," said Landry.

Lomax had a six-yard touchdown pass to Ottis Anderson in the final seconds against a prevent defense as St. Louis dropped to 5-7-1.

Dorsett passed Larry Csonka on the all-time list with 8,153 yards.

Quarterback Danny White had an exceptional outing. He passed 15-yards to Butch Johnson for a touchdown, ran four yards for a score, and connected on 24 of 31 passes for 237 yards.

"We're in control of our own destiny now," said Dorsett. "The last two games we've come out and taken control and that's what we want going into the playoffs.

"It's just executing, simple blocking and tackling. When we do it right, we're as good or better than the rest. When we do it, we're awesome."

White's 24 completions gave him 270 for the season, breaking Roger Staubach's club record of 268 in 1979.

Sims keys Lion win

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) - As long as tailback Billy Sims continues to run like a man looking for a five-year contract, Coach Monte Clark feels his Detroit Lions have a reasonable shot at the National Football League playoffs.

"Billy is just playing like Billy Sims played for us a couple years ago," Clark said following the Lions 45-3 drubbing of the Pittsburgh Steelers on Thanksgiving. "It's super. I'm glad to see it, because he's the guy we need down the stretch."

Sims, going over 100 yards for the third successive game, gained 106 on 26 caries and scored two touchdowns as the Lions improved their record to 7-6, one-half game behind the first-place Minnesota Vikings in the NFC's Central Division.

It was the sixth victory in the past eight games for the Lions, playing catchup since stumbling to a 1-4 start this season.

The defeat left Pittsburgh 9-4 and narrowed the Steelers' lead to 1½ games over the Cleveland Browns in the AFC Central.

Bowl bound teams face upset-minded opponents

by The Associated Press

The Orange and Cotton Bowls, which boast the only two unbeaten major-college teams as their Jan. 2 hosts, are hoping to keep egg off their faces Saturday.

Top-rated 11-0 Nebraska, the Orange Bowl's Big Eight representative against fifth-ranked Miami, winds up its regular season at 7-3 Oklahoma, which can tie the Cornhuskers for conference honors. That would cool some of the national championship nonge Bowl talk which Then emanating from Chairin Florida.

announ nnerup Texas, 10- and Syrng survived five scith mora row, visits Texchine M. The Aggies are 5- 1, but 4-1-1 since inserting freshman Kevin Murray at quarterback, and the one loss in that stretch was by three points to Southern Methodist.

Meanwhile, seventh-ranked Georgia, 8-1-1 and Texas' Cotton Bowl opponent, winds up on the road at 3-7 Georgia Tech.

Naturally, the coaches with something to lose are all wary.

Tom Osborne, Nebraska: "Before the season, many people felt Oklahoma would be the favorite or the second-place team in the conference, and at one point they were even rated second in the nation."

Fred Akers, Texas: "Texas A&M is not only one of our great traditional rivals, but the Aggies are a much improved football team from the beginning of the season. Kevin Murray has given them the extra firepower they needed and their defense has been outstanding all year. Texas A&M has as much talent as anyone in the country."

And Vince Dooley, Georgia: "Georgia Tech has certainly come of age in recent weeks. They've won their last two games and in those games are averaging 40 points. They are now realizing their potential. They always seem to peak when it comes time to play Georgia. We will catch Tech at a time when they are on a roll. They can knock off a bowl-bound team."

In games Thursday night, Memphis State crushed Louisville 45-7 and Louisiana State beat Tulane 20-7.

James "Punkin" Williams rushed for two touchdowns, one a 63-yarder, to lead Memphis State and tailbacks Dalton Hilliard and Garry James each rushed for a third-quarter touchdown to lead LSU in the intra-state rivalry.

In the weekend's only other games involving the Associated Press Top Twenty, sixth-ranked SMU meets Houston in the Mirage Bowl in Tokyo, while No. 13 Alabama played at No. 15 Boston College today. SMU will meet Alabama in the Sun Bowl, while Boston College faces Notre Dame in the Liberty Bowl.

In another key game, Tennessee, which meets Maryland in the Florida Citrus Bowl, entertains Vanderbilt.

And, the traditional Army-Navy game was played today in a new setting, the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

CLASSIC BEGINS -- WTC's Dusters host the second annual Duster Classic here this evening and Saturday as teams from Prescott, Ariz., Amarillo, Big Spring, Cisco and Brenham compete. Holmes says arsenal too much for Marvis

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Marvis Frazier, with only 10 pro fights to his credit, challenges Larry Holmes, who nearly 10 years ago was a sparring partner for Frazier's father, tonight in a 12-round bout.

Holmes says he bothered Smokin' Joe Frazier with his movement and left jab when he helped the former heavyweight champion prepare for his second fight with Muhammad Ali, which he lost Jan. 28, 1974, and he feels he will be too much for Frazier's son.

"There are a lot of things I can do to you that you've never had done before," Holmes told Marvis Frazier at a pre-fight news conference. "You're going to see a lot of things coming at you that you never saw coming at you before."

"If he gets destroyed at this stage of his career it could be the end of his career, the end of his development," said Eddie Futch, Holmes' trainer who trained Joe Frazier for most of his 37 fights and who has known the 23-year-old Marvis since he was 6.

But Joe, who is his son's manager and trainer, and Marvis Frazier think Marvis' time is at hand despite his paucity of pro fights, all of which he won.

"If I do what I'm told, there's no way I can lose," said Marvis.

"If I didn't think he would do it, we wouldn't make the fight," said Smokin' Joe. "Marvis can do anything he sets his mind to and he's set his mind to this. So have I."

The 34-year-old Holmes is a 4½-1 favorite to win the fight, which he and most people who are involved in or follow boxing consider a title match even though the WBC refused to give it championship sanction.

Frazier cannot win the title, according to the WBC, but Holmes can lose it.

The fight, approved as a nontitle match by the Nevada State Athletic Commission, and billed as a "12-Round Heavyweight Superfight," will be held indoors at the 4,500-seat Caesars Palace Sports Pavilion.

It is scheduled to start at 7:03 p.m., PDT, and be televised by NBC during a telecast running from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Part of the telecast will be a 10-round nontitle fight between Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini, the World Boxing Association lightweight champion, and Johnny Torres, a junior welterweight from Homestead, Fla.

In 1938 and 1939, heavyweight champion Joe Louis had three straight one-round knockouts in title defenses.

Eagles invade gym Saturday

Coach Larry Scott's Snyder Tigers take court Saturday night for their first home appearance of the 1983-84 season.

Snyder, 0-1 on the season, will entertain Abilene Cooper at 8 in the high school gym. A junior varsity game will precede the contest at 6:15.

The Eagles, a class 5A team, are the second of three straight 4-5A schools the Tigers will play. They lost to Midland Lee on Tuesday, 59-56, and will plav at Abilene High on Nov. 29.

Snyder's girls are idle this weekend and do not play until Dec. 1 in the Levelland Tournament.

Dusters host classic today

Howard's Hawk Queens and the Cisco Lady Wranglers take the Scurry County Coliseum floor at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the first of six games of the second annual Duster Classic.

The two-day tournament continues at 6 as Amarillo and Yavapai, of Prescott, Ariz., battle. Western Texas hosts Blinn Junior College at 8.

Saturday's slate calls for Howard and Blinn to mix it up at 4, followed by Amarillo and Cisco at 6 and Western and Yavapai at 8.

Yavapai welcomed back seven sophomores this year from a team which participated in the 1982-83 National Tournament. Western was the WJCAC champion, of which Howard and Amarillo are members.

The classic is a warm up for WJCAC action for the Dusters, who entertain South Plains at 6 p.m. Dec. 1 in a double-header with the men's basketball team.

This weekend's classic features 16 girls who stand 6-0 or taller.

New furniture for new needs

By BARBARA MAYER
AP Newsfeatures

New styles of living call for new home furnishings. So, while Americans are coping with smaller living spaces and the electronics revolution, the furniture industry is learning how to make furniture to meet new needs.

At the recently-concluded Southern Furniture Market in North Carolina, manufacturers offered furniture "solutions" to today's living problems.

Among product categories that gained were small-scale dining furniture useful in the ever-shrinking space given over to dining; cabinetry to hold electronics equipment and home computers, and dual purpose seating so rooms other than the bedroom may be used for sleeping.

Additions to the seating-sleeping furniture included several versions of the Japanese futon. The innovation was to provide a wood or upholstered platform to raise the futon off the floor for more seating and sleeping comfort.

Several manufacturers figured out new wrinkles to foldout foam furniture which made its first appearance several years ago. In one new version, designed by Robert and Barbara Tiffany for Atlantic, the sofa back flips down and the front folds out to make an offthe-floor foam sleeping surface.

Typical of industry thinking on multi-purpose cabinetry was a piece termed by its maker the "incredible credenza." The cabinet, by Thomasville Furniture Industries, comes in six styles and provides a file drawer and two pencil drawers on one side, storage for wine on the other side and a center section for silverware, china and serving pieces.

The top of the cabinet is on casters and flips open to become a desk, buffet or dining surface, while a slender opening in back provides a place to store a leaf for the matching dining table.

A number of companies introduced furniture to store home electronics products. American Drew's offering in three styles (traditional American, contemporary and European) was a typical example. It accommodated a television set and videoplayer as well as records and tapes. Built-in electric plugs, access for wires and ventilation are provided, as are a telephone jack and a cable television connection.

The market, which retailers attend twice a year to shop for new furniture styles, provided some innovative designs for children — many of them inexpensive, brightly-colored metal furniture.

A collection created by Charles Anacker for Landes Furniture Co. included a cradle which converts into a small rocking settee for use after a child has outgrown the cradle.

Anacker also designed a crib whose telescoping metal base pulls out to make a regulation-length 30-inch-wide bed with the crib's side rails removed.

Jethro Industries produced a table which operates on the same principle as a folding ironing board and would work well as a play or work table in a child's room. The 30-by-40-inch table can be used in three positions — cocktail table height (good for a small child), dining height, and as a tilted drawing board.

With living and buying patterns changing, some manufacturers have begun studying their markets more systematically. It used to be that a major furniture purchase effectively took a consumer out of the marketplace. But Pennsylvania House discovered that 92 percent of those who had spent $1,000 or more on furniture within a year were considering additional substantial purchases.

As a result, the firm is developing a quarterly magazine to be distributed to consumers by retailers. The magazine will help the company maintain a continuing relationship with interested consumers, explained a company executive.

Another manufacturer has revised its bedroom furniture line partly as a result of consumer research. William O.W. Fenn Jr., president of Ladd Furniture, said research showed that the number of people seeking formal bedroom suites had diminished as more people use the bedroom as a kind of private living room. To pursue reading and hobbies, listen to music and watch television, these needs have created a demand for more living-room-like furniture for the bedroom, as well as for more storage furniture.

The same study also questioned consumers about the qualities they seek in new furniture. Some 2,600 respondents in 10 cities said they were looking for quality and durability first and that they preferred furniture that offered lasting value and was not faddish.

Royal collection

TORONTO (AP) — "Dutch Painting of the Golden Age From the Royal Picture Gallery, Mauritshuis" is on view at the Art Gallery of Ontario through Dec. 11.

The exhibition of 40 masterworks includes landscapes, seascapes, still-lifes and portraits by such artists as Rembrandt, Vermeer, Ruisdael and Frans Hals.

The Mauritshuis, in The Hague, has been the home of the Dutch royal collection since 1822.

Local DAC hears museum director

Members of George Cogdell Chapter of Daughters of American Colonists met for the regular November meeting at the Scurry County Museum. Arrangements were made by Mrs. Douglas K. Hill, program chairman.

Mrs. Whit Clark, chapter regent, presided. The opening prayer was voiced by Mrs. Henry F. Clark, chaplain, and the Pledge of Allegiance was given in unison. Secretary, Mrs. Ruple Morrow, read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved as read.

Delila Baird gave a report on the Texas State Workshop held in Salado. She showed pictures made at the workshop, the State Conference, and the National Assembly where Texas state regent and vice regent were confirmed. She noted that the state regent, Mrs. J. O. Miller Jr. of Victoria, is a Golden Acorn (junior member) and was named Texas outstanding Golden Acorn for 1982-83. The Salado meeting was attended by Miss Baird, state historian, and Mrs. Clark, chapter regent.

Mrs. Clark distributed directives for chapter officers and committee chairmen which were received at the Salado workshop.

Mrs. Gene L. Dulaney introduced the speaker, Mrs. Eunice Irwin, director of museums. Her topic, "Preserving Family Treasures," was both interesting and informative.

Refreshments were served following the program.

NOVEMBER BIRTHDAYS—Residents of Snyder Oaks Nursing Center having birthdays in November were honored at a party Nov. 15. Friendly Flower gave corsages and boutonnieres, Highland Park Bakery made and decorated the cake and Gandy's furnished ice cream. Seated, left to right, are Jimmie Pippin, Sydnie Hall, and Leonard Brumley. Standing are Cletis Terrell and Effie Burklow. Those unable to attend were Ella Nelson and Mariette Owens.

Here is a bridge teacher's hand for advanced pupils. Let's follow the teacher's discussion.

South has enough to try for game after North's trump raise and bids to three. North has a maximum raise and goes on to game.

The defense starts with three rounds of diamonds. South ruffs the third and goes right after trumps. If they break 2-2, he is sure of his contract and has a play for an overtrick, but East shows out on the second spade.

South has to lose a trump trick to add to the two tricks the defense already has in the bank. He must find a way to avoid a heart loser.

He can't avoid the loss if East holds the king. Do you see how he can if West is in possession of his majesty?

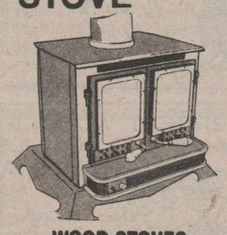

He must start by taking all the clubs to strip the hand. Then he throws West in with the queen of trumps.

West is moribund. If he leads a heart, South lets it ride to the queen and then finesses dummy's jack. If West elects to lead the last club, South discards dummy's six of hearts, ruffs and takes that same heart finesse.

FARINA SQUARES

Patterned after Italian Gnocchi.

2¼ cups water
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup farina
3 ounces grated (medium fine) sharp cheddar cheese (¾ cup slightly packed)

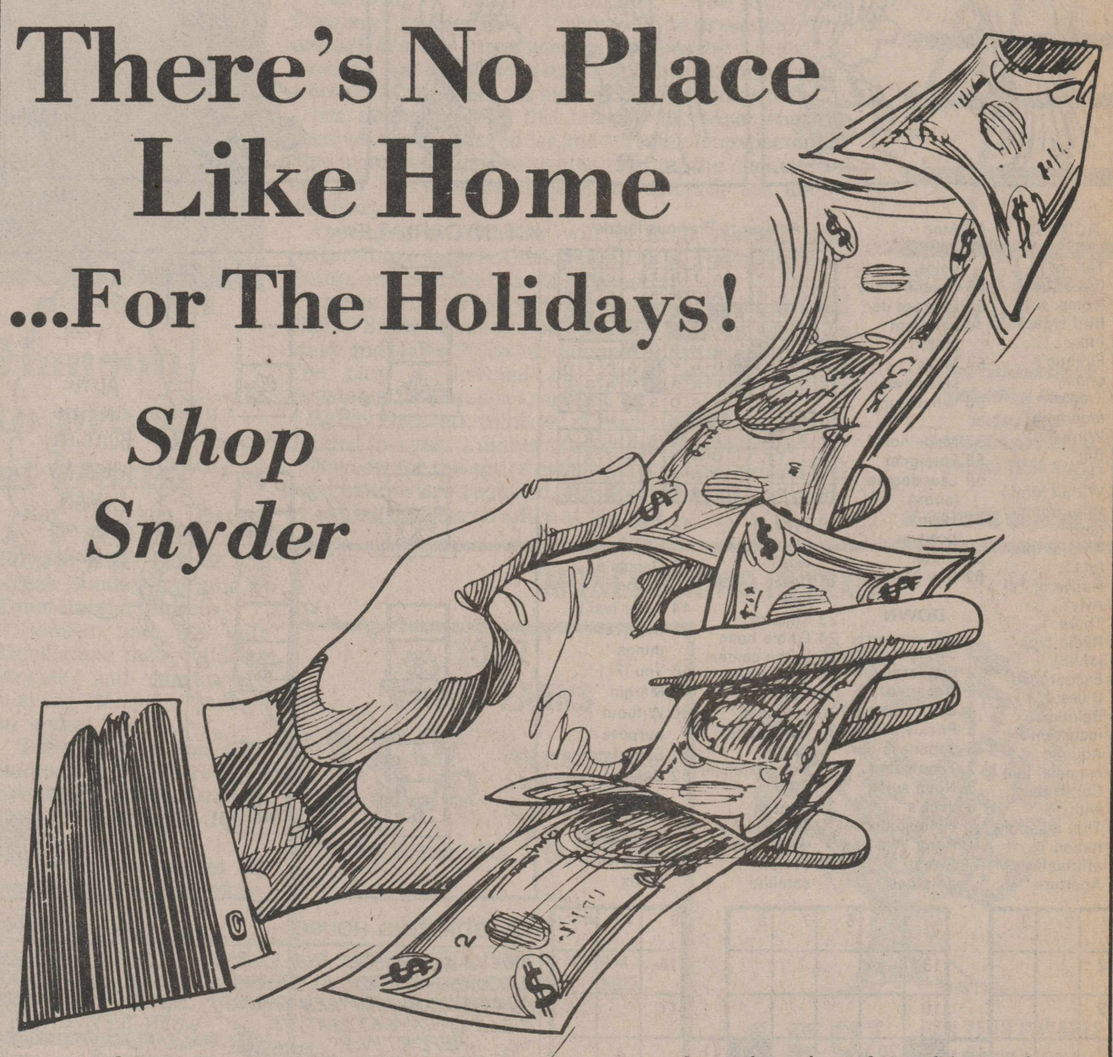

In a medium saucepan over high heat bring the water and salt to a boil; stirring constantly pour in the farina. Bring to a boil again and then over gentler heat, stirring constantly, cook until very thick — a matter of minutes. Off heat, stir in ½ cup of the cheese so it is distributed evenly. Turn into a buttered 8 by 8 by 2-inch pan; cool; cover pan with saran; chill. Line a cookie sheet with foil and generously butter the foil. Cut the farina into 2-inch squares; with a spatula remove squares and arrange them, well apart, on the foil-lined pan. Srinkle squares with the remaining cheese. Broil 6 to 8 inches from high heat until hot through and topping is melted — a matter of minutes. Remove with a wide spatula and serve at once. Makes 16 squares.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: In response to a letter in your column you said, "You don't need a person's permission to pray for him." Well, that's my problem. My mother is praying for me, and I wish she wouldn't. Ever since she got herself "born again," she says she is praying that God will bring me to my knees so I will be born again, too.

Abby, I have my own religion, which doesn't happen to be the same as hers, but she keeps trying to talk me into being "saved." When I ask her to please leave me alone and quit praying for me, she says it's her duty as a parent to lead me down the "right" path.

Don't get me wrong. I also believe in prayer, but I don't want to get into a contest with my mother to see which one of us prays better.

GETTING GOOFY IN L.A.

DEAR GETTING: You didn't state your age, but if you're an adult you have the right to choose your own religion. And as well-meaning as your mother may be, she needs to be reminded that one of our most cherished rights is the right to be left alone.

DEAR ABBY: From time to time I meet people who are anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-gay and anti-foreigner, while loudly proclaiming that they are passionately pro-American!

Since the logic behind this kind of thinking escapes me, I am at a loss as to how to deal with them. Please advise. And you may use my real name.

CHARLOTTE CAMPBELL

DEAR CHARLOTTE: Tell them that it's not possible to be anti-black, anti-Jew, anti-Catholic, anti-gay and anti-foreigner AND passionately pro-American at the same time because a substantial part of America is composed of blacks, Jews, Catholics, gays and foreigners.

DEAR ABBY: A close relative, age 77, recently went to Poland to visit his relatives. His wife was unable to accompany him because of poor health.

Two weeks after he arrived in Poland his wife received a telegram from the American Consulate in Poland informing her that her husband had suffered a fatal heart attack and it would cost her $7,500 to have his body flown back to the United States for burial. The alternative was to have him buried in Poland for $300. His wife chose to have him buried in Poland because she couldn't afford to have his body shipped back here at those prices.

We were shocked at how much was asked to have his body shipped to the United States from Poland. It seems so grossly overpriced. Am I being ridiculous to question the whole thing? Why in the world is so much charged for such a humane service?

Now the poor widow will be deprived of being buried alongside her lifelong companion in the family plot with other family members.

I would like to hear your comment on this upsetting crisis in our family.

UPSET IN N.Y.

DEAR UPSET: I am informed that the cost of shipping a body by air is determined by the weight and mileage. The average weight (including the shipping crate) is approximately 350 to 400 pounds, which costs between $120 and $140 per each 100 pounds. Add to that the mortician's fee for embalming, plus the casket, and it should not total anywhere near the figure you were quoted. I think you have good reason to be upset.

7th Day Adventists begin holiday drive

Volunteers will be ringing doorbells and singing carols between now and Christmas Eve as members of the Snyder Seventh-Day Adventist Church swing into the 75th annual nationwide Community Service Appeal. Each volunteer can be identified by lapel badges.

Donations of money, food and other items for the needy will be appreciated, a local spokesperson said.

Seventh Day Adventist congregations throughout Texas are dedicated to relieving the physical needs of young and old alike both here and around the world.

Worldwide church members gave more than 19 million hours of volunteer help to over 12 million people last year. Adventists have been helping people through the Community Service program since 1908.

Last year more than 5 million patients were treated in the denomination's 435 medical facilities. Leper colonies, stop smoking classes, health screening programs and disaster relief programs will be among the recipients of contributions received this year.

Church members carry approximately 90 percent of the financial responsibility these projects generate. It's the last 10 pecent in which townspeople are asked to share.

Tax deductible gifts given in the name of the church may also be mailed to Jackie Jones, 1806 38th Street, Snyder, Tex. 79549 or The Texico Conference office of Seventh-Day Adventists, P. O. Box 7770, Amarillo, Tex. 79114.

Despite prisoner swap...

No change in Israeli, PLO attitude

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli officials reluctantly made concessions to free six of their soldiers in exchange for 4,600 Palestinian and Lebanese prisoners, but they say Israel and the PLO remain bitter enemies.

"There is no change in our approach toward the murderers whose only desire is to sow destruction and panic and killing," Deputy Prime Minister David Levy said.

Israel accepted the Palestine Liberation Organization's conditions for the prisoner swap after more than a year of deadlocked negotiations through intermediaries. Israeli officials said there was no direct contact between Israeli diplomats and the guerrilla organization.

"I don't see any change or improvement" in Israeli-PLO relations, Defense Minister Moshe Arens said Thursday. He also denied that the exchange deal included guarantees for PLO leader Yasser Arafat's safe passage from his embattled headquarters in the north Lebanese city of Tripoli.

The two-day exchange, assisted by France and the International Red Cross, ended Thursday when the six soldiers returned to a hero's welcome after 15 months in captivity, and three Air France jumbo jets flew 1,000 Palestinians, defiantly flashing victory signs, to the Algerian capital of Algiers.

The Palestinians were released from Israel's massive Ansar detention center in south Lebanon. About 3,500 more Palestinians and Lebanese freed from Ansar, along with other suspected guerrillas from smaller lockups in Sidon and Nabatiye, elected to stay with their families in Israeli-occupied south Lebanon.

The Israelis also freed 98 guerrillas from prisons in Israel, more than 50 of them serving life sentences for terrorist assaults, said Prisons Authorities spokesman Shimon Malka. These guerrillas flew with the other Palestinians to Algiers

In London, an Israeli official said in a British Broadcasting Corp. television interview that his government was unconcerned about the outcome of the fighting around Tripoli between forces loyal to Arafat and the Syrian-backed PLO rebels.

"I don't think it makes any basic difference for Israel who survives this war, whether Arafat or his rivals," said Ehud Olmert, a Likud coalition member of the Israeli Knesset's Defense and Foreign Affairs Committee.

Asked whether Israel had increased the threat to its forces by freeing so many Palestinian guerrillas to fight in the future, Olmert said: "There is a genuine danger. We are aware of it. We have already made certain arrangements in the south (of Lebanon) to face this future danger."

He did not say what the arrangements were.

El Salvador...

Troops look for rebels

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Government troops are trying to dislodge leftist rebels from strongholds in eastern El Salvador after one U.S.-trained unit killed 25 guerrillas in a surprise attack.

Military sources in the city of San Vicente, 36 miles east of San Salvador, said Thursday the U.S.-backed government has begun a campaign to oust leftist guerrillas from areas they occupy in the northern part of San Vicente province.

The sources, requesting anonymity for security reasons, said the campaign would last three days.

On Thursday, the military said it staged a surprise attack on guerrillas with troops trained in counterinsurgency by the United States. The heaviest fighting was in the towns of Barilla Negra and Cerro Bahilonia, on the outskirts of Corinto.

It said the attack occurred Wednesday and "high commanders of the People's Revolutionary Army" were among the 50 wounded in fighting 127 miles northeast of the capital.

In another Central American development, Nicaraguan Interior Minister Tomas Borge Martinez said Thursday his country would be willing to get rid of its Cuban military advisers if Honduras and El Salvador get rid of their U.S. military advisers.

The Sandinista government says it already has sent home 1,200 Cuban advisers, mostly civilians. The United States has 55 military advisers in El Salvador and about 200 in Honduras.

Withdrawal of all foreign troops in Central America is a cornerstone of a proposed regional peace treaty drafted by the Contadora group — Venezuela, Mexico, Panama and Colombia.

The offer to reduce the number of Cubans in Nicaragua is one of several recent moves by the Sandinistas which appear to be intended to show an interest in the Contadora proposals.

The Sandinista government said Thursday that a helicopter from Honduras strafed three Nicaraguan border villages, which it said proves neighboring Honduras "openly supports" anti-Sandinista rebels based its territory.

The Nicaraguan Foreign Ministry sent a protest note to Honduras saying an olive-green helicopter sprayed the villages with machine-gun fire for 40 minutes and returned to Honduras after the attack.

The note did not say how many casualties there were in the helicopter attack, which Nicaragua said took place Tuesday. Nicaragua accuses Honduras of harboring rebels behind its borders.

In another development, the Washington Post, quoting congressional sources, said today that the CIA has concluded U.S.-backed guerrillas in Nicaragua lack the punch to topple the Sandinista government.

The newspaper also said there are indications the Reagan administration is beginning to give some thought to how the war by the anti-government counter-revolutionaries can be wound down.

Soup kitchen's losses are returned tenfold

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The thieves who broke into Hospitality House got away with $1,000 worth of meat being saved for Thanksgiving dinners for the poor — but they couldn't steal Thanksgiving.

They stole 12 turkeys, three cases of chickens, slabs of venison, hams, and beef.

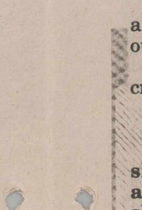

But news stories about the theft triggered a stunning response — over 300 turkeys, $10,000 cash, pies, fruit, and other holiday comestibles.

"The people brought it back tenfold, a hundredfold," said Sister Margaret McCaffrey, director of Christian Services.

"They poured in all day bringing food, money, calling to see what they can do. It has been overwhelming. We have stores for next month and on into Christmas."

A catering service took care of Wednesday night's needs so the cooks at Hospitality House, a kind of soup kitchen in a poor neighborhood, could rest for Thursday's work.

Contributions also included a set of burglar bars for the windows.

Intolerance to milk

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I developed an intolerance to milk when I was about 45 years old. This followed a severe case of food poisoning. My physician had never even heard of lactose intolerance.

Thanks to several of your columns over a period of about a year, I was able to diagnose my own problem. Since then, I've been able to keep it under control pretty well. It really helps to have a wife who prepares almost all of our food from scratch, since most prepared foods these days contain whey, which is loaded with lactose. A lot of bread you buy from the stores also contains whey.

Is there any known procedure for reimplanting lactase enzymes in the lining of the intestines?

DEAR READER — No there isn't. But I presume some day genetic engineering will make it possible to affect the genes that control such cellular activity.

About the best that can be offered at present is to add the enzymes that break down the double sugar in milk to the milk before you use it. LactAid is such a preparation. You can get it from the SugarLo Company, P.O. Box 111, Pleasantville, NJ 08232. You add it to the milk and let it set in the refrigerator while the enzyme digests the lactose in the way lactase would in your intestines.

Many people who have gas, cramps and other digestive complaints find that they can't drink milk because they cannot digest lactose. The undigested milk sugar ferments in the intestines, causing the symptoms.

Lactose is in many foods you wouldn't think of as a source. Many candy bars contain a lot of lactose. It helps to read the labels. Some soybean milk susbstitutes do not contain any lactose and can be used. But while artifical milks made from coconut oil may not contain any lactose, they pose a problem in the amount of saturated fat they contain.

The lactose problem is discussed more fully in The Health Letter 7-2, Milk Products: Good and Bad, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 31 years old. I was never more than 10 pounds overweight, but now I have cellulite on my thighs and seat. What causes cellulite and how in the world do I get rid of it?

DEAR READER — Cellulite is a term dreamed up for those rolls and bumpy fat in the midsection, on the thighs and buttocks. But those lumpy fat deposits are just more body fat. There is nothing unusual about them at all. They are not caused by inflammation or a disorder of metabolism, or any other disease process.

Some individuals, usually women, have a genetic tendency to have such fat deposits, which makes it hard to eliminate in these areas. And despite a rigid diet and exercise program, some of the fat tends to remain.

You can't get rid of it with any special diet that doesn't also eliminate body fat elsewhere. So you are back to the problem of calorie balance. A new approach is to suction out the excess fat by surgery. And a plastic surgeon can simply surgically remove excess unwanted lumps and bumps.

First Baptists' annual theater now underway

The First Baptist Church opened its annual Christmas Dinner Theater Wednesday and performances will continue through December 2.

Each evening will feature a meal of turkey and dressing with all the trimmings, with serving to begin at 6 p.m. and continuing until 6:40 p.m. nightly.

Dinner will be followed by a musical presentation entitled "Beyond the Manger," performed by "A Chosen Generation," a young adult vocal ensemble from the church.

The musical will begin at 7 p.m. and is under the direction of Jerry Neill, minister of music and young adults.

Following a brief intermission, "The Christmas Couriers" by Steven M. Vizney will be presented. This one-act comedy introduces us to Timothy Larson, an average American teen-ager, and his dilemma about whether to appear in the high school Christmas play.

His confusion and the hilarity increase when he receives some unasked for and certainly unexpected advise from two super salesmen: Petite, the donkey that carried Mary to Bethlehem and De Vil, the devil's emissary.

Appearing as Timothy will be Brad Vincent. Also featured are Lance Aldridge as De Vil; Clint Potts as Petite, and Lori Sealy as Miss Winters.

Angels will be played by Shannon Lunsford and Sherry Smith. Rounding out the cast are Pam Smith as Mary and Galen Price and Michael Smith as shepherds. The play is directed by Janice Northerns with assistance by Shannon Lunsford.

Randy Gressett, minister of youth, planned and coordinated this year's dinner theater and the program.

The cost for the entire evening is $3.75 per person and reservations are required. Reservations may be made by calling the church office at 573-2631.

Man didn't know what happened

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — The man federal investigators hope will provide the clue to the causes of a freight train wreck that killed four crewmen told two ambulance attendants he didn't know how the accident happened.

James Muchow, 41, of Hempstead suffered broken legs and other injuries when he was thrown from a 13-car Southern Pacific freight train that slammed into a line of parked boxcars Saturday.

Federal investigators have said Muchow, the lone survivor of the wreck, may hold the key to providing information about the accident.

National Transportation Safety Board safety inspector Thurman Toal said his investigation indicates the crew may have been distracted or dozing because the train's brakes apparently were not applied.

Muchow, who was in a caboose directly behind the train's engine, remains in stable condition at Houston's Hermann Hospital.

Muchow "said that although he didn't know why the train crashed, he remembered everything that happened because he was never knocked unconscious at any time either during or after the accident," Roger Lay of Baytown, one of two ambulance attendants who treated Muchow at the scene, told the Baytown Sun.

Toxicology tests on the four men who died in the wreck were negative, meaning none was under the influence of drugs or alcohol, the Harris County medical examiner's office reported.

Autopsies performed earlier indicated the four died of head and chest injuries.

A Southern Pacific spokesman, Tony Aleman, said that the railroad's investigation of the accident blamed it on human error.

Both Lay and Sam Riggins of Crosby, the other ambulance attendant, said they admired Muchow's strength and courage.

"The man was in good spirits considering the circumstances, because the man lying beside him was dead," Riggins said. "You know that's got to be pretty tough."

Muchow told Lay "he lost his radio in the crash so he was unable to call for help."

The conductor lay at the scene for an undetermined length of time before the wreck was discovered by railroad workers sent to move the parked boxcars.

The ambulance attendants said they were upset that they were not informed about leaking jet fuel at the scene, adding they learned about the leak from television news reports. Authorities said at the time that the leak posed no danger.

"We could have been killed," said Lay. "We brought in tools and equipment that could have made a spark. We were really lucky that everything turned out OK, but in fact it could have resulted in even more tragedy."

Riggins said the pair had questioned a railroad official "when we heard a sloshing-around noise," but the official told them "we had nothing to worry about because it was only bulk oil."

Residents of a nearby subdivision told the Sun a train comes through the area at 5:30 a.m. every morning.

"The train comes through here like clockwork every morning. I heard on the news that the area is used for assembling cars for cross-country transport, but I haven't seen any cars parked on the tracks for some time," said Mrs. Gary Robinson.

The accident was the second fatal train wreck in Texas in eight days. On Nov. 12, four passengers died in the derailment of an Amtrak train near Marshall. Toal said that accident was caused by a defective track.

Christmas tree gets new home

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Construction at a city park left the Jaycees without a home for their 50-foot Christmas tree, but some intrepid members of the civic organization will light the tree tonight anyway — in Main Street.

The park that was the site of the Jaycees' Douglas fir Christmas tree for 26 years has been ravaged by construction this year.

The thought of Fort Worth foregoing tradition, however, was too painful for Dee Hardin, a Jaycee and head of operations for the city's parks and recreation department.

"I've got five girls and I know what Christmas means," he said.

And it meant finding another place to put up the tree.

"I combed the city," he said. "I looked at 10 parks close to downtown. Everyone had some kind of construction going on. Industry is taking over."

Hardin was ready to scout the stockyards for a suitable site and give up on downtown when a group of business leaders suggested putting the tree on Main Street.

"We had major problems to overcome," he said. "We had to see if we could get the street blocked off, then we had to figure how to keep a 50-foot tree standing and how to put a fence around it."

The Jaycees have been hauling giant Douglas firs from New Mexico to Burnett Park for the past 26 years. But this year the park is torn up from nearby erection of skyscrapers and parking structures.

In Burnett Park, "we had a big hole in the ground we just stuck it in," Hardin said.

Hardin, who says he's not an engineer, drew a sketch of a Christmas tree stand similar to those used in homes and asked Bass Brothers Enterprises to build it. For the fence, he filled nine 55-gallon drums with water, painted them red and used them as decorative fence posts.

Southwest Texans provide feast for pet turkeys

NEDERLAND, Texas (AP) — Addie Garsea served up a Thanksgiving meal of tortillas and cornbread to her guests. But that's OK; they're just turkeys.

Mrs. Garsea and her husband have had turkeys for pets for the past 10 years. "They're sweet and gentle, and they follow me around all of the time," she said.

The Southeast Texas family bought their current pets — Mr. and Mrs. Tom Turkey — at a local feed store about eight months ago. Tom has grown to almost 40 pounds, and Mrs. Tom is so heavy she can't get off the ground, Mrs. Garsea said.

"I think I'm the only one around that has turkeys for pets," said Mrs. Garsea as she stroked Tom's feathers.

She said Mr. and Mrs. Tom are her third set of turkeys, and she didn't wait long after the death of her last turkey, Pablo, to get replacements.

It seems the turkeys rule the roost at the Garsea house and other pets, including a horse, two pit bull dogs, a couple of chickens and some cats, just have to put up with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Turkey were assured of a safe Thanksgiving because Mrs. Garsea wouldn't hear of cooking the pair.

"I buy a 'Butterball' for Thanksgiving," she said.

Rebel bases are very well stocked

CHIRILAGUA, El Salvador (AP) — The guerrillas who roam eastern El Salvador are backed by intricate logistical support systems and seem to make up with cunning and discipline what they lack in supplies.

A trip to a rebel camp in the mountains of San Miguel province in southeast El Salvador made clear the difficulty government forces would face if they tried to oust the seasoned insurgents from the forests and brush lands of these rocky highlands.

The guerrilla "infrastructure" is impressive: it has its own farms, radio system, hospital, armory, propaganda office, even a silkscreening operation for printing colorful rebel T-shirts.

In the hills above this guerrilla-held town, rebels live a spartan life, finding refuge among the peasants and in their own large bases.

The People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), one of five active guerrilla bands in El Salvador, is active in this part of the country. In September, the ERP launched a series of attacks that military sources grudgingly admit gave the rebels an initiative they still hold.

The four-hour slog through the mountains to the camp starts on a back road leading west from here, then veers to trails that often dip into deep ditches covered by canopies of tall grass or milpa stalks, which resemble corn.

The paths vanish into streams and rivers, emerging again through pasture or swampland. The guerrillas follow them with no maps and no hesitation.

Occasionally a rebel vanishes behind rocks or into a hut. Crackling static sounds from a radio network that controls the approach to the camp even from miles out.

The camp is spread out in clusters of straw-roofed huts over an apparently large area. The number and size of the clusters, said one resident, "is information we keep to ourselves."

Inside a hut, women prepare food for hundreds, cooking beans and corn in halves of 55-gallon drums. Next door, an armory is packed with well-oiled rifles, mortars and heavy machine guns, almost all American-made. Many American weapons are captured from the Salvadoran army, and others are bought on the international arms black market and smuggled into the country by land, sea and air routes.

A camp training ground has an obstacle course — low strands of barbed wire for crawling under and barricades for crawling over.

Up a hill, another cluster includes a smaller kitchen, a print shop, short-wave radios, a flag-making operation and sewing machines for turning out red ERP armbands.

A videotape array includes a Betamax and television screen rigged to run on automobile batteries. These are lugged from village to village to show propaganda messages and videotapes of victorious guerrilla raids.

Most of the camp's inhabitants are peasant-stock fighters whose ideology is a little foggy.

An exception is Ernesto, 28, the area political director, who claims to be a former construction worker, but has the manners and speech of a college graduate.

"How is the liberation struggle going in Zimbabwe?" he asked a South African reporter.

A wedding band shines on his left hand. His wife, he said, also is in the hills. Their children are "with relatives."

"They call us Marxists," he said. "We follow some ideas of Marx, but prefer to think of them as 'pro humanity.'"

The guerrilla game is a deadly one but friendly persuasion plays its part.

The rebels had captured three young government soldiers who had gone to Chirilagua on leave to visit their families.

They were put in a guerrilla supply formation to be taken into the mountains to be questioned.

The prisoners shook with fear at first, but calmed down as the march progressed and they were assured they would be freed unharmed.

They were asked to carry an equal share of the supplies, rested as often as their captors and were offered food and water more frequently.

Residents of Chirilagua said this is common strategy. Young soldiers are captured, indoctrinated but well-treated for a few days, then freed.

"Hard-line cases might be kept a little longer," said a religious worker in Chirilagua. "They will keep them for a couple of weeks then turn them loose. Then the army won't trust them anymore. It has the same effect as if the soldier was a battle casualty."

Villagers in Chirilagua say rebels pay for what they take, but often set the price themselves. Cars are often "borrowed," then returned, sometimes with fresh dents, sometimes with money on the seat for gasoline used.

New decrees posted in this village are more concerned with keeping the streets clean than with making changes in the local government.

The guerrillas banned the sale of "guaro," a fiery raw cane liquor whose popularity is a mystery to outsiders. But there have been few other changes.

Up in the guerrilla camp less earthly matters are tended by Father Rogelio Poncel, a 44-year-old Belgian priest who linked up with the guerrillas on Christmas Day 1980, and has been there ever since.

He carries no weapon but says he knows guerrilla priests who do and admires them for it.

"The Bible confronts established order," the priest said. "It must be seen from the point of view of the poor, and Christ was poor. The Bible carries a message of liberation.

"A Christian, a priest, must be a revolutionary," he said. "How can we conform what we preach with a system that oppresses and exploits?"

Seeking warmer relations

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — About 800 cities and towns across the United States have mailed "community portraits" to selected cities in the Soviet Union, hoping to help thaw frosty relations between the two superpowers.

The Portland-based Ground Zero Pairing Project is coordinating the effort, aimed at lessening the chances of a nuclear war. "Make the first strike a knock on the door" is its slogan.

Packages were mailed this week to Soviet communities selected for geography, population and economic characteristics similar to the cities sending the "portraits," said Earl Molander, executive director of the project.

Each city's portrait contains items intended to show the Soviets what the American community is like, Molander said. They include demographic data, photos and books describing the city, and messages from residents, including children.

"I'm sure many people are thinking, 'My, what a naive exercise,'" said Freda Tarbell, a member of the Ground Zero chapter in Erie, Pa., which sent information and photographs to Poltava in the Ukraine. Poltava is the site of Peter the Great's 1709 victory over Charles XII of Sweden, a battle that established Russia as a European power.

Feed plant now expanded six tanks is estimated at 192,000 bushels.

This brings Ezell-Key's total storage capability to some 400,000 bushels.

In addition, equipment additions have been added to the feed plant itself. This includes adding a 2 ton "horizontal mixer" — which blends the various ingredients comprising feed cake — and a second conveyor-type "elevator" inside the plant.

The work began last April. This week, Jarrell said the additions were "98 percent complete," indicating all that remained was some outside painting and electrical wiring for outside lighting.

In 1945, the chief of the German labor front, Dr. Robert Ley, committed suicide to avoid being tried as a Nazi war criminal.

Two wrecks both minor

Two minor traffic mishaps were reported in Snyder Wednesday evening.

The first accident was reported at 4:25 p.m. on the parking lot of the Highland Shopping Center in the 4000 Block of College Ave. Involved in it were a 1977 Chevrolet driven by Carroll Ann Crenshaw of 3106 39th St., which reportedly struck a parked 1981 Oldsmobile owned by Roger Lyons of Rt. 3, Snyder.

Damage was rated minor to moderate.

A hit-and-run mishap was reported to city police at 10:17 p.m. Wednesday in the 1900 Block of Peyton Ave.

According to reports, an unidentified pickup, described by witnesses as a 1979 GMC, fled the scene after striking a telephone pole owned by Southwestern Bell.

Minor damage was caused to the pole.

Thanksgiving called quiet

Snyder police reported an uneventful Thanksgiving holiday in the city.

Reports for Wednesday and Thursday indicated that local officers were called to investigate a single misdemeanor theft report Thursday evening.

Billy Pylant of 4511 El Paso Ave. called police at 10:29 p.m. Thursday to report the theft of a 24-inch BMX type bicycle from his residence. The bike is thought to have been taken sometime between 8 and 10 p.m. Thursday.

In other routine action, city officers logged eight arrests for public intoxication Wednesday evening and two persons were jailed for DWI, one Wednesday and one Thursday.

Urban man on display at the zoo

BARCELONA, Spain (AP) — Visitors to the Barcelona Zoo today were treated to its latest caged exhibit: urban man.

Actor Albert Vidal, 43, who says humans know little about their own behavior, is on display in a cage for three days and, through mime, shows the lifestyle of humans living in urban areas.

During the time of the show, the "urban man." will also be fed.

Concern is increasing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is escalating its criticism of rightist terrorists in El Salvador, calling them "fascists who serve the communist cause" and threaten to destroy that country's democracy.

The administration has become increasingly concerned over an upsurge in death squad activity in recent months and that sentiment was being underscored today in a speech by the U.S. ambassador to El Salvador, Thomas Pickering, to the American Chamber of Commerce in San Salvador.

A senior U.S. official provided excerpts of the speech on the condition he not be identified.

Pickering's speech, which was cleared by the White House, cites some hopeful signs in El Salvador's political, economic and military development but adds that "terror can undo all the progress that has been made. It can destroy democracy in El Salvador," according to the official.

Pickering, who assumed his duties in El Salvador during the summer, was described by the official as being especially frustrated by the inability of Salvadoran authorities to crack down on the death squads even though the identity of their membership is widely known.

More than 35,000 Salvadorans have been killed during four years of civil war and many are believed to be victims of death squads who operate in hitman style and have killed students, union leaders, university professors and others with philosophies they oppose.

Critics of U.S. policy in El Salvador have accused the administration of not being forceful enough in confronting the death squad problem, contending that efforts by lower level officials to address the issue were thwarted by the White House.

In recent weeks, however, the administration has repeatedly criticized the death squads, and Pickering's speech represents the most outspoken statement to date.

The death squads, which include such groups as the Secret Anti-Communist Army, the White Hand and the Maximiliano Hernandez Martinez Brigade, are believed to be funded by wealthy Salvadoran exiles operating mostly from Miami and Guatemala.

The Reagan administration is considering a series of actions against the Miami-based exiles, including revoking their visas and investigating their financial dealings. One official has even recommended "unleashing the CIA" against the death squads, according to one informant.

One official said about two dozen Salvadorans are believed involved in directing death squad activities. The chief of security for the Salvadoran Constituent Assembly, identified only as Regalado, is regarded here as a prime death squad chieftain.

Of particular concern to officials has been a recent increase in death threats against union leaders and others who support the Salvadoran government's reform program.

Another official linked the increased death squad activities to the declining fortunes of rightist forces in the Salvadoran Constituent Assembly.

Soviet plan reaffirmed

MOSCOW (AP) — President Yuri V. Andropov says the Soviet Union will enlarge its nuclear arsenal at home, in eastern Europe and at sea in response to NATO'S deployment of new U.S. missiles in Western Europe.

Most Western leaders said Andropov's statement, carried Thursday by the official Soviet news agency Tass, was little more than a confirmation of long-standing Soviet plans.

However, it was the first time Andropov publicly had disclosed new plans to bolster Soviet maritime nuclear forces.

Navy sources in Washington have said several Soviet submarines armed with nuclear weapons are assigned to positions several hundred miles off the east and west U.S. coasts.

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization plans to deploy 572 new medium-range U.S. cruise and Pershing 2 nuclear missiles in five Western European countries starting next month. Parts of some of the missiles already have arrived in Britain and West Germany.

Andropov indicated that, through an increased sea arsenal, he wanted to keep the direct threat to American soil at the same level as that posed by Western weapons to Soviet territory.

"Since by deploying its missiles in Europe the United States increases the nuclear threat to the Soviet Union, the corresponding Soviet systems will be deployed with due account for this circumstance in ocean areas and seas," he said.

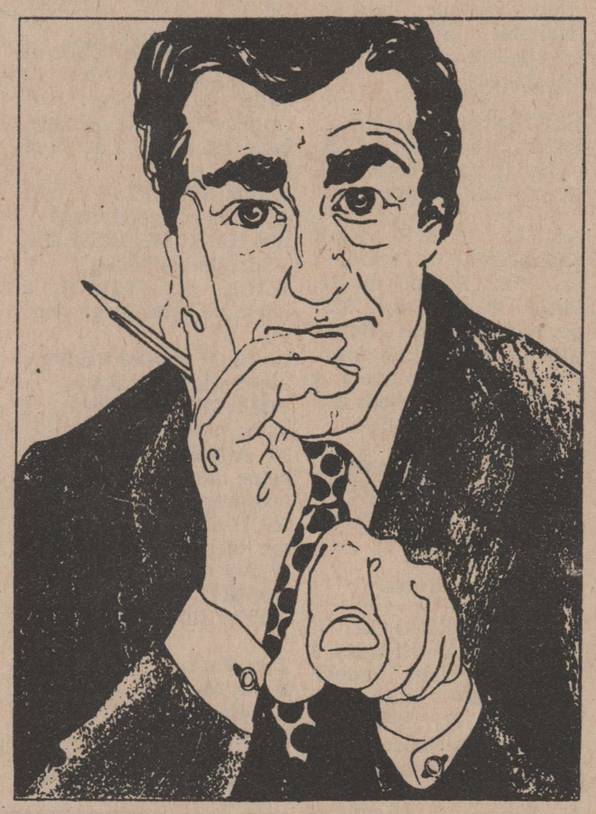

The Soviet Union on Wednesday broke off negotiations in Geneva on limiting medium-range nuclear missiles.

In West Germany and Britain, government spokesmen said Andropov's statment was not a surprise.

"It does not meet our hopes, but also does not contradict our expectations," said West German spokesman Peter Boenisch.

The Soviet short-range missiles "have been ready for deployment for some time. The Soviet Union would probably have wanted to deploy them in Eastern Europe in any case," the British said.
