Six Men Die By Hangman's Noose

PENALTY PAID BY ITALIANS FOR CALMS MURDER

ONE ATTEMPTED SUICIDE WHILE WAITING FOR DEATH GONG

AMITE, La., May 9.—As a morbid mob made holiday of the ghastly occasion, the executioner's axe flashed three times in the sunlight of the Amite jail yard Friday.

Each time, the sun glinted off the avenging blade, a small rope was severed clean by the blow, the gallows floor collapsed with a clatter and two men shot downward through the hole in the deck to stop with a jerk that broke their necks and killed them.

Six men shot through the floor, two by two. One of them was put to death only a few minutes before he would have died any way, from stab wounds which he had inflicted on himself as he awaited the sound of the jailors tread in the corridor of death row. His hands were gory from the flow of his wounds. There was no time to wash them. He might escape the gallows in that time and the state wanted his life.

The executioner whose face was hidden by a crude mask of black silk with slits for the eyes, was so horror struck after the first swing of his axe that he threw his arms up before his eyes, and ran to the kitchen of the jail to recruit his nerve for the four more killings that he had contracted to do.

The six men executed Friday were Natale Deamore and Roy Leona, the first pair to go; Adrea Lemontia and Joseph Bocchio, the second pair and Joseph Rini and Joseph Giglio whose deaths closed the unsavory festival that brought great crowds tumbling to the trains at the railroad station and bumping over the road in automobiles of all degrees.

Bocchio, a 26 year old native of Italy, with first papers of American naturalization, had once studied for the clergy. He entertained hopes almost until the last moment that a reprieve or commutation would be reached from the governor because some relatives of Dallas Calms, the man whose murder was being expiated had relented of late and had joined thousands of other persons in requesting leniency.

The six men were condemned for a shooting that occurred during their attempt to hold up the bank at Independence, La., a little more than three years ago on May 7, 1921. The bank had an unusually large amount of currency on hand. An alarm was given and Calms who owned a restaurant, ran from his place and tried to intercept the

WIFE OF CABINET OFFICER DIES SUDDENLY

By United News.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Mrs. Hubert Work, wife of the secretary of the interior, died of heart trouble white riding in an automobile here Friday afternoon.

The heart attack came upon Mrs. Work suddenly and her death followed almost instantly.

Her chauffeur immediately drove to the Wardman hotel where futile efforts were made to revive her. Work was not at his office at the time and could not be reached with information of his wife's death.

Mrs. Work recently suffered a broken ankle which prevented her from engaging in social activities other than the formal entertaining required of cabinet officers. Her youngest son, Robert, was to have been married in Denver, June 21.

Before entering the cabinet, Secretary Work lived in Pueblo, Colo., where he practiced medicine.

8 MORE NEEDED FOR FOURTH PULLMAN

According to an announcement of Edgar Inmon, chairman of the "On to Brownwood" special train, only 8 more progressive citizens are needed to secure the fourth Pullman on the Brownwood special, three having been already ordered and paid for.

While a special effort will be made today to secure these 8 other representatives for Lubbock, it is pointed out by members of the committee that after this fourth car is filled there will not be an opportunity for any one to obtain space on the special train, and for this reason every one that can and will go, and that is contemplating making the trip, is urged to call at the Chamber of Commerce offices this morning and purchase their tickets.

Special attention is also called to the fact that a rate of only $12.80 has been made for ladies accompanying their husbands on this trip, and with the special entertainment features that have been arranged at Brownwood and this cheap rate, it is hoped that a number of other ladies will make the trip.

At present ten ladies have reservations to make this trip, and the committee would like to see at least twice this many attend the convention and represent Lubbock in the affairs feminine.

Lubbock should have 200 representatives at this convention at the least, and during the Tech celebration last year Brownwood was promised that we would have the biggest delegation there this year that ever went out of Lubbock.

While it is now impossible to accommodate 200 representatives the few more mentioned above can be taken care of, and they are badly needed to fill up the train. Every one who can is invited and urged "to come on along and have a good time," in the words of the one of the committee members.

IF THEY COULD WRITE

What glorious news they'd have to tell
If only they could write today.
Those who have gone afar to dwell
Where all the glorious spirits stay.

In fancy here I set it down,
What Marjorie would pen for me.
"I've touched the hem of Jesus' gown,
The way they did at Galilee.

"I've smiled at Mary Magdalene,
She visits all the mothers here;
And John the Baptist I have seen,
And all the saints that you revere

Oh, there is much to see and do,
There's something always going on—
Tell all the boys and girls I knew
I've shaken hands with Wahsington.

"Longfellow had his children's hour
And Riley made us laugh with glee.

I wish I had some magic power
To picture everything I see.

But when you take your bible down
And read of Matthew, Mark or John,

Or any soul that gained the crown,
Just think I've seen them every one!"

No letter comes from Marjorie,
And yet I fancy now and then
The glorious tales she'd tell to me
If such a missive she could pen.

And thinking thus I am content
To bear the loneliness and wait,
Because I know her days are spent
In all the company of the great.

Al Spencer Lay in Grave While Posses And Special Officers Sought His Trail Is Statement of U. S. Marshal M'Donald

By United News.

BARTLETSVILLE, Okla., May 9.—While Southwestern border towns trembled at the mention of the name of Al Spencer, fearless bandit of the Osage, and armed posses sought to pick up his trail, he was dead and buried.

This became publicly known here for the first time Friday after the death of Stanley Snyder, accused of being a member of the bandit gang, and who aided United States Marshal Alva McDonald to trace Spencer.

Spencer was shot to death five miles north of Coffeyville, Kan, in September, it was stated, and the killing was kept a secret for fear that members of the outlaw gang would revenge him by slaying Snyder, his betrayer.

McDonald had promised Snyder this immunity according to newspaper men who were also sworn to secrecy, when an examination of a man killed here by a posse and claimed to have been the bandit, proved that it was not Spencer.

Luther Bishop, an Oklahoma City detective who was in the posse that killed Spencer, admitted the hoax after he had been informed of Snyder's death.

GRAND JURIES TO PROBE CHARGE LAW LAXITY

By United Press

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, May 9.—Attention in the liquor law enforcement controversy here Friday was centered on two grand juries. After District Judge McCoy had charged the county grand jury to investigate the situation, three members of the federal grand jury, adjourned today, sought to make a minority report, it being claimed that the federal district attorney's office prevented the desired appearance of "Ranger Captain Baldwin before the jury." United States Judge West informed the "minority" jurors the will of 16 members should govern grand jury actions.

Every state has constitutional provisions against illegal search of homes, judge McCoy stated. Prohibition officer's refusal to accept cases growing out of raids without search warrants precipitated the present controversy.

The judge observed that city as well as state officers' preference for federal court might be because they draw a dollar and a half a day witnesses fees.

A telegram from Assistant General Hilderbrandt informed Ranger Captain Baldwin that the United States attorney general's department will make complete investigation of the situation growing out of the federal district attorney's refusal to accept prohibition cases except upon compliance with state laws.

HOUSE REJECTS COMPROMISE EXCLUSION

By United News.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—By a vote of 191 to 171 the house rejected the compromise conference report on the immigration bill after a day of heated debate.

This constitutes rejection of the compromise on Japanese exclusion forced by President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes which was designed to prevent affront to Kahn by deferring the operation of the legislative exclusion clause until March 1, 1925, and to give the administration time in the interim to negotiate a treaty with Japan.

Twenty-three republicans voted to recommit; 11 democrats voted against recommital; and Representative Berger, of Wisconsin, Kvale, of Minnesota, and Wefald of Minnesota, the three independents in the house, voted against acceptance of the conferees report.

The provision, recommended by the conferees under pressure from Coolidge, advanced the date when the exclusion becomes effective to March 1, next year, so that a treaty might be drawn up with Japan. Coolidge wanted the date set at March 1, 1926, but the conferees compromised on the earlier date.

Overthrow of the administration forces in the house opens the way to reconsideration of the entire immigration program, according to Representative Albert Johnson, of Washington, chairman of the house "Immigration committee."

"The entire bill is now thrown back into conference" Johnson said "and I don't know what will happen. The alien seaman provision and Senator Reed's clause relating to determination of immigration af-

MAN SHOT AFTER FATAL ATTACK ON WIFE

By United News.

GLEN OAK, Okla., May 9.—While more than fifty horrified school children looked on, of C school children looked on James Keefeur, of Coffeyville, Kansas, shot and killed his wife and was in turn slain by Clarence A. Knight, principal of the school in which the double tragedy occurred.

The couple had been estranged and Keefauer came here Friday from California where he had spent the winter. His wife had been making her home with Mrs. Knight wife of the principle.

After an altercation with her estranged husband Friday, Mrs. Keefauer accompanied by Mrs. Knight fled to the school building. Keefauer followed them into the class room and pulling out a revolver fired one shot at his wife. The bullet pierced her brain causing instant death.

Knight, according to his story to authorities of Nowata, who were called to the scene, said he attempted to take the revolver away from Keefauer who wrenched himself loose and leaping into his motor car parked in front of the Knight home dashed away.

He stopped the car after driving a mile away from the building, alighted and started back toward the school house. Knight saw him returning, he declared and procured a revolver. Keefauer opened fire and Knight says he returned it both missing.

Keefauer fled toward the building and Knight fired again, killing Keefauer as he was crawling thru a fence, Knight said.

Keefauer had planned to kill his wife and then turn the gun upon himself authorities believed after finding a note in one of the slain mans pockets which read:

"Please bury us together" Keefauer had $1,600 in his pockets.

Mrs. Knight is a niece of Mrs. Keefauer. Knight was not arrested. The two bodies were taken to an undertaking establishment in Nowata.

NINETEEN BANKS CLOSED IN MO. SINCE JAN. 1.

By United News.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 9.—Nineteen banks in Missouri have been forced to close their doors since January 1, state finance commissioner F. C. Millspaugh said Friday.

Millspaugh's announcement came shortly after he had been notified that the Lawrence county bank at Pierce City was closed Friday by its board of directors. Frozen assets was blamed by officials for the banks failure.

THREE U. S. ARMY FLIERS HOP OFF FRI.

By United News.

CORDOVA, Alaska., May 9.—America's round the world fliers hopped off on their 530 mile jump from Nazan, Atka Island, for Chicagoff, Island of Attu, at 10:10 a. m., local time, Friday morning, according to advices received here by the naval radio station.

Search for Major Frederick L. Martin, and Sergeant Alva Harvey, missing for ten days having been lost after their take off from Chignik for Dutch Harbor, continue but without success.

Announcement that the Army air service was sending Lieutenant Tonklin and Sergeant Ivan O. Cooper from the Presidio in California to conduct the search in an airplane was received with hope by officials and townsfolk here that Major Martin and his companion will be found

VICTORY SCORED BY WOMEN AT CONFERENCE

By United News.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 9.—Methodist women who for years have sought ecclesastical equality with their brothers and fathers in the ministry, have scored a partial victory at the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church.

After almost unanimously defeating a motion providing for admission of women to full privileges as itinerant ministers, the conference by a large majority approved their ordination as local pastors.

The report adopted entitles women after completing a four years' course of study, to perform the sacraments under the same terms as men. Adoption of the report is looked upon at a distinct advance in ministerial privileges.

A liberal bloc, led by Miss Lillian Sutherland, of Winfield, Kan., who in a fiery speech a few days ago tried to induce the conference to adopt her resolution calling for admission of women to executive board of the church, held that women should be given all the privileges of men. An amendment to the report of the commission offered by this bloc, however, was overwhelmingly defeated.

The Rev. W. E. Shaw, and Rev. George H. McClung, of the Illinois delegation in opposing this amendment, stressed marriage and motherhood as bars to women's itinerant and conference membership.

"If the mother of John Wesley had entered the itineary where would the great Wesley have been" McClung declared. Earlier in the day a letter from Nellie Carrie Techner of New York an actress and dancer asking that the conference lift the ban of amusements and permit actors and actresses to join the church was read to the delegates.

"It is an unchristian act to bar the entire theatrical profession from membership" Miss Techner's letter said. No action was taken.

A telegram from Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy congratulating the conference on its merger with the southern branch of the Methodism was greeted with loud applause.

NEGRO YOUTH TO DIE FOR ATTACK ON WHITE WOMAN

LIVINGSTON, Texas, May 9.—Justice, speedy and certain, sentenced Ed Henderson negro youth, charged with criminal assault on a 23 year old white woman, Monday to the electric chair and landed him in the death cell at Huntsville prison Friday night.

Henderson was tried in Livingston Friday afternoon and the jury returned a verdict of guilty and a death sentence in less than five minutes.

CARBOLIC ACID KILLS KAUFMAN CO. CHILD

TERRELL, Texas, May 9.—The two year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ballard of Stubbs, a small town in Kaufman county died ing carbolic acid. The mother was in a hospital here Friday from drinkusing acid to dress an injury on the child and left the room when the child drank the poison.

BAD HEALTH IS GIVEN AS CAUSE OF RESIGNATION

SAYS STAYED AT REQUEST OF DAUGHERTY AND TO INITIATE STONE

WASHINGTON, May 9.—With the resignation of Wm. J. Burns, as head of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice, another picturesque member of the Harding group passes from the official stage.

This world famous detective brought here by his friend, Harry M. Daugherty, shortly after Harding entered the white house, has been the center of constant controversy and the target of bitter criticism from labor and progressive members of congress. It was expected that when Daugherty resigned, Burns would follow him.

Burns quit on the ground of ill health, explaining that he has suffered from neuritis for some time and only remained on at the request of Daugherty, and then after Stone came in, to give the new attorney general time to become familiar with the department business.

Burns has attracted periodical attention by his sensational raids on radicals, his warnings of May day uprisings, his several arrests in the Wall Street explosion case which failed to produce convincing evidence, his alleged espionage on members of congress hostile to Daugherty, his employment of Gaston B. Means and the latter's various exploits which have been investigated recently by the senate Daugherty committee.

Burns first attracted national prominence in the famous McNamara dynamiting case at Los Angeles. The international detective agency which bears his name did extensive espionage work for the allied governments during the war.

Burns has been hauled before the senate investigating committees several times recently. Only Wednesday he was closely questioned before the Brookhart committee and was forced to admit that he had discussed the Wheeler indictment in Montant with Blair Coan, agent of the republican national comittee and others opposing Wheeler. He admitted that one of his men had shadowed Gaston B. Means since the Wheeler investigation began but denied this had any connection with the alleged disappearance of Means' diaries containing his sensational records. Whether these admissions had anything to do with his resignation at this time is not known.

Burns revealed that the new attorney general had dismissed a dozen or more dollar a year secret agents who had been appointed under the Daugherty regime.

Ned McLean and Fred Upham, treasurer of the republican national committee, were among these volunteer secret agents who were defended by Burns during a previous appearance before the senate investigation.

During the Teapot Dome investigation of the famous fruit code messages sent to Ned McLean at Palm Beach, Burns admitted that McLean possessed and used a department of justice secret code book.

At the white house it was said President Coolidge did not know of the resignation until he read the afternoon newspapers.

PAVING BIDS ARE ADVERTISED BY CITY

The city commission of Lubbock has granted the request of the attorney for the Panhandle Construction Company, asking that bids be re-advertised for a period of ten days to comply with alll laws regulating the paving project.

The attorney for the contractor contended that the paving certificates would not meet with ready sale unless the regulations are complied with, and that was the reason for the contention having been heard by the city commission.

Machinery with which the paving work will be carried on will be received in the near future, and it was announced Friday at the office of Hawley & Roberts, consulting engineers, that work on the storm sewers will in all probability be started within the next two weeks.

The contractor has ordered a mammoth concrete mixer, with a capacity of 47 feet of concrete to be mixed at one time, and this will be located at a central mixing plant and the mixed materials will be trucked to the places it will be put down. This will do away with a great deal of moving and removing of the machinery and will be a great aid in rushing the big paving job to completion.

LARGE CONSIGNMENT OF SUGAR IS BEING RECEIVED

By United Press

GALVESTON, Texas, May 9—Arrival of the Ida, a Norwegian steamer, brought the total imports of sugar at this port to 40,976 bags for the week and imports for the season to a grand total of 312,000 bags. As a comparison to the amount of sugar imported last year, custom custom house figures show that imports to May 1, 1923, were only 288,000 bags.

In addition to the arrival of the Ida, the Norwegian steamer resfond has arrived with 21,567 bags of raw sugar. Both steamers brought their cargoes from Cuba and were consigned to the Imperial Sugar Company, at Sugar Land.

Customs duties on the two shipments of 15,000,000 pounds aggregated $175,000 according to customs officials.

STEALING THE HILL OUT OF THE PARKS AT HOUSTON

By United Press

HOUSTON, Texas, May 9—Someone is stealing the hills out of Cleveland park, 150 irate citizens, residents of Riverside community, told the ctiy council at a recent session.

The citizens of the little suburb are tired of that brand of pilfering in the dead of night, awakening in the morning to find their beautiful hills have evaporated. If the hlls can't be found they want those that remain to be left alone.

The spokesman for the citizens told the mayor and council that wagons were driven into the park late at night, loaded and driven out again. After a few weeks of this, he said, the most robust hill was reduced to the altitude of a pancake.

It was the contention of one member of the council that police should be put on the trail of the thieves but the mayor decided it was a case of investigation by the park fathers.

CAN'T MIX GOLF AND RELIGION

ROANOKE, Va., (United Press)—Golf and religion don't mix, and never will mix, even with the aid of "ecclesiastical caddies."

With this comment, Bishop Warren A. Candler, speaking at the annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, deplored "the tendency of clergymen to forsake their studies for golf."

"The minister who spends more time playing golf than in his study is not a preacher," Bishop Candler declared.

"I suppose one reason why some preachers have an assistant to help them is because they want to get time to play golf. In order to do this they need ecclesiastical caddies."

DURANT AND STAR AUTO DEALERS OPEN SALESROOMS

H. E. Hicks and son, Colbert, of Mineral Wells, have taken charge of distribution of Star and Durant automobiles in this territory, and have opened a sales room at the corner of 10th and Avenue H.

They are now showing all 1924 open models, and are preparing to take care of a big business here.

These gentlemen are thoroughly experienced in the automobile business and their entrance into the business here adds another strong link to Lubbock's substantial chain of thriving industries.

RUSSIA EXPECTS GOOD GRAIN CROPS; SEEKS FOREIGN CASH

MOSCOW (By Mail to United Press)—Russia expects to have a "satisfactory" crop in 1924, according to a statement issued by the Central Statistical Bureau.

Owing to the fact that most of the land already sown is still covered with snow, the statement must be taken for what it is worth. It is based on reports available from the southern part of the Caucasus, where the fall stand of crops was very satisfactory. The reports from the northern part of the Caucasus and from the trans-Caucasus steppes are less favorable. The report is largely based on the fact that in European-Russia there was a timely and normal snowfall. In the northeast only the snowfall was below normal.

Pregarin, head of the "Grain Export" Section of the State, hopes to export grain heavily this fall. He has just returned from a trip to Germany, England and Holland, where he conferred with foreign capitalists on securing aid to finance the crop and build new grain elevators. Pregarin says Russia is competing successfully with American-grown grain, especially rye.

OVER-CONFIDENT DEMOCRATS.

Undoubtedly the republican party will go into the campaign this year handicapped by the revelations of corruption at Washington and the public indignation aroused thereby. But if it is true, as reported, that there are democratic leaders who for this reason alone are confident that "any democrat can win," they are in need of advice from sage and experienced political observers. If the election had taken place six months earlier there might have been basis for such confidence, but the American public is quick to forget and quicker to grow tired of one subject, not to say fickle and changeable in its attachments. How else are we to explain the rapid dwindling of interest in and weariness of every principle for which the World War was fought, notwithstanding its huge cost in blood as well as treasure, a change even going the length of easy tolerance of German propaganda.

Already there are signs of decreased public interest in the Washington investigations, and by next November it may be found not only that indignation has largely evaporated but that our mercurial public is bored by the subject. The democrats, while making the most of the uncovered corruption, would be wise not to depend on it alone. No experiepced political observer could fail to advise them to pick their very best man and see to it that he preaches constructive and enlightened policies in general. Another thing they need to remember is that in the view of the general public it is not the Coolidge administration but the previous administration that is involved, and that, even when the corruption is admitted, great numbers of voters will be impressed with the argument that Candidate Coolidge himself is free of the taint.

ADMISSION OF JAPANESE.

It is reported that President Coolidge desires the immigration law amended so as to put Japan on a quota basis like the nations of Eurpoe. If this were done, leading newspapers of the East would be pleased and the people of the far West would be deeply offended; Japan would score a victory and congress would yield its soverign right to decide who may or may not be admitted. Then Japan would doubtless follow up its victory with a demand for an open door into Hawaii and the Philippines, so that her "coolies" could swarm in and acquire a majority—the same Japan that will not allow foreigners to own land within its borders and will admit neither Koreans nor Chinese. The only reason why we should discriminate in favor of Japan and against China in this matter is that Japan is a powerful nation.

It is one of the mysteries of the times that Japan, supported by newspapers of the eastern part of the United States, should demand so much more of this country than it has venterued to demand of the British empire during all the years of the British-Japanese alliance. Australia and other British dominions have resolutely refused to admit any Mongolians or yellow races, including the Japanese. It will be argued that the number of Japanese admitted on the present quota basis would be small, but the really important point at issue is the sovereign right of this country to decide for itself who shall be admitted—a sovereign right retained and carefully guarded in the British empire even with Great Britian and Japan in defensive alliances.

A CONVICT'S DAY IN COURT.

It has been shown in Philadelphia that even a felon condemned by the law to prison can successfully appeal to the law for protection. In the Common Pleas Court the other day a convict declared on oath that he had been beaten most brutally by the second deputy warden of the Eastern Penitentiary and was answered by an unqualified denial. It was a question of veracity between a convict and a prison officer, and yet the judge bluntly asked: "Who is lying?" After ten minutes of deliberation the jury decided that the deputy warden was the liar, and found him guilty both of assault and battery and aggravated assault and battery. Evidently the convict, though handicapped by his stripes, carried conviction as well as excited pity.

In his charge to the jury judge, Henry said: "The days of cruel punishment are past. It will not be long before the state legislature does away with the Klondike and other forms of barberous punishment." It is true that brutality to prison inmates has been checked, but it is even more important that the time has come when a supposedly defenseless convict may resent unduly severe usage, have his day in court and get justice. Humanity now unites with law for the protection of the weak, even though in a felon's stripes.

THE HARP COMING INTO ITS OWN.

After centuries of obscurity, the harp is coming into its own. Almost overnight, it seems, so rapid has been its emergence into public favor, it has become an instrument to be reckoned with. No orchestra is complete now without at least one harp, and this is true, not only on the concert stage but in the theatres. Today it is fast becoming an instrument of the people, not only admired by them but played by them. In Syracuse, N. Y., alone there are said to be 500 harpists and the National Convention of Harpists at Indianapolis the first week in May revealed a wonderful change in public sentiment regarding this most ancient musical instrument, for the harp began before the dawn of history.

Wandering Phoenicians brought their harps to Ireland. The Irish took to it and adopted it, adding eventually to the number of strings until they had 32, and adding also the pillar which we know today. Many centuries later it was taken over to Wales by King Griffith, and was much used during the Middle Ages in Europe by the wandering minstrels to accompany their songs of love and war.

For 2,000 years no special improvements in the structure of the harp were undertaken. It was not until 1720 that the first pedal device was invented, allowing the pitch of the strings to be raised a semitone by the mere pressure of the foot on the pedal. The next improvement, nearly a century later, was the double pedal, the double action harp which allows the raising of the pitch of the strings still another semitone.

Professionals of all nationalities seem to agree that the American harp has reached the highest development of any in the world. Just what the future of the harp may be, no one can surely predict. But its present is surely full of promise, and interesting developments may be looked for, if these many signs of renewed life can be trusted.

WHAT ONE MAYOR HAS DONE.

Samuel A. Carlson, now serving his eighth term as Mayor of Jamestown, New York, has smashed another precedent. He is going to establish a municipal dairy and milk distributing plant. "Service" is the word Mayor Carlson designates as the remedy for the lugubrious claim of economists and others that "municipal government in America is a failure."

Since 1908, when he was first elected Mayor he has fought for and with the aid of loyal followers, established: (1) municipal ownership of the Jamestown water and electric light plant; (2) a public market; (3) a city paving and sewerage building plant; (4) a public sanitarium; (5) authorization by the taxpayers of a municipal milk plant and sanitary distribution system.

All of the foregoing have proved "paying investments" for the city and provided without the aid of extra taxation. The per capita cost of the city government in annual tax levy, exclusive of schools is $12.50.

WOMEN IN POLITICAL CONFERENCE.

Women's place in the arena of American politics will be thoruoughly discussed by both men and women at the four-day conference to be held in Washington beginning may 8, under the auspices of the Women's Committee for Political Action. This organization already has a considerable membership in 28 states nearly all of which will be represented at this conference—and it is surprising to note that it is not alone from the "wild and wooly west" that the greatest response has come. Among the states which at present writing have the largest enrollment are, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York, and Illinois.

President Coolidge has vetoed the Bursum Omnibus Pension Bill. The veto was based on the ground of economy, Mr. Coolidge holding that the measure would entail an unwarranted drain on the treasury. This action indicates a presidential veto of the soldiers' bonus bill, for the same reasons. Several Senators and Congressmen are anxious to pass the pension bill over the veto, but many members who voted for the bill will no doubt be content to let the responsibility rest where it is.

The state of Oregon contains one-fifth of the timber of the United States, and the Pacific coast half of all saw lumber in the country. The cut in Oregon in 1922 was nearly four billions board feet, valued at $100,000,000. The state has 740 saw mills, employing 43,000 men, and the lumber is shipped to 21 foreign countries, Japan being the largest buyer, China second and the United Kingdom third, South America is also a large buyer.

Little Avalanches

According to National Automobile Dealers' Association 510,000 used cars were sold in January, February, and March, leaving 563,000 still to be sold. The average price was less than $300, and the average loss on each about $12.

More than 32,000 Japanese agriculturists are ready to emigrate from California and Washington to Mexican state because of the prohibition against continuing leasing or buying lands in the United States.

Governor McMaster, of South Dakota, is "some fighter." He is now inaugurating state gasoline stations to supply state road machinery and for genefal sale, the price being cost plus handling. At Mitchel gas is selling at 18 cents per gallon.

MARKETS

DRIFTING PRICES FEATURE IN STOCKS

By EDWARD J. CONDLON
(UN Financial Editor)

NEW YORK, May 9.—Lethargic trading was the order of the day in Friday's stock market. The public was out of the market, so to speak, and no amount of gesturing by professionals on either side of the market increased trading. Consequently dealings on the exchange were the lightest in many days.

Prices merely drifted. There were however, one or two exceptions to this rule. U. S. Cast Iron Pipe did not drift lower. It fell. The net loss was 4 3-4 with the close at the low of the day. This contrasted with substantial gains in Norfolk and Western Producers and Refiners, and Congoleum. The periodic drive against Yellow Cab materialized and bears saw a drop of 3 3-4 for this pains.

Gains in chain store stocks traded on the exchange this week testify to the soundness of their position. Business mortality for the week stands up better.

Dun makes the totai failures for the United States 376 or 28 less than last week, although 20 higher than during the corresponding week last year. Bradstreet reports immense building operatins throughout the country through the graph for New York shows a perpendicular drop.

OLSON-PASHA BATTLE TO DRAW

Charles Olson, middleweight champion of Canada, and Kala Pasha, "The Terrible Turk," champion of Texas and the southwest, struggled for two hours last night at the city auditorium in a battle for supremacy in the middleweight class in the southwest, but at the end of the two hour period, each had taken one fall, and the match was halted and called a draw.

The match was said by all to be one of the cleanest, most sportmanship match ever staged on the plains, the results being a draw, Pasha having pinned Olson to the mat in an hour and two minutes with a further Nelson and arm strangle, and at the end of another forty-seven minutes Olson evened the match by pinning Pasha to the mat for the full count with a combination double wrist lock and hammer lock. The men weighed in at 160 pounds each.

The outstanding feature of the match was the alertness with which Pasha broke away from Olson's fierce toe holds, which were repeatedly made but not with any effectiveness as Pasha withstood the punishment well and after each breakaway tore into Olson with abated fury.

The first ten minutes of the match showed the wrestlers to be well matched, and as they worked hard for any possible gains they gave the spectators good returns on their admission prices.

During the 18th minute of the first hour, Olson made some headway when he gained a toe hold that for a while made Pasha look pitiful but in his usual fighting manner, Pasha broke away and both men were on their feet for a full minute, but went to the mat in a grapping heap and in no time were on their feet again.

The Canadian showed some signs of fatigue before the middle of the first hour and Pasha seemed to make better headway alert in breaking from the dangerous hold attempted by Olson.

During the apparent listlessness of Olson, Pasha made such headway as to cause some of the spectators to believe that he was about to gain an easy victory but the contest went even again after several hard fights were made.

At the beginning of the match following the rest period the men were on their feet for two full minutes, but Olson tossed Pasha to the mat and took a neck hold, starting one of the most exciting periods during the fight, which each of the wrestlers seemed bent on winning.

Olson gave Pasha severe punishment with a toe hold that made the latter look pitiful for more than a minute, but when this hold was broken the wrestlers seemed to enjoy any opportunity to punish one another.

They had been wrestling 47 minutes of the second period when Olson rushed Pasha for head and arm holds, and with a combination double wrist lock and hammer lock pinned him to the mat for the full count.

The last eleven minutes of the bout were marked by hard fighting on the part of both men, as they were each eager for winning the match, which would have placed the winner in the rank of wrestlers of the south.

Mr. Scott made an announcement before the match in which he assured his hearers that the local American Legion Post is eager to put on several clean, sportsmanship matches here and requested his hearers to help by stating just how the contest was carried on.

Local boys participated in preliminary bouts, both wrestling and boxing. George Charles and Clyde Pratter, twelve years of age, put on one of the classiest fistic bouts ever staged by locals, a shower of nickels dimes and quarters having been given them at the conclusion of their four round bout by the spectators who appreciated their gameness. The lads went the full four rounds, both showing a willingness to make it worth while for all present.

John Slusher and D. Obannon started a three round bout, but Slusher took the count in the second.

Floyd Reed and Alfred Gillmore were matched for wrestling and gave the spectators three and a half minutes good entertainment. Gillmore proved too light for Reed but showed speed and ability to take a great deal of punishment.

AVALANCHE PUBLISHING CO.

"WE PUBLISH THE NEWS"

RULES and REGULATIONS

1. Campaign opens May 12th, (Monday) and extend over a period of seven weeks Closing Saturday June 21st, 1924.

2. Any reputable man, woman or child, residing in Lubbock County, is eligible to enter this election and compete for prize. Nominations may be made at any time during the election.

3. No employe or near relative of any employee of the Lubbock Daily News or the Avalanche Publishing Company, is eligible to enter this distribution. The Avalanche Publishing Company reserves the right to reject any nominations.

4. The winners of the prizes will be selected by their accredited votes, said votes being represented by ballots issued on subscriptions and by coupons clipped from papers.

5. Candidates are confined to any place in Lubbock county and may take orders in Hale, Crosby, Floyd, Lamb, Hockley, Cochran, Lynn, Terry, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum and Garza counties only.

6. Cash must accompany all orders where votes are desired. There will be no exceptions to this rule. Candidates will be allowed to collect subscriptions on New Subscriptions only.

7. Votes are free. It costs the subscriber nothing extra to vote for their favorite. Subscribers should ask for votes when paying their subscriptions at the office, otherwise they waive this privilege.

8. Votes cannot be purchased. Every cent accepted thru the election department MUST represent subscriptions.

9. Votes are NOT transferable. Candidates CANNOT withdraw in favor of another candidate should a candidate withdraw from the race his or her votes will be cancelled. Neither will it be permissable for candidate to give or transfer subscriptions to another candidate. Votes on such transferred subscriptions will be subject to disqualification at the discretion of the management.

10. Any collusion on the part of any candidate to nullify competition, or other combination arrangement of effort to the detriment of the candidates of this newspaper will not be tolerated. The candidate or candidates, entering into or taking part in any such agreement or effort, will forfeit all right to a prize or commission.

11. Any ballot issued on subscription may be held in reserve and voted at the discretion of the candidate. The printed coupons appearing from week to week in the paper must be voted before the expiration of date appearing thereon.

13. No statement or promise made by any solicitor, agent or candidate, varying from the rules and statements published thru the columns of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche, the Lubbock Daily News or the Lubbock (weekly) Avalanche, will be recognized by the management.

14. In case of typographical or other error it is understood that neither the publisher nor the management of contest will be held responsible except for the necessary correction of the same.

15. Every candidate is an authorized agent of the Lubbock Daily News and as such may collect subscription payments from new subscribers.

16. It is distinctly understood and agreed that candidates will be responsible for all money collected and that they will remit such amounts in full at frequent intervals or on demand to the Avalanche Publishing Company.

17. There will be 5 big prizes awarded, besides a 15 per cent cash commission to all active non-prize winners, but it is distinctly understood that in the event any candidate becomes inactive, failing to make a weekly cash report, he or she will, at the discretion of the management, become disqualified and thereby forfeit all right to a prize or commission.

18. To insure absolute fairness in the awarding of prizes, the race will be brought to a close under sealed ballot box system. During the entire last week of the election the box, locked and sealed, will repose in the vaults of a local bank where candidates and their friends will deposit their final collections and reserve votes. And not until the race has been declared closed will the seals be broken, the box unlocked and the final count made. In this way, no one, not even the management can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates which precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.

19. Extension of subscriptions will receive votes according to the vote schedule in effect when the first subscription was paid.

20. The Avalanche Publishing Company reserves the right to amend or add to the rules of this election, if necessary, for the protection of the interests of both the candidates and the Lubbock Daily News. The right is also reserved to increase and add to the list of prize.

21. The Avalanche Publishing Company guarantees fair and impartial treatment to all candidates, but should any question arise, the decision of the management will be absolute and final. In accepting the nomination candidates agree to abide by above conditions.

22. The Avalanche Publishing Company is giving this mammoth prize election and the management of the Lubbock Daily News guarantees absolute fair and impartial treatment to all candidates who participate.

This is a very liberal offer and is made to introduce to Lubbock and the South Plains the Lubbock Daily News—a newspaper with its own wire service and with its own distinctive features. This is your opportunity to secure, without cost, prizes that would ordinarily take months, even years, of self-denial and saving to acquire. And here they are offered to you in exchange for your spare time and effort the next few weeks. THE PRIZE you win will be just as GREAT as you make it.

Lesson for May 11

JEHOIADA'S VICTORY OVER BAAL

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 11:1-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Be strong in the Lord, and in the power or His might." —Eph. 6:10.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Kind Woman Saves a Baby King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Story of a Boy King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God's Hand in Human Affairs.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Jehoiada Meant to Judah.

Joash, viewed in the light of his ancestors, was a poor prospect for a king. His grandmother was the wicked Athaliah and his great-grandparents were Ahab and Jezebel. There was enough bad blood in his veins to assure his doom. Despite this fact, he brought about some noble reforms and turned the people back to God.

I. Athaliah Usurps the Throne. (vv. 1-3).

1. Her Attempt to Destroy the Seed Royal (v. 1). In order to remove any rightful claimant to the throne she tried to kill all the royal male children. The act was not of sudden impulse, but of deliberate purpose.

2. Joash Preserved by Jehosheba (vv. 2, 3). Though Athaliah was keen eyed, she was checkmated by another woman. This woman, the wife of the priest, stole away this child and hid him away in a bedchamber for six years. God had promised that through the Davidic line the Messiah should come. In order that this line be unbroken Joash must be preserved. No purpose of God can fail.

II. Joash Crowned King (vv. 4-12).

1. Jehoiada's Preparations (vv. 4-11). The high priest and his wife were strong characters. As the high priest, Jehoiada felt that it was his duty to thwart the heathen project of Athaliah. His wife's co-operation made possible the saving of Joash.

(1) Seeks the aid of the military leaders (v. 4). He knew somehow that these men were not loyal to Athaliah.

(2) He took an oath of them in the house of the Lord (v. 4). He bound them to their agreement by every available means.

(3) He incited their spirit of patriotism (v. 4). He gave them a sight of the king's son. This, no doubt, was a great surprise. Now, having seen the heir to the throne, they would risk everything, even their lives, in order to set him on the throne.

(4) He co-ordinates all matters (vv. 5-11). The soldiers were divided into companies and arms were distributed to them. Each group was assigned to specific duties.

2. The Coronation (v. 12).

(1) The king's son brought forth. This was a great day in Jerusalem.

(2) Put the crown upon him. This was the formal induction into office.

(3) Gave him the testimony. This was a copy of the law indicating that the king was to rule according to the law of God. The act of putting the law on his head showed that the king himself would be under control of the law.

(4) Made him king. This shows that he had been made king by the choice of the people.

(5) Anointed him. They poured oil upon his head. This was the usual method of consecrating prophets, priests and kings.

(6) Clapped their hands. This was a token of joy. The deed being done, they were ready to publicly proclaim it. They shouted "Long live the king."

III. Athaliah Slain (vv. 13-17).

1. The Noise of the Coronation of Joash Brought Athaliah to the Temple (v. 15). Up to this time she thought her place on the throne was secure and that her heathen religion had free course.

2. Her Doom (v. 14). Upon her arrival at the temple she saw the king wearing the crown and surrounded by guards so that she could do nothing. In her despair she exclaimed "Treason, treason." This was not treason, but the triumph of right over wrong—the defeat of conspiracy and plotting.

3. Athaliah Executed (vv. 15, 16). The orders were that she should not be killed in the temple. They led her out by the way of the horses' entrance to the king's palace and slew her. What a tragic end for the sinner. Sin can only prosper for a time.

IV. Worship of the People (vv. 17, 18).

Joash was seven years old when he was made king. The high priest made a covenant between the Lord, the king and the people that they would be the Lord's people. In carrying out this covenant they broke down the temple of Baal and slew the priests of Baal.

When Success Fails

There is no failure more heartbreaking and disastrous than success which leaves God out of the bargain. If you are simply setting out in life to amass mere material success, fame created or position gained, then success will be the most dismal and disastrous failure.—G. Campbell Morgan.

The Extent of Usefulness

SIX MEN DIE BY HANGMAN'S NOOSE

bandits. He was shot down. An Italian living in the neighborhood

There were seven official witnesses of the actual executions, two physicians and five civilians, three of the latter latter being newspaper reporters.

But outside the walls of the jail thousands of persons pressed close to a cordon formed by two companies of militiamen, who stood shoulder to shoulder in a wall of authority behind a moat filled with water. There had been threats of vengeance and whisperings of diverting riot under cover of which thecondemned men were to be rescued.

As Deamore walked to the gallows beside Leona he sang in a melancholy voice:

"Nobody's Nobody knows and nobody seems to care," a jazz time song that was current in the days of his last freedom. Two priests walked with them as far as the gallows. Leona was shouthing "Good bye, good bye everyone."

The priests mumbled their prayers as the nooses were adjusted and the next instant the axe flashed through the air.

The officials were calmly awaiting the expiration of the legal minimum of 20 minutes before cutting down the dangling figures when an attendant rushed from the jail and summoned the doctors to Lemantia's cell. They found Lemantia dying from wounds and said he could only live a few minutes. Lemantia was placed in a chair and Bocchio was hurriedly summoned to go with him to the scaffold. With obscene haste, the dying man and the unnerved Bocchio were rushed to the trap and the hangman was summoned back to attend to them.

There was more deliberation in the removal of Remi and Giglio and they went out at 1:16 p. m. All the men were natives of Italy and only two of them had been fully naturalized citizens.

Deamore was 41 years old and the father of a family living in New Orleans but was still an Italian citizen after 15 years residence in the city. He recently attempted to kill himself in his cell.

ter 1927 in reference to 'national origin' were on thin ice during the 21st conference. It is not unlikely that both clauses will be eliminated when the bill again comes before the house."

Repudiation of the Coolidge compromise on Japanese exclusion was an unexpected shock to the white house. The president has made no attempt to minimize the gravity of what the administration considers as a useless affront to Japan. It is known that the president believed that a summary disregarded of the gentleman's agreement, now in effect, would lead to an international situation of some discomfort and he has not concealed his view that such an affront is uncalled for.

President Coolidge had been advised by republican leaders and some of the immigration conferees that congress was not in a mood to submit to dictation on the question.

The administration went into the immigration fight confident that the peculiar crcumstances of the situation, would give it a small margin of victory.

Long after his usual hour the president remained in the executive office awaiting the report which he believed would be favorable.

Shortly before 6 o'clock he was advised that the house had refused to accept his plea for time in which to determine the question of Japanese exclusion by treaty. During debates and votes on the conferees report, the temperature of the house steadily soared. Republican and democratic leaders were scouring the lobbies and corridors for stray votes. Cheers and clapping greeted every speaker and when the roll call took place the buzz of conversation became a roar The speaker repeatedly rapped for order and in the confusion a number of names were misread and votes wrongly recorded by the clerks.

BUFFALO BAYOU FRATS STRAT FISHING ACTIVITIES

By United Press

HOUSTON, Texas, May 9—The Buffalo bayou fishing fraternity has officially launched its activities for the season.

That much was attested when "Trigger Leg" Daton caught his first alligator gar fish of the season in Graveyard Branch and was seen dragging his quarry to the end of a plow line through the San Felipe section leaving behind him a strong suggestion of a merger between a fish market and a moonshine still.

"Done hokked Ol' Granpa Gar," he told the envious colored populace. "Ye, sir; dis is de fish dat been eatin' all dem cattle an' pigs de farmer out yonder los'. I bet I make 'im sorry about all dat when I gets him in ma chowder pot."

"Trigger Legg" at dusk had traded over 40 pounds of his 20 pound fish for various assortments of liquid refreshments. The last seen of him he was asleep in an alley with a committee of cats in the offing, pondering the problem of getting the remainder of the gar without waking its owner.

Interesting Facts Concerning Sanitary Regulations

July, August and September are the months when most people plan to take their vacations, and they are not only the most healthful months in the year, but they are the months which for some years past have been showing the greatest decline in mortality. Everyone wants to die happy, but nobody wants to die while enjoying a vacation. Fortunately vacations are not perilous as they used to be, and by the exercise of a little forethought and prudence the few lurking dangers can usually be avoided.

Summer drownings are not as numerous as formerly in spite of the fact that more persons are exposed to risk. The increased knowledge of swimming, the improved methods of rescue work and a more genral understanding of resuscitation methods, probably accounts for the decline. Back in 1914, the mortality tables of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show that ten out of every 100,000 of its industrial policyholders met death by drowning. Last year it ran less than seven. In July 1921 the company was paying claims at the rate of nine deaths by drowning daily. Last July the average was almost two less. Accidental drowning is still a serious vacation peril, but most deaths from this cause are preventable ones and the exercise of extreme care on the part of both swimmers and non-swimmers cannot be too strongly urged.

The enforcement of better sanitary regulations at summer resorts, particularly as they relate to the water supply and the disposal of wastes, has tended to reduce the danger from typhoid fever and intestinal diseases. Good food, fresh air and good water are the three prime requisites of any vacation. Fresh air is generally taken for granted, but one cannot be too careful in assuring himself that the resort selected has a dependably pure water supply and that the food supply is everything that it ought to be. Health departments have done good work in improving the standards of milk dealers and ought to be an easy task to find a place where even the baby will thrive, on the vacation diet. It is largely because people are willing to take a chance in summer and drink water from polluted sources, or milk from dairies where cleanliness is not rigidly attained, that vacation time is usually followed by a sad aftermath of typhoid fever cases in the early fall months.

Sunstroke and heat prostrations are summer perils rather than vacation dangers. Vacationists can usually play safe by playing a little less strenuously when the mercury climbs to the top of the tube. Persons who are not on vacations may be less able to regulate their working activities. The number of fatal and non-fatal heat strokes varies greatly from year to year. It upsets one's preconceived notions but a study of the mortality figures for the United States Registration Area for 21 years shows that colored persons have a higher death rate from heat prostrations than do the whites It isn't because more negroes live in the South either. The fact that the highest death rates from the effects of heat are not found in the southern states. The lowest rates usually prevail in the Mountain states, particularly in Colorado and Montana; in Washington and on the Pacific Coast, and in Maine ad Vermont of the New England states. The states in most years show above averages are Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, New York New Jersey, and Pennsylvanio, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Maryland, and Missouri. North Carolina and South Carolina, year after year show very low death rates from this cause, and the figures for Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia are well below the average for the Registration Area.

GERMANY IS NOW BUYING MANY LUXURIES

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, May 10.—Germany's monthly imports of southern fruits, heretofore classified as luxuries, are amounting to more than $3,000,00.

This fact, revealed by the National Statistical Office, has led to protests of banks and business houses against the utilization of foreign currencies, so badly needed by industry in general, for payments of this nature.

Stabilization of the mark brought with it a certain wave of spending for luxuries which, since the war, had virtually been lacking in Germany.

As a result, markets are now overflowing with oranges, tangerines, lemons, dates, bananas, pineapples and the like.

The statistical bureau shows among other things the following imports for one month in double centners: bananas 659, oranges and tangerine 143,300, lemons 29,541, pineapples 1,068, chestnuts 3,028, cocoanuts 5,162.

Part of this import came from Italy, but about twice as much arrived from Spain.

The fact that the Spanish fruit-growing business is so heavily favored is being criticized in business quarters, since Spain has introduced certain anti-dumping duties in order to bar German wares.

German food prices are still continuing at a high level. Coffee, butter and vegetables are 100 per cent higher than before the war, while eggs are more than 200 per cent above the pre-war level. Clothing and eating costs are excessive, but rents are gradually being placed on the pre-war basis.

Unemployment is gradually disappearing; building trades report considerable construction, especially of small villa houses in the outskirts of the bigger cities.

HEAVY INFANT MORALITY IN GREAT BRITAIN

By CLIFFORD L. DAY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON (By Mail to United Press)—John Bull is patting himself on the back for raising a healthier lot of youngsters nowadays than in times past, yet there are a couple of flies in the ointment of self-satisfaction.

While baby Britons are being born bonnier every year, an unnecessarily heavy infant mortality is reported and too many Tiny Tims are hopping around on crutches.

Sir Kingsley Wood, M. P. in an address at the Faculty of Insurance Conference in London, said the children of the nation in 1923 were better in physique, health and cleanliness than ever before. Sir Kingsley declared that 80 to 90 per cent of Britain's youngsters are born healthy and able to lead normal and healthy lives. Medicine has made such great conquests, he added, that a child born today has an expectation of twelve years more of life than had his grandfather.

On the other hand a report issued by the government medical research committee states that in 1922 more than 60,000 babies died in England before they were a year old—77 out of every thousand born. Deaths of children up to 5 years old reached the total of 93,762. The report adds that "probably any rate over thirty (deaths per thousand) should be regarded as preventable." It appears from this statement that forty-seven babies out of every thousand born die before they are a year old from causes which are considered preventable.

Sir Kingsley Wood also declared there are about 35,000 crippled children of school age in England and Wales, but that 80 per cent of these could be cured if the disability were dealt with early.

NEW JOCKEY IDOL BRITISH PUBLIC

LONDON (By Mail to United Press)—Flat-racing means about as much in an Englishman's life as baseball does in an American's. That's why Charlie Smirke, 17-year-old jockey, is the Babe Ruth of the hour over here.

Smirke has already established a lead among the jockeys for the championship of the flat-racing program. Nothing much had ever been heard of the lad until the other day, when it was found that he had won eleven times in twelve days.

Short of stature, but remarkably strong the new star is making Elliott, Steve Donokhue, Archibald, the American, and other established aces sit up and take notice. He is a London-bred boy. Hundreds of pounds sterling have been offered him for a race in which he wasn't egaged for his own stable. Lightweights of his strength and capacity are few.

Meanwhile Donoghue, winner of the last three Derbys, never has quite recovered from the defeat he and Papyrus suffered in the United States last fall at the hands, or the hoofs, of Zev.

LAY TEAM WILL GO TO CROSBYTON NEXT SUNDAY

A gospel team of laymen will accompany Rev. Jack M. Lewis, of the local First Presbyterian Church, to Crosbyton Sunday where they will conduct services at the Methodist Church at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The team is composed of H. E. Blocker, S. C. Wilson, L. C. Ellis, H. D. Woods and the pastor.

Regular services will be conducted at the local church, the party will leave immediately after noon for Crosbyton and will start home shortly after the services at Crosbyton are concluded and will reach home in time for the pastor to render the regular evening services at his church.

"WE PUBLISH THE NEWS"

RULES and REGULATIONS

1. Campaign opens May 12th, (Monday) and extend over a period of seven weeks Closing Saturday June 21st, 1924.

2. Any reputable man, woman or child, residing in Lubbock County. is eligible to enter this election and compete for prize. Nominations may be made at any time during the election.

3. No employe or near relative of any employee of the Lubbock Daily News or the Avalanche Publishing Company, is eligible to enter this distribution. The Avalanche Publishing Company reserves the right to reject any nominations.

4. The winners of the prizes will be selected by their accredited votes, said votes being represented by ballots issued on subscriptions and by coupons clipped from papers.

5. Candidates are confined to any place in Lubbock county and may take orders in Hale, Crosby, Floyd, Lamb, Hockley, Cochran, Lynn, Terry, Dawson, Gaines, Yoakum and Garza counties only.

6. Cash must accompany all orders where votes are desired. There will be no exceptions to this rule. Candidates will be allowed to collect subscriptions on New Subscriptions only.

7. Votes are free. It costs the subscriber nothing extra to vote for their favorite. Subscribers should ask for votes when paying their subscriptions at the office, otherwise they waive this privilege.

8. Votes cannot be purchased. Every cent accepted thru the election department MUST represent subscriptions.

9. Votes are NOT transferable. Candidates CANNOT withdraw in favor of another candidate should a candidate withdraw from the race his or her votes will be cancelled. Neither will it be permissable for candidate to give or transfer subscriptions to another candidate. Votes on such transferred subscriptions will be subject to disqualification at the discretion of the management.

10. Any collusion on the part of any candidate to nullify competition, or other combination arrangement of effort to the detriment of the candidates of this newspaper will not be tolerated. The candidate or candidates, entering into or taking part in any such agreement or effort, will forfeit all right to a prize or commission.

11. Any ballot issued on subscription may be held in reserve and voted at the discretion of the candidate. The printed coupons appearing from week to week in the paper must be voted before the expiration of date appearing thereon.

13. No statement or promise made by any solicitor, agent or candidate, varying from the rules and statements published thru the columns of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche, the Lubbock Daily News or the Lubbock (weekly) Avalanche, will be recognized by the management.

14. In case of typographical or other error it is understood that neither the publisher nor the management of contest will be held responsible except for the necessary correction of the same.

15. Every candidate is an authorized agent of the Lubbock Daily News and as such may collect subscription payments from new subscribers.

16. It is distinctly understood and agreed that candidates will be responsible for all money collected and that they will remit such amounts in full at frequent intervals or on demand to the Avalanche Publishing Company.

17. There will be 5 big prizes awarded, besides a 15 per cent cash commission to all active non-prize winners, but it is distinctly understood that in the event any candidate becomes inactive, failing to make a weekly cash report, he or she will, at the discretion of the management, become disqualified and thereby forfeit all right to a prize or commission.

18. To insure absolute fairness in the awarding of prizes, the race will be brought to a close under sealed ballot box system. During the entire last week of the election the box, locked and sealed, will repose in the vaults of a local bank where candidates and their friends will deposit their final collections and reserve votes. And not until the race has been declared closed will the seals be broken, the box unlocked and the final count made. In this way, no one, not even the management can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates which precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.

19. Extension of subscriptions will receive votes according to the vote schedule in effect when the first subscription was paid.

20. The Avalanche Publishing Company reserves the right to amend or add to the rules of this election, if necessary, for the protection of the interests of both the candidates and the Lubbock Daily News. The right is also reserved to increase and add to the list of prize.

21. The Avalanche Publishing Company guarantees fair and impartial treatment to all candidates, but should any question arise, the decision of the management will be absolute and final. In accepting the nomination candidates agree to abide by above conditions.

22. The Avalanche Publishing Company is giving this mammoth prize election and the management of the Lubbock Daily News guarantees absolute fair and impartial treatment to all candidates who participate.

This is a very liberal offer and is made to introduce to Lubbock and the South Plains the Lubbock Daily News—a newspaper with its own wire service and with its own distinctive features. This is your opportunity to secure, without cost, prizes that would ordinarily take months, even years, of self-denial and saving to acquire. And here they are offered to you in exchange for your spare time and effort the next few weeks. THE PRIZE you win will be just as GREAT as you make it.

BACK AMERICAN FOR REPARATIONS BOARD

By A. G. B. HART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, Mexico (By Mail to United Press)—A powerful campaign is being waged here and in the United States, with a view to securing the appointment on the board of United States-Mexico reparations as Commissioner of William Louis Vail, one of the most active and popular members of the American colony in the city.

Vail left his home in California and arrived in Mexico in the early part of 1895 in the interest of the San Francisco Chronicle. Later he became the editor and manager of The Two Republics, the oldest American daily in Mexico. Later he became associated with the United States and Mexico Trust Company, in charge of their land business, eventually leaving to enter the general investment business on his own account, as W. L. Vail & Co., in which enterprise he is still engaged.

Vail is a prominent Mason—by far the most prominent and active Mason in this country. He is a past master of the Mexico City Lodge, and was for many years Sovereign Grand Commander of the Scottish Rites of the Republic of Mexico.

BUILD A HOME.

C. OF C. RECEIVES MANY REQUESTS FOR INFORMATION

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce is often called upon for various forms of information, but it is believed by members of the office force that Friady's mail brought a pair of very peculiar requests.

One was from a city in Colorado asking about the production of flax in this territory, stating that the company wanted regular shipments. The other was more reasonable in a way, yet evidently, according to several local real estate men, showed that the writer had had very little ro no previous experience with real estate dealers, as the letter requested a list of reliable real estate men of your town. The secretary has a lot of confidence in the citizenship of Lubbock, and decided that he could send the name of every real estate dealer in the city who is a member of the chamber without overstepping himself.

Yes indeed, some folks ask varied and even funny things of a civic organization like the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

REPRESENTATIVES OF THE HOUSTON POLICE TO LONDON

By United Press

HOUSTON, Texas, May 9—Oscar F. Hope, of the Houston mounted police force and incidentally the world's champion bulldogger, will represent this city and his native state in the International rodeo to be held at Membley Park, England, some 25 miles from London, on June 17 to 24. Hope has already left Houston for London, where he will stay a short time before going to the rodeo and exposition grounds.

Embarking with Hope on his journey to annex international laurels will be his famous roping horse "Frank", one of the biggest factors in the many achievements won by the Houston "cowboy cop." The horse is intelligent, strong and fleet of foot, and Hope is ready to stack him against any other quadruped that will be entered in the internationgl spectacle.

The rodeo is being promoted by Tex Auston, one of the foremost producers of rodeos in the world and the prize money will mount into five figures. There will be entries from all section of America, ranches from Argentina, vaqueros from Mexico, wranglers from Canada and Australia.

Hope is winner of many prizes at rodeos in Texas and the surrounding states. He will enter the calf-roping contest, the steer bulldogging event and the 100-yard swim on a horse over the Thames river. He has obtained a 90 day leave of absence from the police department.

For one dollar you may be able to save $200 at the Leader next trades day, June 2nd. 166-tf

DALLAS SHERIFF PUTS BAN ON INDECENT DANCE ANYWHERE

By United Press

DALLAS, Texas, May 9—Sheriff Dan Hartson of Dallas county has declared war on indecent dancing and roadside petting parties.

He has organized a special raiding squad of deputies to invade dance halls on country roads and arrest indecent dancers. Likewise he has determined to break up the "pet and parking" system which he claims accompanies the roadhouse dances

"We are going to haul every intoxicated dancer off the floor and hold them until they reveal the source of their liquor supply," Sheriff Harfson declared. "Likewise we are going to put a stop to immoral dancing and roadside petting parties."

One of several country dance pavilions under surveillance has already been closed by injunction evidence gathered by Sheriff Hartson.

SOUTH AFRICA TO TO SETTLE ROW AT POLLS

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for United Press)

NEW YORK, May 10.—General Hertzog, the Collins of South Africa, who wants to make South Africa a republic by peaceful constitutional means, has challenged the pro-imperial rule of Premier Smuts, of ten described as the most experienced statesman in the world. A battle of great significance is now being waged among these two Boers, which will terminate in the South African elections between June 15 and 20.

Premier Smuts, the only signer of the Versailles treaty who protested the unworkability of the document, nevertheless was able to annex German South Africa to his own colony and has made annexation work. But his Premiership of the South African Union has greatly antagonized the Boers and the Socialists workingmen because they believe he is too quick to use military methods to deal with unruly situations. He called out the army against Boer revolters during the world war and suppressed the insurrectors. He also used the same system in dealing with workingmen's strikes since the war. The League of Nations, too, has condemned his use of airplane bombing to collect native taxes.

Smuts Ruthless

These ruthless methods of General Smuts is charge with carrying into political quarrels. His rule, therefor, has antagonized the Nationalists, under General Hertzog, and the Socialists under the leadership of the South African Debs, a man named Creswell.

General Smuts' downfall would test the strength of the movement in South Africa to break away from British rule, though not by any such methods as proved ineffective in Ireland. General Hertzog has never associated himself with rebellion. He is not a dreamer like De Valera. His agitation for independence has always been such as to keep him strictly within the law. He does not resemble the old type of Paul Kruger Boer, relying on divine inspiration instead of scientific knowledge for prosperity.

General Hertzog is highly educated and suave and adroit politician. An effort has been made to connect General Hertzog with the postponment of the Prince of Wales' South African trip planned for this summer. But, the real reason for the postponement has been the strict constitutionality of the British crown which prevents its interference in an election. If the Prince had persisted in his visit he would have arrived in the midst of the Parliamentary campaign and might have been accused of desiring to aid General Smuts.

Not a De Valera

General Hertzog, in a statement in the South African House of Assembly, declared "if the Prince visited South Africa in the future he would be greeted with the respect and warmth worthy of his high position and of the South African people." This statement has set at rest rumors that General Hertzog would develop De Valera tactics if he should become the next South African Premier.

Nevertheless the possibility of a peaceful separation from the British Empire is never absent from General Hertzog's thoughts. Should he head the next Ministry at Capetown South African public opinion will be given various opportunities to express itself on this question.

The Socialists, who oppose General Smuts an dsupport General Hertzog, are not as a rule separatists. Independence might be very costly to maintain, while the present form of practically complete autanomy is a free gift of the British fleet. Furthermore, it was the fact of union with Great Britain which caused South Africa to get the enormously valuable German colonies. A fight in South Africa for independence would mean civil war in an area where the native blacks outnumber the whites nine to one. So, civil war will not be the answer, net matter how the June elections result.

SALES AGAIN SET GREATER RECORD

For the third successive week Dodge Brothers dealers have broken all previous retail delivery records.

During the week ending April 5th 5694 cars were delivered to purchasers. This was more than 100 in excess of the greatest previous week's business in Dodge Brothers history. This record, however, was of brief duration, as the very next week saw the delievery of 6106 cars at retail.

And now it is disclosed by official figures from the factory that the week ending April 19th sets still another and much greater record, with 6576 deliveries to customers.

In neither case do these figures include cars delivered to purchasers in foreign countries.

The consistency with which Dodge Brothers business continues to mount is cited by factory officials as an indication of the public's widetpread and emphatic endorsement of the unusual value in the new line of Dodge Brothers motor cars. Week after week and month after month, since the quantity production was attained on the new types, new records have been established.

Every week in this period has exceeded in volume of business the corresponding week of any previous year.

HUNGARY BANS BANANA SONG AS IMMORAL

VIENNA (By Mail to United Press)—The kingdom of Hungary has no bananas, either real or of the sing-song variety. A depreciated currency automatically shuts out the fruit itself and the police have forbidden the singing of "Yes we have—," etc., on the ground that it is immoral.

The Hungarian who translated the song into the native tongue gave it a few suggestive touches of his own, with the result that one good American song has been refused immigration privileges into Hungary.

The police of Vienna apparently not being particularly interested in the banana trade, have raised no objection to the introduction of new varieties of bananas.

MORGAN BARELY ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY IN DOCKING OF SHIP

By United News.

NEW YORK, May 9.—J. P. Morgan had a narrow escape from injury as the Homeric, on which he returned from Europe Thursday, lay anchored in a heavy fog that envelopes New York harbor.

The Homeric was rolling rather heavily and Morgan was pacing the promenade deck. Suddenly, a gangway which had been lashed to the rail broke loose and toppled over missing the financier by about an inch and landing on the deck with a loud crash.

Morgan was calm following this near accident, but appeared somewhat nervous later when 20 newspaper men rushed to his suite.

He refused point blank to discuss international finance or the proposed German loan.

When he was asked if he were bringing with him a contract for $100,000,000 of the loan, as reported from Europe, Morgan declared that "even if he had the contract in his pocket at the time, it is obvious that I cannot discuss it with you now."

KANSAN GETS 30 YEARS FOR MURDER

By United News.

MOUND CITY, Kan., May 9.—The curiosity of his farmer neighbors has resulted in the meting out of a sentence of 30 years in prison to J. Ellison Scott, former prosperous LaCygene, Kan., merchant for the murder of his wife a year ago

Judge E. C. Gates sentenced him Friday, after a jury had found him guilty of a second degree murder earlier in the week.

The verdict returned by the jury and the subsequent action of the court ended one of the most sensasational trials held in the state in recent years.

Mrs. Scott was slain in her home shortly after returning from a picture show, with her husband. Scott claims he was in his garage in the rear of the home when he heard shots and upon rushing into the house found his wife dying.

His story was accepted by a coroners jury. But the farmers, many who traded with Scott and who were very friendly with his pretty wife, weren't so easily satisfied. They raised a purse and asked the attorney generals office to make an investigation.

Scott's arrest followed. He was tried for murder and the jury disagreed.

In the meantime, rumors began to circulate through the neighborhood that Scott had other than a platonic friendship with his attractive niece Arleen.

So many different stories were told that a warrant was sworn out for the girls arrest on a charge of an accessory to the crime. A deputy sheriff served the warrant upon her in the school room where she was holding class.

"This is terrible" she exclaimed. "It is the work of a lot of gossipy women."

As in his first trial Scott maintained a serene calm toward the entire proceedings and even smiled at the crowd of country folks who had driven from miles around to hear the evidence.

When sentence was pronounced Friday, Scott said: "You are doing me an injustice. I am not guilty."

"Scott, I cannot believe your story," Judge Gates replied.

Counsel for Scott served notice they would appeal the case to the supreme court.

SPECIAL PLANE TO AID SEARCH FOR MARTIN

By United News.

SEATTLE, Wash, May 9.—Mechanicians at the Sand Point Air Base here were busy Thursday evening preparing a plane for shipment north to aid in the search for Major Fredk. L. Martin and Sergt. Alva Harvey, missing air men for whom vessels in Alaskan waters have searched for the last nine days.

These preparations were directed by Lt. T. J. Koenig, commandant of the field, who earlier in the day had reveived telegraphic orders from Major General M. M. Patrick chief of army air forces in Washington, asking that the plane be made ready for shipment northward at once.

Captain Frederick G. Dodge, chief of the coast guard service for the north Pacific coast and Behring base was under jnstructions to prepare to ship the machine aboard the coast guard cutter Bear, which is to arrive here Friday from Oakland, Cal, and will sail northward on Monday.

It was understood here that an officer and enlisted man from Crissy field, San Francisco, were en route north to man the searching plane.

A Curtiss JN-6 plane was being made ready for the aviators.

It is understood that Major General Patrick issued orders for the new search on request of Lt. Clayton Bissell, advance officer for the round-the-world flight who is aboard the coast guard cutter Algonquin that lead the search through the North Pacific ocean and the Behring sea during the last nine days for the lost fliers.

Lt. Bissell refuses to agree with the opinion of other oficials that Major Martin and Sgt. Harvey are lost, and has insisted that the systematic search be instituted, as he feels that the missing men will be found alive.

Search for the lost fliers has been conducted in the most thorough manner possible utilizing every available seacraft in Alaskan Waters adjacent to the path of the aviators from Chignik, where they took off, to Dutch Harbor their intended destination.

This, however, had not satisfied Lt. Bissell and he requested a searching plane which can cover every inch of the territory above land and sea, finding somewhere he believes, a clue to the whereabouts of the men.

Two Ordered To Service

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—First Lieutenant Earle H. Tonkin, and Sergeant Ivan O. Cooper of the army air service at Crissey Field, Presidio, Thursday afternoon were ordered to prepare for service in Alaska to conduct a systematic search over water and land in the territory between Chignik and Dutch Harbor for Major Frederick L. Martin and Seargeant Alva Harvey, round-the-world fliers lost for the last nine days.

Saturday morning, the two airmen will leave San Francisco in a DeHaviland plane for Seattle's Sand Point air base, stopping enroute in Eugene, Oro., for refueling.

Sunday they will "park" their machine at Sand Point, going aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Bear, now en route from Oakland, California to Seattle.

Monday the Bear sails northward, stopping at Chignik under special orders of the coast guard service to discharge the Presidio airmen and a Curtis plane being read at Sand Point for the Alaskan searching expedition.

Orders to the Presidio fliers came by telegraph from Major General Patrick, chief of the army air service, Washington, and created much interest in military circles here.

"If we can only find Major Martin and Sergeant Harvey, that will be sufficient recompense for any hardships or hazards that our service will bring," Lt. Tonkin replied in response to a statement regarding his assignment.

Coast uard Cutter Aids

OAKLAND Calif., May 9.—Orders issued to the coast guard cutter Bear to assist in sending searchers to Alaska to hunt for Major Martin and Seargeant Harvey, lost American round-the-world fliers, marks an interesting high light in the career of one of the most famous of American coast guard service vessels.

Sailing sorth on her farewell cruise—her fortieth annual pilgrimage in the Artic seas—the Bear is marking the anniversary of her rescue of the Greely polar expedition in 1884 by carrying Lt. Tonkin and Sergeant Cooper to Chignik; their base for the hunt for Major Martin and his companion flier.

In the intervening years since her rescue of the Greely expedition survivors the Bear has annually cruised in the northern seas, picking up ice marooned sailors; giving first aid to settlements; carrying missionary supplies and conveying scientists all in the service of humanity on the frontier of civilization.

JOHNSON KNOCKS OUT ROMERO IN SEVENTH

By United News.

RINGSIDE, MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, May 9.—Quentin Romero, one of Tex Rickard's importations from South America for the summer trade around New York, was knocked sprawling on his face in a puddle of his own gore in the seventh round of his first fight in the United States.

Floyd Johnson, who was a hopeful aspirant for the championship a year ago, but who is now reduced to the status of a trial horse, was picked to test Romero. He belted him with short rights to the face and in clinches made Quentin's face an awful thing to look at before the fight had gone three rounds. Romero had the stout heart of a Firpo, but very little defense, and his attack consisted of two hand swings at the face, most of which were so deliberate that they could be blocked, or missed Johnson completely.

After being knocked down in the first round for a count of three by a swing to the jaw, and again in the second for four numericals from a general attack, Romero regathered his strength and piled so many swings on Floyd's chin in the third round that Johnson swayed around with heavy feet and a light head.

Romero was down again in the fifth round from an attack and took a count of four, but Johnson himself was so confused at the bell that he went to Romero's corner and sat down. The Chilean politely asked him to leave. Johnson nodded and smiled. Romero threatened to use a dynamite blast to remove him. Then Floyd regained his senses and removed himself to his own corner.

TUESDAY, NOT FRIDAY, THE UNLUCKY DAY

LONDON (By Mail to United Press)—Friday is Tuesday in Anatolia and Mesopotamia, as far as luck is concerned.

Americans, Englishmen and a lot of other people may think it's unlucky to start anything, such as married life or railway trips, on a Friday. Well, the Anatolian and Mesopotamaian can tell the Yankees the Britons and the others that they're all wrong about this business, because Tuesday is the day to go easy with.

A Constantinople subscriber has written his favorite London newspaper saying the Turks consider the third day of the week "a day of evil omen, simply because the Greeks regarded it as such after the fall of Constantinople.

An Athens contributor thinks, however, that the superstition dates back farther than that, probably to Babylonian days. Christians in Kurdistan, he says, explain their own observance of Tuesday as unlucky day by saying it was then that Judas drove his bargain with the chief priests. Yet, on the other hand, he adds, the same superstition prevails among the Mussulman and Yezidis.

"EAT MORE" CAMPAIGNS DANGEROUS, SAYS DOCTOR

MADISON, Wis., (United Press)—"Eat More" campaigns, conducted by food producers urging the public to eat more of their product, will result in a race of fat people if the advertisers are successful, according to to Dr. Elmer Sevringhaus of the University of Wisconsin.

"In an effort to avoid the disasters of an unbalanced diet," he said, "many people are over-eating and ill health is the result.

"The study of diabetes during the past ten years has been shown that continuous over-eating is a large factor in causing this disease."

LABORER CHARGED WITH MURDER OF YOUNG GIRL

FULTON, Mo., May 9.—Fred Hager, 32, a railroad laborer, was arrested here late Friday on a charge of murder in connection with the slaying of Daisy Ashby, 14, whose decomposed body was found hidden under a brush pile near Glasgow.

The girl had been missing fram hame sinc Feb. 2. About her neck was a belt she was wearing when she disappeared, leading authorities to believe that she had been first criminally assaulted and then strangled to death by her assailant in an effort to conceal the crime.

Charles J. Bishop, sheriff of Callaway county, made the arrest.

UNION OF METHODIST CHURCHES MAY LEAD TO LONG SERIES OF PROCEEDINGS, HERALD EDITOR SAYS

EDITOR'S NOTE:—Decision of the Methodist's Conference at Springfield, Mass., to unify the northern and southern branches of the church after separation since the Civil War makes one of the most important steps in the church's history. The United News herewith presents an exclusive article by the Rev. Dan B. Brummitt, DD, editor of the Epworth Herald, official Methodist organ, on the significance of the unification and steps necessary to complete it.

By Rev. Dan B. Brummitt, DD,
Editor of the Epworth Herald
(Copyrighted 1924 by the UN)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 9.—Acceptance by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church of the plan for usification with the Methodist Episcopal church south, is the first step in what may be a long series of proceedings before actual union of the two denominations in consummated.

The division of 1844 was caused by the protests of the northern Methodists against the continued Episcopal activities of Bishop Andrew, who had become identified with the slave owners in the south. When the general conference asked him to suspend his duties as bishop until he had relieved himself of this hindrance to his acceptability, this was found to be impossible.

Thereupon the southern delegates began proceedings which led to an equitable division of hospitality and the formation of the Methodist Episcopal church south, with all the necessary machinery and instructions of a distinct denomination. Each chapter now has work in territory where the other church has preponderance and for many years there has been more or less friction, discontent and duplication of effort in all such territory.

Since 1870, many efforts have been made first at fraternal relations and then as this became more general, at actual union. Plan after plan has been proposed only to be rejected by one church or the other. At last the advocates of union saw that any plan likely to succeed must be severely simple and must disturb as little as possible the existing work of either church.

Bishop W. F. McDowell, of Washington, D. C., in introducting the plan, said it had been decided that the best way to iron out the differences was not while the two churches were separate, but after they were united. The probable adoption of the plan by the Methodist Episcopal, South, is forecast by the fact that twenty of its twenty-three délegates voted for it and by the enthusiasm with which the bishops of that church in session at Nashville received news from Springfield.

After the favorable vote by the special session of the general conference of both churches, the referendum in each denomination will begin.

The plan is not intended to settle eveything at once. Rather it serves to bring the two churches together under one general conference and there they will work out their problems and plans as one body. The present general conferences of each church as now constituted will henceforth be known as jurisdictional conferences.

METHODISTS TO DISCUSS ORDAINING WOMEN TO MINISTRY

By United News.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 9.—Ordination of women to fill ministerial privileges recommended in a report submitted by a special commission appointed to consider the question, will come before the Methodist Episcopal ronference here Friday.

A report read by the Rev. Joseph M. Gray, of Scranton, Pa., at Thursday's sessions, recommends that women be ordained as local preachers under the regulations now prescribed for the ordination of men.

Mrs. May Leonard Woodruff, of Allendale, N. J., moved the report be accepted as read but before a vote could be taken, Mrs. S. F. Johnson, of Pasadena, California, offered an amendment changing it to embrace foreign fields as well as domestic.

After a sharp debate on the issue it was announced that it would be made the order of the day Friday and vote taken at that time.

Earlier in the day, the committee on Episcopacy that Bishop Chas. Mitchell of St. Paul had been exonerated of charges of being too despotic and too arbitrary in the arbitration of his area, preferred by the Rev. H. C. Burroughs of Union Grove, Wis.

The committee which was headed by Dr. David G. Downey of New York, announced that after careful examinations of the charges, they found them to be wholly without foundation.

THOROUGH PROBE INTO MATRIMONIAL "HOME" IS PROMISED

By United News.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 10. A Mann Act investigation of Carl A. Brainnard's alleged love nest for university of Southern California co-eds and young girls of several wealthy Los Angeles families was promised Thursday by the district attorneys office here.

This announcement followed a series of startling developments in the probe being conducted into the "home", said to have been frequented by young society girls ranging from 17 to 20 years old.

A state wide search is being made for Brainard, a former city official, and his wife, who disappeared immediately after the investigation started.

Allegatons that Brainard furnished one of the girls with money to pay her fare to Portland, Oregon, may result in a charge of violating the Mann Act being placed against him, officials declared.

KIDNAPPED MAN FINDS FAMILY AFTER 53 YEARS

By United News.

JOPLIN, Mo., May 10.—After a search of 53 years, Robert T. Clark, here on a visit, received word Wednesday that Mrs. Bessie Sutherland of Hastings, Minn., and C. M. Libe of Minneapolis were convinced that he was their brother, kidnapped when he was a small child. Clark will leave for Minneapolis Friday.

Clark was kidnapped from Quincy Illinois, June 23, 1871. After several years when he had forgotten about his family, his kidnappers let him go and told him the names of some of his relatives. He searched for years, spent hundreds of dollars and enlsted the aid of police departments throughout the United States in an effort to find his family.

Widely published newspaper stories finally put him in touch with his relatves, he said, and Wednesday he received messages inviting him to visit them.

ASSAULT CHARGE FILED FOLLOWING SHOP ROW

By United News.

HOUSTON, Tex, May 9.—Charges of assault with intent to murder were filed Thursday nigh: against I. R. Cox and L. J. Dugas, who were arrested several hours earlier in a tailor shop here following an affray in which Cox was shot twice in the lower limbs and Dugas struck on the head with a block of wood.

Both Cox and Dugas are in a hospital but neither will die, attendants say.

The affray started over money matters, it is stated. Both participants are proprietors of pressing shops.

AIR SUPREMACY OF FRENCH IS SHOWN

By United News.

LONDON, May 9.—Two weeks out from Paris on an air dash that has shattered records across two continents, a French aviator has piloted his machine to earth at Rangoon one of Britain's strategic gateways to the orient.

Catching their breath after the first amazement at the French feat, Englishmen are beginning to realize the meaning of the dash, namely that there is ground for the French claim that France possesses the fastest airplane engine in the world.

Lt. Pellietier d'Oisy, who arrived at Rangoon Friday after flying from Calcutta is piloting a special Bregauet machine equipped with a Lorraine engine.

The realization of what this French machine and French engine has already done is causing uneasiness in every ministry in Europe.

France is supposed to have ordered a large number of fighting, bombing and reconnoisance airplanes of the Bregauet XIX model fitted with a 360 horsepower Lorraine engine which gives the machine a speed of 157 miles per hour even when carrying a full military load. An even faster machine is being perfected by Bregauet—a fighting two seater, which can make 165 miles seater, which can make 165 miles per hour when loaded.

D'Oisy, using this type of engine has shown that the new French air fleet would have any other existing enemy air force almost hopelessly handicapped. Such French bombing planes could easily travel 1,000 miles a day and could possibly make from 1,500 to 2,000 miles. Thus, operating from a base in France, the French machines could make morning and afternoon round trip bombing flights to almost every European country.

When the French airman started his trip he also started something else—renewed fear in European ministries on the question of French air supremacy. The alarm that the flight must cause may speed a new disarmament conference.

STATE GUARDS SWAP TWO CAVALRY UNITS

By United Press

HOUSTON, Texas, May 9—Announcement has been made of the "swapping" of two cavalry units of the state guards Principals in the transaction were Houston and Brenham

By the terms of the "deal" the 56th machine gun squadron of the general's cavalry brigade has been transferred from Houston to Brenham and in exchange Houston has taken Troop A, headquarters unit.

RADIO DEALERS TO MEET HERE MAY 28-29

The radio industry is following in the footsteps of the older and mose established lines in the matter of organized development in the field.

The initial meeting of the retail radio dealers of this section is to be held here on the 28th and 29th of this month and is sponsored by a number of firms of this part of the state who are engaged in the radio business, including the local firms of R. H. Martin Radio Equipment Co., retailers and Chas. C. Hornsby supply company jobbers in radio battery supplies. Claud McDaniel of the first named firm is chairman of the general committee of dealers backing the move.

This meeting promises to be an important step toward bringing radio merchandising to a more definite basis and offers much to the legitimate dealer who desires to give serious thought to the development of the business. A number of men higher up in radio activities will be present and contribute much to the meeting.

These who are in the radio business are uniting in saying that there are a number of very important problems that are unique to this line, and have to be worked out, and it is the purpose of this meeting to take up these problems. The following are a few which will be taken up.

Advertising, specialty and replacement sales; servicing equipment and proper charges for same; Installment purchase plans, Legislation; the problems of the broadcasters; local conditions with regard to interference; technical points on testing equipment and maintenance and etc.

A direct by mail call is being made to each of the dealers in west Texas to attend this meeting and advance returns indicate that quite a number are expected to be present.

110 CENTENARIANS IN IN ENGLAND AND WALES

LONDON (By Mail to the United Press)—London has sixteen centenarians, Women live longer than men.

The final volume of the 1921 census just issued states that there were 110 centenarians in England and Wales, of whom eighty were women and thirty men.

England had 103—29 men and 74 women, while Wales could only show 7, six of whom were females.

In the whole country there was one centenarian to every 344,000 inhabitants; in England one to 346,000 and in Wales one to 346,000 and in Wales one to 315,000.

Among the male population the proportion was one to very 600,000, while the female proportion was one to 248,000.

London had sixteen centenarians, of whom six were men and ten women.

The County of Suffolk had by far the greatest number of centenarians in proportion to its population—one to every 80,000 inhabitants.

The figures, however, show a falling off as compared with the 1911 census when, with a slightly smaller population, no less than 128 centenarians were recorded, or one to every 282,000 inhabitants.

PUBLIC OPINION

TAXATION

As election year comes on there is always raised the question of taxation to provide funds to defray the expenses of the government. One of the oldest systems we have of taxation is mentioned in the Bible and was the system of tything by the Jewish nation—which was one-tenth of all incomes. The publican was a tax gatherer for the Ceazers—who controlled the province of Palestine and the publican by paying to the government under the Ceazers a lump sum, secured the right to assess and collect the one-tenth, paying much less than the legal rate for this privilege or grant and of course, made a nice profit for his trouble. As time went on, different nations adopted different systems, some, especiallly Spain, had the system of hot irons to the feet of the money-hoarding Jew to secure the funds to pay the expenses., and this mode was used more or less throughout the Dark Ages. As civilization progressed, a system was adopted requiring all owners of property to contribute some portion of their income to the support of the government, for the expense or cost of making laws and for the good of the people. Many systems have been tried and the most successful system so far adopted has been the one based on equal taxation. Equalization for taxation means that each individual shall pay his prorata part to the support of the government under which he lives.

For a basis of argument, we will first take up the tax question on real estate. The foundation is, first ownership, all landed estate at the beginning was vested in the State or government. An individual purchases from the State or government for a consideration, a tract of land. The State or government issues to the individual a grant or patent. This grant or patent protects the individual in the use and all benefits that may accrue thereon, but the grant or patent, is really only a lease and while not so stated in the grant, yet it is implied by laws governing and this lease is and must be pail annually in taxes which is only the payment on the lease, as the State can foreclose on the property for non-payment and sell to some one else who will pay this lease or tax. The laws of all state governments, on the question of taxation, is based on a just, true value in dollars and cents, and under this head all counties and cities, sub-divisions of the State, has all powers granted by law, to collect a tax, as these subdivisions are located within the State and is a part thereof and has the same power to levy and collect as the State. As all taxation is based on equalization, the true methods of deriving at a solution of the question has often got mixed in the brains of boards selected to settle the matter, so we will give a full explanation. For example:

Jones owns 640 acres of land, this land and all improvements is worth say, $50.00 per acre, making $32,000.

Smith lives in town and owns lots and houses of a true value, $32,000.

There is a bank, capital stock, etc. $32,000.

Merchant has stock of $32,000.

A heard of cattle worth $32,000.

Now these items are based on a true value and if the rate of levy be applied to each, as the law requires, each pays just tax. Now if the Board of Equalization finds that the valuation can be lowered and get sufficient funds to meet the amount required, can reduce the valuation, but must, if they follow the law, take a percentage the same in all cases. If they take 20 per cent of Jones' property at $64,000, Smith's at 60 per cent or $19,200, bank stock at 75 per cent or $24,000, the merchant at 60 per cent or $20,800, they have made a botch and does not know the meaning of the law that say "all taxes shall be equal and uniform," for they have made Smith pay three times more than Jones; ade the bank pay 55 per cent more than Jones, and 15 per cent more than Smith. And yet we find upon examination of levies made in many counties of the state that this "hodge-poge botch" is passed as equalization.

While real estate is a fixture, personal property is only a trangent, and much of it escapes taxation. It is subject to false swearing. It can be hid—here and there, and the tax dodger, beats the just tax thereon and places a burden on his neighbor of his part of expense, and for all such, not worthy to be called an honest citizen of his community and should be classed with the "bum" who beats his grocery bill. Now, the State, and all subdivisions of the State, has a just lien against all personal property and can foreclose on said personal property, no matter where it is located, but seldom is this done and thousands of just taxes goes uncollected as is shown by delinquent insolvent list that is of record in the office of tax collectors.

Now the law is very explicit on rendering property for taxation and very few owners, understand the process. The laws says that all property owners shall render for taxes all property owned or controlled by him or her. It does not say that "if the assessor calls on you", as the assessors in trying to get in touch with you to get your assesment, is doing so as an accommodation and it is the burden duty, under the law, that the owner hunts up the assessor and sees that his property is given in and the rolls show the property in his name. Now in giving in the value of said property, the law says that it shall be rendered at its true values, so the property owner should be on his guard as to this, as he is signing an oath as to the truth thereof. It is very important that the tax payers to lawfully render their property, for when the collector opens the record for collection and it is not properly rendered, he cannot notify the owner and therefor the property goes delinquent and causes often trouble and cost. The unrendered property under the law must be rendered by the assessor, and should he place the value thereof at its true value, the owner has no recourse, but must pay the tax according to law, regardless of the fact that the lawfully rendered property was granted a percentage off. Therefore, always render your property, andw in the end it will be to your advantage

One of the crudest tax systems of an enlightened people is the highway tax on automobiles. The tax is levied on the horsepower, for the building and upkeep of highways or public roads. Now we will, for example, take the case of Jones and Smith, who pay the same tax on the same kind of car. Now Jones travels 100,000 miles over the highway, while Smith only travels 1,000 miles. Jones damages the road 100 times more than Smith, yet Smith has to pay the same tax. This is not equalization. The remedy is to tax the gasoline used then it would be equal.

TRIBUTE PAID TO SOUTH PLAINS PEOPLE

Lubbock is fortunate in that her industries, businesses, fast developing trade territory which is made up of highly cultivated farms and fine pasture lands, immediately attract and hold the attention of her visitors.

This fact was evidenced by the expressions made by the Dallas Good Will tourists who invaded the city Monday afternoon and evening, whose combined good opinions of this city and the Plains were expressed by T. H. Barrett, staff correspondent of the Dallas Morning News. Mr. Barrett's account of the trip is as follows:

Completing a trip over the Lamesa branch of the Panhandle & Santa Fe, the Dallas trade tourists stopped to spend the night at Lubbock Monday.

Lubbock, "The Dallas of the Plains," was host to about 125 Dallas business men on the good-wil tour of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce Monday night. Copies of an extra edition of the Lubbock Avalanche issued in co-operation with The Dallas Morning News, was distributed among the visitors when they alighted from the train.

On the reception committee were Mayor F. R. Friend, W. B. Atkins, president of the Chamber of Commerce; A. B. Davis, secretary, and Curtis A. Keen, former secretary of the chamber; Sam Denman and E. E. Posey.

Lubbock's Rapid Growth

Indications of a substantial and rapid growth of Lubbock were pointed out to the visitors, who were told that since 1920 the population had nearly tripled. Not less than twenty-five homes have been under construction every month for the last half year. Durthe last week in March 109 residence buildings and thirteen brick store buildings were under way.

The town is erecting a city hall, which will cost about $100,000. A paving program which will include 160 blocks, costing more than $1,000,000 is about to begin, bonds having been voted, Mr. Keen said.

Mayor Friend pointed out that in 1903 the first bale of cotton was produced on the South Plains while the production for last season was 160,000 bales. Ninety per cent of this cotton is marketed through Lubbock, he said.

Since the location of the Texas Technological College at Lubbock, nine wholesale houses have chosen this city, W. B. Atkins, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

"The firms are going on the theory," said Mr. Atkins "that a place that is good for a college is good for a wholesale house."

One thousand farms were opened within a forty-mile radius of Lubbock last year. This year officials of the Chamber of Commerce say, ground will be broken on 3,000 new farms in the same area.

Construction of the Texas Technological College is expected to begin this summer. Already the surrounding territory is being built up with dwelling houses.

Dance by Elks Club

Lubbock is declared by the business men to be badly in need of more hotel facilities. More than one deal for a modern hostelry is said to be in process of negotiation. The need was particularly noticeable, a merchant said, during the present convention of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Elks Club gave a dance Monday night in honor of the visitors from Dallas.

At the evening program, State Senator W. H. Bledsoe spoke in behalf of the city. William Z. Hayes, who married a Lubbock girl, told of the manufacturing, educational and distributing facilities of Dallas. He invited Lubbockites to attend the State Fair next October in Dallas. Business goes where it is invited and stays where it is well treated, he said. Dan Rogers sang two solos. Fred McJunkin introduced the speakers.

SOLVED PROBLEM OF LANDING AIRPLANES

LONDON (By Mail to the United Press) — Aeronautical engineers have perfected a "landing stage" which will make it possible for "air expresses' to land on the roofs of city buildings, office, docks or even railway stations.

This invention, finished after six years hard work, may make all the difference between profit and loss in the running of passenger air lines, air experts declare.

It means the saving of all the time now wasted in an automobile to and from aerodrome which of necessity, is located miles outside the centers of population.

A big plane landing at, say 60 miles and hour, may require to run 600 or 700 feet before it comes to a halt in an ordinary aerodrom. By the ne wmethod proposed, such a "craft" can be brought to a standstill within about 125 feet of its wheels first touching the ingeniously devised landing stage which is the keynote of the scheme.

The new idea provides for a "deck" or "stage" (almost a miniature aerodrome) mounted on a specially designed steel frame-work, which revolves to face any direction. The engineers who operate it are stationed in a tower at one corner, and are able to tilt the whole platform at any angle and in any direction desired. As the areoplane alights and begins to run forward, its pace is decreased instantly, because by the tilting of the revolving platfor it is made to run uphill, thus reducing its momentum in a manner impossible on any flat surface.

The employment of intricate electrical gear, makes it possible to adjust the tilt of the landing-stage making it either steep or gentle, according to the speed of any express plane alighting.

When a big "air express" is about to land, ordinarily a cushion of compressed air is formed between the lower sides of its wings and the surface of the earth, which tends to prevent the machine from settling down to the ground. To overcome this problem, the floor of the new landing-stage is to be made in the form of a grid, below which are place a series of big electrically-operated fans.

As the plane glides down, the fans are set working, and the "air-cushion" is simply pumped away, the lift of the wings being thus automatically removed. Machines can be launched from the new landing stage as well as landed, while flood-lights, beacons and signals are provided for operating night service.

VAST AMOUNTS OF MISDIRECTED MAIL

PHILADELPHIA (United Press) —Two million pieces of mail, including letters, parcels and packages, are received in Philadelphia every year which never get to the persons expecting them. They are sent to the cemetery of the Post Office Department, the Dead Letter Office.

It is the little orphan pieces of mail for which no homes can be found that go to Washington into the dead-letter office, 7,500 of them every week. Much of this matter is there traced back to the senders, but lots more of it is declared hopelessly homeless and is treated as such.

A number of articles for which no owner can be found are sent to New York and sold. Violins, mahjongg sets, scrubbing boards, galoshes, dresses—everything imaginable makes up the motley array.
