Sixteen Die In Plane And Train Accidents In Southwest

Crack Passenger Train Dives Into Flooded Arroyo; Planes Crash To Add To List Of Dead

Eight Killed, Two Score Injured As Golden State Limited Piles Up Near Tucumcari, N. M.; Transcontinental Ship Plunges Into Mountain Near Clovis To Claim Five

(By The Associated Press)

SPECTACULAR accidents, involving airplanes and a fast locomotive, took 16 lives in the southwest Tuesday, and left at least 40 injured.

The Golden State Limited, a crack passenger train, plunged into a flooded arroyo near Tucumcari, N. M., dropping through a washed-out bridge section and leaving eight dead and two score injured.

In the same area, near Clovis, N. M., a transcontinental airplane, flying in fog and storm, crashed into a mountainside, and its five occupants died in flames.

At San Antonio, three army aviators were killed in a midair collision of two planes. The pilot of one, Lieut. Louis K. Vaupre, "bailed out" with a parachute and saved his life.

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Aug. 29. (AP)—The list of known dead from the crash of the Golden State Limited passenger train into a flooded arroyo five miles from Tucumcari early today tonight stood at eight and 42 persons were injured.

The dead:

C. J. Crost, engineer, Tucumcari.

James Randall, fireman, Tucumcari.

W. H. Varley, Quincy, Ills.

A woman believed to be his wife, Mrs. Varley.

F. D. Cook, Southern Pacific employe, El Paso, Tex.

Sister Mary Cecelia, Tucson, Ariz.

Two unidentified women, one described as "elderly" and the other as "large."

Not Expected to Live

Of the injured, Sister Mary Rose of Tucson, Ariz., was not expected to live.

Survivors said they were awakened suddenly, shortly after 1:3 a. m. today, when the sleeping cars lurched suddenly and the engine, tender and six cars of the eleven-coach train plunged into the roaring torrent where one span of the trestle 75 feet high had been washed away.

In the darkness they could hear the screams of injured and dying, prayers and curses as the passengers attempted to extricate themselves.

Goes For Help

Chauncey Depew, conductor of the train, escaped from one of the rear coaches, which had remained safely on the trestle, and struggled over the rain-soaked road to Tucumcari to summon assistance.

Doctors, nurses and citizens were aroused and rushed to the scene. The arroyo, ordinarily a dry stream bed, at that point has steep banks and was filled with the floodwaters of a four-inch rain which had fallen the night before.

Tonight, the injured were quartered in the two hotels here, in private homes and in the small hospital.

Due to the confusion, an accurate list of injured still was not available tonight. A rescue train sent from Dalhart, Tex., was returning to Dalhart tonight with some of the survivors of the tragedy.

Body Recovered

The body of James Randall, the fireman, was recovered tonight from beneath the engine.

Many of the passengers, men and women, had climbed to safety on the banks of the torrent and others had found refuge on the tops of partly submerged coaches.

As the injured were found, they were placed in sleeping car blankets or upon boards and lifted up the steep banks, carried to ambulances and motor cars and driven to Tucumcari for treatment.

Word of the wreck was spread in Albuquerque by Ted Moffitt, who flying the night mail from Kansas City to Albuquerque, pased over the scene shortly after the train had gone through the bridge.

Visibility Poor

Visibility was so poor that he got an imperfect picture of the wreck, with the engine and coaches tossed about like splinters.

"The engine had crashed on the opposite bank of the creek," said Moffitt. "A coach was lying partly submerged. Two others had gotten

Papers Termed "Skunks And Polecats," Wall Street Charged With Attempting To Make World Safe For Plutocracy And Administration Told To Go To Hell With Its Patronage

(By The Associated Press)

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 29.—With fresh talcum powder brushed over a two inch cut above his left eye, Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana, today lambasted Milwaukee newspapers, Wall Street, and certain policies of the Roosevelt administration.

Newspapers which had commented concerning the source of his injury were termed "skunks and polecats," Wall Street was charged with attempting to "make the world safe for plutocracy," and the administration was told to "go to hell with its Louisiana patronage."

Long spoke before the convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. After his speech, the convention adpoted unanimously a resolution commending the Milwaukee newspapers for "whole hearted and earnest cooperation."

When he arose before the 4,000 delegates, to whom he had been introduced as "the friend of all down-trodden," Long found himself staring into a battery of cameras. Whereupon he assailed the papers in his most vigorous manner.

He observed that there has been an "exodus of polecats

It Was "Hotcha" Time Here At Midnight But Cops Balk At Idea; Now She's Jailed

It was "hotcha" time in Lubbock last night.

A woman guest at a local hotel shortly after midnight was making "whoopee." First she tossed a brass cuspidor through the window of a fourth story room.

Police officers, hearing the crash, investigated. The young woman, about 25, was escorted to a waiting police car. Still in a "playful" mood, she kicked a cigaret from the mouth of one of her captors and followed this up by planting her foot squarely through the glass door of the city car.

As she was driven away to police headquarters a young man, clad only in pajamas, started down the elevator with the avowed intention of getting her out of trouble. His chivalrous attempt was blocked, however, by friends.

Gold Embargo Is Relaxed To Allow Selling

Roosevelt Acts Swiftly In An Effort To Aid Interests In Nation; Hoarding Rules Are Drawn Tighter

Ickes Is Dictator

Secretary Of Interior Named Administrator Of Agreement For Oil Industry; Will Be Virtual Dictator

(By The Associated Press)

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Acting with dramatic suddenness, President Roosevelt late today relaxed the gold embargo to permit sales of the newly-mined metal in foreign markets, where prices are higher.

At the same time the president tightened the prevailing restrictions against hoarding by requiring all persons holding gold coin, gold bullion or gold certificates in excess of $100 to file statements of their holdings within 15 days.

Must Show Reasons

After 30 days all private gold holdings of more than $100 will be prohibited unless valid reasons are shown why the metal cannot be replaced by currency.

The presidential decree, effective immediately, was issued just before Mr. Roosevelt started on an automobile tour upstate.

Gold mining shares immediately shot upward on the New York stock exchange, one issue advancing more than $15 to a record high.

Activity To Start

Treasury department officials foresaw a quickening of activity in the gold mines of the west, with profits increasing by more than $15,000,000 a year, as the president reopened the export trade to American miners.

It was explained at the summer White House that the underlying cause of the gold orders was to put the gold mining industry on a parity with other business.

Mr. Roosevelt feels that this step will afford new employment for those who go out and mine the gold veins of the nation.

Also Aids Refiners

But, he made sure that all the refining would have to be done in this country also. Under the old order there was a chance of shipping out ore. Now, it is permissible to send out the refined product. So, he feels he is taking care of re-

Washington Is Favoring Wets

(By The Associated Press)

SEATTLE, Aug. 29. — Washington voters showed a strong trend toward repeal tonight as early returns from today's election were tabulated. Reports from 469 of the state's 2,682 precincts gave wet delegates to the repeal convention October 3 a total of 78,484 votes to 28,556 votes for dry delegates.

Although the statewide vote will have no influence on determining whether Washington will become the 24th state to vote for repeal, or the first to reject it, since the delegates are chosen by legislative districts, the district votes in all except one instance have followed generally the total returns.

The one district so far to cast a majority against repeal was the 41st, in Whatcom county. Three of 58 precincts in the 41st voted 512 for the drys, to 485 for the wets.

No Betting Allowed

Details are yet to be worked out, but it is hoped there will be a number of races each afternoon. Indications are there will be about 40 horses or more here for the events. Besides quarter mile events there will be other lengths planned.

No betting on racing is to be permitted on the grounds, it was also decided by the directors.

Body Of Woman Found In A Shallow Grave At Acuff; Convict Blamed

Inmate Of Texas Pen Believed Responsible For The Slaying Of Negro Woman With Pick; Serving 99-Year Sentence For Similar Crime; Husband Identifies Body Here Tuesday

DISCOVERY of the partly decomposed body of a negro woman in a shallow grave in the ruins of a burned house in the Acuff community by county officers yesterday, brought to light a murder story unparalelled in the criminal annals of Lubbock county.

Charges are to be filed today against Clarence E. Seals, convict No. 50,030 in the state penitentiary at Huntsville, charging him with the murder of Lela Bell Brooks, a negro woman whose body was brought from the grave to Lubbock early last night.

There is also the woman, to whom Seals, under the alias of Jack Miller, was married at Clovis in November, 1931 and their nine months old girl, who made a statement of her knowledge of the affair to county officers last night.

Solitary Confinement Asked For Prisoner

Prison authorities were asked last night by Dan Blair, district attorney, to place Seals in solitary confinement, pending action in this county on the murder case. He is in prison on a charge of murder, said to have been a very similar case, and is serving 99 years for this crime.

Similarity of the slaying of the man in Hopkins county, in 1923, and of the negro woman last March, was noted by authorities. Both were killed after they had dug a grave in a purported search for a buried treasure.

The amount of money said by officers to have been secured by the slayer after the killing of the woman was $46. He also took posession of a car the negro woman had been driving and used it to travel around in following the murder.

Pick Axe Is Used As Weapon

How much money was secured in the other killing, officers do not know. The method of slaying of the man is not known but a pick axe was used in the local case.

The story as unfolded yesterday by Sheriff Tom Abel and the district attorney, shocked even the most hardened of investigators.

Seals, under the alias of Jack Miller, came to Lubbock about 1930 and made a cotton crop west of town. While here he met a girl, daughter of a farmer in the Acuff community. They kept company for some months in the summer of 1931. In November they went to Clovis, N. M., and were married, returning to Lubbock county.

On their return from their wedding trip the couple lived in the Vic Railsback farm for two or three months. Then they went to the Earl Davis farm in the Acuff community where they lived until in the spring of 1933.

Negro And Wife Live On Same Farm

The baby was born November 22, 1932.

A negro by the name of Johnnie Brooks, worked on the farm with Miller, his wife working there also.

Last March Miller and his wife went to Lamesa to visit a nephew of the man. Miller was absent from the nephew's home from Friday until Sunday morning and on his return he was driving a car that had belonged to the negro woman.

Mrs. Miller in a statement last night to District Attorney Blair and Burton S. Burks, his assistant, said her husband had acted queerly following his visit home and did not explain satisfactorily the possession of the car and other matters. She said he also refused to explain what apparently was troubling him.

Is Arrested While On A Visit

They went to Douglassville, in Cass county, for a visit and were there when officers came and took him away. The arrest took place several weeks following the alleged slaying of the negro woman in Lubbock county.

Meantime, Sheriff Tom Abel was tipped off that a man who had escaped from the state penitentiary, was living in the county. The sheriff went to the place where he was supposed to be and returned with a man who was able to satisfy them he was not the man wanted.

From this, however, the officer got track of the man he really wanted. He found he was in Cass county and a short time later notified the penitentiary authorities to go to Douglassville and they would find their man.

It was learned only Tuesday that a negro woman who had lived on the place with Miller, was missing and that she probably was murdered and buried in a grave. It was also learned that the grave was in the ruins of the house on the Davis farm that had been burned in March.

Officers Began Hunting For Grave

Authorities then went to the place yesterday afternoon and began digging in the ruins for the grave. "It was only a minute or two later that I heard the pick strike something and I said, 'boys, there's the skull,'" said the sheriff. "Sure enough, it was."

The body was removed carefully from the grave. The upper part of the body, including the head and arms, was without much flesh, according to Sheriff Able. The lower part of the torso, the leg and feet were in fair condition.

Johnnie Brooks, the negro, husband of the dead woman, identified the remains as those of his wife. They were brought to Lubbock by the Sanders funeral home where they are being prepared for burial.

According to officers, Miller under the name of Clarence E. Seals, was convicted of the murder of a man in Hopkins county about 10 years ago and given 99 years in the penitentiary. He was received at Huntsville October 4, 1923. Later he escaped.

Description Of Man Is Given

Seals' age at that time was given as 33 years. He was described as being five feet, 10 1-2 inches tall and weighing about 146 pounds.

The murder in Hopkins county is said to have been very similar to the one here. An aged man, whose name authorities do not have, was set to work by Seals digging for a supposed fortune buried in the ground. The man was then slain and buried in the grave he had dug.

That is the theory of the Lubbock case, that the woman was induced to dig the grave, presumably in search of some hidden treasure. She was then slain and buried in the grave she had dug, underneath the farm house.

House Is Burned Over Grave

The house was then burned over the grave, to hide the crime, officers believed. From some time late in March until Tuesday the body had lain in its shallow resting place, with no clue as to what was underneath the ashes of the building.

Sheriff Abel and his deputies and the district attorney and his assistant, have been working on the case for months. They were able to piece together the sordid tale, fragment by fragment. From one source and another, information was secured that added to the story.

A pick axe, which is believed to have been used in the slaying of the negro woman, was found at the place. Miller's wife is said to have identified it.

Murder Victim's Mate Takes Lock Of Hair As A Remembrance

DIMLY burned the light, but it cast few shadows. Only a rusty iron bed, a cane-bottom chair, three tables, and a gas plate broke the beams in the bare-walled room. A long watermelon centered the floor. Three fishing canes lay to one side. On the bed sat a rangy negro, beside him a bag of peanuts.

Snapping open the shells, and eating the nuts, he told of Lubbock county's weirdest murder, and displaying a lock of hair from the head of his slain common-law wife. Somewhere outside a dog howled at intervals.

Johnnie Brooks, the negro, said he "smelled a mouse" before he was put in county jail March 17, charged with displaying a pistol. While he was held (he was released May 15, without having been tried), the two-room house his wife had moved into on the Earl Davis farm near Acuff had burned. His wife had disappeared.

By a decayed tooth, a coat, a hair-straightener comb he had bought, and a key he identified as Lela Bell a decomposed body found buried beneath the ruins of the house yesterday. The last time he saw her alive was "Wednesday after I got in jail Friday." Let Johnnie tell you about that:

"She brought me a ten-cent box of snuff, two apples, a black hair comb, and a dime package of Chesterfields.

"When she started to leave, she says, 'Johnnie, don't worry.' I says, 'I'm not worrying, Dutch.' That's what I called her, Dutch. She began crying and told me she was going to have to move. She went around to the elevator, and then came back crying.

"'I sho wishes I could tell you what I want to tell you,' she says. 'I'll be here the day of youre trial, if I'm living,' she says.

"It was t he next Saturday night or the next one that the house burned down. It was the house she moved to."

Johnnie became porter at the Colonial hotel a few weeks ago. He was in his room in a shack back of the hotel when he was talking.

"Lela Belle was the second woman I ever loved," he said. "I loved my first wife; she died.

"Lela Belle wasn't my lawful wife, but I'd been living with her three years."

As a remembrance, Johnnie had selected the tuft of hair from the gruesome discovery yesterday afternoon. Sheriff Tom Abel said the man picked up the hair, wiped it, rolled it, stuffed it in his watch-pocket. He carried it last night in a box which had contained .22 cartridges.

Johnnie recalled the men sus-

From The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche-Journal Woman's Editor

...ry, as a housewife and a consumer of goods, are going to be asked to sign a little card in the next few days. In doing this you will pledge to "cooperate in reemployment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of the NRA."

You will not be asked to boycott anyone when you sign this card but your support of the President's recovery plan will be sought in this manner. And, without the support of the women, who are the buyers of the nation, the plan can never succeed.

It will not be fair for us to support people who do not help with recovery, even if their prices are slightly lower. If these low prices are maintained at the price of men and women, we should give our support to someone else. The employers who are doing their bit to help the president are pledging to help by employing more people and paying higher wages. If they do this they should have the patronage and support of the people, even if prices are slightly higher.

Your husband's salary may not have been raised yet. Many have not. His hours may not have been shortened. Many have not. That is a part of the present drive. While consumers will be asked to pledge their support, merchants and other employers will be asked to co-operate by hiring more people and paying living wages to those they have. The best the women can do is to show their faith in the present plan by pledging support and then trading with the men who are trying to make recovery a surety.

This column is being written before the actual drive for pledges starts, since we hope that you will know what is being asked of you when someone calls. You may feel that you have had a hard time during the last few years. You may think that someone else has had all of the "breaks" and that your support will not be needed now in making things better. It is needed, though. If this plan does not work things may be worse than they are today. The best we can do is to make a gesture of faith and trade with the employers who are cooperating in a vast plan to bring about better times. Then, when you have signed the pledge, look for the Blue Eagle on stores where you buy.

Help the women who call on you with the pledge cards, sign your name under the pledge and then trade with the men and women who are helping to make recovery a possibility.

You may think that there will be evasions of this pledge as there have been of other pledges. So does every one else. But don't let that worry you. That sort of thing will be taken care of later. Rest assured that there are plenty of honest employers left and that the majority of the men who display the NRA sign will be honestly helping the cause along by shortening hours, hiring additional people and meeting the requirements of codes. More money, more employment and a better distribution of work among the population are some of the things we have been crying for during the last three years.

Your part is to buy from the right people.

MIND READING

UNCLE SAM'S mail clerks have to have the powers of mind readers to get our mail where it belongs. This morning a letter came to this desk that was addressed to the Lubbock Journal, Lubbock, N. M. It had been mailed at Roswell, N. M., at 1:30 o'clock on the afternoon before.

THIS SHOULD HELP

SEVERAL more days like Tuesday should cheer the merchants, if needs are the inspiration for action. For Tuesday morning, cold and cloudy, sent people digging into closets filled with summer clothing hunting something to wear on cold days and was a reminder of how inadequate summer wardrobes are when cold weather arrives.

Tuesday, with a drop in temperature and no sunshine, was at least a warning that summer is rapidly passing and that before long fall clothes will be needed again—all of which should be cheering news to those who supply merchandise.

Sixteen Dead In Accidents

across and were partly on the bank, partly in the stream on each side of the engine. One was off the track but had not left the west bank.

"The engine nosed right into the bank. The day coach in the water was lying on its side partly submerged. I could see the row of windows above the water."

Paul Dodge, editor of the Tucumcari News, estimated there were 125 persons on the train. The list of eight dead and 42 injured accounted for a total of only 50.

Five Occupants Of Plane Are Killed

CLOVIS, N. M., Aug. 29. (AP) — A big transcontinental airplane, flying virtually blind in fog and storm, crashed today into a mountain 60 miles from here and its five occupants died in flames.

The ship, whose pilot, H. R. Morgan was believed to have lost his bearings due not only to a fog blanket, but to the outer circle of a storm that washed out a railroad bridge span near Tucumcari, N. M., with resultant heavy loss of life in a passenger train wreck, smashed into the south end of Mesa mountani and instantly was in flames.

The dead were listed as Morgan, Co-Pilot W. G. Barcus; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Gore of Albuquerque, N. M., and their 3-year old granddaughter, Evelyn Gore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gore of Amarillo.

The big plane, its giant motors roaring rythmically, left Amarillo at 11:35 p. m. last night with mail and the three passengers, carrying on from Amarillo westward with the mails because the regular ship was held by stormy weather conditions in Kansas City.

Two Planes Collide At Santone To Kill Three

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 29. (AP)—A government training plane zoomed upward from a low altitude, struck the ship of an instructor and sent three men to death at Randolph field near San Antonio today.

Cadet William Pasche of Chicago attempted a parachute jump but he fell within a few feet of the ground before his chute opened. Another cadet, H. R. Sandberg of Denver, who was in the second ship, went down with it.

Lieut. Louis K. Vaupre, an instructor flying with Pasche, leaped at about 500 feet and his parachute landed him safely. Lieut. Harley R. Grater of Kalamazoo, Mich., however, was not sufficiently high to use his parachute and he plunged into the ground.

More than 5,000 producers in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico have been invited.

Nationally known speakers have accepted the invitations to attend. The secretary of agriculture and Henry Morganthau will be represented.

men for his company.

It is the purpose of the campaign to call on each employer and to ascertain the number of employes put to work under the NRA. With those who have not signed up, the committee will seek to get them to sign up. A report of their efforts is to be made by each group back to the central body.

No coercion or pressure is to be made on any one to get them lined up with the campaign. Rather it will be the purpose to have voluntary cooperation of every one.

Following this work, it is the plan to have every employer and employe sign the consumer pledge cards to buy only from those who have joined the NRA.

Women of the committees are to make a house to house canvass in order to secure cooperation of housewives in supporting the program.

Stocks

WALL STREET REPORT

By JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—Leading speculative markets came under pressure today, although late rallies caught up some of the slack.

The break in corn and wheat was the cue for rather lively offerings of shares which caught a thinly supported market for many favorites and at one time losses of 1 to 6 points were general. However, grains firmed moderately from their lows and stocks staged a late recovery when President Roosevelt's gold order became public; closing changes averaged into a small net loss. Turnover reached 3,117,950 shares.

Wheat's extreme decline was 5 cents a bushel, the limit allowed by current regulations. Liquidation was brisk and, as was the case in stocks, fund buyers rather scarce. Perhaps reports that Argentina was still withholding her assent to the recent London agreement had something to do with the break.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 29 (AP)—Cotton was moderately active today, but prices fluctuated freely. A sharp break was followed by a quick recovery and final prices showed little net change, at 3 points up to one down compared with yesterday's close. Hedge sales and the erratic movement of other markets were the main factors, with a private crop estimate of 12,000,000 bales contributing to the easier tone.

The opening was steady and a shade higher in sympathy with favorable Liverpool cables and firmer sterling.

Following a slight rally of 4 points on covering, the market turned easy again due to weakness in stocks and wheat and selling by ring traders, and by the middle of the afternoon prices reached lows of the day with October at 9.29 and December at 9.51, down 32 to 33 points from the early highs and 25 to 27 points below the previous close.

In the last half hour of trading prices rallied sharply in sympathy with a sharp rise in stocks which caused shorts to cover. Prices recovered 27 points and October closed at 9.55 or 1 point net down for the day and December at 9.77, 1 point net up.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 1 penny point up.

Port receipts 37,45. for week 86,692. for season 467,622, last season 357,213. Exports 8,942, for week 44,718. for season 472,117, last season 422,829. Port stock 3,007,433, last year 3,313,892. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 85,973, last year 79,188. Spot sales at southern markets 18,262, last year 26,441.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP)—After ruling quiet and steady in the early morning trading cotton broke more than $1 a bale under liquidation but recovered the loss in the later trading on buying influenced by the late rallies in wheat and stocks and a bullish interpretation of President Roosevelt's order with respect to the gold market.

December, after selling off from 9.48 to 9.37 closed at 9.82 with the general market ending very steady net 1 point lower to 4 points higher.

After a narrow opening there was some buying on the relatively steady showing of Liverpool. This was supplied by southern selling. Offerings increased later owing to the weakness grain and stock markets.

Active months sold about 24 to 27 points net lower under the pressure, but offerings tapered off at the decline, and the market rallied in the late trading on covering or rebuying coupled with a moderate demand from the trade and scattering sources. Active months sold back to about the best levels of the day and the close was within a point or two of the top.

Exports today 8,942 making 484,064 so far this season. Port receipts 37,645. U. S. port stocks 2,991,853.

from Louisiana." "When I picked up your Milwaukee News I knew where all the polecats had gone," he declared.

The veterans encouraged him with cheers. Long complained of the presence of photographers and a force of sergeants-at-arms descended. The photographers were rushed out, a tangle of tripods and cases. Then the senator glared at newspaper men, seated at a table near him, saying that any one believing what they wrote "should be bored with a hollow horn."

Veterans stood on their chairs and surged down the aisles. For several minutes the confusion was so great that there was some doubt that the meeting could continue. Through the turmoil Long occasionally shouted and waved his hands.

When a semblance of order was restored the senator, keyed to a fighting pitch, sailed full tilt into "Morgan, Wall Street, the Rockefellers and the Baruchs."

In reply to a query he said he did not know why President Roosevelt is on intimate terms with Bernard Baruch.

"I don't know," said Long, "but Baruch is over in Europe now, and if it would do any good I'd take up a collection to keep him there."

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 29 (AP)—Grains ignored generally bullish developments today and liquidation forced all cereals sharply lower in price.

Led by wheat with a decline of five cents a bushel, the maximum allowed in one day's trading, the grain market displayed a weak and uncertain tone. Announcement that Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had tentatively ordered a 15 per cent reduction in the United States 1934 wheat acreage imparted some strength to wheat at the outset, but persistent liquidation of September contracts finally led to a sharp break near the close.

Wheat closed weak and 3 3-8 to 3 5-8 cents below yesterday's finish, corn also weak and 2 1-8 to 2 5-8 down, oats 1@1 3-8 off, rye 3@3 5-8 lower and provisions at declines ranging from 2 to 38 cents.

Late in the afternoon a member of the sheriff's department returned for Johnnie.

"They'd done went out there and found it. How did I know it was her? She had on a brown coat Mrs. x x x gave her in Frederick, Okla. I knew her because she had a decayed tooth on the right hand side of her lower jaw. She'd cut off the coat and made a short coat of it. I knew her by her hair, and by her hair-straightener comb I had bought her. It was in a bucket. I knew her by her blue tam. I bought her in Cooledge, Texas. I knew her by a key I told the jailer to give her. I bought it at a lumber yard in Lorenzo Thursday before they arrested me Friday."

Johnnie said he had made no arrangements for burial, except to wire "her uncle in Mexia."

Petitions For Vote Are Out

Williamson County Status Is Somewhat Confusing Due To Election Held Years Ago On Wet Question

GEORGETOWN, Aug. 29 (AP) — Petition for an election on Sept. 9 to vote on legalization of beer to Williamson county were on file with the commissioners' court today in order to clarify confusing conditions concerning tht status of prohibition.

The county voted for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and legalization of 3.2 beer in Saturday's statewide election but decision of voters many years ago will have to be considered.

The present law requires that a county or sub-division must authorize sale of beer by an election in the same territory which voted dry. Williamson county held an election in 1917 and voted wet by 83 votes. After a contest, an election for a sub-division including all the county except one justice precinct was ordered and on Nov. 30, 1918, the dry forces won by a majority of 104.

Because state prohibition soon followed and national prohibition became effective later, this election was forgotten until the results of it were recalled yesterday.

Immediately petitions were prepared to clarify the situation. Legal steps were taken today to ascertain if the effects of that election 15 years ago were, in fact, proclaimed according to legal requirements. Some attorneys declared that if such procedure was not followed, another election would be unnecessary.

In Saturday's election, justice precinct 8, including the principal towns of Round Rock and Hutto, with three other small boxes, voted to legalize beer. That vote, if the county is in fact legally dry, will be null and void. That precinct, too, has petitioned for another election for Sept. 9.

finers as well as producers.

Under the president's order, sales of newly-mined gold in foreign markets will be under the direct supervision of the secretary of the treasury, William H. Woodin.

Sales may be made, first, to foreign purchasers, and second, to persons licensed to acquire gold for use in the arts, industries or professions.

Second Important Act

The lifting of the gold embargo was the second important action taken by the president during the day. Earlier, he named Harold L. Ickes, his secretary of the interior, as the administrator of the new working agreement for the oil industry.

His new powers will make Ickes virtually a dictator of the oil industry in addition to being administrator of the $3,200,000,000 public works program.

Oscar (Oscarina) Alligator Likely To Have Some Joy With New Arrival

Into the life of Oscar (Oscarina) Alligator, who was recently moved from the swamps of Florida to take up his abode in the county zoo, some sunshine may fall. For Tuesday the alligator population of Lubbock was increased by one.

On the theory that the name may be either masculine or feminine and in an attempt to avoid the cumbrous title that is worn by Oscar (Oscarina), R. B. Fairly, who has this latest arrival, chose the name of Nira. The alligator was sent by Mrs. Fairly, who is visiting in Florida.

To Mr. Fairly, who was pondering alligator diets and care Tuesday afternoon, Nira was presenting a problem. To Oscar (Oscarina), whose companion so far has been only a water snake, Nira should be a welcome addition to the town.

From 'Way Down Austin Way

Capitol Chatter

By Charles E. Simons

Associated Press Staff Writer

Charles E. Simons

AUSTIN, Aug. 29. (AP) — Instructions have been given by L. G. Phares, chief of the state highway patrol, to his patrolmen to be extremely careful when they encounter suspicious characters and to guard against surprise attacks.

Recently one of the highway patrolmen was kidnaped in East Texas. Phares said that had the kidnaper been so disposed he could easily have slain the patrolman.

In this instance the patrolman stopped an automobile for speeding. He found the car to be a veritable traveling arsenal. The occupants forced the officer into the vehicle, disarmed and held him captive several hours.

Phares said law enforcement officers were at a serious disadvantage in their encounter with criminals.

"A police officer cannot go around indiscriminately shooting at persons who happen to resemble the description of a desperate character," Phares said. "They are under obligation to first determine if the suspect is the one sought. They are obliged to let the suspect take the first shot at them. If the policeman survives this shot he then may defend himself."

Phares believes that a centralized criminal identification bureau, under supervision of a person trained in criminal detection work, would do much to hold down the number of crimes, many of which go unpunished. He is of the opinion that a system that would make criminals answer for their deeds would be an effective curb upon crime.

In a limited way, because the work of the highway patrol is defined by statute, Phares has attempted to form closer relationships between the state force and county enforcement officials. In many instances it has proved highly successful in apprehending criminals within a short time after they have committed lawless acts.

The proposed state bureau would utilize the facilities and manpower of the state highway patrol and the Texas rangers.

Phares is looking forward to the time when short wave radio sets may be installed on motorcycles of the highway patrol. A few of the machines now are so equipped, but they are effective only for short distances, making it necessary for the patrolmen to stay fairly close to a powerful broadcasting station.

Short wave radio that will reach patrolmen in remote parts of the state would be a great aid in the patrol's work, Phares said.

NEW FORD AGENCY

TAHOKA (Special) — W. F. Fry, jr., of Lubbock has come here as the new Ford agent, with temporary offices and sales rooms at the Texas garage. Tahoka has been without an agency for several months. T. W. Stephens of Lubbock, formerly with the Lubbock Auto Co., is associated with Mr. Fry. The latter was formerly at Dimmitt where he sold cars for three years.

REPORTS MANY RAVENS

TAHOKA (Special) —W. L. Burkhartt, of the Edith community, reports ravens at his farm are doing serious damage to crops. Mr. Burkhartt says he has lost his watermelon crop and that the ravens have done considerable damage to his feed crop. "There are thousands of them on my lake," he added.

HIGHWAY OFFICE CLOSED

MULESHOE (Special)—The state highway office here, opened in July, 1932, has been closed and the engineer in charge, Harry N. Roberts, and his force, have returned to Lubbock. Plans for paving highways 7 and 28 in this section have been prepared and the office also supervised work on No. 7 from Sudan to Muleshoe.

Francis Holloway attended Geneva, Ala., schools 12 years without missing a day, averaged 94 in his high school studies, was captain of the football team and president of the student council.

NEWS BRIEFS

Two juveniles, aged about 11 years, taken into custody by the police department on charges of the theft of a pick and seven or eight radiator caps, were turned over to the county. They are to appear before Judge E. L. Pitts in juvenile court, probably today.

County tax rolls are expected to be ready for turning over to the county tax collector about September 20, it was said at the office of W. H. Meadow, assessor. The tax rate has been certified to the assessor and he is working on the computation of taxes for each property owner. It is expected to take about three weeks for this work.

Eight hunting licenses have been issued so far for the new season which begins September 1, County Clerk Ed Allen said yesterday. A license is necessary for use by those who intend to hunt prairie chickens, the season opening Friday, Mr. Allen added. The license costs $2 per season.

No date has been announced for the beginning of the tuberculosis eradication campaign among cattle in Lubbock county. Dr. J. G. Porter, Amarillo, with the U. S.-state veterinary work, will be in charge of the campaign. Recently the commissioners' court, at the solicitation of farmers, agreed to handle the campaign.

Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Burchfield of Amarillo arrived yesterday and opened a revival at the Assembly of God church, Nineteenth street and Avenue Q. No definite date for the closing of the meetings has been decided.

Annual picnic of the Presbyterian church will be held tonight at the state experiment farm. Members and their families will meet at the church at 6 o'clock and go to the farm where a picnic supper will be served at 7 o'clock. An attendance of 300 is expected, the pastor, Dr. Jack M. Lewis, said.

Explaining The NRA Here

UP TO THE present time the National Recovery Act has meant little more to Lubbock than "the sign of the Blue Eagle."

Most of us have had a hazy idea of what the NRA was organized for, that it is the president's plan to decrease unemployment, equalize business and improve economic conditions generally.

But that's about as close as we got to it. We had the precepts of the recovery plan all mixed up with raising prices, cutting hours of business operations and innumerable other contributing factors, which, in themselves, are not the most important angles of this great experiment.

But now Lubbock is organized to further the national Recovery Act right here. A virtual army of citizens has been enlisted to carry on this most important work and to familiarize every citizen with the plan from, as it were, 'A' to 'izzard'.

As Paul Revere carried the words "The British Are Coming" to "every middlesex, village and farm" in those far off revolutionary days, so will the Lubbock NRA organization carry the Rooseveltian word to every business house, every office and every residence of this community.

When the work is completed all of us will have a better idea of the plan, a better idea of how to co-operate—and will be better equipped to do our part in this great undertaking.

FIRST AND COMPLETE, OF COURSE!

Now that the smoke of battle from Saturday's special election has rolled away, The Morning Avalanche takes pride in pointing out that its edition of Sunday morning not only gave conclusive reports in the vote on all question, but likewise carried much more and complete election figures than any other paper circulating on the South Plains.

Down state papers from Ft. Worth and Dallas offered readers in this area only a smattering of the state vote; had only a bare mention of South Plains returns. The Avalanche-Journal—and only The Avalanche-Journal—offered the information citizens wanted concerning the balloting in this county, in 18 South Plains counties and in the state as a whole.

There was not a paper in Texas—from the largest to the smallest—carrying later returns on the state vote than were carried by the Sunday Avalanche-Journal. The great metropolitan publications in Dallas, Ft. Worth, Houston and San Antonio had the last totals of the Texas Election Bureau but no more. And that is exactly what the Sunday Avalanche-Journal offered here.

Lubbock's newspapers were, as usual, 'on the job', giving a service physically impossible for any other paper to give.

It is because, through the years, Avalanche-Journal papers have kept ahead that their circulation is greater, their appeal wider than any other papers published in this vast territory.

And because of Avalanche-Journal leadership in circulation, news and reader interest they consistently compose the best and finest advertising medium in the section they serve.

CLEAN CUPS

"Ye make clean the outside of the cup . . . but within they are full of extortion and excess."—Matthew 23:25.

We need this warning in these days of the N. R. A. The N. R. A. makes it possible for us to be interested in the common good of all men. But simply carrying forward such external things as shorter hours and more pay is not enough. There must be a nation-wide spiritual awakening which has social goals; otherwise, the inside of the cup will remain unclean.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

THE pot of political intrigue is boiling over in Europe. Old World capitals make bland gestures with one hand. The other they keep behind their backs—with their fingers in pies that have not even cooled.

Propaganda is in the saddle. Hatreds are riding high. Dictators are dictating in a frenzy of passion.

Secret alliances and cross-alliances are being sought on every side.

Private information reaches Washington that an attempt to reestablish the old Austro-Hungarian monarchy may be the answer to Germany's efforts to convert Austria to the Nazi cause.

Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria is fighting desperately to prevent Adolf Hitler from snitching his nation. He has the aid of Italy, France and England.

Secret advices to the State Department indicated Dollfuss has one final ace in the hole if he must play it.

ACES AND KINGS: Should diplomatic intervention by the Big Three fail don't be surprised to see an effort made to restore the Hapsburgs to the Hungarian throne. If all went rosy the government of Hungarian Premier Goemboes would fall, followed by election of a parliament to annul the law of dethronement.

Otto would return to the Hungarian throne. Then Dollfuss in Austria would introduce an emergency decree annulling the laws of 1919 ousting the Hapsburgs and the old monarchy would be intact.

All this of course doesn't allow for all that Hitler will be doing.

UNLOADING: Down in Italy Benito Musolini has a hidden iron in the fire.

Our agents report Il Duce wants to unload Fiume. But he'd do it in such a way as to be hailed for his "concession" and get a few of more material nature in return.

Fiume is a dead turkey as a seaport. In the first place it gets too much competition from Venice and Trieste. In addition the railway running to it through Jugo-slavia is asking exorbitant freight rates.

MOUTHS: England is facing a problem in connection with her emigration.

Ordinarily about 200,000 Britishers leave their native Isles every year to seek their fortunes. This has been about the figure for 30 years.

Now for the first time none of her subjects has gone out and 6,000 have come back to the Mother Country.

With mouths to feed and doles demanded the situation is giving the English some concern.

NOTES: Returning to the United States we might report that the Public Works Administration was pestered with phone calls seeking information about various projects... It finally instructed its telephone operators not to give out any . . . Imagine the surprise of an official when he went by the board the other day and heard a girl say blithely: "No Senator, sorry, but I can't tell you a word. Read it in the papers tomorrow."... She was talking to William Gibbs McAdoo!... As an employment note it may be recorded that Rep. Robert E. Thomason of El Paso has placed his son William with the Federal Home Loan Board... William is a messenger there.... A radio announcer for an oil company program spoke fulsomely the other night about "the wholehearted support' his sponsor was giving the new code.... It was our thought the oil people were sandbagged into signing it.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THAT good old constitutional phrase about being "deprived of property without due process of law" is going to be dragged out once more and dusted off.

It's all because the New York Public Service commission has smacked five Consolidated Gas subsidiaries in the eye with a 6 per cent rate reduction. The consolidated Gas people think it is both insulting and injurious as they are just about to raise their costs by signing a code.

So the federal courts will be asked for an injunction to halt the prospective loss of revenue while the companies concerned prepare briefs to show how much extra expense they are incurring. They don't yet know the answer to that themselves but they will by the time the case comes to trial.

The situation has the earmarks of a major showdown. It not only involves principles of rate policy but the whole question of the relative jurisdiction of federal and state governments over the utilities.

BOYCOTT: Walter Becker, assistant in the commercial department of the German Consulate General, left last week for Germany to discuss counter-measures against the American boycott of German goods. The boycott has reached proportions which worry the Hitlerites considerably.

The Italians are keenest of all to benefit from the plight of their brother Fascists. They see an opening for textile exports to the United States which they never had before. The Japanese are also up on their toes.

NAZIS: The next step in Hitler's plan for the future of the Nazi party is the founding of five universities in the next eight years for the training of national socialists chosen to be leaders. Hitler's idea is that the permanent existence of a National Socialist Germany is assured if 5,000 graduates leave these universities yearly. He has precedent for his hopes. Five thousand graduates each year from the English universities run the Empire.

The American branch of the German secret police (referred to recently in this column) has given proof that it means business. Last week three German citizens were arrested on an incoming liner at Hamburg "because they had made derogatory remarks about the new Germany abroad."

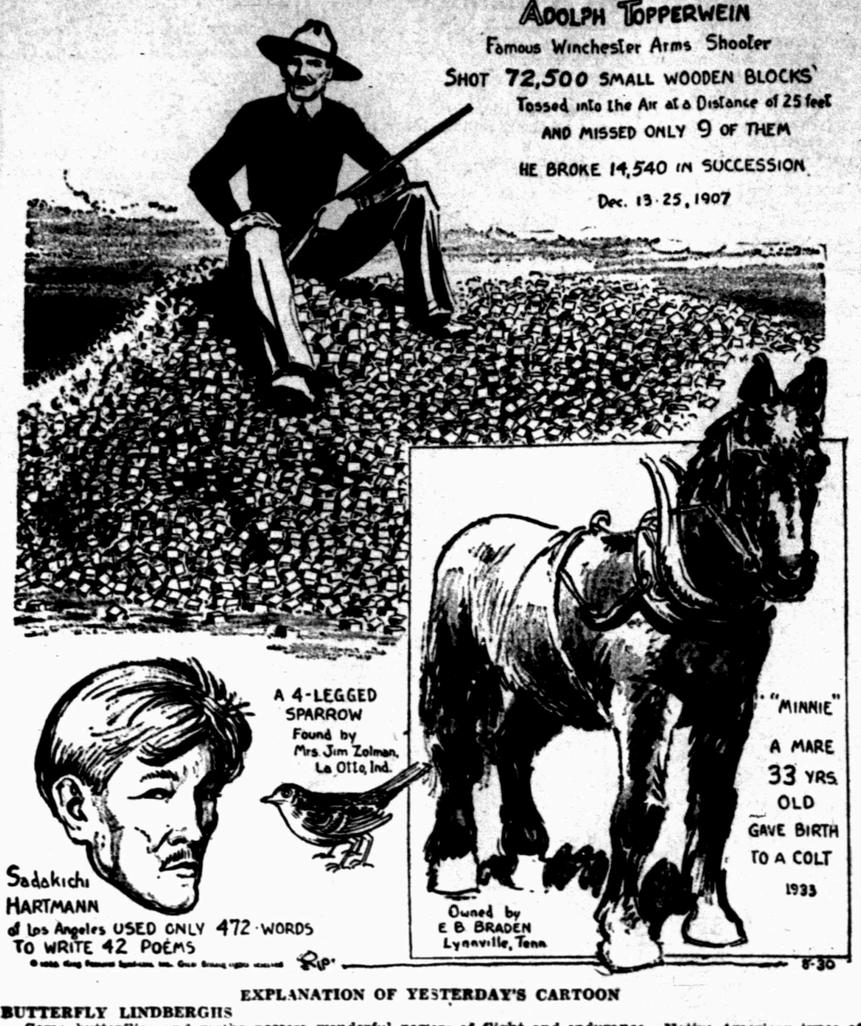

Leaders of German American organizations held an unpublicized meeting in Chicago last week. They decided to affiliate as many organizations as possible with the Friends of New Germany—American subsidiary of the Nazi party—and to provide a fund of five million dollars "to fight the lying propaganda in the American press."

SIDELIGHTS: Russian recognition will come suddenly when it comes . . . That way bitter debates can be avoided . . . There is a lot of talk about a hundred million dollar corporation to finance Russian trade . . . But no action yet . . . Raise your arm to the next German Consulate official you meet . . . He will have to click his heels and salute in reply . . . It's orders.

BUTTERFLY LINDBERGHS

Some butterflies and moths possess wonderful powers of flight and endurance. Native American types of Dragon Flies have been known to cross the Ocean to Hawaii, 2,000 miles away from the California shore. And more wonderful still, the Monarch Butterflies of Northern United States, which have never been known to breed anywhere else, often cross in great swarms to Great Britain over 3,000 miles of ocean. The latter butterfly, the greatest of insect travelers, is very delicate and fragile and cannot tolerate frost and cold. Considerable numbers even reach Australia on their transoceanic flights.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

ELINOR STAFFORD, 20, falls in love with Barrett Colvin, 35, but her jealous scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Elinor is a heartless flirt.

When Elinor's aunt, wealthy MISS ELLA SEXTON, dies she leaves her fortune to Barrett. Then drunken VANCE CARTER shoots BENTWELL STAFFORD, Elinor's father. Barrett tells Elinor's that if she will marry him and live in his home as a guest for a year he will give her the entire Sexton fortune to divide among her relatives. Knowing the money may save her father's life, Elinor agrees.

The marriage takes place. Barrett, in spite of the lies Lida told him, finds himself more in love with Elinor than ever. He has a ward, nine-year-old GERALD MOORE, who is the son of his half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR. Barret has promised Marcia never to reveal the boy's true story.

Elinor's father dies. Her mother discovers the existence of Barrett's ward and tells Elinor the boys is Barrett's son. When she asks him Barrett cannot explain because of his promise to Marcia.

Misunderstandings between Barrett and Elinor increase. They take a house in the country and Gerald comes to live with them. Both Elinor and Barrett are miserable but seem powerless to straighten out the situation. BOB TELFARE pays them a visit and Barret discovers that his suspicions that Elinor has been flirting with Bob are entirely unfounded.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

There was a moon and after dinner Elinor led the way to the terrace. Barrett and Bob Telfare settled themselves beside her, watching the yellow disc rise in the sky. Higgins brought their coffee to them and presently Bessie and Jim Thorpe and their boys arrived.

Sexton, who was the youngest and thus able to forget old times, was talking about a motor boat. The other boys spoke eagerly of college in the fall. Bessie listened happily. She knew that something [illegible]ad said to Elinor that day had made a decided difference. Bessie had seen the changed light in the girl's eyes, a little trembling of her lips. Poor Elinor who was so young, with so much of life to learn!

"We must be going now," Bessie said when the clock indoors struck 10.

After the Thropes had gone, singing on their way down the hill like ancient, traveling minstrels, Elinor went upstairs. For a long while she stood by the window of her darkened room looking over the moonlit world below.

That afternoon Bessie had nodded toward Gerald, playing on the beach with Sexton, and said, "Elinor, I feel that you're misinterpreting something and Jim's forbidden me to say more. He says Barrett would explain if he dared and I must not—if Barrett won't. But dear, even if the situation were as it seems, you know a woman's job is to help a man make his future worth while. It isn't right to brood over the past. Everything Barrett can become is in your hands. What he was before you knew him—"

Elinor had begun to tremble. She had not wanted to talk about that even to Bessie. Nevertheless Bessie went on. "It's natural enough for you to be jealous about what has been but you don't really love, my dear, until you want to help the person you love to cover old wounds and forget them. If Gerald is Barrett's son you'll never regret making Barrett as happy as he can be about it. And when you're as old as I am you'll realize that the only times you've been hurt were when you made others downcast by showing them that they hurt you. Barrett loves you. Anyone can see that!"

Elinor had begun to cry. "I do love him, Aunt Bessie," she whimpered. "But—"

They had talked for an hour and Bessie was sure that in some way Elinor had begun to understand the things she longed to tell her and could not.

It was half past 10 when Barrett mounted the stairs. Bob Telfare had gone to his room half an hour earlier. There was a telegram for Elinor and Barrett, not wishing to disturb her, decided to poke it beneath her door. He had writing to do and he knew that he could not sleep. Long training had made it possible for him to concentrate and thereby gain a sort of relief. He worked but his mind was not really on his work. Again and again, as he sat writing, his pen would slow and the objects he was describing—objects he had unearthed after centuries of hiding in the earth—would fade to be replaced by Elinor's face.

Hard moments those; moments when it was all he could do to stay at his desk. Often they left him spent and shaking. It was the futility of the situation that troubled him, the fact that it was all so unnecessary and was making Elinor so miserable.

He tapped on her door and to his surprise heard her say, "Come in!"

"It's I—Barrett," he explained. "Come in," she repeated.

He opened the door. She was sitting up in bed, the light from a lamp beside her shining down on her.

"Have you a moment to spare?"

NEW DISCOVERY FROM COW ENDS LAXATIVE SLAVERY

As you know, cows are seldom constipated. So medical men have recently studied the cow to find out how to stop chronic bowel delay. The result is a new natural product, taken from the livers of cattle, that corrects the stubbornest constipation easily—without any necessity of harsh, habit-forming laxatives or physics.

There is no need to tell you that most constipation is due to a sluggish liver. The liver manufactures a liquid called the bile, which is Nature's own purgative. When not enough bile flows into your bowels, you are constipated. Yet ordinary physics and laxatives never touch the liver or start the bile.

Now scientists have taken the bile from cattle and put it up in little tablets called Kompo and Bile Salts Tablets. They quickly get your own liver working right. If you want to stop constipation entirely and quit taking habit-forming physics and laxatives, get Kompo Tablets from your druggist today. Results guaranteed or every cent back.

SPECIAL FREE OFFER: Clip out this offer and mail it to us with your name and address and a small trial package of Kompo Tablets will be sent you absolutely FREE. Kompo Company, Dept. R31, Atlanta, Ga.

Dope Runs True To Form As Lubbock Golfers Seek City Open Honors

Edmisson Goes Down In Front Of Young Star

Defending Champ Defeated By Manson Allen, 5-4; Jo Dick Slaughter Bows To Bihl In Tilts At Country Club

Dope ran true to form in Tuesday's first round matches of the Lubbock City Open golf tournament and each favored son came through with apparent easy victories in the day's play at Lubbock Country club.

First round play was completed and second round matches start today and continue through Thursday. Third round matches are to be played Friday and Saturday.

Champion Is Defeated

John Edmisson, defending champion, fell by the wayside Tuesday before the master shooting of Manson Allen, who won 5 and 4 after Edmisson had clung on tenaciously until he began to slip on the back nine. He was only one down at the turn.

Joe Bihl, lightweight caddy from Meadowbrook, took Jo Dick Slaughter to task and won two up in another championship flight match. John D. Munn, ranking amateur at the Country club, won from Alfred Holton, another Meadowbrook caddy, 5 and 4.

Both Allen and Munn took their men out on the 14th hole and both were four under par for the round. Allen scored birdies on the 12th, 13th and 14th holes. Indications were that these two players would meet in the finals, promising a lively round of golf for fans Sunday. They have met several times this summer and are about even in matches won and lost.

Allen Meets Bussey

In second round matches, Allen meets Clinton Bussey; Cotton McAfee tangles with Buster Fluke; Bihl plays Munn and Buckingham and Bryant play in the lower bracket. Second and third round matches are to be played at Meadowbrook and the finals at the Country club Sunday.

In the remainder of first flight matches played Tuesday, Moore won from Minotra, 5-4 and McWhorter beat Trotter, 3-2. First flight matches in the second round find T. O. Jennings playing Otis Felty; Moore meets Dowell; Counts faces Ted Tipps and Lee Jones battles McWhorter.

Other Matches Played

In third flight matches played Tuesday, S. I. Fluke took Walker Stanton out, 8 and 7; Bob Harvey won from W. D. Girand, sr., 3 and 2; R. V. Sandlin bested Pierce Magee, 5 and 4; Buster Honey won from Jay Hartson, 1 up; Chandler won from Helwig, 5 and 4 and Watkins downed Bertran, 6 and 5. Third flight matches in the second round will find McRee playing Fluke; Harvey against Honey; Sandlin and Chandler and Watkins against Briscoe.

Fourth flight matches saw two extra-hole rounds with McCarty losing out Earl Heard on the 19th hole and Bagwell downing Looney in the 20th. J. B. Acton won from J. D. Brown, B and T and Lefty Settles beat Herman Patterson, 1 up in the other fourth flight matches played Tuesday. Second round matches in the flight are as follows: C. C. Jackson vs. Bettes; Acton against Rufus Bradshaw; Borho vs. Hall and McCarty against Bagwell.

Softball Games Scheduled Today

Parlor athletes of Lubbock's softball leagues will tangle in three tilts here late today, two of the contests being scheduled in the American and the third in the National.

Compress and Weiss Truck tens and aggregations representing Fedral and Quicksall-Pryor are scheduled in the American, the former game to be played on the Avenue K field and the latter on the Avenue K plot.

Avalanche-Journal and West Texas Gas entries in the National moved their contest up from September 1 and will match hits and errors at Fair park.

Games begin at 6:15 o'clock.

Three Games Played Tuesday

Avalanche-Journal Printers, behind the five-hit hurling of Jack Williamson, turned back the McKee Wholesalers at the Avenue K park in a neat 3-0 game in which the Printers secured seven hits and the Wholesalers only five. Not a Wholesaler got past second base and the Printers, with a big inning in the fourth, tallied all their runs at once.

While this was going on, the J. J. Sports took the Kuykendall motorists into camp, 10-2, with Del (He Knows Hornsby) Morgan on the hillock. Strickland did the pitching for the Kuykendalls, much to the delight of Sports stickmen. The game was played at Fair park.

Quicksall-Pryor took a nifty 5-3 win over Hotel Hilton on the Avenue R diamond with Shultz hurling for the Bellboys and Lowrey for the auto parts lads.

Notre Dame's 1933 football squad will be "held together" by some 27 miles of tape and gauze this fall.

Grid Coach Dies

FRANK W. CAVANAUGH

MARSHFIELD, Mass., Aug. 29 (AP) Frank W. Cavanaugh 57, the "Iron Major" of football, died at his home here late today after a lingering illness. He had been in a coma for three days. Cavanaugh formerly coached at West Point.

Westerners In First Workout

Coaches Chapman And Huffman Give Out 36 Suits; Others To Be Passed Out Today As 1933 Grid Practice Opens

Coaches Weldon Chapman and Burl Huffman, Lubbock High school grid mentors, swung 36 of their 1933 grid charges into an unofficial workout at Fair park yesterday afternoon and after the light exercise felt better than they've felt since the curtain rang down on last year's pigskin season.

After passing out suits and equipment at the high school building and some passing practice and calesthenics on the practice field, Coach Chapman characterized his youngsters as "the making of an average ball club in spite of the fact that we have but three lettermen back—only one of whom was a regular last year."

"Chappo" Is Grinning

Grinning like a toothpaste advertisement, Chapman apparently was more optimistic than he talked. The team, he said, will be neither large nor small—but outside of that he had little to offer in the way of a Westerner sales talk.

More suits will be passed out at senior high this morning at 9 chimes and the first official workout will be held this afternoon at Fair park at 4 o'clock. Single practice sessions will continue each afternoon this week but starting Monday the hopefuls likely will be called for insturtion and workouts both morning and evening.

With the first game—with Big Spring—only three weeks off, the coaches yesterday afternoon divided the squad into two teams and allowed the lads to run a few signals. Most of them remembered the formations and series numbers from spring training.

Aspirants Listed

The following team aspirants reported for yesterday's practice:

Edgar Doherty, Woodrow Aycock, Woodrow Barnes, G. B. Wimberley, Dixie White, Charles Calhoun, Ocie Griggs, Rayburn Hale, Rufus Ryan, Eugene Alderson, Virgil Grimes, Harold Jenkins, Richard Walters, Ottis Speer, Weldon Phillips.

Wayne Prather, Raleigh Vermillion, Jack Tilery, Giton Meador, Haws Hiatt, Worth Bull, Tommie Haley, Jimmie Schooler, W. M. Robinson, Robert Allen Hill, G. W. McGraw, Robert Bethea, Frank Montfort, C. J. Griggs, Jack Cole, Jack Cellem, Leo Parks, Jesse Granberry, Hudson Powell, George Morrow and Richard Philips.

BASEBALL SUIT OPENS

AMARILLO, Aug. 29 (AP) — Jerry Malin's damage suit against the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Chicago White Sox of the major baseball leagues opened here in 47th district court today.

Malin, sports editor of the Amarillo Globe-News, alleges he suffered loss of $1300 when the two teams failed to play an exhibition game here last April 5, claiming the weather was prohibitive. Malin, who promoted the event, charges the game could have been played.

Oregon's football team will have two captains for the first time this fall. Bernie Hughes and Mark Temple will share the honors.

RYAN IS CAPTAIN

Rufus Ryan, last year's regular quarterback, last night was announced as 1933 Westerner grid captain by Coaches Chapman and Huffman.

Ryan, who graduates at midterm this winter, is 17 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. W. Ryan. The coaches said young Ryan has all the qualifications needed for a captain, is a good student and has been active in school affairs other than in football. He is also a star track man and will likely be played at halfback's position on this year's team.

Lamesa Awaiting Chicken Hunters

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Aug. 29.—The chicken season opens in this section Friday morning, Sept. 1, and will continue four days. Hotels, cafes and other business concerns are making elaborate plans to take care of an increased number of hunters this year.

Game wardens state that the season has been exceptionally fine for the breeding and raising of the chickens, and that large numbers of the birds will be found in the sandhills and ranches west and northwest of Lamesa.

Included in the visitors expected, and who have already accepted invitations to come here and hunt, are W. R. Ely, of the State Highway department, and William J. Tucker, chief, State Game and Fish commission. Hotels are reporting early reservations.

PLANS TO RETIRE

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 29 (AP)—Tired of being a champion, tired of acting like one and anxious to play the game "for enjoyment only," Miss Enid Wilson, winner of the English title three years in succession, tonight said she would retire from competitive golf after the current American championship at Exmoor.

Giants, Cards Split Shutout Double Header

Boston Is Idle As Frischmen Lose 3-0, Then Win Second Tilt, 2-0; Pirates Defeat Phils; Chicago Divides

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Aug. 29 (AP) — The pennant surge of the New York Giants lost no further ground today, thanks to the southpaw skill of the great Carl Hubbell, but another ex-Giant meanwhile came back to roost at the Polo grounds and harass the hard fighting men of Bill Terry in their current struggle with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Hubbell added another masterpiece to his collection of pitching gems for the year by blanking the Red Birds, 3-0, for his ninth shutout of the season but the Giants then were unexpectedly handcuffed and white-washed by their old college chum, Bill Walker, to the tune of 2-0, in the last half of the double header.

WARNEKE IS EFFECTIVE

BROOKLYN, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers broke even in a doubleheader today, the Dodgers slamming out a 13-5 decision in the opening contest and bowing in the second by 6-2.

An 18-hit assault upon four Chicago pitchers made Walter Beck's path to victory easy in the curtain raiser, but Lonnie Warneke was master of the nightcap, holding the Dodgers to seven scattered hits and scoreless until the ninth inning.

First game:

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 29 (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates made it three in a row over the Phillies today, winning 4 to 1 behind the five-hit pitching of Heinie Meine.

Only a two hit attack by the Phillies in the ninth, and an error by Meine enabled the Phils to push their run across and save themselves from a shutout.

National Doubles Title Is To Remain In United States

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 29 (AP) —Any chance of the national doubles tennis championship falling into alien hands was removed today when George M. Lott, jr., of Chicago, and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, gained the final round by nosing out Adrian Quist and Don Turnbull, the Australian Davis Cup team, 6-4, 3-6, 7-9, 2-6, 11-9, in their interrupted semi-finals match at Longwood.

As a result, an All-American championship match will be played tomorrow with Lott and Stoefen opposing Frank X. Shields, New York, and Frankie Parker, Milwaukee, the sensational youngsters who dethroned Ellsworth Vines and Keith Gledhill, the defending titlists, in yesterday's semi-finals.

American Stars And One Briton Are Sailing Toward Women's Golf Crown

By PAUL MICKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill., Aug. 29. (AP)—Canada's lone threat fell in the heavy shelling over the fairways of Exmoor today, but the single hope of England and the brightest stars of America went sailing on with impressive victories in the struggle for the women's national golf championship.

Ada Mackenzie of Toronto, three times champion of the northern dominion was the victim of the only important upset falling before Peggy Wattles of Buffalo, 3-2.

Enid Wilson, England, marched into the second round, a serious threat to take the title away from this country for the first time in 20 years. Miss Wilson survived by disposing of Mrs. Marion Turpie Lake of New York, 3 and 2.

Joining the English champion in the second round was the American titleholder, Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, who turned in the most decisive victory, crushing Elizabeth Dunn of Indianapolis, 7-6.

Other leaders surviving were:

Helen Hicks of New York, 1931 champion, who defeated Edith Begg of Cleveland, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Leona Cheney of San Gabriel, Cal., who tied Lucille Robinson of Des Moines as the lowest score of the day by clipping par two shots and submerging Mrs. Mildred Green, Culver City, Cal., 6 and 5, for the second most one-sided margin.

Maureen Orcutt of Haworth, N. J., who made a brilliant comeback on the final three holes, after trailing one down through the twelfth, to turn back the challenge of Mrs. Virginia Wilson Dennehy, Chicago, 3 and 2.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, of Kansas City who sent Rosalie Knapp of New York to the gallery 5 and 4.

A former Illinois gridder will "open the show" this fall when Vee Green, new coach at Drake university, brings his Bulldogs to the Illinois camp Sept. 30.

DICKENS MAN DROWNS

SPUR (Special)— John R. Craddock, 31, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Craddock of the Red Mud community, was drowned in a tank on his father's farm last week. An invalid since 1925, the youth had been seldom left alone by his parents. He slipped out of the house early in the morning to take some exercise and is believed to have fallen into a water tank as he bent over to get a drink. In his weakened condition he was unable to call for help and strangled to death.

Wheat, rye, oats and rice — America's most imporant crops, excepting corn — all came from Europe.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN, No. 15

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan placed a foot upon the carcass of his kill and, with his handsome face raised to the full moon, gave voice to the most frightful cry that ever had smitten upon the girl's ears. With a little gasp of fear, she shrank from him as the fiendish challenge died away. Had he perhaps gone mad?..

Then Tarzan's eyes rested upon the frightened girl and his kindly smile reassured her. "This thing you have done is unheard of," she said. "And that cry! It was not human!" but the apeman did not explain as they continued their journey. Beyond a rivulet they found the horses, grazing. Without mishap they reached the girl's village.

When his daughter recited their story to her father, the old sheik and his men surrounded Tarzan in worshipful admiration. They even wished to adopt him as a tribe member. A week he remained as their honored guest, enjoying himself hugely. Then sorrowfully he bade the girls and her people farewell and rode away.

Back now in Bou Saada, Tarzan found welcome from the officers, surprised to see him alive and unhurt. Orders from France instructed him to proceed by first steamer to Cape Town. But one thing he determined to do first, for in the sheik's village he had gathered an interesting piece of information.

she asked.

"Of course." He didn't understand this. "I brought up a telegram that came for you," he said

Elinor took it and he sat down in a chair that was near her. She tore open the envelope with its small transparent window. Then, "Mother's married!" she gasped.

She gave him the message and he read it with a certain grim amusement. Lida had married a Chicago merchant whose reputation Barrett knew well—a Bluebeard Croesus with a string of discarded wives in his cupboard. He would, Barret reflected, be a match even for Lida.

"Well!" he said, and could think of no more suitable comment.

"I expected that—or something like it," Elinor admitted, "but not quite so soon." She grew silent then. Barrett felt she was trying to say something more and that it was not easy for her to begin.

He had his own speech to make and he wanted to get it over. "Elinor," he said, and then hesitated.

"Yes?" Why was she looking at him in that way? It was dangerous for both of them.

"Elinor, I want to tell you that I respect you wholly and in every way. I haven't always. I had an idea—a rather fixed idea—that you were carrying on some sort of affair with Bob Telfare. I'm thoroughly ashamed of that now and I hope you can forgive me. I know how fine you are in every way and have always been.I—" he paused, balked.

"But, Barrett! I couldn't do a thing like that!" she said quickly. "I couldn't! I've seen too much of it to be able to indulge in it myself. I've been square—that way, but not in others. I've been—small, Barrett! I know I have."

He saw that her lips were trembling. "I don't see that—" he disagreed.

"Yes, you do! Or you could—if you would! I've made you so unhappy!"

"That wasn't your fault," he assured her. "I know I hurt you—desperately."

She shook her head violently. "I hurt myself," she confessed unsteadily, "by acting the way I have."

She began to cry. She had cried so often in the last weeks. Barrett moved toward her; he could not help it. He settled on the edge of the bed and drew her into his arms. He patted her back with one big hand, held her pressed close to him with the other. His own eyes were stinging.

"I want to make you happy," he heard her say brokenly.

"If you're happy then I will be," he told her, hardly more steadily. "In a little time, Barrett," she said, "I'll be just as I was—before. I need a little more time to get adjusted."

"Dearest, I want you to be happy. That's all I care about!"

"Do you mean you still love me?"

"Darling!" He didn't intend that his arm should tighten but it did. He did his face against her hair. He managed to say, "It's been—hell!"

"I love you!" Elinor said. Then, "Barry! Barry;" for she had felt the sob that shook him.

She remembered Bessie's words. Her arms were around him now, holding him tightly. Bessie had said you only love truly when you wanted to help the one you loved to forget old wounds. Well, Elinor knew that she loved Barret now.

He raised his face from her shoulder. "I'm sorry, Elinor," he said.

"Nothing matters but your happiness!" she broke in as he paused. She ran an unsteady hand over his dear, stiff, sandy hued hair. She tried to smile at him. His lips twitched; yet again his eyes filled.

He kissed her hands then, showing in the way he kissed them all the hunger he had felt, all the great love he had for her. He would be endlessly patient, he declared, if only she would assure him that some day she might feel as she had before. He would do everything—everything — to make it easy. She was the one woman in his life. There was no one else. There never could be any other. He would never forgive himself for having doubted her fineness.

"I worship you!" he had said roughly, then hid his face once more against her shoulder.

(To Be Concluded)

Jurors refused to accept fees in two trials in a Watsonville, Cal., court and waived travelling expenses in order to cut public expenses.

Even a husband could cook with this range!

Husbands who wouldn't tolerate an out-of-date automobile often fail to realize the necessity of an up-to-date Gas Range. But of course they don't do the cooking! If they had to struggle with an old-fashioned stove a few times they'd be quick to order modern equipment. Even the last domestic husband could cook pretty well on a new Gas Range. It's almost failure-proof!

The Heat Regulator and the Automatic Timer relieve the cook of interminable watching and waiting—the Insulated Oven keeps the heat where it belongs. Gas is the fastest cooking fuel—and the most easily and accurately regulated. And it's the most economical—pennies pay the bill! Husbands and wives alike will find an inspection of the new Gas Ranges instructive and interesting.

Amherst School District To Get Additional Funds

AMHERST, Aug. 29. (Special).—The Amherst Independent school district is to receive an additional dollar per month per student for those living beyond the two mile limit, J. I. Warren, school superintendent, has been advised. The original payment was to be one dollar per month.

Amherst had only 80 sections of land within the district and the law was for districts with 100 or more sections. Twenty sections were secured from the Olton and Sudan districts, giving the local district the state requirement.

The additional state aid will amount to $3,000 a year.

Wife Of Slick Melton Seeks His Release From The Pen

Mrs. S. E. Melton, wife of "Slick" Melton, found guilty by a jury in 72nd district court in June, 1932 of violation of the state prohibitory law and sentenced to three years in the state penitentiary, is seeking release of her husband.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Melton called on District Clerk Charles B. Metcalfe and secured a list of the jurors who heard the case and who assessed penalty. She said she planned to see each one and to ask them to sign a petition to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson seeking her husband's release.

Melton appealed his case to the state court of criminal appeals after conviction. He failed to secure a new trial and was sent to the penitentiary last November.
