Ask Us

Q—Why are the commissioners not made to use their own vehicles to go back and forth to work?

A—The decision to use their own vehicles or county-owned vehicles is made by the commissioner's court. Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. said that many times commissioners get calls at home to check on various things, as well as to respond to fires in the county. Since many commissioners do not live near their precinct barns, it would take more gasoline to drive to and from the barn each day to pick up and leave the county vehicle there. Commissioners have discussed using their own vehicles and implementing a travel allowance, but have not done so.

$1.4 million...

Ira ISD budget set

Ira public school trustees on Thursday unanimously approved a $1.4 million budget for 1994-95 and set the tax rate at $1.50 per $100 valuation.

The budget — actually $1,461,553 — represents a 10.8 percent decrease from the 1993-94 budget. Most of the reduction comes from attendance credit purchases, which Ira ISD is required to make as a "wealthy" district under the state's current school finance plan. Ira ISD administrators estimate that cost will be $45,000 this year, compared to $96,000 a year ago.

Trustees also approved a tax rate of $1.50, which, based on a 97½ percent collection rate, will generate $1,309,757. Other revenue includes $68,000 in state funds, with the balance coming from gate receipts, lunch room receipts and other miscellaneous fees.

The tax rate is the highest the district can set, since the state prevents school districts from exceeding $1.50. Due to a loss in values, Ira ISD's effective rate — the rate necessary to produce the same amount of tax income as the previous year — is in excess of $1.62.

In other business, the board approved bids for milk, bread, produce, motor and heating fuel and an agreement with HOBBS at-risk school.

Trustees denied an agreement with Borden County ISD for the education of transfer students, after learning that the agreement would cost Ira ISD in excess of $14,000.

The board also approved amendments to the 1993-94 budget in the amount of $25,000.

All trustees were present Thursday. The next meeting of the board is set for Sept. 15.

Juveniles charged in arson case here

A two-week investigation into a fire which destroyed a former florist shop and nursery here was closed by police and fire officials Thursday with charges of arson filed against four juveniles.

Two boys, both age 12, were taken into custody Thursday and later released to the custody of their parents. Two other boys, ages 11 and 13, left Snyder before they could be apprehended. Police said the 11 and 13-year-old left to live with a relative in California.

The case is being forwarded to the district attorney's office.

The youths are also suspects in several burglaries at the building, last occupied by Neff Floral and Garden Center.

"They had been burglarizing this building through a back door over a period of about a month and a half," said Police Lt. Steve Warren. The boys had taken numerous stuffed animals, cups and paraphernalia used in making floral arrangements, some of which was recovered by police on Thursday.

Burglary charges have not been filed against the juveniles. Lt. Warren said he will discuss the burglaries with the district attorney before taking any action.

The building was located at 2804 College Avenue, on the bank of Deep Creek. Damage in the fire amounted to $66,360.

Snyder Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell said the boys had apparently been spraying some WD-40 and igniting it, then quickly putting the fires out. However, they sprayed some straw or wicker which caused a fire that got out of control.

Area youth invited to bike rodeo here

Scurry County youngsters are invited to participate in a free Back-to-School Bicycle Rodeo this Saturday in the Scurry County Coliseum parking lot.

The event will begin at 9 a.m. and is being sponsored by the United States Postal Service and Snyder Police Department.

Parents are also encouraged to attend. "This is an excellent opportunity not only for children to learn the rules of bicycle safety, but for their parents to learn them as well," a police department spokesperson said.

Children will be able to ride through a bicycle course and have a short instruction in bicycle maintenance and care. Each participant will receive a ribbon and a certificate showing completion of the training.

Youngsters will also receive a raffle ticket to a drawing. From the drawing, one child will win a new bicycle. The drawing will be held about noon.

Gun club to host show this weekend

All types of firearms, knives, leather goods, coins and arrowheads will be available to purchase or trade at Scurry County Coliseum this weekend as Canyon Gun Club, Inc. hosts its annual Gun, Knife and Coin Show.

Doors will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday. Admission is $2 per person. Children age 12 and under will be admitted free with a parent.

To make it easier for area residents, a local dealer will hold handguns in compliance with the new five-day waiting law. There is no wait on rifles and shotguns.

Area citizens may bring unloaded firearms to the show to sell, swap or trade.

In addition, Canyon Gun Club will be offering club memberships for $25 per person. By joining the club, members are entitled to use of the club gun range. The modern, outdoor range is used by local law enforcement for firearms qualification and by Western Texas College in the training of correctional officers for the Texas Department of Criminal Justice.

There will also be a booth for persons interested in registering for a hunter safety course that will be held in September.

This is the gun club's 13th year to host the show.

Colonial Hill will celebrate 40th anniversary on Sunday

Colonial Hill Baptist Church, formed 40 years ago in a meeting at West Elementary, will celebrate its anniversary Sunday.

The anniversary service will begin at 10:45 a.m. with the church's first pastor, Dr. Jimmie Nelson of Fort Worth, addressing the congregation and visitors.

The program will include singing by high school and junior high school members, an introduction of charter members by H.W. Cargile, and a presentation of church history by Dr. Nelson.

A catered meal will be served in West Elementary's cafeteria at noon. A reception in the fellowship hall will follow at 1:30.

Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m.

Colonial Hill Baptist Church was formed on Aug. 15, 1954, in a meeting of 64 people at West Elementary. There were 69 charter members in all.

A week of revival followed the meeting with Rev. Avery Sullivan of the First Baptist Church in Roscoe as the evangelist.

The following week, 75 enrolled in the first Sunday School and the first training union had an enrollment of 70.

Two days later, a Women's Missionary Society was organized with 13 members.

Rev. Nelson accepted the call to become pastor in October, and on Dec. 8, the first church budget — in the amount of $23,427.60 — was adopted. New organizations were the Junior Girls Auxiliary and School-Age Sunbeams.

The year 1955 was a good year for Colonial Hill. Attendance and budget receipts records were broken and the Y.W.A.s were organized. On Feb. 18 of that year, the Winston family of Snyder donated the present building site for the church. Pre-school Sunbeams were also organized.

A dinner on the ground marked the church's first anniversary. In August, chapters for Junior and Intermediate Royal Ambassador chapters were organized.

The foundation of the church building was started in November and Colonial Hill celebrated its first services in the auditorium on April 22, 1956.

Formal dedication sevices were held on July 8, 1956, with Dr. Forrest Feezor, then executive secretary of the Baptist General Convention of Texas, as the main speaker.

On. Feb. 7, 1957, a library was dedicated in memory of George Elliott. The following year, the church bought the land south of the present property.

After 9½ years, Dr. Nelson resigned as pastor in April of 1964 and preached his last sermon on May 17 of that year. Dr. Lindell Harris, then chairman of the Division of Religion at Hardin-Simmons University, was "called" as the interim pastor.

The Rev. Miller Robinson, second and current pastor, preached

Flyer, trips approved by development group

Development Corporation of Snyder board members approved a request to print a textile recruiting flyer and funds for travel in a meeting held Thursday evening.

Meeting with Dick Crill with Midwest Electric and Ron Roesler, president of the Texas Independent Cotton Marketing, Inc. of Lubbock, the board was advised of the possibility of cotton spinning mills moving from the East Coast to Texas.

Noting that one-fourth of the nation's cotton is grown within a 200-mile radius of Snyder, the men cited availability of products as a key factor. Also, they said, electricity and labor are less expensive here.

"Automated, low-tech systems make sense here...there is a whole segment of the textile industry that could fit here," said Doug Hutchinson, DCOS executive director.

A typical cotton spinning mill could have an $18 million capital investment and provide 67 to 70 jobs, the board was told.

DCOS members unanimously approved putting together a four-color brochure at an estimated cost of $1,800 to $2,000. The brochures will be sent out to several companies, and follow-up visits will be planned.

The board also approved travel expenses in the amount of $573 for Hutchinson to attend the Texas Downtown Association annual

The SDN Column — By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Don't you feel sorry for the poor atheist who feels grateful but has no one to thank."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

Everybody has got problems. The Lamesa Press-Reporter recently ran a letter-to-the-editor from a concerned citizen in O'Donnell.

The writer's wrath and ruffled feathers were aimed at O'Donnell Mayor Tommy Woolam and the city council.

"Dear Mr. Woolam:

"You asked if there was anything we could suggest to improve our city. I have a complaint I wish you could bring to the attention of the city council and see if something could be done. My complaint is the chickens that are all over town.

"People that have good tight homes may not hear them or be bothered by them every morning early — and I mean early! They start crowing at four or five o'clock every morning. Believe me, it is sure not a good way to start the day.

"I don't hate chickens; I hate being woke up early.

"Sincerely,

"A concerned citizen"

The city council is looking forward to the first cool front.

Health care reform is the talk of many coffee shops. Some have suggested that the time is fast approaching when folks will work for free just to have paid health insurance benefits.

The Wall Street Journal did report on another fringe benefit of a large packing company.

The firm employs a man to fix faucets, paint walls, patch ceilings, repair floors and do other odd jobs at employees' homes.

The employees buy parts, but the company pays the handyman's wages and transportation. The man furnishes his own tools.

Not surprisingly, the man has no trouble getting in his 40 hours each week.

Cooling trend revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Earth may have been cooling for at least 6,800 years, according to a study published today of tree rings taken from the bristlecone pine, the oldest living tree species.

Two California Institute of Technology scientists report today in the journal Science that measurements of chemical ratios in the trunks of trees grown in the White Mountains of California show temperatures have declined about 5 degrees since about 4800 B.C.

"This is consistent with other studies, such as the ice cores, and suggests that the cooling may very well have been global," said Samuel Epstein, lead researcher in the study.

But he said the research cannot be related to current theories that the Earth now is warming because of the so-called greenhouse effect caused by an increase of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

"The modern climate is much more unpredictable," said Epstein.

In the study, Epstein and a Caltech graduate student, Xiahong Feng, measured the ratio of two chemicals, deuterium and hydrogen, in the annual growth rings of bristlecone pine trunks that are known to be up to 8,000 years old.

It is known that the ratio of deuterium and hydrogen increases in tree rings as the climatic temperature rises. A single tree ring is created annually by growth of a wood layer in the trunk.

Based on measurements in 50-year intervals from three trees, the researchers found that temperatures climbed slightly until about 6,800 years ago and then started a long cooling slide.

The trend flattened out from 2,000 to 400 years ago, and then another cold period started. The coldest period was between 1700 and 1900, and there was a slight warming at the end of the measured period.

Epstein said the last measured season was in 1950, when the trees were cut. Wood from the trees have been preserved for scientific study because the bristlecone pine is thought to be the longest-lived tree on Earth.

Ice cores drilled from Devon Island in far northern Canada also have given long-range temperature trends, but some experts have said this data may have been influenced by the ocean or by local effects.

Get a second opinion from dentist

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My teeth are abscessed and my dentist refuses to pull them, claiming there's still smiles left in them. My medical doctor has me on Amoxicillin and Cipro, yet the infection continues. What can I do about this problem?

DEAR READER: See another dentist. In instances where professionals disagree, a second opinion will often provide patients with additional information to help them decide what to do.

Although your dental abscesses should respond to antibiotic therapy, I suspect that you will eventually need root canal work or extractions. See what the second dentist says.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've just been told I have liver cancer and a tumor on my kidney. My doctor says a liver biopsy will be very dangerous, but he didn't rule it out completely. Is there any hope for me?

DEAR READER: To a large degree, the prognosis of cancer depends on the type of malignancy and its location. Certain tumors, such as prostate cancer, grow relatively slowly and may take years to cause serious problems.

On the other hand, other malignancies, such as carcinoma of the lung, grow rapidly, metastasize (spread) quickly, and cause death in a few months.

Therefore, before answering your question, I'd have to know the type of cancer. Did it arise in the liver and spread to the kidney, or vice-versa? Are there, in fact, two different tumors? Could the liver lesion and the kidney tumor represent metastatic spread from yet another growth elsewhere in your body?

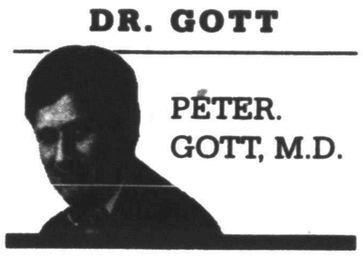

Your doctor should be able to answer these questions and give you an analysis of your future. But first, I believe, he'll have to biopsy the liver tumor (which is easier to get to than the kidney) to identify the type of cancer and its cellular characteristics.

I might add that radiation treatments and/or chemotherapy should offer hope, regardless of the nature of the cancer. Don't delay in obtaining the information I mentioned. Each day that you wait means that the cancer may grow and spread.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Viruses and Cancer." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Dallas jury convicts Aylor in murder-for-hire scheme

DALLAS (AP) — Joy Davis Aylor lost her battle for freedom Thursday when she was convicted and sentenced to life in prison for arranging the murder 11 years ago of her estranged husband's mistress.

A panel of three men and nine women, which heard 13 days of testimony and arguments, deliberated just 21/2 hours before finding Ms. Aylor guilty of capital murder in the Oct. 4, 1983, slaying of Rozanne Gailiunas.

Ms. Aylor, 45, showed no expression as the verdict was read.

Afterward, prosecutor Kevin Chapman called her "a stone-cold sociopath" and described the verdict as "a fabulous relief."

"We've waited a long time for this," said Chapman, who returned to Dallas from a family business in Austin to try the case. "At times we thought we'd never get her back from France and would never have this opportunity for a jury of 12 to hear this."

Ms. Aylor was arrested in 1988 based on audiotaped conversations with her sister, Carol Garland. She fled Dallas in 1990 rather than face trial and was arrested a year later in France, where she had been living under an alias.

State District Judge Pat McDowell gave Ms. Aylor an automatic life sentence because the state had to promise not to execute Ms. Aylor before France would extradite her. France struck down the death penalty in 1981 and normally refuses extradition when the suspect risks execution.

Ms. Aylor could be eligible for parole in 20 years, although she might be given credit for jail time already served, Chapman said.

Defense attorney Curtis Glover said Ms. Aylor was "very disappointed, obviously, very disappointed" with the verdict.

"This matter will be appealed," Glover said, "and we have every confidence that we will revisit this case."

Ms. Gailiunas' widow and other relatives were relieved.

"We are very pleased with the verdict," Dr. Peter Gailiunas told KXAS-TV. "Our only regret is that she can't get the death penalty."

Ms. Gailiunas' younger sister Paula Donahue, who flew in for the trial from Framingham, Mass., wiped tears from her eyes as she discussed the ruling.

"My parents hopefully can put this to rest and finally grieve because they haven't done it for so long," she said. "They've just been waiting. They wanted this to be over with."

When asked her opinion of Ms. Aylor, Mrs. Donahue said, "I don't even think she's human. ... She has no conscience. She didn't think twice about it.

"I just hope she doesn't get out on anything. I just hope she rots there for a long time. My biggest remorse is that she didn't get the death penalty."

Prosecutors said the combined weight of all the evidence, which included two tape-recorded conversations between Ms. Aylor and her sister and the testimony of two former lovers who said she admitted masterminding the plot, helped win a conviction.

"I think the evidence was overwhelming," Chapman said. "I think the flight is tremendously indicative of guilt."

The defense didn't call any witnesses, using only closing arguments to portray Ms. Aylor as an abused wife who nevertheless loved her husband, Larry Aylor, and apparently wanted him back.

Prosecutor Dan Hagood called the defense theory "nonsense."

A 33-year-old nurse, Ms. Gailiunas was attacked in her suburban Dallas home and later found by her 4-year-old son. George Anderson Hopper Jr., now on death row after being convicted of capital murder in March 1992, attempted to rape Ms. Gailiunas, then strangled her with pantyhose and shot her twice in the head.

Bill Garland, one of the alleged middlemen in the case and Ms. Aylor's former brother-in-law, is awaiting trial on charges of solicitation and conspiracy to commit capital murder.

Ms. Aylor faces separate charges of planning an unsuccessful sniper attack on her husband in 1986, two months before their divorce. She has pleaded innocent to all charges.

Wins $60,000 ski prize

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Tommy Moe has skied his way to an easy $60,000.

The Olympic champion said Thursday he signed a four-year contract to become a "special ambassador" for ski resorts in the Jackson Hole area. He will only have to work there 14 days a year.

Moe, who won a gold medal in the downhill race and a silver in the Super-G, has been heavily courted by Rocky Mountain ski resorts since the Winter Olympics.

New policy angers Cuban community

MIAMI (AP) — Many Cubans in South Florida were first stunned, then outraged, by Attorney General Janet Reno's announcement that Cubans intercepted at sea would be detained indefinitely.

"She needs to put herself in these people's shoes and think how she would feel after fleeing Cuba and then landing in jail," said Leticia Ramos, who was waiting at a refugee center to pick up two cousins fleeing Cuba.

The announcement represents an about-face in U.S. policy toward Cubans. Since 1966, they have been greeted with open arms and immediately released into the community as political refugees.

"What this is is an insult to the Cuban people and nothing more," said Julia Barrera, one of several exiles in Miami's Little Havana neighborhood who expressed anger over the detention plan early today.

Florida's congressional delegation and Gov. Lawton Chiles had pleaded with the White House for the change, saying the thousands of illegal immigrants are threatening to overwhelm the state's ability to house, educate and care for its people.

But Cubans in Miami said the detention policy is foolish because the refugees will have to be released eventually.

"What are they going to do?" exclaimed Jorge Pino, who arrived from Cuba years ago. "Put them in prison forever because they cannot even think of sending them back to be killed in Cuba?"

The change also raised fears at the Cuban Transit Center near Key West, where the U.S. Coast Guard has released hundreds of Cubans in recent days.

"I don't think that this is going to stop anything," said the center's medical director, Dr. Jose Castillo. "The only thing this is going to create is a lot of fear and bad feelings."

Daniel Ortiz, 23, who was picked up by the Coast Guard late Wednesday, didn't expect the exodus to stop. He said hundreds of people in his village of Cogiman, which has about 7,000 residents, were building rafts and making plans to flee.

Chiles said Cubans and Haitians should be treated the same. For years, Cubans picked up in international waters have been taken to Florida, while Haitians have been prevented from reaching U.S. shores or returned to Haiti.

"If they are going to give us the same treatment as the Haitians, then put the same pressure on Cuba that they are putting on Haiti and tell Castro to get out," said Arturo Cobo, who directs the refugee center. "Blockade Cuba, don't let anybody in or out and tell Castro to get out."

American Airlines sued over big sign

DALLAS (AP) — Two California men who were injured in a car accident at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport have filed a lawsuit against American Airlines, blaming a huge gate information sign for the accident.

The lawsuit, which seeks unspecified damages, was filed on behalf of Anwar Soliman and Ralph Roberts in a state district court in Dallas.

Hometowns for the plaintiffs, who are executives with Grandy's restaurant chain, were not immediately available.

The December 1993 accident occurred when the car in which the men were riding smashed into the rear of a vehicle, according to the lawsuit.

The driver of the front car had stopped in the middle of the road to read one of the five-story signs, according to the lawsuit.

Soliman suffered head and neck injuries, while Roberts suffered a broken pelvis and facial cuts, said their attorney, Mark Werbner of Dallas. The lawsuit alleges the sign is a traffic hazard and accuses American Airlines of gross negligence.

An American Airlines spokesman said the signs were installed as a public service after extensive research.

Shuttle mission delayed

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space shuttle Endeavour's last-second engine shutdown will force scientists to wait until October or later for part two of a mission to record changes in the Earth's environment.

Shuttle managers decided Thursday to bump Endeavour and instead fly Discovery next month as planned.

Endeavour's attempted launch was aborted 1.9 seconds before liftoff Thursday. All three engines fired, but were shut down automatically by the shuttle computers because of an overheated pump in main engine No. 3.

The six astronauts crawled out of the fueled spaceship an hour later.

"We were quite obviously very concerned," said Deidra Baker, wife of shuttle commander Michael Baker. "But I don't think anybody's happier than the families that the safety system worked and it was OK."

Boyce Mix, NASA's deputy manager for main engines, said it was not immediately known why the high-pressure oxidizer pump malfunctioned. It was a refurbished component with no prior problems.

NASA is testing a redesigned version of the pump that is intended to improve safety while reducing costly maintenance. It's due to fly next year.

Endeavour will be moved next week from the pad back into the Vehicle Assembly Building, where all three engines will be replaced with spares. Discovery, meanwhile, is due to blast off Sept. 9.

Your Birthday

Saturday, Aug. 20, 1994

Your prospects for the year ahead look promising, but what you hope to achieve may require a second effort. Be patient and persistent, keep the faith and don't lose sight of your goals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This might be one of those days when everything you want to do encounters opposition. Back off instead of battling, because what you are doing might be inviting this response. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Many of the problems you may have to contend with today could be of your own making. Don't make life tougher on yourself than it needs to be. Think ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Misunderstandings could arise today with friends over finances. Try to keep them at arm's length from your financial affairs and don't get immersed in theirs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be cognizant of your limitations today. If you aim for objectives beyond your capabilities and fall short, it could substantially lessen your self-esteem.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't let it be said of you today that you are more of a talker than a doer. Don't brag about your accomplishments if they are yet to be recorded — the time to boast is the last step.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Make it a point to try to live within your means in this cycle. Forgo assuming any new long-term financial obligations until you're in a stronger financial position.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you're negotiating a matter of importance with another today, be sure to spell out the details in writing. Verbal commitments won't cut it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Strive to keep pace with your present responsibilities and duties. Today if you goof off and start falling behind, it might be very difficult for you to catch up later.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It might be unwise today to try to mix business with pleasure. If you have a commercial proposal you want to discuss, wait until a more propitious time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not use unsavory methods to achieve your objectives today, because what you do will not be forgotten by persons with whom you lock horns.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Guard against inclinations today to underestimate others, especially where their intelligence is concerned. Someone to whom you feel intellectually superior could turn out be quite smart.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you're presently involved in a venture where the returns are not on parity with the investment, it might be wise to take your lumps and walk away instead of pouring in more.

Possible delay in wife's sentencing...

Former CIA officer in federal prison

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aldrich Ames, the CIA officer who spied for Moscow, is now serving his life sentence at a federal penitentiary in Pennsylvania as planned, but his wife's sentencing may be postponed to pressure her husband into further disclosures.

Ames, a veteran of 31 years in the CIA, was transferred Aug. 11 to the new high-security U.S. penitentiary at Allenwood, Pa., Bureau of Prisons spokesman Dan Dunne said Thursday.

Since his guilty plea last April, Ames had been held in the Alexandria, Va., jail so he could be easily interrogated by the FBI and CIA.

Ames agreed with prosecutors to tell all he did in nine years of spying for the Soviet Union and Russia, so that his wife, Rosario, would be sentenced to only 63 to 72 months in prison for helping him.

With time off for good behavior, she could be released in 41/2 years to resume caring for their son, Paul, now 5 and living with her mother in Colombia.

Mrs. Ames' sentencing is set for Aug. 26, but her lawyer, William Cummings, said Thursday "there has been some talk about postponing her sentencing four or five weeks to push or pressure him a little harder — sort of like extending a United Way campaign to reach the top."

Justice Department spokesman John Russell said, "Ames' debriefing has gone satisfactorily" and any decision to postpone her sentencing would not be made until a few days before Aug. 26.

Russell said the debriefing of Ames would continue at Allenwood. A federal official, who requested anonymity, said the FBI has completed its questioning of Ames but left open the possibility CIA officials have more questions.

Cummings said some government officials "are not quite satisfied" with Ames' disclosures so far.

"To try to quantify the feeling they are expressing, if 100 percent were perfect, he might be scoring 85 percent, and 87 percent is passing," Cummings said.

Cummings said he could not identify the areas where officials might have found Ames deficient.

Asked about a Washington Post report that Ames appeared deceptive on a polygraph on whether Rosario was aware of his spying before 1992, Cummings said, "If there's any problem over when she knew, we're talking about months as opposed to years."

Ames, once counterintelligence chief in the CIA's Soviet and East European section, admitted to revealing the identities of 11 Western agents inside Russia in return for about $2.5 million. Prosecutors said at least four were executed.

Allenwood was the prison requested by Ames and his lawyer, Plato Cacheris, when he pleaded guilty in April.

The prison, outside Williamsport, Pa., opened Feb. 1 and now has more than 600 inmates. Dunne would not say whether Ames was in solitary confinement or the general population.

Sandoz stops selling controversial medicine

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major pharmaceutical company, under pressure from the government and consumer advocates, has agreed to stop selling women a controversial drug to help them stop lactating after childbirth.

Critics blamed the drug Parlodel for killing new mothers as well as causing heart attacks, strokes and seizures, and the Food and Drug Administration this week began preparing to block sales of the drug.

But Thursday, Sandoz Pharmaceuticals told the FDA it would voluntarily stop marketing Parlodel as a lactation suppressant.

However, Parlodel is an effective treatment for Parkinson's disease and several endocrine disorders, and will remain on the market for those patients.

In a statement from the company's East Hanover, N.J., headquarters, Sandoz said it hoped "to end unwarranted criticism" of Parlodel, which it insists is safe.

"It would be unfortunate if the medical benefits that this product provides" to Parkinson's and endocrine patients "are overshadowed by attacks on Parlodel's use" by postpartum women, said Sandoz President Timothy Rothwell.

Although it is legal for obstetricians to prescribe any drug on the market, FDA pledged to warn them that safety questions prompted the Sandoz move. "We will make sure that is clearly understood," said spokesman Jim O'Hara.

"The critical thing is for doctors to immediately stop using it," said Dr. Sidney Wolfe of Public Citizen.

The controversy began five years ago when the FDA declared lactation suppressants dangerous, and all makers of those drugs — except Sandoz — voluntarily withdrew them from the market.

The FDA at the time said it would force Sandoz to comply as well, but never did. Some 300,000 to 600,000 postpartum women use Parlodel every year, earning Sandoz over $12.5 million.

Jamaica became an independent dominion within the British Commonwealth in 1962.

Newman, Knight will receive latest vacancies in treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary Lloyd Bentsen is turning to a newfound loyalist and a longtime aide to fill top vacancies caused by the Whitewater affair.

Bentsen wants Undersecretary Frank N. Newman to be his deputy and Edward S. Knight, his executive secretary and senior adviser, to be the Treasury Department's general counsel.

Newman, 52, "is the right man to take over from Roger Altman," Bentsen said. Altman resigned as deputy secretary — the department's No. 2 job — Wednesday because of his involvement in the Whitewater controversy.

Newman came to Bentsen's attention in early 1993, when he was recommended as undersecretary by the treasury secretary's banking friends on the West Coast.

Knight, on the other hand, has been a trusted Bentsen adviser for years, serving first on Bentsen's Senate staff from 1976 to 1978. He would succeed Jean E. Hanson, who resigned Thursday, as Treasury's top lawyer.

Altman quit after being accused of failing to respond fully to congressional investigators' questions about contacts between the White House and the Treasury Department concerning the Whitewater probe. Hanson was criticized for failing to correct Altman's testimony immediately.

Newman is considered a fiscal conservative who has been the Clinton administration's point man on banking issues, including the interstate banking and community development legislation.

According to the Quincy, Mass., Patriot Ledger, Newman planned to serve only a couple of years in Washington but told a friend he had changed his mind out of "tremendous loyalty to Bentsen" when Altman's resignation appeared imminent.

As undersecretary for domestic finance, Newman oversees development of policy and guides the department in areas of managing the public debt and financial institutions policy and regulation.

If confirmed as deputy secretary by the Senate, he would assume responsibility for the department's day-to-day operations and help Bentsen in formulating overall Treasury policy.

However, Newman is unlikely to have the latitude that Altman had.

Before joining BankAmerica in 1986, Newman spent 13 years with Wells Fargo, rising to executive vice president and chief financial officer in 1980.

He was born in Quincy and earned a B.A. in economics magna cum laude from Harvard University in 1963.

After his service on Bentsen's Senate staff, Knight joined the Washington law firm of Akin, Gump, Strauss, Hauer & Feld, where he was a senior partner when he resigned to accept his Treasury post.

At Treasury, he has been involved in the administration's fight to win approval of the North American Free Trade Agreement and the new World Trade Organization.

Only do it when necessary

By Phillip Alder

Diane Sawyer said, "I think the one lesson I have learned is that there is no substitute for paying attention." Well, unless the person to whom you are listening is talking drivel, that is sound advice — if you'll excuse the pun.

In today's deal, you face finesses in both major suits. Which do you try, and why?

South might have taken the auction more slowly, bidding out his shape and hoping to reach three no-trump. But at least his actual bid didn't give the defenders any extra information.

In five diamonds, you mustn't take the heart finesse, but you may or may not take the spade finesse, according to choice. (Aren't I friendly today!)

After winning the opening lead with dummy's club ace, ruff the club two in hand and draw trumps. Then either play a spade to dummy's king and take the spade finesse or cash the spade ace, play a spade to dummy's king and lead a third spade toward your jack. If the suit splits 3-3 or East has the queen, you win at least 11 tricks.

Suppose here that you cash the spade king and finesse your jack. West wins with the queen and returns the spade 10. Win with the ace and lead your fourth spade. However, don't ruff in the dummy. Instead, discard one of dummy's hearts. West wins the trick but is endplayed. He must either lead into your A-Q of hearts or play a club, which you ruff in hand while discarding a second of dummy's hearts. Either way, you lose two spade tricks but no heart trick, your heart loser(s) being ruffed in the dummy.

Third anniversary of coup...

Gorbachev announces plans for third party

MOSCOW (AP) — Former Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev today marked the third anniversary of the hard-line Communist coup that ousted him by announcing plans to form a democratic opposition movement.

Gorbachev told the ITAR-Tass news agency that "fussing and maneuvering have been substituted for a really new policy" to guide Russia.

He gave no details about the movement or its goals other than to say that it would be "a democratic movement alternative to the present regime."

Russian newspapers were filled with stories and commentary about the Aug. 18-21, 1991, putsch that briefly ousted Gorbachev and accelerated the collapse of the Soviet Union four months later.

President Boris Yeltsin, who boldly led opposition to the coup, didn't even plan to be in Moscow to mark the anniversary, a spokesman said. Yeltsin was on a working trip in southern Russia.

The top military, KGB and political figures who led the coup were granted amnesty earlier this year by Russia's new parliament. A court earlier this month acquitted the only one who chose to stand trial.

Gorbachev told the Interfax news agency that "though the amnesty freed (the coup plotters) of any judicial punishment, no one has relieved them of the moral guilt."

Gorbachev had been vacationing with his family on the Crimea on Aug. 18, 1991, when the coup plotters placed him under house arrest. The next day they declared him deposed for health reasons.

The poorly organized coup fell apart after three days in the face of the popular uprising led by Yeltsin.

"The state of emergency and rejection of democracy was the most dangerous way for Russia," Gorbachev said. "It would have inevitably led to civil war."

Today, Gorbachev is despised by many Russians who blame him for the collapse of the Soviet Union and the economic woes, crime and ethnic conflicts that followed.

Sexual harassment

MIAMI (AP) — The man known as Don Francisco has been accused of sexual harassment by a former model on his Spanish-language TV variety show.

Francisco, whose real name is Marion Kreutzberger, was sued Wednesday by Ana Gomez. She says Kreutzberger exposed himself to her and attempted to rape her in a Miami hotel room in 1989.

Tigers start slow, finish fast in season's first scrimmage

Snyder defeats Fort Stockton, 4-1 in the opening scrimmage for both teams

By TODD STANLEY
SDN Sports Editor

After Thursday night's first series of downs, Fort Stockton looked as if they were going to be able to push Snyder all over the field.

However, like a Giant waking from his sleep, the Tigers reared up, opened their eyes and proceeded to go to work. After the work was done, Snyder had defeated Fort Stockton four touchdowns to one.

"We really started out slow tonight," Snyder head coach David Baugh said. "But as the scrimmage progressed, we got a lot better."

Starting running back Chris Mitchell was the only player not able to get better as the game progressed. On his fifth carry of the night, Mitchell's ankle got twisted under another player, causing him to reinjure a stressed lower-calf muscle.

"It was very painful when it (the injury) occurred," Mitchell said after the scrimmage. "But as the night went on, my calf muscle felt better."

Head trainer Steve Krueger said that Mitchell will probably stay out of practice the next couple days, but will most likely play in next week's scrimmage against Slaton.

When Mitchell went out, sophomore sensations L.S. McLain and Tommy Morris came in.

McLain was the real spark for the Tigers offensively and scored a touchdown on a delightful 28-yard touchdown jaunt down the sidelines. McLain carried the ball a majority of the time and ended the night with nine rushes for 63 yards.

Fort Stockton head coach Dave Drummond was impressed with McLain's running style.

"L.S. was like a bowling ball tonight," he said. "He darted in and out of tackles and bounced outside for big yardage."

Morris, maybe the most vocal player on the team, ran his way through would-be tacklers, finishing the night with four carries for 34 yards.

Coach David Baugh was impressed with their effort.

"The sophomores (L.S. and Tommy) played super tonight," he said.

McLain was not the only one to dance in the end-zone, though.

John Clinkinbeard, who had slipped beyond the Fort Stockton defense, caught a 40-yard bomb from quarterback Lee Idom over the middle for the second touchdown of the night. Idom also connected with Wayne Braziel for a touchdown late in the scrimmage.

With the ball spotted at the Panthers' 15-yard line, Idom rolled right, paused to wait for Braziel to get away from his defender, and flipped the ball into the back corner of the end-zone.

The last touchdown of the night came during goalline drills. Matt Parker sprinted out to his left and found tight end Matt Love open in the end-zone for a touchdown.

Big plays, though, were not the highlight of the scrimmage. Perhaps the biggest blessing for Snyder head coach David Baugh was the emergence of a first-string quarterback.

"I was extremely pleased with Matt Parker tonight," he said. "He did a good job of pulling the ball down and running with it when our receivers were covered."

Baugh, however, did not want to discount a good effort by quarterback Idom.

"Lee made a couple of poor defensive reads, but he was able to make good things happen when a play broke down," he said.

Parker, who led the first string varsity group, completed six of nine for 38 yards and a touchdown. Idom was four of six for 56 yards and two touchdowns. However, he fumbled the ball twice and threw an interception.

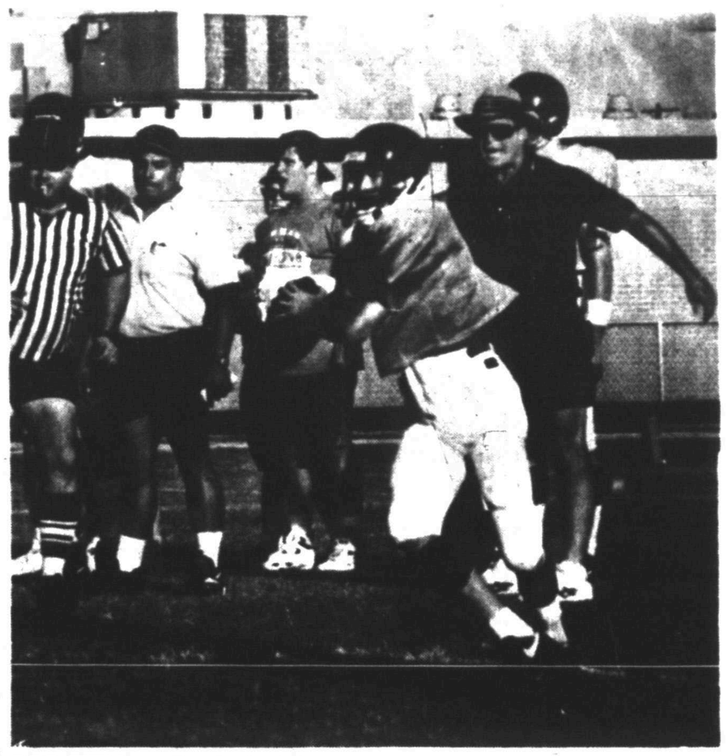

The Snyder offense was able to hold its own against a physical Fort Stockton defense, but it was the Tigers' defense that really set the tone for the night.

"Our initial defensive strategy did not work out the way we wanted it to," Baugh said. "We were able to make some adjustments that worked in our favor."

In all it was a strong, first showing for the Tigers and it should give them some momentum going into their scrimmage against Slaton Thursday, Aug. 25.

Coach Baugh was not the only coach impressed with the Tigers' effort.

"I don't care what Dave Campbell's says," coach Drummond said. "Snyder will surprise a lot of people. They are underrated for sure."

BIG WIN — Snyder's 4-1 win over Fort Stockton was accented by the up play of quarterback Matt Parker, above. An unfortunate result was the calf muscle injury to running back Chris Mitchell, right and far right. The injury will force Mitchell out of practice for a couple of days. (Photos by Todd Stanley)

Major League Players' Strike
DAY 8

Owners to sit in on negotiations

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball owners and players will speak to each other next week. They're wondering if they have something constructive to say.

"Hopefully there won't have to be a lot of discussion next week about the size of the table," union head Donald Fehr said Thursday after federal mediators announced that talks to end the strike will resume.

Fehr was referring to the Paris peace talks that took years to end the war in Vietnam. Negotiators then spent months arguing who would sit where and how the table would be shaped.

His quip was revealing. Just because owners finally agreed to come to the bargaining table doesn't mean they'll budge off their demand for a salary cap.

"It's a positive sign," Fehr said. "I don't know if anyone should be optimistic. It depends on whether there's a change of substance along with it."

A five-man delegation of owners, including some from large, medium and small markets, will go the table along with Richard Ravitch, management's negotiator since bargaining began 19 months ago. It will be the first appearance of owners at negotiations since the night in March 1990 that the spring training lockout was settled after 32 days.

"I think it's a healthy sign and one which will advance the negotiations at this point," Ravitch said.

The strike, baseball's second-longest in terms of canceled games, completed its first week Thursday. With 14 more games wiped out today, the total rose to 100.

"The fact that owners are participating doesn't make it easy to reach a solution," Fehr said. "It makes it less difficult."

Red Raider offense hit hard by graduation

SWC Conference Preview

LUBBOCK (AP) — The experience level on the Texas Tech offense is about as flat as the South Plains horizon.

The job of starting quarterback has come down to a three-way scramble among redshirt players. Last year's standby scoring threats — split end Lloyd Hill, flanker Derrell Mitchell, I-back Byron "Bam" Morris — were drafted by NFL teams.

Returning players contributed just 171 yards to Tech's 5,227 yards of total offense last season.

"We've lost about 28 lettermen on offense," Red Raider coach Spike Dykes said. "All of the guys that had caught passes and all that had run the ball and all that threw the ball."

A preview on the '94 team comes across flip-flopped from one year ago, when most of the attention went to an offensive cast that ended up producing an average 475 yards and 37 points per game.

Now the Tech defense is the side loaded with veterans, high expectations and the burden of extracting victories from early opponents.

"This is supposed to be our rebuilding year, but I think that's kind of a crock," said junior linebacker Zach Thomas. "We've got the athletes, and we've got the defense. ... If we hold them to zero points, we can't lose."

The Red Raiders (6-6 overall, 5-2 in the Southwest Conference) were romping on a five-game winning streak before their 41-10 loss Christmas Eve to Oklahoma in the Hancock Bowl.

Tech faces Oklahoma again — Sept. 17, in Norman. The season opens Sept. 3 at home against New Mexico.

Dykes expects to rotate redshirt sophomore Sone Cavazos and redshirt freshmen Tony Darden and Zebbie Lethridge in at quarterback.

"We don't have any probable starters. Three finished (spring practice) in a dead heat," Dykes said. "Give them all equal amount of starts, one of them will come to the front."

Whoever gets the quarterback job inherits a heavy legacy from Robert Hall, who set 16 school records. Morris, the I-back and Doak Walker Award winner, rushed for an SWC-record 1,752 yards.

Dykes seems cautious in his outlook for the offense.

"I think it's questionable. ... We've really got a lot of big shoes to fill."

"I hope it's not insurmountable, but it's close," said offensive coordinator Dick Winder. "I don't know if you can replace people like" Hall and Morris.

Senior tight end Scott Aylor and senior center Scott Fitzgerald have won mention as standouts.

Defensively, early credit has gone to a trio of junior linebackers: Thomas, Shawn Banks and Anthony Armour. Marcus Coleman, also a junior, made three interceptions last year en route to two stints as SWC Defensive Player of the Week.

Thomas described the defense as confident.

"We lost good athletes, but others are still on defense, and the offense will come around," predicted Thomas, who logged a team-leading 116 tackles last year.

Dykes said he expects the task of rebuilding will include shuffling some positions and taking a simple approach during his ninth season. The newcomers are good although they lack game experience, he said.

"We've got our work cut out, but that's how you get maturity and how you get better."

McDonald's loses hot coffee suit

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Jurors imposed two days' coffee sales in penalties on McDonald's restaurants by awarding nearly $2.9 million to an 81-year-old woman who was scalded by McDonald's coffee, an attorney for the woman says.

Stella Liebeck suffered third-degree burns when the coffee spilled on her lap inside a car after going through a McDonald's drive-through Feb. 27, 1992, attorney Ken Wagner said. A state district court jury imposed $2.7 million in punitive damages and $160,000 in compensatory damages Wednesday.

Testimony indicated McDonald's coffee is standardized at 180-190 degrees by corporate guidelines, based on advice from a coffee consultant who has said it tastes best that hot, Wagner said Thursday. The lawsuit contended Liebreck's coffee was 165-170 degrees when it spilled.

In contrast, he said, coffee brewed at home is generally 135-140 degrees.

He said McDonald's expressed no willingness during the trial to turn down the heat or print a warning.

Corporate publicists and attorneys failed to return repeated telephone messages left by The Associated Press on Thursday, although defense attorney Tracy McGee already has said the company will appeal.

"We will pursue all the appropriate remedies," she said Wednesday.

McGee also said the jury was "concerned about an industry-wide practice" of selling hot coffee.

Wagner said trial testimony stated that the restaurant chain sells 1 billion cups of coffee a year.

"We broke that down to a daily revenue of $1.34 million a day," he said. "We asked the jury to give us at least two days' worth of coffee sales as punitive damages."

"In my opinion," he said, "there is no error in this record, and the punitive damage award is based on sound medical and financial testimony."

Liebeck's lead counsel, Reed Morgan of Houston, said Wednesday the woman's medical bills totaled nearly $10,000. Morgan said there have been several lawsuits nationally over the temperature of McDonald's coffee but that he believes the Liebeck case was the first to reach the verdict stage. A California case was settled out of court for $235,000, he said.

According to testimony, Liebeck was a passenger in a car driven by her grandson outside a McDonald's in southeast Albuquerque. Liebeck testified she placed the cup of coffee between her legs to steady it while removing the cap, and it spilled.

Wagner said that, caught in the car, the elderly woman could not get out fast enough to avoid being burned.

"It's like an emersion burn, like a child in hot water," he said Thursday.

Juror Richard Anglada confirmed the jury was trying to deliver a message to the industry.

"The coffee's too hot out there (in the industry). This happened to be McDonald's," Anglada said Wednesday.

The jury found, among other things, that the coffee was defective and that McDonald's engaged in conduct justifying the punitive damages.

The lawsuit was filed initially against both the franchisee and the corporation, Wagner said, but the franchise ultimately was dropped as a defendant, leaving the corporation as the sole defendant in the action.

Non-singing video

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Anita Baker has a new video out — but she's not singing in it.

The vocalist taped a 30-second video and two radio ads Wednesday on the importance of childhood immunization.

"I'm flattered and very happy to do it, mainly because I can identify with the target audience — mothers," said Baker. She has two infant boys, 11/2-year-old Walter Baker Bridgforth and 3-month-old Edward Carlton Bridgforth.

In the TV ad, children play around Baker while she sits in a rocking chair in a powder-blue nursery and talks about why kids need shots.

Obituaries

Richard Day

1942-1994

Graveside services are set for 10 a.m. Saturday in the Snyder Cemetery for Richard M. Day of Bryan who died Tuesday morning in the Brazos Valley Medical Center in Bryan following a brief illness.

Dr. Tim Griffin, pastor of the First Christian Church, will officiate.

Services were held in Bryan at 4 p.m. Thursday for Mr. Day, 52.

He was born on Feb. 15, 1942, in Dallas and was a psychologist for the Mental Health Retardation in Bryan. He graduated from Texas A&M in 1967, and earned a master's degree in psychology from the University of Texas at Arlington.

Survivors include his wife, Arline of the home; five daughters, Cathy Day of California, Susan Burnett and her husband, Mike, of Chillicothe, Barbara Day of Dallas, Allison Day of Brownwood and T'Shambra Day of Bryan; his parents, Robert and Elizabeth Day of Seattle, Wash.; one sister, Carol Day, also of Seattle; in-laws, Shirley and John Leftwich of Snyder; and three grandchildren.

Mildred McBeth

Stevenson of Odessa; one granddaughter, Rachel Whitaker of California; and numerous relatives in the Hermleigh area and in California.

Police note one arrest

Snyder area law enforcement officers made one arrest and investigated reports of burglary and traffic accidents Thursday.

Police responded to a domestic dispute at 8:16 p.m. in the 700 block of 28th Street where they arrested a 29-year-old woman for assault/family violence.

At 4:06 p.m. Thursday, Jan Gladden requested an officer in reference to someone breaking into her residence and taking a carton of soft drinks. A report for burglary of a residence was filed.

James Frazier contacted police at 5:31 p.m. in reference to his dog being injured. A report for cruelty to animals was submitted.

Snyder police investigated a two-vehicle accident in the 3600 block of College Avenue at 6:20 p.m. Involved were a 1992 Pontiac driven by Clydine Hinkle of 308 32nd St. and a 1994 Chevrolet driven by Regina Lynn McNair of 2609 36th St.

A DPS investigated a one-vehicle rollover 10.7 miles south of Snyder on FM 1606 at 1:10 p.m. Involved was a Mazda, year model unknown, driven by Elizabeth Buchanan of Radcliff, Ky. Buchanan apparently lost control of the vehicle on a curve. The vehicle was also occupied by her husband and their two daughters, ages 3 and 10 months. Snyder EMS responded but the couple refused treatment at the scene.

Cuban refugees to be taken to U.S. base

WASHINGTON (AP) — Alarmed by a surging tide of Cuban refugees in South Florida, the Clinton administration abruptly shifted policy and said today that refugees picked up at sea will be taken to the U.S. Navy base at Guantanamo Bay in southeast Cuba for processing.

Additional U.S. ships are expected to be sent to the waters between Cuba and Florida to help intercept refugees who have been making the treacherous 90-mile trip on makeshift vessels, said senior administration officials, speaking only on condition of anonymity.

There already are thousands of refugees from Haiti at Guantanamo.

The official said there are "a number of available sites" for processing Cubans who have special status under U.S. law and cannot be returned involuntarily to their homeland.

He did not name the additional sites, but said they were not in other countries.

The Coast Guard has picked up more than 2,700 Cuban refugees this month raising fears of a repeat of the 1980 Mariel boat lift in which 125,000 Cubans reached U.S. shores in five months.

The administration's decision — reversing three decades of U.S. policy — followed a day in which it endured a drumbeat of criticism from Florida Gov. Lawton Chiles, a fellow Democrat who is up for re-election.

Chiles, interviewed this morning on NBC and ABC, said the move sends a firm signal from the U.S. government that could slow the exodus from Cuba. Cubans should be encouraged to stay home and "bring about the fall of Castro rather than escape," he said.

The announcement contrasted with the administration's stance earlier Thursday when Reno gave a cool response to pleas for help from Chiles and said the situation was under control. Chiles earlier Thursday had declared an immigration emergency in Florida.

"This keeps Castro from being able to call the shots in regard to immigration policy," Chiles said. He said Florida officials were prepared to help provide any additional detention facilities that might be needed.

Administration officials said President Clinton was expected to make a more detailed statement today at an afternoon news conference.

Refugees who reach U.S. shores would be processed as they have been since 1966, a senior administration official said, speaking on condition of anonymity. Since that time, Cubans arriving in Florida have been released to relatives or other sponsors in the United States upon their arrival, after being interviewed by immigration officials. The only exception is for suspected felons or those believed to be carrying communicable diseases.

Reno did not indicate how long the refugees would be held. She said the new policy would apply to those Cubans already being kept at a detention facility at Key West, Fla.

French peacekeeper killed; Sarajevo airport still closed

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — A French U.N. peacekeeper was killed today at Sarajevo's Jewish cemetery, one of the most bitterly contested front lines near the city center.

Col. Bertrand Labarsouque, spokesman for U.N. forces in Sarajevo, said the soldier was guarding a U.N. observation post when he was shot in the head. It was not known who fired the shot.

The soldier, who was not identified, died at the hospital at U.N. headquarters in Sarajevo. He was the 110th peacekeeper killed in the former Yugoslavia since U.N. troops arrived in spring 1992.

Bosnian Serbs and Muslim-led government forces have long fought over the cemetery despite a cease-fire. Labarsouque said there were 536 cease-fire violations in the Sarajevo region since Thursday.

Vital relief flights into Sarajevo were suspended Thursday after a mortar shell slammed into the airport. It was not known who fired the 122-mm mortar, although Bosnian Serbs have been blamed for previous incidents. No one was hurt.

The airlift that has kept Sarajevo fed during 28 months of Serb siege has been halted most of the past month by attacks on planes and now the airport. French patrols at Sarajevo airport reported intimidation fire from Bosnian Serb positions Thursday afternoon, Labarsouque said.

Serbs were seen aiming a 40-mm anti-aircraft gun at planes flying in and out of Sarajevo airport Sunday, according to a U.N. internal memo. The gun is stored at a U.N. weapons collection site in Ilidza, but none of the Ukrainian peacekeepers in charge of the site was seen in the vicinity, the memo said.

The incident highlighted weak U.N. control over heavy weapons the Serbs turned in after a NATO ultimatum in February to remove such guns around Sarajevo or face airstrikes. The Serbs repeatedly have tried to take weapons out of U.N. storage in recent weeks, and their removal of five heavy weapons from Ilidza prompted a NATO airstrike Aug. 5.

Bosnia's minority Serbs launched the war in spring 1992 after Muslims and Croats voted to secede from Serb-dominated Yugoslavia. At least 200,000 people are estimated to have been killed or reported missing.

In addition to disrupting aid flights to the capital, the Serbs have closed land routes in and out of Sarajevo that were only opened in March. That has caused a severe deterioration in the city's food supply.

Normally, the U.N. relief workers distribute nearly 2,000 tons of food every two weeks in the city of 350,000 people. Now, there are only about 420 tons of food in stock, and the last handout was three weeks ago, U.N. spokesman Ron Redmond said in Geneva.

He said Sarajevo's only bakery was producing about half of its normal 80,000 loaves a day.

Books on royal pair due out this November

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles and his estranged wife will battle it out in the bookstores in November, with new accounts from opposite sides of the fractured fairy-tale marriage.

Tabloid newspapers reported today that Diana is the subject of a new book by Robert Morton, author of a previous book that gave her side of a disintegrating marriage.

Michael O'Mara Books confirmed that it will publish "Diana: Her New Life" on Nov. 8, just five days after Jonathan Dimbleby is to publish his biography, "The Prince of Wales."

Dimbleby has already scored the royal scoop of the year by getting Charles to admit he had not always been faithful to his wife.

Charles and Diana formally separated in December 1992.

In the interview with Dimbleby broadcast in June, Charles denied rumors that he had been unfaithful from the start of his marriage in 1981. He insisted he had kept his vows until the marriage "became irretrievably broken down."

Dimbleby subsequently confirmed that Charles' affair had been with Camilla Parker Bowles, the prince's old friend.

Morton's earlier book, "Diana: Her True Story," detailed her jealousy of Mrs. Parker Bowles.

Church to celebrate on Aug. 23, 1964. After being unanimously accepted as pastor, he preached his first sermon on Sept. 6 of that year.

In subsequent expansion, the churched built a new auditorium in 1968 and a children's wing in 1973.

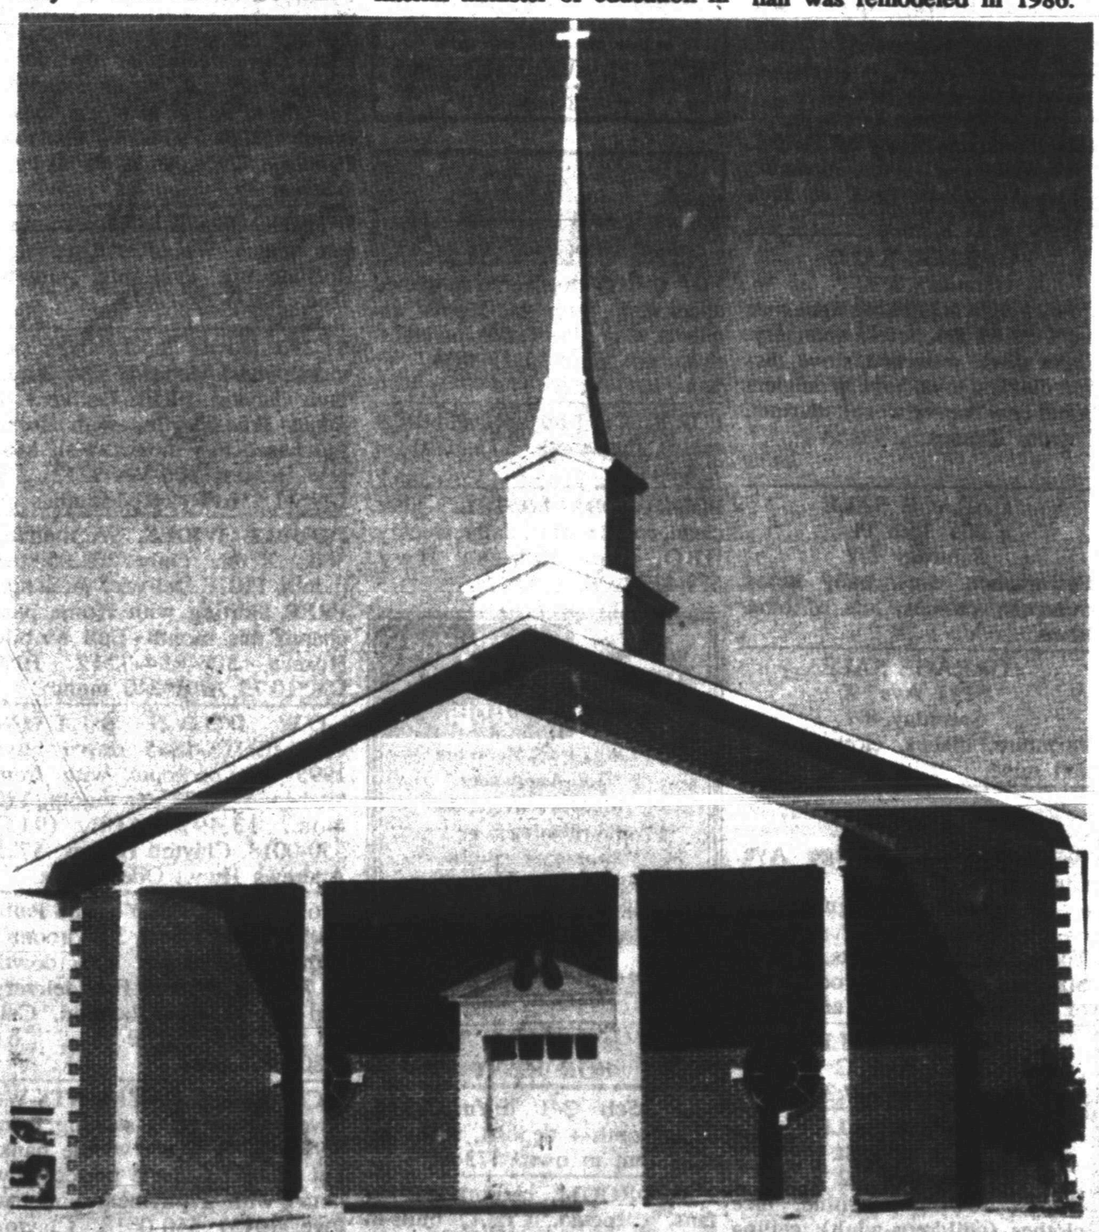

In January of 1974, Colonial Hill began sponsoring a program on KSNY on Wednesdays. Television ministry was established in November of that year.

By 1978, Colonial Hill was seeking to expand its educational department with an adult wing. Glenn McCathern was hired as the interim minister of education in April of that year and the following October he became the church's first full-time minister of education.

Other current staff members include Jerald Garner, music minister; Kathy Post and Barbara Ashby, secretaries; Brian Frank, youth minister; and Ben Rodriguez, custodian.

The church celebrated its 25th anniversary on Sept. 15, 1979. New additions included the adult wing and choir room and an office for the choir director.

The lot north of 37th Street was paved and landscaped in 1984-1985 and the new fellowship hall was remodeled in 1986.

Fliers With Too Many Carry-Ons Should Have to Carry Them Off

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: Three cheers for "Irritated in Seattle" — the flight attendant who complained about passengers with excess carry-on luggage. These people are a real pain to other passengers.

I've had to stand in the aisle of a packed plane with dozens of passengers standing in line behind me while some bozo searches for enough overhead space to store hanging bags, giant backpacks, collapsible luggage wheels, etc. Once I reach my seat, I get knocked in the head repeatedly by passengers headed for the rear, laden with even more carry-on junk. When the plane lands, the same ridiculous process is repeated in reverse.

I was under the impression that there were regulations limiting the number (and size) of carry-on luggage. This should be enforced at the security checkpoint, and offenders should be sent back to check their excess baggage. By the time the flight attendant sees them on the plane, it's too late. However, booting them off the plane would make them think twice about doing it again.

ALSO IRRITATED
IN NEW ORLEANS

DEAR ALSO: Don't hold your breath waiting for a flight attendant to boot a passenger off the plane. Only the captain has the authority to make that decision.

P.S. And how about people who carry on golf bags, tennis rackets and hockey sticks? Also, travelers with shopping bags filled with gift-wrapped packages — around Christmastime, when all the planes are flying full.

DEAR ABBY: I work in a large office — there are 14 of us here — and occasions frequently come up where "the office gang" sends a gift to a co-worker. It can be flowers for a funeral, a wedding gift, or something for a new baby. Since I have been here the longest, I'm the one who usually collects the money.

The problem: when someone says, "I'm a little short right now; please put my name on the card, and I'll pay you after next payday."

Their name goes on the card, but they never seem to get around to paying me, so I'm left holding the bag. One of the worst offenders is a woman who has worked here almost as long as I have. Any suggestions?

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: Heed this old Abby-ism: "If people take advantage of you once, shame on them; if they take advantage of you twice — shame on you."

Collect the money before the gift is purchased, making it clear that only those who have paid their share will have their names on the card.

DEAR ABBY: The person in Palos Verdes, Calif., whose privacy is being violated by helicopters should call the Federal Aviation Administration in his area. FAA laws are very strict on flying no lower than 1,000 feet in a populated area, unless it is an emergency.

I apologize for a few inconsiderate pilots who make us all look bad.

GERALD HEINTZELMAN,
HELICOPTER PILOT

O.J. Simpson defense claims racism

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite promises that race would not be an issue in O.J. Simpson's trial, defense lawyers have filed a motion portraying a detective who found a bloody glove at Simpson's estate as a racist who tries to frame blacks.

Mark Fuhrman has "a propensity to create false information against African-American defendants," said the 23-page motion, which seeks the detective's police personnel records and psychiatric reports.

Thursday's motion included statements from a woman who said Fuhrman told her nearly a decade ago that he wanted to burn "niggers" and was disgusted by interracial couples, and from a man who claimed Fuhrman shot him six times and helped plant evidence against him.

The motion also seeks internal documents detailing any infractions by Fuhrman or three other detectives assigned to the Simpson case.

Superior Court Judge Lance A. Ito said he would respond to the motion on Aug. 31.

Simpson's lead attorney, Robert Shapiro, declared in court last week that race would not play a part in the trial. He said the same thing after two magazines previewed the racial strategy on July 25.

"He stood up in court and said in front of the judge and the world that race was not going to be an issue in this case ... then we see this motion," said Fuhrman's lawyer, Robert Tourtelot.

The motion is "a desperate act by a desperate attorney," Tourtelot said. "I think it's outrageous he is trying to poison the mind of the public."

The defense motion suggests that Fuhrman planted a bloody glove at Simpson's home after the bodies of Nicole Brown Simpson and Ronald Goldman were discovered.

That glove, and another at the crime scene, were key evidence in the decision to order Simpson to stand trial on murder charges. Simpson, 47, has pleaded innocent. The trial is to begin Sept. 19.

The defense claims that detectives Phillip Vannatter and Tom Lange lied and concealed facts to obtain a warrant to search Simpson's estate, and that Fuhrman's partner, Ronald Philips, violated police procedures.

The motion also claims that detectives used inappropriate interrogation techniques when they first questioned Simpson about the killings.

All of this is "highly relevant to Mr. Simpson's theory that he is an innocent man who is the victim of a scheme to incriminate him," said defense attorney Carl Douglas, who filed the motion.

Attached was a sworn declaration by Kathleen Bell, who said Fuhrman told her in the mid-1980s that he would stop any vehicle occupied by a black man and a white woman.

"I then asked Fuhrman, 'What if the two people are in love?'" Bell said. "Fuhrman then appeared to get disgusted with me and stated, 'If I had my way, they would take all the niggers, put them together in a big group and burn them.'"

Fuhrman denies ever meeting Bell, Tourtelot said.

Douglas also submitted a complaint from a robbery suspect in 1987 who said that after he surrendered peacefully, Fuhrman uttered a racial epithet, shot him six times and said, "Why don't you just die?"

The suspect, Joseph Britton, said Fuhrman helped plant a knife near him to justify the shooting. A mistrial was declared last fall in the civil rights case and a new trial was ordered.

The defense already had leaked to magazines that Fuhrman had tried unsuccessfully to retire on disability in 1983 by claiming that job stress made him violent towards minorities.

Tourtelot said he would sue over the articles after Simpson's trial.

IBM against two Demo health plans

NEW YORK (AP) — International Business Machines Corp. is urging its 110,000 employees in the United States to fight for the defeat of two Democratic health-care bills in Congress, The New York Times reported.

The Times in Friday's editions cited a memo sent over IBM's internal electronic mail network on Monday advising employees to write to their lawmakers in opposition to the health-care proposals.

It was believed to be the first memo of its kind for a company with a tradition of keeping politics out of its communications with employees.

The memo, the Times said, came from the company's vice chairman, Paul J. Rizzo, with the approval of chairman Louis V. Gerstner Jr. Rizzo advised employees to send lawmakers a message he had written opposing the measures, which were proposed by Sen. George Mitchell and Rep. Richard A. Gephardt.

The Times said the message read in part: "The Mitchell and Gephardt bills pose a serious threat to my company's ability to manage and control the cost and quality of these benefits," a reference to medical benefits for employees.

Rizzo said he was against the bills for several reasons, including a provision allowing the states to establish their own rules and health-care systems. Such a system could lead to the end of IBM benefits and require workers to get benefits from state government-run systems, he said.

Salinas exhorts Mexicans to vote in Sunday elections

MEXICO CITY (AP) — President Carlos Salinas de Gortari, whose own election six years ago was tainted by fraud charges, urged Mexicans to elect a new leader this weekend and assured them their votes will count.

"The electoral process will be exemplary," Salinas said in a nationally televised speech Thursday night. "It will be a lesson in democracy for our children and, without doubt, the pride of all Mexicans."

For the first time, Sunday's election will not be directly controlled by the government. Six independent citizens, chosen by contending parties, will make the decisions at the semi-autonomous Federal Electoral Institute.

Voter lists have been overhauled, and voter ID cards with photographs are being used for the first time. Also new are tens of thousands of Mexican poll watchers and an election fraud prosecutor.

Salinas was elected in 1988 when a vote-counting computer crashed with an opposition candidate in the lead. Tens of thousands of Mexicans took to the streets in protest.

The governing Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, has been accused of using fraud to win every presidential race since its 1929 founding.

Salinas' six-year term ends Dec. 1. The constitution limits presidents to one term.

"On August 21, the election will be celebrated according to the law, with transparency, democratically," the president assured voters.

But election observers complained Thursday of irregularities in voting lists and said thousands of Mexican poll watchers had not been accredited.

Civic Alliance, the largest independent group of Mexican observers, said the Federal Electoral Institute had certified just 3,000 of its 12,000 proposed observers. The alliance also reported that offices of some observers had been ransacked and that anonymous threats were made.

Mexican Forum, an independent observer group backed by Mexican-Americans, said it found several irregularities in just one official voting list for a representative neighborhood in the capital.

Observers on a walking tour of the central Cuauhtemoc district said they found phantom voters registered at some addresses, voters registered who were dead and a family of voters registered as living in a restaurant.

"We saw it with our own eyes," said Jaime Martinez, a Mexican-American observer from San Antonio, Texas.

Ernesto Zedillo, the ruling party's candidate and front-runner in the election, won endorsements from many business leaders who expect him to continue Salinas' policies, which eliminated hyperinflation, liberalized trade and sold off hundreds of inefficient state businesses.

Diego Fernandez de Cevallos, of the conservative National Action Party, vowed he would do better than the second place granted him in opinion polls.

Facts About The BIBLE

BY JOHN LEHTI

SAILING SHIPS

AS EARLY AS 3000 B.C., OR EVEN BEFORE, MEN HAD LEARNED TO NAVIGATE ON THE NILE, AND SHIPS FOR THIS PURPOSE WERE BUILT. SOME OF THE PHARAOHS HAD OCEANGOING VESSELS ALSO FORMING THE FIRST NAVIES OF THEIR TIME. MANY OF THE BOATS ON THE NILE WHICH WERE USED FOR FISHING AND FOWLING WERE MADE BY TYING BUNDLES OF PAPYRUS REEDS TOGETHER AND DAUBING THEM WITH PITCH...

...THE ISRAELITES WERE NOT A SEAFARING PEOPLE BUT THEY CARRIED ON TRADE USING THE SEAWAYS. SOLOMON CONDUCTED COMMERCIAL ENTERPRISES THROUGH HIS FLEET OF SHIPS BUT THESE TRANSIENT EFFORTS WERE MORE OR LESS DEPENDANT ON THE PHOENICIAN SAILORS WHO MANNED THEM. SOME OF THESE SEAGOING VESSELS WERE PROPELLED BY SAILS ALONE--OTHERS BY SAILS AND OARS.
