Brought From France In Swindle Case

Seized by American detectives in France, Stewart Donnelly is shown (left) under the watchful eye of Detective Frank Raihl, as he arrived in New York to face a charge of swindling a retired shipping man of $16,000 in a confidence game in 1931. Donnelly, who once was mentioned in connection with the Lindbergh kidnap ransom money, had just served 15 months in a Paris jail on a swindling conviction.

Mellon Cleared of Tax Evasion Charges Today

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Attorney General Cummings said today there would be no further criminal proceedings against Andrew Mellon in connection with his present income tax case.

INSULL UTILITIES MAGNATE FULLY WAIVES BOND AND GOES TO JAIL

May 8.—Samuel Insull was placed under $200,000 bond by federal judge here today and, unable to post it, was led away to jail.

Insull, after a long and tiring journey, trudged silently between the bars of a city where he had risen to greatness as a financial and utilities potentate of the nation.

Gaping crowds met his train at the station when he arrived this morning from Fort Hancock, where he was taken from the steamship Exilona yesterday after being returned from Turkey. He faced them impassively.

At the United States marshal's office he heard charges read of using mails to defraud and violation of the bankruptcy act.

Local Men Attend Oddfellow Meet At Lakeview Monday

Several Memphis and four Wellington Oddfellows were present last night at the regular meeting of the Lakeview Oddfellows.

The program consisted of the conferring of the initial degree upon one Wellington and one Lakeview candidate.

W. E. Hill, Wade Hill, Tommy Kinkade, Albert Dodge and Charles Oren were the Oddfellows attending from Memphis.

A short social hour was enjoyed.

LOCAL MASONIC LODGE IN REGULAR MEETING

The Masonic Lodge met in regular session last night in the Masonic Temple at 8 o'clock.

W. J. Bragg, worshipful master, had charge of the meeting.

DALLAS TOUR IS TO GET WARM WELCOME

Trade Trippers Due To Arrive Here 5:10 Friday, May 11

Plans were still moving forward today to have one of the largest crowds assembled in Memphis in many months on hand Friday afternoon when the tour of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce Wholesale Merchants Association arrives here for an all-night stay.

The leading attractions will be the appearance in concert of three bands, a parade, addresses on the court house lawn and two dances Friday night, the music to be furnished by two Dallas orchestras.

The tour will arrive at the intersection of Main Street with the Denver railroad tracks at 5:10 o'clock Friday afternoon and will be stationed on a siding near the intersection all night.

A parade will follow immediately, and ends at the courthouse lawn, where Mayor Bascom E. Davenport gives the welcoming address.

Concerts by the three bands—the Dallas Chamber of Commerce Band and two local organizations under the direction of Glenn A. Truax—will follow the addresses.

Friday night, the Dallas band will be divided into two orchestras to play for dances at the American Legion Hall and Memphis Country Club.

75,000,000 Barrels Crude Estimated By Department Interior

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Today the Department of the Interior estimated the crude petroleum production in the United States during the month of March to be 75,548,000 barrels.

This is compared with the February crude petroleum figures of 65,148,000 barrels.

STEEL CODE EXTENDED?

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The extension of the steel code beyond its present expiration date, May 31, was forecast today by Hugh Johnson.

Elaborate Plans Adopted by Junior Chamber Commerce

Will Make Booster Journey Tonight To Estelline

At a called mass meeting of the Memphis Junior Chamber of Commerce last night at 8 o'clock in the local Legion Hall, a part of the ensuing year's work was planned.

It was decided by some 90 members present to conduct a series of booster trips; to promote a merchants' sales campaign; to sponsor the installation of lighting equipment on the local football field before next September; to sponsor the Memphis Owls baseball nine, and to retain the present high school bandmaster.

The booster trips will be the first phase of the year's work that the junior organization will take up. The trips are planned to include visits to every community in the county, in order to stimulate interest in Memphis for the various communities.

The first official booster trip of the year will be tonight at Estelline at 6:30. J. R. Jones, head of the Trade Extension Committee, will have charge of the

Tom Hunter Attacks Present Tax System

Speaking before a crowd of more than 300 people last night on the court house lawn, Tom F. Hunter of Wichita Falls, candidate for governor, outlined his platform of "Texas Recovery."

Mr. Hunter was well received by the crowd that listened intently to his attack on the system of taxation that "is crushing real estate and letting other states reap a full benefit of our natural resources without handling their share of the tax burden."

Unfair Tax Burden

"In order to restore an easy available credit it is necessary that the unfair tax burden now resting on real estate be relieved," Hunter stated.

He pointed out that "while real estate bears 77 per cent of the ad valorem tax burden it brings us but 14 per cent of our income." The other 85 per cent of values in this state, he said, representing income from sources other than real estate, is bearing only 23 per cent of the tax burden.

Easy Credit

"An easy available credit cannot be restored until real estate, our basic wealth, is placed back on a profit paying basis. As long as it is cheaper to rent than to own a property or a home, the safety of our state is endangered."

Discussing the public utilities, Hunter declared that their control by the state to permit regulation of rates "on a fair basis" is essential to a Texas recovery.

In regard to Texas' natural resources, Hunter declared that "our natural wealth is being siphoned out of the state for the benefit of out-of-state exploiters with little or no tax payment to recompense the state."

Tax on Sulphur

He also urged a larger tax levy upon sulphur, of which Texas supplies 80 per cent of the world's (Continued on page 4)

Federal Control Of Wires Is Urged

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The creation of a Federal communications commission to regulate telephone, telegraph, radio, wireless and cable systems was advocated today by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The position of the Interstate Commerce Commission was stated by Commissioner Frank McManamy, while testifying to the House Interstate Commerce Committee on the Rayburn Bill.

DISTRICT HEADS OF SCHOOLS IN MEET

Representatives Of County Urged To Be Present

All county school superintendents, city superintendents and principals, county board members and at least one representative of each school board in this district are urged to be present at a district educational conference which will be held in the Paducah High School Auditorium on Saturday, May 19.

This is a meeting of District No. 3, of the Interscholastic League, which is composed of 12 counties and of which Bryan C. Dickson of Childress is district deputy.

The program for the conference will open with the invocation by Rev. J. E. Billington, of Quanah.

The welcoming address will be given by Supt. C. E. Jackson.

Music will be furnished by the Paducah Glee Club.

Dr. L. A. Woods, State Superintendent of Education of Austin, will speak on "The Texas Educational Program."

The Cottle County Choral Club under the direction of Mrs. W. O. Jones, Jr., will furnish music for the convention.

"Rural Aid, Transportation, High School Tuition, Classification" will be the topic of an address by A. A. Bullock, Director of State Rural Aid of Austin.

A talk, "Spur Transportation Program," will be delivered by Supt. Sam Z. Hall.

A general discussion will close the conference.

EIGHT PROJECTS FOR RELIEF APPROVED

Work To Start As Soon As Funds Available

Eight projects have been approved in the work relief program for Hall County by the Texas Relief Commission, and according to A. C. Hoffman, county relief administrator, work on these projects will start as soon as relief funds for May are available.

Mr. Hoffman did not know at what time these funds would arrive here.

Men who are on the work relief rolls here will work out the amount of the budget for the month on these projects.

Most of the projects include road work in each of the four precincts in the county.

These projects are: Bridge and culvert work on the Wellington road; blasting of rock in cut-off and repair on the Bryant Lake road in Precinct 1.

Refilling of 8,960 linear feet of expansion joints on concrete paving on the public square at Estelline.

Construction of a bridge on the Webster road two miles west of Lakeview; the construction of one bridge and three culverts on the Memphis-Lakeview-Turkey road between the end of the pavement and Red River, and the construction of one bridge east of this road on the Plaska Highway in Precinct 2.

A county-wide sanitation project.

Construction and maintenance of lateral roads in Road District 4 near Turkey.

Construction of new community roads in Estelline and Baylor communities in Precinct 3.

To finish three cisterns, with 300-barrel capacity, 350-barrel and 150-barrel each, work about 50 per cent completed by local CDA labor under a sanitary project, in Weatherly Independent School District.

FIND HOUSE WHERE JUNE ROBLES HELD

CANANEA, Mexico, May 8.—The house in which kidnapped June Robles, six-year-old granddaughter of Bernabe Robles, reputedly wealthy retired cattleman of Tucson, Ariz., may have been held captive as recently as two days ago has been found, Arizona state patrolmen revealed today.

The statement came as the manhunt for the kidnapers spread through Canada and the state of Sonora.

Patrolmen George Ash and Tom Newell did not disclose the exact location of the house but said they are convinced the child has been there and is now in the hands of two men, who fled with her when they became alarmed over the search.

June has been missing for over two weeks after she was abducted in front of the school house in Tucson. At times hope that she still lived was almost abandoned, but one of the most extensive manhunts ever conducted in the Southwest has been pushed by state and Federal officers.

Nab Escaped Convict Who Figured In San Antonio Hold-Up

SAN ANTONIO, May 8.—A man giving the name of James Miller was wounded and captured early today in a gun fight with officers in the Shadowland Night Club.

Miller was identified as one of two men who robbed the L. C. Berrey Drug Stores office of $2,500 yesterday.

Fingerprints showed him to be William Taylor Winters, an escaped convict from the Federal Prison in Atlanta.

Field Trips Part Of Summer School For Tech Students

Special to The Democrat
 LUBBOCK, May 8.—Three field trips and a large number of new courses are to be offered at the Texas Technological College summer school which begins June 7. A course in Mexican archaeology will be conducted by Dr. W. C. Holden in Mexico City, beginning July 19 and lasting six weeks, the prerequisite being the consent of the instructor. Six semester hours credit will be given for this work.

Dr. R. A. Studhalter, head of the biology department, will take a class of freshman botanists the first term into Gallinas Canyon, 40 miles northwest of Las Vegas, New Mexico, on a course of field botany, also giving a credit of six semester hours.

The regular summer trip into the Sangre de Cristo Mountains of New Mexico by Dr. L. T. Patton's field geology class will begin June 7, lasting the full six-weeks period, with six semester hours credit.

A general science survey course for teachers will meet at night at the college, being offered as a series of lectures by: Dr. E. L. Reed, biology; Dr. Bessie League, human physiology; Dr. R. G. Goodwin, chemistry; Dr. E. F. George, physics; Dr. R. G. Sidwell, geology; and Miss Bonnie X. Dyart, psychology.

In the division of home economics two special courses will be

Does Young '17' Need a Car?

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
 Mr. Smith has a two-car garage, but it has never had more than one tenant.

As a matter of fact it never had any until a year ago when its owner decided he had reduced the mortgage on his property sufficiently to warrant the purchasing of an automobile.

This car is not only his pride and joy but it represents something else—the fulfillment of a wish long cherished and won by sacrifice and saving. Both he and his wife have worked hard for that car, as hard as they have for their property.

Bill, their son, is seventeen, old enough for a driver's license. So he has one, because he often has to take his mother places. She cannot manage a wheel because her hands ache much of the time with arthritis. He keeps the car clean and attends to minor repairs.

Complications Arise

Once in a while he is allowed to take the car out on his own responsibility, but never in the evening. When his father comes home he wants to feel that it is there behind the kitchen if he or his wife take a notion to use it.

In the last month or two there has been trouble. Bill has a girl. They are both juniors and it is party season. Most of the dances are held in the Coral Club on the other side of town and a girl in a party dress can't transfer twice in a street car, so says Bill, and taxi fare is out of the question.

Different Viewpoints

Bill thinks he should be allowed to have the car, or to spend the thirty dollars he's got in the bank for a "peach of a flivver" that's only seven years old and can still go like the dickens. Maude doesn't care what she rides in just so she rides. He argues that there is plenty of room in the garage, and gas won't cost him any more than car-fare, just to go to a dance or a movie once in a while.

But his father knows that once Bill has a car of his own, and such a car, it wouldn't stop there. Instead of just going to a dance or a movie Bill would be riding to school, filling it up with his crowd and taking the air after classes for an hour or so each day. Gas bills would be too high. Besides there would have to be liability insurance at least, because seventeen is seventeen and no more.

Bill would never be available to take out his mother, not that she needs him often, but there it is, and the sedan would get short-order attention, if any.

Laying Down the Order

It seems that something should be done. The boy's father is human and he hates to be selfish.

Yet he knows that if Bill takes out the big car and smashes it, it will be many a week before they will have another. Besides, "Mother" often takes notions in the evening to go somewhere. And she's worked hard for that car.

Bill is getting moody and short-tempered. He won't even study. And he is thinking his parents are stingy and unsympathetic. Anyone can see that. Everything seems to be changed since the advent of the sedan. They were a happy family before that.

I know this man. I can tell now what he is going to do, because he has firmness and character. He is going to say one of these days, "I never had a car until I was 43. Your mother and I were glad to have car-fare. You may use my car one night a week and exactly no more. You cannot own a broken-down make-shift either. There will be no more argument. This is final."

Adventure With A Capital 'A'

PINT-SIZED, care free—and in trouble up to his ears. That's WASH TUBBS, mighty atom of the comic strip.

Millions of readers have installed WASH TUBBS as their favorite comic character. Readers of every age and description. WASH TUBBS appeals to their love of adventure and wanderlust, to the wanderlust that's in all of us, to our fondness for seeing a little guy blunder into a peck of trouble and squirm out of it again. Here are the things that all of us want to do but never can.

Here is the comic strip that spells Adventure with a capital A. And—best of all—it's FUNNY. Roy Croft, who draws it, combines the laughs with the thrills. You can't beat that combination.

Fire Sweeps Brooklyn Piers

250 firemen to extinguish it, a spectacular blaze swept the Brooklyn, N. Y., waterfront, causing the death of one man. Here is the scene at the height of the fire.

Dalhart Suit Asks Lower Gas Rates

DALHART, May 8.—Suit to enforce a lower gas rate in Dalhart, ordered by the Texas Railroad Commission, has been filed by the office of the attorney general and B. N. Richards, Dalhart, attorney for the Peoples Committee which is pushing the fight in state district court at Austin, Mr. Richards said today.

The commission several weeks ago ordered gas in the first bracket (30,000 cubic feet) which was considered to be "domestic" reduced from a net of 45 cents per thousand cubic feet to a net of 39 cents; other brackets to remain as they were. The Dalhart Gas Company secured a temporary injunction in Federal Court at Fort Worth, the hearing to make it permanent having been postponed from early April to May 11. On May 11, Mr. Richards said he or the attorney general's office would ask for a stay of the hearing until the Austin suit can be determined.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Fields and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Simon spent Sunday at Hollis, Okla., as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Fields.

'Knee Action' Is Becoming Accepted Without Question

A survey among thousands of motorists throughout the United States has revealed that today, only a few months after American cars first offered independent front wheel suspension, a majority of the drivers interrogated accept knee action without question; most of the remaining motorists interviewed say they are quite open-minded as to its advantages; a comparative few doubt the value of the new springing.

Interest in knee action is keen, and the average American, who wants to know the whys of any marked departure from the conventional, is eagerly seeking information about it.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Garrett and Misses Mary and Elizabeth Garrett of Amarillo accompanied Miss Aliene Reynolds to Memphis Saturday and spent until Sunday.

Firestone LEADERSHIP

"The Ultimate Test of Leadership is Performance"

FIRESTONE has maintained its leadership in tire development by producing a new tire for 1934 with a wider tread, flatter contour, deeper non-skid, greater thickness, and more and tougher rubber, which gives greater non-skid safety, more traction, greater blowout protection, and more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

These achievements are made practical by the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, providing greater adhesion between the plies of the high stretch cords and between the Gum-Dipped body of the tire and the tough, massive non-skid tread. It also provides greater strength, longer flexing life, and greater protection against blowouts.

THE New FIRESTONE HIGH SPEED TIRE for 1934

Gum-Dipping made it possible for Firestone to design, develop and put on the market the first successful balloon tire in 1923. This tire was the pattern used by all others and completely revolutionized the tire industry and set new standards for the automobile industry.

Firestone also developed the first all rubber non-skid tire, and has always been first to give motorists the benefits of new discoveries in non-skid design, providing more traction and greater non-skid safety.

For fourteen years leading race drivers have driven to victory on Firestone tires, built with Gum-Dipped high stretch cords. They have trusted their lives to Firestone Leadership—as they know that the patented Firestone construction features provide them with greater safety—longer mileage—and greater blowout protection.

Protect yourself and family by driving in today and replacing your smooth, thin, dangerous tires with the new Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934.

Firestone Tires are TRACK TESTED on the greatest proving ground in the world — The Indianapolis Speedway.

Firestone Tires are ROAD TESTED on the large fleet of Firestone test cars, day and night every day in the year, over all kinds of roads and highways.

THE ADHESION TEST

Note how the rubber in a Firestone tire clings to the high stretch cords. This greater adhesion is made possible by Gum-Dipping which soaks the cords in liquid rubber, and saturates and coats the millions of fibers inside the cords.

THE ACID TEST

To be positive that rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, a solution of sulphuric acid which quickly destroys cotton but not rubber, is shown in test tubes with Firestone Gum-Dipped fibers and fibers from any other tire made. Firestone Gum-Dipped fibers withstand the acid as they are the only fibers that are insulated with rubber, minimizing friction and heat, the deadly enemy of their life.

ROAD AND TRACK TEST

The extra strength — longer wear — greater traction — more non-skid safety — and greater blowout protection of Firestone High Speed Tires are the results of the most severe road and track tests. These have made possible the outstanding world records on road and track.

The NEW Firestone AIR BALLOON FOR 1934

The new Firestone Air Balloon for 1934 embodies all the improvements in the new Firestone High Speed Tire. The lower air pressure provides maximum traction and riding comfort. Gum-Dipping safety-locks the cords, providing 30 to 40% great deflection and blowout protection.

Cream turns into some-thing and attractive, a properly chosen cheap cut of meat appealing.

Melt butter and stir in flour. Add salt and parsley and cook until frothy. Add milk slowly, stirring constantly. Bring to the boiling point and cook five minutes. Add prepared gherkins and egg cut in slices. Serve at once.

Tomato Sauce
A tart sauce is wanted sometimes with both fish and veal. The following sauce is delicious and suitable to serve with fish or veal as needed.

Four tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons minced onion, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup water, 1 cup sifted tomatoes, 1 tablesp-on minced parsley, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon mustard, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1-2 cup cream.

Rub tomatoes through a coarse sieve to remove the seeds. Melt butter and add onion. Cook over a slow fire for 10 minutes, letting onion brown slightly. Stir in flour, salt, mustard and paprika, sifted together. Cook until frothy and slowly add water, stirring constantly. Add tomatoes and parsley and simmer 20 minutes. Rub through a strainer and stir in lemon juice. Reheat and add cream heated to the same temperature. Serve at once.

"Dissolution of the oil trust is another important phase in a program for a Texas recovery," he stated. He charged that the major oil companies, through their integrated set-ups "are destroying independent competition and independent business." He urged the divorcement of the filling station and pipeline set-ups from the integrated set-ups. Other Phases of Program Other phases of his program, as outlined by Hunter, included a franchise or privilege tax on out-of-state owned chain stores, reorganization of the 131 state bureaus and agencies of government at Austin into fewer units, the abolition of the poll tax, reduction of automobile license fees and enactment of anti-discrimination legislation to prevent chain stores and monopolies from selling at a loss in one community in an effort to "destroy independent competition" while taking profits to make up their losses in other places where competition has been eliminated. Mr. Hunter was introduced by Judge A. S. Moss, who stated that "we must look well before we cast our ballots in the July primary." Moss stated that Hunter "put up the noblest fight two years ago, almost single handed, that has been seen in Texas politics." Mr. and Mrs. Herb Sisk and Mr. and Mrs. Noy Crabb spent last Saturday night in Childress visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Copeland, formerly of Memphis.

MAN IS KILLED In NITRO BLAST

Special to The Democrat KRESS, May 8.—Bill McKinney of Odessa was bolwn to bits when a truck loaded with nitroglycerin exploded three miles north of here at 6:10 o'clock last night. The explosion dug a hole seven and a half feet deep and 24 feet wide in the center of the road. Parts of the truck and bits of flesh were strewn over a radius of 300 feet from the scene of the explosion. African marabou storks are scavengers, but they wash all their food before eating it. The Alps are believed to have risen from a seaway four to seven times their present width.

Federal Authorities Order Texas Road Relief Program to Continue

Relief work on Panhandle highway of which is the trunk route from ways, one of the most important the Donley-Hall County line through Clarendon toward Amarillo, probably will be started by the end of this week, according to press reports. The last obstacle in the emergency road program appears to have been hurdled, the report said, when state relief headquarters received notice from Washington of a $75,000 special grant. Harry L. Hopkins, national relief director, sent orders to Miss Marie Dresden, Texas relief administrator, to proceed with her remainder of the $8,900,000 emergency road construction program in the drought stricken areas of Texas. Hopkins was said to have approved increased allotments for the purchase of materials and cost of hauling, removing as far as actual relief problems are concerned, the last obstacle standing in the way "of immediate renewal of the emergency program in the Texas Panhandle and the lower Rio Grande Valley." Miss Dresden at Austin said the 70 percent of storm and drought program will come out of matched state and federal funds and that the money is available. The special grant from Washington was estimated sufficient to cover the gap for materials that had held up the drought area road work generally. Projects will be approved under the new authority of materials allotment as soon as reports are sent to Austin by division highway engineers, she said. How much of the relief funds will be expended on roads was not determined, in depending upon the highway commission, according to C. B. Braum, assistant relief director. "Heretofore work has been practically held up because of the fact that limitations, legal in character, had made it practically impossible for either agency, or both of them, to carry out the provisions of specific plans to build highways in these stricken areas," Miss Dresden stated. Several months ago the PWA advanced $2,670,000 to the state highway commission's account for the purchase of materials in the program, the report from Austin said. The sum was to have been supplemented by $6,230,000 for relief labor, none of which was ever received in Texas "ear marked" for that purpose. Wheel delegations were urging here to renew negotiations for the $6,230,000 reportedly promised, Miss Dresden declared she was without legal authority to apply for federal grants.

Wind Resistance Reducing Not Fadd

Almost since the beginning of the motor car, automotive engineers have been working on the problem of reducing wind resistance. In fact, even before the motor car had won its place as the most important element in transportation, engineers were sure that the conventional designs of railroad trains, interurban electric cars, ships and other means of transportation were wasting much of their power pushing the wind before them and pulling it after them. With the coming of the airplane this subject received more serious consideration than ever before for the aeronautical experts realized that it was of prime necessity to reduce resistance as they were limited as to the amount of horsepower that could be used in a plane and efficiency was of prime importance, instead of the luxury that it had been in other forms of transportation. Chrysler Motors engineers do not claim, therefore, to be the first to discover that reduction of wind resistance was essential to

BUICK ANNOUNCES NEW PRICE BRACKET

FLINT, Mich., May 8.—A new line of Buick automobiles, engineered and designed as companion cars of the present 50, 60 and 90 series Buicks but to sell in a lower price bracket is announced today by the Buick Motor Company. The new car, a Buick thoroughbred from every standpoint, has been designated the series 40 Buick. It includes an initial production range of five body models on a 117-inch wheelbase chassis of characteristic Buick design and construction. The new car is powered by a 93-horsepower, valve-in-head straight eight engine and is capable of smooth, easy speeds up to 85 miles per hour. A complete garage and Road service. Correct Headlights Becoming Important Motorist Question

The annual spring drive of local and state police is on in almost every community now against violations of laws and ordinances that apply to automobile headlights and brakes. Enforcement officers are being attracted to the advancements that engineers have embodied in new models to make operation safer on the highways. With motor cars traveling at higher speeds each year, the need for powerful illumination has increased. At the same time the need for properly protecting oncoming drivers from dangerous and illegal glare has increased.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

WILLIAM FERGUSON, artist and student of natural history, had an idea that people would be interested in learning more about the world they live in if the facts could be presented in an unusual and interesting way. Accordingly he began to put some of his ideas in picture form. That was several years ago. Today his celebrated feature, THIS CURIOUS WORLD, is distributed by NEA Service and appears daily in hundreds of newspapers. Not only is it tremendously popular as a newspaper feature, but in grade and high schools throughout the country it is clipped and studied as an aid to nature courses because of the authenticity of its art work. As its name implies, THIS CURIOUS WORLD pictures unusual things you may be astonished to know, but which you should know. You can follow this strikingly drawn feature every day in

Pleasing the People

Public acceptance of the Ford V-8 has been the most outstanding in the history of the Ford Motor Co. It's easy to understand the reason for this, because today's motor car is by far the most outstanding motor car ever offered the American people. Without a Price Class" is really pleasing to the people. Let us give you a demonstration, day, entirely without obligation. In delivery—no delay.

Six Teams Advance in Country Club Tourney

WIN MATCHES IN FIRST ROUND OF PLAY

Battle To Continue During Week In Scotch Affair

Six teams advanced into the round of the Memphis Country Club's Scotch golf tournament yesterday afternoon.

Matches will continue each afternoon this week. There is no definite time set for play, but this is left up to the teams as they fall together in the bracket.

Frank Foxhall, who tied the course record of 62 in his qualifying round Sunday, and A. J. Burleson led the way into the second round with a 6 and 5 victory over the combination of John Deaver and Lesley Foxhall.

Dr. L. M. Hicks and Harry Delaney advanced at the expense of O. B. Smith and M. J. Draper, 5 and 3.

Irvin Johnsey and O. B. Jones downed H. J. Gore and T. C. Delaney. Their score was not reported.

R. S. Greene and T. M. Harrison defeated the team of J. B. Wright and J. D. Shankle, 1 up.

Thomas Hampton and Glynn Thompson erased Boyd Wright and Floyd Springer, 5 and 4, and Tom Bob Harrison and O. V. Alexander won from T. H. Draper and Wendell Lesley.

Only two opponents have been definitely set for the second round. They are Hicks and Delaney vs Johnsey and Jones, and Green and Harrison vs Hampton and Thompson.

Few have traveled farther to watch athletes perform than has Harry. His assignments have taken him to all corners of the continent, the last being a trip with Columbia's football squad for the Rose Bowl conflict against Stanford New Year's Day.

It was on that afternoon that Grayson saw his 19-year-old nephew, Bobby Grayson, the Cardinal's sophomore fullback and signal caller, play for the first time.

Grayson attracted nation-wide attention in the boxing world in 1926 when he was one of a mere handful of critics to pick Gene Tunney to lift the great Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown.

They were calling Tunney "the Greenwich Village Folly" at the time. They said he was too timid, and some were wagering he wouldn't show up for the fight.

Others of the writing fraternity tried to talk Grayson out of his choice, but he stuck by his guns.

"Tunney will win every minute of the ten rounds. He may knock out Dempsey in the first," he telegraphed his newspaper.

It will be recalled that they scarcely had put up their hands when the Man Mauler's knees sagged under a whistling right.

"I knew Dempsey's true condition," explained Grayson, when the last shot had been fired, "and who ever beat Tunney?"

Grayson dislikes to make comparisons, explaining that those who have gone on before are seen in the flattering light of distance, but he feels certain that Dempsey would have knocked out Tunney (Continued on page 8)

HARRY GRAYSON

Along about this time each spring there is a vast stirring and moving about in the region of Los Angeles. It may sound like a distant echo of one of those tombs, but it merely is Jim Thorpe assembling his club for another baseball season.

The sturdy Sae and Fox, who tossed athletic marks into the discard with almost casual effort a score of years ago, still is an active professional ball player.

The Giants gave up on Thorpe, who set records for carousing as well as in competition, when the late John McGraw was in his vigorous prime, but Jubilee Jim continues to hang on—for exhibition purposes, anyway, with an Indian array that tours the country in a bus.

Thorpe is much the same individual as he was in his heyday. He has filled out somewhat, but rugged strength remains in the shoulders that split many a line for Pop Warner when the Temple tinkerer taught the red-skinned rovers of Carlisle.

Jim's legs frequently complain after all these years and his arm sometimes squeaks, "Hey, mister!" but, like the Babe and all the rest, his potent poking power lingers.

Oddly enough, Thorpe in the end had to fall back on the sport at which he was least proficient. At that he had much natural ability as a fly chaser. It was his inability to resist fishing for organized game. But he always murdered fast ball pitching and most of the choppers in the sticks haven't too much on their hooks.

All the folks who plunk down their pesetas to see Thorpe really get is a two-minute exposure of the great man at bat and a flash of him in the outfield.

And that ought to be enough, reasons the renowned Redman.

"We perform nearly every day or night," he explains. "They can't expect me to travel and play a full game in each town. I'd wear myself out."

Thorpe is not the type to moon about what has gone on before. With an intensely practical mind, he says:

"Suppose I did win a few track and field championships years ago? I've got to make a living now and have to wrap myself up in something that gives me a chance to do it. I believe I have found it in baseball. I'm the playing manager of this team and, when I quit playing, I'll run it or some other outfit."

Thorpe doesn't envy any of his old rivals who went on to become bank presidents or corporation counsels.

"Look," he beams, opening his shirt, "that's a healthy body, isn't it?" He flexes the muscles of his mighty right arm. "Feel," he offers, "there's nothing wrong there." He grabs your hand. "Let me show you my grip," he volunteers, and before you know it the most punishing sort of pressure is forcing you to beg off. "Sure, sure, I believe you, Jim."

There are no chapters in the athletic past of Thorpe that burn particularly brightly in his memory. None of his glories had the

CHRISTIANS IN VICTORY OVER LEADERS

Throw Presbyterians Into Tie For Lead With Baptists

Behind the masterly pitching by Jimmie Mitchell and fielding that was at times spectacular, the Christians, who had been bracketed with the Methodists in the novice column, completely outplayed and defeated the league-leading Presbyterians yesterday afternoon, throwing them into a tie with the Baptists. A large crowd attended the game, held on the West Ward diamond.

A last-inning rally fell short when the superb fielding of Marion E. McNally Jr., and J. P. Watson held the visitors in check and allowed only one run.

Others showing up well for the visitors included Rev. Dyer, catcher, who collected a four-bagger and a double besides two singles as a contribution to the offense. Watson also hit for extra bases, getting a triple, and Mitchell's hit was a two-base one.

Chauncey Thomas held his role as the "big shot" of the Presbyterians, doing air-tight fielding and doubling thrice. District Attorney John Deaver also showed pep and drive.

The Christians and Methodists play a make-up game this afternoon at 5:15 o'clock.

glamorous effect on the big fellow that they did on the world.

His bewildering football feats, his amazing conquest in the 1912 Olympic Games, the presentation of prizes by the King of Sweden and the subsequent dramatic interlude when all his awards were recalled because of a summer of semi-professional baseball—all long since have been put away by phlegmatic Jim.

Thorpe's barnstormers put on a dance in war dress before each game and whoop it up with Indian calls during the contest.

And the best screechers with the troupe, Jim insists, are a pair of non-Injuns, one from Brooklyn and the other from Chicago's South Side.

FUN A-FISHIN'

BY JIMMY DONAHUE
NEA Service Sports Writer
A few hints to help you catch more trout:

Never fish from the stream bed when you can cast from the bank. The reason is that splashing will scare trout into leaving. If you must fish in the stream in the water, keep as low as you can. When you see a rising trout, kneel in the water if possible and cast over him. His range of vision will be more likely to miss you if you keep well down.

Stoop down—as shown in sketch—when casting from bed of stream for rising trout.

If you're not taking trout on long casts with the wet fly, try making short ones, dangling the dropper fly on top of the water in such a way that it is danced back and forth. This excited jumping of the fly is exceptionally effective in hooking trout that have been raised, but which have struck short due to lack of enthusiasm.

On long, still stretches of water, forget about those short six and eight-foot leaders. This type of water requires leaders from 10 to 14 feet in length.

Many a trout has made a loud splash on rising to a fly and the angler believes his would-be prize (Continued on page 8)

LINKSMEN ARE INVITED TO TOURNEY

Urged To Attend 3rd Annual Affair At Wichita Falls

Golfers of Memphis and other cities in this territory are invited to attend the Third Annual Invitation Tournament of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce on May 19 and 20.

The 54 holes of medal play will be over the course of Weeks Park. The play will be divided into flights based on 18-hole qualifying scores. Four-man teams will play on a handicap basis, with members playing for individual prizes at the same time they enter the team matches.

Manager Jack Boone sent his Memphis Owls baseball nine against Paducah's powerful outfit here at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Fair Park.

Manager Boone announced this morning that he was still uncertain if his game here with Tulsa Sunday is to be played, since Tulsa has not yet returned definite assurance. But, he said, the Owls will play here Sunday if it is at all possible to obtain competition.

Thursday, the Owls return the visit of the Paducah nine. A tentative schedule on that date with Chillicothe here has been abandoned.

The Owls are anxious to go into battle several times each week, both at home and away, but are finding suitable competition difficult to locate.

In many parts of Germany the apple is deemed potent against warts.

GOLF By Art Krenz

In a previous article I mentioned the fact that the club should be gripped firmly. The function of the hands is to guide the club, but if the term of firmness is misunderstood, and the club is held in a vise-like grip, all muscles used in making the shot are tensed. The result is failure.

If the right hand grips the club too tightly, the touch is lost. Consequently, hold the club more firmly with the left hand. As it starts downward, a tighter grip can be taken with both hands. As the ball is hit, the grip should be as firm as possible without stiffening the wrists.

IN IRON PLAY, HOLD THE CLUB MORE FIRMLY WITH THE LEFT HAND

SALESMAN SAM

IF you are not already a SALESMAN SAM fan, you should get the daily habit. Here is a comic strip which is a triumph of pure nonsense, contrived for one purpose and one purpose only—to make you laugh.

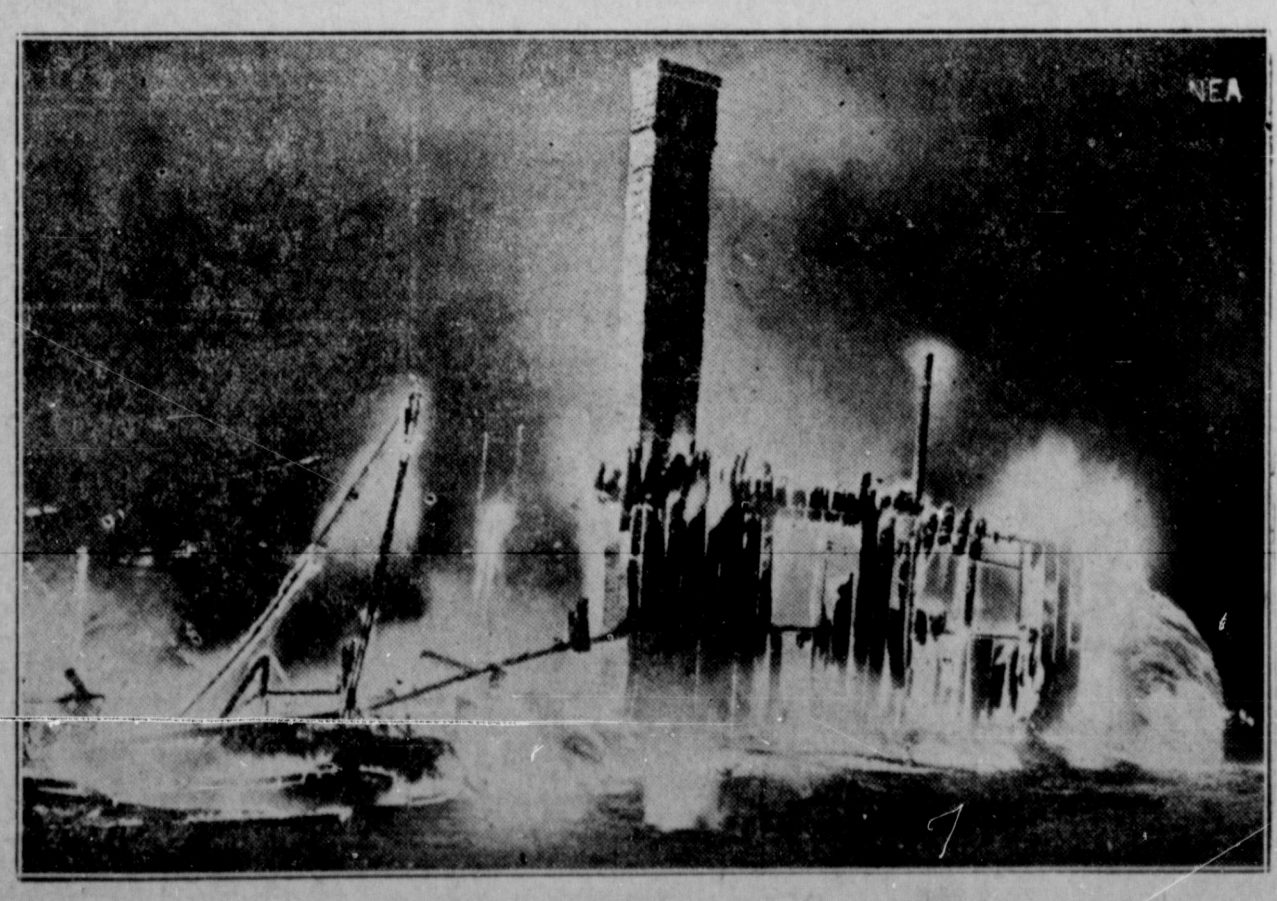

SAM is one of the world's great optimists. As a salesman he's really not so hot, but he'll try anything and he believes everything. If you don't like your humor broad, if slapstick comedy is too unrefined for you, and a hearty guffaw beneath your dignity—then steer clear of SALESMAN SAM.

But if the ridiculous appeals to you, as it does to the millions of other readers who swear by him, he should be on your daily reading list. He has his imitators, of course, but there's only the one genuine SALESMAN SAM, and he appears daily in

"WE ARE THE PEOPLE"

"THE core of the American tradition," says Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell, "is to be found in a kind of defiance to fate."

Dr. Tugwell, who is either a smart young man in a big job or a fearful bogey-man with claws and cloven feet, depending on your point of view, made this remark before the convention of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington.

He was trying to make clear that the administration welcomes criticism, and that any attempt at regimentation of American life in defiance of the will of the masses would be foredoomed to failure.

And in this remark there is a shrewd appreciation of a fundamental part of the American character—a part which both radicals and Tories tend to overlook.

"We will not do what we do not want to do, and coercion cannot make us," adds Dr. Tugwell. "We can be fooled, but not for long. We have a precious inventiveness which gets us out of holes. We have a saving irreverence for authority."

Here is an excellent point for everybody concerned to keep in mind. It makes these terrors of Communism, Fascism, and so on much less terrifying; for all such schemes must, sooner or later, run their keels onto this hard rock of stubborn contrariness—the fact that, in the long run, we will not do what we do not want to do, which is just another way of saying that in the end the honest wish of the majority will prevail.

It reminds us somehow of that old story of the Fourth of July celebration in a small midwestern town half a century ago. The governor, a senator, and a couple of representatives were to address the citizens in a public park.

Pretty soon they started making their way through the crowd to the speakers' stand, and some flunky or other who was trying to clear a path for them called out, "Make way for the representatives of the people."

Instantly someone in the crowd called back: "Make way yourself. We ARE the people."

And that's what it all comes down to. The people's representatives, down at Washington, may advance any kind of theory or nostrum they choose; eventually, if their fellow citizens don't like the looks of it, they will hear that old cry—"Make way for yourselves. We are the people!"

CLARENDON DEMANDS ACTION

CLARENDON is rightly irritated at the delay in launching the $8,900,000 federal road relief program in Texas. In fact, all of the Panhandle has begun to look upon the so-called road program as pretty much of a farce.

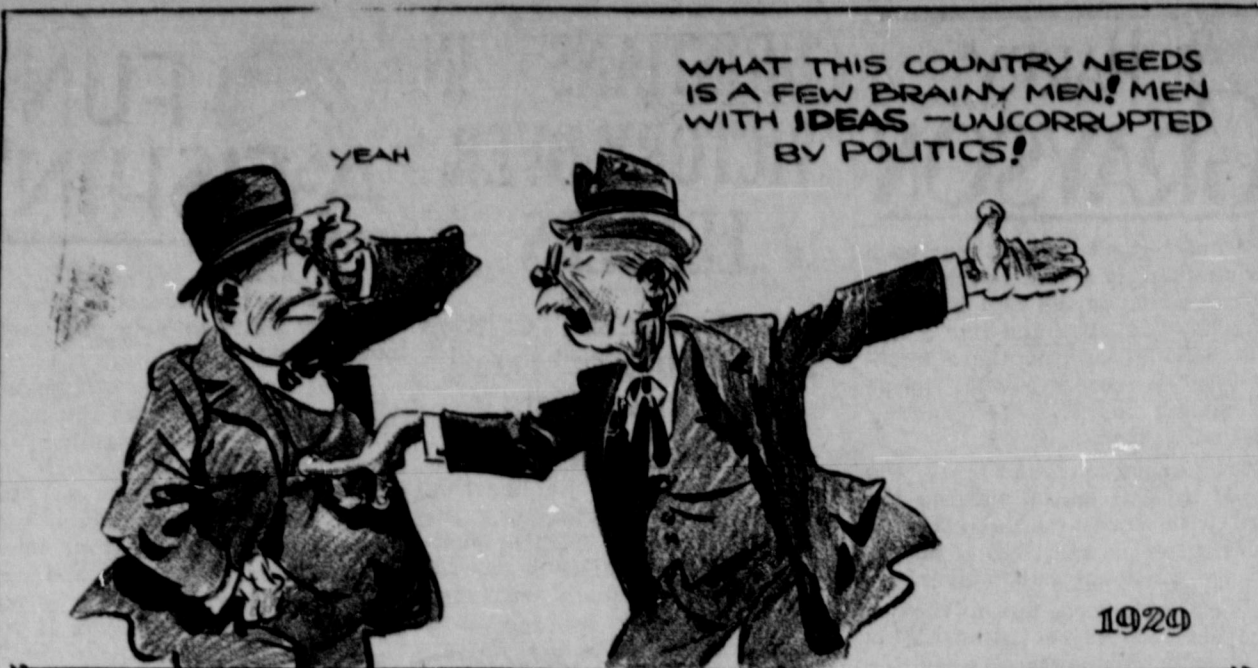

Nearly every country in the Panhandle has an interest in the program, either on trunk highways or parallel roads, and all have been demanding action for some time, but to no avail.

Clarendon's situation is emphasized because its road is an important trunk highway and much work has already gone forward. Too, the project is approved by state and federal departments.

In its irritation, a mass meeting of Clarendon business and professional men asked Miss Marie Dresden, chairman of the relief commission, either to "take immediate action to release the federal funds or resign her position."

Clarendon citizens are entirely within their rights. The federal department seems to have had more trouble with the Texas Relief Commission than those in all the other states combined. If politics within the Texas commission were forgotten for a while and the people in charge undertook to place aid where aid is needed, a great deal could be accomplished. But until that is done, Clarendon's demand for action is likely to go unheeded.

Reasonable Amount of Cleanliness, Proper Diet, and Exercise Will Keep Body Covering in Healthy Condition

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Your skin is living tissue—not only just an envelope which covers your body. Hence, like the other living tissue of which the human is composed, the skin tends to regulate fairly well its own condition.

Most people have found that, with a reasonable amount of cleanliness, the skin gets along quite well. Because of this fact, they try to treat their own diseases of the skin or any damage which may occur to it, without realizing that neglect sometimes may be fatal, and without realizing that the medicine may do more harm than if nothing at all were applied.

Thus, in older people a cancer may begin as a small ulcerated spot or as a small lump in the breast. Any attempt to treat such a lesion with an ointment or salve is a form of neglect which in most instances will result fatally.

or lotions for relief of all sorts of facial blemishes, skin diseases, superfluous hair, itching, sweating, burning and similar symptoms is almost certain to lead to trouble.

Some of the common remedies for athlete's foot damage the skin so severely that the condition spreads instead of being eliminated. Although many remedies used for superfluous hair work for a while, others are strong poisons and can produce exceedingly serious symptoms. One of the drugs for superfluous hair has already been reported as causing cases of paralysis and inflammation of the nerves.

Among the substances most frequently used on the skin is cold cream. Certain skins are so dry that extra cream must be rubbed in to keep them pliable and flexible.

Here, however, it is unnecessary to have any fancy compound. The simple cold cream that is included in the United States Pharmacopoeia is as good as any.

Most blemishes of the skin are not due to something in the skin

Good hygiene with plenty of fresh air and exercise and with a reasonable amount of cleanliness will be as good for pimples and blackheads as almost anything that can be rubbed upon the skin.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
The Democrat's Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Such prize as may be awarded to the youngster who creates most consternation among big New Dealers in 1934 seems destined for Milton Handler.

He is the National Labor Board's general counsel and he held a press conference, now famous here, and let it be known that Roosevelt's settlement of the automobile strike, which the president described as a great piece of "social engineering," had been a painful nuisance to the board.

The board, he said, still stuck to the principle of majority representation in collective bargaining, which F. D. had repudiated.

Handler, who is about 30 years old and a loan from the Columbia University faculty, spoke truth. Unwittingly, he made himself appear as a lonely champion of American labor under NRA.

But his superiors and associates regard him bitterly as a youth who spoke out of turn at the wrong time.

Senator Wagner, NLB chairman; Frances Perkins, General Johnson, Harry Hopkins, and Don Richberg had been in daily tense huddles in an attempt to frame a revised Wagner Labor Board bill which would be relatively satisfactory to both labor and industry.

Roosevelt, nervous as a result of the breakdown of his original and subsequent labor policies, was watching closely.

NLB shuddered under the impact of industrialists whose labor disputes had been settled on the majority representation basis and who now wanted a redecision on the auto settlement basis to strengthen their company unions.

(In the huddles, Wagner and Hopkins waged a hot fight for the majority representation principle, and an independent, strong NLB. Perkins sided with them except when she demanded an NLB under her department of labor.)

Johnson and Richberg wanted an NLB under NRA control, which would be equivalent to letting industry control its labor relations.)

Roosevelt read about what Handler had said and quickly scribbled a note to Wagner. The senator didn't show anyone the note, but his friends think it was some simple question such as "What the hell?"

Wagner raged and stormed against Handler—called him "that damned young squirt." He re-entered the huddle with Johnson, Perkins, Hopkins, and Richberg to find everybody hollering because Handler, as if speaking for NLB as a whole, had demanded the original strong Wagner bill which they were trying to revise.

So Handler leads the field for the prize. But that was his first own personal press conference and almost certainly will be his last.
