The Governor's Energy Report indicates that state agencies have lost some of their zeal for conserving energy since the frantic days of early 1974.

During that period of widespread uncertainty, the energy demands among state agencies fell by around 10 per cent almost instantaneously. But figures for the first quarter of the year indicate that most of this progress has been eroded by increases in 1975. The first quarter this year shows that state agencies used almost as much electricity, natural gas, gasoline, etc., during the first three months as they did during the first three months of 1973.

About two-thirds of the energy consumed in state government is used by the more than 100 state-supported colleges and universities, and these actually used more energy the first quarter of this year than they did for the same period in 1973, more than wiping out a sharp decline in 1974.

Somehow, it seems to be more difficult to conserve when there does not appear to be any danger of supplies being depleted today or tomorrow. Not many look ahead to next week, or next month, not to mention next year, or the next decade.

Meanwhile, over the nation, travel organizations report that while automobile travel has increased, there is some evidence that Americans are conserving gasoline. The domestic demand for gasoline is up slightly over 1974, but is not above that of 1973. Ordinarily, a significant increase in demand could be expected. Observers say vacationers have been driving to destinations closer to their homes and staying there longer, which means less time on the roads.

State Rep. Mike Ezzell, on a return trip from Austin recently, stopped at a coffee shop on Interstate 20, and noticed a couple of Highway Patrolmen there having coffee. As is his custom, he introduced himself and inquired about their work, etc., and whether they knew of any problems the Department of Public Safety people might have. As they were establishing identities, Ezzell learned that he had been in high school at the same time as one of the patrolmen at Wharton, although they were a couple of grades apart, and that Mrs. Ezzell and the other patrolman had been in the same graduating class at Big Spring High School.

Sometimes it seems that Texas is almost as small as the world.—WACIL McNAIR.

Today In History

By The Associated Press

Today is Tuesday, Sept. 2, the 245th day of 1975. There are 120 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

In 1864, during the Civil War, Union forces under General William T. Sherman occupied the city of Atlanta.

On this date:

In 31 B.C., Mark Antony and Cleopatra were defeated by Octavius Caesar in the battle of Actium.

In 1666, the great fire of London broke out. It burned for several days, destroying 13,000 homes.

In 1789, the U.S. Treasury Department was established, with Alexander Hamilton as secretary.

In 1901, Vice President Theodore Roosevelt said in a speech at the Minnesota State Fair: "Speak softly and carry a big stick."

In 1940, the United States transferred 50 destroyers to Britain for a lease of military bases in Newfoundland and the British West Indies.

In 1963, Gov. George Wallace stopped integration at Tuskegee High School in Alabama by encircling the building with state troopers.

Ten years ago: 17 people were killed and 25 injured in a bus-train collision in Turkey.

Five years ago: The space agency canceled two of its remaining Apollo flights, reducing the program to four trips to the moon.

One year ago: Gen. Francisco Franco, reported fully recovered from illness, resumed his post as Spain's chief of state.

Israel's Parties Study New Pact

JERUSALEM (AP) — The new Israeli-Egyptian agreement for a second Israeli withdrawal in the Sinai Desert went before Israel's political parties today for its test.

The Knesset, Israel's parliament, was expected to take up the agreement Wednesday after the parties determined their positions. Statements from political leaders before conclusion of the negotiations indicated it would be approved by a narrow majority.

Israel and Egypt initialed the new agreement in Jerusalem and Alexandria on Monday after a 12-day diplomatic shuttle by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who left Egypt today for Saudi Arabia.

If the Knesset approves the accord, Israeli and Egyptian delegates will meet in Geneva to sign the accord, probably Thursday, Israeli officials said. They said they were correcting an earlier statement that the agreement would be signed in Israel and Egypt without a direct meeting.

In addition to the Israeli troop withdrawal and return of the Abu Rudeis oilfields to Egypt, the pact commits the two longtime enemies to refrain from the "threat or use of force" against each other. Kissinger said he hoped "the implementation of this agreement and the documents that we have initialed today will be remembered as that point where peace at last began in the Middle East."

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin admitted that there were risks for Israel in the accord. But he said these had to be taken to move toward peace, and the agreement could "open a new chapter in relations" with Egypt and in the Middle East.

"I think the agreement ... marks a turning point in the Arab-Israeli conflict," President Anwar Sadat said at the ceremony in Alexandria.

President Ford telephoned Kissinger and Rabin in Jerusalem and Sadat in Egypt.

Trenton, Area Out Of Water

TRENTON, N.J. — (AP) — The city of Trenton, capital of New Jersey, and surrounding communities were expected to run out of water this afternoon.

Mayor Arthur Holland declared a state of emergency shortly before noon because of a broken pump in the city's water supply system.

An estimated 250,000 persons could be affected by the crisis, including about 100,000 in Trenton and the rest in the surrounding suburban communities of Ewing, Hamilton and Lawrence townships.

Holland ordered parochial schools, which opened today, to close, and city officials said the state and county offices may be shut down and that the staff at City Hall would be reduced to a skeleton crew.

Joseph Tuccillo, director of the city's public works, said nearby communities, including towns in Pennsylvania just across the Delaware River, had agreed to pump in about one-fifth of the 35 million gallons used by the city's water system each day.

Tuccillo said the city was calling for tank trucks to provide emergency water supplies to hospitals and other critical areas.

He also said it would be at least 48 hours before the broken pumps at the Trenton filtration plant adjacent to the Delaware River could be replaced.

The city's reservoir, which has a capacity of 110 million gallons, was about half depleted by Monday afternoon and almost entirely dry early today.

IN HOFFA PROBE

Giacalone's Son First Witness

By PETE YOST
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating the disappearance of ex-Teamsters union boss James R. Hoffa questioned the son of a reputed Mafia chieftain today for more than a half-hour.

Joseph "Joey" Giacalone, 22, refused comment on his 33-minute appearance before the grand jury. Giacalone, son of reputed Detroit Mafia boss Anthony "Tony Jack" Giacalone, is the owner of a 1975 Mercury which the Federal Bureau of Investigation seized in connection with the disappearance of Hoffa July 30.

Also testifying was Giacalone's uncle, Vito Giacalone.

The Giacalones were the leadoff witnesses before the federal panel which is probing Hoffa's disappearance.

A federal investigator, Frederick J. Dana, said one more witness was scheduled this morning. He refused to say who the witness was.

Meanwhile, the FBI today will attempt to maintain custody of the younger Giacalone's car, which agents believe may hold a clue to Hoffa's disappearance.

The auto was being driven by Hoffa's foster son, Charles "Chuckie" O'Brien, on the day Hoffa disappeared, but O'Brien has denied that Hoffa was in the car.

O'Brien is scheduled to testify Wednesday before the grand jury. Hoffa dropped from sight after leaving for a luncheon appointment at which he told his family he was to meet with the elder Giacalone at the Red Fox Restaurant in suburban Bloomfield Township.

Giacalone, however, denied that he planned to meet Hoffa.

O'Brien said that, by coincidence, he was driving young Giacalone's car in the vicinity of the restaurant on the day Hoffa was last seen.

Officials familiar with the probe confirmed last week that three tracking dogs detected Hoffa's scent in the back seat and trunk.

Ford Defends US Action On Economies

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today each nation must make its own decisions about its economy and that "no country can expect the actions of others to resolve its problems."

He addressed the annual meeting of the 127-nation International Monetary Fund and World Bank, where there has been widespread criticism that the United States has not done enough to help end world recession.

Ford said a sound U.S. economy is "the best lasting contribution this nation can make to other nations."

The President's speech came shortly after Treasury Secretary William E. Simon rejected a recommendation from the IMF that the United States do more to stimulate its economy. Simon said this country might already have done too much.

Simon flatly rejected a recommendation from Johannes Witteveen, director of the IMF, that the United States along with Germany and Japan undertake a greater effort to expand their economies and help end the world recession.

"We believe we have taken adequate means to reflate our economy on the fiscal side," Simon told a news conference.

Noting that the U.S. government will have a 1976 budget deficit of at least $60 billion, Simon said, "My concern is not that we have done enough; my concern is that we have done too much."

Witteveen had told an opening session of the meeting of the IMF and the World Bank on Monday that he thought nations with large economies should resort to additional tax cuts and federal spending to help the world economy.

Hurt Burglar Sought Here

Sheriff's Authorities are looking for a man who has an unexplained injury.

Someone forced entry into the Ezell-Key Feed Mill office on the Sweetwater Highway early Saturday morning and cut himself when he broke a plate glass window, officers said.

Taken in the burglary were two calculators, a cash register, and a digital clock. Value of the property was estimated at $1,300.

"We'd appreciate it if anyone who knows of someone who cut himself on the hand or arm would let us know," said Sheriff Keith Collier.

He said the cut "was probably a bad one. We found a lot of blood at the scene."

Holiday Period Safest In Years

By The Associated Press

Fewer than 400 persons were killed in traffic accidents over the Labor Day weekend — one of the safest three-day holiday periods in 14 years.

The Associated Press counted 392 traffic fatalities on the nation's roads during the period from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Monday local time.

Officials of the National Safety Council, which before the holiday estimated between 460 and 560 persons could lose their lives in traffic accidents during the period, had no immediate explanation.

"It's quite surprising, very definitely it's low," said Jack Recht, manager of the council's statistics section. "As a matter of fact, we'd have to go back in the records to see if there is anything near it."

However, records of the AP, which has been counting holiday traffic deaths since 1946, show the 392 fatalities are the fewest over a 78-hour Labor Day period since 1961 when the toll was 386.

The only other years in which fewer than 400 persons died in traffic aocidents during summer's last long weekend, were 1954, 1950 and 1946-48.

Last year, 515 persons were killed during the Labor Day period and at that time it was the safest Labor Day weekend since 1962.

But last year, Recht pointed out, traffic fatalities were markedly lower than previous years due to effects of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit and concern over gasoline shortages.

This year, he said, gasoline supplies have loosened and compliance with the 55 m.p.h. limit would be no better than last year.

As a result, he said, fatalities have been up generally about 4 per cent from last year and travel itself has been up about 6 per cent.

The 1975 Labor Day figures, he said, conflict with these trends.

"This is an unusual experience," he said. "We're glad to see it but I have no explanation offhand."

US Inventories Down Fifth Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inventories of goods held by the nation's manufacturers declined in July for the fifth consecutive month, the government said today. It was an indication recovery from the recession is picking up steam.

The Commerce Department said industry stockpiles decreased $950 million, or six-tenths of 1 per cent, the same as reported a month earlier. The steady decrease since March is unprecedented in more than 14 years.

The reduction of goods in warehouses and stockrooms is considered a vital step to boosting industrial production.

The Commerce Department said inventories in July totaled $147.1 billion, down from $148 billion in June.

Burglary Prevention Discussed

Plans for an educational campaign here on prevention of shoplifting and burglary were discussed this morning by a special Chamber of Commerce committee.

Losses by merchants to burglars and shoplifters, always a problem, have increased over the country in recent months and in Snyder as well, it was noted. It was agreed by members of the committee that a continuous program of store owners, managers and sales personnel working closely with law enforcement is needed to help reduce such losses.

The possibility of a seminar for management of retail firms was discussed, and plans for it will likely be developed in the near future, it was indicated.

Meeting with the committee was Detective Bill Marvin of the Snyder Police Dept. He told the group some of the methods of operation used by modern burglars and shoplifters.

The committee asked Mickey Nunley, chamber manager, to work with law enforcement personnel in programming a seminar. Merchants attending the session were Tommy Davis, Bill Dryden, Marshall Erwin and C.A. McCowan, along with news media representatives.

Recession Ups Illnesses, Crime

CHICAGO (AP) — More mental illness, more physical illness and more crime grow out of economic recession, says a group of social scientists.

And they said the cost of these consequences is greater than would be the cost of programs to create jobs.

Government officials look only at the direct economic impact of unemployment, they told the annual convention of the American Psychological Association on Labor Day.

They said that not only do thefts, robberies and burglaries rise, but so do the rates of suicide, murder of infants, admission to mental hospitals and illness and death from heart and other diseases.

There frequently is a lag of one, two or three years in some of these rates, but already the impact of unemployment is apparent in some of these areas, they added.

Dr. Hannah Levin, professor of psychology at Richmond College, City University of New York, Staten Island; and Dr. Ralph A. Straetz of New York University, a political scientist, studied 45 unemployed men and their families in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

"A most tragic part of each interview," Dr. Levin said, was that 90 per cent of the men blamed themselves for being unemployed and felt despair about their future.

She said the children, too, felt the stress of their father's unemployment and expressed the fear they might have to be given away.

She said, "Physicians prescribe milk and vitamins for children who suffer malnutrition," so "it is time psychiatrists and psychologists include the prescription of work as a way to a more meaningful and satisfying life.

"And just as the government has begun to assume some responsibility for feeding the poor with food stamps, it must become national policy to provide full employment for all our citizens who wish to work."

Dr. M. Harvey Brenner of the Johns Hopkins University school of hygiene and public health said community mental health centers already are recording more admissions and have longer waiting lists as a result of economic instability.

Explosions Follow Derailment

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Fire fighthers waited today for three railroad tank cars carrying propane and liquefied petroleum to burn themselves out following a derailment which led to a series of explosions.

Firemen waited about 300 yards from where a derailment Monday afternoon touched off a series of earth-shaking blasts that sent huge fireballs into the sky. Shock waves were heard 30 miles away.

At least six persons were injured. No deaths were reported.

The derailment and explosions occurred in an industrial park on the city's northeast side as 11 cars of a southbound Rock Island Lines train left the tracks as part of the train passed under a busy Interstate 35-80 bridge.

The Iowa Highway Patrol closed Interstate 35-80 in the area because they feared structural damage to the bridge. Traffic on the major east-west interstate was rerouted through the city.

Two square miles of factories, warehouses and homes were evacuated about an hour after the first fireball shot 1,000 feet into the air.

A railroad spokesman said five tank cars ruptured and burned, and in addition to the three still burning, three were intact on the tracks. Authorities, however, feared the intense heat might ignite them.

Reader Strikes Gold In Public Library

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I live in Salisbury, Mass., and I use the Newbury public library quite often.

I recently checked out an old book and brought it home to read. When I started to read it, I got the shock of my life. There, in the second chapter, was an old $5,000 bill! It's good. I have already checked it out.

What do I do? Keep it, or take it back to the library and find out if someone has reported it lost or misplaced.

I really want to do the right thing. Of course I would like to keep it, but not if it belongs to somebody else.

Please advise me.

FINDERS KEEPERS

DEAR FINDERS: Take the $5,000 bill back to the library and ask them to try to find the owner. If they are unable to locate him (or her), the money is yours. (And check with a lawyer before you do anything.)

DEAR ABBY: I have heard many mothers say, "I have to tell my child three or four times to do something, but if his daddy tells him just once, he jumps."

I think I know why this is true: In most families, when the mother asks the father to do something, he just sits there as if she hadn't spoken. But when the father says to Mother, "Send my suit to the cleaners," or, "Mail this letter," the mother does it right away.

Before long, the child notices that Dad's voice gets a response, but Mom's goes unheeded, so he accepts that as normal and follows the procedure.

Any comment?

D.L.

DEAR D.L.: I think the practice of ignoring Mother and jumping when Father speaks probably became standard operating procedure after the child tested both parents and discovered that when Mother is ignored, nothing happens. But when Father is ignored, all you-know-what breaks loose.

DEAR ABBY: How does a happily married 35-year-old woman handle flirtations initiated by a married man in the presence of both spouses?

I find myself very much embarrassed, and needless to say, his wife and my husband are not exactly overjoyed. How can such a man be put in his place in a nice but firm manner? We run into this couple fairly often, and I am dreading the next encounter.

FLUSTERED

DEAR FLUSTERED: When next you meet, give Casanova an impersonal hello, then promptly launch into small talk with his wife. Keep it a two-way conversation until you depart. No man can "flirt" without a partner.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20¢) envelope.

Bus Is Heldup

DETROIT (AP) — "We have guns!" one of two holdup men aboard a bus shouted as the Greyhound rumbled down a highway.

"Put your heads down and do not look up. This is a holdup. If I see the whites of your eyes, I'll blow your heads off!" he said.

Children screamed as the bandits shouted instructions and cursed some men, pistol-whipped others and stuffed money and jewelry into an attache case as most passengers sat with their eyes closed and their hands atop their heads.

One bandit took a young mother into the bus' restroom to undress her in a search for money. The woman's 3-year-old child stood outside, crying, "Mommy! Mommy!" The mother screamed, "I've got to get my baby!" She was released when the man found no money on her.

Authorities said Sunday night's robbery netted at least $15,000 in cash and jewelry from 42 victims while the bus from Chicago traveled between Ypsilanti, Mich., and Detroit. Its final destination was Montreal, Canada.

Donald Paul, 27, a passenger, said the bandits "knew exactly what they were going to do." He said one of the bandits put a gun to the driver's head.

The bus driver, 61-year-old William Gorshe, told passengers over the public address system, "Please cooperate so no one gets hurt."

When the bus reached Detroit, the bandits told the driver to turn off Interstate 94 onto another freeway. Soon after, the pair stopped the bus and ran up an embankment, jumped a fence and walked away.

Police believe the men escaped in a getaway car waiting nearby.

The FBI is investigating the incident, the second Greyhound holdup in Michigan in eight days. Detroit police believe the same pair of bandits pulled a similar holdup on a Detroit-to-Paducah, Ky., bus Aug. 24.

Thefts Reported

Thieves stole a white 35 horsepower Johnson outboard motor from a boat at the TraveLodge either Sunday night or Monday morning, according to City Police, who also are investigating the theft of two rifles and a shotgun valued at $110 from a pickup at 2605 Avenue O between 7 p.m. Sunday and 6 a.m. Monday. The theft of the guns was reported by Mrs. H.M. Lomax.

Ecuador Is Calm After Attempted Coup Fails

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Ecuador was reported calm again today following the failure of an attempt by the army chief of staff to overthrow President Guillermo Rodriguez Lara.

The leader of the attempted coup Monday, Gen. Raul Gonzalez Alvear, surrendered after 12 hours when the army, navy and air force failed to join the single army unit supporting him.

Gen. Rodriguez, who overthrew an elected president in 1972, said "the most rigorous weight of the law" would fall on Gen. Gonzalez and all those who supported him.

The president accused "irresponsible politicians" of instigating the rebellion. A dusk-to-dawn curfew was imposed on Quito and Guayaquil, the country's two chief cities; leading civilian opponents of the regime went into hiding, and government forces raided their homes.

About 80 troops and officers were reported under arrest. It was not known if any civilians also had been arrested.

Unofficial reports said 20 people were killed and about 50 wounded in the fighting around the presidential palace in downtown Quito.

Gen. Gonzalez laid siege to the palace shortly after midnight Sunday with tanks and about 100 troops of the Azuay armored regiment.

The rebels issued a communique accusing the government of political and economic mismanagement, particularly of the country's oil wealth. They promised to abolish a recent 60 per cent surtax on imports, carry out a reform program and hold elections in two years.

After several hours of shooting, the rebel tanks entered the palace grounds, and the presidential guard surrendered. A crowd of civilians followed the rebels into the palace, looting and destroying part of the block-square building.

Meanwhile, Rodriguez escaped from the palace to Rio Bamba, 100 miles to the south, took command of the armored garrison there and started back to Quito with it. Army and navy units in Guayaquil, Ecuador's chief port on the Pacific coast, proclaimed their loyalty to the president.

Rodriguez re-entered Quito at the head of a column of six tanks and some 200 other army vehicles. But the rebels had already surrendered to the Vencedores Regiment, which remained loyal to the government, surrounded the palace and prepared to attack.

It was Latin America's second uprising in four days. Last Friday, Peru's military president, Juan Velasco Alvarado, was ousted by Gen. Francisco Morales Bermudez, his premier, army chief of staff and defense minister.

Congress Returns Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is returning from a month-long recess to search for a compromise with President Ford on a national energy program.

Among the issues still to be resolved is the question of price controls on domestically produced oil. After four years of regulation, pricing policies were freed when controls expired midnight Sunday.

When the House and Senate reconvene Wednesday, new efforts to resolve the issue will be undertaken by Democratic leaders.

Before adjourning, Congress passed a bill extending controls for six months, but President Ford has threatened to veto so long an extention.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen has said that Ford would sign a shorter extension of controls for 30 to 60 days if he is assured Congress will adopt a gradual decontrol plan within a few weeks.

Ford has promised to withhold his veto until compromise efforts can be explored. The President has until Sept. 9 to veto the six-month extension or it will become law automatically.

If a compromise is reached and the recently lapsed controls are reimposed, they would be made retroactive to their expiration, officials have said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert met with Ford last week and said they will ask Democrats to caucus on Wednesday or Thursday in an attempt to reach agreement.

If those attempts fail, Ford will veto the measure and Congress will attempt to override it.

Miners Returning

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — A general back-to-work movement spread across the coalfields today, but many southern West Virginia mines, where the walkout began, remained closed.

United Mine Workers Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick said virtually all union members had returned to work in western Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Virginia and northern West Virginia.

The UMW also said a number of mines had returned to work in southern West Virginia. However, both the union and industry spokesmen said they did not want to name those mines for fear they would be closed again by pickets.

The West Virginia Coal Association estimated that about 30,000 miners were still idled today by the strike in southern West Virginia.

U.S. District Court Judge K. K. Hall scheduled a hearing later today to determine if the union must pay a civil contempt fine of $500,000 to coal companies.

The continued shutdown in southwern West Virginia followed weekend solidarity votes in Boone, Logan, Kanawha and Raleigh counties of West Virginia, where the strike blossomed more than three weeks ago.

The strike had idled 80,000 of the nation's 125,000 soft coal miners.

Price Of Gold Falls

LONDON (AP) — Gold took another plunge on Europe's bullion markets today as dealers worried over an International Monetary Fund decision to sell off at least one-sixth of its gold holdings.

In London, the metal was selling at $151.50 an ounce, $2.25 down from Monday's close of $153.75.

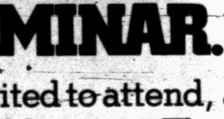

The morning fixing price, the price agreed to by the market's biggest traders, was $153.75 an ounce, down from $155 at Monday afternoon's fixing and the lowest fixing price since last Sept. 30.

Opening lead — 5 ♠

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Today's hand is almost the same as yesterday's. South has opened a 15-point notrump, either because he likes to live dangerously or because he counts an extra point for the fifth club.

The final contract is a good one. It will make against a 4-3 spade break if the club finesse works or if a spade isn't opened.

However, a spade is opened. South looks at dummy's 11 points plus 10-spot and wonders how he will explain failure if the game does not make.

He looks at the five of spades and makes the pessimistic decision that it is fourth best of five. Is there anything he can do to make the hand if it is fourth of five and the club finesse is wrong?

There is a slight extra chance. If East holds two spade honors South can justify his 15-point notrump and make his partner happy instead of mad.

South hops up with dummy's ace of spades. East drops an honor and business has picked up. South loses the club finesse but no harm has been done. The spade suit has blocked itself.

Ask the Jacobys

A Utah reader wants to know the meaning of a jump raise of one to five notrump.

It should be an invitation to seven. Opener should bid seven with a maximum notrump opening; otherwise he should treat it as four-suit Stayman and bid six of his lowest four-card suit. We will show this bid in action in tomorrow's article.

CHILDREN'S CLOTHES

Why So Much For So Little?

By Jill Leslie Senft

NEW YORK - (NEA) - Inflation! Look at a newspaper, turn on the television, listen to the radio. It is one of the most frequently used words and a situation that is familiar to every American family.

From the five-cent candy bar to the family home, it is clear that today's prices are definately higher than yesterday's and tomorrow's will be higher still.

There are some areas, children's clothes, for example, where there is no way out of the high cost.

Listen to mothers who are faced with the high price of children's clothes: "Look at that; it's so little." "He can only use it for one year; that's an awful lot of money." Why does that little thing cost so much?"

Why indeed?

"Because," as one manufacturer clearly explained, "with the exception of a little more fabric, the costs in producing a garment for a child is precisely the same as it is for an adult. If you want a quality garment, you have to pay the price. You can cut corners on the fabric but you are still faced with the same labor, the same showrooms, the same shipping, the same billing, the same electricity--my bill has jumped from $3,200 to $6,000 in the past few months. There's very little you can eliminate."

Another manufacturer prided the industry by pointing out that the cost for children's clothes had not increased as rapidly as it had for men's and women's wear.

Practically the first questions a buyer asks when purchasing children's clothes are: "Is it washable?" "Does it need ironing?" To meet these demands, the cost of the fabric must go up. This is happening less and less as experimentation with fibers continues and breakthroughs in producing less expensive, easy-care fabrics expand. However, permanent press textiles do cost more. This evens out with saving time on the washing and money on dry cleaning.

Designers are very aware of keeping costs down when they are preparing for a new season. They look for shortcuts and ways to save money without losing out on styling or changing fabric. If on the other hand, they find a new textile which is suitable to the design and doesn't detract from the other criteria of their particular company, they are delighted with the prospect.

Although manufacturers of expensive clothes for children have gone by the wayside, there still are a very substantial number making costly clothes because they will not compromise their workmanship. One executive at a firm specializing in boys' clothes said, "This company prides itself on using all the best fabrics. Textile prices skyrocketed and we could not absorb or pass on the increase. Yet we were expected to deliver stitute fabric of polyester that felt like the woolen blends we've been so proud of, and we are glad to make the change."

A large volume manufacturer said that he did a large enough business to mechanize the cutting and sewing aspects of his operation. He agreed that this was not feasible for most of his competition. And it was the last corner he could cut.

"If you think prices are high now, just wait and see what will happen if the new Federal fire-retardant laws are passed," he added.

"It is a very lengthy and expensive process to prepare fabric and the total garment—seams, trim, closures—to the point where they are acceptable under the anticipated, stringnet specifications. It's not that I'm against it; safety is very important, but the prices are going to jump enormously. Look at pajamas. Prior to the legislation that established the fire retardant standards, a pair of kids' pajamas could cost a dollar in a five-and-dime store. Now you'd be lucky if you could find a similar pair for $4."

"Where will it end?" "What can we do?"

Based on a small sampling of shoppers, it is clear that parents look for quality. Classic, stylish, well-made clothes that will still look good for a second or third child or for a cousin or friend's child. They demand clothes that can be tossed into the washing machine so that there is no additional cost in the upkeep.

Many look to the separates as a solution. Buying pants, skirts, jackets, shirts, even sweaters and jumpers in coordinating colors and fabrics gives flexibility.

"It's a little more expensive with separates because I get carried away. My child has a variety of outfits to choose from and always looks well dressed. In fact, she isn't very imaginative with her clothes and used to look thrown together when she was allowed to devide on her own. This way she makes her own choices and still looks neat. It's good because a few items go a long way."

One salesgirl recommended little dresses with buttons at the shoulders but agreed that the best method by far was separates.

"Buying individual pieces make the clothes last longer. Children don't seem to outgrow two-pieces as rapidly as they shoot out of dresses. I guess some parents buy items that they hike up one year to make them shorter and drop down the next to make them longer."

Designers are aware and are constantly being reminded of the high cost of dressing junior. Believe me, there isn't one designer, no matter what kind of manufacturer he works for, that doesn't concentrate on cutting costs. If there's a way to do it, it will be done. But it becomes increasingly more difficult as the prices for everything involved in the production keep going up.

University Bans Western Dress

By AHMED SHAWKI

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Al Azhar University, a 1,000-year-old center of Islamic learning, has banned Western dress for its faculty and soon may order its women students to cover up.

"Moslem scholars have lost their religious dignity by wearing shirts and trousers," said Al Azhar Rector Abdel Halim Mahmoud, 65.

"I wonder why we imitate the West blindly with modern dress."

In June Mahmoud ordered the all-male faculty to wear a turban and galabiya, a floor-length garment that looks like a night shirt. Both garments have been associated with Islam since the days of the Prophet Mohammed, its founder, Mahmoud said.

Those who do not abide by the new rule will not be promoted.

Sheikh Ahmed Badran, a professor of religious law who already wore traditional dress, supported the decision.

"I would not be respected by my students if I wore modern clothes," he said. "Shirts and trousers are the dress of non-believers."

Another professor, Sheikh Ahmed Shehata, disagreed. He said "there is nothing in the Koran (the religion's holy book) or the Prophet Mohammed's words that described a special dress for Moslems. It is deeds that determine the good Moslem from the bad."

The rector is also studying proposals for women students to wear a special dress that would cover their heads, arms and legs, he said.

Most of these students were not happy.

Fatima Ibrahim, a medical student, said "we belong to a society where women wear Western dress. We are not going to go against this. I would look awkward all wrapped up in conservative dress."

Nawal Hassan, a commerce student, said "the sheikhs' suggestions are silly. They argue that girls wearing skirts that show their legs embarrass them. Well, they should not look at our legs and concentrate on their lectures."

Some girls quickly adopted the long floor-length skirts that were popular in the West a year ago and added a headdress but not a veil to get around any new regulations.

This is not the first time there has been a conflict over how Moslems should dress in Egypt, among the most liberal Arab states where the religion is practiced.

In the 19th century an Egyptian religious leader issued a fatwa, or legal decision, that Moslems could adopt Western dress provided men kept their heads covered and women covered their heads and faces with a veil.

A reformer, Kassem Amin, started a campaign in 1891 against the veil, saying it was Turkish dress and not Islamic. Egypt was part of the Ottoman Empire at the time.

Bankruptcy Is Costly

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — "Over your head" in debt and think bankruptcy is the way out? The results of filing bankruptcy can be long-lasting and costly, according to Joan L. Bonnett, University of Illinois Extension family economics specialist.

Generally, bankruptcy should be chosen only if there is no other alternative in solving financial problems.

One effect of bankruptcy is that your credit record carries this information for up to 14 years. If you want or need to use credit again, it could be difficult or impossible to get it, Mrs. Bonnett warns.

Before electing to file for bankruptcy, she continues, you should know these things about bankruptcy:

—It involves the loss of most of your current assets and possessions.

—It does not relieve your obligation to pay federal taxes, alimony, child support or any debts arising out of fraudulent actions.

—It may cost several hundred dollars in legal fees which you must pay.

—It may cause you to lose your job and hinder you in securing future employment.

—It may disqualify you to hold certain public offices.

Where can you locate help if you're in serious financial trouble? Find out first whether or not your community has reliable, nonprofit credit counseling service. You can usually get information on such services from the Better Business Bureau, the Chamber of Commerce or from your creditors. Legal aid societies and welfare organizations are other possible sources of financial counseling services, Mrs. Bonnett points out.

Sew Gifts For Men For A Bazaar

By Joanne Schrieber

What's the hardest job in a church fair?

Seasoned committeewomen agree: it's finding suitable gift itmes for men. Church fair shoppers always hope to complete early Christmas shopping while contributing to the annual fund-raising church event and gifts for the menfolks head the list.

Here's a sure-to-please suggestion for some men: a blue denim storage kit for sports car tools. It can be adapted to hold repair items for a 10-speed bike or for an outboard motor boat.

The basic fabric requirement is a pair of old jeans suitably faded. If necessary you can get by with three-quarter yards of 36-inch fabric, but aged denim has far more status.

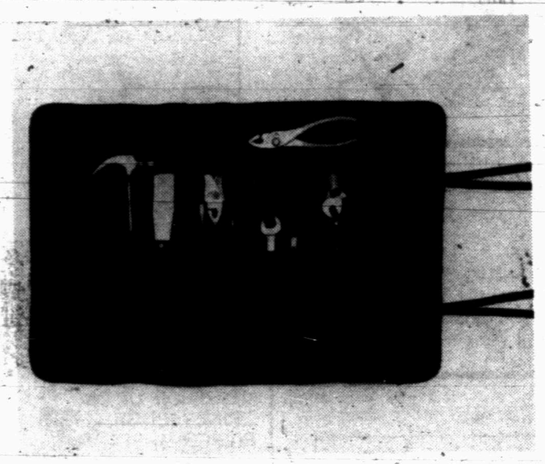

The kit is constructed with pockets for larger tools and zippered compartments to hold small items such as spark plugs, cotter pins and the like. It is designed to be rolled and tied when not in use.

If you have a second pair of worn jeans, or another three-quarter yards of fabric, you can make a manly tote bag to hold essentials such as foul weather gear, laundry or lunch. This bag is constructed with a reinforced bottom and double-stiched handles so it can handle a fairly heavy load. Just be sure the denim you use isn't too worn—or make it seaman-like canvas.

As an added attraction for fair shoppers, get a stencil alphabet and spray-paint names to order as you sell the bags. Use dark blue on a white bag, testing first to make sure your technique is perfect. If you plan to put a name on the denim bag, sew a white patch on the bag and paint the name on the patch.

For complete directions for the tool kit and tote bag, just send 50 cents plus your name, address and zip code to : Tool Kit, Stitchin' Time, care of this newspaper, Box 503, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Ask for leaflet J227—and get a head start on the church bazaar.

SURE SELLER—Blue denim houses a car tool kit. This is a good item to make as a sure seller at the church bazaar.

Scrub zucchini in cold water; cut off the ends and discard. Dry the zucchini and cut into sticks. Dip the sticks into a fritter batter and deep-fat fry. If you have some sesame seeds on hand, you can add some of them to the batter. Serve as an appetizer snack or as a vegetable with a main dish.

Borden County To Seek 8-Man Crown Last Time

GAIL—With 14 returning lettermen, including three offensive and four defensive starters, the Borden County Coyotes must be considered strong contenders for the District 1-B (Eight-Man) football crown this season.

One magazine poll picked the Coyotes to finish fourth in the South Zone of District 1-B, but Coach Bob Dyess, in his 7th season at the Gail helm is hoping his lads can cause a few surprises.

Dyess has an excellent 42-13-2 record at Borden County. His teams have won several championships, including a regional crown. A graduate of Eastern New Mexico University at Portales, Dyess was on the Greyhounds' basketball team at the same time Snyder's Maurice Hodges was performing for ENMU's football team.

A native of Spur, Dyess says Klondike is the favorite in the South Zone of 1-B, which also includes Dawson, last year's zone champ, Loop, Garden City and Wellman in addition to Gail. Smyer was the best of the 4-team North Zone last season and also won the overall district championship. They are favored to repeat as champs again this year.

Discussing the Coyotes' chances, Coach Dyess admitted Borden County should have a tough defense.

"Our defense will probably be stronger than our offense," he said.

"We've got good passers and receivers so our offense may be pass-oriented like the SMU Mustangs," he added.

Dyess admits overall experience is Gail's strong point, but he says his main concern is lack of speed and size.

Returning starters on offense include center Ben Thompson, a 125-pound junior; guard Richard Smith, a 155-pound junior; and, Darin Tucker, a 120-pound junior, who has been switched from running back to defensive end.

Returning regulars on defense are ends Richard Long and Matt Farmer and linebackers Patrick Toombs and Eurdist Rinehart. All of them are sophomores. In fact, the Coyotes have only three seniors on the squad. Many of them saw a lot of action as freshmen.

Long, a 184-pounder, has been switched to offensive end this season. He is an excellent punter. Farmer, a 150-pounder, also has been moved to offensive wingman, Toombs, a 130-pounder, again will be at one of the linebacker berths, while Rinehart, a 130-pounder, has been moved to an offensive running back slot.

"We'll operate from the I, T and Winged-T formations on offense," said Coach Dyess, "And probably use the 4-2-2 on defense.

Other returning lettermen are senior Creighton Taylor, juniors Gene Cooley, Bob McLeroy, Tommy Patterson and Joe Zant and sophomores Tim Smith and Ty Zant.

Taylor is a 125-pound safety. Joe Zant is a 145-pound quarterback. Cooley is a 135-pound running back. McLeroy is a 120-pound linebacker. Tim Smith is a 170-pound linebacker. Patterson is a 135-pound guard. Ty Zant is a 115-pound safety.

Other squadmen include Jim Buchanan, a 170-pound senior guard, who moved to Borden County from Illinois; Sid Westbrook, a 115-pound freshman end; Marlan Vaughan, a 130-pound sophomore linebacker; Ray Don Underwood, a 125-pound freshman guard; Perry Smith, a 115-pound freshman center; Larry Simer, a 140-pound junior end; Tony Benevedez, a 125-pound sophomore linebacker; John Eldridge, a 270-pound freshman guard; and, Vincent Hatfield, a 145-pound senior quarterback, who has no previous experience.

Coach Dyess said if he had to name a starting lineup now it probably would include Long and Farmer at offensive ends, Patterson and Richard Smith at offensive guards, Thompson at center, Joe Zant at quarterback, and Cooley and Rinehart at running back slots.

Defensively, the Coyotes probably will start Ty Zant and Taylor at safety, Toombs and Tim Smith at linebacker, Tucker and Hatfield at end, and Long and Buchanan at guard.

The Coyotes scrimmaged Klondike in Gail Friday night.

This will be the last year for Eight-Man football in Texas, and Coach Dyess is hoping Borden County can complete the historic season on a winning note. Next season, the Gail-based team moves up to 11-man football.

Assistant Coach Van Kountz, a 1958 graudate of Texas Tech, also is in his seventh year at Borden County. He was a teammate of Snyder's Don Witherspoon in college at San Angelo.

Horn Workouts Closed To Public

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — For the first time since Darrell Royal became football coach at Texas in 1957, he is closing workouts to the public for the entire season.

There was immediate speculation that Royal, noted for his success with a running offense, had decided to throw more this season to keep defenses from massing against the Wishbone-T.

Royal has said nothing to confirm the speculation, but he mentioned to sports writers in connection with quarterback Marty Akins that, "Marty's enthused about throwing, and I like for him to be enthused."

Thomas Joins Hawaiians

HONOLULU (AP) — Duane Thomas has come to terms with the Hawaiians of the World Football League, a team official said Monday.

The former National Football League running back was expected in Honolulu Tuesday and planned to sign a contract then, said team President Dave Stringer.

Booster Club Meets Tonight

The Tiger Booster Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight at the high school cafeteria.

The Club is currently concluding a membership drive. Proceeds will be used to help pay for the annual All-Sports banquet.

Coach Maurice (Mo) Hodges will introduce the new coaches in the school system, and a scouting report on Monahans, the Tigers' foe Friday night, will be given.

Anyone interested in the athletic program at Snyder High School is invited to attend, said Bill Sikes, president of the Tiger Booster Club.

Grid Fans Get Excited About James Sykes

HOUSTON (AP) — James Sykes put his tiny hometown of Coldspring, Tex., on the map as a Rice freshman two years ago when he returned kickoffs 96 and 99 yards and led the nation in returns.

Now everytime Sykes touches the ball, fans anticipate him going all the way again.

"I feel like everytime I get the ball they expect me to score," said Sykes, who apparently made a successful switch to fullback in spring training when he averaged seven yards per carry. "I know there'll be a lot of pressure on me this year but it makes me try harder."

The Owls feel they have a rejuvenated offense this season and Sykes is one of the reasons.

"James is our best runner inside or outside so what we want to do is give him the ball as much as we can," Coach Al Conover said. "We're expecting a great deal from Sykes."

Sykes was hampered by an injury last season but says he's adjusted to the move to fullback and has accustomed himself to running in the heavy inside traffic.

"I'd rather go outside because that's what I'm used to doing," the speedy Sykes said. "But I had to learn during spring training to run inside and to rely on my blockers. Outside, you can kind of pick your own holes.

"We're going to be better on offense this year. The blocking is almost twice as good as last year."

Rice not only did not have a 1,000-yard rusher last season, it didn't even rush 1,000 yards as a team. But Coach Keith Daniel, the new backs coach, expects that to change this season.

"James is our breakaway threat and we anticipate a lot out of him," Daniel said. "Then we have Billy Neal as the backup. He's a big strong runner.

ABOUT LEE HARVEY OSWALD

Paper Claims Statement Of Agent Suppressed

HOUSTON (AP) — A Texas newspaper says the FBI and Dallas police officials suppressed for at least five months a statement which quoted an FBI agent as saying Lee Harvey Oswald was capable of assassinating President John F. Kennedy.

The Houston Chronicle said Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry finally told of his role in the coverup in a registered, confidential letter to Chief Justice Earl Warren on May 28, 1964. However, the commission, which said Oswald acted alone in the slaying, dropped the matter without further investigating, the newspaper said.

The Chronicle, in a copyright story in its Monday editions, said the written statement was made by Dallas Police Lt. Jack Revill.

Revill's statement said FBI agent James Hosty told Revill a few hours after Kennedy was killed in Dallas Nov. 22, 1963, that the FBI had advance information that Oswald was capable of commiting the crime.

However, Reville's statement was kept locked in a desk at the Dallas Police Department for five months, the Chronicle said. The newspaper said the documents on Revill's statement and the five-month coverup are among papers of the Texas Court of Inquiry and are now in the Texas State Archives in Austin.

In his letter to Warren, Curry, now in charge of security at a Dallas bank, said he instructed Revill to keep his statement confidential after he was requested to do so by J. Gordon Shanklin, then special agent in charge of the Dallas FBI.

The Chronicle published a copy of Curry's letter to Warren in its Monday editions.

Curry produced Revill's statement to the Warren Commission April 22, 1964 and Hosty and Revill were summoned to testify.

Revill stood by his statement, the Chronicle said, but Hosty denied that the FBI had information that Oswald capable of killing the President. The Warren Commission, in its final report, dismissed the incident as a disagreement "about the conversation which took place between them."

"There's no doubt in my mind that his (Shanklin's) agent told my agent (Revill) what he did," the Chronicle, quoted Curry as saying now.

The Chronicle said there is no record in the archives that Warren or anyone else from the Warren Commission answered Curry's letter.

Today, Curry says the commission "probably forgot about it."

Production Of Red Meat Drops

By BRIAN B. KING
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Commercial production of red meat in July dropped 6 per cent below the year before but was 7 per cent above two years ago, when the meat business was under federal price controls and faced with some consumer boycotts, Agriculture Department reports show.

Pork production, however, showed a 20 per cent drop from July 1974 to a level 8 per cent below July 1973.

An explosion in pork and beef prices that began in late May and ended for beef in early July, and pork last week has been cited, together with surges in the prices of frest fruits and vegetables, for the retail food-price increases in June of 1.5 per cent and July of 1.7 per cent, at a seasonally adjusted annual rate.

The latest statistics from the Crop Reporting Board on livestock slaughter show production in July of 2.8 billion pounds of red meat — 1.9 billion of beef and 817 million of pork.

Beef output was 1 per cent below last July but 13 per cent above 1973, accounting for the over-all improvement in the comparison with 1973, the officials said.

Veal production, meanwhile, more than doubled over 1974 to 77 million pounds.

Lamb and mutton production, at 32 million pounds, was down by 11 per cent from a year ago and 21 per cent from two years before.

The cattle kill in July totalled 3,399,800 head, the board said, 10 per cent above last year, but the live weight per animal was 68 pounds less than 1974.

The Economic Research Service preliminary data on price spreads for Choice beef showed a retail price of $1.56 a pound the week of Aug. 16, down 1.1 cents from the previous week. The net farm value was 96.1 cents while the carcass value was $1.11, with the retailers edging up their share and the meatpackers trimming their's back.

For pork, the retail price went from $1.47 per pound to $1.49, as the farm value rose 2.9 cents to $1.03 and the wholesale price zipped up 7.8 cents to $1.20.

For the week of Aug. 23, farm and carcass values for beef edged up a little, while they slipped a little for pork, but retail price averages were not available.

Texas Gets More Rain

By The Associated Press

The remnants of Hurricane Caroline—downgraded to a tropical depression—continued to dump rain on an already-saturated South Texas early today.

A flash flood watch remained in effect south of a line from Corpus Christi to Laredo, with more light rain forecast for the area.

Raymondville, at the northern end of the Lower Rio Grande Valley, reported 12 inches of rain Sunday and Monday, bringing high water that drove 50 persons from their homes.

Eleven inches of rain were reported in Port Isabel, where families left homes in the Laguna Heights area because of water three to four feet deep.

Raymondville civil defense director Felix Longoria reported water several feet deep in the town's northwest side, and six inches of water in many downtown stores.

NAME ZEIDLER AS CANDIDATE

Socialist Party USA To Enter Race In 1976

By TIMOTHY CURRAN
Associated Press Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Socialist Party USA has chosen former Milwaukee Mayor Frank P. Zeidler as its 1976 presidential nominee under a banner inherited from Eugene Debs and Norman Thomas.

The party, which nominated Zeidler during its national convention Monday, calls itself the legitimate heir of the Socialist party, which has not fielded a White House candidate since 1956.

Zeidler, 62, is chairman of the party which he helped reorganize a few years ago. Delegates nominated Quinn Brisben, 41, a Chicago teacher, as his vice presidential running mate.

The group wants to get on ballots in as many states as possible and seek write-in votes in the rest, Zeidler said.

"The party has put up candidates on a provisional basis in the hope that other groups around the country similar to us can coalesce into a major force," he said.

Brisben said, "We think that by putting candidates in the field this time, we can promote our ideas more effectively."

Zeidler, a self-employed public administration consultant, was mayor from 1948 to 1960. He said the party has about 500 members, about 80 of whom attended the three-day convention.

Thomas, who died in 1968, ran for president six times between 1928 and 1948. Debs, a union leader, ran five times, starting in 1900.

Darlington Hoopes, a Pennsylvania legislator, was the party's last presidential nominee, making the second of two races in 1956.

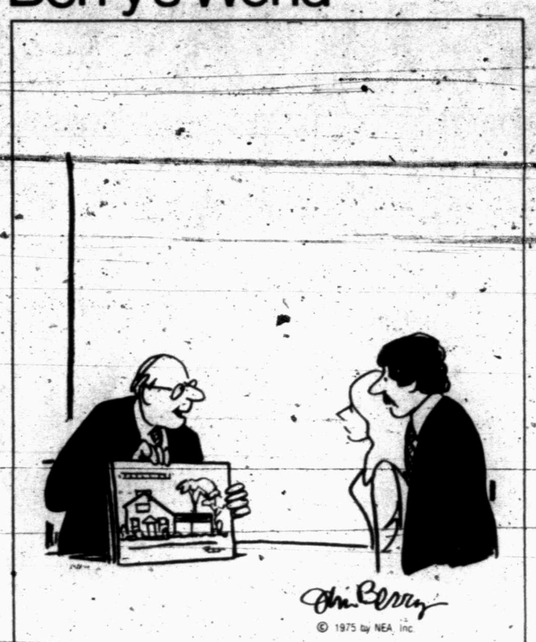

Thomas' best showing was in 1932 when he received more than 800,000 votes. He got only 95,000 in his final campaign as factionalism deteriorated the party's strength.

Zeidler foresees "a frontporch campaign in its modern version, which is using the media of communication rather than to travel a lot. I am not a man of independent means."

He said the reorganized party's goals include improving harmony among ethnic groups, controlling the allocation of energy and giving workers more voice in industrial decision-making.

In St. Louis on Sunday, the People's party nominated Margaret Wright, 52, a civil rights activist from Los Angeles, as its presidential candidate and Maggie Kuhn, 70, of Philadelphia as her running mate.

Texas Holiday Traffic Deaths Below Estimate

By The Associated Press

Labor Day weekend traffic deaths in Texas fell short of pre-holiday predictions by the Department of Public Safety, and they were far less than for the same period in 1974.

Thirty-two persons died violently across the state, including 28 in traffic. Four persons were fatally shot, one burned to death and one drowned.

The Department of Public Safety had predicted 42 Texas traffic deaths in the 78-hour period. Fifty-one persons died in traffic during the 1974 Labor Day weekend.

The Associated Press began its violent death count at 6 p.m. Friday and continued it through midnight Monday.

Five Houston youths died in the largest multiple-fatality accident of the weekend when their car smashed into a creek embankment 10 miles north of Brenham at 4 a.m. Monday. The car sailed 165 feet in the air before striking the embankment in Washington County. The victims were identified as Frankie Meleski, 17; Michael Twardowski, 19, and his 12-year-old brother Joseph; Robert Moszkowicz, 16; and Harold Wishkoski, 16.

The mother of one of the youths said the boys were attending a weekend bazaar at Chappell Hill near Brenham.

Other deaths included:

Oscar William Unger, 61, of San Angelo was fatally wounded Sunday while dove hunting at a ranch near San Angelo. Authorities said Unger was hit by a shotgun blast when a hunting companion stumbled with his weapon. He died Monday night at a San Angelo hospital.

Helen Cret, 46, was killed Sunday in a two-car collision in San Antonio, the DPS said.

Lawrence F. Anderson, 25, of Elgin, Ill., who was moving to Austin, was killed Monday when a van in which he was riding ran off Texas 71 west of Austin and crashed in a ditch.

A shooting at a Dallas residence left two men dead Sunday night. One of the dead was identified as Jimmy Vinyard, 31. He was found shot, stabbed, kicked and beaten in the front yard.

Jack Lavan Stone, 39, of Round Rock was killed early Sunday when his car ran off the road and overturned east of Lockhart in Caldwell County.

The body of Alice Roberts, 71, was found outside her burning home in Beaumont early Sunday fire by firemen. An autopsy revealed she had been raped. Police had a man in custody.

Ella Louise Payne, 45, of Baytown was killed early Saturday morning in the McNair community in Harris County when she was struck by a car while walking.

Paul Richard Chaney, 22, of Iola was killed Saturday morning when his car ran off the road and hit the embankment two miles east of Anderson on Farm Road 244.

Elmo Allen Jr. 46, of Dallas was fatally shot once in the chest during an argument with a woman at his home in South Dallas Friday night. One person was arrested.

A two-car collision on U.S. 281 15 miles north of Alice in South Texas killed two Lufkin residents early Saturday. They were Jose Villarreal, 20, and Juanita Harvard, 43.

An 18-year-old Houston man, Mark Edwards, died Saturday when his car overturned on Interstate 45 a mile north of Webster in Harris County.

A 22-year-old Kilgore woman, Sheila Arthur, was killed when she was hit by a car Saturday afternoon as she rode a bicycle three miles west of Kilgore on Texas 31.

Larry Michael Lake, 24, of Harlingen died Saturday when his motorcycle went out of control on Farm Road 511 in Cameron County.

Three persons were killed in an automobile crash Monday night a mile east of Douglasville in Northeast Texas. The dead were Lillian Madlock, 18, her daughter Denise, 4, and a New Boston woman whom authorities did not identify at once.

The Maxim machine gun was invented by Sir Hiram Maxim, who was born in Maine, but moved to England. The gun used a belt fed into the gun and fired at the rate of 10 shots per second.

Dr. Lamb

Laxative habit is a bad one

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Would you please tell me the dangers of using a laxative every night? My husband, who is 28 years old and in good health, has made this a steady habit for the past year.

DEAR READER—It usually leads to a spastic colon problem. The chemical laxatives irritate the small intestine and cause it to be overactive. This propels undigested food into the colon. The colon is prematurely emptied, and its normal rythmic contractions are interfered with.

Because the colon is empty it often takes two or three days for a person to get back to a regular schedule when he stops taking laxatives.

The bulk expander laxatives are not harmful in the same way continued use of chemical laxatives can be. Nevertheless, the best approach to proper bowel function is to eat a proper diet, including adequate amounts of cereal bulk and fresh, leafy vegetables, develop good bowel habits by training, and avoid the laxative and enema habit. Your husband can save himself a lot of grief by making such a change now. Spastic colon problems are believed to lead to such conditions as diverticulosis, the pockets of the colon so common in later years.

Your husband should read The Health Letter number 2-1 on Irritable and Spastic Colon and Constipation. Write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019 and ask for it. Enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 50 cents for mailing and costs.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Is there any advantage to drinking boiled water? I know many people do and so I started. I've been doing so for a while now, but is it healthier or is there really no reason for drinking boiled water? What changes occur in water when it is boiled?

DEAR READER—Boiling water kills the organisms that might be in the water. The people in many parts of the world survive their contaminated water by boiling it for tea or other beverages.

Boiling will not eliminate the chemicals in the water, so the only help you get is eliminating infectious organisms. You don't need to do this to water that has been treated properly chemically. The problem then is are there too many of the wrong chemicals in the tap water, and boiling won't solve that. In this case boiling won't do any good or harm.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I read your column, and you stated that most people get entirely too much salt, or far more than the body needs.

Since I have had both of my adrenal glands removed I have been told by my doctor to use excessive amounts of salt, in cooking and then adding table salt, even out a little in my drinking water. What is the reason for it?

DEAR READER—You are not "most people." You are a rare individual without adrenal glands. The adrenal glands produce a hormone that enable the body to retain normal amounts of salt. The hormones act on the kidneys to control the salt elimination.

People with certain types of adrenal insufficiency or those who have had the glands removed lose too much salt in the urine and need extra salt. One clue to adrenal insufficiency is an excess desire for salt, combined with other symptoms. (Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Crash Victims From Texas

DAVIS, Okla. (AP)—Four of the five persons who were killed in a plane crash Sunday, and a small boy who received only minor bruises, have been identified as a Texas family.

The Oklahoma Highway Patrol listed the dead as Jerelyn Jannine Vance, 27, of Richardson, Tex.; Jane Marie Janning, 15, Dallas, her sister; Andrew Vance, 2 months, and Debra Ann Vance, 3, Jereyln Vance's children.

Pat Vance, 6-year-old son of Jerelyn Vance, was admitted to an Oklahoma City hospital with bruises.

The pilot was identified as Michael A. Rand, 33, of Dallas.

The patrol reported the plane attempted a forced landing after having a power failure and struck a tree.

The plane plowed into a field on the W.H. Drake ranch north of the Arbuckle Mountains and then cartwheeled.

Investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration sealed the area shortly after the crash and began scouring the wreckage for the cause of the crash.

Rand had radioed to the airport at nearby Ardmore at 8:01 p.m. Sunday that the plane was having a power failure. Contact was then lost.

Two ranch hands making a routine cattle check discovered the wreckage and notified the highway patrol.

Magazines Criticize Congress

TULSA (AP)—Despite its huge margins in the House and Senate, the Democratic-dominated Congress cannot come up with a comprehensive national energy policy, the Oil and Gas Journal says.

"The leadership of the 94th Congress, which reconvenes this week after an August vacation, has been unable to convert heavy Democratic majorities into legislation implementing broad policy," the oil magazine said.

"And there is nothing close to agreement on the best avenue to reach the major policy goal of keeping oil imports of 6.5 million barrels a day from doubling during the next 10 years," it added.

The Journal said that despite the Democratic margins of more than two-to-one in the House and three-to-one in the Senate, the majority party finds itself on the defensive.

"The power of the veto, requiring two-thirds of both houses to override, has given President Ford the initiative on energy legislation," the magazine said.

Coliform Count High On Mississippi Coast

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — People who go swimming in the germ-laden waves off Mississippi's resort beach have got to be uninformed tourists or reckless optimists.

The languid surf along 26 miles of manmade beach between Biloxi and Gulfport teems with fecal coliform from sewage flowing into the Gulf of Mexico.

Mere mention of it is enough to give the tourist industry here heartburn and hiccups. But despite its ugly image, pollution apparently hasn't created other complications of health.

"A couple mouthfuls might upset your stomach but I never heard of anybody getting sick from it," said Dr. Louis Jobe, Harrison County Health Officer. "That's a strange thing — maybe we're lucky.

"It depends on the individual, how much is swallowed or gets in the eyes," he added. "Hepatitis is a remote possibility. That highway beside the beach is a lot more dangerous."

Pollution of the shallows along the beach has been building up for years, spurred by a surge in coast population that has not been matched by development of sewage facilities.

Nobody thought much about it before the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission—AWPC—began making laboratory tests of water along the coast three years back.

The coliform count from sewage sometimes soared over 24,000 parts per 100 mililiters — the cutoff point in the AWPC test — far above the allowable maximum of 200 parts per 100 milliliters set for recreational waters. A mililiter is about a tenth of a quart.

In Jackson, Charles Chisholm, head of the AWPC, said fecal coliform does not necessarily cause illness but is a true indicator of pollution and water exceeding the coliform standard is not suitable for swimming due to health hazards.

Strangers don't always discover these facts. Tourists are a major cash crop for hotels and motels along four-lane U.S. 90, where it parallels the beach, and officials feel that signs warning against swimming would scare them away.

The road along the beach is lined with motels, restaurants and other tourist facilities.

A belated scramble to install good sewerage along the coast is under way. Waters estimated it may take 10 years and up to $150 million to complete.

Liberty Has All The Symptoms

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford says "we'll know for sure in a couple of weeks" whether the White House dog is pregnant.

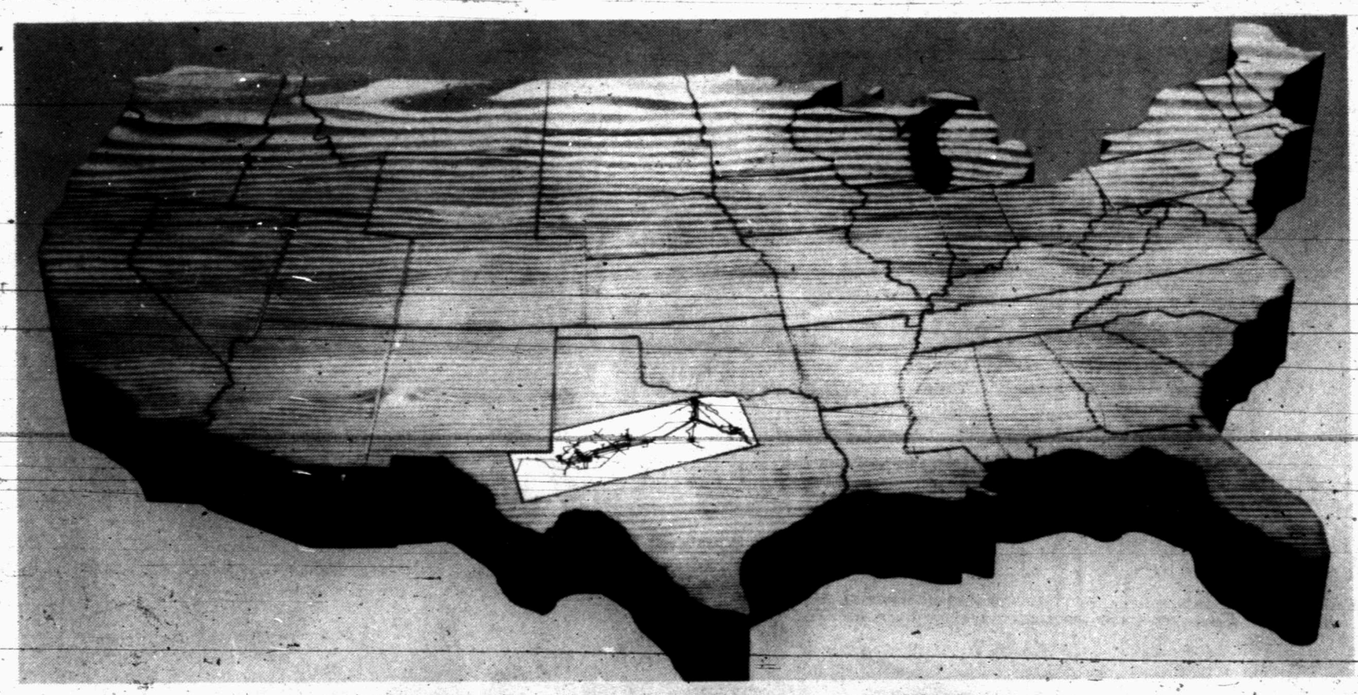

President Ford told reporters Monday at his Camp David, Md., retreat that the golden retriever named Liberty had all the symptoms, including plumpness and a hearty appetite. Liberty recently was bred with a champion golden retriever in Oregon. It would be her first pregnancy.

The President said he hoped she had a large litter because the Ford family has promised puppies to some friends.

Based on latest FPC figures, Texas Electric's residential rates are 27% below the national average.

The average family uses about 750 kilowatt hours of electricity per month. Based on the latest Federal Power Commission figures, Texas Electric's rates for this much electricity are about 27% below the national average.

But the costs of producing your electricity are going up.

New supplies of Texas Electric's major generating fuel — natural gas — are harder to get and much more costly.

So we're turning to lignite coal and nuclear fuels. While these fuels cost less than new supplies of natural gas, plants that use them are considerably more expensive to build than gas-fired plants.

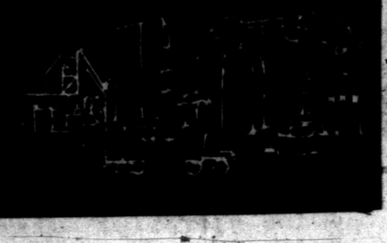

This means electricity will have to cost you more.

But we're working to keep your rates reasonable by using fuels that will keep costs lowest in the long run.

AIR CONDITIONING REPAIR—I.E. Martin, owner of Phillips Quick Service, 1701 College Avenue, stands below some new racks built in the garage of his station to hold automobile air conditioning parts. Included are clutches, compressors, expansion valves, dryers and controls—all at reasonable prices. Martin and his mechanic, Joe Rhodes, are specialists at auto air conditioning repair.

Auto Air Conditioning Items Expanded At Martin's Station

I.E. Martin, owner and operator of Phillips Quick Service, 1701 College Avenue, has added storage racks in his garage so that he can carry additional automotive air conditioning equipment.

"There are still many hot days ahead when motorists want their automobile air conditioning to run properly," said Martin, "And we're getting in a lot of equipment so that we can fix anything that goes wrong."

Martin pointed out Phillips Quick Service sells rebuilt comprssors for all makes and models of cars at reasonable prices.

"They're H&H compressors, and they're re-built at a factory in Colorado City," Martin said.

In addition, Phillips Quick Service has clutches, expansion valves, dryers and controls in stock—and all at reasonable prices.

Martin pointed out that most often when an air conditioner quits working properly there is something wrong with the controls.

"Sometimes, all it needs is a valve replacement," he explained.

"When the seals have been blown, the cheapest and fastest way to fix it is to install a rebuilt compressor.

"A lot of times, it just needs a new compressor clutch," Martin said.

Whatever the problem with your air conditioner, Martin and his mechanic, Joe Rhodes, have the equipment, the experience and the training to fix it. They have gauges and leak detectors to determine exactly what is going wrong with your air conditioner. And, their work is reasonably priced.

"Some people think that all you have to do to fix an automobile air conditioner that isn't working properly is to put in more freon," Martin pointed out.

"However, a lot of times," he added, "There is something wrong with the air conditioner other than a lack of freon."

Martin pointed out one can cause damage to any automobile air conditioner by putting in too much freon.

Why take a chance? Let Martin or Rhodes check out your automobile air conditioning system before you start on that long trip.

The men at Phillips Quick Service are specialists at air conditioning repair, but they are also qualified to perform virtually any kind of mechanic work.

Martin has 18 years experience and Rhodes has been working on cars for over 40 years.

Mules Rescue Vehicles

SILVER CITY, N.M. (AP) — Three El Paso men can drive their four-wheel-drive vehicles now thanks to Bud Stailey and ten strong mules.

Stailey used the mules to pull the vehicles out of the Gila Wilderness where they had been stranded since July 27.

Forest supervisor Robert Williamson said the third of the three vehicles was pulled out of the wilderness Monday. He said one vehicle had been pulled out Saturday, the other Sunday.

The men — Fred Norton, 35, and brothers Robert Sheid, 26, and Richard Sheid, 23, - drove the two carry-alls and truck on July 27 into the area where motor vehicles are banned.

But the Forest Service wouldn't let them drive them out, saying they had violated the federal Wilderness Act. The men said they didn't see any signs or barricades on the route into the wilderness.

One mule team driver tried to pull the vehicles out of the wilderness Aug. 23, but gave up saying he couldn't do it with a hundred mules.

But Stailey said he wanted to try to pull the vehicles the five miles to the nearest wilderness boundary. And he said Norton offered him $1,000 to pull his vehicle out.

The Forest Service first put Stailey's mules through a test. They pulled a truck loaded with 1,500 pounds of rock and 10 persons across Bear Creek six times.

Stailey then used the 10 mules, in two shifts with five mules on each shift, and pulled Norton's vehicle out Saturday.

Stailey apparently also made a deal with the Sheid brothers. He pulled the first of their vehicles out Sunday, and the other out Monday.

Williamson said although the vehicles are out the men still face federal charges of violating the federal Wilderness Act. He said the men had pleaded innocent.

Few Snakebite Victims Die

SILVER SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Rattlesnakes are not as deadly as most people think. According to statistics gathered at the Reptile Institute here, fewer than one per cent of the snakebite victims die. The venom, however, causes extreme pain and swelling of the joints. Reptile experts here extract venom from rattlesnakes for use as antivenin for snakebite victims.
