Because Of Air Controllers Strike...

Airline Industry In Turmoil

By SUSAN J. SMITH
Associated Press Writer

The air traffic controllers' strike is causing labor turmoil in the nation's airline industry, sparking thousands of layoffs as well as pay cuts among airline employees.

Following the nationwide walkout by 13,000 members of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization on Aug. 3, three major airlines contemplated the possibility of a reduced flight schedule for several months while new controllers are trained.

"It all depends on the Federal Aviation Administration's decision, as to what level we can continue to operate the system," said Dalton James, a spokesman for Eastern Airlines, which cut the pay of its 39 top executives by 10 percent last week.

The FAA expects to announce possibly next week the level at which it hopes to keep the nation's air traffic operating for the next few months, said spokesman Jerry Lavey.

Meanwhile, an Associated Press spot check of general aviation traffic — the thousands of small planes and corporate aircraft — showed that the strike has not significantly damaged that area.

"The strike hasn't had the disruptive effects we thought it would have," said Dan Meisenger Jr., president of Executive Beechcraft Inc. of Kansas City, Mo. "It's been an inconvenience more than anything."

American Airlines on Friday became the third airline to announce layoffs or dismissals resulting from the strike. It said it would lay off 1,650 of its 36,000 employees, more employees than any other airline so far.

American's layoffs, which will begin Aug. 29, include 200 pilots, said vice president David Frailey. The carrier plans to put most of those laid off back on the payroll when operations return to normal.

Braniff Airlines announced the layoff of 1,500 of its 11,500 employees on the first day of the strike, while USAir has told 700 of its 11,000 workers that they will be dismissed in the next two weeks.

Eastern Airlines has not yet laid off any of its 40,000 employees, but has told them they can take leaves of absence of from 30 days to six months, and their jobs are "guaranteed" to be there when they come back, James said.

Some airlines have announced seasonal layoffs, which they said would have occurred even if the controllers had not struck. They include Trans World Airlines, which says it is furloughing 200 flight attendants Sept. 3, and Delta Air Lines, which sent layoff notices this week to a number of its seasonal "temporary" employees. Delta spokesman Dick Jones said he did not know the number of employees affected.

Continental Air Lines has asked its 11,000 employees to take compensatory time off now, and United Airlines is encouraging its 48,600 employees to take leaves of absence or vacations while the strike continues.

Perhaps the most innovative cuts were made by Republic Airlines, where employees proposed that they take 15 percent of their August salaries in company stock rather than cash. The plan, accepted by management, is expected to save the carrier about $6 million.

Weekend update

FTC Eases Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission approved a regulation on used-car sales Friday that is far lighter on the industry than one its staff had recommended.

Under a law passed last year, the regulation cannot take effect until Congress has 90 days to review it and possibly veto it.

The regulation requires a window sticker describing any warranty on the car and disclosing certain defects if they are known to the dealer. If there is no warranty, the "buyer's guide" sticker must warn consumers that they are responsible for all repairs.

All cars and most pickup trucks and vans are covered by the rule, but private sales are not.

Race Of Hope

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Don Marrs resumes his run from Illinois to California today to publicize the fight against all forms of cancer.

But Marrs wants everyone to know that what he is doing is not a continuation of Canadian hero Terry Fox's courageous journey across Canada. It is his own sojourn of hope.

At 44, Marrs, a cancer victim like Fox, says it is a run he is pledged to finish.

"I will make it. Nobody can do what Terry did. But when I saw that he had died, I was really moved. I knew the thing I had to do was go to Canada and finish Terry's run," he said in Oklahoma City on Friday.

Fox, who had lost one leg to cancer, died in June. He had tried to run across Canada to bring hope to millions of cancer victims and to aid in cancer research funding.

However, a new outbreak of cancer forced him to curtail his run.

48-Hour Boycott Planned

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portuguese air controllers will boycott flights to and from the United States next week in a 48-hour sympathy strike that could snarl trans-Atlantic traffic, spokesmen said today.

A controller on duty at the Lisbon airport quoted a circular from the Air Controllers Association of Portugal as saying that no flights to or from the United States would be handled by Portuguese controllers from 1 a.m. Monday — 8 p.m. EDT Sunday — to 1 a.m. Wednesday — 8 p.m. EDT Tuesday.

The 300 Portuguese controllers, in a show of support for their striking U.S. colleagues, decided to go ahead with the boycott despite an appeal by the International Federation of Air Traffic Controllers Associations that any planned actions be canceled for safety's sake.

The Portuguese control southern trans-Atlantic traffic through the mid-Atlantic Azores Islands, the key installation for America's southern air route to and from Europe. The boycott could force an increase in flights on the North Atlantic route, snarling traffic that has just cleared up after a two-day Canadian controllers' boycott.

Royal Honeymoon Over

HURGHADA, Egypt (AP) — Prince Charles and Princess Diana ended their two-week honeymoon cruise today and flew to Scotland for a family gathering at Balmoral Castle.

They motored ashore at the Egyptian resort of Hurghada aboard a launch from the royal yacht Britannia, were driven to a nearby airstrip, and given a sendoff by President Anwar Sadat and his wife Jihan.

The honeymoon cruise started at Gibraltar, took the couple through the Aegean and Ionian seas, and arrived in Egypt Wednesday.

Iran-Bound Gun Boat Hijacked

MADRID, Spain (AP) — A 160-foot, French-built gunboat being delivered to Iran was hijacked off Cadiz by anti-Khomeini commandos who boarded from a commandeered tug they rented for sightseeing, officials said Friday.

The gunmen boarded the gunboat Thursday morning with the help of some of its crew and without firing a shot, then forced it toward Tangier, Morocco, across the Gibraltar Straits, the Spanish navy said.

The navy said its ships escorted two other gunboats in the convoy to the port of Algeciras. The boats stayed overnight, then left with their crews, apparently heading for the Suez Canal and home, the navy said.

Telephone callers to news media in Paris said the commandos opposed the regime of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and that they captured two of the gunboats and were waiting near Casablanca.

Morocco denied any Iranian gunboat was in its waters.

In the first Iranian acknowledgement of the incident, the official Pars news agency quoted the deputy chief of staff of the armed forces, Gen. Valiollah Fallahi, as saying the boat "has been hijacked to Tangier port in Morocco," and "the hijackers are apparently Iranians.

Pars said the Iranian Foreign Ministry was taking measures in connection with the seizure, but did not specify them.

The French boats were of the fast patrol type, armed with 76mm and 40mm guns and designed to carry four missiles each. But French naval sources said the boats were not carrying any missiles when they left France.

The callers said the commandos were led by ex-Adm. Kamal Habibollahi under the planning of ex-Gen. Bahram Aryana, commander of Iran's armed forces under the late Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi.

They said their organization was named Azadegan — or Freedom-Seekers.

The Spanish Foreign Ministry said the gunboats were about five miles from the port of Cadiz when the gunmen pulled alongside.

The navy identified the seized gunboat as the Tabarzin and the other two as the Khanjar and Neyzer. It said it tracked the hijacked boat to Tangier after it reported by radio it had developed "mechanical trouble."

The gunboats were the last of 12 ordered in 1974 by the shah but delivery was held up for two years after the overthrow of the monarchy by Khomeini's followers.

The three left France Aug. 1, three days after France decided to grant political asylum to former Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr. But France denied there was any connection between the incidents.

Troops Fight Guerrillas

SAN SALVADOR, EL Salvador (AP) — Troops were sent into the eastern department of Morazan on Friday in what the Salvadoran army said was a large-scale operation against leftist guerrillas.

A military spokesman said at least five soldiers were killed defending a military outpost earlier this week in the small town of Perquin in Morazan, but guerrillas failed in their attempt to take the town.

The spokesman, Col. Marcos Aurelio Gonzalez, said the guerrillas fled into the mountains close to Perquin, a town of 3,000 people about 120 miles northeast of San Salvador.

Diamond M Slates Series

This Sunday the Diamond M Museum of Fine Arts begins its "Films as Art Series" with the two science fiction special effects masterpieces "The Making of Star Wars" and "War of the Worlds".

The "Making of Star Wars" shows how the special effects were created and how the space flights were modeled after WWII dogfights. Early drawings are used to illustrate the creative development from George Lucas' ideas about Flash Gordon to the fantastic model shots.

A highlighted extract from H. G. Wells' "War of the Worlds," starring Gene Barry and Ann Robinson, illustrates earlier influences of art in the movie industries' special effects developments.

The "Film as Art Series" is designed to show the important role of photography and film making in the 20th century art.

The Diamond M Museum invited the public to see "The Making of Star Wars" and "War of the Worlds" this Sunday afternoon. Showtime is 2 p.m. and there is no admission charge. The Diamond M is located at 909 E. 25th Street and weekend hours are 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Q.--Why is the east end of Towle Park being so neglected? The grass and trees are dying while the west end is pretty and green.

A.--The park is not being neglected, but the east end of the park does not have the watering system that the west end has. Hopefully, the recent rains will help green up the park.

The SDN Column

Folks in Snyder like to tell stories about how rough it was here during the oil boom days. Even though Snyder had some "mean old boys," we doubt that it ever had anyone close to the character in Skidmore, Missouri.

You might have read some of the stories about the bully that terrorized folks in the small town of 450 for the past 34 years. Recently someone put three bullets in his head in front of more than 100 witnesses--and they can't find anyone who will testify.

Evidently in Skidmore, local citizens had given up on receiving any relief from authorities on coping with the town bully, Ken McElroy.

A big, thickset man of 47 ill-spent years, five foot ten and 265 pounds, McElroy had massive arms, a low forehead, bushy eyebrows and sideburns.

One report described him: "He was a street brawler. He was specific. He struck fear in your soul by staring you down, flashing a gun, and occasionally using it. If you were his prey for today, he stalked you. He glared at you in silence and when he spoke it was in slow whisper. Chilling."

Everyone was afraid of him. When he was at the town's lone service station, no one else ventured near. When he was in the town's grocery store, everyone avoided the place. When he was in a saloon in the county, no one went near the place.

A grand jury indicted McElroy for shotgunning a groceryman to death and was found guilty, much to the relief of townspeople. Then he got free on a $40,000 appeals bond--and the terrorizing started anew.

A lot of people were watching when McElroy walked out of the saloon. Three shots rang out--and the town bully fell dead.

Despite the witnesses, no one has been arrested and both law officers and prosecuting attorney have declared they are no longer looking.

"We couldn't get an indictment--nor a conviction--if we ever found the shooter," declared officials.

The townspeople evidently decided they had enough. Even his wife said: "He was too mean to live."

Can Pay Bills Now...

Unknown Actor Writes Hit Play

NEW YORK (AP) — unknown actor by trade, Kevin Wade, young got tired of waiting for jobs, so he tried writing to keep busy. He wrote a modern, bittersweet romantic comedy called "Key Exchange."

Now it's an off-Broadway hit. He can pay his bills. He been photographed flanked by Liza Minnelli and Kate Jackson on a star-littered opening night. Movie powers ask him to write for them, ask if he has other plays in the trunk. To the first query, he says maybe later. To the second, he has to say no.

"Key Exchange," starring Brooke Adams, Mark Blum and Ben Masters, is his first play. He wrote it — in three months — on an old Royal typewriter his mother gave him. The writing began only in January, and only after he learned to type.

The weird wahoo of overnight success amuses him. He cites an opening-night interview with a young TV type.

"He was an Australian, from some cable news outfit here. He kept asking things like, 'Do you find it very difficult writing for Broadway and the screen as opposed to off-Broadway?'

"I say, 'Ah, this is my first play.' He says, 'Did you always write for stars, did you have a particular actor in mind?' I say, 'Ah, this is my first play. It really is my first play!'"

Wade is 27, balding, has a beard, two Connecticut years of college, two years of acting studies and a finely-honed sense of the loony.

His play concerns three young Manhattan moderns — a couple whose "open" relationship gets a dire case of the wobblies and a guy whose forlife marriage goes poof in just 1½ months.

Their sad stories unfold during a summer of bicycling in Central Park. Every time they stop rolling, they increasingly resemble the New York edition of love's walking wounded.

Wade, who lives in Greenwich Village and hails from Chappaqua, N.Y., scratches his head when asked what he's trying to say in "Key Exchange."

Problem with bad breath

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem with bad breath. It is not that I don't brush my teeth regularly. I do. It comes from my throat or stomach. It is affecting both my personality and my marriage. I work with the public and this problem makes me so self-conscious that I tighten up when I speak to someone face to face.

I am afraid to come too close to my husband to the point that I am afraid to kiss him.

When I look into my throat where the tonsils are, there are small openings or indentations that often fill up with a yellow lumpy substance. I can squeeze this out where they can be reached and it has a very bad odor. I am wondering how many more there are farther down my throat and what causes this and how I can solve this problem.

DEAR READER — There are many causes for bad breath. The problem can be the teeth, even in people who do brush regularly and well. That is because brushing is not the total answer to dental hygiene. Regular flossing and water pick also help but if a person has peridontoclasia (pyorrhea), he will require dental treatments to help eliminate the problem.

Bad breath can be caused by a chemical imbalance and the odors will be exhaled from your lungs, as explained in The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem and What To Do About It, that I am sending you.

Others who want this iasue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Your first step should be to see an ear, nose and throat specialist. That material you have noted may mean chronic infection of the tonsils. This is a rare cause for bad breath but if you have it you can expect to have bad breath. The material may also be food particles that have accumulated on your tonsils. If so, you may solve your problem with a tonsilectomy. I'd like to emphasize that most people have bad breath from other causes but with your story it is worth looking at.

Other causes for bad breath are discussed in more detail in The Health Letter I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Can you please explain pericarditis, its causes, treatment, cure and can it leave damage or recur? Are drugs used to treat this useful or do they leave side effects?

DEAR READER — Keep in mind that "itis" means inflammation. The pericardium is the sac-like structure around (peri) the heart (cardia). It looks a lot like plastic wrap from the kitchen. When this membrane is inflamed, it is pericarditis.

Actually the inflammation does involve the surface of the heart muscle beneath the pericardial membrane. So it is also a myocarditis. The extent of muscle involvement may determine how severe a problem it is. Fluid may accumulate in the sac and can cause pressure on the heart.

There are many causes for such an inflammation. It usually occurs over the area of muscle injury after an acute heart attack. It can occur from a viral infection. And in some cases the cause of the inflammation is not known.

Treatment depends upon what the cause is. Since we do not have medicines that are really effective against all viruses, it is clear we are limited in what can be done. Most milder cases recover without complications. It can recur but often does not. Again it depends a lot on the cause of the inflammation. If cortisone is used to control the inflammation, you may have temporary complications from cortisone.

Insurance FACTS by Tom Deffebach

YOUR Insurance Independent AGENT SERVES YOU FIRST

Although no one knows for certain, many sources feel that life insurance is probably an outgrowth of marine insurance. As the practice of insuring ships and cargoes became more common, the merchant or shipowner recognized that the success of the voyage depended largely on the skill of the captain. He probably decided to protect his investment further with insurance against the captain's death or disability. In the Mediterranean, the practice also arose of insuring the master and his crew against capture by pirates.

Protect your family in the event of your death with a life insurance policy from THE DEFFEBACH AGENCY, 1810 27th, 573-5611. SPLASH--The women once again triumph in the tug-of-war, beating the mean for the second time.

Hospital Picnic Sees Large Crowd Turnout

One-hundred-and-seventy-five people turned out for Cogdell Memorial Hospital's first picnic. Pre-picnic preparations included bake sales and selling hot tamales. Proceeds were utilized to purchase food and prizes.

George Gann prepared the food and Tommy Davis furnished the plates.

Winners in the mile race included Kyle and Angie Burleson who each received stereo head phones.

Matt Jordan won the prize for having the hairiest legs. He received a bottle of Nair.

Taking first place in the "sexiest" legs contest was Steve Camp who received a pair of Leggs pantihose. Don Sealy captured first place for the ugliest feet, winning nail clippers

Other activities included apple bobbing. Higginbotham Bartlett provided the tanks which were also used to keep soft drinks cold.

Jeff Mason won the tow sack race. Northern Electric supplied the material along with Carl Payne.

Other activities included an eggroll up the Pavillion hill, three-legged race and volleyball.

The women beat the men in tug-of-war twice. Bingo games were also played. Prizes included rod and reel, tool box, seal-a-meal, toaster, cooler, blender, corning ware, drill, hair dryer, iron grab bag a fan.

The grand finale was the hayride for the kids and adults. Key Brothers Implement supplied the tractor and Max von Roeder supplied the trailer.

Carl Burleson coordinated all activities.

Lee Guy was elected department commander from the 17th district. Dupuy was installed as the 17th district commander.

Four members of the women's auxiliary also attended including Lynn Harris, Quinnie Martin, Jene McCormack, and Dessie Dupuy.

The local post has started its 1982 membership drive. All eligible people are invited to join. Wives of members are eligible to belong to the auxiliary.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1981 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I recently met a very nice couple who live near us. We seemed to have a lot in common, so we dropped by their house to say hello. They mixed some drinks and invited us to stay for dinner. After dinner they said they wanted to show us something they had just bought, then they turned on this home video projector on top of their TV, and before we knew it we were watching an X-rated movie on their TV!

Abby, maybe we've lived a sheltered life, as we were very embarrassed watching this kind of movie, especially with people we hardly knew. (It really was dirty!)

As soon as the movie was over, we said we had to leave and we did. Our problem: We would like to reciprocate their dinner invitation, but what if they invite us back and start showing some more X-rated movies? They're really a nice couple, and we like them, but we don't know how to handle this.

US IN FORT SMITH, ARK.

DEAR US: If you think you have enough in common with this couple to develop a closer friendship, invite them to your home for dinner. And if they invite you back and attempt to entertain you again with an X-rated movie, tell them candidly it's not your cup of tea. If the friendship cools after that, you'll know you didn't have as much in common with this "nice" couple as you thought you did.

DEAR ABBY: Here's a silly question that has become not so silly recently: About 16 years ago, my wife and I had a large wedding. Recently, apparently for the first time, my mother viewed our wedding album. She took an intense dislike to her appearance in a picture of my father and her dancing. This is the only picture of my parents in the album, Abby, but my mother has requested that we remove it and give it to her to destroy! She says she would hate to have her descendants see that likeness of her, and she reminded us that she never gave her permission to use this picture in the first place.

Both my wife and I think it is an excellent picture of my parents, and had we thought otherwise we would not have included it in our album. Since in our view the sole objection to this picture is an irrational one, which exists only in my mother's mind, and to destroy it would mean there would be no picture of my parents in our wedding album, we have refused her request.

Are we wrong? Or does my mother have a right to this picture? Ironically, I am a guidance counselor.

FAMILY PROBLEM

DEAR FAMILY: It is your wedding album and it will undoubtedly outlast your annoyed mother. If she continues to fuss, remove the picture from the album and return it later.

DEAR ABBY: In the last five years or so, most couples whom I have married have asked that I omit that portion of the service that asks if anyone present objects to the marriage that is about to take place. However, before each ceremony, I ask the bride and groom separately if they are sure they want to go through with the wedding. A number of times one or the other has said "No," the ceremony has been cancelled with the church filled and the reception waiting.

THE REV. W. LEE TRUMAN,
FIRST UNITED METHODIST CHURCH,
WHITTIER, CALIF.

DEAR MR. TRUMAN: With the church filled and reception waiting! Although it beats going through with the marriage, one can imagine the humiliation, heartache and headaches of all parties concerned — not to mention the outrageous expense.

Your experience makes a strong case for insisting that all couples have premarital counseling, which nearly all churches, synagogues and temples now offer.

DEAR ABBY: This is for PATTY IN TACOMA, who's 25 and looks like 17: Be patient and keep your sense of humor. When you're 30, and people are trying to figure out whether you're a second wife or had your children when you were 13, you'll get your revenge!

Although I've outgrown Patty's problem and my face has finally caught up to my age, my voice has not. Abby, please tell telephone salesmen that if they don't want to blow their chances for a sale, to stop asking whoever says "Hello" if her mother is home.

I just say "NO," and hang up!

WTC Faculty To Begin In-service On Monday

Lost Papers No Problem

Veterans and their dependents shouldn't let lost documents prevent them from applying for VA benefits, E. H. Dever, Scurry County veterans service officer said.

"Some veterans who can't locate birth or marriage certificates don't apply for benefits because they believe these documents are essential," Dever said. "However, VA accepts certified statements from applicants in instances where documents needed to establish eligibility are lost."

Veterans or dependents with questions about eligibility or benefits should contact Dever's office at WTC.

Performer Has Won Many Awards

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ian McKellen has won a Tony award, a Drama Desk award and a Drama League award as the star of Broadway's hit "Amadeus." But you probably wouldn't recognize him on the street.

He's a shy, retiring Englishman, resembles an accountant on his way to a bank audit and speaks so softly you'll strain to hear him.

On stage, he's full of crackling, demonic energy, starting off in a wheelchair, bent and haggard at 73, then reverting to a youthful 31 and staying in his thirties for most of the play.

He essays Antonio Salieri, a minor 18th century court composer so tormented by the genius of his young rival, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, that he sets out to send the lad to ruination and an early death.

At 42, McKellen is regarded back home as one of the foremost stage emoters of his generation, a Gielgud-class actor. But he's not well-known here, a fact he readily admits.

He was worrying about that long before "Amadeus" landed here in December 1980. He first saw the Peter Shaffer play in London. Paul Scofield, about 20 years his senior, played Salieri.

"He's very popular there, automatically accepted," he notes. His problem: How, being a stranger to U.S. audiences, to establish here the kind of instant rapport Scofield enjoyed there.

The solution, he says, "was mainly a shift of emphasis. My impression was that Paul put much more emphasis and got much more fulfilled out of the old Salieri than the young.

"However, I wanted to emphasize the young, show the audience how this bright, ambitious, charming young man arrived at the embittered, sour, slightly dotty old man he is at the end."

So he asked Shaffer to sprinkle in a few jokes by Salieri, to initally put this envy rotted man "on good terms with the audience" early on in the Broadway edition. The ploy worked.

Alas, he's leaving the show Oct. 11, the same day his first major film bows here, "Priest of Love," in which he plays D.H. Lawrence.

He was born in Lancashire, in northern England. His father, a civil engineer, loved plays. So did the son.

He made his London debut in "A Scent of Flowers" in 1964, later won acclaim for his work with the Royal Shakespeare Company.

Controllers Strike

Sorting out the rights and wrongs of the air traffic controllers' strike is neither an easy nor a particularly enlightening task.

The few thousand controllers who staff the towers of the nation's airports hold among the most demanding jobs in the entire national work force. They are right in demanding adequate compensation for their crucial services and a lessening of the pressure under which they work in their own interests and for the safety of the traveling public.

The Reagan administration agrees, but not to the extent of the estimated half-billion-dollar salary and benefits package demanded by the strikers. The administration may have been wrong in not offering the controllers more initially than the $40-million settlement the union leadership accepted but the membership rejected.

The controllers, however, were definitely wrong in choosing to go the stike route if their real interest was in negotiating a compromise. They put the president, fresh from congressional budget and tax-cutting victories, in a position where he had no recourse but to take a firm public stand against a big budget increase. The resultant barrage of court orders and multi-million-dollar fines could devastate the union.

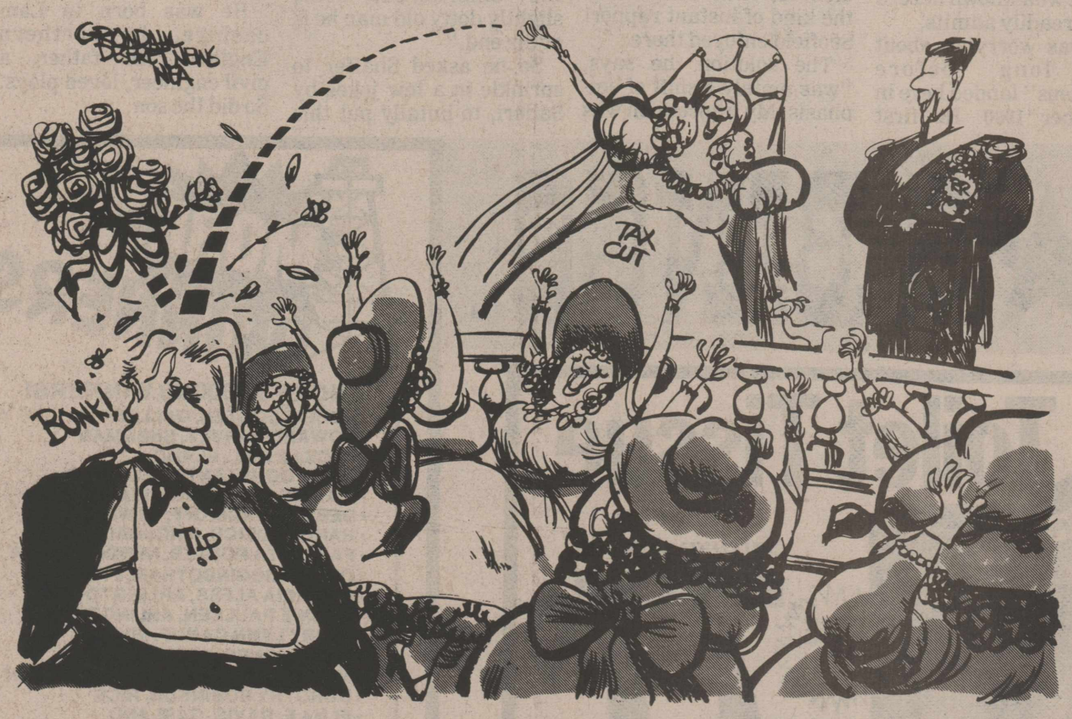

The controllers were legally wrong in striking in defiance of the law barring walkouts by government employees. But that raises again the old question of whether it is right to deny to those Americans who work for the government a right enjoyed by those who work in private enterprise.

The justification for that denial is that strikes against the government differ fundamentally from those against a private employer. They are against society itself, and they do not result in the temporary removal from the market of a discretionary consumer product but the interruption of a public service, often a vital one.

But if that is adequate justification for denial, then, in fairness to those denied, processes must be found for accommodating and compromising differences between governmental bodies and their employees more effective than those embodied in present law-national and on the books of most states and major municipalities.

What this strike demonstrates most clearly is that in the absence of such processes, when police or firefighters or air traffic controllers strike, the effect is essentially to take the public hostage.

And that is definitely wrong.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Some folks have more objections than objectives."

Just about any day of the week, a person can find many reasons to be glad that he lives in the good economic climate of Snyder and West Texas.

Sometimes you don't have to look very far. Our neighbors in Sweetwater have been hotly debating city budgets and taxes for next year. It seems the other night that some 400 persons turned out to protest a proposed budget that had a 74 percent increase.

In Snyder, however, the case is much different. Snyder's city budget has already been approved and no one turned out for the budget hearing at city hall.

The Snyder increase is a far cry from Sweetwater's 74 percent. The local increase is 14 percent, but in spite of the increase, the council is expected to be able to reduce the tax rate.

Not only do we have a healthy economy to thank, but we also believe we have a professional staff at city hall and a council that is conservatively progressive. In addition, it reflects some fine people that have served on the council now and in the past.

If Sweetwater does reduce the proposed budget from 74 percent to 58 percent, it will be interesting to see where the cuts are made. For example, Sweetwater spends approximately $100,000 more for police protection than does Snyder.

We certainly don't envy the problems to the east.

We have no sympathy for people who strike. Strikers, in our opinion are simply not professionals.

Therefore it's been impossible to muster any sympathy for the "plight" of the air traffic controllers. A story moved over the wire service last week that reinforced our feelings.

The story told the sad tell of a Dallas family. The father had walked away from his $45,000 a year job in Fort Worth.

The family bemoaned that they hadn't had a vacation in more than a year, and that the children had to work at fast food restaurants and that the children have started paying a token amount for room rent. The family hasn't turned on the air conditioner in three weeks, they say.

We do have compassion for the children of such families. We wish they didn't have to suffer for the bad judgement of their parents.

Nevertheless, we believe the air controllers strike has proven one thing. With 12,000 air controllers on strike, and airline service running at 75 percent of capacity, it tells us that we had far too many air controllers on the payroll in the first place.

letters to editor

Dear SDN Editor:

The article in Sun., Aug. 2, SDN on p. 8A about the Federal Aviation Administration wanting to tighten restrictions on "gliders" because they "are becoming an increasing threat to air safety" caught my eye. My husband, Charles, and I wish to make it emphatically clear to SDN readership that that article is not referring to the type of "glider" that we fly. The gliders (more commonly referred to as "sailplanes,") which we fly from Winston Field, Snyder, are fully regualted by Federal Air Regulation, by which we conscientiously abide! The "gliders" in the SDN article are more commonly referred to as "ultra lights," or hang-gliders - an entirely different type of machinery than our "sailplanes."

Yes, I do consider our sailplane flying safe. This summer, I've flown over 4,000 miles from (and returning to) Snyder in my AS W-19, 700 miles last week in an FAA-blessed regional contest at Caddo Mills, Tx., (placing 5th), and have claimed two National feminine soaring records for a triangle of 321.6 miles flown on July 14th from Winston Field to Seagraves, Crane County Ariport, and returning to Snyder in 6 hours and 13 minutes for a speed of 51.6 mph.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Charles W. Shaw
(Joann B. Shaw)

P.S. I am enclosing a more-authoritative article from another local publication.

Refusing to recognize a fact does not make it disappear, a truth that the carnage in Lebanon should be making perfectly clear to a number of parties if it wasn't already.

To the Palestinians, for a prime example, whose leadership for 33 years has refused to accept the existence of the state of Israel. That refusal has not made that state any less real, or prevented it from becoming the dominant military power in the Mideast, capable of deploying its power virtually wherever and whenever it chooses.

But also to the Israelis, who for almost as long have refused to recognize the Palestinian leadership as a legitimate negotiating partner. In becoming a party to a ceasefire in Lebanon, whether it effectively curbs the fighting or not, they have now for all practical purposes done so. They may tell themselves that they have had no direct dealings with the Palestinians. But they are the only ones listening. Their deal, no matter how many intermediaries separate the two parties, is with the PLO.

And, we may hope, to the makers of what passes for policy in Washington these days. For most of the first six months of this administration, they chose to downplay, if not quite deny, the Arab-Israeli conflict as the fundamental issue in the Mideast and the primary focus of the area's attention and energies. Washington preferred to view the Mideast in terms of its own grand design for a worldwide mobilization against the Soviet menace, with Israelis and pro-Western Arabs lining up together on their local front. Instead, it got another Arab-Israeli mini-war and the responsibilities of an intermediary role for which its earlier attitudes toward the participants had not prepared it.

There is, however, a danger that in all this reciprocal facing of truths in Lebanon something may indeed disappear—Lebanon. The fighting may stop but the tensions, internal and external, that brought it on remain. It is questionable how much longer Lebanon can be subjected to them and survive as a political entity.

It is true that the Lebanese have themselves to blame to a considerable extent for their present predicament. They have chosen to put sectarian differences ahead of common interests as a political entity. They have preferred to call in outsiders to aid in fighting each other rather than to realistic and effective internal accommodations.

But their Arab neighbors are much more to blame. these, with the partial exception of the Jordanians, did nothing to assimilate the floods of refugees from Palestine beginning in 1948. Exactly the opposite, in fact. The refugees were useful as pawns in maneuverings against Israel and to this end their continuing distress was an advantage.

Not, however, the developing militancy of the Palestinians' fragmented leadership. Syrians, Iraqis and, early on, the Egyptians gave strident lip service to the Palestinian cause but kept tight rein on activities in its behalf within their own jurisdictions. Jordan, which had granted citizenship to refugees, was close to being taken over until it fought a short, sharp war in 1970 to drive guerrilla forces out of the country.

Lebanon, smallest and politically most fragile of the Arab countries, was incapable of acting with similar firmness in its own interests. The Palestinians did in effect take over, turning the country into a staging base for their hit-and-run war with Israel at no matter what cost to the Lebanese economy and people.

The Syrians arrived in 1976, initially to stop the fighting among Lebanese factions and Palestinians but staying on as participants. Israeli intrusions in force followed, and the steady escalation of attack and counterattack leading to the current crisis.

It is possible that, providing the cease-fire holds, everyone may be able to salvage someting of value from the wreckage—Israel a greater measure of security on its northern border, the PLO, at least de facto Israeli and American recognition of its authority to speak for the Palestinians and Washington a more realistic attitude toward the Mideast and of its relationships with both Israelis and Arabs.

Everone, it would appear, except Lebanon.

'Lose To Win' Controversy...

Not All Agree With Sox

CHICAGO (AP) - Major league baseball players and managers are expressing mixed reactions to a report that some members of the Chicago White Sox would be willing to throw some games if it meant the team would advance to the American League West playoffs.

"I couldn't do it - I wouldn't do it," Texas Ranger Manager Don Zimmer said Friday. "And even if I did I wouldn't talk about it. I don't have anything else to say."

The Rangers' catcher, Jim Sundberg, agreed.

"I don't like the idea," he said. "I wouldn't do it. I would just have to play as hard as I can, win the games, lose the playoffs, then complain as hard as I can that baseball has come to this."

Texas pitcher Steve Comer said: "If the manager and the players really said that, I would not want to be associated with them as teammates."

But not all of those contacted had such harsh words.

"It could happen," said New York Yankee slugger Reggie Jackson. "One game doesn't mean as much as a season."

Jerry Koosman of the Minnesota Twins also sympathized with the White Sox players.

"It shows they're planning ahead," he said. "Let's hope it doesn't happen, but the system should be such that there's no incentive to lose. I don't know of anybody who wouldn't blow a game to get to the playoff."

Their comments came in response to a copyrighted story in Friday's editions of the Chicago Tribune that said more than 10 Chicago White Sox ballplayers conceded they would throw any or all of the games with the Oakland A's in late September if losing those games provided their only remaining route to the postseason playoffs.

In the story, White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa also indicated he might instruct his team to throw the games in order to gain a playoff berth.

But Friday night, LaRussa said that "under no circumstances" would the team play without intending to win. However, he said he would be willing to forfeit the A's series in order to win the playoff berth.

"My answer for the dilemma is that faced with that situation, I would be in favor of not taking the field and accepting a forfeit, rather than being in a spot of needing to lose a game to make the playoffs," LaRussa said in Baltimore before the Sox took on the Orioles.

Because of the 50-day player strike, major league baseball owners decided a week ago to split the season and grant the first-half leaders in each division a berth in the playoffs. Should a team win both halves, the owners voted to force a playoff by requiring that team to meet a division contender with the next best record over the entire season.

Under that formula, Oakland captured the first half of the American League West race, leaving the White Sox and a handful of teams in the position where they could lose the second half and still gain the playoffs on the strength of total wins.

Nielsen Holds To Lead In Davis-Hartford Open

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) - Although the position was new to him, Lon Nielsen felt comfortable headed into the second round of the $300,000 Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open as the leader.

So comfortable, in fact, that the 28-year-old Cedar Rapids, Iowa, resident shot a 5-under-par 66 Friday to retain his lead.

Nielsen, the first-round leader with a 63, had a 13-under total of 129 and a 1-stroke lead over three other golfers on the 6,534-yard Wethersfield Country Club course. His two-round total was the lowest this year on the PGA tour.

"I felt I was at home," he said. "I had an enthusiastic crowd out there. You would think I was from Hartford."

Meanwhile, Bill Kratzert shot his second straight 65, Mark Lye shot a 64 to go with his first-round 66 and Mark O'Meara blazed through the course with a 9-under 62. All three tied for second place at 130, with O'Meara's score on Friday matching the lowest on the PGA tour this year.

Fuzzy Zoeller, who finished second in last week's PGA Championship, Bobby Clampett and Lyn Lott were three strokes off the pace at 132. Zoeller shot a 64 on Friday; Lott and Clampett had 65s. Eleven golfers had 133 totals.

The cut was made at 3-under-par 139, meaning a GHO record 91 golfers were to participate over the final 36 holes. The previous GHO record was 78 in 1971.

Tickets will be available at the door.

Rangers Squeeze Past Boston Red Sox, 3-2

ARLINGTON (AP) - Billy Sample atoned for an earlier mistake by scoring the winning run Friday night as the Texas Rangers edged the Boston Red Sox 3-2 Friday night.

Sample, the Texas left fielder, had dropped an easy fly ball to let Boston tie the game in the top of the ninth. But he opened the bottom of the inning with a single, was sacrificed to second by Leon Roberts and was breaking for third with the pitch when Jim Sundberg singled him home.

Jim Kern, 1-0, won it in relief. Boston reliever Tom Burgmeier, 2-4, was the loser.

The Rangers nicked Boston starter Frank Tanana single runs in the first and fourth innings.

In the first, they scored on consecutive singles by Al Oliver, Buddy Bell and Bill Stein. In the fourth, Bell walked, Stein singled him to third and Tanana walked Sample, loading the bases with none out. Bell scored on a sacrifice fly by Roberts, but the rally ended when Stein was nailed trying to steal home and Sundberg grounded out.

Boston scored a run in the sixth. Glenn Hoffman walked and Rick Miller singled him to third, chasing Texas starter Doc Medich. Jerry Remy greeted Steve Comer with a sacrifice fly.

Scott Explodes As Astros Win

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Tony Scott drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single and Nolan Ryan stifled San Diego on two hits in six innings as the Houston Astros downed the Padres 5-1 Friday night.

Ryan, 6-3, the National League earned run leader at 1.37, survived a rocky first inning after giving up a leadoff triple by Ozzie Smith and a run-scoring single to Rupert Jones.

Ryan didn't allow another hit after that and issued only two walks, while striking out three. Dave Smith took over for the fireballing right-hander at the start of the seventh and went on to earn his fourth save.

The Astros scored in the first as Tim Lollar, 1-5, walked Scott to lead off the game and Jose Cruz singled him home two outs later after Scott had taken second on a wild pitch.

Two errors by San Diego catcher Terry Kennedy paved the way for a three-run Astros' second. Luis Pujols walked and Lollar balked him to second. One out later, Dickie Thon singled Pujols to third, then stole second and Ryan drew a walk to load the bases.

Scott lashed a single to left scoring two runs and the throw home trying to nail Thon was dropped by Kennedy. The All-Star catcher then threw wildly passed third in an effort to get Ryan, who raced to the plate and scored as Kennedy dropped the throw from left fielder Gene Richards for his second error.

Lollar left the game in the third after Cruz singled and scored on Pujols double which made it 5-1.

Stephenson Paces Meet

DALLAS (AP) - Jan Stephenson made three long birdie putts from off the green and shattered the course record with a 7-under par 65 to take the first-round lead of the $155,000 Mary Kay Golf Classic.

Two strokes behind Stephenson was defending champion Jerilyn Britz, who had six birdies and a lone bogey over the 6,274-yard course.

Torrance Leads Irish Open

PORTMARNOCK, Ireland (AP) - Sam Torrance of Scotland, shot a 67 to take over the lead after the second round of the $150,000 Irish Open Golf Championship despite an even better round by Vicente Fernandez.

Fernandez, of Argentina, had seven birdies, one sunk with his driver, for a 66 to move into second place after a poor first round.

Ed Sneed shot a 69 to hold on to third place in a tie with Eamonn Darcy of Ireland, both at 137.

American challengers George Burns, Tom Weiskopf and Peter Jacobsen all flopped. Weiskopf carded 73 for 145 and just missed the cutoff. Jacobsen, with a disastrous 78 for 151, and Burns, with 75 for 149 were both eliminated.

Thinks Movie Is Not Accurate

WACO, Texas (AP) — A Baylor University archeologist says he liked the hit movie "Raiders of the Lost Ark," but thinks the thriller is far from historically accurate.

Bruce Cresson, an expert on Old Testament exploration, recently returned from a dig in Israel.

"I had to see it (the movie), because so many of the people who had seen it were asking me questions," he said. "I needed to know what they were talking about. I enjoyed it, even though I don't go to many movies each year."

The ark in the Old Testament is a symbol of God's nearness to the Israelites as they wandered through the wilderness to Canaan, he said.

The ark was supposed to have magical powers, including the ability to kill anyone who touched it. Legends about it abound, and stories about its present location are rife, Cressen said. Many of the stories place the ark in areas that have been "carefully combed by serious archeologists."

"Obviously, if the fragile wood has survived the ravages of time and treasure hunters, the original ark of the covenant would be incalcuably priceless. I'm afraid the chances are about nil."

The original ark was supposed to contain fragments of the Ten Commandments, Moses' rod and a golden pot filled with manna, he said.

"References to the ark of the covenant are frequent in the early part of the Old Testament, but seldom thereafter," he said. "There is a good bit about it being built in the wilderness, about it being a symbol of God's presence... about it being captured by the Philistines.

"King David brought it to Jeruselem when he made it his capital, and King Soloman put it in his temple. After that, we have few references to it."

In the temple, the ark was kept in the "holy of holies," the temple's innermost part, which no one except the high priest could enter. He could only go in once a year, during Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

"The ark was wood, overlaid with finest gold," Cresson said. It had gold rings for the poles to carry it, a mercy seat on top, with cherabim (small angels) on both ends facing each other.

"It would be a valuable war prize to any conqueror of Israel, but there is no mention of it ever being lost or destroyed," he said. "Most people assume that after the Babylonians sacked Jeruselem in 587 B.C., another ark was built between 520-516 B.C."

In "Raiders of the Lost Ark," marauding Egyptians stole the ark and hid it in the African city of Tanis. The incident is based on a passage in the Old Testament book of 2nd Chronicles, in which the ark is not mentioned.

Cressen says if that had happened, the Egyptians would have melted the ark for its gold because it had no religious significance to them.

Cressen said the chamber of the tomb where the movie ark is found is "quite realistic," resembling many uncovered in the Baylor archeological digs.

But the cinematic ark is something else.

"According to the Biblical description it was much smaller," Cressen said. "In the movie it's much more impressive."

Cressen said he enjoyed the movie's many thrilling absurdities, but he was bothered by one thing:

"So many of my students said it was the best film of the year. If that's the case, I don't think I missed much while digging in Israel."

Man Pickets In Defense

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP) — Douglas Prichard is no fence-sitter. He's fed up with the world of labor disputes and to prove it, he's going to picket his fences.

Prichard says he'll be walking a picket line in front of his Prichard Fence Co. Saturday and, in the belief that neighbors make good fence-pickets, has invited others. He said he expects 10 of his 11 employees to join up.

Prichard said Tuesday that he would provide placards for "anyone who feels the coal miners' strike was too long, or that major league players struck at the wrong time, or that air traffic controllers are bucking the government."

Prichard said he is not anti-labor but believes all union workers should mend their fences and stay on the job even if they do not have contracts.

Seminar Is Scheduled

A practical seminar for prospective homeowners and builders interested in earth-sheltered housing is planned at Western Texas College on Sept. 12.

In The Oil Patch...

Wildcat Activity Remains Brisk In Scurry Co.

Wildcat drilling activity remained brisk in the area, especially in nearby Borden County.

Texana Resources Corp. of Dallas will drill the No. 3 Vittrup, a 10,000-foot wildcat in Borden County, 15 miles northwest of Gail.

Site is 1,500 feet southwest of the opener and lone producer in the Reo field, ½ mile west of its No. 2 Vittrup. Location is 660 feet from the south and 1,980 feet from the west lines of Section 35, Block 32-6n, EL&RR Survey.

The Reo opener, the firm's No. 1 Vittrup, was drilled to 9,922 feet and was finaled Nov. 26, 1980 to pump 62 barrels of 38 gravity oil, plus 117 barrels of water with gas-oil ratio of 225-1, through perforations at 7,333-350 feet.

Tucker and Gilmore of Midland will drill the No. 2 Good, a 10,000-foot wildcat three miles east of Vealmoor.

Site is in the north edge of the Borden County portion of the Vealmoor (Canyon and Cisco) field, lone location north of a 7,840-foot failure.

Location is 1,973 feet from the south and and 467 feet from the west lines of Section 22, Block 32-3n, T&P survey.

The Vealmoor field produces from the Canyon reef at average depth of 7,934 feet.

Westland Development Corp. of Houston will drill the No. 1 Don Jones, an 8,700-foot Ellenburger wildcat in Borden County, 15 miles northwest of Gail.

Project is ⅜ mile northwest of its No. 1 Shafer, recent Strawn discovery, ⅞ mile northeast of an 8,382-foot failure, 1⅜ miles east and slightly south of the depleted Ellenburger re-opener in the Myrtle, North (Strawn and Wolfcamp) field.

Location is 1,830 feet from the north and 467 feet from the east lines of Section 423, Block 97, H&TC survey.

The No. 1 Shafer, drilled to 8,475 feet, was finaled July 17 for 225 barrels of 41 gravity oil, plus seven barrels of water on a 10-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,880-898 feet.

The failure, Shell Oil Co. No. 1-MA Jones, abandoned Oct. 26, 1958, topped the Ellenburger at 8,374 feet.

Aminoil USA Inc. of Midland will drill the No. 3 Chilton 21 as a ⅝-mile south and very slightly west outpost ot the opener and lone producer of the Wicker (Strawn) field of Borden County, five miles southeast of Gail.

Location is 1,980 feet from the south and 660 feet from the east lines of Section 21, Block 30-4n, T&P survey.

Located 2⅜ miles southsoutheast of the Chaparral (lower Pennsylvanian) field, the well was finaled to pump 26 barrels of 33 gravity oil, plus 59 barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 1,350-1.

Production was through perforations at 6,915-16 feet which had been acidized with 250 gallons. A reentry operation, it was cleaned out to 7,320 feet, with 4½-inch casing set at that depth and plugged back to 6,921 feet.

Originally drilled by Tesoro Petroleum Corp. to 7,700 feet, it was abandoned March 16. Location is 1,980 feet from the south and east lines of Section 87, Block G, W&NW survey.

Convest Energy Corp. of Houston will drill the No. 3-S Wayne Williams, et al, as an approximate 1,550-feet north and slightly west offset to the Strawn C opener and lone producer from that pay in the Kent County portion of the Pollan multipay field, two miles southwest of Polar.

Breeders Quest For Perfect Animal

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Everything about him was perfect. Weight, bone structure, coloring, breeding potential — it all was put together just right.

The reward for perfection? Over $1 million. The adonis? A 1,800-pound, 2-year-old purebred Hereford bull who goes by the name of Centennial.

"He was a humdinger...really something else," recalled Bud Snydow, assistant secretary of the American Hereford Association.

Centennial walked away with first place in the Hereford competition earlier this year at the National Western Stock Show in Denver, the crown jewel of American livestock shows.

Centennial won $250 in prize money just for strutting his stuff at the show. But Snydow said that over Centennial's lifespan, the sale of his semen and offspring will likely reap more than $1 million for his proud owners, the V Bar Ranch of Stanton, Texas.

At the same show in Denver, the AHA auctioned off a half interest in the 1980 champion, LeGrand Domino 7184, for $301,000. If he performs as anticipated, the bull will earn more than three times that.

Centennial, like other grand champions, was no fluke. A finely sculpted bull or cow is the product of decades of pure breeding, a quest for the perfect specimen. That's where the AHA and other cattle organizations come in.

"We're here to refine the breed and protect its integrity through records," Snydow said.

The AHA, celebrating its 100th year, is based in Kansas City, on Hereford Lane. To get there, just look for the giant plastic bull, perched high atop a 90-foot brick pylon, resplendent in the Hereford colors of burnt-orange and white.

"He doesn't have a name," Snydow said. "We just call him 'the bull in the sky.'"

He may not have a name, but he has a rich heritage in the cattle industry. And much of it is to be seen at the AHA's Heritage Hall, a Hereford hall of fame. For example, there's a majestic color portrait of Anxiety 4th.

Snydow said Anxiety 4th is considered the father of American Herefords, which were imported in 1881 from Herefordshire, England.

"The whole modern-day American breed traces through him and his descendants," Snydow said.

The AHA was formed June 22, 1881, by a few beef cattle pioneers meeting in Chicago.

"A hundred years later, the organization functions magnificently and with a vitality its founders scarcely could have imagined," boasted Don Ornduff, who for 51 years worked for the American Hereford Journal. "The babe in swaddling clothes has become a giant."

It has indeed.

Stored in the AHA's computerized registry is information on 18.2 million head of cattle. About 225,000 registrations are added each year, at an average fee of about $7.50 a head. Hereford breeders alone spend more than $1.7 million a year for performance data. They have to.

"Breeding is one heck of a competitive business," explained Keith Evans, director of communications for the American Angus Association in St. Joseph, Mo.

Snydow and Evans said the pressure has been wrought largely by sagging beef sales at the supermarket.

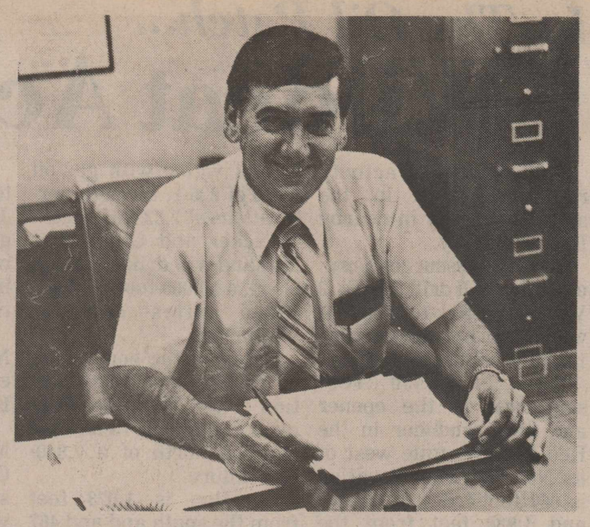

Commercial producers are searching for "superior performers" — those which take on the most weight on the least amount of food, Snydow said. When looking to purchase seed-stock, a producer turns to the cattle organizations.

The information he'll get, typically, is an animal's date of birth, parentage, weaning and yearling weights as well as its weight ratio to siblings.

"You look for the animals who are superior and whose progeny are, predictably, going to be good," Snydow said.

Simple. But it hasn't always been that way. The AHA, AAA and other cattle organizations didn't begin keeping thorough documentation on pure breds until about 25 years ago. Earlier, producers had to depend almost solely on livestock shows for choosing breeding stock. That was sort of a hit-and-miss proposition, besides being time consuming and costly.

"The buying process has gone from the show ring to the computer," said Evans.

BACK TO SCHOOL--Tom Scannicchio, assistant superintendent for curriculum, is busy with last minute preparations for the first day of classes on August 24. Several curriculum changes have been developed for the new school year. (SDN Staff Photo)

Tiger Training Camp....

Learning System No Breeze

"We haven't peaked yet," grinned Coach George Byerly, pausing to talk for a minute while his 1981 Snyder High School Tiger varsity football team took a brief break from morning workouts.

Despite some apparent problems, including a lack of numbers and the absence of a couple of starters, Byerly keeps his determination at an optimistic level.

"We're not in shape, few in numbers and we haven't learned our offense or our defense yet. Other than that, we're doing fine," he smiled again.

"But it's going to take time to adjust to the new system. Right now, it's taxing the kids' brains. It's all new to them. But we're hoping that one day it will all kind of click together and we'll get what we want."

Byerly and his new assistants chucked the veer and the I, used by the last five Snyder Tiger teams, and are installing the T this year - that and a new defense as well, is the cause of the apparent confusion.

"We are few in number," he said of the 28 young men out for the first day of workouts with pads, "but the ones we have are dedicated individuals. They're working hard."

Three of the 28 are sidelined with injuries, including 1980 starters Barry Davis and Glenn Parham. Davis has been suffering headaches, and Parham and junior varsity standout Keith Wallace have knee problems.

"All of them occurred before workouts began," said Byerly, who can feel fortunate that his small group has been relatively injury-free since workouts opened last Monday.

"We've had a few minor things, but nothing that's really kept anyone from working out," he conferred.

The Tigers are working out daily at 8 and 3:30, and workouts are open to the public. Snyder will hold its first scrimmage Aug. 21 against Vernon in Stamford, at 7 p.m.

Washington Stands Out As Redskins Win, 27-13

WASHINGTON (AP) -- Halfback Joe Washington ran for one touchdown and threw for a second to lead the Washington Redskins past the Minnesota Vikings 27-13 Friday night in a National Football League exhibition game.

The Redskin defense also played a big part in the victory, Washington's second without a loss, holding the Vikings to 40 yards on the ground while sacking Minnesota quarterback Steve Dils four times for 40 yards.

Washington, acquired in the off season from the Baltimore Colts for a second-round draft pick in 1982, scored in the first half on a 4-yard run and then tossed a 29-yard touchdown pass to Zion Mckinney.

Washington's touchdown run, set up by a 23-yard pass from Joe Theismann to Lewis Walker, saw the 5-foot 10, 185-pound Washington hurdle safety Tonny Xannon and then drive cornerback John Swain into the endzone.

The score followed a 73-yard touchdown pass from Minnesota's Steve Dils to Sammy White.

Theismann, who completed 11 of 15 for 143 yards and one touchdown, marched the Redskins down the field twice in the opening half.

Moving from their own 20, the Redskins moved 80 yards in the first period to take a 7-0 lead.

Terry Metcalf accounted for 19 of those yards, including the final six on a pass from Theismann.

Cardinals Close Doors On Hapless Seahawks

SEATTLE (AP) - Stump Mitchell scored on a three-yard run with 4:39 to go Friday night as the St. Louis Cardinals came from behind to beat the Seattle Seahawks 30-21 in a National Football League exhibition game.

The Cardinals, 2-0 in preseason play, handed the Seahawks their 10th consecutive defeat at home, two of them exhibitions in the Kingdome this season. Seattle was 0-8 in the Kingdome in regular season play last year.

Neil O'Donoghue, who kicked two field goals for St. Louis in the first quarter, booted an insurance field goal of 34 yards with 1:55 remaining.

Tight end Doug Marsh caught two touchdown passes - the first a four-yarder from rookie Neil Lomax and the second a 31-yarder from veteran Jim Hart - for the Cardinals.

Second-year quarterback Dave Krieg fired a pair of touchdown passes for the Seahawks.

With Seattle trailing 20-7, Krieg teamed with rookie Paul Johns for a 56-yard scoring pass with 51 seconds left in the third quarter.

Seattle got the ball back on the ensuing kickoff when the Cardinals' Jeff Griffin fumbled and Gregory Johnson recovered the ball on the St. Louis 35. The Seahawks scored four plays later on a 12-yard pass from Krieg to Jeff Moore, with 1:41 gone in the fourth period.

'Horns Favored To Win SWC

DALLAS (AP) — This is the year you need to throw a dart at a board to pick the Southwest Conference football champion.

As Texas Coach Freddie Akers so candidly put it recently: "We have a chance to be good but there are five or six others who can say the same thing ... it'll be a real battle in our conference."

The Longhorns, who possess an experienced, deep defense anchored by All-America tackle Kenneth Sims, will be favored in most corners.

Fosbury Added To Track Fame

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) - Former Olympic high jump champion Dick Fosbury became one of 10 new members of the National Track and Field Hall of Fame during induction ceremonies in Charleston.

Three of those inducted into the hall are deceased: journalist Jesse P.Abramson, former Villanova track coach Jim "Jumbo" Elliott and Clyde Littlefield, a coach at the University of Texas for 41 years.

Also inducted were Percy Beard, a former Olympic high hurdler and University of Florida coach; Willye White, a five-time U.S. Olympic team competitor; Fred Wilt, a former Olympic distance runner; George Young, who ran on four U.S. Olympic teams; Bill Bowerman, the long-time track coach at Oregon; and Dave Sime, a former Olympic sprinter.

Postcard Is 17 Years Late

LORETTO, Pa. (AP) — St. Francis College says it recently received a postcard mailed by an incoming freshman — 17 years ago.

That explains why nobody from the school was there to greet freshman Michael Thomas Brennan of Shamokin, Pa., when he arrived by train in Altoona in the fall of 1964.

Brennan had returned a postcard sent by the college, indicating he would be arriving on Train No. 25 on Saturday, Sept. 19. The college received the yellowed card last Wednesday.

Dental Health Is Important

Dental health activities will be extended to second grade this year in Snyder Public Schools. In the past, dental health has been given special attention in kindergarten, first and third grades and in order to have a complete program these activities will begin in second grade.

Under the leadership of the school principal and Bobbie Cox, the district's instructional support coordinator, kindergarten, first, and second grade teachers teach a program called "Tattletooth."

The program, developed under a federal grant from HEW is implemented through joint planning with the Texas Department of Health Resources, Austin, Region Four Health Services, Abilene, and the Instructional Support Services of Snyder ISD.

The program is a teaching package with 10 lesson plans for each grade level. The plans present the necessary information to help the students better understand good dental health.

To insure attitudinal changes needed to insure the students want to care for their own teeth, each student is given a toothbrush to learn proper brushing.

Third graders receive dental hygiene instructions through a curriculum developed by Proctor and Gamble Co. The Crest Third Grade Dental Program provides each student with a dental instruction kit containing a toothbrush, toothpaste, and disclosing tablets. The program emphasizes proper check-ups, diets, and toothcleaning. Teachers are provided curriculum materials and visual aids.

In addition to these special programs, each February, special emphasis is placed on good dental health when local dentists contribute their time in conducting a district-wide survey of each elementary student's teeth. Reports of the results are sent home by the school nurses, Reba Erwin and Nell Spence, with recommendations if needed.

Borden To Begin Classes

The Borden County School in Gail will begin classroom instruction August 24. Teachers are to report to work Aug. 17.

The first semester ends Jan. 8, and the last day of school is set for May 26 for students and May 27 for teachers.

Various Curriculums Developed For Students

In an effort to meet the individual needs of students in the Snyder ISD, various curriculum programs have been innovated or adopted. One of these is Project Excel, Snyder's program for academically gifted students in the fifth and sixth grades.

Project Excel, in its third year with students, includes four components: higher level thinking skills, enrichment in the area of language arts, analytical reasoning, and mentorship.

Project Excel's curriculum is designed to develop and expand the academically gifted student's higher level thinking skills through creative, critical, and productive thinking activities. These include Bloom's Taxonomy, scientific method, analogy skills, logical reasoning, and divergent thinking.

Those students in the program for a second and third year will focus on citizenship skills development. They will be doing independent and small group projects and research, and will experience career-related vocational involvement with the assistance of mentors in the local community. These students, along with the first year students, meet with Project Excel teachers for 2½ hours each week.

Project Excel will continue to work with the junior high school student through several advanced communicative arts classes at the 7th grade level and social studies classes at the 8th grade level. Individual mentorships will be continued in both grades this year.

Mrs. Carole Haynes will coordinate these Project Excel activities and team teach with another staff member, Mrs. Cindy Lickey, who will coordinate the Mentorship Component.

APPROACHING NUPTIALS—Ms. Sharon Richardson announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Amanda Lynn Frazier, to Dennis Wayne Lee, son of Mrs. Jean Lee and the late O. W. Lee. The future bride is the daughter of James E. Frazier Jr. The couple will be married September 5 at three in the afternoon at the Lighthouse Assembly of God Church.

Pair Wed In Garden Rites

Shelly Maupin of Stephenville became the bride of Jay Yates of Deming, New Mexico in a garden wedding June 20 at Weatherford. Reverend Jack Melwood officiated the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. (Red) Maupin of Ranger, formerly of Ira. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Yates of Deming, New Mexico.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white organza gown with a lace bodice. It featured a re-embroidered scalloped neckline and stand-up collar, a high-rise waist, bishop sleeves, and a chapel train. She wore a lace cap and fingertip-length veil and carried a white bible.

The bridal bouquet was of pastel daisies, carnations, and baby's breath with white ribbon streamers.

Miss Shelia Kruse of Ira was maid of honor. She wore a pink cotton two-piece sundress and carried a smaller version of the bride's bouquet.

Best man was Kipp Wingo of Stephenville.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hayseed Stephens.

The bride's table featured a three-tiered cake, a pastel bouquet, and a basket of satin roses containing rice.

A chocolate cake was served at the groom's table.

The wedding was held during a weekend family reunion of the groom's maternal grandmother. Relatives and friends were guests at the wedding.

Following a trip to Dallas and Fort Worth, the couple is at home in Stephenville. The groom is attending Tarleton State University there.

Speech-Hearing-Language...

Remedial Services Available

Remedial speech-hearing-language services have been a continual educational service to students in the Snyder Public Schools since 1954.

Speech and language services are provided for those students who have defects in articulation, defects in voice production, stuttering, delayed speech development, and speech defects associated with cleft palate, cerebral palsy, or impaired hearing.

Currently, two Snyder ISD speech and language pathologists provide diagnoatic and remedial services for those students who have a communication disorder.

Alta Nation serves Central Elementary, Stanfield Elementary, and North Elementary. She also provides speech services at both Snyder Junior High School and Snyder High School.

Barbara Bigham serves East Elementary, Northeast Elementary, and West Elementary. She also provides speech services for the Early childhood and Deaf Education units which are housed on the West Elementary campus.

Approximately 200 students, from ages 3-21, receive assistance from remedial speech services each school year. The pathologists also serve as consultants to teachers, parents, and other staff members.

Screening for possible speech-language problems is a part of the district's early prevention of school failure program which is conducted each year in the kindergartens. Students identified in the screening are then given complete speech and language tests to determine if the need for remedial instruction does exist.

Students in grades 1-12 receive a speech evaluation when referred by their principal, classroom teacher, parent, doctor, dentist, or another staff member.

Referrals are processed by a Referral Committee composed of the principal, classroom teacher, parent, and other staff members appointed by the principal. When the diagnostic evaluations are completed, the results of the evaluations plus the recommendation of the pathologists are submitted to the local Admission, Review, and Dismissal (ARD) Committee.

The ARD Committee is composed of at least the building principal, the parent, the classroom teacher, and the pathologist. When appropriate, the student is also a part of the ARD Committee.

In addition to determining eligibility, this ARD Committee must determine the best educational arrangement for correcting the identified communications problems and continue to review progress of the placement until the student modifies those problems satisfactorily.

Parents who have concern regarding their child's speech, hearing, or language development should discuss this with the classroom teacher and initiate a referral requesting an evaluation of the child's communication skills. Parents concerned about the speech development of their pre-school age child may request an appointment with the speech pathologist by calling Frank Miller, principal at West Elementary, 573-3538.

Ira Public School students are scheduled to begin classes Aug. 24. Teachers were to report to work Friday and are to attend staff development training in Abilene Aug. 17-21.

The school is beginning a supplementary classroom program this year called Utah-Systems Approach to Individualized Learning. The program is aimed largely at elementary and jr. high level students and allows the teacher to individualize classroom work by using supplementary work at each student's own level.

Instructors will be learning to use the system during staff development training in Abilene.

Changes Given

Several changes will be introduced this school year in the area of student diagnostic appraisal, testing, guidance, and counseling. The primary change, at the elementary level, has resulted in combining the role of the counselor and diagnostician. This change will enable students, parents, and staff to receive improved needed assistance and services more directly and sooner.

Staff members serving in this new roll include Mesdames Carole Miller, Mary Brownlee, Peggy Kennedy, and Sue Cates. This staff will be primarily responsible for counseling students, both individually and in small groups, implementing appropriate classroom guidance and testing activities, conducting comprehensive appraisals for students referred by campus screening committees for possible special education services, serving on campus Admission-Review-Dismissal and Language Profiency Assessment committees, and communicating information to parents, teachers, and principals.

Each counselor-diagnostician will be assigned to two district schools throughout the

Guidelines Have Been Developed

Career Education Curriculum Guides have been developed by the teachers Snyder Public Schools use in implementing a program that will infuse career education into the student's basic curriculum. Each lesson shows one of the nine basic Learner Outcome Objectives for Career Education prepared by the Texas Education Agency.

Snyder School District began in the fall of 1977 to develop these plans. This plan calls for the teacher to emphasize career education at least once a month through activities presented in the curriculum guide. These guides are an accumulation of the activities that have been used by Snyder teachers during the past three years. During the 1981 school year, the teachers under the direction of district counselors, compiled the lesson plans and selected the ones that would be used in the curriculum guide.

Each lesson must follow one of the Basic Learner Outcome Objectives for Career Education prepared by the Texas Education Agency. These outcomes stress career planning and decision making, career information, job acquisition and retention, attitudes and appreciation for a career success, skills in human relationships for careers, self-investigation for career success, personal-work-societal responsibilities, economic factors influencing career opportunity, and education-career opportunity relationships.

MR. AND MRS. JACKIE DALE MURRAY

Kohl, Murray United In Double Ring Ceremony

Pamela Joy Kohl and Jackie Dale Murray were united in marriage on July 18 in the Trinity United Methodist Church. Reverend Carroll Kohl, [illegible]e of the bride, officiated the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible]ed Kohl and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] Murray.

The altar was decorated with double brass candelbra, each entwined with silk lily-of-the-valley and holding seven tapers. Kent Kohl, brother of the bride, lit the tapers

The musical program was presented by Mrs. Wendell Rehm of Abilene, organist, and Mr. Chris Johnson of Seminole, soloist. Mr. Johnson sang "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride wore a formal gown of white organza over taffeta. It featured a fitted bodice, stand up collar, a V-shaped neckline and moderately raised waist all outlined in Venice lace medallions. The matching lace traveled down the full bishop sleeves and the double flounce of organza that formed the hem and chapel length train. The veil with headpiece was covered with Venice lace appliques. The entire edge was trimmed with scalloped lace and appliques.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses, blue silk baby's breath and white silk stephanotis accented with white streaming ribbon.

In keeping with tradition, something old for the bride was a lavalier necklace set with a ruby and diamond belonging to her grandmother, the late Mrs. Bertha Kohl; something new, her dress; and something blue and borrowed was her garter belonging to her aunt, Mrs. Earline Niedermayor of Amarillo. She also carried pennies minted in the years of their birth in her shoes.

Miss Paula McLeod of Lubbock served as maid of honor and Mrs. Linda Plunkett of Seminole served as birdesmaid. We are continually asked if you are allowed to lie when you respond to partner's Blackwood four no trump.

The answer is that you risk your partner's displeasure, but there is nothing in the laws of bridge to prevent you from making any legal bid you wish to make.

Today's hand was sent to us by the unfortunate West. North opened one spade. We aren't going to delve into the merits of his 10 high card point opener except to say that we have seen much worse bids.

South responded three hearts. North bid three spades and when South continued with a Blackwood four no trump North went into a long, long huddle and finally bid five diamonds to show one ace.

South figured out the reason for the hesitation and bid the slam, which wheeled in because North did have one more ace than he had shown by his diamond response.

West wanted to know if South's action was justified. The answer is a resounding "no." If North had bid his five diamonds as if he were making a normal response, South would not have bid six. He was just being too smart. There is no rubber bridge penalty for what South did except that other people can stop playing with him.

Special Education Aids Local Handicapped Kids

Special education programs and activities in the Snyder Public Schools are designed to provide eligible handicapped students needed instructional and related services.

Handicapped students are those who have been evaluated as needing special services or special education because of an impairment. This includes students who have been professionally diagnosed as being mentally retarded. deaf, visually handicapped, orthopedically, physicallly impaired, specific learning disabled, seriously emotionally disturbed, and other health impaired.

Among the range of services provided are identification and assessment of handicaps, and individualized program, physical therapy, psychological services, speech and language therapy, special materials and equipment, and other services and programs necessary to a handicapped student's education.

Because of their disabilities, handicapped students may require individualized programs or plans which contain learning opportunities especially designed to meet their needs. An individually written plan for meeting the special needs of the handicapped is very important. This plan assures that when a child needs a special education, a plan is developed which is appropriate to the student's special needs.

Appropriate education is developed during the process of writing an individualized educational program (IEP) for each handicapped student.

Following guidelines of the Texas Education Agency concerning the least restrictive environment, handicapped students are placed in programs with non-handicapped students as much as possible. Each student is placed in a setting which is appropriate for that individual and meets special needs of the student. Some children will be included in regular classes or programs all day. Others will be included for a part of the day or week. A few students will remain in special classes or schools.

In accordance with prescribed local district policy and the requirements of state and fedeal regulations concerning the handicapped, the following standards are maintained in serving the handicapped in the Snyder Public Schools.

All handicapped students are evaluated by school professionals before they are placed in a special class, removed from a special class, or before changes are made in a child's individualized educational program.

A parent's written consent must be obtained before any testing assessment of a student's special educational needs is initiated, a determination of specail educational services are made, a student is placed in the special education program, and before a student's educational records are shown to anyone not immediately involved in the student's education.

Parents should be informed that they can be present at meetings and discussions affecting their child, inspect their child's educational records, and bring anyone to a meeting regarding their child's education.

Lunch Prices Are Increased

Snyder School Lunch prices have been increased for the 1981-82 school year.

At the secondary level students will be charged 90 cents and the elementary level charge will be 80 cents. Breakfast prices have been increased from 40 to 50 cents.

Adults will play $1.30 for school lunches and guests will be charged $1.75.

Milk will also cost 15 cents per pint.

Lunch Policy Is Explained

The following lunch guidelines will be utilized by all schools in Scurry County, but prices may vary from school to school.

Children from families whose income is at or below certain levels (may be obtained from individual school offices) may be eligible for either free meals or meals at a reduced price.

To apply at any time during the year for free or reduced price meals persons should obtain the necessary application forms from their respective school office. Eligibility will be ruled on within 10 days.

Changes in income should be reported during the school year. Individuals must provide proof of family income . Names and social security numbers of all adults must be given.

In certain cases foster children may also be eligible for the benefits.

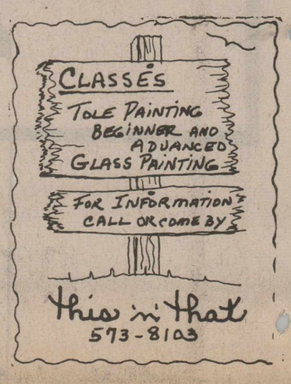

All children are treated the same regardless of the ability to pay. No child will be discriminated against because of race, creed, color or national origin.

A person who does not agree with the school's decision regarding their application may discuss it with the school and they may also request a fair hearing.

Information sought on the application forms include names and grades of children as well as the school they attend; names and social security numbers of persons living in same household; all sources of income.

A list of income poverty guidelines may be ontained from each school office in the county.

Basic Skills Will Be Major Thrust For Schools

Basic skills will again be a major thrust for instruction during the Snyder Public School's 1981-82 school year. In meeting the mandate set out in the Five Year Plan for Snyder Schools, which was approved by Snyder Trustees and accepted by the Texas Education Agency in 1978, reading will be the area for focus.

With the beginning of this school year, each communicative arts teacher will have a complete set of learned objectives, which have been prepared by Snyder communicative arts teachers, for both reading and langauge arts.

These learner objectives, which state what a student is able to do after the instruction and practice of a skill, will serve as a guide in planning instruction.

The fourth phase of Snyder's basic skills program will again involve teachers k-12 who will participate in writing and compiling strategies or plans, as well as the activities to be utilized in teaching the material set forth in the learner objectives.

Beginning in October, four release times have been scheduled from 2:30 to 3:45 for the purpose of staff development-- curriculum development in this area.

This school year will also find Snyder teachers using a new basal reading program in the classroom. During 1980-81, the state of Texas called for the adoption of a new basal reading program. Five programs were submitted to Texas schools for inspection. In Snyder, each communicative arts teacher was asked to review each program submitted, using a rating scale, and to select that program which he or she felt to be the best.

Primary in the items on the rating scale was how well the reading program addressed the requirements set out by the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills (TABS).

Using the information recorded on each teacher's rating scale, the results were compiled and reported to the district textbook committee by a representative from each school involved. As a result, the Scott-Foresman Reading program was adopted in Snyder.

On May 9th, a workshop session was presented for communicative arts teachers, grades 1-8. The purpose was to acquaint the teachers with the most effective means for utilizing the Scott-Foresman program in the classroom. Paul Colgin and Sue Wagley from the Scott-Foresman Company presented the Saturday morning workshop.

To complement the basal reading program, East Elementary, Northest Elementary, and Stanfield Elementary have elected to continue the Prescriptive Reading Inventory (PRI) program, an outgrowth of the Right-to-Read effort of which all elementary schools are a member. The PRI program is a supplemental reading program that is designed to improve students' reading skills. The program is constructed upon a set of behaviorally stated objectives most widely found in the curriculum in grades 1,5, and 6.

A student inventory is administered to each child prior to instruction. The reading level of each child is determined, as well as the skill area in which he needs additional help. Upon receiving instruction, the child works toward mastering the reading skills in a particular area, and then he is moved up to the next level to master skills in that area. PRI is not designed to be used independently, but as an auxilliary to any reading program.

Peer tutoring is another program which will again be offered to students in each elementary school. This is a program in which students help each other. Peer tutors are selected from grades four through six to assist primary teachers in reinforcing younger students reading instruction. At a designated time durng the week, the peer tutors listen to the younger students read or participate in learning games with them. The time and frequency of tutoring is agreed upon between the tutor and the student's teacher.

Minibooks made from out-of-adoption readers, as well as learning centers in individual classrooms, will also serve to supplement basic reading instruction.

Basic skills are primary to academic success, and every effort will be made to teach each child to read using an approach compatible with his or her learning style. Along with teaching basic skills; however, Snyder reading teachers shall seek to instill an appreciation for literature in each child and to prepare him or her to participate effectively in society.

Local Teachers, Pupils Start Earlier This Year

Snyder Public School teachers and pupils are getting an earlier start than usual this year, but they will only have to wait two weeks for their first holiday.

Teachers are scheduled to report for staff development sessions Tuesday, Aug. 18. Pupils are to come in on Monday, Aug. 24, for their first day of classes.

Two weeks later, they will be out for the Labor Day holiday on Sept. 7. For several years, local schools began classes after the Labor Day holiday.

Thanksgiving holidays are set for Nov. 26-27, which means school will be out from 2:30 p. m. Wednesday until the following Monday morning.

The first semester will end on Dec. 22, which will be the beginning of the Christmas holidays for students. There will be a staff development day on Dec. 23.

The Christmas holiays will end and classes will resume on Monday, Jan. 4.

Students will get another holiday on March 8 while teachers will be involved in staff developmnt activities.

Spring vacation is set for March 9-12. There also will be an Easter vacation April 8-9, with classes being dismissed at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday, April 7, and resuming on the morning of April 12.

The second semester will end on May 20. Exact date for graduation has not been set, pending the possibility of some makeup days being required at the end of the term.

The schedule is arranged so that Dec. 23 and March 8-9 could be used as makeup days in the event of an extra long streak of interruptions due to weather.

or her immunization records to the school nurse for verification.

Vision and hearing examinations are conducted yearly in the Snyder Schools. Students in grade levels k-7 are screened each year for visual impairments. During the 1980-81 school year, 2,169 students were checked and of those, 239 students referred for further examination to an optometrist.

Students in kindergarten and grades 1,3,5, and 8 are screened for hearing impairments. Of the 1,557 students screened last year, 23 were referred for further examination to an audiologist. During the new school year, in addition to utilizing the audiometer as a hearing screening instrument, the nurses will use another instrument, the tympanometer, to screen further those students identified as having a possible hearing deficit. Through screening with the tympanometer the nurse may be able to detect further the student's hearing ability and whether there is a possible presence of fluid, blockage, or pressure in the ear. When detected, referral will be made to a physician.

All elementary school students are measured for weight and height twice yearly. This information and any other incidence of illness or injury is recorded in the student's folder and reviewed by the nurse periodically so as to ensure appropriate health care.

year. Mrs. Cates will serve as East and Central Elementary, Mrs. Brownlee at Northeast and the West-Humble Smith campus, Mrs. Miller at Stanfield and the high school, and Mrs. Kennedy at the north and junior high school campus.

Additional improved counseling services will occur at the secondary school level during this school year through the announced changes. Mrs. Kennedy will assist the junior high guidance and counseling program by serving as counselor to all the junior high school girls and Mrs. Miller will assist the high school guidance program by serving as counselor to all special education students.

Coordinating and supervising the efforts of this instructional support staff is Mrs. Bobbie Box. Mrs. Box will also coordinate the district's various elementary achievement, kindergarten, bilingual, and career education testing program activities, and the student dental health and nursing program.
