NEW MEXICO TOWN SUBMERGED BY OVERFLOW

125 Men, Women And Children Arrested In East Chicago Liquor Clean-Up

POLICE CHIEF AND MAYOR OF TOWN JAILED

Officers From Two States Make Up Gigantic Arresting Force

VOTE FRAUDS BARED

Arrests Followed Probe Into Election Conditions In Spring Balloting

HAMMOND, Ind., Aug. 13. (AP)—One hundred and twenty-five men, women and children, including R. P. Hale and James Regan, mayor and chief of police, respectively, of East Chicago, were arrested today by 25 prohibition officers from Illinois and Indiana on warrants charging violations and conspiracy to violate the Volstead act.

All those under arrest were from east Chicago and from Indiana, harbor agents said. There were 75 warrants yet to be served. Whether any other officials of the two towns were on the long list of warrants yet to be served, prohibition officers declined to state.

Among the children arrested were a number of young girls in their teens, warrants for whose arrests charged them with tending bars in the speakeasies operated by their parents.

In virtually all the places visited by the raiders quantities of liquor, beer and alcohol were seized and before the raids were half over more than a freight car load of bootlegging accessories had been seized.

The two city officials under arrest are each serving the first term. Mayor Hale, a Republican, defeated Leo McCormick four years ago for the office and imported Regan from Chicago to be his chief of police.

OFFICIALS ALSO HELD IN ELECTION FRAUDS

EAST CHICAGO, Ind., Aug. 13. (UP)—Led by United States District Attorney Oliver Loomis, of the northern Indiana district, 50 federal agents swooped down on East Chicago this afternoon, arrested Mayor R. C. Hale, Chief of Police James Regan and more than 100 other persons, including city and county officials.

The prisoners were hurried in cars to the federal building in Hammond Ind.

The raid was a culmination of a sweeping investigation of conditions in this section by treasury department agents, which was recommended by a grand jury last spring following a probe into alleged fraud and illegal voting during the 1926 election.

The raid was one of the biggest staged by federal authorities in the Middle West.

The charges were said to range from fraudulent voting, to conniving with bootleggers and disorderly house keepers.

Chicago Man Again Arrested in Robbery

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (US)—Donald Holt, an employe of the city clerk's office, was re-arrested today in connection with the $4,000 Illinois Central robbery and the death of Delbert Sudds, a special policeman.

Holt was taken into custody last Saturday but released. His arrest again today was a surprise but the state's attorney's office would not comment. Last Saturday Holt's automobile license plate was checked and found to be missing. It's numerals were said to check with those named on the killer's car.

Kansas Girl Dies After Swallowing Poison

PRATT, Kan., Aug. 13. (UP)—Wana Ralston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ralston, near here, died today as a result of swallowing poison pills.

Baby-Faced 'Wee Willie' Doody, Big Scare of Chicago, Jailed Peaceably

By W. F. SULLIVAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (UP)—"Wee Willie" Doody, baby-faced bandit, wanted for murders, robberies and shootings, who taunted police with challenges to "come and get me if you think you can," gave little evidence of being a terrible terror when he was trapped and arrested today.

Half-clothed, sleepy-eyed and only a few feet from the guns he was reputed to have used in terrorizing Chicago for several weeks, the youth who was described as "diminutive but dangerous," gave up without a fight when he saw the odds were against him.

"All right—you got me," he said, a sneering smile crossing his lips when detectives pounded their way into his room in a west side apartment.

In the same apartment was Mrs. Lillian Kahler, pretty divorcee, said to be the owner of several west side apartment buildings, and her six-year-old daughter, Marian. Mrs. Kahler was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

The little gunman, who evaded arrest despite the fact that every policeman, detective and federal officer had been searching for him for several weeks, had made elaborate plans to escape.

An airplane, on which a deposit had been made, was to carry him away from Chicago, presumably to Canada, authorities said.

An ironing-board bridge had been made from his window to that of the building next door as a means of escaping the trap that caught him today. His guns in the room had the safeties released, ready for action.

Three squads of detectives, armed with sawed-off shotguns, revolvers and tear bombs, acting on a "tip" however, left no avenues open to Doody once the house was surrounded.

Prosecution in Stallworth Case Rests After Jury Hears Death Tale

Crowded Canyon Courtoom Then Hears Defense Testimony About Slayer of Her Husband's Alleged Lover

CANYON, Texas, Aug. 13. (AP)—The state rested this afternoon in the murder trial of Mrs. Levi P. Stallworth, slayer of Mrs. Grace Morrison of Plainview.

Eye witnesses to the shooting, which occurred in front of an Amarillo hotel last May 13, were presented by the prosecution.

Attempting to show that Mrs. Stallworth feared for her life when she fired, the defense sent 16 witnesses to the stand during the day. Some of them testified that Mrs. Morrison had been seen in public places carrying dangerous weapons and others told of belief that illicit relations had existed between Mr. Stallworth and the slain woman.

Bob Stallworth and Jack Stallworth, brothers-in-law of the defendant, told of instances in which, they said, Mrs. Morrison and Levi Stallworth had been seen together in compromising circumstances.

Mrs. Viola Kerney, an Amarillo cafe owner, testified that she saw the victim in her cafe with a pistol shortly before her death. Mrs. Kerney was the most important of several witnesses not used by the defense in the previous trial last June in Amarillo, which resulted in a hung jury.

Mrs. Stallworth's counsel still had 12 witnesses to interrogate at the close of today's session.

An audience, about 40 per cent, of which was made up by women, occupied all available seats and standing space in the courtroom today.

AGREEMENT ON TAX DUE TODAY

Board Fails to Meet At Slated Hour

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—The automatic tax board deferred fixing the state tax rate again today. Governor Moody announced it would probably be agreed to tomorrow.

State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher cancelled a business trip to Dallas in order to be on hand at the board meeting, which did not materialize. The other member of the board is Comptroller S. H. Terrell.

The present rate is 64 cents and the new rate is likely to be not less than 72 cents, to be distributed as follows: Ad valorem, for general fund, 30 cents; schools, 35 cents, and Confederate pensions, 7 cents. The ad valorem levy is now 22 cents and the schools 35 cents and pensions seven cents, the constitutional limit for each. The constitutional limit for ad valorem is 35 cents.

It was reported that Governor Moody was considering the advisability of reducing the 35 cents levy for schools. The school levy has been 35 cents since 1919, when the constitutional limit was raised from 20 cents. The limit has been levied always. With an estimated balance of about $3,500,000 in the school fund probably on Sept. 1, when the new biennium begins, the governor feels that it will not be necessary to fix the constitutional limit for school purposes in order to fix a $17.50 of $17 per capita scholastic apportionment, it was said.

Man Loses $176,000 In Boulder Dam Land Fraud

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (UP)—A Boulder Dam land scheme in which two Chicago promoters were alleged to have defrauded Dr. M. F. Schick, Fort Wayne, Ind., of approximately $176,000, was being investigated by postal authorities today.

W. L. Irwin and L. C. Connor who, Postoffice Inspector F. E. Alberite said, formed the Southern California Land company, with offices in North Michigan avenue, were held in $20,000 bonds, charged with using the mails to defraud.

Posse Shoots Bandits After Bank Holdup

TOLEDO, Ohio, Aug. 13. (UP)—Two bank bandits were shot by a posse in Ottawa park here this afternoon after they had robbed the Farmers and Merchants bank at Lyons, Ohio, and later attempted to kill a member of their own gang.

The bandits obtained $5,000 in the holdup. They entered the bank when H. R. Treadway, cashier, was alone, and ordered him to hand over all the money in the cage. In their haste, the bandits overlooked approximately $5,000 more in currency in the vaults.

Man Held on Charge Of Kidnaping Brother

DETROIT, Aug. 13. (AP)—Accused of kidnaping his 16-year-old brother, Frank, of Homewood, Ill., Peter Yosek, 24, was arrested early today with his wife, Rose, for Illinois authorities.

The charge was made against the couple by Frank Yosek Sr., of Homewood, father of the two boys, who told Homewood police his younger son was kidnaped from the Ravielce Country club near Homewood, thrown into an automobile and driven to Chicago.

Both Peter and Frank have denied any kidnaping attempts. The boy is held at the juvenile detention home here pending arrival of Homewood detectives who will return him to Illinois with his brother and his brother's wife.

Actor Hurt in Auto Accident; Another Held

NEW CANAAN, Conn., Aug. 13. (UP)—Harry Sothern, nephew of E. H. Sothern and member of the Actors' Playshop Stock company of Stamford, was injured critically today when an automobile in which he was a passenger, left a curve of the Ridgeville road.

Police arrested James Van Dyke, also an actor, on a charge of reckless driving and held him in $1,000 bond. Sothern's mother was a sister of the famous Shakespearean actor. His father was another stage favorite, Kyrle Bellew.

Horse Dies With Hoofs On as It Hits Auto

CLEARWATER, Calif., Aug. 13. (INS)—This is not a story of a horse who gave way to the automobile. Neigh! Neigh!

It is a story of horses that met the "enemy" full tilt and died with his hoofs on.

Three occupants of the automobile were injured when a saddle horse crashed into it, but today the machine-age had claimed another victim, for when the test came gasoline proved more potent than oats.

PLEA OF DEATH JOLTS SNOOK

Horse Doctor Wobbles As Prosecutor Shouts

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Aug. 13. (UP)—The state today made its formal demand upon the jury hearing the case of Dr. James Howard Snook accused of the murder of Thebra Hix for the life of Doctor Snook as a forfeit to society.

Paul Hicks, opening arguments for the prosecution shouted that "in this case there should be no mercy" Doctor Snook wobbled in his chair, his mouth sagged, his chin dropped, and his face grew red to the summit of his shining, bald dome.

Then E. O. Ricketts, elderly chief of Snook's staff of defense lawyers, stepped before jury and argued for an hour that "the state has, by no stretch of the imagination, shown a case of anything more serious than second degree murder" and pleaded for a verdict of manslaughter or less.

With those two addresses to ponder over Doctor Snook left for his county jail cell as court adjourned at the close of Ricketts' argument, a worried, nervous and almost broken man.

Tomorrow his case undoubtedly will reach the jury. Four more hours of argument are scheduled. Then will come the judge's charge and submission of the case. It is estimated that the jury should retire by mid-afternoon and many believe there will be a verdict by dinner time.

Fort Sill Guards To Pass in Review Today

Special to The Record News

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 13.—Division review of the Oklahoma National Guards will be held before Major General Lassiter of Fort Sam Houston, at Camp Holloway, Fort Sill, at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning. General Lassiter arrived at Post field by airplane at 4 o'clock this afternoon and was given the official salute of his rank and a military escort to camp. The review will include practically every officer and guardsman in camp. Tuesday had originally been fixed for the division parade but the date was advanced one day. Many visitors will witness the parade.

Ship Sinks After Being Rammed by Another

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Spanish merchant ship Eo, which left here yesterday with a cargo of ore for La Pallice, collided with an unidentified vessel at dawn four miles off Cape Rocca. The unidentified vessel sank immediately, presumably with all hands. The Eo, despite her own damages, searched the whole area without avail.

(The Eo is not listed in available shipping registers.)

Three Negro Children Are Burned to Death

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 13. (UP)—Trapped in a blazing house, three negro children were burned to death here last night after one of them had set fire to their home by playing with matches.

Gardner Secures Reinstatement Of Fort Worth Player for Series Here

DALLAS, Aug. 13. (AP)—Sportsmanship in professional baseball had its inning here today.

J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league, requested the acting head of the circuit to reinstate a suspended Fort Worth player in order that the Panthers might be pitted against the Gardner team in their full force. As a result, Larnon Cox, outfielder suspended for three days starting Aug. 13 after an altercation with Umpire Donnelly Monday, will be permitted to play in tomorrow's game at Wichita Falls with a fine of $25 in lieu of the last two days of his sentence.

William B. Ruggles, acting president of the league, ordered the reinstatement tonight on receipt of the request from Mr. Gardner at Wichita Falls.

The Gardner statement: "In view of the close character of the pennant race and the already crippled state of the Fort Worth club I believe that the best interests of baseball will be served by having the full strength of the Fort Worth club in the four-day series with our team. The Wichita Falls club would appreciate it as a personal favor if Outfielder Cox is reinstated in time to play in this series."

FRENCH AGREE IN CONFERENCE TO QUIT RHINE

Understanding Reached on Evacuation by Four Big Delegates

FINANCIAL ACCORD

Achievement for British Labor Diplomacy Seen In Settlement

By GEORGE W. HINMAN JR.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, Aug. 13. (US)—France today agreed to evacuate the Rhineland.

This understanding was reached at a conference between Briand, Henderson, Stresemann and Paul Hymans under the presidency of the Briton.

The conference marked what is authoritatively described as "a tremendous step forward" toward the eventual liquidation of the world war's aftermath.

Financial Accord Expected

While it is naturally understood by the French that the evacuation shall be accompanied by all-round financial accord, the reaching of the understanding represents an undoubted achievement of British labor's diplomacy in insisting that deeds rather than an endless stream of words are what Europe needs most.

Simultaneously with the meeting of the quartet of delegates, the financial trio—Snowden, Loucheur and Milfording—met and labored industriously to work out a mutually agreeable solution of the controversial phases of the Young plan particularly as to its effect on German deliveries in kind. In this instance also, marked progress was noted.

The decisive step in regard to the Rhineland occupation was described succinctly in a statement issued by the British delegation which, while no name was attached, undoubtedly was the words of the Hon. Arthur Henderson himself.

British Statement

The statement follows:

"The meeting was so satisfactory that it was considered unnecessary for the political commission to meet tomorrow.

"This will give Monsieur Briand the opportunity of ascertaining from his military experts the date whereon the evacuation of the French troops could be completed. The period required for evacuation by the occupying powers is, in a measure, dependent upon the methods to be followed for liquidating the financial claims resulting from the occupation.

"Mr. Henderson (Britain) will meet with the representatives of Germany, France and Belgium before another meeting of the political commission is convened."

First Three Bales Arrive at Seymour

Special to The Record News

SEYMOUR, Texas, Aug. 13.—Seymour strode ahead of its neighbors today. Not only the first bale of 1929 cotton was brought in, but the second and third as well.

W. L. Crawford, of the Cottonwood Hole community, got here first with a 465 pound bale, and won the premium of $44 offered by merchants for the grower of the first bale.

Ten minutes later in came W. H. Beavers with the second bale, and about three quarters of an hour later the third was brought in by Grady Cline.

Crawford maintained a three year record by getting in just in time. For the last three years he has brought in the first Baylor county bale to the gins.

Committee to Purchase Alamo Land Named

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—Mrs. Clara Driscoll Sevier of Austin, V. B. Proctor of Victoria and Jacob F. Wolters of Houston were appointed by Governor Moody today to serve on the committee to purchase land adjoining the Alamo in San Antonio. The legislature failed to make an appropriation for the purchase after a $250,000 item was lost in the bills vetoed by the governor.

Wine Tonic Causes Death Of California Man

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13. (US)—Wine tonic caused the death today of B. F. Roe, 50, at the county hospital. Two days ago Roe was found in a semi-conscious condition in his home by neighbors who heard his groans. An empty wine tonic bottle was beside him. Physicians reported the wine tonic had aggravated an old stomach complaint, with death resulting.

Texas Guardsmen Are Complimented by General

CAMP PALACIOS, Texas, Aug. 13. (UP)—That the 36th division of Texas National guards encamped here is "a good answer to the question of national defense" was the comment today of Maj. Gen. William Lassiter shortly before leaving for Oklahoma.

Polite Policeman

BROCKTON, Mass., Aug. 13. (AP)—A policeman's uniform was a piece of "property" that just was not to be had in Brockton. But the ingenuity of a vaudeville actor and the willingness of a policeman saved the day for the former. The policeman accommodated the actor, spending his rest period in the dressing room while his uniform draped the actor's frame on the stage.

Horse Query

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Aug. 13. (AP)—Asheville police have brought in a rideriess bay horse in whose saddle bags were several gallons of liquor. Some doubt exists as to whether the horse can be charged with violating the dry laws. And if so, shall the horse be brought into court, or the court moved to the stable.

Woe to Superstitious

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 13. (AP)—Beaumont's new criminal district court was established by law on the 13th of the month. The first list of prospective jurors included 13 names. The first grand jury disposed of 13 cases the first week, and 13 others were set for consideration the second week. And the 13th defendant to be tried pleaded guilty to horse stealing.

Slaying of U. S. Agent Seems Near Solution With Quiz of Witness

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 13. (AP)—U. S. deputy marshals, investigating the murder of Paul E. Reynolds, department of justice agent, said late today they had located a man who declared he heard the shot fired which killed Reynolds, and that this witness also overheard a brief conversation between two of the suspected slayers immediately after the shooting.

"Don't hang on to him, don't hang on to him, turn him loose," were the words the federal officers reported the witness heard. The latter's name was withheld, the officers being fearful of harm coming to him from the suspected slayers.

Coincident with this development in the case the Phoenix police announced they believed they had established the identity of Reynolds' slayers. They predicted an arrest within a few hours.

Mystery surrounding the slaying of Reynolds whose body with a bullet through the heart was found in an irrigated canal near here yesterday, had deepened today with the disclosure that the man had been working on a case said to in-

Wichita Woman Hurt In Auto Collision

Mrs. W. Blanchard, 605 Bridge street, suffered painful cuts on the head and scalp when the car in which she was riding and another car, driven by Mrs. R. V. Breland, 2611 Lawrence street, collided at the corner of Ninth and Van Buren streets about 10 o'clock Tuesday night. The injured woman was taken to the Wichita General hospital in an Albert's company ambulance. J. H. Martin, 610 Madison street, who was also in the car, escaped unhurt. Plainclothes Officer Elmer Thornton investigated the accident.

Witnesses Against Vaudeville King In Assault Case Are Under Guard

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13. (US)—Three important witnesses against Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire vaudeville theater operator charged with criminally attacking a young girl, were taken from their homes tonight and placed in custody of deputy sheriffs.

The sudden move was ordered by District Attorney Buron Fitts, who declared he would take no chances of his principal witnesses being molested.

Tonight the district attorney ordered a concentration on the examination of all feminine employes of the Pantages theater building in an effort to find the girl who pushed terrified 17-year-old Eunice Pringle back into the little messenine room as she fled screaming from her alleged attacker.

Pantages, who is free on $25,000 bail, will have his preliminary hearing tomorrow afternoon. He is charged with criminal assault upon a girl under 18 years of age and of criminal assault by means of force and violence.

The three witnesses taken to a place of security by deputy sheriffs are W. C. Hale, W. L. Gordon and Fred Wise.

They heard the frantic screams of the bruised and terrified amateur dancer and were the first to rush to her aid. Renewed threats against the girl and her parents resulted in Fitts deciding the three witnesses should be protected.

SAN MARCIAL UNDER WATER FROM FLOODS

Villagers Reach Safety As Water Surges Over Protecting Dyke

REFUGEES IN EL PASO

Crest of Puerco and Salazar Rivers Expected Before Dawn

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Aug. 13. (AP)—The entire village of San Marcial, N. M., was under water from floods from the Rio Puerco river today and most of the buildings had collapsed. The residents fled to nearby hillsides. Nearly all the buildings are of adobe construction.

MEN WAGE FIGHT TO SAVE HOMES

SAN MARCIAL, N. M., Aug. 13. (UP)—With the waters of the Rio Grande seeping over the top of the levee that protects this community, every available man in San Marcial fought today to strengthen the dykes and prevent the most disastrous flood in history here. The levee is 10 feet above the ground level of San Marcial.

Women and children of the town were placed aboard a special train today and were sent to El Paso, Texas.

Crest Awaited

Late this afternoon water stood in the principal streets to a depth of six feet. The crest of the flood was expected before daylight as thousands of gallons of flood water from the Puerco and Salazar rivers roared toward San Marcial.

A back flood from Elephant Butte reservoir caused the Rio Grande to rise to its highest mark in the history of this section.

Damage estimated already at $350,000 has been done, 200 small adobe houses are expected to collapse momentarily, and huge cracks have appeared in the walls of the San Marcial opera house, a $10,000 structure.

San Acacia and San Antonio, small villages above here, also were under water tonight, all residents having taken refuge on higher ground.

Refugees Cared For

Dispatches from El Paso said the women and children of San Marcial were being cared for in hospitals and welfare centers there. No one was injured.

Many of the inhabitants of San Marcial moved to the foothills and tonight either were living in the homes of ranchers or were camping in tents. Some ranchers in the low districts drove their livestock before them as they left their homes.

The town, with an ordinary population of about 1,500, was deserted, except for about 150 business men who remained with their property. They were using boats as a means of transportation through the flooded streets.

Diver Killed When He Grabs High Tension Wire

DAMARISCOTTA, Maine, Aug. 13. (AP)—The attempt of Loring Burnham, 32, of Damariscotta Mills to thrill a crowd of spectators cost him his life. After making several dives from the top of an iron bridge here into the river, Burnham, although warned, started to strip off insulation on a high tension line running the length of the span. He lost his balance and grabbed the almost bare wire. The force of the current held him until the high voltage, short circuiting through his body, melted one of the strands and he dropped into the river 30 feet below.

FIVE MEN DIE IN BOILING OIL

Super-Heat Fluid Comes From Broken Pipe

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13. (US)—An explosion of boiling oil today at the Shell Refining company's harbor district plant killed five men and so seriously burned a sixth that he will not live.

The blast of death followed the breaking of a pipe carrying superheated oil to the cracking plant. Fire which followed did $10,000 damage. No sooner had it been extinguished than a second terrific explosion shook the gasoline refinery. A steam pipe in the trembler plant had burst. It caused no extensive damage, however.

KNOCKING OFF HIS HUB CAPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Among nicest souvenirs of boulevard strife are hub caps.

In the struggle for parking space hub caps are something like elbows at boarding house tables.

They project over building lines and are subject to condemnation under laws of public domain.

When you are twirling your wheel in an effort to make a three-foot harbor you will notice that the only thing that stymies you are your neighbors' hub caps.

Rather than forfeit your spot under the arc light you have to do some expert steering.

By clever seamanship you can not only park your bus, but you also shear off four hub caps.

Civil war means chauffeur against chauffeur.

Like that intrepid pilot along the Mississippi, you are holding her nozzle against the curb until the last galoot's ashore.

Then you step out to look at the damage. Four beautiful hub caps are loose on the cement plateau. Not much to look at. But like the monkey's child, all your own.

To the victor belongs the spoiled. You gather up those caps in your capacious arms and deposit them in your hope chest.

Polished and silvered, they make very beautiful wedding presents.

We know one bank president—and when we say we know one bank president, we mean one is enough to know—anyway, this gentleman makes paper weights of his captured hub caps.

Another lady chauffeur, whose driving is strictly on a tangent, converts her hub caps into salt cellars.

They also make good ash trays during the blindfold cigaret season.

In fact, or otherwise, there are many uses to which you can put hub caps.

A Rolls-Bronx hub cap will just fit one goldfish.

It is very easy to furnish a home these days if you save all the damage that you do.

We visited the Van Louzes the other day. They live in the suburbs and as we went in the front door, their butler said:

"Mrs. Van Louze wants to know if you care to amuse yourselves by looking at her hub caps."

Nowadays, butlers are just like one of the family.

Vocal numbers with stringed accompaniment furnished by the singers are to be given by Bailey Howard and Reese Mosely. Solos on the harmonica will be contributed by Ralph Brown, while Ned McDaniel will strum tunes new and old on the banjo.

GETS BACK OLD TIME STRENGTH

"The Sargon treatment is simply wonderful for bringing back strength and energy for now, after a few weeks taking it, I feel like a different man entirely.

"On account of my work I was forced to eat and sleep irregularly for a long time, with the result that I became very run down and debilitated. Chronic indigestion gradually weakened me and kept me in bad health. I would suffer terrible pains after every meal, no matter how light it was. At night these pains robbed me of sleep and my condition finally got so bad I couldn't even eat an orange or a grapefruit without suffering afterwards. Naturally, I was always tired and listless.

"Then I started Sargon—and commenced to feel better right from the beginning. I now enjoy my food and my digestion is fine. I'm never bothered with stomach trouble and get plenty of good, sound sleep. I feel better and stronger than I have in years—and I'll never be without Sargon again."—E. D. Frank, 1610 Twentieth St., Galveston, Texas.

LOVER AT 91 KEEPS PROMISE

Aged German Sails to Wed His 'Best Girl'

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 13. (US)—Seventy-four years ago, as the first winds of winter whined through the little German town of Kanshein on the Rhine, Jacob Schwartz kissed the upturned lips of a girl and promised to return and marry her when he had made a "nest egg" in America.

Through a span of more than an ordinary man's life Schwartz worked to win the small fortune promised him in his dreams of a land of golden opportunity. The passing years brought changes. The world became different—a new world. Only one thing remained constant and unchangeable—Schwartz's love for Freda Schmidt.

Today he is at sea on the liner Los Angeles, returning to keep his promise to Freda Schmidt.

Autumn will be tinting the leaves in Kanshein on the Rhine when the lovers meet again—just as the winter of life has whitened and withered young and handsome Jacob Schwartz and laughing, pretty Freda Schmidt since the goodbye kiss 74 years ago.

Schwartz now is 91 years of age. His bride-to-be is 90.

"Feeling old? I'm as spry as a youngster and just as anxious to get married," Schwartz declared just before the liner steamed from Los Angeles. "My Freda has waited all these years for me, and now that I have accumulated the 'nest egg' we are going to be together for the remainder of life."

Legislature Fails to Add Figures Correctly, Causing Veto

AUSTIN, Aug. 13. (AP)—The legislature played a smart trick on Governor Moody—unconsciously, however. Just poor calculators.

When F. B. Hardeman, statistician in the comptroller's department, checked the legislature's adding he found five items in the eleemosynary bill totaled $233,000 more than the footings vouched for by the legislators.

Governor Moody had accepted the legislature's total as correct when he adjusted his sights for reducing the state's cost of government.

Win $1000.00 CASH

This Offer Is Open to Every Reader of This Announcement

It makes no difference who you are or where you live we want you to send us a name for our toothpaste. Whoever sends the most suitable name will win—nothing more is necessary to gain this cash prize of $1,000.

Nothing to Buy—Nothing to Sell You can use a coined word or a word made by combining two or more words, such as "Snow-White," "Gum-Strength," etc., or any other name you might think would fit the high quality of this dental cream. There is nothing to buy or sell—simply the person sending the best and neatest suggestion for a name will receive $1,000 cash prize, or, if prompt, $1,100 in all.

ANY NAME MAY WIN
No matter how simple you think your suggestion is you cannot afford to neglect sending it at once. Any name may win.

NAME THIS

Win this $1000 cash prize by a few moments' thought. How can you earn this amount of money easier or more quickly? Remember, there is no obligation! The person submitting the winning name will have nothing else to do to win the $1000 and the extra $100, if prompt. In choosing a name bear in mind this dental cream is marvelous for teeth and gums. It is designed to sweeten the breath, beautify the teeth, cleanse cavities and promote teeth and gum health. The only thing necessary to win is to send the name we choose as the neatest and best suited for this dental cream. Only one name will be accepted from each contestant. This unusual offer is only one of a number of offers embraced in our novel distribution plan, whereby those taking part may win any one of twenty-odd prizes, the highest of which is $3500 cash. By participating in our distribution plan the winner of the $1100 cash prize may win an additional $3500, making a total of $4600. Everyone sending a name regardless of whether it wins or not, will be given the same opportunity to win the $3500 or one of the other cash prizes. Get busy with your suggestion at once—do not delay! Neglect may cost you thousands of dollars.

$100 EXTRA for PROMPTNESS

To get quick action I am going to pay the winner an extra $100 for promptness, or $1100 in all—so send your suggestion AT ONCE!

Contest Rules

This contest is open to everyone except members of this firm, its employees and relatives.

Each contestant may send only one name. Sending two or more names will cause all names submitted by that person to be thrown out.

Contest closes November 30, 1929. Duplicate prizes will be given in case of ties.

To win the promptness prize of $100 extra, the winning name suggested must be mailed within three days after our announcement is read.

Summer doubles the need for this deodorizing sanitary protection

IN summer . . . when danger of offense is so much greater . . . what a relief to know that Kotex completely deodorizes! What a relief to forget old fears . . . to know there is no possibility of offense.

But there are other reasons why millions of women find Kotex absolutely essential in summer.

Kotex is always light, cool, comfortable. It never loses its softness. It simply cannot pack. It is so very absorbent that weight and bulk are unnecessary.

Kotex is non-detectable. The corners are rounded and tapered so no outline shows even under summer's filmiest frocks.

Women appreciate, too, the ease with which Kotex disposes. There's no more fuss and laundering. The layers of filler can easily be adjusted as needed. Kotex brings complete sanitary comfort to summer's most trying days.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used practically exclusively by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT TELLS OF FIGHT WITH ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

DRYS GO WET IN COURT TILT

Mabel Names Big Faults of Temperance Body

THE INSIDE OF PROHIBITION
X. When the Anti-Saloon League Went Wet

By MABEL W. WILLEBRANDT

(Copyright, 1929, by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world.)

There is no more interesting or unusual chapter in my experience as a prosecutor under the prohibition law than that which curiously enough involved a simultaneous battle with a St. Louis brewery and the Anti-Saloon league of Missouri.

Mrs. Willebrandt

I have been accused of being under the domination of the Anti-Saloon league. Such accusations, however, are not unusual with respect to any person who is engaged in work that is in any way connected with prohibition.

But familiarity with the case of United States vs. Heber Nations absolves me from the charge of league domination. In the Nations case we not only had a legal battle with lawyers, but I met the organized opposition of the Anti-Saloon league in every step of the investigation and trial.

I bear for the Christian men and women who have worked with passionate zeal for the prohibition cause the most sincere respect. I have never, however, seen a more flagrant example of misuse of influence and power than the Missouri Anti-Saloon league exhibited in the Nations trial.

A Wet in Dry Clothing

The Nations family had long been active in the dry cause. Heber Nations, the defendant, was state labor commissioner of Missouri. His brother, Gus, was chief of federal prohibition officers stationed in St. Louis. Both had as a mutual friend, Charles Prather, state beverage inspector of the same state. The government indictment charged, in substance, that Heber Nations conspired with others and officials of the Griesedieck Brewery company to violate the prohibition act through releases of high-powered beer. It was charged that Heber Nations' part in the conspiracy was to keep the brewery advised, through his brother, Gus, then chief prohibition officer in St. Louis, when it would be safe to run out the forbidden brew. All defendants pleaded guilty to the indictment with the exception of Heber Nations. Through his extensive affiliations, political and otherwise, Nations was given the "moral support" of thousands of people, who honestly believed he was the victim of persecution. Notwithstanding this fact, however, he was twice convicted by juries. The verdict was set aside by the circuit court of appeals because of improper statement made by the United States attorney in the presence of the jury. The case now awaits retrial.

When the case first arose the Nations family through the press and pulpit roused the organized drys with a frenzy of protest. In spite of it, I insisted that the case, resting upon amply corroborated testimony of official misconduct and bribery, should be handled just the same even though one of the defendants was an Anti-Saloon league official, as it would were the defendants known bootleggers.

The Drys Fight the Government

Anti-Saloon league demands piled up on my desk to order a dismissal. Instead I asked that the case be set for trial. The situation grew so hot in St. Louis that the local office called for help. I went out for the trial. A jury panel was called. The Anti-Saloon league officials spoke, wrote, pleaded, in an effort to stop the trial, and distributed literally thousands of documents printed on the official stationery of the Anti-Saloon League of Missouri, May 16, 1925, appealing for support for Nations.

Political Shoals

Some of these fell into the hands of prospective jurors. In addition to that appeal the league drew up a mimeographed brief entitled "Statement of Facts Concerning Nations Case and Law Enforcement, by A. H. Post, Superintendent, Missouri Anti-Saloon league."

It seems unbelievable that an organization pledged to secure and obey law would resort to such tactics to prevent one of their members from facing trial and thus testing in an orderly and constitutional way the truth of the charges against him. It was obstruction of justice, bordering closely on contempt of court, and I condemn it as quickly and resist it as vigorously as when bootleggers' friends attempt the same interference with trials by different means.

Recently we have witnessed much attack on the Anti-Saloon league as an invisible government and political oppressor. In fairness, I must say, that the league's resort to tactics such as in the nations case is conspicuous by its rarity.

Wayne Wheeler was an able lawyer. He was a determined, politically astute man. I always believe he guided the league into dangerous shoals by too much political activity. Early in my tenure he offered to help me if I wanted to secure appointments and if for the "good of the cause" I would let him know of matters officially under consideraiton here. The latter of course I could never do—consequently my relations with the Washington office of the Anti-Saloon league remained distant, but were always cordial.

The real undying spirit which I do sense among the league's membership as a beneficent force in civic life is represented by the non-political, quieter approach to the liquor problem by such men as Dr. Cherrington. The league will hold its place just in proportion as it relinquishes any disposition to name appointees, and develops a disposition to continual civic education on temperance and law observance.

No Dry Votes for Wets

That is the reason for the continued influence of the Woman's Christian Temperance union. Their consecration is sincere, unwavering and utterly unselfish. You seldom find them voting for a carousing public official solely because he voted for a dry law.

In my judgment the Anti-Saloon leagues' political activity is one of several contributory causes to a very repulsive modern phase of public life. I refer to the politcal hypocrisy of drinking "drys." The league, I believe, would be stronger today had it been more reluctant to endorse a man who would compromise his courage and honest convictions just to vote dry while dealing blows in the back to the 18th amendment.

I look forward to the time when the powerful devotion to the cause of prohibition represented in the organization known as the Anti-Saloon league will become again a virile civic force to teach temperance and obedience to law. This will, of course, indirectly affect political results, but the approach will be educative and informative rather than political.

Backsliders Among the Drys

After the supreme effort put forth by consecrated "drys," with the Anti-Saloon league largely acting as shock troops, to secure the 18th amendment, these consecrated "drys" have too often developed "rocking-chairitis." They have leaned back in complacent enjoyment of the great victory the 18th amendment represents to them.

The 18th amendment is not nearly so much a victory as it is a challenge. One reason for the slough of despond many serious minded citizens find themselves in over the 18th amendment—citizens who were at first enthusiastic about it—is because there has been a cessation of quiet, steady, forceful education on the value of temperance, community by community, throughout the country, which the dry thinking, dry living and dry voting people maintained before the 18th amendment was secured.

They should never have stopped it for a moment. The lull in their efforts along this line in the past five years, particularly, has given a great advantage to those conducting organized opposition to prohibition. The opportunity before the Anti-Saloon league and its challenge is to get out of rocking chairs, and roll up their sleeves, state by state, county by county, and community by community, and revive interest in the desirability and economic advantage of abstinence, and the civic obligation of law observance.

CADDY LOST

Police Seek Abductors of Boy Kidnaped on Golf Course

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—A 16-year-old caddy, Frank Yosek, was kidnaped from the Ravieloc Country club course at Homewood, Ill., yesterday in view of several players. Today police were still seeking him and his abductors, two men.

While being driven from Homewood to Chicago the boy leaped from the automobile and sought refuge in a house, the owner hiding him in the attic when he cried he was being kidnaped. His abductors, however, followed and found him.

One of the men was identified as Yosek's brother, Peter, 25, of Detroit, Homewood police said. They found a letter at the caddy's home which led to the belief the boy was needed in a plot concocted by a group of Detroit racketeers.

NOT SO BAD, AS FISH YARNS GO

Intoxicated Minnow Hangs Big Bass by Neck

TYLER, Texas, Aug. 13. (UP)—Jack Boyd, Tyler fireman, recently returned from Colorado and reported what he believes is the best fish yarn of the season.

Boyd states that in the mountains one day the fish were not striking, and he had spent the better part of the forenoon with no luck.

Finally he caught a shiner, about three inches long, and decided to fill him with corn liquor and put him on his hook for bait.

The shiner was duly filled with corn, but backed up and refused to be hooked.

A 30 minute struggle ensued before the shiner was hooked and lowered; and the line had barely sunk when there was a terrific tug.

After a few minutes encounter Boyd brought a seven-pound bass to the bank but when he started to remove the hook he found that it was not in the bass' mouth, but that the shiner had the big boy by the back of the neck and had aiding in towing him to shore.

People went without cars

While Waiting for This Pierce-Arrow!

AN eagerness, rare in these sophisticated days, prompted many people not only to order a new Pierce-Arrow Straight Eight on sight, but to insist upon turning in their old cars immediately. Disappointment in many cases was of course inevitable.

The new Straight Eight is not a car to be turned out in quantity—regardless of a natural desire to serve Pierce-Arrow patronage at all costs. Demand simply had to wait on production—in many instances, for months.

Today sees this situation well in hand, however—with everyone who went without cars while awaiting Pierce-Arrow delivery, now feeling well rewarded for the deprivation.

Some of the most favored models in the new Straight Eight line are on display today.

THE ECONOMY TWINS

SEVEN cents and five cents are the two steps in the new domestic electric service rate of the Texas Electric Service Company. This rate now makes electric energy cheaper than ever before. You can use double the amount of electricity which you formerly used for only a small additional cost.

This new rate is composed of a moderate flat charge based upon the number of rooms in your home. Then for each room in your home you may use four kilowatt hours per month at a cost of 7 cents per kilowatt hour. For all kilowatt hours over four per room, you pay only 5 cents per kilowatt hour.

For instance, if you have a five-room house, you would pay 7 cents each for the first 20 kilowatt hours used, and 5 cents each for all additional kilowatt hours used. The flat charge for a five-room house is 70 cents. Suppose then that you used 25 kilowatt hours in one month. Your bill would be 70 cents plus $1.40 for the first 20 kilowatt hours, plus 25 cents for the additional five kilowatt hours, making a total of $2.35. Now if you used fifty kilowatt hours your bill would only be increased by $1.25, making a total of $3.60.

That is why we call 7 and 5 the economy twins. They are just that to you. They make it possible for you to use all the electricity you want at a price which is by far the lowest in the history of electric service in this community.

Electricity can do countless things for you in your home. It can save time and strength and money for you. It can do your work in less time and with scarcely any effort on your part, so that you will have New Hours in which to enjoy living. And as electricity creates these new hours for you, it, at the same time, saves your strength and preserves your health so that you can take fullest advantage of them.

With "7 and 5, the Economy Twins," ready and eager to work for you in your home so cheaply, you should investigate the many things electricity can do for you. Let the "Economy Twins" work for you.

Mrs. Paul Barnett Gives Lovely Party

One of the smartest bridge luncheons of the summer season was that given by Mrs. Paul Barnett, Tuesday at her home on Marshall street. The decorative motif was pink and green and it was carried out in flowers, favors and in the luncheon service.

In the games, Miss Virginia Lee Board, the attractive house guest of Mrs. Orville L. Carrico, was winner of high score and was presented with a lovely piece of Dresden china. Mrs. George Fairtrace was second and received a candy compote in pink crystal. Mrs. Charlie Bunnenberg was fortunate in the cut and received a green crystal ice set.

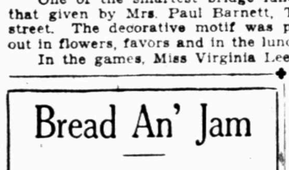

Pink roses were used as luncheon flowers on pink napery covers, set with green crystal service. A delicious two course lunch was served to Miss Virginia Lee Board, Mesdames George Fairtrace, Charles Bunnenberg, Barley Snyder, J. M. Whitworth, E. A. Shull, Hill Eubanks, Will Street, T. N. Davey, E. W. Napier, W. S. Tyson, Orville L. Carrico and the hostess.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We've been reading for some time about "What the Fashionable Woman Wears in the Summer," and it has ranged from chiffons to bathing suits, each—as well as all else mentioned, of most minute brevity. There's a saying that one might as well be out of the world, as out of fashion, so every woman likes to know she is doing the proper thing.

But to be fashionable, one should now be donning fall felts and wearing jersey or woolen frocks.

Fancy wearing anything but the lightest garb possible in weather like the weather man has been handing out. When summer started, we thought (and sometimes said), that we would never think of coming down town without sleeves in our dresses. But now, the less sleeve, the better. We do not criticise girls for sun back dresses, and sandals without hose would be most comfortable wear—though we have not the courage to start wearing them.

We feel an unfathomable depth of pity for the man who must wear a coat; and by the way, why should he, unless he chooses? Our idea of a real martyr is the man with a collar and tie adding hotter to hot.

Yet, the windows are full of velvets and satins, of furs, used in trim and of long fur coats. And women are buying them. There's an idea brilliantly spread abroad by furriers that furs in August and September are much cheaper than later in the season when people really need furs.

If that is so, it must be about the only thing sold cheaper in advance. Wearing summer things in winter and winter things in summer, is burning the candle at both ends and one always pays for that.

Summer things are on sale also, but what's the use? If one should pick up a bargain in price, just as apt as not it will be entirely out of style by next spring. This question of proper shopping makes one's head buzz.

O well, there are some blessings left in life. If you would like to see something lovely that doesn't cost (except the bumps on the rough road), drive out the Tenth street road to the bridge over the Wichita river just at twilight, and you will see a stream of silver with lovely shadows of graceful trees pictured on its bosom.

Then too, it has rained. We did wish it would keep on raining when we heard the rain on the roof. But we remembered another old Tennessee saying: "Rain in the morning is like an old woman's dance; it doesn't last long." However one Tennessee sign proved itself in Texas for on Monday night the sky was full of "buttermilk" clouds, which, in Tennessee is a sure sign of rain.

There's a little bit of sunshine in The Times and Record News office and we didn't realize what she was in all our lives until she became sick. We want her to know how we miss her. The person who always smiles at you is endearing.

Jimmy Pond Has Happy Birthday Party

Mrs. Paul Pond, 1801 Victory street, was hostess Monday afternoon to a number of young people honoring her little son Jimmy Pond on his third birthday.

Many games were played during the afternoon and the children fished in the fishpond for toys which served as favors to remember the party. Moving pictures were taken of the children during the afternoon.

A pretty birthday cake with lighted candles was shown and the children were served individual cakes and ice cream.

Those who were guests, were Ralph Peterson, Patricia Pond, Patsy Gaut, Clyde Johnson, Betty Jo Hall, June Lutts, Mary Lou Durrett, Mildred Durrett, Marie Sartin, Catherine Sartin, Clint B. Wood Jr., Hal Yeager Jr., Eddie Yeager, Dee Ford Jr., Laura Virginia Abernathy, Baby Abernathy, Joe Bill Tyson, Farrell Ray, Billie Wilhite, Mary Lynn Brouthertin, Elsie Jean Pace, Tom Bob Leslie, Margaret Ports, Patsy Sue Bailes, Marion Ruth Bailes, Clifford Deaton, Jr., Betty Don Bartlett, Kenneth Washington, Tommie Washington, Billie Stokes, Joe Meadow Stokes, Peggy Joe Pond, Gerald Pond Jr., Billie Jean Chapman, Jimmie Newell, Billie Curd, Bobbie Curd, Steve Rider, Josa Lou Bullington, Marion Bullington, Frances Ann Pond, Paul Pond Jr., and Jimmy Pond.

Miss Dix Writes On Effects Of Absence on Love

"If Love Can Die of Loneliness in The Absence of the Beloved, It Is Equally Susceptible to the Blighting Influence of Ennui, and Probably the Deadest Dead Love in The World Is One Which Has Yawned Itself to Death."

In these parlous matrimonial times, when it is equally difficult to catch a husband and to keep him after you get him, no question is of more real heart interest to women than the effect of absence on love.

Is a woman most sure of being in a man's thoughts when she is so directly under his eyes that it is impossible to forget her or does he think most tenderly of her when she is far away and her remoteness makes a transfiguring haze that conceals all her faults and magnifies her charms? In other words, is it best to be Sally-on-the-spot or distant Imogene?

This is problem concerning which there is great diversity of opinion in feminine circles, both as regards before and after marriage, some contending that man is not a creature of habits, imperfectly domesticated at best and that it is never safe to let him quit eating out of your hand, while others hold that more love is bored to death than is killed in any other way.

There is no doubt that proximity is a great matchmaker. The real answer as to why 99 people out of a 100 married the particular individual that they did is because chance threw them together and nearness did the rest. This makes an enormously strong argument in favor of a woman's staying at home and looking after her fences and this is especially important before marriage. A love affair is like a business deal. You have to keep the interest worked up in it if you would pull it off successively. This is why the best method yet devised for breaking off unsuitable matches is to separate the couple and let absence gently and painlessly drug love to death.

If propinquity is so valuable in courtship, it would seem that it should be equally effective in matrimony. If a man falls in love with a woman because she is the one female in sight, it seems that the only logical and safe thing for her to do is to keep herself always on view and many wives subscribe to this theory. There are women who drag around the country on business trips with their husbands, they golf with them, work with them, play with them and never let them out of their sight.

This is the matrimonial trust spirit. It establishes such a monopoly on a man that it heads off all competition. Much may be said in support of this view of the situation. There is no better way of keeping a man home of evenings than his knowing he has to give an account of himself if he stays away.

Besides this, unsentimental as it is, after the first romantic passion has burned itself out, domestic love is mainly a good habit and so long as nothing occurs to break up the custom of a man's thinking his Maria the most beautiful and fascinating woman in the world he is liable to jog along without finding out any better. Great is the capacity of the woman who keeps so close to her husband that he never gets a perspective on her and sees her as she really is.

Not all the arguments, however, are on the side of those who contend that love must always be a personally conducted campaign. If love can die of loneliness in the absence of the beloved it is equally susceptible to the blighting influence of ennui and probably the deadest dead love in the world is that which has yawned itself into the grave.

The proof of a good general in love, as well as in war, is knowing when to beat a masterly retreat. Great an aid as proximity is to marriage, there is always the danger of its being overdone and ending in satiety. Many a man has failed to marry the woman he ought to have married because he knew her too well and has married the woman he should not have married because he did not know her well enough. In courtship absence can become an allurement of itself.

In married life the majority of couples quarrel because they see too much of each other. If most husbands and wives were married only three days a week instead of seven there would be fewer divorces. Any two people who stay together continually see the same people, read the same books and hear the same gossip, are bound to bore each other and the average family row begins in a frantic and unconscious effort to infuse a little pep into domestic life. Not without reason is the annual summer hegira of wives to the country and the nightly stampede of husbands to the club. Except for these safety valves the whole institution of domesticity would blow up.

The great tragedy of absence between married people is when it is so prolonged that the inevitable changes that are continually taking place in every human character have time to occur. We either go forward or backward as we grow older and it rarely happens that a man and woman who are apart and in different environment keep the same step.

If they had remained together they would not have noticed the little changes in each other because they would have come so gradually, but when they meet again after a separation of a year or so, they cannot fail to observe the difference in each other.

The man may have little vulgarities of speech and manner that his wife never noticed before because she was accustomed to them. Or he may wonder that he never realized how narrow and provincial his wife was. Life has no bitterer moment than that which reunites many a couple after a long absence and in which they never can be one again.

The truth is that in absence, as in everything else, safety lies in the golden medium. A little of it makes the heart grow fonder, but too much of it is fatal.

Absence should be taken intermittently, undiluted and in small, broken doses as the case requires.

—DOROTHY DIX.

"DAINTY FOR WEE MAIDEN"
Pattern 1752

This ravishing little model is fashioned of plain and dotted dimity—white for the frock, blue with white dotes for the cunning square yoke, the sleeve caps and the hem. Pleats in front create ample fullness and swing in the frock, and are stitched part way to hold them neatly in place.

Other seasonal fabrics for design 1752 are swiss, fine linen, gingham and organdie. A print might be chosen and trimmed with plain color. Smart colors for tiny tots are red, yellow, green and blue.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8.

Size 4 requires 2 yards of 36 inch material and ½ yard trimming.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions, including yardage for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our new spring and summer fashion book will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents in coin. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 W. Seventeenth street, New York City.

Lory Memorial Girls Reorganize Jr. G. A.

Altrusans Give Short Talks On Classifications

A novel and interesting feature of the Altrusa luncheon held Tuesday in one of the small dining rooms of the Wichita club, was a short talk by each member present on her individual classification. Only one member is admitted to Altrusa on one classification.

Miss Lucia Powell, the president, was in the chair and began the round table with an extremely interesting talk on the international library convention which met in Rome, Italy.

Miss Catherine Walker spoke next on the national business girl's conference which will meet in Estes park, Col. Aug. 20.

Mrs. Kathleen Nelms discussed investments. She explained to those who wished to invest money, what they should do before making an investment.

Miss Maude Thomas knew her subject well, talking of insurance; state insurance laws, rates and classifications.

Miss Myrle Neeley told of her recent trip to California to the national convention of social workers; she was particularly interested in the number of Community chest secretaries attneding the convention.

Mrs. Elizabeth Weldon demonstrated her classification in a lovely original poem, "The Four o'Clocks."

Mrs. Elwyn Lomax, who has just returned from a buying trip to New York, told of the new fall styles and what the winter will bring forth.

Mrs. Eva Wallace, superintendent of the Wichita Clinic hospital, told of what a hospital does for a community and what a community may do for a hospital.

The meeting was said to have been one of the most enjoyable held by the club.

Officers were installed in Petrolia Rebekah lodge 204 Monday by Mrs. Ethel Martin, assisted by Mesdames Mary Bradshaw, Wilford J. Scofield of Newport, Minn., Fannie Colboth, and J. F. Martin and C. H. Hayes.

Mrs. Martin is the lodge deputy for Wichita Rebekah lodge 236 and Mrs. Colboth is inside guardian of the Rebekah assembly of Texas.

Constitution Day in Germany Is Quiet

BERLIN, Aug. 13. (INS)—Constitution day—the tenth anniversary of the adoption of Germany's republican constitution—passed off with only minor disorders, according to word from all parts of the country today.

Sixty five arrests were made here as the result of sporadic clashes between Fascists and Communists and Reichsbanner men. There were no casualties.

KEEPING COOL

Bathing Suit Theft Gives Coppers Entirely New Kind of Worry

It seems that the heat is driving some persons to the extreme of stealing the wherewithal to get cool. Police were notified Tuesday that three bathing suits, of the most modern style, had been stolen from Jack Grundy, 1607 Bell street. Officers stated that with the present brevity and similarity of swimming togs it would be rather difficult to trace down any particular suits.

Mrs. J. D. Howell, 3302 Kessler Boulevard, reportad Tuesday that several dresses, pieces of underwear and jewelry had been stolen from her home while she was on a vacation trip in Colorado. Officers are working on the case.

BOYS' BAND TO ENTER CONTEST

Young Musicians Will Compete for Honors

The Wichita Falls Playground band, youngest musical organization of its kind in the city, directed by Paul Seeds, will be entered in the state contest for one-year-old bands to be held at the Texas State Fair in Dallas, Oct. 19, it was announced Tuesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

The band is only a few months old but has been developed, under the direction of Mr. Seeds, into one of the most popular musical groups in the city. It is composed of 50 pieces, the players all wearing a band uniform with caps to match. All the players are boys under 18 years of age. Their concerts have been heard at most of the free vaudeville programs at Bellevue park and on several other occasions during the summer.

40 Harmonica Players Enter City Contest

About 40 harmonica players have signified their intention of entering the city-wide harmonica contest to be staged at Bellevue park Wednesday night, it was announced Tuesday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent. The Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, will give a concert preceding the contest.

George Taylor, KGKO artist and well-known for his singing and playing of the guitar, will try his hand at a new instrument Wednesday night by entering the event and contesting for honors with less popular musicians.

Minnesota's potato farms draw many tourists each summer.

11,000 NAMES IN JURY WHEEL

List Completed for Wichita Court Panels

The names of 11,000 voters in Wichita county went into the jury wheel Tuesday for use in the jury panels of the district and county courts during the coming year. A committee which included Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk, Max Shumate, tax assessor, Mrs. Elsie Pruitt, deputy county clerk, Miss Sadie Tevis, deputy collector, and Miss Catherine Tyson, deputy sheriff, worked together to take the names from the poll tax list furnished by the assessor. Judge W. W. Cook ordered the filling of the wheel early last week in order to have the task of transcribing the names from the roll completed in time for the drawing of the September panels.

The workers omitted the names of women and of negroes from the slips that were placed inside the big black wheel which sits at the side of the 89th district court room throughout the year. The names are drawn from the wheel by the district clerk and the sheriff under the supervision of a district judge as they are needed to form jury panels during the year.

Maskat Temple Holds Weekly Luncheon

About 40 members of Maskat temple, their wives and visiting members, enjoyed the regular weekly luncheon at the Maskat club rooms, Tuesday. The luncheon was given in honor of the past captains of Maskat temple's patrol, Horace Robbins, Dr. John H. Fletcher, C. W. Nolen, L. R. Stringer, J. E. Gill and James Williams. Short talks were made by those present and by members of the original Maskat patrol. Entertainment was furnished by Miss Elizabeth Gaffield, dancer, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Pittman at the piano and by Noble Charlie Johnson who rendered several numbers on the harmonica. Tuesday's program was in charge of Robert Basham and Sid Gaines.

SEYMOUR FAIR PLANS RUSHED

Officials Expect Gala Fete Starting Sept. 12

Special to The Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Aug. 13.—Plans for the Baylor County Fair are taking shape rapidly. The 50th anniversary of Seymour is to be celebrated in a golden jubilee and home coming of pioneer citizens.

A magnificient historical pageant will be staged one night during the fair, under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Baker, principal of the Seymour High school. She will be assisted by Misses Sarah Wheat and Mildred Ballew, who have had special training in this work at C. I. A. Something like 100 characters will be used to depict Seymour from the first signs of civilization, molested by the red skins, up to and including its present stage of development into a thrifty city in the heart of a very fertile country.

The Alamo Exposition show, one of the largest carnivals ever to come to this part of the state will open their shows here Sept. 9 and continue through the fair dates, which are Sept. 12, 13 and 14. Other amusements will be provided, which will probably include dances, barbecues, picnics and swimming events. The Seymour park is a short distance from the fair park and will provide excellent camping grounds for those desiring such, and the shady grounds will be a retreat for the crowds during the day.

Farm Exhibits

County Agent S. A. Palmer states that one of the largest live stock and poultry exhibits ever to be held in this part of Texas will be on display in the exhibit hall. Ten community exhibits, with standard score cards, which are approximately the same as those used at the state fair, will insure a well balanced score card. The live stock exhibit, with especially fine dairy cattle, will be one of the leading features of the show. The entry list promises to be large due to the foundation work in promoting better dairy cattle by the combined efforts of the chamber of commerce and local banks, who have fostered and financed one of the best bull circles organized in Texas. The poultry department under the supervision and management of Robert Hayley, who is considered one of the most efficient poultry men in West Texas, promises to exceed all former shows held here. Mr. Hayley is already receiving entries all over West Texas, and Walter Burton, A. P. A. judge, has been secured to judge this department. The premiums are in line with all the leading poultry shows and competition is expected to be very keen.

Food Exhibits

The food exhibits, under the supervision of Miss Beulah Bradley, home demonstration agent, are being carefully planned by each community president, and canning exhibits are a daily feature in each club. The 4-H clubs are planning a large canning and clothing exhibit with premiums being offered in each department.

The race track at the fair grounds is in excellent condition for the automobile and horse races. The policy of the fair has been changed from rodeo to races and many entries are being received for these events. A full program for each day is promised by the fair association. The Seven Alexanders, a pretentious troupe of acrobats will furnish amusement during the entire program. The fair board, under the supervision of President R. C. Plants, is working every day to make this fair and golden jubilee a success in every department.

No Progress Seen In English Mill Situation

MANCHESTER, Eng., Aug. 13. (UP)—Sir Horace Wilson, of the labor ministry, conferred today with both sides in the Lancashire cotton dispute with no signs of progress, although it was believed the employers would agree to arbitration of their insistence on a 12½ per cent wage reduction, which the workers rejected.

Former Quanah Boy's Firm Lands Contracts for Russian Refineries

Fred Koch, Son of Former Quanah Editor, to Sail Soon for Soviet to Work Under $3,000,000 Contract

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, Aug. 13.—Of the $20,100,000 in orders placed in the United States during July by the Russian Soviet government, the Winkler-Koch Engineering company of Wichita, Wan., landed $3,000,000 in contracts for eight petroleum cracking plants to be installed at Batum and Tuapse, terminals of the two recently completed pipelines in Russia.

Fred Koch, junior member of this firm, was born in Quanah, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koch of Quanah. His father was for nearly 40 years editor of the Quanah Tribune Chief. Fred will sail for Russia shortly with a crew of engineers to be gone about three months. It is expected the engineers will remain for 18 months or two years until the plants are completed.

This is the second contract awarded this firm, a former contract being for over $300,000.

Purchases and contracts for the Soviet union in this country are handled by the Amtorg Trading corporation, New York. Purchases for the last year made by this company amounted to $33,100,000, while for the 10 months ending July 31, 1929, orders placed aggregated $51,000,000.

The Winkler-Koch Engineering company was established four years ago, and its business extends throughout the United States and Canada, as well as foreign countries. It specializes in refinery engineering.

State Fire Officials Probe Blaze at Vernon

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 13.—James Burns special representative of the state fire insurance commission of Austin and A. W. Pennington, special agent for the National Board of Fire Underwriters of Waco were in Vernon Friday in connection with the fire recently in a residence at 3600 Wichita street, owned by B. T. Bodiford.

Bodiford was arrested here Wednesday by local officers and a charge of arson was filed against him. He was released under a $1,500 bond following a preliminary hearing in justice court, and will await action of the grand jury.

Bridgeport High Gets Two Spanish Credits

Do you know this newest use for GAS?

A tiny Gas flame operates the modern woman's newest Servant . . . . the GAS REFRIGERATOR

Heat and cold are opposites. Yet, a tiny gas flame operates a remarkably efficient refrigerator in the paradox of the age. Small, this flame uses an negligible amount of gas. Quiet, there just isn't any noise. Efficient, moving parts are reduced to a minimum. And that saves service calls and all their attendant bother.

Its makers call this refrigerator, "Electrolux." But electricity has no part in its triumph. Gas alone performs the greatest paradox in the home appliance field . . . ice from heat! And incidentally, gas teaches the class in mechanical refrigeration something new about that great big word E-C-O-N-O-M-Y.

Electrolux is at its best in this Natural Gas belt where its economies are even more pronounced due to the low cost of fuel.

Learn more about the economy and convenience that Gas brings to you in the housekeeping business. Refrigeration, while the newest, is only one instance of what Gas, the modern fuel, is doing today.

ROAD MAP TO BANKRUPTCY

Daily Editorial

A AND B purchase their staples in the same primary markets. Both for instance handle the same fly killer. But A is a price cutter and sells it at 63c a can while B under a full price policy demands 75c for the identical article.

Since A asks 12c less quite naturally makes 10 sales to B's one.

In other words every time B collects 26c on his bit of capital investment A's money has popped in and out the till 10 times oftener and returns from each trip across the counter with an 11c dividend.

Which explains why A is expanding and B is asking for extensions.

No retailer can qualify as a sound merchant until he realizes that slow traffic is the deadliest disease of trade. Lazy goods keep accumulating carrying charges until they commit overhead suicide.

Watchful buying is the better part of salesmanship. It is a wise dealer who knows his safe minimums and orders accordingly. No concern can match values with competition if addicted to chronic indigestion.

The tie up of operating funds in excess stocks and reckless inventories unnecessarily transfers insurance and deterioration risks and confiscates warehouse space which the manufacturer would otherwise provide.

Each needless case and bolt and dozen represents in equivalent money lent to supply houses without interest yield.

Or to drive the point with another hammer the granting of credit instead of taking discounts.

A survey of any year's commercial failures will attribute half the shutdowns of shops to such stupidities and trace the remainder to high pressure traveling men inspired by pure blind management to kill the little geese for the sake of an immediately available golden egg.

It's much more profitable to keep 'em alive and nurture their laying habits.

Some years back a certain grocery distributor filled the Northwest with expert gogetters who convinced even ranch town merchants that local publics would absorb indefensible shipments of preserved orange marrons en sirop and types of luxuries solely appropriate for an exclusive metropolitan clientele.

The district is still littered with the stuff and each season its labels grow shabbier and the hope of disposal more remote.

Similar misrepresentation and betrayal of inexperienced confidence daily divert novelties and unseasonables to improper outlets leaving frozen assets on impotent hands and cogging the dice against the struggler and beginner.

Nobody can win at his game unless the cards are dealth straight and played with infinte caution.

Wouldn't it be fine if people were known fer what they are instead of what they belong to? There's so many ways to git away with murder these days that torch an' hammer slayers kin hardly decide what to plead.

More than 500 Welsh pilgrims from America will take part in the famous Welsh festival in England. They'll do a rare bit of singing. Welsh rare bit, perhaps, but not cheesy.

A Difficult Position

THE TRIALS and tribulations that Lindbergh, John Coolidge and Gene Tunney have known are about to descend on the shoulders of young Wilbur B. Huston, who recently won the nationwide contest for a boy to be educated as Thomas A. Edison's successor.

Whether he likes it or not, this lad is going to step into the full glare of the limelight. He will be a marked man. He is to get four years at any technical school he selects—and he might as well reconcile himself to the fact that his fellow students, his teachers and the outside world are going to watch his every action there, growing maudlin over his successes and super-critical over his mistakes.

This isn't fair, at all. It puts a terrific handicap on him. But in this over-publicized world, that's the way it will be. And we wish the young man the best luck in the world.

Genius has a right to its peculiarities. Thomas A. Edison is, indubitably, a genius; hence he can be permitted to have incomprehensible ways. And we must admit that his famous questionnaires fall right into that class.

The 49 high school graduates recently chosen to compete for the honor of being selected by Edison as his successor were handed a list of questions by the famous electrical wizard. Here are a few, as quoted by the United Press:

"How would you spend a million dollars? What mode of conduct should one adopt when accused of cheating? How would you move a three-ton weight if you were marooned on a desert island? Who was Jenny Lind?"

Now the answers to these questions probably will mean something to Mr. Edison, but we confess they would mean nothing whatever to us. It hardly seems going too far to suggest that it would take a genius to find a clew to them.

Women and Politics

WOMEN are becoming of ever-increasing importance in politics. They are now serving in all but 10 of the state legislatures, a recent survey disclosed, and eight of their sex occupy seats in congress.

The old theory that politics is a game meant for men alone seems to have been blasted and women no longer remain at home and let the men steer the ship of government.

With their clubs, political organizations and unparalleled willingness to work for a cause, women have become of vast importance in every election, whether it is in a tiny hamlet or a presidential race. Women have become main arms in both the major parties.

Unhampered by political alliances, in most instances, the successful women candidates are able to come into office with open minds and a sincere desire to improve their government.

But it will be interesting to note what happens when these women have been in office a number of years—when they realize support of party organizations means favors in return.

Many men have entered politics with the highest ideals and defying the political powers. But in the end so many of them turn to the easy way of staying in politics—trading favor for favor and voting like all good party men are expected to vote.

We hope—and yet we are afraid to predict it—that women will be a lot more stubborn when the political bosses crack their whips.

No More "All Aboard!"

HERE is a development about which something really ought to be done. The Central Vermont railroad has announced that hereafter its passenger train conductors will not cry "All aboard!" or wave lanterns to signal to the engineer. All signals will be passed mechanically, from the cars; and the colorful shouts and lantern wavings of railroad traditions will be no more.

Railroads being what they are, other lines no doubt will imitate this practice, until in all the United States there is not one that clings to the old custom.

Probably it's being done in the interest of efficiency and all that sort of thing, but it's hard to take. One of the chief thrills of childhood is boarding a train, snuggling into a seat, listening for the long-drawn, enthralling chant of the conductor—lengthened out with a sharp upward inflection at the very last—watch the red lantern swing high in the air, and settling down for the first gentle jerk of the moving train.

Wages for Children

IT'S A GOOD PLAN, says an English writer, to substitute a regular "wage" for those pennies and nickels you give the children. Many parents bemoan the fact that their children don't realize the value of money. How can they, when they can get it for the asking? They never have the chance to learn.

Instead of making mere gifts of money to your child, suppose you try putting him—or her—on a regular weekly "wage" in return for little tasks performed around the house. Pennies or nickels paid for these little trifles, instead of being handed out indiscriminately, will instill the spirit of industry and thrift at the formative age.

When your boy grows up and faces the world, he will have an appreciation of the value of money. And when your daughter grows up and starts housekeeping she will have an infinitely better idea of how to spend her money economically.

And, at the same time, you'll be developing their self-respect.

CHATTY—GODDESS OF CAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," ETC.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a job as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman, and becomes jealous of his friendship with Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuys' secretary.

Billie Langreau, who works in the office, comes to live in the flat across the hall from where Chatty lives. Chatty's brother, Pud, goes to high school and works evenings in Ben Tomlinson's drug store. Chatty learns that he delivers gin for Ben, and begs him to stop before he is arrested, but Pud refuses to do it.

One day Chatty sees David hand a note to Agnes Herford. Jealous, she goes through Agnes' desk to look for it. It is a simple message about some bonds, but in hunting for it Chatty finds Agnes' diary, filled with the story of her love for her employer. Chatty tears some of the pages out, and sends them to Mrs. Van, and Agnes is discharged. Dave Jordan, alone, knows that Chatty is responsible, and he drops her. Winnie Talcott, the office "vamp," gets Agnes' position. Winnie gets quite chummy with Chatty, and at a party Chatty meets Bryant Dunning, a new bond salesman. Winnie shows Chatty how to paint her face and "doll up." Bryant is married but tells Chatty he has left his wife.

Now Go On With the Story

"Your face?" he repeated, as if he heard only the tail-end of her sentence. "Well, it's a good paint job."

Then he turned back to his market page, as if that was the only thing that really interested him that morning.

Chatty did not speak to him again for a week.

By the end of the first week in June everybody in the office knew that Chatty was "stepping out" with Bryant Dunning.

Not that she told it! . . . Oh, no, indeed!

Much as she loved to tell everything about everybody, herself included, she had far too much sense to let the little word of the Van Nuys company offices know that she was running around with a married man.

It was Bryant who let the cat out of the bag.

Billie had said that he was a "he-gossip," and she had struck the nail on the head.

In his man's way he talked quite as much as Chatty did in hers.

"If you must run around with him and the rest of that crew, why don't you make him stop talking about you in the office?" Billie asked Chatty on the second Saturday afternoon in June, when they were on their way home.

"Everybody knows that he's separated from his wife," she went on, "and you haven't any more right to run around with him than I had to go around with George Hayhew—or than Agnes had to go out to lunch with Mr. Van. You're playing with fire, Chatty, when you fool around with him."

But Chatty just laughed at the warning.

"Oh, I guess I won't be burned," she said lightly. "And even if I wanted to stop seeing him, I could not do it now, Billie. I'm too crazy about him—" She sighed, and her face sobered suddenly.

She was "crazy" about him in a way that she, herself, didn't understand.

There were things about him she didn't like. The way he talked about her around the office. The perfume he used on his handkerchief—faint, but unmistakable. The polish on his nails. The tiny comb and mirror that he carried in his coat pocket.

He was as vain as a woman about his good looks.

But then, a man as handsome as he was had a right to be vain, Chatty told herself sometimes, in the depths of her infatuation for him.

For she was infatuated with him. All day long, while she worked at her switchboard she watched to see him come into the office. Waited for him to follow her to the water cooler in the corner and take tight hold of her hand for just a second, and tell her that he couldn't wait until it was half past five.

She couldn't wait for half past five, herself, these days. Couldn't wait for the time when the two of them would climb into the bottle-green roadster and drive around town until it was dark, and then park somewhere along a dark street or in the soft, shadowy gloom of the country, along some side road or other.

That was what she had been doing every night for the past week—"playing with fire," as Billie had called it.

"Are you going out tonight with your friend Dunning?" Billie asked now, as they turned into Lipton street, shabby and, dusty looking this afternoon, under the hot sunlight.

Chatty nodded.

"I am," she said, and defiance sounded in her voice. "You haven't any objection, have you?"

"None at all," Billie answered, calmly, and then she added: "Agnes is coming over to have supper with me and Sara."

"I suppose she's dying to hear all the news of our office," remarked Chatty. "I'll bet the first thing she'll want to know will be all about Mr. Van. What a simp she was to let herself fall for a married man—"

"That's what you're doing," Billie reminded her, quietly, breaking in upon what she was saying. "You're so wild about this Dunning and the gang he runs with that you don't realize what you're doing, Chatty."

At six that night, while she was dressing to go out with Bryant, Pud came knocking at the door of her room.

He and his mother had been having their Saturday night supper in the kitchen, and his mouth was full of cold corned beef and bread and butter.

"Woman here to see you," he said, in a muffled voice, chewing as he talked. "I told her to sit down in the front room—and she's sittin' there."

Pulling her kimono around her, Chatty went tip-toeing down the little hall and peeked into the room. There, on the old-fashioned sofa between the windows, sat Agnes Herford!

"Well, of all things!" Chatty exclaimed, and hurried into the room. "Agnes! Billie told me you were having supper with her. How nice of you to come in and say 'Hello' to me!"

She wasn't a bit glad to see Agnes. But she was dying to see how Agnes was taking her exile . . . Oh, she would call Mrs. Van up and tell her all about this in the morning! She certainly would.

"How does the new job go?" she asked, sitting down beside the pale, quiet looking girl. "New boss as nice to work for as Mr. Van was?"

Agnes shook her head.

"No one could ever be as nice to work for as Mr. Van," she said. "I came to talk to you about him, Chatty—or about his wife, I should say. You know her very well, don't you?"

Chatty nodded.

"Well, some time when you get a chance, I wish you'd tell her that her husband never liked me any better than he would have liked some man who worked in his office," Agnes went on, a slow flush going slowly across her face. "He treated me just as he might have treated some man secretary. And he never would have known that I cared a lot about him if someone hadn't taken my diary out of my desk and sent it to his wife."

"Please promise you won't tell, Chatty!"

She drew a long breath and went on.

"I saw Mr. Van this afternoon and he told me just what happened," she said. "I had lunch with Dave Jordan this noon, and afterward I went back to the office with him and saw Mr. Van. We had a long talk."

She sat silent, staring into space for a moment after she said that, as if she were remembering everything that he had said to her that day. Then she came back to earth with a start.

"Promise me you won't tell that to anyone, Chatty," she said. "If his wife heard about me going up to the office she'd probably be more angry with me than ever."

"Probably," answered Chatty, dryly.

She got up.

She had found out everything that she had wanted to find out—and besides, it was getting late. Bryant was coming for her at 7.

"It was nice of you to drop in, Agnes," she said, as she opened the door for her. "Goodnight."

The light in the ceiling of the hall cast deep shadows on Agnes' plain, pale face. She looked older and more haggard than Chatty had ever seen her, as she turned away.

"You don't see as much of Dave Jordan as you did, do you?" she paused to ask, her hand raised to knock on the door of Billie's suite. "He told me today that he hardly ever sees you any more."

The old familiar pang of jealousy went through Chatty's heart for a moment, like some dreadful pain.

But her voice was light and indifferent when she answered.

"Never see him," she said, and backed into the tiny hallway of her own suite. "Bye-bye, Aggie—"

"Good night," the other girl answered once. "And remember what I said about not telling anyone about this afternoon—"

Chatty closed the door on the sound of her voice.

"Any old day I won't tell," she said to herself. "Any old day—"

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—One of the city's better known patrolmen, August Schalkman, has devised a highly remunerative game which might be called—and gosh! what an awful pun this is—a combination of pinochle and bridge.

The bridge—and this is what makes the pun so bad—isQueensborough bridge, where, sooner or later, nearly all the automobiles in the city are to be found.

Eagle Eye Gus, as Schalkman is called, is a magnificent pinochle player. He can remember perfectly all the cards that have been dealt during the evening. So, with this pinochle memory, it is mere child's play to keep in mind any given set of automobile license numbers.

So, every day, Eagle Eye Gus runs over a list at the station house of all the license numbers of stolen cars. Then he goes to his post on the bridge and begins his little game. His mind photographs every license plate that comes along. When he sees a familiar number, he stops the driver and arrests him for grand larceny.

Eagle Eye has been on duty on the bridge a little more than three years. He has found 133 stolen cars in that time. Yet police rules frown upon playing pinochle in station houses.

Babe in the Woods

Not all of the cars in New York get across the bridges, however. The other day I hailed a taxicab on lower Broadway, and told the driver to take me to Fifth avenue and Fiftieth street. He looked blank for a moment, and then started out—in the wrong direction.

"Hey!" I yelled, "Fifth avenue is this way."

I had to direct him at every turn. When we reached Fiftieth street I paid him off and then asked him if he had been driving a cab very long.

"Five years," he replied. "But to tell you the truth, governor, I've been driving over in Brooklyn, and this is the first time I ever got across to Manhattan. I took a party over here and was trying to find my way to Brooklyn bridge when you flagged me."

Radio Failures

Most amusing of the recent broadcast features was the inability of the microphones to pick up an address by President Hoover, after elaborate preparations had been made. It was discovered, too late for anything to be done about it, that no one had thought to put a microphone in front of the president's table. A New York newspaper, commenting editorially upon the disaster, remarked briefly, "On Sept. 23, 1908, Fred Merkel failed to touch second base."

Bonehead plays like that one are seldom made in radio, I am told, but often big events fail to go on the air. Usually the weather is at fault. Early in the summer Mrs. Herbert Hoover was to broadcast from the president's camp in Virginia, and the weather did its best to ruin the party, but in the end an army of engineers overcame the difficulty.

In the first place, rain and bad roads delayed the arrival of the technical men at the camp. No sooner had they got there and established a line connecting the camp with the main distributing panels in New York, when a storm wrecked the works. Within an hour another line had been set up and tested, and another storm ruined everything. A third line was connected just in time for the broadcast.

Ask Mr. Cross

Milton J. Cross is paying the price of glory. Ever since he won the award of the American Academy of Arts and Letters for the most perfect diction of any radio announcer, he has been deluged with requests for his opinion on word pronunciations. The other day he was having an ice cream soda in a drug store near the National Broadcasting company building on Fifth avenue. "Say," said the soda jerker, "how do you pronounce raddio? I've got a bet on."

One Way to Do It

Another announcer relates one about a Russian singer, who was giving his voice a preliminary tryout before going on the air. The man was warbling high up the scale, and the announcer thought the words strangely familiar, "Ham an' eggs, ham an' eggs, ham an' eggs," they appeared to sound.

The announcer approached the singer. "I hope you'll excuse the interruption," he said, "but I was wondering what Russian phrase you were singing. It sounded like 'ham an' eggs,' and if you'll tell me what it means I may be able to get a little joke out of it when I'm introducing you."

"But it was 'ham an' eggs,'" said the Russian.

"But why?" asked the announcer.

"It's the best phrase I know of to to limber up the upper register of my voice," was the reply.

[THE NEW EMBLEM DEDICATED TO BETTER MOTORING]

What the MARLAND CONTINENTAL Merger MEANS TO MOTORISTS

THE consolidation of the resources and facilities of the Marland Companies and the Continental Oil Company, under the latter's name, is more than a corporate merger. It is a happy union of well balanced production, manufacturing and marketing operations from which will come a host of unusual advantages to the millions of customers and thousands of distributors.

Wide Field for Crude Selection

Out of a total area of more than two and one quarter million acres in eight states, Continental selects the crudes best suited for its manufactured products. Raw materials for oils, greases and gasolines may often come from widely separated regions. Continental controls its own crude supply and chooses the best for each refining operation and thus assures a standard uniform output from year to year.

Strategic Location of Eight Refineries

Economical and efficient operation of petroleum manufacture frequently depends upon the relative locations of the raw product, the refinery and the market. Continental is fortunate in that its eight modern manufacturing plants are well placed to afford prompt and economical delivery both before and after refinement. These properties are located at Baltimore, Maryland; Ponca City and Sapulpa, Oklahoma; Artesia and Farmington, New Mexico; Wichita Falls, Texas; Florence, Colorado; and Glenrock, Wyoming.

Exclusive Processes Insure High Quality

Continental refinery engineers enjoy a national reputation in the oil business. Not only have they adopted the newest and most efficient mechanical equipment for these big refineries but they have designed machinery and developed processes which are exclusive to this company. Under centralized control, these facilities now are made available in the manufacture of petroleum products of exceptional quality.

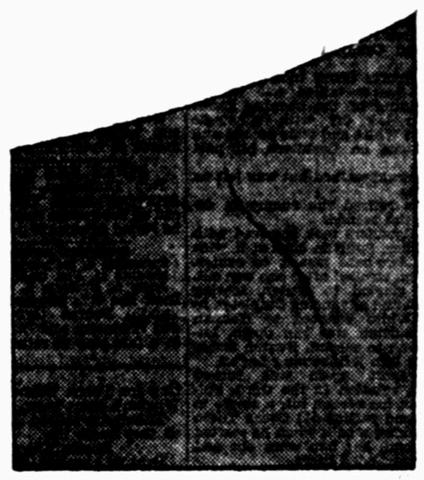

Conocoland Covers Tremendous Area

More than forty years marketing experience has spread the distribution of Conoco products over an area which reaches from the western slope of the Rockies, far east to the Mississippi River. Practically half of the United States is dotted so closely with Conoco Stations that a motorist may drive anywhere in that tremendous area without introducing other than Conoco products to his car. The outposts of Conocoland range from the Pacific Northwest to the shores of the Great Lakes and from the Atlantic Seaboard to the California boundary.

Prestige Established in Foreign Lands

The Continental coastwise and export fleet operate from terminals at Texas City, Texas; Newark, New Jersey; Baltimore, Maryland; and Norfolk, Virginia; to a dozen foreign countries. Petrol pumps deliver Conoco gasoline to automobilists in the shires of England and Conoco motor oils lubricate industrial plants in north Europe, South America and the Orient.

In brief, the joined forces of these two great companies afford greater, better service to the users of motor fuels and lubricants wherever the sign of the Red Triangle is displayed.

SPUDS FACE PANTHERS TODAY IN START OF CRUCIAL SERIES

SPORTS LOSE IN 11TH, 5 TO 4

Benton and Lapan Double To Win Thrilling Game

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Spudders are set for the four-game series with the Fort Worth Panthers, starting today out at the lot, and on which the second half league championship hinges. Shaking off their lethargy that cost a double-header Monday, Galloway's gallopers yesterday played courageous and excellent baseball to trim the Shreveport Sports in a thrilling 11-inning engagement. That overtime victory, 5 to 4, while the Cats were taking a licking at the hands of the Dallas Steers increased the Spudders' lead to three and a half games.

A second game to have been played yesterday, postponed from the Spudders' last trip to Shreveport, was called off to permit the Sports to make train connections home. As yesterday was the last day the clubs meet this season, that contest goes into the list of games that never will be played.

The four-day Spudder-Panther engagement is what the boys call "crucial." Worse than an even break would be a severe jolt to the Wichita Falls flag hopes, while a split or better will just about give the Spudders a lead that never will be overcome, as the old pennant race is rapidly drawing to a close, with only a month and two days to go.

Payne to Pitch Today

It is meet to mention here that attendance at Athletic park this season is 15,000 less than at this period a year ago, and is under 35,000 the number of customers who went through the turnstiles up to Aug. 13, 1927. It therefore is apparent that the fans must rally to the cause and with a series that in all probability will settle the second half pennant and the Spudders leaving on an extensive trek Saturday night that does not end until September, the good patrons of J. Alvin Gardner should and doubtless will turn out in great number these next four days.

George Payne, with 20 victories and nine defeats, will pitch today. He has had two days' rest and fears going rusty.

But I digress. Yesterday's pastime was ideal, with brilliant fielding, splendid pitching and mighty hitting at critical occasions making it a memorable pastime.

Trailing 4 to 1 in the ninth, the Sports tied the count when Parks hit a home run with two comrades on the base lines. Then the Spudders won in the eleventh. Pete Lapan led off with his second double and third hit, a mighty clout to the center field wall. Bettencourt batted for Andy Messenger, who had relieved Les White, and was purposely passed. Rabbit Benton came through with his second hit, a terrific blow to center, and Crouch, running for Lapan, ambled home.

White Hurls Fine Ball

White pitched great ball except for the first round, when he yielded a run and three hits, and the ninth when a trio of blows cost as many tallies. For five innings, four of them in succession, White turned back the invaders in order.

Messenger went to the rescue with a runner on base and one out in the ninth and checked his opponents and though he gave up a hit and passed one in the tenth, retired the side in order in the eleventh. Messenger is credited with the victory.

Oscar Tuero, veteran spitballist, gave up four runs and seven hits for seven innings and was replaced by a pinch-hitter in the eighth. Harry Thompson, vintage left-hander, of even greater vintage than Tuero, finished and save for the eleventh chucked beautiful ball. Indeed, the southpaw who is about 40 years old turned back the Spudders in rotation for three rounds, the eighth to the tenth.

Thompson was charged with the defeat.

Lapan led the attack with his three hits and a walk, with Sullivan, back in the game, getting a brace of blows, one for two bases. Parks set the pace for the Sports with three hits and Whelan, Langford and Cashion had two blows apiece.

Sports Score in First

The Sports tallied one in the first inning of the opening game. Whelan led off with a single through White and stole second and rode home on Cashion's hit past second.

Fitzgerald walked but was left on the lines.

White retired the enemy in order in the second.

The Spudders took the lead with two tallies. Sullivan started it with a long two-base smack to center. Stapleton strolled after one was out. Lapan singled to center, scoring Sullivan and advancing Stapleton to third. White bounced to Holman and Stapleton was run down, Lapan going to second. Benton slashed a hit into left, scoring Lapan.

Shreveport again was turned back in rotation in the third. Sullivan got his second hit, a single to center and rattled old Oscar Tuero into making a balk when he started for second, but two were out and he was stranded there.

White set down the Sports one-two-three for the third successive inning in the fourth, aided by Benton's diving snatch of Holman's shoestring liner.

Lapan whanged his second hit, a double against the left field wall, and Benton was passed but they were left.

And again our Mr. White caused the hostiles to parade to the plate and back to the dugout in the fifth, including the second strikeout of Frank Tobin, which riled the Shreveport catcher.

Bennett Drives Fitz Home

Fitzgerald led off with his second bases on balls and flashed some speedy base-running to tally on Bennett's double to left.

Langford singled to center in the sixth, the first Sport to get on base since the first inning, but two were out and Sullivan was under Cashion's lift.

Lapan walked but a double play helped prevent scoring.

Parks started the seventh with a hit to center but Benton, Turgeon and Stapleton completed a fast double play on Holman's grounder to Rabbit.

Turgeon slashed a two-base blow to left and scored on Fitzgerald's hit to center to make the count 4 to 1.

The Spudders displayed some snappy fielding to help Les turn back the side one-two-three in the eighth. Benton threw out Tobin and Hermann and Stapleton paired in a fast play to retire Cooper, batting for Tuero. Bennett tore in for Whelan's short hoist.

Thompson retired the Spudders as they came up.

Sports Tie Score

Benton knocked down Stewart's harsh bounder and threw him out at first to start the ninth. Langford clouted his second hit, a single to right and Cashion hit to center. Parks then unlimbered his Ruthian smack over the left field wall, scoring his two comrades ahead and tying the count. Hermann fumbled Holman's bounder. Messenger replaced White. Holman was out stealing, Lapan to Benton, and Rabbit was under Deviveros.

Parks backed against the fence to haul down Turgeon's drive in the Spudder ninth. Whelan and Thompson accounted for Fitzgerald. Bennett flied to Langford.

Thompson was passed and Whelan singled in the tenth with one out and Andy tightened up then and caused Stewart to lift to Bennett and Langford to foul to Hermann.

Thompson turned back the Spudders for the third consecutive round.

Hermann knocked down Holman's terrific smash and threw him out to retire the hostiles with nary a one of them getting on base in the eleventh.

Rusty Cromer, the big kid righthander, has been called in from the ranch at Abilene. Cy Smith has returned to his home in North Carolina and probably will not play ball again this season, while he is recovering from a recent operation.

GOLF'S AMATEUR Challengers

GEORGE VON ELM

By BRIAN BELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—George Von Elm, although he lives in Detroit, will be going home when he returns to California to play for the amateur golf championship.

Originally the golf pride of Utah, the blond star did much of his best playing while a resident of Los Angeles.

Von Elm was the last man to beat Jones, winning from the Georgian in the final of the 1926 championship at Baltusrol. In 1927 and 1928, he was eliminated before he could strike his stride. He lost to Harry Legg at Minikahda in the second round, and to Ducky Yates at Brae Burn in the first match test.

The Detroiter tied for fifth place in the 1928 open championship and had a great chance to win, finishing with a score of 297, just three strokes back of Bobby Jones and Al Espinosa who deadlocked for first.

Von Elm played great golf up to the greens in the 1929 Canadian open but could not get his putter to function. In the British open, too, he could not get started. He tied with Hagen for third place in 1926.

The long striding Von Elm will have one advantage over Jones, the champion, in the approaching contest. He knows all about how golf is played in California while "Rubber Tire" has never hit a golf ball in fun or earnest along the slope of the Pacific.

George has played on two Walker cup teams and never has lost a match in international competition.

FINES ARE REMITTED

LINE PROBLEM OF LONGHORNS

Gordy Brown's Knee Also Concerns Texas

AUSTIN, Aug. 13.—The success of the 1929 University of Texas football team hinges on the answer to two questions. Can Capt. Gordy Brown's knee stand up to the strain of an 11-game schedule, and can Bill James mould a strong forward wall out of the material which he will have on hand when the practice season opens in September. If either of these questions is answered in the negative, prospects are gloomy, to say the least.

The powerful forward wall of the 1928 champions was wrecked by graduation leaving on three regulars, MacBurnet, Gordy Brown and Curtis Beaty, to report for the 1929 club, and Brown is likely to fall victim to that tricky knee at any time. Ox Emerson and Henry Mills, Mills lettering last season, are the other veterans returning for this fall's club. However, these four cannot compare with Red Wray, Jack Cowley, Herb Tigner, Harry Phillips, Cotton Mobley and Ike Sewell of the 1928 club. To make matters worse, there were no outstanding linemen on the frosh squad, and Ox Blanton and Les Moody, the most promising, failed to make their grades.

Coaches Must Experiment

With all these problems facing them, it is no wonder that Coaches Littlefield and James have decided to convert frosh backfield men into linemen for the coming season. With the five veterans, Brown, Beaty, Burnet, Emerson and Mills, to start with, James will have to build from the bottom, experimenting until he finds a workable combination, and with the schedule as it is, experiments are apt to prove costly.

The wing positions are wide open, with Big Un Rose and Rut Vining being picked to take the posts left vacant by the passing on of Ford and Rhoads, the peer of conference ends last season. Frank Cheatham, Lester Peterson and Henry Easterling are all given a chance to break into the line-up at these positions. The Tyson brothers, Carl and Howard, may get a chance at the ends. Big 'Un Rose has yet to flash the form which made him one of the greatest high school stars in the state, and this, his last year, may see him come through.

Wealth of Backs

The backfield isn't worrying the Texas mentors in the least. With more backfield material on hand than they have had in several years, Karow and Littlefield will be faced with the task of naming their starting four. In the past, finding four to start was the hard task. Dexter Shelley heads the list, and then Pinky Higgins, Pap Perkins, Nona Rees, Eddie Beular and Claude Meadows complete the outstanding six candidates. In addition to these veterans, the frosh squad will send Andy Brown, Dutch Baumgarten, Bull Elkins, Snag Laughlin and Ug Hodges to the squad. Theron Wilbanks is another veteran who will report. One will never know how the Texas backfield will line up before the kick-off.

The SPORTLIGHT

Fighting Souls

The whip of fate has harried us
along the crowded highways,
Has barred the uplands from our march where fogs and mists were rife,
And circumstances has held us back
along the swarming byways,
Where some of us with bolder front,
and some with calm and shy ways
Have found the thrill in fighting back against the odds of life.

We've never known the sunny vales where golden dreams were calling,
Where life is like a silken touch
upon a satin skin;
But we have had to drive rough shod where broken faiths were falling,
Through shattered hopes across the road, through bitterness appealing,
And keep our eyes upon the goal
we hoped some day to win.

We've never known the ways of ease among the summer
clover;
Grim eyed, across the barren lands,
with trouble for a mate,
We've only heard the sounding drums as far winds seek the rover.
"There are the guarded walls ahead
—so on to them, and over!"
And through the years we've slashed along until we reached the gate.

What have we gathered worth our while, with little help to borrow?
We've found the thrill of fighting fate, the strength that somes
from pain,
We've put steel sinews in our flesh
to meet each new tomorrow,
Red hearts beyond all fear of death,
the crushing reach of sorrow,
And after all, along life's road what is there more to gain?

World Series Teams

The old Cub machine directed by Frank Chance played 21 world series games in five years, winning 11 and losing nine, with one tie.

The old Athletics played 21 world series games in five years, winnnig 12 and dropping nine.

The Giants of 1921-1925 played 25 world series games in four years, winning 14 and losing 10, with one tie.

The Yankee record of 1926-1927 and 1928 is still the best. The Yankees played 15 world series games in three years, winning 11 and losing four. Their record of eight straight world series victories through two seasons is still a target for them all to shoot at.

It is one of the main reasons the National league is pulling for its strongest club to check the deluge which Ruth and Gehrig opened in 1927.

The Cubs have looked to be the best bet, especially against any team rigged out with a flock of left-handed pitchers chucking the ball into such people as Hornsby and Wilson.

From Everywhere

When the amateur golf championship was awarded to Pebble Beach on the Monterey peninsula of California the dope was passed around that only a straggling few would enter from other sections. Many believed it would be strictly a west coast show. But the entry list happens to cover more ground than any championship yet held. It includes a flock of star amateurs from Great Britain, the best from the South the pick of New England, leading stars from New York, on through the Middle West and the trans-Mississippi country.

Stars are entered from Maine, Georgia, Texas, Illinois, Missouri, Iowa, Oregon, California, Michigan, Ohio, Washington, Montana, Alabama. Probably never before have as many nations been represented. Four British golfers are facing a trip of 7,000 miles—one way. Practically no amateur golfer in the world with a chance to win will be missing when the first day's fusillade opens along the Pacific coast two weeks from Monday.

Still and Moving Objects

L. H. F. wants to know if it isn't much easier to keep your eye on a tennis ball or a baseball than it is on a golf ball.

Much easier. In the first place, there is a natural tendency to follow the flight of a moving object when it is coming your way. In the second place, there is less tension in tennis and baseball, where one is in motion, and not fixed in one spot as the swing is made. Many mistakes pop up in tennis or baseball by shifting the eye too quickly. But these mistakes are multiplied in golf, where about 95 per cent of all players make a regular habit of lifting the head too soon and thereby wrecking the swing.

It isn't so much a matter of looking at the ball in golf as it is in keeping the head as an anchor to the body and to the swing in general. Many golfers have played fine shots while blindfolded. In fact, the blindfolded test might help some incurables who persist in letting the head pop up on almost every stroke.

One can think too hard about looking at the ball and so lock the head, neck and spinal cord, tying up the entire swing. The head must stay down but it must remain unlocked.

SCHMELING TO BATTLE SCOTT

Max and Phil to Meet Sept. 11 at Ebbets Field

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (INS)—Unless all indications are slightly askew, Max Schmeling, the "German Dempsey," will meet Phil Scott of England in a fight to be staged by Humbert Fugazy at Ebbetts field, Brooklyn, on the night of Sept. 11.

Fugazy appeared at the weekly meeting of the New York State Athletic commission today and intimated to the assembled commissioners that he has been negotiating with Schmeling and that he believes the Tueton is ready to go through with the Scott fight.

Opposition to Garden

Sept. 11, when Fugazy plans to stage the bout, is just 15 days before the scheduled Sharkey-Loughran fight, which is to be put on under the auspices of the Madison Square Garden corporation.

Schmeling was originally selected as Sharkey's opponent in this fight, but his recent tiff with the garden corporation led to the substitution of Loughran.

Max Clears Suspension

Schmeling's decision to fight Scott will automatically clear up his suspension in New York state. The German was barred here when he refused to go through with the plan to have him meet Scott at an earlier date.

James A. Farley, chairman of the commission, was asked to explain his recent statement that Schmeling might be barred for life in the Empire state. He declared that as long as Schmeling was willing to go through with the Scott fight, the commission had no recourse but to allow him to fight. He added, however, that it might be a good thing for boxing if Schmeling were permanently barred regardless of his willingness to fight the Briton.

LUCKY SPUDDERS

Athletes Dinner Guests Tonight of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weeks

The ball player has a hard life. Out there in the sun, working three or four hours a day. Traveling around the country, seeing people and going places. But baseball has its compensations. Especially if you're a winner.

All of which is preamble to the fact that the Wichita Falls Spudder officials and players and their wives and sweethearts are to be guests tonight at a lawn fete and dinner tendered by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weeks, at their home.

The dinner is to be at 7:30 o'clock.

BROWNS TROUNCE NATS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 13. (AP)—The St. Louis Browns pounded three Washington pitchers for 20 hits, including several for extra bases, today and won the final game of the series, 14 to 2, for the Browns' only victory in the four-game set. Ogden allowed the visitors 11 hits but kept them fairly well scattered. O'Rourke got five hits, Ogden four and McGowan three. Score:

QUINN WINS FOR A'S

DETROIT, Aug. 13. (AP)—The Athletics closed their final series of the season in Detroit with a 4 to 3 victory for the veteran Jack Quinn today. The triumph gave the leaders three out of four in the series and increased their lead to 12½ games as the Yankees lost to Cleveland. This is the greatest margin the Macks have had at any time this season.

Sammy Hale and Jimmy Foxx hit circuit blows for the Macks, providing Quinn's margin. It was Foxx's 27th of the season. Score:

A Reporter's Note Book

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Signor James Di Salvio, otherwise Jimmy Kelly, of Sullivan street, says Tommy Loughran is a dead sure thing to lick the terrible Sharkey, but Signor Di Salvio's henchman, Ike Ward, calls you aside, when he hears James make the prediction, and whispers, "Pay no attention to Kelly—he ain't been right since Abraham Lincoln was assassinated."

Bill Robinson, the tap dancer, is all hotted up because a magazine article said Fred Stone and his daughter Dorothy ante-dated Bill with his famous dance on the stairs, whereas Bill got $1,500 from the Stones for teaching it to them.

By the way, Bill wishes to challenge any man to a foot race, Bill to run backwards, and his opponent forward, but my advice is don't take him up, because Bill would be a sure thing to win.

Otto C. Floto, the famous old sports writer of Denver, who died recently, came into quite a bit of money through the death of a relative some years ago.

The ubiquitous Doctor Jack Kearns, who is up at Harvey Lake trying to pound his middleweight champion, Mickey Walker, into shape, now wears big horn cheaters for reading, proving that you can't stand off those years forever.

Senator William Cyclone Wild Bill Lyons collects canes and newspaper clippings about himself.

Ed Stevenson, who manages Otto Von Porat out in Chicago, charged Joe Sherman, the oldtime gladiator, with trying to steal Haakon Hansen, another Stevenson battler, so Joe took a shot at Ed's chin, and he didn't miss.

Fred "Windy" Winsor, who used to manage Jack Dempsey, and so many other fighters that he can't remember all the names himself, is now handling Dummy Mahan, a Mexican deaf mute, whose right name is Frederico Mesa.

George Gardner, once light heavyweight champion of the world, is now selling insurance in Chicago, and Billy Stift, the old time heavyweight, is a cooper in Lincoln park out there.

Harry Lenny, who manages Napoleon Jack Dorval, Al Bridgeway, Paul Swiderski, Benny Touchstone and other gladiators, has a surefire system of beating the races, but he contents himself with mind bets on them because it cost him $260,000 about 10 years ago when he was betting cash money.

Harry Hochstadter, the Chicago sports writer, who was so sick the croakers didn't give him much of a chance, is now regaining his health sitting out in the sun at the race tracks. Harry says 20 years of the ... finally stretched him out, and he adds that he is commencing to wonder if it pays.

Tammany Young, the gate crashing actor, is at liberty both in acting and in gate crashing.

Sam Shipman, the playwright, who wrote "East Is West," "Crime," "Lawful Lardeny," and a raft of others, took up an hour of your reporter's time in Lindy's the other morning, predicting what a hot hit Claire Luce, the dancer, will be when she appears in his new drammer, "Scarlet Pagey."

Larry Fay, who once operated the Fay Taxi company, known as the 101 Ranch, because of the cowboys he had driving his shorts, and who has authored a new taxi called the El Fay, after his old night club, selling them faster than a hawss can trot.

Fred Douglass, oldtime Philadelphia promoter, who runs a club in winter on top of a Miami garage, is spending the summer in Brooklyn, but goes back to his garage roof in the fall.

Tommy White, a good featherweight of a bygone day, is boxing instructor in Chicago, and Tommy Dixon, who could also fight some now has a similar position with the Kansas City Athletic club.

Black Tony and Nick the Greek were observed cutting up old Touchey in Lindy's the other morning. Black Tony, whose other name is Foster, is one of the old school from the Pacific coast, and now has more money than most folks have hay, while the Greek is in from Detroit fairly well heeled.

Good Time Charley Friedman, who took Tiger Thomas, a negro middleweight from Williamsport, Pa., to Paris, made a flying trip home last week, and he reports that the Italian Giant, Primo Carnega, who is a big sensation in France, can really fight.

Eddie McGoorty, who could lick most of our present day middleweights, with his eyes shut, is out in Hurley, Wis., in business. Or anyway he is in Hurley.

Gig Rooney, manager of Jackie Fields, the new welterweight champion, has picked up three new fighters since his guy won the title. Davy Miller, the Chicago referee, gave him one of them, a crack amateur named Benny Ross.

Jimmy Callahan, once one of the stormy petrels of baseball, and a great pitcher and outfielder, is now a sedate old golfer around Chicago and has plenty of bees and honey.

Pop Nealls, a good oldtimer out of Los Angeles, is making a good living barnstorming with Don Antonio Fuetes, the Mexican jumping bean, although Don Antonio doesn't get his snoot down there in front very often.

St. Vitus Dance

The medical word for this disorder is "Chorea," which comes from the Greek and means dancing. It is the name given to disordered, inco-ordinated, spasmodic and involuntary movements. "Chorea Sancti Viti" was the name given in the middle ages to an epidemic of dancing mania which attacked people under the influence of great religious excitement, and led to pilgrimages to the chapel of St. Vitus in the hope of being cured.

This disorder occurs most often in early childhood and adolescense, more than three-fourths of the cases developing between the fifth and fifteenth years. It is singular in that it occurs more often among girls, and among the offspring of the poorer classes. The peak of the cases during the year occurs in January. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that many cases are precipitated into a crisis through the toxemia generated from holiday feasting.

The school child who has been made nervous by overwork at school is a fit subject for chorea and, in fact, for many other disorders when the toxins from injudicious holiday stuffing add their burden to the child's irritated, nervous system.

The disordered and jerky movements are the first symptoms. The child may be restless, mentally disturbed, easily upset, and break into fits of crying or temper. The jerky movements are usually noticed first on the face and arms. The face will twist into a series of contorted grimaces, in which the eyes may shut and suddenly shoot open. The angle of the mouth may change quickly, or the whole head may flop from side to side. There may be a specific and involuntary working of the hands and arms, and if the patient tries to grasp anything he is inclined to grab for it and may close his hand before he reaches the object. As the disorder progresses the child's body may twitch in various places almost continually during the entire day. Usually the movements either disappear or decrease during sleep.

I have never seen a case of chorea which could not be cured and usually in a very short time. The toxic condition which is always present must first be corrected. Here again the fast is of great value and should be used for several days even with very young children. They should be kept away from all studies and taught to play games which are not overly exciting. The best diet after the fast is usually a course of milk diet treatment, taking three or four quarts daily, according to the age, for as long as three or four weeks. After this, the diet should be well balanced with special attention to complete bowel elimination.

The child will always be greatly helped through osteopathic or chiropractic treatments which tend to quiet soothe the nervous system.

The quickest results, of course, come in those cases where an early diagnosis is made and treatment started at once. Naturally the time necessary to effect a cure is materially lengthened in those cases which have been permitted to go to advanced stages before treatment is started.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Always Could "Eat Everything"

Question—H. K. writes: "I can't digest my food and I feel nauseated all the time. The doctor said it was my gall bladder and gave me some medicine. I do all right as long as I take a dose before eating but can't take this medicine the rest of my life. I have always been able to eat everything. Now when I have a bad spell I can't eat anything for a few days."

Answer—It is because you have "eaten everything" that you are now not able to eat anything. Just give nature a chance by taking a fast and allowing the gall bladder and liver to empty out and catch up with their work. If medicines relieve you, it is a sure thing that a fast will cure you. After that, regulate your diet scientifically, and stop "eating everything."

Mastoditis

Question—Mrs. H. P. J. writes: "I had a mastoid operation which for several months relieved the pain and terrible fullness and dizziness, but I am now suffering with these same symptoms. The doctor says this trouble I now have is probably due to my teeth. I don't think so, as it is exactly what I had before the operation. Can you suggest any relief?"

Answer—It is unwise for me to make a guess about your trouble which has been guessed about enough already. Have a good diagnosis made and thus ascertain the real cause of your symptoms. If you are then not helped, write me the result of the diagnosis and I will advise you again, either through this column or directly by mail if you will enclose a self-addressed envelope the next time you write.

Ford Asked to Do Something About Abandoned Autos

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (UP)—President George U. Harvey of Queens Borough rose in the role of crusader today and asked Henry Ford to do something about all those abandoned automobiles littering road sides and vacant lots throughout the country.

They have become a nuisance and a problem, Harvey wrote the motor car manufacturer.

"As the most prolific producer of automotive equipment in the world," Harvey wrote, "I think your company should bear a large part of the responsibility for the elimination of the abandoned car problem. I think you are in a position to help the city of New York, as well as the country as a whole, in solving this problem.

"It is in this hope that you may be able to devise some plan which can be placed in operation on a nationwide scale to make use of abandoned automobiles through a system of salvage that I call this situation to your attention. I believe it is possible to convert the chassis, old motors and part of the metal bodies unto usable scrap metal."

BIG DECREASE IN OIL OUTPUT

Production Drops 12,600 Barrels Daily

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—The daily average gross crude oil production in the United States decreased 12,600 barrels for the week ended Aug. 10, totaling 2,896,000 barrels, says the weekly summary of the American Petroleum Institute. The daily average production east of California was 2,042,800 barrels, a decrease of 3,500 barrels.

Refiners representing 91.9 per cent of the estimated daily potential refining capacity, operating at 85.2 per cent of their capacity, reported the daily average run of crude oil to stills as 2,613,900 barrels. The daily average the previous week was 2,642,400 barrels for refineries representing 92.6 per cent of potential capacity operating at 85.5 per cent of their capacity.

The daily average production differences follow:

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (AP)—The cotton market was higher today on covering or rebuying combined with some local and Wall street demand which seemed to be inspired by unfavorable features in the weather news and continued reports of deteriorating crop prospects in the South. December contracts sold up to 18.65 in the late trading and closed at 18.60, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 17 to 25 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 2 to 6 points. There may have been a little selling on the rather easier showing of the later Liverpool cables, but small offerings were readily absorbed, and the market worked upward after some little irregularity. Offerings were light, while the buying seemed to broaden somewhat after the publication of the detailed weather reports, and the best prices of the day were touched late in the afternoon when October sold at 18.35 and March at 18.91, or about 21 to 27 points net higher on the general list. The close was 3 to 4 points off from the best under realizing.

A report by one of the private authorities indicated that the crop had steadily deteriorated during the past week owing to dry weather in parts of the Southwest and weevil damage in eastern sections of the belt. This was regarded by some of the local traders as foreshadowing unfavorable features in the weekly report of the weather bureau tomorrow, and no doubt contributed to the advance.

Exports today 1,856, making 60,375 so far this season. Port receipts 14,937. U. S. port stocks 540,771.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 13. (AP)—Unfavorable weather and expectations of a bullish July consumption report tomorrow influenced a further moderate advance in cotton today. Small reactions only developed during the day and in late trading October contracts sold up to 18.24 and closed one point under that figure for a net gain of 20 points. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 18 to 22 points.

Liverpool cables were favorable and first trades here showed no change to a gain of 3 points in response. Prices advanced immediately after the start on a demand stimulated by reports of too much rain in the eastern and central sections of the belt and continued drought in the western portion as well as expectations of bullish consumption figures and an unfavorable weekly weather and crop summary due tomorrow.

By mid-session October traded at 18.20, December 18.47 and January 18.48, or 14 to 17 points above the previous close. Some profit-taking was encountered from time to time but was absorbed at small set backs and the market ruled steady most of the period after mid-session. In late trading an announcement that the master spinners in Lancashire had agreed to arbitrate the strike difference there encouraged renewed buying which carried all active months to new highs for the day. October advanced to 18.24, December 18.52 and January 18.56, or 21 to 23 points net up. Final prices were at or near the top.

MID-WESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 13. (AP)—(USDA)—Further weakness developed around the 11-market circuit on less desirable grades of fed steers and western grassers. Some points reported losses of 10@25c.

Choice quality native grain feds continued to hold at fully steady price levels. Chicago scored $17.00 and choice 1,547 pound beeves and realized $16.60 on yearlings. Other killing classes were little changed, with the exception of another advance at several markets on vealers and calves. County buyers displayed moderate interest in stocker and feeder steers at prices materially higher than the low spot two weeks ago. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 38,000, an increase of 6,000 over a week ago but 7,500 short of the corresponding day last year.

Trade on hogs was slow at values unevenly steady to 25c lower. Shippers made most of their purchases at steady to 15c lower figures. The day's extreme top of $12.25 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings were around 67,700 as compared with 75,471 last Tuesday and 66,359 a year ago.

Fat lambs found a slow outlet at steady to mostly 25c lower prices, and a weak undertone prevailed on aged stock. Closely sorted native lambs in Chicago cleared at $13.75 to $13.90 while best westerns at both Chicago and Kansas City turned at $13.25. The supply approximated 61,700, a decrease of 4,000 from a week ago and 1,000 less than a year ago.

Steel Again Hogs Whole Show On New York Stock Exchange

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 13. (US)—Steel was the whole market again today. It rose steadily to a new high record price of 240⅛ before meeting profit-taking of importance and then closed with net gain of 7⅝ at $237 a share. The balance of the list turned reactionary with Steel toward the close so that price changes in most instances were limited to a point or less. A few stocks held fair gains for the day as a result of individual influences with Consolidated Gas gaining 5, Anaconda 2¾, Byers & Co. 5⅝, Columbia Gas 4¼, Fox Film 4⅞, Paramount 2⅞, and Simmons 6 points. Other Copper stocks recovered with Anaconda coincident with receipt of more favorable advices from the trade. Oils quieted but held fairly firm while the railroad group was rather dull throughout. The call rate eased from 8 to 7 per cent. Turnover increased to over the 4,000,000 share level.

Durant people were reported taking profits in Steel after it hit its high. Not that they thought the stock was selling too high but because of their fear of the reserve officials. The reserve has shown that it cares nothing for Durant's opinions and he, being a very shrewd, experienced, stock market operator knows when to be careful. There was widespread report in the Street that Cutten was very active in Steel also. However, it was learned that while some brokers who at times are associated with him were working on the bull side in the stock, Arthur Cutten was doing nothing. In fact, Mr. Cutten is doing very little in the market and apparently will not resume activity in a big way until he is sure the reserve authorities are finished interfering.

He has decided opinions on government interference as was evidenced by the manner in which he abandoned the grain market entirely. Cutten has a strong investment position in Montgomery-Ward and other stocks he favors. So long as the reserve makes laws against speculation he does not believe the possible profit to be gained from fighting its mandate is proportionate to the risk.

Even at its high Steel was selling at less than 10 times its earnings. The most favorable feature of its advance, however, was that it was the first time in many weeks that there were such strong fundamental reasons for outstanding advance in the price of any one stock. The fact that the Morgan group permitted the stock to skyrocket immediately following the unexpected shock to business administered by the federal reserve board recalled the policy outlined by Chairman Myron C. Taylor following meeting of directors early in the year. Mr. Taylor was discussing the bond retirement plan and stated in effect:

"It is the desire of the directors to put the steel corporation in such strong position that it may constitute one of the most powerful influences toward offsetting unexpected disturbances in the business or financial worlds."

With such policy the corporation can be expected to continue putting back a goodly amount of income into property and at the same time keeping melon-cutting, stock splitups, etc., for times when such action will offset nervousness aroused by the reserve or some other nuisance.

The Durant people were reported at work in Warner again coincident with report that merger with Paramount was desired. However, the Radio-Keith interests have not lost their desire to control Paramount and it will be remembered that Warner was outbid for Loew's.

Those interested in Skelly, Sinclair, Pan American, Asphalt and other Oils continued to express confidence that the accord existing between midcontinent operators would bring stabilization agreement for the industry. While they have difficulty attracting a following because of the several disappointments received from the oil shares they are favored by the fact that they meet little stock. Those who have held to the Oils through the vicissitudes of the last several months are not letting go on a point or so advance.

Oats—Unchanged.

Barley—Slow, 2c off; No. 3, 68@70c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per hundred pounds $1.59@1.63; No. 2 kaffir $1.54@1.57.

Sorghum Heads—Nominally unchanged; no sales.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Broadening out of export demand for North American wheat, together with fresh complaints relative to the southern hemisphere crop outlook, sent wheat values climbing. However profit taking on a large scale led afterward to price setbacks. It was estimated that 2,000,000 bushels of United States and Canadian wheat was bought today for shipment to Europe.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular at ⅛c net decline to 1⅛c off, and provisions varying from 40c drop to a rise of 2c.

Emphasizing the market effect of big European purchases of domestic and Canadian wheat today were advices that Argentine rains had proved to be inadequate to afford complete relief from drought, and that a similar situation is apparent in Australia.

Corn prices declined sharply after an early advance. Weather conditions on the whole were rather auspicious for corn, and the crop in general was reported as making rapid progress. Kansas and Nebraska reports, however, were distinctly adverse. The oats market lacked a prop.

Stop loss selling on the part of scattered holders developed in the provision market.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, Aug. 13. (AP)—Cotton opened higher and made further gains during the morning trading on crop damage report. Prices continued to work gradually higher, on commission house buying in the afternoon. The close was steady at or near the top for the day, 13 to 25 points net higher. Cables were a shade better than due this morning resulting in a higher opening of all three American exchanges.

THE CHESAPEAKE CORPORATION

The Chesapeake corporation was formed in May 1927 to acquire control of the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad through acquisition of 600,000 shares of C. & O. common stock held by the Nickel Plate road and the General Securities corporation representing the holdings of the Van Sweringen Bros. It was stated that their method was taken by the Van Sweringens to simplify their holdings and secure a wide distribution of the Chesapeake and Ohio ownership represented.

In January 1929, the Alleghany corporation obtained control of the Chesapeake corporation, the former being organized to hold the stocks of the Van Sweringens in this and other companies. Net income of the Chesapeake corporation from dividends on its C. & O. stock interest and other income amounted to $3,755,751 in 1928. This compared with $2,117,696 in 1927.

Funded debt totals $43,374,000. Capital stock outstanding consists of 1,800,000 shares of no par value, of which a majority is held by the Alleghany corporation. An initial dividend of 75 cents a share was paid in October 1927 and this has been maintained quarterly since. A stock dividend of 33 1-3 per cent was paid July 1, 1929.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets amounted to $3,861,017. Current liabilities totaled $296,266 and net working capital was $3,564,751. Book value applicable to the capital stock amounted to $68.64 a share.

JOYFUL POP OF CORKS MISSING

Erstwhile Bartenders of Nation Meet

By REX R. GOAD

KANSAS CITY, Mo. Aug. 13 (UP)—The barenters of the nation lowered their banner here today. Some of them looked a bit doleful. They had ceased to be bartenders and had become "beverage dispensers." The Bartenders International League of America had become the Beverage Dispensers International League of America.

No corks popped, at least not publicly. But one official observer of the death of a "profession," refused to accept the changes of a new day. He was Tommy Wall, veteran wielder of the towel and measuring glasses, who was well known some years ago around O'Malley's, Kinzie and Clark, Chicago.

Blinded Bartender

Tommy is blind. Tommy said he was "celebrating" in Kansas City. He doesn't see the light of the new day. In his eternal darkness, Tomgang at O'Malley's just as they gang at O'Malley's just as they were more than a decade ago when a bottle exploded and took away Tommy's eyesight. He stayed in his boots, however, and knew the familiar smells "around the mahogany" until constitutional amendment No. 18. The boys used to guy Tom about his "bum lamps." Tom says "There ain't no prohibition."

The defunct bartenders organization reiterates Tom, in less pointed language. It refers to the 18th constitutional revision as "this solitary sumptuary statute, the intrusion of which into constitutional realms has so severely hurt our country." The organization would have the beaming beaker returned to restaurants and hotels. They believe the public opposes return of the saloon.

Different Names

It was explained by Emanuel Kovelski, Rochester, N. Y., official of the beverage dispensers, that the name situation will have variations.

"In New York we still call them bartenders unions," Koveleski said. "In Missouri they are beverage dispensers. In such states as Kansas we don't even have an organization."

It is the 25th biennial convention of the bartenders' league. Their meeting will continue until Thursday.

Interest Growing in Revival at Estelline

ESTELLINE, Texas, Aug. 13. (Spl.)—Interest is growing in the revival services at the Church of Christ, being conducted by Evangelist Wallace. The services are being held in the open air near the church and seats are being obtained from every possible point in order to seat the large audiences attending.

The singing for the services is under the direction of Ralph Leeper. The Church of Christ is endeavoring to make the revival felt in all parts of the community.

Historic McMahan Chapel Early Worshiping Place for Wichitans

Texas' Oldest Methodist Church Described in Article Which Recalls Edifice to Minds of Residents Here

Editorial columns in the July 25 issue of the Texas Christian Advocate, Dallas Methodist publication, contain an article on "McMahan Chapel" which is of considerable interest to Wichita Falls citizens because of the close connection between the old church and the lives of well known Wichitans.

McMahan Chapel, located about 12 miles east of San Augustine, is the oldest Methodist church in Texas from the standpoint of continuous organization, the article states. It was named for Col. Samuel McMahan, leader of a class organized there in 1834, who is now buried in an unmarked grave in a little cemetery near the old chapel.

Scurlock Builder

Captain William Scurlock, one of the few survivors of the massacre at Goliad, when Fannin's band was practically exterminated, was one of the builders of McMahan Chapel, which was rebuilt twice after first erected in 1834. Captain Scurlock was the grandfather of W. M. G. Mackechney, John R. Mackechney, Dr. L. Mackechney, Mrs. Mollie McElroy, Thomas Noble, Leonard Noble, Cap Noble, and Harry Noble, all of this city. The last four named are members of the firm of Noble-Little Hardware company, and are the sons of T. B. Noble Sr.

McMahan Chapel was originally built in 1834 of rough pine logs, according to W. M. Mackechney. When it was rebuilt the first time, years later, rough-hewn pine slabs and large shingles were used. The entire structure was joined with pegs, the building being completed without the use of nails or screws. About 50 years ago it was again rebuilt, this time with sawed logs, sawed boards and shingles. According to the article in the Texas Christian Advocate, it now is "an unpainted, weather beaten structure located somewhat off the main highway in a beautiful grove of native trees."

Wichitans Born Near Church

The Mackechney and Noble families worshiped regularly in McMahan Chapel, it was stated. Members o fthose families now resident in Wichita Falls were born in the vicinity of the old church. The parents of T. B. Noble are buried in the little cemetery, no longer used, in which Colonel McMahan lies.

The congregation at McMahan Chapel was first organized by Rev. Henry Stephenson, in 1834. Captain Scurlock, one of the original builders, was omitted from the ranks slaughtered at Goliad, and later escaped from the Mexican forces.

Rev. E. V. Cole, author of the article on McMahan Chapel, and editor of the paper in which it appears, was pastor of the First Methodist church in Electra in 1924-1925.

CONSUL NAMED IN GRAFT CASE

Former Monterrey Attache Under Arrest

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 13. (UP)—Acting on instructions from the attorney general's office at Washington, authorities today arrested Gerald W. Bahl, former United States vice consul at Monterrey, Mexico after complaint alleging embezzlement of government funds had been filed against him in federal court. He was held under $1,500 bond.

The complaint alleged embezzlement of $10,070 in connection with the issuance of passports into Mexico. Bahl retired from service last year and has been living in Mexico since. Notice of his presence in the United States was furnished the department of justice at Washington by Laredo officials.

Woman Crusades Against Bare Leg Movement

WICHITA, Kan., Aug. 13. (UP)—Myra McHenry, known as first lieutenant to the late Carrie Nation, champion of Kansas reforms, has taken up the banner against bare legs in Wichita. The woman crusader appeared before the city commission with a plea for an ordinance against the stockingless fad.

MACHINE FIRM'S BUSINESS GOOD

Biggs & Co. Reports Trade At Capacity

Evidence of growing volume and stability in Wichita Falls' wholesale business is seen in the report given Tuesday by Biggs & Company, dealers in heavy hardware and pump machinery, of business which has taxed the capacity of the organization.

Biggs & Company is the successor to the Petrolia Supply company, formerly located at 619 Ohio avenue. Following the purchase of the business in January, 1927, by the present owners, a new and modern plant was erected at Fourteenth and Lamar.

The territory covered by Biggs & Company extends northward as far as the Kansas line, westward to Roswell, N. M., south to Lamesa and San Angelo, and eastward to Gainesville. The volume of business has increased steadily during the last two and a half years, the management stated. The amount of merchandise being handled now represents the full capacity of the plant. Business for August thus far has far exceeded that of the same period in 1928, and that month showed a considerable improvement over August of 1927.

With the exception of a few scattered localities, all portions of the territory covered by representatives of this house are contributing to the demand, it was stated.

'Good Advertising' Is Defined by Speaker

"Good advertising is that which gets results without sacrificing the dignity and reputation of the store," declared James A. McPhail before members of the Ad club Tuesday noon at the Kemp hotel in a talk on "Department Store Advertising."

Mr. McPhail's address was largely a plea for greater attention to exact presentation of facts in advertising copy, and for more condensed wording of ads. Exaggeration often creeps into copy unintentionally, he said, creating a prejudice against that and every other ad in the paper.

Harry Walker, window decorator for the Hub, and Bruce Greenwood, attorney, will be speakers before the club next week, it was announced. Voyle N. Armstrong had charge of Tuesday's program.

A. D. Britton of Holliday, Texas, Gives Testimony

Well Known Farmer Says He Doesn't Believe Orgatone Has An Equal—Suffered 15 Years

"I am convinced, since Orgatone has done so much for me, that it is a medicine of unusual merit," said A. D. Britton, who resides at Holliday, Texas, in an interview recently.

"For the past fifteen years," Mr. Britton continued, "I have been troubled, more or less with stomach trouble and dizzy spells, which were so severe at times that I was almost laid up, and could hardly ever get a good night's rest. I was subject to frequent attacks of dizziness and would sometimes have to catch hold of something to keep from falling. I have also been suffering here lately from a general run-down condition. My appetite left me. I had no life or energy, and just felt badly all the time.

"So many people in this section had been taking Orgatone with such good results that I decided to try it myself, and I have improved so much that several of my friends have commented on me looking so much better. My appetite was never better than right now, and I can just eat and digest most anything. And as to the dizziness, I hardly notice it any more. All this has been accomplished by five bottles. I am still taking it and it is just straightening me out fine. I have lived in this section a good many years and if anybody wishes to call me up or come to see me regarding Orgatone, I will be glad to tell them personally just what it has done for me. I just don't believe it has an equal."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by the Allison Drug Store.—Adv.

MAJESTIC: Alice White in "Broadway Babies." Raymond Hatton and Sam Hardy resurrect Cleopatra. Fox Movietone news.

OLYMPIC: Last day of "Modern Love," Charley Chase comedy. Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: "Four Sons," with June Collier and Francis X. Bushman. Comedy.

Another of the moving picture current event reviews has adopted synchronizing equipment. Paramount news made its bow last week with sound, its first appearance here being on the current program at the Strand. For the millions who have never been able to go globe-trotting, the various motion picture reviews from all over the world have been highly gratifying substitutes.

Regardless of the intensity of "wander-lust" which burns in individual breasts, the weekly reflection of world events afforded by the news reviews have constantly gained ground with the motion picture patrons. No other feature of screen entertainment has been so constantly interesting to all classes and ages. The reason is obvious. Every scene used by the news reels represents a dramatic climax for some person or group. The actors in such drama are of unquestioned reality.

The deserved popularity of pictorial news reviews suggests strongly the possible answer of the motion picture industry to a criticism which promises to become a concentrated public demand. Increasing objection is being raised to the predominance of sex problems and broken marriage ties as motivation of screen drama, both silent and talking. The criticism takes the form of a plea for subject-matter which will not only be more interesting to children, because of its falling within their experiences, but will contain less of loveless marriages and marriageless loves—thought-matter which even a liberally minded parent would taboo as mental diet for his children.

American children by millions are depended upon by the motion picture theaters for daily box office patronage—not merely on Saturday, but on every week-day and Sunday. These children, most of whom hungrily absorb Kipling's stories of India, Anderson, fairy tales (without prejudice to numerous other splendid collections), and "The Silver Skates," if given the opportunity, undoubtedly would relish motion picture dramatization of similar themes. Little Hans' keeping of Christmas in Holland; the boy Ali Sim of India in the annual pilgrimage to the river Ganges; Kooma Ti, the black boy of Africa, enacting living drama in competition with ape families and pygmied cannibals—the world in which children are interested offers abundant settings with the realism of actual truth, for motion pictures for which pupils of primary schools would crowd the theaters—provided the adults left any room for them.

Such story-material for motion picture entertainment should have solid public support. Greater knowledge of the vast world made small by quick transportation and flashed communication is being extolled by pacifist and militarist; by government and church; by school and home; and by every service club as the shortest and surest route to world peace. Assuming, of course, that we want world peace.

The attention demanded by this problem, and that of satisfying the complaints of the actors' union against over-work, may account for the occasional production of another New York bright lights story with apparently a minimum of heavy thought.

Raymond Hatton ranks with Lewis Stone, George Fawcett, and the late Theodore Roberts in unfailing excellence of character portrayal. Regardless of the plays in which they are cast, each of this quartet convinces that if his interpretation did not mirror perfectly the character as drawn by the author—it's the author's mistake.

The farce in which Hatton and Sam Hardy are not starring at the Majestic plays in a distinctly modern fashion with a setting which has given equal thrills to historians and dramatists of all ages. Julius Caesar, "most noble Caesar," and the smooth-tongued Marcus Antony, with the lovely Cleopatra to complete the ancient triangle, inspired a fetching wheeze for Raymond and Sam. Sam's telling enunciation particularly should be noted.

Stock Sales Of Finance Company Increase Steadily

With almost $150,000 of new stock sold since Jan. 1, 1929, and the fiscal year which closed recently showing $15,000 more net profit than that of any preceding year since its organization in 1924, the R. & F. Finance company Tuesday declared business conditions the best experienced in the five years of its history.

During that five year period, the capitalization of the company has increased from $50,000 first to $110,000, then to $200,000, and at the first of this year to $300,000. During the year just closed, the per cent of net profit on capital stock was 4 per cent higher than the average net profit for the entire five years. The company now has admitted assets of more than $1,000,000, it was stated.

The amount of notes purchased by the R. & F. Finance corporation during the last year was almost $2,000,000.

Department Store Sales Increase

Sales during the first 10 days of August show a gain of 24 per cent in comparison with sales during the same period in 1928 with the McClurkan store, according to information given by Marvin Smith, manager, Tuesday afternoon.

Further evidence of the general improvement in business conditions as viewed by this retail establishment, was furnished by the increased percentage of cash transactions numbered among their sales.

Present cash sales are greater in proportion to the total volume of business than they were one year ago, it was said.

"In our opinion," Mr. Smith said, "we shall have a much better fall business this year than we did in 1928."

JURORS TELL OF WARNING

Witnesses Heard in Trial Of Damage Suit

Eleven members of the jury which several weeks ago awarded a $12,500 judgment to Mrs. Lena Phillips against the General Motors Acceptance corporation Tuesday told Judge W. W. Cook that they had been warned against the impropriety of considering attorney, doctor, and hospital bills in determining the amount of the damage. The evidence was given when a defense motion for a new trial, testatively overruled last Saturday was reopened Tuesday afternoon.

The attorneys for the corporation are claiming that the jury was guilty of misconduct in considering matters outside the evidence offered in the trial.

The witnesses Tuesday, summoned for Mrs. Phillips, asserted that the question of the fees had come up during the deliberations of the body, but that the foreman had declared it improper for their consideration.

E. W. Napier, attorney for Mrs. Phillips announced Tuesday evening that D. E. Jordon, foreman of the jury, would be recalled to give his final testimony before the ruling of the court Wednesday morning. Mr. Napier said that Mr. Jordon has testified that he himself had considered the fees in determining the amount of damages.

Huge Wise County Melons Marketed Here

Ernest Cook, who lives in Decatur but owns a tract of 60 acres three and a half miles from town, was in Wichita Falls Tuesday with a truck load of the biggest melons seen here this season. He had several on the load that would weigh 70 to 80 pounds.

Mr. Cook has eight acres in melons and has already sold some 1,200 melons and will have that many more if another rain comes in season.

The market at Decatur has been $25 to $30 per ton, which was too high, Mr. Cook said. Now it has dropped to $10 to $12 per ton.

Man Injured in Blast Claims Compensation

Compensation totaling $4,555.71 for alleged permanent personal injuries is sought in a suit filed Tuesday afternoon by Q. D. Bratcher against the Southern Casualty company.

The suit grows out of a gas explosion and fire in the basement of the Fritz Motor company building in October 1928, the plaintiff alleging that he was severely burned when his clothing caught fire as he worked. His petition sets forth that he has already received $533.98 in compensation and he asks for the additional $4,555.71 in a lump sum.

Kell Field 'Slanguage' Forebodes Added Bulk for Next Dictionary

Brief but Meaningful Terms Used by Airmen Sound Like So Much Greek to the Initiated

By MARJORIE MATHIS

Somebody is going to have to add another pound or two to the unabridged dictionary to make room for all this new air slanguage that's dropping from the skies and taking root at Kell field. The jargon is as colorful and vivid, and occasionally as grimly humorous, as that of a waterfront town, a cow camp, or the stage, and at the rate Wichita Falls is taking to the air, is becoming as important as the once bizarre lingo that grew up with the automobile.

The terms are scientific, derisive, humorous, or simply descriptive, according to their origin and use, but a brief collection of them gives a vivid, sharp picture of the way a flier thinks and some of the things he thinks about.

Terms Listed

Here's a miniature dictionary compiled while listening in to the fliers and mechanics just before the big S. A. F. E. passenger ships settle down at Kell field. It begins with one of the first aeronautical terms of the layman ever heard, a word that has already greatly altered its meaning. That is to same with the term:

Ace—Really a war flier who bagged five or more enemy planes; commonly applied by headline writers to any flier who rates space in the papers.

Apron—This has nothing to do with the kitchen. An apron is a hard surfaced space in front of a hangar, or airplane's garage, where a motor can be warmed up without stirring a cloud of dust.

Bus—A crate, job, wreck, can, gondola or ship, sometimes called a plane, never an aeroplane. The thing pilots fly.

Ceiling—The maximum altitude a given ship will attain; on muggy days the distance up to a heavy cloud bank or the bottom edge of a fog.

Crab—Method of correcting for a cross wind; pointing a ship a little "off" in order to fly the proper line.

Crash—Any landing that isn't a good landing, which, in turn, is "one that you can walk away from." Also known as a crack-up, wash-out and wipe-off.

And What's a Dolly?

Dead Stick Landing—Gliding into a field after the motor has stopped and the propeller, or "stick" has quit turning.

Dolly—A two-wheeled carriage used as a caster under the tail skid of a ship while rolling it out on the apron or field.

Fish-tail—"Kicking" a ship from side to side by violent use of the rudder to kill forward speed for a short landing.

Godunk—A fellow, either sex, who will do anything for a ride in any sort of ship except pay for it.

Grease Monkey—An apprentice mechanic in aviation.

Ground Loop—Turning a ship too sharply on the ground, especially when making a landing, when a cross wind will help greatly to bend or break a perfectly good wind or tilt 'em up on 'er nose.

Gun—The throttle; to "gun" a motor is to give it the gas.

Hangar-flying — Conversational aeronautics. Rarely indulged in by those who hang up records.

Making Knots—A ship that is exceptionally fast is said conversationally to be "making knots," "winding up" or "paddlin' rapid."

Collegiate Terms

Horses—Power delivered by the motor. If a plane has a powerful motor or motors it is said to have "lots of horses."

Haywire—Same as in collegiate. Haywire flying is erratic flying. A haywire ship is one that does not conform to the conventional in airplane design or performance.

Kay-det—A flying cadet, or student aviator.

Konk—A motor konks when it stops in air.

Modoc, or Modock—A guy who wears trick flying clothes, with helmet, goggles, riding "britches" and boots, but won't go up when the breeze is stronger than a summer zephyr.

Pancake—A "flop" landing, when the plane comes to earth too suddenly, flopping to the earth like a pancake on the griddle.

Porpoise—To land a ship in a series of lessening bounces.

Revs—Revolutions per minute of a motor. A motor is revved up when a pilot guns it.

Solo—To fly alone.

Sky Hook—A mythical device novices pray for when they don't know what to do next and crave to anchor to a cloud or something till they remember or can "look it up in the book."

Soupy—Thick, muggy, foggy, unpleasant weather; poor visibility.

The "Tin Goose"

Taxi—To drive a plane on the ground before taking off or after landing.

Tin Goose—Ford all metal monoplane; the "tin lizzie" of the air; giant transport ships used by the Safeway on its route through Wichita Falls. Also known as "corrugated bungalows" and "metal elephants."

Zoom—Ships do this when pilots give them the gun and send them shooting skyward at an angle of flight too steep to be maintained. Zooming is a common way for pilots to salute each other when passing in flight. It is the aeronautical counterpart of the dipping of flags by ships passing at sea.

Wichitans Attend Family Reunion

Six residents of Wichita Falls returned Monday from Novice, Texas, where the twelfth annual reunion of the Featherston family, pioneers in the state, was held on Aug. 9, 10 and 11 with about 150 persons present.

Those attending from this city were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Featherston, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Featherston and son, Robert, and Solon R. Featherston. Other members of the reunion party represented practically every section of Texas, and the state of Oklahoma, it was said.

The three-day reunion included a lengthy program of entertainment, featured bronco riding, goat roping, swimming and baseball. Meeting in a large pecan grove near a stream, the host of relatives barbecued a steer on the second day of the reunion.

The Featherston family in Texas originated with the coming of C. H. Featherston Sr. from Mississippi to Rusk, Texas, in 1856. He was the great grandfather of Woody B. Featherston of this city, and the grandfather of Solon R. and R. H. Featherston. The 1930 reunion will be held at Blanchard, Okla.

Insurance Discussed At Exchange Meeting

Discussion of insurance problems featured the meeting Tuesday of the Fire Insurance exchange held in the chambzer of commerce at 1:30 o'clock.

J. M. Williams, president, was in the chair and presided over an interesting meeting. The attendance was reported as unusually good for the period of the year.

The feat of being elected to congress successively as a Farmer-Labor candidate and a Republican was accomplished by Representative F. H. LaGuardia, now a candidate for mayor of New York.
