City-Wide Clean Up and Weed Cutting Campaign Underway Here Next Week

Texas Beauty Wins National Acclaim

Shirley Tilley of Shamrock, a freshman beauty at the State College for Women, was recently selected by Look magazine as one of the most beautiful college girls of America in 1941.

Leave For Training

OKA, July 10, (Special)—Sproles of Wilson, route 1, near Robert Lee Potts of Talbot; Truman Lee Murphree of Redwine community and Russell Swenson of near Lakeview, were called to the selective service call for men from this county and service Wednesday morning. Pate, transferred here from county, also went into service.

EMPLOYEE AT TAILOR SHOP

D. Travis, an experienced tailor, has accepted a job with a tailor shop here and will begin his new work within a few days.

E. D. Yeatts is in a Lubbock hospital receiving treatment for a leg. Treatment has been well done, and she is doing nicely, so friends report.

A city-wide Clean Up and Weed Cutting campaign will be inaugurated throughout O'Donnell next week through an official proclamation by Mayor C. H. Mansell, and all citizens are urged to co-operate.

Owners of vacant lots are especially urged to avail themselves of the weed-cutting machine which will be handled under the direction of the city administration, and for which service only reasonable sums will be asked.

The drive was undertaken by the city at the behest of the Rotary Club and the Press.

"We want to appeal to everyone to clean the alleys of weeds and trash and make everything tidy about the premises," Mayor Mansell said.

"We can do this work to try to keep the city of O'Donnell in better condition," Mansell continued, "but O'Donnell will never be clean until every citizen becomes so civic minded that he will keep his own property in excellent condition, will never throw anything on the street, and will pick up any papers that he sees flying around."

Land Measuring Work Started

Seventeen crews of two men each began work Wednesday morning measuring farm land in Lynn county for compliance with the AAA program, C. A. Lawrence, states.

Six or seven weeks will be required to complete the work, and Mr. Lawrence asks that farmers not grow too impatient if the checkers do not get to them for some time yet. With a little co-operation, the work can be finished quicker, he says.

This work has been delayed somewhat because of new maps of the county having arrived late. Because new maps are being used, Mr. Lawrence says there may be slight variation in acreage on farms from that of last year, but he expects these new maps to be more accurate and all future measurements will be based on the maps being used this year.

One reporter and one chain man compose a measuring crew.

Softball All-Stars To Tackle Meadow Teams Wednesday

Star softball players of O'Donnell, as picked by Shorty Wright, will play a double-header benefit game here next Wednesday night and funds donated to the USO. Both men and girl's teams will play.

Two teams from Meadow, and formed of players which can be considered stars of that city, will furnish the opposition.

"And they'll certainly send their best players to give us plenty of opposition," so said Wright Thursday afternoon.

Shorty has acted very secretive about his selections for both teams, and refused to divulge his starting lineups.

An admission price of 15c will be made at the gate. The increase in prices is justified to pay necessary games expenses and to assist a worthy cause.

New Committees Of Rotary Named

Rotarians and several out-of-town visitors from Tahoka heard the Rev. E. C. McDonald, new pastor of the First Baptist church here, speak briefly at the noon day luncheon Tuesday.

The Rev. Mr. McDonald used the Personality of a Town as his theme, and applied it to the problems confronting any city, large or small.

Frank Hill, president of the Tahoka club, spoke briefly to those present, and issued an invitation to attend the district meeting which will be held in Tahoka on July 22. Hill urged a 100 percent attendance, and promised an interesting time for all.

District Rotary to Meet in Tahoka

Rotarians from 21 West Texas towns will gather in Tahoka on Tuesday, July 22, for one of the three District Assemblies to be held in the 127th District of Rotary International, Frank Hill, president of the Tahoka Club, has announced.

Cal Farley, Amarillo, new district governor, awarded the Assembly to Tahoka officially at the International convention in Denver two weeks ago.

The program for the day opens at 9 a. m. and continues until 4 p. m., with a luncheon at noon, and Secretary Charles Townes is already receiving reservations from club members over this section.

Among those appearing on the program will be Cal Farley, Amarillo tire dealer and civic worker; Dr. R. P. Parcels, Amarillo dentist and football official; O. B. Sellers, prominent Fort Worth attorney; and Fred Wemple, Midland tire dealer and prominent in Texas Good Roads Association; all of whom are or have been District Rotary Governors. Also on the program are Chas. Paxton, Sweetwater, and "Swede" Tolzien, Amarillo musician and boys' club worker.

Require Penalty On Excess Cotton

Cotton farmers of Lynn county who are issued red marketing cards because they have overplanted their 1941 cotton acreage allotment will be required to pay a penalty on the excess cotton they market equivalent to one-half the basic loan rate for cotton, C. A. Lawrence secretary of the Lynn county ACA has announced.

The penalty on cotton for the 1941-42 marketing year had been set at 3 cents per pound but a recent amendment to the Agricultural Adjustment Act has increased this penalty.

The exact amount of the penalty cannot be determined at this time, Lawrence continued, since the basic loan rate for cotton has not been set for Texas, but it probably will be about 7 cents per pound.

"The state AAA office at College Station has notified us of this new AAA amendment and also will advise us as to the exact amount of penalty per pound when the basic loan rate is received," the ACA official continued.

Buck Preston, employee of the Corner Drug has been on his vacation this week.

The Bus Terminal in Wichita Falls was celebrating the opening of a new terminal this week and Buck went as a representative from here.

A cotton warehouse was blown to pieces, trees in certain parts of town uprooted and small buildings tumbled over Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock here when a combination old-style sand storm, wind-storm and rain totaling 1.55 struck suddenly.

Only a few reports of crop damage was reported after the blow struck the section. Some hail fell, but not enough had fallen to injure growing crops around here, it was believed. However, many fields resembled a rolled blitzkrieg and both cotton and feed were laid as flat as most boxers when hit by Joe Louis.

A drive over town immediately after the rain revealed only a slight damage except to the warehouse in the north part of the city. Sheet metal from the warehouse roof was blown for two blocks southeastward. Telephone poles were down near the warehouse. Another warehouse near the other was only partly damaged.

During the height of the storm, trees swayed almost to the ground from the heavy rainfall and wind.

Preceding the downpour, the skies were suddenly darkened by sand and before many persons could scurry for shelter, the storm had struck. In only a moment, visibility was zero.

"That was the worst I've ever seen since I came here, and while like storms could have happened at night I hardly think so," said Ben Moore, who came to O'Donnell about 30 years ago.

FORMER EMPLOYEE OF UTILITY IN CALIF.

"Speck" Norris, who has been employed by the Texas Electric Service company, is now in California where he will be some time.

Douglas Hess and James Singleton will divide the work of the O'Donnell territory between them for the company.

USO Totals Here Way Behind Quota

Far behind the quota of $250.00 set for this city by the district office of the United Service Organization was the report made late Thursday by Chairman Hervey Gardenhire, who said contributions up to that time had totaled slightly over $93.00.

The total should be increased when all reports are in, however. An 84 and 42 party was scheduled for last night, and other clubs are to be heard from. The softball next Wednesday night should help greatly, Gardenhire believes.

Any person wishing to contribute may hand their amounts in to Miss Claire Ruth Nichols at the First National Bank, who will see that they are handed in to USO offices. No sum is too small to be accepted.

Contributions have come from the following: Rotary club, $24.00; M. J. Whitsett, $2.00; Tuesday Bridge Club, $14.00; Modern Cleaners, $1.00; Dick's Cafe, $1.00; Bill Autry, $1.00; Happy Howery, $1.00; Joe Carroll, $1.00; Softball players, $15.00; Jolly Hour club, $3.00; Baptist church, $10.43; Women's Missionary Society, $2.00; Sew and Chatter club, $5.00; Study club, $10.00. Other reports came in too late for publication.

Mrs. R. R. Adams will entertain the club next Tuesday.

Billie Gene Rogers, 11, of San Angelo, is here visiting his mother, Mrs. Opal Rogers. The youngsters, who has just recovered from a severe attack of pneumonia, will be here about two months.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

'Scorched Earth' and Guerrilla Fighting Is Soviet Answer to German Thrust; Revenue Bill for Defense Spending Provides Many Additional New Taxes

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

This is the scene in the Brooklyn (N. Y.) federal court as 25 members of the huge spy ring were arraigned by the government. Called "one of the most active, extensive and vicious" spy rings in the nation's history, 26 men and 3 women were arrested throughout the country. Most of them were of German descent. They were charged with transmitting vital defense information to a foreign government. Three men in foreground are lawyers.

ORDEAL:

By Communiques

Following the first couple of weeks of the Russo-German war some wag of the airwaves referred to the conflict as an ordeal—for the public—by communiques.

In the absence of any possible direct war correspondence, that is exactly what it developed into, ever-lengthening communiques by both sides, so much at variance that the public could do little but guess.

As the German columns advanced Premier Josef Stalin urged upon his people a policy of "scorched earth" to be coupled with universal guerrilla warfare. He warned of the "grave danger" of the Nazi successes and acknowledged the forward movement of German troops. He asked his people to destroy everything that might be of value to Germany if it could not be saved behind the retreating Soviet columns.

Only at certain points did the reports of the two high commands coincide, and these were so exceptional that they were more to be honored by their absence than their presence.

Speaking of an important town on the southern front, the Germans said, "We captured Lwow," and the Russians said, "We left Lwow." And even in that point of coincidence there was a variance which left much to guesswork.

Yet from the very names of places it was possible to take a map and see a picture of the German plan emerging, though it was impossible by the same token to picture the Russian defense.

The picture was that of a giant clutching hand, with the wrist to the north and the fingers outstretched—though which way the joints of the fingers would flex themselves could not be foreseen.

Three fingers were stretching toward Moscow and Leningrad, and two were extending southward into the rich Ukraine. Two or three of these five shafts showed signs that they might form pincer movements, snipping off and surrounding bodies of Red troops here and there along the battlefield.

Already the Germans had claimed one such success east of Bialystok, stating that 100,000 Russian soldiers had participated in a mass surrender, and that everywhere the Russians were on the run.

The Red communiques stated that their lines were holding intact, and that at some points the Russians were fighting far behind the most outstretched German points, and that some of these actions might work out badly for the invaders.

Yet, military observers pointed out, such occurrences were of the very nature of the Nazi blitz technique, and that in France, in Greece and on other fronts, including the town of Tobruk in northern Africa, groups of defending troops often were left behind in the swift advance, later to be encircled.

The Greek army of the east was trapped in just such a way, and though it held out and fought for considerable time, it was forced to surrender in the end.

It was impossible, however, to see just what the Russians were accomplishing in their defense, for the "town name" reports showed continued German advances, and the capture en route of important points.

Riga, Latvia, an important Russian naval base, was reported taken; Minsk, the so-called gateway to Moscow, was said to be surrounded; and one of the Nazi "fingers" had shot past Minsk on the north to Smolensk, and on the south to the Bobruisk sector, thus tending to bear out the German contention that Minsk, if not already taken, was doomed. Also that the Nazi legions could be said, at least technically, to be two-thirds of the way from their starting point to the capital of the Soviet.

TAXES:

And Spending

The tax structure by which the congress intends to raise additional revenue to the tune of $3,500,000,000 during the coming fiscal year was practically complete.

In addition to the huge amount expected from the new income tax structure, the congress' tax-makers had agreed that business would have to yield about $1,360,000,000 more than the $3,000,000,000 it is now raising.

Excise taxes were to be increased by a 10 per cent tax on electric fans, cooking appliances and similar articles; a 10 per cent tax on rubber products not including footwear and auto tires or tubes, which are on other tax schedules; 10 per cent on electrical and metal signs; 10 per cent on washing machines for commercial laundries; one-sixth of a cent a bottle on soft drinks (4 cents a case); 10 per cent on retail furs; another 10 on toilet preparations; a "use" tax on vending machines that pay off in tokens; $5 for vending machines which dispense articles; 10 per cent on optical instruments other than eyeglasses; 10 per cent on office and store machines.

Thus the boil-down of the tax structure was this:

Excise taxes (like the above) $867,000,000.

Income levies including excess profits, $2,468,500,000.

Estate and gift taxes $113,700,000.

Giving a total of close to the $3,500,000,000 sought.

This enabled the public to get a generalized sort of picture of what is coming to the American way of life, at least from a tax standpoint during the next tax year.

SHOCK:

To British

Scarcely less shocking to the British than the arrival of Hess on Scottish soil was the news that Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell had been relieved of his command in Africa and the Middle East.

General Wavell had been Britain's Number One hero, the only man who had won for the British an important victory and one which challenged the imagination.

Wavell's men had driven through Cyrenaica and had taken it away from the Italians, capturing more than 100,000 prisoners on the way.

True, the Nazis had come across the Mediterranean and had taken all this territory away from him, including the trapping of a number of thousand of the Wavell troops.

It also was true that there had been a good deal of criticism of Wavell at this time. It also was being remembered that he had been given at least a part of the responsibility for the disaster in Greece and Crete.

Although the war ministry simply recounted that Wavell had been transferred to the high command in India and that his place had been taken by Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, a Scotsman, the general feeling in Britain was that it was a shocking demotion.

This notwithstanding the war ministry let out the rumor that perhaps Wavell was being given a more important task, the preparation of the defense of India should the Russian resistance collapse and find the Nazis blitzing in that direction.

MILLIONS:

Get Deferment

Just as all youths who reached their majority since last registration day walked to their local boards to register, a 30-day deferment was granted to all draftees over 27 years old.

This was frankly a measure to keep them out of the armed forces until congress could pass an amendment to the selective service act exempting them.

Nazi Tank Re-Loads With Shells for Reds

German soldiers load shells into a Nazi heavy tank at Grodno, U.S.S.R., after capture of that former Polish city from Soviet forces, while Josef Stalin, Soviet premier, warned his people that they must defend each inch of soil and fight to the last drop of blood. Tip the newspapers to see the edition of The Hour—amazing elations on activities of Ukrainians in the U. S. readying sabotage, campaigns. The German Military Attaché Washington is supposed to have Washington reporters July 27 is timetable date for the Nazi war machine to take over the Ukraine.

Pearson and Allen are furled with ex-Cong. J. J. O'Connor of N. Y. They claim to have a certified copy of a letter from O'Connor (part of the Kansas court record) in which the ex-congressman recently wrote U. S. Judge Richard Hopkins of Kansas. Alleging that two out of the U. S. appeals court judges in Kansas were with him in the Congress Sweeney libel action against columnists. Pleading sure victory in N. Y., O'Connor asked Judge Hopkins to postpone any decision in Kansas, but Hopkins promptly dismissed all of Sweeney's suits against 10 Kansas newspapers. Hurray for him.

On Labor Day, 1939 (after the Comies and Nazis got married) you reported this: Charlie of Pl. Elegante says vodka (Russian) Rhine wine (German) is poison when mixed! . . . In other words we scooped Mr. Hitler by two years.—Your Girl Friday

Underground Ticker Tape:

The most illustrative underground story circulated in Germany is about the time Goering visited the director of an important munitions plant and asked him if there were any Social Democrats, Catholic Centralists or members of the other outlawed parties among his workers.

"Well," said the director, "about 40 per cent of the workers in my factory are Social Democrats, about 30 per cent Catholic Centralists and about 30 per cent are still members of the other outlawed parties. . . . 'Forty per cent, 30 per cent, 30 per cent!' bellowed Goering. 'That makes 100 per cent! Are any of your workers Nazis?'"

"Oh, of course," was the reply, "they are all Nazis!"

During the early days of the Nazi occupation of Paris, whenever German officers entered a cafe, French patrons would promptly up and walk out. This so infuriated the conquerors that they issued an edict forbidding Frenchmen to leave a cafe for at least 15 minutes after the entrance of a German officer.

After that, whenever a German officer entered a cafe, the Frenchmen present would reach into their pockets and pull out small alarm clocks, which they set and placed on the table. At the end of 15 minutes the alarms would go off all over the place, and the Frenchmen would rush for the doors!

In Holland, on Prince Bernhard's birthday, all loyal Dutch citizens wore a white carnation, the prince's favorite flower, as a symbol of defiance to the Nazis. Angered by this display of "insolence" on the part of the conquered people, the Nazis went around tearing the carnations from the coats of passersby. . . . short while later, Dutch sailors made their appearance on the streets and in cafes with carnations prominently displayed on their chests. The Nazis soon desisted from tearing them off. . . . The carnations worn by the sailors contained ingeniously concealed razor blades.

In Holland, one of the big problems in the underground warfare against the conquerors is how to find out who can be trusted. One couple solved it in this manner: A few minutes before two o'clock every afternoon, the wife shouted to her husband, who was working in the garden, "Come in, dear. It's almost two o'clock." Two o'clock being the time for a London news broadcast, their next-door neighbor reported them to the Gestapo. . . . The Gestapo didn't arrest the couple, however, because they were able to prove that they didn't own a radio. . . . But their neighbors had swallowed the bait and unmasked themselves as Nazi stool-pigeons.

Ever since the Nazis conquered Holland, the natives have been forbidden to listen to the Dutch broadcasts from London, but most of them defy the regulation, at the risk of their lives. . . . One Dutch woman, who was recently caught listening to BBC (the British Broadcasting Chain), was arrested. The infuriated Gestapo asked her explanation. . . . "I wanted to hear Hitler speak," was her calm reply. "Hitler said he was going to speak from London last September, and I'm still waiting for him."

The End: NO MORE OIL AND NO MORE ENGINE!

Ruthless Death-Test proves this New oil good for more than Twice the mileage averaged by 5 other big brands

In fiery Death Valley the dry heat hits extremes. And there's where 6 identical everyday cars, using 6 different big-name oils, were burned out on purpose to give you fair and square mileage comparisons on great new

CONOCO Nth MOTOR OIL

Now making Sales Records right Here

Death-Test cars—new—same make, same model—were taken apart for the Referee, to check uniformity; then were broken-in alike. Each got one 5-quart fill of some one big brand—bought retail by Referee. He kept engines under lock—no oil could be added. Cars held the same 57-mile speed, over the same desert, getting the same handling (by alternating the drivers). And there wasn't any end till there wasn't any lubrication... till engine after engine became a hunk of junk.

Conoco Nth oil kept on 5,683 miles longer than any other oil in the Death-Test... Certified. And all five competing Death-Tested oils didn't average half the mileage of Conoco Nth oil. Certified.

Man-Made new Life-Giver does it

Now think a moment of Vaccination—putting protective substance on guard to keep a trouble from starting. And the trouble aiming to start on motor oils lurks in every engine's normal firing. Filth forms that can spoil one drop; then two drops "catch it"—then four—then SIXTEEN... faster, faster, FASTER. As the whole fill weakens, the oil-level sinks too fast... but not when the start of this oil-fouling trouble is inhibited—held back—by life-giving Thialkene inhibitor, the man-made new economy aid in patented Conoco Nth motor oil.

No, you'll never Death-Test your own Conoco Nth oil. You'll still sensibly drain and refill as recommended. But knowing how Conoco Nth out-mileaged the other Death-Tested oils, you can reasonably believe that every look at the oil-level won't mean adding a quart. Keep count of your saving after changing to Conoco Nth today at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company—Pioneers in Bettering America's oil with Synthetics

AND CONOCO Nth OIL OIL-PLATES YOUR ENGINE

Long the keystone of Conoco success, OIL-PLATING comes from another great Conoco synthetic... man-made under the famed Germ Processed oil patent. Magnet-like action bonds OIL-PLATING to inner parts. It can't all quickly drain down—not while you're using Conoco Nth oil. So OIL-PLATING is on guard against wear in advance!... and helps mileage, as it did in Death Valley. An OIL-PLATED engine is one more economy you get from a change to popular-priced new Conoco Nth oil.

CERTIFIED I hereby certify that the Death Valley Test and related work were thoroughly and fairly conducted. Engine Destruction occurred in each case at the mileage stated.

THE SMOKY YEARS

By ALAN LE MAY W.N.U. Release

INSTALLMENT 12 THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches in the West. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, was determined to avenge his death in spite of the opposition

CHAPTER XVII

Shoshone Wilce, riding with Jody Gordon through the same hundred-mile snow which screened Bill Roper and Tex Long in their raid on the Little Dry, found himself the most bewildered and the most unhappy of men.

He could have refused to guide Jody Gordon to Bill Roper's rendezvous; he thought it improbable that Jody Gordon would have been able to locate the rendezvous alone. But whether she found it, or merely got herself lost, Shoshone Wilce would have been answerable to Bill Roper for leaving her to attempt the ride alone.

The alternative he had chosen offered no greater prospect for a long and helpful life. Lew Gordon would go wild as a wounded silvertip at the disappearance of his daughter; and every King-Gordon cowboy in the country would be scouring the brakes after Shoshone's scalp.

Jody believed now that the split between Lew Gordon and Bill Roper was the basis of inconceivable disaster—not only immediate and personal, but far-reaching in its import to the cow country. Together, those two very different cattlemen could have beaten Thorpe, and consolidated the King-Gordon empire.

Separated, Lew Gordon and Bill Roper were mutually destructive; Lew Gordon was probably right that Bill Roper's savage attacks upon the Thorpe interests were the cause of Ben Thorpe's heavy reprisals upon King-Gordon. And even though Roper might bring down Ben Thorpe in the end, which still seemed incredible, he could never profit by his victory, even if he lived. Unless Gordon and Roper could be reconciled, Roper would in the end become just one more outlawed cowboy whose trails could have no meaning, and only one end.

Jody Gordon had one other motive in attempting the all but hopeless reconciliation. She believed her father's life to be in the sharpest danger. Bill Roper, an even harder fighter than the old trail breaker who had trained him, would automatically take those precautions that would safeguard her father's life, if once they could be brought to work together again.

But the first move toward reconciliation must come from Bill Roper himself. If she could persuade Roper to this, there was a bare possibility that she could also manage her father.

It was a forlorn hope; but, as she saw it, of such vital importance that it could no longer be ignored. It was as if events that would alter the whole history of the cow country lay in her persuasion of these two stubborn men. She rode doggedly now, with set face, trusting Shoshone to find the way.

They rode until after midnight, blind, as far as Jody could see, in the wet fall of the snow. They threw down their bedrolls then in the shelter of stunted snow-laden trees, and Shoshone Wilce measured grain for the horses onto his own poncho.

They pushed on again early the next morning, miserable in the raw dawn, after coffee which Shoshone made in a frying pan. All day long they rode steadily, stopping only once for bread and bacon, and to bolster their horses with more grain.

The snow slackened off, giving place to a bitter wind. Jody's knees stiffened with saddle cramp and she continually had to nurse her fingers deep in her pockets to keep them from going numb. She had a strange sense of having taken an irrevocable step which she might find great reason to regret. The fact that the snow had hidden the trail they had made, so that no one could follow to find her, gave her a feeling of being cut off from everything friendly she had ever known. She set her eyes straight ahead, too proud to ask Shoshone how far they had come or how much farther they must go.

Just before dusk they climbed a long rocky ridge which commanded the length of a shallow valley set brokenly with juniper and ragged cedar.

Shoshone motioned her to stop her horse. "Wait a minute."

Far down the valley Jody Gordon could see a faint haze that blurred a rabbit-fur grey and brown of the brush and runty timber.

"That's smoke," Shoshone Wilce said at last. "This ought to be the place."

"So we really got here at last..."

"Two hours more."

"The smoke—that means he's there."

Shoshone Wilce, suspicious and doubtful by temperament, was less sure. "Don't know if it's him. Somebody's there. Or, anyway, somebody's been there."

A swift panic chilled Jody at the thought of meeting Bill Roper face to face again after so long a time. She tried to imagine what a time was going to say to him, and was completely unable. She wondered how he would look, and whether he would be glad to see her.

Now Shoshone Wilce reached out to catch her bridle reins, and they stopped. She started to ask what was the matter, but checked herself. Wilce had become tensely watchful, and she saw that he was listening.

After a moment or two of utter stillness, Wilce whispered "Wait a minute;" and pushed his horse slowly forward into the dark. For a little while as he moved away from her she could see the tall black silhouette of his horse against the pale snow, but soon this blurred with the darkness and was lost.

Growing impatient at last, and a little uneasy, Jody moved her pony ahead after Shoshone. There was a moment or two of panic, in which it seemed that she had lost him altogether in the dark; but her pony knew where the other was if she did not, and presently brought her alongside.

Shoshone Wilce was sitting perfectly motionless on his horse, staring ahead into a darkness to which the snow gave a curiously deceptive luminosity that did not aid the eye. "I don't like this so good," Shoshone said.

"What's the matter?"

"No lights."

They moved ahead a little now, Jody holding her pony beside that of Shoshone Wilce. Shoshone moved his horse forward twenty paces, and stopped again for a full minute; then ten paces more.

Jody said, "What in the world—"

Wilce seized her arm and silenced her with a quick shake. Then suddenly—

An inarticulate oath snarled in Shoshone's throat; he snatched at Jody's rein, whirling her pony. His own horse came straight up on its hind legs as he spun it at close quarters.

"Get going!" he said between his teeth; and brought his roan down across her pony's flank in a snapping cut that made it plunge ahead. She heard the rip of steel on leather as Shoshone's gun came out. Then the silence of the night exploded into happenings that were incredible.

Two guns smashed out in a swift flurry of detonation. A queer whistling grunt was knocked out of Jody's horse. It dropped from under her, and the ground struck upward with stunning violence.

For a moment Jody Gordon lay motionless, her cheek buried in the cool snow. She was aware of further firing, and more than one running horse, and she tasted blood from a cut lip; but at first she was unable to think.

Someone said, "Well, we got one of 'em, anyway."

"Haul him inside."

"Look out now, Bud—no funny business." The voice was unknown to her, as was the figure that now bent over her. Suddenly the man jerked forward to peer at her more closely.

"What the—Hey! It's Calamity Jane, or somebody!"

Jody Gordon struggled to her feet, shock giving way to anger. "You fools, are you crazy? Bill Roper will kill you for this!"

There was a moment's silence, and she sensed rather than saw that they were looking at each other.

"Bill Roper," one of them repeated. "She says she's looking for Bill Roper!"

"Lady, you better come inside!"

Dazed and shaky as the fall of her killed horse had left her, Jody Gordon still appeared the most self-possessed of them all as she alman who was once his partner, but was now his enemy. Jody Gordon had tried to reconcile her father with Roper. He refused to compromise with Roper. She then set out with Shoshone Wilce, one of Roper's men, to find him.

lowed herself to be led into the little cabin at which she had hoped to find Bill Roper.

The shack in which she now found herself was a cramped makeshift, intended only as a shelter for cowboys, storm-caught while riding the northern limits of the Fork Creek range. A single lantern hung from a roof pole; and now, by its yellow light the two men studied her with an unconcealed amazement.

"By God," said the older of the two, "it's a girl, all right!"

The other man, tall enough so that the door at his back looked small, was much the younger of the two. His face was prematurely hard-cut—the face of a man who even in youth had learned an effectiveness in action upon which he could well rely. He spoke sharply.

"Jim—you know who this is?"

"That's Lew Gordon's girl!"

"Good Lord Almighty! I believe you're right!"

"It's her, sure enough!"

"So you know me?" Jody said.

"I seen you once in Ogallala, and another time in Bandera."

The older man shifted his eyes to his partner. "Queerest turn of the cards," he said, "I ever seen in all my born days!"

The younger man's voice was sharp and strained. "Jim, we got to get her out of here, and get her out quick!"

The man called Jim appeared to consider intently, his eyes still on the other's face. "I ain't so sure," he said after a moment.

"You talk like a fool," the younger man snapped at his superior. "Look what we got! We got the law back of us. We got the most powerful cowboy in the West back of us. We got one of the biggest rewards that's ever been hung up, right ready to drop into our hands. We've located Roper's main shebang, after working on it for months. We got all the odds in the world in our favor—and here comes this girl and bogs the whole works!"

"Just how do you figure she bogs it?"

"We got every chance of nailing our man, right here, any hour now. But don't ever think we'll nail him without a hell of a sharp fight. Suppose this girl gets hurt in this fight, or gets loose and loses herself, or runs out of luck some other way? The quicker we get her out of here—"

"Can't."

"What's the reason we can't?"

"We got the bear by the tail. She's dynamite so long as she's here. I grant you that. But what if we leave her go? She warns Roper off. Then where are we?"

The younger man's eyes were keen with a repressed excitement. "Jim—you figure she come to meet Bill Roper here?"

"She didn't come here by accident," Leathers said with conviction, "any more than you or me. And she sure didn't come here to throw in with us."

A swift panic struck Jody with the shock of a blow in the face. If Jim Leathers wished, he could hold her here—literally as bait with which to draw the man whom it was his mission to kill. If Shoshone Wilce had got clear, and could reach Roper, Roper would certainly attack as soon as the best ponies of the raiders could bring him. Or, failing to locate Roper, Shoshone Wilce might even bring her father—and what orders Jim Leathers had in regard to Lew Gordon she could only surmise.

"I'm getting sick of this," Jody told Jim Leathers. "You owe me a horse; there can't possibly be any argument about that. I'll have to ask you to rope a pony and bring him to my saddle—and I'll be on my way!"

Slowly Leathers shook his head. "You won't give me a pony?"

"I'm afraid—you'll have to wait until your friends come, lady."

For Jody Gordon's white flash of anger there was no outlet whatever. She turned away to hide from them the furious tears that sprang into her eyes. She took off her sheepskin coat and flung it on the table, for the room was very hot; but because her fingers were still chilled to the bone she pulled off her gloves, tucked them in her belt, and went to the shallow fireplace to hold out her hands to the flames.

They went on talking now in the drawing, well-considered speech of the trail, long pauses marking every interchange. Whatever else they might think of her, they evidently did not consider that she implied any necessity to secrecy.

"If Roper is on his way," the younger rider said thoughtfully, "and this side rider of hers has got loose and meets him, so that Roper knows what he's up against—that might be kind of bad medicine, Jim. If he's got his war-riders with him—"

"I've missed hooking up with Roper twenty times when I thought I had him," Leathers said. "I'd sooner meet up with him on any terms, than carry back the word that I fell down."

My Week

U. S. RESPONSIBILITY

EASTPORT, MAINE.—A man in Brooklyn, N. Y., sends me a clipping containing a few words I had said about our responsibility as a nation, to the world, and comments on it in a little rhyme about "looking out for number one, before anything has begun." He thinks we haven't "plenty to spare" and can't "send it all over there."

It does seem to me that the gentleman misses the point. If we bend every effort now to produce necessary material help for those who are doing the fighting in a cause which we believe to be right, we may keep the war from our shores. If Great Britain, China and Russia lose, sooner or later, we will have to fight.

No matter how well prepared we are, 175,000,000 people in this hemisphere will have quite a struggle; first on the economic side and eventually on the military side.

We shall be pitted against 500,000,000 people in Europe and Japan, and heaven knows how many more if Russia is not able to hold out. I don't want war, but I think that every effort we can put into production and military preparation to aid those fighting Hitler is our best guarantee against war; and our only safety, should it come.

AN OLD FRIEND

One afternoon I went over to Lubec, Maine, to see my old friend, Dr. Bennett, who is now 90 years old. He is deeply troubled by the state of the world and kept repeating: "What has happened to the goodness in the world?" I think a good many of us would like to know the answer to that question.

We went in to see Dr. Bennett's son, who is also a doctor, and told him that there would be 30 young people in this house for five weeks. I think he may have to keep an eye on them now and then, and I reminded him of some of the escapades his father had pulled many of our people through in days gone by.

In the evening we read aloud from William Shirer's "War Diary." The book is a wonderful piece of vivid writing. It is extraordinary that he was able to do his work in Berlin, feeling as he did, and not get into serious trouble.

WAR EFFECTS

We have discovered up here that war makes a considerable difference in the lives of the Canadian people. I wanted to buy what I could in Canada and need many things since 40 people in a house require a good many more household goods than 20. As usual, most of my kitchen utensils require replenishing also. Therefore, we took a large boat and went off one morning at nine o'clock.

We proceeded up the bay under rather gray skies, which was perhaps fortunate, since all of us got a wind burn, but not the uncomfortable sunburn which we might otherwise have had. After buying all we could in St. Andrews, we went across to a beach on a little island, cooked ourselves some scrambled eggs in the old frying pan, which has gone on so many picnics up here, and went back to St. Andrews to collect our purchases and to buy some lobsters in the pound, for one can not buy them now on the island.

We intended to go on to St. Stephen to buy the things we could not get in St. Andrews, but they are on what I call double daylight saving time in Canada, which is one hour ahead of our daylight saving time. We realized that we would be too late to find shops open, so we started back to Eastport. Just to make things seem thoroughly familiar, the engine overheated on the way back and we stopped. I had visions of lying helpless in the bay for some time, but after administering some nice cool salt water, Captain Cline coaxed the engine into action again, and we finished our shopping in Eastport.

One always forgets certain things and I am sure we shall have to do more shopping. We are busy putting everything we have bought into place.

MAINE INDUSTRY PROBLEM

The sardine factories in Eastport and Lubec, Maine, are running every day in the week, for this year the fish are kind and apparently making up for their absence in the last five years. In Eastport, however, a man told me they are facing a real problem. They provide coal for this section, even for many little islands off shore. The coal is bought and paid for, but it is in Norfolk, Va., and they have not been able to obtain a ship for transportation.

OFFER OF AID

I had a call one afternoon from Officer Sennett of the Canadian Mounted Police. He offered his services in case any of our young people are lost in the woods, or anything else occurs where he can be helpful. Since he is stationed on the island for the summer, I certainly hope that no one will be lost in the woods. However, such things have happened, and it is good to know there is some one who can be called upon in case of emergencies.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.

Lesson for July 13

CHRISTIANITY EXPANDS IN ASIA

LESSON TEXT—Acts 19:8-10, 23-32.
GOLDEN TEXT—So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed.—Acts 19:20.

War is the order of the day, and much as we may regret it the life of every one of us is affected by its feverish touch. Certainly no Christian has any pleasure in the violent hatreds of wicked men, and can only pray that somehow a righteous peace may come to this troubled world. There is a warfare, however, which we do seek to foster and promote. We encourage it, and as Christians make a holy resolve to battle to the end. That is the warfare against Satan and his hosts. As long as he rules in the hearts of men, and sin and wickedness are here, we say, "Fight on, my soul." Christian life and service are presented in Scripture as a fight. We do well to learn the methods and the weapons of this great spiritual conflict; not stressing a belligerent note of strife against one another, and particularly not between the divisions of God's army in the earth, but standing shoulder to shoulder in the battle against the Evil One.

I. Attack for God (vv. 8-10).
The vigorous prosecution of a strong attack on the enemy's position is good military strategy, and good spiritual warfare. The command of God is "Forward!" and His forces are not to hinder their effectiveness by weak indecision or fear. Paul sets us an example in this.

1. Bold Preaching (vv. 8, 9a).
Paul had met some disciples (19:1-3) who knew only the baptism of John and did not have the Holy Spirit. Dr. Erdman rightly says that "there are many more like these twelve 'disciples' in the pews of Christian churches. They are sincere men, they hate their sins, they believe in the teachings of Jesus, they admire the Sermon on the Mount, they yearn for the highest and best things, but they lack spiritual power. Why? Because they are 'disciples of John,' they have not fixed their hearts and their hopes upon a divine, risen, glorified Christ; they do not know 'the grace of God.' When, however, they learn the full gospel and yield themselves to Christ, they are not merely baptized with water, but also the Holy Spirit."

2. Careful Teaching (vv. 9b, 10).
Three months of such preaching brought many converts, but there were also "hardened and disobedient" men whose opposition caused Paul to withdraw the disciples (learners) to the privacy of a lecture room for thorough instruction in Christian doctrine, a sort of Bible Institute of Ephesus. The church has largely failed in its teaching ministry and has thus weakened its effectiveness against the enemy. To be strong workers for the Lord, Christians must know the doctrines of the Bible.

II. Counter Attack by Satan (vv. 23-32).
The enemy of our souls is often content to let us go on in comparative peace as long as we do not bother him unduly, but once we put up the banner of a holy life and service in God's army, he begins a terrific counter attack. Paul had felt it already in the hardening of listeners' hearts (v. 8), but now it began in dead earnest.

1. By Selfish Opposition (vv. 23-27).
One way to bring a violent reaction against spiritual truth is to let it interfere with business. Demetrius and his fellow silversmiths proposed to be concerned about the threatened destruction of the household worship of Diana (and what a testimony that was to the effectiveness of Paul's preaching!), but in reality they were worried about the loss of their ungodly business in charms (vv. 25-27).

Many of the enemies of the gospel in our time are fighting against God's Word because they are in a business which is condemned by it. They know that every time a new convert is won to Christ they lose a customer and it troubles them. Reader, if you are in that kind of business, get out of it quick before God's judgment falls upon you.

2. Senseless Tumult (vv. 28-32).
Knowing that their opposition was without true foundation, they incited and agitated a wild demonstration. Is it not astonishing how many thoughtless and foolish people there are in the world who will senselessly follow the lead of someone who opposes God? Shouting a slogan which had no real meaning, they lent their voices to the tumultuous agitation against God. Finally, one sensible man, hearing the punishment of city officials, quieted them. The Ephesians were just like many in our day who fear man more than God. But may we ask, if you fear the judgment of God? After all, it is God and His Word you oppose, unconverted friend. Do you think He will hold you guiltless?

CRISP, COOL SUMMER SALADS
(See Recipes Below.)

AT HOME TO SUMMER

In a recent poll, 37 per cent of the thousands of homemakers receiving questionnaires expressed a desire to be experts at salad making. . . 43 per cent wanted to know how to make food look glamorous.

This report gave me an idea. Salads, besides being healthful and givers of vim, vigor and vitality, offer a splendid opportunity for variety. . . they can be used as the appetizer or "starter" course, the main dish, a dessert, or they may accompany the dinner course.

So, besides giving you timely tips on the art of salad making, I'm going to explain literally dozens of ways in which your creators of daily menus can give "oomph" to your tasty dishes.

The characteristics of a good salad are simple and fairly easy to accomplish; namely, it should be well chilled before serving; have an attractive arrangement, and a pleasing color combination.

Salads in summer are as important as swimming or tennis or golf. They give an opportunity to add color and gaiety to the table.

Your choice of ingredients will depend upon what you have planned for your main course and dessert, provided your salad is to be a side dish or an appetizer.

There are many varieties of fruit salads. They are excellent by themselves or as an accompaniment to a main course of sea food or meat and a pastry or cake dessert.

Good to eat, wonderful to look at and substantial is this salad of orange slices and prunes, stuffed with cottage cheese. (See picture at top of column.)

*Orange Prune Cheese Salad.

On a bed of lettuce circle 10 to 12 orange slices. At the side arrange 3 cooked prunes which have been stuffed with cottage cheese. With a sharp knife peel oranges, removing all outer skin and inner membrane down to juicy meat. Cut in thin, even slices. California oranges, which are firm-meated and practically seedless, are excellent to use.

Serve with a sweet french dressing, made with lemon juice. With a hot bread and beverage, this salad makes a well-balanced home or party luncheon.

Sweet French Dressing.

1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup salad oil
1/2 cup red jelly or honey
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon paprika

Shake or blend well before serving. Makes 1 1/2 cups. Lemon juice gives this dressing just the flavor needed to make the orange, prune and cheese combination the perfect salad.

Keeping cool during summer months is a problem, solved most successfully by eating properly.

LYNN SAYS:

Don't be timid about putting your own personality into your salads. Here are some suggestions which may help you become famous for your salads. . .

Try:
Fluting bananas by running the prongs of a fork lengthwise down a peeled banana, then slicing it crosswise.

Adding chopped, broken or whole walnut kernels to fruit, vegetable and meat salads.

Using fruit juices to thin mayonnaise and to mix with french dressing.

Adding a fruit gelatin, sliced or cut into glistening cubes, to a fruit salad.

Brightening the edges of lettuce leaves by dipping them in paprika, or adding chopped parsley to the edges of pineapple slices.

Adding a little lemon juice or vinegar to sweet cream for salad dressing—makes a quick substitute for sour cream.

Japanese Potato Salad will really give a meal a lift! Easy to prepare, inexpensive, it may be used as a main dish, with a cold meat platter, or for additional variety so acceptable to the buffet table.

Japanese Potato Salad.

1 cup flaky, hot boiled rice
1 medium to large potato, hot mashed
4 hard cooked eggs
1/4 cup french or boiled dressing
2 tablespoons chopped sweet red pepper, or pimiento
1 tablespoon chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
1/2 teaspoon salt

Mix rice, potato and two of the eggs, which have been sieved, into salad dressing. Chill. Just before serving, add remaining ingredients. Taste and add more seasoning if desired. Heap on lettuce, or serve without greens in a large bowl. Garnish with remaining eggs, sliced or sieved. Yield: 4 servings.

When the mercury soars skyward and appetites are on the wane, nothing tastes quite so good as a chilled, molded mixture of fresh vegetables or fruits, placed on a bed of crisp greens and garnished with a tart, taste-teasing dressing.

Lime Cucumber Salad.

1 package lime gelatin
1 1/2 cups hot water
2 tablespoons vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons scraped onion
Dash of paprika
1 tablespoon chopped pimiento
1 cucumber, diced

Dissolve gelatin in hot water, then add vinegar, salt, scraped onion and dash of paprika. Chill until beginning to thicken, then fold in chopped pimiento and diced cucumber. Chill until firm and serve on salad greens with a garnish of mayonnaise.

Since it's open season on salads, homemakers who like variety will be interested in several types of salad dressings. Here are two which will do much to bring out the full flavor of your tasty concoctions.

Thick French Dressing.

1 cup salad oil
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon sugar
3 teaspoons paprika
1 teaspoon gelatin

Mix dry ingredients; add oil and vinegar. Beat thoroughly. Put the gelatin in 1 tablespoon cold water and dissolve in 2 tablespoons boiling water. Cool; add dressing and thoroughly about 15 minutes and allow to stand until a good emulsion is formed. Use fruit juice instead of vinegar for fruit salad. Use more paprika if a darker red is desired.

Egg Dressing.

1/2 teaspoon paprika
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
5 tablespoons vinegar
1 egg yolk
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
1/2 cup salad oil
1 teaspoon salt

Mix ingredients and shake well. Add beaten egg yolk when ready to serve. Half lemon juice and vinegar may be used.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

HERE is the peasant flavored Basque silhouette which junior girls have taken to so widely in the past few months. Barbara Bell interprets the popular new fashion in a one-piece frock. Typically basque, with the long top fitted through the waistline and gathered at a bustline to emphasize feminine curves. The full skirt is attached at the hipline. Order Pattern No. 1402-B for yourself today and be the first in your community to wear the new, youthful basque fashion. Shows off the best features of the young girl's figure and has a fresh appeal of complete femininity.

The pattern can be made up in the new flower printed cottons—chintz, percale or broadcloth. And in soft batiste, lawn, voile or dimity. It's cute, too, in gingham, seersucker or calico. It's a real summer frock, adaptable to any summer materials.

Pattern No. 1402-B is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Corresponding bust measurements 29, 31, 33, 35 and 37. Size 13 (31) requires 4 1/2 yards 35-inch fabric without nap. 10 yards of ric-rac braid are needed for trim. Send your order to:

Perhaps His Neighbors Were Only Keeping Time

Wilkes had a serious complaint to make to his landlord. "It's the people in the flat above me!" he stormed. "They won't give me a minute's peace. This morning at one o'clock they were jumping up and down on the floor as hard as they could. I won't put up with such behavior. It's an outrage!"

The landlord looked sympathetic. "They woke you up, I presume?" he inquired. The victim shook his head. "No, I hadn't gone to bed." "Ah! You were working late?" "Yes. I was practicing on my saxophone!"
