Odd Bits Salvaged
By The Editor

"Say, these newspaper men are getting to be pretty rank, aren't they?"

k-k

This remark was made by J. H. Bardwell one day last week after he had learned through newscasts that the banker-newspaper man, Lawrence C. Pope, had been captured in San Antonio. The banker-turned-publisher is charged with two bank robberies, one at Thornton and one at Schulenburg.

k-k

We can't say much in his behalf, or in behalf of the newspaper profession. Being a banker, Mr. Pope was probably smart enough to plan and execute the robberies; being a newspaper man, he was probably dumb enough to think he could get away with it!

k-k

"I simply had to have money and I became desperate," he reportedly told a newspaper reporter in San Antonio. Now, it appears that his plea will, of course, be insanity, and psychiatric treatment is being recommended.

k-k

As a publisher, he had been under "terrific pressure" since taking over the two newspapers on October 1.

k-k

We hope our banker and law enforcement officers won't take this matter too much to heart. If some six weeks of being in the publishing business will bring this about, we hesitate to toy with the idea of what over 30 years in the business will do for a fellow.

k-k

We've been under "terrific pressure" on a number of occasions, but the pressure has been released by means other than holding up a bank. A pretty sound piece of advice to our creditors, however, might be: Just don't put the pressure on us too strong!

k-k

We still hope to be able to walk into our bank, talk over fishing with Mr. Braly, spin a yarn with Moulton, exchange greetings with J. Weldon Smith, or say how-de-do to the lady employees without someone becoming suspicious of a holiday.

k-k

There are, maybe, a few lessons to be gained from the Pope incident, such as: If you're a successful banker, stay out of the newspaper business. Handling money as a banker employee and taking it in armed robbery are different and distinct acts. Bank robbers don't go unapprehended nowadays. Bankers are not cut out to be newspaper publishers—they can't stand the pressure! If pressure begins to build up, open a valve and release some of it. If you rob a bank, don't go spend the money on a new Volkswagen. If you buy a newspaper, don't buy it in the wife's name—that might bring on terrific pressure. Be satisfied with the money you take in the robbery—don't take pictures, too. See a psychiatrist first and so on.

k-k

We've been asked if we knew the publisher, which we don't. And since his foray had such short-lived success, we reckon there's no point in making his acquaintance!

k-k

"This is the first time in ten years my feet have been warm," Rev. J. F. Michael of Wellington, former Munday pastor, is quoted as saying last Friday upon being dismissed from an Amarillo hospital. He had undergone successful surgery to correct a circulatory condition. Getting "cold feet" was attributed as one of the reasons he retired from the active ministry while in Munday, and now he's expressed hopes of becoming active in the work again.

k-k

The Michaels have many friends in this area. We remember a Wellington friend writing us that "he's a good Joe" when the Michaels came to Munday, and we found him to be just that. He has just been semi-retired, though. He's serving two rural churches in the Wellington area.

Cotton Classing Office On Tail End Of 1960 Crop, Nearing 100,000 Bales

The U. S. Department of Agriculture cotton classing office at Munday is now entering the "tail end" of the 1960 season, according to K. E. Voelkel, who is in charge and who expects the local office to class over 100,000 bales before it is closed.

Serving 24 gins in the four-county area of Baylor, Haskell, Knox and Throckmorton, the office had classed approximately 80,000 bales through last Saturday, with a carry-over of 6,000 bales. A canvass of the 24 gins revealed that between 15,000 and 20,000 bales are yet expected to be ginned.

Last year, the local office classed 83,000 bales.

Hail and rains took a toll of several thousand bales in the territory, it was stated. About 5,000 bales were classed in the Abilene office before the local office opened on September 15, so it is possible the territory will produce around 125,000 bales.

Mr. Voelkel feels that the crop is from 80 to 85 per cent harvested. At the peak of the season the office employed four cotton classifiers, with three of them still on duty this week.

"The predominant quality of cotton at the present time," Mr. Voelkel said, "is middling light spotted and strict low middling light spotted. The staple is 15-16 and 31-32. Certain varieties of irrigated cotton is stapling 11-16 and 11-8 inches.

We are getting some cotton that is being reduced in grade on account of bark, which is result of machine stripping, but have received very few bales that are waxy in staple. The office has a fibronare which is used in connection with waxy cotton.

"As a result of good ginning in the area," Mr. Voelkel continued, "we have reduced very few bales as a result of preparation. A series of night meetings have been held this year at the local office with key farmers and ginners, and Mr. Voelkel feels that these have resulted in a better understanding of operations of the local office. "We will be glad to show anyone who is interested just how the office is operated," he concluded.

As of Monday, November 21, Mr. Voelkel said he had no idea of when the office will be closed for the season. Enough cotton is still coming in to keep the three classifiers busy.

Farmers Supply Co. Is New Dealer For Goodyear Tires

Lee A. Parks, who operates the Farmers Supply Co., announced last Monday that he has secured the dealership for the well-known Goodyear Tires.

A shipment of these tires came in several days ago, and Mr. Parks plans to maintain a stock sufficient to serve the needs of his customers. He will carry tires for passenger cars, trucks and tractors.

"We invite you to visit us and let us talk over your tire needs with you," Mr. Parks said.

Weinert's Bulldogs Clip Cotton Center Elks In 6-Man Football Playoff Friday

Weinert's Bulldogs scored in every quarter here Friday night and coasted past the Cotton Center Elks, 54-13, in a six-man football playoff.

Weinert scored early in the game when halfback Bill Rainey swept right end and raced 40 yards to the goal. Rainey added an additional two points on a successful kick.

Rainey set up the next TD on a 35-yard run to the 10. End Joe Williamson went over the rest of the way when he caught a pass from Chet Forehand. Rainey's

Texas Automotive Dealers Association president, F. D. (Bud) Mitchell, left, and executive vice president H. C. Phittman will be featured speakers at a dinner meeting of all factory-authorized new car dealers in this area at the Country Club in Wichita Falls at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 29th. Knox County is included in the 13-county area.

Crowell-Albany Game Slated At Stamford Friday

Crowell officials and Albany officials met last Saturday morning and decided in their choice for a game site for the second round play in Texas class A football.

Neither team could agree on a neutral site, and both elected to go for the home and home toss of a coin. Albany chose Stamford as their home field, and Crowell picked Vernon for theirs.

The coin fell with the head toward Albany, and the game will be played at 7:30 p.m. Friday at Stamford.

Crowell, undefeated and untied, blanked Keller 47 to 0 last Friday at Jacksboro. Albany shut out their district foe, Perryton, 7 to 0, at Childress.

Last Rites For Newland Wyatt Held Saturday

Funeral services for Newland (Bill) Wyatt were held from the First Methodist Church in Munday at 2 p.m. Saturday, November 19, with the pastor, Rev. Rex L. Mauldin, officiating.

Mr. Wyatt, whose home was in Kermit, died of a heart attack on Thursday, November 17, while on a hunting trip near Cotulla. His group had arrived at the hunting site, and Mr. Wyatt was clearing a spot for camping when he suffered the attack.

Burial was in the Knox City Cemetery under direction of Wylie Funeral Home of Cisco, with McCauley Funeral Home of Munday assisting.

Mr. Wyatt had worked on ranches a number of years, but at the time of his death was manager of a feed store in Kermit.

Survivors include a brother, Gill Wyatt of Munday; two sisters, Mrs. Will Griffith of Cisco and Mrs. Leon Waldrop of McLean, and several nieces and nephews.

O'Brien Defeats Benjamin Cagers

The O'Brien boys defeated the Benjamin cagers, 57 to 44, in a non-district basketball game at Benjamin last Monday night.

Gale Petty for the losers was high point man with 20 points, and Jim Johnson of O'Brien led his team with 16.

Crowell swept two girls games from Benjamin, winning the A game 48 to 42, and the B game 40 to 39.

Miss Brown scored 30 of the 40 points for Crowell in the B game, with Nelda Kilgore scoring 17 for Benjamin.

Notes From Knox Farms, Ranches

By Jack Moore, Knox County Agent

County Farm and Ranch Day

The planning committee for the Knox County Farm and Ranch Day met in their first planning meeting this week and set up the tentative program and date for the event. It was decided by the committee to have the meeting again this year in Munday on a Friday in January, probably Jan. 27.

Goodson Sellers, H. H. Partridge and L. B. Patterson were selected by the group to be on the arrangements committee. It is hoped to have a portion on the program especially for the women as well as the agricultural side of the program.

The committee composed of Goodson Sellers, H. H. Partridge, Lonnie Offutt, Maycyl Orman, J. G. Simmons, Cecil Burton, Shelton Phillips, V. E. Moore, L. B. Patterson, Homer Martin, W. E. Bralley, Aaron Edgar and Jack Moore, set up a tentative speaker program to include topics such as Farm Management, Cotton, Livestock, Outlook, Soils and Fertilization.

This program has been said to be one of the best that comes to this county during the course of a year. More details will be announced about the program in the future as the plans are developed.

Income Tax Meeting

The Knox County Program Building committee is sponsoring a program to be conducted Dec. 6 in the county courthouse.

At 2:00 p.m. This program has been labeled by other counties as a school and by others as a clinic and still by others as a workshop.

Regardless of the title applied to the income tax program it is a worthwhile meeting at which the Farmers Income Tax Guides and forms are discussed. Mr. Anell Waltrip of Knox City stated that even though a farmer did not fill out his own forms, the program was most beneficial and the time well spent because a person attending the meeting can better gather their materials to take to the tax consultant of his choice.

The program is so designed that a tax consultant, a person that has a tax consultant, or a farmer that fills out his own forms gets benefits from attending this informative type of meeting. A Munday farmer stated that last year he had learned some ways that he had not known about before.

Beef Cattle Event Planned

The Livestock subcommittee of the Program Building committee will have a planning meeting in the near future to plan a trip for the Knox County people to visit the experimental Ranch between Throckmorton and Seymour.

It is planned to visit the ranch in the morning and return to one or two farms in the county in the afternoon for an on the farm meeting on silage feeding and feed lot feeding.

The committee plans to have the event shortly after the first of the year and will announce the date of the meeting after all arrangements have been made. Members of the Livestock Subcommittee are Jack Idol, J. C. Moorhouse, J. D. Smith, Bruce Campbell, Jr., Al Cartwright, J. B. Reneau and Dr. William Stewart.

Rev. J. F. Michael Undergoes Surgery

Rev. J. F. Michael, former pastor of the Munday Methodist Church, underwent surgery in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo on Tuesday, November 15.

The surgery was to correct a circulatory ailment. He was released from the hospital last Friday. The Michaels' many friends in this area will be glad to learn that he is getting along fine.

EASTERN STAR TO MEET ON TUESDAY

Members of Munday chapter, Order of Eastern Star, will meet at the Masonic hall at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, November 19, for initiation. Members are urged to attend this important meeting.

When Thanksgiving is over, plans begin to shape up for the Christmas holidays — and Munday merchants, through the Chamber of Commerce, are already laying these plans.

The plans call for Santa Claus to visit Munday on Friday, December 9, at which time the Christmas shopping season will officially be opened; the children will get their first visit with Santa Claus, and people will be thinking of what loved ones will be wanting and needing for Christmas.

Through the limited amount of money which the organization is able to spend, the Chamber of Commerce is planning a starter toward new Christmas decorations to replace the old ones which have been in use many years. A starter set of reindeer, complete with Santa and his sleigh, has been purchased, and it is planned to add other decorations of good quality each year. This will eventually culminate in a very attractive variety of decorations for the Christmas season.

A large tree is being planted on the southwest corner of the city hall lawn as a permanent Christmas tree.

An outline of the program scheduled for December 9 is as follows:

4:40 p.m.—Santa's entrance on the fire truck, leading a parade from the high school, with both bands participating.

5:00 p.m.—A band concert under the direction of Bobby Brooks, Mogul Band director.

5:30 p.m.—Tree lighting ceremony with local group singing Christmas carols.

6:00 p.m.—Fireworks display, sponsored by the Munday Fire Department. This will climax the evening's entertainment.

The fireworks display does not in any way alter the city ordinance prohibiting the use of fireworks within the city limits.

POWER ON THE HIGH SEAS

Russia, as everyone knows who follows the news, is swiftly intensifying her economic war with the west. As part of it, she is building a major fleet of merchant ships and tankers, in an effort to become a dominant sea power.

This has brought a serious warning from a top authority — Vice Admiral Ralph E. Wilson, chairman of the United States Maritime Board. The Soviets and their satellites, he goes on, "... have entered into some 40 trade agreements with other nations, the most recent being Cuba, which will give them a foothold in the Caribbean area and a stepping stone into South America. This is something we must watch."

Admiral Wilson describes our own need in these words: "We must have the wherewithal in ships to fight back, and that means building new, fast vessels to replace our old ones . . ."

"It is highly important that the industry, the government and the public get together, to support and build our merchant marine."

This means that government policy must be one of giving all reasonable encouragement to U. S.-flag shipping. And it means, further, that American enterprises engaged in importing and exporting patronize our own shipping lines whenever possible. The cold war will inevitably deepen — and the primary weapon now is economic. Power on the high seas — trading and naval power both — is one of the great prizes at stake.

MAKE CHRISTMAS SHIPMENTS EARLY

In a few weeks the Christmas rush will begin to spread through the land. Department stores, postal facilities and transportation services will begin bracing themselves for the holiday onslaught. Among those who will be carrying a major share of the load will be the Railway Express Agency, a private taxpaying company that lives in the shadow of tax-exempt government competition and still manages to provide efficient service to the shipping public. In fact, during recent years it has integrated all modes of transport — rail, highway, air and ocean. It offers shippers a single negotiable through bill of lading covering more than 45 million origin and destination combinations served by its World Thruway Service. Also during recent years farsighted management has spent many millions of dollars on new fleets of trucks and other equipment and facilities for expeditious handling of the hundreds of millions of packages that are transported by the Express Agency every year.

The convenience of modern Railway Express is worth keeping in mind this Christmas season. Also keep in mind that other handy bit of perennial advice — "ship early."

INDEPENDENCE DAY FOR CORPORATIONS

July 4th, we all know, is Independence Day. Also, in a very different sense, it is an independence day for American business corporations. For that is the day when these corporations and the people who own them start keeping some profit for themselves.

The arithmetic is simple. The federal corporation tax, on concerns of any size, is 52 per cent. So, for more than half the year, government takes all the profit.

When an individual begins working for himself depends upon his income bracket, deductions and other matters. Each person can figure it out easily enough. Twenty per cent is the beginning tax on taxable income — 91 per cent is the maximum. State and local taxes come on top of that.

Government absorbs about one-third of the national income. The average man works only two-thirds of the year for himself. The tax collectors demand four months of his services.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS, AND YOU

Citizens in the United States have pretty much taken freedom for granted. It is something that they have always enjoyed like the air they breathe. They overlook the fact that as the air of our cities is becoming more and more polluted, so is our freedom.

No industry has more at stake than the newspapers in the fight against "welfarism" and socialization of industry in the United States. What happens to newspapers when a people is "freed" by having the government take over the means of production? One of the first things that has to go is a free press. This has happened in every country where political domination of the people has been used to "free" them and take over private activity. Witness Cuba as the latest example. Uncontrolled newspapers cannot be tolerated for there must be no criticism of oppressors.

You cannot insist on your rights while driving a high-horsepower car at high-speed reminds, the Portland, Oregon, Traffic Safety Commission, because a hurtling out-of-control machine knows no justice or fair-play.

Chips From The Carpenter's Workbench

By JAMES HALLMARK

Just what is wrong with the modern dance? This is a question which we cannot avoid. Space will not permit a detailed discussion of this vital issue, but I should like to make some suggestions.

"Lasciviousness" is one of the words of the flesh mentioned in Galatians 5:19-21. Paul states concerning these sins, "They which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God." Just what is lasciviousness? The STAND-ARD DICTIONARY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE defines it as, "(1) having or denoting wanton desires; lustful, lewd, (2) tending to produce sensual desires." Could dancing be classified as lasciviousness? There can be no reasonable doubt concerning the fact that the dance in many cases excites desires in young men and women. Some can dance and maintain their moral purity, but it is in spite of the dance, and not because of it. Many tragic, broken lives attest the fruits of the dance.

For the life of me, I cannot understand parents that permit, even encourage their youngsters to participate in a practice that has never brought forth any worthwhile fruit, but has contributed to the disgrace and downfall of many fine children. J. Edgar Hoover makes this statement: "Most juvenile crime has its inception in the dance hall, either public or private." Dancing keeps bad company. Drinking, gambling, cursing often accompany dancing.

"But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin; and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death." (James 1:14-15); generous.

Many of the possibilities that should be covered by a properly drawn lease will not occur to inexperienced persons. The renting of land deserves a written contract, and it is a contract too important to be entrusted to anyone other than an expert.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform — not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

WRITTEN FARM LEASE ADVISABLE

At this time of year, many landlords and tenants are thinking about farm rental arrangements for 1960. While some operate from year to year on the basis of verbal agreements regulated largely by local custom, written leases are better and may save disagreement and hard feelings between the parties.

Farming is a business and should be conducted in a businesslike manner for best success. Rental contracts involve a full year's work by the tenant and possibly thousands of dollars for both parties. A few dollars spent on a properly drawn lease is good business economy.

A farm lease is not a simple paper. Printed lease forms often turn out to be traps if not understood, or if not properly executed. A farmer-tenant contract is intricate and of such importance to both parties concerned that amateur draftsmanship is risky.

Fixing of cash rent or designating the length of term are relatively simple. Yet, even in these matters, ambiguity or incompleteness can cause bitter disputes and expensive lawsuits.

A loosely drawn property description may have consequences entirely unintended by either landlord or tenant. Where rent is to be based on acreage, an accurate description is doubly important.

In addition, there are legal rules to substitute for some omissions in written leases. For example, a holdover by the tenant may automatically renew the contract if the lease is silent on the subject. It is as important to know the results of omissions as to know the courts' interpretation of the language used.

There are many matters which should be covered by a properly drawn lease. For instance, if a tenant is to farm on a share basis, care should be taken to define what expenses are to be paid by the parties as well as what shares are to be taken out. A lease should cover such things as who is to make repairs, what land is to be cropped, whether the tenant can cut timber, whether loss of a building by fire or other cause frees the tenant, or whether the landlord must accept a sub-tenant.

One great cause of difficulty with leases is blind faith on the part of the persons involved that all differences of opinion can be worked out. Poor memories as to verbal agreements can cause disputes between persons even though they are both honest and

NATIONAL FARM-CITY WEEK

Local programs in Texas have been arranged on a widespread basis in observance of the period from Nov. 18 to 24 as National Farm-City Week, and coordinated activities were under way to bring a better explanation of farm problems home to city dwellers.

From the farm standpoint, the week offers exceptional opportunities by personal contact for clearing up misinformation and misconceptions on what is happening today in American agriculture. From the city viewpoint, the message from farm spokesmen can hardly fail to develop a better understanding of what Texas farmers and ranchers are up against.

Many local Chambers of Commerce and service clubs have operated in setting up local observances and meetings for a mutual exchange of information and opinion. Nationally, Farm-City Week is sponsored by the National Grange, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Again and again, all over Texas, farm spokesmen were making use of the week to emphasize such points as the following:

1. Food prices are not high as a result of farm programs. In fact, food prices, in terms of man hours required to earn the family food budget, are lower in 1960 than ever before in history.

2. Farmers do not receive large government handouts, as some widespread publicity on individual payments under Commodity Credit has given some cause to believe. These larger payments are rare exceptions, and in no way represent the average American farmer.

3. Farmers are not paid for soil conservation practices that are unnecessary. They are, in fact, being helped to preserve the productivity of the land for future generations of Americans to insure our national strength for the years ahead.

4. Contrary to the impression widely held in many of the cities, agriculture is more important today than ever before in history. Approximately 40 per cent of our nation's population is supported by agriculture in production, marketing, processing, transportation and services.

5. The welfare of our country, now and in the future, is dependent upon a healthy and effective agriculture.

Well armed with facts and figures to back up this general message, the farm spokesmen can be depended upon to make effective use of Farm-City Week as a sounding board.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bellinghausen and Velma visited last Saturday in the home of their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Lerner, Kevin and Karen, in Wichita Falls. They were honored by their children on this day with a surprise dinner in the Lerner home in celebration of their 25th wedding anniversary. Evelyn, who is employed in Wichita Falls, returned home with her parents for a week end visit.

Mrs. E. O. Tuggle of Wayside and Mr. and Mrs. Don Hall and family of Amarillo visited Mrs. Dee Mullican and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Tuggle over the week end.

4-H Pair Win Trip to Chicago

Top state honors for 1960 have been bestowed upon two Texas 4-H'ers, for outstanding achievements in the frozen foods and agricultural programs. They will receive trips to the 39th National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, Nov. 27 through Dec. 1, where they will compete for $400 scholarships.

Reba Payne, 16, of Mount Pleasant, has frozen almost 1,700 packages of foods, and estimates that she has saved $750 during her four years with this project. She began by freezing various fruits, storing them in plastic containers, and soon expanded her project to include vegetables, poultry, meat and fish.

Yeast breads, pies, cakes, pecans, sandwiches, salads and creamed dishes were added to her freezer this year. In addition, Miss Payne experimented with the freezing of egg yolks, figs, grapes and the use of glass containers.

The 4-H frozen foods program is supported by the Whirlpool Corporation in cooperation with the Extension Service and the National 4-H Service Committee.

Dollars And Sense

By Mrs. S. C. Kinsey, Knox County H. D. Agent

Managing family recreation: Planned family recreation should fit into the family time and work schedule as well as the family plan for spending.

Every member of the family should have a part in making plans for family recreation.

Recreation activities should provide plenty of fun. Family fun enriches family life and influences mental health.

Recreation should include elements of creativeness to add to its educational value.

TV and radio programs as well as movies should have an overall desirable effect and should be sincere and constructive, encouraging decent human relations.

The amount of money spent for recreation is no indication of the value received. Be sure that the dollar invested contributes to the well being of each family member.

Dollars And Sense

By Mrs. S. C. Kinsey, Knox County H. D. Agent

Examine food buying habits. Buy to get the best dollar value. The amount of money spent for food is no indication of good or poor nutrition.

Buy at the best time considering all factors at home and in the market.

Buy in optimal quantity. A bargain is no bargain if food is wasted because it cannot be used before quality is lost.

Use an economical method of paying for food.

Get quality for the money you spend.

Choose sensible quality for each use and not necessarily the highest grades for all purposes, which may be extremely wasteful.

Use a guide when buying. This guide should be a market list made at home based on planned menus that will provide good nutrition for the family.

Avoid "Slip-ups" On Slippery Roads

Seven rules were outlined today for avoiding "slip-ups" on slippery roads of early winter by J. O. Musick, General Manager of the Texas Safety Association. Based on National Safety Council research by a committee of authorities, the rules are:

1. Learn to adjust your speed to varying road, weather and traffic conditions.

2. Get the "feel" of the road by trying your brakes or gently pressing your accelerator while driving slowly and away from traffic on snowy or icy days, and rainy days.

3. Follow other vehicles at a safe distance. You may find it hard to explain why you couldn't stop when the driver did.

4. Pump your brakes rapidly to maintain best steering control when braking on ice or slippery snow. This gives short intervals of maximum braking separated by short intervals of effective steering while front wheels are rolling.

5. Signal your intention to turn or to stop well in advance, as a means of alerting the driver behind regarding your plans to turn or come to a halt.

6. Keep your windshield and windows clear. You must see danger in time to avoid it. Be sure your windshield wiper arms and blades are in good condition and have recommended arm pressure to sweep rain, snow and sleet off instead of sliding over it.

7. Have good tires and always carry a pair of reinforced tire chains for severe conditions. Tests show that chains cut stopping distances in half and give four to seven times more "go" traction often needed on snow or ice.

"Driving is a convenience that helps us conduct our business and enjoy life more completely," Musick declared. "Between now and March some severe weather conditions will cover our streets and highways. By following these fundamental rules we can overcome these hazards that face us each winter."

Modern Sugar Harvest Underway...

The days when hundreds of laborers used to cut the sugar cane by hand and mules slowly pulled the wagons to the sugar mill, are gone. Today Thomson "Hurricane" harvesters cut, top and stalk a hundred tons of cane a day and specially designed Allis-Chalmers cane tractors speed two or three heaped cane wagons at a time to the mill.

It's cane cuttin' time along the bayous of America's sugar bowl and once again Louisiana sugar cane growers are unfolding their story of world leadership in the mechanized harvesting of sugar cane.

The hum of huge harvesters

can be heard through Evangeline land from October through December as they mow down row upon row of 14 to 18-foot cane and windrow it at the same time.

Tractor equipped cane burners follow the harvesters to burn the "trash" off the windrowed sugar-producing cane stalks. Then the huge claws of tractor-mounted cane loaders bunch, grasp and load the cane into waiting wagons. In moments two or three heaped cane wagons pulled by tractor are rolling along cane field roadways for the sugar mill.

While the Louisiana sugar cane harvest totals only about two per cent of the 240,000,000 tons of sugar cane harvested annually throughout the world, its growers can boast the smallest percentage of man-hours per ton of cane harvested than any other cane growing area in the world.

The almost complete mechanization of Louisiana's sugar cane industry has meant that its growers have reduced the man-hours spent to harvest a ton of cane from 25 hours, to four and one-half hours.

A Thomson "Hurricane" loader gathers, bunches and loads windrowed cane into waiting cane wagons in one unbroken movement. Then high clearance Allis-Chalmers cane tractors, which helped plant and cultivate the cane months earlier, speeds the cane wagons to the sugar mill.

Mrs. Freddie Morrow of Abilene visited with relatives and friends over the week end.

Extra income can result from well kept farm or ranch business records. C. H. Bates, extension farm management specialist, points out that good records can often help farmers and ranchmen make the right management decisions. Too, he adds, records are very important come tax paying time. Local county extension agents can supply information and publications on record keeping.

Munday Child Is Released From Warm Springs Foundation

Antonio Sosa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emilio Sosa, Munday, was discharged November 11 from The Texas Rehabilitation Center, Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation.

He is now a member of the Former Patients Association, made up of the more than 3,000 persons who have undergone rehabilitation treatment at the Center. This is the only such organization in the United States.

In comprehensive rehabilitation at TRC, a skilled medical staff seeks to treat the entire person. An individual program is prescribed for each patient, utilizing the types of therapy suited to his needs. The goal is maximum rehabilitation—physically, emotionally, and socially—so the person can live and work to the best of his abilities.

The Texas Rehabilitation Center depends mainly upon public contributions to maintain its program of treating persons left handicapped by such diseases and accidents as cerebral palsy, multiple sclerosis, polio, muscular dystrophy, spinal cord injuries, arthritis, and strokes.

Any Texan who can benefit from TRC's medical program is eligible for admission, regardless of age, race, beliefs, or ability to pay for treatment.

69-Year Old Ranch Mother Is Named "Mother Of The Year" By Baptists

DALLAS — A 69-year-old mother who feels that rearing children in a Christian home is just as important as serving as a Baptist missionary has been named 1960 Texas Baptist Mother of the Year.

Mrs. W. T. Walker, who lives with her husband on a ranch near San Saba, Texas, was named "Mother of the Year" by a special committee representing the Baptist General Convention of Texas and the denomination's weekly newspaper, The Baptist Standard.

As a young girl who faithfully attended Sunday School every week, Mrs. Walker felt that God wanted her to serve as a missionary.

When she decided to marry, she promised God that if he wanted her to raise a family instead of being a missionary, she would raise her family in a missionary atmosphere.

Today her two daughters are home missionaries in Washington and Arizona, and her only son is an active Baptist layman.

Opel, now Mrs. I. E. Williams and her husband were the first missionaries to Latin Americans in Arizona. They are in charge of three missions in Williams, Ariz. One of their three children, Tommy, 18, wants to be a medical missionary.

The second Walker daughter, Garnett, and her husband, the Rev. E. C. Branch, are missionaries to the Indians in Crewport, Wash. Both of the Branch's sons, Terry and Carlis, are Baptist preachers. Rev. and Mrs. Branch have since adopted a six-year-old Indian girl, Genevieve Aitah.

Bill, the Walker's only son, is a crop-duster and stock farmer in Carrizo Springs. He is now Sunday School Superintendent and chairman of the deacons at the First Baptist Church there. He and his wife have three children ranging in age from seven to eleven.

The entire Walker family was at home last Christmas when Mr. and Mrs. Walker celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Walker has led nearly every organization in the church. She was president of the Woman's Missionary Union at the age of 15, was a Royal Ambassador leader, Sunbeam leader, and taught a Sunday School class of 24 girls at the age of 18.

Her pastor, the Rev. Tommy Pesnell of Pecan Grove Baptist Church in San Saba, says that "not only does she keep active, but she keeps everyone else busy in the church too."

The Mother of the Year award is sponsored by the Baptist General Convention of Texas and the denomination's 538,800-circulation Baptist Standard.

He Answered the Call At Midnight

Courtesy John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company

Call him John Smith. The name doesn't matter. You've known him by many names and in many places.

He was one of the men who answered the wild pounding on the door, that midnight of April 18, 1775, and spoke to the panting horseman whose name was Paul Revere.

"To arms!" cried Revere. "The British are coming! We're meeting on Lexington green." "I'll be there," said John Smith, for he always is.

John Smith put on his clothes, and filled his pockets with the bullets his wife had moulded in the fireplace. He took the long musket down from the wall.

He went to the cradle, and softly placed his hand on the head of the little boy who was sleeping there. Then he took his wife in his arms and kissed her. "Be careful, John," said Mrs. Smith.

"Don't worry," said John. And he went out, with his long farmer's stride, to keep his date with history.

Do you know John Smith now? He is every American, in every time and place, who knows that independence is the breath of life. He makes up his own mind... worships in his own way... stands on his own feet... and provides for his own future through savings and life insurance. John Smith is you.

Tax-Man Sam Sez:

The Internal Revenue Service is concerned about taxpayers who have household employees and are failing to file a tax return. Some of these taxpayers are accumulating tax penalties and interest that will cause them serious problems in future years.

The rules for paying Social Security taxes on maids, yardmen and other household employees provide that if the employee receives $50 or more in cash wages in a calendar quarter for household services the employer must withhold Social Security taxes from the employee and must pay taxes as an employer on the wages earned by the household employee.

If you have a maid, cook, yard man, or other household employee, you probably need to review the Internal Revenue Service Publication No. 14, Circular H, which has full and complete instructions on household employees' Social Security taxes. You can obtain this publication from any Internal Revenue Service office or write to Internal Revenue Service, 2101 Pacific Ave., Dallas, Texas.

This is a lousy depression. Everybody's working and everybody's broke. At least we didn't have to work in the last one.

Knox Prairie Philosopher Finds Nothing To The Statement That A Dollar Is Now Worth Only 42 Cents

Editor's note: The Knox Prairie Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Miller Creek discusses money this week. It's sort of like a prize fighter discussing etiquette.

Dear editor:
I have run into a financial problem which I need help on. Well, actually it's not a problem, it's mostly a lot of people's economic ignorance.

I read in a newspaper last night which the wind had blown against my front fence yesterday afternoon and I pulled it off in a hurry because that fence can stand just so much pressure, that the American dollar is now worth only 42 cents.

I can report that there's not a word of truth in this, as I went to eight different stores in town

Weekly Health LETTER

Issued by the State
Health Department

A stupendous total of 45 million individual Texas-grown oysters were sold on the retail market last year. More than 90 per cent of them passed through plants on which the Texas State Department of Health had put its stamp of approval covering plant sanitation.

Take a look at the calendar. There's an "R" in every month between now and April, and you know what that's supposed to mean. It's the oyster season again. More millions of the succulent shellfish are destined for harvest in the next six months from the many reefs in inland bay waters of Texas.

Last year's harvest was put up in 154,000 one-gallon cans, with about 300 medium sized oysters per can. A very high per cent of them were consumed right here at home.

Since oysters are often eaten raw, it stands to reason they would be capable of carrying disease. In the past they did, of course, but today to nowhere near the extent they would if it were not for a little-known program of plant certification and water pollution investigations conducted by the Texas State Department of Health.

The certification was started back in 1937. It is voluntary, in that there is no law compelling plant operators to seek certification. But in order to sell their oysters in cities which have local shellfish ordinances, plants must be certified by the state health agency. Most major Texas cities have such ordinances.

Certificates of approval are renewable each year. Plants first undergo a rigid inspection by a sharp-eyed sanitation specialist, and rechecks are made monthly thereafter.

The Department approved operations in 42 plants last year, and 30 plants have earned certification to date during the current season.

Open season on oyster harvest in public waters is set by the Game and Fish Commission, generally running from September through April with local variations. But anyone can lease a plot of bay bottom from the State, establish an oyster farm and harvest the year 'round—the only proviso being that oysters will grow.

Incidentally, State Health Department shellfish experts say there's nothing to this "R" month business. Its just that oysters grow faster in winter, and all winter months have R's.

this morning and couldn't find anybody who'd sell me one at that price. People around here apparently don't read the financial section of newspapers and everybody still wanted 100 cents for theirs, and acted like there wouldn't be any profit in that sort of deal. A man can't get ahead against that kind of economic ignorance. Even when I showed them the article, they just laughed.

For a week now I have been concentrating on the money situation in the world and am as exhausted as the four candidates for President and Vice President and the only reason I don't fly somewhere for a rest in the sun like they did is that I don't have an airplane and anyway I have found I can use the extra sun they're using without getting off this Johnson grass farm.

As I understand it, the money situation is complicated by the fact too much gold is leaving the United States, plus the fact the Russians have voted that a ruble now has more gold content than it did last month, even if it's still printed on the same kind of paper.

One expert said the reason gold was leaving this country was because the U. S. was believed figuring on increasing the price of the stuff about $35 an ounce, which it's not, he says, because that would be devaluing the dollar. You may understand this but I don't. It frustrates my brain so much that the only way I've found to regain peace of mind is to get on the south side of the barn in the sunshine and re-read both party's platform promises.

People are always saying that a dollar won't go as far as it used to, but I don't understand this either. Actually, I've never known how far a dollar of mine went. As soon as it leaves my hands, I lose track of it. It's slammed into somebody's cash register and that's the last I hear of it.

I will appreciate it if you'll take time off from your other duties and explain the monetary system to me and the rest of your readers.

When I was a youngster, I associated greatness with winning. Therefore it was a matter of great surprise to me when, one season, the sports writers selected as the league's outstanding manager, Kid Eberfeld. His team was in last place.

What the sport writers were saying was that Eberfeld had almost no material and deserved the honor of "manager-of-the-year" for accomplishing something with little.

If winning were the only test, then the greatest general in history would be a man that most people never heard of—the Duke of Marlborough, of whom it was said that he never besieged a city he did not capture, and never fought a battle he did not win.

But a leader may win because he has superior numbers or heavier guns or because of luck or because he is opposed by poor generals.

Napoleon is generally considered the greatest military genius of modern times—yet he lost battles and died a prisoner on a rocky island.

Robert E. Lee is considered by many to have been the greatest general of the English-speaking races — (Theodore Roosevelt, for one, thought so) — yet Lee lost battles and the Confederacy, for which he fought, fell.

As one philosopher expressed it, "Success is not in winning — but in playing a poor hand well."

I didn't see "Giant" until I caught it at a second-run theater in Oklahoma City. The musical background is "The Eyes of Texas" and I expected it to be greeted with boos — but it only reminded the Sooners of their numerous victories over the University of Texas football team. (Before 1958 and 1959!)

In another Oklahoma City theater, I saw a frontier movie of settlers and Indians — and when the cavalry was riding to the rescue of the settlers, I was afraid to cheer.

Daniel Webster once found himself the only passenger on a stagecoach. The driver was a villainous-looking individual who kept turning and looking back at Webster.

The passenger decided that the driver was actually a robber and at last said, "Why don't you go ahead and rob me?"

The driver exclaimed, "Rob you? I thought you were a robber."

There was an editorial writer who sometimes didn't feel up to writing an editorial. This usually occurred on a Monday. So he would clip out an editorial from another newspaper and write: "What does our esteemed contemporary mean by the following?" And then would reproduce the editorial.

However he did this one time too many and lost his job.
