BOOSTER TRIP IS MADE BY LOCAL MEN

NEIGHBORING STATE OF NEW MEXICO BEING VISITED TODAY

A Lubbock delegation left this morning at 8 o'clock on a goodwill trip to Portales and Clovis, N. M., to aid in a celebration of completion of highway 7 paving.

The party included 34 members, who had made arrangements last night for the trip.

Feted At Clovis

Arrival at Portales for the first stop was scheduled at 11:30 o'clock, where the delegation visited for an hour. At 1 o'clock, the goodwill tourists were feted at Clovis at a luncheon in their honor given through the chamber of commerce there. Return trip to Lubbock has been scheduled for completion about 5:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Stops have been scheduled only at the two New Mexico towns, where entertainment has been planned for the visitors. Other stops will not be made since towns along the route have been visited previously this fall by Lubbock delegations prior to the Panhandle-South Plains fair, it was explained.

With the exception of one member of the delegation, R. D. "Buddy" Erwin, who left in a private car, the party is travelling by bus.

Others of the party, as announced late last night, are: George A. Simmons, A. G. Spencer, S. C. Wilson, Russell Morrison, James L. Quicksall, Wyatt Hester, Lennis Baker, Overton Ribble, M. L. Davis, J. B. Skinner, H. A. Weimaker, G. E. Damewood, C. I. Wall, W. O. "Dan" Daniels, Ed Allen.

PRISON BREAK IS BLOCKED

DEPUTY IS CRITICALLY INJURED AS THUGS SLUG WITH IRON

(By The Associated Press)

LAREDO, Nov. 21—Deputy Sheriff Rafael Cano was in a critical condition today of a fractured skull after being slugged in a jail break attempt.

He was knocked down by Martiniano Diaz, serving a seven year sentence for burglary. Diaz struck the officer with an iron leg removed from a cell bunk.

Armed With Chains

Diaz' confederates were Pedro De La Rosa and Teodoro Delgado, each under sentence for burglary, who armed themselves with chains wrapped in ducking torn from their bunks.

Cano was in the act of closing cell No. 1 at the county jail last night when Diaz, who had hidden with his confederates in the shower-bath in the runaround, struck him from within the runaround.

They took the deputy's keys and

STUDENTS PUT ON PROBATION TODAY

Twenty-seven Texas Technological college men students today were on probation, it was learned at the office of Dean James M. Gordon.

The action was an aftermath of reported drinking. If drinking is repeated, the students are subject to suspension from the college. The students may remain in classes, but they may not represent the college in activities.

About 20 members of one social club were involved, because of drinking in the club house. Dean Gordon will meet with the club members tonight to hear their version of the case. Loss of the club's privilege to maintain a house and to conduct social affairs is involved.

Suspect In Holdup Is Badly Wounded

MEXIA, Nov. 21 (AP)—Conrad Nabors, seriously wounded and under charges of bank robbery in connection with a raid on the First National bank of Thornton yesterday, was closely guarded in a Groesbeck hospital today.

Physicians expressed the belief the 35-year-old Limestone county resident would recover.

Nabors was found by officers in his father's home near Groesbeck late yesterday.

HIGHER COURT IS URGED TO DENY CASE

ARGUMENTS FOR STATE GIVEN; SAY RIGHTS NOT VIOLATED

BY JAMES W. DOUTHAT
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—The state of New Jersey today urged the supreme court not to review the conviction of Bruno Richard Hauptmann for the kidnaping and slaying of the Lindbergh baby.

A 30-page brief filed by Joseph Lanigan, assistant state attorney general, concluded with these words:

No Evidence Shown

"It is respectfully submitted that the petitioner (Hauptmann) has not shown himself to have been deprived of any right accorded him by the 14th amendment, and further, that he has been convicted and is now held in custody under due process of law within the meaning of the constitution."

Hauptmann recently appealed to the highest tribunal to save him from the electric chair. He criticized the activities of the attorney general of New Jersey, David T. Wilentz, and asserted the celebrated trial at Flemington resembled a "circus."

Argument Summarized

Replying to these contentions, the New Jersey brief summarized its argument as follows:

"The summation of the attorney general was based on the evidence.

"The cross examination of the petitioner was proper.

"There was no variance in the theory of death.

"The court's charge was in accordance with the law and the facts.

"The jury was properly sequestered.

No Right Denied

"No constitutional right has been denied."

A decision by the supreme court may come on Dec. 9 whether to review the conviction. New Jersey had until Dec. 5 to reply to the

Cash Report Given In Finance Drive

Cash received in an annual Red Cross roll call totaled $465 at noon today, Paul Hardwick of the Citizens National bank reported.

Reports of team captains were not available as Hugh P. Harbert, roll call chairman, was not in town.

Captains and their teams continued the canvass for memberships and contributions.

Guards Are Driven Back During Fight

AKRON, O., Nov. 21. (AP)—Strike sympathizers climaxed hours of violence at the Ohio insulator plant in Barberton early today by driving 50 guards inside the factory with a barrage of rocks and bottles.

Tear gas bombs and streams of water from fire hose were used by the guards before they retreated. Flares illuminated the scene. A factory gate house was demolished by the crowd.

CENTENNIAL HEAD

William A. Webb has been appointed as manager of the Texas Centennial exposition, which centers in Dallas next year. He has taken over his new duties and is pushing plans for the celebration's opening.

HOLIDAYS ARE TO BE GIVEN

LUBBOCK SCHOOLS ARE TO CLOSE THURSDAY, FRIDAY NEXT WEEK

All Lubbock public schools will be given Thanksgiving holidays Thursday and Friday next week, Supt. K. E. Oberholtzer said.

Many teachers plan to attend a meeting of the State Teachers association in San Antonio Thursday through Saturday.

Mr. Oberholtzer will spend the week in San Antonio, attending a meeting of the state curriculum committee, of which he is a member, prior to the teachers association meeting.

To Leave Saturday

R. W. Matthews, principal of Lubbock High school, and Misses Gertrude Watson and Gertrude Daniel of the home economics faculty will leave Saturday. The two home economics teachers will attend a home economics conference in San Antonio Monday through Wednesday.

Other Senior High school teachers who plan to attend the teachers association meeting include Carl Willingham, Miss Velma McCandless, Roy Stone, Sam Leifeste and J. W.

FUTURE PLANS IN DOUBT AS END NEARS

ROOSEVELT HAS WIDE POWERS TO SHIFT BIG PROGRAM

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—The money congress earmarked for the dole is all gone, but the New Deal has power to continue such relief payments a while longer out of other funds.

Official figures disclosed today that out of $4,880,000,000 appropriated last session for work-and-relief $889,000,000 already has been allotted to direct relief (popularly known as the dole). This is $9,000,000 more than congress set aside for the purpose.

Has Wide Powers

However, the Roosevelt administration does not have to observe the congressional earmarking strictly. It has wide powers to shift funds from one category to another.

With grants still to be made to 22 states before the dole is due to end Dec. 1, the figures raised these questions:

Will there be further dipping into the $4,000,000,000 works fund for direct relief, making that much less for jobs?

If so, will the remaining works funds be sufficient to carry out the plan to give 3,500,000 persons jobs by the end of this month at pay conforming to existing work relief wages?

Will Aid Be Continued

Will direct aid be continued after Dec. 1 deadline if state and local authorities plead insufficient funds to take over the burden?

There was no definite answer at relief headquarters today, but inquirers were given a hint when officials referred to recent statements by President Roosevelt and Harry L. Hopkins, relief chief.

The president told a mayors' conference the government "does not propose to let people starve."

The city fathers applauded this

SELASSIE OFFERS LIONS FOR ZOOS

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Alfred E. Smith is ready to accept Emperor Haile Selassie's offer to contribute four young lions and a leopard to metropolitan zoos.

The former governor, who bears the title of honorary night superintendent of the Central park zoo, said last night he even had drafted a message to the Ethiopian ruler. It reads:

"Dear Haile: Send 'em along. Yours, Al."

Work On Projects Will Open Monday

Work on two Works Progress administration projects, grading and erection of drainage structures on highway 24 from Morton west to the New Mexico state line, and laying of a caliche base concurrently with the road building operations, will be started Monday, said W. E. Burke, supervisor of projects and planning of the WPA office here.

The Cochran county road improvements will be made with the aid of $48,555 in federal funds, with other money furnished by the sponsors, the State highway department.

Two Men Wounded In Dock Shooting

PORT ARTHUR, Nov. 21 (AP)—Blasts of buckshot from ambush critically wounded two negroes, one an independent longshoreman and the other a cab driver, last midnight.

Ed Hill, longshoreman, and Harvey Polite, the cab driver, were dropped by the blasts as they stood in front of Hill's home preparing to leave for the docks. The attackers were hidde nbehind an outhouse.

CANINE QUINTUPLETS FACING THE FUTURE DOGGEDLY

The serious expressions of these Spitz puppies, owned by Fred Craft of Chili, N. Y., must be due to an early realization that, whatever the future holds, they are in for a dog's life. Or maybe they are a bit put out in the realization that, as quintuplets, they have to take second place to those five Dionne girls up in Canada.

PAIR CHARGED HERE TODAY

MACK VAUGHN, H. O. CASHION NAMED IN COUNTY CASES

H. O. Cashion and Mack Vaughn, arrested Tuesday night when merchandise stolen in several South Plains towns was recovered, were charged this morning with receiving and concealing stolen property.

The complaints were filed with Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg by Madison S. Rayburn, assistant county attorney. It was alleged the men had accepted merchandise stolen from J. C. Penney Co. here. The pair already has been charged with theft under $5 from Montgomery Ward & Co.

Representatives of two Plainview stores were to be here this afternoon to examine three dresses, which Constable J. C. Wright said he believed had been taken in Plainview Tuesday.

Statement Is Made

Vaughn made a statement which he declined to sign, to Rayburn Vaughn said he had served a term in the penitentiary.

Constable Roberts said thefts of merchandise in O'Donnell, Lubbock, Tahoka, Ralls, Post, Plainview, and Lorenzo were being investigated as

Britain And U. S. Watching Trouble

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The foreign office today announced Great Britain and the United States exchanged views regarding the situation in North China.

They are keeping in close touch with the incidents there, the announcement added, pending clarification of the situation, which the British foreign office described as "more hopeful."

Warning Signals Appear As Dust Fills Air Over Southwest; Advice Given

ILLNESS AND DEATH IN AREA SHOW INCREASE WHEN DUST FLIES

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 21—Warning signals against disease were run up today in the wake of the week's surprise recurrence of dust storms in the southwest.

Illness and death due to infection of the throat and lungs show a sharp increase when the dust clouds are afloat, the journal of the American Medical association admonished.

Results Recounted

Recounting results of a study of the dust laden period from January to June, 1935, the journal said:

"Kansas experienced its most severe measles epidemic during the five months . . . with 40,000 cases . . . as compared with the previous high . . . of 22,464 for the twelve months of 1917.

"In addition to measles, acute respiratory infections prevailed in unusually large numbers. Numerous cases also of streptococcic sore throat and corneal ulcers and eye infections were reported."

No Organisms Carried

The journal said the study showed the disease danger lay in the

Arguments Closing Today In Hearing

BIG SPRING, Nov. 21. (AP)—Arguments drew to a close today in the murder trial of John Johnson, Lynn county deputy sheriff charged with murder for the shooting of B. O. Best. Arguments scheduled for last night were delayed when attorneys objected to the judge's charge to the jury. The case was expected to reach the jury sometime today.

ELLSWORTH ON SECOND HOP

EXPLORER FORCED BACK ON FIRST TRIAL AT ANTARCTIC AREA

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—The New York Times and the North American Newspaper Alliance reported today that Lincoln Ellsworth had hopped off in his second attempt in 24 hours to fly across the Antarctic continent.

Ellsworth and his pilot, Herbert Hollock-Kenyon, had been forced to give up the first flight and return to the base ship, the Wyatt Earp, because of an oil leak in their motor, after three hours and eleven minutes in the air.

Weather Favorable

The explorer and his pilot again had favorable weather for the take-off with virtually no winds and a few light clouds.

The Ellsworth plane was forced to turn back because of a broken fuel gauge.

Ellsworth had attempted to fly 2,140 miles from the Weddell sea to

Project Officials Are Chosen Today

Project superintendents in charge of sanitation improvements to be inaugurated Monday by the WPA in four counties, were announced Thursday as J. B. Allen at Crosbyton, Ed Lewis of Lubbock, Claude Bouray at Plainview and Carl Hudgins at Littlefield.

Home owners in the four counties, Lubbock, Hale, Lamb and Crosby, may contact either the project superintendent or their county judge in seeking replacements of open toilets with fly proof and odorless buildings and of cesspools with septic tanks and drain tile. Laborers are furnished by the WPA, the materials by the home owner.

RATINGS BOOSTED

DAYTON, O., Nov. 21. (AP)—The Southern association and Texas league were voted class A-1 ratings by the National Baseball association here today, thus getting an edge in the rating over the Western and New York-Penn leagues, class A circuits. The new rating will give them a better draft price, increase the salary limit from $4,250 to $4,600 and increase the player limit from 16 to 17.

SCORES OF PERSONS ARE ON HAND AS CHURCH CONVENTION STARTS AT SPUR

(Special To The Journal)

SPUR, Nov. 21.—More than 100 persons were here this morning as an annual one-day convention of district 2 of the Christian church was opened in the First Christian church here.

J. E. Hartley, convention president, of Lubbock gave the opening address. His subject was "We must increase or decrease; there is no neutral ground."

Rev. W. R. Vivrett, pastor of the First Christian church in Lubbock, conducted a conference on the "every-member canvass." Mrs. Vivrett will conduct a conference on religious education this afternoon.

About 20 Lubbock persons were attending the convention this morning. Others were expected during the afternoon. Judge E. L. Pitts will be principal speaker at a dinner to be given at 6 o'clock. He will explain the Laymen's League of Texas.

Other speakers of the opening services included Mrs. Bessie Hart, state secretary of women's work, of Fort Worth; Virgil E. Havens, returned missionary

WOMEN STUDENTS AT TECH TO DONATE FUNDS TO MEET ASSOCIATION BUDGET

Several hundred Texas Technological college women students meeting this morning in the college gymnasium voted to donate 25 cents each to meet the budget of the Association of Women Students, and heard a speech by Mrs. Bradford Knapp, wife of the college president.

Mrs. Knapp told of experiences on a recent visit to Hawaii and showed pictures, a grass skirt and other articles brought back from Hawaii.

Prof. Julien Paul Blitz, head of the music department spoke briefly on college songs and led the group in singing the Tech song, "O College Mother, Beautiful."

Miss Katherine Leidigh, A. W. S. president, presided. The money donated will be taken from "breakage" deposits the girls made when they enrolled in college. It will pay for two dirt tennis courts south of the women's dormitory, for a reception given early in this semester, for a page in La Ventana, college yearbook, to help bring speakers to the campus and for send-

SELASSIE BACK AFTER VISIT TO TROOPS

BY JAMES A. MILLS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

ADDIS ABABA, Nov. 21—Emperor Haile Selassie, who returned unexpectedly to this capital today, is believed by sources close to him to have gone to Jijiga to issue definite battle orders.

The order is understood to have been given to Ras Nasibu, commanding tribal forces on the southern front.

Haile Selassie reappeared in the capital a short time after Italian planes flew over the territory he had just quitted. He disclosed that he had made two flying visits to the actual fighting front.

An official communique said the two Fascist airplanes flew over the strategic cities of Harar and Diredawa about 9:30 a. m. (about 12:55 a. m. Central standard time), just after the king of kings departed from that sector for Addis Ababa.

ETHIOPIANS IN FLIGHT

ASMARA, Eritrea, Nov. 21. (AP)—Italy's northern army smashed the Ethiopian forces commanded by Ras Seyoum today in a sharp battle, the Italian field command reported.

For the last two weeks the Italian expedition has been trying for a decisive battle with the elusive Ras Seyoum, who continually, during the Italian advance across the Tigre province, has stayed just out of reach.

Today the Italian forces put his men to flight.

On Inspection Tour

The frail little monarch made a two-day inspection tour of the southern front during which, the government announced, two Italian tanks were captured and their twelve occupants beheaded immediately by the Ethiopians.

His movements guarded under closest secrecy, the emperor completed his first visit to the war zone, landing here at 8:20 a. m.

"I have kept my word by going to the front among my soldiers," he told the Associated Press correspondent, the only foreigner at the airport.

Gratified At Devotion

"I was most gratified at seeing for myself the loyal devotion being shown by my troops for their fatherland, and their magnificent bravery. I believe that with the help of God our righteous cause will prevail."

One of the two pilots accompanying the emperor said they flew over an encampment a few miles from Daggah Bur, contested point 100 miles southeast of Jijiga, where "the noise and rifle fire of the front lines, only a short distance away, was heard continuously."

Haile Selassie visited Diredawa, 230 miles to the east on the Addis Ababa-Djibouti railway, behind the southern front, where a force is

ITALY'S ARMY IS SLASHED IN HALF

ROME, Nov. 21 (AP)—Premier Mussolini today cut Italy's army in half for three months by granting leave for that period to 500,000 soldiers.

It was officially stated this order has no "international significance" but is simply to release farmers for work and to speed up Italy's industrial production temporarily.

Critic Wastes No Time With Review

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—Brooks Atkinson, drama critic of the New York Times, required only a minute to write his review of last night's Broadway opening.

Here it is, as it appeared this morning:

"The first half of 'Satellite,' which was visible to the naked eye at the Bijou last evening, discussed the loose habits of Broadway bacchantes and a middle western greenhorn. What the second half discussed this representative of art will probably never know."

Pla-Mor Forty-Two club members were the guests of Mrs. B. E. Needles, 1811 Eighth street, Wednesday afternoon.

During a brief business period, the club planned a husbands' party for December. A time and place will be announced later.

Guests of the club were Mesdames C. C. Webb, J. G. Oslin, D. A. Atkins, H. F. Weaver, Rufus Bundy and Miss Miriam Chandler. Members attending were Mesdames N. A. Payne, J. C. Reynolds, C. M. Chandler, Mark Halsey, J. A. Rodgers and John R. Hall.

Witnesses in French courts are permitted to tell more than the truth. Even their imaginations may be resorted to in testifying.

Two Groups Quilt For Local Benefit

Meeting in the parlors of First Methodist church Wednesday, members of the Kongenial Klan and Wesley class worked on two quilts to be given to Mrs. W. T. Milam's orphanage, Opportunity Home. The Klan worked on a quilt members had pieced and the Wesley class finished a quilt a children's Sunday school class of the church had pieced.

A covered dish lunch was served at noon.

Kongenial Klan members attending were Mesdames H. W. Sims, J. P. Edgar, J. H. Beard, Rufus Scarbrough, G. B. Walden, D. M. Stalnaker, Erle Thompson, T. G. Bates, L. D. Rankin, R. D. Harris, R. C. Odom, A. B. Ellis, W. C. Rylander, Horace Scott, W. W. Campbell and two guests, Mesdames Solon Clements and J. L. Hill.

Discussion Of War, Reviews Given

A discussion of the Italo-Ethiopian situation given by H. C. Pender of the faculty at Texas Technological college and discussions of books featured a meeting of the Book-of-the-Month club with Mrs. Gus L. Ford, 2219 Seventeenth street, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. R. E. Garlin was assistant hostess.

Mrs. John D. Mitchell discussed "An Interesting Magazine Article of the Month" and Mrs. Weldon Hankins discussed "The Parade of Books of the Month."

About 15 members attended.

School Students Put Off Dance Again

Because of insufficient ticket sales, a Lubbock Senior High school dance planned for Friday evening has been called off, Baxter Bardwell of the arrangements committee has announced. The deadline was Wednesday afternoon. Although there are 1,200 students in the school, only 28 tickets were sold. This is the second year an all-school dance has been postponed.

TEACHERS ARE TO ORGANIZE

LUBBOCK COUNTY UNIT OF RURAL TEACHERS WILL BE FORMED

A Lubbock county organization of rural school teachers will be formed this evening at a meeting in First Methodist church, at which three men will discuss school problems, said Joseph R. Griggs, county superintendent. A turkey supper at 7:30 o'clock will begin the program.

G. D. Holbrook, deputy state superintendent of schools for this area; B. E. McGlamery, Eastland, vocational rehabilitation supervisor for Northwest Texas and Carroll Thompson, principal of the Lubbock Junior high school are the speakers.

Besides the talks, there will be "stunts" by teachers and also some musical numbers. Mr. Griggs is to preside.

Permanent officers, a president, vice president and secretary-treasurer, as well as other officers, will be named. All rural schools and the Slaton teachers are invited.

REGIONAL EDUCATION OFFICIAL PAYS VISIT HERE; WORK BEING INSPECTED

About 25 Lubbock county residents have been listed with the division of rehabilitation of crippled children and handicapped persons of the state department of education, B. E. McGlamery, regional supervisor, said Wednesday. He is spending two or three days here to study conditions.

"Our work is divided into two groups," he explained. "We work with the Texas Crippled Children's society in aiding children handicapped with bone or muscle diseases. We also rehabilitate older children and young men and women, training them for a trade or profession.

Give Them Aid

"We assist those who need training and cannot afford it. If they need an artificial leg or an arm, we buy it for them. We send them to school, high school or college and, if too old for that, pay for their training for a trade or profession.

Mr. McGlamery said that he thought there were in Texas Tech at this time, around 10 or 12 students, the department paying their tuition. Two or three have been sent there this year.

Several Working Now

Several of the group on Mr. McGlamery's list are now engaged in steady work and he is checking up on their work to see how they are getting along. He also is checking on several lines of industry while here to see if he can place young people for training, the state department handling training costs.

As a part of the vocational work, children who have physical handicaps and whose parents are unable to pay for surgical work, are aided. During October between 75 and 100 persons were thus aided. Two came from Plainview, one from Tahoka and several others from around Sweetwater, Big Spring and towns in that area.

Up to last June, Mr. McGlamery explained, only E. Brown and another man, were engaged in the work. At that time two others were named, making four field men. Mr. McGlamery has 75 counties in Northwest Texas. This is his first visit to Lubbock county.

The U. S. government printing office normally employs an average of 4000 persons.

What Modern Optometry Is!

Baby Eyes . . . One pair to last a lifetime

The following article was written to the Woman's Auxiliary of Modern Optometry by A. M. Skeffington, Opt. D., D. O. S., Director Graduate Clinic Foundation of Professional Optometry.

(Reprint by permission)

The Invention That is Meant for All

Recently after one of the great Optometric lectures we are having every where—one of the women asked her husband, "What did he mean by 'Visual Ineffectiveness'?"

You who have heard mothers talk about children and heard them say, "I only wish I knew how to make my boy (or girl) WANT to study. He can learn when he wants to —but he simply seems not to want to."

That mother is talking about a Visually Ineffective child. You see—distant vision is hardly ever a problem. I doubt if any Optometrist ever gets a patient a year who has any real TROUBLE with distant vision—

The problems of the visual apparatus are all at NEAR POINT. When we say "visual apparatus" we are talking of a great deal more than EYES! We are talking about all the Complex nervous systems that supply the eyes, the myriad of muscles used in all the functions of the eyes—the whole sensory system that carries light—impress to the brain—and to all that marvelous brain system which allows us to see for we see with the CONSCIOUS THINKING MIND.

Realize that in using the eyes—to get a focus—(that there may be clear sight) and to turn the eyes to see singly—there are TWO nervous systems used—the same in one instance that controls the arms and hands and legs—the other that moves the blood, that supplies the heart and all the other "inward parts."

In the VISUAL APPARATUS they are LINKED TOGETHER in a learned association, that the boy or girl has had to learn as he or she grew—it is individual to that child—normal only to him—and IF he used the eyes for a period at near—and the resulting fatigues in the two nervous systems bring about an INTERFERENCE—then the CONSCIOUS MIND behind the eyes cannot utilize the information the nerves are bringing—the child SEES the page but cannot COMPREHEND the meaning of that which he sees—

—and THAT is Visually Unadapted—he sees perfectly—but the mind cannot ABSORB—

So in Modern Optometry—as taught in the GRADUATE CLINIC FOUNDATION the examination is made to find where this interference lies. We do not examine to find a "defect" as once men thought they did—the youngster has no DEFECT in the sense of something STRUCTURALLY wrong—

We GRAPH the effect of the interference—learn just the TYPE of interference and then "re-adapt" the whole, marvelous, intricate nervous system supply to allow that child to not only SEE but to ABSORB KNOWLEDGE WHEN HE DOES SEE !

Can you realize what a ray of sunshine that would be to some mother grieving over a poor report card. Will you take pride that ONLY the Optometrist working in MODERN Optometry is able to do this—and will you aid us in the great and THRILLING work of spreading this word of hope to the mothers of the Nation.

SCOUT AID IS BEING ASKED

DEVELOPMENT OF CAMP IS BEING PLANNED BY SCOUT HEADS

Plans are being formulated for development of Camp C. W. Post, near Post, into one of the most outstanding camps in the southwest, it was announced Wednesday by the Boy Scout council of the South Plains. The project, which will be submitted to Works Progress administration, is a phase of rehabilitation work now in process throughout the council area.

Through leadership of Marshall Mason and J. T. Herd of Post, all impediments to final approval of an application for $25,000 have been dislodged.

Conferences Held

Conferences with county officials, city planning boards, original land grantees, and the WPA from Big Spring have been held. All indicate the proposed program will be acceptable.

The program includes development of adequate water supply, construction of a 50x90 foot stone and plaster swimming pool, building of a 50x80 foot one-story ranch mess hall and kitchen, in addition to rehabilitation of the famous Double U ranch home landmark and making it into camp headquarters, a first aid and hospital room, library, and museum.

To Landscape Site

Water from the pool and an overflow from proposed wells would be used for landscaping the central section of the camp and, likely, a number of acres of feed for a string of riding horses and other livestock.

Details of final approval are being laid by Frank White and Sam A. Henry of Lubbock in conjunction with Post and Garza county committeemen.

McMillan Chairman

W. G. McMillan, Lubbock contractor and civic leader, has accepted chairmanship of scouting finances in Lubbock. J. Edd McLaughlin of Ralls is chairman of finances outside Lubbock, assisted by Mr. Henry, district commissioner.

Mr. McLaughlin said several committees would be formed soon.

J. A. Fortenberry was named publicity chairman.

Eighty-two had signed Wednesday as campaign committeemen and others are expected to assist.

Crew Of Freighter To Receive Bonus

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 21. (AP)—The crew of the freighter Oregon will receive a bonus of a 50 per cent increase in wages for carrying aviation gasoline possibly into the "war zone."

This announcement was made today by Harry Norman, acting head of the Southern California council, maritime federation of the Pacific coast, after a conference with officials of Bulk Carriers Corp., of New York, owners of the Oregon.

Longshoremen began loading the rest of the cargo of 41,000 drums of aviation gasoline and the ship will sail tonight for Singapore for orders which, Norman said, presumably will take it to a port in Italian Somaliland.

Dallas Man Killed In Auto Accident

TEMPLE, Nov. 21. (AP)—Edwin R. Gregory, 52, of Dallas, manager for the American Surety company, was fatally injured and his wife was hurt when their automobile overturned yesterday near Eddy, 6 miles north of here.

Gregory, suffering from a broken neck and a possible skull fracture, died shortly after being brought to a hospital here. His wife, reported not seriously hurt, was under treatment in the hospital.

Their automobile was forced into a ditch as they attempted to pass another machine on the highway, en route home from Austin where they had visited a son, T. M. Gregory.

10 Years Suffering With Gas, Bloating, Indigestion Gone

Gly-Cas Proves Unfailing In Mr. Bell's Stubborn Case; Now Eats Foods He Dared Not Touch Before; Like New Today; Stomach, Kidneys Regulated, Nerves Quieted

Amazing things have been accomplished by this new Gly-Cas discovery which is being introduced at the Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, this city. A man helpless from rheumatism four years suddenly found himself able to work; a lady down in bed near paralysis was up and around before finishing the first box of Gly-Cas; another lady who had severe stomach trouble for 28 years is now able to eat the foods she wants and enjoy her meals again. And NOW another amazing statement from a well known and respected gentleman of this community, Mr. C. G. Bell, 222 Uvalde Ave., Lubbock, who said recently .auding the action of this new remedy:

"I found Gly-Cas to be a medicine .hat did exactly what it claimed to do," said Mr. Bell, "for ten years I had been in a miserable condition with gas and bloating. It seemed after most every meal I ate I would suffer severe attacks of indigestion. My stomach actually felt as if I had swallowed chunks of lead instead of my food. Pickles, cabbage or onions were out of the question for me to eat for the misery they would cause me would be unbearable. I lost my appetite and food held no temptation for me. I was also badly constipated, had dizzy spells, headaches and so nervous at times I could not sleep. Then to add to my already miserable condtion my kidneys became disordered and I was often disturbed at night. Oh, it was many miserable years I spent doing my best to find relief but only meeting with repeated failure—until I began Gly-Cas—it proved to be the one real medicine of them all."

"Little did I realize any medicine could be as wonderful as Gly-Cas has been for me," continued Mr. Bell, "why I am like a new man in the way I feel today, I am even eating the food I dared not touch before and enjoying it with no fear of suffering afterwards. My appetite has been restored, kidneys and bowels regulated and now I can eat and sleep fine and enjoy life as others in good health. Even my nerves have been quieted, headaches and dizzy spells gone and feel fine. Gly-Cas is the one medicine sufferers have been waiting for."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, and by leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Gly-Cas $1.00 per box—6 boxes $5.00. Add 2c postage for each box ordered. Send money orders made payable Mark Halsey Drug Store. Don't send cash. Checks not accepted—No C. O. D. Mail orders.—Adv

Oil Shipment For Italy Now On Way

PORT ISABEL, Nov. 21. (AP)—The Italian oil tanker, Americano, departed today with 50,000 barrels of Rio Grande valley oil destined for Italy.

The ship will go to Corpus Christi for an additional cargo of oil which will complete terms of a contract between the T. Frank Murchison interests and the Italian government for 100,000 barrels of oil.

The contract was signed several months ago.

Murchison's interests constructed a pipe line from the Samfordyce oil field in Hidalgo county to Port Isabel and erected a terminal and refinery here to care for the crude.

MEXICO FIGHT IS STAGED

AT LEAST ONE MAN IS SLAIN AND 46 ARE HURT IN BATTLE

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 21. (AP)—At least one man was slain and 46 persons were wounded seriously in a pitched fight between Fascist "gold shirts" and leftists before the national palace during Mexico's celebration of the 25th anniversary of the revolution.

Communist leaders claimed last night that two others had been killed, one Carlos Santo Cardenas, prominent radical orator. Police and hospitals, however, reported only the one death.

Others May Die

Several others were expected to die from bullet wounds.

The fighting, which recalled scenes of the revolution a quarter of a century ago, began when 5,000 workers and peasants demonstrating in front of the palace refused to give way for a parade of 2,000 "gold shirts."

Luis Rodriguez, secretary to President Lazaro Cardenas, tried in vain to persuade the radicals to leave.

A general fight ensued, with both sides using pistols and clubs.

Police restored order within half an hour and made five arrests.

David Alfredo Siqueiros, communist leader and mural painter, was detained, but later released.

Were Against Jews

Previously the gold shirts, members of the Mexican revolutionary action movement, had confined their activities to a campaign against Jews.

Several high officials were forced to withdraw from the balcony of the national palace when bullets started to fly in all directions.

Federal troops at the palace were held in readiness but did not intervene. Some minutes later police dispersed the rioters.

Former General Nicolas Rodriguez, leader of the gold shirts, was wounded by an unidentified assailant with a knife but his condition was not serious.

Grandson Of Late President Is Held

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 21. (AP)—Cornelius Roosevelt, grandson of the late President Theodore Roosevelt was arrested last night, with a companion, after, police reported, they shot a motorist with a weapon described as "an imported air rifle."

Roosevelt and the companion, Peter Deflorey, were booked on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

GOP SESSION IS SLATED

DATE FOR CONVENTION WILL BE SET WHEN COMMITTEE MEETS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Republican national committee last night was summoned by Chairman Henry P. Fletcher to meet in the capital Dec. 16 to arrange for the national convention.

Simultaneously, he appointed a finance committee of 16, headed by William B. Bell of New York, to secure money for the "campaign against the alien doctrines and mal-administration of the New Deal."

Fletcher said the purpose of the national committee meeting was "to fix the time and place of the 1936 Republican national convention; announce the apportionment of delegates to that conventon, and the manner of their selection; and to transact such other business as may come before the committee."

Farm Couple Found Slain On Wednesday

CARTHAGE, Nov. 21 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, middle-aged farm couple, were found shot to death at their home yesterday.

Martin, his throat torn by shot-gun fire, was found sprawled in the house, an automatic shotgun by his side. Mrs. Martin lay in the back yard.

The Martin's four-year-old daughter was present when they died, neighbors told investigators. The Martin farm is 14 miles east of Carthage.

WORK TO LEARN

IOWA City, Ia. (AP)—Educations are being earned—in part or whole—by 2,100 students on the University of Iowa campus this year.

WOMEN WILL RECEIVE EMPLOYMENT AS RESULT OF PLANS FOR SEWING ROOMS

Employment of 366 women on relief in district 17 of Works Progress administration was assured in the near future with announcement Thursday that 18 sewing room projects in the area have received necessary approval.

Funds have been allocated and will be available next week for requisition as needed, it was announced at WPA district headquarters here on receipt of messages from state and national offices.

Sewing rooms will be operated in 18 towns and cities of 12 counties, WPA officials said.

Twelve Counties Included

The projects will be located in Lubbock, Briscoe, Cochran, Crosby, Dickens, Floyd, Hale, Hall, Hockley, Lamb, Motley and Swisher counties. Cities and towns which have been selected as sites for the projects are Lubbock, Slaton, Quitaque, Silverton, Crosbyton, Ralls, Morton, Spur, Floydada, Lockney, Plainview, Memphis, Turkey, Levelland, Littlefield, Olton, Matador and Tulia.

Approval of the sewing room projects had been extensively sought for this district by J. O. Jones, district director, and Mrs. Albert G. Walker, supervisor of women's work in the district. The sewing rooms are the first projects approved which care for any number of unemployed women.

Approximately 15,000 women will be given employment throughout the state in the sewing rooms, stated H. P. Stearns, traveling director from state WPA offices visiting here. The projects here were part of a state-wide allotment sought.

A majority of the unemployed women in the district will be given jobs through this program, Mrs. Walker said. Each project will be in operation for nine months. Other projects pending approval or being contemplated for presentation will assimilate the remainder of women needing work, it was stated.

Materials Arriving

Materials for distribution to project locations in the district are already arriving in Lubbock, three shipments having been received through Thursday. The shipments included hundreds of bolts of cotton colored piece goods, white materials, and approximately 10,000 yards of sheeting.

Finished products of the sewing rooms will be disbursed through regular channels under supervision of the Texas Relief commission's commodity office, similar to the set-up provided when the Texas Relief commission operated the sewing rooms.

To Transfer Products

Needs of the counties in which the sewing rooms are located will first be filled, and surplus products will be turned over to the TRC for transfer to other counties.

Because of the lack of numbers of women needing work in a few counties, resulting in an insufficient supply of labor, the 18 projects do not extend to all counties. Requirements in those counties will be filled by surplus transfers from other localities.

Opportunity for vocational training in addition to providing jobs is offered by the sewing room projects. Work will be supervised by competent superintendents.

May Fill Vacancy

Neilsen

WORLD WAR veteran and former State Department solicitor, Fred K. Nielsen may be chosen as a member of the World Court of International Justice. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Frank W. Kellogg.

WICHITA MAN INJURED

PAMPA, Nov. 21 (AP)—Joe Kell of Wichita Falls was in a Pampa hospital today recovering from injuries received last night in an automobile accident near Lefors.

After he became conscious he explained that his car's lights failed and the car went into a ditch. Dazed by a head injury, he walked a short distance from the wreck and collapsed. A passing motorist found him and called an ambulance.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

A cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. You can relieve them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery that aids nature to soothe and heal the infected membranes and to relieve the irritation and inflammation as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Medical authorities have for many years recognized the wonderful effects of Beechwood Creosote for treating coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations. A chemist worked out a special process of blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by adults and children. Thousands of doctors now use Creomulsion in their own families and practice, and druggists rank Creomulsion top because in this genuine, original product you can get a real dose of Creosote so emulsified that it goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles, especially those that start with a common cold and hang on and on. Get a bottle of Creomulsion right now from your druggist, use it all up as directed and if you fail to get satisfactory relief, he is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

FORD V-8 TRUCKS FOR 1936

TRUCK operators bought nearly 100,000 Ford V-8 Trucks and commercial cars the first 6 months of 1935—58% more than in the same period last year.

These operators found the 80 h. p. Ford V-8 engine ideal for modern trucking. It has exceptional power, flexibility, stamina—and their records prove that the V-8 is the most economical Ford Truck ever built.

And they prove far more—the Ford's ability to stay on the job, out of the repair shop—its rock-bottom upkeep costs—the tremendous strength of Ford's heavy-duty chassis and frame.

You get these proved qualities in the 1936 Ford V-8 Truck—plus new improvements for even greater efficiency and dependability. Read the features at the right. Think what value they mean at Ford's low prices.

Make Your Own "On-the-Job" Test

Ask your Ford Dealer to loan you a 1936 Ford Truck. Let your driver and load prove Ford V-8 value to you with the greatest truck Ford ever built. There's no obligation.

ONLY THE FORD V-8 TRUCK HAS ALL THESE IMPORTANT FEATURES

- 80 HORSEPOWER V-8 ENGINE—downdraft carburetion—exhaust valve seat inserts—improved crankcase ventilation.
- IMPROVED COOLING—with larger, 19-in. fan—exhaust type hood louvers—radiator of flat tube and fin construction.
- STRONGER FULL-FLOATING REAR AXLE—heavier shafts, new cone locks between shaft bolts and wheel hub.
- FULL TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—with radius rods for positive axle and wheel alignments, longer tire wear, surer braking.
- NEW OIL-SEALED MULTIPLE ROLLER BEARINGS for universal joints.
- RIB-COOLED BRAKES—self-centering shoes, reinforced cast alloy non-scoring drums.
- HEAVY DUTY CLUTCH—centriforce action increases capacity 100% at high engine speeds—large diameter plates for long life—pedal pressure reduced 25% at starting and shifting speeds.
- EXTRA HEAVY DUTY FRAME—high carbon pressed steel, with full channel depth cross members.
- CORRECT LOAD DISTRIBUTION—more room in cab—more loading space ahead of rear axle.
- COUPE-TYPE CAB—insulated and lined—seat adjustable to 3 positions.
- GREATLY REDUCED MAINTENANCE with low cost engine and parts exchange plan.

SCREAM LINES

By Marjorie Gleyre

Can a Girl be Happy Married to a Man Who is Perfect?—Oh, Well...There's Always Something!

She stood up to see—Pegasus stopped suddenly while the rider kept right on going into the next field.

Illustrated by SKRENDA

McClure Fiction

THE SUN was warm on her shoulders and the green beginning six feet from where her ball lay was a slightly warped billiard table. Everything was perfect except her game. If she could make a good shot now... She bit her lower lip, wrinkled her nose and let fly. The ball cascaded six feet beyond the hole.

"Too bad," Andrew sympathized. "Slipped?"

"It did not slip! I made a rotten shot."

"Well, that can happen to anyone." There was a gentle click and his ball disappeared from view.

"Yes, like that!"

Andrew grinned. "I was lucky."

Half an hour later she was plucking the snapshot of a tall, careless looking young man from the side of her mirror. "That," she said, tearing it across again and yet again, "for a man who does everything perfectly." She dropped the scraps into her trash basket. "If you'd stall in traffic just once, it wouldn't be so poisonous. If there were only something I did a wee bit better than you!"

For a moment she stood glaring into the basket, then suddenly dropped to her knees and pawed wildly. "Oh, my darling!" she choked, drawing out a handful of scraps and trying to piece them together on the floor.

Late one afternoon as Dinky parked her car the strains of "Mother Mississippi" came floating to her through the club window. She stopped humming and the screen door banged after her. The player who had the room to himself turned around without disturbing his rhythm and waggled his ears at her.

"I didn't know you could do it!" she exclaimed tossing her tennis racket onto the couch.

"I get it from my Uncle Peter."

"I mean play jazz."

"Just another bunny up my sleeve."

"Well, jazz is all right in its place," she remarked, bitten by a sudden, sneaking hope, "but isn't it too bad you didn't go in for classical music?"

"No one seems to care for it. But if you like it—" he rubbed his palms together, pushed up his sweater sleeves and began the first movement of the Moonlight Sonata.

She listened just long enough to convince herself that this was another thing he did exceedingly well before interrupting. "Come on, Ignace. Thought we had a date to play tennis?"

As they waited for their turn at the court Andrew said amiably, "Guess I'll take it easy today."

"What do you mean?" she demanded touchily. "That you'll give me the game? Andrew Peters, I'm telling you right now that if you ever let me win anything, I'll never speak to you again as long as I live."

He grinned widely. "Well, they give handicaps, don't they?"

"It's not the same thing."

So Andrew beat the first game by his serve alone. Dinky flew around the court; with each spurt another brown lock escaped from her plaid bandeau and her round eager face became more flushed and moist.

At the end of the second love set, Andrew called to his panting opponent, "You've worn me out. Let's take a shower and stay to dinner."

REFRESHED, though still somewhat disgruntled, Dinky settled on the porch with a book. When Andrew came out and took the chair beside her she only vaguely noticed him because the heroine was about to rescue the hero from drowning.

"Good book?" he prodded after a while.

She looked up in a rapturous daze. "Marvelous. I'd love to meet an author. They must be wonderful."

"They're not. Take it from me. Anything but."

"How do you know?" she demanded in a tone which would have squashed a round peg into a square hole.

"Oh well—" he recrossed his long legs, picked at a loose end of wicker and got red. "You see," he confessed hesitantly, "I write a little. Under an assumed name, of course."

"You write? What do you write?"

"Only those simple love tales you see in cheap magazines."

"Are you serious?"

He fumbled in his pockets and a heterogeneous collection of small articles changed port before he managed to extract a bluish-green slip which he spread out for her inspection. It was a check from Romantic Moments for two hundred and forty dollars.

"So you write," she murmured weakly.

"It's nothing, a novelette—twelve thousand words of mush—"

"Don't apologize! If I wrote stories that got printed I'd broadcast it over a national tie-up."

It was just another of those things, she supposed. A person could both attract and irritate you so devastatingly that you didn't know which emotion was on top. For instance, when they interrupted their dinner to dance, she had an inexplicable urge to sigh "Kiss me, Andrew, kiss me." Not entirely inexplicable because the way he danced was pure delirium. It was probably another of his prize winning accomplishments.

She let her head rest on his shoulder while her eyes closed against this dazzling revelation of love. And thus she drifted too far from the contemporaneous scene, missed the rhythm and tripped all over his feet. His automatic, "Sorry, my fault," made her writhe.

"You dance so beautifully that you show up my clumsiness," she said with synthetic silkiness. "I suppose you were the best dancer at college?"

"I took some prizes," he admitted, "but it didn't mean much."

"Didn't you ever have a desire to try football?"

"I was captain of the eleven my senior year. Didn't you know?"

She drew away from him and put her hands behind her back lest they indulge their itch to beat upon his chest. "Oh, let's eat," she groaned.

They debated whether to go to the Pavilion to dance or in town to a movie.

"Will you hold my hand in the movie?" she asked as they entered the grape arbor.

He looked perplexed. "Are you asking me? But if we dance—"

"It's not the same," she interrupted, looking up at a pale spot in the sky that promised to be a nice, full moon when the dark surrounded it. "You have to put your arms around me when we dance."

He stopped short putting a hand on her shoulder to draw her back. "If you want me to put my arms around you when I don't have to—"

"Andrew!" She twined her fingers about his neck.

IT WAS the first kiss. In two weeks it was only the first! Because she had not hurried him. It was more exciting to imagine what it would be like. And despite her rapidly growing experience in kisses she had not guessed it would be like this. It wasn't a kiss—it was a dynamo.

When he stopped to say, "Darling!" she pursed her lips for more. But later he said "Darling! Isn't it wonderful?" and just as she was about to agree and collapse entirely upon his expectant chest, he added: "I made up my mind the first time I saw you that I was going to win you sooner or later."

The fateful word, the hated word penetrated the thick envelope of bliss which had engulfed her, and she drew back slowly but definitely.

"Oh, go away," she gulped.

"What's the matter?" His head reluctantly rose from the angle where it had bent to hers, while perplexity worried his eyes. "Love me?"

"Yes—and no." She put her hands to her temples expecting them to burst. "Mostly no."

"Why?" His face was pale as the moon.

"Because—" but if she told him he would try to do things badly. "Well—just because."

"Someone else get in for a preview?"

She shook her head. "Please go, Andrew. I want to be left alone."

"You can't go home alone."

"Why not? I have my car and I know the way!"

"Well—" he backed reluctantly away. "Be careful, then. Don't pick up a thumber."

She controlled the catch in her voice and managed gamely, "I only take indexers." If he'd only go before that sob broke through.

"Is our date for tennis tomorrow morning still on?" he asked as he turned to go.

"Yes. G-good-night."

She stood quivering until he reached the porch, then she turned and ran in the opposite direction. She landed on the tennis courts, deserted now that it was dark, and dropped onto a bench while she tried to hold back her tears.

Andrew was perfect—simply perfect. But she couldn't go through life with a perfect man even if he didn't throw it in her face. If she could beat him just once, she might feel differently about it. For instance, if she should win at tennis tomorrow—only she wouldn't—she couldn't. Unless—well, suppose he tripped in a hole on the tennis court. Suppose there were several holes filled with light sand so that he wouldn't notice them beforehand? Perhaps then she'd win. Anyway, he'd look ridiculous to the gallery. She took a vicious pleasure in the thought of the onlookers laughing at him. For once she'd win.

If it hadn't been for a jagged piece of brick lying beside the bench the idea would doubtless have remained in the realm of thought where it belonged. A minute later Dinky, digging assiduously, crouched on the court which Andrew would take in the morning because it faced the sun. The method was to dig a sizable hole in the hard surface and then fill it lightly and smooth off the top. She was finishing the sixth one when she felt an alien presence.

"What the devil are you doing?" Andrew's voice rose above the chorus of katydidn'ts.

Her subconscious ticked conscientiously and projected, "I am looking for my sorority pin. I think I lost it here this afternoon."

"Let me." He got down on all fours and crawled about. The minute his back was turned she drifted soundlessly away.

THE SANE light of morning found Dinky in reverse. She didn't want to win that way; and she didn't want to have Andrew laughed at. No one but a one-hundred per cent moron would have thought of such a thing anyway, she railed at herself as she put on jodhpurs instead of a tennis frock.

But on the way over to tell Andrew that their plans were changed she wondered if her status were not still the same, since she was offering him another opportunity to ride and shine. However, riding was the one thing she did rather well.

Andrew emerged from the garage as she drove up, with a grease stain down one side of his white flannels and his usual wide grin.

"Hello Joan of Arc," he said. "I couldn't find the emblem on your order ground in the dust. But I came across some bad places in the court and I told Riley he'd better roll it over this morning."

She managed to don her best poker face. "Bad places? It doesn't matter. I've changed our minds. We're going riding, instead."

"Riding?" He dug his hands into his pockets and scraped his instep on the running-board while she wondered what, if anything, was behind the drawn brow. Then he said, "I don't ride, you know."

"O-oh! So you don't ride?" She surveyed him with pleasure.

"No. At least, not according to Webster. Why don't you go with Ethel? I saw her go by a few minutes ago."

"Andrew, please, I want you to come with me."

"I have no breeches."

"Go without—that is, you can get them at the stables."

"I don't see why, when I tell you I can't ride—"

"Anyone can ride," she interrupted briskly. "Andrew—" she gave him the works. Honey oozed from her eyes, syrup flowed through her voice. "Just to please me."

It was when she saw the groom at the stables smile knowingly as he helped Andrew mount his horse that Dinky sensed a plot. Andrew required too much help.

"Andrew," she called coldly, as they trotted off, "you're letting yourself rattle so that I can hear your loose change."

"It's your fault," he jerked out. "If I didn't love you, I wouldn't be here."

For answer she urged her roan to a canter and rode sulkily along ignoring her companion until the accompanying hoofbeats overtook her and Andrew passed. He was leaning tensely forward both hands digging into the pommel of the saddle, rising to one unbelievable height after another.

He was overdoing it. Exasperated, she yelled after him, "Oh, come off, Andrew," and his reply floated faintly back, "I expect to, any minute."

WHEN he reached the fork in the road she saw him tug violently at the reins so that his poor chestnut, after starting up one road and then the other, turned halfway around and stood sullenly unmindful of his orders.

"How do you hold the reins?" he inquired anxiously as she rode up.

She had seen him start out with the reins held authentically. Her nose lifted at this obvious sham, and her grievance edged into the open.

"I can stand anything except being made a fool of," she told him fiercely.

"But I told you—"

"Yes. And I told you." Tears and temper shook her voice. "Oh, what's the use!" She wheeled her horse and rode away.

DINKY kept telling herself that she wouldn't—couldn't live with a man who made her feel like an incompetent, and all the time her heart was making a noise like an empty tenement. But the fourth morning she got out of bed with the other foot foremost, toes pointing straight to Andrew. Life with him would be miserable; without him it was worse.

"There must be something!"

She had held him off as long as she wanted. And then she had squelched him so thoroughly that he hadn't been around since. Didn't that indicate that she was superior in their personal relations? Didn't it? The more she contemplated this idea the better it pleased her. Proof? She'd find Andrew and make him propose within the first ten minutes!

Twenty-nine seconds after she had reached this decision she was at the telephone confiding Andrew's number to a bored nasal voice. Someone who was not Andrew answered and said that he had just left for the stables. And he had told her he couldn't ride! Three minutes and twelve seconds after ringing off she was backing her roadster out of the garage.

Not until she reached the spot where the bridle path crossed the highway did it occur to her that Andrew might not be alone. She stepped on the brake violently as if she had a rival under foot. But before she had time to stiffen against this possible blow she heard hoofbeats in the distance.

The bridle path was hidden from her view by a clump of bushes but her ears reaching out anxiously, informed her that there were two riders. She wanted to start her engine and get away but the peculiar fascination of horrible things held her tense and silent.

The dirt-muted hoofbeats stopped just behind the bushes and Dinky heard the voice of a groom from the stables, one who honored fact above tact.

"Hold the reins this way," he said, "like I told you before. Press with your thumb. Now relax and try to go with the horse. Don't let so much daylight get between you."

It wasn't Andrew. It was someone taking a riding lesson. Perhaps she'd better drive around to the stables and look for him there.

"Some take to it easy the first setting and you've been out five times," the voice continued dispassionately. "But I suppose there's other things you do better. Now giddap. Jerk them reins easy like."

SHE thought she'd better let them pass before starting her engine. First came the groom, then Andrew, sitting rigidly erect, his flushed face cast in a do-or-die mold. He really couldn't ride! After the first surprise of it Dinky stared in silent rapture. It was too beautiful, the way he looked as if he were sitting on broken glass.

When the horses came down the very slight incline to the roadway he gripped his pommel fiercely and muttered, "Easy, baby, easy."

Dinky, trying to smother a giggle, snorted on an indrawn breath, and Andrew discovered her.

"Dinky!" he exploded, unwittingly jerking the reins and spurring his mount. It responded with such appreciation that the rider flung his arms around the horse's neck in a panic. Then, charmed with its new freedom, or perhaps irritated by the weight on its neck, the horse left the road and galloped across the contiguous field, while Dinky laughed till she could hardly see. Five lessons, and he couldn't do any better than that!

She stood up to see what would happen when Pegasus reached the fence at the further end of the field. What happened was that Pegasus stopped suddenly while the rider kept right on going into the next field.

"Oh, my goodness!" screamed Dinky, doubling up to ease her aching sides. "How's that for scream lines?" She jumped from the car and reached the motionless Andrew, sliding her knees under his head as if she had done it regularly.

"Sweetheart," she crooned. "Look at Dinky."

He did. His face, which had been white except for a rapidly purpling lump on the forehead, turned a blooming red.

"I didn't want you to see," he muttered, "until I could do it."

"There, there, Sweetheart," she crooned, patting his cheek.

"You said anyone could ride, so I thought I could get away with it the other day," he continued. "I realize how impossible I was. I don't blame you for being sore."

"There, there, Sweetheart." She tucked her fingers down his collar and wriggled them caressingly.

He sat up and looked despairingly into her face. "But I'll learn how to stay on a horse if it takes the rest of my life."

"There, there, Andrew," she soothed, hitching over nearer to him. "I don't want you to learn to ride. We'll play tennis and golf and dance, and you'll write love stories and play jazz and classical music. But once a year—on today's anniversary—we'll go riding. Just once a year. I can stand anything if I have that to look forward to."

NELSON PLANS FOR ACTION

SENATOR IS TO CARRY OUT HIS UNICAMERAL LEGISLATIVE IDEA

Intention to carry his unicameral legislature proposal through to definite action in the coming year was expressed here Wednesday by Senator G. H. Nelson of Tahoka, who is filling out the unexpired term of the late Senator Arthur P. Duggan of Littlefield. The proposal has caused a furore in Texas legislative circles.

Senator Nelson presented the proposal before the senate in the last special session and after it had been voted down, announced he intended to seek a constitutional amendment vote on it through the people of Texas.

Offers Only Salvation

"The plan offers the only absolute salvation of the people of Texas," Senator Nelson said, adding that he had received wholehearted support of his plan from at least twenty-five representatives and several senators besides pledges from leaders all over the state.

"As the situation now stands," Senator Nelson continued, "Texas has a twelve-man legislature in spite of the fact that there are 81 members representing the people. And those twelve men are the ten members of the free conference committee and the lieutenant-governor and the speaker of the house who appoint them. They write the bills, bring them out for a vote and you can pass them or not."

Liquor Bill Was Example

He declared the passage of the recent liquor bill was a fair example of the waste of time and money by the legislature. One bill was presented from conference in the closing hours of the second special session which would have allowed sale of liquor by drink all over the state. It was promptly killed because the committee had completely ignored the definition of an open saloon as defined by the senate. Another bill had to be drawn and passed in the third special session and the delay cost the people of Texas around $10,000 a day in liquor revenues or approximately $800,000.

Senator Nelson said he was receiving invitations every day to speak on the unicameral proposal. He recently spoke to the Young Democrats of Travis county and is to speak to the Women's Democratic association of Dallas sometime in January.

Is Sound In Principle

"If I had the time and money, I could speak all over Texas on the matter," he declared. "I'm not claiming the plan is mine, understand. It has been advocated for years in various states over the Union. It is sound in principle and operation. Cities, schools and business firms have had it in operation for years.

"And you check up on its opposition and you'll find it is coming mainly from special interests.

"There isn't any question that the present system is responsible for the major portion of delays and thereby the cost of lawmaking in Texas," he continued. "Under the unicameral plan, you yould pay decent salaries and preclude members from taking income from any other source. You can't serve two masters. You can't represent corporations and special interests at home and the people in Austin at the same time.

Would Abolish Terms

"Another thing, the proposal would abolish terms. The members would get their work done and go home, knowing that they wouldn't have to be remaining in Austin just to collect their paychecks." The plan calls for continuous sessions.

"You can take the present cost of salaries for both houses, transportation and other expenses, divide them by half and still have more than enough to pay 42 members of a unicameral body $5,000, a decent remuneration for their services."

Commenting on the session just closed, the laws it passed, Senator Nelson said the people who voted for and anticipated ample old age pensions would be greatly disappointed in the present bill due to its restrictions.

"It is too limited to fit our country," he declared. "The gross income limitation alone will exclude many. Our people out here are mostly farmers and their gross income may run high but their net income may be less than $200 a year.

"South and Central Texas negroes, 48,000 negroes and 38,000 Mexicans will receive the majority of the pensions under the present plan," he said.

He declared the liquor bill was not perfect by any means but termed it "about as good as can be hoped for."

He predicted the next special session, scheduled to be called in January, as a gigantic fight over the levying of a sales tax against imposition of a natural resources tax with special interests on both sides waging a bitter battle.

"And my judgment is that between now and the time for the next session, you'll see the greatest campaign ever to educate the people to a sales tax," he said.

Senator Nelson visited here briefly, returning to his home in Tahoka.

Bond Issue Again Beaten In Voting

Voters of the Roosevelt Rural High school district turned down assumption of bonded indebtedness for the third time Wednesday. The vote was 91 against and 85 for.

Passage would have insured approval of the attorney general's office of a $35,000 bond issue for construction of a $63,637 high school building. Notice earlier had been made that a PWA grant of $28,637 had been approved.

By districts, the vote was:

Canyon: 44 against, 36 for; Acuff: 31 against, 29 for; McClung: 16 against, 20 for.

State board of education had bought the bonds, subject to approval of the attorney general's office and to their delivery to the comptroller's office.

The attorney general had asked the three districts that form the rural high school district to vote assumption, under terms of which the composite district would assume bonded indebtedness of its constituents.

Tentative date for receiving bids had been set for Dec. 10. PWA grant deadline is 10 days later.

CURRICULUM WORK WILL OPEN HERE

Actual work on curriculum revision for Junior and Senior High schools of Lubbock will begin next week when the regular curriculum classes, composed of faculty members, meet in seven subject field groups to organize units which will utilize experiences of boys and girls.

The Junior High school faculty meet on Monday afternoon and the Senior High school faculty meet on Tuesday afternoon. Both classes have been taught by Superintendent K. E. Oberholtzer thus far.

Working on the eclectic approach to the unit, the various groups will be working toward making their units of work as functional as possible. The groups are as follows: language arts, mathematics, social sciences, vocational subjects, science, fine arts and natural science.

In preparation for their revision work, faculty members of the local school system studied an orientation course to curriculum revision last year. In the elementary grades similar work is being carried on under the direction of Miss Agnes True, who is also teacher for their class groups.

Rivers Services Are Set In City

Funeral services for Mrs. Sallie Rivers, 62, of 201 Broadway, were to be read at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Sanders Funeral home by Liff Sanders, minister of the Church of Christ. Burial was to be in Lubbock cemetery.

Stricken by paralysis, Mrs. Rivers died at 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at her home. She had lived in Lubbock 14 years, moving here from Coryell county.

Survivors are her husband, who lives in Coryell county; a son-in-law, C. B. McClung, and a brother-in-law, "Rocky" Rivers, both living in Lubbock.

Prison Term For Alsup Is Reversed

Fourteen-year penitentiary sentence assessed by a 72nd district court jury against Ben C. Alsup, convicted of murder, at Levelland April 10 was reversed Wednesday by the court of criminal appeals. The case was remanded for trial.

Alsup was convicted of the slaying of an 11-year-old daughter, Martha Beulah, Dec. 26, 1934, following a series of family disturbances beginning Christmas Eve.

Alsup, on the stand an hour, said the gun exploded when he was putting it aside after he had gone outside with it to shoot a cat. The child was struck. Other members of the family who witnessed the shooting upheld the accident theory. The wife was ill and did not attend the trial.

Cross Is Honored By Staff Members

Banquet honoring Dr. Denzil D. Cross of Lubbock, recently admitted to fellowship in the American College of Surgeons, was given by staff members of West Texas hospital Wednesday night at Hilton hotel.

About 40 persons attended the dinner, presided over by Dr. Charles J. Wagner, the hospital's chief of staff. Two fellows of the college from Amarillo, Drs. G. T. Vineyard and A. E. Winsett, were present and spoke briefly.

Others who were on the program were Dr. A. T. Stewart, who spoke in the place of Dr. S. R. Hopkins, F. A. C. S., of Slaton, whose illness kept him from attending; Dr. Sam G. Dunn, who entered the college in 1934 as first fellow from Lubbock; Dr. W. L. Baugh and Doctor Cross.

Jerome Harkey, local tenor, sang Tschaikowsky's "None But The Lonely Heart," and Rogers' "The Last Song." He was accompanied by Miss Myrtle Dunn at the piano.

Roy Riddel, jr., Tech student and president of the Pre-Medic Students' group at the college, was introduced, as were the various hospital attaches whose technical and clerical work aided Doctor Cross in compiling records essential to making application for membership in the American College of Surgeons.

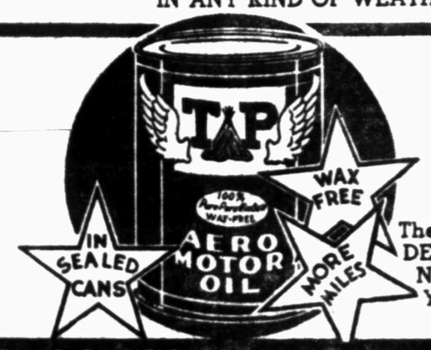

William Kemmler, who was executed in New York on Aug. 6, 1890, was the first person to be electrocuted in that state.

One section of New York City now has a "toyery," which lends toys to children free of charge after the manner of the free public libraries.

An award of $10,000 was paid Sioux Indians on the Rosebud reservation at Rapid City, S. D., last year for ponies stolen by white men 60 years before.

REAL TOUCHDOWN TWINS
You heard a lot about Purdue's "touchdown twins," Jim Carter and Duane Purvis, last year, but they were no kin. Marquette's Golden Avalanche, however, features touchdown twins who really are twins. They are Art and Al Guepe, both backs, who scored a touchdown each against Michigan State to keep their team's unbeaten and untied record clean.

STELLAR ACES TO PERFORM IN GAMES

BATTLE OF HALFBACKS IS BEING EXPECTED IN RICE-TCU TILT

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Saturday's Rice Institute and Texas Christian's highly charged football combat at Fort Worth will feature a collection of the Southwest conference's greatest backs.

The touchdown twins of Rice, All-America Bill Wallace and ol' John McCauley are ready. Wallace has scored four touchdowns for 24 points and McCauley is tied for the conference scoring lead with nine touchdowns for 54 points.

Witt Is Pride

They will flash Rice's most dangerous scoring threat, but Coach Jimmy Kitts' pride of the backfield is giant Harry Witt, a man who seldom lugs the leather but is an artist at blocking and running interference.

Ray Smith with 18 points, Buck Friedman with 12 points, and Jess Atkins with 14 points are other Rice backs ready to participate in the game Saturday when Rice battles to retain a chance for the conference crown and Texas Christian will try to remain untied and undefeated.

Baugh Is No. 1

Texas Christian has the finest assortment of backs in the country. The No. 1 man is slinging Sammy Baugh, superior pass tosser, speedy ball carrier, excellent punter and a splendid defensive player. Baugh is in the All-America race with Wallace and McCauley. He has scored four touchdowns and booted four placement kicks for 28 points.

Jimmy Lawrence probably deserves No. 2 ranking in the Christian's backfield. Lawrence is a human tank when carrying the leather. Solid as a brick wall and with tremendous leg power, he has plowed to four touchdowns for 24 points.

When questioned about his best backs, Coach L. "Dutch" Meyer smiles and claims all are superb. Besides Baugh and Lawrence, there are four more great players in George Kline, Rex Clark, Taldon Manton and Scott McCall, who have combined for 71 of the Christian's 211 points this season.

Big Crowd Expected

Beyond doubt an anticipated crowd of 25,000 persons will have an opportunity to see in action at the same time a collection of letter perfect backs who are versatile and boast enough power to wreck a dozen forward walls.

Both teams have great lines. Texas Christian's front wall will include three seniors and four sophomores, while Rice's will have five seniors and two sophomores, giving the Owls an advantage in experience.

Headed by Coach Fred Thomsen, the University of Arkansas Razorbacks invade Austin for tomorrow's conference battle. It will be the Razorbacks' final conference game.

Keen To Be Out

Arkansas will be minus the services of Allen Keen, 165-pound halfback who scored five touchdowns for 30 points this season. Keen is nursing a badly injured shoulder. James Benton, 182-pound wing, will also be out of the Arkansas lineup due to the death of his sister.

In discussing the game, Thomsen said he had prepared his team for an afternoon of aerial heaves.

Coach Jack Chevigny stressed blocking in yesterday's practice as he drilled the Longhorns for their fifth conference combat. Texas also is out of the titular running with one win and three defeats.

The unbeaten and undefeated Southern Methodist Mustangs started hitting on all three in yesterday's practice when Bob Turner, Shelley Burt and Bob Finley, who are being groomed to fill the shoes of injured Harry Shuford at fullback, showed great improvement.

Prepare For Invasion

Preparing for Saturday's invasion of the Baylor Bears, the Mustangs charged through a long dummy scrimmage with Turner, Burt and Finley receiving instructions on when, where and how to go by Coach Matty Bell. The trio alternated at the fullback position to familiarize themselves with Shuford's blocking assignments.

Reports from Waco claim the Baylor Bears had their spirit revived by last Saturday's 20 to 0 victory over Centenary, and are working like Trojans for the Mustang battle.

Records of the past five years show that the Bears have proved a greater obstacle in the Mustangs' path than any other conference opponent. The game is expected to develop into a battle of halfbacks—Robert Wilson for the Mustangs and Lloyd Russell for the Bears. Wilson has scored nine touchdowns for 54 points this season. Russell has scored five touchdowns for 30 points.

The Texas Aggies, the other conference team, will be idle this weekend.

FENCERS TO HOLD TOURNEY

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Amateur Fencers League of America will hold a national tournament here starting April 26, 1936. Foil, epee, and saber contests will be on the program.

SPORTOGRAPH

by COLLIER PARRIS

THE RED RAIDERS leave tonight for San Antonio. They play the St. Mary's university Rattlers Saturday afternoon there.

The Rattlers are coached by Frank Bridges, former Baylor and Simmons mentor, later at T. M. C., and Weir Washam, former all-conference quarterback at Baylor, more recently coach at Tahoka, Spur and Del Rio.

The Rattlers run from the dangerous spread formation which Bridges always has favored. They are said to have a peculiar defense against Notre Dame style.

Weldon Chapman and his Lubbock High Westerners move to Borger for a District 1 game tomorrow afternoon with Carl Moulden's Bulldog team. Dope favors Lubbock but Chapman and Goober Keyes are worried.

The Westerners ended their season Nov. 11, so far as being able to get enthusiastic about a ball game is concerned. They have little to fight for now. Coaches are afraid they won't put their hearts into the Borger and Plainview games. Borger, with everything to win, will be set to give the Westerners a licking. They may do it.

It behooves the Westerners to stretch a point if it's not asking too much, and go ahead with second place in the district as their goal. They'll be doing themselves a lot of good, their coaches more than that. If for nothing else, they ought to put forth stout efforts in behalf of their mentors, who certainly are not to be charged with defeat.

THREE OTHER Lubbock grid teams are busy this week, winding up their season. Texas Tech's Picadors, one of the scrappiest, fightin'est teams in the sector, invade Abilene tomorrow for a skirmish with the Hardin-Simmons frosh. They may run into anything from the varsity regulars to the Taylor county road gang, so don't be surprised if the Picadors take a licking, even if they win the ball game.

Lubbock's junior teams, the junior high school Cowboys, and the high school Cowhands, are busy today and tomorrow. Slaton's championship-bound Tigers invade Tech Field Friday afternoon to meet the local high school "B" squad. Coach Mule Davis' Cowboys, fine little football fellows, play Littlefield's juniors this afternoon.

WILL MR. ROY HENDERSON and his playmates down at Austin juggle the interscholastic league districts before another season? For want of anything else to do, being short of new rule ideas and having succeeded in getting the age limit down sufficiently to kill off a bunch of kids, they may do it, and some coaches hope they will.

Coach Chapman hopes they will. He'd like to see the state division go back to the eight district plan. He wouldn't mind playing six or eight conference games per season. He thinks it would keep interest alive longer, at the same time take one week off the state race.

Either that, or Chapman still would like to play in District 3, leaving this loop to Pampa and Amarillo, who have it now so far as that goes.

Before the present plan of districting, there were eight loops, and the conference season went to Thanksgiving, as now, but there was one less game in the state eliminations. We understood that one of the ideas in doubling the number of districts was to cut down distances teams would have to travel. Since then, nearly every school has had one or several "intersectional" combats. Where's the difference in mileage? And is there any profit in playing a team from another section or state? High school football interest hinges about district and state championships.

It is Chapman's belief that crowds would hold up better, that ball players would keep going at a more consistent pace, if more games were of championship importance.

Also—and Chap doesn't intend to be selfish here—with eight or ten teams per district, a team might lose one and still win the championship. As things are now, a defeat virtually means elimination.

THERE WAS MORE discussion of this last night when Superintendent V. Z. Rogers and Coach A. G. Bearden of Lamesa High school were caught over at the Hilton. Lamesa's defeat by Slaton might have had something to do with Mr. Rogers' idea, but not much. He was in favor of his idea before the Slaton-Lamesa game. Anyway, he's not one to quibble over defeat.

Mr. Rogers is executive chairman of District 5, Class B. District 5 consists of ten teams at present. To determine the district championship, five teams in the northern half of the district play a round robin schedule, the winner meeting the southern half winner, which is likewise established. This is a simple procedure, but it is Mr. Rogers' belief that more fun could be had if the ten-team district dropped the half-and-half plan and played each other in a round-robin. Each team, therefore, would be playing nine conference games instead of four. Interest would be kept alive throughout the season.

The Lamesa superintendent said he believed he would bring this topic up before the committee in the April meeting. The committee can make its own rules regarding the district play-off. It does not have to await state legislation.

State interscholastic league officials already have decided there will be no more of this two- and three-team district business. They're pretty certain to make some changes.

The department hopes they will move Lubbock into District 3, thus increasing that loop's size to four and leaving District 1 with four teams, or go back to the old eight-district plan, which, if organized as formerly, would move Wichita Falls, Vernon, Electra, Quanah and Childress back into District 1. That would make a pretty fast ten-club circuit.

You can't blame Coach Chapman for wanting a change. He sits up here with a team as good, we venture to say, as half the Class A teams in the state, but he never gets the chance to prove it because he can't get out of District 1. It's discouraging, especially when he KNOWS he has a team, year in and year out, better than a number of district championship winners.

SAILOR WHIPS TOUGH JOE

UPSET VICTORY SEEN IN MAT BATTLE IN CITY LAST NIGHT

Joe Kopecky and Sailor Watkins hit each other with everything but the ring posts last night, and before the main event on Sled Allen's wrestling card was over, old Barnacle Bill almost brought the ring posts into play. He missed Kopecky's head with them by scant inches, but the damage he did was enough to give him an upset victory over the East Texas panther man.

It was as titanic and stormy a rough-house brawl as the names of the duelists and the referee indicated it would be, only much more so. Dutch Mantell, the old grand duke of Luxembourg, as fast and graceful and as quick with a deadly punch at 55 as he was at 40, officiated the proceedings, and made a ceremony of it that added 50 per cent to the entertainment.

Kopecky Carries Fight

Kopecky, full of ring wisdom and wickedness, was the pre-match favorite, doped to outsmart and outwrestle Watkins just as he outwits and outslugs nearly all other opponents, carried the fight for fully three-fourths of the distance last night, and had victory in his grasp throughout. He gave Watkins a terrific beating, outboxing him when it came to that, getting the best of it in toe-to-toe slugging as well as close-in wrestling.

The old Panther Man, more active than he has ever been here, won the first fall in 21 minutes with a variation of the flying Dutchman and a body pin. The match had started like a wrestling contest, and for five minutes it stayed that way, the big men struggling in each other's grips. Then Watkins grabbed a handful of hair and war was declared. From there on it was slug and punch, this for that, with Kopecky chasing the fat boy all around the ring. Mantell, all over the mat at once, let 'em go with the slugging, but choked them off of strangle holds and slapped the dickens out of 'em for biting. In the ropes, they either broke clean or else—else they'd get a good bopping about the ears.

Dutch Man-Handles 'Em

Once they tried to gang old Dutch. He sent a right to Kopecky that addled him, and a left to Watkins that knocked him across the ring, and through the ropes.

The second fall was a repetition of the first, only faster and tougher, and the third fall was likewise.

Watkins took the second fall with a cradle pin when Joe had missed his aim in falling after spinning the Sailor with the flying Dutchman. It lasted only seven minutes. Barnacle Bill was so groggy he could barely stand up to strut after winning the fall.

Kopecky again chased Watkins all over the premises in the third, and for five minutes of this one they engaged in alley-rat fighting that left both of them groggy. Then Kopecky went to work with rabbit punches and terrific slams. Watkins looked like he was out on his feet. Then he closed in on Joe, fixed a headlock and started toward a corner. Three times he rushed to the corner, using Kopecky's head as a battering ram into the taut and hard-twisted ropes near the ring post angle, and then Joe was down and out, semi-conscious, an easy victim for a body smother. It lasted 13 minutes.

Barackman, Hallas Draw

There was rugged action in the preliminary and semi-final. Mervin Barackman took quite a walloping from the veteran villain, Billy Hallas, but managed to stay up for a 30-minute draw. Hallas was too tough, too cunning and too deadly with his punches for the cleaner Barackman.

Nick Bozinis, shaven-headed Greek from New York state, needed seven minutes to pin Larry Tillman in the preliminary. It had been fast and rough. Tillman aimed a drop kick at Nick. The latter ducked and Larry sailed on, and down, Nick piling on him for a body pin.

Promoter Allen announced that the wild Irishman, Danny McShane, would meet Walter Stratton, well-known strong man, in next Wednesday night's main event here.

BORGER SQUAD ON SCHEDULE THIS WEEK

LOCAL WESTERNERS TO LEAVE TODAY FOR PANHANDLE CITY

Coaches Weldon Chapman and Goober Keyes take their Lubbock High school Westerner gridders into the upper Panhandle today to clash with the Borger High school Bulldogs Friday afternoon on the Borger field. It will be a District 1 conference combat.

Crippled in body and sore in ambition since the crushing defeat by Amarillo, the Westerners, their coaches believe, are in a tough spot, an ideal spot for an upset. Borger, more definitely out of the district running than Lubbock, will be set to make its season a success by defeating Lubbock.

All Washed Up?

For the Westerners, the season ended a week ago last Monday at Amarillo. Coaches are finding it difficult to "steam them up" for the final two games at Borger and Plainview.

But as the Westerners leave today, they'll take the hopes of the Lubbock populace, if not many of the populace itself—hopes that the Westerners will put out earnest efforts for their coaches sakes, if for no other reason.

Second place in District 1 is Lubbock's for the taking tomorrow and on Thanksgiving. The Westerners are favored to beat Borger and Plainview and call it a season with only one conference defeat charged them.

Official announcement from the high school yesterday clarified any doubt as to the time of the Lubbock-Plainview game. It will be played on Thanksgiving Day at Plainview, instead of on the following Friday as previously suggested. The game starts at 2:30 o'clock that day. Tickets, priced at 40 cents for students, 75 cents for adults, will be on sale at the high school and at Sam Rosenthal's Hub Clothiers.

USE OF CAMERAS CLOSED INCIDENT

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Nov. 21. (AP)—The flare-up over Duke's scouting North Carolina with movie cameras prior to their game last Saturday apparently was regarded as a closed incident today.

There was some talk among alumni of a possible break of athletic relations, but college or athletic authorities of neither school gave any indication that such a step was contemplated.

Duke wrecked North Carolina's previously unbeaten eleven 25 to 0 in an upset which shattered the latter's hope of a Southern conference title and a Rose Bowl bid.

Reports of the clicking movie cameras were brought into the open yesterday by Phil Hammer, North Carolina student editor. In an editorial he denounced the use of movie cameras by Duke scouts as "ungentlemanly and universally regarded as illicit."

Coach Wallace Wade of Duke admitted his scouts used the cameras, adding:

"Aren't the others doing the same thing? What agreement is there against it?"

Said Carl Snavely, North Carolina coach:

"I have made no protest, and I have no comment to make except that I have never used moving pictures for scouting purposes."

CIGARETTES MUST PLEASE, OR YOU'VE SMOKED 'EM FREE!

If you are a "makin's" smoker who would enjoy rolling a better cigarette, here is a remarkable no-risk offer that is right down your alley:

Stop into your dealer's and get a tin of Prince Albert. Roll and smoke 30 P.A. cigarettes. If you don't say they are the best roll-your-own cigarettes you ever had, return the tin with the rest of the tobacco in it, and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage.

Prince Albert has to satisfy you. And we believe it will. For we use only choice tobacco. Then it is "crimp cut" for easy rolling and slow, cool smoking. All "bite" is removed to make Prince Albert mild and delicate in taste. And we pack the makin's for about 70 fine cigarettes in the big 2-ounce economy tin. So it's little wonder that men are flocking to Prince Albert, "the easy-to-roll joy smoke," backed up by such a fair and square offer! Have you tried Prince Albert? You owe it to yourself to know what the difference is. P.A. goes mighty friendly in a pipe too. (Signed) R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

"Hot Stove" League Needs Warming Up

INFORMATION ON DEALS IS KEPT A SECRET BY HIGH MOGULS

BY FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

DAYTON, O., Nov. 21—Baseball's hot stove league was not so hot today. Deals were being made at the minor league meeting here, there was evidence of that in the whisperings of club managers in huddles, but the information was kept under cover.

New York and St. Louis National league clubs completed a deal Wednesday. Bill Terry, Giant skipper, announced that, but he declined to say just what the trade consisted of. Branch Rickey, vice president of the Cardinals, said he believed Terry "spoke out of turn" in even admitting that a deal had been completed.

No Denial Made

Rickey, however, did not deny the deal. Everyone else at the minor meetings, nevertheless, was willing to wager that Burgess Whitehead, second sacker for the Cards, had been traded to the Giants for Pitcher Bud Parmalee.

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high commissioner, celebrated his 69th birthday last night. He came out of hiding for a few minutes and then retired early.

One rumor said that the Louisville club of the American association was on the auction block. Bill Knebelkamp, president, and William (Cap) Neal, vice president of the Colonels, were reported looking for buyers for their stock.

Two Are Sold

Milwaukee sold Catcher Paul Florence to Galveston of the Texas league, and Outfielder Earl Webb to Knoxville of the Southern association.

Joplin of the Western association surrendered its franchise to the league, but the club will remain in the Missouri town. A group headed by W. Perry Sharpe, Jess Thompson and A. B. Reed will take over the reins formerly held by C. A. (Runt) Marr.

The Southern association and Texas league were ready to ask today to be placed in a class by themselves. They want to be known as A-1 leagues, just between the AA and Class A loops. They were to ask the National association to take the necessary action, principally so they could pay their players a little more, and to boost the player limits.

CUBS TO GET PLAQUES

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Members of the 1935 Chicago Cubs will receive plaques, commemorating their 21 straight victories of this year, from P. K. Wrigley, club owner.

Willie Hoppe Will Wait Another Year

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Willie Hoppe of New York said today he had no intention of demanding a title match from Welker Cochran of San Francisco, new world's three cushion billiard champion, within 60 days.

By finishing second in the tournament, Hoppe has a right to challenge, but he said he probably would wait and attempt to defeat Cochran in the 1936 tournament.

He won second place honors last night by defeating Arthur Thurnblad of Chicago, 50 to 31 in 43 innings. The victory was worth about $2,000 to Hoppe.

COWHANDS AND SLATON MEET

OUTSTANDING CLASS B TEAM OF SECTION COMING TO CITY

Coach Ross Ayers' Cowhands of Lubbock High school will meet the outstanding Class B team of this section Friday afternoon at Tech Field when they clash with the Slaton High school Tigers. The Tigers broke into the limelight when they tripped the Lamesa Tornadoes by the impressive and decisive score of 21 to 0 on the Storm's home lot.

The Cowhands are in the best shape they have been this season. They are out to win this game and have been looking good in their practice sessions. Earl Ince, Cowhand quarterback, has been throwing passes and running the ends in great fashion. On the wing backs he will be assisted by Worth Bull and Billings. The ends will be held down by H. L. Gantz and Ramon Tapps. At tackle will be the husky Morris Williams and C. H. Tubbs. At guard will be Paul Kinard and Spikes. Herb Leaverton or Billy Woods will start at center.

Henry Is Star

Star of the Tiger eleven is Warren Henry, 175 pound fullback who passes ambidextrously. He also kicks with either his left foot or his right.

Some other standouts are: Troy Pickens, end, 170 pounds, six feet three inches tall, an exceptional pass catcher.

Holt Waldrop, 175 pound tackle.

Tommy Gentry, guard, who is described as being built low and sturdily.

With Texas Tech journeying to San Antonio and the Lubbock Westerners to Borger, this battle between the Cowhands and Slaton takes the center of the stage in Lubbock football this week-end.

PIRATES TOUGH ON LEFTIES

MATADORS OFF TODAY FOR SANTONE

ST. MARY'S RATTLERS NEXT OPPONENT FOR RAIDING SQUAD

The Texas Tech Matadors are boarding the steam-wagon tonight for another cross-county jaunt, this time to San Antonio where Saturday afternoon they play the St. Mary's university Rattlers.

The game marks Tech's first invasion of South Texas, and the beginning of athletic relations with St. Mary's.

Rest At Ft. Worth

The Matadors will delay in Fort Worth until nearly noon tomorrow morning, continuing to San Antonio Friday afternoon and arriving there in the evening. A squad of about 33 players will make the trip in a special Pullman.

PEP RALLY AT STATION
Townspeople are invited to join the Texas Tech band and a large section of the student body in a large send-off rally tonight at the Santa Fe station as the Matadors leave for San Antonio.
The squad will board the train about 10 o'clock, and the pep rally will start immediately.

Workouts since Tuesday have been devoted largely to perfecting a defense against the system which Frank Bridges taught at Baylor university, later at Simmons university and now at St. Mary's. It is the wide, spread formation, from which a variety of deceptive plays are run. Coach Berl Huffman's freshmen, who leave tomorrow morning for a Friday afternoon game in Abilene with the Hardin-Simmons frosh, have been running St. Mary's plays against the var-

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Why will Harvard not let it's starting lineup pose for pictures on Friday before the Yale game? . . . All Boston is agog over the mystery. . . . Jack Dempsey is a judge at Francis Albertanti's pet show.

Babe Herman, the original man on the flying trapeze, hit the first homer ever made in the major leagues at night. . . . Minnesota looked like the same old juggernaut in rolling over Michigan. . . . North Carolina fans swear Wallace Wade took out the Duke Blue Devils and put in the Duke power house.

Football fortunes were not always low at Albany college, holder of the country's longest losing streak. . . . Back in 1902 Albany twice tied Oregon 0-0 and the next year beat Oregon State, 6-0. . . . Albany won the state championship both years.

LITTLE FELLOWS ARE NOT CONSIDERED FOR "BOWLS" BUT THEY HAVE RECORDS

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Nov. 21—While the arguments rage over the comparative strength of the major undefeated football teams, take a glance at the little fellows who never are considered for "bowl" invitations.

Besides a group of undefeated and untied small college teams, such as Alma, Arkansas Tech, Middle Tennessee Teachers, Spearfish (S. D.) normal, and the somewhat stronger Ohio university, the season's records show a lot of teams whose slates probably would be clean if they had remained in their own class.

Notable Examples

A few notable examples are Williams, Clarkson and Franklin and Marshall in the east, Furman and Louisiana Tech in the south, Western Reserve and De Paul in the midwest, and Idaho, Southern branch, in the Rocky mountain region. None can boast a perfect record, but all are still at the top or very near it in their own class.

Williams, the Little Three champion, had a whale of a season against small eastern colleges although beaten by Princeton's great team early in the year. The Massachusetts team proved its class, however, by holding the Tigers 14-7.

A Good Argument

There might be a good argument between Western Reserve, one of the nation's high-scoring teams, and De Paul as to which is the biggest little team in the midwest. Reserve, victor over several strong teams, got its setback in a tie with Ohio Wesleyan.

De Paul lost to Northwestern after a stiff battle and played a scoreless tie with Texas Tech.

Furman was beaten only by the powerful Georgia team, and Idaho was tied by Montana State, which usually ranks a half dozen notches higher.

Among the teams which deserve honorable mention are Randolph Macon, tied but undefeated, and Louisiana Tech, a one-point loser to Millsaps, which generally is rated as a class or so above.

sity in light and dummy scrimmage.

Time has been devoted, too, to offensive moves. St. Mary's features a defense especially cut out to thwart Notre Dame style of football. New plays have been added to the Tech repertoire, old ones modified.

Detroit Game Next

Two games remain after the San Antonio invasion, the Matadors returning home for the Thanksgiving frolic against Detroit university, and moving into Oklahoma to play Oklahoma City university on Dec 7.

Coach Huffman and his Picadors leave by bus early Friday for Abilene. They wind up their season against the junior Ranchers that afternoon.

Veteran Sister Is Claimed By Death

GALVESTON, Nov. 21. (AP)—Sister Ambrose, member of the Dominican order for 42 years who had spent most of her life teaching in Beaumont, Taylor, Houston and Galveston, died at the age of 64.

Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Caroline McCabe and nephew, Rev. Father Patrick McCabe and other relatives in Philadelphia, and several cousins, John Matthews of La Porte, Mrs. Frank Dawson of Houston and Sister Mary Rose, a sister of charity at Seton infirmary, Austin.

Requiem mass will be said in the chapel of Sacred Heart academy today.

CAVALCADE IN SHAPE

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—Cavalcade, winner of the 1934 Kentucky Derby, has recovered from an ailing foot, and recently breezed half a mile at Belmont with 150 pounds on his back. He is being shipped to Columbia, S. C., where he will be whipped into shape for the $125,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

MATHEMEDICS

DOCTORS ARE CALLED BY THEIR NUMBERS

DENVER, Nov. 21.(AP)—"Mathemedics" is what one local feature writer called them.

He referred to doctors who have been paged during football games at Denver university stadium this season.

Physicians leaving their names at the stadium office have been given numbers. For paging purposes they have been known as "Doctor Two" or "Doctor Seven" instead of "Doctor Jones" or "Doctor Brown."

The first inkling the public had of the new system came when the loudspeakers, at the end of a tackle smash, boomed: "Doctor No. Two, you are wanted on the telephone at the stadium office."

A bit later the announcer again interrupted his remarks on punts and penalties: "Doctor No. Three, there's a little girl waiting for you at the stadium office."

Ethics of the medical profession, it was explained, is at the root of the new system. The practice of numbering doctors expecting emergency summonses removes the necessity of shouting a physician's name in the hearing of a football throng.

COTTON BUSINESS IS BEING BOOMED

LONDON, Nov. 21. (AP)—Statistics showed today that the Italo-Ethiopian hostilities were booming the business of American cotton growers and British textile factories.

American exports of "middling" cotton to Great Britain in October reached 78,000,000 pounds as compared with 30,000,000 pounds in October, 1934.

Last month was one of the biggest cotton importing months since 1929, although the previous months in 1935 showed actual declines from the comparative months of 1934.

Authoritative sources attributed the British textile upturn to the fact that Italian textile factories are losing out on account of the war, and to the lower prices of raw cotton and better business conditions in Great Britain.

FAT GIRLS GET THE GO-BY—SLIM GIRLS WIN MEN

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same scientific method used by doctors. So why not lose fat the easy way—without starvation diets or back-breaking, bending and rolling exercises? Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get Marmola today from druggists.

THE Plainsman hasn't heard much about how local hunters are faring but coming back from Dallas yesterday about noon he saw plenty of evidence on the part of other nimrods.

Between Abilene and Sweetwater—which distance took him about an hour to traverse—your humble servant saw not less than six cars on which were draped horned trophies of the hunt and on some of the cars there were swung two bucks.

Talking to some editors from over the state in Dallas, The Plainsman was given to understand that there are many more deer this year than usual, especially in the Kerrville, Junction and Roosevelt areas.

Northern New Mexico, however, as well as the section west of Carlsbad, is listed as "poor hunting".

BELIEVE it or not but The Plainsman beat the pari-mutuels last Saturday afternoon at Arlington Downs when 20,000 souls saw Top Row win the Waggoner handicap. Pretty good for an old country boy, eh?

But be that as it may, the most striking thing to The Plainsman was the number of elderly women who were "playing the races".

Not having seen a real, sure enough racing plant since he was a small kid in Kentucky, The Plainsman took in last Saturday afternoon's major fall card at the Downs.

And instead of being interested in bangtails, he was interested more in the people.

In the Jockey club it looked like at least half those present were women and half the women were more than 50 years old.

It may be that it just looked that way and that the figure is a little high.

But there were plenty of dowagers on hand and they knew all the horses, jockeys and odds.

Just what there is in hoss racing to make a body go plumb ga-ga, The Plainsman has yet to discover.

But a lot of folks, including the elderly ladies, seem to go for 'em in a big way!

Gentlefolk are those who try to live up to their ideals instead of to their neighbors' expenditures.

THAT idea of the American Legion's, shared in by Captain John Churchill of the Salvation Army, sounds good to The Plainsman.

Why shouldn't we have a city-wide Christmas, a decorated city and every organization joining hands to be sure the affair is as big as it can be made?

* * *

For quite a few years Lubbock people spending the holidays away from home have contrasted the well decorated cities they were visiting with barren Lubbock.

Except for occasional trees on residence lawns and Christmas decorating in store windows, no one would have known it was Christmas here.

The Legion's efforts to put a Christmas tree, well decorated, before every business house and residence are to be commended.

THIS column's view is that the idea of co-operation between all organizations and individuals wishing to spread Yuletide cheer is also good.

Then everyone can have a part, worthy people and little children won't be quite so easy to overlook and duplications will be cut to the minimum.

The Plainsman hopes the Legion's plan goes over with a bang.

IT'S a funny thing but some of the nation's best statesmen and public servants—regardless of their political affiliations — have never gotten very far toward their party's presidential nomination while upon several occasions weaker, less serviceable men have been chosen.

Take Senator George Norris, for instance, a great senator if there ever was one.

William E. Borah, often suggested but never nominated, is another, as is Carter Glass, Virginia's senior senator.

Service and record of any of those men are greater than any service ever rendered by ex-Presidents Coolidge and Harding, or of Nominees John Davis or Alfred Smith.

THIS from Mrs. D. J. Wilhelm: "Lubbock can't be such a bad town, believe it or not. Several weeks ago I parked my car down town and thought I was leaving it well locked in every respect. I was gone two hours and when I returned my coat, books and other belongings were all there, untouched. I had locked the car but forgot to roll up one window!"

Orchids, we say, to Honest Lubbock, but aside to Mrs. Wilhelm: Better not try it again!

Thrill Appears In Lives Of Lowly Dancers; Taxi Houses 'Raided' For Film Extras Who Enjoy Brief Hour Of Glory

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 21—They're generally having fun, even while working, on the dance hall set of "Follow the Fleet." Members of the regular cast are amused by the extras, who actually were hired right out of taxi dance halls. And the extras themselves are popeyed with excitement at being able to work with Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers.

Director Mark Sandrich and some of his aides toured the Los Angeles dance palaces recently and selected typical couples of Lindy-hopping shim-sham-shimmyers.

None of them ever had been inside a studio gate, and when they finally were convinced that the $10-a-day movie offers were legitimate, you could have knocked them over with a fiddlestick.

RKO gave them run-of-the-picture contracts. After reading over these terse agreements two or three hundred times apiece, the dance hall hostesses began developing broad a's and some of the more familiar mannerisms of Garbo and Dietrich. The boys went out and bought wildly checked jackets and blue neck scarves in the Gable mode.

At It Day And Night

Each evening, after a hard day of dancing, the extras all go somewhere and dance. They try to copy the steps of Fred and Ginger, but they also are practicing for an important competition. For two or three couples eventually will be selected as finalists in the dance contest that is part of the story.

They will be allowed to say a few words. And, as performers with speaking parts, they automatically will receive $25 a day.

A few such days, and they'll all be back in the bright-light circuit of the town, seeking their old jobs as nickel-a-dance partners. But they will have had their hour of glory, a break that comes to one in a thousand of the nobodies who live on the fringes of the screen world.

Luck Story

Margot Grahame, the English actress, looks very nice even while fretful. This day she was fretful because she had made only one short shot since early morning, and had to sit around on the set, just being bored. She wished the racing season would start, or that she could go swimming, or that there would be a nice earthquake, or something.

Miss Grahame's career is the reverse of the usual success story. Her parents were actors and they thought it would be dandy for Margot to go on the stage.

Once started (in South Africa) she got all the breaks. First she had a one-line role, but the second leading lady fell ill and Margot got the part. Then, the leading lady became ill and Margot, at 15, played prima donna.

She went to London, and time after time fell into better roles than those for which she had been engaged. Once she was a lowly third understudy for the star of "A Cup of Kindness." All three actresses proceeded to get sick, and Miss Grahame took the leading part.

She became known as a Jonah understudy, and the stars were afraid to have her around. So she went into pictures, where there are no understudies, and her luck followed her. Made 42 British films before coming here.

Now that she's a recognized star, life is a lot less exciting.

Two Nice Pals

W. S. Van Dyke is alternately one of the most fiery and funniest of flicker directors. Patient enough with honest mistakes, but completely intolerant of bungling—explodes all over the lot. At the same time he manages to keep nearly everyone in good humor with his jokes which often verge on the practical.

He and Jeanette MacDonald are carrying on a sort of ribbing feud. In rehearsals of some of her scenes in "Rose Marie," Van Dyke has arranged for people who don't belong in the picture at all—Spencer Tracy, Jean Harlow, Charlie Chaplin, or anybody who happens to be visiting—to walk right into the scene and address her with weird and extraneous lines.

Some actresses couldn't bear up under such an emotional upset, but she just giggles. Giggles and schemes to get even.

She gave Van Dyke his comeuppance the other evening when some of the filmed sequences were being run off before a lot of high executives and distinguished visitors.

Miss MacDonald had gone into a huddle with the cutters, and had persuaded them to run all the film on a take which had been ruined by the clumsy moving of a light.

The sound track also carried, loud and clear on the strained atmosphere of the projection room, all the choice expletives that Van Dyke has learned in his long, hard years of directing.

Without The Clatter

When a Los Angeles dairy firm decided to motorize its delivery fleet the other day, it unwittingly saved the Hal Roach studio a lot of money. A number of gypsy wagon-homes were needed for "The Bohemian Girl," so the milk wagons were bought and remodeled. You'll see them as colorful, rolling houses of the vagabond people—Grade A, pasteurized nomads.

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

SCHOOL SICKNESS

Has your child "school sickness?" Does he go "creeping like a snail unwilling to school?"

The complaint is not new, but only recently and in the light of scientific study has it been recognized as a real disease. "School sickness," says a Washington dispatch, "has been definitely identified as a nerve illness brought about by pressure on the sensitive child."

Dr. James E. Rogers, consultant in hygiene of the United States office of education, says "even tuberculosis will not work such havoc with the child save in the final stages."

These are the symptoms as named by the authorities: Irritability, restlessness, anxiety and a highly emotional state. The child usually has a poor appetite. He sleeps badly and may have night terrors. These ailments usually begin when school commences and grow worse as the term advances.

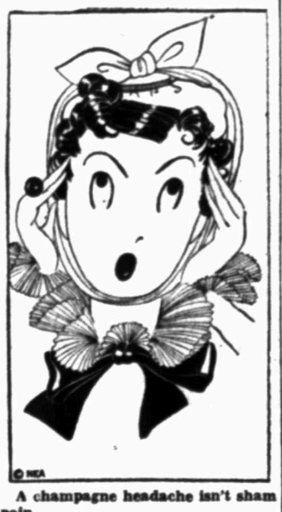

The cause is a school system that requires all children to progress through the same courses. Those who cannot keep at least the average pace are labeled "dull," "retarded," "inferior."

They are passed about from one teacher to another; sent up to principals; inspected by overseers. They become abnormally conscious of their defects and adopt defensive measures of obstinacy, insubordination or hypocrisy according to their various natures. But in every case the nerves suffer.

Dr. J. V. Treynor, of Council Bluffs, Ia., first to use the term "school sickness," says the remedy when the first symptoms appear is, "take off the pressure."

This is worthy of the attention of parents and school authorities.

When the soul has laid down its faults at the feet of God, it feels as though it had wings.—E. Guerin.

Dutchers' News And Views OF WASHINGTON

Dutcher

(Copyright, 1935, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Behind the fuss, fury, and ballyhoo over Maj. George Berry's NRA convention of labor and industry Dec. 9 is obscured the one real explanation of what the show is all about:

This administration, though unwilling to admit it publicly as yet, wants a national 40-hour work week, child labor legislation, and—if possible—a minimum wage law.

Purpose of the Berry conference is to drum up articulate support from industry for such a program in the next Congress. In a campaign year it isn't considered good medicine to seem to be shoving such legislation down industry's throat.

Insiders are uncertain whether a majority of the industrial representatives at the meeting can be persuaded to support industrial legislation of this type.

NRA is dead and as good as gone. There's no thought of trying to revive it. But the big problems NRA was supposed to solve remain.

Unemployment, the biggest, is accentuated by everybody's realization that if 1929 production levels are regained within a year—as some administrationists expect—six or eight million people still will be out of work.

Such a labor surplus is sure to hold down wages and mass purchasing power while continuing the relief problem.

Code labor standards have been generally smashed except where strong labor unions could preserve them, and output per man per hour, meaning technological unemployment, increases rapidly.

Roosevelt Wants Laws

What Roosevelt would like is an admission by industry of the necessity for labor legislation. He doesn't want to kiss NRA goodby without leaving something in the statutes that will tend toward curing the unemployment disease and that can be amended later as need seems to require.

Unsympathetic with organized labor's demand for a drastic 30-hour week, he nevertheless feels the principle of a 40-hour week should be conceded by any reasonable industrialist and that a shortening of hours is still a vital need of the industrial system.

There are plenty of industrialists who agree with him—and there's reason to believe they're being organized for the December meeting. But they seem to be outweighed by the mass production industrialists who want no industrial legislation, led by automobiles, steel, chemicals, electrical equipment, and allied financial interests.

Outcome of the session is unpredictable as yet and it may just be a cat-and-dog fight between industry and labor. But the foregoing is what it's all about.

Still Plowing 'Em Under

The Department of Agriculture experimental farm at Beltsville, Md., hatches 1800 chicks a week for its breeding experiments.

It used to sell them, receiving some return on the expense.

Now it kills them and plows them under.

Private poultry interests objected to the competition.

Not The First Turndown

If you read how the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad was turned down by the Interstate Commerce Commission for another RFC loan and consequently was forced into reorganization, you probably also read that this was the first instance of its kind.

That isn't so. Several other roads, some of them large, have been turned down informally and without publicity by the ICC, with the result that they went into bankruptcy.

Among the roads which have gone into reorganization in the last year or so are Chicago & Great Western, Northwestern, Missouri Pacific, Western Pacific, and Denver & Rio Grande.

Most such roads tried to borrow additional money from RFC and were refused by ICC informally. (RFC is barred by law from lending government money when earnings fail to justify it.)

The big thing the ICC had in mind in promptly making public its decision as to the New Haven was that no railroad official would have advance information with which to make money on the stock market.

It wishes it had thought of that before—before certain persons took advantage of inside information to similar effect.

The GOLDEN FEATHER

by Robert Bruce — © 1935 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JEAN DUNN, secretary to DONALD MONTAGUE, lawyer, delays her answer when Bobby Wallace, automobile salesman, asks Jean to marry him.

At The Golden Feather night club she meets SANDY HARKINS, whose business connection is vague. Sandy introduces Bobby and Jean to MR. and MRS. LEWIS and Bobby arranges to sell some bonds for Lewis. He sells them to Jean's employer.

LARRY GLENN, federal agent, long a friend to Jean's parents, is trying to locate WINGY LEWIS, bank robber. Larry locates same stolen bonds and questions SONNY BOYD, gambler, about them. Boyd confesses he bought the bonds from Donald Montague. Montague tells Larry he bought them from Bobby.

Larry talks to Bobby, learns Lewis bought a car recently and suspects it as armored. He sends four of his men to Lewis' hotel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

Frank Watson and Al Peters were waiting outside the entrance to the West Park hotel when Larry drove up. They stepped forward as he got out of his car.

"Tony and Tommy are inside," said Watson. "Tony's up at the entrance to the suite, and Tommy is with the manager. The people'd checked out just about 30 minutes before we got here. The manager says they seemed to be in a hurry."

"I'll bet they were," said Larry. "You did a good job to locate it as soon as you did. We'll go up and look the place over and see what there is to see."

They entered the lobby and crossed to the desk, where Tommy Waters was talking with the manager, a worried-looking individual in a morning coat. He looked up as they drew near, and spoke to Larry with petulant concern.

"I hope you'll be able to conduct your investigation quietly," he said. "It would be a bad thing for us to have any publicity about this."

"Yes, I imagine it would," said Larry. "One good way to avoid things like that is to be a little careful about who you rent rooms to."

He took the key which the manager handed him, glanced at the number, said curtly, "You needn't come with us," and led the other agents to the elevator.

They went up and found Tony LaRocco lounging at the apartment entrance. Larry unlocked the door and they all went inside, closing the door after them.

The suite consisted of a large, ornately - furnished living room, two bedrooms, an elaborately-tiled bathroom, and a small kitchenet and dining alcove. Larry looked about him appreciatively.

"They did themselves well, these birds," he said. Tommy Waters nodded.

"Took the place just over three weeks ago, and paid $150 a week for it," he said. "That's according to that fish-eyed manager anyhow."

They crossed the living room and entered the larger of the bedrooms. It was in disorder. The twin beds were unmade, the drawers of bureaus and dressing tables stood open, a tray containing highball glasses with the dregs still in them stood on a little table between the beds, and a crumpled newspaper lay on the floor nearby. There was a discarded necktie on a dresser, and a crumpled sheet of wrapping paper beside it.

"Nothing much to see here," observed Larry. "Let's look farther."

The bathroom was similarly disordered. The other bedroom seemed not to have been occupied, and was in apple pie order; but the dining alcove table still bore plates and cups with the remains of a meal, and empty bottles stood on the shelves of the little kitchenet.

Larry inspected the alcove table. "Set for three," he said "Looks like supper rather than breakfast. Well, we'll soon find out."

* * *

LaRocco was inspecting the used glasses and empty bottles in the kitchenet. He looked up to remark, "Some swell prints here."

"Good," said Larry. "Get 'em."

LaRocco got out the apparatus from the little bag Larry had brought with him and went to work. Larry continued his inspection of the dining alcove, while the other men explored the living room.

"This stuff came from the kitchen downstairs," he said at last. "They didn't prepare it themselves. Let's get the manager up here."

One of the agents reached for the phone and summoned that individual. He arrived in a few minutes, still wearing his look of apprehensive and injured innocence.

"I want to know when these people last had an order from the kitchen," said Larry. "Find out for me and send up the waiter who served it."

The manager bowed and left, to return a little later with a waiter.

The waiter explained that he had served supper for three in the apartment the night before, at about 9:30. Two men and one woman were in the party; the woman and one of the men were the people who occupied the suite regularly; the other man was a visitor who frequently came to the apartment but never spent the night there.

Larry took out a rogue's gallery picture of Wingy Lewis and handed it to him with a question. The waiter looked at it and nodded slowly.

"I think so," he said. "I can't be quite sure. It looks like him, though."

"Did you notice his hands?" asked Larry.

The waiter looked at him uncomprehending; then a light dawned in his eyes and he nodded. "Yes, yes," he said excitedly. "His left hand—he had but four fingers."

"That's him," said Larry, slipping the picture back in his pocket. "Now then, do you remember where they were seated when you served the meal?"

The waiter thought for a moment, then touched a chair with his hand.

"The man with the mutilated hand, he sat here," he said. "The lady here, and the guest opposite, here."

Larry bent over the table.

"Come here, Tony," he said. "See if you can get any prints off the silver."

He looked up at the waiter speculatively.

"Do you remember," he asked, "when you laid the places, did you happen to wipe off the silver with a napkin?"

The waiter looked at him blankly, then shook his head.

"Then your prints would probably be on it?"

"Yes. And also, perhaps, the prints of the bus boy who carries the silver from the place where it is washed and dried to the rack from which we collect it."

Larry turned to the manager.

"Find that bus boy and get him up here," he said. "Meanwhile —" turning back to the waiter as the manager left, "let us have your fingerprints, will you?"

Grinning broadly, the waiter complied. The bus boy, looking very scared, was brought up a moment later, and his prints likewise were recorded. Then, dismissing the servants and the manager, Larry turned to LaRocco.

"Finding anything?"

"Plenty," said LaRocco grimly. One of the other agents was wrapping up the odds and ends of discarded belongings that had been found in the place. There were not many; a nearly-empty tube of shaving cream, a necktie, a torn slip of pink silk, half a dozen detective-story magazines, and so on. The other two were going over furniture and walls like ferrets, looking for anything and everything and finding nothing.

An hour later Larry made a final survey of the place, and nodded to the others.

"We're through here," he said. "Let's go."

As they reached the lobby he sought out the doorman.

"Where do the guests here usually park their cars?" he asked. The doorman named a commercial garage a block away.

LaRocco and Tommy Waters called a cab and went downtown, while the other three hurried to the garage. There Larry sought out the manager and produced once more his rogues' gallery portrait of Wingy Lewis.

The manager studied it thoughtfully, then nodded.

"Looks like him," he said.

Once more Larry asked the inevitable question, "Did you notice his hands?" The garage manager replied as the waiter had done; after puzzling over the question for a moment his face brightened, and he recalled that the man had lacked the index finger on his left hand. Larry grunted with satisfaction.

"What kind of a car did he drive?" he asked.

"Well, he came here with a LaPlace sedan," said the manager. "Then about a week or ten days ago he came in with a new one—a big 12-cylinder Frontenac, dark blue with gold beading and blue wire wheels."

He stuck his head out of the little wicket in his office, where they were talking, and called a colored attendant. "Hey, Hank! Come here, will you?"

Hank came over; a tall, intelligent-looking colored man in tan breeches and puttees, a blue shirt open at the throat. Larry immediately asked him about Mr. Lewis's big blue Frontenac; had he ever noticed anything unusual about it?

"Nothin' 'cept that it was awful heavy," said Hank.

"Ah," said Larry softly. "How'd you happen to notice that?"

"Well," said Henry, "he brought it in one night an' told me to change the oil, so I took it up on the third floor and run it on the rack. 'Stead of havin' pits here we got wooden racks, like—" He gestured with his hands to illustrate their arrangement of inclined parallel rails. "I run it up on there, and the first upright on the right-hand rail broke. Didn't break off short—just cracked an' split. I back it off an' had a look at the upright. Good strong piece of wood; I never thought anything less'n a five-ton truck would crack it. So I took the car over to the filling station on the corner, where they got pits, an' had it done."

"Mmm. Notice anything else about it?"

"Wings of the hood was awful heavy, too. Like liftin' pieces of steel to open up an' get at the oil intake."

Beyond that, Hank had noticed nothing. He was dismissed, and Larry turned to the manager and asked him when Lewis had left that morning.

"Just about an hour ago," the manager replied. "Bought 10 gallons of gas and shoved off, with a girl in the front seat beside him and suitcases in the back."

"Just a girl? There wasn't another man along?"

"No. Just the girl."

After jotting down the license number of the car, and ascertaining that Lewis had neither asked for any road maps nor made any casual remarks that would give any clew as to the direction he had planned to take, Larry and his men returned to the federal building. In his office Larry reassembled his staff about him.

"Now," he said, "we've got to drift around town and ask ten million questions. Somewhere around Dover there must be someone who has some sort of notion what part of the country these people were apt to head for. It's up to us to find out—fast."

OWN SOME LAND
There is something inherently lacking in the person who does not yearn to own a strip of soil of his own, even if it's only part of a city block, with a lawn and garden patch. Behind the motive is the essential patriotism expressed by "this is my own, my native land."
Land is something that can really be loved—not like a paper bond that has no intrinsic value at all.

DAILY MARKETS

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK Nov. 21. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, 5 to 8 points advance on higher Liverpool cables, small ginnings figures, and active general buying. Dec. 11.98; Jan. 11.88; March 11.76; May 11.63; July 11.49; October 11.16.

Hedging was light but the opening advance met active realizing which was absorbed on small setbacks by trade buying.

Dec. sold up to 12.02 and May to 11.65, making new highs for the season on near months and first-hour net advances of 6 to 11 points on the general list.

The report of the census bureau showed ginnings of 8,437,084 bales prior to Nov. 14 compared with 8,634,632 last year and 11,248,200 two years ago.

The advance extended to 12.08 for Dec and 11.68 for May, making net gains of 12 to 16 points and while this was followed by reactions of 4 to 5 points, the market held steady. Some buying in the later months was attributed to the relatively light ginnings reported prior to Nov. 14.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 21. (AP)—Cotton futures advanced today from 4 to 8 points at the opening of trading here with good cables which influenced light buying at the first call. The advance was helped during the first half hour by a bullish ginning report for the season up to and including November 14.

A total of 8,437,084 bales has been ginned so far this season, compared with 8,634,632 bales in the similar period of 1934.

The strong December position crossed the 12-cent level, advancing to 12.04 while opening prices of 11.75 for March, 11.63 for May and 11.47 for July represented fair gains.

Futures continued their advance during the first half of dealings with active buying all along the line. Speculative interest and the trade were the principal purchasers with contracts being supplied by light hedge offerings.

Shorts continued to buy in December and this month advanced to the highest level reached by any option this season. December touched 12.10, later selling off to 12.04, while January was 15 points higher at 11.92 and gains of five to 13 points were marked up by March at 11.83, May at 11.64 and July at 11.48.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—The stock market's bullish forces got back in the saddle today, apparently little the worse from their tumble of the previous session.

Considerable caution was still in evidence, however, and buying was largely concentrated on scattered specialties and the rails. Trading was relatively quiet. The utilities were a bit better than steady while the steels, motors and communications generally stood aside and watched the procession.

Cotton futures pushed above the 12-cent figure for the first time since July and wheat was firm. The French franc lagged, along with other gold exchanges. Bond prices improved.

Shares of Homestake Mining added 10 points to their 12 1-8-point gain Wednesday. Budd Mfg. preferred was prominent with a 6-point gain. Others, up major fractions to around 2 included Union Pacific, Vanadium, Case, McKesson & Robbins, Collins & Airkam, Electric Boat, Gold Dust, Murray Corp., Borden, National Dairy, Johns-Manville and Mack Truck.

Lubbock Market

The prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry and Egg company; delivered Lubbock: Grain—S. E. Case Grain and Feed company following prices being bid by Lubbock grain dealers: Cotton—Plains Cotton company. All prices subject to change during day.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Stimulated by upward swings of foreign markets and by improved milling demand here for red winter wheat, the Chicago wheat market jumped more than 2 cents late today.

Fears of crop damage from threatened excessively high temperatures in Argentina did much to promote increased speculative buying as the day approached an end. Milling purchases of red winter wheat in Kansas City as well as in Chicago were reported.

Wheat closed strong, 1 1-2 to 2 5-8 above yesterday's finish, Dec. 99 1-4 to 99 3-8; corn 1-2 off to 1-4 up, Dec. 60 3-8 to 60 5-8; oats unchanged to 1-4 higher, and provisions at a rise of 10 to 20 cents.

CHARGES HURLED IN PORT BATTLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21. (AP)—Pacific coast ship owners and longshoremen opposed each other with the old federal anti-trust law today.

Ship owners were charged with violating the anti-trust laws by William J. Lewis, district president of the International Longshoremen's association when he was informed a similar complaint had been made against the I. L. A.

The department of justice in Washington announced it was investigating a complaint filed against the I. L. A. several weeks ago by Elisha Hanson, attorney for the ship owners.

Commenting on the charge that the I. L. A. was conspiring to interfere with interstate commerce by boycotting cargo from Gulf of Mexico ports, Lewis stated:

"We can point to more violations of the award (under which coast longshore hours, wages and responsibilities were set) than the shippers can."

Liquor Election Is Called In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Potter county commissioners court today called a local option election for December 2 to determine whether the sale of liquor will be legalized in the county.

The action was taken after petitions containing 1,030 names, 450 more than required, had been presented.

Meanwhile the sheriff's department began a drive against liquor violators. Fourteen persons, most of whom were drug store operators or hotel porters, were arrested and charged with violation of the new state liquor control act. Complaints were filed against three others.

Demonstration Held On Equipment Today

A good crowd of farmers and others interested in farm machinery attended a demonstration of Oliver tractors and farm machinery a mile and a half south of town on the Slaton highway, staged today by E. K. Hufstedler, local dealer.

Latest farm equipment was demonstrated as well as the new 1936 model tractors. The work began at 10 o'clock and was to continue until late in the afternoon. Expected visit of Dr. Jose Castells of Argentine and Dr. Charles Garcia Mata, Washington, could not be had as the two men had to leave ahead of schedule and were unable to spend Thursday here.

Abilene Man Drops Dead On Wednesday

ABILENE, Nov. 21. (AP)—D. T. Howard, 62, agent here for the Railway Express company, fell dead yesterday afternoon when he suffered a heart attack while supervising the loading of a motor truck into a freight car.

Mr. Howard, a native of Pryor's, Ky., had been an employe of the company 33 years and served in Dallas 20 years before coming here in 1933.

Funeral services will be held Thursday evening and burial will be in Dallas Friday.

He is survived by his wife, a son and daughter, Jim D. Howard of Austin and Mrs. Ford Allen of Abilene.

YOUTH ARRESTED

DURANT, Okla., Nov. 21. (AP)—Weldon Goodman, 19, wanted for questioning in the slaying of Leo South, Ardmore taxicab driver, was arrested today at the home of a farmer near Meade, nine miles west of here, by Bryan county officers.

TWO SAN ANTONIO MEN ARE HIJACKED ON CARLSBAD ROAD BY BANDIT TRIO

EL PASO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Jack B. Harper and S. E. Cozart, both of San Antonio, were held up on the Carlsbad highway, 13 miles east of El Paso, late yesterday by three men.

Harper told the sheriff's deputies that he and Cozart were going east on the highway when a dark sedan drove up beside them and tried to force them off the highway. Harper speeded up his automobile but the bandit car caught them again after a short chase and one of the holdup men fired two shots in front of Harper's machine.

"I stopped my car," Harper said. "Two of the men got out of the sedan and went through our pockets taking $34 from me and $13 from Cozart. The men then forced me to drive my car out into the sand about 100 yards off the highway. They headed east."

Sheriff's deputies here notified Van Horn and Carlsbad officers to be on the lookout for the bandit car.

LOCAL HAPPENINGS

Ten Are Held—Ten men, seven of them negroes, were in county jail this morning facing charges of trespassing on railroad property. Five of the men were arrested in Slaton, where they were charged, and the others were arrested in the Santa Fe railway yards here. Five complaints were filed with Justice of the Peace J. T. Trigg. Two persons arrested last night here for a similar offense were released. One was a juvenile and the other was a Civilian Conservation corps enrollee on a fur.ough.

FEDERAL AGENTS WILL CHECK CASE

MEMPHIS, Nov. 21. (AP)—Department of justice agents may be asked to aid in investigating mysterious circumstances surrounding the abandonment here last month of a chubby little three-year-old girl who calls herself "Colleen" and prattles of Texas.

Fear that the brown-eyed, brown-haired child left here by a young ex-carnival trouper, was kidnaped was expressed today by Miss Georgia Tenn, executive secretary of the Tennessee children's home society. She became suspicious when on three different occasions people claimed the child, only to disappear when an investigation was started.

Miss Tann said she had learned the woman was not the child's mother. Footprints of the child will be checked with those on file in Texas hospitals.

Four men who will guide the Goodfellows club in its Christmas charity program have been selected by a committee which went to work Sunday afternoon, but their identity will not be revealed, the committee said today.

Organization of the club was made Sunday afternoon for purposes of avoiding duplications in gifts to the indigent families of Lubbock on Christmas day, and seeing that every unfortunate family is remembered.

In executive committee, composed of representatives from civic, church, and other organizations participating in the group charity plan, is expected to convene this week-end to formulate procedure for the Goodfellows work.

'Doctor Doolittle' Leading In Voting

"Doctor Dolittle," by Hugh Lofting, is leading in popularity with children voting at the Lubbock county library during National Book week.

The "favorite book" balloting is proving popular, it was said at the library. The leading book was awarded the Newberry medal in 1923. Close behind in voting are "Wizard of Oz," by Baum, and "Hopi," by Jewett.

Polls will close Saturday night at 6:30 o'clock.

LET KIDNEYS FLUSH OUT 3 LBS. A DAY

Clean Out .5 Miles of Kidney Tubes

Nature put over 15 miles of tiny tubes and filters in your kidneys to strain the waste matter out of the blood. Kidneys should pass 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter.

When the passing of water is scanty, with smarting and burning, the 15 miles of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pounds of waste matter, your body may take up some of these poisons causing serious trouble. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and help the kidneys to flush out 3 pounds a day. Insist on Doan's Pills.

Inmon Funeral Is To Be Held Friday

Funeral services for Miss Maggie Lee Inmon, 22, who formerly taught school at East Ward near Lubbock and also at Smyer in Hockley county, will be held at the Church of Christ sometime Friday, said Burleson Funeral home of Littlefield.

Miss Inmon died suddenly Wednesday morning in a hotel at Littlefield, where she had been staying for the past two weeks. Death may have been from an attack of indigestion or from heart trouble.

Her body was to be brought to Lubbock today, to be taken in charge by Sanders Funeral home.

Survivors are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Inmon of Hereford, four brothers and one sister.

statement, apparently interpreting it as indicating further federal aid if the situation required.

Depends On Congress

Hopkins said: "The program depends entirely on what action congress will take. I am not going to indicate an opinion about the funds that will be required or the number of people that will need benefits, but I am sure of one thing, that the government and the states and cities have put their hand to this plow and that it is never again going to be taken away."

Latest figures on the works fund, released today, showed the president had approved projects valued at $3,841,978,289. But this is a flexible list from which state administrators may select the ones they desire. It does not mean all of these projects will be carried out.

TECH JUDGERS LEAVE TODAY

CHANCES FOR SECOND VICTORY TALKED BY COLLEGE COACH

Chances of a second international victory by the Texas Tech senior livestock judging team were commented on conservatively by Coach Ray Mowery as the team prepared to leave for Chicago, where it will attempt Saturday to retain the Spoor trophy first won last year.

The team and coach left at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon. The Spoor trophy, the most-prized award available to college livestock judging teams, must be won three times to be retained permanently.

Only twice in the 34 years of International Livestock exposition judging contests has a team won twice in succession, Mowery said. Showing of the Tech team depends on weather conditions and opportunity for completing practice work at colleges and farms the group will visit enroute to Chicago, he said.

Team members will attend the national Block and Bridle club meeting in Chicago Monday. J. T. Henry, secretary of the Tech chapter, is preparing an annual report for the chapter. It will be bound in leather hand-tooled by Douglas Marshal. The Tech chapter's report won third in the national contest last year. W. L. Stangel, head of the livestock division of the Texas Centennial, who is on leave of absence from Tech, will attend the meeting as vice president of the national organization.

Greeted By Family

Wearing a white sun-helmet, ear muffs and a khaki tunic, the emperor stepped briskly from his plane and was greeted by the empress, the crown prince, Princess Tsahai, cabinet officials and Ethiopia's only aviatrix, Mulumabet.

During his two-day tour, the emperor made a 100-mile round-trip by automobile between Jijiga and Harar, just south of Diredawa, in addition to his aerial inspection.

He conferred with Ras Nasibu, governor of Harar and commander of the Jijiga defenses, yesterday.

The final leg of his flight was from Diredawa, after hops both yesterday and Tuesday over the front 90 miles south of Jijiga.

MANY NEW BOOKS OFFERED READERS

Miss Joyce Johnson presides over the Junior High school library, in operation as an organized reading space for the first time this year.

Three hundred eighty new books and forty-three publications added this year give this library a total of 1,600 volumns. In purchasing the new volumns Miss Johnson and Junior High school authorities chose many books stressing social studies, since these works were most needed to make the library well rounded for its readers.

For the Book Week celebration two bulletin boards have been decorated by Mary Louise McMullan. Covers of many popular new books are attractively arranged on these boards.

Scientific books are coming into their own with the reading public of this school. In the class of Mr. Houston Hinson special posters picturing new scientific reading material have been made. Attractive displays of "How They Carried the Mail" by Jones and Sanders and "Skycraft Book" by Wynn and Elliott take their place in the Book Week parade.

Complaints Refiled Against Six Here

County Attorney Jess C. Levens yesterday re-filed complaints against six men recently indicted by a 99th district court grand jury for assault. The cases are in county court.

The new complaints have two counts, for aggravated assault and for contributing to delinquency of minor children.

Indictments had alleged the defendants indecently fondled the persons of the children. Four of the men had posted bond of $1,000 each. Two have not been arrested.
