Weather, Oil, Gasoline Spell Vacancies For Motels

Reports of bad weather, the bay of Compeche oil spill and the gas situation were cited by local motel and trailer camp owners and managers as causes for a drop in Labor Day guests.

"We're having more problems with the weather than the oil slick," said Mrs. Leroy Loflin, owner of Bay Shore Courts in Fulton. She said last Friday there were "a number of cancellations" because of the weather, "but I don't think the oil slick has figured too much into it yet."

About a dozen motels and camp parks were contacted Friday, August 31, to find out what kind of Labor Day they were anticipating, and with one exception, the owners and managers reported slumps in business.

The exception was Myrt Blocker of Circle Inn Campground in Fulton who said the weather and oil "haven't hurt my business a bit. We expect to be busier this year than last year."

Circle Inn has a lot of winter trade, she said adding, that because of the bad winters up north, "they'll come regardless of whether we have oil on the beaches or what. We were full to capacity last year and I expect to be this year."

Louise White at the Sea Gun Resort Hotel in Lamar said Friday that things "weren't too bad -- so far we've only had two cancellations."

And Mrs. Kay Smith, manager of the Sandollar Resort Motel and Camp Park in Fulton said the motel was probably doing slightly better business than at this time last year.

However, she added, the camp park was suffering a slump in business because of the gasoline situation. "We've had more problems from gas than the oil slick or weather," she said.

Others reported definite problems. "We're usually booked solid this time of year," said Billie Dodd at the Harbor Light Cottages in Fulton. "Now everything's empty." She didn't know whether the drop in business was due more to the oil slick or the weather, or was a combination of both, "but I feel like if the weather had helped, we wouldn've had some people come in."

Theresa Casparis, manager of the Rod & Reel Motel, 1105 East Market, said two units out of 12 were occupied Friday, and added, hopefully, "Maybe the weather will clear up and the oil will clear up, and we'll get some people next weekend."

At the Surfside Motel on Fulton Beach Road, Mrs. D. Hendrix, owner, said there hadn't been too many problems from the oil slick but she'd had "a bunch of cancellations" because of the weather reports.

Mrs. Beth Donahue at the Balboa Courts, 1408 South Church, said both the weather and the oil slick "really did me in," and added, "I don't know why the (news) media has to play it up. The oil slick isn't bothering us any, and there's nothing wrong with the weather."

She said Balboa Courts were almost full, then people started cancelling because of reports on the oil slick and the hurricanes.

"As far as our campers within the last month," said Mrs. Donna Knox, one of the owners of KOA Ancient Oaks Campgrounds on Highway 35, "the oil slick has hurt

Pirates And Panthers Square Off Friday Night

Rockport-Fulton hopes to make Aransas Pass its first victim of the 1979 season Friday night, September 7, as the Pirates play host to the Panthers in the season's opener at Pirate Stadium with game time at 8 p.m.

The Pirates took a 6-0 victory from the Panthers a year ago, and this year's contest could prove to be just as close. The Panthers have a huge running back in Curtis Young, a 200 pounder who can go all the way if not contained.

One of the major weapons the Panthers possess is quarterback Kurt Willoughby. "Aransas Pass likes to throw at any time and likes to give the ball to Young and go wide," pointed out Brian Connolly, head football coach at Rockport-Fulton.

The Pirates are not without their own weapons with runners like Ernest Gonzales and Michael Simmons, plus the arm of quarterback Jim Eaton, who has connected for better than 50 per cent in the preseason.

On defense, both teams may be a mystery. The Pirates are still looking for the right combination of people in the correct places, and the Panthers have shown similar signs. In the two scrimmages, no one has really taken charge as a leader for the Pirate defense.

Eyes Turn To Hurricane Fred

Elena dissipated in rains, David is moving up the Eastern Seaboard--and as Labor Day Weekend drew to a close Monday, area residents were starting to watch Hurricane Frederick.

By 3 p.m. Monday, September 3, Frederick was 190 miles east of San Juan, Puerto Rico, moving west northwest at 12 miles per hour. This meant he could still move into the Gulf of Mexico--and on toward the Texas Coast.

Meanwhile, Hurricane David was on his way up the Eastern Seaboard, and watches were being issued from Jacksonville, Florida, to Georgia and the Carolinas. By Monday morning, David was responsible for more than 640 deaths according to reports.

Highest sustained winds were 90 miles per hour and gusts up to 150 miles per hour were reported.

By contrast, Frederick at 3 p.m. Monday was generating winds of 75 miles per hour. Frederick was reported following David's path.

In event a "hurricane watch" is issued, Rockport Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr. and Aransas County Judge John Wendell will call a meeting to make plans for the anticipated emergency.

A hurricane watch is issued 48 hours before the hurricane is expected to

Hearing Set On City Charter

Citizens of Rockport will have an opportunity to express their views on the proposed new city charter during a public hearing at 7 p.m. Tuesday, September 11.

Members of the charter commission will be in charge of the hearing which will be in the District Courtroom, Aransas County Courthouse.

The hearing will give Rockport residents a chance to discuss the charter which was approved in its entirety by the charter commission at a meeting on August 21.

Based on comments and ideas from citizens at the September 11 hearing, the commission can still make additional changes in the document before it is submitted to the city council for consideration.

The city council will be responsible for calling a charter election, but the charter commission is aiming for a N ovember 6 election date.

In order to make that deadline, the council must call the election no later than September 24. After the election has been called, copies of the proposed charter will be mailed to all qualified voters in the city. Target date for the mailing is October 6.

The charter election will climax events that began more than a year ago, in May, 1978, when the city council received a report showing that, as of J anuary 31, 1978, more than 5,000 residents lived in Rockport.

On January 20, 1979, residents voted 251 to 213 in favor of Rockport becoming a Home Rule city and elected 15 members to a commission that would write the new city charter.

Members of the commission were sworn in on January 29 and began meeting on February 6.

The charter as approved by the commission on August 21 establishes a council/ city manager form of government with a seven-member city council.

The mayor and two of the council members would be elected on an at-large bais, with all residents of the city being able to vote for these positions.

In addition, two council

Friends Are Best Feature

By Pat Blair

Estelle Stair doesn't like to talk about herself--she'd rather talk about the accomplishments of others.

A native of Louisiana, she's been married "all my life--and that's all I'm going to tell you," she said during a recent interview at her art gallery on Austin Street. She added, though, she has one daughter.

"There's really nothing to say about me," she added. "I'm just doing exactly what I want to do. . . Very few people can arrange their lives like that --I couldn't do it now if not for Gertrude."

"Gertrude" is Gertrude Bryant who has been assist-Mrs. Stair in operating her gallery since 1972.

The Stairs--Estelle and her husband, NO.--have been residents of Rockport for about 15 years. "We came for the fishing," she said, and added that her husband "is still fishing."

Before coming to Rockport, the Stairs had a "retail business" in Luling. In 1964, they liquidated the business and moved here--where Mrs. Stair soon became a pupil of artist/ teacher Simon Michael.

In Luling, she said, she and her husband grew and hybridized flowers and "floral art (flower arranging) was very big in my life."

From floral art, painting was just the next step for Estelle, who "started with Mr. Michael. Then Kit (Dingler) took me on, then I went on to study with everybody that came along.

"I still study with everybody," she added, because you never stop learning."

In 1967, Mrs. Stair was among the "handful of people" who organized Rockport's Art Association. She is typically modest about her own contribution to the group: "The success of this thing is due to many, many people," she emphasized.

Today, she estimates, the art association has "at least" 250 members. She is presently serving her second term as president of the organization: "My second term and the last one," she said. "I've always avoided an office."

The gallery at 406 South Austin originally was operated by the Art Association

County Included In Oil Spill Economic Disaster Area

Aransas is one of eight areas in Texas that has been declared an economic disaster area as a result of the Bay of Campeche oil spill, says U.S. Congressman Joe Wyatt.

The declaration was made by the Small Business Administration (SBA) late last week, and means that businesses hurt by the oil spill can apply for loans of up to $100,000 at 7-3/8 per cent interest.

Wyatt also announced that Congressional hearings into the Campeche spill are set for next weekend, Saturday, September 8 and Sunday, September 9, in Corpus Christi.

The hearings, held under the auspices of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, will begin at the Bayfront Plaza Auditorium's rehearsal hall at 10 a.m. Saturday.

Hearings are expected to include a wide range of topics, such as what caused the blowout; the government's response and clean-up effort; the economic impact; environmental impact; legal questions; and the views of federal, state and local officials.

Written testimony will be accepted from the general public at the hearings, and panels of witnesses will be called to testify before the committee.

A field office for economic disaster loan applications has been opened in Harlingen at 222 East Van Buren Street, phone number 923-8934, and offices are expected to be open soon at South Padre Island and Port Aransas.

Closing date for loan applications is June 2, 1980.

Other areas included in the economic disaster area include the lower Rio Grande Valley, Cameron County, Kennedy County, Kleburg County, Nueces County, San Patricio County and Willacy County.

A LOT OF WILLING HELPERS

A small crowd of friends and well-wishers were on hand Saturday, September 1, at Hidden Treasures in Kingsbury Square to watch owner Connie Garcia cut the ribbon officially opening the store in its new location. Joining Mrs. Garcia are, left to right, Jane Goodrich, Ed Armstrong, Elogia Rangel and Angel Rangel, Jerry Beatty, and Raulie Irwin. Mrs. Rangel is owner of Children's Castle, which presently occupies space in the rear of Hidden Treasures but will move to another building in Kingsbury Square. The Garcias bought the Kingsbury Square property and began planning the shopping center on Highway 35 North about a year and a half ago. Emphasis in Hidden Treasures is a relaxed atmosphere, and the shop features a central area with lounge furniture and a fountain, antique decor and four large dressing rooms. Future plans include addition of a line of shoes when Children's Castle moves into separate quarters. "It's different--there's nothing like it anywhere," Mrs. Garcia says of her shop. Rockport-Fulton Area Brings In 1 Million Pounds Of Shrimp

More than one million pounds of shrimp were landed in the Rockport-Fulton-Aransas Pass area in July, 1979--the second-highest catch for any area along the Texas coast.

The July figure brought total landings from January through July, 1979, to 5,114,700 pounds--an increase over last year's 4,742,000 for the same period.

Only the Brownsville-Port Isabel area reported a larger landing for July--a little over two million pounds.

Other areas of the state reported landings well under the million mark. These included: Freeport, 762,400 pounds; Galveston Bay ports, 516,100 pounds; Matagorda-San Antonio-Lavaca Bay ports, 502,900; Port Mansfield, 187,200; and Port Arthur-Sabine, 169,400.

Catches in early July were predominately pink shrimp, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce, National Marine Fisheries Service, which publishes the reports.

Only fair catches of brown shrimp were reported statewide, but sporadic good catches (600 to 800 pounds per night) were reported from the Coastal Bend southward.

White shrimp catches were poor and restricted to major pass areas, according to the report, and the damage to the white shrimp crop from heavy floods in Coastal counties in late July has not yet been determined.

County Agent Dan Pawlik Retires

SINTON—Daniel P. "Dan" Pawlik, county Extension agent for San Patricio and Aransas Counties the last 25 years, announced his retirement effective Friday, August 31.

Prior to coming here September 1, 1954, he had held only one other Texas Agricultural Extension Service position--assistant agent in Cameron County three year.

Pawlik, 55, was born near Groom in Carson County and was raised on a wheat and stock ranch in that area until his father moved to Hidalgo County in 1938.

After a year at Edinburg High School, Pawlik returned to the High Plains and was a member of the "first World War II" graduating class at Price Memorial High School, Amarillo, in 1942. He entered the Navy in 1944.

Immediately after the war he attended Edinburg Junior College (now Pan American) for a year then transferred to Texas A&M where he earned a bachelor's in agriculture in 1951.

Pawlik is probably best known for the prodigious number and variety of result demonstrations he's put out--some 394 since 1956.

Largely as a result of his work begun in 1957 fertilizer tonnage in the county increased 20 times by 1968, from 1,761 tons to over 39,000 tons. Grain yields were up 1,100 pounds per acre in this period and cotton production increased 120 pounds lint.

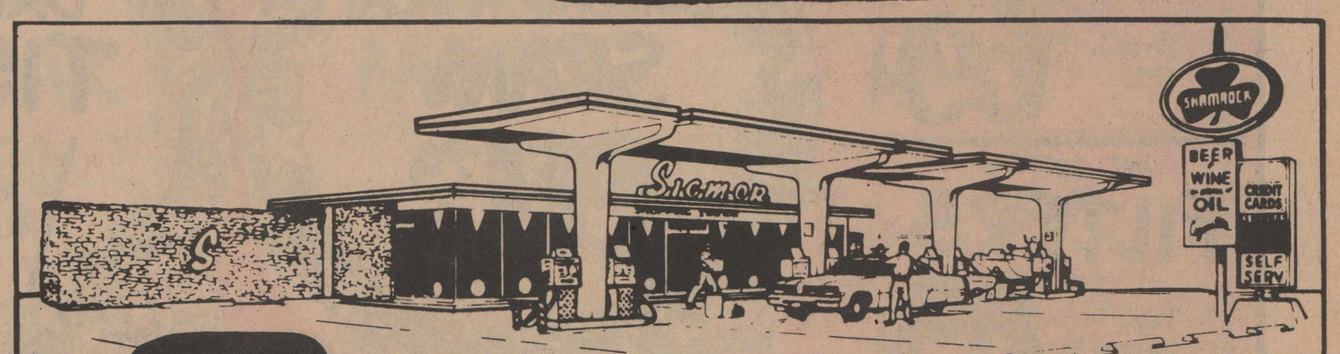

Pawlik's counties have always had strong 4-H programs. From very few clubs and none at all for boys when he arrived, San Patricio and Aransas Counties now have 11 clubs, 526 members and about 100 adult leaders in the program.

He was awarded the Distinguished Service Award by the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association in 1962 and the Extension Service Superior Service Award in 1971.

The Texas Plant Food Education Society and the Texas Plant Food Institute have both recognized his outstanding soil fertility programs.

The Pawliks will continue to reside near the St. Paul Community.

Pirates Run From Bloomington

BY BOB CRAWFORD

Rockport-Fulton unloaded some big gainers on the Bloomington Bobcats last Friday night, August 31, in Rockport in the final scrimmage of the preseason before opening the regular season slate with Aransas Pass this week.

Combine some solid blocking by an experienced line and some breakaway running by sophomore backs Ernest Gonzales and Michael Simmons, and you have the ingredients for an explosive mixture, and that's exactly what the Pirates did to the Bobcats--exploded on them.

The Pirates compiled more than 450 total yards on offense, but much of it was wiped out by penalties. Gonzales had 134 yards in 21 carries, plus more than 100 yards called back. Simmons netted 103 yards in 10 attempts.

Bloomington took the opening series all the way for the first score of the scrimmage. The drive covered 70 yards in 13 plays, a two-yard run climaxing the drive.

On the Pirates' second possession, the Pirates moved the ball to near midfield where Gonzales broke away for what appeared to be a 46-yard touchdown, but running mate Simmons was detected for a violation, and the play was called back.

After the penalty walk-off, Simmons took full opportunity to make up for the previous play as he bolted 51 yards for the score.

On the next Bloomington series, the Bobcat punter took a high snap, and before he could punt, the Pirates' Ronald Allen pinned the Bobcat on the 20-yard line. Just three plays were needed for the Pirates to capitalize. Gonzales went over from nine yards out.

A Rockport fumble gave the Cats the ball at the Pirate 24-yard line. The Cats moved the ball to the Pirate 13 before the Pirate defense refused to let the Cats in.

Near the end of the second quarter, the Pirates covered 70 yards in 11 plays with Gonzales going 41 yard for the TD.

Again, as they had done on the opening series of the game, the Bobcats took the first possession of the second half and marched the ball 70 yards for the score.

Rockport-Fulton repaid the Bobcats, going 70 yards themselves, with Gonzales scooting in from 15 yards.

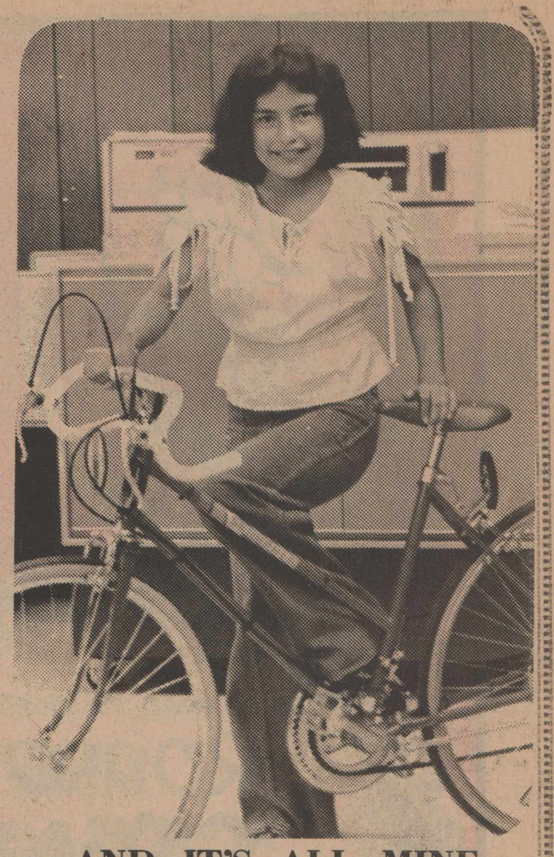

After that last touchdown, the game broke wide open. Esequiel Hernandez recovered a fumble near midfield to give the Pirates possession.

On the very next play, quarterback Jim Eaton measured things perfectly and delivered a perfect pass to Hernandez who had stayed in on offense. The play covered 51 yards, but it was wiped out by a penalty.

Just a few plays later on the same drive, Gonzales blasted 65 yards for a score, but it, too, was flagged away by a penalty. Bloomington followed suit by having a fourth period TD also called back.

All in all, the Pirates were nailed for 125 yards in penalties, as opposed to 35 yards for the Bobcats. Coach Brian Connolly added in this comment to his players, "We are not yet a good enough football team to give up the amount of yardage on penalties and have three scores called back. I don't know of any team that good."

In the Junior Varsity portion of the scrimmage, tailback Scott McMillan ran in from 21 yards away to net the only score of the JV scrimmage.

Seafair Planners Announce Agenda For 1979 Event

October 6 and 7, this year's ROCKPORT SEAFAIR dates are rapidly approaching. Thanks to many local, and some not so local folks, that have been working since February, this year's event promises to offer more than ever before.

The seafood booths will be dishing out some superb fixins right out of Aransas Bay. More and finer arts and crafts will be displayed during this fifth consecutive Rockport Seafair.

The live bands and entertainment will be varied, in order to please almost everyone except the most devout Bach and other classical fans. On the grounds, you will see clowns entertaining the youngsters, also body painting and special rides on fire trucks and even Santa's Rocket Ships will be there to hold the interest of young and old alike.

There will be harbor boat rides, at a modest fee, and demonstrations by shrimp boats to show how they capture the delicious morsels from Aransas Bay that grace the tables of connoisseurs all over the nation. A boat parade and sailing regatta will be held and several beautiful trophies will be awarded to the skippers and skipperettes of this hard working flotilla.

The World Famous Crab Races will be held on the shores of Little Bay with trophies awarded to the fastest and most beautiful Blue Crabs.

The All Texas Air Tour will arrive Sunday, October 7 about noon, and will perform an impressive "Fly By" pattern consisting of approximately 50 private aircraft of different sizes and models that can be viewed from the Seafair grounds.

The land Parade kicks off this year's festival weekend beginning at 11 Saturday, October 6 and promises to be an innovative event that no one will want to miss.

And "Whoooee-Mon" you will savor the aroma of some of the finest roux prepared this side of the Withlacoochee River as gumbo chefs square off to compete both days in the "ROCKPORT SEAFAIR WORLD'S CHAMPIONSHIP GUMBO COOK OFF", headed up this year by Ed Setterbo, Champion gumbo chef of Rockport Seafair 1978.

This year's list of gumbo chef's is THE WHO'S WHO IN THE WORLD of roux, seafood, file, okra and secret ingredients. Competing this year, to mention only a few, are Pat and Watt Ford from Orange County, a new entry that claims fame in the culinary art of gumbo and states that their team of 8 members can brown a roux in 11 minutes and cook rice in their pockets! The champion of the National Gumbo Cookoff held in Galveston is bringing in his famous team to compete with High Rollers in the game such as Hey Bear LaRoux, Brown Bag Bob, Shade Tree Sally, Little Bay Bessie and Austin's own Red Head's Revenge Team.

All in all a lot of good times and some severe competition will take place in an event that will award $1,000.00 in trophies.

The winning gumbo of each day will be auctioned off with the proceeds going to the Volunteer Fire Departments of Aransas County.

All this and much more is in store for our visitors to Rockport, Fulton and Lamar -- Hubs of the Universe.

Anyone wishing to enter any of the above events are urged to contact Rockport Seafair office, 729-3312; Ed Setterbo, 729-6827; Jack Rast, 729-2689; or Ken Faulkner, 729-6981.

Frosh, JV Open Season

Opening the season Thursday, September 6, in Aransas Pass will be the Rockport-Fulton Freshmen and Junior Varsity teams.

The Freshmen will get underway at 5:30 p.m., and the JV game will follow after the Freshmen contest.

Plan Ahead To Make A Picnic A Big Success

Although scientists can give logical technical explanations for it, they still can't control it-and no one knows whether the weather we see tomorrow will be hot or cold, wet or dry, sunny or overcast.

Thus when the perfect day dawns for a picnic it is best to be prepared, ready to take off for the great outdoors with minimal fuss and maximum speed. You can do it, of course-and here's how.

Eggs are generally on hand. They can be hard-cooked and packed as-is (don't forget the salt). Or quartered to top a green summer salad. Or devilishly deviled by mashing the yolks with mayo and mustard, and adding curry powder to taste.

Likewise, fried chicken is always to be found, waiting for just such an emergency.

A can of cream of celery soup, tucked into the fridge with foresight, can combine with ¼ cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, 1 teaspoon lemon juice and 6 chopped anchovies-a quick green goddess dressing. (If you are apathetic towards anchovies, leave them out; the dressing won't be authentic, but it will be good!)

Pack crisp, torn salad greens in a separate container, ready to be tossed with the dressing at serving time.

A major help is having you picnic cooler or basket prepared. Keep it well stocked with paper plates and napkins, plastic utensils and glasses, insect repellent and a can opener. Toss a picnic blanket into the car trunk, along with bat and ball or badminton set or the gear for your favorite outdoor activities.

Sheriff's Report

Deputies of the Aransas County Sheriff's Department had a busy Labor Day Weekend, what with a fugitive gas buyer and a variety of thefts.

Officers were dispatched to Joe Meyer's Exxon station September 3, in reference to a vehicle that had left the station without paying for $19 worth of gasoline. The driver of the car was later contacted near Lillians Dance Land.

Joseph Conlin reported a theft totalling $246 in lamps and fans on September 3, from his residence. The stolen articles included two outside lamps, a ceiling fan, and 15-20 plants.

George Pullen was arrested for public intoxication and disorderly conduct September 2, while at the Marion Packing Company.

Antonio Carlos Amorin reported an auto theft August 31, when he left the Tiki Kai and saw a subject driving his car away from the parking lot. The car is a 1979 blue Plymouth Volare, and has three cases of assorted jewelry in the trunk which are valued at $70,000.

Dan Clark reported a missing diamond ring on August 31, lost somewhere between Portland and Rockport. Clark said he had the ring, which was valued at $4,800, in his pocket.

MONDAY AFTERNOON RESCUE

Paramedics and State Highway Troopers labored approximately two hours clearing the wreckage of a two-car collision north of the Copano Causeway bridge on Monday afternoon. A southbound car driven by Alice Bunton, 33, of Corpus Christi, was in the wrong lane when it collided with a northbound car driven by Stuart Letullebosel, 59, of Schulenburg. The accident occurred at 3:12 p.m. Monday. Letullebosel and his wife, Elizabeth, 58, both received minor injuries. Mrs. Bunton was transported to Enterprise Medical Center for stabilization, but died as a result of her injuries.

Police Report

A Rockport man was charged with driving while intoxicated (felony), and police investigated a burglary and two traffic mishaps in a busy Labor Day weekend.

Gerald Wesley Sanders, 32, of 309 Oak Street, Rockport, was placed under $500 bond on the DWI charge following his arrest by police about 1:50 a.m. Friday, August 31.

Police first observed Sanders' car near Whataburger on Highway 35, traveling south "well in excess of 80 miles per hour" according to the report. The man was arrested on Highway 35 South near Security Real Estate.

Michael Wells of 1103 South Paisano, Rockport, called police Saturday evening to report theft of four rods and reels from a shelf in the garage at his residence. The burglary occurred sometime between Thursday afternoon, August 30, and Saturday, police said.

Value of the missing items was reported at $286.

A San Antonio man, St. Elmo Milton Carpenter, 66, was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way at an intersection Saturday afternoon, September 1, after the car he was driving struck a car driven by Margarita Zamudio, 19, of Rockport.

The accident occurred about 2:42 p.m. at the intersection of Market and Austin Street.

Saturday evening, Kenneth Carl Polston Jr., 19, of 108 East Sabinal, Rockport, was driving south on Broadway when his car hit a puddle of water. Polston lost control of the vehicle which then struck a car driven by Ellen M. Murph, 16, of Rockport.

No injuries were reported in the accident that occurred about 8:11 p.m. on Broadway Street just south of Royal, and no ticket were issued. Police blamed water on the road for the mishap.

ACCIDENT VICTIM RECEIVES TREATMENT

A three car and boat mishap at the intersection of North Highway 35 and FM 774 attracted members of the Aransas County volunteers and DPS officers to the scene late Friday night. One of the car failed to yield the right-of-way at the remote crossing between Rockport and Tivoli. Involved were Leonard Lasky of Corpus Christi, James Scianterelli of Corpus Christi and Gonzalo Santibanez of Houston. [Pilot Photo by Kevin Carter] make landfall. Approximately 24 hours before the expected landfall, a hurricane warning is issued.

In addition to Falk and Wendell, those attending a hurricane watch meeting include representatives of the police department, sheriff's office, the Emergency Medical Service and the Red Cross.

In event of a hurricane watch, residents of an area should start checking their supplies, according to Russ Miget, a Marine Advisory Agent from Texas A&M University stationed in Corpus Christi.

Supplies that should be on hand include a transistor radio with fresh batteries--in case electricity is cut off--plenty of flashlights, candles and matches and lamps. Supplies should also include a good supply of canned goods and nonperishable foods, and several containers of water.

Windows and doors should be protected by shutters, and masking tape should be placed on smaller windows to prevent injuries from flying glass.

for its members, then the Association "suddenly discovered it didn't need a gallery," Mrs. Stair said, "because everybody connected had their own studio.

The association directors voted to disband the gallery, and Mrs. Stair took over operation of it. Some 20 to 25 artists are presently exhibiting their works in the gallery.

The number and names of exhibitors fluctuates, she added: "Some drop out and I pick up others."

On Friday afternoons, people interested in picking up painting tips are welcome to drop by the gallery and do a painting with Mrs. Stair.

"It's like a preschool show-and-tell," she said. "It's techniques I've worked out over the years and I show them on Friday."

Those who attend this "show-and-tell" provide their own materials. Mrs. Stair said the informal event started from people asking her, "How do you do this?" or "Show me how you do that," and is a result, she added, "of having a wide open studio."

In addition to her paintings--all oils--and the business of running a gallery, Mrs. Stair finds time to help out with the art shows and SeaFairs. . . provided some of the miniature paintings that decorate the walls of the doll house the Art Association is giving away later this year. . .

Asked what she does in her spare time, Mrs. Stair replied, "paint and sleep" and--with a laugh, "drink beer." In response to a comment by Mrs. Bryant that she's also a gourmet cook, Mrs. Stair answered, "I do cook, but I don't think I'm a gourmet."

"The best thing about me," she added, "are all my friends.

"I guess my friends are my best feature."

members would be elected from each of Rockport's two wards, voted on only by the residents of the wards they will represent.

Members of the council--including the mayor--will serve without compensation under the proposed charter, but would be reimbursed for actual expenses.

The mayor may vote only in case of a tie and does not have veto powers.

Other provisions of the charter give voters of the city the powers of initiative, referendum and recall; providing for a planning commission responsible for preparing and periodically updating a master plan for the city's development; and give the city council the right to regulate public utilities and services in the city.

Copley News Service

Q. I will be buying a couple of apartment houses in the near future. Will I have to report the rent I collect from tenants for Social Security purposes? — A.W.

A. Income from renting rooms or apartments does not count for Social Security unless personal services are rendered primarily for the convenience of the occupant.

Services of the type which are normally provided by landlords in maintaining, protecting or improving the premises do not count toward covering the rental income under Social Security.

Services consisting of room service, making beds, furnishing linen and towels, preparing and serving meals, etc., which are primarily for the convenience of the occupant would result in the rental income being covered by Social Security.

Q. I quit working in June at age 65. My husband died last year. My total monthly benefit is $390.50 and in one of your columns you said the benefit for a 65-year-old was $486.10.

Do some states pay higher than other states? — R.L.

A. Social Security benefits are the same in all states.

Benefits depend on the amount earned by individuals during their working years. At age 65 benefit amounts range from $122 to well over $500 per month.

Q. My husband and I each collect Social Security benefits on our own individual work records. If my husband died before me, am I entitled to 80 percent of his Social Security benefit, in addition to my own benefit? If I die before him, will he also be entitled to 80 percent of mine? — A.K.

A. When a person is entitled to two benefits, only the higher benefit is payable.

If either of you should die, the survivor would continue to receive the benefit based on his (her) record, plus the difference between that benefit and the survivor amount.

Backyard Gardener

Homegrown horseradish

Roast beef isn't roast beef without a touch of horseradish on the side of the plate. But while the prepared stuff we buy in the supermarkets isn't all bad eating, you haven't really lived until you have tasted the creamy white condiment freshly grated from your own homegrown roots.

And at today's prices, a standing rib roast deserves the best accompaniment you can give it.

Because it will grow anywhere — even in the lawn if it gets the chance — horseradish usually gets the short end of the stick in our gardening operations. In fact, judging by my mail, most gardeners are more concerned with how to get rid of it rather than how to grow it.

This is a mistake, for when it is left to go its own way, it develops rapidly into a weedy mat, invading other parts of the garden, and producing twisted, distorted roots which are stringy in texture and bitter in flavor.

Properly cared for, horseradish will grow stout, straight roots which are easy to grate or put through the grinder, and its flavor is sweet and palatable, in spite of its pungent heat.

Annual overhauling should be the rule with horseradish, for in this way it doesn't escape to become a nuisance in other parts of the garden.

And since the roots are completely winter-hardy, late summer or early fall is a very good time to get the job done, so the plants have time to get themselves nicely established and settled down before bad weather arrives.

Taken up while the soil is a bit on the dry side and nicely workable, the roots come up clean and whole — important, because if you leave even as much as one tiny bit of root unlifted, it will go on sprouting in all directions.

Once the plants are out of the ground, they can be divided into pieces with single crowns. Select the vigorous, youngish portions, discarding the old, tough veterans.

If more than one "eye" or growth bud can be seen in the top of a piece to be replanted, dig out the excess buds with the point of a pocketknife to encourage the production of thick, straight sticks.

Remember, too, that you can't produce palatable, well-flavored roots from poor soil, so while the roots are out of the ground, you'd better get in a few licks on the bed so fertility will be maintained.

One bucketful of mellow old rotted manure plus half a cupful of chemical fertilizer per square yard will work wonders, but it must be mixed intimately with the soil all the way down to the full depth of your spade. On no account may fresh manure be used, as this produces forked and distorted roots — it must be so well rotted that it looks almost like earth.

With the soil so enriched, the bed should be trodden, for horseradish detests loose soil. After raking, the roots may be planted — right end up — vertically in the soil, spaced 12 inches apart each way, and with two inches of soil over the top of the root.

If most of the roots dug up are needed for grating or grinding, the pieces selected for replanting can be made to go further by splitting them lengthwise before setting them in the soil. Better mark the strips in some way so you won't go planting them upside down.

Q. Would you give us some advice on two matters? First, we have some very nice brass lamps which we have been polishing for many years. They are beautiful for a day after being polished, then they tarnish quickly.

Is there some product we can use to coat the lamp bases after polishing, so that they would retain their shine? Or can we take the lamps someplace to have this done?

A. After cleaning the brass, go over the surface with naptha to remove any polish or finger marks that may remain. Then spray with clear lacquer. This will protect the brass from corrosion. Another method is to wax the surface after cleaning.

Q. We need some advice on a shower head. It is the type you can change the flow from the tub faucet to the shower head with a knob. It worked fine when it was new. Now, however, half the water flows into the tub and the other half from the shower head when the knob is fully turned to its limit.

What needs to be done to allow all the water to come out of the shower head and none through the tub faucet?

A. It may be caused by buildup of scale in the shower head. Remove the shower head and clean in a solution of water and white vinegar. If the shower head is defective, it will need replacing.

I also highly recommend inspection of the hot water line by a competent plumber.

Hanako Ozawa is a tiny but energetic woman, who, although she has adopted Western dress since coming from Japan to Honolulu 48 years ago, still clings to the language and the customs of her youth in Nirasaki.

Her son, Walter, told her about a potluck party for a visitor, and early in the evening, Hanako arrived with cloth-wrapped dishes of ingredients and went to work, quietly and efficiently.

By the time the table was set with Hawaiian, Filipino and Japanese specialties. Hanako had prepared a platter of tempura, Japan's most popular fried food and nine rolls of sushi.

I had thought, on a trip to Japan 12 years ago, that I would never again have the opportunity to have perfectly prepared tempura, a Japanese specialty for 300 years. But Hanako had been taught well in her native Japan. Her tempura was superb.

There are a few secrets in making tempura, batter-dipped and deep-fat fried morsels of fish, shrimp, asparagus, sweet potato, lotus root, eggplant, bell pepper, pearl onions, bamboo shoots, even parsley.

One secret: Use good quality oil. This may be a blend of soybean and sunflower oils. Other blends are 70 percent peanut oil and 30 percent sesame seed oil, 85 percent cottonseed oil, 10 percent olive oil, 5 percent sesame seed oil, or 75 percent peanut oil, 20 percent sesame seed oil and 5 percent olive oil.

More secrets: Use fresh ingredients. Use correct oil temperatures: 300 to 365 degrees for vegetables, 350 to 375 degrees for seafoods, beef, etc. Use ice-cold water in the batter, and keep the batter chilled. Coat food thinly with the batter which should not be overmixed, but left a little lumpy. Prepare small amounts of batter at a time, cook a small quantity at a time, and serve immediately, piping hot.

Dip seafood and vegetables into batter, and deep fry until delicate brown. Drain and serve hot with Tempura Sauce.

TEMPURA SAUCE

2 cups water
1 piece (3 inches) dashi kombu (dried seaweed, kelp)
½ cup katsuobushi (dried fish flakes)
2 tsps. shoyu (soy sauce)
½ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. monosodium glutamate (see note)
½ tsp. sugar
½ cup grated turnip
1 tbsp. minced green onion

Add seaweed to boiling water and cook 10 minutes. Add fish flakes and boil three minutes. Strain. Add seasonings and bring to a boil. Cool. Just before serving, add turnip and green onions. Serves four.

Note: I do not recommend the use of monosodium glutamate, a flavor enhancer, because many people have mild reactions to it (numbness of the lips and nose) and a few people have severe reactions (choking, difficulty in swallowing). However, the Japanese do use it, and these are Japanese recipes as prepared in Honolulu.

This is a version of tempura which is very popular at cocktail parties:

CURRIED CHICKEN TEMPURA

2 lbs. chicken wings
Tempura batter
1 tsp. salt
2 tsps. curry powder
1 ½ tsps. sugar

Cut tips and center sections off chicken wings and use only the drumettes. Save tips and center sections for broth. Start at the small end of each wing piece and cut meat from bone down to the end with a sharp knife, leaving meat attached to bone at large end.

Add salt, curry powder and sugar to tempura batter. Keep tempura batter chilled in a bowl of ice. Hold chicken by bone and dip into chilled batter. Deep fry until golden brown, and serve with soy sauce or Tempura sauce. Serves four to six.
