Coolidge Asks To Be "Eliminated" In 1928 Race Willis Of Ohio Tosses Hat Into Presidential Ring

Is Second to Go Into Race, Curtis Being the First

Others Expected to Tell of Candidacy in Near Future; Willis in Light of "Favorite Son."

CITIES RENEW BIDS FOR 1928 MEETING

Butler Expresses Favor to Kansas City But Fight for Other Places Is Made with High Interest.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—Senator Willis of Ohio tossed his hat into the presidential ring tonight immediately after President Coolidge had Republican National committee members had "eliminated" himself from the 1928 presidential situation.

Numerous friends in Ohio and some in other states have been good enough to mention my name in connection with the Republican nomination for the presidency. Senator Willis said in a formal statement.

"If the Republicans of Ohio feel that I can creditably represent them as their candidate in the forthcoming national convention, I shall feel it a great honor to do so."

This puts two avowed candidates in the field, both members of the Senate, the other being Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican floor leader, who announced his candidacy some weeks ago after he had become convinced President Coolidge was definitely out of the running and in response to urgent requests from friends in his own and other states.

CITIES FIGHTING FOR 1928 G. O. P. MEETING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 (AP)—After being assured that President Coolidge had no intention of running in 1928, cities representing the next Republican convention fought hard today to retain the support of National committee members they had received before Chairman Butler announced that he favored Kansas City.

The committee which will make a selection tomorrow after hard arguments of the contesting group at lengthy sessions today.

Chairman Butler held out for Kansas City, despite a White House statement that President Coolidge had no choice and believed Butler actually was neutral.

FUGITIVE SURRENDERS

Man gives Up at Plainview for Theft 25 Years Ago

PLAINVIEW, Dec. 6 (AP)—Conscience smitten after successfully "riding the law" for 25 years, Bert Creed, escaped convict, today surrendered to Hale county officers.

Known for more than fifteen years as T. J. Murphy, Creed had been drifting from place to place, never content to remain long in any town for fear of arrest, he said.

In 1902 Creed stole a horse in Vernon, Texas. He was arrested and sentenced to four years in the penitentiary. A few months later he escaped. Creed says that tonight he will be able to sleep peacefully, knowing that his conscience is clear.

Sinclair Motion Denied, Now Must Prove 'Innocence'

Judge Declares Whole Nation is Concerned With Jury "Shadowing" and Orders Trial to Proceed.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Harry F. Sinclair, wealthy oil operator and his associates on trial before Justice Frederick Siddons, on criminal contempt charges, must show by testimony that they are not guilty, if they wish to escape punishment.

Justice Siddons late today overruled without prejudice, the motions made by Sinclair, his associates, Henry Mason Day, and Sheldon Clark, and by William J. Burns, his son, Sherman, and C. L. Veitch, of the Burns detective agency, to discontinue the charges.

Judge is "Concerned."

The justice, in whose court the Paul Sinclair oil conspiracy charge ended in a mistrial out of which grew the contempt proceedings, declared he was concerned and believed the entire country was concerned with whether a jury in a United States court could be shadowed by detectives.

The court at one point interrupted District Attorney Gordon to inquire whether he believed any defendant in a criminal case had the right to provide intensive surveillance of a jury where there was no suspicion that the jurors would act improperly.

He stressed this point frequently during the arguments for dismissal advanced by counsel for the respondents. Sinclair, Burns and their associates were charged by the government with using Burns' detectives.

Reprimanded, Boy Murders Mother

Enraged Because of Scolding, Lad Starts Shooting; Father Badly Hurt and Another Wounded.

SAINT CLAIRSVILLE, O., Dec. 6.—Reprimanded this morning because he would not go to school, Andy Dyken, 12, tonight shot and killed his mother, Mrs. Mary Dyken, 32, probably fatally wounded his father, Nels Dyken, 35, and slightly wounded John Morris, 20, family hand.

The shooting occurred at the Dyken home about three miles from here. A posse headed by deputy sheriffs scoured the hill sides around the Dyken farm tonight for the youth who escaped after the shooting.

Andy went hunting this afternoon and returned home after dark. He called his mother to the door and when she appeared, shot her in the side. The father and farm hand heard the shot and rushed in from a field where they had been working. Andy trained his shot gun on them. The father tried to crawl away but his son again shot him.

Oklahoma Solons Gather, Proceed In Investigation

Governor Refuses to Recognize Session but Senate and House Continue With Impeachment Plan.

MUCH ENTHUSIASM IS SHOWN BY LEGISLATORS

Defy Supreme Court Ruling Declaring Session Has No Force; Committee Calls On Executive.

(By Associated Press) OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 6.—Rebuffed by Governor Henry S. Johnston, minorities of the House of Representatives of the Oklahoma legislature met here today in a session that has been declared impotent and void by the state supreme court and proceeded with arrangements to investigate state departments including the governor's office.

The house meeting adjourned for the day in an uproar, precipitated by thunderous applause from the galleries following the reading of the governor's statement refusing to recognize the session.

By a vote of 22 to 3 the senate late today held itself to be a legal court of impeachment, in contradiction to the supreme court's ruling that its session was of no force or effect. The affirmative vote is a majority of the elected membership of the senate—43.

A committee of six men appointed last upon the governor during the noon hour and informed him the legislature was in session, was told he was at lunch. Dividing, a part of the committee went to the capital cafeteria in search of the "executive," but was unable to find him.

C. C. Secretaries From Over Plains Attend Meet Here

Community Publicity One of Topics Discussed During Afternoon; Leopold and Wade Make Addresses.

Means of securing community publicity, inter-relationship of South Plains communities for development of the region as a whole, and means for civic work were topics covered at the afternoon session of the South Plains Commercial Association, which held its first annual meeting here yesterday.

Speakers during the afternoon included Maury Hopkins, secretary of the Mainview Chamber of Commerce, who discussed community publicity; Homer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, who took up the subject of inter-relationship of towns through the South Plains; and Joseph P. Leopold, manager of the Southern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, who gave an expert's analysis of the ways to mobilize the citizenship for community work.

Mr. Maury's remarks covered not only the recognized publicity medium of the press, but also the many other avenues through which the community can be reached.

BATTLE IN NICARAGUA

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 6 (AP)—American aviators, operating with a joint patrol of United States Marines and national guardsmen, killed thirty-seven rebels in an encounter near El Chipote about a week ago, instead of four as originally reported. Colonel Mason Guelch, commander of the Marine corps, has just received dispatches containing that information.

Senate Fight Has Demo Setting For Opening Skirmish

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A democratic setting was supplied today for the opening of the senate battle over the seating of Frank I. Smith, of Illinois, and William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, but the drama itself was lacking.

Money Hinted As Motive of Remus

Prosecution Pictures Him as Tax Evader-Killer, Not As Demented Love Slayer, in Court Tuesday.

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, Dec. 6.—George Remus, a wife slayer to prevent revelation of hidden assets the federal government might claim to meet more than $14,000,000 in tax claims, rather than as a demented love-killer, was the picture prosecution sought to sketch in his murder trial today.

George Connor, "one lieutenant-in-chief" of the former "king of bootleggers" was under going his third day of cross-examination when the state reached the high point of its case.

"Mrs. Remus, before she was going into the divorce court, had been in communication with the internal revenue commissioner giving information as to the holdings of you with Remus and Blanch Watson, had she not?" asked Walter K. Sibbald, assistant prosecutor.

Connor affirmed he knew Mrs. Remus had been in communication with the prisoner, but asserted with heat "Remus hasn't got a dollar" and that neither he nor Miss Watson had secreted Remus' assets.

"You knew Remus did want to get possession of papers Mrs. Remus had because he did not want her to reveal his property holdings for the government's knowledge for taxation, didn't you?" pursued Sibbald.

Lilliendahl Trial Due to End Today

Both State and Defense Rest With Tuesday Testimony; Seek to Show Resemblance of Others to Pair.

(By Associated Press) MAYS LANDING, N. J., Dec. 6.—Both the state and defense in the Lilliendahl case announced they had rested just before the trial began today and court adjourned to prepare for the end of the trial tomorrow.

Early in the trial A. J. Rider, aged "cranberry king" was produced as the double of Willis Beach, the defendant accused of the actual shooting of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl.

Today a woman was put on the stand to testify that Alice Longley is nurse, was the "singer" of Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, widow of the doctor, who is charged with plotting his death with Beach.

The witness was produced in an attempt to prove that a state witness who testified to seeing a man resembling Beach near the scene of the crime had, in fact, seen the cranberry man. The nurse's case and appearance were brought into the proceedings to indicate that another state witness might very well have seen her at a place he said he saw Mrs. Lilliendahl on the day of the killing.

The state witness testified that he saw Mrs. Lilliendahl five miles from her home at the time that she had said she was at home preparing breakfast for her little son.

After long argument the testimony of the woman put on to tell of the nurse's resemblance to Mrs. Lilliendahl was stricken out. The defense explained that the nurse herself could not be called to tell the jurors judge for themselves of the resemblance because she was on a case of contagious disease.

Coolidge Places Stress On Better Guard, Economy

Senate Phlegmatic After Reading; House Applauds Two of Provisions Contained in Message.

TOUCHES ON MEASURES TO FACE NEW CONGRESS

Advocates a Federal Farm Board; Suggests Policy of Flood Control Along Mississippi River.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Firmly reiterating the administration's policy of economy, but suggesting a moderate expansion of the national defense, the annual message of President Coolidge was received today by the new congress. Transmitted to Capitol Hill by special messenger, it was read simultaneously in both houses and then ordered printed as a public document.

In the house there was applause as William Tyler Page, clerk, read the concluding words, asserting "that America by doing good, in walking humbly, in sustaining its own good people," would work out its own mighty destiny. In the senate these phrases brought only silence.

There was applause at but one other time and that also in the house when the sentence that urged the American people as it did the public officials to believe the "sanction" of the prohibition amendment was dead.

Touches Many Issues.

The message, one of the longest Mr. Coolidge has ever written, touched upon practically all the issues that face the new congress. It set forth clearly that the president

Senate Fight Has Demo Setting For Opening Skirmish

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—A democratic setting was supplied today for the opening of the senate battle over the seating of Frank I. Smith, of Illinois, and William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, but the drama itself was lacking.

Two set speeches and a bit of running cross-fire made up the first skirmish in the engagement that is to occupy the attention of the senate for days and perhaps weeks.

Norris, of Nebraska, fired the first salvo immediately after the Senate had listened to the reading of President Coolidge's annual message.

Deneen, of Illinois, opened up the case for Senator Kleet Smith by also reading an address, much of which contained a purely legal argument and presented the demands of Illinois that it be given the equal representation in the Senate to which the constitution guarantees it.

The verbal warfare will be renewed tomorrow with two of the Senate's foremost debaters—Reed, was prepared to back up the position.

FALLING TREE KILLS

ROGERS TRIAL SLOW

Exacting Examination Exhausts Veniremen

LA GRANGE, Tex., Dec. 6 (AP)—Exacting examination of prospective jurors to try Rebecca Bradley-Rogers, young former College girls, on a charge of looting a Buda, Texas bank with a pistol, exhausted the venire of 75 men late today and a recess was taken until Wednesday when 25 more men are summoned.

Two jurors were added to the three accepted Monday. Today's questioning of veniremen, which was some times mirth provoking, was resolved mainly into efforts by the defense to determine the willingness of veniremen to acquit "if a preponderance of the evidence" shows a defendant to be insane.

Lubbock In Period Of Prosperity Say Business Leaders

Big Crops, High Markets and Sane Principles of Local Concerns Contribute To General Condition.

Lubbock this Christmas season is enjoying one of the best trade periods that it has ever had, according to a consensus of opinion expressed by a number of Lubbock business men yesterday.

Extremely favorable crop conditions in this region, coupled with the accompanying good price for farm products, and aided by the fact that banks and business houses have operated on a careful basis during the past two adverse years, have combined to create an exceptionally prosperous season, the business men say.

Spencer Wels, general manager of the Hemphill-Price company, declares that this season's business is far above expectations, and is also one of the best seasons that the Hemphill-Price store here has ever had. He stated further that only one of the fifteen Hemphill-Price stores in West Texas and Oklahoma has done no greater proportionate volume of business than the store here.

Farmers Paying Debts

W. W. Rix, treasurer of the Rix Furniture and Undertaking company, points out that the encouraging features of this season's business is the fact that farmers are being enabled to pay up old debts. Christmas buying is fairly well started now, but he has not yet reached expected volume.

Paul Sherrod, of Sherrod Bros. hardware company, declared that he is optimistic over the present volume of business and also over the prospect for a good business year.

Train Looted and Women Kidnaped

Bandits Sack Mexican Town Then Attack Circus Train and Carry Away Number of Young Actresses.

NOGALES, Ariz., Dec. 6.—Unconfirmed reports to the Nogales Herald today say that bandits in Salomon, after sacking the town of Lagunetas, looted a circus train, carrying off a number of young actresses, many of whom were foreigners.

The bandits, numbering approximately 100, were reported first to have attacked the small northern Salomon town. When the station agent resisted their attempts to obtain the company's funds, he was severely beaten.

A thorough sacking of stores and houses followed in which the bandits forced the circus train engineer to take them to a point south of Lagunetas, where the looting of the train began. All the horses were taken as well as other valuables.

The company was known as the Modelo Circus and was owned by a man named Beas.

President Urges Party to Hasten In New Selection

Statement Is Unexpected by G. O. P. Committee in Washington to Select City for 1928 Convention.

DECLARES "DECISION" WILL BE RESPECTED

Coolidge Gives 6-Sentence Amplification to Famous August 2 Statement Made In Black Hills.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—President Coolidge informed the Republican party and country today that he regards himself as "eliminated" from the presidential campaign of 1928. He declared his "decision" would be respected, and advised his party to set itself seriously to the task of selecting another candidate.

The statement was made in a speech delivered by the president to members of the Republican National committee who called on him at the White House. The immediate effect was to electrify a meeting which had been expected only to produce a polite exchange of generalities.

Mr. Coolidge's words fell with particular force upon those of his friends who have maintained that despite his "I do not choose to run" statement, he had by no means eliminated himself and would be "drafted" in 1928. There remained some mumbling of speculation, but for the most part friends and opponents were silent.

Only Six Sentences.

It took but a few words for the president to dispose of his intentions toward a re-nomination. He did it in these six sentences: "This is naturally the time to be planning for the future. The party

Second Intramural Grid Battle at Tech This Afternoon

Liberal Arts Team Will Seek to Stop Engineer Winning

Archibald Coaches Liberal Arts Squad, and Nicholas Is Blue Shirts' Mentor! Large Crowd Expected.

The Liberal Arts eleven under the able direction of Elton Archibald, one of Texas Tech's best field coaches, will battle with the strong Blue Shirts machine which is coached by "Tuba" Nicholas this afternoon on the Texas athletic field at 4 o'clock. The Engineers in the blue uniforms will walk off with the Aggies last Saturday by a 12 to 9 victory in the initial game of the intramural department.

The Engineers were champions of 1925 football and will attempt to maintain the title by defeating the Liberal Arts team this afternoon. However since the college of Liberal Arts has the bigger department from which players may be selected, the Engineers are due to meet a much better organization than in their first game. Coach Archibald has worked with his machine throughout the week, striving for formidable offense.

The Blue Shirts inspired with their victory over the Farmers, have improved considerably since their game with the Aggies and hope to present a strong front both offensively and defensively. Both schools, the Engineers and Liberal Arts, will be represented at the game with large bodies of boosters and enthusiasm is running high on the camp and the fans of these favorite machines are anxiously awaiting the first kick-off.

Criticize Majors' Method of Signing Up Young Players

Baseball Board President Suggests New Limits For Classification Before the 1930 Season.

DALLAS, Texas, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The indeterminate and far-reaching signing of young players by major league clubs and recreational league associations has been criticized by the various minor league leagues. Mike H. Smith, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, this afternoon opened the annual meeting here.

The first meeting of the association was confined to Mr. Smith's report which though brief, was outspoken and the annual secretary-treasurer's report given by J. P. Farrell.

"I am very much disturbed in my mind over the numerous complaints made by both parties to the present minor league agreement," Mr. Smith said. "As this first seven year period of operation draws to a close I hear some very bitter expressions of opinion. This feeling of discontent is not confined to a few, but is being freely expressed. Before it leads to an open rupture I most earnestly urge both parties confer in an effort to eliminate some objectionable features."

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

Thousands of people will say "Merry Christmas" again who had lived a generation or so ago, might now be in their graves. They are those on whom the grip of tuberculosis has been broken—in many cases permanently.

The issue of ownership and control of Muscle Shoals remains. But it is a relief in a way to get the fertilizer issue out of the way. Any problem is the better for simplification.

Today any reputable physician can definitely establish the presence of tuberculosis germs in the blood long before any actual damage has been worked. Then a proven method of treatment, consisting principally of proper food, quiet rest and sunshine, will enable the bacteria of the body that are the enemies of disease germs, to put the tuberculosis boys to rout.

STILL THERE ARE SLAVES

The question of slavery was settled in the United States many years ago, and people of this country hardly think of such a thing existing now, but it is a fact that there are places even yet where slavery actually exists.

A decision of the British supreme court of the colony of Sierra Leone served a few months ago to call attention to the fact that slavery as a legal institution still was being carried on. Although the British government long ago abolished it in the colony, it has remained in the protectorate.

That slavery still exists in Liberia comes as news to most of us and is not stated as a concrete fact in available standard references. It is hinted in Britanica in its discussion of slavery, in the statement that neither Sierra Leone nor Liberia has fulfilled the promise they held out of spreading enlightenment on a continent inured to the custom.

While Liberia is an independent republic, its estimated 37,000 square miles of territory remains largely unchartered and the actual authority of the Monrovia government does not extend very far inland. Control of the native chieftains of the jungle interior is on no firmer basis apparently than that of Great Britain over similar chiefs in the protectorate.

position of an independent country, established as a protest against slavery, and one that has maintained a free status for more than 100 years and an existence as the only black republic in the old world for more than three-quarters of a century it remains as one of the last homes of the institution it was founded to defy.

President Charles D. King lacks the prestige of King George. The United States holds no protectorate over Liberia and is merely acting in something of a fiduciary capacity at Monrovia. But, in view of the successful British efforts in the Sierra Leone protectorate, might it not be possible for American and Liberian diplomacy to accomplish the actual abolition of slavery in Liberia too?

MUSCLE SHOALS

Senator Norris is still interested in Muscle Shoals as a power project. But he has lost interest in its possibilities as a source of fertilizer. The reason is, as he tells us in an article originally printed in the New South and now being circulated in pamphlet form, that it is now possible to make nitrates more conveniently with the use of coal than with water power.

It is the dream of Norris that the government retain the control of the entire project, selling power to the region round about. Through the chain distribution of electricity, power can be sent over a wide range of territory, with great benefit to the public. It does not trouble Mr. Norris that this is not a government function. He sees it as inevitably a monopoly.

The people of the United States should certainly be a fine feeling bunch of fellows this year. We were just studying the map recently published by Business and it shows that there is only a very small spot now and then over the United States where conditions are designated as "quiet".

It has been said that cigarettes would not kill a man, but here is one that certainly did. Over in Colorado state a few nights ago a fellow was shot dead, because a friend saw the light of his cigarette and thought it was the eyes of a coyote. The man was sitting on the end of a log smoking a cigarette, when the hunter came along and killed him for a coyote.

Mayor Thompson is reported to have offered a prize of $10,000 for a new "all-American" history to be used in Chicago's schools, the prize to be won by the writer who "will tell the truth." Any one who wants to make sure of the money had better find out what is "the truth" in the Thompson view before he begins work.

Two more young British noblemen have scandalized England by selecting wives of the chorus girl type. The mother of the young women is said to operate several night clubs in London and to have served a short term in prison after escaping arrest a number of times. Such taste in wives on the part of young lords is hardly flattering to the American millionairesses who have also been frequently favored.

After a pint of gin was found in his possession a Lansing, Mich., man was sentenced to life imprisonment. He already had a prison record and a pint of gin added to that was too much. Still, one wonders if his last offense equals that of the prosperous and respectable persons who publicly uphold prohibition and privately patronize the higher-grade bootleggers.

Sir Michael Saddle's list of the "Twenty most beautiful cities" gives 16 to Europe, these include Rome, Florence, Venice, Athens, Paris and Edinburgh. Three that qualify outside of Europe are Constantinople, Benares and Agra. The fourth — the only one conceded to the whole Western Hemisphere — is Quebec.

OUT OUR WAY

THE OLD KITCHEN STOVE. HOW COME WE STILL LOVE THESE OLD THINGS THAT CAUSED US SO MUCH MISERY? BY WILLIAMS

SO THINK WE

We think that those who have been afraid that winter would not come will probably not need to fear any longer, for there seems to have been plenty of it around the South Plains the past few days. Its good old killing time, and went good old spurs and back-bone be something fine for the next few weeks.

We think that the people of Lubbock are in fine shape to enjoy Christmas this year. Possibly we have fewer people who are really in need this year than ever before since the town of Lubbock has taken on city proportions. This is a fine thing to say, but we can't have some good comfortable clothes that you can spare, but the Salvation Army quarters up and let them have them. It might make Christmas happy for some poor fellow who is thinly clad.

We think that from the way they talk that about all some men have to brag about is how mean they were when they were boys, and how good they are now.

We think that yesterday is dead and gone forever. Tomorrow does not exist, and why worry about it? But today is here. Use it.

We think that women are always more graceful than men, except when romping on the floor with the children.

We think that the clerks of Lubbock, as well as the storekeepers, could plan for a real holiday, if everyone would do their Christmas shopping early.

We think that there is no significance attached to it, possibly, but the assignment of seats to Senators Smith and Vane near a Senate chamber exit is somewhat suggestive.

We think that its rather funny how some people imagine vain things. For instance we heard a man talking about how big a fool he used to be.

We think that the value of saving money depends entirely upon the use to which it is put after saving it.

We think that cotton experts of this county are of the opinion that more than eighty-five per cent of the cotton production for Lubbock county has been gathered. This is a very unusual occurrence for Lubbock for in previous seasons we have not enjoyed such a favorable fall for harvesting.

OPINIONS

REMEMBER THE CHARITY FUND.

Not a great many of us attend the union Thanksgiving Day service the other day at the Episcopal church. There were football games and holding parties and other things to hold our attention, and comparatively few who had nothing else to do but go to church. Consequently, not many of us contributed to the fund for the support of the United Charities, and the fund received at the Thanksgiving Day service was small. It may be all right to refrain from attending the church service

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that another Texas bank bandit has drawn a 35 year sentence for his robbery of a Texas bank. The law is taking a strong hold on the bandits in Texas these days and with more hard sentences served to them Texas will soon be free from the robbery wave.

It is reported that storms are predicted throughout the country, and one is looming in the annual session of the county's legislature.

It is reported that the executive officers of the Chamber of Commerce and the South Plains meet in session here yesterday.

It is reported that an escaped convict who has been a fugitive for several years, surrendered to officers to have a clear conscience.

It is reported that all of this talk about Russia cutting her army in half is only intended to be disarming.

It is reported that a lot of little acts are larger than a few big ones. Community service should be limited to a few bold strokes a year.

It is reported that pedestrians should not be seen and not hurt.

It is reported that some people go in for free love because that's the only kind they are able to figure.

It is reported that the trouble with most agitators is that they are so depressing.

It is reported that moisture is needed over the South Plains to assure the wheat raisers of a good production.

It is reported that England spent more money on golf during the past season than on all other sports combined. The boys in America are not spendthrifts in the matter themselves.

It is reported that the Lubbock merchants are enjoying a wonderful fall. Cotton, when it is good, is a wonderful crop and brings into a community much money.

FOR CO-OP CREAMERY

An enthusiastic meeting of the Abernathy members of the Hale County Dairy Association was held Saturday here.

The meeting was called to discuss the sentiment among the members of the association relative to the establishment of a co-operative creamery for the association.

An outline of the project was presented, and it met with the full endorsement of the members present.

A. H. Tarwater, president of the association reviewed the past history of the association, and sketched its accomplishments during its existence.

The Hale County Dairy Association was started in Hale County five years ago, and was then known as the Hale County Dairy Association, and had a total membership of 22.

Now the association has three branches, at Abernathy, Hale Center and Plainview, and its membership has grown rapidly. During the heavy production months of this year the association marketed between 40,000 and 45,000 pounds of butter fat per month from the three stations.

This large volume of business, Mr. Tarwater pointed out, was sufficient evidence of the necessity for a co-operative creamery for the association.

G. W. Louthan, at one time instructor in dairy husbandry in the Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa, and later manager of a chain of creameries in Iowa, gave his observations of the operation of co-operative creameries in the north and the possibilities of one for the Hale County association.

W. S. Noel then gave details of the proposed method of financing the co-operative creamery, and Luther M. Griffin, secretary of the association, made a short talk.

As above stated, the plan met with the approval of the members present, and all there signified their willingness to subscribe to stock in the proposed enterprise.

A similar meeting to the one held here was held in Plainview Tuesday and a meeting is scheduled for the Hale Center members Friday night to consider the proposition.

At Plainview the members endorsed the project as enthusiastically as here, and the indications warrant the assumption that a co-operative creamery for the Hale County Dairy Association will soon be an assured fact. No discussion has been had so far as to the location of the plant.

Bill Richter, secretary of the local branch of the association states that the organization here has had

Santa Claus and His Enemies

The beneficent myth which has colored and softened our festive Christmas is lately under attack. The folk who must find something to criticize in every human occasion of joy are persuaded that children should not be told fairy stories and that stark realities should be chocked into their little heads just as soon as possible.

Some of them have experimented and found that by speeding up what they mistakenly call "education" they can produce the "prodigy." Their whole program has been to rush the child through what should be its childhood and give it prematurely. It is doubtful business. It simply means, as one writer has put it, that children should have no childhood. For childhood is made up of dreams and innocence, and they are lost soon enough.

There is something sinister in anything that attacks childhood, and this high-sounding stuff about "teaching children lies" is making headway. The warm legend of St. Nicholas has brightened the hearts of all Christendom. It is very questionable whether a thing so hollowed by centuries can be destroyed by one experimental and semipagan generation; myths and legends are tough and hard to kill, and these skeptical souls who go about attacking harmless happiness may be perfectly sincere, but they will be gone tomorrow. Mankind has a way of outliving its reformers. It hangs onto its dreams and hopes. It takes a very great man to start what is called a myth; ordinary people do not live after they are dead. But the sainted Nicholas who loved children still lives in the little white-bearded fellows who smile through the sky behind his reindeer and manages all sorts of chimneys. Indeed he is a challenge. For so long as his cult lives every effort will be made to see that the humblest and most ragged little stocking will not be entirely empty. We get rid of him at our peril. The enemies of Santa Claus are the enemies of good cheer and simple-heartedness; they are the enemies of faith, and it were better that a million were hung around their necks and they were drowned in the deepest sea than that childhood's saint were driven from his heart.

He is about to come again. Millions of small ears will imagine they hear his silver bells in the midnight air. For millions of children it will be the only day in the year when a wish may be answered or any kind of dream come true. It might be very efficient or practical to have done with such a business, but every people that has destroyed its household gods has destroyed itself. Santa Claus is the youngest old man in the world, and we wish him many happy returns of the day.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 6 (AP)—The cotton market was steadier today as it influenced by reports of an improved demand for cotton goods and covering by recent sellers.

The market opened barely steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 8 points in response to a decline of 8 to 10 points.

A steady tone developed later on reports of a better demand for cotton goods in the local market and a renewal of covering for over Thursday's government report.

With comparatively few contracts for sale, apparently, the early afternoon market showed considerable firmness, December, selling up to 19 3/4, and May to 19 1/8, or 11 to 20 points higher.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 6 (AP)—Rough weather looked for throughout the corn belt gave a lively return to corn values today and lifted other grain as well.

Good export inquiry for corn was also a stimulating factor, and it was pointed out that the 1927 European corn crop is approximately 20,000,000 short of the 1926 total.

Despite setbacks at the start, the corn market closed firm, 3 1/2 to 3 3/4, not higher with wheat 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 up, oats at 1 1/4 to 1 1/2 advance and provisions advancing from 5 1/2 to 6 1/2.

Wheat prices held within narrow limits and were governed mostly by the action of corn.

Immigration Plan Heartily Approved

Many West Texans To Meet In Amarillo December 8 To Devise Ways Of Increasing Colonizers

AMARILLO, Dec. 6.—That the suggestion of the Amarillo board of city development for a conference to be held at the Amarillo hotel at 10 a. m. Thursday, December 8, for the purpose of devising ways and means of creating a greater immigration into the Panhandle has met a responsive chord, as evidenced by the number of encouraging replies that have been received.

Lubbock, Wellington, Hereford, Memphis, Stratford, Quanah, Plainview, Canyon, Tulla, Channing, Clarendon, Crosbyton, Panhandle, Pampa, Floydada, Spearman, Slaton, Ytoma and Perrin have given notice that they will be represented at this conference. In most of these instances, not only the acting executive officer of the chamber of commerce will be there, but a number of these organizations have advised their president and some of the members of their board of directors will also come.

In addition, it is expected that every county agent in the Panhandle-Plains territory will be on hand. Real estate boards and owners of large quantities of lands, who are ready to put these lands on the market for reasonable prices, have been invited to be present.

It has been announced that this conference is called, not for the purpose of accepting a cut and dried program, but with the intention of giving consideration to all phases of this proposed campaign for immigration. It is realized that the Panhandle can prosper greatly with an increasing rural population and a correspondingly increasing production. The territory in which it is proposed to operate is Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Michigan, Illinois and Ohio.

With cheap fertile lands in the Panhandle, it is believed that attractive and fruitful representations can be made to the people in the states named that will have the effect of creating a sufficient interest in the Panhandle-Plains territory to encourage extensive immigration.

Every community in the Panhandle-Plains territory is invited to send representatives to this conference. If you do not have a chamber of commerce in your community, send some of your citizens; they will be welcome and will be invited to participate in the discussions to be carried on at the meeting.

Schools to Promote Sale of Christmas Seals

The sale of tuberculosis Christmas seals, which is being sponsored by the Church Women's Federation, is being forwarded this week through introduction of the sales in the schools and a house-to-house campaign that is to be made by women of the city.

Mrs. A. W. Evans, chairman of the sales committee from the Federation, called her committee together Monday afternoon to hear reports and found that approximately $100 worth of seals have been sold on a county quota of $500. "I believe the amount will be raised, however," she said yesterday, "as seals were sent to Slaton and several rural communities and no reports have been heard from these. The campaign is to be carried on more persistently this week also."

Women of the city have had little time to devote to the sales campaign because of their duties in preparing for the holiday season. If the sales on seals net $500, Lubbock will receive 60 per cent of the proceeds to be used in promoting healthful conditions here, and if less than $500 is made in sales no money will be returned here, she said.

Miss Mary Worster, health nurse was sent to Lubbock this fall to examine children in the ward schools because of past sales of seals made here.

Santa Fe Supervisor Talks To Large Canyon Crowd Stressing Importance Of U. S. Campaign

CANYON, Dec. 6.—A. R. Tillman, safety supervisor for the southwest division of the Santa Fe railroad, spoke to a large audience, largely college students, here yesterday in the interests of the safety campaign which is being waged all over the United States. Tillman said that assuring safety for ourselves and others was very largely a matter of consideration and courtesy, that few accidents would occur if people recognized the rights of others.

He said "approach every railroad crossing as if there were a train there and you will never be run over." He urged especially that children be taught safety habits and that adults use special care to safeguard thoughtless children. In 1925, 15,000 children were accidentally killed in the United States.

Vare and Smith Fail In Seating

WASHINGTON, Dec. 5.—Stopped by a double-barreled resolution in which there was an element of surprise, Frank L. Smith of Illinois, and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, both Republicans, stood aside in the Senate while the thirty other senators-elect took the oath and became full-fledged senators.

When their names were called along with the others, Senator Norris of Nebraska, a leader of the Republican independents, offered resolutions which would have the Senate declare that they are entitled neither to the oath of office nor to membership in the Senate because of expenditures in their primaries.

Both senators stood aside without protest by their friends and the Senate agreed to defer action on the resolutions until after the reading tomorrow of the annual message of President Coolidge.

by MARY WINN SHOOT'S

"Good mornin', Lucindy! Heered wuz home agin from takin of a tower somehwars, (from Tobe Spilkins) who rid by this mornin' and bowed youuns had jist got back but wuz fixin' to go away agin on 'count of youuns a buyin' a farm near Lubbock where you'd be close to them Lone Star Busses an' ye kin ride 'em plum frequent and whar you could raise hogs and chickens, so we jist come over as soon as we heerd it to git ye to tell us if sich is the truth and are drivin' to home whar ye need and done whilse ye was a takin' of the tower," said Mrs. Tweekins as she and Miss Saffronia Higgins came swiftly up the flower bordered walk leading to the Rainwater domicile and discovered the worthy lady sitting on the back porch industriously plying a butcher knife in a large pumpkin while she sang to the top of her voice. "I am bound for the Promised Land."

"Lawsy massy gals, ye almost skeert me, a comin' up so suddent like, but do come in and take seats and set down. Have you jist heered about me and Jesus a takin' a tower through Texas as a viewin' of the sights to be seed in Texas whilse huntin' of another location?"

"Yes, but do tell how come ye to take sich a suddent notion to go way out yander to that Lubbock country whar so many East Texas folks is a goin these days and buy one of them ELLWOOD FARMS and my ole man Ebermezer Tweekins is also sorter figgerin' himself on goin out thar to buy one of them Ellwood Farms specially after he heered from Jeems Rainwater as how his ole friend Billy Ellwood who owns that fine speedin' Ranch whar he's raisin all them fine Hereford cattles is a dividin up that ranche into farms and sellin em plum reasonable and on awful easy terms. Ebermezer see some of em as low as $25 an acre."

"Now is that so Lucindy?"

"Ye be shure and they'll give a body 100 to pay for the farm if they haint all cash to pay like me and Jeems Rainwater had after he gittin that big batch of the royalty from that ole Austin cotton war farm at Cross Skin Crossin."

"Well, as I was a sayin' right after my ole man seed Callie Dean who usen to ride behind my ole man to skule when him and his paw, John Dean, was a livin down right to Cross Skin Crossin but who is now growed up to be the mainest flower growin feller in all West Texas him a bein the owner of THE LUBBOCK FLORAL CO. and when my ole man seed Callie down in East Texas last summer a huntin them Blue Bonnets whilse he was a lowin to cross with Blue Weed and Callie told him what a fine country Lubbock wuz a gittin to be out yander on them South Plains and give him one of them circulars his ole friend Judge Hopewell wuz a circulatin all over Texas about; the ELLWOOD FARMS COMPANY, my ole man jist made up then and thar that night jist in Lubbock wuz whar he aimed to spend the remainder of his days," replied Mrs. Rainwater as she placed the high brass kettle of sliced pumpkin on the kitchen stove and then seated herself and took from her capacious pocket the inevitable snuff bottle, helping herself therefrom to a generous "fill," after prefering it first to her visitors.

"We ain't heered nary word cep'n what has been told by that triflin' ole Spilkins, the news inter of the settlement, but Tobe heint' such a nobody that we lowed we'd come over and hear from yer own mouth whether or not ye are figgerin' on leavin' Cross Skin Crossin and movin' to a fine Chickin farm nigh to Lubbock, which is fit up with bettricity and he's up with 'em," said Mrs. Tweekins as she also supplied herself with a generous "fill" of snuff as did Miss Saffronia Higgins whicomeon all three women were then ready for conversation.

"Well, gals, it wuz jist this way. The day after Jeems Rainwater heerd that thar second hand Ford open Hezekiah Thunderbox, I jist up and sez to him, sez I:

"Now Jeems, do you see ye learn to drive plum honest an' ye wuz be runnin' over hogs and cows and all such human beings as is venture some enough to cross the road in front of ye, so ye wuz wuz't be used for damages. I reckon me and you had better take a lower back to Georcy in that thar Ford and show folks how prosperous we air since we sold our Hag Mountain lease to that Lizzie Fluke De Co. and them a strike of it so suddent like."

"Well, I reckon he wuz right in fer sich a trip before as how Mr. Rainwater alius wuz strong fer makin' a big show of himself," interposed Mrs. Tweekins.

"Wuz he? Lawdy massy, he got maddern a hornet when I spoke them remarks to him and sez he had no use for a chance on his tabacker plum vicious like, sez he:

"No! Got dura ye, no! Me and you haint a goin to take no trip back to Georcy in that thar Ford nor no where else, sez he a chawin' of the tabacker and spittin right in de face like he alius does when he sits all riled up and sez he wuz fergetful like right squar dab on ole Tige who wuz on the hatch at home," advised Mrs. Tweekins.

"Well, I riz right up then and thar and fixed up a sizeable batch of my own remedies such as I always take on a travelin tower with me such as gypson weed salve and slippery elm bark, sassafras root fer makin tea in case any of Alvir's children has got bilious fever or yaller janders, and also a sizeable batch of sulphur and lard to rub on Joe Bailey and John Kirby (the 2 big twins) and on them 2 little twins, Miriam & Jim Ferguson in case they have got the 7 year eatch and also several chunks of asafetidy to hang round them 4 twins necks (also little Dan Moody Jones' neck) as a hot. Garmard had done moved out thar, Dr. Little Dan Moody with in case he tuk the colic and some arnky liniment to rub my ole man's back with in case he tuk the lumbago, me never dreamt that Dr. J. C. Garmard had done moved out thar from Oklahomy and wuz the leadin Chiropractic in all them parts and gitten the back bones of all them Lubbock folks' jused up every day stylisher lookin women on them Lubbock streets than me, she, lowd, and—"

"Well, hies a plum wonder ye had any face left on ye to git fixed up at any beauty shop and ye ort to thank the Lord that ye want fetchin' into Lubbock as a dead corpse," remarked Saffronia.

"Well, while we a pullin and tuggin at our busted fiver, jist then a awful friendly actin farmer come along (Bill Smith that usen to live in 'Cross Skin Crossin and married out from Skroggins ole gal Mirandy, he turned out to be), and pulled us outen the ditch; hiteched our busted fiver onto his wagon and hauled us right into Lubbock, him sayin he would take us to the best automobile folks he knowed of in that country and whar they had the most experient mechanics what could fix any busted fiver on earth, pervidin he had as much lift as a engine and a fender and that place he lowd wuz thar thar Ragland Motor Co., of which them 3 Ragland boys wuz the obligin owners, and so popper and well beliked by every body around Lubbock that they're sellin them cars as fast as they could git em unloaded from the trains."

"Shorenoough?"

"Yes and Bill lowd if Cecil Ragland who wuz noted fer bein the most experient mechanic in Lubbock couldnt fix our ole busted fiver we mought as well throw the blame thing away and git a brand New Marmon (same as he done last summer when his ole fiver busted up on him), and which he knowed them 3 Ragland boys would be tickled to death to sell us, so right thar wuz whar Bill Smith hauled us the fast thing he done, so we could git our fiver fixed up—if sich wuz possible—and git on out to Alvir's that evenin'."

"Shorenoough?"

"Yes, and wha ye reckon stepped out from that Ragland Motor Co. jist as tickled to see me and Jeems arrivin in Lubbock as if we had a brerin our own grammas and gramma come to town and hope Bill Smith jek me up when my foot ketchin in the targ place in my red flannel petticoat and I fell sprawlin over against Bill Smith and my ole man almost a knockin me down on count of my sizeable ness and casioned; my ole man to set into

The Manhunter's Own True Story

Chapter Fifty-one

Davis colored and floundered in profuse apology. Mr. Miller had misinterpreted him. He had said that Judge Brady was a good friend of himself and his father and had, therefore, felt at liberty to introduce himself and a letter. He was sorry that Mr. Miller had misinterpreted Miller's face brightened and he said:

"That's all right. Don't worry about it. But I'm a very busy man and I couldn't have taken the time to come back to meet a stranger. The peculiar nature of my business makes it essential that I avoid strangers, for they often spoil big deals if a chance word is dropped."

"My friend Mulligan here is all right, Mr. Miller. I'll vouch for him," Miller leaned forward and thrust his hand toward me. I took it and shook it as warmly as I could. As he leaned close, the straw that he wore struck the top of the car, and he caught it as it fell. He tucked the hat under his arm and stood huddled as we entered and thrust the hair was very thin, and a bald spot the size of a dollar showed his pink scalp.

"I hope Mr. Mulligan will pardon my seeming rudeness, but I thought to be very cautious and I thought he might be a newspaper man. Newspaper men have spoiled a good many deals for me by giving my operations too much publicity."

I wondered if there wasn't considerable truth in that last statement. Davis stepped into the tonneau of the car and invited Miller to take the seat beside me.

"Thanks, Davis, but I haven't the time. I have a very hard day ahead and I must get busy. I was just decoding a few telegrams." He pulled back his coat and showed a pocket full of yellow messages.

"You're still in the same line of business I suppose," Davis said, half questioningly.

"Oh yes, still in the same little game. With Morgan now—J. P. Morgan and Company. Of course the old man is dead, but it's the same outfit. They're offering a prize to the man doing the greatest volume of business and I'm hoping to win it. That's why I'm so rushed. There are twenty-four of us competing and I'll have to hustle."

He took out a maroon folder and I knew, before he opened it, that I was now going to be shown a newspaper clipping with a part of the picture of its subject missing.

"Perhaps this is what Judge Brady referred to when I left the office that day in Kansas City," he said, as he extracted a worn looking clipping from the folder. Davis glanced at it.

"Yes, that's it!" Miller handed it to me. "This is the sort of stuff I have to fight against. You'll notice the top of he took a notion, in his enthusiasm of such good fortune, he stripped forty dollars from the small roll and insisted on my accepting it. I took it, not very reluctantly.

"We Texans! It's fifty-fifty with us," he insisted. "Love, Miller, take mine and do it again." And he handed Miller his forty dollars. Miller hurried away and was gone but a few minutes. He had just about time to walk around the block, when he brushed up to the car and handed Davis a hundred and twenty dollars. Eighty dollars profit this time. Davis had murmured something to me about his friend being a "tower of financial intellect" and I had agreed. They all went—in a way.

"I want you to meet my friends, Mr. Davis and Mr. Mulligan," Davis took Zachary's hand first and I glanced about the room. A table behind Zachary's desk caught my attention; stacks of greenbacks, bound in neat bundles, littered its top in helterskelter stacks. The size of the pile rivaled the mountain of money I had seen in the clubhouse in Florida and this pile was not guarded.

"Glad to meet you, Mr. Mulligan, I'm sure," Zachary exclaimed, reaching for my hand. I shook his hand but my thoughts were on that stack of money. I hoped that, in addition to exposing this gang of crooks, I might win and keep a good-sized bunch of it. My hope became a resolution. If I could, I'd make this game pay for a part of the trouble and expense they were causing me.

"These friends want to place a few bids on the market, just as I did a few ago for them," Miller said, using this means to let Zachary know that we had already won advice money on his exchange. It is a mighty easy to pick the loopholes in these fellows' conversation when you've once had a dose of their medicine. "Mr. Zachary, gentlemen," Mr. Miller went on. "Is secretary treasurer of this exchange, which is Station Number Four. The main office is so crowded that this one is operated for the benefit of important members. Mr. Zachary here will receive and execute your buying and selling orders."

Miller finished up his membership card and told Zachary that we were to enjoy the privileges of the branch office.

By closing time I had cleaned up three thousand dollars and the amount was paid to me in cash. Miller left with Davis and me and expressed the hope that we would return next day and make some real money. He had information from his main office that it would be a big day and he was sure we would have an opportunity to clean up. I knew I'd be there, for there was not a chance that Davis would let me out of his sight, since I was carrying three thousand dollars of their money to the hotel with me. We both thanked Miller for his kindness and his helpfulness and he left us.

"You have traveled extensively?" "I have," answered Miss Cayenne. "What struck you as the most wonderful thing you saw?" "The American flag in New York harbor."

$5,000 Allotted To Be Used As Student Loan Fund At Canyon Making Fourth In State Of Kind

CANTON, Dec. 6.—Announcement has just been received of the establishment of a five thousand dollar loan scholarship fund at the West Texas State Teachers' College, by the Texas Daughters of the American Revolution.

This is the fourth scholarship to be established in state colleges by this body. The first went to the University of Texas. In 1916 the second was awarded to the North Texas State Teachers' College at Denison. In 1922 the third was awarded to the Sam Houston State Teachers' College at Huntsville. These Teachers' College scholarships will be used as loans to worthy students. They are available to junior and senior students only.

The scholarship at Canyon will be administered by a state chairman whose appointment, it is understood, has not yet been made; together with President J. A. Hill and one other representative of the faculty of the West Texas State Teachers' College whom he will choose; and the state regent of the D. A. R. Mrs. C. E. Jones of Greenville.

Mrs. Secretary of the Treasury

Nowadays it is becoming more and more the practice, particularly among the younger people, to regulate expenditure of income by the budget system. To the wife is delegated the task of keeping the family expenses within set limits—she is the real secretary of the family treasury. She must count the pennies and stretch them to their utmost buying power.

The modern woman knows how to make a dollar purchase one hundred cents' worth of value. She reads the advertisements in her daily newspaper and notes what is being advertised that she needs. She scans them closely to know what is newest and best in clothes, in foods, in utilities that will make the home work easier, the little luxuries that will make it more comfortable. Yet her purchases are regulated by the budget—advertising helps her to keep within bounds.

Such is the value of advertising to the woman in the home. It is her faithful adviser, ever ready to tell her what, when and where to buy and how much to pay.

"Yep," beams old Santa, "I'll admit that a Natural Gas Heater isn't quite as fussy as a diamond bracelet or a handful of lace and ribbons but if that's what she wants, that's what she's going to get!"

And yet after all what is so strange about Mrs. Santa's wanting a gas heater for Christmas? It will bring her pleasure and help throughout the year; it will be a permanent source of service and pride to her. This is just one more step toward a woman's release from household drudgery, and a mighty important step, too.

Women Suffer More Pains Than Men

If there is one point on which all physicians are agreed it is that woman's nervous system is more highly organized and, therefore, more sensitive to pain than man's. Especially during the colder months of the year women suffer much with neuralgia and periodic pains, headache, and pains in the back and sides. To relieve these pains some women have unfortunately resorted to opiates and habit forming drugs. This is entirely unnecessary for Capudine relieves these pains quite as well as opiates and without the slightest possibility of creating a habit. Capudine reduces nervous strain or nerve tension, thus removing the cause of these pains. Every woman who suffers with pains of this kind should get acquainted with Capudine. She will find it a most helpful friend. All drug stores sell Capudine in 60c and 30c sizes. (adv.)
