Violent Deaths Claim Three Men

Olton Marks 48th Birthday Today With Huge Celebration

Old-timer Olton, bristling with new over its 48th birthday, stages a city-wide celebration today and at night. Two gubernatorial candidates will be in hand for the observance. Both Price Daniel and Ralph Yarborough — and possibly J. Evetts Haley — will speak this afternoon in Olton's 48th anniversary festivities, expected to be the biggest celebration in Olton's history.

The celebration was originally planned as Olton's and Lamb County's "Gold Jubilee," but pioneer residents there that the city was actually established in present site in 1908 rather than in 1960.

It all gets underway at 11 o'clock morning with a downtown parade. Crowds are expected from all over Lamb County. Planned during the afternoon is a huge free barbecue.

Gubernatorial candidates are to speak during the afternoon, along with candidates for county and district offices.

The Olton Enterprise will boost the occasion with a special edition featuring the history of the county and Olton.

The anniversary event is sponsored by the volunteer firemen.

Representatives from all over the county are expected for the big parade. Boy Scouts, riding clubs and floats will make up the street attraction, and Littlefield and Olton High School bands will be on hand.

Mrs. Virginia Moss and Gayle Machen will be color bearers in the parade and R. A. Green is in charge of barbecue preparations.

V. T. TANNER, Springlake mayor, discusses the highway bond election with Marshall Formby, state highway commissioner, following Tuesday night's highway meeting at the Springlake Baptist Church. Tanner was master of ceremonies at the affair.

Engineer Here Today For Survey

Homer A. Hunter of Dallas, the engineer selected by the city commission last week to handle a preliminary survey to determine the need for additional water in Littlefield, arrives today to begin work on the project.

Hunter will handle a survey to determine whether there is a need at present for the laying of a pipeline to 7300 sandhills acres on which the city purchased water rights last fall.

If Hunter's research shows that additional water is necessary, a revenue bond election would be called to accomplish seven major objectives, which include:

1. The running of the supply line to the Sandhills water rights and the installation of a field of two or three wells.
2. The creation of a ground reservoir of a size that would level peaks of production (City officials report that, with limited reservoir facilities at present, existing wells are in overloaded production during peak seasons.)
3. The building of additional elevated storage.
4. The establishment of interconnecting water mains between elevated and ground storage.
5. The connection of additional water lines to give the city better water distribution facilities.
6. The replacement of two-inch mains now serving two and three block in some cases, and
7. The relieving of over-loaded sewerage lines.

Former Resident Takes Own Life

By BILL TURNER

A former Littlefield man died instantly of a self-inflicted gunshot wound Monday afternoon near Colorado City, climaxing two days of violent deaths in the area which claimed three lives.

Killed instantly when he pulled the trigger of a 12-gauge shotgun aimed at the left side of his head was George W. Mealer, 54, who until seven months ago resided here as an oil pumper for the Texas Company.

News of the Mealer death came after two Lamb county men had been killed Sunday and Monday. They were Leonard E. Baker, 30, of Route 1, Littlefield, who died in an auto crash Sunday afternoon near Ropesville, and Lee Potset, 60, of Olton, who was killed when a bolt of lightning struck his tractor Monday afternoon.

Baker, who was headed west from Ropesville to meet his wife and brother, was killed when he apparently failed to see a sharp curve and his car overturned about six miles west of Ropesville. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at Slaten under direction of the Williams Funeral Home.

Potset was pronounced dead on arrival at Olton Memorial Hospital about 5:20 p.m. Monday. He had been plowing on his farm about eight miles northwest of Olton. Funeral services were held at the Olton Church of Christ Wednesday afternoon.

Funeral rites for Mealer were read the same afternoon at the First Baptist church here.

Mealer had worked in Littlefield for several years until nine months ago when his first wife, Jewel, died. He left her two months later and married about a month ago.

A Justice of the Peace at Colorado City, G. C. Lemons said in a phone conversation Wednesday morning that his inquest had established Mealer's death as a suicide.

Mealer's body was found at about 2 p.m. Monday, by his wife, Rhoda, in the garage of their home about 20 miles south of Colorado City in Mitchell county. A 12-gauge shotgun lay beside him.

Mrs. Mealer told Lemons that (Continued on Page 2)

Highway Commissioner Tells Voters

'4-Lane Roads Twice As Safe'

It is the major factor in the better highways," Highways Commissioner Marshall Formby told voters at the Springlake Road at Tuesday night.

Leaders throughout the met to learn the position state highway commission commissioners' court on proposed four-lane highways in Lamb county.

An $800,000 bond election has been called for June 23rd to obtain money to purchase 62 miles of right-of-way in the county for U. S. Highways 84 and 70.

V. T. Tanner, mayor of Springlake, welcomed the group and served as master of ceremonies for the evening.

"Four-lane, divided highways are twice as safe as our present two-lane roads," Formby pointed out.

According to the state official, most of our highways were built when the average speed was 20 miles an hour. Today's average speed is 55 miles per hour.

The state now has $430,000 appropriated to construct a 12 mile stretch between the Hockley county line on the east to within two miles of Littlefield. Another $52,000 is set aside to build three miles of the superhighways on the west end of the county adjoining the Bailey county project.

"With adequate right-of-way available, the state will have good cause to complete that strip," Formby predicted.

Formby explained that the state is interested in building four-lane highways when the traffic count reaches 3,000 cars per day. He pointed out that although Highway 70 has not hit that count yet, the traffic load is increasing rapidly.

"Just what route the highway will take in Littlefield has not been determined," Formby said. He pointed out that it is the state's policy to take the highway wherever the city can provide the right-of-way.

"If it were possible for you to give us a 240 foot right-of-way along the present route, we would be willing to go that way," he commented.

The highway official recommended that Littlefield request the highway department plan a loop as near town as right-of-way can be obtained.

"Certainly the trend of modern cities of all sizes is to get highway traffic off its business street," he emphasized.

He explained that the city commission must approve any plan the highway department makes to go through a town.

Formby advised the Littlefield city commission to work with the (Continued on Page 2)

Organization For Industry Studied At Civic Breakfast

Schools of thought concerning permanent organization to the industry in Littlefield presented at Monday morning breakfast.

Decision was reached as to course would be followed. Garrison, chairman of the steering committee, re-issued back to the steering committee, headed by Hall, for further study.

Recommendation was a for-committee at a later date.

Arthur Dugan, local attorney, discussed the type of organizations usually founded by business men interested in attracting industry.

"Industrial foundations are used most often in cities ranging in population from 2,500 to 75,000," he pointed out.

"The corporations can be set up on either profit or non-profit basis. However, the non-profit organizations are in a position to do more for a community," Dugan commented.

He described the type of industrial foundation organized several years ago in Tyler, Texas. The non-profit corporation began operation with $100,000 and has increased its capital to some $400,000.

As industries requested them, buildings were constructed, mostly on borrowed money. Rent covered payments on the loan, taxes, insurance, plus 2% of the volume which went back into the foundation for further expansion.

"Due to income tax laws, industries much prefer to rent rather than buy real estate," Dugan pointed out.

Chamber Of Commerce Boosts Salary

Everett Gets Vote Of Approval, Raise For 'Remarkable Job Done'

At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce board Tuesday morning, Jess Everett was given a unanimous vote of approval for the work he has done as secretary.

To substantiate their approval, the board voted to increase his salary $25 a month making his total annual salary $5100. This figure includes a $75 monthly expense account.

The board reviewed the work done by Everett since he accepted the position here almost three years ago.

"We believe he has done a remarkable job for us, far beyond the call of duty," Dr. Glenn Burk, vice president of the Chamber, said Wednesday.

The increase of salary was actually voted 18 months ago but due to the lack of funds had never been paid. The board voted to put the raise into effect immediately.

Everett requested that the back salary be paid by check which he endorsed back to the chamber.

According to Burk, a report from the board to the membership is being prepared and will be mailed this month.

Members of the board present at Tuesday's meeting were Carl Keeling, president, Judd Walker, R. B. Chandler, Dr. Burk, Paul Carmickle, B. D. Garland Jr., Kenneth Ware, Charles Duval, Irvin Onstead, Rip Elms, and Bill Kelly.

Board members not present were Harold Clements, C. O. Stone, and Ray Keeling.

PARKING FINE SUMMONS BOG

Persons who owe long unpaid parking fines got a short reprieve this week as a long process of preparing summons bogged down due to the lack of a seal which must be stamped on each subpoena.

City officials said the seal had been ordered, however, and that the reprieve would be a short one.

Meanwhile, more than $200 had been received as payments on the fines on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday. It brought the total collections to about $1800. About $3,000 was owed on outstanding tickets when the city's drive began in early May.

The city set a deadline of June 1 on payments and some 400 persons paid up by deadline time. Summons will go out to about 500 persons still owing fines in the next few days.

Persons involved will be ordered to appear before corporation court.

The Roving Reporter Asks:

Are you in favor of voting bonds to secure right-of-way for the widening of Highways 70 and 84 through Lamb County?

Joe Salem, Sudan, says . . .
I favor the election. If we don't build it now, it will have to be done later with population and vehicles increasing. For the safety of our people and in the interest of progress, I favor this bond election.

Roy Neal, Mayor of Earth, says . . .
Indeed I favor building four-lane highways, particularly in the interest of safety. Our highways are overloaded. Trucks and passenger cars have saturated our two-lane highways.

Dr. B. W. Armistead, Littlefield, says . . .
As individuals or as a city, we must not take a selfish attitude. We must look after the interests of the people as a whole rather than a small group. It is selfish of us to try to force drivers to come through our town if it is not to their best interests.

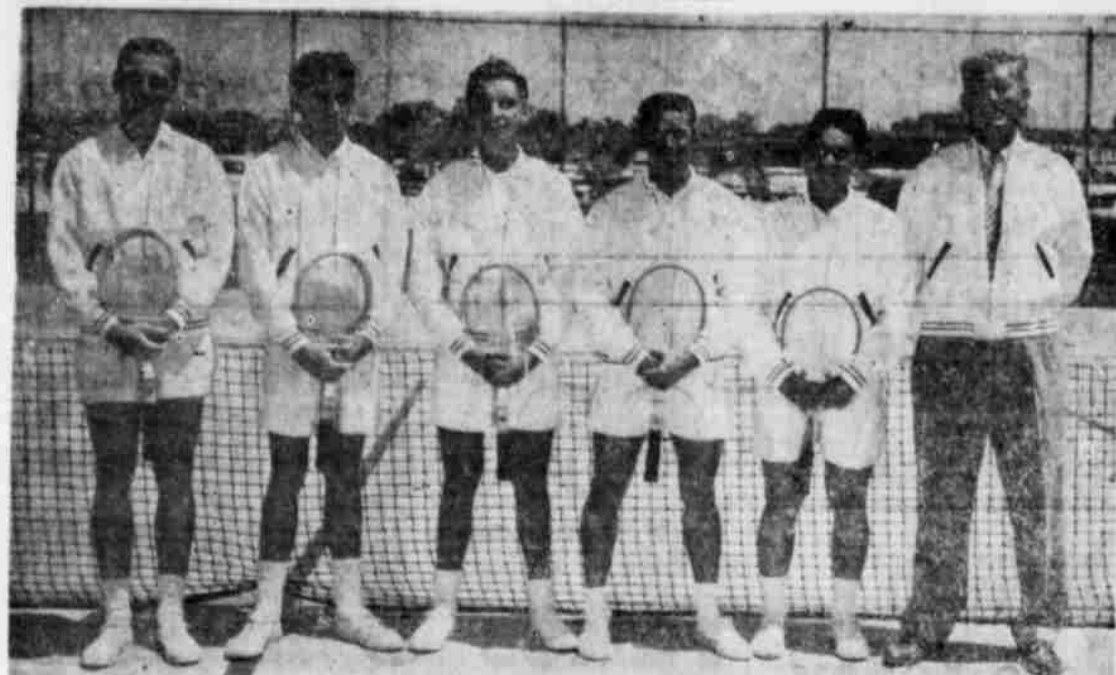

Vernon Hofackert, Littlefield, says . . .
I'm for it. We need progress. And certainly we need the extra advantages of safety.

E. E. Wesley, Littlefield, says . . .
Any town dies when they don't stay ahead. Look at the difference in the future of Amarillo and Lubbock.

Absentee Ballots On Highway Vote Now Available

Absentee voting is permissible between now and June 19. Jones said. Ballots are obtainable at the county clerk's office. The county-wide election is scheduled for June 23.

Red Cross Calls For Volunteers

The Lamb County Chapter of the American Red Cross issued a call for volunteers Monday night during a meeting in which city, county and Red Cross workers took beginning steps in co-ordination of disaster teams.

After recent tornado warnings had brought the matter before the public's attention, about 30 persons attended the session in an effort to prepare the county for any future impending disasters.

Mayor Ray Keeling said that the city, for its part, is working on plans to get an effective alarm system for citizens. It is also working to establish better phone communications with local residents during an emergency and to set up good radio communications facilities with other cities and weather stations.

The local branch of the Red Cross presented its disaster plan to the group. It lists some 10 committees, which have charge of disaster operations.

The 10 committees are those on which volunteers are needed, a Red Cross representative said. The committees and their chairmen are: (1) survey (approximation of overall damage), Odell Matthes; (2) rescue and evacuation, Vernon Hofacker; (3) medical, Dr. W. C. Nowlin; (4) shelter, Elam C. Caldwell; (5) food, Mrs. R. A. Brotherton; (6) clothing, Amos Ward; (7) transportation and communications, Loy W. Dalton; (8) registration and information, Mrs. J. D. Dodson; (9) central purchase and supply, Albert Miller; and (10) public information, Mrs. Ralph Douglas.

Mrs. Arbie Joplin is chairman of volunteers who report to disaster headquarters after an emergency has arisen. She will direct them to areas in which help is most needed.

Persons who desire to volunteer for standing disaster plan committees should contact the local Red Cross office in the county court house.

Violent Deaths

Mealer had complained of a stomach ailment recently and had once said he didn't "see why the Lord doesn't take me out of my misery," Lemons said.

Mealer had made his regular rounds Monday morning as an oil pumpjack, but had complained of being "sick at his stomach," at noon Monday and had decided not to go back to work.

Later, he changed his mind and decided to go to work, Lemons said, and went out to start his jeep. The jeep didn't start and Mealer went into the garage.

After a while, his wife went to check on him and looked in the jeep, but didn't find him. She then went to the garage, where she found him. Mealer had fired the shot into his left ear. Mrs. Mealer told Lemons that she did not hear the shot.

Survivors include his wife, one son, Billy V. Mealer of Smyer, his father, James T. Mealer of Oklahoma City, a sister, Lucy Mae Lane of Altus, Okla., and three grandchildren. He was buried in Tech Memorial Park in Lubbock under direction of Hammons Funeral Home of Littlefield.

state on definite plans as to the location near town so that future development can be pushed in the right direction.

During a question and answer session, the controversy of how the right-of-way money will be divided between the two highways was discussed.

Judge Bob Kirk reassured the group that even though Highway 84 will be widened first, at least half of the money will be reserved for Highway 70.

Representatives from Sudan, Earth and Littlefield were enthusiastically in favor of the project. The only dissenting voice was raised by a three-man delegation from Olton.

Troy Martin, publisher of the Olton Enterprise, asked Judge Kirk if there was any way the commissioners' court could be bound in writing to save half of the funds for Highway 70 right-of-way.

Judge Kirk replied that the court would certainly be willing to agree to such a contract if they find legally they can do so.

Formly pointed out that the north end of the county had two representatives of the county board who no doubt would look after their interests.

Basil Sherman, Olton grocer, and president of the Chamber of Commerce, indicated he would prefer the election be held by road districts rather than on a county-wide basis.

He had been stationed in England with the Air Force two years, and had been in service three years. He was a 1949 graduate of Muleshoe High school, where he was an outstanding athlete, winning all-district honors as halfback on the football team. Survivors include his widow and their two children, Gary Lynn 4, and LaLauni, 6, who were with him in England; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Delma McCarty, Muleshoe; and a brother, Fuston McCarty, Lubbock.

Mrs. Fuston McCarty is the former Billie Ruth Little, of Littlefield.

Social Security Representative To Be Here June 14

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Littlefield on June 14th at 10:00 a. m., at the Employment office. He will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to Social Security.

Arrival of spring brings thoughts of vacation plans to millions of High school and College students. "Students planning to work should get social security cards now," advises Mr. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security district office.

"Having his social security card with him to show prospective employers may help a student get the job," continued Mr. Hutton, "because most employers now insist on copying the name and number directly from the card for their records. This prevents mistakes in the name and number on the wage reports the employer has to file. An earnings can be credited only when the name and number are correct, and as benefits payable in old-age or to dependent survivors in cases of death are based on earnings credited, it is very important that the reports be correct."

Mr. Hutton added that students who had had a social security card before and lost it should apply for a duplicate and not another original card. He explained that having earnings credited to two or more social security numbers could result in earnings credited to one number not being used for benefits purposes. An application for social security card, including duplicates can be obtained from the Lubbock social security office or any post office.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brown were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stewart during the past weekend.

New Farm Repair Center Hits Cost-Price Squeeze

FLOOR LAYOUT QUONSET 32 FARM SERVICE AND REPAIR CENTER

Although U. S. farms are producing more and are getting larger—an average increase in acreage of 12.5% over 1950—farmers are currently facing a growing cost-price squeeze. To meet this problem, the farmer must resort to many new practices to cut expenses and get the most out of his land, his equipment and his buildings.

In keeping with this trend, the Stran-Steel Corporation has developed a new concept in farm equipment and building maintenance which it is including in its line of steel farm buildings: a Farm Service and Repair Center.

The Stran-Steel Center provides the farmer with a building—a modestly-priced Quonset or rigid-frame structure—designed to his needs, plus a layout and program for his repair and servicing facilities.

The all-steel fire-resistant Repair and Service Center offers benefits and savings which, over a period of time, will more than make up the cost of its installation. Its servicing facilities save valuable field-time, prolongs the life of the equipment and helps avoid costly field breakdowns. By being able to do most of his own repair work, the farmer eliminates many service calls and saves on mechanical hired help. In his Center he can also construct or modify some of his equipment such as special mangers, draw-bar hitches, etc.

Fighting Paganism

Lesson for June 10, 1956

CHRISTIANITY has seldom if ever spread smoothly and easily like gravy over mashed potatoes. Its history is more like a river which meets with immense rocks and boulders which tear the water into foam and spray. As the Colorado river has to fight to make its way westward, so the Christian church has had to fight. It is not true that all men are eager for the Gospel and that all we have to do is to tell people about the love of God and they will all be grateful and glad to hear it. On the contrary, Christ has his enemies now as he did in Galilee, and has always had. The name "paganism" is sometimes given to everything in contemporary life and thought which is actively hostile to Christ and his cause.

Did the church conquer paganism?

Already in the city of Ephesus, when St. Paul was the main preacher there Christians ran into trouble. We sometimes think if we could get rid of our preachers and get the Apostles to take charge of our churches for a while, we would eliminate all our troubles. But St. Paul for one would not have agreed with us. We hear of opposition that became quite serious. Certain men "were hardened." "did not believe," and far from keeping their unbelief to themselves, "spoke evil of the Way" (i.e., Christian life in the most public places ("before the multitude"). This is a sample of what Christianity, the Christian church and individual Christians, have to contend with in all ages of the church: hardened men, who are not only without faith but who will go out of their way to attack the Christians' faith. This is paganism; it has many forms but its spirit is always anti-Christian. The church both has, and has not, overcome paganism. It has won many of these enemies of Christ to become his followers, and is still doing so. It has taken the control of society out of their hands, in various times and places, as happened at Ephesus for a time. But the fact is, paganism is far from dead. In one form or other its attacks go on and on.

Missionaries of paganism

When an army lays for any length of time in a foreign territory, it usually leaves behind it words or phrases which the natives pick up, and which may become a permanent part of the local language. It was so with the English language. The Roman military occupation of England, which lasted into hundreds of years, left many souvenirs in the English language. One of the first words the Britons learned from the Romans was "wine" from the Latin vinum. Incidentally, also, another word borrowed but not now used in English was a word for "day" that comes from a Latin word for tavern-keeper. So our very language bears testimony to the fact that the pagan Romans were everywhere missionaries of paganism, and that part of the gospel of paganism is, liquor is a Good Thing. So let's all have more of it! Paganism still sends out its missionaries. On a slow boat to China not many years ago two men shared the same stateroom. One was being sent out by an American Christian church to preach the gospel of Christ. The other was a man who was keeping his sons in college by selling liquor in China—sent out by a large distillery firm. Every convert made by the liquor-missionary was going to make it more difficult for the Christ-missionary; and also the other way around.

Paganism's progress

Christians too easily sit back in their easy seats and think. Paganism has been licked. St. Paul licked it, or Luther, or Wesley or somebody. We live in a Christian era, in a Christian land. Do we or don't we? There are some figures that ought to make us think. The statistics of the Internal Revenue Service of the United States, as analyzed by the Methodist Board of Temperance, show that for every church being erected in the U.S., seven retail outlets for liquor are being licensed. As of the latest count, there are 141,733 more saloons, cocktail bars and stores selling alcoholic beverages than there are churches, synagogues and temples combined. The breakdown shows 441,789 "spirits sources" as against 309,395 "spiritual sources."

THE OIL WAY TO A GREEN THUMB

Effective, unbreakable greenhouses are built today from versatile oil-based polyethylene, a popular plastic packaging material for fresh fruits and vegetables. These simple plastic greenhouses can be put up at very low cost by do-it-yourself gardeners. A model hothouse was recently built for 477 dollars, about three cents to the usual construction dollar. If built from conventional materials, the structure would have cost 15,000 dollars. The new oil-based plastic greenhouse is said to be particularly resistant to snow, hail—and little boys. Thus the myriad products of petroleum help food growers bring variety, flavor and economy to the American dinner table.

Luis Martinez Meets The Terror In Main Event

BIG BOE ORTON

One of Littlefield's most popular wrestlers, returns this week after an absence of about six months. Luis Martinez, Luis, who is one of the best ever to enter the squared circle, will be welcomed back by thousands of fans over the South Plains. Martinez has been in Chicago and in all of the large cities of the east since he was last here.

This week Luis meets none other than the "Golden Terror" in the main event. Last week when Mit-su was unable to make the matches, "The Terror" wrestled both Myres and Guerrero in the main event Tag Match. And wrestled them both for 50 minutes before being whipped. Fans know what to expect when these two wrestlers get together.

In the other main event the popular Sonny Myres, who made his first appearance in Littlefield last week, and who made a big hit with all of the fans, meets Bob Orton of Kansas.

When we say BIG Bob Orton we mean just that. Orton towers six feet four inches and weighs a solid 254 pounds. Orton is in his seventh year of wrestling as a pro, and his list of mat victims reads like a Who's Who of wrestling. Bob, known as the "Bad Man from Kansas," seems to like the title, goes in for extremely rough ring tactics. "You can not win matches by being a cream puff in the ring. Wrestling is one of the toughest and roughest sports known to man, and it takes a real man to stay on top. Whenever I enter the ring I have only one objective in mind and that's to win my match by any method within my power. If it requires roughness, then I'll be just a little bit rougher than my opponent," says Bob Orton. Fans who have seen Sonny Myres know that he "ain't" no cream puff either.

Matches start at 8:45 p.m., at Littlefield Sports Arena, Clovis Highway.

Nearly 14 million Americans make their living by growing, processing, manufacturing, and selling cotton and its products.

The following advertisement, "WANTED—GENERAL RAIN. PLEASE RUSH. CLIFF PERKINS," appeared in the West Branch, Iowa Times—Herbert Hoover's office—on April 26. The paper went into the mail about the morning. By supertime the rain came and brought an end to an 8-month dry spell. It is estimated this advertisement was worth millions to the residents of Cedar County and the state of Iowa. You have to argue with Cliff Perkins and his friends on the power of the country press.

Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

EDUCATION—Nearly 100,000 young people take off their mortarboards and roll up their sleeves this year. Experts predict that figures, complete, will show a record number of diplomas and degrees awarded this year. The Education Agency pegs the high school graduates at between 80,000 and 85,000. Degrees conferred by state-supported colleges and universities are estimated by the Texas Legislative Council at 20,000. Private and church-supported schools swell the state rolls several thousand more. Among these young people, a commendable number are in the armed services. Examined by the '36 high school graduates, as outlined by an act of the legislature, (1) a bonus for 44 years ahead for boys, (2) high earnings available for a quarter million dollars apiece; (3) less work, down to a 30-hour week and (4) ever-increasing ease and leisure as technology advances. Concrete evidence of the speaker's promises is the job placement story. University of Texas Student Employment Bureau reports five to the job offers per graduate at better than ever salaries. Personnel in some deans' offices speak wearily of the year-end flood of would-be employers. High school officials say many graduates began work between their last exams and commencement night.

MIXED REACTION TO HIGHWAY BILL

A bonanza or a blunder—Texans are in disagreement as to which term applies to the new federal highway bill. Senate passage of the bill left only a few details to be ironed out in House-Senate conference before sending the measure to the President. Final enactment will set into motion a 13-year, $51,000,000 interstate highway construction program.

Texas Highway Department officials are frankly jubilant. They are poised to begin letting contracts Aug. 1, using the new supply of federal funds. "We'll be scraping the bottom of the barrel in the July letting," said State Highway Engineer DeWitt C. Greer.

Greer said the new law would mean a minimum increase of $57,000,000 a year in federal road building aid to Texas—or double the present amount.

He called it "the most far-reaching piece of highway legislation yet enacted." He predicted an era of unparalleled development.

Gov. Allan Shivers was less enthusiastic. He charged turning a state function over to "bungling bureaucracy" made it unduly costly.

His objection was to the provision giving the Secretary of Labor rather than the states, power to set wages on all contracts. "This means a third less highway mileage than the people would otherwise get," said Shivers.

"Tax money always dwindles in value," said the governor, "when it is sent to Washington for processing and returned to the states." LIQUOR REVENUE REPORTED—Liquor, legal and illegal, brought the state $2,450,414 in revenue during April. Largest part—$1,513,932—came from the beer excise tax.

A total of 505 criminal complaints resulted in 308 convictions, 50 jail sentences and $45,929 in fines.

Beneficiaries were the available school fund, old age assistance fund, clearance fund and others which received $2,203,518.

HOPE HELD FOR LABOR LAW

Champions of Texas' "right-to-work" law haven't given up the fight.

Railroad attorneys and Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd contend that the U. S. Supreme Court decision on a Nebraska law did not touch on the constitutional issues involved in Texas. This was pointed out in a supplemental brief filed last week with the Texas Supreme Court.

A ruling is expected soon from the state's high court on the hard-fought "Amarillo case" involving railroad unions' right to demand closed shop contracts.

Union leaders interpret the U. S. Court ruling as knocking out state anti-closed shop laws in the railroad industry. Shepperd and railroad lawyers say the decision, if anything, strengthens the case for the Texas law.

HIGHER AND HIGHER LEARNING

A rising skyline has been proposed to meet the University of Texas' critical classroom needs.

Pres. Logan Wilson suggests that the only two remaining sites on the original 40-acre campus be used for eight-story buildings. Most present buildings have four floors. For development five to ten years hence, Dr. Wilson recommends expanding to the east of the present campus in the area adjacent to Memorial Stadium.

"TV TRIAL" APPEALED

Fairness of the first televised murder trial in Texas history is being challenged in the Court of Criminal Appeals.

Defense attorneys charge that Dist. Atty. Tom Moore of Waco was more interested in "putting on a show" in the Waco trial of Harry L. Washburn, than in giving the man a fair trial.

LAW VIOLATION ADMITTED

Violation of Texas Election laws was admitted by C. T. Johnson in a deposition just taken in Austin. Johnson admitted spending $1,200 in travel expenses during his 1934 campaign for Lt. Governor, but reported only $125 to the Secretary of State. Previously he had testified under oath that he had spent "no more and no less" than $125.

positors still may have a long, weary wait for their money.

At one time State Liquidator J. D. Wheeler said he hoped to be able to start making partial payments after July 1. With that in mind a Fort Worth woman now seeks court action to designate her a preferred creditor because she is a depositor.

District Judge Charles O. Betts, pointed out proper procedure is first to seek priority with the receiver. If her refuses, creditors may appeal through the courts. This takes months, sometimes years.

SHORT SNORTS

Walter L. Bell has resigned as director of the State Board of Control effective Oct. 15. He has held the job since 1933. He has no immediate plans except to return to his Fort Worth home and rest.

Sandhills

Philosopher . . .

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm, as might be expected, is hard at work trying to figure out the angles on the soil bank, his letter this week reveals.

Dear Editor:

Now that Congress has passed and the President has signed the Soil Bank bill, I have been giving considerable thought to how I can put it into effect this year. After all, if Congress is going to the trouble of offering me help, the least I can do is figure out a way to accept it without stalling around.

As I understand it, the Soil Bank is now in effect, for this year, if I can meet the requirements, and I aim to try, because, since I suppose it'll be in effect not only next year but several years to come, anybody who misses out on this year has just missed that portion forever, and it's not Congress' intention or mine either, to miss out on anything as pleasant as getting paid for staying off my cultivation.

But what I can decide not to plant this year is a problem. However, I've been thinking. In view of the fact it would suit Washington mighty well to get rid of some of that money this year, and since all you have to do to qualify is to decline to plant a given number of acres this year, I have decided not to plant any Fall cotton this year. I will be glad to sign up on September 1 not to plant a stalk of that stuff this fall, and I figure if Washington is on the ball I should get my check before Christmas, maybe even before the election in November.

Of course, if Washington smells a rat in this deal, I have some other crops which ain't doing so well right now, in fact they could be turned back to grass like the Soil Bank stipulates merely by throwing my hoe away, and I would like to get those acres in at least. It's true I've already been to some expense in getting the crops up, but I figure this is a give and take proposition, and I'll make a sacrifice if Washington will make a bigger one.

Another thing I'd like to find out about the program is the possibility borrowing acres from your neighbors. Say a man has some extra energetic neighbor who doesn't want to put any of his land in the Soil Bank. Since the purpose of the bill is to reduce the surplus by reducing the acreage, could I borrow his allotment and transfer it to my farm? I figure if I could get enough borrowed acres, I could put my whole farm in the Soil Bank, and give not only my farm a rest but me and my equipment too.

After all, Washington ought to be willing to lean over backwards a little if I'm willing to sit down altogether.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

BEWARE ADVICE OF "BARRACKS LAWYERS"

You don't have to be a lawyer in order to form an opinion on a legal subject. However, it is bad business for a layman to pass such an opinion on to others to guide their actions. He may cause them to suffer substantial losses.

Because of the vast intricacies of the law, a simple set of facts often gives rise to difficult legal problems. In spite of this, there are many persons who persist in passing out legal advice on all problems, pointing the table, quoting rules, and loudly expounding opinions. Beware of those persons because their free opinions are usually worth what they cost, and often can be the unintended cause of harm to those who rely on them.

For example, George Jones owned a small drug store. He agreed to sell the store to Harry White at a time when he still owed $1,000 to various creditors for merchandise he had bought for the store. George and Harry were in the back room one night discussing who would pay these debts. George suggested they talk to a lawyer.

Just then Wilbur Knowall came into the room, and heard the discussion. He assured them that there was no necessity to see a lawyer. He told George to keep the debts, "to avoid complications." As to telling George's creditors of the sale, Wilbur said that was unnecessary because George was still liable to pay them. George and Harry decided to follow Wilbur's advice.

Several weeks later, after Harry had taken over the store, a representative of one of George's creditors came in and demanded that Harry pay the debt that George had incurred. Harry refused, but went to see a lawyer to learn that he had failed to comply with a Texas Statute in buying the store without giving notice of the sale to George's creditors. He further learned that the law was void as to them, and that he was liable for George's debts.

This is a common place example of the trouble you can get into when trying with the law. Experienced lawyers often must spend many hours researching a problem, advising their clients as to the best course of action to follow. It is therefore hazardous to rely on the legal advice of well-meaning friends. As in the case of Harry White, that is often the beginning of many headaches.

This column, based on Texas law, is given to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.

"The fact that man is the only animal that laughs is evidence of his superior intellect," says a psychologist. This so-called evidence is inconclusive, as nine times out of ten when he laughs it's because of some fool thing another man did.

NEW LOOK: SQUAT AND CHUBBY

Squatter, chubbier tires will be featured on the new 1957 automobiles rolling off assembly lines this fall. The smother-riding, fatter models are said to cushion shocks, bumps, and vibrations more easily than present tires.

Actually, in recent years, more than the shape of the tire has changed. Today's tires are made from materials entirely different from those of 15 years ago. Oil-based, man-made rubber has largely replaced the tree-grown variety as the principal ingredient, while petroleum-derived rayon and nylon have replaced cotton cord for tire reinforcement. This quiet revolution, brought about by the skill and ingenuity of the tire and petroleum industries, makes driving increasingly pleasant for motorists on the nation's highways.

Texas Oil Pioneers: A Series

Legend Of Fowler Well Disclaimed By Walter Cline

(Editor's Note: Sketch compiled from records of Oral History of Texas Oil Pioneers, University of Texas.
Persons who can contribute additional information, documents, or photographs of early oil fields should write to the Archives Collection,
Box 7767, University Station, Austin, Texas.)

After the Fowler Farm well came in at Burkburnett in 1918, and the owners sold out for $1-$800,000 and netted $15,000 for each $100 invested, a legend arose that still has wide currency and is often seen in print. According to the legend, the discovery was the result of a happy accident. As the first load of equipment was being hauled to the stake a geologist had driven in the corner of a cotton field, the heavily loaded wagon bogged down in the sand.
As part of the equipment was being thrown off to lighten the load, Fowler is reputed to have said,
"Just unload her here."

He had not, the legend says, expected to get oil anyway. He had got his neighbors to go in with him to drill in order to convince his wife that there wasn't any oil under the farm so she would consent to sell it.

If any man knows the facts in the case, that man is Walter Cline, for he drilled the well.

"Well, now, I heard that," he said in a tape-recorded interview at Wichita Falls, where he now lives. "I've heard it about the Fowler well and I've heard it about practically every discovery well that's been drilled in Texas in my time. I know it's not true so far as the Fowler well is concerned. We drilled the Fowler well right where we intended to drill it, and right where we drove our stake."

Cline was not new to the oil business when he went into the Fowler Farm venture. A native of Louisiana, he withdrew from Centenary College during his senior year because of the ill health of his father. After working a while at irrigation, he went to the Evangeline oil field where he did various roustabout jobs before going to Humble, Texas, in 1905. In the Humble area he was successfully derrick man, pump man, driller, scout, lease man and drilling contractor. In 1918 when the Fowler partnership was being formed, he had three rigs in North Texas,
one of which happened to be idle.
He furnished the rig for an interest in the well. It is doubtful if any drilling contractor was ever better paid for putting down a hole.

He remained in North Texas where he has given generously of his time to the community. He served as mayor of both Burk-burnett and Wichita Falls during the boom times when not the least of problems was finding classrooms and teachers for the hundreds of children the boom brought in.

Former Local Girl Never Absent

Miss Gorraiz Gets Degree, Sets Attendance Record

Bertha Louise Gorraiz, the 22-year-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Scott of Littlefield, received her diploma from Grand Canyon College of Phoenix, Ariz., recently after she closed a school career of perfect attendance for 16 years.

Born in Littlefield, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Scott of Phoenix, who are former residents of this city.

She has never been absent during 16 years of schooling, from the first grade through her senior year in college. And she's never been tardy either.

A physical education major, Bertha Louise, always has been outstanding in sports. In the 8th grade, she set a girls' broad jump record that stood for several years.

Later, at North Phoenix High school, she was voted outstanding girl athlete. In addition to her sports activities, she has been active in student government all through school.

Only once did she come close to missing school. During her high school days, she sprained an ankle and for a time it looked like no school. But Bertha gamely hobbled to classes on crutches.

After graduation, Bertha plans to join her husband, Pete, who is stationed at Castle Air Force Base, Calif., for a year, then begin a school-teaching career.

The first successful cotton mill in America still stands at Pawbuckett, R. I.

Easy Carpet Cleaning Discovery Hailed

What is said to be the easiest and "cleaningest" home rug cleaner, known as Blue Lustre, is now available after years of research.

Blue Lustre leaves no foreign residue to cause rapid re-soiling. The pile is left open and fluffy as the colors spring out with magic. So easy to apply with a long handle brush (like playing shuffleboard) and is safe for all types of carpets. Use Blue Lustre to clean the entire carpet or remove spots and traffic lanes. It's economical to use as 1-2 gallon of concentrate cleans three 9 x 12 rugs.
