MANY EXPRESS CONFIDENCE IN FOUR ACCUSED

COMMITTEE SEEKS TO CLEAR UP MASS OF CONTRADICTIONS

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—With witness after witness on record as having the utmost confidence in the four United States senators mentioned in William Randolph Hearst's Mexican slush fund documents, the senate investigating committee today tried to clear up the mass of contradictions surrounding the authenticity of the material in its possession.

Having heard emphatic disavowals from Senators Borah, Norris, LaFollette and Heflin, and having been told by the principal witnesses that they were confident no Mexican money passed to these members of congress, the task was to trace the documents, if possible, and question by members of the committee were directed to this end. George Hinman, former Mexico City correspondent for Hearst papers, who now works for Hearst in New York, was in Mexico City when John Page, a fellow reporter, got the documents, but he testified he never saw them.

Chairman Reed pressed him about his first information on the documents, but he repeated he merely heard from Mexican sources that they were in existence. He did not know whether his informant was the same as Page's, and knew nothing of the genuineness of the papers.

The witness said that Miguel Avila, the man who testified yesterday that he obtained the documents for Mr. Hearst, had told him that he believed some documents could be obtained from the treasury.

Records Subpoenaed
The committee has subpoenaed the records of all cable and tele-

Poll Tax Payments In County Very Few

With only 233 poll taxes paid in since the first of December, I. F. Holland, county tax collector, sits in his office with a worried look on his face.

January 1 is close at hand and approximately 50,000 people must be waited on at his office during the month.

Approximately 2,000 automobile owners must wait until January 1 to start registration of their cars and about the same number of qualified voters must pay their poll taxes during the month also.

37 NEW AUTOS SOLD

Thirty seven new automobiles have been sold in Lubbock county since the first day of December, according to the records in the office of county collector I. F. Holland. This brings the total of cars registered for the year to 785.

CIVIC FUNERAL IS PLANNED FOR FIRE VICTIMS

DEATH LIST IN QUEBEC BLAZE MOUNTING AS DEBRIS IS RAKED

(By Associated Press)
QUEBEC, Dec. 16.—With the recovery today of the bodies of three more children, the death toll of the Hospice St. Charles fire reached 26. Fourteen others were still missing.

QUEBEC, Dec. 16.—A civic funeral will take place Sunday for victims of the fire which Wednesday destroyed the Hospice St. Charles orphanage.

Announcement of the city's decision was made by Mayor Simard after a meeting of the finance committee. All expenses will be borne by the municipal and provincial authorities.

Burial will follow the group funeral service. On Monday a mass will be celebrated for the victims.

33 Bodies Found
Search went on today for other bodies believed in the ruins after 33 bodies, most of them children, were recovered. Seventeen children were unaccounted for.

The 35 year old orphanage, which had housed 500 children and a tumber of nuns, was a mass of ice-covered ruins. A modern wing, however, stood undamaged. The loss was estimated by the Rev. Mother St. Heloise at $250,000.

In the disaster, there were deeds of heroism, not the least of which was that of Miss Rosa Anna Goudreau, 17, who met death rescuing her young charges in the infant ward. After repeated trips into the burning building, on each of which she brought out a few sleepy youngsters, she made a final visit from which she failed to return. Hours later her charred body was found near a room in which several babies had been suffocated in their sleep.

Only Few Identified
Most of the recovered bodies were unclaimed, but only a few had been identified today.

The blaze started in the basement and had worked its way to the second floor when it was discovered by a passerby. The cause is undetermined. Before the work of rescue could be completed, the walls had collapsed.

HOUSE DENIED RIGHT TO MEET IN UPPER HALL

SENATE'S CHAMBER IS OFFERED BUT TROOPS PREVENT MEETING

(By Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 16.—National guardsmen again were stationed at entrances to the state senate chamber today by Governor Henry S. Johnston, preventing members of the house of representatives from accepting the invitation of the senate to meet in its rooms.

The governor withdrew the soldiers from the senate chamber Wednesday to allow the senate to meet as "citizens." The members, however, formed themselves into a court of impeachment.

Order is Approved
Before adjourning late yesterday the impeachment court issued an order that the house members should use senate lounging rooms and committee rooms as meeting places. It also ordered that the militia allow house members to obtain records from their chambers, which have been constantly under guard since Monday.

House leaders announced last night that the committees would take advantage of the senate court order and meet in senate rooms today.

Troops Added Today
Promptly at 3 a. m. today Adjutant General Charles Barrett added to the number of troops patrolling before the house of representatives hall and again roped off entrances to the senate, placing two guards at each entrance to the senate chamber and lounging room.

Senator C. H. Fawcett, of Tulsa, came to the capital shortly after the troops were stationed at the senate doors. The guardsmen said they would admit the senators to the chambers, but they had orders to allow no house members to pass in.

A group of about twenty house members were ordered out of Lieutenant Governor W. J. Holloway's office by a national guard lieutenant who followed the legislators into the office, accompanied by several guardsmen. The lieutenant governor was not in his office.

The lieutenant informed the legislators he had orders from the adjutant general not to allow house members to meet anywhere in the capitol. A spokesman for the legislators said the group had entered the office merely for the purpose of testing whether it could convene anywhere in the capitol, and that it had no intention of holding a business meeting.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 16 (AP)—Colonel Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States veterans bureau, was called before the federal grand jury here today to testify regarding alleged traffic in narcotics at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, where he recently completed a prison term.

A subpoena was issued for Forbes following publication of his assertions that convicts at Leavenworth were obtaining narcotics, despite efforts of Warden T. B. White to stamp out the evil.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16 (AP)—The government won a victory over counsel for Harry F. Sinclair and his associates today when Justice Frederick L. Siddons ruled the defense could not cross examine Frank J. POST SCHOOL GIRL KILLED, FOUR ARE UNHURT AS CARS CRASH IN HURRY TO GET TO CLASS BEFORE BELL IS RUNG

POST, Dec. 16.—Little Miss Talene Hancock, 14, a high school sophomore, was almost instantly killed shortly before 8 o'clock this morning in an automobile collision, in which her school-mates were the principals. Her skull was fractured when the car in which she was riding overturned, after being struck by another and lighter machine, driven by Jim White, another high school student, while the cars were making a turn on a street intersection adjoining the school grounds. Four other persons, occupants of the two cars, were practically uninjured in the crash.

As a witness, state her sister, Miss, age 16, were being taken to school in the family car, which was driven by their brother, Lloyd, 22. As a turn was being made at the school-ground corner the Hancock car was struck by a stripped down machine in which the White brothers, Jim and Guy, were driving to school. Both machines, which witnesses said were moving at a rapid clip, were overturned, the Hancock car being damaged beyond repair as it rolled across the street. Aside from a slight cut on Jim White's chin, no injuries were sustained by the other principal in the tragedy.

The dead girl was the daughter of L. P. Hancock, operator of a tourist camp, who with his family recently moved to Post. The White boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gary White.

STATE COUNSEL TEN HELD FOR RAPS BECKY'S DEFIANT MOVE IN COAL FIELD

HUSBAND OF ACCUSED GIRL TO MAKE PLEA FOR HER TODAY

(By Associated Press)
LA GRANGE, Dec. 16.—Rebecca Laury Rogers' real defense to the charge that she robbed the Farmers' National bank at Buda, December 11, 1926, is not insanity but the fact that she is a woman. District Attorney Fred Russell told the jury in her case here today. Mr. Russell opened the argument after considerable delay in opening court in which the defense prepared exceptions to Judge M. C. Jeffrey's charge to the jury.

Mr. Russell in his argument told the jury if it looked upon a woman with discrimination in a criminal case, its members would be supporters of good government. He reduced his case down to the question whether Mrs. Rogers knew right from wrong when the Buda bank was held up, apparently to counteract the plea of defense that Mrs. Rogers was insane.

Husband To Make Plea
Ois Rogers, husband of the defendant, member of counsel for the defense, is to plead this afternoon for the liberty of the young wife who nursed him through a serious illness which he incurred when he rushed to her defense after she was arrested. It was regarded as one of the outstanding gestures of his young husband whose loyalty to his wife has never wavered.

Other witnesses for the defense this morning were J. R. Coffman, H. J. Deer, W. B. Lee, all avowed members of the Ku Klux Klan, who testified they were present at a meeting in Burns' office the night before the alleged abduction. A number of character witnesses were introduced just before noon recess by the defense.

The state rested yesterday afternoon after offering testimony of only two witnesses, Dr. W. Y. Evans and his wife. Several defense witnesses testified late yesterday that Burns and the night of the alleged entry and abduction.

Burns Is Indicted In Tarrant County
FORT WORTH, Dec. 16 (AP)—Charged with theft, embezzlement and theft by bailee of $500 from Dr. C. O. Harper, Lloyd B. Burns, attorney, now on trial in Brown county on a charge of burglary, today was indicted by the Tarrant county grand jury.

Big Mail Rush In Lubbock Is Feared

With only a small amount of Christmas mail coming into the office now, Lubbock is due for the greatest mail rush season she has ever experienced, in the opinion of Postmaster John L. Vaughn this morning after the review's mail business had been reviewed.

Only about 3,000 parcels were handled by the office during this week. Mr. Vaughn reports when thousands more could have been cared for. The office is capable of handling more than 10,000 parcels in a week, he says. Next week's mail will bring between 15,000 and 20,000 parcels to the office, he estimated today.

Former Constable At Garland Slain

TEXARKANA, Ark., Dec. 16 (AP)—Virgil Grigson, 45, former constable of Garland township was shot below the heart shortly after 8 a. m. today, and died a few minutes after he was rushed to a hospital. Just before dying he is said to have named the man who shot him but authorities at this time decline to divulge the name. Grigson left his home about 5:15 a. m., and a few minutes later staggered into the house telling his son that he was shot and who did it. Grigson was a star witness in the Cotton business when the family lived here.

Opinion of the officers that the lad fell victim of foul play was somewhat altered this morning. The theory that the tramp, who went out of the cafe soon after the boy might have waylaid the lad for money is all wrong, officers say. The boy might have gone off with the tramp, however, they say. Workers at the cafe are of the opinion that the boy did not leave of his own accord.

Communications with nearby towns and officers are being made by the local police and it is likely that word of the boy's whereabouts will be known in a day or so, Chief John Lemond said today.

(By Associated Press)
BROWNWOOD, Dec. 16 (AP)—Rev. Pat H. Beckman, pastor of Riverside Baptist church, Fort Worth, testified for the defense today that he performed the marriage ceremony for Dr. W. A. Burney and Miss Madeline Hulin of Rising Star on December 29, 1926. He said that the first man he recognized was George Mayer, who, with Lloyd H. Burns and Dr. W. D. Litterer, all of Fort Worth, are on trial in district court here charged with forcible entry of the Brownwood home of Dr. W. Y. Evans.

MAN HELD AT GRAHAM IDENTIFIED TODAY BY BANK OFFICERS

(By Associated Press)
WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 16.—C. E. Penix, county attorney, announced Friday that a suspect arrested in Graham by Sheriff Jim Foster Thursday night has been identified by officials of the First State bank of Carbon, Eastland county, as having been one of the pair who held up and robbed that institution of between $5,000 and $6,000 last Tuesday.

Penix and Sheriff Foster also are investigating the possible connection with the robbery of three other men taken into custody at the same time as the man said by officials to have been identified.

More than $1,000 in bills of large denominations were found upon the persons of the suspects, Penix said. The bills, however, do not correspond as to denominations with the loot taken from the bank.

Number On Lyceum Course Is Tonight

A unique performance for local lyceum courses is to be given this evening at 8 o'clock at the high school auditorium, when the Kringsberg company appears under the auspices of the city P. T. A.

This program has been described as "an expose of spiritualism" and Mr. Kringsberg is said to do this through performing many of the thrilling spooky tricks employed by the leading mediums of America and Europe and then "taking off the lid" and explaining how it is done, proving that in spite of appearances there is nothing supernatural about the trick.

He will be assisted by Miss Esmeralda Martin, musician and young woman entertainer who is said to be able, blindfolded, to be-wilder her audience with accurate description of numerous articles submitted.

FOUR NATIONS ARE INCLUDED IN PLANS NOW

EXPECTS MOTHER TO SPEND CHRISTMAS IN MEXICO CITY

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will spend Christmas in Mexico City and then plans to make a flight from the Mexican capital to the Central American countries of Guatemala, Honduras, Salvador and Panama.

He expects his mother, Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, Detroit chemistry teacher, to come to Mexico City as the guest of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow to spend the Christmas with him.

Colonel Lindbergh himself telling of his plans in an interview with newspaper correspondents, said that the order in which he will visit the four Central American countries had not been decided.

He will fly from Central America to Havana and then from Havana directly home to St. Louis.

May Attend Bull Fight
Colonel Lindbergh indicated that he might go to a bull fight on Sunday. When asked about protests from the United States against his going to a bull fight, he replied: "I think Mexico is perfectly capable of choosing its own national sport."

Protests from organizations in all parts of the United States against his possible attendance at a bull fight continue to reach the embassy. About sixty all told have been received including one from Minnie Madden Fiske, the actress.

Diplomatic interest is intensifying in indications that Lieutenant Colonel Lindbergh's good-will flight to Mexico City apparently were also plans for extending his good-will mission to Central America. If this should be as effective as the American aviator's Mexico City mission seems to be it may mean a demonstration of good-will by one great dramatic gesture of much ill-feeling against the United States in Latin-America which

TIGERS AND EAGLES ON EDGE FOR CHAMPIONSHIP GAME TODAY

WACO IS GIVEN EDGE ON DOPE IN BIG BATTLE

TIGERS WANT FOURTH WIN IN SIX YEARS OF HARD PLAY

WACO, Texas, Dec. 16.—Two stellar high school football eleven—Coach Paul Tyson's Waco Tigers and Coach Dewey Mayhew's Abilene Eagles—were on edge here Friday a few hours before they were to meet for the Texas Inter-scholastic League gridiron championship.

Waco wanted to win its fourth state title in six years, while the Eagles were determined if possible to stop the Tigers as they did in 1923, when they came out on the long end of a 2 to 0 score.

Tigers Hold Advantage
Pre-game opinion gives Tyson's proteges the advantage for they have rolled up 718 points this season.

Despite the edge given Waco, neither of the contenders has met stiff opposition this season, and it is expected the winning team today will be forced to the limit. Waco can not expect a big early game lead, unless the Eagles are off form, nor can Abilene expect anything but a stiff battle from start to finish.

GIRL ABANDONS EFFORT TO SWIM ICY GIBRALTAR

TANGIER, Morocco, Dec. 16 (AP)—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, abandoned her attempt to swim the Strait of Gibraltar today. She started from the mouth of the Jous river at 2:30 a. m. and had covered more than half of the 27 miles which she estimated would be the length of her swim, when she was forced to give up.

Great interest had been aroused by the attempt of the English girl to perform a feat never before accomplished and regarded as about as difficult as ever attempted by a swimmer. Shifting currents and the possibility that sharks might be encountered were the two greatest handicaps of the unsuccessful attempt.

ROCKNE SAYS ABUNDANCE OF PLAYERS HELP ON 'WILD' GAME

THAT'S THE ONLY KIND OF A SYSTEM THAT HE FOLLOWS

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—Knut Rockne, famous football coach of the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, ridicules the stress being laid on systems in football.

"True, certain coaches have had much success with set systems, making specialists of certain players, permitting the quarterback to carry the ball and so on, but I have no time for any of them," he says.

"It's the players who make or break your schedule. Football is not unlike big league baseball. A manager can't win unless he has the players. So great a manager as Connie Mack finished last for seven seasons. No one knows more baseball than he.

"Give me the players. I like plenty of them. If I have a system, it is an abundance of players. Give me players with the requisite physical and mental qualifications and you can have all the systems in the world, yet I'll trim you.

"System is nothing but a pattern. Real players who have the ability, plus 'guts,' are the material from which the gridiron garment is made. Material is far more important than system.

"The coach cannot think for the players, run through a broken field with the ball, throw or receive forward passes or tackle the opposition after the game has started. He then becomes more or less negative.

"Give me the men and I will lick all the systems in the world," concludes Rockne.

Apparently for the last 11 years he has had the men. For in that time his teams at Notre Dame have suffered only nine defeats.

AGGIES SCORE GIANT VICTORY ON 'WILD' GAME

BANQUET IS MADE UP OF TEAM MADE UP OF WILD MEAT

COLLEGE STATION, Dec. 16.—By far the "wildest game" of the season was faced by members of the Aggie football team when they sat down to the wild game dinner given here in their honor by President T. O. Walton and Dean E. J. Kyle of the college as a tribute to their season's record on the gridiron. Juicy venison steaks, Texas Aggie wild with nicely browned breast of quail made up the piece de resistance of the dinner and the husky championship Aggies scored a devastating victory against this "game" fully in keeping with their victories on the playing field.

Dinner Walton's Idea
The idea of the wild game dinner was suggested by President Walton and the president himself bagged the venison for the occasion in Mason county. Dean Kyle was the hunter who supplied the quail, this delicacy being added to the feast following a hunting foray on the ranch of Charles Menke near Hempstead.

Rudolph and Seth Martin, A. and M. graduates of the classes of 1908 and 1911 respectively and two of the four sons of C. L. Martin, all of whom attended A. and M. were honor guests at the dinner. Seth Martin accompanied President Walton on the quest for deer at the Martin ranch and he and the president regaled the athletes with an interesting account of how the venison was bagged. Rudolph and Seth Martin made the long drive from Mason county in order to attend the dinner.

Athletic Council Present
Members of the coaching staff and the A. and M. athletic council as well as the football players were special guests of the occasion also. President Walton presided as toastmaster, presenting first Rudolph and Seth Martin, the honor guests, who spoke briefly.

"I hope," President Walton said in his short talk to the athletes, "all of you men will play the game of life as you played on the A. and M. football team here. No success will be beyond you if you play the game of life as you have played the game here."

A surprising feature of the affair, at least for the coaches was the presentation by Joel Hunt, captain of the 1927 Aggies, on behalf of the squad of gold watches to Head Coach Dana X. Bible and Line Coach Charles F. Bassett. Bible and Bassett expressed their appreciation in few words but words that were marked by deep feeling. Hunt, as retiring captain, spoke briefly and was followed by Z. W. Bartlett, captain of the team for 1928 and Captain A. B. Childers of the 1927 championship cross country team.

Other Speakers
Others who spoke, all briefly, included: Dean Kyle, Lt. Col. C. J. Nelson, commandant; Track Coach Frank Anderson, Freshman Coach R. G. Higginbotham, James Sullivan, business manager of athletics; Dean Charles E. Friley, chairman athletic council; W. A. Duncan, supervisor of subsistence, and Sikes, Sprout and Lister of the team.

In his talk, Bible nominated the Martin brothers, President Walton and Dean Kyle as the 1927 championship hunting team and the nomination was seconded and carried unanimously.

NICKELS REPORT ON OIL HOLDINGS IS DISCOUNTED

AUSTIN, Dec. 16.—Reports that Luther Nickels of the commission aiding the supreme court had written an opinion holding the "entire mineral permit system for the University of Texas lands unconstitutional" and claiming that the action was "important" were discounted by Judge T. B. Greenwood of the supreme court.

"No such opinion has been approved by this court. All the matters affecting such questions have been set for submission before this court on January 18," he said.

The court's action in withdrawing the "opinion" and taking the question to itself is understood to mean disapproval of the original projected ruling.

CAPONE HELD IN CHICAGO AFTER BANNED IN WEST

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, was arrested today as he alighted from a Santa Fe railroad train at the union station here. The police turned out in force to meet him and he was rushed to headquarters.

Capone had gone to Los Angeles with two friends for a rest, as he explained to police in that city, but found he was an unwelcome guest. Newspaper stories of his arrival in California led the hotel in which he was occupying a luxurious suite to demand his departure. Two Los Angeles detectives later accompanied Capone and his party to a train and saw them safely on their way back to Chicago.

COURT SLASHES REMUS' REPORT IN SANITY PLEA

(By Associated Press)
CINCINNATI, Dec. 16—The 4,500 word alienists report in which George Remus was found to have been sane when he shot and killed his wife here last October 6, was stripped to three paragraphs today by a ruling of Judge Chester R. Mook.

He sanctioned the objection of Charles H. Elston, co-counsel with Remus in introducing anything more of the report than the assertion of three psychiatrists that they had made a study of Remus, the Remus family, heard the evidence of the nearly five weeks of the trial and finally concluded Remus was sane.

Eliminated were three separate confessions by Remus to the alienists of his planning to slay his wife, the first time longer than two years before he actually fired the fatal shot.

In Good Condition
The American air hero, who is a guest at the American embassy, arose about 7:30 this morning and appeared in the pink of condition. He breakfasted lightly on eggs, toast, coffee and fruit and then strolled out onto the green lawn of the embassy court yard between the residence and the chancellery. He took deep breaths of the crisp mountain air and appeared to revel in the brilliant sunshine and gorgeous blue sky.

Colonel Lindbergh was so impressed by the beautiful weather that he commented on the perfection of Mexico City's climate which he is finding at its very best.

Lindy Will Appear For Plain People

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 16 (AP)—Paid the highest honor in the power of the Mexican government, Charles A. Lindbergh today was ready to gratify the desire of the plain people of Mexico City to see him before he flew away to other parts of Latin America.

During the course of his stay several public ceremonies will be held in the big athletic stadium, seating 20,000 persons and other enclosures so that all may see the flier. He has expressed willingness to fix over the city to gratify the public's interest.

To Fly To Panama
Lindbergh will fly to Panama, it was announced there, at a date to be determined later. He has under advisement invitations from several other Central American countries, including Nicaragua.

For the first time in history, the Mexican congress held a "solemn session" for a private citizen, when Lindbergh was received in the chamber of deputies. This was the highest honor congress could pay him as such a session is called rarely and only for the most important government officials.

Termed An Ambassador
Lindbergh is not a private citizen, but an "ambassador of goodwill to the Mexican people," the deputies decided by formal vote. He was therefore entitled to receive highest honors.

During the session, cheers for a president of the United States were heard, probably for the first time. The deputies gave "vivas" for President Coolidge, Lindbergh and Dwight W. Morrow, American ambassador.

The flier was presented with a gold medal by Dr. Alejandro Cerisola, president of the chamber of deputies. On one side was the Mexican coat of arms, on the other was inscribed:

To Colonel Lindbergh from the Mexican chamber of deputies in half of the congress of Mexico and in order to express our admiration for his noble feat and glorious mission."

Lindbergh stood on the rostrum beside the president and bowed in appreciation as deputies and spectators cheered. Then addressing the assembly, he said:

"I am thankful for all these distinctions which are being given to me in Mexico. I have not enough words to thank you for this."

The airman was lauded in speeches by several deputies. Afterwards a banquet followed at which toasts were proposed to President Coolidge, Ambassador Morrow and Colonel Lindbergh. President Calles and the airman, earlier in the day poured over a map of Mexico as the American explained, through an interpreter, his flight and some of the fundamental points involved in flying and navigation.

Probable Course Shown
The aviator's probable course from the time he lost his bearings at Tampico was plotted. He and the president decided that the plane moved in a big circle westward through the states of Morelia and Michoacan back to Mexico City.

Lindbergh listened to Mexican music until after midnight. An entertainment in his honor, was given by the foreign office in one of Mexico City's largest theatres.

Three thousand invited guests gathered there and the streets outside were thronged from early in the evening until Lindbergh left by crowds anxious to catch a glimpse of him.

PLAINS SCHOOLS SET HIGH MARK IN ASS'N ENTRY

CANYON, Dec. 16.—The schools of the Panhandle-Plains region are making greater strides toward efficiency and a high standard of work than those in any section of Texas. If entrance into the association of College and Secondary Schools of the Southern State may be interpreted as a correct indication.

Four More Admitted

At the recent annual meeting of the Southern Association, which is one of the strictest accrediting agencies in the United States, Olton, Slaton, Crosbyton and Pampa were admitted to membership. The superintendents of these schools are H. P. Webb, C. L. Sone, C. C. Owen and R. C. Campbell, respectively.

Panhandle-Plains schools, which are shown by the State Department of Education to have been member-schools before the last meeting are Amarillo, Lubbock, Memphis, Canyon, Panhandle, Plainview, Tulla and Falls. There are only 118 such schools in the State of Texas. Ten percent of them are Panhandle-Plains schools.

Olton One of Smallest

Olton is probably the smallest school in Texas which is a member of the association. It is a rural consolidated school having about 100 pupils in the high school. All children outside of Olton are brought to the school in trucks. This school is known throughout the State as one of the graph companies in New York relating to messages between Mexico and this country. It is confronted with the sweeping charges by Arturo M. Elias, Mexican consul general in New York, named in the documents as President Calles' intermediary to handle the money, that the papers given the committee by W. R. Hearst were forged, and the insistent story of Avila, a former civilian employee in the American army intelligence service that he saw the documents removed from Mexican archives in Mexico City and from the files of Elias' office in New York. Avila said he brought all the documents with Hearst's money, but not in the presence of witnesses.

Elias, waiving any claim to diplomatic immunity, told the committee under oath last night he had never seen Avila, until yesterday. Avila also under oath testified that he had talked with Elias several times; had taken a drink with him this year in New York.

Suggestion Eagerly Given

Finally Elias, who spoke willingly and eagerly, an 44-year-old, suggested to the committee that it examine the records of the cable and telegraph companies in New York to determine if the messages in the documents had been received or sent; and that it examine all the bank records of the Mexican government in this country to see if the money was ever received. This the committee decided to do.

Victor Watson, editor of the New York Daily Mirror, was called today when Hinman concluded his testimony, but he failed to respond and Hinman was asked to communicate with him.

After about ten minutes Watson reached the committee room, but Avila was recalled to the stand and he testified he was informed about the documents in the latter part of last May by Page.

"Are you certain about it?" asked Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas.

Didn't Talk Documents

Avila testified that he talked to Hinman about some expenses of American Protestant missions going to Mexico and not about the documents furnished to the committee.

Watson then was called, but before his examination began, Avila strongest of its kind. The practical subjects are taught as well as purely academic subjects.

was directed by Senator Reed not to go away.

Watson said he first heard about the documents on July 8, last from R. D. Coblenz, editor of the New York American, and said he saw them after the ranch of Mr. Hearst in California where he met Page and Avila.

"I was pretty well convinced at first glance," he said, "that they were genuine. I made no special inquiry into them then."

Tells Publication Plans

He told how publication then was planned with an "opening smash on the Japanese treaty," and said he investigated the authenticity of the papers.

"I concluded the best short cut was to plant a man right in the Mexican office in New York City, but Avila did not get the employment."

Watson declared he knew there was a tendency among the Mexicans to mix up foreign names. He wanted Avila to get in the Mexican office so as to confirm the documents.

"Didn't it occur to you that that would be asking Avila to confirm himself?" Reed asked Watson.

"I don't think so."

"Wasn't it asking a man to get other documents to prove documents he himself had produced?" Reed pressed.

"Yes but I don't see anything wrong in that if he could get the documents."

Asked About Errors

Senator Robinson asked if eight out of ten of the punctuation marks in the papers were errors. It would make Watson doubt the genuineness of the papers.

The witness replied that he had heard so much of the ignorance of clerks in Mexico that it would not have impressed him.

Recalled again Avila was questioned closely about his declarations that he had known Consul General Elias, and was asked to describe the consulate office. He did not recall particulars very well, but described the office and its location generally.

Avila said Ferdinand Lopez Portello, former secretary of Elias, but now in Los Angeles could confirm whether he was in Elias' office, from which he testified yesterday he had obtained some of the documents. Elias has denied ever having seen Avila.

New Coleman Well Fires Early Today

COLEMAN, Texas, Dec. 16 (AP)—Spouting smoke and flames more than 100 feet into the air, the Coleman and Smith oil well number 2, brought in at midnight Thursday, caught fire at 3 o'clock Friday morning and was still burning at noon.

The well is located on the J. P. Morris ranch, 8 miles north of Coleman, in the Webber survey number 721. It is making a 25 to 50 barrel head every 15 minutes, and heat is so terrific workers have been unable to quell the flames or block the well.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—An investigation "to the very bottom" of the source of the documents purporting to show creation of $125,000 Mexican fund for four United States senators was promised today by Chairman Reed, republican, Pennsylvania of the special senate committee.

After an executive meeting today the committee decided to go on to the end of the trail of the documents which Miguel Avila said he bought for the Hearst page.

The Story

The story of the boy who was born in a small town in the mountains of the West. He was a poor boy, but he was a good boy. He was a boy who was loved by all who knew him. He was a boy who was brave and true. He was a boy who was a hero.

Joe Craig

Joe Craig was a boy who was born in a small town in the mountains of the West. He was a poor boy, but he was a good boy. He was a boy who was loved by all who knew him. He was a boy who was brave and true. He was a boy who was a hero.

The Blazing Horizon

THE STORY THUS FAR
 The story begins in 1880, in the wicked little town of Caldwell, Kan., close to the Indian territory border.
 Tony Harrison, 13-year-old son of Jeff Harrison, a handsome gambler, is orphaned when Tom Benton, a cattle thief, shoots his father in a poker game.
 The boy is taken care of by Gordon W. Lilla, then a restaurant waiter and later to be known as Pawnee Bill; by Joe Craig, foreman of the Bar K ranch, who takes Tony to the Bar K to live, and by Colonel Titus Moore, owner of the ranch.
 Lilla thinks somewhat of joining David Payne, who is agitating for the opening of the Indian territory lands, but he gets an offer of a school teaching post in Pawnee and accepts it.

CHAPTER VI

Joe Craig rode up the gentle rise and when he reached the top he reined in his horse. "Just pull up a minute, Tony," he called to his companion. "Ain't that a pretty sight?"
 From a little eminence they could see the rough ranch house of the Bar K. South of them flowed the salt fork of the Arkansas several miles away; and in between was a vast herd, munching peacefully at the succulent grass.
 The sky was flawless and the earth a carpet of green. They had just returned from Colonel Lilla's ranch near Turkey creek with a small herd of yearlings. Other matters had intervened to delay their trip several days, but the job was done and the yearlings turned out to graze on some choice bottom land of Joe Craig's selection.
 Craig sighed. "You know, Tony, I sometimes think I should of been born a poet."

Tony Harrison smiled.
 "Yes," Craig continued, "I should of been. You know, it ain't right to look on a landscape like this without being able to express your feelings in the proper kind of words. I guess I would of been a poet, too, only I just couldn't seem to make the words rhyme. I can rope a steer with the next man and tame the meanest cayuse that ever reared back on two legs and pawed at the sun. But it just ain't in me to assemble words together so's they sound pleasing to the ear."

"Take the Salt Fork, for instance; the only words I could ever rhyme with them two was salt pork—and this is heek country, Tony."
 Tony threw his head and laughed—and the laughter fell like music on Joe Craig's ears. The shadow of tragedy that had fallen on Tony Harrison had not yet gone, but it was lifting, and under the magic of Joe Craig's warm companionship the blow had softened and the boy's moodiness was disappearing.
 His appearance, too, had undergone a change. Already he was healthily tanned, and a week of ranch life, with man sized meals for a razor-sharp appetite, had been like a tonic.

Joe Craig regarded his young friend in a pleased silence. He lifted his head and was about to speak when something in the direction of the ranch house caught his eye. It was moving toward them like a comet, only it was on a horse.
 Tony saw it, too. "Who's that, Joe?"

Joe smiled. "That? Oh, that's a cyclone, I reckon."
 He spat carefully at a dandelion. "It's got red hair, ain't it? Your eyes are younger'n mine."
 Tony squinted. "Yes, it has. It looks like a little girl. She rides like a Comanche."
 "Sont' you're all wrong. She rides like all hell turned loose. She's 12 years old and she's been in the saddle pretty near ten. That's Colonel Moore's daughter, Marguerita, and she's the boss of the outfit."

"He urged his horse forward. "Come on, Tony. We'll go and meet her before she breaks her neck."
 But Tony stayed irresolutely. He frowned. "You go ahead. I'll ride over by myself."
 "Why, Tony, that'd be downright impolite. You can't treat the ladies like that. Come on, son."
 He rode forward, waving his hat, but getting an answering wave from the little demon that was galloping toward them. Tony reluctantly followed.

Twenty yards away, the girl brought her horse to a sudden stop. The animal reared back on his hind legs and his rider rose in her stirrups. "Hi, Joe," she called.
 "Howdy, Miss Rita. How've you been? I declare to goodness your hair's redder than ever."
 "Behave yourself, Joe Craig. I'll tell my daddy to fire you if you don't stop teasing me."
 "Well, I can't help telling the truth. Miss Rita, this is my friend, Tony Harrison. He's staying at the Bar K."
 "Daddy was telling me about him." She studied Tony coolly, much to the boy's embarrassment. "I'm glad to know you," she said, "and we're very glad to have you with us. Joe, I'll race you back to the house." She wheeled her horse quickly and was gone, and Craig laughingly raced after her.

Rita Moore had inherited her red hair from her father. From him also she had inherited a mustertful disposition. She was the only person that Titus Moore did not rule with an iron hand. She was fiery, imperious; even the colonel himself was like so much putty in her hands.
 She and her mother spent most of the year in Kansas City, where Rita attended a boarding school. Katherine Moore had readily persuaded her husband that rough ranch life while it was desirable from many points of view, held forth very little in the way of educational opportunities for young girls.
 For Kansas City, that was a cosmopolitan. Katherine Moore had wanted her daughter educated in the east; the colonel thought Wichita was far enough removed from the base of operations, so Kansas City had been agreed on, with the colonel assenting to an eastern school when the time should come.

The colonel's wife was a slender, gentle creature with considerable pride in her blood. She was a Virginian and, what was more, a Pridemore. Above everything else, she worshipped her daughter, who heared as a lady and eventually to make the right kind of marriage. She disapproved of Rita's tomboyishness, although the colonel laughed at her and seemed to be quite satisfied, and she was forever fretting about the girl's recklessness. This latter with quite evident pride.
 Mrs. Moore sighed. "Marguerita" (she was the only one who called her Marguerita) "will do something foolish some day when she's a little older, and you'll see that I was right." Men, she added, didn't understand about such things.

"No? Well, I wouldn't bother about it if I were you."
 "That was the way such discussions always ended.
 As for Rita herself, the coming of Tony Harrison meant but one thing to her—that one more person was around to do her bidding. All of the cow hands, from Joe Craig down, had been her slaves, and there was no reason for her treating Tony any differently.
 The day after they had first seen each other, she came upon him while he was helping in the building of some fence. She jumped down from her small horse and looked on curiously.
 Finally she spoke. "Why don't you come for a ride with me?"
 Tony appeared to notice her for the first time. "I'm working," he announced briefly.
 "But I want you to come with me."
 "Can't." He turned his back and resumed his task.
 She appealed to a higher court. "Joe," she addressed Craig, "make him quit and come with me."
 Craig scratched his head and looked undecided. "Well, now," he began, but a stamp of her little foot, and a frown, stamped him.

"Tony," he said weakly, "you'd better get for a while. This fence can't be done without you for a bit. Besides, it's about 2 o'clock now, and I figure that's knocking off time for a youngster like you."
 When he had departed he gazed after them and shook his head hopelessly. "Heck," he said to the remaining man, "you just can't argue with her."
 Heck agreed. "She's just bound to have her own way, Joe."
 That evening Gordon Lilla rode up to the ranch on his way to Pawnee. He had been to Wellington, he said, to bid his family goodbye. On his return to Caldwell he had bought a horse. He told Joe Craig about his new job. "And I just had to ride a little out of my way to see how the Harrison boy was getting along."

Craig did not agree with Lilla on the wisdom of his decision. "You're going to keep one of them Pawnee bucks in after school some day to discipline him and the next day your scap will be dangling from his belt. Heard anything more of Tom Benton?"
 Lilla shook his head. "I learned there was a train holdup near Wichita a few days before we last saw him. The description of that one of the men sort of fitted Benton, if that means anything. You remember he had a lot of money on him—that little sack of gold coins."
 Craig nodded. "I wouldn't put it past him." He caught that curious look on Tony's face that he had seen before at mention of Benton's name, and changed the subject.
 Lilla told him of his encounter with David Payne, and Craig swore. "That man's just a plain fool. When you meet the colonel I wouldn't mention that you had any sympathy for Payne. That's one subject the old man can't stand."
 Lilla smiled. "Don't know as I blame him. Payne's trying to take his bread and butter away from him."
 He rode away the next morning, leaving a present of a book with Tony.

That afternoon the imperious little Rita Moore again got her clutches on the unwilling Tony and was the cause of his nearly being killed.
