Hugo leaves at least 12 people dead

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Hurricane Hugo punched this city of antebellum mansions with full fury and killed at least 12 people in the Carolinas before weakening Friday and trailing off inland to the north.

South Carolina's barrier islands were also hit hard as houses were blown off their foundations and boats were pushed ashore, stacked along the beaches two and three deep.

"Garden City for all practical purposes is gone," said M.L. Love, a Horry County administrator who toured the elite resort community near Myrtle Beach.

President Bush declared seven counties a federal disaster area.

"It is the worst storm, the worst disaster, I've ever seen anywhere," said Gov. Carrolll Campbell.

Hugo, downgraded to a tropical storm at 6 a.m., had lost all characteristics of tropical storm and was weakening, although the system had maximum sustained winds of 40 mph and torrential rains.

The storm's last location was in Pennsylvania, just west of Pittsburgh, at latitude 40.5 degrees north and longitude 81 degrees west. Officials said there would be no further tracking.

Campbell toured his state Friday by air, stopping to assist some people who waved him down for help.

About 50 people in the small coastal community of McClellanville were stranded by the storm, and some were standing on top of cars and waving at the passing helicopter.

Campbell's helicopter landed in a nearby baseball field, and the governor made sure the people got help.

Eleven of the U.S. deaths were in South Carolina, said Warren Hardy of the state's Office of Emergency Preparedness. The South Carolina deaths included an elderly man found in the rubble of a house in Charleston, and a power company employee who was electrocuted Friday as he worked to restore electricity.

Petitions filed to oust Big Spring mayor, councilwoman

By PATRICK CRIMMINS and BRIAN PEARSON
Staff Writers

BIG SPRING — For only the second time in this city's history, a drive is under way for not one but two recall elections, and the reason for the controversy is a familiar one: taxes.

The current drama's players are the Big Spring's new mayor, Max Green, Councilwoman Pat DeAnda and her daughter, Michelle DeAnda Rodriguez.

Ms. Rodriguez has filed a petition for a recall election to oust Green, a Big Spring accountant, from the seat he has held since May.

In a Friday development which came as no surprise to Ms. DeAnda, a citizen gunning to unseat her also filed a petition for a recall election.

"It's getting nasty," said Ms. DeAnda, whom was told by City Secretary Tom Ferguson about the petition against her. "I'm interested in finding out the reasons, but it's no surprise to me."

She added that she does not know the person who filed the petition.

The mayor should be recalled from his office because "he has prevented the fire and police departments from receiving enough funds for them to do their jobs and that he has refused to listen to the people of the city when they tell him they want city services and are willing to pay for them," according to a petition filed by Ms. Rodriguez with Ferguson.

But the drive may be on hold. The petition against Green was defective and has been ruled invalid, Ferguson said. If the petition becomes valid, it would be the first since 1971, he said.

"There is no petition currently being circulated," Ferguson said. "She (Ms. Rodriguez) will have to come back and fill out a new affidavit."

Green said he is "confused" with the drive to remove him, whether or not it resumes.

"Certainly I'm concerned about it," Green said. "And it is unusual simply because it really is based on the fact I did not go up on taxes."

Despite the recall petition's claims, Green said the fire and police department budgets will remain the same or increase.

"The council did not make substantial cuts in either department, no sir," Green said.

Green was asked if it was coincidence that Ms. Rodriguez is the daughter of a councilwoman.

"I don't think so, but according to a statement she made last night, she (Ms. DeAnda) is going to take the lead on this (petition drive)," Green said.

"I'm a one-step man," the mayor, a Big Spring resident since 1961, continued. "I just take it one step at a time. I'm just going to wait and see if the party or parties involved can obtain the proper number of signatures."

The mayor said he "has no problem" with Ms. DeAnda.

"I have made real sure that each member of the council has been granted equal time to speak," he said.

The seeds of the controversy were sowed during Green's mayoral campaign, when he became known as "No Tax Max." But during the city's recent budget sessions, he voted for a 3-cent tax increase to break a city council deadlock.

"I realized I had a deadlock among the council trying to set the rate," Green said. "A compromise rate was offered. I had to vote for a 3-cent tax increase to break the deadlock. But it got the council moving again, which I think is one of the jobs of the mayor."

Ms. DeAnda accused Green of ignoring the deteriorated conditions of city streets, water pipes, and fire and police departments by not voting for an 8 percent tax hike. That hike would be the highest possible without risking a public rollback election.

"My basic reasoning is that the mayor is not being responsive," Ms. DeAnda said. "He's not being responsive to the citizen's requests for a tax increase."

She said the citizens asked for the 8 percent tax hike at a recent public meeting, but the mayor chose the lower increase proposal.

NTSB member doesn't think truck's brakes failed

ALTON (AP) — Federal investigators initially found no evidence to support a truck driver's claim the brakes failed when his vehicle rammed a school bus into a water-filled pit, killing 20 teen-agers, an official said Friday night.

"From a visual inspection, we can find nothing to indicate a failure in the braking system," said Lee Dickinson, a National Transportation Safety Board member.

Dickinson said the visual inspection was 90 percent complete and investigators must conduct other tests.

The 10-member NTSB team of investigators planned to interview truck driver Ruben Perez and his assistant, who also was in the Dr Pepper truck when it hit the bus Thursday.

Perez told Texas Department of Public Safety troopers Thursday that the brakes failed on the truck, causing him to go into the intersection and hit the bus.

The bus, carrying 86 passengers, careened into a water-filled caliche pit owned by the city of Alton and immediately sank. It was the worst bus accident in Texas and the third worst in the nation's history.

More than 10,000 people filled the Tom Landry Stadium at Mission High School on Friday night to honor the bus accident victims.

"The emptiness that we feel will not be replaced again," said Sanjuanita Zamora, Alton mayor. "A part of our lives has been taken away from us."

Investigators spent Friday documenting the scene of the crash, an intersection outside this town of 3,700, and did not find evidence of "pre-skid marks."

"We found no pre-skid marks, which means we didn't see any evidence of braking on the part of the bus and the truck," Dickinson said. He cautioned that does not necessarily mean the vehicles failed to brake.

The NTSB found drivers at the intersection can see 150 feet of the intersecting road, Dickinson said. But investigators will test further the distance drivers can see on Sunday, when they plan to use similar vehicles at the same time the accident occurred to recreate what led to the mishap. The accident happened at 7:25 a.m., officials say.

Nineteen students were killed Thursday. Another, 15-year-old Yesenia Perez of Mission, died Friday morning at Mission General Hospital. Like many other students who were trapped in the overturned and sunken bus, the girl had inhaled a lot of water, said hospital spokeswoman Linda Thayer.

At least 63 people were injured after the bus tumbled into the 40-foot pit. One student and the bus driver, Gilberto Pena, 46, remained in critical but stable condition; another student was critical and unconscious at Mission General.

Truck driver Perez, 25, was treated at Mission General and released Friday.

Dickinson said urine and blood samples were taken from both drivers and said the drivers tested negatively in alcohol screening by the DPS.

Songwriter Berlin dies at age 101

NEW YORK (AP) — Songwriter Irving Berlin, who celebrated his adopted homeland with memorable melodies and simple but heartfelt lyrics in such standards as "God Bless America" and "White Christmas," died Friday night. He was 101.

Berlin

Berlin died in his sleep at 5:30 p.m., said his son-in-law, Alton E. Peters. Asked if Berlin had been ill, Peters said, "No, he was 101 years old. ... He just fell asleep."

Peters said nurses were with Berlin when he died but no family members were present.

An actor, singer, and songwriter, Berlin began his career in the early days of vaudeville and his songs for a time so dominated the stage and screen that the late composer, Jerome Kern, said: "Berlin has no place in American music. He is American music."

Bill Hartgrove, evening manager at the Frank Campbell funeral home in Manhattan, said services would be private.

Berlin, along with 11 other American immigrants, received a medal from President Reagan during the Statue of Liberty centennial celebrations in July.

Bunton expects to rule in suit by November

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

A federal trial that could alter the way Texans elect district judges concluded Friday in U.S. District Court with Judge Lucius Bunton indicating he will have a judgment before the Texas special legislative session begins Nov. 14.

Attorneys representing Texas minorities are seeking a declaratory judgment that could abolish at-large elections in Midland, Ector, Harris, Dallas, Lubbock, Tarrant, Travis, Bexar and Jefferson counties.

Rolando Rios, an attorney for the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project, said minorities want to replace at-large elections with single-member districts to stop the dilution of black and Hispanic votes.

However, Renea Hicks, a special assistant attorney general, argued during the non-jury trial that it is Democrats, and not blacks and Hispanics, who are losing elections.

Hicks said the low percentages of minority judges reflect the low percentages of minority lawyers.

The state's 190 judicial districts have a combined minority population of almost 30 percent, but only 5.3 percent of the judges are minority.

As the attorney general's office wrapped up its defense of the at-large system Friday, an expert witness testified that white bloc and Republican party voting is parallel.

"Partisanship best describes what's going on in these counties," said Dr. Dale Taebel, a political science professor at the University of Texas at Arlington.

Monahans may be site of power storage unit

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

ODESSA — While Texas Utilities Company is seeking a 10 percent rate hike tied to its $9-billion nuclear reactor, the electric power company is promoting the Monahans area for site of an experimental electricity-storage unit linked to the national Star Wars defense system.

"This will be a test to find out if you can store large amounts of electricity," said Bill Griffin, TU Electric's Western region manager. TU Electric is Texas Utilities Company's primary subsidiary.

The company's Comanche Peak nuclear reactor plant, which was projected to cost $750 million in the 1970s, has run up a $9-billion bill largely due to regulatory costs, inflation, peaked-out interest rates, and design improvements, such as those prompted by the Three Mile Island nuclear-plant accident in 1979, Griffin said Friday in Odessa.

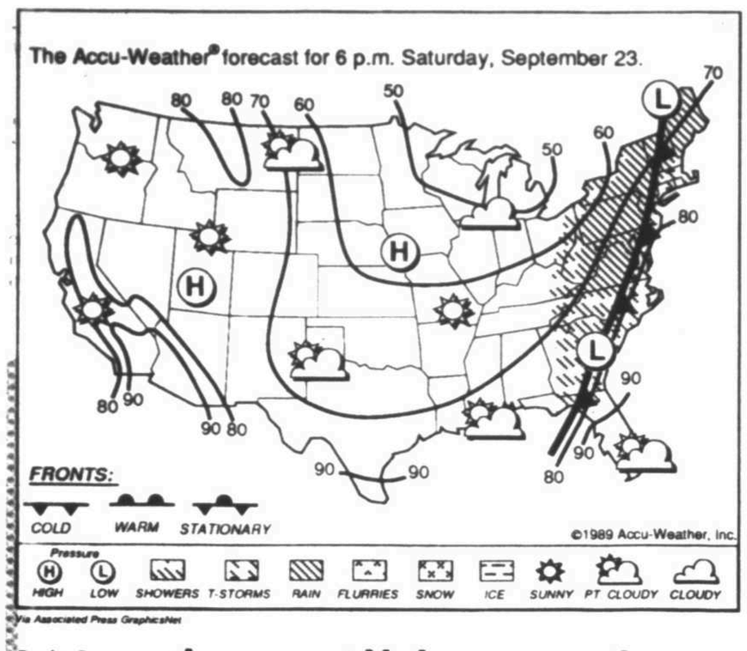

And power demands in Texas are increasing.

"The demand on the system has continued to grow every year," Griffin said. "Nuclear looks like the wave of the future." TU power is also generated by coal-, oil- and gas-fired furnaces.

In a six-year period, for example, Texas grew the equivalent of the city of Dallas, Griffin said. TU Electric provides power to about a third of Texas' population.

Weather will be cooler

From Staff and Wire Reports

Today's forecast calls for sunny skies with a high in the upper 60s with 10 to 20 mph northeast winds increasing to 15 to 25 mph by late morning, according to the National Weather Service in Midland.

Tonight will be clear with a low in the mid-40s, while Sunday will be sunny and a little warmer with a high in the mid-70s, NWS said.

Friday's record high of 100 was set in 1977. Record low for today of 47 was set in 1975, NWS said.

STATE

A cold front continued to push southward across Texas and had moved into the southcentral part of the state by Friday afternoon.

The frontal boundary stretched from near Texarkana, north of Austin to Del Rio. A Canadian ridge of high pressure was building behind the cold front.

Widely scattered showers dotted parts of the Permian Basin, Davis Mountains and the Rio Grande plains between Del Rio and Eagle Pass.

Other scattered showers were located well off the southern tip of Texas in the Gulf of Mexico. Skies were mostly cloudy over the Trans-Pecos and fair to partly cloudy over the rest of the state.

Temperatures were in the 60s in the rain-cooled areas in West Texas. Readings were in the 90s in South Texas while the 70s and 80s were common over the rest of the state. Late afternoon extremes ranged from 54 degrees at Guadalupe Pass to 95 degrees at Beeville.

The National Weather Service forecast fair to partly cloudy skies with temperatures turning cooler across the state Saturday. Highs Saturday will mostly be in the 60s and 70s except in the Big Bend valleys and inland south where temperatures will be in the 80s.

NATION

Hurricane Hugo lost some of its fury as it roared northward Friday, fading to a tropical storm and then dwindling to an unnamed storm that nevertheless brought heavy rain and the threat of flooding from Tennessee to New York.

Rainfall totals of 4 to 8 inches were possible in the storm's path, and forecasters warned that isolated tornadoes were possible from Virginia to Pennsylvania.

The storm produced 6 inches of rain at Savannah, Ga., in 24 hours.

Hurricane Hugo packed winds of 135 mph as it hit the South Carolina coast Wednesday night. Its eye passed just east of Charleston, moved northwest to just west of Sumter and entered North Carolina just west of Charlotte.

Showers and thunderstorms extended from Mississippi and Alabama to the lower Great Lakes region and New York state Friday afternoon. Heavier rainfall totals for the six-hour period ending at 8 a.m. EDT included 3 inches at Savannah, Ga., 1 inch at Myrtle Beach, S.C., and .98 inches at Birmingham, Ala.

Strong northwesterly winds were ushering cold Canadian air into the north central United States. Showers and thurderstorms were reported over southwest Texas and southern New Mexico.

Forecasters posted flood watches for western Massachusetts and western Connecticut and flash flood watches for Vermont and eastern New York state. They posted overnight freeze warnings for Minnesota, South Dakota, northwest Iowa and northern and west-central Wisconsin.

The cold spot in the nation Friday was West Yellowstone, Mont., with a low of 26 degrees.

HUGO

In North Carolina, a 6-month-old baby was killed in Union County when a tree fell on a house.

The center of the storm advanced farther west than expected, targeting eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and western New York before it was expected to wear itself out in Canada. It was moving to the north at 30 mph.

A hurricane is a heat engine fueled by warm, moist air over open oceans. When these giant storms hit land, they lose their wallop, although they can still manage considerable bluster.

Charleston, S.C., felt the full wrath of Hugo, which wrecked a string of Caribbean resort islands beginning early Sunday. As many as 27 people were killed in the Caribbean. About 50,000 people are homeless.

The city where the first shots of the Civil War were fired in 1861 was clobbered with 135 mph winds and a tidal surge of 12 to 17 feet. The storm, which at its height was as large as the state of South Carolina, flattened 30 buildings, peeled off roofs and flooded streets. Several people were believed trapped in a building collapse. Officials later said no one was found inside.

"There's just destruction everywhere," said Mayor Joseph P. Riley, who imposed a 6 p.m. curfew. He called it a "disaster of extraordinary dimensions."

Riley estimated damage at $1 billion in the city of 65,000 residents.

National Guardsman patrolled streets, and Campbell confirmed there was sporadic looting before authorities restored order.

Jo Smith rode out the storm in her 100-year-old house across from the Medical University of South Carolina, but said Friday she wished she would have left town.

"I thought I was going to die," she said. "The house was shaking. I could hear pieces of tin flying off (my) roof."

At least 900,000 people were without power in the Carolinas, officials said. The total included 200,000 or 85 percent of the homes and businesses in Charlotte, N.C., which felt Hugo's muscle even though it's 200 miles inland. The fraud and conspiracy trial of PTL founder Jim Bakker was canceled Friday because of the storm.

In addition to flooding, fires from natural gas leaks erupted in low-lying Charleston, where some tree-lined streets were under several feet of water.

At least 20 boats washed ashore, including a 50-foot craft that washed up on a city street, Police Chief Reuben Greenberg said.

Most of the historic antebellum mansions facing Charleston Harbor weathered the storm with little cosmetic damage, officials said.

But Fort Sumter, the first Union holding fired upon by the Confederacy at the beginning of the Civil War, suffered $1 million damage when a 17-foot wall of water passed over it, according to Constance Harriman, assistant secretary of the interior for parks and wildlife.

The Pentagon reported Friday that its Air Force base near Charleston appears to have sustained "catastrophic levels of damage," according to a statement issued in Washington.

Seventy miles up the coast, the elite vacation retreat community of Garden City was smashed, officials said. It was among the communities under an evacuation order before Hugo hit.

Love said destruction extended "as far as I could see."

On Pawleys Island, south of Myrtle Beach, authorities said at least 14 houses had been washed away. Three piers disappeared in North Myrtle Beach, Cherry Grove, and Garden City.

Amy Garrison of WKZQ AM-FM said a reporter who was allowed to tour the islands with civil defense personnel said houses were sitting in the middle of the road, roads were washed away and trees and power lines were down.

Refrigerators, air conditioners and washers and dryers were floating in the streets. Stairways that lead down to the beach were sitting in the streets.

Barrier islands, which were ordered evacuated on Thursday, were pummeled and flooded. Jack Sellers, a pilot from Columbia who flew people to the coast to look at their property, said Pawleys Island had about a 100-to-200-foot wide swath cut through it.

"There are now two Pawleys Islands, if you will," Sellers said.

He said two houses that had been on the beachfront were sitting 300 yards or 400 yards away in a marsh.

Bush's disaster declaration makes federal aid available for such things as temporary housing, low-cost loans for rebuilding and grants for repairing roads, bridges and other public structures.

Hurricane-force winds first hit the South Carolina coast at 9:15 p.m. Thursday. It was the first major hurricane to strike Charleston since Hurricane Gracie came ashore 70 miles to the south in 1959.

The eye passed over Charleston about midnight. A wall of water gushed into City Hall when a chunk of roof on the 188-year-old brick building blew away during the storm. Phone and electric service to the city's command post was knocked out.

"We've just been flattened," said Jerry Stafford, a spokesman for Santee Cooper Electric Co. "One building just peeled open like a can opener."

POWER

TU Electric, which was formed by the cost-saving merger of Dallas Power & Light Company, Texas Electric Service Company, and Texas Power & Light Company, is monitoring the United States Department of Defense's search for a site for its proposed Superconducting Magnetic Energy Storage Engineering Test Model.

TU Electric is offering the Monahans land site for the experiment.

"We have some property over there that we are making available," Griffin said. However, four other areas are vying for the system.

"They are building this as part of the Star Wars system," Griffin said. The $100-million power-storage test facility would be an experiment in storing electricity.

And if the experiment bears out the successful storage of electricity, then the DOD would build a unit to power the laser.

"To operate this laser beam takes a tremendous burst of energy for a short period of time," Griffin said. "You charge it up at full capacity and draw it off in a short period of time — in one minute or so."

Laser experiments are going on at White Sands, N.M., Griffin said.

Following a multiplicity of tests and operations, the test unit paid for with taxpayers' money, would then "give it to the host utility," which would provide the power to test the experiment.

"Then we (TU Electric) could use it, hopefully, for research. It's got commercial viability. If it works, then you could build big ones," Griffin said. And in that case, he theorized, "You could put it (power) in at night and take it out in the daytime."

Griffin said TU Electric has the power to service the experiment.

"You've got to have a utility company with a strong enough system to take that surge of energy pouring into its system," he said. "In a system like ours, it's kind of a blip. We can handle it all right."

Further, the Monahans area has the flat, stable land required for the experiment.

"TU would like to have it as part of its research system," he said. "The government is real high on it, because it has got commercial viability."

When Texas Utilities Company seeks the 10 percent rate approval from the Public Utility Commission of Texas, Griffin said, "the commission will be asking the power company: "Are you managing your business in a prudent manner?"

BUS

The investigators plan to interview students who survived the accident Tuesday and will complete their field work in four to eight days, Dickinson said. A report to the full safety board on the causes of the accident will be made within a year.

At the site of the accident, a wreath of blue and white flowers shook in the wind Friday morning as streams of motorists drove by, some stopping to mourn.

"You can only do so much," said firefighter Raul Garcia, looking into the pit where the day before he helped rescue dozens of students and recover the bodies of others trapped in the submerged bus.

He and a few other men had propped the 4-foot wreath of carnations at the edge of the pit. "On behalf of the Alton Volunteer Fire Department," its banner read.

In the small south Texas towns of Alton and Mission, many drove with their headlights on as a sign of mourning, and flags were at half-mast.

Alton, which is about 15 miles from the Mexico border, is part of the Mission school district. Classes were canceled Friday.

"It's very quiet here," said Dina Chapa, Mission High School assistant principal. "There was no time to take anything down ... I haven't focused on that today. We're just trying to get on, I guess, and help out as much as we can.

"What we're doing right now is collecting the (victims') personal belongings from lockers and ... giving out information, finding out when the funerals are for the students," Ms. Chapa said.

The DPS said Friday that 86 people were on the bus, rather than 81 as previously reported. DPS Sgt. Israel Pacheco said several students who escaped the bus with minor injuries walked away from the accident and were not immediately counted.

The bus was designed to carry 83 people, according to the manufacturer. Texas law sets no capacity limit, but says one student can be standing for each seat in a bus.

Hidalgo County District Attorney Rene Guerra, who visited the scene, said the case will be presented to the next grand jury.

Both drivers had records of traffic violations, the DPS said. Truck driver Perez was convicted of speeding in 1987. Bus driver Pena was ticketed for running a red light in March 1988, but records didn't indicate whether he was driving a school bus at the time.

On May 11, his 101st birthday, Berlin continued his practice of not paying much attention to his personal holiday. A year earlier, he had declined to attend a gala on his centennial that included tributes from celebrities like Frank Sinatra.

Berlin, whose musical career began when he got a job as a singing waiter, wrote nearly 1,000 songs, from his first big hit, "Alexander's Ragtime Band" in 1911, to "Puttin' on the Ritz," which was revived in 1983 by the Dutch singer Taco and was a hit on the rock charts.

He was an immigrant Russian whose "God Bless America" became the nation's unofficial second national anthem. A Jew, his "White Christmas" and "Easter Parade" became Christian holiday traditions.

Berlin played the piano by ear and never stopped making what he described as "songs with heart." Even in his 90s, he talked of adding yet another musical to his credits, which included 19 stage musicals and 15 movie scores.

At the peak of his career, one smash followed another so readily that Cole Porter once said Berlin "can't help but write hits."

"A Pretty Girl Is Like A Melody," one of many Berlin wrote for the Ziegfeld Follies, became the unofficial theme song for every Ziegfeld extravaganza.

The biggest names on Broadway played in his musical successes, which began in the World War I era with "Watch Your Step," starring Irene and Vernon Castle, and ran through such post-World War II hits as "Annie Get Your Gun" and "Call Me Madam," both with Ethel Merman.

His last Broadway show was "Mr. President" in 1962.

In Hollywood, Berlin did the scores of "Top Hat," starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers; "Holiday Inn" with Astaire and Bing Crosby; "Blue Skies"; "Easter Parade"; "White Christmas"; and "There's No Business Like Show Business."

His music-publishing empire earned him a fortune, which he readily shared with his country in wartime or with favorite causes.

Berlin was awarded three medals for his works and a special Tony award for his contribubtion to the musical theater.

Explaining the seemingly endless gusher of successful songs, Berlin said his tunes were merely rewrites of seven or eight of his best numbers. "All good songwriters have no more than half a dozen good tunes in their systems, and if they have that many they're liberally blessed," he once said.

Celebrity and great wealth didn't seem to touch the shy personality of the intense, short man with slicked-down wavy hair and dark glasses. He lived a simple life, centered around his songwriting and his family — his late wife, Ellin, and their three daughters.

Berlin's wife died of a stroke at age 85 in July 1988. Berlin is survived by his three daughters, Mary Ellin, Linda and Elizabeth.

In Midland County — otherwise known as GOP territory — Republican candidates generally receive the support of 87 percent of the county's white voters, he said.

Although Taebel described the Midland County voting pattern as "schizophrenic," he said it in no way proves that whites are voting along racial lines to intentionally exclude blacks and Hispanics from the process.

Taebel said the patterns are consistent across the board.

"It's amazing how consistent the voting pattern is from county to county," he said.

DEATHS

Virginia Barrett

Services for Virginia Hodgson Barrett of Midland will be at 3 p.m. today at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity with Revs. Allen Whitman and Marshall Mason officiating. Interment will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park with Ellis Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

She died Friday morning at a local hospital.

She was born April 26, 1914 in Fort Worth where she was reared and graduated from Central High School in 1930. She worked for various doctors and then married A.T. Barrett Jr., on Aug. 6, 1938 in Fort Worth. They lived in Dallas and Alpine before returning to Fort Worth. In 1943 they moved to Midland. Her husband preceded her in death on Jan. 30, 1987.

Mrs. Barrett was a member of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity and was a charter member at St. Nicholas. She was active in both churches and was in the All Saints Guild at Holy Trinity.

Survivors include one son, Tom Barrett of Houston; two daughters, Betty Kemp of Midland and Martha Sorrell of Austin; one brother, George Hodgson of Vancouver, Wash.; four sisters, Josephine Halsell of Fort Worth, Helen Cartwright of Dallas, Margaret Wynn of Midland and Betty Shirley of Galveston; seven grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

The family requests memorials be directed to the Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity Building Fund or to Hospice of Midland.

Carolyn Minnerly

LITTLEFIELD — Carolyn Minnerly, 79, of Lubbock and a former 30-year resident of Midland, died Friday morning at a Lubbock hospital.

Services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at First Baptist Church of Littlefield with Dr. Darwin Scott, pastor, officiating.

Graveside services will be 4 p.m. Monday at Resthaven Memorial Park in Midland. Arrangements are under the direction of Hammons Funeral Home.

She was a past national president of the Desk & Derrick Club while in Midland. She moved to Lubbock in 1980.

She was active in Women's Club and Newcomers Club, holding offices in both groups. She was a member of St. Nicholas Episcopal Church, Midland.

Survivors include: one daughter, Susan Garms of Littlefield; one brother, Gary Troy of Malibu, Calif.; one stepson, Bill Minnerly of West Bend, Wis.; one stepdaughter, Mary Lou Coburn of Kansas City, Kan.; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

RECALL

"It's not giving us anything," she said. "They misled the citizens of this city. We cannot continue repairing things with a Band-Aid technology."

Green, referring to Ms. DeAnda's comments, said, "She just has a different philosophy than I do. Her's is just spend money."

Green says has no regrets about stepping into the public eye.

"No, I have absolutely no regrets at all," he said. "My goal is to get Big Spring moving to become a very aggressive town again, to get things rolling. We are not competitive taxwise."

He pointed out that the 71-cent ad valorem tax rate is higher than Midland's.

The petition needs to have signatures equal to 35 percent of the number of voters in the last regular city election. If the signatures are verified — and 804 are needed — it will be presented to the City Council. The council then will call the election.

If the voters decide to recall Green from office, the council then will appoint a new mayor.

Girl who jumped out of car in 'extremely critical' condition

From Staff Reports

A 15-year-old Midland girl who leaped from a moving car was in "extremely critical" condition in Midland Memorial Hospital late Friday, an MMH spokesperson said.

Jennifer Reynolds suffered severe head injuries Thursday when she jumped from a car traveling in 500 block of West Indiana Avenue, Midland police said.

Officials said the girl was riding with her mother, Debra Norris Coombs, 32, at the time of the accident.

First funeral held for accident victims

By KELLEY SHANNON

ALTON (AP) — The funeral was for a 12-year-old girl, but the mourning was for a multitude Friday in this small town where 20 children plunged to their death in a bus on their way to school.

"We ask consolation for all of these parents and all of these children, all of these classmates, all of these friends that are here," the Rev. Frank Gomez prayed in tiny San Martin de Porres Catholic Church, where about 500 people came to the funeral of junior high school student Elda Patricia Cruz.

She was the first to be buried of 20 students who died after a truck rammed their school bus Thursday and sent it tumbling into a gravel pit filled with water.

At least 63 people were injured; three of them remained in critical condition late Friday.

"Everybody knows everybody around here. We feel real bad about this family, about everybody's family," said Maria Elena Diaz, a neighbor who said she watched Miss Cruz grow up in a colonia just outside Alton.

"Sometimes we can't understand it, what happened," Ms. Diaz said. "To me it's like a dream, a bad dream."

Mourners, many of them students, filled the church to overflowing for the bilingual service.

Gomez told parents not to blame themselves or think the children did anything wrong.

"It doesn't help to say why him or why her. Only God knows," Gomez said in Spanish and English.

At Tom Landry Stadium in Mission, where Alton students go to school, a solemn memorial service replaced the Friday night football game.

"We're all going to pray for the families and we're going to give thanks to God for everything. He knows what he does," said Martha Yulia Garcia of Alton, one of dozens of people who began arriving at the stadium hours before the service.

Clements names bus accident investigation team

AUSTIN (AP) — The governor's office Friday assigned a team to investigate the south Texas school bus accident that killed 20, while the Texas Railroad Commission and lawmakers called on Gov. Bill Clements to open a special legislative session for consideration of stronger safety regulations.

The four-person team, headed by Clements' general counsel Rider Scott, will recommend whether to toughen bus safety laws and regulation of gravel and caliche pits, said Rossanna Salazar, the governor's press secretary.

The 20 students died and at least 63 people were injured when the bus collided with a truck Thursday and toppled into a water-filled caliche pit in Alton, near Mission.

Railroad Commission Chairman Kent Hance said in a letter to Clements that legislation is needed so the state can regulate the pits.

"The commission should be allowed, at a minimum, to order the installation of guard rails at roadside pits," Hance said. "At a maximum, the commission should be allowed to order the complete restoration of these pits to their original condition."

Thousands of caliche pits line roads throughout south Texas, a legacy of contractors who dig up the gravel-like material for road bases.

No guard rail or fence separated the Alson pit from the roadway 20 feet away, and there were no warning signs. Across the street, however, a barbecue pit was surrounded by a fence.

"Why can't we have guard rails put up here instead of around a barbecue pit?" asked the Rev. Leonard Simons, a local minister, while inspecting the site Friday.

State Rep. Kim Brimer, R-Fort Worth, said Friday legislation he introduced earlier this year would have allowed counties and municipalities to regulate open sand and gravel pits by requiring them to be a certain distance from the road.

It also would have regulated the grade of the slope around such pits, designate truck routes and set guidelines on a closure plan, he said.

Brimer said the powerful Texas Aggregates & Concrete Association "lobbied hard against the bill." A compromise bill was killed on the House floor on a technicality.

State Sen. Carlos Truan, D-Corpus Christi, asked Clements to expand the agenda of the November special legislative session to include school bus safety proposals.

Truan said legislation may be needed to require strong guard rails around gravel pits and increase the frequency of truck inspections — now annual — to keep trucks with faulty brakes off the road.

The driver of the soft-drink truck involved in the accident reportedly said his brakes failed before he ran a stop sign and into the bus.

Truan, who represents Alton, is asking the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation to help draft new safety laws.

The state's worst school bus accident also renewed questions about bus safety.

Attempts to require school districts to equip new buses with seat belts have been defeated in the Legislature several times, most recently during this year's regular session.

State Rep. Eddie Cavazos, D-Corpus Christi, said seat-belt legislation he sponsored was defeated because of pressure from school administrators who claim it cost too much.

A Texas A&M University safety researcher said proposed changes to school bus emergency exits could have helped free more students in the Alton accident.

'Mystery' witness fails to appear

Lawyer says witness knows who poisoned oak

AUSTIN (AP) — The attorney for the man accused of poisoning the historic Treaty Oak said Friday he has a witness who knows that others did it. But when they called the witness to the stand, he wasn't there.

The hearing before State District Court Judge Bob Perkins to determine whether to reduce the bail of Paul Stedman Cullen was reset for Monday to hear from the witness.

Since his arrest June 29, Cullen, 45, of Elroy has been in the Travis County Jail in lieu of $20,000 bond. He is charged with felony criminal mischief in connection with the poisoning of the centuries-old Treaty Oak with the herbicide Velpar. Police say the attack was part of a ritual.

The charge carries a maximum punishment of 20 years in prison and $10,000 fine, but Cullen could face an enhanced sentence of life in prison because of previous convictions.

The fate of the live oak tree, which has drawn international attention, is uncertain. Tree experts working to rescue it say it may be another year before they know whether the tree will survive.

Cullen's attorney, Richard Jenkins, wants the bond reduced to $5,000.

Jenkins called a witness to the stand, who he said knew of others who committed the crime, but the witness did not show up.

Travis County Assistant District Attorney Kent Anschutz said, "This is the first time that I've heard of this mystery witness."

A friend of Cullen's, Larry Bussert, who attended the hearing, told reporters that Cullen would not have poisoned the tree. "Paul is a kind-hearted person," he said. "He loves to see beautiful lawns, he likes to see nice flowers and beautiful trees."

> "Paul (Cullen) is a kind-hearted person. He loves to see beautiful lawns, he likes to see nice flowers and beautiful trees."
>
> — Larry Bussert, friend of man accused of poisoning oak

Bussert, 49, said if Cullen gets out of jail he can live with him in his bus.

Bussert said he met the witness who allegedly claims to know that Cullen did not attack the tree, at a pool hall, and forwarded the information to Jenkins.

Jenkins of Dallas refused to talk with reporters following the hearing and left quickly.

During the hearing, Cullen took the stand and testified that he has never jumped bail. "I've always just appeared in court on time, never been late," he said.

Cullen answered questions directly and often smiled during the proceeding.

Bussert said Cullen, a thin man with a mustache who was wearing green prison clothes, looked well.

He said Cullen had been "screwed up" on methadone, but that in court "he looked very good, he looked not confused or anything."

Cullen said he spoke with his family and friends and was unable to make $20,000 bail, but could make $5,000.

Prior to his arrest, he said he lived in a truck that he had converted into an apartment.

He listed his assets as a truck, clothes, books, and a guitar. "That about covers it right now." He said he earned about $10 to $20 per day. "I do casual labor, paint houses and mow lawns."

Under questioning from Anschutz, Cullen said he has been in trouble with the law since 1964.

That year he was convicted of burglary in Virginia; four years later he was put on probation in Los Angeles for driving-while-intoxicated and possession of marijuana. He broke his probation there, he said.

In 1983, he was put on probation for DWI in Mineral Wells and later was put on probation for a burglary charge in Travis County.

In 1986, he was sent to the Texas Department of Corrections after his probation was revoked. Cullen said his probation was revoked because he was in arrears on payment of his fine.

Cullen said if allowed to leave jail on bond he could live with "either a girlfriend or a friend in court," referring to Bussert.

Cullen's father, Paul S. Cullen, of Lawton, Okla., and a retired military colonel, also testified, saying he could help his son make bail if it were reduced to $5,000.

Edsel Pearson, the man who owned the land Cullen lived on, said he had no Velpar, the herbicide used to poison Treaty Oak, on his property for 3½ years.

He said Cullen was a good worker.

Pecos residents to attend ship christening

PECOS (AP) — Seventeen Pecos residents were invited to New Orleans for the christening and launching of the USNS Pecos, a Navy refueling vessel.

The ship is the eighth of 16 new noncombatant auxiliary vessels built by Avondale Industries, Inc. to replace the last of the Navy's World War II oilers.

The ship, to be launched today, will be operated by Military Sealift Command and manned by civil service crews.

"We received a letter from the U.S. Navy informing us the ship was named the USNS Pecos and asking us if we wanted to send a delegation," said Suzi Belles, Pecos Chamber of Commerce secretary.

She said the ship was named after the Pecos River, which runs through West Texas and empties in the Rio Grande.

The Pecos will be stationed at its homeport in Oakland, Calif.

Crashed USAir jet pilot, co-pilot have licenses suspended

NEW YORK (AP) — The captain and first officer of the USAir jet that skidded into the East River had their pilots' licenses suspended Friday and met with federal investigators looking into reports of irrational cockpit behavior.

Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Fred Ferrar announced the suspensions in Washington, but provided no details.

A source who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity said the only way to explain license suspensions so early in the investigation was that the pilot and co-pilot left the scene of the accident, which killed two of the 61 people aboard the Charlotte, N.C.-bound flight.

Martin

The captain of the six-member flight crew, Michael Martin, and first officer Constantine Kleissaf met Friday with National Transportation Safety Board investigators to discuss the crash, said acting NTSB Chairman James Kohlstad. He would not say where the questioning was taking place or what was being discussed.

Martin's whereabouts were unknown the day after the crash, although NTSB spokesman Ted Lopatkiewicz said that was not unusual in plane crash investigations. Kohlstad said both pilots went to a hospital for treatment Thursday, which he said partially explains their absence.

"We suspect (pilot Michael Martin's) behavior may have played a part in the accident."
— Law enforcement source

"I don't feel they've hampered the investigation," said Kohlstad. "It is difficult for me to say they were stonewalling us."

Investigators arranged Thursday through the pilots' union and the airline to interview the pilots, who appeared without being subpoenaed, Lopatkiewicz said.

After the Boeing 737 ran off a runway at LaGuardia Airport late Wednesday, Kleissaf reportedly claimed Martin had been acting irrationally just before he ordered the takeoff aborted.

The NTSB requested blood and urine tests for drugs and alcohol from the pilots, although neither has said if he will provide them, Lopatkiewicz said. They are not required by law to do so.

In another effort to determine what caused the crash, investigators began removing pieces of the plane from the East River on Friday morning, said Port Authority spokesman John Hughes. The 11:29 p.m. crash Wednesday cracked the plane into three pieces, which were partly submerged.

The NTSB said it analyzed the plane's flight-data and cockpit voice recorders Thursday. The data showed Flight 5050 swerved slightly instead of moving straight down the runway and had some deviations in rudder movement, but it was not immediately clear how that affected takeoff, said Kohlstad.

Local law enforcement officials were investigating reports that shortly after the crash, Kleissaf told Port Authority police the pilot was behaving oddly in the cockpit.

"We suspect (Martin's) behavior may have played a part in the accident," a law enforcement source said.

Kleissaf was quoted as saying that he was at the controls of the jetliner as it roared down the runway when Martin started "mumbling and acting irrationally," newspapers reported Thursday.

The investigators also said Kleissaf told them at the scene that as the plane accelerated, Martin shouted at him to abort, then started screaming.

The Queens district attorney subpoenaed airline officials to produce Martin's overnight bag, but did not say why.

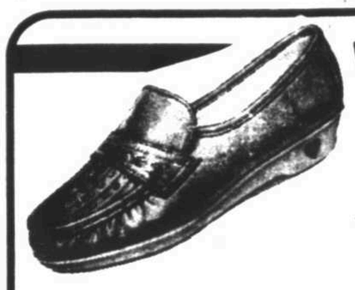

The New York Times reported that according to airline industry officials, the captain had flown 737s for only two months and the first officer was in a 737 cockpit crew for the first time.

FAA records show Kleissaf received his commercial pilot's license in October 1987 and an instructor's license six months later. His FAA record is completely clean, said FAA spokesman Bob Hoppers in Oklahoma City, Okla.

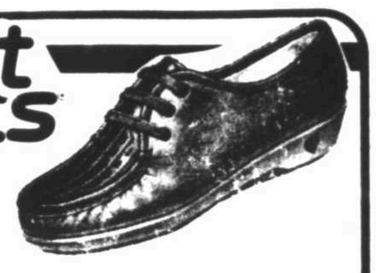

Killed in the crash were passengers Betsy Brogan, 37, of Gray, Tenn., a nurse and mother of a 5-year-old boy, and her mother-in-law, Alyce Brogan, 69, of Vixton, Va. The deaths were USAir's first in 17 years.

The plane was delivered in January and had no history of mechanical problems, said airline spokeswoman Nancy Vaughan.

In June, the FAA ordered most Boeing 737-400s grounded because of two incidents in which engines failed. Airlines were ordered to replace certain engine parts.

U.S., Soviet negotiators reach tentative accord

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (AP) — Led by U.S. Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze, negotiators reached tentative agreement Friday on two measures to lower nuclear tensions and appeared on the verge of a third accord.

Officials said Baker and Shevardnadze, meeting within sight of the snow-capped Rocky Mountains, were close to a pact that would send scores of U.S. observers to the Soviet underground nuclear test site to ensure that the tests did not exceed limits set in 1974 and 1976 treaties.

In exchange, Soviet monitors could go to the U.S. underground testing facility in Nevada.

Tentative agreement on the other two accords — announced at a briefing by a Soviet official while Baker and Shevardnadze were on a lunch break — dealt with strategic nuclear arms.

The Soviet official said one pact provides for advance notice of military exercises.

The other, he said, was an agreement in principle for "trial verification" of each other's stockpiles of long-range nuclear weapons.

Some of those arms, such as cruise missiles carried aboard submarines and surface warships, are hard to track. This has slowed completion of a treaty to slash stockpiles of bombers, missiles and submarines by 30 to 50 percent.

The Soviet official said there were still differences over which weapons to expose to inspection. He said the United States was concentrating on Soviet mobile missiles, while the Soviets wanted to check on a broader range of arms and factories.

Still, the headway on arms control reflected a generally good atmosphere.

Not all went smoothly, though. One U.S. official, who requested anonymity, said Baker had complained to Shevardnadze about "tremendous increases" in Soviet bloc weapons shipments to Nicaragua and Cambodia.

Posing for pictures at the start of two days of talks here, Baker and Shevardnadze looked over a meadow with the snow-dusted Grand Teton mountains just beyond.

Two moose grazed in the sun-lit flats at the base of the peaks.

Baker joked that the animals had been chained to provide a bucolic backdrop.

In the negotiations, the emerging agreement on inspection of underground nuclear test sites could end a 15-year dispute.

The U.S. monitors, using sophisticated technology, would measure the force of Soviet underground blasts to ensure that the explosions did not exceed limits set in 1974 and 1976 treaties.

The Soviets similarly could send inspectors to the U.S. test site in Nevada. Because the Soviets have insisted that seismic measuresments are an adequate means of verification, Moscow could choose to continue relying on the earthquake-like measurements.

Baker, meeting with Shevardnadze in a lakeside lodge, said he hoped a new openness between the superpowers would lead to "some steps that are unprecedented."

The nuclear test agreement would fall into that category.

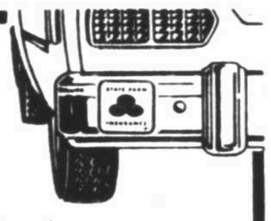

American inspectors using a system known as CORRTEX would be notified in advance of a test explosion at the Soviets' Semipalatinsk site.

They would drop a cable into a nearby four-foot-wide hole. The force of the explosion would be measured by the speed at which the cable was smashed.

U.S. scientists conducted a test of the CORRTEX system at the Soviet site last year after being invited there by the Soviet government.

Under the 1974 and 1976 treaties, U.S. and Soviet underground nuclear blasts — the only kind not outlawed — are limited to 150 kilotons.

The treaties were never ratified by the Senate.

Treasure seekers think they found unknown marine species

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Explorers recovering gold that may value more than $400 million from a sunken ship off the South Carolina coast said last week they also may have found two previously unknown species of marine life.

Researchers using remote-control equipment gathered samples of the two organisms, apparently invertebrate animals, attached to remnants of the SS Central America at a depth of 8,000 feet, said Barry Schatz, a director of the Columbus-America Discovery Group.

The creatures will be studied on board and later taken ashore for further study, said Schatz, who spoke with The Associated Press in a ship-to-shore telephone conversation from the Arctic Discoverer research vessel 200 miles offshore.

The Central America sank during a hurricane Sept. 12, 1857, en route from Panama to New York. It was carrying a monthly shipment of gold from the San Francisco Mint to New York banks by way of the Panamanian isthmus. The sinking claimed 425 lives; 153 people survived.

Remnants of the wood and iron ship, discovered three years ago, lie on a section of ocean floor that Schatz said is a "biological oasis" in the midst of an otherwise barren area.

Charles Herdendorf, an oceanographer from Ohio State University who heads an onboard research team, said scientists have been trying to informally catalogue marine life seen around the wreck through television cameras.

"But these two were just total mysteries to me," he said in a ship-to-shore conversation. "These looked really new."

Conversations with specialists at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington heightened belief that the creatures were previously unknown, Herdendorf said.

Both appear to be invertebrate animals similar to sponge or coral. They grow on stalks about eight to 10 inches long and may be part of the same family, he said.

One consists of a narrow stalk that ends in plumes or polyps. The other has a coin-sized, fleshy growth extending off a central stalk.

"It may be the same organism in various life stages or it may be two different species," he said.

The group planned to spend Saturday on scientific research, Schatz and Herdendorf said.

In addition to collecting the two organisms, Schatz said, the group hopes also to catch other animals with traps baited with lobster from the group's dinner, scrape animals from the wreck hull and take a core sample of the sea floor.

Though the first of the gold was found in August 1988, the Arctic Discoverer and its 21-member crew did not find the main gold deposit until Aug. 27 this year, after about a month at sea.

Schatz said the team may be at sea for another month, and hopes to have the bulk of the gold up by then.

As an offshoot of the commercial enterprise of recovering the gold, the group established an adjunct sciences program, headed by Herdendorf.

More than a dozen researchers are now involved in the project, including scientists from the Smithsonian.

"The economic payoff is what pays for the science," Schatz said.

Herdendorf said the group hopes to produce educational films and distribute their findings throughout the scientific community.

"It's really a dream. I guess the dream of all biologist is to find new life forms and advance the horizons of science. We're probably just beginning," Herdendorf said.

Bush defends luring teen for crack deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The dealer who sold the crack cocaine President Bush used as a prop in his Sept. 5 televised speech on drugs didn't just happen to be across the street from the White House when he peddled it.

He was lured there so Bush could say that's where the sale took place.

But President Bush said Friday the circumstances don't matter.

"The man went there and sold drugs in front of the White House, didn't he?" the president told reporters after he toured a tree farm in Wells, Maine. "That's the bottom line. That's what the man did ... I can't feel sorry for this fellow."

Bush's press secretary, Marlin Fitzwater, and the Drug Enforcement Administration admit that the drug dealer was maneuvered into making a previously arranged sale in Lafayette Park, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House, rather than a few blocks further away.

A reporter suggested that the transaction wouldn't have taken place in the park had not the cocaine been wanted for Bush's speech.

"The message I get out of it (is) a man was busted in front of the White House and I cannot feel sorry for him ... he ought not to be out peddling these insidious drugs. It's ruining the children of this country."

The president said he'd asked for a drug sample "from that vicinity to show it can happen anywhere ... and that's what they gave me. And they told me where they caught this guy."

Throughout, Bush spoke as if the dealer, a teen-ager, had been arrested. Although his transaction with an undercover DEA agent was photographed, the dealer was not taken into custody, agents said, because they hoped he would sell a larger amount later and identify his organization. A planned arrest earlier this week fell through when the suspect did not show up, and agents hope to obtain indictments against him.

Asked if the American people were mainpulated into thinking drugs were being sold near the White House, Bush replied: "What do you mean it didn't really (happen)? The guy was arrested or grabbed for selling drugs in front of the White House. It didn't exist? It didn't happen?"

On every drug bust, Bush said, "You bring somebody someplace."

Bush appeared irritated at one point with reporters' questions. Gesturing toward the press, he said, "I don't understand. Are these advocates here for this drug guy?"

Bush did not mention the circumstances behind the drug transaction in his speech when he held up a clear plastic bag labeled "evidence" containing a handful of crack nuggets.

Fitzwater told reporters: "We wanted to do a government sting. We said we wanted to make a buy in front of the White House. The DEA said, 'No problem.'"

But while Fitzwater defended the arrangement, another senior White House official suggested the Drug Enforcement Administration had been "a little overzealous."

"We told them that if a buy could be made near the White House, so much the better. They took us literally," said the official, asking not to be identified.

A Democratic senator from Louisiana, John Breaux, criticized the president's use of the prop as "staged."

"Is this really a drug war, or is this theatrics and screenplay?" he asked. "We don't need the president to lure drug pushers to Lafayette Park for photo opportunities."

Bush, holding up the bag, told the TV audience: "This is crack cocaine." He said it had been "seized a few days ago in a park across the street from the White House."

The $2,400 transaction took place at 11:30 a.m. Sept. 1.

The DEA said the suspect sold crack to agents on three previous occasions in other parts of the city and had to be persuaded to make a sale in Lafayette Park, across Pennsylvania Avenue from the White House.

The park, well patrolled by police, is not known as a drug market.

"There's too much activity going on there for drug dealers ... there's always a uniformed police presence there," said Maj. Robert Hines of the U.S. Park Police, which patrols the park.

The Washington Post, which first revealed the circumstances behind the Bush prop, said the teen-aged drug seller was so unfamiliar with the area that he asked, "Where the (expletive) is the White House?"

Told it was the president's residence, he replied, "Oh, you mean where Reagan lives."

"We were going to make that undercover buy anyway," William McMullan, assistant agent in charge of the DEA's Washington Field Office, told the Post.

"What difference does it make where it happened — whether it was in front of the White House ... or in front of the Supreme Court?"

Hugo, USAir crash add to bride's pre-wedding jitters

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Constance Bland had heard all the horror stories about what could go wrong in the days before her wedding.

But in her wildest dreams she never expected her groom to be in a plane crash. Or a hurricane to wipe out both her honeymoon plans and the hotel arrangements for out-of-town guests.

Barring further disaster, today's wedding will go on.

"I'm so stressed out right now, there's no way I could handle planning this again," Miss Bland said late Thursday as Hurricane Hugo approached the South Carolina coast. "If I can just walk down that aisle with 10 people in the church, I'll be happy."

Her fiance, Tom Newberry, a New York City banker, was a passenger on the USAir jetliner that plunged into New York's East River late Wednesday after an aborted takeoff from LaGuardia Airport.

Newberry, 27, survived the crash and was reportedly driving to Wilmington for the wedding.

About 45 minutes after the Blands first heard about the crash, Newberry called them. Miss Bland said he assured her he was unhurt, but she thought he was in shock. All he could talk about was his baggage.

Newberry's passport and his tuxedo rest somewhere at the bottom of the East River. But the wedding will go on.

"We thought about calling it off, but with so many people coming down here, I just don't think my nerves could take it," Miss Bland said.

About 225 guests are expected.

Miss Bland's mother spent most of Thursday trying to find hotel rooms for the 50 guests who had planned to check into a hotel at Wrightsville Beach, which was ordered evacuated as Hugo approached.

The storm caused little damage at Wrightsville Beach, where the family plans to hold a reception dinner.

As for the honeymoon — which had been scheduled for the British Virgin Islands before they were devastated by the hurricane — the couple will make other plans.

NATION IN BRIEF

Black stamps among first issued in U.S.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A pair of 10-cent stamps found on a 142-year-old letter are among the first U.S. stamps issued and could be worth as much as $1 million, collectors said.

The Philatelic Foundation, a non-profit stamp-authentication agency based in New York, has certified that a 142-year-old envelope mailed to the Marion County clerk on July 2, 1847, is the earliest known use of a U.S. stamp.

"The discovery of this historic rarity was the stuff philatelic lore is made of and rivaled the greatest finds in the history of stamp collecting," the foundation said in a statement.

"It may well be the closest philatelists will get to an actual first-day cover," foundation chairman Roberto M. Rosende said.

The two black stamps, which picture George Washington, are known to collectors as U.S. 2 and first were issued on July 1, 1847, in New York. They were among the first U.S. stamps issued to postmasters to replace hand-inked impressions as proof of postage paid.

The stamps and their envelope are major assets of the estates of two Indianapolis men, Delmere B. Blackburn and Dr. Harry D. Mark. Blackburn died in April 1987 and Mark died last month. Both estates are pending in the probate division of Marion Superior Court.

Frank mails apology

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Barney Frank, saying "tremendous internal pressures" led him to a relationship with a male prostitute, mailed a written apology to supporters Friday.

He promised that his "judgment has improved."

"What I did was wrong," the Massachusetts Democrat said in the letter mailed to home-state supporters and campaign volunteers.

"It did not affect my public decisions or any public business. But I regret that some of my past personal actions are troubling to people who placed their confidence in me."

The letter was not mailed at government expense, a Frank aide said Friday afternoon.

Food aid sent to Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 7,000 tons of U.S.-donated food has arrived in Lebanon to feed needy families throughout the country, it was announced Friday.

The Agency for International Development said the food arrived by boat at the northern port of Tripoli and will be distributed by Save the Children, a relief organization based in Connecticut.

The food consists of rice, lentils and vegetable oil. During heavy fighting over the past several months, Save the Children has distributed rations to about a third of the population of Lebanon, the announcement said.

Explosives found in French jet wreckage

WORLD

PARIS (AP) — Investigators probing the wreckage of a French airliner that exploded over an African desert have found evidence of explosives on board the DC-10, the government said Friday night.

In a brief statement, the Transport Ministry said the inquiry commission of officials from France, Niger and Chad had found indications "which tend to support the hypothesis of the presence of explosives aboard the DC-10 of UTA."

The mysterious crash Tuesday in southern Niger killed all 171 people aboard UTA Flight 772.

The Transport Ministry said further tests should be able to quickly settle the question of the cause of the crash, but provided no details of what evidence was found or what tests would be carried out.

Until now, French officials have refused to rule out the possibility of an accidental explosion in flight, while agreeing with UTA President Rene Lapautre that a bombing was the most likely explanation for the crash. The carrier, UTA, or Union des Transports Aeriens, is a private French company that serves Africa and the Pacific.

Earlier in the day, French authorities denied reports that they had prior warnings of imminent terrorism.

"None of our services, none of our ministries, received either threats or intelligence about preparations for anti-French attacks," said a spokesman for President Francois Mitterrand.

The news weekly L'Express reported Friday that the French Embassy in Beirut urgently alerted Paris to a Lebanese magazine's reports of terrorist plans. French intelligence agents also relayed the warning, according to L'Express.

On Sept. 15, the Lebanese magazine, Ash-Shiraa, quoted Islamic militants loyal to Iran as accusing France of reneging on a 1988 deal that led to the release of three French hostages held in Lebanon.

It said the militants were planning attacks on French interests in Africa.

France has denied making any deal for the hostages, beyond agreeing to restore diplomatic relations with Iran. There have been reports France also agreed to free Anis Naccache, a pro-Iranian Lebanese serving a life sentence for the attempted murder in 1980 of former Iranian Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar in France. Naccache has not been released.

France provoked fresh resentment among Moslem groups last month by sending warships off the Lebanese coast to protect French citizens and sympathizers in the war-torn nation.

A French Foreign Ministry official confirmed the embassy in Beirut sent copies of the Ash-Shiraa article to French officials but added, "All our embassies send us reports regularly."

"The content of the article is extremely vague," he said, speaking on condition of anonymity in accordance with policy. "You couldn't draw the conclusion from it that there would be an attack on a UTA plane en route from N'Djamena to Paris."

Ash-Shiraa gained fame for exposing secret arms deals between the United States and Iran, but it has been wrong on several stories concerning hostages held in Lebanon.

N'Djamena, capital of Chad, was the DC-10's last stop before it disintegrated. The flight originated in Brazzaville, Congo.

In Niger, helicopters began evacuating bodies Friday to be flown to Paris for identification. Rescue workers found the plane's voice recorder in debris strewn widely over dunes and rocks.

A team of American investigators joined French authorities to examine the wreckage. Experts from McDonnell Douglas and General Electric joined them. FBI agents also were expected to join the investigation.

Police were checking the plane's passenger list and the nine people who left the plane at N'Djamena.

Some speculation in Paris has focused on Hezbollah, a pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem group believed to be the umbrella for factions holding most of the 16 Western hostages in Lebanon.

Telephone calls to the airline and to reporters on Tuesday, hours after the crash, claimed responsibility for the bombing on behalf of Islamic Jihad.

The calls were not authenticated, and French newspapers reported without citing sources that police discounted the calls.

Quayle calls Khmer Rouge 'mass murderers'

Quayle

TOKYO (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle on Friday denounced Cambodia's Khmer Rouge guerrilla group as "mass murderers" and said the non-communist resistance is the best hope for the war-torn country.

Quayle, attending a meeting of the International Democratic Union, made his comments at a news conference with other conservative politicians from around the world as Vietnamese forces were withdrawing from Cambodia.

The withdrawal poses the threat that the fanatical Khmer Rouge may eventually defeat the Vietnamese-backed Cambodian government forces and other resistance groups.

The vice president was asked how the United States could oppose Soviet aid to Cambodia's government when the aid was to be used to combat the communist Khmer Rouge, which was ousted from power after Vietnam's 1978 invasion.

Washington favors the non-communist resistance groups, led by Prince Norodom Sihanouk, and hopes the Cambodian people can determine their own future, Quayle said.

"We are very sensitive and very aware of the past atrocities that were committed by the Khmer Rouge," he said. "The mass murderers of the Khmer Rouge should not and shall not return to power."

The best course, he said, is to strive for democracy through the other resistance groups. "The non-communist resistance offers the best hope for the future of Cambodia."

The Khmer Rouge are blamed for killing hundreds of thousands of Cambodians in a radical campaign to create a pure communist society.

Quayle also said the United States hopes China will return to more moderate policies that prevailed before military force was used to crush pro-democracy demonstrations in June. Until China changes, he said, Washington will continue the sanctions imposed by President Bush, including a ban on high-level contacts and other measures.

"The ball is in China's court. ... Nothing has changed in China to change our policies that were clearly articulated by the president," Quayle said.

Japanese Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu said his country will lift an advisory against traveling to Beijing but will not resume negotiations on economic aid until after Chinese authorities lift martial law in the capital. Japan is the source of about 80 percent of China's bilateral economic assistance.

U.S. citizens barred from U.S.S.R.

MOSCOW (AP) — Two American citizens of Latvian descent have been barred from entering the Soviet Union for the next five years for allegedly violating travel restrictions, the Tass news agency said Friday.

According to Tass, Juris Kaza and Peteris Elferts came to Latvia with valid visas but broke regulations by traveling to areas closed to foreigners. It did not say whether the two already have left the Soviet Union, nor did it indicate where they are from in the United States.

KGB secret police in Riga, the Latvian capital, told Tass that Kaza arrived on a tourist visa.

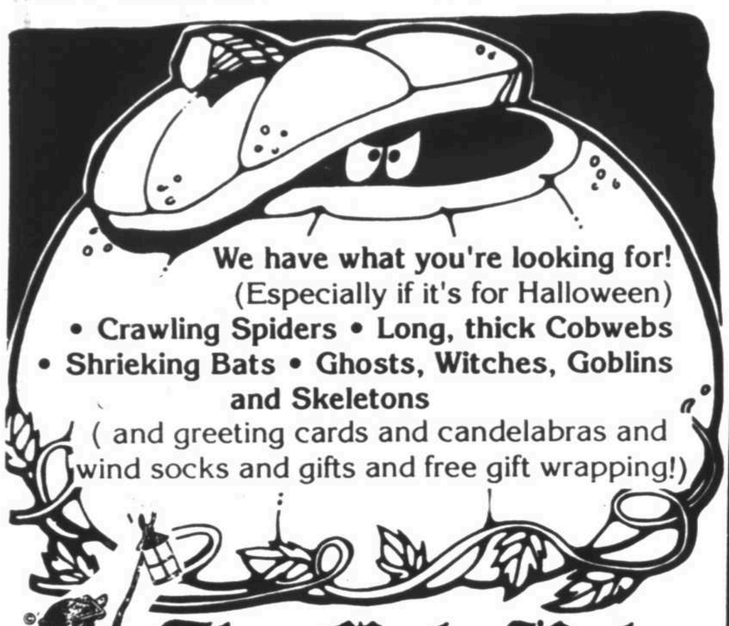

"He sneaked into a helicopter on Aug. 23, used by a camera team of Latvian television, to fly over a wooded area, and filmed territory closed to foreigners," Tass said.

Aug. 23 was the date of a demonstration throughout the Baltic republics marking the 50th anniversary of a secret agreement between Josef Stalin and Adolf Hitler dividing Eastern Europe into spheres of influence on the eve of World War II. More than a million Baltic residents joined hands in a human chain to mark the anniversary.

Tass reported that around the same time, Elferts was in Latvia at the invitation of friends and frequently traveled to closed areas.

"In one of the regions, he filmed a guarded military facility," it said.

Tass also said Elferts refused to register with police, as required of all visitors.

Seven turnovers spell 'Dog defeat

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Sports Editor

LUBBOCK — Midland High fans are probably still scratching their heads trying to figure out what the key reasons are for a 28-19 loss to the Lubbock Coronado Mustangs here Friday night at Lowrey Field.

But Midland High head coach Davis Corley doesn't hesitate when he answers the question.

"We just didn't play a very good defensive football game," said Corley. "The defense worries me at this stage. We had some people missing on defense, but I expected better play. It seems like every time we come to Lubbock, we just shoot ourselves in the foot."

Corley felt his offense scored enough points to win the game, but despite 291 passing yards, the Bulldogs had seven turnovers, including four interceptions (one of which was returned for a touchdown) and three lost fumbles.

"We did have a lot of turnovers, but we moved the ball," said Corley. "We had a chance to win the game, but just didn't rise to the occasion."

Alternate possession quarterbacks Patrick Mowles and Jason Stone combined for 31 passes in the game. Mowles threw 18 times for 191 yards, including a 58-yard TD strike to James Woosley in the fourth quarter. Mowles also rushed for two touchdowns. Stone passed 13 times for 100 yards, but both threw two interceptions.

The interceptions hurt. Mowles threw one that was intercepted in the end zone and another that was returned 47 yards for a Coronado touchdown. Stone threw one that set up Coronado on Midland's 17-yard line and Coronado scored two plays later for a 21-13 advantage in the fourth period.

Defensively, the Bulldogs got hurt on two plays up the gut by Darrell Donaldson for TD runs of 20 and 21 yards.

"Coronado throws the ball well and we wanted to get pressure on the quarterback," said Corley, "In doing so we made some little plays turn into big plays."

The Bulldogs led 7-6 at the half, but could have easily led 21-7 if it hadn't been for four turnovers — two fumbles and two interceptions.

Coronado struck first in the game on its first possession after Bulldog James Lee fumbled at the 46-yard line. The Mustangs moved the distance in four plays with Darrell Donaldson cracking up the 'Dog middle for 20 yards. However, Coronado's extra point snap was bad and an attempt to convert two points failed.

For the rest of the half it was mostly a Bulldog night. MHS took a 7-6 lead with 7:01 left in the second period when Jason Stone recovered a Donaldson fumble at the Coronado 23. Patrick Mowles hit Michael Wright for 21 yards and Mowles got the last two on a keeper. Shane Barden's extra point gave MHS its only lead of the night.

But two touchdowns got away. The Pack marched to the nine-yard line in the first period before Mowles was intercepted by Charles Roberson.

In the second period, MHS got to the Coronado 25 before Stone was an interception victim of Roberson. However, Donaldson fumbled three plays later to set up Midland's touchdown.

The Bulldogs got off to a rugged start in the third quarter as Coronado marched 59 yards for a score with Donaldson, who had 162 yards rushing on the night, busting up the middle for 21 yards.

But Midland stayed in the game with a 12-play, 72-yard drive that saw Mowles direct the attack and score from the seven. Mowles hit Brandon Oden from 12 yards on a key third down to keep the drive alive. However, Midland missed a two-point conversion attempt and trailed 14-13.

The fun was then over as the Mustangs got an early fourth quarter break when Roberson hauled in his third interception of the night off Stone and rambled to the Midland 17 before being stopped. Two plays later Kirish McGrew scored from 13 yards out.

Coronado quickly struck again as Tony Hinojosa intercepted a Mowles pass and returned it 47 yards for a 28-13 lead with just 9:06 left to play.

Andress falls to Lee, 17-0

BILL PRICE
Sports Writer

Brad Luckie was not exactly a good-luck charm to El Paso Andress Friday night.

While senior running back Farris Strambler was busy cranking out 236 yards for Midland Lee in a 17-0 victory over Andress at Memorial Stadium, it just may have been a play by Luckie that spelled doom for the Eagles.

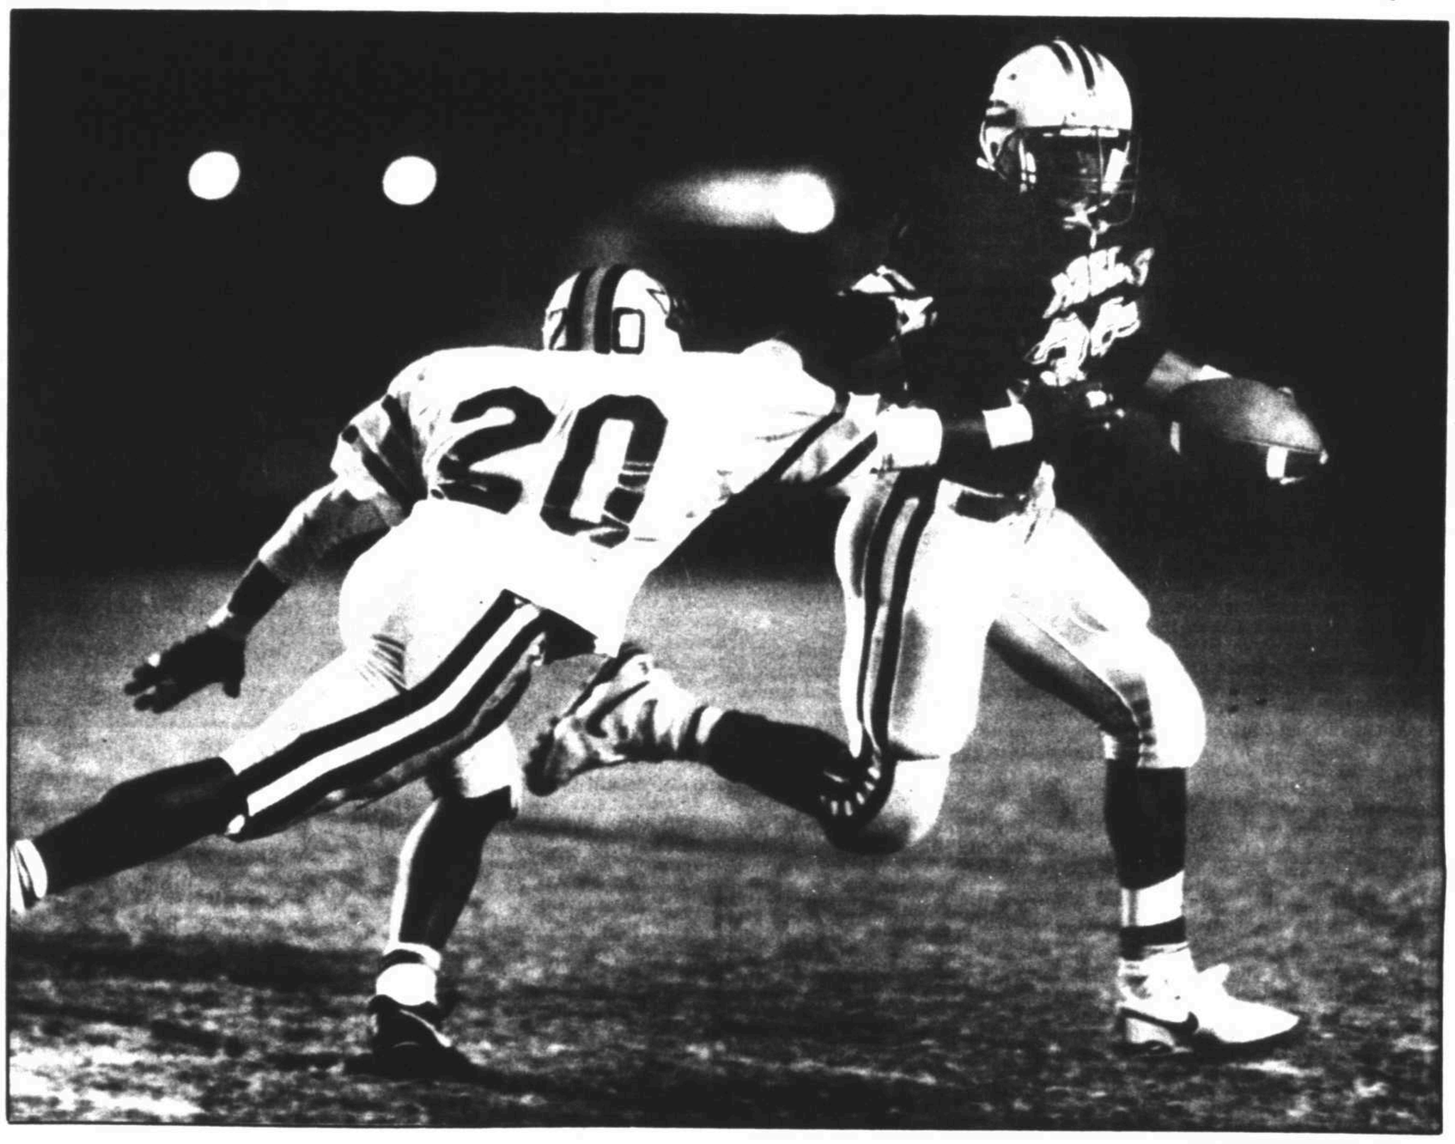

With the win, Lee advances to 2-1 heading into District 4-5A competition next week while Andress fell to 1-2.

Luckie, a 170-pound senior cornerback for the Rebels, snipped an Andress drive in the bud late in the first half, effectively ending the only Eagle scoring threat and preventing the Birds from taking any kind of momentum into the intermission.

With :04 on the second-quarter clock, the Eagles were poised on the Rebel 5-yard line with third down. Andress quarterback Sal Sanchez tried to hit a corner route, but Luckie was waiting to pluck the ball from the air.

"We thought we could get two plays in with four seconds to go. We could've gone for a field goal but we felt like we needed a touchdown. There's not a heck of a lot difference between 17-0 and 17-3," said Allan Sepkowitz, Eagle head coach.

Stanton QB Randy Nevarez (11) attempts to outrun Greenwood defender Shan Cumba.

Buffs hand Rangers third straight defeat

By BILL GRIMES
Sports Writer

GREENWOOD — Every year, it seems the Stanton Buffaloes have trouble getting it together offensively.

And every year, it seems like Buff coach Dale Ruth tinkers here and changes there — anything to get the Buffs rolling.

Stanton used a rejuvenated passing game and superior breakaway speed to score a 20-15 win over Greenwood Friday at J.M. King Memorial Stadium.

The Buffs didn't get it going right away Friday. In fact, Greenwood's stiff defense held Stanton to 20 yards net rushing in the first half, while the Ranger offense generated one touchdown drive to seize the early lead.

The Rangers drove 52 yards in six plays to score their first touchdown on a one-yard plunge by left halfback Randy Marquez sometime in the first 12 minutes. Exact time of the first score and all subsequent scores were unavailable because of a malfunctioning scoreboard clock.

Marquez' TD was set up by right half Jerry Gay's 33-yard sweep around left end and quarterback Cody Mebane's nine-yard scramble. But Gay carried only five more times Friday, while Mebane was two-for-12 in the passing department with most of his attempts coming in long-yardage situations late in the game.

Instead, the Rangers tried to run up the gut of the Stanton defense for most of the evening. And while the hosts rang up 222 rushing yards, Stanton defensive tackle Richard Villa and linebacker David Mendez seemed to be there when it counted.

Greenwood coach Bob Purser wouldn't second-guess his strategy of running at the heart of the Ranger defense, at least not immediately after Friday's game. Instead, he pointed to his own inability to motivate his Rangers.

Concrete evidence: Is Hoffa a permanent ball boy?

Jimmy Hoffa's ghost haunts the New Jersey Meadowlands?

That's the gist of a Playboy interview with one Donald "Tony the Greek" Frankos.

Price

Frankos, an ex-convict who purports to know the who, what, when, where and why of Hoffa's disappearance in 1975, says the former Teamster Union leader's body was buried at or near one of the end zones in Giants Stadium during its construction.

Great. That's just what we need. Another guy called "The Greek" making headlines on the nation's sports pages. Anyway, it's not as if Giants Stadium were not enough of a burial ground for the Dallas Cowboys.

However, difficult as it is to imagine, some people have been reluctant to believe Frankos' incredible tale. What many readers do believe is that Frankos has a hankering for a paycheck from Playboy, Inc.

But I'm still ambivalent about disregarding the story. As one law officer said, it's possible but not probable. Wondering why Frankos would tell such a story, a number of "what ifs" pop into my little bean as I pondered the possibilities.

■ What if the NFL Players Association, weary of Gene Upshaw's leadership, decided to put a scare in the owners. Hey, it could happen. With a new collective bargaining agreement on the shelf and a pending law suit against the owners, the NFLPA might have talked Frankos into unveiling the mystery. The union might have figured that a dead Hoffa is a heck of a lot better than a breathing Upshaw.

■ What if Hoffa was a closet football fanatic and requested to be interred on the gridiron. Not as crazy as some other funeral day requests like, say, asking to be buried in your Cadillac.

■ What if the Jets, who also call Giants Stadium home, finally realized they needed a body more able to play the game than Joe Klecko, the defensive lineman plagued by injuries before being released a year ago. I can hear the announcer now. "And starting at nose tackle for the Giants, ladies and gentlemen, Jimmy Hoffa." The thought gives new meaning to the phrase "grizzled veteran."

■ What if the Giants decided star linebacker Lawrence Taylor needed "spiritual" counseling after a bevy of drug- and alcohol-related incidents damaged his reputation. Hoffa had the kind of heavy hand that could have set Taylor on the straight and narrow. Too bad he also had the connections to possibly set Taylor on the crooked and wide.

■ What if Wellington Mara wanted to sell the Giants and Hoffa was the best potential buyer outside of Jack Kent Cooke. You know, better dead than Red(skin).

— Finally, what if Hoffa is really alive and wanted to keep the truth of his whereabouts secret. What better way to accomplish that goal than to circulate such an absurd tale? He could have decided the best way to keep the story unbelievable was to keep it on the sports page.

We really don't subscribe to Frankos' rantings, but it's been fun to play like we have, hasn't it? Jimmy Hoffa is long gone and most likely his remains will never be found.

That is, as long as some young government attorney doesn't try to make a name for himself by forcing the Giants to rip up the floor at Giants Stadium searching for a few bones. Once again, possible but not probable.

Stewart finally wins 20th; A's widen lead in West

Associated Press

Dave Stewart's 100th career victory made him the only pitcher of the 1980s with three straight 20-win seasons as the Oakland Athletics increased their American League West lead to four games with a 5-2 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Stewart, 20-9, allowed six hits in seven innings, walked four and did not strike out a batter in joining Kansas City's Bret Saberhagen and Houston's Mike Scott as the major leagues' only 20-game winners this season.

The last pitcher with three consecutive 20-victory seasons was Baltimore's Jim Palmer, who had four straight from 1975-78. The Oakland record is four in a row by Catfish Hunter from 1971-74 and the organization record is seven straight by Lefty Grove of the Philadelphia A's from 1927-33.

It was Stewart's fourth try at No. 20. In the right-hander's previous two outings, Dennis Eckersley blew ninth-inning leads. This time, Gene Nelson pitched two perfect innings for his third save.

Stewart's nine-year career record is 100-74. He is 70-39 since joining the Athletics in 1986 after the Philadelphia Phillies released him.

Dave Parker and Jose Canseco drove in two runs apiece off rookie Mike Dyer, 3-7, as Oakland gained one-half game on second-place California. The Angels were rained out in Cleveland.

It was the sixth straight loss for the Twins and Dyer's fourth in a row. Oakland has won five straight.

Right fielder Randy Bush's two-base error on Carney Lansford's fly ball and Parker's RBI single gave Oakland a 1-0 first-inning lead. The A's made it 4-0 in the third on singles by Mike Gallego and Rickey Henderson, Lansford's grounder, Canseco's two-run single and Dave Henderson's RBI double.

Yankees 5, Orioles 4

Mel Hall ended an 0-for-16 slump with New York's third solo home run of the game, snapping a 4-4 tie in the sixth inning and giving the Yankees a 5-4 victory.

The Orioles began play one game behind first-place Toronto in the American League East. Both teams have eight games remaining.

Winner Walt Terrell blew a 4-0 lead when Baltimore scored four unearned runs in the fourth inning before Hall gave the Yankees their fourth victory in 11 games this season against the Orioles.

Hall drove a 2-2 pitch from Brian Holton, 5-7, the second of four Baltimore pitchers, into the right-field bleachers for his 15th home run. New York is 14-1 when Hall homers.

The Yankees took a 4-0 lead against Dave Johnson, who lasted only three innings. Steve Balboni and Randy Velarde homered in the second inning, their 16th and second, respectively.

New York added two runs in the third. Steve Sax singled and scored on a double by Alvaro Espinoza, who took third on the throw home and scored on a sacrifice fly by Don Mattingly.

Terrell, 5-5, scattered six hits in seven innings. Four of the hits came in the fourth inning when the Orioles took advantage of an error by third baseman Velarde on Cal Ripken's one-out grounder.

Red Sox 9, Tigers 7

John Marzano, whose passed ball allowed Detroit to tie the score in the eighth inning, drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the ninth as the Boston Red Sox extended their winning streak over Detroit to six games.

In winning for the sixth time in their last seven games, the Red Sox erased a 7-0 deficit with three runs in the sixth inning and four in the seventh.

Nick Esasky started the ninth with a walk off Edwin Nunez, 3-4, the fifth Detroit pitcher. Danny Heep singled and both runners advanced on Marty Barrett's sacrifice. Pinch hitter Jeff Stone was intentionally walked to load the bases but Marzano's sacrifice fly spoiled the strategy.

Wade Boggs was intentionally walked to reload the bases and Nunez also walked Jody Reed to force Heep home.

Rob Murphy, 5-7, pitched 1 2-3 innings for the victory and Lee Smith pitched the ninth for his 26th save.

The Tigers need six victories in their remaining eight games to avoid their third 100-loss season in their history.

The Tigers tied the game 7-7 in the bottom of the eighth against Murphy. Matt Nokes led off with a single and third baseman Boggs' two-base throwing error on pinch hitter Chet Lemon's grounder put runners at second and third. Brumley scored on a passed ball by Marzano.

The Tigers built their 6-0 lead against John Dopson with the help of two-run homers by Nokes and Rob Richie, his first major-league home run. It was the 34th comeback victory for the Red Sox.

The Tigers led 6-3 when Kevin Romine started the Boston seventh with a walk and Paul Gibson relieved Frank Williams. Marzano hit a pinch single, Boggs struck out and Mike Henneman relieved Gibson.

Blue Jays 7, Brewers 3

Manny Lee, Lloyd Moseby and Mookie Wilson hit RBI singles in Toronto's four-run fourth inning and the Blue Jays opened a two-game lead over Baltimore in the American League East.

The Orioles lost to the New York Yankees 5-4. Baltimore and Toronto both have eight games left. The Brewers are 7½ games out and will be eliminated if they lose to Toronto on Saturday.

Dave Stieb, 16-8, yielded one run and seven hits in seven innings and beat Milwaukee for the third time this season. The Brewers have scored only two earned runs against Stieb in the last 41 innings.

On a cold, windy night at County Stadium with game-time temperatures in the mid-50s and the wind at 18 miles an hour, the Blue Jays tagged Milwaukee starter Jerry Reuss, 9-8, for five runs and nine hits in 3 1-3 innings.

With the score tied 1-1, Kelly Gruber's bad-hop single started the Toronto fourth and an infield hit by Tony Fernandez and a single by Pat Borders loaded the bases.

Lee got one of his three RBI singles to give Toronto a 2-1 lead but Fernandez was thrown out at the plate by left fielder Mike Felder. However, an error by third baseman Gary Sheffield on Glenallen Hill's grounder reloaded the bases and Moseby's RBI single chased Reuss.

Wilson greeted Jeff Peterek with a single that made it 4-1 and the final run of the inning scored on George Bell's grounder.

Toronto added a run in the eighth on another bases-loaded grounder by Bell. Milwaukee scored twice off Jim Acker in the bottom, including Terry Francona's RBI double, and the Blue Jays scored a run off Randy Veres in the ninth on a triple by Fernandez and a single by Lee.

Bill Swift and two relievers combined on a two-hitter as the Seattle Mariners beat Kansas City in the second game of Friday's twi-night double-header and dealt the Royals' slim pennant hopes another blow.

The third-place Royals, who fell 5½ games behind victorious Oakland in the American League West, took the opener 9-2 as Bret Saberhagen yielded three hits in seven scoreless innings and became the first pitcher in the majors with 21 victories. Saberhagen has won nine straight.

Swift, 7-3, made his first start since July 26 after 16 relief appearances. He held to Royals to two singles by Kevin Seitzer through six innings. Mike Jackson went two innings and Mike Schooler struck out the side in the ninth for his 31st save. He now has one against every other AL team.

Swift gave up a leadoff single to Seitzer in the first inning, then retired 12 batters in a row until an error by third baseman Darnell Coles with one out in the fifth.

Royals starter Tom Gordon, 16-9, walked four batters in 1 1-3 innings. Luis Aquino and Jeff Montgomery held the Mariners scoreless the rest of the way.

Seattle took a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Gordon walked Harold Reynolds and Greg Briley, the first two Seattle batters, and Reynolds came around on groundouts by Alvin Davis and Jeffrey Leonard. In the second, a walk to Coles and singles by Scott Bradley and Mario Diaz produced the second run.

The Royals had runners at second and third with two out in the sixth but Swift struck out George Brett.

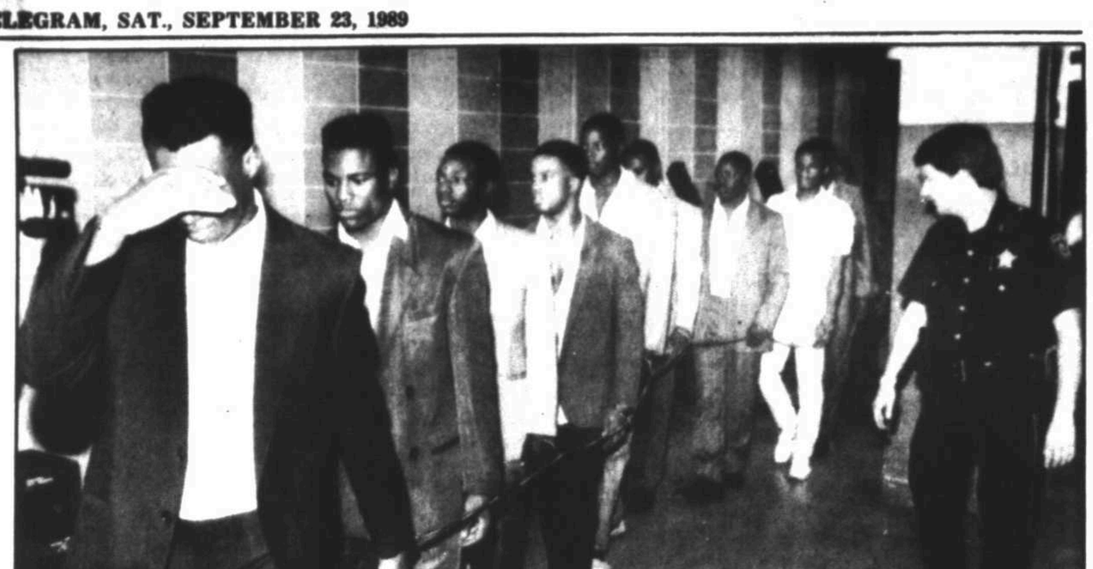

In the opener, Saberhagen, 21-6, struck out seven and walked one in winning for the 12th time in his last 13 starts and the 17th time in 19 decisions since May 19.

Ten of the 12 teenagers accused in 21 Dallas-area armed robberies are escorted in chains to the Dallas County jail after receiving sentences Friday afternoon.

Student athletes sentenced

By PATRICE GRAVINO

DALLAS (AP) — A state district judge Friday sentenced 10 current and former high school students to prison terms of up to 25 years for their roles in a string of armed robberies in the Dallas area over the past year.

Judge Joe Kendall ordered an 11th youth sent to boot camp, and another received deferred adjudication for their parts in 21 robberies in Dallas and suburban Duncanville.

"If stupidity were a crime, you would all deserve life without parole," Kendall told the youths.

Kendall sentenced the teen-agers, including a former high school All-America football player, after they pleaded guilty to holding up several restaurants.

Each defendant faced a maximum 99-year sentence in the Texas Department of Corrections.

Family members sobbed loudly in the packed courtroom after Kendall left the bench and the youths were led away by sheriff's officers. Bailiffs calmed people who were wailing and screaming in the jammed hallway.

Before sentencing, Kendall lectured the youngsters for about 10 minutes, telling them they had no excuse for committing the crimes. Sentenced one by one, most hung their heads.

Derric Evans, 17, an All-America defensive back at Dallas Carter High last year who lost a full scholarship to the University of Tennessee, received a 20-year term for his involvement in four robberies.

Evans slumped in his chair after his sentenced was pronounced.

Gary Edwards, 17, another football player who had a prominent role in Carter's run to the Class 5A state championship last fall, was sentenced to 16 years on three counts.

Last fall, school district officials disqualified Carter from the playoffs because Edwards allegedly failed a math class but was not declared ineligible. The school, which later reversed Edwards' grade, halted the action in court and went on to win the state championship.

Keith Campbell, 18, received a 25-year term for his involvement in four robberies. The judge called Campbell a "sociopath" and said he had been a ringleader.

"The defendants ... in six months time committed more armed robberies than Bonnie and Clyde did in a lifetime," Kendall said.

Aric Andrews, 18, received deferred adjudication. Kendall said he thought Andrews was truly sorry for the robberies, and had chosen not to be involved in some of them.

Andrews must wear an electric monitor and perform 1,000 hours of community service.

Also sentenced were Jimmy Edwards Jr., 18, 16 years on three counts; Patrick Williams, 18, 14 years on three counts; Carlos Allen, 18, 13 years on three counts; Norbert Rogers, 17, 10 years on one count; Keith Edwards, 19, 5 years on one count; and Eric Lusk, 17, 12 years on three counts.

Keith Bryant, 17, was sentenced to 2 years on one count to be followed by deferred adjudication on a second count.

Keiland McClanahan, 17, was ordered sent to prison camp for 75 days to be followed by probation for the remainder of a 10-year sentence.

Raiders risk relinquishing perfect mark at OSU

By OWEN CANFIELD

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Pat Jones insists his Oklahoma State defense is "markedly better" than a year ago, particularly his front seven. That group figures to get a test Saturday night when Texas Tech visits.

The Red Raiders are 2-0, with victories over Arizona and New Mexico. They use a multiple offense that has seen quarterback Jamie Gill throw for 221 yards and tailback James Gray rush for 303 yards. Gray had 234 against an Arizona defense that one week later held Oklahoma to three points.

"Make no mistake, this is certainly a big ball game for us," Jones said. "We held 'em to 42 last year. If we give up 42 again, it's probably a safe assumption to say we've got real problems."

Some would contend the Cowboys have real problems regardless. They are 0-2 for the first time since 1980, due in large measure to an offense that hasn't measured up. Oklahoma State has not scored a point in the second half in 20-10 and 37-13 losses to Tulsa and Ohio State, respectively.

Jones isn't sure why his team has struggled after intermission, although he believes the youth of his offensive line may have something to do with it.

"We're probably not mature enough to sustain things," Jones said. "When you get a few breaks, you get up. When you don't, you don't have the maturity to dig yourself out.

"You get behind and you get a little bit more impatient, subconsciously or consciously."

Jones promised to scale back the offense after seeing quarterback Mike Gundy get sacked six times by Tulsa. Jones tried fewer passes against Ohio State while tailback Gerald Hudson ran for 140 yards, his second 100-yard game of the year.

Jones predicted flatly that Gundy, who has struggled, will play well against the Red Raiders. But Gundy gives the impression he expects to call Hudson's name even more until the offensive line gains experience.

"The game is complicated but it's real simple — you do what you can do," Gundy said. "We've got to be able to keep a multiple offense. You can't just line up and get in the power I and run the ball. But we tried to open it up and do some things against Tulsa and we had six sacks.

"It's better to run the ball and get no gain or a 1-yard gain than take a 10-yard loss. It's just how much they (the linemen) can pick up every week."

Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes sounds as though he is playing another unbeaten team, not one that has failed to win.

Europeans sweep first day of Ryder action

By GORDON S. WHITE Jr.
New York Times News Service

SUTTON COLDFIELD, England — Led again by the inspirational and artistic leadership of Seve Ballesteros of Spain, the European Ryder Cup golf team Friday afternoon swept four four-ball matches against the United States, just as it did two years ago.

This time, the sweep enabled the cup defenders to erase a 3-1 deficit after the foursome matches in the morning and take an impressive 5-3 lead after the first day of the event at the Belfry.

The four-ball matches proved to be the downfall of the U.S. teams that were upset in the last two Ryder Cup matches by Europe in 1985 and 1987.

And no one, including Raymond Floyd, the captain of the 12-member U.S. team, knows why the American pros have been such heavy losers in the four-ball portion of the tournament, in which each of the two golfers on a team plays his own ball from tee to hole and the better ball of the two counts for the team.

By contrast, Americans have done better in the rarely played and more British format of foursome matches, where a pair plays one ball, with each player striking alternate shots and hitting alternate drives.

The Americans won two of the four morning foursome tests and halved the other two for their early 3-1 lead.

Two years ago at Muirfield Village in Ohio, each team won 2 points in the first day's foursome matches, before the Europeans, led by Ballesteros and his countryman Jose-Maria Olazabal, swept the afternoon's four-ball play for a 6-2 lead. The Europeans went on to win for the first time on American soil.

"I am absolutely stunned," Floyd said of his team's four-ball failure. "It doesn't make any sense to me. We can't put our finger on it."

Tony Jacklin, the European team captain, had no explanation either. "We talked about what happened at Muirfield at lunch and how it could happen again," he said. "Five hours later it was done."

Little could stop Ballesteros and Olazabal, or Nick Faldo of England and his partner, Ian Woosnam of Wales. Each of the pairs produced 1½ points by halving in the morning and winning in the afternoon.

In a spectacular domination of Tom Watson and Mark O'Meara in four-ball play, the Spaniards won the first five holes to go 5 up.

Then, after his team was 3 up at the turn, Ballesteros ran an amazing stretch of 10 strokes for four holes with eagle 2, birdie 3, birdie 2, and birdie 3 to close out at 6 and 5.

"We all admire and respect Seve's ability and this power he has," Jacklin said. "The enthusiasm he has for these matches is magnificent."

The second-day format will be a repeat of the first one. On Sunday, the event will conclude with 12 singles matches.

Starting at the 233-yard, par-4 10th hole, the Spaniards put on a show in the morning and the afternoon.

Olazabal drove the green in the morning for a conceded eagle 2 on the way to halving the foursome match with Watson and Chip Beck.

In the afternoon, both Ballesteros and Olazabal drove the 10th green and Ballesteros sank a 20-foot eagle putt. Each drive was accomplished with a three wood.

Then Ballesteros hit a wedge approach and a six-foot putt for birdie 3 on the 14th to halve the hole, a 4-iron and two-foot putt for birdie 2 on the 12th and drove the green downwind at the 394-yard 13th and two-putted from 40 feet to close out the match.

Gordon Brand of Scotland sank a six-foot par putt after coming out of a greenside bunker as he and Sam Torrance beat Curtis Strange and Paul Azinger on the last hole.

Mark Calcavecchia and Mark McCumber had a chance to halve the last match of the day as they played the 18th hole 1 down. But each put his second shot against the strong wind into the water fronting the green, and lost to Faldo and Woosnam.

Howard Clark and Mark James of England, beat Fred Couples and Lanny Wadkins, 3 up, as the Americans not only lost all four four-ball matches but also never led in any of them.

SMU puts one-game win streak on the line

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Oddsmakers don't believe in football miracles striking the same team twice in one season.

A case in point are the Southern Methodist Mustangs whose "miracle on Mockingbird Lane" last week gave them a 31-30 victory over Connecticut, their first since a two-year NCAA-imposed exile for paying players.

SMU coach Forrest Gregg, who played on three Super Bowl winners, called it "the finest victory I have ever experienced."

The well-rested Texas Longhorns, who haven't played since Sept. 4, are rated 40-point favorites over the Mustangs, who start 18 freshmen, in Saturday's 12:07 p.m. (Raycom TV) game at Ownby Stadium.

All 23,733 seats have been sold to witness the possibility of the Mustangs pulling off another surprise.

However, Texas isn't Division 1-AA Connecticut.

Texas, which lost 27-6 to powerful Colorado, doesn't consider SMU a 90-pound weakling.

The Longhorns have yet to score a touchdown this year. When he heard how much they were favored, Texas offensive coordinator Lynn Amedee said "Right now we couldn't score 40 points against thin air."

SWC Roundup

In other games involving SWC teams on Saturday, winless Baylor tries to bounce back from defeats to Oklahoma land Georgia in a 7 p.m. home opener against the Kansas Jayhawks; unbeaten Arkansas and Mississippi tangle again for the 36th time in an 81-year rivalry at Jackson, Miss., in a 6 p.m. game; unbeaten and surprising Texas Tech tries to make it a non-conference sweep for the Red Raiders in a 6:30 p.m. meeting with Oklahoma State at Stillwater; Houston travels to Tempe, Ariz., in a 9:30 p.m. meeting with Arizona State; Texas Christians hosts Southern Mississippi in a 7:30 p.m. game at Amon Carter Stadium; and Rice entertains Southwestern Louisiana in a 6 p.m. game at Rice Stadium.

Texas A&M is the only school in the nine-team league that is idle.

Arkansas puts its top 10 ranking on the line against a surprising Ole Miss team that has gone 3-0.

"Ole Miss always gets good crowd support and it's a tough place to win," said Arkansas linebacker Ted Shimer. "This is still a big game for both teams. It's been quite a rivalry."

Texas Tech coach Spike Dykes knows about tough places to play. He has to take the Raiders into Stillwater where Oklahoma State (0-2) plays tough.

"We are going into a hornet's nest," Dykes said. "It's their first home game and they'll be mad. They've won 30 games over the last three years so they aren't used to losing two in a row, much less three."

Baylor coach Grant Teaff hopes the Bears can bounce back from losses to Oklahoma and Georgia.

"We haven't made the big plays we should be making," Teaff said. "Kansas has been moving the ball and will be a good test."

Houston opened its season on Sept. 2 with a 69-0 victory over Nevada-Las Vegas. Andre Ware set an SWC record by throwing five touchdown passes in the first half.

Garden City sophomore rushes for 336 yards, scores six TDs in 63-8 win

From Staff Reports

GARDEN CITY — He's just a sophomore, but he runs like he's a first-team all-stater. Garden City's James Soles piled up an amazing 336 yards on 15 carries and scored six touchdowns to lead the Bearkats to a 63-8 romp over Roby Friday night.

And what was perhaps most amazing is that everything was collected in the first three quarters: Garden City scored 21 in the first quarter, 28 in the second, and 14 in the third.

Soles scored two touchdowns in the first and runs of three and 26 yards; he returned in the second to score his final four on jaunts of 49, 25, 31 and 94 yards.

Michael Carrien's 8 yard pass to Timmy Helfin with 1:12 left in the game was the only tally for Roby.

Garden Cty's Allen Hoelscher threw a 46 yard strike to Richard Morales in the first quarter and Morales also scored on a 12 yard run in the third; Eric Seidenberger's nine yard run in the third rounded out the scoring for Garden City.

The Bearkats now move to 3-0 and travel to Stanton next Friday.

UCLA-Michigan battle highlight of the weekend

Associated Press

Forget Rocket Ismail, and UCLA would be playing the No. 1 team in the country on Saturday, Bruins coach Terry Donahue says.

Ismail returned two kickoffs for touchdowns last Saturday as top-ranked Notre Dame beat Michigan 24-19 in the Wolverines' opener. That dropped the Wolverines from No. 2 to No. 5 this week as they take on the 24th-rated Bruins at Pasadena, Calif.

"You take two plays off the film, Michigan is the No. 1 team in the country," Donahue said.

Michigan will be without two starters: quarterback Michael Taylor, who hurt his back against Notre Dame, and fullback Jarrod Bunch, who hurt his knee. Both teams will be quarterbacked by redshirt freshmen, Elvis Grbac for Michigan and Bret Johnson for UCLA.

Johnson was UCLA's regular quarterback in a 24-6 loss to Tennessee and a 28-25 victory over San Diego State.

Other games involving Top Ten teams Saturday are Michigan State at No. 1 Notre Dame; No. 2 Miami, Fla., at Missouri; No. 3 Nebraska at Minnesota; Maryland at No. 7 Clemson; No. 8 Arkansas vs. Mississippi at Jackson, Miss.; No. 9 West Virginia at Louisville, and No. 10 Syracuse at No. 13 Pittsburgh.

Also, the schedule has No. 11 Washington at No. 23 Arizona; No. 25 Ohio State at No. 12 Southern Cal; Kentucky at No. 15 Alabama; No. 17 Houston at Arizona State; North Carolina at No. 18 North Carolina State; No. 19 Washington State at Wyoming; Utah State at No. 20 Illinois, and No. 22 Oregon at Stanford.

At South Bend, Ind., Michigan State will put a string of seven regular-season victories on the line against the nation's No. 1 team. Michigan State is coming off a 49-0 victory over Miami, Ohio last weekend.

Notre Dame, meanwhile, has won 14 straight, the longest current string in college football. The Irish's biggest challenge could be containing Spartans tailback Blake Ezor, who ran for 130 yards and three touchdowns against Miami.

"They're not a very complicated offensive football team," Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz said. "I thought we played the run very well against Michigan, which probably runs the ball as well as any team in the country."

Miami, Fla., will be a 24-point favorite over Missouri at Columbia, but first-year Tigers coach Bob Stull still holds out hope of victory.

"Probably more outlandish things have happened," Stull said.

The Hurricanes are 2-0 after beating Wisconsin 51-3 and California 31-3. Their defense has not allowed a touchdown in nine of their last 14 games while their offense has averaged 41 points this season.

Nebraska is 2-0 and struggling, and that worries coach Tom Osborne as the Cornhuskers prepare for their game against Minnesota at Minneapolis. Nebraska lost 12 starters from last year's 11-2 team and has fallen behind before beating both Northern Illinois and Utah this season.

"When you're trailing or behind early in both games, players understand they're vulnerable," Osborne said. "I don't think there's any overconfidence on our side."

Nebraska tailback Ken Clark ran for 168 yards against Northern Illinois and 130 against Utah and needs just 105 more to move from 11th to sixth on the Cornhuskers' all-time list.

The Gophers' attack also features a fine tailback, Darrell Thompson, already Minnesota's all-time leading rusher, who had 106 yards in a 30-20 victory over Iowa State last Saturday in the Gophers' opener.

Syracuse and Pitt have two of the best defenses in the country, so the coaches expect special teams to play a big role at Pittsburgh on Saturday. That could give Syracuse the edge.

The Orangemen's kick returner is Missile Ismail, Rocket's brother.

"He can fly and he's a tremendous competitor and, as a kick returner, he's already proven he's dynamite," MacPherson said. "He's a threat. He's dynamic."

18-under shot in first-round at MCC

From Staff Reports

A two-way tie exists in the championship flight of the Midland Country Club Sandblaster four-man scramble after day one action, but the real story came from first flight action.

Dave Robbins, Richard Moore, Steve McCoy and Mac McGee combined to lead the first flight with an 18-under round of 54. The team's round consisted of 14 birdies and two eagles, including an eagle on a hole-out from a bunker. Robbins-Moore-McCoy-McGee lead the first flight by four strokes.

The team of Ted Collins-Al Boudreaux-Robert Caudle-Randy Geiselman and the team of Jack Wood-Dave Boutin-Nick Williams-Steve Thompson are both tied with 59s in the championship flight.

Saturday's format will consist of a two-man scramble, best-ball; action concludes Sunday with the two-low balls of the foursome.

Walsh will stay

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson said Friday he has no intentions of trading Steve Walsh despite the rookie quarterback's plea to be shopped to another team before the National Football League's Oct. 17 trading deadline.

"We don't intend to trade Walsh at this time," Johnson said.

Plainview tramples 'inoffensive' Steers, 35-14

By GEORGE BRZEZINSKI
MRT Correspondent

BIG SPRING — "We just got our tails kicked."

That was the reaction of Big Spring Coach David Thompson after his Steers were trampled by the Plainview Bulldogs, 35-14 here Friday.

If the Steers could replay any portion of the game it would certainly be the two minutes and thirteen seconds in the first quarter when Plainvew managed to put 21 points across, shattering the Steers offense.

Plainview opened the game with an impressive drive as Brian Brazier and Stan Robertson shared rushing duties, marching 69 yards on 15 plays. The Plainview coaching staff gambled early, instructing quarterback J.J. Smith to run up the middle on a fourth and two on their own 20 yard line. Smith picked up the first which led to Robertson's touchdown.

The Big Spring offense barely had a chance to break a sweat on their first possesion as quarterback Rance Thompson was picked off on the second play from scrimmage, which defensive back Ellison Collins promptly returned for another Bulldog score. "I was surprised the pass was thrown so slow, that made it easy to step in front and steal the ball."

When things looked like they couldn't get worse for the Steers, Jimmy Shaeffer fumbled the ensuing kickoff and the Bulldogs recovered on their own 30 yard line. Smith needed only one play to find junior Pat O'Neal wide open for an easy six points.

Although Thompson did not have a good night passing, (8-21, 54 yards) he managed to hook up with Clay Atkinson for 18 and Joe Downey for 8, setting up Miller's run for Big Spring's first score. As was the case last week, the Steers receiving corps dropped numerous passes, deflating the offense.

Coach Thompson did find some positives in the game, pointing out a defense that allowed only 37 passing yards. "The defense played well, I was pleased with the way they improved over last week."

The Steers quiet second-half offense, along with a bad snap from center on a fourth down punt gave Plainview excellent field position, as Smith found himself working from his own 21. The Plainview ground game was aided by a crucial Big Spring penalty, setting up Collins' touchdown and giving the Bulldogs a 35-6 lead.

Coach Thompson did manage to scrape out another 8 points late in the fourth quarter as his offense capitalized on sophmore quarterback Danny Copeland's errant pass, picked off by Jonathan Downey.

"We need to regroup and get ready for next week and Monahans," Thompson said."

Big Spring, 1-2, travels to Monahans next Friday.

BUFFS

"I didn't do a very good job of getting our kids ready to play," Purser said. "They wanted it worse than we did."

After being found wanting from the Wishbone through most of the first half, Stanton spread its offense on its final drive before intermission and scored on an eight-yard run by quarterback Randy Nevarez with 11 seconds left in the half. Tony Moses added the PAT kick to tie the score.

And tied it remained through the third quarter. But it wouldn't remain tied for long in the fourth — thanks to Buff halfback Jesse Montez, who busted loose for a 75-yard scoring run on the first play of the final period. Moses added another PAT kick and it looked like the Rangers were in trouble.

But Greenwood came back with an 11-play, 77-yard drive that fullback Brian Aylor capped with a three-yard TD plunge. The Rangers then took the lead on a PAT pass from Mebane to Gay.

Stanton wouldn't give up, however. Ruth said his players' mettle was the key, even when Greenwood seemed to have the edge.

"We weren't about to quit," Ruth said. "We had seven minutes."

And the Buffs used almost all seven minutes to fashion an 11-play, 66-yard drive that ended when John Paul Barry scored the go-ahead touchdown on an eight-yard sweep with about a minute left.

Montez led Stanton rushers with 88 yards on only five carries, while Barry carried 15 times for 52 yards.

Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

Greenwood's Mike Bradford, left, makes a stab at Stanton back John Paul Berry.

Nevarez completed five of 10 passes for 88 yards.

Marquez led all rushers with 98 yards on 12 trips.

Stanton, 1-2, hosts Garden City next week. Greenwood, 0-3, hosts Muleshoe.

Late spurt helps Mustangs top Golden Tors

By DANNY BOBBITT

ANDREWS — The Andrews Mustangs scored three second-half touchdowns to earn a come-from-behind win over the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes, 27-16 here Friday night. Sophmore halfback Zach Miller rushed for 128 yards and scored two touchdowns and senior quarterback Robert Morris scored once and passed for another TD to lead the Mustangs to their first win of the season in three tries

The Mustangs tallied first when Miller slammed in from a yard out with 5:26 remaining in the initial quarter. The nine-play, 38-yard drive began when Eric Perucca pounced on a Lamesa miscue — the first of three turnovers comitted by the Tornadoes.

Andrews' next possesion came at it's own 20-yard line. The Mustangs drove to the Tornado 19 and with a fourth down and two yards to go, were threatening to blow the game open early. But, a tackle by defensive back Keene Hunter for no gain swung the momentum to Lamesa. Keene also returns kickoffs and was a constant threat as he returned five kicks for 129 yards.

Lamesa knotted the score on a 14-play, 57-yard drive when quarterback Brock Cartwright scored from the one-yard line with 1:58 left in the half. Cartwright highlighted the drive with a 24-yard run. The drive bogged down at the Mustang nine-yard line with the Tornadoes facing a fourth down and one. But freshman running back Tony Brown picked up two yards to keep possesion for Lamesa.

The Tornadoes forced a fumble three plays later and drove 16 yards to allow James Williams to boot a 30-yard field goal with no time left on the clock to send Lamesa into the locker room with a 10-7 advantage at the break.

Lamesa stormed out of the locker room onto the field and to a touchdown on it's first possesion of the second half to move ahead 16-7 with 8:12 left in the third quarter. The nine-play, 68-yard drive lit the scoreboard when Cartwright found Jason Blake behind the secondary for a 23-yard touchdown toss. Williams set up the score with a 30-yard burst up the middle on an inside trap.

Andrews followed suite and marched 80 yards on eight plays with Miller scampering in from 32 yards out at the 5:13 mark of the third quarter. Mustang running back Kelly Comejo took the ball to the 32 on a 24-yard jaunt one play earlier.

The final two scores by the Mustangs came in the fourth quarter when Morris hit end Brandon Wilson with a 31-yard scoring strike with 9:38 left in the game then scored the final TD himself with 4:54 left on a one-yard sneak to move the final margin to nine at 27-16. The last score was aided by a 36-yard run by Miller.

Lamesa's last chance to get back into the game came on the ensueing kickoff. Hunter gathered the kick in at the 18-yard line and galloped 52 yards to the Andrews 30-yard line before being hauled down. A short run, a sack and two incomplete passes put the game out of reach as the Golden Tornadoes lost possesion for the last time.

The loss dropped Lamesa to 1-2 on the season.

REBELS

After Andress recovered a bad pitch by Lee's Ty Chambers with :49 to go in the half, the Eagles relied on their passing game and Lee penalties to get deep into Rebel territory. Sanchez completed passes of 23 and 14 yards while the Rebs were flagged for facemask and holding penalties.

"It was a big play by the Luckie kid," said Earl Miller, Lee head coach. "Everything was going their way. But that's how you win ball games; making the big play. If they scored there I'm sure it would have given them a lot of momentum coming back in the second half."

Luckie was not the only Rebel to make the big play, as Strambler added another gem for the college scouts to see on the highlight films.

Beginning Lee's first possession, Andress punter Jimmy Guardado pinned the Rebs down at their own 7-yard line. But on the Rebs' third offensive snap, the 190-pound Strambler took a Vince Henderson pitch in the end zone, broke a tackle and breezed down the left sideline for 97 yards and the game's first six points.

While the Lee defense was busy shutting down the Eagle attack for most of the contest, the Rebel offense built in the first half what proved to be an insurmountable lead.

Bennie Jones hauled in an 11-yard pass from Henderson with 6:33 to play in the second quarter and kicker Art Donnelly rounded out the scoring by booting a 41-yard field goal with 2:17 left in the half.

"We just screwed up on the touchdown pass," Sepkowitz said. "We practied against that pass to the tight end all week, but they just executed well."

Miller, however, was less than pleased with Lee's lackluster second-half showing in the non-district finale.

"We came back in the second half and were just real sloppy offensively. We could've made it 24-0 and broke their backs. We are going to have to get better in a hurry.

"But it's a good win. It's right before district opens and we're playing against an El Paso team. That makes it hard to motivate the kids," Miller said. "That's no excuse, but it's a little easier to motivate the kids for a disrict game.

"We did some things right, too. Donnelly kicks a 40-yard field goal into the wind after a high snap and the defense has had two shutouts in a row. We're coming around."

BULLDOGS

Midland still had a chance to win, but lost another scoring opportunity when Oden dropped a Stone pass in the end zone and Stone fumbled two plays later at the two-yard line.

The Bulldogs tried to come back again as Mowles hit James Woolsey with a beautiful 58-yard pass-run play for the final score.

Midland High now enters District 4-5A play next week against Midland Lee with a 1-2 record.

"It's a whole new game now," said Corley. "We've got to get some people healthy and try to play a little harder."

Coronado is undefeated at 3-0 and opens District 3-5A play against Amarillo Caprock next week.

Students mourn death

By SUZANNE GAMBOA

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The death of a high school football player has become a test of faith for the 380 students of Cathedral High School.

Sean Moran, 17, died Thursday afternoon of head injuries he suffered during a game last week.

The students' Christian beliefs offer a little spiritual support, said the Rev. Stephen Furches, principal of the high school. "But it (also) offers some confusion because they wonder why would God take someone as good as Sean," he said.

Although school was held Friday, an attempt at holding class failed, Furches said. "We basically let the kids spend time with each other," he said.

Mojo runs record to 3-0 with win over Amarillo High

From Staff Reports

AMARILLO — The Odessa Permian Panthers strengthened their grip on their No. 2 state ranking with a 28-0 blanking of Amarillo High Friday night in the Panhandle city.

Chris Comer scored twice in the game for the Panthers and Mojo quarterback Stoney Case threw for two touchdown passes to complete the scoring.

The Panthers held the Sandies to just 164 yards total offense; Amarillo High had five turnovers, including three fumbles.

Permian scored 21 of their 28 points in the second quarter. Starting things off was a six-yard TD pass to Joby Teegarden; Clint Stewart came on to kick the first and all of the extra points for Mojo.

Comer ran in from three yards out and Lloyd Hill brought down an 18 yard pass from Case to run the Panther lead to 21-0 at the halfway point.

Comer finished things off in the third when Comer ran in from six yards.

The Panthers, 3-0, will play Odessa High next Friday as District 4-5A play gets into full swing. The Sandies fell to 1-2 with the loss.

Central held to six yards rushing in 27-6 defeat to FW Dunbar

From Staff Reports

SAN ANGELO — San Angelo Central was held to just six yards rushing on 16 carries as Fort Worth Dunbar defeated the host San Angelo team, 27-6 Friday night.

The 'Cats amassed just 122 yards total offense — 116 from the pass.

Dunbar was not without fault in the win either, being flagged for 113 penalty yards.

Dunbar moves its record to 3-0 with the win; San Angelo falls to 0-3.

Central's lone score came on a 5 yard Joey Bonds pass to Eric Springer with 5:57 remaining in the third quarter.

Dunbar's Bobby Thompson scored twice to earn scoring-leader honors, running in from 16 and 8 yards.

Henry Gary scored on a four yard pass from Dunbar quarterback Wyland Burleson and Blaise Roberts opened the evening's scoring with a six-yard run in the first quarter.

GENERAL NEWS

Fundamentalist novel finding public favor

From Staff Reports

DETROIT (AP) — When it was published in 1986, Frank Peretti's novel about spiritual battles was a sleeper even on Christian bookstore shelves. "This Present Darkness" now is so popular that general-trade book stores are ordering it by the thousands.

Now he is promoting his sequel, "Piercing the Darkness," and will include a stop in Midland. He will be speaking at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Cornerstone Christian Fellowship, 1610 W. Wall Ave.

"Piercing The Darkness" had 400,000 pre-print orders before its release last month, far more advance interest than better-known Christian authors like Chuck Swindoll and James Dobson receive.

A breezy writing style, lots of dialogue and battles between golden-haired, winged sword-wielding angels and slimy, sulfur-breathing, taloned demons make "This Present Darkness" a gripping read.

Written from a Christian viewpoint, the battle for human souls takes place against the backdrop of the attempted takeover of a small college town by occult forces.

The book sold 4,200 copies in its first year of release. Then someone sent a copy to Christian singer Amy Grant, who enjoys unparalleled popularity among non-Christians in the pop music genre.

At her sold-out concerts, Grant told audiences the book's message of the power of prayer had a profound influence on her. Sales began to take off.

By this month, "This Present Dakness" had sold 625,000 copies and was in its 20th printing. It has been the No. 1-selling paperback in Bookstore Journal, the trade publication of the 3,000-member Christian Bookstores of America, for 10 of the last 12 months, coming in second the other two months.

When "Piercing The Darkness" was released Aug. 11, a blocklong line of customers waited outside a store in Nashville, Tenn. Zondervan Corp.'s 93 Family Book Stores sold their initial order of 2,000 copies in advance.

The word about the first book still is spreading to general-trade bookstores. At The Tattered Cover in Denver, religious and philosophy book buyer Matt Cowles said the store has been selling 15 to 20 copies a month. The store stocks about 125,000 titles and is among the largest independent bookstores in the country.

"It certainly caught us off guard," Cowles said. "We kept thinking it was going to slow down. But it's done very well for us, and I'd say it appeals to the general market."

Retail book chains B. Dalton and Waldenbooks have ordered several thousand copies of "This Present Darkness," Crossway Books publicist Kathy Jacobs said. Crossway, which published both books, is a division of Good News Publishers in Westchester, Ill.

Ed Morrow, president of the American Booksellers Association and a shop owner in Manchester Center, Vt., said the question of how a Christian book makes the transition to general trade sales often is discussed.

"The Christian book market is so large, the books often just don't sell in a general-trade store," Morrow said. "There is some transference, but a lot of times it's not visible because we don't know the titles."

Baptists propose budget

DALLAS — Texas Baptists' Executive Board voted to recommend a record $68,750,000 budget for its 1990 Cooperative Program of Missions support in the U.S. and more than 100 foreign nations.

The 193-member board conducts business of the 2.4 million member Baptist General Convention of Texas and its institutions between annual convention sessions.

The budget, which will be presented to the annual convention in Lubbock Nov. 7-8, is $250,000 greater than the 1989 budget. It includes a basic budget of $63.5 million and a challenge budget of $5.25 million.

The first $23,270,210 of the proposed budget is designated for support of 7,500 Southern Baptist foreign and home missionaries, six seminaries, the Baptist Radio and Television Commission in Fort Worth, and other missionary, educational and benevolent causes.

A total of $40,229,790 from the budget would help support 23 Texas Baptist hospitals, universities and child care homes, plus state missions ministries to assist the churches in reaching every Texas with the gospel of Jesus Christ.

The Board also approved a proposal by High Plains Baptist Health Systems in Amarillo to purchase Park Place Towers Retirement Community for $6,255,000.

The 10-story retirement facility, consisting of 119 apartments and a 56-bed nursing unit, is owned by the First Baptist/Amarillo Foundation, a non-profit corporation governed by a 15-member board of trustees, all of whom are members of First Baptist Church of Amarillo.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Cooking demonstration to benefit Samaritan

The Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas is presenting Justin Wilson, Louisiana cook and humorist, Thursday at the Odessa Hilton.

Wilson will give a cooking demonstration at 10 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m., after a cajun buffet, Wilson will share his humor and wisdom in an after dinner storytelling talk.

Wilson is an internationally recognized humorist and culinary chef. He has written four cookbooks and three books of stories. Louisiana Cookin' is Wilson's cooking show on cable and was recognized by an Emmy Award nomination.

The Samaritan Counseling Center of West Texas, Inc., is an ecumenical, non-profit organization.

"The center was established in 1973 for the purpose of helping people grow toward greater health and wholeness by providing counseling and psychological services," says a release from the center.

The outpatient services include individual counseling, marriage and family counseling, group sessions, pastoral counseling, divorce recovery and educational programs.

Wilson's cooking demonstration and after dinner talk serve as the Samaritan Counseling Center's fourth annual fund raiser. The cooking demonstration and lesson is $20 and the dinner and talk is $25. For reservations or more information call the center, 563-4144.

Hospice training begins

Interested parties are invited to be part of the Hospice volunteer training which begins Oct. 3 and will be held on Tuesdays and Thursdays through Oct. 26. Morning classes will be held from 9 a.m. to noon, and evening classes, which are a repeat of morning classes, will be held from 7 to 10 p.m.

Most classes will be held at Hospice House, 911 W. Texas Ave.

A special "brown bag" lunch will be held Oct. 5 from 12 to 1 p.m. at Hospice House. Course participants are invited to join current Hospice volunteers and staff to hear Ray Sibert, Hospice social work intern, speak on "reflective listening."

There is no obligation to become a Hospice volunteer and there is no charge for the course.

For more information, or to register for the course — pre-registration is suggested but not required — call Susie Wilmeth, coordinator of volunteers, 682-2855.

Fellowship scheduled

The Ranchland Heights Baptist Church will have its Fourth Sunday Fellowship after the evening worship service this weekend.

Honored guests for the evening will be the new members who have joined the church this month, along with special honors for Billy Gilbreath, a member of Crestview Baptist Church who has been teaching the adult class for the past two years. He volunteered to assist the church until strength and leadership were available for the church itself to carry the load. His service has been greatly appreciated by the members of Ranchland Heights.

During the evening worship service the church will celebrate the Lord's Supper.

"This special memorial service is held once each quarter to remind all of the gift of eternal life made possible by the sacrifice of Jesus on the cross of Calvary," says a release from the church.

Next weekend, the church will begin a week-long revival with the Rev. Monroe Teeters preaching and Vaughny Taylor leading the singing.

Pastor Lucian Rudd extends a welcome to all to attend the services and programs of the church.

Annual tea scheduled

The Episcopal Church Women of Holy Trinity will host its fifth annual fund-raiser Sept. 30.

A formal English tea will be held to celebrate the church's 60th anniversary and is scheduled from 2 to 3:30 p.m. and from 4 to 5:30 p.m. in the Parish Hall.

Events of the day include a sampling of teas and baked items, chamber music, informal modeling by the Canopy, a bake sale and a silent auction. Works by various artists, a portrait by Mary Griffith, needlepoint canvas, jewelry, gourmet dinner for six, fashion items and accessories are among the items up for bid at the auction.

Cookbooks with many delightful recipes, including many for the tea, will be available for guests to purchase, says a release from the church.

Tickets are $10 and reservations must be made in advance to insure proper seating. For more information call Jane McAbee, 682-7258.

Proceeds from the Anniversary Tea will help support the ECW and its outreach projects which have included in the past Meals On Wheels, Hospice, Hearthstone and the Permian Basin Center for Battered Women and Their Children.

AAL hosts barbecue

ODESSA — The Midland branch of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL), along with branches from Andrews, Big Spring, Lamesa, Odessa and Pecos, is hosting a benefit barbecue for Lutheran Braille Workers, Inc., at Odessa's Sherwood Park from 4 to 8 p.m. today.

Tickets may be purchased from Jerry Penick, 697-3221 or 694-1497, Rusty Collins, 694-3559, or Walter Teinert, 684-5319. Tickets are $7 per person or $20 per family. A tax-deductible donation is acceptable and appreciated.

The mission of the braille workers is "to provide truth and love throughout the world with embossed braille and large print Christian material and Bibles so that all the blind and visually-impaired may know, too, that Jesus is Lord," says a release from the Midland branch of AAL.

The slogan for Braille Workers, Inc., is "Bringing Christ to Those in Darkness."

AAL has one of the nation's largest privately-funded scholarship programs. Since 1965, the Appleton, Wis.,-based fraternal benefit society has awarded more than 18,000 scholarships totaling $24.7 million to its members.

Seminar focuses on abuse

Donna Rogers of Glenview Hospital will speak to the Parents Support Group at First United Methodist Church at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Her topic will be "Recognizing the Symptoms of Substance Abuse."

"Donna is a very entertaining as well as informative speaker," says Carol Hall, care coordinator at First UMC. "She will touch on related topics of recognizing abuse in teens and how to deal with it."

The meeting will be held in the Fellowship Hall.

All parents of teens and pre-teens are invited to attend.

The Parents Group meets at noon each Monday in the church's Recreation Hall.

This group is for any parent who has teen-agers. To experience sharing, spiritual reinforcement and education are the main thrusts of the group.

Rijfkogel hosts crusade

A special "Spiritual Life Crusade" will be conducted by evangelist Samuel Rijfkogel at Calvary Assembly of God, 908 S. Johnston St., Sunday Wednesday.

Rijfkogel

Services times are 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday.

Rijfkogel is from North Little Rock, Ark.

"Samuel shares heart rendering accounts of crusades in Thailand and of peopel in foreign lands hearing the name of Jesus for the first time," says a release from the church. "Medical clinics have been established in Thailand and Laos as a result of his ministry. Samuel has a worldwide vision that will inspire you to fulfill Christ's great commission."

During his ministry, he has traveled with a singing group, Morning Star, and has shared the platform with such speakers as David Wilderson.

The church's pastor, the Rev. Gayle Reeves, invites the public to attend.

Wylie conducts lessons

Discussion on some of today's most pressing problems will be this fall at Fairmont Park Church of Christ, 3813 North Midland Drive.

Dr. Wayne Wylie, associate professor at Texas A&M, will conduct lessons today at 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Wylie also will speak Sunday at 9 and 10 a.m.

Marriage and family therapist, Dr. James Huggins, will speak at 8:30 a.m. Sept. 30, and again Oct. 1 at 9 a.m.

These speakers will be addressing the subjects of drug and alcohol abuse, how to recognize the symptoms and solutions for the victims and their families.

For more details call 699-7064. These lessons are free to the public and no special contributions will be taken.

The public is invited to attend.

Williams to teach class

Anita Williams will be teaching at the Downtown Businesswomens Bible Study Wednesday at 11:30 a.m. at 312 E. Illinois Ave., Suite 6.

She also will conduct a meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday at St. Pauls United Methodist Church, 4501 Thomason Drive.

Mrs. Williams has been leading seminars and retreats for churches and organizations for the past 15 years.

Ordained as a minister in 1983, she is on the staff of Ecclesia Church in Chandler where she and her husband, Ron, are members.

In June of 1984, Zechariah 4:6 Ministries was begun by the Williamses.

Walter Umphrey has been named AFL-CIO lawyer

By JAMES CULLEN
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Walter Umphrey has assumed the duties of general counsel of the Texas AFL-CIO, said Joe Gunn, president of the state labor federation.

Umphrey, of the Jefferson County law firm of Umphrey, Swearingen, Eddins & Carver, previously was named general counsel of the Texas Building and Construction Trades Council. He also is special counsel for the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers.

"We plan to move organized labor off the defensive, where it has spent too much time in recent years," Gunn said in a news release. "Walter is going to prove to be a great asset as we deal with the many legal issues facing organized labor and working people in Texas."

Umphrey, whose firm has offices in Beaumont, Port Arthur and Houston, has committed to place a full-time lawyer in the AFL-CIO offices in Austin, Gunn said.

"Having an attorney on staff full-time will enable us to represent our affiliated members in ways we could not in the past," Gunn said. "This is the first time we have had such extensive legal resources, and it's a great opportunity."

Many Texas workers and unions cannot afford legal expertise, Gunn said. "This is where Walter Umphrey, as general counsel, has the opportunity to return the support labor has given him through the years. And Walter welcomes that opportunity."

Umphrey, a Port Arthur native, earned his law degree in 1965 from Baylor University. He is board certified in labor law and personal injury trial law.

Jesus rides donkey in revised Bible

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE

LONDON (AP) — Jesus rides into Jerusalem on a donkey instead of an ass in a new English-language Bible that is careful not to upset U.S. readers, the editor said Thursday.

"The old usage is a classic example of offense being caused in the United States for obvious reasons," said Roger Coleman, coordinating editor of "The Revised English Bible."

In Britain, the word ass doesn't have as many meanings as it does in American use.

"References to ass have been adjusted to the inoffensive and unambiguous donkey," he said.

The change is one of thousands in the 1,294-page revision of "The New English Bible," which appeared in 1970 and which in Britain has largely replaced the Authorized Version or King James Bible of 1611 and its late 19th- century Revised Version.

Coleman said American viewpoints reached the translators through the New York offices of the Oxford and Cambridge university presses, which are jointly printing the new Bible.

"They came largely from people who want to use the Bible literally, with only the meanings they attribute to the words, although a large number of Americans are used to the Authorized Version where 'ass' is used liberally," Coleman said.

The publishers describe the new Bible as a linguistically updated version, whose style relates less to the vocabulary of a 19th-century clergyman and more to the needs of a 20th-century congregation.

It substitutes "you" for "thee" and "thou," "did" for "didst" and abandons the "O" in references to God such as "O Lord."

God is still referred to as "he" (but without a capital H) in faithfulness to the original writings, Coleman said, but in other references to gender the version grapples with sexism for the first time in a British-produced Bible.

"English is not too well equipped to express gender," Coleman told a news conference.

"We carefully looked at all cases where male-oriented language was used — 'men' or 'brethren' applied to people of both sexes — and we used an inclusive gender term or adjusted the translation to sidestep the problem," he said.

> "References to ass have been adjusted to the inoffensive and unambiguous donkey ... They came largely from people who want to use the Bible literally, with only the meanings they attribute to the words, although a large number of Americans are used to the Authorized Version where 'ass' is used liberally."
>
> — Roger Coleman, Bible editor

"Brethren" becomes "friends" in some places and "a man" sometimes is changed to "a person."

Elsewhere, "corn" has been changed to "grain" in many cases because it means wheat in some countries, grain for others and oats in Scotland.

William Duff McHardy, formerly Regius Professor of Hebrew at Oxford University, the revision's director, was asked why the phrase, "Vanity of vanities ... all is vanity" from the first chapter of Ecclesiastes was changed to "Futility, utter futility."

"We discussed it for a long time," he said. "Vanity did not represent all that the original Hebrew ought to represent, but futility was the best we could do. We still have slight misgivings."

Morna Hooker, professor of New Testament studies at Cambridge University and the only woman among the revisers, said: "If God was referred to as 'she,' it wouldn't be the Bible which one must remember is 19 centuries old. You must always stand at a slight distance from it."

Scholars of all Britain's mainstream churches cooperated for the first time in the revision, which took 15 years: Anglicans, Roman Catholics, Presbyterians, Methodists, Baptists, Quakers, the Salvation Army and the Bible societies.

Literary advisers included the poet Philip Larkin before his death in 1985 and novelist Mary Stewart.

Lord Coggan, former archbishop of Canterbury and a scholar of ancient Hebrew who presided over meetings of the project committee, said they aimed to produce the "first fully ecumenical Bible" in "straightforward language for reading in church that can be immediately understood."

"The Bible is one of the main tools of the Christian church but tools get blunt and the edges need resharpening. Knowledge increases as the years go by, language changes and style alters," he said.

The new Bible, officially published Sept. 28 but already on sale, will be used immediately in Protestant churches but still needs the imprimatur — license to publish — of Catholic authorities before their congregations can use it, Coleman said.

The revisers met in the Jerusalem Chamber of 900-year-old Westminster Abbey where the compilers of the first Revised Version met from 1871 to 1881.

The work is being printed in a first run of 300,000 copies for the English-speaking world, including 200,000 for the United States, said Geoffrey Cass, chief executive of Cambridge University Press.

Groundbreaking set

Bellview Baptist Church, 1710 N. Big Spring, will have a groundbreaking ceremony for a new 20,000-square-foot education and activities building Sunday following the 10:50 a.m. service.

The ceremony will be led by the pastor, G.A. Magee.

"The church has been planning for the building for several years and is now pleased to see the construction begin," says a release from the church.

Building committee members include Jim Cobb, chairman; Myrle Smith, Pat Hopson, Loreta McReynolds, Bob Meritt, Jerry Lancaster, Steve Stewart, Cleo Roberts, and Don Hamilton. N.C. Sturgeon Company is the building contractor.

The public is invited.

Video series continues

The third video in the five-week Clayton Barbeau "Creating Family" series will be shown at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 2800 W. Louisiana Ave., at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday.

"We all can improve in our family relationships," says a release from the church.

Barbeau's series speaks of family in a non-exclusive manner so that singles, seniors and single parents as well as two-parent families, can find great value in what he has to say. Barbeau is a author, lecturer and family therapist.

This third video, "Male/Female Crisis," will be shown in the sanctuary after the regular Wednesday night dinner.

The public is invited to the dinner and the video. To make reservations for dinner, call the church office, 682-2514, before noon Tuesday.

Parish workers to meet

Parish Workers of Grace Lutheran Church will meet at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Janet Matschull, 3503 Humble St.

Also, Grace Guild will meet at the church at 9 a.m. Wednesday. The topic for the meeting will be "Seek His Face."

Both groups are members of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League (LWML) and will be making plans for the observance of LWML Sunday during the morning worship service Oct. 1.

The women also will be making plans to attend the zone rally of the organization to be held in Odessa Oct. 8. Bill Knippa of Austin will be the featured speaker at the rally, which is titled "Bridge Over Troubled Waters" and deals with problems of teenagers.

Art lessons set to begin

Beginning Wednesday, art lessons will be taught at Midland Christian Fellowship, 200 Baldwin St., by Virginia Whitten, a Big Spring art instructor.

These lessons will be in oil and water-based medias and will include instruction in composition and color mixing, and are scheduled for once each week on Wednesday from 12:30 to 3:30 p.m.

Having taught college and private art lessons for many years, Ms. Whitten is "well qualified to teach any student to look, feel, and then create a work of fine art," says a release from the church.

For further information call Ms. Whitten at 1-263-4245 or 1-267-5665.

ENDOMETRIOSIS
A COMMON CAUSE OF PELVIC PAIN and INFERTILITY
FREE TO THE PUBLIC
Tuesday, September 26th
7:30 P.M.
Women's and Children's Hospital Auditorium
Presented by
DAVID S. LIBSON, M.D.
Endometriosis is a disease which can occur in any woman of childbearing age. It may cause pelvic pain especially at the time of a woman's period.
Endometriosis is also a cause of infertility and can damage the reproductive organs. Many women can be effectively treated by means that are best adapted to this specific problem.
Dr. Libson practices in Odessa in the field of obstetrics, gynecology and infertility. He will be answering questions from the audience as well as presenting information on Endometriosis: What is the disease? How is it diagnosed? What options are available for treatment? Please call for reservations at 334-8297 as space as limited.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Bomb explodes under Italian journalist's car

ALGHERO, Sardinia (AP) — A bomb exploded under the car of a journalist on this Italian island Friday, damaging several vehicles but not injuring anyone, police said.

The car destroyed by the bomb was parked in front of the Alghero home of Gianni Olandi, a reporter for the daily La Nuova Sardegna, based in nearby Sassari.

Olandi recently wrote a series of articles about building speculation on Sardinia, a popular tourist destination. Local officials have moved to limit construction near the island's beaches.

Several other cars were damaged and windows of nearby buildings were blown out by the early morning blast, police said.

A police officer, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Olandi's car was apparently targeted because of his work. No arrests had been made, he said.

Zoo's panda has twins

BEIJING (AP) — Jingjing, a giant panda at the Chengdu Zoo, has given birth to twins after being artificially inseminated, the official Xinhua News Agency reported Friday.

It was the second birth this year among China's captive pandas. The rare black-and-white animals, whose numbers have dropped sharply in the wild to about 1,000, do not breed readily in captivity.

Xinhua said Jingjing's cubs, born Thursday, weigh 3.5 ounces each.

Pandas refuse to nurse more than one cub at a time, so staff at the zoo in southwestern China are nursing the second cub, Xinhua said.

Jingjing bore her first cub in 1987. The two latest were the products of insemination with frozen semen, Xinhua said.

The Fuzhou Zoo in eastern China reported the birth of a cub in June but did not say how the mother, Qingqing, was inseminated.

Fireworks factory explodes

ORISTANO, Sardinia (AP) — An explosion ripped through a fireworks factory on the western coast of Sardinia on Friday and killed six people, police said.

Two others were critically injured in the blast, which blew out the walls and roof of the building, said a police spokesman.

Four of the victims died immediately. Another died in a local hospital during surgery and a sixth on a military airplane carrying him to a Rome hospital, police said.

It was not immediately known what set off the blast in the village of Terralba, 15 miles from Oristano.

Students die in school fire

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Fire swept through a Moslem girls' school Friday, killing 27 students, a local report said.

The fire at the Madrasah Taufiqiah Khairiah Al-Halimiah school began at about 2:30 a.m., the national news agency Bernama reported.

It said the fire occurred in Padang Lumat, 234 miles northwest of Kuala Lumpur.

All the students who died were between 13 and 16 years old, police were quoted as saying. The cause and other details of the fire were not known.

Children killed in crash

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — A passenger train crashed into a school bus at an unguarded railway crossing Friday, killing 12 children and injuring more than 20, the state Tanjug news agency reported.

The accident near this Croatian capital was caused by thick fog in the area, the agency said.

The train was traveling at about 30 mph when it hit the bus, the report said.

20 Chinese hurt in quake

BEIJING (AP) — A strong earthquake hit southwest China's Sichuan province Friday, injuring about 20 people, an official report said.

The quake, measuring 6.6 on the Richter scale, hit Xiaojin county in central Sichuan and was felt in 12 counties and two cities, the Xinhua News Agency said.

In the worst-hit area, houses collapsed, cracks appeared on highways and a mine was damaged.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Go all out to polish your appearance. New doors open, bringing financial success. A company move could cause major problems if your mate and children are not behind you. Consult them before saying "yes" in February. Your intuition helps you get back on track after a minor reversal. A spiritual reawakening will point you in a different direction. New friends add meaning to your life in intangible ways. You are happiest with people who offer you intellectual stimulation. Avoid casual flings.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: "Muppets" creator Jim Henson, actor Anthony Newley, author F. Scott Fitzgerald, football's "Mean Joe" Green.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Enjoy a happy, relaxed day with your family. Postpone time-consuming chores. A sermon holds significance for those trying to solve a personal problem. Your mate is supportive.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Opt for a change of scenery today by getting out of town. Visit friends or family. A special dinner reminds you of your childhood. Resolve to host a reunion in the near future.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): The emphasis today is on burying the hatchet and reaching agreements. Meet people halfway. A search for truth will turn up surprising ideas or attitudes. Use your powers of persuasion.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Do not let someone's sharp tongue goad you into lashing out. Ignore little slights; remember that anger can be turned away by a silken answer. Protect your good name. Romance is unpredictable.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Contact with people from different cultures is favored. You should be able to communicate your ideas effectively. Information on an unusual subject fascinates your audience. Make overdue phone calls.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You are the lucky recipient of an older person's benevolence. Accept a gift or reward with gratitude and dignity. Pursue your goals with enthusiasm. A younger person follows your example.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The early bird gets the choice reward. A compelling personal quest could make this a day to remember. Discussion groups can provide some creative ideas. Relax at home with your family tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Sharing a spiritual experience with your offspring is inspiring. Answer questions put to you by small fry. Keep the tradition of "family Sundays" strong. Candor clears up confusion.

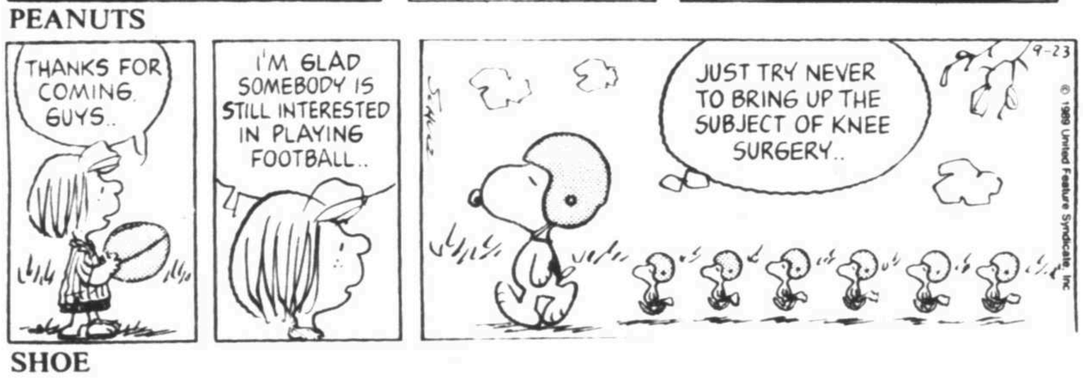

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you get off on the wrong foot, quickly reverse course. Ask probing but polite questions. The familiar way may not be the most practical. Put romance on hold for a while.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): A great day for talking with loved ones. Family members get your drift without your having to spell everything out. You are able to straighten out a knotty domestic problem with relative ease.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Welcome a lull in your busy week. Being part of a close circle of friends feels great. Share easy cooking chores with small fry. They will enjoy taking part in the activities.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Social amenities, artistic expression and friendly cooperation are featured. Capitalize on the good will you feel! You enjoy getting together with old friends. Take part in church activities.

Miss America's mom has racial discrimination lawsuit pending

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — The mother of Miss America Debbye Turner has a racial discrimination lawsuit pending against a former employer.

Gussie Turner of Jonesboro contends she was fired as director of an alcohol and drug rehabilitation center because she is black. She was dismissed in September 1985 after eight years on the job.

Crowley's Ridge Development Council Inc., which operates the center, said in court papers that Mrs. Turner was dismissed for "just cause" and deficient work.

U.S. District Judge Stephen Reasoner heard evidence in the case Aug. 28, but he won't decide until he receives additional briefs from lawyers. Mrs. Turner is seeking reinstatement, plus back pay and damages of $200,000.

Miss Turner, 24, represented Missouri in the pageant.

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Yoko Ono wants to leave the 1960s behind for a new age of "wisdom" she predicts is coming soon.

"My spiritual growth took place in the '60s," said the widow of slain ex-Beatle John Lennon.

"It's a very private, personal history. But it's a dangerous trap when you have such an attachment to that, when you don't go forward," Ono said.

Ono

Ono, 56, spoke to reporters Thursday at an art museum where her new show of bronze sculptures and paintings opens Saturday.

"I just feel that it's a better age now," she said. "We are becoming more and more aware. I said it in '84, that we were entering the age of wisdom, and I'm glad to be a part of it."

• • •

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Willie Nelson pulled a red bandanna off his head and gave it to Mayor Bill Harris after the country singer received a key to the city in honor of his fund-raising work for farmers.

Nelson has helped raise more than $10 million for strapped farmers through Farm Aid concerts in the last four years. He plans another of the concerts next spring at an undetermined site and a second farm benefit show in February or March in Washington, D.C.

Nelson

"Since the 1985 farm bill we've had 400-and-something-thousand farmers go out of business," Nelson told reporters before he kicked off a street festival.

The 1987 Farm Aid concert was held in Lincoln.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patti Davis, daughter of Ronald and Nancy Reagan, said her father's support of the Contras made it dangerous for her to travel to Nicaragua to research her second book.

The novel, "Deadfall," is about a young couple who try to make a documentary film on Nicaragua, with the plot twisting around spies, stolen film, murder and evidence of America's illegal involvement in the war.

The thriller is scheduled to hit bookstore shelves next week, about one month before the release of the former first lady's memoirs.

"The CIA created, armed and financed the Contras," said Ms. Davis, 36, of Santa Monica. "My father backed them with everything he had. It was my father's war and almost everyone in Nicaragua has lost somebody as a result of it."

Ms. Davis said her father's position made it too dangerous for her to go to Nicaragua. "I couldn't go down there, being his daughter, and expect not to feel those people's wrath," she said.

• • •

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Kyra Sedgwick is only 24, so playing an anti-Vietnam War activist presented a bit of a problem.

Sedgwick plays a woman who befriends a paralyzed war veteran, portrayed by Tom Cruise, in "Born on the Fourth of July," a movie by "Platoon" director Oliver Stone set for release this fall.

"She's a very passionate woman," Sedgwick said in Friday's editions of The New York Times. "Unlike a lot of female roles written for my age group, she's not just the star's girlfriend. She has a direction and a goal that have nothing to do with him.

"She's an idealist. That part was very difficult for me. My generation — now, in our present-day society — everyone feels very helpless toward the world situation, government, environment.

"That was the hardest thing for me, to imagine that you could actually change it. Everything is too big. You feel you have no control over it.

"From the time I was a child, the government wasn't for the people and never listened to the people. Now everything is chaos. That doesn't mean you should be apathetic. That doesn't mean you should do nothing. You should do something."

• • •

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — Mothher Teresa's condition was improving Friday, a hospital statement said.

"She slept well last night," the statement said. "She had no chest pains and her appetite is better today." It said her temperature was normal.

The 79-year-old Roman Catholic nun has had intermittent chest pains since suffering a heart attack on Sept. 8, three days after she was admitted to Woodlands Nursing Home hospital with a high fever.

Mother Teresa founded the Missionaries of Charity in October 1950 in an abandoned hostel donated by the city. The order, which was formally recognized by the Vatican in 1965, expanded and now has 3,000 nuns working in 87 countries.

Mother Teresa won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979 for her work with the poor and the suffering.

• • •

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The father of track star Zola Budd was found shot to death at his farm and apparently was murdered, police said Friday.

Frank Budd, 56, suffered two shotgun wounds to his left side Thursday evening at his home near the central city of Bloemfontein, said Sgt. Marelize Visagie. She said a truck and shotgun were missing from the farmhouse.

"I don't know what to say. What can a person say?" Ms. Budd, 23, said on learning of her father's death.

Ms. Budd and her father did not communicate in recent years and he did not attend his daughter's April 15 wedding in Bloemfontein to South African businessman Mike Pieterse.

Budd, a retired printer, was divorced from Ms. Budd's mother and lived alone. The independent South African Press Association described him as a "bitter man" estranged from most of his family.

Ms. Budd's career has been dogged by bans barring South African athletes from international competition because of the country's policies of race discrimination.

WRITE IT AND REAP!

Writing a classified ad that gets results—whether it be for real estate, employment, the personals, transportation, or merchandise— is easy if you follow the guidelines below.

1. Give the reader specific information. Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as color, size, condition, brand name, age, features and benefits. Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts and reap the rewards!

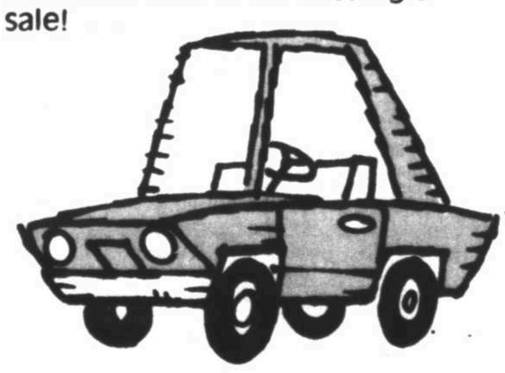

2. Include the price. Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

3. Avoid abbreviations. Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in kitchen) or WSW (white side wall) tires and won't take the time to figure them out. A confused reader is a disinterested reader. Get the most for your money and use complete words.

4. Include phone number and specify hours. Be sure to let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

5. Run on consecutive days. Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your telephone salesperson or outside sales representative. Run your ad for at least one week, or use our special rate.

Remember, you can cancel your ad as soon as you get the desired results!
