ONION RINGS ARE GLOOMY—Mrs. J. B. Cartwright, who made her third onion ring weather forecasting test on New Year's Eve, shows the tray of salt-filled onion shells with the bad news. According to this forecast, 1957 will be another dry one, although wetter than 1956.

Onion Rings, Not Tea Leaves

Famous Forecast Reveals 1957 To Be Another Dry Year Here

You can put away your raincoats—because the onion ring forecast of Mrs. June Cartwright, fast becoming an annual tradition, shows 1957 will be another dry year. In fact, we can look for little moisture until March, a few showers in April, then more dry weather until September, which appears to be somewhere near normal—if the onion rings are right. Another dry fall is in store, if the onion rings have it right, but a moist December is forecast, which may bring a White Christmas in 1957, but don't count on it. There is one bright spot—the onion rings say 1957 will be wetter than 1956, and it will have to be if any crops are grown. Last year the forecast outlined dry months during 1956 except for a smattering in January and November. It turned out that January had only 27 inches and November had only 27 inches. The forecast missed the big moisture month of 3.68 inches in August, brought about in Perryton by the hailstorm. Other sections of the county didn't get this rain, however, so the forecast wasn't far off. The 1956 forecast of dry weather held true except for July, which measured 4.06 inches in Perryton, nearly half the year's total.

"Of course, I don't have any faith in this onion ring business, but I'll have to admit I don't understand it," says Mrs. Cartwright, who first set out the onion rings three years ago after hearing about it from Mrs. E. M.

Rough and her late husband of Alva, Okla. The Rough prediction for 1955, like Mrs. Cartwright's, was almost exact.

Last year Mrs. Cartwright received 14 letters from people wanting to know how to put out the onion rings. It's really simple. First you get some onions, and it doesn't seem to matter much which kind you get.

Then you get a piece of cardboard, cut out 12 holes large enough to hold an onion shell, and label them with the names of the 12 months.

The onion is cut down the middle at 6 p. m. on New Year's Eve and the shells placed in the prepared holes. One teaspoon of salt is placed in each shell and the cardboard then must be placed in the open air, out of the wind.

Before sunrise on New Year's Day, the onion shells are examined. You will notice a surprising difference in the appearance of the salt. Some shells are powder dry, others have moisture lumps, and there may be one wringing wet with moisture, as was the case two years ago when the onion rings forecast a very wet May. You gauge the amount of moisture for the year by the wetness of the salt in these onion shells. Simple enough, isn't it?

And if you have a scientific explanation, please don't tell us about it. We don't want you taking the fun out of weather predicting, and neither does Mrs. Cartwright.

Here is the official Cartwright onion ring forecast for 1957:

January—Dry

Work Started On Ceiling of Vets Building

Hours after entering the winning bid for installation of the ceiling in the Veterans Memorial building, W. R. Shaul moved in and started work. Shaul's bid for installing the acoustical tile ceiling was $765, with an agreement to complete the job by January 20, according to Harold Hudson, president of the 400 club, sponsor of the building. Shaul's bid was $35 lower than the next lowest bid, entered by Conrad Bechtold of Darrouzett, who bid $800 for the project. The third bidder, J. W. Ollenberger, Bairo, bid the job at $967. The bid is for the labor and tools in installation only; the club is furnishing the material.

Postal Receipts Set New Record

Jack M. Allen Is President Chamber of Commerce for '57

Officers Will Be Installed On January 15

Attorney Jack M. Allen was elected unanimously as president of the Ochiltree County Chamber of Commerce at the directors meeting Wednesday morning in the Harvester Room of the Hotel Coffee Shop.

He succeeds C. A. Sooter, owner of Sooter's store.

Bruce Baumann of Baumann Cleaners was elected vice president, also by unanimous vote. He succeeds Jake LeMaster.

The new president has held many civic offices since setting up law practice in Perryton in 1950. He is at present the president of the Perryton Toastmasters Club and president of the Northeast Panhandle Bar Association. He has served as president of the Perryton Jaycees, as state vice president of the Texas Jaycees, has served as an officer in the Perryton Rotary Club and is a member of the board of stewards of the First Methodist church.

Allen is serving his first term on the board of directors and Baumann his second. Election to the board of directors is made annually by mail ballots cast by the Chamber of Commerce membership.

Other new directors to be installed at a dinner scheduled for January 15, are Charles Taylor, Gayle Ferguson, Tom Waugh, Harold Simpson, D. W. Hart and C. E. Haar. Holdover directors are J. H. Woodward, Baumann, Garland Redfern and Phil LaMaster. E. O. "Red" Wedgeworth, manager of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce, will install the new officers and directors at the Jan. 15 banquet.

At the Wednesday morning meeting, plans were announced for the chamber's annual banquet to be held in the Veterans Memorial building January 22, and for the Junior Livestock Show to be held February 15.

Olin Culberson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, will be the principal speaker at the banquet. About 300 persons are expected to attend.

Culberson, who served two terms as county clerk and two terms as county judge of Hill county, has a long record of civic and public service to the state.

He is well and favorably known to all West Texans because of his constant and continuing championing of the interests of this section of the state.

Immediately upon entering office as Railroad commissioner, he started removing the discrimination in production days that existed against West Texas as compared with the rest of the state.

Due to his efforts, "across the board" policy was instituted by the commission wherein every section of the state, except those

Perryton FFA Boys Preparing For Two Big Shows in January

Perryton Future Farmers of America were busy this week, despite the Christmas vacation, getting 49 head of livestock groomed and trained for two big livestock shows slated for the latter part of January.

Nineteen of the youths will take part in the Amarillo Fat Stock Show and Exhibition which opens there January 19 and runs through January 23. But the really big show for the boys is the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show which gets underway January 24 and runs through January 28.

Sixteen boys will make the Fort Worth trip where they will exhibit 24 animals in competition with farm youth from throughout the Southwest. They expect to win their share of the honors.

Josh Hopkins, Perryton vocational agriculture instructor, as well as several parents and supporters, will accompany the boys to Fort Worth.

The boys will leave for the Fort Worth show early on the morning of January 24, and return January 28, Hopkins said. Animals to be exhibited at the Fort Worth show include: three southdown sheep, 10 duroc hogs, three Poland-China hogs, two

Wolf Creek Dam Nears Completion

Don't run out and start digging worms right away, but Wolf Creek Dam is nearing completion; the contractor recently indicated he would wrap it up with in the next 60 days.

Work was moving ahead this week on the pouring of concrete on the spillway apron. Much of the spillway concrete has already been poured and part of the concrete walls on either side of the spillway was in place early this week.

Work yet remaining to be done includes extending the concrete apron upstream to the trench cut-off and downstream to the settling pool from the completed crest.

After that, earth will be pushed into the gap now open where the old spillway stood. That will be left open until the last moment to prevent any possible flash-flood damaging existing unfinished work.

Another major item of work still to be completed is the rip-rapping of the face of the dam and the channel below the spillway with rock to prevent wear and current erosion.

Judge Howard Slaughter said he had been assured the work would be completed by March 1, barring extreme bad weather.

One good rain in the Wolf Creek watershed upstream of the dam could easily fill it when the gates are closed, although several such rains will be needed to maintain a full basin.

Binion Quits As Chief of Police; Becomes Deputy

Former Police Chief Doc Binion Wednesday was sworn in as a deputy to Sheriff Ray Phagan after resigning from his duties with the city effective December 31.

Meantime the City of Perryton was operating without a police chief. City Manager J. B. Whigham said he expected to take three or four weeks in naming a successor to Binion.

Whigham said the chief's duties would be rotated among the four remaining officers on the force, but none would carry the "chief" title.

"We're taking applications for the job, and will for the next few weeks," Whigham said.

Sheriff Phagan said Binion would aid in the tax-assessing which begins this week, and when that is over, remain as a law-enforcement officer.

Binion joined the Perryton police department on June 6, 1952, and served as a patrolman until his promotion to chief on December 1, 1954.

Settlement Made In Voorhees Suit

A damage suit in which a Perryton resident was given a $63,000 judgment in district court at Beaver, Okla., last week was reportedly settled for $27,500.

The Plaintiff, Arnold Jack Voorhees of Perryton, had been given the $63,000 judgment for permanent disabling injuries. The defendant, Walter James Scott, gave notice of appeal.

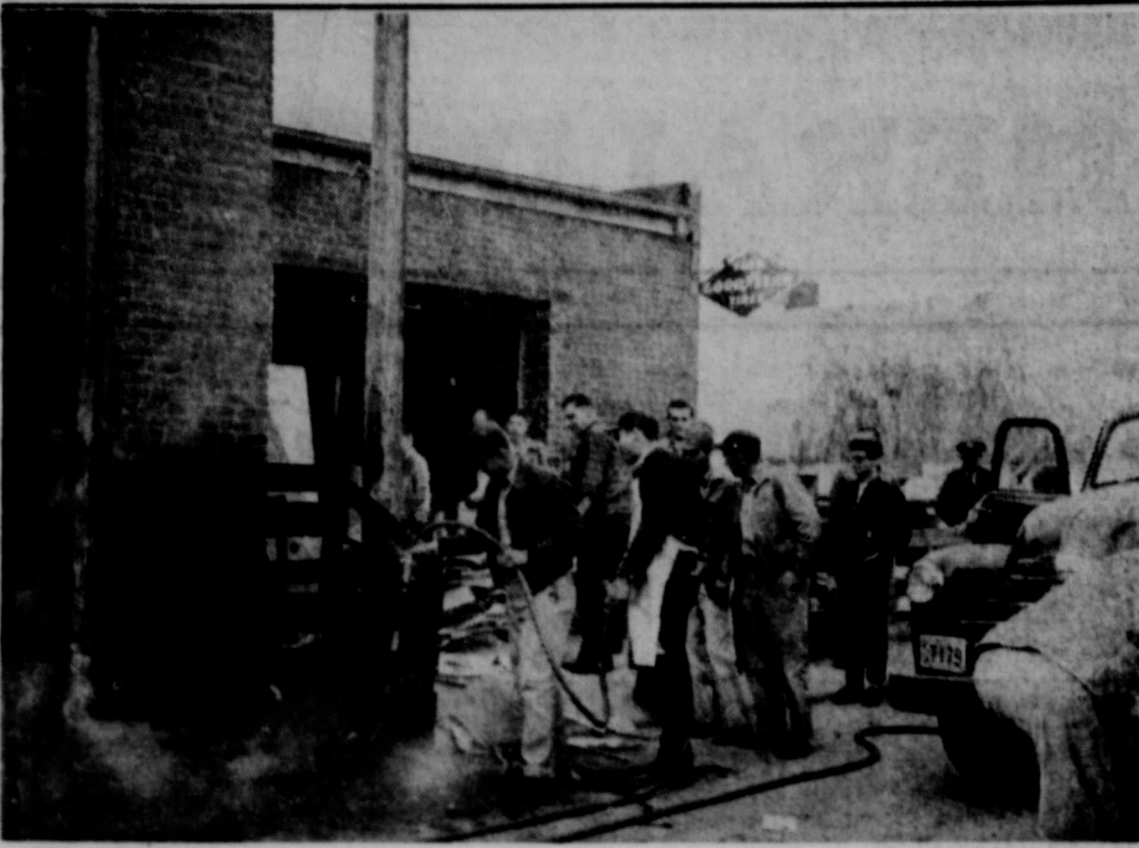

Another suit against Scott also was settled out of court. Mary Ann White, Liberal, widow of Carl F. White, who was killed while riding in the car driven by the defendant, received a reported $12,500 in settlement.

A third action against Scott, asking $10,000 damages, is pending. This suit was filed by Hilliard W. Tension, son of William C. Tension, 57-year-old Perryton man killed in the February collision just inside the Oklahoma border on U. S. 83.

cal growers, treated his Concho seed with hot water to get rid of the smut.

"Sheep production is on the increase in the county. Some of the farmers with irrigation are grazing wheat and sudan with sheep and marketing their feed through them. This seems a profitable enterprise and should increase.

"About 800,000 acres were planted to grain sorghum this year, but due to drought very little was harvested. The acreage that was harvested yielded 200 to 500 pounds per acre. Most of it was grazed with cattle.

"Irrigated grain produced the highest per-acre yield we have had. Some yields were up to 115 bushels per acre and entire farms made up to a 100 bushel average."

Wheat Crop Outlook Very Poor Says County Agent in Report

Prospects for a wheat crop in Ochiltree county in 1957 are very poor, according to County Agent Delbert Timmons, with a severe drought stalking the land and 80,000 acres placed in the Soil Bank.

Timmons, in his annual narrative report on agriculture conditions in the county, pointed out that grain sorghum yields were very low this year, and little forage or pasture was available in the county.

"Most of the feed grown in the county was irrigated and silage was sold at a very high price," Timmons said.

"Beef cattle, the second largest enterprise in the county, usually are grazed on wheat pastures during the winter. Most years this is a very profitable business, the report continues.

"But this year there is no wheat pasture and very little prospects for any next spring. Wheat prospects at the present are poor."

"The financial condition of the farmers is not as good as in previous years due to drought and the low prices of cattle. There is quite a bit of oil activity in the county and a large number of farmers and ranchers have been able to get lease money which has helped them through the drought years.

"Beef cattle, most years second only to wheat, numbers 15,000 head during years of normal rainfall. Horn fly, lice and grub control have become regular practices with most beef cattle producers in the county, and a regular system of controlling these parasites is in force on most farms.

"Grasshoppers damaged range-land for the third year but not as bad as last year. The acreage that was sprayed last year was in fair shape, but that not sprayed was damaged considerably.

"Performance testing of beef cattle is a new phase of production that is being widely accepted by cattlemen of the county. Five registered herds are doing some weighing and some of the commercial cattlemen are planning to mark their heifer calves and weigh and grade them.

"More of the ranchers are interested in this program and plan to undertake it when range con-

To the People of the 18th District:
The Administrative vs.
the Legislative

Two branches of the Federal Government are eyeing each other like strange dogs. Although on the surface everything is very friendly and cordial, both branches are sleeping with one eye open so to speak, the big question being: will the Administration be first to announce its program for the coming two years, or will the Congress act first and announce a program of its own?

It must be remembered that the three branches of this Government—The Administrative, the Legislative and the Judicial—constitute the tripod upon which this Government must rest. The branches are separate, distinct and independent of each other.
To subject one branch to the control of another would be like breaking one leg of a three-legged stool. Therefore, it is much healthier for the Government that the Legislative and the Administrative Branches keep a watchful eye on each other and provide the safeguard intended by the Constitution.

Otherwise, these two branches could become so interwoven that the very strength and purpose of the three branches of Government, so indispensable in maintaining a democratic form of government, could be lost.

Actually it makes little difference who first advocates or pronounces a program for the next two years. Unless there is a definite change from the happenings of the past, which is not expected, the 85th Congress will have plenty of issues, plenty of proposals and plenty of needed legislation to work on.

Whether it is proposed by the President as a part of his program or by the opposition party in the Congress should be of little consequence. The deciding factor should be whether or not the legislation is needed by the country as a whole. It should not be determined on a strictly party political basis either by the President or by the Congress. It should not be decided simply because it might appeal to some minority group. It should not be decided because it might furnish a needed vehicle to control a large bloc of votes.

Many members of Congress,
both Democrats and Republicans, are wondering today what the President will ask for on certain subjects, but seem to be especially anxious concerning the highly explosive Taft-Hartley Act. It will be remembered that there are those who have demanded
the outright repeal of this Act.
There are others who staunchly support the Act in its present form. The third group, and the one led by the present Administration, advocates amending the Act. The mystery lies in the fact that the Administration has not yet said what amendments it has in mind, and in what manner it wishes to change the Act. Several Members of the Congress have indicated to me that the Administration's recommendations on the subject will be in the nature of advocating an expansion of the federal laws to include many additional people under the maximum hour workweek and the minimum pay requirements. If this is done, it will be an amendment to the Fair Labor Standards Act rather than an amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act. Such action would also require the Federal Government to extend its power and control directly and indirectly into transactions that are now wholly within the jurisdiction of the several states.

Another item causing concern has to do with another natural gas bill. The talk here is that the President doesn't want to recommend a gas bill, but will not veto
it again if it passes the Congress;
that the Members of Congress do not want to initiate a new gas bill unless the President requests it, the reason being that the entire gas situation was misrepresented.

The people in the big cities were led to believe that the owners of the gas in Texas and elsewhere would get large, fat profits at the expense of the poor consumers. Although this was not the case at all, the argument was used in many political campaigns in the East and Middle West.

The truth is that the consumer is paying a high price for gas, but it is not going to the producer. The producer gets approximately 8 cents per unit from the pipeline. The pipeline carries the gas to the large cities and sells it to the utility companies for approximately 35 cents per unit.
The utility companies then sell it to the consumer for various prices ranging up to $2.89 per unit.

It is unfortunate that the whole truth is not told in legislation of this kind. The misrepresentation results in the natural resources in one section of our country being removed, under federal rules and regulations, to other sections of the country at a disproportionate low price to the owners of the natural resources.

about 30 million tons of cargo a year.

KENTON KNORPF—Kenton will show this Duroc pig in the Junior Livestock Show in February and also plans to compete in the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show. He is a second year FFA student.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

LARGER HOMES are now in demand. Here is a four-bedroom house with two bathrooms. Compactly planned, it covers only 1,430 square feet without garage. Combined with the simple framing required by its simplicity of design, this makes for economical construction for a house of this size. This is plan R-1037AP, designed by Lester Cohen for the Archway Press, 117 West 48th St., New York 36, N.Y. Overall dimensions are 70 by 28 1/2 feet.

PEACE ON EARTH

PRIZE FLOAT—Mary Hardin—Baylor art majors are shown on the college's float which won second place in Belton's Christmas parade. From left: Helen Parish, Dallas; Frances Gregory, Greenville; Dixie Eddy, Barstow, Calif.; Nancy Saffold, Belton; and Joyce Melton, Sherman; Seated: Rose Marie Davis, Temple; Euella Wright, Perryton; Marian Speck, Dallas; and Annie Willis, Lubbock.

Yet the same natural resources are sold to the consumers at a disproportionate high price. The one who has to pay the disproportionate high price blames his plight on the one who receives the disproportionate low price.
Let us hope that we get this dilemma cleared up during this session.

The limited space available makes it impossible to discuss more than these two examples at this time but it will give you some idea of what we can look forward to in the 85th Congress.

True Alarm

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP)—
Police weren't very enthusiastic when they answered a burglar alarm at a department store one

They really didn't expect to once a month.

But officers did find somebody had been locked in by mistake.

The alarm had sounded accidentally while he was trying to let himself out.

Dude Hart Completes 30 Years With Equity; Sees 30 More

D. W. "Dude" Hart, assistant general manager of the Equity elevators and mill, completed 30 years of service with the company this year and was presented a handsome gold wrist watch to mark the event. Aldon Bell, general manager of the Equity, made the presentation.

"The past 30 years have gone by in a hurry," the genial Hart observed. "If the next 30 go by as fast, they'll catch me still here."

Hart joined the Equity as manager of the Waka elevator on June 15, 1926, coming to Ochiltree county from the Oklahoma City Mills.

He spent 15 years as manager at Waka, then moved into Spearman as manager of the Spearman elevators, holding that post until three years ago when he came into Perryton as assistant general manager.

Hart joined the Equity when the late E. N. Puckett was manager in Perryton. J. H. Woodward succeeded him when Puckett went to Enid to organize the Union Equity, and then Aldon Bell succeeded Woodward.

Hart was born in Kansas, moved to Oklahoma when he was 11, and grew up near Laverne. The first elevator job he ever held was as manager of the Sappington Grain Co. in Laverne, and he got the job because of the manpower shortage during World War I, he says.

He managed elevators at Beaver, Port Supply, and managed the Horne Grain Co. in Booker before moving to Waka.

In looking back over the years in the grain business, Dude says the lowest price ever paid for wheat was 32 cents per bushel, paid in late 1931 and early 1932.

The biggest change in the grain marketing industry came almost unannounced in 1937, when the first government loan program came into being.

The government loan and purchase program has changed the marketing structure until now it plays the dominant role, making farmers and grain buyers try to outguess the government instead of outguessing the market.

Hart is a member of the Lions Club and has taken an active part in the civic affairs of Perryton during the past three years.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart live at 1416 S. Drake. A son, Wilbert Hart, lives in Lubbock where he is office manager of the A & C Cotton Co.

Former Resident Dies in Flaming Car-Truck Crash

A former Perryton resident died Thursday afternoon in a flaming three-vehicle collision three miles west of Texarkana which claimed the lives of three other persons.

He was Rufus L. Springfield, 49, who formerly was employed by Plainview Hardware and was a brother of Mrs. Lake Patton, Perryton.

Mrs. Patton said her brother had gone to an Army base and got an army truck. He was to drive the truck to Arizona.

He picked up the truck near Texarkana and had driven only a few miles when a wheel came off the truck, causing it to veer into the path of a loaded wheat truck.

No sooner had the two vehicles collided than an automobile occupied by three women smashed into the wreckage, spraying it with gasoline from the gas tanks; the car and Springfield's truck burst into flame. The four died almost instantly. The driver of the wheat truck escaped serious injury.

Springfield lived here in the early 1930's. He made his home with his wife and 15-year-old son, Ronnie, at Memphis, Tenn., at the time of his death.

Funeral services were held at Van Alstyne, Texas, Saturday. Burial was in Memphis.

Besides his wife and son he is survived by eight sisters, including Mrs. Patton; three brothers; and his mother, Mrs. A. L. Springfield, Van Alstyne.

Ochiltree Soil Conservation District News

Temple, Texas, Jan. 3, 1957.
State Conservationist H. N. Smith of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service today announced plans to take quick action to put into effect the stepped-up Great Plains program in this state.

Smith said that he has called a conference of state leaders of agricultural programs and agencies in Texas for Jan. 11 at College Station to blueprint the plans of action on the farm and range lands of the 50 counties in that portion of the state.

Administrative responsibility for and leadership in the Great Plains program was recently placed on the Soil Conservation Service by secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson.

Smith pointed out that Secretary Benson's order provided for the combining of the resources of the Department of Agriculture's various agencies in a step-by-step process for making long-time adjustments in land use, cropping systems and in the treatment of cultivated lands and range, under the climatic hazards of the Great Plains.

The Great Plains program, brought into being by Public Law 1024 only last August, is designed to give farmers and ranchers in the Great Plains area of the 10 involved states, both immediate and long-range help in the use of their land within its capabilities, Smith pointed out.

He explained that Public Law 1024 authorized an appropriation of not over $150 million for a 15-year period. Funds are expected to be available after July 1, 1957. Expenditures may not exceed $25 million in any one year.

The program will apply in counties to be designated by the secretary of agriculture in portions of Colorado, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas and Wyoming.

The continued drought in these states has emphasized the need for such a program to help develop a more stable farm and ranch economy in this region, Smith said.

Wind erosion conditions in the Great Plains area of Texas are serious with 400,000 acres damaged during October and November.

Approximately 5,000,000 acres in 61 counties of northwest Texas are in condition to be damaged by wind erosion this winter and spring, Smith announced.

He emphasized that the Great Plains program is not an annual or disaster type program nor does it replace any other existing agricultural program.

"This is a way to an enduring agriculture based on the capabilities of the land and geared to the climatic hazards that we all know are over-present in this important area," he said.

"It is not a production adjustment or an income supplement program. It is a voluntary program with long-term assurances of needed financial help for a complete soil and water conservation plan applied to individual farms and ranches."

"The program," Smith added, "will point up the responsibility of local people in fitting their agriculture to the capabilities of the land and the hazards of climate."

This responsibility is shared by farmers and ranchers, soil conservation districts, county committees, county commissioners and by all other groups."

The first United States census was taken in 1790. It listed 3,929,214 inhabitants.

DID THEY WORK HARD
OR DID THEY CHEAT
DID THEY MOVE WITH KINDNESS

OR DID THEY BETRAY THE VERY LOVE

The Commission cleared the way for possible designation of a part of sprawling Buffalo Lake in Randall county, for waterfowl hunting. The area, now a game refuge, is controlled by Federal agencies.

Rancher Jack Langston, living near Mount Pleasant in Titus county was authorized to reduce the surplus bulls in his small elk herd. This action was possible since Titus county has legisla- tive permission for Commission control of its hunting and fish- ing.

The Commission exercised a similar power to provide a special fifteen day antlerless deer season for Bosque County of the Possum Kingdom group in an effort to harvest surplus whitetails. Wildlife biologists reported an acute overpopulation in some areas and suggested a thirty day buck season, followed by a 15-day antlerless season in heavily populated areas. Each hunter would be permitted two deer.

A one year closed season was granted in Lavaca county for turkey at the request of landown- ers to protect the brood stock.

Delinquency Lack Credited To 4-H, FFA

OLTON (AP)—Authorities here say there is virtually no juvenile delinquency in this town of its surrounding area and they give much credit to FFA and 4-H club activities.

An expanded Future Farmers of America program and a full 4-H club program have played an important part in the welfare of Olton youngsters.

The Olton schools FFA board of directors has bought a five-acre tract that will be developed as an FFA and 4-H Club working area.

The Olton City council and Mayor G. H. Bley are behind both clubs. Bley said that if young- sters are encouraged to take part in worthwhile activity and are kept busy, they give their par- ents very little trouble.

Bobby Johnson, 17, president of the Olton FFA, said the new tract of land will be used by FFA boys to feed livestock for local and outside livestock shows. It will also allow youngsters to live in town to raise livestock for shows.

Boys will be able to use part of the area to conduct experiments in crops and livestock, Johnson said.

Painted lines would designate when the change takes place. The auto club thinks the plan would cut head-on crashes.

Water Problem Is Here

There is no problem more serious to any community than that of an assured water supply, and Perryton is no exception. Right now is the time to take steps toward insuring a future water supply and we hope that the citizens of this city have a chance to learn how acute this problem is.

True, the supply of water has been adequate thus far. We have not had to resort to water rationing. Our lawns and shrubs have been maintained through liberal use of the garden hose.

But the consumption of water in Perryton is skyrocketing. It reached the point last summer where all the city's water pumping facilities, going full blast, did not quite meet the demand for water.

With the influx of new homes and new industries, the demand for water right now is the greatest in history and we have reached the point where more must be secured if we are to grow, or for that matter, if we are to maintain what we have.

The city administration is to be commended for undertaking an extensive water survey last summer and locating a source of supply just southeast of town. We hope that these plans go forward without a hitch and that these water wells are drilled.

When the people of Perryton have the facts put before them, they will vote a bond issue or do anything else to assure a water supply.

For without water, we won't be here long.

Time for Taking Stock

New Years is traditionally a time for taking stock, of inventory and reflection, and we suppose this is as good a time as any.

Looking back on 1956, we can think of a few things we would have changed, except, of course, to ask for more rain and a normal wheat crop.

The year just ended had no more than its usual disappointments and more than usual pleasant surprises.

Politics waxed hot and cold; likewise the world situation, and we will suppose it always will. The politicians haven't stolen us blind yet, and the scientists haven't quite blown up this globe with their hydrogen bombs—and we refuse to worry about it.

We are thankful for a nice community in which to live and rear our children; we are thankful for good churches and schools and for the best people in the world who live on these Plains.

When it comes to resolutions, we should resolve to exercise more judgement at the dinner table and there are several other things we could do to make personal improvement, but all in all, we have no complaints.

We know 1956 wasn't a perfect year, by any means, but it could have been worse. In fact, we hope 1957 is as good.

From the SIDELINE

with HAROLD HUDSON

We notice in several of our neighboring newspapers where the editor is attempting to drum up poll tax sales by pointing out the possibility of a wet-dry election sometime during 1957. Not us. We made the mistake of mentioning this one time, pointing out that there was a prospect for a beer election in Perryton and people ought to pay their poll taxes and thus become qualified voters in the event a wet-dry election did come up.

We never heard the last of it. First thing we knew, if you will remember, we received letters accusing us of promoting a beer election. One dear old lady even doubted if we were a Christian. Another pointed out that she was at a loss to understand our fall from grace, having known my family for years and they seemed like law abiding Christians.

That's the way it went. We are sure that even today there are some who look upon us with suspicion and others feel sure that we are an avid partner of Demon Rum. And all we wanted to do was pep up poll tax payments. Never again.

Ulkers are caused not so much by what you eat as what's eating you.

Of course, Christmas is over, but we want to call your attention to something in the Santa letters this year. While youngsters still listed their wants, often quite detailed as to size and color, practically none said they wanted "candy, fruit and nuts." This must be a sign of the times. Candy, fruit and nuts are no Christmas treat any more. These are regarded as staples. When we were a kid, the stocking full of candy and nuts was as much a part of Christmas as the presents. And we can remember our father saying that when he was a boy, he saw oranges only once a year—at Christmas time.

And among our circle of acquaintances, it seems that youngsters nowadays get too much stuff for Christmas, rather than not enough, and this, too, is a sign of the times even in this drought-stricken area. Instead of wishing fervently for weeks and spending days in anticipation of one or two presents, our youngsters today make out a long list, and the parents see that they get it. As a result, Christmas Day comes with piles and gobs of toys, some of which don't even last out the day.

But who would change back to the days of yesteryear, when things were simpler, but also tougher?

Wolf Creek Philosopher

Rain Gauge Tax New Solution

(Ed. Note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher takes a fresh start for the new year, his letter this week implies.)

Dear editor:

Here it is 1957 and naturally a thinking man's thoughts turn to Congress and the new session. I've been noticing in a lot of papers lately where all sorts of proposals are being offered to Congress, from farming to hydrogen bomb problems, and since my interest is more along farming lines than hydrogen lines, I've been working on a plan for us farmers.

As I understand it, labor for example has worked out a system where it gets an automatic raise every time the cost of living goes up, and while I haven't been able to figure out a system that would work for farmers along this line, I have hit on a minor angle that might help a little.

It's farmers' taxes. Under the present system, a farmer's taxes are based on the value of his land and how much income he makes, but land values are no longer very dependable. That is, land is no good without water. It's not how much land a man has, it's how much rain, that counts.

Consequently, I am proposing that Congress pass a law just as soon as it gets through appropriating its salary funds, stamp fund, office fund, etc., basing a farmer's taxes on his rain gauge.

Every farmer knows what the average annual rainfall is for his area. Say it's 30 inches, just for an example. Any year he gets less than 30, he gets 10 per cent off for each inch he's short. Based on 30 inches for a year, if he got 29, he'd get a 10 per cent discount on all his taxes, land and income taxes to boot. When he got down to 20 inches, you can see he wouldn't owe any taxes at all.

But my plan goes further than that. When he fell below 20 inches, having then reached zero in taxes due, he'd also get a 10 per cent bonus for each inch he fell short below 20.

This would go a long way toward equalizing the effects of a drought. The way I see it, there's no sense in a man in a prolonged drought not being able to enjoy all the pretty weather he's having, and this new law would help him do it.

If you think this Rain Gauge Tax and Rebate System has any chance of passing, I hope you'll throw your influence behind it, and in the meantime while you're looking for it, I'd appreciate your sending me a map showing the driest part of the county and letting me know whether there's any land for sale there.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Veteran's Forum

Q. My husband was a World War II veteran who was injured on active duty in March, 1947. He later died of his injury. Would my daughter be eligible for War Orphans schooling?

A. Under the law she would not. The law requires that a World War II veteran's injury or disability must have occurred before December 31, 1946. Your husband incurred his injury after that date.

Q. The effective date of my GI insurance policy was December 31. I understand that my premiums are due on this same date each month. What about those months that don't have 31 days?

A. For the months that do not have 31 days, your premium is due on the last day of the month.

Q. Is every disabled Korea veteran entitled to special vocational rehabilitation training?

A. No. This training is available only to disabled veterans who need it to overcome the handicap of their service-connected disabilities. However, those who don't need vocational rehabilitation training may be eligible for Korean GI Bill training.

Business and Professional Women Unite to Further Program in 1957

Mrs. Libby Kilgore, president of the Texas State Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs Tuesday called on BPW members over the state to make the federation's legislative action program "number one" on the 1957 calendar.

"As members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, oldest and largest national organization for women who work, we feel a special responsibility for the nation's 26 million working women," Mrs. Marie Wade, president of the Perryton club, said.

Miss Hazel Palmer, Sedalia, Mo., national president of the federation, is leading the 176,000 members in working for passage of measures included in the national federation's 1957 national legislative platform.

On American foreign policy, the federation platform pledges support of legislation to strengthen and make effective the United Nations and NATO, and to advance international economic development by means of technical assistance and reduction of trade barriers.

On legislation directly benefiting working women, the federation is leading the fight to secure passage of the equal rights amendment. Federation leaders are hopeful the 85th Congress will pass equal rights.

Following the appearance of national federation President Palmer before both the Democratic and Republican platform committees, an equal rights plank appeared in both party platforms. President Eisenhower's pre-election statement on "equality of rights" for women is also cause for rejoicing in Federation circles.

Another plank in the national federation's platform—close kin to equal rights—is equal pay for comparable work. Still another plank is uniform retirement age under the Social Security act. Here the federation is opposed to the bill lowering the Social Security retirement age for women to 62—passed in the last hours of the 84th Congress.

Federation action on this bill in the 85th Congress will take the form of support to amendments to this bill, or to any possible new bill in line with their own platform. Many who were for age 62 retirement, having discovered reduction in retirement pay, now oppose it.

State Federations and local BPW clubs have already sent in their own resolutions calling for amendments or additions to their National Federation Legislative platform, to be acted on by their national legislative committee, of which Mrs. Erma Romanik, of Milwaukee, Wis., is chairman. The committee meets in Washington January 11th.

Hidden Dough

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP)—A Ponca City housewife scraped the bottom of the flour canister to get enough for a recipe and found a dollar bill.

The next day, she called the grocer, all excited about the flour company putting dollar bills in the flour sacks, and she ordered some more of the same brand.

That night, she told the family about the discovery and the 12-year-old son, cried: "Oh, Mommy, that's where I hid my money."

Trees A Crowd

CAVE CITY, Ky. (AP)—When Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Ferguson's parakeet took it on the lam, they chased him from tree to tree for two days.

Finally, Ferguson hoisted the bird's cage to the top of a tree and the badgie hopped inside.

Rodents Indirectly Caused Famed Yule Carol to be Penned

"Silent night, holy night . . ." Schools and churches throughout Oklahoma—throughout the world—once again are ringing with this beautiful Christmas carol.

It was given to the world by an Austrian priest, according to sources in the Oklahoma A&M college library.

The organ of a little church in Austria had become unfit for use because rodents had destroyed the bellows. It was only a few days before Christmas and Father Josef Mohr was troubled that the church's organ would not give forth its melodious strains.

Father Mohr told his organist that they must have something extra special for the midnight mass. The day before Christmas Eve Father Mohr was summoned to administer rites for a dying woman.

It was late when he returned to the little village, and as he came to a hill overlooking the sleepy little town, he fell to thinking. The outline of the village below, snow-capped mountains above and an occasional flickering of light in the village left the priest spellbound. He imagined that the scenery must have been similar that night in Bethlehem.

Deeply moved, he went home and wrote the words to the Christmas carol. The next morning Father Mohr arose and took his song to his organist, Franz Gruber, who caught the spirit of the carol.

That night the audience in the little church missed their organ—that is until Father Mohr singing and Gruber accompanying him on his guitar, played the beautiful strains of "Silent Night."

Snakes Alive

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The San Diego Zoo claims it has a new champ in its African black-lipped cobra.

The snake passed its 28th year in captivity and is still going strong. The zoo said the former longevity record for snakes in captivity was held by an Anadomda that lived for 28 years in the National Zoological Park in Washington, D. C.

Self Service Station

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—This happens very often, start laying off policemen, Albuquerque:

Officer Richard Morris, the booking desk on the floor of the police station one Sunday morning, staggered through the door and up the stairs to his home. "I'm drunk—lock me up," he demanded.

He was, Morris did. Storms that are called canes in the Atlantic are in the Pacific.
