CROWDS POUR IN FOR FIRST JUBILEE EVENTS

Young Collingsworth County Farmer Killed In Shooting At Country Dance

A. MARCHBANKS SLAIN NEAR WELLINGTON

Well Known Young Man Dies After Being Shot Three Times With Rifle

CHARGES PENDING

Dude Underwood Held After Shooting at Home In Lutie Community

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Sept. 25.—Amos Marchbanks, 30, prominent Collingsworth county farmer, died instantly after being shot three times late Saturday night while at a dance at the home of Dude Underwood, 10 miles northwest of here.

Underwood, 26, was arrested shortly after midnight and was lodged in the Collingsworth county jail. County Attorney Luther Gribble said that he would file charges Monday.

Conflicting Testimony

Witnesses in the case gave conflicting testimony in connection with the slaying in a hearing this afternoon before P. W. Myers, justice of the peace.

Marchbanks was struck in the mouth by one bullet from a 30-30 rifle, in the left eye by a second and in the heart by the third.

When arrested Underwood was suffering from three wounds in his leg. They were said to be not serious. Reference to Underwood's wounds were not made in the hearing before Justice Myers.

H. A. Marchbanks, father of the slain man, said that he and his son were returning from Wellington in a horse-drawn wagon and stopped at the Underwood home, where a dance was in progress. He said they stopped to consult with a man there concerning the purchase of a horse. The son, he testified, went inside and danced with three women, all that was there.

Ordered From Home

Underwood, the elder Marchbanks said, ordered the young man from the house, and followed him with his rifle as Marchbanks left. As they neared the wagon, the son was pleading with the armed man not to shoot. A short distance from the house Marchbanks was killed.

A number of men at the Underwood home were said to have witnessed the shooting but officials had not been able to communicate with them.

Dude Underwood's father, H. R. Underwood, his wife, Gladys, and a sister, also testified. The wife said she heard three shots fired. The elder Underwood said he heard five shots fired.

Community Agitated

Marchbanks is survived by his wife, four children, twins, 6 months old, a daughter, 3, and a son, 5, and his parents.

Both Underwood and Marchbanks had resided in the county, in the Lutie community, for more than 20 years.

The whole Lutie community is agitated following the slaying.

Misting Rain Drops Temperature to 59

For the first time in almost four months the temperature in Wichita Falls dropped to 59 degrees early Sunday morning. The thermometer dropped to that level last on May 29. A slow drizzle Sunday recorded .08 of an inch precipitation, the Texas Electric Service company bureau reported.

The top temperature for Sunday was 75 degrees, early in the afternoon. The thermometer stood at 62 degrees at 5 o'clock, with a light southeast breeze of maximum velocity of five miles per hour and a high barometer reading of 29.20.

NOTABLES TO OPEN FIESTA AT 9:30 TODAY

Cline, Allred and Former Kentucky Governor On Speakers' Stand

FIRST PARADE AT 11

Historical Exhibits, Band Concerts Start Crowds Rarin' to Go

Wichita Falls' golden jubilee celebration was unofficially launched Sunday afternoon as 50th anniversary association officials checked every detail of the vast machinery which will begin clicking on schedule at 8 o'clock Monday morning. Unhampered by a heavy drizzling rain during the afternoon, thousands of Wichitans and residents of the entire Wichita area thronged the streets of the city Sunday and filled exhibition halls of the jubilee almost as soon as President Walter D. Cline of the jubilee organization declared the historical exhibits officially open to the public at 2 o'clock.

Rabbi to Speak

Rabbi David Lefkowitz of Dallas will be the first notable on Monday's full program of activities. Dr. Lefkowitz will speak at 8 o'clock at the Memorial auditorium on the sunrise religious service.

Featured events of the day will offer the formal opening of the three-day show at 9:30 o'clock from the jubilee stage at 813-19 Scott when President Cline, Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., and Atty. Gen. James V. Allred will speak.

Following the formal opening former Gov. Edwin P. Morrow of Kentucky will speak in support of the Republican national ticket and later the first of Horrace Robbins' parades will pass through the business district.

Other headline activities of the day will present the golden jubilee rodeo at 2 o'clock, historical pageant at 7 o'clock and numerous other entertainment features which will be climaxed with two dances.

When President Cline declared the historical displays open Sunday an overflow crowd rushed into Lester Jones' exhibit hall at 918 Eighth. The hall is in charge of A. W. (Jake) Avis and the opening ceremonies included popular tunes by Paul Seeds' Los Caballeros band.

Exhibit Hall Open

The crush of the honored pioneers and their descendants at the historical display resulted in drastic methods in controlling the crowds. After the building was once filled only limited numbers were allowed to enter as others left at a side door.

Wichita Falls' tall office buildings and the entire business district were in the spotlight Sunday night as arc lights and searchlights played over the structures and cut into the heavens, adding a romantic touch to the scene.

The picturesque scenes of an entire community turning again to the primer pages of its half century of history were heightened Sunday by the colorful regalia worn by citizens of a modern metropolis attired in the clothing of their parents and grandparents. Calico and satin gowns of grandmother's girlhood fitted into the scene with gaily-attired cowboys "gone to town" after a pay day. One Wichitan attracted wide attention on the streets during the afternoon parading the business area on horseback while standing in the saddle.

Pony Frances in Hotel Lobby

Another rider drew many rebel-like yells of approval from both synthetic and real rodeo cowboys as he paraded his prancing paint pony through the Kemp hotel lobby.

Hundreds pressed beneath awning shelters in the 800 block on Scott for the initial public concert by the U. S. army post band at Fort Sill, Okla., in charge of Warrant Officer J. A. Tyler, while stirring marches added to the undampened jubilee atmosphere. The officers and men of the army units in the city for the occasion added to the color of the city walking the streets.

Additional entertainment features of the jubilee attractions shared equally in the attention of visitors Sunday at the showing of the Fort Worth and Denver City railway engines at the tracks on Eighth—one of them of the same type that pulled the excursion train into Wichita Falls on Sept. 27, 1882, and the other offering a contrast of 50

Lee Johnson, 20, and Jesse Perkins, 22, both farmers, were shot and killed as the shooting started outside the church door and was carried into the church, where preaching was in progress. The 5-year-old son of Douglas Carroll, another farmer, sleeping in a rear pew, was struck in the head by a bullet, but is expected to recover.

ABOARD ROOSEVELT SPECIAL, Sept. 25. (AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt headed eastward into Arizona today on the first leg of the long and circuitous journey back to Albany after a campaign swing that already has put him before many thousands of persons in 14 states.

As his train sped across the barren lands with their sparse growth of cactus and mesquite and into the range country, the campaign managers of the Democratic presidential candidate in accordance with their frequently enunciated policy of not conceding a single state to the Republicans claimed that they would win the 152 electoral votes of the 14 state he has visited.

DOCTOR, NURSE KILLED AFTER HELPING BIRTH

Beaumont Physician And Woman Aide Trapped In Train-Auto Crash

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 25. (AP)—Returning from a farm home where they had just attended the birth of a lusty infant, Dr. Jasper Grimes, 59, of Beaumont and Mrs. Hazel Lee Berry, 26, a nurse who resided on Orange road, were instantly killed at 10:15 o'clock this morning when the sedan in which they were riding was struck by an east bound Southern Pacific passenger train at Connell's crossing, near Vidor, several miles from here.

Woman's Body Burned

Mrs. Berry was thrown against a post and a gaping wound cut in the left side of her head causing instant death. Her body was also burned beyond recognition in fire which broke out in the debris of the car.

Dr. Grimes' body was found several hundred feet from where the collision occurred. He is believed to have died from internal injuries caused by the crushing of his chest against the steering wheel.

Rain Falling

A light rain was falling at the time of the accident and it is believed this may have been the reason the occupants of the car did not see the approaching train. The engineer of the train, R. L. Grace of Houston, was the only witness of the accident.

The physician had practiced medicine in Beaumont for 17 years, previous to which time he was located in Warren.

GANDHI LEARNS OF RIOTING

Emaciated 'Saint' Loses 9 1-2 Pounds in Fast

POONA, India, Sept. 25. (US)—Fierce street fights between Hindus and moslems today claimed 165 dead and wounded as Mahatma Gandhi, entering the sixth day of his death fast, received reports that the British finds no justification for continuance of his ordeal with a wan smile and this comment:

"The real struggle is only beginning."

Gandhi's emanciated frame has lost 96 pounds since he began the fast, but India's "great soul" is determined not to touch food until Britain unqualifiedly accepts the electoral settlement reached by representatives of the four high Hindu castes and "untouchables" yesterday.

Dispatches from London indicated the government is prepared to accept the settlement with reservations that it believes do not warrant continuance of the fast. Meanwhile Gandhi's friends fear he will stubbornly cling to the fast which they believe will place his life in peril if continued 48 hours longer.

Word from Springar, on the northern frontier, that Hindus and moslems were again springing at each other's throats troubled the mahatma. Eighty-three Hindus and 62 moslems fell in the fighting that began when moslems stormed a Hindu public lodge. Panic prevailed throughout the Springar district with Hindus pouring into the city from the countryside to seek military protection.

Two physicians who examined Gandhi today issued the following communique:

"He had a good night and is keeping cheerful. His weight today was 96½ pounds, which means he lost 2½ pounds in the last 48 hours. His blood pressure and general condition are the same."

The McMurry college, Abilene, collection of old time Texas branding irons, was sent to Wichita Falls Sunday night by Dr. J. W. Hunt, president of that institution, for display in the historical exhibit in connection with the golden jubilee, according to Walter D. Cline, head of the celebration committee.

The collection provided by Dr. Hunt through friendship for this community is said to be one of the most famous authentic assemblies of branding irons in the entire Southwest. They have been collected by Dr. Hunt, and are a treasured possession of the McMurry college library.

The irons will be arranged for public inspection in the historical exhibits building Monday morning, Mr. Cline said.

Achievements of Press Lauded by Educator

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Achievements of the American press in the past year were pointed out today by Carl W. Ackerman, dean of the Columbia University School of Journalism, as proof of the "rights of journalism to full public recognition as a profession."

The conduct of newspapers in this country "in a year which tested the character and resources of every human activity" had not only established the right of recognition as a profession, Dean Ackerman said, but had also proved "that journalism as a business is a public service unique in American economics."

His findings were contained in a survey of the press for the past year, as a part of his first annual report on the school to President Nicholas Murray Butler.

OFFICER SLAIN AS STRIKE MOB STORMS HOTEL

Many Wounded in Battle Of Miners in Capital Of Illinois

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Sept. 26. (AP)—Policeman Port Williams was shot to death and more than a score were wounded when 600 men charged into the Leland hotel headquarters of the United Mine Workers of America tonight.

The officer was one of a heavily-armed detail thrown about the hotel when the crowd attempted to seize the union officials who were escorted to their headquarters under police guard after a street fight developed outside their meeting place adjacent the hotel.

Mob Charges Lobby

As the mob charged into the lobby, the place was thrown into turmoil, and shooting became general.

J. O. Boules, United States deputy marshal who was assisting the police, said Williams was shot in the back by William J. Sneed, former state senator of Williamson county, Illinois.

"It may have been an accident due to the general excitement," Boules said, "but I plainly saw Sneed shoot Williams.

Sneed disappeared in the excitement and was not immediately available for a statement.

Sneed Arrested

Sneed later was arrested and taken to police headquarters for questioning.

Meantime police employing tear gas succeeded in clearing the lobby of the hotel but the crowd massed outside and multiplied.

A call was sent out for reinforcements and a detail of 30 state patrolmen armed with submachine guns arrived to augment the forces guarding the place.

BIG CASH PRIZES DRAW RODEO STARS OF ENTIRE NATION

RIVAL CHAMPS TO MEET HERE

Prized Show Horse Escapes In Auto Accident

When Everette Bowman of Fort Thomas, Ariz., arrived in Wichita Falls early Sunday with Smoky Snyder of Kimberly, British Columbia, Bowman's trailer in which his rodeo horse was riding jarred loose from their speeding car and overturned twice after jumping a ditch on the Iowa Park road.

The mount was unhurt and will appear in the golden jubilee rodeo at the opening performance Monday afternoon. The trailer stopped rolling on its side and the horse was held in by the covered-wagon type top. When the endgate was removed the horse made a wild dash for freedom but was corraled. The accident here is the fourth similar wreck the horse has gone through unhurt.

Champions Arrive

Bowman has won the Jackson trophy for championship calf roping and bulldogging one year and is aiming for the two additional years required for permanent possession.

Snyder is a ring veteran who won $5,000 this year at the Pendleton, Ore., rodeo in steer riding and calf roping.

Other veterans who are frequenting the rodeo headquarters at 805 Indiana were discussing the high cash prizes offered in the three-day five-performance show here. Much interest among the range hands of 10 states and Canada centers on the keen rivalry of champions of the Amarillo Tri-State fair rodeo and the Rocky Ford, Colo., exhibitions who are looking to the golden jubilee rodeo to settle the matter of individual competition in several events.

Jimmie Short of Longpoc, Calif., veteran arena artist with Hoot Gibson's show, arrived Sunday. He is the holder of the steer riding championship of the Salinas, Calif., rodeo and is wearing a handsomely-decorated trophy belt. The group accompanying Short to Wichita Falls includes Hank Smith, Frankie Raho and Noah Henry of Orcutt, Calif., but formerly of Walters, Okla.

Oklahoman Winner

Herb Myers of Okmulgee, Okla., 1931 champion of bareback steer riding and calf roping events at the Cheyenne, Wyo., Frontier days show, arrived Sunday, as did Pete Knight of Calgary, Canada, who has won the bronc riding contest in the Calgary show for four years. The Calgary rodeo annually draws a house of 350,000 people for the six days. Knight won the 1932 championship for the North American and Canadian entries at Calgary.

Breezy Cox of Pinetop, Aris., calf-roping champion of the Cheyenne 1932 show, is in the city. Cox also won the Pendleton world's championship as all-around cowboy.

John Lindsey of Springtown, Texas, veteran arena clown, who will entertain Wichitans at the show here, also arrived Sunday along with 50 other cowboys from the open ranges of the West and arc-lighted arenas of the nation's top rodeo shows.

As fast as the cowboys entered the city Secretary C. A. Studer of Canadian, Texas, signed them up for rodeo events. The show will offer 250 head of wild Brahma steers, Mexican bulldogging steers, roping horses, trick horses and valuable ring mounts.

Promoter Leonard Stroud was busy Sunday at the Athletic park stock pens arranging details for one of the most speedily presented rodeos ever seen in the Southwest.

Judges and timekeepers for the rodeo are Adj. Gen. W. W. (Bill) Sterling of the Texas rangers, Ranger Capt. Tom Hickman, Eddie Smith, of Wellington, Texas, Jim Coffee of Las Vegas, N. M., and Frank Rhoades of Throckmorton. C. A. Studer of Canadian, Texas, is arena secretary.

Convicts Make Escape In Car

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 26. (AP)—A vain search was conducted here tonight for two escaped Missouri penitentiary convicts who deserted a prison motor car after releasing a guard and a trusty chauffeur they kidnaped in their successful flight.

The automobile used by Dr. George Kowerts and Alvin Hetzer, the escaped convicts, was found abandoned a short time after the men released Homer Yancey, the guard, and Joe Swabo, the convict chauffeur, today.

Yancey and Swabo said Dr. Kowerts, who was assigned to the medical staff at the penitentiary, and Hetzer, his assistant, took command of the prison car about three miles east of Jefferson City, where the penitentiary is located. The quartet was driving to an intermediate reformatory in answer to a summons for medical aid, later disclosed to have been faked.

Yancey said Kowertz and Hetzer, who were riding in the back seat of the machine, presented sharp surgeons' scalpels to his neck and that of the chauffeur. Yancey was unarmed.

"Stop the car and throw your hands up, or I'll cut your head off," Yancey quoted Dr. Kowerts.

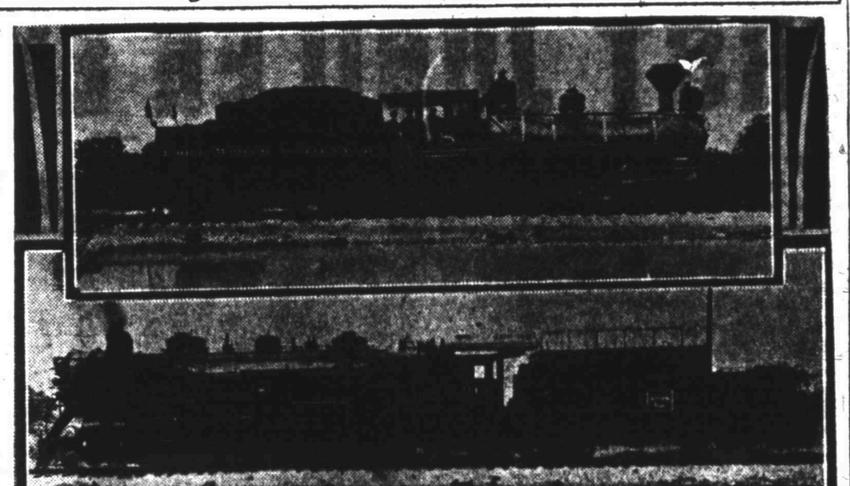

Peace Officers Of Two States Meet Here Today

Wood, First Christian church pastor; and Assistant County Attorney Houston Reeves of Frederick, Okla.

Denver's Engines Contrast Power Today And 50 Years Ago

—Photos by Bartlett's Studio.

A contrast in power of 50 years ago with that of today is seen in the two engines placed on tracks at the end of Eighth street at the union depot for the golden jubilee by the Fort Worth and Denver City railway.

One of the exhibits is locomotive No. 8, built sometime prior to 1885 and of the same type engine as old No. 1, which pulled the excursion train into Wichita Falls, Sept. 27, 1882, the first to arrive in the then frontier West Texas village.

The other is locomotive No. 913, built in 1922 and now in use daily on the long freight hauls of pulling West Texas and Wichita area's vast volumes of agricultural and manufactured products to markets.

No. 8 is a passenger engine weighing 98,500 pounds as compared with 400,810 pounds boasted by the powerful No. 913. The weight of the tenders, respectively, 85,500 and 232,263 pounds, runs the total weight of No. 8 to 182,000 pounds and that of No. 913 to 633,073.

No. 8 has a tractive power of 15,491 pounds as compared with 81,600 pounds offered by the modern locomotive. The old model Denver engine is 60 feet and five inches long while the new model is 80 feet and six inches long. The early model boasts only four drive wheels as compared to 10 on No. 913.

As the added units of power were placed in railway engines so the cost of each locomotive mounted and the approximate price of No. 8 was $35,000 while the approximate cost of No. 913 new was $125,000.

The diameter of the driver wheels on No. 8 is 64 inches and on No. 913 is 80 inches.

CROWDS READY FOR JUBILEE

Preliminary Events Promise Outstanding Show

years' advancement—a powerful modern locomotive.

The camp of the 1st and 18th artillery battalions in Scotland park drew other thousands who observed the set up of army troops in the field on war game movements. Chief Baldwin Parker's 50 Comanche tribesmen drew equal attention at their Indian village east of Athletic park.

More Badges Today

The pioneer hospitality house was closed Sunday while Chairman T. J. Waggoner Jr. and Joe Ward with a group of assistants prepared to register additional thousands Monday at the fastest possible speed. The rush of more than 1,200 pioneers—those residing in the Wichita area more than 25 years—at the registration tables Saturday exhausted the supply of 40 and 50-year distinctive badges. A new supply will be received Monday.

RESPECT TO FLAG

Civilians should remove their hats when the colors pass during the various jubilee parades, it was pointed out Sunday by Dr. L. I. Lucey, commander of Pat Carrigan post, American Legion. Dr. Lucey expressed the hope that spectators at the parades would show this respect to the American flag during the jubilee.

Following Rabbi Lefkowits' appearance at the auditorium Monday morning the Denver railway band from Childress will give a concert at the Scott avenue stage and loudspeakers have already been placed to accommodate added thousands throughout the business area.

Mayor Nelson will welcome visitors to the city and Mr. Allred will act for Gov. R. S. Sterling as official state representative. Governor Morrow arrived at 1 o'clock Monday morning and was met by a jubilee committee headed by Roy B. Jones and W. B. Hamilton.

Parade at 11

Following the one-hour address by Governor Morrow at 10 o'clock, there will be a parade presenting horses, buggies, surreys ,ox wagons and other pioneer methods of transportation. The line of march, directed by Horrace Robbins, will offer the M-K-T railway drum and bugle corps which arrived Sunday afternoon, the U. S. army post band from Fort Sill, Okla., and other musical organizations.

The route for each parade during the jubilee will be the same: Formation at Sixth and Lamar, south on Lamar to Eleventh, east on Eleventh to Ohio, north on Ohio to Sixth, west on Sixth to Indiana, south on Indiana to Tenth, west on Tenth to Scott, north on Scott to Fifth, where the parading units will be released.

All parades will start formation at 10:15 a. m. and will move promptly at 11 o'clock. Twelve mounted men will marshall the units in each line of march.

The golden jubilee rodeo, offering more than 100 headline arena artists, will open at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon with Texas ranger officials and others lending dignity to the occasion. The show will be preceded with a 30-minute junior rodeo show offering trick ropers and riders of the city and territory, headed by Sonny Suttles of Waurika, Okla., vaudeville clown.

Army Olympic Riders

The rodeo show will offer 14 fast events presenting over 200 individuals in a fast moving show. The damp weather conditions of Sunday left the arena undamaged and a similar rain Monday will not interfere with the show. Practically all seats are under shelter of the large Athletic park grandstand. An added feature of the show will be the appearance of Capt. Eddie Arge of Fort Sill, Okla., with his Olympic champion hurdle horse and other Olympic riders.

The historical pageant at Athletic park Monday night, for which only a few seats remain, will offer 1,500 Wichitans, Indians, U. S. army troops, Comanche Indians and others depicting the detailed history of the area. The pageant will be offered by R. E. Shepherd and Miss Juanita Kinsey in 21 scenes. Mrs. Mary Frances Davis, Baptist Leader For 25 Years, Dies At 84

Mrs. Mary Frances Davis, 84, a resident of Wichita Falls for 26 years, died at 1 o'clock Sunday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. L. Maxwell, 1711 Tenth street. Mrs. Davis had enjoyed comparatively good health for one of her years until stricken a week ago.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon from the home, Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated, with Markle Undertaking company in charge of arrangements. The body will be forwarded at 2:50 o'clock Monday morning to Bonham, Texas, Mrs. Davis' former home, where burial will be made Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Davis was a native of Tennessee. She came to Texas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Moses Bettes, when she was 10 years of age. She was married to F. D. Davis in 1865. Her husband, a Baptist minister, died 30 years ago at Bonham, where Mrs. Davis had resided since moving to Texas.

Mrs. Davis moved to Wichita Falls with her children 25 years ago, and since had continuously resided here. She was a devoted member and worker in the Baptist church.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. J. L. Maxwell and Mrs. S. W. Trout of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. P. E. Bettes of Fort Worth; one son, C. A. Davis of Corpus Christi; one sister, Mrs. Jane Duckworth of Bonham; two brothers, J. A. and George Bettes of Bonham; and 41 grandchildren, 97 great-grandchildren, and one great great grand child.

The United States still has some 200,0000 acres of land available for homesteaders.

1,400 ATTEND UNION SERVICE

Pioneer Pastors Tell Of Gospel Work

Reminiscence gleaned from nearly 50 years of pastoral ministration throughout the whole of Texas, punctuated by sorties of brilliant humor, held an audience of about 1,400 persons in rapt attention Sunday night at the Memorial auditorium as members of local Protestant churches heard Dr. W. D. Powell of Louisville, Ky., and Dr. L. D. Smith of Fort Worth review pioneer experiences here.

Charged by Dr. O. L. Powers, who presided, with "talking until 9:15 p. m.," Dr. Powell completely commanded the assembled congregation throughout the 45 minutes given him. A veteran of Baptist church aggression throughout Texas, of national campaigns by the Baptist organization throughout this nation, and of 17 years service as a missionary in Mexico, the speaker thrilled his hearers with dramatic narrative when not convulsing them with naive humor.

Here Long Time

"I'm not old," he declared, "I've just been here a powerful long time. And I'm a good Texan. I lived in Texas seven years—and since we got a new body every seven years, you might say I spent my whole life here. We had four children born here, and I'm a better Texan than any of 'em, because I came to Texas of my own choice, and they came 'cause they couldn't help themselves."

Dr. Powell declared that he baptized people in the river here before there was any town of Wichita Falls, although his first Baptist charge in this state was at Mineola.

"I began right there a battle I've never backed down on since then," he said, "and that is against liquor, the gambler, and the brothel—they all go together, hand in hand. But there's no such thing as arguing a man into the kingdom of God. You can't argue him in, nor scold them in; nor nag them in. You can't poke religion down their throats and make them like it. But I have yet to see the man or woman, unless he is hopelessly determined to go to hell, that you can't love into the kingdom."

Dr. Powell recited that early in his Texas ministry, in the seventies, he met Capt. Bill McDonald of the Texas rangers, converted him to the Christian faith along with the girl who later married the officer, and held Captain McDonald's friendship throughout his life.

"But I want to tell you that we have no corner on religion. You don't have to be a Baptist to be a Christian. You can belong to any church you choose—but you have to be a child of God. The Bible is the greatest book we've got and it teaches you the truth about how you should live. There's only one life to live, and that's the life of the Christian. This world needs the ideas and ideals of Jesus Christ."

The speaker told of having ridden on horseback from the Sabine river westward to the Rio Grande, and northward into the Panhandle. He declared that he "has ridden horseback more miles than any other preacher now alive in this state."

Early Wichita Worship

"This is an enormous state," he continued. "Lots of times you forget how big it is. Everything you have is the biggest of its kind Why, if all the Texas hogs were just one hog, he'd be able to dig another Panama canal with three roots and a grunt."

Dr. Smith, now of Fort Worth, and greatly belying in appearance the 61 years he has lived, told of having served as a paster in this community in 1886-1887. He had been assigned to the Henrietta-Wichita Falls charge.

"The Methodists here had no church," he said, "but the Presbyterians furnished us a church, and worshipped with us."

Dr. Smith told of having undertaken with a brother minister to conduct a camp meeting near Charlie, northeast of Wichita Falls. Attendance "wasn't so good," he said, during the first few days. Then came a flood as the result of heavy rains. The two evangelists had to swim their horses across a stream to return to Henrietta.

"If that camp meeting ever has been completed," he said, "I haven't heard about it."

Dr. Powers, president of the Wichita Falls Ministerial Alliance, presided throughout the evening. Congregational singing was conducted by Ralph Dedheng, with the large congregation obviously inclined to participate heartily in that part of the service. Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr. was at the piano.

Walter D. Cline urged those present to attend all the morning services at the Memorial auditorium during the next three days, when nationally renowned speakers will address golden jubilee crowds in religious services.

With local ministers occupying seats on the stage, Dr. S. H. McKenney, Dr. H. T. Wood, Dr. Gaines S. Hall, Dr. George P. Horst and Dr. Nat F. Grafton assisted in the service.

From 9:15 to 9:30 o'clock, two large radio instruments flanking the proscenium arch brought a program given by the Bel Canto male quartet, station WFAA, Dallas, devoted to the golden jubilee celebration here. "Old Rugged Cross," "When They Ring the Golden Bells," "We Are Going Down the Valley," "Sweet Hour of Prayer," "Oh, Susannah," and "Old Grey Bonnett" were sung by the quartet.

The earliest known mechanical toy dates back to about 2000 B. C. and is of Egyptian origin.

Historical Exhibit Declared One Of Most Unusual Ever Made

"The most unusual collection of its kind in the world," was the remark of Adj. Gen. W. W. (Bill) Sterling of the Texas rangers sunday night when he completed a thorough inspection of the golden jubilee historical exhibits at 915 Eighth.

Mr. Sterling was particularly interested in the B. P. Schwend collection of guns and as a connoisseur of weapons himself delightedly examined in minute detail many of the unusual weapons carred by notorious outlaws of the Southwest in years past. More than 125 guns—firearms of every description and model—are shown in the exhibit in charge of Curator A. W. (Jake) Avis. The exhibition was planned by Lester Jones and offers age-old items from Abilene, Electra, Henrietta, Lawton, Okla., and many other points in the Wichita area.

Entertainment for Crowds

The Sunday afternoon program of the historical display offered Mrs. E. W. Nicholson of this city in musical selections on her 50-year-old music box and Mrs. O. E. Maer in selections on a 106-year-old grand piano which is the property of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Sims.

Jack Krauss of this city presented several accordian numbers on the second floor of the exhibition hall and on the balcony radio station KGKO musicians offered entertainment.

An official estimate of attendance at the display hall placed the number of Wichitans and visitors from many points in this area at 7,500.

The Schwend collection of guns attracts immediate attention and nearby is W. H. Clift's valuable group of southwest rarities. Many items of close relation to public events in the Wichita area are shown—the desk in the old City National bank building at the time of the robbery and murder of the cashier, one drawer of which carries a bullet hole. This is shown on the second floor.

Outside the building is seen many old type vehicles and agricultural implements of 50 years ago.

During his tour of inspection Sunday night General Sterling gave a detailed demonstration for officials of details of obtaining a hair-trigger quality on a pistol and revealed the difference between his valuable engraved pistol and the one presented Quanah Parker 50 years ago.

A collection of famous branding irons of the Southwest arrived at the display hall Sunday night from President J. W. Hunt of McMurry college at Abilene and many brands well known to pioneer Wichitans are contained in the exhibit.

Eagles Captured at Lake Kemp Given Zoo

Wichitans and other sightseers here during the jubilee will view an added attraction at the municipal zoo Monday—a pair of baby eagles.

The two birds were the contribution of H. W. Fillmore, Democratic nominee for judge of the county court at law, after he had made a trip Sunday to Lake Kemp where he captured them. Mr. Fillmore made the trip especially to obtain the eagles, and on his return here he turned them over to C. C. Bunnenberg, park superintendent.

The pair of eaglets are young birds, but in time and with growth they are expected to provide one of the most interesting of exhibits at the zoo.

Roosevelt Plans Rest In Arizona

trip is to be made at Sioux City, Iowa, next week.

The Democratic candidate on several occasions has highly praised independent Republicans, particularly Senators George W. Norris of Nebraska and Hiram Johnson of California.

During the next week Norris is to introduce Mr. Roosevelt to the citizens of McCook, Neb., his home town. Johnson responded to the praise the New York governor gave him at Sacramento last week with a statement that there was a great difference between the view that Roosevelt took of "progressives and progressivism" and that with which President Hoover looked upon them.

MRS. ROOSEVELT REACHES ARIZONA

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 26. (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the Democratic presidential nominee, en route by airplane to meet her husband in Arizona, left here at 6:40 p. m., mountain standard time, for Winslow. She will leave the plane there and continue to Williams by train.

About 400 persons greeted Mrs. Roosevelt here. The air liner took off in a slight rain after a 10-minute stay.

Several times, too, the Democratic candidate has spoken of his distant relative, Theodore Roosevelt as the "first great Republican progressive" and in Los Angeles yesterday he said he cast his first vote for the Republican Roosevelt.

After journeying to Phoenix this afternoon for an automobile trip about the city, the Roosevelt party traveled to Williams, Aris., for a two day stay at the ranch of Mrs. John C. Greenway, national committeewoman for Arizona and an old friend of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt will join the party there.

Crowds Turn Out

The journey today brought the train through several Arizona towns where crowds turned out to see the candidate. At Wickenburg, one of the first stops, a sizeable crowd gathered about the back of the train, but Mr. Roosevelt did not appear.

Explaining that the train would pass through the town again on its way from Phoenix to Williams, Senator Carl Hayden of Arizona introduced Mr. Roosevelt's daughter, Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Dall and J. Bruce Kremer, national committeeman for Montana.

Two cowboys with broad hats and rough overall pants galloped their ponies across the tracks to sit on the edge of the crowd and listen. A headless rattle snake, freshly killed, lay beside the track where the train stopped.

After spinning through the rich farming section watered by the Roosevelt dam, the nominee left his train at Phoenix for a drive about the city and to speak briefly to a huge crowd on the state capitol grounds. He made little reference to politics in either his talk there or the few words with which he greeted the crowd that swarmed about his car when the train rolled into the station.

At the station he was welcomed by Gov. George W. P. Hunt of Arizona and the man who defeated Hunt in the recent primary, Dr. O. B. Moeur, of Tempe. Both Democrats rode with him through the streets.

Leaving Phoenix, the train retraced its route to Wickenburg where Mr. Roosevelt made the promised appearance on the platform, resuming the journey to Williams.

GOP BOLT WILL AID ROOSEVELT

Richard W. Child to Head Progressive Group

viser to the late President Wilson, in which Child declares "Roosevelt will be elected by Republican votes" and then proceeds to a scathing rebuke of the Hoover administration.

He also made public a reply received from Colonel House in which the latter predicts that formation of the Republicans-for-Roosevelt league will make the election of Governor Roosevelt a certainty.

Vigorous Policies Needed

Child's letter to Colonel House declares that America must end "political fiddling" with prohibition; must protect savers and investors from the ruinous experiences of the last few years; and must effect a vigorous foreign policy based on economic leadership, "not upon a dribbling representation abroad."

"I see no hope for these vigorous policies from those who should have created them in the last four years," the letter declares.

Child explained that he had been asked by a group of Republicans to head the league and that an advisory board of prominent Republicans in various sections of the country will be announced later in the week.

National Appeal

He said that an appeal will be made to Republicans throughout the nation to forget party labels in the forthcoming presidential election on Nov. 8 and help send Governor Roosevelt to the White House.

He declared his support of the Democratic nominee does not mean that he has switched political parties and emphasized that he is supporting Roosevelt "as a Republican."

Headquarters for the Republicans-for-Roosevelt league were opened today in the Roosevelt hotel here and similar headquarters will be opened shortly throughout the country, Child said.

Another Pretty Courtesy Extended October Bride

Even the golden jubilee festivities are not greater in comparison than the number of pretty parties planned as courtesies to Miss Martha Ellen Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hines, whose wedding to B. H. Hilburn of Dallas will take place at 8 o'clock the evening of Oct. 8 at the First Christian church.

Miss Mildred Sherrod, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Eugene Sherrod, entertained Saturday morning at the Woman's Forum clubhouse at breakfast. The table was lovely with irridescent glass and the huge crystal center bowl of pink roses and ageratum was planked in sloping rows by other crystal bowls filled with the same pretty combination of flowers.

The bride-elect was unusually lovely in a model frock of midnight blue crepe with blue accessories. The modish feature of the season was noted in the velvet trimmings used. She was presented by the hostesses with a lovely set of madeira napkins.

Covers were laid at the delightful breakfast for the honoree, Miss Hines, Misses Hallie Broday, Dorothy Lee Taylor, Rose Marion Art, Elizabeth Langford, Jeannette Moore, Winzella Witherspoon, Marjorie Bright, Joline Woods, Mary Delaney, Camille Avis; Mesdames Henry Penix, Arnold Cureton, E. L. Mount and Miss Sherrod and Mrs. Eugene Sherrod.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

What's the use, any way, of writing about anything but the golden jubilee? One can't go to buy the weekly groceries without meeting yipping cowboys and ladies in sweeping gowns in the grocery stores. And downtown, there isn't room for any one but celebrants.

A woman from Pennsylvania said the other day, "I never did see so many fine looking men," and the lady to whom she spoke told her it was because in going back to sombreros and boots, Texans had gone back to what was their natural clothing. She insisted that men of no other state could get away with it. And it does become them, we say modestly.

The little—or large—(women vary in inches) print dresses may or may not be becoming; but some of the genuine old costumes make one realize one of the reasons why men 50 years ago were more courtly in bearing toward women.

We know the stories of several that will be worn by lovely models in the old-fashioned wedding party which the Woman's Forum will sponsor Monday night at the Memorial auditorium, each act to be compared, we understand, with modern gowns for the same occasion.

The gowns (why did they ever call clothes that reached the floor frocks?) are of many dates. Mary Shapard, for instance, will wear as a bridesmaid, G. L. Shapard's mother's wedding gown, a beautiful dress that fits its slender wearer to perfection. It is of cream faille—a material we rarely use now—with moire panels set in the skirt and trimmed with pearls and with cascades of lace. According to the period (when women were creatures of modesty) it has high neck and three-quarter sleeves; the sweet maid will wear long gloves with the tight basqued gown, stiff with stays (oh what a blessing we do not have them now). The gown has little tails to the basque, but they have a name we do not know. (Why did we not go into our old volume of Godey's Lady's Book and Magazine? We would know real period costumes then).

Annabel Harvel is to be the bride and one may look for a lovely picture in the dark-haired girl in the 56-year-old costume. It was the wedding gown of Miss Lyda Montgomery, when she became the bride of one Jasper Garrett and like all the beautiful costumes of that day, was made by hand. Mrs. Hugh Bassett, whose mother wore the gown, remembers her telling that Colonel Dent's wife (one of the first settlers of Dallas) helped her make the dress. The bride was a brunet, with very dark hair and sparkling black eyes. The dress is of old gold brocade trimmed with satin and irridescent work. It, too, is made with a long, pointed basque, trimmed with buttons—oh yes, many buttons. The skirt is very full and has two flounces, one box and knife pleated and the other knife pleated.

Then there's the dress that Joline Wood, another bridesmaid, will wear. It, too, is made of old gold brocade trimmed in satin and has a very full skirt and a tight basque. The customary high neck and long sleeves mark the modesty of its years. The graceful bertha is trimmed with "galloon," and that is really the name of the trim. It is a perfect fit for the great-granddaughter of the sweet young bride who wore it in 1855.

We wish we had more space—but go see them all and their 1932 sisters the merchants will show.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (US)—President Hoover set federal machinery in motion today to sell farm board wheat to China.

The arrangements were outlined at a White House conference attended by representatives of the department of agriculture, the farm board and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

The president sought to coordinate the efforts of the three agencies in selling and financing the wheat for famine sufferers in China. Requests for the wheat came from the Chinese government.

Amounts of wheat to be sold were not definitely settled. The president asked the three agencies to work out the details.

Those at the conference were Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, C. B. Denman of the farm board, and Chairman Pomerene and Directors Jones, Cowles, McCarthy and Couch of the R. F. F.

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

FORCE AND STRATEGY

We have two dogs, Pat a wire-haired terrier, Mike an Irish terrier. Both of them are handsome. Both are intelligent. Both are beloved household pets. A ride in the car, a trip to the golf course, is the delight of their hearts. It is seldom that they can be allowed to go. Every time they hear the car coming they make ready. First they ask for an invitation.

"No. Not today. You can't go today. We have company and dogs cannot go along when there is company."

At once Pat sits down beside the bags. He is nothing daunted. He is going to try as long as possible. Only when the car starts without him is he willing to admit defeat. I pick up the bags and he is at my heels. The instant the door is opened he leaps in and stands beside the driver, tail up, eyes fixed ahead, deaf to all calls and commands. He is going.

Sometimes he overpowers us and we take him along, because it is too much trouble to haul him out. Usually he is lifted and set on the road and emphatically informed that he is not going. No use crashing the gates.

What is Mike doing all this time? He is not to be seen. More than likely he is waiting down by the first turn in the road. When the car comes along he will trot out of the bushes, stand in the middle of the road, smile from ear to ear, and get into the car. We can't leave him in the middle of a state road. The ears will run him down. We don't want to turn about and go back up the long hill to the house with him. He wins. The only way to get by him is to shut him in the house, under guard, before the car starts. He wins twice to Pat's once. The strategists always do beat out the foreists. Reason says longer, reaches farther, wins in the end. That holds for nations, children, or dogs. Reason belongs to the mind and Mind, you know, is the Infinite of expression.

Force is useless when expended on children. When they are little it teaches them nothing but that you are bigger and stronger. They resolve, not to mind their ways, but to wait until they are as big as you are and give you some of your own. You haven't reached the root of the matter and discovered the idea that impels them into mistaken action. You can reach that only by reaching their minds.

As the children grow older they recent force. They are angered by t.l They center, not upon the idea that they have done wrong and that it is necessary that they correct their attitude and action, but upon the fact that you used your power and strength to force them your way. You touched their sacred persons. The resentment and anger this caused are going to shut out your righteous purpose from their sight. They are not going to adjust their conduct. They are going to hold to it in thought at least, and wait until they can tell you what they think of you. And it won't be in the nature of a bouquet.

Force is something to keep in the background, the further back the better. It is for emergencies only. Reason, strategy, understanding, are the forces we need. They will conquer error, cure error, eliminate error. There is no other way.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Orange Blossoms Emblem Of Virgin, Divorcee Is Told

By EMILY POST
Author of "Etiquette, the Blue Book of Social Usage"

Dear Mrs. Post—I'm going to visit a friend this summer whose brother has just become engaged to be married. I know him well so wouldn't it be all right when I see him to just say "Congratulations, John," or what should I say?

Answer—To an old friend you should say something much more personal than just "Congratulations," which is the least you could say to a total stranger. You'd say, "Oh John! I'm so glad to hear of your good news. I hope you will have all the happiness in the world." It doesn't make much difference what you say so long as it conveys the thought that you are glad for him. Which a stiff "congratulations" certainly does not do.

Dear Mrs. Post—I am a divorcee and as this is my second marriage, I wish to know what is the proper costume to wear. I understand it is not the custom to wear white or a veil or carry a real bridal bouquet at a second marriage. Is that true? My first marriage was performed in the office of the justice of the peace, consequently have never had a real wedding. This time I am to be married in a church. It is the bridegroom's first marriage. I suppose the clothes he should wear depends on what the bride wears?

Answer—You cannot wear myrtle or orange blossoms or a bridal veil because these are the emblems of virgin purity. But you can perfectly well carry a bridal bouquet, and wear a white dress with a hat. The clothes of the bride in no way affect those of the bridegroom, who wears a cutaway. Or if he happens not to have a cutaway, he wears a dark blue suit.

Dear Mrs. Post—Instead of mailing announcements on the day of the wedding, would it be so awfully improper to mail announcements to personal friends a few days before the wedding, so that any gifts could be laid out with the others for the day of the wedding?

Answer—It is impossible to make the announcement that you have been married—when it is not true. And I am sorry to say that those who receive announcements are not expected to send presents. Why not invite all your friends to the simplest sort of gathering after the ceremony?

Gangland Guns Bombard Roadhouse With Shots

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (UP)—Shotgun killers fired volley after volley through the back door of the Palais Rue, suburban roadhouse today, waited until frightened guests, entertainers and waiters had turned off the lights, and sent more slugs through the front of the building.

When screaming women had been silenced, terrified men had gotten up from the floor and the lights had been turned on again, the body of Michael Tamburrino, "bouncer," was discovered, riddled with bullets.

Police said they believed the attack was a warning from one of many competing liquor gangs to Ralph Carbon, owner of the Palais Rue.

FARMERS CALL MILK HOLIDAY

Producers Seek to Prevent Marketing

(By The Associated Press)

Farmers' efforts to withhold the morning milk bottle from doorsteps of several large cities today had become the outstanding activity in agriculture's drive for higher prices.

At Atlanta, Ga., protection of a temporary federal court injunction was obtained by milk distributors restraining members of the Georgia Milk Producers Federation, Inc., from interfering by violence with shipments of milk to Atlanta.

A milk holiday was decided upon Thursday by the producers confederation as a means to obtain higher prices but the organization's officials disclaimed any connection with picketing of roads and dumping of milk shipments near there.

Michigan and Ohio

Milk holidays also were in effect in Michigan and Ohio communities. At Toledo detectives found listening equipment had been wired to the headquarters of the Northwestern Cooperative Sales company, which represents farmers in 12 Ohio and two Michigan counties. The Farmers-Producers association at Toledo and its officers were enjoined earlier last week from picketing in their endeavor to compel higher prices from dairy companies.

Roland Sharpe, secretary of the emergency committee of the New York milk shed, which pours thousands of gallons into the metropolitan area daily, said there was danger of further strikes in several places unless quotations were raised to 5 cents a quart for farmers.

Chicago Area

In the Chicago area another side of the picture was presented through co-operative ownership of milk plants by dairymen to achieve increased returns by elimination of middlemen's profits. Nearly half a dozen such plants were in operation with the latest starting last week in Racine county, Wisconsin. About 100 farmers joined in the Burlington, Wis., cooperative milk plant to cut production costs by cooling and weighing their own milk.

The Burlington dairymen acted in the fact of dwindling profits within 20 days after their decision in machinery was installed and the plant ready for cooperation. The plant cost approximately $30,000 and the dairymen expect it to be paid for within 15 months from fees which previously went to privately owned plants. The milk is shipped to the Chicago market.

'Baering' Down On The News

BY ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

INDIANS KNEW HOW TO SELL

The little brown hen ain't laying eggs. The old gray mare ain't what she used to be. And you've got to be safe in college before you can sing about the farm.

The latest ruling of the department of agriculture does the farmer as much good as usual. And that's bad.

He borrowed government money so he could raise a crop to sell. That's his business. A middleman buys it. That's their business.

But the middleman doesn't give the money to the farmer. He first pays off the farmer's loan direct to the government. That's still business.

The farmer gets any money that's left over. And that's nobody's business.

That's why the little brown hen ain't laying eggs and why the old gray mare ain't what she used to be. There's no future in it.

The Indians who originally owned the land the farmers just lost were really better business men. They got a drink out of the transaction.

State Seeks Injunction Against Oil Company

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. (AP)—Application for temporary injunction to restrain the Alpha Petroleum company of Houston from violating the oil proration orders of the Texas Railroad commission in the Conroe field in Montgomery county was filed in Montgomery court by Atty. Gen. James V. Allred.

The application was filed in the court of District Judge W. F. Robertson. Hearing was set for 9 a. m. tomorrow.

The company obtained an injunction recently in the Montgomery county district court restraining the commission from intefering with oil production from its wells.

Maurice Cheek, assistant attorney general, said the application for a temporary injunction to restrain violation of the orders was filed by the attorney general's department without making the railroad commission a party to the suit.

Four Airplane Thieves Are Killed in Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Four unidentified persons stole a Pan-American Airways eight-passenger plane from the airport here today and were killed when it was wrecked in a landing near Merity, 15 miles from Rio de Janeiro.

One of the robbers, evidently the pilot, was tentatively identified by government investigators as Walter Ross, a European. The robbers kidnaped the watchman at the airport so as to leave no immediate chances of an alarm behind them.

Herriot Sees Reason in German Arms Demands

GRAMAT, France, Sept. 25. (AP)—Premier Edouard Herriot declared in a public address today that military experts of unquestionable authority insist Germany is seeking sufficient military strength to defeat "with one thrust the designated adversary."

The premier, whose speech outlined the French conception of disarmament with security, did not name the "adversary."

'Mass' Farming Fails To Pay

AMARILLO, Texas, Sept. 25. (AP)—Hickman Price, called the world's largest individual wheat farmer, is "broke."

He recently called his creditors together and asked them to take charge of the vast enterprise in which he sank his fortune of $350,000.

Still contending that his big-business methods as applied to farming would be successful under ordinary conditions, Price said he was a victim of low prices and depressed general economic conditions.

Says His Plan Is Sound

"I am convinced my original plan of industrial farming is sound," Price said. "It must succeed, because one can buy for less, sell what one produces for more through selling direct, and the land will produce more under scientific cultivation."

Price's farm was operated along the lines of a large industrial plant. Everything was done by power machinery. Price maintained his own machine shops, canned vegetables and meats to feed his employes, and his tractors moved day and night.

The "wheat king" produced 800,000 bushels of the grain on 22,000 acres in 1931, but realized little or no profit because of low prices. A short crop this year, due to adverse weather conditions and continued low prices, brought about his downfall, he said.

Living on Small Farm

"I am at the end of my resources," he told his creditors. "Right now I am living with my wife and son on a little farm near Kress, Texas, where we have a few cows and chickens and a garden. I have no plans for the future."

Price, who formerly was associated with a large film corporation, rejected a proposal of his creditors that he continue the management of his project.

His son, Hickman Price Jr., spent several months in Russia last year, studying farm methods of the Soviets.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—It would take a better calculator than The Bystander to figure out just when the Ides of October occur under the old Roman calendar; but almost anybody who reads the political news must already be aware that very important happenings of the 1932 presidential campaign are anticipated in the first week of next month.

ALFRED E. SMITH

For one thing, if the New York political reporters have it right, one of the two vast and significant silences of the campaign is due to be broken about then.

Editor Al Smith, they say, will speak his mind about many things political, including Governor Roosevelt's presidential drive. And that would leave Senator Bill Borah's place in the election picture the only one still obscured by a major question mark.

Unless, of course, the Idaho senator should declare himself before that time. He has been somewhat off the front pages for an unusually long period. If he should decide to make known his detailed campaign plans he could rest assured of big headlines all over the country, no matter what they are.

Out of the Picture

Certainly the White House conference to get the Hoover re-election campaign into higher gear, called while the rumblings of the Maine political earthquake were still going strong, made no tentative reservations for Borah.

Speaking date schedules were worked out for Vice President Curtis, Secretary Mills, Mrs. Gann and other oratorical shock troopers drafted for service.

Had the Borah of 1928 been available, it is a safe bet he would have drawn the job of trailing Governor Roosevelt's swing around the big political circuit—a job which Messrs. Curtis and Mills will share.

But Borah wasn't available. There was no intimation that he would be. He remains that strange, almost unheard of thing, a silent senator in a campaign year.

Smith Prophets Busy

Reverting to Editor Smith, however, the case is wholly different.

There are those professing to know what he plans to do, come New York state convention time Oct. 4, who insists he is not only going to join Governor Roosevelt in supporting Lieutenant Governor Lehman for the gubernatorial nomination, but also get into the Roosevelt-Garner bandwagon with both feet.

And if that does happen, nobody would deny that the first week of next month would be one of the high-lights of the campaign.

The signs point to an intensive Republican drive in New York. One of the trio of campaign addresses President Hoover is now scheduled to make will be delivered there.

The national campaign management, perhaps the president himself, intervened to patch things up in a brewing intra-party row over the nomination for governor.

All of which increases the news value of whatever Editor Smith may have to say next month.

Spurred Right On

LONDON.—While standing on a street curb in Plymouth, Artilleryman Gittings was passed by a motor bus. The bus came close to the curb and struck one of the spurs of the officer. The impact swung him around and he fell heavily to the street. He had to be taken to a hospital for treatment.

Sleeps on Feet

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—The doctor came around to take Henry Munday's temperature and nearly jumped out of his shoes. He found Henry calmly sleeping with his head on his feet. After being awakened Henry explained that he was an acrobat and often fell asleep in that odd position.

Hambone's Mediations

(Copyright, 1932, by The Scripps-Howard Newspaper Alliance.)

The issues of the campaign are somewhat wet-and-dry, but there hasn't been much mud-slinging, at that.

It looks like a bad year for the headline writers, with the Notre Dame backfield composed of Brancheau, Jaskwich, Sheeketski, Lukats, Koken and Melinkovich.

The census bureau reports that fewer women become insane than men. That isn't meant to be a reflection on the ladies, however.

Civic Fame in the Making

THERE wasn't anything very sensational about the brief cable dispatch told, recently, of a fire which swept the incredibly ancient town of Tarsus, in Asia Minor—Tarsus, where the Apostle Paul used to live. It wasn't much of a fire, apparently, and even if it had been nobody on this side of the sea would have cared much anyway.

But if you have an idle and reflective mind, the dispatch might set you thinking, just the same. It is such a neat little commentary on the strange and unexpected ways in which fame can come to a town.

Doubtless Tarsus had its civic boosters, in the old days—and its energetic citizens who wanted things to be bigger and better, who spoke with pride of the town's industry and commerce and who were eminently practical in all things. And if you had told those boosters that their town would be world famous 20 centuries later they would have beamed at you and felt that their fondest dreams were coming true.

Only—they would have died of surprise if they could have known that the only reason for their town's immortality was the fact that it served as a home for the moody and unpredictable Saul, son of the tentmaker.

But that is very often the way things go in this world, and somehow it's just a little bit amusing, when you stop to think about it. Whitman, who remarked that the greatest city in the world was the place which produced the greatest men, regardless of its size or its commercial importance, was simply expressing the way in which the race often appraises its towns in the long run.

We remember Tarsus because of Paul and for no other reason. In the same way the little English town of Stratford is known because of Shakespeare, and the island of Corsica is known because of Napoleon.

Do you want your town to be famous? Stroll through the public schools. You may see there, hunched over a desk, some chubby youngster who will eventually confer immortality upon the place.

Gandhi Teaches a Lesson

GANDHI brings his long struggle against the British to its most dramatic moment by beginning a hunger strike. The wizened little Indian—who looks, to irreverent western eyes, as if he never had half enough to eat anyway—vows to take no more food unless and until the English government changes its mind about the electoral plan it hopes to establish in India.

India, of course, is a long way off, and the ordinary American, having troubles enough of his own, cares very little whether British rule there is continued or suspended. But there is in this effect of Gandhi's something so very striking, so completely the opposite of all our ordinary ways of thinking and acting, that we are bound to be interested in it.

We are used to a world built on force. Despite all our philosophies, our religions and our poetic visions, we cannot conceive of a social order in which the strong do not rule the weak. Subconsciously we are inclined to agree with Napoleon's cynical dictum—that God fights on the side of the strongest battalions.

But Gandhi seems, sometimes, to come perilously close to proving that we are wrong; that there can be a purpose, a moral staunchness, which all the force in the world is simply powerless to touch.

A lean, half-naked, toothless, sickly little man faces the world's greatest empire and announces that he will die rather than submit—and the empire, backed by a fleet that has ruled the seas for three centuries, and an army which has won victories in every quarter of the globe, finds that there is very little it can do about it.

Supreme force that encounters resistance can always win. Force that meets no resistance at all is at a loss. The one channel through which it can operate is closed. A Gandhi leading an army in the field could be crushed overnight. A Gandhi who simply refuses to eat is eternally out of the reach of force.

One of the profoundest object lessons of modern times is being enacted in India today.

Red Tape or Humanity?

SOME of the ways in which the American immigration law is applied are—to say the least—a trifle odd.

Last winter Mrs. John Lambert, Canadian-born wife of an American citizen, went to Nova Scotia to visit her sick mother. While there she gave birth, prematurely, to a son. The child was frail, and she had to delay her return so that she overstayed her re-entry permit.

Now, with the child strong enough to travel, she is trying to take it back to her husband's home in Maine—and the U. S. immigration authorities won't let her in, saying she is a Canadian citizen.

Maybe the rules justify this stand, but it is hard to see any other justification for it. The worship of red tape in the bureau that is keeping this family separated must have reached a height uncommon even in the American immigration service.

Spoon-Fed Orchestras Passing

MANAGERS of symphony orchestras in America's principal cities met recently and agreed that the day of the rich patron of music in America is about over. If symphony orchestras continue to exist, they reported, it will be because they are whole-heartedly supported by the people in exactly the same way that moving picture theaters and professional baseball clubs are supported.

That may mean lean years for some symphony societies. But in the long run it ought to be all to the good. An art that cannot pay its way through the contributions of the general public at the box office has no real vitality. Symphony orchestras in this country needed spoon-feeding by the wealthy during their period of infancy, beyond a doubt, but by now they should be able to stand on their own feet.

SO THEY SAY!

One of the defects of our political system is that we have provided no place for the ex-presidents. Invaluable as their advice might and would be, there is no way to utilize it.—Senator Copeland, New York.

Sultan On a Bus

I like to ride on a bright green bus,
I love to sit on top.
I make believe it's an elephant
And when the lights say "Stop"
I just pretend he hesitates to take a mighty breath.
An elephant's an elephant, you can't ride him to death.

I wear a bright kimono, and a turban with a stone,
And tho' the bus is crowded, I am riding it alone.
We jog along the jungle paths
Thru miles of monster trees,
(The buildings hide the burning sun
And don't shut out the breeze.)

It's grand to ride atop a bus without a single care.
Why does the busman spoil it all
by calling for his fare?

Eight, Nine and Out!

Some of us were grouped in front of Lindy's pastrami emporium near the Hollywood theater the other midnight, when Sid Silvers and Jack Benny, noted lampooners, saw a famous ham pass by.

"I never saw the guy," said Benny, "when he wasn't dressed in the hammiest outfits. He always looks like an actor!"

"Yeh," agreed Silvers, "except when he's on a stage!"

Addendum

And Lee Wahl says if Gandhi goes without food they'll soon be calling him a martyr. Over here, he adds, they call them actors!

Something to Advertise

Frisco, the clown, who gets the operator at the office to ring you by announcing himself as the sporting editor for The War Cry (haw!) was motoring in Brooklyn and saw an open man-hole, at which there was a "Man Working" sign.

"Huh," he soliloqu'd, "more Republican propaganda!"

Haw!

The other night one of those very hammy vaudevillians was driving his gay car down Broadway. It had all the colors of the rainbow, with stripes yet! And it featured seven horns.

Frisco was trying to cross the 47th street corner when the car came tearing along, and to avoid hitting Frisco it slowed down, much to the annoyance of the ham, who yelled and honked all seven trumpets.

"What!" gagged Frisco, "no drums?"

As If You Didn't Know

The difference between a gentleman and a columnist, says Hal Horn, the exploiter, is that a gentleman is a fellow who knocks before entering a boudoir, and a columnist does his knocking after leaving one.

Balm

Mr. Richard Watts Jr. of the Herald Tribune's movie bureau picks up this department's battered and bruised nose and administers the following anaesthetic to ease the ache: "It is my suspicion that William Soskin, the book critic of the Post came very close to truth and justice when he suggested recently that the outspoken keyhole-peeping columnist was but a natural and healthy reaction from the recent tendency to make news a series of carefully prepared handouts from industrious press agents.

"The interest in gossip undeniably has its unpleasant aspects, but it is, on the whole, a healthy and natural instinct that is much better off when it is not being ruthlessly suppressed . . . At the same time I am very doubtful that the suicides, the wrecking of homes and the other horrors that are supposed to go with the depredations of the columnists can be believed in with any completeness.

"As much as I would like to credit the colorful details of these works of fiction and the cinema, I'm afraid that the columnist is merely a minor irritant, and that his value lies in his ability to supply piquant, if unreliable, foot-notes to the passing show rather than in his power as either a scourage or a moral force."

Always belittlin'.

It Happened!

Monroe Silver, the creator of "Cohen on the Telephone," a one-time rage, was caught in a traffic jam in the 50's the other day, when a panhandler ankled up and asked for some dimes.

"I'm only the chauffeur," lied Monroe, "I'm taking this for the boss down to a used-car place to sell it."

"Yeh?" bargained the bum, "what's he want for it?"

That's All There Was!

Ethel Barrymore, who never calls her shots (and don't we know!!!), was approached by a movie director recently, who said: "Whom would you rather be—Duse or Bernhardt?"

"I'd prefer," she said, stiffly, "to be Ethel Barrymore!"

"Unfortunately," was the mapper, "you are."

Plunger

Charles Adler, of the Yacht Club Boys, offers this one about the "cokie" who had just given himself a shot in the arm as he passed a fashionable gambling house in Florida.

Near the entrance of the place he found a 25-cent roulette chip, and, picking it up, sauntered into the uppity joint. He walked over to where the wheel was spinning and placed the chip on a number.

"Here, here, here!" glared the man in charge, "no quarter chips here!"

"No?" was the retort, "well, then, take any part of it!"

A Forum of Criticism

In the theaters nowanights the programs contain an essay on critics and actors by Max Beerbohm, who once took up the sentimental side of the player's problem. The reprint urges the reviewers to go easy on the poor devils. The last words are "Mock Them Not!".

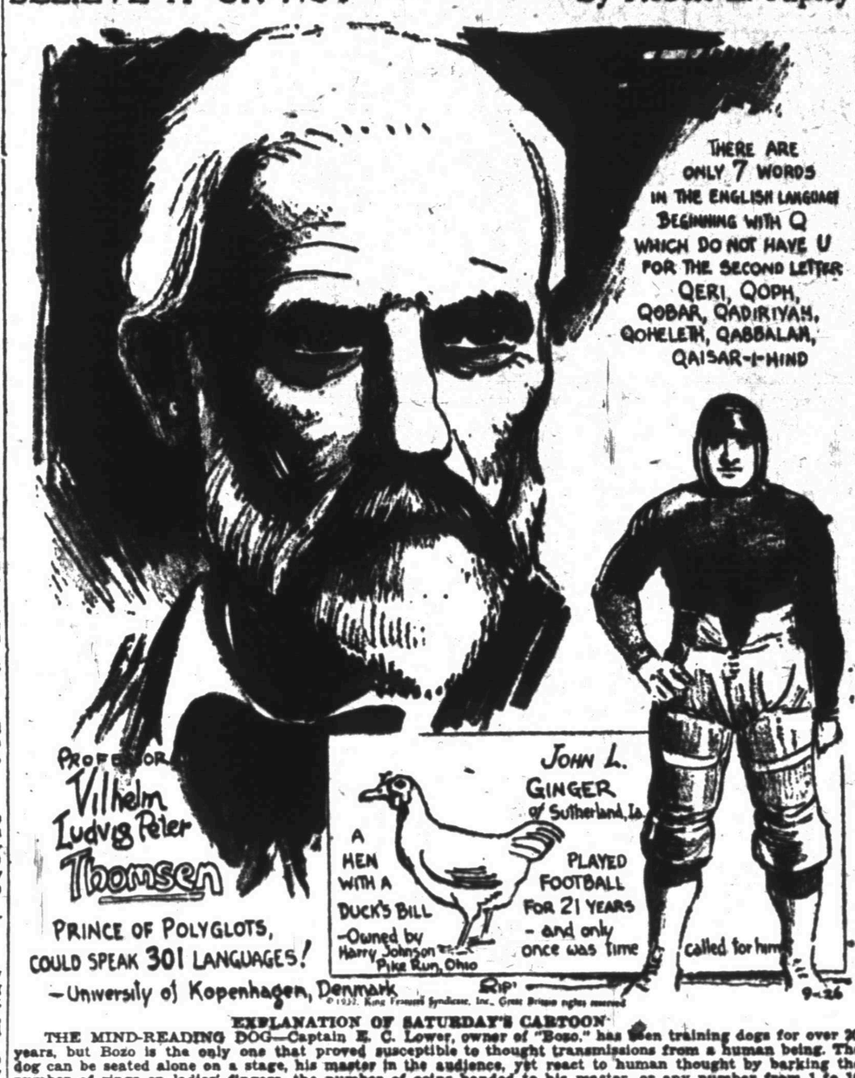

To which John Mason Brown adds: "The School of Hard Mocks."

Love Is Like That

Russ Columbo, who has a way with the ladies, gets the wildest mash mail from them. He got this yesterday from one of them: "Darling: I'd climb the highest mountain if I thought you'd be on top. I'd swim the deepest river if I thought you'd be on the other side. I'd go through fire and hell if I thought it would bring me to you. Love—Dolly."

"P. S.: If it doesn't rain tomorrow, I'll be over."

Road To Connect Highways Planned

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Sept. 26.—A cut-off road connecting highway 5 and highway 28 from Quanah to Paducah may be designated by the state highway department as an alternate route of present highway 28 from Vernon to Paducah through Crowell.

As the roads now run, both No. 5 and No. 28 from Vernon are paved. No. 5 to Quanah, and with the alternate route over the designated cut-off travelers who are now forced to go many miles out of their way or travel through the "bottom of Pease river over unpaved roads between Quanah and Paducah would be saved.

Commissioner R. S. Reed of Hardeman county presented the plans for the proposed cut-off to the state commission and received much encouragement. Many telegrams and letters were sent from citizens of Paducah, Quanah and Chillicothe to the commission at Austin urging the designation of the alternate routing.

Estelline Lions Open Drive Against Beggars

Special to The Record News.

ESTELLINE, Texas, Sept. 26.—The Lions club started a movement this week to stop house-to-house begging. Tramps have been working the town just after nightfall seeking food, and in many cases causing alarm among housewives. Many duplications have been reported where one man has secured food at a number of homes supposedly for his "sick friend."

The plan of the Lions club is to tabulate the names of those who are willing to feed a hungry man and keep them on file at a convenient place. Then every citizen of the city will be asked to turn down any person who comes to their doors seeking food or clothing, sending them to the committee who will "pass on them" and if they are found worthy, they will be sent to a home for what they need.

PAIR AWAITS PRISON TERMS

Jury Convicts Policeman And Alleged Bandit

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., Sept. 26.—Two men, convicted at a term of court in progress here, today awaited formal penitentiary sentences to be passed by district judges.

J. F. Long, 47, former Comanche policeman, was found guilty late Saturday on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon in connection with the shooting of Mrs. Ina Childress, 28, at her home in Comanche last August. His punishment was fixed at three years in prison.

Claimed Accident

Mrs. Childress claimed Long, who had lived at her home three years, attempted to kill her and commit suicide because she spurned his attentions and ordered him to leave her home. Long claimed the shooting was accidental.

Granville Latimer, 35, of Lawton, faces a minimum term of five years on a charge of robbery with firearms. A jury decided he was one of four men who staged a bold robbery at the Southwestern Light and Power company office here last July.

The four bandits kidnaped O. E. Wiser and A. F. Burns, manager and assistant manager for the utility, and forced them to open the safe the night of Aug. 12. Wiser testified he believed Latimer was the bandit who remained at home to guard Mrs. Wiser while the robbery was being staged.

Offered Alibi

Latimer offered an alibi as a defense, placing four Lawton residents on the stand to testify that he was at Lawton the night of the robbery.

The jury had a choice of any punishment from five years to death in the electric chair, but refused to make a decision and left the sentence to Judge E. L. Richardson of Lawton, who recently sentenced Latimer's brother to death on a murder charge.

Q.—How many of the contestants in the last Olympic games were Jews?—N. C.

A.—The American Hebrew says that 28 Jews participated. The only American Jew to achieve an outstanding victory was Lillian Copeland, who won the world's discus throwing championship for women.

Q.—Did Paganini make violins?—S. K.

A.—Nicole Paganini, Italian virtuoso, was a musician, not a maker of violins. His violin was a very fine Guarnerius violin which he bequeathed to the municipality of Genoa, Italy, the town where he was born, and it is preserved there as one of its most valuable possessions.

Q.—Did President Lincoln have a beard at the time of his death?—L. M. C.

A.—Lincoln wore a beard at the time of his assassination. He is said to have grown the beard to please a little girl.

Q.—Are lemons green or yellow when picked?—M. T.

A.—The department of agriculture says that lemons are never harvested after they are ripe. They are picked as soon as they have attained a certain size and they are usually as green as the leaves on the trees. They are then laid on trays, one layer thick, and the trays so arranged that there is no pressure upon the lemons. The lemons are stored in a dark place at a temperature around 45 degrees. When it is desirable to ripen them for use, they are subjected to a temperature of about 90 degrees with plenty of moisture in the air. This ripens them very quickly.

Q.—What is meant by "fish and chips?"—F. E.

A.—It is a dinner very popular in England and Canada. The houses or stores which serve this dinner serve, as a rule, no other kind of meals. It is made of filleted white fish, sliced very thin and in pieces about half the size of the hand, dipped in waffle batter made without grease, then fried in deep fat. French fried potatoes are served with it, hence the name, fish and chips. It is not seasoned with lemon but sprinkled with a little vinegar, salt and pepper. In large places sometimes dessert, bread and tea are served.

Q.—In reading travel books on Persia, I find often the word bast. What does it mean?—E. M.

A.—The term is applied to areas forbidden to non-Moslems.

Q.—Who invented the game of billiards?—M. B. D.

A.—Frank G. Menke says that those who insist that they are best informed declare that the Egyptians played billiard hundreds of years before the Christian era. There is evidence that the Greeks indulged in billiards about 400 B. C. Billiards, as a competitive indoor sport, gained its definite impetus in the United States when there was staged in Detroit a national championship, on April 12, 1859. This was not a tournament but was a match game for a side bet and a purse, the money totaling $15,000.

Q.—What is the name of the runner whose picture appears on the Olympic games postage stamp?—E. G.

A.—It is not the picture of a particular person. It was conceived by the artist.

Q.—When was an airplane first used to drop bombs?—A. P. D.

A.—The Air Corps News says that from all accounts this occurred in 1911 during the Italian campaign at Tripoli. The next use of the aerial bomb was by the Spanish forces in the Moroccan campaign. A German airplane used the first bombs in the world war in a raid on Paire, Aug. 30, 1914.

Q.—Are natural pearls superior to cultured pearls?—R. A.

A.—Pearls of culture generally possess a finer structure than those of accidental growth, or the naturals but it is almost impossible to distinguish between the two kinds except by cutting the pearl and examining the cross section.

Q.—When does the fiscal year end?—H. T.

A.—A fiscal year is the time between one annual time of settlement of balancing of accounts and another. Unless otherwise specified the fiscal year regularly ends on Dec. 31. The United States government's fiscal year ends June 30.

Q.—Why do plants and flowers wilt and sometimes die in the breeze of an electric fan?—F. B.

A.—This is because the fan causes too violent a circulation of air which absorbs the moisture from the plants and flowers.

LOOKOUTS CAPTURE FOURTH DIXIE SERIES CONTEST, 6 TO 4

Max Schmeling And Walker Clash Tonight In Heavyweight Bout

TEXANS' RALLY FALLS SHORT

Remaining Games Booked For Chattanooga

CHATTANOOGA, Sept. 25. (AP)—Manager Bert Niehoff of the Chattanooga Southern association champions was forced to use four pitchers to stave off a ninth-inning rally, here today to save the fourth game of the Dixie series, defeating the Beaumont, Texas league champions, 6 to 4.

Chattanooga now leads three games to one in the series.

The fifth, sixth and seventh games, (the last two if necessary) will be played here tomorrow, Tuesday and Wednesday. This was assured when President John D. Martin of the Southern association won the toss when he and President Alvin Gardner of the Texas league, flipped after today's battle.

Played in Rain

The game from the fifth inning on was played in a steady drizzle of rain, that drenched the crowd banked around the outfield. Beaumont had been held by Hulvey to one hit since the second inning when Hank Greenberg, giant Shipper first sacker opened the ninth with a home run over the left field stands to make the score, Chattanooga, 6, Beaumont 2. Easterling and Fritz doubled in succession and Niehoff sent Leon Pettit to the mound. Pasek and Fox, the latter batting for Newsome, rolled out, but Pettit lost the plate and walked Rowe, batting for Schulz. Niehoff inserted McColl but Goldstein batting for Holley singled to score Fritz with the third run of the inning. Then with the tying run on first Benton grounded out to Boss to end the game.

Get 14 Hits

The Lookouts, held in check by Shipper hurlers during the first three games of the series, shelled out a barrage of 14 hits today, four of the doubles in the overflow crowd. Catcher Cliff Bolton who had made but one hit in the three previous games, led the onslaught with a double and two singles in four trips and Joe Bonowitz had the same number of hits in five times at bat. Greenberg was the only Texan with as many as two. His homer and a double featured the game.

Herring for Beaumont and Clyde Barfoot for Chattanooga had pitched a stirring duel in Beaumont last Wednesday and the crowd, officially set at 10,849, was ready for another when the game started.

Shippers Rap Barfoot

The Shippers rapped Barfoot for a run in the first inning on a single by Holley, and a double by Tauby. Hulvey replaced Barfoot with one out, none on in the second and mastered the Texans until the ninth. He allowed one hit the seven innings he worked, retiring the side in order five times. Beaumont pitchers had difficulty from the first. Travis singled to score Bolton who had doubled to open the second and when Bonowitz and Gill doubled in succession with one away in the third, Manager Baker sent Luke Hamlin in to relieve Herring.

Hamlin ran into trouble early. Successive singles by Boss, Wilburn and Hulvey accounting for a run in the fourth. A walk to Gill, Reese's sacrifice and a single by Bolton to start the fifth, scored the fourth run and sent Hamlin to the showers, Joe Sullivan, a lefty, relieving him.

Fielders Flop

Here Beaumont's fielding went to pieces and two more runs came in. Boss singled to right to score Bolton and took third when Fritz let the drive get through his legs. Wilburn walked and Boss scored when Holley threw wild trying to force Wilburn on Hulvey's roller to second. That made it 6 to 1 and it looked like enough until that ninth inning with its jockeying of pitchers and pinch hitters. Dick Schulz pitched the eighth for Beaumont, after Schoolboy Rowe had batted for Sullivan in the first half.

FOXX BANGS HOMER NO. 58

But Senators Win Final Contest, 2 to 1

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Jimmy Foxx blasted his 58th home run of the season in a perfect day at bat, but the Senators licked the Athletics, 2 to 1, today in closing their 1932 rivalry.

The Philadelphia first sacker apparently fell just short of taking the American league batting honors away from Dale Alexander, despite his day's mark of 1.000, as the unofficial Averages gave him .364 against .367. Foxx made a homer and two singles in three times at bat.

General Alvin Crowder of the Senators took the league lead in game won, chalking up his 26th of the year and 15th straight. Except for Foxx, only two Athletics got as far as second and none to third off his delivery.

The victory gave the third-place Washington team a lead of two games over the Mackmen for the season, the Senators winning 12 and losing 10 to their second-place opponents. Score:

Mat Tournament Starts Tonight

The opening guns of the Junior Middleweight wrestling championship of the world tournament will blast tonight at 8 o'clock in Govro arena with the start of the golden jubilee. Two tournament matches have been carded for tonight with four of the outstanding contenders for the crown meeting in the opening round. Shiek Marralah, of Persia, will meet Tuffy McMullen, of Dallas, on the featured event while Silent Ratan, of Scotland, meets Otis "Vister" Hedrick, of Shreveport, on the semifinal.

Two of these masters are strangers in Wichita Falls, but have for years ranked among the greatest mat performers in the business. Both Shiek Marralah and Silent Ratan have been spilling good wrestlers for some time. They both are colorful performers and can always be counted on to give an excellent account of themselves.

Tuffy McMullen and Otis Hedrick have long been winning wrestlers in this section of the country and are well known to Wichita Falls mat followers.

The championship belt will arrive in Wichita Falls soon to be placed on display in the W. L. Buck Sporting Goods company window. The belt is valued at $1,000 and will be given to the winner at the close of the tournament.

The matches for Tuesday night will find the same four men taking part, but with a trade of opponents. McMullen will take on Ratan in Tuesday's main event while Hedrick will wrestle Marralah on the semifinal.

New faces for Marralah and Ratan will be brought in Wednesday with Marralah taking on Jack Crotts, of San Antonio, on the main event and Ratan meeting Clete Duval, of Waxahachie, on the semifinal. Another tournament match will very likely be carded for Friday night along with the regular wrestling program.

The tournament matches will continue every Friday night until a champion has been named in this division. The loss of one match will not put a wrestler out of the running, for the tournament will be conducted on a won and lose basis of falls, and not matches. The final champion will be acclaimed on his percentage of falls won at the close of the tournament.

Preparations are being made to take care of the vast crowds expected at the matches and the entire tournament looms as possible chances to break all attendance records.

Cops Turn Cowboys

PORTLAND, Ore.—There was no telling what that ferocious animal was that stood in the dead of night pawing up the earth in front of the car of Deputy Sheriffs Wills and Minielly. It turned out to be a rampaging bull. It took the two men and a truck and a prowl car to get the bull back into his barn.

Southwest Conference Teams Start Sluggishly

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

This will be another week-end of non-conference football combats for Southwest conference members. Southwest coaches probably are glad of it. In some games Saturday, their cohorts lacked scoring punch against non-conference competition, proving beyond doubt they are not yet ready for the conference championship except the University of Arkansas, Southern Methodist university and Texas Christian university. Hendrix college held the Razorbacks to a scoreless tie. North Texas Teachers duplicated against Southern Methodist. Louisiana State held the Texas Christian Frogs to a 3-all tie.

Frogs Play Daniel Baker

All games scheduled this week will be Saturday. At Fort Worth, Texas Christian Frogs will play their third game this season, taking on the Daniel Baker Hill Billies. The Frogs played the headliner last week. It was a true test of their ability, and today there was plenty of praise for the Frogs. Ben Boswell gave Texas Christian a lead over Louisiana in the second quarter when he booted a 15-yard field goal. Boswell beat Louisiana last year, 3 to 0, with a field goal. Torrence of Louisiana later tied the score at 3-all when he kicked a 15-yard field goal.

The Southern Methodist Mustangs, defending conference champions, will invade Lubbock Saturday to play Texas Tech. The Mustangs played sloppy football against the Denton North Texas Teachers, their blocking and passing being bad. Once inside Denton's 10-yard stripe, the Mustangs had no scoring punch. They will meet a tough foe next in Texas Tech.

Aggies Tackle Tulane

The spotlight game will be at New Orleans between Texas A. & M. and Tulane. Tulane walloped the Aggies 7 to 0 last season, and it will be a fighting crew of gridiron warriors invading the Tulane campus this week-end. The Aggies opened their campaign Saturday with a 7 to 0 victory over Texas Tech. The game was played at Amarillo and Panhandle football fans saw "Frenchy" Domingue make the A. & M. touchdown possible with a 20-yard run to Tech's 20-yard stripe, where a drive was started that eventually saw Domingue carry the ball over.

Not so proud of their 0 to 0 game against Hendrix college, a team they whipped last year, 19 to 0, the Arkansas Razorbacks will do a lot of practice this week for the invasion of the Missouri School of Mines. Coach Thomsen's Arkansas sophomores made 13 first downs against five for Hendrix but lacked scoring power.

Fresh from an impressive 20 to 0 victory over Texas A. & I. the Rice Institute Owls will tackle Louisiana State at Houston. This game will give fans a grand opportunity to compare Texas Christian and Rice. The backfield of Vic Driscoll, Tom Driscoll, Jap Thrasher and Kelly Scott clicked like a clock Saturday behind excellent blocking to smother Texas A. & M. The Owls revealed a lot of speed and classified themselves as probable conference winners.

Steers Meet Centenary

The University of Texas Longhorns, who displayed a powerful scoring punch to beat Daniel Baker, 26 to 0, will play Centenary college at Austin. The Longhorns beat Centenary, 6 to 0, last year. The Texans played straight football on a sloppy field to beat Daniel Baker. The Texas line was impregnable and the Texas backs revealed smashing power on straight football drives. Ernest Koy and Harrison Stafford led the Texas attack with two touchdowns each.

The Baylor Bears, who were idle last week, will make their bow Saturday against St. Edwards at Waco. The Bears are not being touted highly this season, but may spring a surprise and reveal power against the always strong St. Edwards team.

The full season conference standing follows:

School—	W.	T.	L.	Pct.
Texas	1	0	0	1.000
Texas A. & M.	1	0	0	1.000
Rice Institute	1	0	0	1.000
Texas Christian	1	1	0	1.000
Southern Methodist	0	1	0	.000
Arkansas	0	1	0	.000
Baylor	0	0	0	.000

Quanah Opposes Night Football

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Sept. 25.—Athletic Field will not be lighted for night playing of football for the 1932 season, according to decision reached by the school board at a recent meeting. The subject was carefully considered by the board and a committee of citizens, who decided other things were needed more for this season than the illumination of the field.

Childress, Vernon and Electra in district 5 all are equipped for night games, leaving Quanah and Wichita Falls the only fields unlighted. It is expected 1933 will see Quanah also ready for day or night games.

Cubs Lose Final To Reds To Close Season With 90 Wins, 64 Defeats

CHICAGO, Sept. 25. (AP)—Chicago's National league champions closed their regular season today by taking a 5 to 3 beating from the eighth place Cincinnati Reds, ending the campaign with a record of 90 victories and 64 defeats.

The Redleg triumph was accomplished in one inning, at the expense of Pat Malone, one of the prospective game starters in the world series. Guy Bush started for the Cubs, and in his final tuneup before starting the opening game of the championship series next Wednesday, pitched three innings of highly satisfactory baseball. Not a hit was made off his stuff.

With the exception of the St. Louis Cardinals' 1930 victory, with 89 wins and 65 defeats, the Cubs' winning percentage this year was the lowest in the history of the league. Score:

BRAVES 13, DODGERS 7

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Boston Braves' hard hitting brought them from behind to end the season with a 13 to 7 victory over Brooklyn today.

The Dodgers jumped on Bob Brown for six runs in the second inning but Boston batted its way into a tie in the next frame and kept on pounding Eddie Pipgras and Fay Thomas. Randy Moore led the 16 hit attack with a homer, two doubles and a single.

Stripp hit a homer with the bases full for the Dodgers in the second. Score:

GIANTS, PHILS SPLIT

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—The Giants divided their final double-header with the Phillies today, winning the first game 5 to 3 and losing the second 6 to 3 when darkness cut off a ninth-inning rally. The split left them tied with St. Louis for sixth place.

The Giants had scored two runs in the ninth and had men on second and third with only one out when Umpire Donnelly called time and the score reverted to the eighth. Roy Parmelee's wildness and his weak fielding gave the Phils the second decision although they got only three hits and 11 fanned. Scores:

MAJOR TEAMS WIN EASILY

Few Upsets Recorded As Grid Season Starts

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—Football's opening charge developed the usual run of one-sided victories for major teams but three "giant-killers" emerged to prevent a clean sweep by the big fellows.

To the University of Santa Clara, Wake Forest (N. C.) college and George Washington university fell the honor of accomplishing the most surprising upsets of Saturday's opening program although several other results could be classed as form reversals.

Santa Clara clearly outplayed Bill Ingram's California Bears and chalked up a well-earned 12-0 victory that easily was the day's outstanding sensation. Wake Forest held the strong Southern conference eleven, North Carolina, to a scoreless tie in another surprise, and George Washington upset Washington and Lee.

Tie Games

The failure of Southern Methodist to get better than a scoreless draw with Northwest Texas Teachers was the major upset in the Southwest conference while Rutgers and Lehigh, members of the "middle three," also were the victims of tie scores, Lehigh with Drexel and Rutgers with Province.

Otherwise the national schedule pretty much followed form. In the East, Pitt, Dartmouth, Cornell, Columbia, Villanova, and Colgate all won by one-sided scores ranging from 24 to 73 points, but Holy Cross met unexpected resistance from a big and well drilled eleven from New River State of West Virginia and won out, 13-6, only after a terrific struggle. Syracuse beat Clarkson by the same margin but this game, played at night, was marred by a heavy rain.

In the Midwest, Chicago, hoping for its best team in several years, crushed Monmouth, 41-0, Iowa State and Kansas State, of the Big Six, opened with easy victories, the former over Simpson, 21-0, and the latter over Wichita. Michigan State ran up the highest score of the day, a 93-0 count on Alma.

Conference Openers

Kentucky and South Carolina won the opening Southern conference games of the season. Kentucky turned back Virginia Military, 23-0, scoring 13 points in the last quarter, and South Carolina came from behind to nose out Sewanee, 7-3, after the Tennessee outfit had led for three periods.

Louisiana State, playing its first game under its new coach, Capt. Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones, gained a 3-3 tie with Texas Christian.

Texas, Rice and Texas A. & M. of the Southwest conference all won from minor opposition, but Arkansas was held to a 0-0 tie by Hendrix.

In the Far West, Southern California gave an impressive demonstration of power in its 1932 debut against Utah, walloping the Rocky Mountain conference champions, 35-0. Stanford beat the University of San Francisco, 20-7, and Washington tripped up Gonzaga, 19-7. Washington State, Idaho, Oregon State were other Pacific Coast conference teams which won.

CARDS, PIRATES SPLIT

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 25. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals tied for sixth and seventh places with the New York Giants in the full season standing in the National league when they split a double-header here today with the Pittsburgh Pirates. The Pirates won the first, 7 to 1 and the Cardinals the second, 7 to 4 behind the pitching of Dizzy Dean. Scores:

Champs End Season Without Being Blanked

BOSTON, Sept. 25. (AP)—Dusty Rhoades and Paul Andrews, former Yankees, let the American league pennant winners down with six hits today as Boston defeated New York, 8 to 3, in the final game of the season.

The Yanks used a patched-up lineup through part of the game but were able to complete the season without a shutout and to run their consecutive game record in this respect to 211. They played 156 games this year and 55 last, since the last game in which they failed to score.

Dale Alexander got two hits out of four to hold onto his American league batting leadership, which Jimmy Foxx was unable to overcome despite getting three hits out of three times at bat today. Score:

Walker Will Try For Early Kayo

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1932, Universal Service, Inc.)

SUMMIT, N. J., Sept. 25.—Jack Kearn's plan of campaign for Mickey Walker Monday night against Max Schmeling in the milk fund show will undobutedly be based to some extent on the old Kearns-Dempsey scheme of battle.

That is to try to make the first round the winning round by a fierce, sustained attack from the opening bell. To knock the other fellow out, if possible, inside the first three minutes.

It was the system by which Kearns drove the great Manassa mauler to the fistic heights years ago. At the first tap of the gong, Dempsey would go hurtling from his corner, and would immediately start wheeling leather.

Not many opponents survived that terrific charge. Dempsey's early career under Kearns is speckled with one-round ko's. If the mauler couldn't win in the first round, Kearns settled him down to a steady drive. Kearns has always used much the same system with his other fighters, except when he had a fighter who couldn't travel that way.

There are a lot of fighters who simply cannot bring themselves to throwing caution to the winds, and rushing the guns of the opposition. They like to fiddle their way in. It takes a "whoop-tee-do" fighter like Dempsey to follow out the Kearns plan.

Walker can do it. Walker isn't the tearing-in type of gladiator that Dempsey used to be, because Walker has a keener sense of boxing values. Walker is a pretty good boxer, and a far better counter puncher than the average ring worm suspects. But he can "wade" when called on, and "wade" very fast.

There is no doubt in my mind that Kearns will endeavor to take advantage of Schmeling's notoriously slow, phlegmatic manner of beginning, and have Walker try to smother the German with leather in the opening round. If he doesn't, Kearns isn't as crafty as I think. It is Walker's very best chance.

Schmeling is an exceptionally slow beginner. As a boxer, I consider him strictly a plodder. He doesn't vary his style at all. But once a plodder gets settled down to plodding he is a tough guy to lick. Tougher than a more versatile man, as any fighter will tell you.

Schmeling, left unhampered, picks up some speed from round to round. But in the main he doesn't greatly vary his gait—or at least he didn't in the Sharkey fight. It seems to me the way to beat him would be to throw him completely out of gear right off the reel. To try to flatten him before he gets his methodical mind adjusted.

I like a Schmeling style against mere boxers in a long fight. It is the old story of the tortoise and the hare. He overhauled Joe Sekyra and Young Stribling, both speedy sprinters, by sheer pertinacity. Once he overhauled them, he made it decisive. Against Sharkey, he spent too much time trying to prove he could be speedy and fancy himself. He lay neck-and-neck with Sharkey several times, but he wouldn't bull his way on past, even when he seemed to have Sharkey ready to give way, and let him go.

I understand that Schmeling has dropped all idea of being cute since the Sharkey fight, and has gone back to first principles. I doubt that he has the faculty of swapping styles with this facility, though his chance against Walker must lie in out-hitting Kearns' man.

I do not believe Schmeling can out-box Walker. I certainly would bet on Walker in a 10-round exhibition with big gloves. He is too experienced and too smart for Schmeling. He out-boxed Sharkey, and the result of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight tells us Sharkey out-boxed Schmeling.

You watch "the Rumson Bulldog" if it settles down to a boxing contest. Walker will out-score the German by a wide margin. In a slugging bee, it all depends on who connects first. If Schmeling can't take 'em around the body, as many experts contend, he is going to be a pretty sick young man in the early rounds.

On the other hand, if Schmeling can nail Walker on the chin with his right, I suspect Walker is going to be the surprised party. I have been telling him Schmeling is a good puncher with his right. Walker doesn't seem convinced. Therein lies his danger.

WINNER TO MEET SHARKEY

German Is Ranked As Favorite

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (AP)—A couple of old fashioned body-belters, little Mickey Walker and big Max Schmeling, close out the major open air heavyweight season tonight just in time for boxing to escape getting run over by the world series.

One more postponement of the kind that set the 15-round duel in Madison Square garden bowl back eight days would have dropped the match right into the start of the Cubs-Yankees struggle opening here Wednesday.

Double Attraction

As it is, the double sports attraction for the final week of September has injected new interest in the preliminary attraction, with the prospect that Walker and Schmeling will battle for the chance to lift Jack Sharkey's heavyweight crown next summer before a gallery of approximately $200,000 worth of customers.

Schmeling, with every physical advantage and five years younger than the courageous 31-year-old former king of the heavyweight and middleweight divisions, is a favorite ranging from even money upward to 3 to 1, depending upon whether the bettor fancied him by decision or knockout. Both completed training without mishap, Walker, weighing about 172 pounds and free of the boils that caused two postponements, while Schmeling, in perfect condition, will scale about 189.

Walker's Plans

For Walker, conceding weight, reach, hitting power, age and stamina, there seemed only the possibility of a rip-roaring onslaught that might sweep the plodding German into early defeat. Mickey intends to carry his fight from the start, to close quarters, working incessantly with one of the best left hooks in boxing.

The clouting teuton, a withering right-hand puncher, apparently has decided to accept the issue on that basis. He wound up his training at Speculator, N. Y., drilling on a right-hand smash to the body to counteract Walker's left hooks.

While it seems hardly possible that a warrior of Walker's size could overpower the former heavyweight champion, the wise men of the ring concede Mickey an even chance to outsmart and outbox Schmeling if he chooses to fence carefully and still has one good battle left in a system that has been long in the ring wars. But in addition to the fear that Walker has lost his "spark" is the danger that Mickey, always susceptible to cuts around the eyes, may become so damaged that the bout will be stopped.

No Broadcasts

So far there has been no progress made in stirring up arguments over possible referees, always a fruitful trick of ballyhoo.

Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager who was suspended for shouting into the radio that his athlete had been "robbed" after losing to Sharkey, posted a "preferred list" of referees with the New York State Athletic commission.

The commission stood up well under the implied rebuke, however, and announced that the referee would be named in the usual manner, tapped from among a group just before the fighters enter the ring.

There will be no broadcast of the bouts. The main event is scheduled for between 8:30 and 9 p. m. central standard time.

Clara Looks Ahead To Basket Ball Season

Special to The Record News.

CLARA, Texas, Sept. 25.—While most schools are in practice for the opening of football games Clara High school, noted for its basket ball achievements, is getting in readiness for the coming basket ball season. Inventory shows that they have 15 men eligible for play when the season starts. Out of this group there are about seven letter men from last year.

The volley ball team also looks like another championship aggregation with a number of the girls back who played on last year's county championship team.

STOCKS TAKING SAFER COURSE

Inclination to Doldrums Seen as Healthful

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Sept. 25. (US)—The most pleasing aspect of the market the past week was the inclination to slip into the doldrums. This, of course, excepts the violent upswing early in the week. Nevertheless, the uprush served only to accentuate the dullness preceding and following the one-day bull market.

Pricewise, the stocks have enjoyed a remarkable recovery from the levels which so popularly are described as the panic stage. The most common expression of the day is that share prices have recovered from the panic to the depression level. And there is a good deal of truth in the description.

All of which emphasizes that those who predicate their market operations on a prosperity basis are lacking in logic. Earnings have not yet returned to the larger corporations, even though many manage to show above their fixed charges and operating expenses. As a rule, industry remains in deep depression.

The flare-up in specific light lines of industry and trade to date has been purely seasonal in character; if it hadn't occurred, the state of business would be distressing. By the very duration of the depression, and the natural concurrent depletion of consuming supplies of goods, a moderate expansion of productive activity was necessitated.

It remains to be proven from now on that the upturn experiences will henceforth stretch into a broad upward movement gradually embracing industry after industry.

The most encouraging aspect of the situation has been the maintenance of gains already scored. Major problems, however, still remain to plague the prosperity-seekers. There is danger, for example, that the new spirit of optimism may discourage the corporation adjustments which were under way.

Downward readjustment of balance sheet values with simultaneous reduction in capital accounts may, by reason of the revived confidence, be delayed. Readjustment of plant capacity to actualities, allowing for reasonable expansion of demand, may also be halted, with the natural threat of a renewed unbalanced situation even with a moderate upturn.

Some corporation managements have sensed this danger and are proceeding with their plans for large-scale adjustments. Operating costs have been generally lowered, but unless a similar recognition of the facts is acted upon in other directions, such as balance sheet and capital markings, the benefits will not accrue to security-holders for a great many years.

It will be a situation similar to watering of capital. Especially will the benefits be delayed for equity-holders.

There has of late occurred a gradual lessening of the competitive political influence on the market. It is becoming more evident that no great threat of upsetting action is likely from either major party.

The dominant influence toward sobriety in reading the prospects, however, springs from the likelihood that following the election, the stimulus to revival will be at least temporarily delayed, either through the letdown by the self-succeeding administration, or by the readjustments essential if a new administration is elected.

The situation, therefore, again revolves solely around the business trend. To date, there has been a modest pickup, with retail trade more recently showing signs of life. The vast unemployment, however, belittles the exaggerated optimism of those who forecast nearby boom times.

Logic is all against any appreciable upturn, especially in the enormously-capitalized heavy industries which form so great a proportion of the nation's resources. Some lines already have emerged from the depression but the majority of lines still are struggling for improvement.

Major adjustments remain to be accomplished, as in the public utility rate structure. That these may be delayed for one reason or another means little to the longer-pull investor; they are, contrariwise, stimulating to the speculator.

Within the stock market, there has been ample proof of the greatly increased hope among security-holders. The hope that higher prices will be witnessed is the major influence in the price recoveries.

Offerings are held off the market in the hope that better prices will be available. This, in turn, affords an opportunity for speculative operations which bring about sudden and sharp price rallies. The market probably will continue to be ruled by such technical conditions.

DANIEL TALKS ON PIONEERS

Tribute to Early Leaders Paid by Bible Class

Loyalty to pioneers to their highest conceptions of duty was extolled by Roy J. Daniel, teacher of the Kay Bible class of the First Methodist church, in his talk Sunday morning.

"The most outstanding quality of the true pioneer is his loyalty," said Mr. Daniel. "His loyalty not only is to his friends, but to his ideals as well. Jesus Christ was a real pioneer in religion because He did things no man ever had dared do before Him."

Mr. Daniel's talk in part was as follows:

Pioneer Defined

"Webster in his dictionary defines a pioneer: 'One who goes before, preparing the way for others.' How fitting and appropriate it is to build the 80th birthday party of Wichita Falls around the old pioneer as the center and main theme! The pioneers came to this great part of Texas and truly prepared the way for us. Of those few who remain many are now feeble and are losing the sparkle of youth in their eyes. Perhaps their steps are becoming slower and more halting. Their shoulders are becoming stooped, and their hair gray with the passing of time. It is our duty and privilege—the duty and privilege of the younger generations—to do all in our power to make happy and pleasant with memories and with kindness the remaining years to be allotted to them. It is inspiring to see here in Wichita Falls the places of honor and responsibility held and handled by the sons and daughters of our old honored and loved pioneers.

"The glowing epic of our nation is the story of the pioneer. Who was Columbus but a man who pointed the way across the dark and stormy Atlantic westward to a new world? He was a pioneer in exploration and navigation. The settlers at Jamestown and those at Plymouth were English pioneers who brought to American shores the Anglo-Saxon civilization. Then the sons and daughters of those settlers became pioneers when they in turn adventured across the Alleghenies into the valley of the Ohio. It was in 1769 when James Robertson pioneered across the mountains from Virginia into the state of Tennessee, the mother state of Texas. It was in 1770 or thereabouts that Daniel Boone went through Cumberland Gap into the Blue Grass region of Kentucky. The news that he carried back about the great herds of wild game in that beautiful region brought many thousands from North Carolina and Virginia to fill the country with settlers. Then Boone pioneered on into Missouri where he died and was buried with the toes of his boots pointed toward the West.

"In 1821 Stephen F. Austin received permission from the Spanish government to bring 300 families into Texas, and thus Austin can be called the first Anglo-Saxon pioneer of Texas. The movement of pioneers has ever been westward until Texas is a great empire—a pride to us all and to the nation.

"What are the qualities exhibited by the pioneers which made them the great men and women they were? One quality is patriotism. The pioneer loved his country, and was ever ready to fight, and did fight, to protect and safeguard it. Another quality is self-denial. The pioneer knew how to deny self and help the other fellow more needy than he. Another quality is that of service. The pioneer sought to render service—unselfish service—at all times to his God and to his fellow men. The most outstanding quality and characteristic of the pioneer is his loyalty. He was loyal to his ideals and friends. A recalling of the qualities of the old pioneers will enable us to understand how they were able to conquer the new land, and the instilling of these same qualities into our lives will enable us to overcome the difficulties we have to face today.

In Religion

"Gandhi in India is a pioneer in matters of government when he can bring about a change in the election regulations of India to give the 'untouchables' a fair deal, by starving himself to death. He has done more for the people of India by his methods than he could have done by raising the red flag of revolution and spilling the human blood of thousands. The outside roar and confusion of the world does not disturb that little man because he has found peace in his heart by doing the will of God in the affairs of this world.

"Two pioneers in the religious things were Moses and the Christ. Moses broke away from the Egyptian court and suffered the afflictions of his people to become the pioneer who led them from bondage to the borderland of Canaan. He was the trail blazer who led them through the wanderings of the wilderness. He was a man who had peace in his heart because he obeyed the voice of God. The noise of the complaining children of Israel disturbed him not because of his inner calm.

"Christ became a real pioneer in religion because He did things no man ever did before. He went out among the people, preaching and teaching and healing their afflictions. His pioneer work was to found the Christian faith, making it possible for man to again come to know God personally. He it was who said that though our sins be as scarlet they can be made white as snow. Obeying the voice of God brings to us peace of heart, whereas obeying the voice of the world enables us to get along with the forces of the world but our hearts are never at peace. Let us make the wise choice—find the peace of the human heart and be not disturbed by the world."

Shouldn't Forget

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—George Volkhart has found it does not pay to be forgetful. He went to Greensburg to work. His wife, moved by solicitude, called his boarding house on the phone. "He just stepped out with his wife," a voice answered. After the shock Mrs. Volkhart investigated, found he had another wife, and had him arrested.

Nation Needs New Faith To Match That Of Pioneers, Martin Says

World Must Have Christian Service and Leadership, Kay Bible Class Told

"Builders of our city, and of other cities, possessed a faith which knew no such thing as failure, but we need a new faith today—a faith that will enable us to go forward preserving that which has been built," asserted Judge P. A. Martin before members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning.

"Social conditions in our country today call for the most consecrated type of Christian leadership and service," the speaker continued. "The average man or woman of the church knows scarcely anything of the abject misery and sin surrounding us. 'The field is white to the harvest, but the laborers are few.'"

Inspired Leadership

Extolling the leadership afforded the Jews in the person of Moses, Judge Martin declared emphatically the need of an inspired leadership today which will "purify the hearts and consciences of men."

His address in part was as follows:

"We need all kinds of leadership; international leadership to keep peace among the nations; financial leadership, to restore general confidence and trade; political leadership national and state to protect the rights and liberties properly belonging to the citizens; social leadership to restore the social order and keep it clean and pure; moral leadership to enforce the right and prevent the wrong—but above all we need consecrated religious leadership to restore the faith of the fathers and purify the hearts and consciences of men.

"In common with all thinking men, for the past two years or more I have been earnestly and honestly asking the 'why' of conditions as they are in this old world. I have watched the multitudes and have seen them 'scattered abroad as sheep having no shepherd.' I have witnessed the steady flow of a tide of crime and poverty and misery in our own loved country, a tide that seems to have no ebb. I have seen the light of faith and hope fading away on the faces of childhood and old age alike, not only in the prisoners dock, but on the streets and in the homes of the land. I have seen gaunt hunger sitting upon the lips and shining in the eyes of hopeless men and women, sometimes it was physical hunger which ordinary human charity could easily satisfy, at least temporarily, but more often it was a heart hunger that nothing but a living faith in God could relieve. Truly there is a plenteous harvest 'but the laborers are few.'

"The restless thousands of people who are wandering up and down in the world seeking employment when there is none, the boys and girls hitch-hiking on the highways; the broken homes of the people all present a social problem calling for the most consecrated Christian leadership. The average man and woman of the church of God scarcely see or know anything about the depth of human misery and sin round about them. Some are busy, it is true; some are doing all they can to alleviate human suffering; but it is a fact that the number of interested workers is entirely inadequate all over the land.

City of Faith

"The need of the hour is faith, a faith in God and a faith in our fellowmen, as well as a faith in our country and its institutions. We are living in a city called the city 'that faith built' and it deserves the name. The builders of it came here with a faith that knew no such thing as ultimate failure. They had a faith that neither flood nor famine, drouth nor panic could repress. They went right on building and planning through prosperity or poverty making a community in which it is a privilege to live. In these days of living faith in the invisible future of our city, we built our schools and our churches, paved our streets and highways, looking always to the future for reward. We were then thoroughly consecrated to the work of building a civilization here where men and women could be independent and happy.

"And now we are called upon to exercise a faith in its future that will enable us to go forward and preserve the things we have.

"A consecrated leadership is needed in the financial world to teach the world the proper relationship between wealth and poverty, labor and capital and the proper application of the necessary influences to bring us out of the wilderness of doubt and fear in which we are now groping.

"And a consecrated Christian leadership is needed sorely in the political world, a leadership which will place in office men who look to the interest of humanity rather than to the gratification of personal ambition and men who will conduct political campaigns upon the high plane of honor and integrity and deliver us all from the unspeakable low and vicious campaigns of personal abuse and criticism now in vogue.

"The application of the principles of Christianity in all the different problems and phases of human life is needed. The field is white to the harvest and the clear call comes to all 'who will go and work.'"

PIONEER BUILDERS HONORED IN WICHITA CHURCH SERVICES

SUNDAY RITES DRAW CROWDS

McKenney Tells Romantic History of City

Wichita Falls' celebration of the 50th anniversary of its founding in 1882 provided a predominant theme in many local churches in Sunday morning's services, pastors devoting their sermons to pioneers and community growth and congregations reflecting both in personnel and costume the renewal of early life here.

At the First Methodist church, celebration of the congregation's fourth year in the new cathedral at Tenth and Travis streets was combined with observance of the city's golden jubilee. Taking for his text the verse, "Come, and let us build up the wall of Jerusalem; and they said, 'Let us rise up and build,'" from the book of Nehemiah, Dr. S. S. McKenney, the pastor, proclaimed the significance of such anniversaries.

After citing the accomplishment of Nehemiah in rebuilding the city of Jerusalem, Dr. McKenney said:

Two Anniversaries

"Today we celebrate two events of deep significance in this community: the 50th anniversary of our city and the fourth anniversary of our new church building. This week our city will be commemorating with an elaborate program, and with thousands of visitors, its golden jubilee. Tonight, all the churches of our city are to open the occasion with appropriate union religious services in our municipal auditorium, and these exercises are to be continued for the next several days, with the entire city and all the denominations, Jewish, Catholic and Evangelical, participating.

"The history of our city reads like romance. Fifty years ago we had nothing here but the wide-stretching spaces and barren plains of this North Texas territory. The first permanent white citizen settled here in 1879. The first railroad came in 1882, and the city was incorporated four years later. Its growth was rapid. From this small beginning it grew to a population of 2,400 by 1900, 8,200 in 1910, 40,079 in 1920 and 43,690 in 1930. Meantime, we had passed through, and successfully survived a mighty oil boom, and settled down into one of the richest and most progressive cities of the Lone Star state, or of the nation."

The speaker followed with a graphic survey of the factors which make of Wichita Falls today one of the outstanding cities of the Southwest. He numerated the public parks, buildings and schools; spoke of its newspapers and industrial institutions; outlined its system of street and highway service; and commended its equipment of churches.

First Mission in 1881

Dr. McKenney also outlined the growth of Methodism in this area, reviewing its growth from the opening of the first mission here in 1881 to the present membership of 2,900 persons. He continued:

"Yet, like the city of Jerusalem and the temple therein, our city and church have come upon trying times. But 'The City That Faith Built' still has her face toward the future. And as the walls of the Holy City were rebuilt in the days of Nehemiah, so we are being challenged to build a greater Wichita Falls. The spirit that made us in the beginning can remake us. We had men of vision and genius then who put their lives and fortunes into their city and church, and we have among us many of their worthy successors today. May heaven multiply their number! We must put down distrust and despondency, depression and discouragement. Languishing and complaining must pass from amongst us. A new day and a new spirit must come upon our people. We must build again the walls of faith and hope, courage and confidence, service and cooperation. We have never been embarrassed except by our previous prosperity. As in the days of the prophet, we should return 'every one unto his work' and build 'every one over against his house.' To this call, may every citizen and churchman answer as did the Jerusalem Jews of the long ago: 'Let us rise up and build!'"

Walter D. Cline, head of the 50th anniversary association, also spoke briefly at the First Methodist church, declaring the property and significance of the jubilee which opens Monday morning.

Christian Services

At the First Christian church, a special service prepared for the community's pioneers attracted a congregation which filled the auditorium to overflowing, and it was estimated that at least 1,000 persons were turned away for lack of seating room. Dr. H. T. Wood, pastor, spoke on "Pioneers of Faith." Hundreds of old-timers were included in the throngs which attended the service, as well as numerous city and county officials.

J. C. Ward, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Ben Williams and Judge R. E. Huff, a quartet of pioneers whose years in Wichita Falls exceed a half-century each, were honored guests. An old-fashioned reed organ, played by Mrs. R. E. Strange, was used in the musical service. A large group of visiting Comanche Indians, and a number of Fort Sill troopers, were included in the gathering. Old time costumes were predominant in the congregation.

At the First Evangelical church, Rev. H. C. Hoesch, pastor, devoted his sermon to eulogies of the pioneer spirit, and the young peoples' groups were attired in the raiment of 50 years ago.

Rev. W. D. Powell, a veteran Baptist missionary pastor in this part of Texas, spoke Sunday morning at the First Baptist church, celebrating not only the gathering of pioneers, but also his own 58th anniversary of entrance upon the Baptist ministry.

Rally day was observed at the Floral Heights Methodist church in connection with that congregation's observance of the city's golden jubilee. An unusually large attendance at Sunday school was addressed by J. C. Hunt and Arthur G. Howard, both pioneers of Wichita Falls. Mrs. G. W. Barker and Miss Viola Grace Doern, in quaint feminine costumes of the olden days, presented a localized version of "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet."

In the 11 o'clock service in the same church, many early settlers were present, among them George B. Ancell of Electra. Mr. Ancell was a close friend of the father of Rev. Finis Crutchfield, pastor. The older Crutchfield was one of the earliest Methodist workers in this section, having organized the first mission at Antelope, at Archer City, at Sunshine Hill, and was once pastor of the Methodist church at Iowa Park. Rev. Crutchfield's sermon was on the progress of the Methodist church, and other Christian churches, in this part of the state.

First Public Service in '79

At the Church of the Good Shepherd, Episcopal, Rev. W. D. Bratton declared that the first religious service conducted publicly in Wichita Falls was held in 1879 by the Right Reverend Alex C. Garrett, late bishop of the northern Texas diocese, who died several years ago in Dallas at a greatly advanced age.

Rev. Bratton also gave a history of the growth of the local parish, reviving its experience as a mission church until 1913 when it was made a parish. He called the roll of early members, and named the ministers who served here during the earlier years.

The present rector eulogized the work of the late Dr. Fred T. Dotson, who built the present church and parish house of the congregation.

At the Highland Heights Christian church, Rev. J. E. Montgomery also devoted his sermon to the pioneer theme. In lesser measure, the predominant jubilee note of the city was evidenced in the services of other churches in the city.

These Four Have Resided In Wichita Falls Continuously For More Than Fifty Years

In the above group are four Wichita Falls citizens who were here when the first train arrived and the town lot auction was held on Sept. 27, 1882. They have been residents of Wichita Falls continuously since and are believed to be the only surviving citizens who have lived here continuously during the 50 years.

Seated is Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, formerly Miss Lulu Barwise and daughter of J. H. Barwise Sr.

Melodies Of Past Bring Mists To Eyes Of Pioneers At Vesper Rites

Mrs. A. H. Carrigan and Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr. in Beautiful Program at First Methodist Church

Events of 50 years are always somewhat veiled in mist, but when Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, dressed in a quaint and lovely gown, played and sang "Lead Me Gently Oh, My Father," to the soft and sweet chords of the little red organ which her father gave her on her sixth birthday in 1872, there was a mist of tears over many eyes and lumps in throats of many of her hearers at the First Methodist church Sunday afternoon.

The vesper hour service was a touching hour. Rev. S. S. McKenney gave the invocation and presented Mrs. Carrigan and Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., who is organist at the First Methodist church. Mrs. Carrigan gave a short story of her organ, telling in poignantly sweet words what it had represented in her home. It made its first trip on the Mississippi river and was landed in St. Charles county, Missouri, where she lived. Two of her older brothers brought it to her.

Organ Comes to Texas

"My father loved and could read music," she said, "and promised me a trip to St. Louis for the first tune I learned." In this way she had a trip to the St. Louis fair.

She told the saga of her family's wandering; how her father decided to move to Texas and how happy she was that the organ was not left behind. It served the purpose of church organ for three years in Oaklawn. "There was no Presbyterian church then," Mrs. Carrigan said, "and we were all good Methodists." Again like the children of Israel, as she quaintly expressed it, her father decided the family should move westward, so in 1880, the organ was placed on a wagon and made the long 12 days trip through mud and water to Wichita Falls, no household goods receiving such care. Then she told of the love of the cowboys for music and spoke of the manner in which her father would bring them in to hear her play. "They were so respectful," she said. "They would take off their hats when I sat down to play. This little organ knows no jazz," she stated. "I tried to think the other day what cowboys music I could play and the only tune I could remember was 'Oh father, dear, father, come home to me now.' As to singing, I only sang because I liked to sing; I was a filler in." Then in her very rich and beautiful speaking voice, Mrs. Carrigan sang a hymn that her audience will never forget with her face lifted as she sang.

Reuters Organ

Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., who has been an organist since she was 9 years old gave a program of melodies on the great instrument in the church that proved her complete master of her vehicle, not only in technique, but in spiritual and talented interpretation.

The volume shown in the opening number, "Auld Lang Syne," given to bridge the 50 years marking the jubilee, was almost astounding after the sweet frail notes of Mrs. Carrigan's little organ. But "In Chapel Walls," (Hoeck), exquisite modulation was shown. Frysinger's "Scherzo Symphonique" was her next number, one that was triumphantly beautiful.

Mrs. Carrigan announced that Mrs. Akin had prepared a group of old numbers "for those of us who were also here yesterday," and in this group, "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "Swanee River," and "Loves Old Sweet Song," appealed to not only the old but to the young. Many handkerchiefs touched eyes during their rendition.

Concluding the sweet old numbers, Mrs. Stanley M. Raub sang, "The Last Rose of Summer," with Mr. Raub accompanying on the violin, Mrs. Lucille Brooks Huff at the piano and Mrs. Akin at the organ. It was a number that might be termed delicious.

Mrs. Akin's closing number was "The American Rhapsody," (Pietro Yon), which brought the audience to their feet, in its concluding phrase "Star Spangled Banner."

Dr. McKenney pronounced the invocation dismissing a large audience.

300-YEAR-OLD CLOCK SHOWN

Estes Family Came Here In Early Days

A clock which has been in possession of his ancestors more than 300 years has been contributed to the historical exhibits of the golden jubilee by Linton H. Estes. The clock was brought from Scotland to Wisconsin in 1853 and to Wichita county in 1875 by David Craig, Mr. Estes' grandfather.

Among First Settlers

David Craig and family were among the first settlers in this section. Mr. Estes' father, Joe H. Estes, and his mother, Elizabeth Craig, were married in Wichita county before the county was organized. The marriage license was procured at Henrietta. They lived at the corner of Tenth street and Lamar avenue where the Marchman hotel now stands.

In 1878, a year or so before his marriage, Joe Estes and his brother, Fred, narrowly escaped being killed by Indians when a companion, Joe Earl, was killed and scalped.

The Estes brothers, then living in Henrietta, decided to go to Leadville, Colo., drawn by the gold excitement there. They rigged up a two-horse wagon to make the trip. Near where Harrold is now located they overtook Earl who was on horseback. The three decided to travel together for company and protection. They camped the first night at Doan's store and about noon the next day stopped to rest east of where Quanah is now located. Earl had lariat tied his saddle horse and the Estes brothers had unharnessed their team and all were resting. Earl was some distance off on lower ground watching his horse graze. Suddenly a band of Kiowa Indians headed by Chief Sun Bow dashed up to the wagon, but noticing Earl and his horse off at some distance from the wagon where the Estes brothers were resting, they rushed down on him and killed him as he did not have time to defend himself.

Indians Kill Companion

The Estes brothers gained time while the Indians were killing Earl to reach their horses and flee. The Estes brothers outdistanced the Indians and escaped.

The Indians poured kerosene oil over the dead body of Earl and burned it to a crisp.

The next day cowboys from the Worsham ranch buried the body of Earl and the place where he was buried later became the cemetery at Quanah.

Fred Estes later became the sheriff of Childress county and died some years ago on the Pacific coast.

Joe Estes, father of Linton Estes of this city, died a few years ago at Corpus Christi.

INJURED IN FALL

Miss Bessie Lakey received painful head injuries when she slipped and fell early Sunday night at the Hearn hotel. It was said she lost her footing on a step as she descended a stairway. Tracks In Mud Aid Burk Officers In Arresting Suspects

Two men were lodged in the county jail here late Sunday following their arrest earlier in the day in connection with the burglary of a home at Sunshine Hill, near Burkburnett.

A chain hoist, valued at more than $100, and a quantity of clothing were taken from the home Saturday night. Bill Garland, chief of police at Burkburnett, and "Dad" Saunders, constable, arrested the two men after following tracks in the mud from the scene of the burglary.

Deputy Sheriffs Ben Howle and H. L. White transferred the pair Sunday afternoon from Burkburnett to the county jail here. Charges probably will be filed Monday.

JUBILEE QUIET FOR OFFICERS

Minor Hijacking Headlines Crime News

Law and order prevailed among jubilee crowds Sunday and police, despite their big hats and gaudy handkerchiefs, found scant opportunity to do more than direct traffic and join in the celebration.

Two white youths turned wild west in Wichita Falls Sunday morning at 1 o'clock and took a total of 30 cents with their firearms in hijacking Tom Anderson, negro, 710 Jalonic, near his home. The negro required more than five minutes to report the incident to police by telephone, having difficulty in controlling "jumpy" nerves.

Harper Denton, 612 Jalonic, told police Sunday that three negro women took $3 and a purse in hijacking him near his home late Saturday night.

Nine negroes were herded into police station late Sunday afternoon after officers had raided a dice game in the residential part of the city. Several of the gamesters were released on bond while the others were held in jail pending the hearing of their cases in corporate court Monday.

The negroes were engaged in a "cent a shot" game when officers walked in. Their funds ranged from 3 cents to $1.75.

USCC Demands End of Government Competition

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (US)—Demand that the government abandon all business activities competitive with private industry was made today in a report by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

At the same time it was learned the Shannon congressional committee is preparing recommendations to abolish many lines of alleged government competition with private business. The committee, which has been investigating the subject for weeks, will resume hearings Nov. 14 and 15 in Chicago to hear protests from the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Glad He Smoked

HOUSTON.—Gabriel Fransee, 16, is glad he smokes, even though he is only 16 years old. When he was going to his garage for the family car some one shot a pistol. The bullet struck a tobacco can in Francee's pocket, stopping when it struck the can.
