Nationwide Tieup Seen In Dockworkers Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — A new strike by 60,000 dock workers in ports from Maine to Texas at midnight Sunday appeared almost certain Saturday in the wake of a contract rejection vote by longshoremen here.

The uneasy peace was shattered along the waterfronts of the Atlantic and Gulf coasts in a surprising development Friday night.

Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said he was a "little disappointed" by the New York vote of 8,354 to 7,792 to reject a four-year contract recommended by union leaders. The margin of defeat was 562 votes.

The New York longshoremen always have set the pattern for dock workers in other ports and there is an unbroken tradition that if one local strikes, all locals go out.

Gleason scheduled a meeting today of the 23-man executive council of the union "to decide what my position will be" and prepared to formally notify the shipping association of the rejection vote.

In Baltimore, the Sun reported that Gleason Friday night had already sent telegrams to the ILA vice presidents setting up directions for the walkout at 12:01 a.m. Monday.

The federal government has exhausted strike-delaying machinery, such as an 80-day cooling off period as provided in the Taft-Hartley Act. That was used when the union struck East and Gulf coast ports Oct. 1 during negotiations.

James J. Reynolds, assistant secretary of labor who has been working as a mediator for several months, termed the New York rejection "unfortunate." He said the situation is "extremely serious" and that a strike is "distinctly possible."

Shippers have estimated that a strike would cost the nation $25 million a day. It also could cripple the economy if it lasts for a significant period.

The proposed contract provided for a guaranteed annual wage, an hourly increase of 80 cents in wages and benefits over four years, and $175-a-month pensions.

The agreement also called for a reduction in the size of work gangs from 20 men to 18 on April 1, 1966. This is believed to have been the item that brought rejection.

The shippers estimate that the last dock strike, which lasted for 34 days from December 1962 to January 1963, cost between $800 million to $1 billion.

See-Saw Viet Rule Returns To Civilians

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Vietnamese armed forces agreed today to end their three weeks of military rule and restore governmental authority to the civilians.

A five-point communique said Chief of State Phan Khac Suu would be given legislative powers. It did not agree to reinstate the High National Council, dissolved by a group of young generals in their Dec. 20 purge.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the agreement did not represent "everything we think ideal," but comes close enough to make it possible for the United States to deal with the new government.

Restoration of the council, with legislative powers, has been sought by American authorities.

Renewed talks on increased American aid for the fight against the Communists, suspended since Dec. 20, were expected as soon as terms of the communique are placed in effect.

Lt. Gen. Nguyen Khanh, commander in chief of the armed forces, signed the communique with Su... Premier Tran Van Huong and two deputy prime ministers.

The civilian government will be charged with "organizing a national assembly, probably with a direct vote in the cities and an indirect vote in the countryside," the communique said.

It added that the seven members of the high national council arrested in the purge will be released immediately.

It did not mention whether other politicians and students arrested in the same purge would be released.

The action appeared to have ended, at least for the present, South Viet Nam's three-week-old political crisis.

Renewed talks on increased American aid, suspended since Dec. 20, were expected soon.

The communique followed a meeting that extended through most of Friday night at a seaside resort involving Huong, Khanh, and most of his generals.

Khanh and Deputy U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson met this afternoon at Khanh's residence. It was the first time either Johnson or Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor had conferred with Khanh since the crisis began.

Tickets For Banquet To Go On Sale

A Snyder Chamber of Commerce ticket sales committee will begin its work Monday distributing tickets for the chamber's annual banquet scheduled for Friday night.

Bud England, chairman of the ticket panel, has called a meeting for 10:30 a.m. Monday at the chamber office. Following a coffee session at the office, the group will begin selling tickets for the event.

The banquet will be held in the Snyder High School Cafeteria, and the tickets are priced at $2.50 each.

Preston Smith, Lieutenant Governor of Texas, will be the banquet speaker.

New officers and directors of the Chamber of Commerce will be recognized during the banquet program. Another highlight of the program will be the presentation of the "Outstanding Citizen's Award."

27,000 Bale Cotton Crop Is Expected

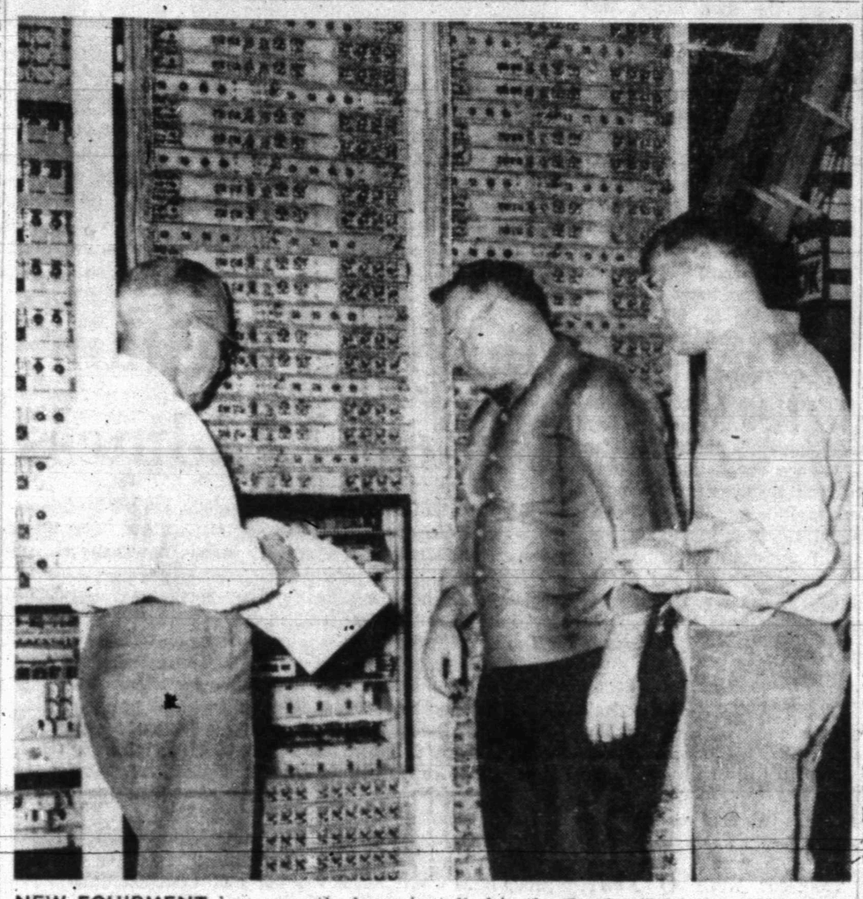

The area cotton crop approached 25,000 bales Saturday morning as reports were received from eight of the nine gins in Scurry County.

With the harvest at least 95 per cent complete, 24,311 were reported ginned, and the Fluvanna gin, from which no report was available, probably has ginned well in excess of 1,000 bales. It now appears that the final count in the county will be in the neighborhood of 27,000 bales, or somewhat higher than was estimated when the ginning season started.

Humid weather kept the cotton harvesting at a slow pace last week, and had the weather been cold and dry, it is believed the harvest would have been virtually complete by this weekend.

Gins, and their reported totals, are as follows:

Paymaster, 6,120; Co - op, 4,976; China Grove, 4,245; Inadale, 5,135; Hermleigh, 721; Dunn, 811; Ira, 1,261; and Planters in Snyder, 1,056.

NEW EQUIPMENT has recently been installed in the Snyder Telephone Company plant to further up-grade the service here. Also installed was an electronic tester, and some of the repeater, or amplifier, equipment has been transistorized. Western Electric employes are shown during installation of new toll equipment. They are C. L. Brewer of Lubbock, Western Electric supervisor, and R. L. Christian and M. E. Nelson, both of Dallas, installers.

Electronic Testing Aids In Better Telephone Service

Did you ever dial a wrong number?

Of course, you say — who didn't?

An interesting fact is that maybe once in a while, you didn't really dial that number wrongly.

We're so accustomed to telephone equipment working properly that most folks figure that they made the mistake — not the dial equipment. And that's what the Telephone Company wants.

They want to provide the best possible service they can, and leave the mistakes that are to be made up to the customer.

In order to do this, equipment and service are constantly being up - dated and improved. In the past few weeks, the Snyder plant has been the recipient of hundreds and hundreds of dollars worth of equipment, all installed so that the customers' telephone calls will go through like they've come to expect them to.

The new equipment was provided and installed by technicians of the Western Electric Company — the manufacturing branch of American Telephone and Telegraph.

Perhaps the most interesting piece of new equipment is known as a 'LIT frame." "LIT" means Line Installation Test, and that's exactly what it does. It tests each subscribers line to see that there is no malfunction.

It is an electronic tester which is capable of testing 4,800 telephone lines per hour without actually using the line or ringing the telephone. Such possible troubles as shorts in the line are spotted.

But it does no good for the test equipment to find the trouble if it can't tell somebody about it. But the LIT frame is smart — it can do that too.

Normally the tester is set to run its tests starting about 5 o'clock in the morning. It finishes before 7:30 when the line chief comes to work. When he gets to the office he finds that the tester has a few possible trouble spots, and has made a list of them for him.

Typed out on a teletype machine are the numbers it has found that might cause trouble. Further, it tells, by use of code numbers, which of four possible troubles it has diagnosed.

By 8 a.m., repair tickets are ready for the repairmen. They check the troubles out and repair the troubles, most times before the customer ever knows anything about it. And actually, the trouble did not mean that the telephone was not operating — it just wasn't operating as well as the company felt it should.

That's the normal procedure. But the LIT frame can be used any time it's needed. For instance, if freezing rain starts to fall, the tester is started, and the telephone company will probably know about broken lines before the customer does.

Telephone company personnel call their LIT frame a tool — another means of providing the best service that they know how.

The type of testing that the electronic teser does used to be done by hand, and was usually done during periods of wet weather. Dampness in a cable causes trouble.

But trouble caused by damp-

May Be The End Of Neighborly Friendship

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Weir Williams pulled his car into what he thought was his driveway Friday, only to find a car already parked there.

Then his accelerator stuck and his car rammed into the parked vehicle, which was propelled through the rear wall of the garage.

Then the roof of the garage fell in.

And only then did Williams find that he had pulled into the driveway of a neighbor.

SNYDER AREA OIL

New wildcats have been staked in Stonewall and Mitchell Counties and a dual discovery has been filed for Kent County to highlight the Scurry Area oil activity report for the past week.

Fourteen and ½ miles southwest of Aspermont in Stonewall County, Lauderdale & Straughan Drilling Co. of Abilene staked No. 1-A B. B. Smith, a 4,250-foot lower Hope lime prospector.

It is 3½ miles northwest of the Double Mountain (Canyon reef) pool and spots 660 feet from south and west lines of section 353, block 2, H&TC survey.

D. M. Norman of Midland No. 1 W. B. Swink is to be a 5,700-foot Canyon explorer in Stonewall, two miles northeast of Aspermont.

It is ⅝ mile southwest of the Ellenburger oil discovery in the Upshaw field and spots 467 feet from north and 2,148 feet from west lines of section 97, block D, H&TC survey.

Midland Operating Co. of Midland No. 1 Brennand is to be a 3,300-foot Clear Fork wildcat in Mitchell County, six miles northwest of Westbrook.

Site is 2,213 feet from south and 877 feet from west lines of section 3, block 28, T-1-N, T&P survey. Drillsite is on the northwest edge of the Westbrook (Clear Fork) pool but separated from all production by dry holes.

Texaco Inc. has completed a dual San Andres and Strawn discovery in Kent County, 17 miles southwest of Clairemont at the No. 1 D. P. Strayhorn.

Strawn perforations at 7,403-538 feet pumped nine barrels of 35.3-gravity oil plus 220 barrels of water on the 24 - hour potential test with gas-oil ratio too small to measure. The formation had been treated with 2,500 gallons of acid.

The San Andres was completed earlier from perfotations at 2,386-96 feet for a daily pumping yeild of 19 barrels of 33.5-gravity oil plus 141 barrels of water. That pay also had been stimulated with 2,500 gallons of acid and gas-oil ratio was nil.

Location is three miles southeast of the Polar multipay field, 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 22, block 5, H&GN survey.

F. W. Holbrook and R. Brennand Jr. of Midland plan to continue drilling in No. 1 Witt Hines, a Mitchell County wildcat, to 4,500 feet to explore the Clear Fork.

The prospector, orignally contracted to 4,000 feet as a Wichita - Albany test, had reached 3,940 feet at latest report and was drilling deeper.

The location is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 24, block 29, T-1-S, T&P survey and six miles southwest of Westbrook, 1½ miles southeast of the Mause (Clear Fork) pool.

Ice Slows Travel In North Texas

AUSTIN (AP)—Highway Department crews began sanding and salting bridges and roads today in West and North Texas and the Panhandle to reduce driving hazards brought by sleet and snow.

Seven inches of snow poured down on Pampa in the upper Texas Panhandle before noon Saturday as bad weather struck most of the state.

Lesser snows fell in other portions of the Panhandle, and freezing rain occurred along portions of the Red River Valley in North Texas.

The snow, described as "hard and steady," began falling at Pampa before dawn.

But the Weather Bureau said the storm system was moving east and the snow was expected to stop.

Rains, sometimes heavy, fell ahead of the freezing line, with 2.71 inches recorded at Whitehouse.

Childress District conditions were worst in Dorley County. Hazardous driving is expected to continue until Sunday. Lesser icing is reported in Wheeler, Motley and Dickins counties.

Driving in the Amarillo District south of the Canadian River were expected to improve during the day, which began with two to three inches of snow in the area.

Snow up to 3 inches fell in the Panhandle Saturday, freezing rain occurred in parts of the Red River Valley, rains of almost 3 inches were recorded and temperaturs dropped sharply almost everywhere in Texas.

The bad weather, ending two weeks of warmth, was a fringe result of severe weather farther north.

Pampa recorded from 2 to 3 inches of snow, Bushland 1 inch, Amarillo 2 inches, and Borger and Perryton .50 inch.

A freezing rain and sleet warning was issued for eastern Oklahoma.

Violent Snowstorms Hit Northern Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Violent snowstorms and 60 mile per hour winds struck northern Japan Friday and today causing widespread damage to fishing boats and communications.

Police on Hokkaido Island reported 40 boats sunk or washed away by high waves and 58 others damaged. One person was reported missing. The storm collapsed 38 houses and 146 were flooded.

In Aomori, the northernmost prefecture on the main Honshu Island, police said 366 boats capsized or were damaged by waves and 600 homes were flooded.

WEATHER

SNYDER TEMPERATURES: High Friday 73 degrees; low, 29 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Saturday 29 degrees. Trace of sleet.

Northeast Texas: Mostly cloudy and colder today and tonight. Occasional showers ending from west tonight. Occasional freezing rain in extreme north tonight. Partly cloudy Sunday. Colder in southeast half, not quite so cold in northwest. Low tonight 24 to 34. High Sunday 38 to 46.

Northwest Texas: Gradual clearing and colder today. Clear to partly cloudy tonight and Sunday. Colder tonight, not so cold Sunday. Low tonight 12 in north to 24 in south. High Sunday 32 in north to 48 in south.

Southeast Texas: Mostly cloudy and colder today and tonight with showers over about 40 per cent of the area. Partly cloudy and a little colder Sunday. Low tonight 34 to 44. High Sunday 52 to 62.

Southwest Texas: Clear to partly cloudy today and Sunday. Much colder today and tonight with a hard freeze in north tonight. Low tonight 22 to 32 in north, 30 to 38 in south. High Sunday 45 in north to 65 in south.

FIVE HATS IN RING

Field Grows In Speakers Race

By JACK KEEVER

AUSTIN (AP)—The speaker's race in the Texas House of Representatives was beginning to bulge today.

Five representatives definitely want the job, another says he's willing if House members want him, and several others may enter the crowded field.

The talking stops and the voting begins Tuesday when the 59th Legislature goes into session.

A rush for the top political job in the House began Friday after Speaker Byron Tunnell accepted an appointment to the Texas Railroad Commission. He replaces Ernest O. Thompson, who resigned.

Newsmen had hardly left the governor's office, where Tunnell's appointment was announced, when Rep. Henry Grover of Houston said he was "in the race till the end" for the speakership.

Capitol newsroom doors almost revolved as three other candidates jumped into the race.

Rep. Ben Barnes of DeLeon, a close friend of Tunnell, made his announcement for reporters and television cameramen, stating he already had enough pledges to guarantee election—a simple majority.

Reps. Paul Haring of Goliad and Jack Woods of Waco followed Barnes in making public their own bids, and from Fort Worth came word that Rep. George Richardson also was in the race.

Rep. Wilson Foreman of Austin said he was a "possible" candidate, available for a draft.

Political observers said Reps. Reed Quilliam Jr. of Lubbock and John Alaniz of San Antonio, should be watched for similar announcements.

Woods said he expected up to a dozen candidates but only four or five would gather any votes next week.

All the candidates began work immediately — by telephone, telegram and personal contact to tie up pledges before the voting begins.

No others claimed anything near the support Barnes said he had. Woods said, however, that Barnes "may be surprised at how many votes he actually has," meaning the race wasn't over yet.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I sent out R. S. V. P. invitations to my daughter's wedding, which included the ceremony, reception and dinner. I received a telephone call from one of the invited guests (not a relative) who said that she and her husband couldn't attend because they were going to be out of own, but she was sending her teen-aged daughter and the girl's boy friend to "represent the family." She said it was considered proper because she read where the President and Mrs. Johnson couldn't attend the wedding of the King of Greece, so they sent their daughter to "represent" them. I didn't know what else to say, so I said, "Your daughter and her boy friend will be very welcome." Would you please tell me if this is really proper?

BRIDE'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Wedding invitations (or any personal invitation, for that matter) are NOT transferable. The heads of state, however, abide by different rules. When a President or King is unable to accept an invitation, it is customary to send someone to represent his country. You got a royal rooking.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am 37, have two children, 11 and 15, and have been divorced for nine years. I met a man who was 38 and good-looking. He said he was single. I fell awfully hard for him. He gave me gifts and money, and we talked of marriage, but something always came up to delay it.

In October, I found out I was pregnant. When I told him, he said he would marry me. I called the place where he rooms and a woman answered the phone. She said she was his WIFE. I almost fainted. I told her who I was, and she said she felt "sorry" for me.

When I told my boy friend everything, he said the woman on the phone calls herself his "wife" but they aren't really married. It's more like a common law arrangement. Can a man with a common law wife take a legal wife? I don't want to be mixed up with bigamy. Where does all this leave me?

TOO DUMB FOR WORDS

DEAR DUMB: It leaves you with approximately 200,000 other trusting souls, who, in 1964, bore illegitimate babies. Ask a lawyer if your state recognizes common law marrieges. And if you want the name of a Home for Unwed Mothers, send me your name and address and I will help you.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Everytime I go to the bakery for doughnuts, the clerk uses a small piece of waxed paper to pick up the doughnuts and put them in a sack. I assume this is because she also handles money and does not want to transfer the germs from the money to the doughnuts. So far this is just fine. But then she stuffs the waxed paper, which is full of germs into the sack on top of the doughnuts, closes the sack and gives me the doughnuts, germs and all. While I am carrying the sack home, the germs are finding their way to my doughnuts. What must we do to get the bakeries to KEEP the waxed paper with all the germs on it and give us the doughnuts only?

ANTISEPTIC MALE IN OHIO

DEAR MALE: The next time you buy doughnuts, TELL the clerk please to keep the waxed paper. It's all right to be "germ-conscious," but if you knew how many times daily you are vulnerable to billions of "germs" you would stay in bed.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have gone with this man for seven years and I am very much in love with him. He is much older than I, but we always have a marvelous time together. My problem is, he never mentions marriage. He is a Mamma's boy, and I am sure he is waiting for his mother to pass on before he will marry. I don't know whether I should bring up the subject of marriage or should I dump him?

LONGING

DEAR LONGING: You don't say how old you are, or how old HE is, but if you are between 25 and 35, I say dump him. The longest wait in the world is waiting for someone to die.

TWO CHECKS—Gerald Pullig, Snyder Jaycee treasurer, hands Woody Forrester, Chamber of Commerce manager, one check for $150 to help defray the costs incurred in bringing the football play-off games to Snyder. The check represents a large part of the profit the club made on the concessions. The club felt that those who gain from the play-offs should help with the costs, and not get a "free ride." The other check is for $10 and will be applied to a fund being raised to help the Southwest Texas State College band go to the inauguration in Washington Dec. 20. Bob Covey of Snyder, is a member of the band, and the school has asked for help from home towns. Several donations have been received by the chamber, and high school students are also helping raise the requested $120.

177 Wells Completed First Week Of '65

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission said Saturday 177 oil wells were completed in the first week of 1965, compared to 176 in 1964.

There were 59 gas wells and 103 dry holes.

Sixteen oil wildcats were reported along with 51 dry tests.

The total allowable Jan. 9 was 2,965,269, compared to 2,960,360 Jan. 2.

U Thant Reveals Views On Indonesia

Malaysia, Britain Review Readiness

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Malaysian and British military leaders today reviewed their readiness for a possible Indonesian attack in the wake of that country's withdrawal from the United Nations.

While Britain's Minister of the Army Fred Mulley attended a briefing in Singapore, Premier Tunku Abdul Rahman made an unscheduled trip to Johore State to question 13 captured Indonesian guerrillas.

The government radio said the captives, who included an Indonesian major, were part of a group of 24 which landed Friday on the southern tip of Johore State.

Rahman was quoted as saying that the guerrillas carried dum dum bullets, barred by international conventions. The tip of such bullets mushroom on contact, causing gaping wounds.

The government announced that a Malaysian warship sank an Indonesian tugboat today off the Malayan mainland. At least a dozen survivors were captured, the announcement said.

Britain continued to move soldiers into the area amid reports that a division of Indonesian regulars had moved up near the border of Malaysian Borneo.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced in London that British and Commonwealth forces in the area numbered 50,000. Spokesmen for the Royal Air Force and the Royal Navy said they were expecting reinforcements, including the 44,000-ton aircraft carrier Eagle.

At United Nations headquarters in New York, the man in charge of Indonesia's mission said he was "in the process of winding the mission up."

But Sumarjo Sosrowardojo said he could not estimate how long the process would take. Sumarjo, who is Indonesia's deputy permanent representative, is in charge of the mission while Ambassador Lambertus N. Palar is in Jakarta for consultations.

In Washington, U.S. officials viewed the next few weeks as critical in showing how aggressive Indonesia's policy toward Malaysia will become.

There is reliance on the British reinforcements being moved in and no discussion of possible moves by U.S. military forces in the area.

Priceless Star Of India Stored At Economy Rates

NEW YORK (AP)—The Star of India sapphire and eight other precious gems were kept safe for 25 cents a day in a Miami bus terminal locker for almost a month.

This amazing twist to the $410,000 theft of 24 jewels from the American Museum of Natural History here Oct. 29 came to light with a climactic break in the bizarre case Friday.

The gems were flown here from Miami, along with Allan Dale Kuhn, 26, one of the three Florida beach boys accused of executing the robbery.

Kuhn had led New York detectives to the famed sapphire and other jewels in a deal touched with mystery and intrigue. He apparently was bargaining for leniency for himself and his two companions, Jack — Murph the Surf — Murphy, 27, and Roger Clark, 29.

"I would say Kuhn was acting for all three," Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan told newsmen. Asked if the three could escape with prison sentences as light as one to two years if they plead guilty, Hogan said: "The sentence is up to the judge."

He explained, however, that as a matter of policy, consideration is given to anyone who cooperates.

The gems were recovered in the public locker, encased in a rotting, waterlogged chamois bag. They still were wet, indicating the glittering loot had first been hidden beneath the sea. The defendants are expert swimmers and divers.

An employe of the terminal said: "Someone put a quarter in the locker every day. Our records show it's the only locker that has been in such constant use."

No one could identify the person depositing the money.

Since Tuesday night, Kuhn had been trying through telephone calls to bring about the recovery of the jewels. Detectives were near him at all times. Then at 3 a.m. Friday, a mysterious telephone call came at a Miami motel.

Detective Richard Maline heard the caller say: "The jewels are in a locker in the bus terminal at northeast 4th St."

The key was picked up and the jewels soon were on the way back to New York.

Conspicuously missing were 15 stolen jewels, including a ruby of 100 carats and a diamond crystal of 15.37 carats.

Former catcher Clint Courtney will act as a coach and bullpen catcher for the Houston Colt .45s next season.

pleted No. 1 - 537 Browning, a Scurry County re-entry operation in a depleted Strawn producer of the Fluvanna multi-pay field, as a one-mile east extension in Mississippian production in the field.

It pumped 105 barrels of 39.6-gravity oil from an open hole section at 8,192-97 feet on the 24-hour potential test with no water production reported.

Gas - oil ratio was 488-1 and the formation had been acidized with 250 gallons and treated with a 12,000 - gallon fracture.

It is two miles northwest of Fluvanna, 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of section 537, block 97, H&TC survey.

D. M. Cogdell Estate of Snyder filed a completion as a new producer in the Jonisue Bowden area of Fisher County, for the No. 25 Jonisue - Bowden - Charlotte Etgen.

It is seven miles southwest of Roby, 330 feet from south and 2,640 feet from west lines of section 193, block 3, H&TC survey.

It yielded 126 barrels of 44-gravity oil per day, plus two per cent water, flowing through a 14-64 - inch choke from perforations at 5,117-34 feet. Formation was treated with 500 gallons of acid and fractured with 30,000 gallons.

J. M. Huber Corp. of Midland plugged at total depth of 7,000 feet the No. 2 Fuller Brothers, a Scurry County wildcat 17 miles northeast of Snyder and 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 709, block 97, H&TC survey.

FOR DOMESTIC GOLD

Treasury Asks Altered Reserve

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move apparently aimed at calming foreign fears over U.S. ability to redeem dollars with gold, the Treasury has said Congress will be asked to change domestic gold reserve requirements.

The statement came Friday following developments which treasury officials said touched off some speculation in foreign money exchanges.

These developments included France's announcement that it would convert $150 million in American dollars into American gold and a report that President Johnson tentatively plans to seek elimination of a requirement which now commits $5 billion in gold to back U.S. bank deposits.

The Treasury didn't say whether it wants part of the gold reserve requirements lowered or completely abolished. And it said the form and timing of the request to Congress haven't been decided.

But a change in the gold reserve is needed, the announcement said, "to assure the availability of credit in a growing domestic economy and to relieve any doubts that may remain anywhere that the U.S. gold supply stands firmly behind the dollar in international markets at the immutable price of $35 an ounce."

Testing

ness has pretty well gone the way of the manual testing.

That's been taken care of by compressed air in the cables. In the basement of the telephone office is a compressor - dehydrator, which, through a quarter - inch line, provides enough air pressure to keep a constant positive pressure inside the cables.

A hole the size of a pencil lead is sufficient to let that pressure escape, and this loss of pressure registers on the cable's gage. The escaping air, of course, prevents moisture from entering until the hole is fixed. It used to be that holes were found only when wet weather gave them a chance to cause trouble.

When an air loss is noted, it sometimes takes a while to find the hole. In these cases tanks of nitrogen are tied into the lines beyond the leak to give pressure on the rest of the line. These tanks can occasionally be seen around town strapped to telephone poles.

In addition to the LIT frame, other new equipment in the local office included new "bays" in the toll equipment circuits. Contacts in this equipment are made of silver inlays, and being metal, they can wear out. Especially do they do so in areas, such as Snyder, where natural gas is present in the air. Even minute amounts of natural gas cause deterioration of the silver.

And Snyder's equipment must at all times be up to the DDD, or Direct Distance Dialing standards, because calls made in cities which already have DDD pass through the equipment here.

Complicated troubles — like corroded silver contacts that might give a wrong number — or simple and obvious mechanical troubles like a tree falling on a cable, are all part of a telephone repairman's daily duties. It helps to have an electronic tester like the LIT frame. It also helps if a person, when he plans to cut down a tree near a telephone line, will call the company. They're glad to send someone out to help make sure that the tree and the telephone lines don't get together.

But in both cases, it's all for the same purpose — to give the best possible service to telephone users that the company is able to give.

Johnson Cites Inequity In Distribution Of Subsidies

By OVID A. MARTIN
Associated Press Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major factor in the insistence of President Johnson that costs of government farm commodity stabilization programs be reduced is that very little of the subsidies go to low-income and poverty-ridden farmers.

In the case of the big cash programs involving cotton, wheat, feed grains, wool, sugar beets and sugarcane, the larger the farm production pattern, the larger are the subsidies paid individual producers. The subsidies total more than $2 billion a year.

A recent Agriculture Department study of farm income showed that in 1963, about 1.6 million farm families with annual sales of more than $5,000 got 91 per cent of cash receipts from farm marketings and 79 per cent of realized net farm income. This income is the amount left after reducing production costs.

The significance of this is that the farm families which got 91 per cent of the cash receipts represented only 44 per cent of all farm families.

"These families, because they produce most of the products sold, receive most of the benefits of farm programs which help to maintain their income," the department concluded.

On the other hand, low-production farms, or farms with sales of less than $5,000, comprised 56 per cent of all farms and accounted for only 9 per cent of cash receipts and 21 per cent of realized net income.

Underlying this are two major factors influencing the decline in farm program assistance to the small farmers. They are the movement of farms from the lower to higher sales classes and the disappearance of farms in the lower sales classes either as a result of the complete cessation of farming activity or consolidation with other farms.

The aid extended under the big commodity assistance programs includes price supports, production incentive payments, and price support and land diversion payments.

It can be demonstrated readily how little help these programs offer a cotton farmer with a 5-acre cotton allotment. Assume this producer raises an average of one bale an acre and a total of 5 bales on his allotment. He would get a price support payment of $17.25 per acre or a total of only $86.25, and a market price or government support loan of about $145 a bale or a total of $725. Thus the crop would bring him a total of $811.25.

Even assuming that government benefits were increased 25 per cent, this farmer still would be in a low-income situation.

The programs covering wheat, feed grains, wool and sugar crops tend to work out the same way.

Thus it is becoming clear to government farm policymakers that help for poor farmers needs to take on forms other than payments on production and price supports.

To be effective they may take the form of loans to help the capable enlarge their farming units and acquire more equipment.

They also will take the form of loans and grants as well as technical guidance in helping individuals develop nonfarm enterprises, particularly in the outdoor recreational field.

And they will emphasize rural housing loan programs which would help provide more off-farm employment as well as to provide better homes.

Of course, there is some disagreement among farm groups as to the extent of poverty in agriculture. The Agriculture Department has tended recently to regard those with annual sales of $10,000 or less as being in an inadequate income situation.

Some farm leaders who oppose big farm aid programs contend that most farmers selling less than $10,000 a year are fairly well off. They point out that government statistics show that in 1963, a total of 1,986,000 farms sold less than $5,000 a year.

These farms had average annual sales of $1,810 for an average net income of $1,344. But they earned an additional average of $2,480, giving them an annual average of $4,290.

On the basis of this, only 202,000 farms could be placed in the poverty classification.

Government farm officials do not agree that the farm income picture is as favorable as these figures would indicate.

Mystery Cloaks Japan's Top Man

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Prime Minister Eisaku Sato, who visits Washington next week, faces West — with his political overcoat turned up against chill blasts from Peking.

Sato is used to strong winds. He was blown into power by the winds of change and crisis, taking over last October from ailing Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda.

Ikeda, who had kept Japan on an even, prosperous keel for four years, didn't want the ship rocked with no one at the helm in the wake of the explosion of Red China's first atom bomb, Nikita Khrushchev's replacement as leader of Russia, a change in Britain's politics and President Johnson's new term of office.

Since then, Japan has been wondering how the "new boy" would behave. He hasn't given them a clear-cut answer.

The outlines of his China policy have yet to be fleshed out. Under pressure from the leftist opposition and some of his own Liberal Democrats to draw closer to Peking, he admits candidly that he won't be able to make up his mind until he talks to the American President.

In his appearances before the diet, or parliament, he has backed and filled on the China question. Out of the apparent contradictions has emerged an evident desire to placate Peking but not at the expense of Nationalist China, which Japan recognizes.

All this has earned him scathing denunciations from the opposition, from Communist China and from a group of businessmen who have a yen to pick up some yuan by increased trade with the mainland.

None of this appears to have ruffled Sato, a 63-year-old economist who comes from a family noted for its public service. One of his brothers, Nobusuke Kishi, was Ikeda's predecessor as prime minister. Another brother was an admiral. Yosuke Matsuoka, prewar foreign minister who signed the Axis pact with Nazi Germany and Italy was an uncle.

He has served a full political apprenticeship as minister of posts and telegraph, minister of construction, minister of finance, minister of international trade and industry and state minister under Ikeda in charge of the Olympics.

He has spent long periods in Europe and the U.S. On his last trip to Washington in 1962 he received what some Japanese thought was rebuff from the late President John F. Kennedy. Sato, who held no official post at the time but was regarded as the next prime minister, was left waiting an hour, given only 20 minutes with Kennedy. The reason became clear four days later when Kennedy announced that the Russians had installed missiles in Cuba.

Star-Telegram Asks Resignation Of Ft. Worth DA

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Fort Worth Star-Telegram spoke of a "long series of incidents" in the career of Doug Crouch as district attorney and called for his resignation in today's editions.

A sharply worded editorial cited as "the latest episode," a gun battle outside Crouch's home at 4 a.m. Wednesday in which a county investigator guarding the district attorney's house was shot in the stomach.

Indicted Friday in the shooting and on other counts was Robert Maclin, 40, a former Fort Worth lawyer whose ex-wife Shirley has been a member of Crouch's legal staff since last July.

A district judge set Maclin's bond at $150,000. It appeared he would remain in jail over the weekend.

The grand jury returned six indictments against Maclin. Others charge that he had in his possession five "Molotov cocktails" — soft drink bottles filled with gasoline—at the time investigator Earl Sanford, 38, was shot. Sanford is recovering.

Police said Maclin rammed his car into one parked in front of the Crouch home and then opened fire after Sanford fired a warning shot into the air.

Maclin was arrested minutes later on the outskirts of the city.

He said in an interview Friday that a Texas Ranger challenged him to try to escape as the two drove along a lonely road shortly after his arrest.

"You've got the (hand) cuffs off now," Maclin quoted Ranger C. W. Burks as saying. "I want to see what you can do without them."

Speaking of the Molotov cocktails, he said:

"There were not any kind of bombs in my car when I left it. I've got no idea how they got there but it's a pure and simple case of a frameup."

Also found in Maclin's car were swords, rifles and pistols. He didn't deny that these belonged to him.

"Of course they're mine," he said. "I've been collecting swords and guns since I was 10 years old."

Defense lawyer Al Clyde said the $150,000 bond set for Maclin was excessive. A hearing is scheduled Monday on the matter.

The Star-Telegram editorial said in part:

"So much has occurred to damage the position of ...Crouch as chief law enforcement agent of Tarrant County that he ought to resign.

"This mysterious incident (the Wednesday shooting) is the climax—or at least the most recent occurrence—in a long series of incidents in Mr. Crouch's career as district attorney."

The newspaper said that if Crouch doesn't quit as district attorney, the Tarrant County Bar Association "has a duty... to determine whether Mr. Crouch's public and private conduct measures up to the standard that should be maintained by officials of his responsibility."

Big Spring Jailbreak Short-Lived

BIG SPRING (AP)—For Bobby Beardsley, 22, of San Angelo, his second jailbreak, like the first, was futile and short-lived Friday.

Beardsley jumped from a window of a ground floor office in the county courthouse. Officers said he was brought down from a fourth floor cell to make a statement after saying he was ready to plead guilty to theft charges.

Three hours after the break Bardsley was retaken as he hid in an alley.

Three months ago he fled the Big Spring city jail and was recaptured at San Angelo. The theft charges stemmed from a stolen car Beardsley and another man allegedly used in fleeing the Big Spring State Hospital.

Won't Build Motel Near LBJ Ranch

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — Plans of Don Davol to build a motel across the road from the LBJ Ranch have been canceled, he said Friday, because "they don't want us there."

Davol had obtained an option on six acres opposite President Johnson's ranch. The land adjoins the state's new Lyndon B. Johnson Park.

"There is no point in buying the land and then having it condemned," Davol said, indicating he expected the state to take that course if necessary to obtain the six acres.

Dallas Judges Up Fine For Speeding

DALLAS (AP)—City judges boosted the fine for motorists who race on Dallas streets to $100 Friday—four times the $25 penalty they have been assessing.

Mrs. Elizabeth Blessing, a city council member, said she would offer a still tougher traffic ordinance at the next council session Monday. It would provide a $200 maximum fine for drivers who flee police to avoid a traffic ticket or arrest.

Mrs. Blessing called for the ordinance to be drafted after a high school student raced away from patrolmen at speeds up to 125 miles per hour. Four police cars were disabled in the chase.

Harlingen Man Dies In Train-Car Crash

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP) — Harry Feldman, business and civic leader of Harlingen, was killed Friday in the crash of his car and a Missouri Pacific passenger train in the south part of Harlingen.

Feed Reported Short On Western Pastures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department reported today that supplies of grazing feed Jan. 1 for the Western range area were below a year earlier and below average. A survey was said to have shown that only two of 17 Western states had better grazing conditions than a year earlier.

It said cattle and calves are wintering in generally good condition, but are only in fair condition in much of New Mexico and Texas.

JERRY L. FLEMING

Snyder Man Commissioned

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. — Jerry L. Fleming, son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgel L. Fleming of Rt. 3, Snyder, Tex., has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School (OTS) at Lackland AFB, Tex.

Lieutenant Fleming, selected for OTS through competitive examination, is being assigned to the Air Force Logistics Command's Wright - Patterson AFB, Ohio, for training as a civil engineer.

The lieutenant, a graduate of Snyder High School, received his B.S. degree from Texas Technological College, Lubbock.

List Possible Causes Of Dallas Blaze

DALLAS (AP)—A fire department investigator has narrowed to four the possible causes of the $10 million Neiman-Marcus fire.

Chief investigator Ernest Emerson in a report to Fire Chief C. N. Penn said Friday the costly fire may have started from a Christmas display of butane candles, an electric holiday welcome mat, a phonograph or careless smoking.

He added, however, that "in the absence of eyewitnesses we have no positive evidence what specifically started it."

The Dec. 19 fire destroyed most of the specialty store's fifth and sixth floors. Other sections were badly damaged.

State Farmers Name Outstanding Man

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Roger George, a peanut farmer from Stephenville, was named the state's outstanding young farmer Friday night at the awards dinner banquet of the Young Farmers of Texas.

George, 29, received $1,000 in government bonds and an engraved watch.

He was picked from 4,000 farmers 18 to 36 years old who belong to the organization, which is holding its annual convention.

Oscar Brownlow, 31, of Abernathy was runnerup. He farms 1,300 irrigated acres in cotton, milo and vegetables.

Guard Unit Sets Drill

The day-long training sessions of the local National Guard unit will be open to visitors this Sunday, and anyone interested in joining the unit is invited to visit any time during the day.

The drill period will start at 6:50 a.m., and training periods throughout the day will consist of the various aspects of training which the Guard conducts in these once-a-month drills.

The local guard unit consists of three officers and 56 enlisted men. Authorized strength is 60 enlisted men.

Houston Firm Is Awarded Contract

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A Houston firm, S. I. P., Inc., was awarded a $369,267 contract Friday for building an electric master substation at the Marshall Space Flight Center's Michoud operations in New Orleans.

Grand Jury Returns 33 Indictments

DALLAS (AP) — A federal grand jury at Amarillo returned 53 indictments Friday including one in a Dallas bank robbery case.

U. S. Atty. Barefoot Sanders said William Hudspeth Jr. was indicted for the Nov. 6 armed robbery of the First National Bank here.

He is accused of robbing teller Mary Lee Macnicholl, 22, of $18,515.

A gunman walked to a bank window, opened an attache case and showed a pistol to Miss Macnicholl. He stuffed the money in the case and walked from the bank into late afternoon rush hour traffic to escape. Hudspeth remains free.

The grand jury also indicted Max Yates, assistant vice president of the Farmers & Merchants National Bank of Kaufman, on three counts alleging he defrauded the bank of $432 in October, 1963, almost $2,000 in September, 1963, and $6,000 in July, 1962.

The government charges Yates defrauded the bank by making false entries in several accounts.

Quints Mother Is Expecting Twins

MARACAIBO, Venezuela, (AP) — Two instead of five is the prediction for Ines Cuervo de Prieto, who already has nine children.

The Venezuelean mother, who gave birth to quintuplets 15 months ago, was told by her doctor Friday that she was having twins in March.

Airman Dies Of Plane Crash Injuries

SANFORD, Ala. (AP) — Lt. Michael Hornsby, 26, died Friday of injuries suffered Wednesday when his plane crashed at the Sanford Naval Air Station.

NCAA Will Try For Peaceful Settlement With Pro Leagues

CHICAGO (AP) — The 9th National College Athletic Association convention doesn't formally begin until Monday but the ruling collegiate body touched upon two problems Friday.

The NCAA took a swipe at the Amateur Athletic Union and then indicated it would handle the problem of premature pro football signing with kid gloves.

Criticism of the AAU came in formal protest to the department of state against the AAU's conduct in the American-Russian dual track meet in Los Angeles last July.

The letter protested the fact American athletes wore AAU emblems against the Russians instead of the United States national insignia.

The feud between the NCAA and the AAU over which body should sanction international and national competition has been running for years and will be one of the major subjects of the NCAA convention.

The other "meaningful matters" to be taken up during the convention according to Walter Byers, NCAA executive director include the sneak signings of football players by the pros and a minimum academic standard for NCAA-sponsored competition.

Despite the cries of college people over early signings of collegiate seniors, Byers indicated the NCAA will use diplomacy in solving the problem.

"Personally, I'm not convinced retaliation is the course to take," said Byers. "The course may be, the first step — let's try to get those people (pros) together for a reasonable solution.

"The obvious solution is getting the pros to strictly refrain from drafting a boy until his eligibility is ended. My first choice would be a June drafting deadline which obviously would not be practical for the pros. But it certainly should be after the first of the year to avoid the bowl mess we have just seen."

Byers was referring to the recent disclosure that four Oklahoma stars signed pro contracts before the Oklahoma-Florida State Gator Bowl game. The four were dropped from the squad the day before the game.

James Corbett, athletic director at Louisiana State and chairman of the NCAA committee on college-professional relations, promised to remedy the situation when his group meets Sunday.

Corbett also disclosed he planned to meet with Pete Rozelle, commissioner of the National Football League, and with Joe Foss, commissioner of the American Football League.

Isolated Camera Brings Changes In TV Football

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — First it was the lonesome end. Now it's the isolated camera that is all the talk in football.

And although the hockey and basketball coaches are so far along in their season they are already talking about next year, football fans will get a few more chances to watch the newest television gimmick in action.

The NFL All-Pro game comes up Sunday and the AFL game the following week.

All three television networks featured the isolated camera this season, although they all have different names for the gimmick.

Generally, ABC gets the credit for introducing the idea in this country — although the Japanese had been using it in their sports coverage for five or six years before the gadget got across the Pacific.

Oddly, in recent weeks ABC has gone more for cameras buried in mud or hanging in the tops of palm trees, while CBS and NBC have grabbed the isolated camera ball and run with it.

Here's how the isolated camera works:

"It's a matter of guess work, entirely," an NBC spokesman said. "A man with a camera is assigned to watch the pass receiver, the defensive back, or the running guard. He has to guess what play the quarterback will call.

"Then he lines up his camera in a close-up on the player who he thinks will figure in the play. He pays no attention to the rest of the action.

"If he's right, and he gets the pass pattern or key tackle, he advises the man doing the main commentary, and the director switches to the isolated camera replay.

"The action is on tape, just exactly the way that voice is recorded on a tape recorder, and the playback operation is the same. The man operating the playback machine just backs the tape up to the spot where the play started and let's it roll."

Celtics Continue To Prove How Great They Are—

By The Associated Press

With or without Coach Red Auerbach, the Boston Celtics are beyond any doubt the most formidable team on any court any where.

The defending National Basketball Association champs completed two successful California nights Friday by edging the dreary San Francisco Warriors 94-91.

For the Celtics, it was win No. 12 in a row—their 36th this season against only seven losses.

For the woebegone Warriors, it was loss No. 11 in a row. The defending Western Division champions now have won only 11 games while losing 33, one more than all last season.

Auerbach didn't get to witness the 12th straight victory. He was tagged with two technical fouls within 30 seconds in the second quarter and was ejected.

Around this time, the Warriors had rolled off 14 unanswered points for a 49-34 lead that they lost for good early in the third period.

Boston's Bill Russell led his team with 22 points and held Wilt Chamberlain to 30 points, nine under his average.

The rebounding duel between the big centers was won by Chamberlain 25-23. Russell is the leading NBA rebounder, but second-place Chamberlain was out of action for several games at the start of the season.

The New York Knicks suffered their third straight defeat under new Coach Harry Gallatin, losing 83-82 to St. Louis.

Bob Pettit, held without a field goal in the first half, broke a 77-77 deadlock with a basket and two free throws. Len Wilkens' field goal provided the winning points.

Cincinnati downed Philadelphia 114-107 with Oscar Robertson's 26 points leading the way. The 76ers' Ben Warley and Coach Dolph Schayes had technical fouls called on them in the final minutes after Warley fouled out of the game.

Two Lamar Teams Reach C-City Finals

COLORADO CITY — Lamar's 7th and 8th grade basketball teams went into the finals of their respective divisions Saturday night in the Colorado City Junior High Tournament.

The two Snyder teams reached the finals by walloping Big Spring Goliad quintets in second round play Friday.

Lamar 8th grade decisioned Goliad 8th, 34-16, while Lamar 7th trimmed Goliad 7th, 28-13. Both Snyder teams faced teams from Colorado City in the Saturday night finals. The Colorado City teams had advanced by knocking out teams from Coahoma. The 7th grade finals were set for 6:30 with 8th grade finals to follow.

Travis 7th and 8th grade teams were playing consolation games Saturday, both facing teams from Big Spring Runnels. The Travis teams lost Thursday in first round play to Goliad teams.

In the Lamar 8th decision over Goliad on Friday, Steve Holder roped 12 points to pace the Texans, while Mitch Rambin was close behind with H. Doyle Gallman and Jodi Williamson got 4 each, Charlie Johnson 2 and Craig Alexander 1. Farris got 6 points to pace Goliad.

Lamar 8th led by 12-6 at halftime and increased it to 24-10 in the third period.

Lamar 7th surged to a 14-8 lead at half-time and then held Goliad scoreless in the third in rolling to a 23-8 advantage at the end of three quarters of play. Lee McNair scored 15 points for Lamar 7th, while Rickey Arnold had 5, Ronnie Watkins 3, Brad Morgan and Ted Floyd 2 each and Billy Bowden 1. A total of 15 players saw action for Lamar 7th.

West Picked To Win Pro Bowl Game

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It will be the East and the West in the 15th annual Pro Bowl Sunday, with the East surprisingly the underdog in this post-season National Football League all-star battle in Memorial Coliseum.

Having upset the NFL Western Division in the championship game in the Cleveland Brown victory over the Baltimore Colts, and then the St. Louis Cardinals over Green Bay in the Playoff Bowl, the East is perplexed by its lack of support.

A crowd of around 70,000 is expected for the 1:00 p.m., PST, kickoff. The contest will be nationally televised by NBC.

In many ways, this is something of a rematch between Cleveland and Baltimore.

Once again it will be Johnny Unitas at quarterback for the East after his losing game against Cleveland, and the Browns' brilliant quarterback, Frank Ryan.

Unitas will have such offensive teammates as Lenny Moore and Raymond Berry, while Ryan will have fullback Jim Brown and end Paul Warfield.

And there is also the interleague rivalry between Jim Brown and Green Bay fullback Jimmy Taylor.

On defense, Cleveland's Bill Glass and Dick Modzelewski may have a few scores to settle and for the West, there are Baltimore's Gino Marchetti, in his final game of pro football and Bob Boyd.

The West leads in the series, nine victories to five, and is the defending Pro Bowl champion, having won 31-17 last year.

Hansen's Top Vault Gets Him 2 Awards

DALLAS (AP) — When Fred Hansen won the pole vault in the Olympic Games after setting a world's record of 17 feet 4 inches, he was voted not just one but two awards.

The Texas Sports Writers Association named him Southwesterner of the year with 74 first place votes—almost twice as many as his five competitors combined.

Then they picked him as amateur athlete of the year with 61 first place ballots—13 more than the other nominees put together.

He beat out Lawrence Elkins, Baylor's all-America wingman, who had 20 first places. Randy Matson, the Olympics hot put runnerup, was next with 19 firsts and Tommy Nobis, All-America linebacker from Texas, was fourth.

Chuvalo Says He Will Whip Patterson

TORONTO (AP) — George Chuvalo says former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson is "made for me."

The 27-year-old Canadian titleholder, who heads for New York Sunday, will get a chance to prove his theory at Madison Square Garden Feb. 1.

Winner of the 12-round bout has been promised a crack at the victor of the Ernie Terrell-Eddie Machen match in Chicago March 5 for the World Boxing Association's version of the world crown.

Chuvalo will wind up his training program in Monticello, N.Y., after working out for two months at a country club north of Toronto.

The main reason for Chuvalo's confidence lies in the style of the 30-year-old Patterson.

"Patterson can't fight any other way but going forward," Chuvalo said. "I like a guy who will come to me, and Patterson can't go back. If he had learned anything from the first Liston fight he would have won the second time. He would have fought differently, but he didn't."

Patterson was knocked out in the first round twice by Liston.

Linemen Try To Protect Joe Namath

By KELSO STURGEON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MOBILE, Ala. AP) — How high will a $400,000 quarterback with a bum knee bounce?

There are five muscle-bound men who tilt the scales at an average weight of 245 pounds whose job it is today to see that no one finds out.

The capitalist quarterback is Joe Namath of Alabama and the five guardian angels are tackles Jim Wilson of Georgia and Harry Schuh of Memphis State, guards Frank McLendon of Alabama and Justin Canale of Mississippi State and center Bill Curry of Georgia Tech.

The five linemen made up the interior of the South offensive forward wall in today's Senior Bowl football game.

Namath, who became professional football's richest rookie last week when he signed a three-year $400,000 contract with the New York Jets of the American Football League, was to start for the South despite a painful knee injury.

His knee, which has kept him hobbling while turning in amazing performances during the past season, was to be heavily taped but Coach Tom Landry was counting on his interior line to protect him from getting hit too hard.

Wilson is a 245-pound All-America and Schuh a 275-pound giant from Memphis State. McLendon tips the scales at 232 and Canale weighs in at 240. Curry weighs 234.

The South was rated a solid touchdown choice to whip the North.

This also was the first Senior Bowl in history that was integrated.

Bob Hayes, an Olympic gold medal winner and the world's fastest [redacted] and Bob Felts, who st[redacted]ith Hayes at Florida A&M, were the first Negroes to represent the South.

Tackle Jerry Rush and halfback Dick Gordon, both of Michigan State, were the first Negroes to play for the North.

Bill Casper Putts Way To Lead

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Putting master Bill Casper, Jr., who opened with a convincing five-under par 66, headed the procession of professional golfers into the second round of the $70,000 Los Angeles Open today and hopeful weather conditions remain ideal.

The 1959 National Open champion, who found the greens "just great" Friday, proved it with his putting talents and held a lead of two strokes over his nearest threats.

The course is the par 36-35—71, 6,840-yard Rancho Municipal Golf Club.

For awhile it appeared that dark-horse Babe Hiskey of Pocatello, Idaho, would grab the opening round headlines. A virtual newcomer to the tournament circuit, the 26-year-old Hiskey shot 34-34—68.

Then the 1964 winner, seasoned Paul Harney came in with an identical round.

U. S. Open champion Ken Venturi already had finished with 36-36—72, and everybody's favorite, Arnold Palmer, also was listed in the far from exclusive 72 group with 34-38.

All told, there were 20 pros deadlocked at 72.

Lopez Rates Baltimore Over Yankees

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox Manager Al Lopez, the man who has made a career of finishing second to the New York Yankees, claims the perennial American League champions are no longer the team to beat.

Lopez, attending the White Sox' mid-winter press conference, believes Baltimore and his own club should rate higher than the Yankees in the upcoming race.

"I think Baltimore is the tougher club," said Lopez. "They have better balance and I think they'll get better pitching this year.

"If the Orioles had had Boog Powell all season I think they would have won the pennant instead of the Yankees."

Lopez thinks the Yankees will continue to slip in 1965, pointing to their defensive collapse in the World Series against the Cardinals.

"Before, it used to be the Yankees who forced the other team to make mistakes and then take advantage but now the pattern seems to be switching."

Lopez doesn't expect a major difference in the style of Yankee play under Johnny Keane who replaced Yogi Berra as the manager.

Your family's silent partner

Lying there on the doorstep, it can't speak. Or Move. Or Hear. But open it in your hands and it becomes a living, powerful partner in daily living. In the decisions you make, the opinions you form.

It takes you to the highest chambers of government. It takes you to the bloodiest streets of warring countries. It takes you to the heart of history in the making. In short, it tells you what in the world is happening and why.

But people depend on it for needs beyond the need to know. It's where families turn when something's to be bought or sold. It's where hints on health, cooking, religion, amusements, dressmaking, etiquette, marriage are found.

It's where charities first turn for help, and a place where a letter to the editor is published. It's where campaigns are fought and lost dogs are found. It's where criminals are exposed and newlyweds applauded. Where birth and death meet on the same page.

Elkins Stars As South Wins Hula Bowl Tilt 16-14

HONOLULU (AP) — All-America Larry Elkins of Baylor scored on two long plays in the third quarter and led the South to a 16-14 victory over the North Friday night in the 19th annual Hula Bowl.

Elkins took a punt by Rick Redman of Washington 76 yards for his first touchdown. The star end then caught a 33-yard scoring pass from California's Craig Morton later in the period.

UCLA's Larry Zeno, who kicked the conversion after the second touchdown, also booted a 26-yard field goal in the first period for the other South points.

The North took an 8-3 lead in the second quarter on a 34-yard pass from Oregon's Bob Berry to Tulsa's Jeff Jordan. Tulsa's Jerry Rhome tossed the two-point conversion pass to Tony Giacobazzi of Iowa.

Berry's 16-yard touchdown pass to Jim Jones of Wisconsin early in the fourth quarter almost brought the North even with the South. But a pass from Rhome for the two-point conversion that would have tied the game fell incomplete.

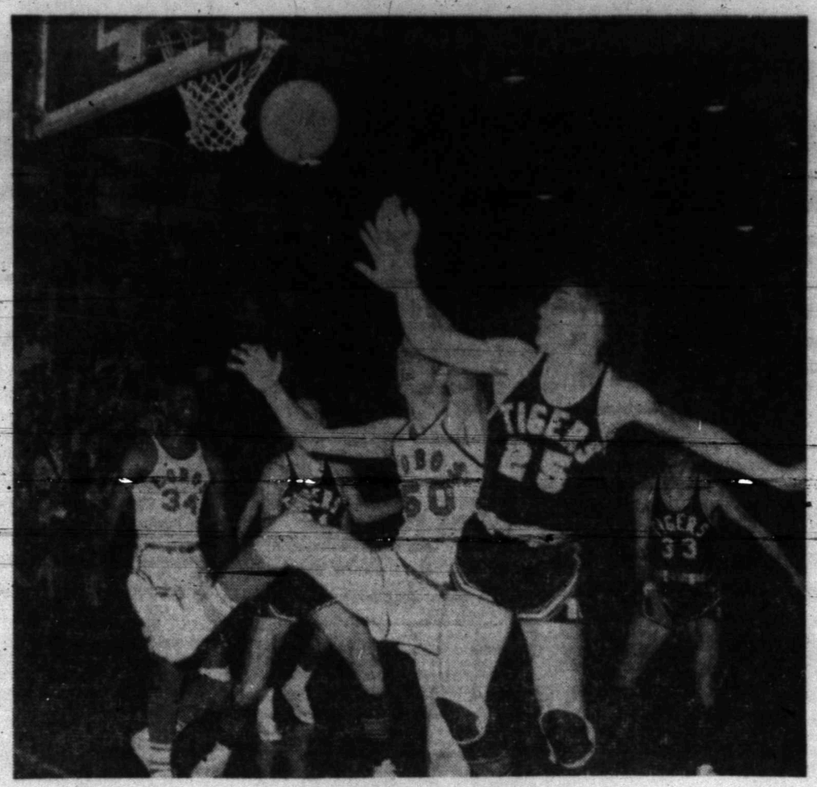

Although both Jordan and Elkins played flanker, Jordan was voted outstanding lineman and Elkins outstanding back of the game.

Elkins caught five passes for 85 yards. Jordan led the receivers with six catchers for 147 yards.

Gale Sayers led all rushers with 129 yards on six carries.

A crowd of 22,100 watched in balmy 75-degree weather at Honolulu Stadium. The field was a trifle slow from heavy rains Thursday.

LEAPING HIGH—Snyder's Leslie Brown (25) is shown going into the air after a rebound in the game with Levelland Friday night. Battling for the ball is Levelland's Clay Krueger (50). Also shown are Henry Willis (34) of the Lobos, and Leslie Anderson (21) and Jerry Vestal (33) of the Tigers.

Tigers Upended By Levelland Lobos

LEVELLAND — It was too much Henry Willis here Friday night as the Snyder Tigers went down to defeat at the hands of the Levelland Lobos 75-60. It was the first district loss for the Tigers and only the second defeat in 16 outings this season.

The Lobos now hold the undisputed lead in District 3-AAA with 3 victories and no defeats, and have stamped themselves as the team to beat for the championship. They have won 10 and lost four for the season.

Willis, who stands about 6 feet 5 inches, set a hot scoring pace as he hit the nets for 43 points, which must be some kind of a record. He was aided by 6 foot 7 inch Clay Krueger and Lynn Waters who had 14 points each. Levelland's height enabled the Lobos to out rebound the Tigers 30 to 19.

Four members of the Tiger team hit in the double - figures in the losing effort. Leslie Anderson was tops with 19 points, followed by Phillip Floyd and Leslie Brown with 12 each, and Jerry Vestal who had 10. Floyd pulled in 6 rebounds to lead the Tigers in that department.

Coach Ned Underwood said that the Tigers just took "...a real country licking." He added that evidently the Lobos were in their best effort of the season, while the Tigers in general did not play a good game.

The contest was real close in the first period, as it ended with Levelland holding a 3-point lead, 25-22. However, Snyder was cold in the second quarter, hitting for only 9 points while the Lobos managed for 18. At one time in the third Stanza the Snyder team made a mild threat, pulling within 7 points, but the Lobos pulled away and were never seriously threatened.

Although the loss was a real setback for the Tigers, it is not the end of the world or the end of the season for them. They will have another chance at the Lobos in the second round of action, and that contest will be staged in Snyder.

The Lobos will have their work cut out for them if they hope to hold the lead very long. They will journey to Lamesa Tuesday to take on the ever - dangerous Tornadoes. Meanwhile, the Tigers will be playing at home Tuesday against Littlefield.

Snyder also lost in the B-team contest, 55-48. Nine members of the Tiger B team hit the scoring column, but only one, Murry Bowden, got into double figures. He had 11 points.

BASKETBALL ROUNDUP

Bradley Saves Game For Princeton In Overtime

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yale almost put over one of the biggest upsets of the college basketball season Friday night. The Eli, in a rebuilding year, were expected to be easy marks for Princeton and All-America Bill Bradley.

Instead the Tigers were fortunate to escape with a 57-57 overtime victory over the underdog Bulldogs. It took a three-point play by Bradley with 18 seconds left to pull it out.

In contrast UCLA, the national champion and top-ranked in the Associated Press poll, enjoyed a 91-74 romp over Oregon and eighth-ranked San Francisco similarly crushed San Jose State 77-53. The Uclans and Dons were the only teams in the top ten to see action.

Bradey, fresh from his sparkling performances in the Holiday Festival in New York when the Tigers almost beat Michigan and Cincinnati, scored only 14 points in the regulation game, his lowest total ever in varsity competition.

But the 6-foot- senior from Crystal City, Mo., scored all of Princeton's seven points in the overtime to save the Tigers on their home court. His over-all 21 points also gave him an all-time Ivy League career record of 870. He now holds every Ivy League scoring mark.

Bob Trupin, whose two free throws in the last minute gave Yale a 50-50 tie in regulation time, sparked the Blue with 20 points.

Jim Barnett threw in 31 points or Oregon at Eugene, but the Ducks couldn't handle UCLA's full court press. Gail Goodrich, with 27 points, and Fred Goss with 15 starred as the Bruins opened a 24-point lead in the second half enroute to their 10th straight triumph.

Ollie Johnson's 23 points and 14 rebounds paced San Francisco to its easy home court victory over San Jose.

Ed Fredenberg's hook shot with six seconds left gave Oregon State a 65-63 victory over Southern California at Corvallis while three foul shots by Joe Lalli and Mark Clark in the closing seconds insured a 79-74 victory for George Washington over West Virginia in the nations' capital.

South Carolina and The Citadel hung on for home court victories. The Gamecocks edged Virginia 64-60 and the Cadets nipped Furman 99-96.

Washington downed California 55-46, Stanford crushed Washington State 70-43, Colorado State U. defeated Denver 74-70, Navy took Rutgers 93-87, Penn beat Brown 73-63, Harvard walloped Columbia 93-80 and Cornell handed Dartmouth its 15th straight Ivy League defeat 95-91.

Villanova blew an 11-point lead, then came back to break a 60-60 tie and whip its Philadelphia city rival, LaSalle, 86-72.

Grand Prix Won By Graham Hill

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (AP) — The 12th Grand Prix over about 110 miles was won Saturday by Graham Hill of Britain in a Brabham in 1 hour 13 minutes 33.4 seconds for an average speed of 89 miles per hour.

Frank Gardner of Australia in a Repco Brabham was second in 01:15:6.3 and Jim Palmer, New Zealand, Repco Brabham, third a lap behind.

The race was marked by mechanical failures and minor crashes which eliminated most of the overseas stars except 1962 world champion Hill, who had an easy victory.

Jets Spend Vast Sums For Players

NEW YORK (AP) — The prosperous New York Jets were prepared to spice up the pro football signing war even further today with a reported $200,000 contract to quarterback John Huarte of Notre Dame, the 1964 Heisman Trophy winner.

Exactly one week ago, the Jets of the American Football League unloaded the most expensive contract ever given a college player when they signed quarterback Joe Namath of Alabama to a $400,000 contract.

Namath was a first round choice of the Jets while Huarte was selected in the second round. The Notre Dame signal-caller also was a sixth round choice of the Philadelphia Eagles in the National Football League.

In joining the Jets, Huarte becomes the fifth competitor for the starting quarterback job. On hand from the past season are regular Dick Wood, Mike Taliaferro and Pete Liske.

New York drafted two other signal-callers — Bob Schweickert of Virginia Tech and Archie Roberts of Columbia. The Jets have signed Schweickert but expect to use him as a halfback or flanker since he is considered a better runner and receiver than a thrower. Roberts hasn't signed with anyone.

Wild Party All In Fun

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Zambeta's, a night spot in downtown Athens, won't forget Greek shipping tycoon Aristotle Socrates Onassis for a long time. Onassis won't forget Zambeta's either.

Onassis and Greek actress Melina Mercouri went on a three-hour spree in the cabaret Friday. They smashed plates and glasses and tossed food on the floor.

"It was the wildest time I ever had in my life," said writer Max Wilks, who was in the Onassis party.

The free-for-all began while Melina performed a wild Greek folk dance. As the crockery flew from the tables, a waiter came in with a supply of new plates.

"If we only had one of your planes to burn as well!" Melina shouted to Onassis.

Even the cabaret owner took it all in fun — especially after Onassis paid him $650 for the damage.

Lane And Finley Settle Dispute

CHICAGO (AP) — Frank Lane and his former boss, Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City A's, settled their dispute over Lane's salary in Federal Court Friday.

Lane, who asked $144,166, settled for $113,000. Lane sued for what he said was unpaid salaries in a $2,000-per year, eight season contract.

Lane signed as general manager of the A's Feb. 15, 1961, and was fired by Finley Aug. 26, 1961.

The jury trial before Judge James B. Parsons ended after 1½ days of closed chamber conferences. Finley agreed to pay Lane $100,000 for services contracted from 1965 to 1968 and $13,000 for previous services.

Top Golfers To Receive Awards

NEW YORK (AP) — Holders of the three major men's golf titles in the United States — Bill Campbell, Ken Venturi and Bobby Nichols — will receive awards at the 13th National Awards Dinner of the Metropolitan Golf Writers Association Jan. 12.

Campbell, the national amateur champion from Huntington, W.Va., will receive the association's Gold Tee Award for outstanding service to golf. It will be presented by State Supreme Court Justice Joseph Gagliardi, who was runner-up for the amateur title in 1953.

Ernest Jones of New York, who became an outstanding teacher of golf despite an artificial leg, will receive the Ben Hogan Award given annually to a golfer who overcame illness and adversity.

Venturi, in addition to receiving an award, will act as narrator for a film showing the last three holes of the 1964 Open championship.

Michigan State football guard Bob Brawley is also a defenseman on the Spartan hockey team.

54 Boys Are On Boxing Program

Fifty-four boys took part in the Scurry County Boys' Club's boxing program Friday night, with locals winning five of eight decisions over Sweetwater boxers in addition to a large group of local matches.

In the matches with Sweetwater boxers, Mack Fraley defeated Jacob Alcal and Tony Maline defeated Pete Lopez in unanimous decisions, while split decisions included Freddie Benitez over Paul Rivera, Larry Anderson over Arturo Garza, and Richard Garcia over Steven Alacala. Losing split decisions to Sweetwater boxers were Junior Delano to Richard Gomez, Pedro Martinez to Ernest Celello and Felix Martinez to Johnny Claxton.

In matches involving only local boys, unanimous decisions included Luiz Garcia over Joe Martinez, Bobby Watson over Jackie Lambert, Albert Rodriguez over Shelly Jones, Ruben Delao over Junior Floyd. Vince Ellard over Dennis Jackson. Granville Stanley over Mike Lindsey, Tom Clayton over Paul Barnett, Herbie Barnett over Oscar Delao, and Ronnie Porter over Joe Rios.

Split decisions included Kerry Clay over Charles Porter, Mitche Butler over Rudy Arguijo, Pauncho Costello over Charles Rios, Manuel Compos over Junior Rios, Rickie Rios over Floyd Jackson, Ronnie Arguijo over Ray Arguijo.

Draws included Steven Stanley and Pete Rios and Paul Terry and Ray Arguijo. Johnny Gaona and Alfred Comora fought to no decision.

A&M Looks For Conference Win

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M, the defending Southwest Conference champion, tries to even its league mark Saturday night in a basketball skirmish with Southern Methodist at Dallas.

The Aggies, now with a 7-3 record, got clipped by Baylor as SWC play opened Tuesday.

In other games Saturday, winless Rice takes on Baylor at Waco, Arkansas meets Texas Tech at Lubbock and Texas Christian plays host to Texas at Fort Worth in the only afternoon contest.

The Bears sport the best record with 8-2. Next come the Aggies, Texas Tech with 6-4, SMU with 6-5, Texas with 5-5, Arkansas with 4-4, TCU with 3-7 and Rice with 0-10.

The other Tuesday league openers saw SMU clip Rice, Arkansas wallop TCU and Tech overcome Texas.

Ex-Coach To Receive High Honor

AMARILLO (AP) — Howard Lynch, who shared Texas schoolboy football fame with the fabled Blair Cherry and then achieved glory in his own right, will be inducted into the Panhandle Hall of Fame Jan. 31.

The former coach, now principal of Amarillo Tascosa High School, will be the seventh person so honored.

Lynch was assistant to head coach Blair Cherry at Amarillo High School when the Sandies won state football championships in 1934, 1935 and 1936.

He became head coach when Cherry left and won 129 games, among them the state championship title contest in 1940.

Lynch retired from coaching in 1951.

He had been co-captain of the 1919 Amarillo High team, and wass All-Southern at Center College when a member of the famed "prayin' Colonels."

Other members of the hall are Joe Fortenberry, West Texas State All-America basketball player; Blair Cherry, who left Amarillo to coach at the University of Texas; Bob Seeds, former major league baseballer; Frank Kimbrough, former West Texas State football player; W. A. (Gus) Miller, former West Texas State basketball coach; and Cal Farley, one-time wrestling champion.

Sports World Wonders If Namath Will Be Worth Price Paid To Him

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Beauty or bust—what is the future of pro football's $400,000 rookie, Joe Namath?

Professionals and college men alike pondered this question Saturday as the bullet-tossing Alabama quarterback played his last undergraduate game, in the Senior Bowl, and pointed to a career with the New York Jets of the American Football League.

The Jets paid out a reported $400,000 for his services, and the football world immediately went into a swoon.

"No single man is worth that kind of money," said disgruntled veterans of the National and American Football League, examining paychecks generally between $15,000 and $20,000 a year.

"He won't be able to pay the price," commented Dave (Hawg) Hanner, seasoned tackle of the Green Bay Packers.

"A great prospect—may be another Johnny Unitas," said the Jets' coach, Weeb Ewbank, who formerly coached Unitas at Baltimore.

"Can't miss—the greatest athlete I ever saw," said Alabama Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant.

"He's worth every penny of it," added Bob Hayes, Olympic gold medal sprinter and star back of Florida A.&M.

"This money is so far out it sounds impossible," said Jets quarterback Dick Wood.

"I'm gonna try like hell," countered the center of the controversy, Namath, adding: "I plan to play football for 20 years."

The 194-pound, 6-foot-2 Alabama signal - caler definitely will be a man on the spot when the whistle blows for the 1965 season.

A game-legged quarterback who signed for twice as much money as ever was given a rookie player, Namath will be subjected to tremendous pressure, both from his teammates and from the opposition.

"I don't worry too much about the opposition—I have had all the scare knocked out of me," the strapping, leather-tough young man afrom Beaver Falls, Pa., said. "It's my teammates that I'm worried about.

"I realize this is a lot of money, but I hope they'll accept me as just another member of the team. If I went up and became a smart aleck, I'd be in trouble.

"But I'm no prima donna. I love football. I want to play. I'll do my darndest to make good. If I prove myself, maybe they'll accept me for what I am. Then everything will be all right.

"I know this—I'm going to give it everything I've got."

Coaches and players who have been associated with the Alabama star are convinced that he not only will make the grade in pro football but also is capable of becoming one of the all-time greats.

Bryant, whose career as player and coach spans more than 30 years, said he never had seen a quarterback with the poise, quickness and accuracy of Namath.

"On top of all these attributes he has a wonderful football mind," the Alabama coach added. "He can't miss."

The prospects of pressure and hard knocks don't faze Namath—he's had to endure them since he was big enough to walk.

He was born in Beaver Falls, Pa., a steel mill town 30 miles northwest of Pittsburgh. His father worked in the mills. His mother had to work on the side to keep Joe, his three brothers and sister in shoes.

Joe shined shoes for 50 cents a week at a place called Gus' Top Hat, which later burned.

He and his three older brothers—John, Robert and Frank—played football on a dirt road in front of the frame house on Sixth Street where the family lived.

"My brothers taught me everything I know," Joe says. "They showed me how to hold the ball. They made me practice throwing it over telephone wires.

"And, when there was no one around, I bounced it off the wall of a laundry across the street, I broke every window. They had to wire them up.

"I was just five when I started playing. They wouldn't tackle me, but they made me team quarterback, although I was half the size of the others.

"We played baseball and basketball the same way. I remember playing basketball we had to jump off a side walk, over a gulley and onto the dirt road to make a shot."

Namath was a star in baseball, basketball and football at Beaver Falls High School, where his coach was Larry Bruno. When he finished high school, scores of colleges sought him.

Notre Dame was one. Another was Maryland. Namath preferred Maryland. He liked the campus. Some of his friends were already there. He liked the coach, Tom Nugent. But he couldn't pass the entrance requirements. Nugent suggested Alabama; where his old boss, Bryant, was coach.

Fluvanna Boys In Win; Girls Lose

FLUVANNA — The Fluvanna Buffaloes split with Loraine here Friday night, winning the boys contest 58-43 while being edged in the girls game 37-35. It was the first district encounters for each team.

In the boys contest Fluvanna jumped out to a 12-6 first quarter lead and were never headed after that time. Their biggest lead was about 20 points in the third period. Coach Mackie Greene substituted freely throughout the second half.

Bobby Hall topped all scorers in the boys contest with 24 points. Randy Britton led Loraine with 12 points. In the girls tilt high point honors were shared by Rinda Bruner of Fluvanna and Linda Cornutt of Loraine who hit the nets for 18 points each.

Eluvanna will journey to Ira Tuesday night to take on the Bulldogs, and will be back home next Friday to play host to the Hermleigh Cardinals.

Lamar 9th Decisions Blue Devils

Lamar's 9th grade Texans turned on the steam in the second half and rolled to a 50-27 decision over the Travis 9th grade Blue Devils in Tiger Gym Friday night.

Both teams started cautiously, and mid-way of the first period the score was knotted at 4-4. Lamar then moved out to a 9-7 lead and gradually pulled away.

Frank Grimmett of Lamar topped all scorers in the contest, pouring 21 points through the hoop. Lamar's Tommy Bullard, with 12 points, was the only other player in the game to hit in double figures. Mickey Allmand added 8 points for Lamar, Drake Snyder 5 and O. L. Cooper and Mike Galyean 2 each.

Eight members of the Blue Devil squad contributed to the Travis scoring, with Benny Garrett leading with 6 points. Alton Patterson had 5, Jimmy Ramage 4, Ted Winters and Jerry Luttrell 3 each, Gus Tovar, Albert Rodriguez and Kye Nitsch 2 each.

A game between the 8th grade teams of the two junior high schools was postponed due to a conflict with play in the Colorado City Junior High Tournament. Both local 8th grade teams participated in the C-City meet.

Midwest Blasted By Icy Winds

By The Associated Press

Arctic air spread into the north central United States today, with bitter cold in a seven-state area. The icy blasts ended a spell of spring-like weather in many parts of the Midwest.

Snow, whipped by stiff northerly winds, fell across the Great Lakes region. To the southwest, sleet and freezing rain pelted areas into the southern plains and the wet belt was expected to extend northeastward across Missouri into the Tennessee Valley later today.

The sub-zero belt covered the Dakotas, Montana, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Iowa.

Temperatures dropped rapidly as the cold air advance from the northern plains where the mercury has hovered near the zero mark in some cities for two weeks. One of the earliest morning low marks was 23 below zero at International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border. Chicago Friday had a record high mark of 63 for Jan. 8 but the mercury dropped to 15 early today.

In contrast to the wintry weather, unseasonably warm air covered most of the eastern and southern sections of the nation. The mercury climbed to 59 a Buffalo, N.Y., early today for a record high for Jan. 9.

Showers and rain fell along the advancing cold front from Arkansas to Ohio. Nearly two inches of rain splashed the Walnut Ridge, Ark., area in a six-hour period Friday night. Rain and snow was indicated in scattered sections from Texas to the Great Lakes and New England. Rain also was forecast for areas in the Southeast except Florida.

In the Northwest, rain and snow fell in inland areas, with moderate rainfall along coastal areas of Oregon and extreme northern California. Fairly pleasant weather prevailed in the far Southwest.

Harris County Stuck With Useless Ferry

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County has a completely useless ferryboat and doesn't know quite what to do with it.

The county decided it could not be repaired and advertised for bids for salvage rights. But there were no bids.

Commissioner Kyle Chapman, in desperation, has asked county engineer Richard Voss to try to find some place the ferry can be beached, and either salvaged by the county or forgotten.

"I wish we could blow it up," Chapman said.

AMUSEMENT

HOWARD AND PATRICIA BARR

Piano Team To Present Concert

Howard and Patricia Barr, man and wife duo - piano team, will present a program to members of the Scurry Concert Association on Monday, Jan. 11. The concert is set for 8 p.m. in Snyder at the High school auditorium.

This will be the second program of the Scurry group's current series. Other programs scheduled are CALEDONIA, The Singers And Dancers of Scotland, Monday, Feb. 1, and The Texas Tech Symphony Orchestra, Thursday, March 25.

To the exceedingly short list of two - piano teams touring the United States today must be added the names of Howard and Patricia Barr, native Texans. This talented young and delightful couple is perhaps unique in its long musical association. Together they attended the same elementary, junior and senior high schools and graduated from the same college. Their very first musical instruction was from the same teacher and their advanced study in the solo repertoire at the university and post graduate level was from the same teachers. Because of this similarity of training there is in their playing a close rapport in matters of musical interpretation that is indeed rare. Since their marriage in 1952, their work as duo - pianists has been increasingly in demand until it now occupies their full attention as performing artists.

A two - piano recital by the Barrs includes a wide variety of music seldom found on any one musical program. The styles of music will range from rare and original two - piano music by the greatest composers through transcriptions from the modern orchestral repertoire to intricate arrangements of popular show tunes. Wherever the Barrs have played, they have been acclaimed by the public and press.

The Barrs have facilitated the problem common to many managements of providing two pianos for a duo - piano concert: they bring their own two Baldwin Concert Grands (nine-foot) with them in a special trailer.

Phyllis Newman Happy On 'TW3'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Not long ago Phyllis Newman's 4-year-old son Adam was asked in nursery school what his mother did — professionally speaking. The little boy replied: "She gets up and she sits down."

"Well, it was true," said the dark-haired young performer later. "The only time he'd seen me on television was in 'To Tell the Truth', and although I did some talking, the only movements I made were to stand up or sit down."

Miss Newman, while still collecting a healthy weekly check as a regular member of the daytime "To Tell the Truth" panel, currently is causing comment as a regular member of the troupe that each week cooks up some mischief in a television revue — or, more precisely, review — called "That Was the Week That Was" on NBC.

"I was dying to get on the program," she recalled. "I'd known Leland Hayward — the producer — since I had a part in his 'Wish You Were Here.' And my husband and I kept running into him at parties. Each time he'd say someting like, 'We've got to have you on the show,' but that was as far as it went."

Finally, however, she made it, and surprised a large number of viewers by launching into a wicked and extremely funny imitation of Barbra Streisand, complete in mannerism and voice. Since then she has gone to work with the same naughty efficiency on Audrey Hepburn, Ethel Merman and Linda Bird Johnson, a portrait gallery which suggests her range.

"The only one that made me a little bit nervous was Ethel Merman," she added. "Partly because I personally think she's so great, and partly because she's not easy to mimic."

Phyllis really was not surprised that the "TW3" people were not exactly beating down the door to get her.

"Nobody thought of me as a satirist," she said. "In fact, I never really thought of myself as anything more than a bathroom satirist — like a bathroom tenor, doing those things for my own personal fun. In fact, nobody in show business was doing much thinking about me at all — I've been mostly on a daytime TV show laterly and not many show business people watch at that time."

Sen. Young Objects To Noisy Aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen Young, D-Ohio, who often acts like his name rather than his age of 76, complained Friday that some Senate aides were making too much noise in the Senate chamber.

Young interrupted a debate over Senate rules, gestured toward several men standing near his desk and demanding that the sergeant-at-arms "clear this space or I'll clear it myself — and forcefully."

The young men walked out quietly.

Actor, First Wife See Son Married

LONDON (AP) — Sir Laurence Olivier took his first wife, Jill Esmond, Friday to the marriage of their only son, Tarquin Olivier, 28, an author, to former drama student, Ridelle Gibson, 19.

To complete the family gathering, Sir Laurence's second wife, actress Vivien Leigh, also was at the church ceremony. Sir Laurence is now married to actress Joan Plowright.

Soviet Girls Are Looking Like Girls

By FRED COLEMAN

MOSCOW (AP) — Girl-watchers can add Moscow to their list of future sightseeing tours. The view from Red quare is improving.

A leading Soviet fashion authority explained the other day that designers here once hid female shapes with clothes "closer to the male figure." That is changing.

"Attention is now given to the complete figure of the woman — more bosom, more hips, more legs," the fashion expert said.

Proof of the change is on view three times a day at Moscow's main fashion house, the Dom Modeley—House of Models.

Moscow women at a recent fashion showing complained that the girls demonstrating clothes walked too fast and didn't give the audience enough time to study the models. Two male onlookers nodded agreement.

Nina Okuneva, a leading Soviet fashion writer, explained the fashion house to a Western reporter before the show. Russian models attend no special schools. They are hired in most cases for good looks alone.

They earn about 100 rubles a month — $111 — good pay by Soviet standards, and can earn 200 rubles a month by working extra shows.

"But the girls don't like to work that much," Miss Okuneva said. "They have to watch their appearance."

A pert little blonde named Alla Mikhailova, was hauled out to take part in the interview.

Alla once had theatrical ambitions but said "modeling replaces the stage for me."

Like many Russian models, she sews her own clothes and reads American, French and Italian fashion magazines.

Like other models, Alla has helped out in shows traveling to Soviet poultry farms, auto plants and other areas where it is difficult for women to get to Moscow showings.

You've overbeaten those "stiffly beaten" egg whites if they lose their gloss and look dull and if small curdlike spots appear. When egg whites get that "dry," they break down and lose the air that was incorporated.

SHE LOOKS JUST LIKE LIZ TAYLOR—Monica Lind, 22-year-old beauty who was born in Stockholm, poses in Las Vegas, Nev., where she's a featured performer with the Follies Bergere at the Tropicana hotel. Her first appearance onstage nightly is regularly greeted with "oohs" and "ahs" from the audience because of her startling resemblance to actress Elizabeth Taylor. (AP Wirephoto)

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

VERACRUZ, Mexico — Zoomed in today in the little washing machine to see what is new with seafood. Also to interview a gentleman who has an extremely unique restaurant.

He serves nothing but fruit. And hangs unusual names on everything.

Well, this gentleman's establishment is off to one side of the main plaza. A sort of pint-size plaza stuck in a high class alley.

And in order to get the proper directions it was necessary to relax a spell at the collection of sidewalk restaurants beneath the antique arcades facing the big plaza.

This is a type of work I never shun. The shrimp vendors come around with huge baskets of cooked shrimp and sell it in other people's restaurants.

Waiters do not object because shrimp makes people thirsty. And a great deal of icy beer passes across the counter to the shrimp eaters. Business is good for everybody.

At any rate, I wandered around and located the Fruit Cafe. A menu was rushed to me by a waitress and I asked if the owner was on the premises. She went to fetch him while I scanned the menu. This fellow takes plain old fruit off trees and gives it exotic Spanish or Indian titles.

They translate roughly to things like "Pineapple Sirloin," "Fillet of Banana", "Papaya With Strawberry Gravy, No Dumplings" and things like that.

So while I was contemplating which cut of what to order, up came the owner dressed like a Paris chef. And he inquired politely if I would care to try the specialty of the day which was "Splash Plate" as near as I can translate it.

I said yes indeed and could he by chance give me some information. . . at which time the waitress whispered something to him and he said one moment, please.

However, he reappeared in half an hour with the Splash Plate, which turned out to be his version of fruit salad. By fruit salad, I mean everything that ever grew on a tree or bush.

And I said, "This is a remarkable place you have here. Could you tell me something about it?"

So he said, "Well. . ." and up came the waitress again and he excused himself. For only a moment.

This time he came back in only 25 minutes. And he leaned on the table and said, "Like I was about to say. . ." when the waitress came up and tapped him on the shoulder. He gave me the "Little moment" sign with his fingers.

But I know when I am whipped. And I shouted, "What's your name?"

He smiled and gave me another "little moment." And never came back.

That took care of the interview. Let it be said, however, that his culinary talents are outstanding as they are rare. To such an extent that the little machine and I scarcely made it back over the mountains, we were that fruited up.

I never found out his name and I am convinced it will be months before I can look a pineapple in the eye without cringing.

TRAVEL TALK

By Hulin Fowler

EDITOR'S NOTE: Write to Mr. Fowler in care of this newspaper for answers to your travel questions.

• • •

Yucatan, that great thumb of land jutting out from the southernmost tip of Mexico into the Caribbean, is not a place to inspire romantic dreams of an idyllic tropical resort.

Yet, largely due to air travel, the once remote peninsula is a rather popular resort, especially to the historically - minded who desire to study the ruins of the ancient Mayan civilization.

The Yucatan Peninsula primarily belongs to Mexico and is composed of the colorful states of Yucatan, Campeche, and the Territory of Quintana Roo. The remainder consists of parts of Guatemala and the British Honduras.

The entire population of the peninsula, which is about the size of Florida, is probably no more than one-half million people.

In reality, Yucatan is neither remote nor forbidding. It is only about 1½ jet hours from New Orleans. In astonishing contrast with the rugged, mountainous terrain of the rest of Mexico, Yucatan is flat, clear and relatively free of jungle except for the extreme southwest part.

Merida, capital of Yucatan and "Gateway to the Mayan Ruins," is a modern city of 150,000 people, fourth largest in Mexico. It is widely regarded as the cleanest city in Mexico, its wide streets tree lined and relatively uncongested by traffic.

Founded on the site of a Mayan city in 1542, Merida is a pleasing contrast of the old and the new in architecture. Sections of handsome modern villas blend in with 400-year-old Spanish colonial buildings with a decided Moorish flavor. Modern hotels dot the city, several looking out over the town plaza, shaded by huge laurel trees, and a 367-year-old cathedral built on the site of a Mayan temple.

Merida's primary industry is sisal hemp and many people sleep in a rope hammock, which is also a popular tourist souvenier item. Also available at reasonable prices are leatherwork, tortoise - shell ornaments gold filigree jewelry and typical Mayan handicraft.

Possibly the most startling sight in Yucatan is the windmills. The peninsula rests on great subterranean reservoirs. While the ancient Mayas dug "cenotes" (wells), their modern counterparts discovered windmills in the 1920s. Merida alone has an estimated 20,000 windmills on as many rooftops, or about one windmill for every seven persons.

The people in Yucatan are different from those in the rest of Mexico. Descendants of a once strong proud people, the Mayans, both men and women dress entirely in white. Their features are broad and stoic, but they are a friendly people, proud of their heritage of a once modern civilization known the world over for its stone architecture.

The Mayan ruins are regarded by many archeologists as the most remarkable and extensive relics of ancient civilization anywhere in the western world. Though exploration and study began in 1923, the bulk of the work is yet to be done. Amateur archeologists and historians find the sites fertile ground for their explorations, relatively untouched by the professionals.

Two of the most famous groups of ruins lie within 50 miles of Merida and can be comfortably explored thanks to the unique and up-to-date travel services offered on the peninsula. One of these, Uxmal, is believed to have been the aristocratic center of Mayan rule, built between the seventh and eleventh centuries. The other, Chichen Itza, has a huge four-sided pyramid which provided a 90-foot platform from which the ruling Mayan high priests conducted sacrificial rites.

Comfortable hotels and other accommodations are never very far from the historic ruins. Of course, this could be a disappointment to tourists who expect to come to Yucatan and "rough it," but it makes for a comfortable and enjoyable visit to some of the most important excavations in the western world.

Very Little Change For Jean Arthur

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Nothing much has changed about Jean Arthur. She still has the same blonde beauty, the same smoky voice. She is still skittish about publicity.

The great star of sophisticated comedies of the '30s and '40s is back before the cameras after an 11-year absence. Her last appearance was in George Stevens' epic Western "Shane," and her return finds her out West again in "Gunsmoke." She is starring in the long-run series as mother of an outlaw.

She appeared for her first "Gunsmoke" scenes wearing blue jeans that displayed her trim figure to advantage. The record books show her to be 56, but that is hard to believe.

With Miss Arthur her work on the set was always uppermost. She remains the same. Between takes she huddled with the director or scampered to her dressing room. A brave reporter caught her in an unguarded moment and welcomed her back to town.

"Thank you, but you're breaking the rules in talking to me," she said, half in jest.

She did pause for a fleeting moment to reflect on the experience of working in television.

"They shoot so fast!" she remarked. "My goodness, we fly from one scene to another. I think it's wonderful. I enjoy doing it and getting on to the next scene."

I mentioned that it wasn't like working with George Stevens, who has been known to shoot 25 takes of one scene. "Yes, but he's so wonderful," she replied, and she inquired about his new film, "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

"Gee, I wish he would make some comedies again," she said. "He made such good ones." Among them were "Talk of the Town" and "The More the Merrier," in which Miss Arthur starred.

PETER FONDA and Sharon Hugueny are shown in a scene from "The Young Lovers," which is coming to the Canyon Drive In Theater here Sunday, Jan. 17.

Finds City Employes Living Out Of Town

KANSAS CITY (AP) — When Kansas City Mayor Ilus Davis mailed out Christmas cards to city employes and had 200 of them returned because of incorrect addresses, he learned that some employes may be living in the suburbs. This is despite an ordinance requiring them to live within city limits.

He has a plan to combat that, it was reported Friday: pay checks "may be periodically mailed" instead of being distributed in offices by clerks.

Cattlemen Oppose Shift Of Inspectors

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cattlemen are joining the meat packing industry in opposing a proposal to shift federal meat inspection from the Agriculture Department's scientific wing to its marketing agency.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman has announced the impending shift.

Dudley Campbell, secretary of the American National Cattlemen's Association, has said his organization fears the inspection service may suffer, with consumers not getting as much protection as they have in the past.

The American Meat Institute, expressing the same view, has said it will fight the change in Congress.

Sales Tax Table OK As Guideline

Texas taxpayers may use a state sales tax table as a guideline when filing their 1964 federal income tax returns. Ellis Campbell, Jr., District Director of Internal Revenue said the table is now available.

The table shows the average amount of state sales tax paid by Texas residents and may be used by taxpayers who itemize their federal income tax deductions. Similar tables have been prepared for 36 other states and the District of Columbia.

For the first time since 1960 when the tables were originally issued there has been a general revision of the amounts, Campbell said. The latest tables are based on summary data showing the patterns of consumer expenditures developed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics from a 1960-61 study. Previous tables were based on a 1950 study.

Previously, tables were revised only to reflect changes in sales tax rates or the commodities covered by the particular state's laws.

The recent study shows that household operations, property taxes, medical care, personal care services, education, and insurance have, for the most part, comprised a larger part of the total consumer expenditures in 1960-61 than they did in 1950. These items are not usually subjected to state sales taxes.

The new tables omit the state sales tax on automobiles purchased, thus providing a uniform treatment of this item for all states. Now taxpayers who purchase an automobile may add the sales taxes paid on the purchase to the amount shown in the table.

The result of the revisions, particularly the elimination of the allowance for autos, has reduced the amount shown on the sales tax tables. The new tables, however, are a more accurate measure of the average sales tax paid in the various states.

Internal Revenue reminds taxpayers that these tables are not required to be used. They are furnished as a guide for the convenience of taxpayers who itemize deductions on their federal income tax returns but who wish to use a "standard" amount for state sales tax which will not require detailed substantiation. Taxpayers have the choice, of course, of deducting the actual amount of state sales taxes paid.

Cigarette taxes are no longer deductible in Texas, due to the tax law change in 1964. The average state sales tax table for Texas tells taxpayers they can deduct 5 cents per gallon for gasoline.

TEXAS 1964

AVERAGE STATE SALES TAX TABLE

This table is based on the Texas general sales tax of 2 percent. It may be used when deducting sales tax on Form 1040. If the table is not used, sales tax deductions must be itemized and substantiated. Deductible sales tax on the purchase of automobiles and gasoline tax of 5 cents a gallon are not included in the table and must be itemized separately.

Basin API Session Set

The Permian Basin Chapter of the American Petroleum Institute will hold its first meeting of 1965 Thursday in Odessa.

The meeting will be held at the American Legion Auditorium located on East Eighth Street and Highway 80.

The first session of the year is the annual membership meeting, and all proceeds for this meeting will be used for the annual college scholarships that are presented to three outstanding high school seniors each year.

The doors will open at 6:30 p.m. and barbecue and drinks will be served prior to the program. The Chuck Wagon Gang of Odessa will be in charge of the barbecue. Barbecue tickets will be $3 each and the 1965 membership tickets are $2 each.

Both barbecue and membership tickets are on sale at oil supply and service companies, and they also may be purchased at the door. The meeting will be a stag affair.

Snyderite In Band For Inauguration

SAN MARCOS — Bob Covey of Snyder is a member of the Southwest Texas State College band organization which will march in the presidential inaugural parade in Washington, D. C. on Jan 20.

The 239 - member Southwest Texas group is one of two college band organizations representing Texas in the parade. President Lyndon B. Johnson is a 1930 graduate of the San Marcos college.

The Southwest Texas band organization is composed of four units — the color guard; the playing unit; the Strutters, a precision dance unit; and the Bobkittens, a majorette corps.

The band has made 11 appearances on national television since 1960. This will be its second time to march in the presidential inaukural parade. The organization appeared at the 1960 inauguration.

Covey, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Covey, is a member of the playing unit of the Southwest Texas band.

He is a music major at SWTSC.

Millionaire Charged With Conspiracy

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Harry Stonehill, an international businessman who's unwanted in three countries, won and lost in his tussle with the government Friday.

Stonehill, 47, won reduction in his $100,000 bond to $50,000 at a hearing before U.S. Commissioner Frank Baskin. He lost, however, in an attempt to avoid facing New York conspiracy charges.

Tagged "the vagabond millionaire" by the government, he was indicted Wednesday in New York on federal charges of shipping cigarette manufacturing equipment from New York to Manila, P.I., under a false bill of lading in 1961.

Baskin said after a two-hour hearing he was convinced by the evidence that Stonehill was the man named in the New York indictment.

That was the main point of the hearing and his ruling was a victory for the government. The New York court has set Stonehill's arraignment in the case for Jan. 14.

Stonehill's lawyers appealed the commissioner's removal decision to U.S. Dist. Judg Adrian Spears.

FBI agents arrested Stonehill here Monday as he stepped off an airliner from Mexico City.

Great Salt Lake Becoming A Pond

By GEORGE NEWMAN

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — Great Salt Lake — Western America's largest body of water, the lake with the unsinkable swimming, a leading tourist attraction — is fast becoming a briny mud puddle.

It's still true a swimmer can't sink in the lake, but bathers now have trouble finding water deep enough to put it to a test.

Just west of Salt Lake City, stands a massive rococo structure. This is Saltair, where millions gathered in the 1920s to bob in the salty waters and dance the Charleston on the boardwalk.

From the highway it looks impressive, if grotesque — candy-striped Victorian spires silhouetted against the desert flatlands.

But there's a chain across the road leading to Saltair. It prevents the visitor from approaching a ghost.

The building is a shell, the boardwalk a mass of rotten wood, the lake some 100 yards from the muddy beach. It's several hundred more yards before the water is above a man's knees.

Only one beach still operates on the lake. That one is in danger of shutting down because it's a long hike to the water.

This is a big comedown for a body of water that in prehistoric times covered 20,000 square miles, in some places 1,000 feet deep. Lake Bonneville, Great Salt Lake's fresh-water predecessor, stood 850 feet over the present location of Salt Lake City. The city now is 20 miles from the Great Salt Lake.

Geologists say Lake Bonneville faded away because it evaporated faster than precipitation filled it. That's what's wrong with Great Salt Lake today.

The streams that feed the lake are being used more and more for irrigation. Rainfall has been below average the past decade. Evaporation has shrunk the lake to its lowest level since Mormon settlers began keeping track in the 1850s.

As the water level has gone down the salt content has gone up to 27 per cent. This has left a collar of precipitated salt around the shore. Larvae breed in the salt marshes, giving the lake a heady aroma that often repels tourists attracted by the no-sink legend.

"Few visitors to the Salt Lake region care to miss the opportunity of swimming in the lake where one cannot sink," says a pamphlet written in 1949 by David E. Miller and still on sale at Salt Lake City newsstands.

"I have to admit that's not true now," says Miller, a history professor at the University of Utah.

Miller is a member of the Great Salt Lake Authority, a group appointed by the state to study ways of redeveloping the lake. The authority reflects the concern of civic leaders who see tourists approach the water, do a quick about-face and head for the nearest fresh-water pool. Some of them head straight out of Utah, which disturbs civic leaders even more.

So far the redevelopers have been unable to agree on how the redevelopment should be done.

The Great Salt Lake Authority has approved a plan to test a dike of copper tailings — the waste product of Kennecott Copper Corp.'s plant at Magna on the south shore. The tailings, powered leftovers, are now dumped in a pond behind the plant.

Aluminum Auto Engines Forecast For Near Future

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer

DETROIT, Mich. (ap) — A prediction that aluminum engines will return in volume to American passenger cars in about two years was made Sunday by Reynolds Metals Co.

Reason for Reynolds' belief will be documents in the company's exhibit at the Society of Automotive Engineers' (SAE) annual meeting opening in Detroit Monday.

W. G. Reynolds, executive vice president for research and development, Reynolds Metals Co., said the decision to build results of more than seven years of research and development by Reynolds had been made "in the best interests of both the aluminum and auto industries as well as their customers."

J. Donald Shircliff, vice president, Reynolds Aluminum Sales Co., added in an interview: "It seems timely and prudent for this action in view of the continuous increases in aluminum required for passenger cars."

Shircliff said the engine-research program was born out of the development by Chevrolet of the first American auto engine mass produced from molten aluminum supplied by Reynolds. It powered the Corvair introduced in 1959.

Shircliff said the program had been stimulated by the fact that all major auto producers, except Ford, once had offered aluminum engines on a limited basis. He said that with the exception of Corvair, their costs of production were too high to be continued.

With more than 2¼ million aluminum engines now in the hands of American drivers, only Chevrolet in the United States is still producing aluminum engines," Shircliff said. He added that French and British auto makers are placing increasing emphasis on aluminum engines.

"For the last 16 years, the amount of aluminum per car has increased annually, and it has doubled in the past eight years," Shircliff said.

He said the 1964 model cars built in U.S. plants averaged 72 pounds of aluminum, an increase of 2 pounds over the previous year, and added that preliminary figures indicate that the 1965 model year usage of aluminum would increase 74 pounds.

Shircliff said the SAE exhibit will show how the compatability of aluminum pistons running in aluminum cylinders had been proved and will list results of road tests and production of integral-die cast aluminum blacks.

No comment was expected from U.S. auto makers until they have had a chance to study the Reynolds exhibit at SAE.

— AN IDEAL —

Many years ago — in 1929, to be exact — a group of outstanding women with integrity and ability established an ideal of sisterhood based upon the finest standards of character. That ideal was to be achieved through the close association of like-minded young women, studying together to develop such qualities as graciousness, self-expression and leadership. The purpose of that organization was and is to put those abilities into service for the good of the community and the nation. Thus the first chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha was established.

The first chapter was installed in Jacksonville, Texas, on September 13, 1929. Many prominent women were interested in the foundation of ESA. Among the first members were the late Willa Cather, the noted author, and Dr. M. Freeda Lotz of Colorado Springs.

For the next 11 years, the organization continued to grow, but progress was slow, considering the opportunities which the Sorority offered.

— A REALITY —

In 1941, E. Robert Palmer, educator, philosopher and lecturer, recognizing the potentialities of this sisterhood became head of the organization. Since that time, Epsilon Sigma Alpha has grown beyond all expectations. They now stand as one of the foremost women's organizations in the nation with chapters in 45 of the 50 states and members throughout the world who exemplify the finest type of young womanhood. Forty thousand members proudly wear the jeweled pin of the sorority.

In October, 1948, Alpha Alpha chapter was established in Voorburg, Holland. Other chapters in foreign countries are being established, thus extending the advantage and privileges of membership. At present, chapters are established in England, Scotland, Alaska, Canada, Japan, Mexico and Hawaii.

— SERVICE FOR OTHERS —

Benevolence and Epsilon Sigma Alpha have been synonymous through the years. Each of the fifteen hundred chapters has a project, a benevolent, charitable or civic enterprise toward which the girls give their time and money. Some chapters contribute books, magazines, games and radios to our veterans at the hospitals. Some provide recreational facilities for the youth of the nation, thus helping to combat juvenile delinquency. Some contribute toward CARE, the international relief organization. Some have undertaken to furnish rooms at local hospitals; others have purchased wheel chairs, glasses, crutches, etc. for those less fortunate.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha was organized for a three-fold purpose: Cultural Development, Social Activities and Service to Others. The word Sorority is derived from the Latin root word Soror meaning sister. Thus was founded the first off-the-campus sorority. It was, at its inception, primarily for girls and women who had not attended college. But today the roster of ESA is filled with many college graduates and almost as many "Housewives", as career girls.

MISS MARSHA HURST is the Iota Psi Chapter of ESA beauty entrant. Miss Hurst is a nurse and supervisor of the operating room at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

District VIII of Epsilon Sigma Alpha is comprised of 15 chapters. Delta Beta of Andrews; Alpha Chi, and Mu Kappa of Big Spring; Mu Delta of Crane; Beta Iota of Fort Stockton; Iota Delta, and Theta Gamma of Kermit; Alpha Psi, Beta Eta, and Kappa Gamma of Midland; Mu Iota of Monahans; Epsilon Mu, and Lambda Alpha of Odessa; and Iota Psi and Gamma Upsilon of Snyder.

MRS. BILL (Jean) GRIFFIN represents the Kappa Gamma Chapter of ESA, Midland.

MRS. BAXTER L. BREAUX represents her Lambda Alpha Chapter, No. 2627, Odessa, Texas.

MRS. JACK (Mittie) AKIN, treasurer of the Theta Gamma Chapter of ESA in Kermit.

MRS. TRUETT (Ann) MCCABE is the contestant for Delta Beta No. 1810 Chapter of ESA, Andrews.

New Mexico Couple Repeat Vows In Snyder Church

HERMLEIGH (Spl.) Double ring vows were exchanged in the First Assembly of God Church in Snyder, January 1, at 4 p.m. by Jeneva Eldarae Walton of Roswell, N. M., and Ralph Ray Conner, Roswell, N. M. Rev. John Duke, pastor of the Northside Baptist Church officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Walton of Hermleigh, and Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Conner of Pinson, Tennessee.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of lace with a white satin train and waist length veil, and carried white carnations.

Mrs. C. W. Hasler of Roswell, N. M., sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a gold brocade dress and carried long stemmed carnations. Best man was Elmer Don Walton of Midland, brother of the bride. Rev. R. C. Dearman of Snyder served as usher.

The church was decorated with two baskets of green spray with mums.

The "Wedding March" and "Whither Thou Goest" was presented by Mrs. Milton Hollis of Snyder, pianist, and Mrs. Barbara West Taft of Roswell, N. M., soloist.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall, where a four-layer bride and groom cake was served by Mrs. R. C. Dearman. Mrs. Melba Hasler presided at the bride's book.

For her wedding trip the bride chose a blue wool suit. After a weekend trip the couple are at home in Roswell, N. M.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Hermleigh High School and is presently employed by the Coco Cola Bottling Co. in Roswell, N. M.

The groom is a 1957 graduate of Boeing School of Aeronautics and has served 14 years in the U. S. Air Force, and is presently stationed in Roswell, N. M.

Mrs. M. C. Richburg of Roswell was an out of town guest.

You're no "dummy," if you are looking for a quick easy-to-prepare dessert that may be served effortlessly while you're "trumping." Bridge Dessert was created especially with this thought in mind! Made with dark moist spicy gingerbread, juicy pineapple, and a creamy-smooth dessert topping, Bridge Dessert may be prepared hours before your party, stored in the refrigerator, and then spooned into serving dishes at the last minute.

This deliciously cool dessert is made with one-half pan of gingerbread — leaving the remainder for your family's dessert or snack. The delightful sauce, flavor - rich with brown sugar, pineapple and butter, is spread over the crumbled gingerbread in a refrigerator pan then covered with a creamy rich topping. Chopped pecans add a crunchy crowning touch!

Made with Gingerbread Mix and Lucky Whip Dessert Topping, Bridge Dessert is easy and quick to prepare and yet tastes as though you've spent all morning preparing it. Here is the recipe.

BRIDGE DESSERT

Prepare Gingerbread Mix as directed on pkg. Crumble ½ pan of cooled baked gingerbread (about 3 cups crumbled) into a refrigerator tray. Spoon Pineapple Sauce (below) over gingerbread. Spread 1 cup whipped Lucky Whip Dessert Topping over Pineapple Sauce; sprinkle ¼ cup chopped pecans over topping and refrigerate 2 hr. 4 to 6 servings.

Pineapple Sauce

3 tbsp. brown sugar
1½ tsp. cornstarch
1 can (8 oz.) crushed pineapple
1 tbsp. butter

Mix sugar and cornstarch in saucepan. Add remaining ingredients and boil 1 min., stirring constantly. Cool.

More Room

One way to expand a home for a space-hungry family without demolishing the budget is to enclose a porch. Plan the enclosure to fit the existing structure as closely and simply as possible, thus saving on labor costs. Surface the floor with quarry tile, which is so colorful and durable that carpets and rugs are unnecessary. And you can add shelves and cabinets against wall and under windows.

It is only during a water shortage that most of us pay much attention to the large amounts of water that are wasted every day because of leaky plumbing fixtures. Yet, even in normal times, it is essential that such leaks be taken care of quickly. They can send water bills soaring, cut heavily into reservoir supplies and place unnecessary strains on individual wells.

One of the most frequent offenders in this respect is the water or flush tank in back of the toilet bowl. If water drips or flows from the tank into the bowl when it is not in use, the waste of water over the period of a month can be tremendous, far more than that which usually occurs when a faucet is in need of a new washer.

There are a number of reasons for the leakage from a flush tank, too many to go into detail about them in this alloted space. But we can at least discuss one of the most common causes — the failure of the rubber ball valve at the bottom of the tank to drop perfectly on the valve seat. If you lift up the top of the tank, you'll see a vertical rod, at the bottom of which is a rubber valve shaped like a ball or bell. After the tank has been flushed, this valve returns to its position on the valve seat, keeping the water in the tank sealed in. When it doesn't fit properly, water leaks under the valve and into the tank.

One trouble may be improper positioning of the bracket that keeps the vertical rod in place. See if the bracket is loose. If so, tighten it after being certain that the vertical rod is directly over the center of the valve seat. If the bracket is tight, and the rod is in position, the next step is to inspect the rubber ball valve. (You can get Andy Lang's detailed booklet, "Make Simple Plumbing Repairs," by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 954, Jamaica, N.Y. 11431.)

Remove the valve by unscrewing it from the vertical rod. If it seems defective or worn, replacing it with a new one is a cheap and effective remedy. But it may be that the valve seat is at fault. Rub emery cloth or steel wool around the inside of it to clean off any rust of grit. In most cases, it is best to clean the valve seat AND replace the rubber ball valve. While you're at it, buy a new vertical rod if it has begun to corrode. Some dealers sell both the valve and vertical rod in the same package.

After making the repair, leave the tank cover off while you flush the tank several times, allowing time between flushings for the tank to refill. This not only will enable you to be sure the vertical rod is centered properly, but will give you a better idea of the over-all operation of the somewhat complicated mechanism on the inside of the tank.

QUESTION: There are some spots on the wallpaper in our living room. They do not appear to be stains from a chemical or anything like that, but just plain dirt. Frankly, the wallpaper was quite inexpensive when we bought it and put it up a few years ago and I am afraid that trying to clean the spots might tear the paper. Can you tell me whether this paper can be cleaned and, if so, how?

ANSWER: It is quite likely that you have what is called water-sensitive paper, which is inclined to shred or crumble when it is rubbed with a damp cloth or anything similar. But you can find out for yourself by finding some inconspicuous area perhaps behind the sofa, and rubbing it to see what happens. If it proves to be sensitive to water, you can try to remove the soiled parts from the wallpaper in other parts of the room with stale bread from which the crust has been removed. Rub large pieces of the bread over the paper, using wide, sweeping strokes and discarding any pieces that become dirty. This treatment will work with most stains, but more stubborn spots will require the use of a special type of wallpaper cleaner available in most hardware stores and wherever wallpaper is sold.

This is a kind of putty which is used somewhat like the bread. If your test discloses that the paper is water - resistant, you can try wiping with a clean cloth, dipped in dry borax. If that doesn't work, rub the soiled area lightly with a mild soap solution, using long strokes and working upward. Don't be too vigorous. Twenty or 30 light strokes will accomplish as much as five heavy ones, and without the danger of tearing the paper.

Blend equal parts of mayonnaise and sour cream and add crumbled blue cheese; serve with wedges of iceberg lettuce for a salad men usually like. Add strips of pimineto or pimiento - stuffed green olives for color, or just a sprinkle of paprika.

Pettitt, Claxton Vows Held In Avenue D Baptist Church

The wedding vows of Miss Zetta Myrle Pettitt and Cpl. James W. Claxton were solemnized Monday evening December 28th, at 7 o'clock in Avenue D Baptist Church with the Rev. Bobby Phillips officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. T. E. Pettitt, 700 Twenty-eighth Street, and Mr. and Mrs. William J. Claxton, 414 Twenty-ninth Street are the bridegroom's parents.

The bride, accompanied by her brother, Mr. Gail E. Pettitt, approached the altar down an aisle marked with satin ribbon and flowers. Gracing the altar were tall arrangements of sunburst palms, illuminated with branched candelabra holding burning white tapers.

Miss Keitha Walton, soloist sang "Because," "Always," and "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Miss Sherry Belt, pianist, for the double ring ceremony.

A formal gown of white brocade satin was chosen by the bride. The molded bodice featured a Sabrina neckline and long petal point sleeves, that closed with tiny self - covered buttons. The slightly flared skirt swept into a chapel train. She wore a matching pillbox headdress and a pouf waist - length veil of silk illusion.

Bridal Bouquet

The bridal bouquet of Frenched carnations in cascading design was accented with English ivy and picot satin, and carried atop a white Bible. She wore a blue friendship garter, a penny in her shoe, and a white handkerchief that her sisters had carried. A gold heart necklace also graced her attire, it was a gift of the groom.

Miss Kathy Crisp, maid of honor, was attired in a dress of royal blue velveteen edged in white lace. The sheath style featured long sleeves and Sabrina neckline. Her headdress was a matching velveteen rosette holding a short veil. She carried a long stemmed white carnation.

Barbara Claxton, sister of the groom was bridesmaid. Connie Black of San Angelo, niece of the bride, was flower girl. They were dressed identical to the maid of honor.

Roger Claxton, brother of the groom was candlelighter, and Terry Shipley of Kermit, nephew of the bride, was ring bearer.

Auther Claxton attended his brother as best man. Bobby Shipley of Kermit and Buddy Shaw of Snyder, seated guests and attended as groomsmen.

A royal blue two-piece wool suit was the bride's traveling costume, she wore black accessories and the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The bride is a senior at Snyder High School and will reside with her mother until after graduation. The groom is a graduate of Kress High School and has served in the U. S. Marine Corp for the past two and one-half years. Mrs. Claxton will join her husband in North Carolina in May.

Reception

A reception was held in fellowship hall following the ceremony. Guests were received by the bridal couple, parents, and the bridal party.

A crystal teardrop candelabrum with votive candles centered the table. It was arranged with tulle carnations, white doves, and accessories were in silver and crystal. The table was covered with a long white damask cloth, and the bridal cake featured a miniature bride and groom atop a three - tiered colonial columned confection. Presiding at the serving table were Linda Hickman, Sheila Dupree and Barbara Williamson. Miss Williamson also registered guests.

Out-of-town guests were from Big Spring, San Angelo, Kermit, Lubbock, Tex. and Orcutt, California.

Library Notes

Interest in the American Indian is pronounced in the local area and the Scurry County Library has many books for its patrons to select.

The adult reading library has considerable space devoted to books covering Indian history, customs, art, legends, ceremonials, and relationships of the Indian and the white man. The juvenile section of the library also has a wealth of information pertaining to the American Indian.

In a fascinating book, "Early Inhabitants of the Americas," Harry Errald Stafford, reveals that the Americas were discovered and rediscovered by at least five races of people in eight migrations centuries before Columbus was born. This work is documented by the testimony of ancient records. It is immense in scope and richly informative in detail. Stafford traces the decent of the first Americans from the Chaldean colonists who migrated, following the confusion of the Tower of Babel, in 3097 B.C., and sailed from Morocco across the Atlantic to Central America. It was the red-skinned Lamanites, the author believes, who were ancestors of most of the inhabitants of the Americas at the time of Columbus' arrival. The Lamanites came from Jerusalem in the second migration across the South Pacific.

Harold E. Driver describes the enormous variations of culture patterns among Indians, from the Arctic to Panama, in his book, "Indians of North America." The time setting for this book ranges from the sixteenth century for the Aztecs and their neighbors in Mexico to the nineteenth century for the natives of the western United States, most of Canada, Alaska, and Greenland. Since the Indians themselves left scarcely any written records, the author has had to rely on the writings of missionaries, traders, and colonial officials. Driver does not draw unsubstantiated inferences in this work, but offers only those historical interpretations which are supported by an overwhelming body of evidence. In completing his study of Indian culture, the author pays tribute to the debt that modern America owes to the Indians in such respects as language, food, and folklore. This book is a reliable reference work for anthropologists on the professional level and for advanced students interested in the North American Indian.

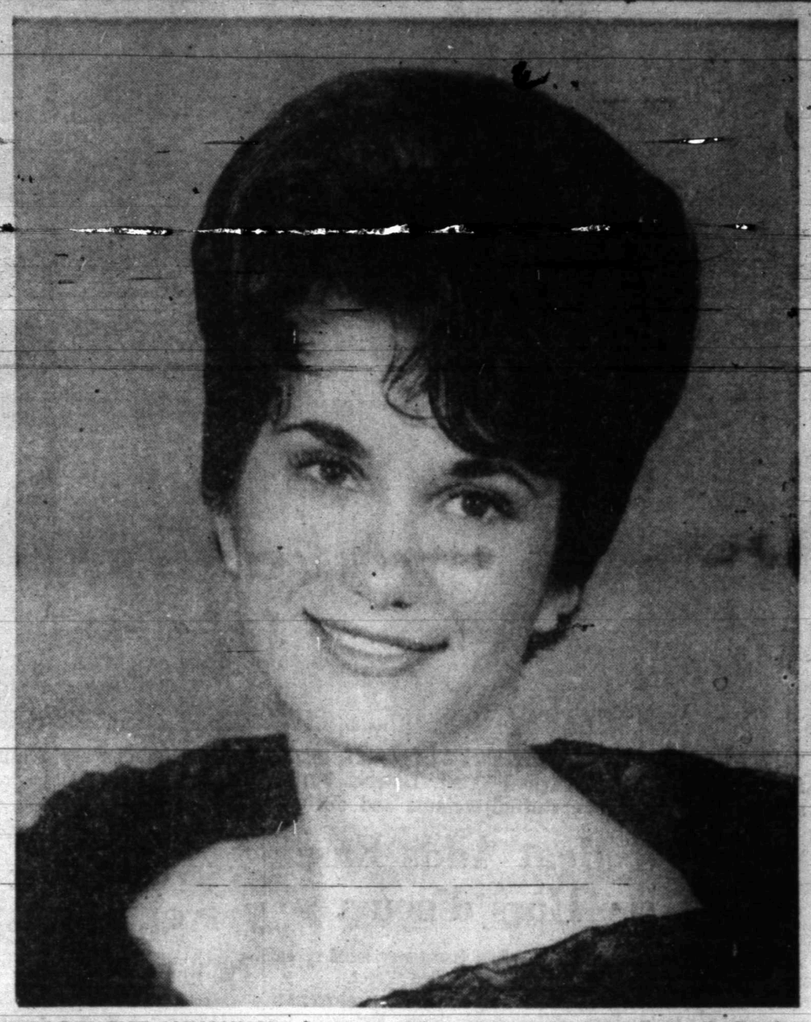

In writing a history of the relationship between the white man and the Indian, William T. Hagan shows how it was doomed at the start by the conflict of cultures and attitudes. Hagan's book, "American Indians," is concluded with a review of what has been done in the last sixty years to redress old wrongs suffered by the red man. The author holds out hope that, if allowed to proceed at his own pace, the Indian will one day enter the main stream of American life. Hagan is professor of history at North Texas State University, Denton, Texas, and is a member of the Executive Committee of the American Indian Ethrohistoric Conference.

George A. Trotter's book, "From Feather, Blanket and Tepee," gives a comprehensive survey of the present - day life of the American Indian. This book is written by a man who knows intimately the situation of the red man today, through thirty years of associating with Indians on reservations in the Southwest. With a deeply sympathetic understanding of these people, Mr. Trotter affirms that the ultimate aim of the whole administrative problem should be re - examined and directed toward educating the young generation. This absorbing book, authoritatively written from direct, firsthand knowledge, covers the role of the government in the Indians' economy; sources of the Indians' livelihood; their mildly pagan religion; tribal superstitions and ceremonials, and the efforts toward Christianization being made by church missions.

Books added recently to the library's youth section include Robert Silverberg's "Home of the Red Man," and "The Incas, People of the Sun," by Victor W. von Hagen. Silverberg answers many interesting questions regarding the first Americans, such as where they came from, who they were, what they looked like, and the origin of their language. In a striking, vivid style, von Hagen describes the food, clothes, crafts, festivals, language, religion, rulers, wars and ideals of the great Inca culture.

Life and history of the Indian is told by May McNeer in her book, "The American Indian Story," recently added to the junior section of the library. This book includes the story of the Indian from the time of his arrival on the American continent; gives accounts of great Indian heroes; describes the powerful tribes, and their fierce wars with the white men. McNeer has packed this book with sound information on Indian origins, way of life, and arts. "Indians at Home," by Robert Hofside is also new to the junior section. It describes Indian homes from the open chikees of the Seminole, loghouses of the Iroquois, the totem - decorated plank houses of the Nootka, the tepee of the Plains Indian, the wigwam of the Ojibwa, and the cliff homes of the ancestors of the Pueblo. Hofside shows the life and customs that went with each home, and the changes that modern times have made in them.

Numerous individual books on the various Indian tribes can also be found at the library. The existance of the Indian in America long before the white man came is sure to interest everyone who enjoys archeology, history, or a good mystery.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Weir of Route 3, Snyder, announce the engagement of their daughter, Patrica Ann, to Wayne Bodkn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Bodkin of Olton, Texas. The couple will exchange wedding vows in a double ring ceremony February 21, at the home of the bride. Miss Weir is a graduate of Ira High School and is a junior at Texas Tech. The prospective groom is a graduate of Olton High School, Texas A&M, and received his Masters Degree at Texas Tech. (Photo by Craft Studio)

Johnson Exhibition

LONDON (AP) — Some 200 years ago Dr. Samuel Johnson gave it as his opinion over a pint of ale that any man who was tired of London was tired of life.

This year the city of London is returning the compliment with a sound - and - vision exhibition tracing progress from his birth in provincial Lichfield, near Birmingham, in 1709 to his death in London in 1784.

Fame came late to Johnson. Poverty cut short his career at Oxford University and the lack of a degree hindered his climb up the rigidly conventional 18th Century social ladder. It wasn't until 1765 that he received his honorary doctorate from Trinity College, Dublin.

Even in his prime, with his monumental dictionary and widely acclaimed essays behind him, Johnson was never fully accepted by the aristocratic and court circles.

Unreceived in palaces and salons, Sam Johnson set up his own court in the pubs and clubs of Fleet Street and the city. For nearly 40 years he ruled intellectual London from a tavern chair — a seat he called "The Throne of Human Felicity."

THIS PRETTY array of party hors d'oeuvres is made from a new product, deviled Treet. Deviled Puffs, stuffed cheese squares, stuffed walnuts and deviled cracker kabobs are featured in the eyecatching arrangement.

Canned Meat Adds Ease To Party Hors d'oeuvres

A new canned meat item on your grocer's shelves helps you create an eye - catching arrangement of tasty hors d'oeuvres with a minimum of effort in the kitchen. The new product is a tangy meat spread called Deviled Treet.

Snacks and hors d'oeuvres are especially easy, and even fun to prepare from deviled treet because it comes to you in a zip top can which opens in less than 5 seconds. Gone is the need for a can opener or the frustrating key.

Here is one idea for a very pretty array of party hors d'oeuvres you might prepare from the tangy spread. Place a 12 to 13-inch round piece of styrofoam on a lacy doily in a shallow bowl. If desired, add a ribbon bow at the base. Then arrange the hors d'oeuvres in a circular pattern on the styrofoam, anchoring them with toothpicks. A suggested sequence might be Deviled Puffs, pitted black olives, Stuffed Cheese Squares, pickled red beets (well drained), and Stuffed Walnuts.

Another party idea is to spear a fresh pineapple, grapefruit or eggplant with Deviled Cracker Kabobs.

DEVILED PUFFS

2 cans (3 ounces each) Armour Deviled Treet
2 to 4 tablespoons chili sauce
1 tablespoon minced onion
1 teaspoon pickle relish
1 teaspoon prepared mustard
1 tablespoon French dressing
Dash garlic powder
12 miniature cream puff shells
Pimento

Blend together all ingredients. Make small opening in each puff shell. Using a pastry tube, fill puff cavity with meat mixture. Garnish with pimento. 12 shells.

STUFFED CHEESE SQUARES

1 can (3 ounces) Armour Deviled Treet
1 ounce softened cream cheese
Dash hot sauce
American cheese

Cut cheese into ¾-inch square cubes. Mix Deviled Treet, cream cheese and hot sauce. Cut cheese cubes in half, insert a layer of meat mixture and top with other cheese half. Serve on picks. 30 squares.

STUFFED WALNUTS

1 can (3 ounces) Armour Deviled Treet
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
Dash orange extract
100 walnut halves

Mix Deviled Treet, cream cheese and orange extract. Refrigerate until easy to handle. Form into 50 small balls, pressing a walnut half to either side. Chill until served. 50 stuffed walnuts.

DEVILED CRACKER KABOBS

Armour Deviled Treet
Crackers
Sweet pickles
Mushroom slices
Pitted black olives
Cocktail onions
Pimento

Spread Deviled Treet on crackers. Spear crackers on picks with any of the remaining ingredients. Make holes in a pineapple, grapefruit or eggplant with an ice pick. When ready to serve, stick kabobs in holes.

Student 'Collects' Shakespeare's Coins

By ROBERT R. SIDMAN
Associated Press Writer

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — A Dartmouth College senior has minted an interesting "pay-by-play." guide of Shakespeare for coin collectors. His book is titled "Coins for Shakespeare: A Numasmatic Guide."

The author is John E. Engstrom, 21, of Wichita, Kan.

The 75-page book was published by Dartmouth College Museum Publications.

Engstrom, the student curator of coins at the museum, said the idea developed last spring when he helped arrange a display marking the 400th anniversary of Shakespeare's birth. He realized there was no systematic, detailed source of coin references in the Bard's works, save for a few scattered magazine articles which appeared in the 1800s.

One thing led to another and soon he was pouring through Shakespeare's plays and sonnets looking for references to coins.

"Once into it I couldn't stop," Engstrom said. He used a compendium of words found in Shakespeare's writings to find sequences he wanted. Then he read around each sequence to get the full meaning of the allusion.

Most of his readings were 200 lines or so from each reference. But he read all of "The Merchant of Venice," in which the allusions to money are more plentiful.

Working on the book every night after his regular class work was finished, Engstrom completed it in two months.

Each page of the book pictures front and rear (obverse and reverse) of an ancient coin. Underneath each example is a collection of Shakespearean quotations concerned with that coin.

Under the "gold angel," a coin from the era of Elizabeth I, is this passage from Henry IV, Part II:

"Your ill angel is light, but I hope that he that looks upon me will take me without weighing."

Engstrom says the ill angel reference is a pun on the coin. In this passage it means the coin is either a counterfeit or badly clipped so that it lacks proper weight.

There are more than 200 quotations to accompany the 50 coins illustrated. The coins range from the fifth century B.C. to the Elizabethan era. The examples used in the illustrations were supplied b the American Numismatic Society of New York.

Several Dartmouth faculty members were enthusiastic over the student's efforts.

Prof. John Finch of the English department, a Shakespeare scholar and a member of the National Committee of the Shakespeare Anniversary Committee, said the book was a "fresh, ingenious addition to Shakespearean scholarship.

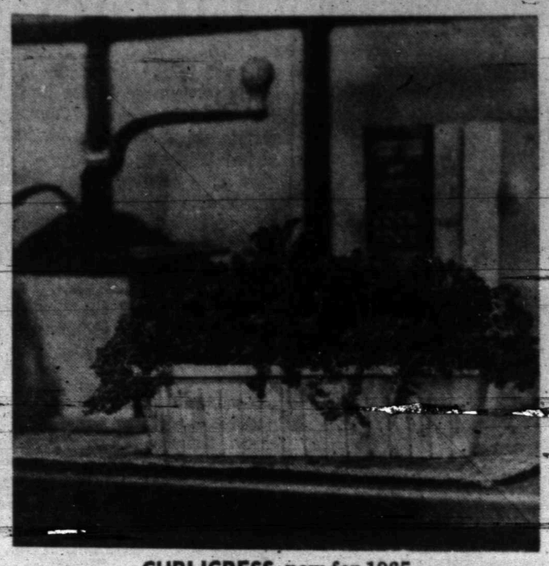

"I'm especially impressed because he is an undergraduate, rather than a graduate student; he's majoring in history, rather than English or drama, and this is entirely an extracurricular activity for which he receives no formal academic credit."

Engstrom is slightly disappointed about the academic credit. "It just didn't work out. It would have been nice," he said.

As for whatever profits may be made on the book, Engstrom said he would give them to the museum, for the purchase of more coins for display.

CURLICRESS, new for 1965

Tasty New Vegetable

Two interesting new table delicacies are innovations for 1965. Sweetpod is the very apt name given their new giant early sugar pea, and Curlicress is the designation for their pungent new cress or peppergrass.

The pods of Sweetpod are so sweet and delicious you can prepare and eat them like snapbeans, yet they have the flavor of garden peas. Sugar peas are a delicious but little - known vegetable, yet they are easy to grow and prepare. The flavor secret with Sweetpod lies in picking the pods when the peas are starting to form and have not yet enlarged the pod. You can tell by just running your finger down the pod before you pick. Cook them until tender but still slightly crisp; taste them once and you'll know you have found a distinctive new table vegetable. This new variety is the result of years of selection at Fordhook Farms to produce an early giant strain. Pods are 4 to 4½ inches long and ¾ of an inch wide. Sweetpod is early, matures in 68 days. Vines grow about 4 feet long and need some support.

Curlicress is a boon to salad and sandwich fanciers. Presented for the first time in a 1965 seed catalog, Curlicress is a cress, commonly called peppergrass. Curlicress makes a pungent and tasty garnish. It's a treat in salads, sandwiches, or blended with cream cheese for a delicious spread. Curlicress is dark green; its finely - cut and curled leaves are somewhat parsley-like.

Curlicress makes a fine kitchen window "garden." It can be eaten just 20 days after planting and can be grown the year round. . .outdoors in your garden from early Spring to late fall; and during the winter, indoors in pots or shallow trays in your kitchen window. If you would like to have a continuous supply, just make a small sowing every two weeks.

Pineapple Butternut

1 butternut squash, about 1¾ pounds
1¼ to 1½ cups boiling water
Salt
1 can (about 1 pound, 4 ounces) pineapple tidbits, drained
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Cut squash in half; remove seeds and stringy portion. Pare, cut into ¾-inch cubes — there will be about 5½ cups. Turn squash, boiling water and 1 teaspoon salt into a 10-inch skillet; boil gently, covered, just until tender and only a few tablespoons of water remain. Distribute pineapple and butter, cut into bits, over squash and add more salt if desired. Mix carefully so as not to mash squash. Reheat gently, shaking skillet several times. Makes 8 servings.

For extra flvor, marinate chicken pieces in oil, lemon juice, salt and pepper before flouring and frying.

Writer — Traveler Go Native

EYE OF THE DAY. By Tarquin Olivier.

For nearly two years young Olivier conducted a sort of one-man version of the people-to-people program out there in Southeast Asia.

What he brings back in the printed page is far more than a travel saga, though he does spin many a tale of the exotic sights, sounds and smells of those offbeat places.

His technique was to work his way into the highly unofficial corners of the places he visited, to live with native families and break down their reticence toward foreigners. The American equivalent would be to win a boardinghouse familiarity with taxi drivers, oil riggers, county farm agents, clerks, teachers, hillbillies, salesmen and a few business men and bureaucrats.

The effort had its hazards. He had to take part in a blood-letting native dance; he came down with malaria on the far island of Timor; he often had to maintain face by eating miserable food and he risked his neck wandering over the unmarked border of Burma.

From Indonesia he reports his impressions of a Sukarno whose spell-binding oratory masks the economic disintegration of the country. He flirted with a Balinese girl, lived in a crammed hovel with the family of a taxi driver, interviewed a Malayan prime minister, and visited with a Thai prince (junior grade.)

He found people whose Asiatic minds are convinced that planning for tomorrow is irreligious; he found others who cannot trust even members of their own race unless they know them in a personal, clannish way.

There are times when his account is so vivid as to be florid. He follows the traditional techniques of the adventurous explorer, but he also is an investigator. What he reports contains an element of medieval terror in the midst of the nuclear age. This is no think - theory, political anlysis. It is a sampling of the under side of the Asiatic choas.

Ready For Anything

Multi - purpose rooms — family, game or recreation rooms — should be geared to a variety of family activities. The multi-purpose room may be a sewing room, home workshop and rock 'n roll dance floor combined. Your multi - purpose room will be game for any activity if the floor is surfaced with a tough, scratchproof material such as ceramic mosiac or quarry tile that can withstand the roughest treatment.

Cucumber Relish Salad

1 large cucumber, pared and sliced thin
½ pint sour cream
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
¼ teaspoon dill weed
Salad greens

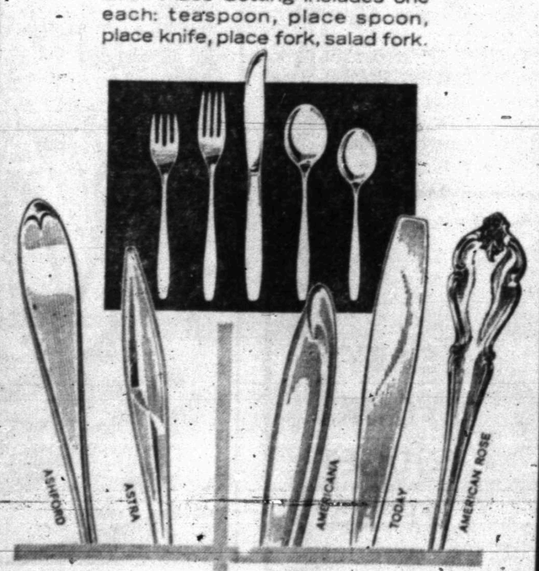

Mix together the cucumber, sour cream, salt, pepper and dill weed; cover and chill until serving time — an hour or so to allow flavors to blend. Serve on salad greens. Makes 4 servings.

'TELL ME, WHERE DOES IT HURT?'

Argentina Troubled, Split By Myth Of Juan Peron

By Robert Berrellez

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina is a large, troubled South American country divided by a myth.

The myth is Peronism. Its central figure, former dictator Juan Peron, is exiled in Spain.

The Peronist legend holds that if the ex-dictator returned all troubles would vanish. The myth's enemies are just as certain disaster would follow.

Kept alive by reports and hopes of the refugee's imminent return, the myth had worn pretty thin in nine years of fruitless waiting. Peronism's leaders finally announced 1964 was definitely the year of "el retorno."

He did not come back. So what happens to Peronism?

As a result of his abortive effort to come back in December, Peron has been placed under strict orders to mute his political activities or leave Spain. There are doubts the 67-year-old former dictator will make another attempt.

The prevailing opinion here is that lack of mystical nourishment will cause the controversial Peronist movement to disintegrate into various shapes, each seeking a more realistic base for its hopes.

Even now the movement is clearly divided between two sectors, one publicly proclaiming a need for Peron's return and the other subscribing to a "Peronism without Peron" formula.

Peron's failure to come back is expected to touch off a tussle between those two groups for control of the Peronist vote, estimated at some 25 per cent of the Argentine electorate.

A third factor in this struggle is the small Argentine Communist party. Ever since the present government allowed it to operate openly, the Communists have been busily recruiting through 80 new offices.

What if Peron had returned and been allowed to campaign in congressional elections next March?

There is little doubt even among Peron's bitterest critics he would have won a substantial plurality, perhaps even a majority, of votes.

Peron's mystical hold on the popular masses is believed to remain not only strong enough to heal any of the present divisions within the Peronist ranks, but also to attract a large portion of the many Argentines who haven't made up their minds about the alternatives.

"Peron is to the working class Argentine what wooden idols were to primitive peoples," says Gregorio Falcioni, 38, salesman. "This is a land of abundance, acute shortages and high prices difficult to explain rationally to the people. The worker thinks Peron would miraculously straighten things out. Of course he couldn't, but they don't want to believe that."

Peron couldn't do it again, it appears, because the ingredients that went into the creation of his myth are no longer available.

He came along at just the right time, amid a disorganized and largely mediocre opposition. He was equipped with the proper amounts of political intuitiveness and demagoguery and enough surplus money $1.5 billion — to perform little bread-and-butter "miracles" that built up a following surpassed in hemisphere history probably only by the 1959 Fidel Castro.

The myth has been kept alive by Peron's heirs as a ready-made vehicle to power, and by an unimaginative opposition that has failed thus far to provide the alternative to Peron.

Much of Peronism's strength is concentrated in the giant Argentine General Confederation of Labor — CGT — the machine Peron beefed up to a peak 1947 strength of 3 million members to insure his hold on power. Even then, Peron was not an idol to all Argentines. There was serious opposition even within the CGT at his greatest hour. Peronists today control 45 unions within the confederation. Some 20 others oppose Peron and the use of the CGT as a political machine. The Communists control three.

The CGT's Peronist wing publicly advocating Peron's return includes Augusto Vandor, who captained the "el retorno" idea, and Andres Framini, a nationalist, whose following includes Castroites and other left-wing extremists.

The various shades of "neo-Peronism," those who feel the movement no longer requires Peron's physical presence, are led mostly by professionals. among these are Dr. Raul Matera, a prominent neurosurgeon; Oscar Albrieu, Peron's interior minister, and Elias Sapag, wealthy merchant and senator.

In the March 14 voting it seems likely Peron's failure to return will hurt the old guard Peronists through defections of followers now convinced the dictator cannot return.

What is Peronism without Peron?

Little except generalities about social justice is said publicly to give a clear idea of its philosophy or program of government.

One clear fact remains in the wake of the vanishing myth: Peronists are unpalatable, with or without Peron, to the political opposition, which in turn is as badly divided as the Peronists if not more so.

Political analyst Mariano Grondona summed up the situation: "Peronism and anti-Peronism each is too strong to be conquered and too weak to conquer."

Seek To Protect Astronaut's Privacy

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Town councilmen of suburban El Lago are weighing steps to control telecasts from the homes of astronauts.

Thursday night they discussed an ordinance to require permits for obstructions on city streets. It listed television trucks or mobile equipment as possible obstructions.

Mayor George Walraven said radio-television units "turned Timber Cove subdivision into a madhouse during the first space flights. We're not going to stand for it."

He said the ordinance would be rewritten and he felt sure it would be adopted at the next council meeting.

Eight astronauts have homes in the El Lago vicinity. They are Frank Borman, Donn F. Eisele, Edward H. White II, Russel L. Schweicart, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr., John W. Young, Thomas P. Stafford and Neil A. Armstrong.

Water Improvements Set For Lamar Co.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Community Facilities Administration has authorized a $1,750 advance to the Lamar County Water Control and Improvement Dist. No. 1 at Roxton, Tex., to plan improvements for its water system.

Junior Editors Quiz on ASTRONOMY

QUESTION: Are there other phases besides those of the moon?

• • •

ANSWER: Yes. Moonlight is sunlight falling on the moon, then reflected from the moon to our eyes. As the moon circles the earth, there is a time when none of the sun's light is reflected (new moon). Then you see a silver crescent (upper left), a first or last quarter, the gibbous moon (upper right) and finally the full moon. These are known as the phases of the moon. But the word phase can be applied to other things, too. A phase means one state of a thing when it can change to other states. When the cells of the body divide to form new ones, the pairs of chromosomes inside them line up facing each other. When the cell divides, one from each pair will be in each new cell, such steps being called phases of cell division. Some frogs can change their colors; they might be in a brown phase or a green phase. We illustrate two phases or states of water, solid and liquid—another phase would be the gaseous one of water vapor in the air. We don't ordinarily speak of people's states of mind as phases; but Dorothy is trying to make the word clearer by speaking of her frown as her angry phase. We can be sure she has a cheerful, sweet one as well.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Ask your friends what color the moon is. They'll probably say silver or yellow or orange. Then explain it only looks like these colors because of sunlight seen at a great distance—but actually, astronomers think the color of the moon is a dark brown, the color of earth or rocks. 1-9
