ALLIES SEEKING LASTING PEACE WITH GERMANY

French Invite Teuton Nation To Join in Treaty For Europe

ANSWERS NOTE

Early Conference Planned Between Foreign Powers Involved

LONDON, Aug. 26. — (AP)—France and her allies have invited Germany to enter into negotiations for a definite treaty intended to guarantee an endless era of peace in western Europe. The invitation was extended in a note handed to the German government by the French ambassador at Berlin on Monday and made public in the various capitals tonight. It is a reply to Germany's note of July 20 on the subject of security.

In their reply, the French, in common with their allies, confine themselves to observations on only three points. This doubtless was done in conformity with the recent conclusion reached by the allied statesmen that the time has come to put an end to note writing and open the way for the commencement of conversations, which, it is hoped, will be more fruitful of acceptable peace plans than penmanship has been.

No Modification.

The three essential points on which the French would postulate all future efforts to guarantee the security of themselves and their neighbors are that the treaty of Versailles must not be modified, that Germany should enter the league not with reservations, as Germany has suggested but on an equal footing with the other members, and that provision should be made for compulsory arbitration of future disputes between nations.

Early Conference.

An early conference between the German foreign minister and the allied foreign ministers is already in prospect. Word came from Berlin tonight that the French, British and Belgian ambassadors had joined in a statement that the allies considered it advisable that their juridical ex-

Slaughter 2,000 Head of Cattle; Close Highways

HOUSTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Approximately 2,000 additional head of cattle will be slaughtered in the fight against the foot and mouth disease that spread today to a herd on the north side of the Houston ship canal. These cattle have come in contact with the diseased animals in the newly infected territory.

The danger point in the foot and mouth disease quarantine area at present is at Pasadena, eight miles south of Houston and the pasture and range land directly adjoining, Dr. Imes said. Because owners of the cattle in that area have kept their stock penned up and refuse to have them slaughtered as "contact" cattle, the highway to LaPorte, a bayshore resort, has been closed to traffic.

Following the finding of the new infection today two other highways leading out of Houston also were ordered closed to traffic.

No Suffering From Strike Until Dec. 1

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Government observers of the anthracite coal situation, see no hope of averting a suspension of work in the anthracite fields Sept. 1, and have turned their attention to a study of the affects upon the nation of a prolonged shutdown.

Their preliminary study of the situation has convinced these officials that anthracite stocks on hand will meet the demand until Dec. 1, when, unless production has been resumed they fear there will be such a shortage as to make emergency action of some kind necessary.

What form this "emergency action" might take, the officials declined to conjecture but they expressed the belief that any attempt at outside intervention to bring the opposing sides together would only aggravate the present situation.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Anthracite operators at the close of today's conference with the citizens' "no strike" committee here announced their willingness to negotiate with the miners, provided the committee arranged a meeting and provided the operators were not expected to abandon their opposition to the check off and wage increases.

HUNT FOR A GRAVE

Negro Believed to Have Met Death and Been Buried

DENTON, Aug. 26.—Identification by members of the family of Jake Sprouse, Frisco, of a number of household articles believed to have been consumed by fire which destroyed their home while they were away last May and filing of charges of concealing stolen property against two white men were the chief developments today as a result of the raid on the Yancy Storey farm near here. Jack Hawthorne and G. C. Sewell, the other two white men, besides Yancy Storey and Shelby Stiff, who were arrested by state rangers and county officers, were each charged in two cases of receiving and concealing stolen property.

Had Stolen Car.

It was alleged the two were implicated in concealment of a small touring car belonging to J. L. Wright and tires belonging to the city garage.

Articles identified as belonging to Jake Sprouse included a phonograph, wearing apparel, carpets and rugs, needlework and silverware. The home of Sprouse was located at Frisco, in Denton county.

A number of other articles found on the farm were identified as missing from homes in Denton and vicinity, Sheriff Fry said today.

Hunt Black's Grave.

The search will continue, the sheriff said, until the grave of a negro believed to have met death within the past six months is found, or reports that the grave might be found on the farm are proven untrue.

Search of a farm east of Denton today resulted in the seizure of a large automobile, which is being held for investigation.

Officers have been at work searching the Storey farm since daylight Moday. A guard is thrown around the farm at night.

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
A Wonderful World.

One sound more sweet than the whispering trees,
And that is the song a mother sings.
One tide more powerful than the seas.
And that is the urge of inner things—
It's a wonder world where our footsteps fall,
If we see the wonder so near us all.

For God has given a tree a song,
But a sweeter song to a mother's life;
And the winds blow hard and the seas run strong,
But a man goes sailing them with his ships.
It's a wonderful world in which we dwell,
If a wonderful life we live as well.

And so I say to the mother, love;
And so I say to the sailor, sail!
For God has made you the masters of
The sea, the forest, the heart, the gale.
Whatever our fortune, if high or low,
It's a wonderful world if we make it so.

And only the idle shall miss its joys,
And only the dullards the vision miss
Of a world that our hand and our heart employs,
And then of a world that is after this—
It's a wonderful world, whatever you do,
If you see the wonder so close to you.

Treasury Sees A Big Fall Business In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—(AP).—Treasury officials anticipate an important automnal business expansion and the federal reserve board in an official statement tonight said it had noted definite improvement in the last few weeks, the first decided upturn to be reported since January.

In basic industries particularly the board observed, that the turn-up has been pronounced, production in all key lines increasing in July and early August. These months usually are "slow," it explained, but after deductions had been made for seasonal variations, the average remained far above the production in July last year.

"Increased output was shown," the statement said, "for lumber, coal and cement; cotton sumption declined less than usual at this season while the output of the iron and steel industry and the activity in the wool industry declined. In nearly all of the industries, activity was greater than in July of last year."

The board's records are incomplete with respect to the production of automobiles, rubber tires and silk but it said that advices from authoritative sources tended to show a continuation of enormous output and selling.

HOUSTON ROAD CHANGE RILES JOE BURKETT

Highway Commissioner Hits Back at Court And Newspapers

"JUST LET 'EM GO"

"If They Don't Want To Build Good Roads, Why All Right"

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Highway Commissioner Joe Burkett of Eastland today issued a lengthy statement denying any discourtesy toward R. H. Spencer of Houston, member of the Harris county commission who sought an appointment Monday with the highway commission.

Commissioner Burkett said that "certain big daily newspapers, evidently antagonistic to the present administration and to the highway department" make it appear that the commission has been discourteous in regard to Spencer and a Houston delegation. He said the telegram was not presented to the commission until late Monday morning and that it was addressed to a Frank Knape, and not to any member of the commission and that it was opened by an employe.

Sorry They're Peeved.

"All in all I am sorry that the gentlemen feel peeved and aggrieved and I hope that after thinking over the situation, they will not act like a petulant child, but will come to the commission on September 14, and meet the commission as man to man in order that we might have an understanding of the situation and take steps to remedy any shortcomings that might be shown to exist," he said.

The statement said that the commission will be glad to remedy at once any shortcomings or neglect on the behalf of its employes or on the part of any contractor maintaining highways in this state.

He Should Worry.

"As to the threat on the part of Harris county not to issue bonds for road construction until the commissioners court is satisfied, I will say that is of no concern to this department," the statement read. "There is nothing obligatory on the court in this respect, and as the department already has more requests for aid than it can meet for a year, it will relieve the department considerably if Harris county will defer the issuance of bonds and request for aid as this will permit the department to extend aid to several smaller counties that really cannot help themselves. If Houston and Harris county want to become isolated by refusing to build good roads, that is their business."

$3,000,000 to be Available For Central Texas, Says President

DALLAS, Aug. 26.—The Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association is ready to aid immediately its members in the drouth affected counties of central Texas to the extent of $3,000,000, John T. Orr, president and general manager announced today, after a meeting of the board of directors. The board decided to make the funds available through the Texas Cotton Growers' Finance corporation with its re-discount privileges through the federal intermediate bank.

"Conditions in the drouth area now challenges the ability and willingness of Texas bankers and business men to deal with the situation without sacrificing the value of the crop," Mr. Orr said. "The test comes when unusual conditions prevail such as is the case at the present time and to force the sale of cotton on the street under these conditions does not solve the problem, but only aggravates it."

DEBTS COMPLICATED

Situation Abroad Said to Endanger America

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP) Developments in the foreign debt situation abroad today were regarded by observers here as likely to have the effect of seriously complicating forthcoming negotiations for funding the debts of France and Italy to the United States.

While officials were loath to go too far in discussing the new problem disclosed today, it was plainly evident that they expect France to bring pressure for terms with the United States similar to those granted by Great Britain.

GOETHALS WILL MAKE SURVEY IN SHORT TIME

Power Developed Can Be Used for Irrigation In Four Belts

PLAN ONE OR MORE

Texas Commissioner Reveals Idea in Amarillo Meeting

AMARILLO, Aug. 26.—(AP).—Major General George W. Goethals, New York, builder of the Panama canal and a number of Detroit and New York capitalists, within the next ten days, will make an intensive study of the practicability of developing along the Canadian river in the Panhandle district one or more superpower plants, A. S. Stinnett, Texas commissioner for the Canadian and Red rivers, said today in a luncheon given at Plainview for commissioners attending the Canadian flood control and irrigation conference.

E. E. Blake, chairman of the Oklahoma irrigation, drainage and reclamation commission, Wednesday night was elected permanent president of the tri-state flood control conference and A. S. Stinnett, Texas commissioner for the Canadian and Red rivers, was named secretary. Comissioners of New Merico, Oklahoma and Texas expressed confidence that Thursday an agreement would be reached on control and allocation of the waters of the South Canadian river.

Would Irrigate.

Power generated by the super-power plants would be used to irrigate hundreds of thousands of acres in four shallow water belts, where development is not retarded by the high cost of pumping, Mr. Stinnett said.

The four shallow water belts are the Plainview section of Hale county, the Hereford district in Deaf Smith, the Muleshoe district in Bailey, and the Portales district in Roosevelt county of New Mexico.

Study Soil.

Irrigation commissioners of Oklahoma, New Mexico, Kansas and Texas spent most of today studying effects of irrigation on soil near Plainview. More than 25,000 in this area are irrigated by water pumped from shallow wells, ranging in depth from 60 to 250 feet. Ability of the soil to stand up well under heavy irrigation, the fact that drainage ditches are not needed on irrigated farms and the moisture-retaining qualities of the soil were factors pointed out by Captain Winfield Holbrook of Plainview, who conducted the inspection tour. Captain Holbrook is manager of the Texas Land and Development company which irrigates 7,500 acres near Plainview from 48 pumping stations.

Interest is being evidenced in Panhandle super-power development by eastern capitalists, together with a statement by B. F. Yoakum, New York, former chairman of the board of directors of the Frisco railway system, that the irrigation project now under contemplation is the most important and far-reaching project considered by this section for 35 years, outstanding features of today's development.

Sentiment freely expressed by the conferees was that the South Canadian project should be but a unit in a comprehensive project looking toward the subjugation of the Arkansas and all its tributaries.

"Solving the flood problems of the Arkansas and its tributaries would protect from almost annaul flood ravages 1,500,000 acres of Oklahoma's most fertile land; protect 4,000,000 fertile acres in Arkansas, and be a tremendous force for the protection of government property at the mouth of the Mississippi to guard which the United States government in 1924 spent $79,000,000," said President Blake.

George S. Knapp, Kansas irrigation commissioner in expressing his hearty co-operation of a scheme taking in the Arkansas and all its tributaries, said, "The Arkansas and each of its tributaries must be made the subject of a separate compact among the interested states, if the entire flood control scheme is to have the best chance of obtaining generous federal aid."

Thursday morning President Blake will present drafts of a proposed treaty he has drawn.

Starting with July, 1922, the association has kept a close record of the destination of carload shipments of petroleum products from the refineries of Oklahoma, Kansas and inland Texas points.

It reports that during 1923 all of the reporting refineries shipped 31.55 per cent of all cars to states east of the Mississippi river, while during 1924 similar shipments were put 26.86 per cent of the total.

During 1924 the Kansas refineries marketed approximately 74 per cent in Standard of Indiana territory, and about 11 1-2 per cent in Standard of Nebraska territory, while Oklahoma plants marketed about 58 1-2 per cent in Indiana and 16 1-4 per cent in Magnolia territory, including Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas. Inland Texas refineries marketed about 28 3-4 per cent in Magnolia territory; about 23 3-4 per cent in Indiana territory and slightly less than 23 1-4 per cent in Standard of Louisiana territory.

Furnish 25.31 Per Cent.

Kansas gasoline shipments in 1923 totaled 19,935 compared with 16,126 in 1924, and Oklahoma figures were 59,005 for 1923 and 76,289 for 1924, while inland Texas shipments totaled 9,331 in 1923 and 14,512 in 1924.

Figuring that the gasoline consumption of the country in 1924 amounted to 7,661,202,553 gallons and of this Kansas, Oklahoma and inland Texas furnished 1,939,249,039 gallons, or 25.31 per cent.

The estimated gasoline consumption for the Standard of Indiana territory is put at 2,291,038,628 gallons, and of this the three states furnished 1,044,883,441 gallons, or 45.61 per cent. The Standard of Nebraska territory consumed 115,439,039 gallons, and 50,319,211 gallons came from the three states, or 51.39 per cent. Magnolia territory consumed 518,641,243 gallons, of which 339,222,885 gallons came from the three states, or 65.41 per cent.

Report by States.

Dividing the shipments from the three states by individual states, the Western Petroleum Refiners association shows these percentage facts:

Kansas refineries shipped 32,300 per cent of their 1923 output into their own state, and in 1924 the shipments fell off to 31.372 per cent. Nebraska received 10.971 per cent in 1923 and 11.311 per cent in 1924. Missouri was third in 1923 with receipts of 10.303 per cent, but second in 1924 with receipts of 12.371 per cent.

Oklahoma refineries moved more of its gasoline to Illinois in both years than to any other state, the 1923 percentage being 10.15 compared with 12.419 in 1924; Oklahoma itself drew 10.045 in 1923 and 11.248 in 1924; Ohio was next in 1923 for 9,287, but it fell off to 6,980 in 1924; Iowa took 8,662 per cent in 1923 and 9,214 in 1924.

Inland Texas.

Inland Texas refineries ship most of their gasoline to consumers within their own state, the 1923 figures being 26.278 and 28.652 in 1924; Louisiana was next with 15.733 in 1923 and 21.741 in 1924.

Of the 7,661,202,53 gallons of gasoline consumed in this country during 1924, the state of Missouri is accredited with a consumption of 231,293,600 gallons of which 106,353,593 gallons came from the three states, or 45.98 per cent when figured on the basis of indicated relationship. Kansas consumed 185,535,050 gallons, of which 100,851,351 came from the three states, or 54.36 per cent. Texas figures were 374,876,493 gallons, of which 195,250,368 gallons came from the three states, or 52.08 per cent.

The complete statistical report of the refiners' association is worth receiving and studying, and is one of the best bulletins that the association has gotten out. The statistical work was by H. K. Davis, statistician.

Danger Signals Of Indigestion

The Disease That Strikes Like Lightning

Beware of indigestion—the disease that kills more people and kills them quicker than any other. This warning, by physicians, is particularly applicable this season of the year, when your system "lets down" in tone and vigor on account of the warm weather.

What are the warnings that nature gives you of the approach of indigestion? The medical books tells us: 1. Gas, which means that your food is fermenting instead of digesting. 2. A feeling of fullness or oppression in the region of the stomach after eating. This means that the gas has ballooned your stomach and is pressing up against your heart and lungs. 3. A dull, lazy feeling, which means that you are not getting nourishment from what you are eating. 4. Restlessness, unrefreshing sleep, which means that the poisons of indigestion are disturbing your brain and nerves. 5. Sometimes pain and fluttering around the heart, though this symptom may come later.

Don't take chances with indigestion—you are too apt to lose. If you have had any of the symptoms mentioned above, get your digestive organs to work at once with Ferraline, nature's great stomach treatment that has given relief to thousands. Ferraline immediately aids and assists every one of your digestive organs, including your stomach, liver and boweis. Ferraline makes your digestion "perfect and complete." You feel its helpful effect from the very first dose. Get a bottle of Ferraline today at any drug store. Ferraline is so much superior to any other remedy for indigestion that the owners have instructed every druggist to refund the purchase price, one dollar, if you do not get relief, so it costs you nothing if you are not delighted with results. Delay might be dangerous. Get Ferraline today from your druggist. The Ferraline Co., Atlanta, Ga.—Adv.

Plains, Kilcrease

Plains Production company No. 7 Kilcrease, in the northwest corner of their Kilcrease lease in the south half of 1809, TE&LCO survey, offsetting Petraleum Producers to the east and south, was down below 900 feet yesterday and should have picked up the sand sometime last night, northeast extension to the Litchfield pool in north Young county.

M-S, Mills

Maer and Staniforth No. 4 Mills, 300 feet south of the No. 3, in the southeast quarter of block 2428, TE&LCO survey, southeast Baylor county, showed 90 odd barrels on the pump the first twenty-four hours, and is now pumping better than 70 barrels a day, contrary to first published reports that it was a 35-barrels well, No. 5 is still south of No. 4.

Kansas Reports

J. H. Tatlock of Tulsa and others have opened a naw Butler county, Kan., pool in their Tolber No. 1 in the northeast of the southwest of the southeast of 22-27-7, a mile north of the town of Keighley. The Bartlesville sand was topped at 2,704 and drilled to 2,710 feet for an estimated production of 1,000 barrels. The hole filled up 2,000 feet with oil in three hours and was slopping over today. American and Sinclair own the offset acreage to the north and east. White Eagle Oil and Refining company is taking the oil in a line which passes 100 feet from the well. The closest production is the old gray, five miles to the northwest and the Blankenship pools six miles away.

Barkley-Meadows Area

Lomax, Wilson.

T. G. Lomax No. 5, Wilson, furthermost south location on the east line of his lease, in quarter section 88, ATNCL, north Archer county, was swabbing yesterday after drilling oil sand at 1,510-12 feet (an upper stratum at 1,501 feet failed to show much.) The well looked like a nice producer.

The rig will be skidded south for the No. 7, while No. 6 on the west line, north of the sole producer there, is still a location. The No. 4, south of the well on the west line, is still working with a spudder.

Wilson, Wilson.

Lee Wilson has a derrick up and will move on immediately for his No. 1, Wilson, in the southwest corner of his lease north of the Lomax and Barkley and Meadows stuff, central Archer county.

Freeman-Hampton.

Freeman and Hampton's No. 2, Wilson, south of their extension well to the Barkley and Meadows area, in central Archer county, is a small well from sand below 1,520 feet, showing possibly 20 barrels or more a day.

Barkley-Meadows, Wilson.

Barkley and Meadows have set and cemented casing on sand in their No. 11, Wilson, on the south line, second location east from the southwest corner of the lease, block 88, topped at 1,514 1-2 feet, a little low. The No. 12, a location further north, is showing about 60 barrels and going on the pump, the good sand coming at 1,520-24 feet. The wells mark the westward extension of the new pool.

South Vernon

Barkly-Meadows.

Barkley and Meadows No. 3-B Stephens, second location west from the southeast corner of their Stephens forty acres, in the northeast quarter of section 83, block 14, South Vernon, Wilbarger county, is pumping and flowing 160 barrels a day from sand at 2,305-2,330 feet. The real oil sand begins about 2,315 feet. When the tubing was pulled Tuesday the well flowed as much as it had been pumping. No. 2-B, in the southeast corner of the forty acres, a location east, will be deepened from the 1,800-foot sand to 2,300-foot stratum at once.

In the northeast corner of the same forty acres No. 1-A, offsetting the old Prince Brothershole t the south, has the 5 3-16 inch casing with a liner set at a depth of 2,385 feet in a sandy lime. Bottom of the hole is 2,400 feet even. This formation, when tubing was run recently to test out, made the flowing well, estimated at somewhere between 100 and 200 barrels. The tubing was pulled and a larger string of pipe run. The hole will now be bailed and completed, the official opener of the deepest producing stratum in South Vernon. Top of the lime was encountered at 2,379 feet but that cased off was reported not showing much

Atlantic, Zipperle.

Atlantic was running the tubing at last reports in their No. 5 Zipperle, on a sandy lime at 2,360-65 feet, in the northwest forty acres of the southwest quarter of section 80, and had some sort of a well. The stratum is figured to be the same Berkley and Meadows have further to the north and west.

South Vernon, Zipperle.

South Vernon Oil company's old No. 2 Zipperle, in section 84, block 14, is down 1,800 feet after quitting the 1,200-foot pay from which it produced for a while. It will be carried to 2,400 feet if not completed at a shallower depath.

Wells, Waggoner

Thelma Wells was reported last at a depth of 2,300 feet in her No. 1 Waggoner, in section 15, block 2, H&TCRRCO survey, south of the Sigle stuff, after getting a hole full of water at a depth of 2,260 feet.

Sulphur Wells Are Humble's Santone Drilling Rewards

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26.— Humble Oil & Refining company's No. 2 Minna Coreth is an enormous sulphur water well in the Edwards Lime at 1,446 and is the second sulphur water well the company has brought in from the Edwards Lime on its big block of leases that come up close to the city limits of San Antonio. The two wells are six and one-half miles apart and Humble's block of 25,000 or more acres or leases which cost it around a quarter million dollars is in a strip 12 miles long with the Minna Coreth No. 2 a sulphur water well about three and a half miles from the northeast end of the block and the Cassin No. 1 a sulphur waaer well at 1,600 feet about two miles from the southwest end of the block.

Humble Oil and Refining company had been a year in getting the lease block and at great cost and the public as well as the Humble had great faith in the company getting production. While the two sulphur water wells six and one-half miles apart do not condemn all the territory they are at least discouraging. Each had a little showing of oil.

Marland Core Drills

Marland Oil company is core drilling a block of several thousand acres about seven miles further to the northeast preparatory to making a test on it. Humble's further plans are not announced but it is possible it may drill to below the Edwards since both of the wells are comparatively shallow, and there is opportunity for additional tests on new locations based on information from these wells.

Waite Phillips Sale Idea Still Puzzles Tulsans

TULSA, Aug. 26.—The who and whyfores of the Waite Phillips company sale for around $27,000,000 to Blair and company, bankers of New York City, are still being asked and just as frequently the questioner finds himself up against a stone wall. No accurate answers are available as yet.

All sorts of guesses as to who the real purchasers are are still being made, but Monday noon George M. Cook, director of industrial relations o fhte Standard of Indiana, at Chicago, made the following statement:

"Neither the Standard Oil company of Indiana, the Dixie Oil company or the Pen-American Eastern Oil company are purchasing the Waite Phillips company of Tulsa. We have noticed reports that have been going around about one of our co-related companies as being mentioned as the purchaser, at the instigation of Blair and company, and we take this occasion to declare all of these reports untrue and without foundation.

"No negotiations have been held directly or indirectly for the acquisition of the Waite Phillips company through Blair and company or anyone else."

This leaves the matter still further and further in the dark.

Bankers who know men on the executive and directorate of Blair and company are inclined to favor the idea that possibly Blair and company, who have acted as buyers for many of the major companies are now contemplating entering the oil business for themselves.

Be that as it may the matter is admitted on both sides that Waite Phillips company has received $2,000,000 in cash as first payment, and possibly additional payments, and that when the deal is finally consumated Waite Phillips and those of his staff of associates will have divided among them better than $20,000,000, the remainder being spent in commissions, and incidental expenses towards the sale.

HOOD TO CO READY WILL BUILD VAST IN ROAD SYSTEM

$40,000,000 Project Soon To be Under Way Is Claim

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26.—Mexico's new $40,000,000 highway system is to be constructed at once, according to E. N. Conners, assistant to Charles Upham, Carolina state engineer, who has been retained by the Mexican government as consulting engineer.

Mr. Conner passed through San Antonio early Wednesday morning with a group of experts who will aid him on the huge highway project.

"Trains are already rolling toward San Antonio, loaded with machinery and road building equipment," Mr. Conners told a reporter who interviewed him on the train.

"Within ten days we will have operations in full blast and these will be continued at maximum speed until the roads are completed."

Santone Liquor Office Warms Up

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26.—"Something for you?" asked a prohibition officer when a stranger appeared at headquarters of the enforcement bureau in the federal building Wednesday.

"My name is White." "I just dropped in to say 'hello,'" the visitor remarked calmly.

"Well, make it snappy, we have no time to hobnob and discuss weather conditions in this service," the booze snorted.

"I'm Major White," the guest then explained.

"All right, major, what's on your mind?" the agent impatiently demanded.

"Nothing much," the visitor replied, "I just dropped in from Fort Worth to look over the people who are to work under me after I become regional prohibition enforcement director September 1."

Then the reception became more cordial.

POLICE STRIVE TO PUT END TO TONG WARFARE

Hostilities in Chinatown Of Big Cities Alarm Coppers

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Widespread precautions were being taken today by police in nearly every large city of the east and middlewest in an attempt to cut short a new Chinese tong war in which four Chinese have been killed and three wounded in the last 24 hours.

Extra details of police guarded the Chinatowns of eight cities. More than 100 Chinese have been arrested, some being held in connection with the murders and other on suspicion.

The death toll score seems to stand four to nothing in favor of the Hip Sing tong men. Police have learned that 75 telegrams to this effect were sent out from New York and Boston to Chinese leaders all over the country. On Leong tong men have been murdered in New York, Chicago, Minneapolis and Pittsburgh, one in each city, while a former Hip Sing king of Chinatown in St. Louis has been wounded.

WON'T SAVE PENNIES

Request Made to Mail Users Brings But Little Response.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Mail users can be persuaded to save pennies, but the appeal to save half pennies brings a feeble response, according to the testimony of a maker of "postage saver" envelopes which closed the hearings here of the joint congressional sub-committee on postal rates today.

Trappers, Stricken Ill, Say "Good-bye"

VICTORIA, B. C., Aug. 26.—(AP)—"The roof leaks—good bye."

Thus ended a note found beside the badly decomposed bodies of Peter Ackerman and George Williams, trappers, who went more than a year ago into the wilds of northern British Columbia in quest of fur bearing animals.

They found them and obtained the furs and cached them. Then in a little house they were overcome by sickness and the note of farewell was written to tell the only son of Williams, residing at Edmonton, where the furs, valued at $2,000, might be found.

The cabin in which the bodies were discovered was littered with furs which the trappers had failed to hide. They had been scattered all about the room by wild animals which had entered the house through the open doorway.

Calls Speaker A Liar, It Costs Him

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 26—(AP) Frederick Weygold, an artist, who shouted "liar" at the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton when the latter had concluded an address on evolution here Monday night, is sorry for his "breach of etiquette."

In a statement published today the artist, who was held to the grand jury under $300 bond for his outburst, said he was wrought up by the "unjustifnable and insulting" remarks of the fundamentalist.

Dr. Straton, using Germany as an illustration in his sermon, said that in the days of Luther, Goethe and Schiller "there was a Germany of kindness, of love of children and of Christmas trees." But he added, "all this was succeeded by a Prussianized Germany, the result of teachings of Nietzsche."

It was then that Mr. Weygold leaped to his feet and shouted: "Dr. Straton, you're a liar. I lived and studied in Germany for 20 years and you are a liar."

Royersford, Pa. — "My daughter was sickly from the time she was 13 years old, she was irregular and also had severe headaches, and pains in her sides and back. She was this way about six months before I began giving her Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helped her very much. She is not bothered by headaches, backaches, or cramping any more, and has not missed but one day. We recommend it to other mothers with girls who have these troubles."—Mrs. QUIGG, 210 Main Street, Royersford, Pa.

Another Mother's Letter

Roxbury, Mass.—"At the age of 16 my daughter was all run down, nervous, with poor blood. These troubles made her weak and unfit to work. She tried several medicines, but they did her no good. Finally I induced her to take the Vegetable Compound, too, and she has gained in health and strength and is now working steadily. I have told these facts to many mothers."—Mrs. HUDSON, 252 Eustis Street, Roxbury, Mass.

HOW MUCH ARE YOU WORTH?

It is a true saying that many people are worth more dead than alive. This is because many persons carry life insurance in amounts that approximately measure their ability to pay the yearly premium or because they are while living, effective obstacles to the realization of accumulated wealth that flows to someone else upon their death. In a cold-blooded business world a man is worth his annual earnings multiplied by his years of expectancy. If you are 30 years old and can earn $2,000 per year and your expectancy is 30 years, you are worth $60,000. And that means that those depending upon you may collect that amount if your death has been caused by some one able to respond to a judgment of that amount.

It is interesting to follow the proceedings of the Lusitania claim commission which established the this appraisal was placed so low because his years orable disaster. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, whose life was lost on the Lusitania, owned a hundred million dollars, yet the commission decided that he was "worth" nothing in himself. He had no active business; he created nothing; he added nothing to the wealth of the world. He merely possessed enormous wealth that was in nowise affected by his death. His family or his friends could show by no reasonable evidence that they had sustained a loss by his death.

On the other hand the commission found that "worth" of those who lost their lives in this mem- Elbert Hubbard, the writer, was worth $50,500, and of great productivity were behind him. He had but a few years to live, yet the commission agreed that these few years were valuable because of the writer's ability to creat something worth that amount. And even in this fashion of measuring a man's worth no recognition is given to the worth of men's society. The use of one more year by Elbert Hubbard might have yielded the world a priceless product.

The pity is that we have no way of measuring a person's worth in dollars and cents. But even so, many of us aren't worth very much.—Beaumont Enterprise.

WESTERNIZING THE TURK?

Standardizing the world by mans of machingry and expanding means of travel leads to unexpected results. Who would have thought of Turkey adopting the methods of the western world. We are so used to thinking of the Turk as a stout person, calmly seated, wearing a fez and smoking a hookah, that western styles bear no suggestion of the "sick man of Europe" as the reading world has known him.

It is now suggested that the Turk would be more correctly called the "live wire" of Europe. Chewing gum is more in his line than the hookah, and a straw hat is more correct than a fez.

The perfect of Constantinople now permits his staff and visitors to remove their hats, a change which, according to the Manchester Guardian, is about the equivalent to an order allowing town clerks to take off their boots. The Turks have been accustomed to enter their mosques hatted and shoeless. Headdress was made without peaks, owing to the custom of touching the ground with the forehead. Lately, however, the army, navy and police in Constantinople have received peaked caps while school children have been allowed to attend class bareheaded.

Western externals are following rapidly the banishment of the sultan and the khalif.

DIET AND REAL ESTATE

The nation has been eating less meat in recent years. Many persons have thought the change was brought about by a better knowledge of sane diet and the food needs of the body. According to Dr. O. E. Baker of the United States department of agriculture there is another reason. His theory is that our population is now so great that the former demand for meat can no longer be supplied because the necessary grazing lands are too valuable to be held for that purpose. A grain and sugar eating community can be maintained by a territory a tenth the size required for a community existing on a meat diet. So we alter our diet to suit other conditions.

Such changes come about so gradually that they are not observed for a long time, but they indicate the fact that the human race is very far from being through with adjustments of itself to new needs and new times. They suggest the reassuring thought that new emergencies can be satisfactorily met for a long time to come.

THE HOME RUN HABIT.

Nearly 200 home runs have already been made in the two league ball parks in St. Louis this season. The grounds are so small that a hit that would be only good for a couple of bases in a man-sized park may easily become a homer. This is another reason why the league parks ought to be standardized. The fans like home runs, but they do not want them to be common. The parks in Washington and Cincinnati are large enough to give the fielders all the room they want and it is significant that home runs are seldom made in these cities. It has been suggested that the different parks be zoned by the baseball commissioners, but the fans would probably object to this. They want to see the fielders go after everything in sight. It would be a heavy expense to standardize the grounds and many bleacher seats would be cut out, but it would seem that the game is worth while.

AFRICANS AS BUYERS.

Trade of the United States with Africa has increased 240 per cent since the opening of the civil war while trade with other parts of the world has little more than doubled in the same period.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Money Gluttons.

There is probably nothing we can say to our readers which will restrain them from going out and getting all the money they can.

This is natural enough.

Without money this is not a very happy life.

Money means independence, and independence, is a very great blessing.

Wealth that is honestly got is worth getting—up to a certain point.

But the most miserable creature in existence is the man who thinks of nothing but money and how to make it, and when he has it stows it away to gloat over it, and to swell with pride to think how he has taken it away from other people.

Not far from where I live there dwells a man who through natural astuteness in business amassed a very considerable fortune.

He worked hard in getting that money. He counted every penny as it came in. He stinted his employes pay and his children the kind of food they should have had in order to get it.

Today his health is broken down and he can no longer attend to his business. From his investments, which were extremely prudent, a great income rolls in continually.

To this income he is a slave. He is constantly looking for investments that will be safe and at the same time profitable.

He is an old man, and not in health. He lives alone with his wife, who is also old, and keeps no servant because he thinks that servants are idle and want too much wages.

He wrangles daily with the butcher and the grocer and the baker because they charge him the same for his foood supplies that they charge other people.

He thinks because he used to drive hard bargains in business that he ought to be able to do the same thing in daily domestic life.

For this man all the world and the beauty it contains would be open, were he to avail himself of it.

He might travel in foreign lands, he might live in a beautiful house in a beautiful section of the country.

He might do all the things that others enjoy, and still have more money than he would know what to do with.

But so accustomed he is to scrimping and cheeseparing that it pains him intolerably to part with a cent.

His children are dead. He quarreled with them before they died. He thought they were selfish and idle because they wanted to enjoy life a little. Enjoyment costs money.

This is one side of a picture. Everybody should seek to be independent, and thrift is necessary for that. But being a money glutton is not being thrifty. It is being heinously short-sighted and foolish and it leads in old age only to misery.

The habit of money gluttony is easily acquired. It is not as common as the spendthrift habit, but it is common enough. And it is a much more repulsive habit, especially in the old.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

Wichita Falls recently heard herself eulogized by an outsider whose talk was so convincing that a long time resident of the city admitted that he never had been as thoroughly "sold" on his own city as he was by the visitor's speech. Wichitans sat as if entranced by tales of the wonder city while the speaker told of the development and of the opportunities and of the advantages of their own city.

The speaker was the president of Simmons university. He was one of 125 business and professional men of Abilene who were here recently on a "booster" expedition.

Speaking to his fellow townsmen, the university president said:

"If you men ever have the opportunity, make it a point to visit one of the most wonderful high schools and junior colleges in the world. You will find it at the edge of Wichita Falls. They have out there, one of the handsomest high school plants in the south."

The speaker also told of the great opportunities the Wichita Valley irrigation project has brought to this city. He told of the splendid commercial position Wichita Falls holds as the "first city in that most wonderful section of the state known as west Texas."

He said Wichita Falls is truly a "city that faith built;" that its growth and development is of a permanent nature; that its position now, and in the future, as the first commercial city of west Texas cannot be questioned.

Wichita Falls needs to have more visitors like the president of Simmons university. Being an honest man, he likely was not showering the city with flattery. He meant what he said. It's the truth.

BACK TO IRELAND.

John McCormack, the Irish tenor, whose golden voice has won him friends and admirers in the central cities of Europe and of the United States, is going back to old Ireland. Ireland gave McCormack to the world of music a little more than 40 years ago. Mr. McCormack has bought a beautiful home in Ireland to which he will retire when he reaches the half century mark.

Wichita Falls never has heard John McCormack's golden voice, although many other cities in Texas have had that privilege. It is not unlikely, of course, that many citizens of Wichita Falls have heard McCormack sing in other cities of the state, for his voice is worth going miles to hear. McCormack's concerts in various cities of the state have won him hosts of friends in Texas. His phonograph records, of course, are obtainable in every civilized nation of the world, and everywhere his records are sold. John McCormack has admirers.

The world hates to lose John McCormack. It is doubtful, of course, whether McCormack may be placed among the immortals of the world, but if a singer may be an immortal, John McCormack never will die.

DARROW DENOUNCED.

Clarence Darrow is getting plenty of publicity since the Dayton exhibition. Fundamentalists of that city held a public meeting and denounced the famous lawyer as a curse to humanity and a menace to civilization. This is the way the resolution closed: "Unless the people of this land suppress him more evil will be done." Clarence Darrow is a lucky mortal. If he had been in the land of the living 200 years ago he would have been sent to the stake or consigned to a dungeon.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE.

Virgo.

Today's planetary aspects continue as favorable as they were yesterday until the early afternoon, when they assume a rather dubious and adverse character. The new enterprise or undertaking that was launched on Wednesday can be followed up with energy and vim during the early hours of the forenoon. Thereafter, it would be wise to ease off a little, and to take careful stock of what has been accomplished. It will also be essential, during the latter part of the day, to exercise a good deal of self-restraint, as the dissatisfaction caused by the changed conditions will engender impulsiveness, acerbity, and pessimism.

Children born today will, in all probability, enjoy fairly normal health, although there are indications that they will be more than ordinarily prone to risk of accident. They should be trained, in a physical sense, not to attempt to "bite off more than they can chew." In disposition, a girl will be, from babyhood, both winsome and sweet, with a wonderful degree of compassion and pity for those who are in trouble, and a heart big enough to render help to all those who need it. A boy on the other hand, will be rather selfishly inclined, and more disposed to help himself than give assistance to others. He will possess financial insight, and will carve out for himself a successful position, regardless of all obstacles that he may have to overcome.

If today is your birthday, your most remarkable attribute is your judgment, or intuition. It rarely, if ever, deceives you, and your experience has demonstrated to you that implicit trust in your perception is always justified by results. You have very little sense of humor, and take life very seriously and thoughtfully. You derive very little pleasure from sports or pastimes, and secure your greatest happiness in study and research. Your conversation—and you always carefully choose the words with which to express your thoughts—is always interesting and instructive. Your cynicism, however, often prompts you to say things that sting, although you endeavor to remove all bitterness of expression by suavity of speech.

You are, however, generous to your enemies, and have a loving and affectionate disposition, and your home life, in view of your efforts to make it so, should be very happy.

Successful people born on this date are:

Charles F. Aked, clergyman.
Emory Upton, soldier.
Charles H. Perkins, inventor and manufacturer.
John H. Starin, merchant.
William H. English, statesman.

3 Venires Called In Vernon Court

VERNON, Aug. 26.—Three special venires totaling 242 men have been ordered called by the district clerk for three murder cases which are set for trial for the current session of the district court. All three cases will come up in the next two weeks. They are:

Hagen a few months ago; Idella Young, negress, is charged with knifing and killing Lucy Watkins, negress, a few weeks ago; C. M. Wagner is charged with murder in connection with the killing of J. W. Webb, Wichita Falls policeman. The last case was transferred to Wilbarger county from Wichita Falls.

Old Landmark In Haskell Is Razed

HASKELL, Aug. 26.—The old Whitman building that stood on the southwest corner of the square was torn down last week and nothing remains now but the concrete vault which will soon be razed. This building stood on the site selected for the proposed new Haskell hotel and work will soon start on its construction. This building was erected many years ago and was a familiar landmark, having been used for a score or more of different business concerns.

One hundred and twenty-five Abilene trippers came in to Haskell on a special train Monday at 1:30 o'clock. They were advertising the West Texas fair at Abilene September 21-26 and had the famous Simmons Cowboy band. Mayor Hardy Grissom of Haskell welcomed the visitors.

HOW IT STARTED

"Dead Sea Fruit."

Frequently we hear the expression, "dead sea fruit," with reference to a disappointment or disillusionment, something which though it may have been an attractive exterior, turns out to be rotten inside.

On the face of it, of course, "dead sea fruit" would seem to be a paradoxical term. The Dead Sea, which is involved in the reference, is a lake in Palestine which forms part of one of the deepest chasms of the earth's surface, being 1,292 feet below the level of the sea. Its shores are abrupt and precipitous, the formation being limestone and sandstone.

There is no life in the Dead Sea and sea fish die when placed in its waters. Its desolation and sterility are traditional. Hence the expression, "dead sea fruit," for something which yields nothing would in itself be easily comprehensible. However, we have a still more definite and direct source for the origin of the expression. It is found in the "mad apple" of antiquity that was supposed to grow around the Dead Seas. It was described in ancient literature as beautiful to the eye but when tasted turning only to bitterness.

"Flying Scotsman" Now a Missionary

EDINBURGH—(AP)—After winning several events at an athletic meeting recently, Eric Liddell, the "flying Scotsman," and Scottish Olympic 400 metres champion, left Edinburgh on his way to China for missionary work. Liddell was hauled through the streets in a decorated carriage by fellow students and a large crowd at the station sang a hymn, "Jesus shall reign," as his train moved out of the station.

GRAIN COMPANY SOLD.

VERNON, Aug. 26.—The Sewell Grain and Fuel company of this city has sold its entire holdings here to the Vernon Grain and Fuel company, a new organization with the following officers: W. P. Thomas, manager; A. Johnson, secretary and treasurer, and G. H. Wheeler, assistant manager. The business sold is one of the oldest in Vernon and has been very successful. Consideration was not made known.

COMMUNITY MEETS.

STAMFORD, Aug. 26.—Stamford business men are staging a number of community meetings in the smaller towns and villages in its trade territory in an effort to cement relations between those towns and Stamford. Meetings have been held in Tuxedo and in Post, Haskell county, already, and were a great success.

IRRIGATION

LAKE KEMP A STATE PARK

People here often remark that as soon as the next legislature convenes there will be a move made to have a strip of land around Lake Kemp condemned for a state park.

It is likely that this matter will be brought before the legislature and an act may be passed creating a state park at the lake.

No doubt such a bill would carry with it an appropriation of a certain sum of money to be used in the purchase of land and for making improvements. If the land cannot be purchased by amicable agreement no doubt it can be condemned.

If such an act is ever passed it is going to take a considerable sum of money to buy a tract of sufficient acreage to make much of a park.

Mr. Waggoner will probably hold, and properly so that the land is now worth many times more than the $15 per acre paid him by the Irrigation District. The building of the lake by the people of Wichita Falls has greatly increased the value of his property.

We doubt very much if any board of appraisers would say that land which is being leased at $25 per acre per year is worth only $15 per acre.

If Mr. Waggoner's land bordering the lake is ever taken for a state park he will undoubtedly receive a good price for it.

We do not believe that any Texas legislature will appropriate sufficient funds to buy a strip of land a half mile wide entirely around Lake Kemp. It would cost too much money.

Electra Boy Run Down by Auto

ELECTRA, Aug. 26.—Malcolm Harris, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Harris of East Roosevelt street, was injured painfully late Tuesday afternoon, when a Ford touring car ran over him at the corner of Bryan and Wichita streets. The car struck the child and cut a deep gash across his forehead, and he was unconscious for a half hour or or more. Dr. Parmley was summoned and it was found that no bones were broken although the child was badly bruised. The identity of the man who struck him is unknown, as he did not stop.

Rev. C. C. Dooley has returned from a vacation in Friday, Texas, visiting his sister, and wishes to announce that he will fill his regular pulpit at both services Sunday at the Lebus hall.

Mrs. Don Stearns of Garrison street has had as her guests her sisters, Mrs. W. J. Mathews and Mrs. J. W. Love of Iowa Park, and brothers, Messrs E. D. Towell of Wellington and J. A. Towell of Dundee.

Lions to Feast At County Farm

Members of the Lions club and their guests are to enjoy a big watermelon feast Friday night at the county poor farm, officials of the club announced yesterday.

An entertaining time is being planned for the club members and an abundance of watermelon will be provided. It is asked that all prospective members of the club who have their applications in, whether they have been passed on or not, attend the function.

THE STORY SO FAR

Caryll, son of a powerful desert sheik, born in the desert but reared in luxury and wealth in London, is returning at the age of 20 for his first visit with his father and mother in their great camp. He is traveling with Raoul Saint Hubert, a life-long and fast friend of the family.

The boy bitterly hates the desert life; he is resentful of his father whom he considers as only a desert nomad; and is curious concerning his mother whom he only vaguely remembers.

The two with their entourage are riding into the desert camp and have just been met by his father, Ahmed ben Hassan, who, with a large and impressive party, has ridden out to meet him. Caryll is disgusted with things in general.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

It was perhaps natural that his father should have come to meet him, but it was, nevertheless, a courteous action and a graceful compliment which he had received most ungraciously. Though he hated him for the sorrow he had caused the old man, his hatred need not have made him forget his manners. The visit was going to be difficult enough without him going out of his way to make it more so. After all, though he deprecated the relationship, he was his father's son—and his guest. And, when all was said and done, he had lost his temper just now over a very small matter. English to the backbone, he had resented the implied slight to the country he loved. But, though it was hard to understand, his father might have reasons that justified the attitude he adopted—and in that case he was as much entitled to his opinion as Caryll himself. It was hardly fair, while maintaining prejudices of one's own, to disallow the prejudices of others. He jerked his head with angry self-annoyance. He had made a bad start, had managed to convey a wrong impression at the outset. Years ago his father must have learned from Saint Hubert that his son spoke French fluently. His refusal to speak it just now must have seemed like a studied impertinence, a direct challenge to one whose views were other than his own. In furtherance of his resentment he had represented himself as a mannerless cub—and his father had only smiled, as he would have smiled at the waywardness of a child.

It was a sufficiently humiliating beginning.

Sore and angry, but resolutely swallowing his pride, he went to join the others, rather wondering what his reception would be, and shyly diffident of interrupting their eager conversation. But the moments that had seemed so long to him had, in reality, been very short, and, absorbed in each other, the two friends did not appear to have noticed his absence.

And for some time after his coming they continued uninterruptedly.

When at length the Sheik turned once more to his son, there was nothing in his manner that suggested either displeasure or annoyance.

"You must excuse us," he said, with the same grave smile as before. "We have two years' accumulated conversation to work off. But we must not keep your mother in suspense any longer. She has been counting the days, almost the hours, I think, waiting for your coming."

And again Caryll felt as if the piercing dark eyes were reaching to the innermost recesses of his soul, and his own flickered with nervous embarrassment. "I hope—she is well," he faltered, and wondered miserably why even this trivial and most natural question was so difficult to utter.

"She is always well—to Allah the praise," replied the sheik, with a quick involuntary gesture that Caryll did not understand. And it was not until they were mounted again, and well on their way, that he conquered his shyness sufficiently to thank his father for the horse he was riding. From the start he had been acutely conscious of the critical eyes watching him, and good horseman though he knew himself to be, the close scrutiny was trying to his over-strung nerves. He had even begun to wonder if, the standards being different, he had failed to come up to expectations in this, the one thing he knew he could do well. And, quite suddenly, to his own amazement, he found himself almost passionately desiring the approval of this man he hated. The realization of it staggared him. What did his father's approval or disapproval matter to him? Why should he care one way or the other?

But, despite himself, he knew that he did care—cared so much that the Sheik's nod of approbation that accompanied his quiet, "I am glad you like him. Raoul told me you could ride," sent a most unaccountable feeling of pleasure through him.

And he rode on, marveling at himself, angry at his own inconstancy, angry at the curious satisfaction the few short words had given him.

The sun was setting when they reached their destination.

To Caryll's unaccustomed eyes the camp looked immense, the whole scene strange and more picturesquely beautiful than anything he had ever imagined, and, moved to unwonted appreciation, his matter-of-fact mind forgot for once to criticize and to condemn. The discharge of rifle shots that heralded their approach passed almost unnoticed and the hoarse roar of cheering brought, this time no cloud to his face. He forgot that he was the cause of all this tumult. Transported out of himself it seemed to him as if he were gazing at some wonderfully realistic theatrical performance, or looking at some marvelously painted and animated canvas. With a dreamlike feeling of unreality he rode between the Sheik and Saint Hubert through the long lane of mounted Arabs who, drawn from various outlying camps to do honor to their chief's son, stretched far out into the desert like a living avenue; then on past numerous clusters of low tents, past noisy crowded camel lines, past row after row of picketed horses, through the serried ranks of densely packed tribesmen whose deep-voiced shouting was almost drowned by the shrill clamor of their closely veiled women and the high-pitched shrieks of the pushing, tumbling swarms of excited children.

An almost royal progress, an almost royal welcome that stirred some long forgotten remembrance within him that made his breath come short and quick.

On, with a strangely beating heart till they reached the open space and, wheeling, faced the big lofty tent before which stood a bright-haired, slender woman.

And wonder and amazement came as he stared at the youthful-looking, white-clad figure. Was that his mother—that girl. Then Uncle Raoul had been pulling his leg.

Indignantly he turned to him, muttering reproachfully. But there was no amusement in Saint Hubert's eyes and his face was oddly strained and white.

"Go on Caryll," he said huskily. "She has been waiting for you for fourteen years.

CHAPTER VI

"Are you pleased with your—daughter, ma mie?" There was a drawling note of amused contempt in the Sheik's voice that made his wife wince. For a few moments she did not answer but continued steadily hair which, boyishly cropped no longer, brushing the heavy mass of shining hung round her like a golden cloud and screened her face from the eyes that were watching her with lazy intentness.

Ten minutes before he had sauntered in, well groomed and immaculate, from the adjoining dressing room and since then he had been lying stretched out indolently on a divan, smoking in silence, waiting while she dressed for dinner.

A slow smile gathered on his lips as the moments went by and she made no reply.

Settling his long limbs into an easier position, he flicked a curl of flaky ash from his cigarette and spoke again, more drawlingly than before.

"I asked you a question, Diane." She faced him then, tossing back the mane of bright hair with a quick, almost nervous gesture.

"Ahmed—you're not fair," she said, reproachfully.

"No?" He laughed softly. "Well, at any rate, you will admit that he is at least—ladylike. Much more ladylike than you were at his age, by all accounts," he added, with another tasing laugh.

She flushed, but smiled despite herself. "I? Oh, I was a little horror. I hadn't any manners at all. Caryll has beautiful manners. 'And manners maketh man,' you kow, Ahmed."

The Sheik grunted a contemptuous dissent.

"A worn out adage. Personally I could do with less manners and a little more manliness."

Diana had turned back to the dressing table and was wielding the hairbrush again, vigorously.

"Why do you think he is not manly?" she asked from behind the golden cloud. "You admit yourself that he can ride and Raoul says he is a wonderful shot."

"So are you, my dear," returned the Sheik dryly, "and you can ride as well, probably better than our gifted son. Your qualifications are hardly adequate. I want something more then that—something which up to now I have not seen in him."

The disappointment in his voice brought tears to her eyes, and she laid the brush down with fingers that trembled a little. "You haven't seen very much of him yet," she murmured. "You can't judge him after only twenty-four hours. He is dreadfully shy, and everything must be so strange and different from what he has been accustomed to. If he were just an ordinary guest it would be so much easier. But because he is—what he is, because he can't be expected to know the reason for that horrible separation, it must be as—as difficult for him as it is for us. He only sees the one side, he doesn't know all that led up to it. He loved the old man, and we are nothing to him. He can't possibly know that 1—we—that we want his love." Her voice broke in a sharp sob that sent the Sheik on to his feet and across the room in a couple of hasty strides.

Womanlike, she had wandered from the main argument to voice, unconsciously, a disappointment which in its way was as great as his. And her distress made him forget his own annoyance.

Gently he raised her head. "Tears, Diane?" he chided, with a half tender, half whimsical smile. "Do I wring our son's neck or my own? We are neither of us worth them." And lifting her suddenly he carried her to the divan.

"Oh, bother dinner," he ejaculated, in answer to her remonstrances as he sat down and drew her closely into his arms. "What does dinner matter when I've made you cry, beast that I am. The young man can wait for once in his life—and Raoul has a soul far above food, bless him. How do you find Raul this time, loveliness?" he went on with abrupt change of tone twining his fingers in a long shinging curl that had fallen across her breast.

She knew that he was deliberately trying to turn the trend of the conversation, and she caught his hand up to her lips, smothering a sigh.

"It was Caryll we were discussing, dear, not Raoul," she said, with gentle insistence.

He smiled at her lazily.

"Was it?" he answered, almost indifferently. "Well, perhaps, after all, we had better wait. As you said, most wise and sapient wife, twenty-four hours is not a great while in which to form an opinion. Perhaps I am mistaken, perhaps I expected too much—perhaps I never thought of it at all," he added with a little shrug.

But he had thought of it, and Diane alone knew how deeply.

She drew his head down, her eyes very wistful and pleading. "Be kind to him, Ahmed," she whispered, "and try—try to understand his point of view. It must be so different from ours. He is not like the boy, who has never known anything but the wild life we lead. His own life must have been so regular, so orderly. And living always with a very old man has made him quiet and reserved—and punctilious. We know from Raoul how your father trusted him, how much responsibility was thrown on him, far too much responsibility for so young a boy. And Raoul says that the last two years—when he knew your father might die any minute—his devotion was extraordinary. He gave up everything for him. And it can't always have been easy. It wasn't a natural life for a boy of his age. He must often have wanted to be free and do as other boys do. Instead he has spent all his time between a sick room and an estate office. It couldn't but influence him, make him different from what you expected him to be.

HOOD FUNERAL WILL BE HELD IN AFTERNOON

Man Found Unconscious Under Bridge to be Buried Today

Funeral services for W. A. Hood, American Refining company employe who died in the general hospital at 8 o'clock last Friday night following injuries received in the vicinity of the railroad bridge across the Wichita riper north of the city, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the Burris-Dalton funeral home. Interment will follow in Riverside cemetery.

Two brothers, L. M. Hood of Matola, Ore., and Sterling Hood of Lubbock, Texas, arrived here Tuesday and will attend the funeral.

Police are still working on the case presented by their finding Hood in an unconscious condition underneath the bridge, suffering from a blow on the head which caused his death a few hours later. The first theory was that he fell, but police now believe that he was held up, robbed of some $60 known to have been in his possession, and then knocked unconscious with a billy or other instrument.

Besides his brothers, Hood is survived by a wife and three children, all living in this city.

Active pallbearers at the funeral will be John Beddow, Dan Kinard, Frank Baker, Walter Swatzell, John Allen and Buck Rosser. Honorary pallbearers will be H. A. Allen, D. B. Kelly, J. J. Curry, G. F. Bowden, H. M. Kanshold and G. W. Reid.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Clears Complexion

"Oh! how clear and beautiful your complexion is today, my dear!"

THERE IS a certain joy—a certain pride—in knowing you are admired, whether it be from father, brother, husband or sweetheart! And back of that joy is the satisfaction of knowing all is well.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps, wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness which is not theirs. But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved for attractiveness—that clear skin—that beauty. A clear skin—is the barometer of one's condition. A healthy skin radiates beauty. Pure, clean blood means a clear skin.

S.S.S. is waiting to help you. It will rid your blood of its impurities and give you that clear complexion. Since 1826 S.S.S. has been ridding people of blood impurities, from pimples, from blackheads, boils, eczema and from rheumatism, too. Because S.S.S. is made from fresh herbs and barks, it may be taken with perfect safety. Try it yourself. You will not only look better, but you will feel better, too.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

V. Gwinn. The complaint alleges that each often residents of the precincts were properly notified to appear for work at a prescribed place and time and that each of the ten failed to do so or provide a substitute. Officers were busy yesterday serving warrants for arrest of the ten men. If found guilty of misdemeanors as the state law provides, they will be fined not to exceed $25.

SHIP DISASTER LAID AT DOOR OF OFFICERS

Navigators of Norman Are Held for Death Of 23

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A war department report on the sinking of the Norman in the Mississippi river on May 8 has fixed the responsibility on "nearly all district officials and employes directly connected with the boat and its operation."

A report on the disaster, which cost 23 lives, has been made public by Major General Harry Taylor, chief of army engineers. It says that it is impossible at this time to fixe responsibility "in appropriate degree upon individuals."

The report was submitted to Engineer headquarters here by a special army board appointed to investigate the disaster. The vessel, belonging to the Mississippi rive commission, the report said, apparently had been inspected "mainly as to the adequacy and safety of appliances for the passengers who were to make the special excursion trip at that time."

CHANGES MADE IN MODELS OF FORD MACHINE

Important Alterations Announced in Design of Popular Priced Car

Body changes and chassis refinements more pronounced than any made since the adoption of the model T chassis, were announced here today by the Ford Motor company. There will be no advance in price, it also was stated. Production at the Dallas branch will start September 1 at which time all dealers will be sampled with the improved cars.

Outstanding features of the improvements in both open and enclosed types are lower, all-steel bodies on a lowered chassis, complete new design in most body types, a change from black to color in closed cars, larger, lower fenders, newly designed seats and larger, more powerful brakes.

Longer Lines.

Longer lines, effected through higher radiator and redesigned cowl and bodies are apparent in all the improved Ford cars, but are especially pronounced in the open types. Wide crown fenders hung close to the wheels contribute to the general effect of lowness and smartness.

While runabout and touring cars remain in black, the closed bodies are finished in harmonic color schemes, enhanced by nickel radiators. The coupe and tudor bodies are finished in deep channel green while the Fordor is rich Windsor maroon.

Greater comfort is provided the driver and passengers in both open and closed cars by larger compartments, more deeply cushioned seats and greater leg room.

New Conveniences.

Many new conveniences are also incorporated in the improved cars. In the runabout, touring car, coupe and tudor, the gasoline tank is under the cowl and filled through an ingeniously located filler cap completely hidden from sight by a cover similar in appearance to a cowl ventilator. Onepiece windshield and narrow pillars in the tudor and coupe offer the driver greatly increased visibility and improved ventilation.

Most important in the mechanical changes are the improved brakes. The transmission brake drum and bands have been considerably increased in size which gives the foot brake softer and more positive action as well as longer life. The rear wheel brake drums are larger and the brake of self energizing type.

Cord tires are now standard equipment on all Ford cars.

Ship Survivors Suffer in Arctic

MONTREAL, Aug. 26.—(AP).—A tale of suffering in the sub-Arctic with 46 men and two women marooned on a drifting ice floe after the sinking of the Hudson Bay supply ship, Bay Eskimo, was told by one of the survivors who reached Montreal today.

The Bay Eskimo left Montreal July 7 with provisions for the Eskimos and outposts along the Labrador and Ungava coasts and the isolated stations of the Hudson Bay company in Hudson Bay and James Bay. She also carried a number of missionaries, trappers and traders.

Squeezed by the ice pack she sprang a leak and sank in Ungava Bay on July 23. Captain Lloyd transferred his crew and passengers to the floating ice on which they drifted sixty miles in a driving rain storm for ten hours.

Eventually they were picked up by the steamer Nascopie and landed at a trading post. All supplies were lost.

Wall Street Believes Mexico Plans Financial Institution.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP).—Wall street's belief that Mexico would soon be in a position to resume payments on its external debts has been heightened by the announcement that a new bank of issue would be opened next month. Recent progress in negotiation for a settlement has been reflected in the advance of Mexican bonds, some of which it is reported may be retired under the new plan.

TRAVEVL BY AIR FAMOUS ACE'S MESSAGE HERE

Noted Flying Ace Tells Wichitans What Future Holds

A future in which the cities of the nation will be linked by gleaming airways, when a town without an airport will be as isolated as one without a railroad now, and when the rail lines of the country will be paralleled from end to end by airplane routes was presented here Wednesday by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker when he addressed a large gathering of business men on transportation problems of the coming years. Speaking before a joint noon luncheon of the Optimists and Lions clubs at the Kemp hotel, the noted flying ace of the American armies in the world war sketched a vivid picture of the revolutionary methods the airplane is to bring. It was a talk teeming with information and which, while dealing with a visionary subject, carried a note of conviction.

Airplane Is Coming.

That the airplane is the ultimate master of the transportation field the speaker had no doubt. He declared it was as yet a thing in its infancy, but that its development as a carrier of light freight and passengers was coming with amazing rapidity. He told of the air lines already in operation and planned between New York and Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis and Chicago; Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland; Los Angeles and San Francisco, and other important centers of population, and he characterized these as pioneers in a field that would some day be as universal as that of the railroad and automobile.

"We are called visionary when we make predictions such as these," Capt. Rickenbacker said, "but if in 1920 I had said that in 25 years the automobile industry would be the greatest in the world; that it would have an investment of something like $3,375,000,000; that in one year alone it would make 4,000,000 new cars and that it would have become as great a necessity as it is, I would have been laughed out of town. But you see what the automobile has done, and many of you will live to see it surpassed by the airplane."

Greater Speed.

The speaker went to some length in recounting the advantages of air travel, stressing among other things, of course, its tremendous speed and the great saving of time it allowed. An airplane can now cross the United States in the time it takes the fastest train to cross the state of Texas, he asserted, and then pointed out how in days to come, Wichita Falls would, perhaps, be six hours away from St. Louis, eight hours from Chicago, 16 or 20 from New York, less than two hours from Dallas, etc.

But all this development, he said, will come only as men of vision and enterprise work for it. He gave a personal plea to Wichita Falls to develop the old flying field and flying facilities at what, during the war, was Call Field.

"You must make your preparations and be ready for the big air companies when they came to you," he said. "For come they will, and if you have no airport to offer them, no facilities for them to use you will speedily find yourself a back number."

Youngsters to Fly.

It is the younger generation, Capt. Rickenbacker said, that will bring air travel to its full fruition. The business men of today, he thought, would only lay the ground work for the vast air trasportation of days to come, but he declared that today's boys and girls would be tomorrow's men and women and that in line with the demand for constant improvement in science and mechanics, they would turn to the airplane for exploitation.

Prior to his discussion of air development, Captain Rickenbacker spoke at some length on his war service. He recounted his first trip to England before the United States entered the war; told of suepicions attached to him as a possible German spy; and then related his entrance into the flying corps of the American forces. Several vivid accounts of battles at dizzy heights over enemy lines, in all of which he took part, were given by the speaker.

Captain Rickenbacker while here was the guest of L. O. Brown of the Victory Motor company, local distributor of the Rickenbacker automobile. He left on the Texas Special in the afternoon for St. Louis.

More Truth Than Poetry

TO A MOSQUITO

I possibly did you a wrong,
When my swat put an end to your flight,
But you added the insult of song
To a mean and malevolent bite.
Your bill no more punctures will make,
The music is still in your throat—
It was really a tragic mistake
To gloat.

Perhaps you were famished for bood,
When into my somnolent cheek
You savagely sought to intrude
That pointed and poisonous beak,
But why as you spirally flew
Away on your nocturnal jag,
Did you think it becoming in you
To brag?

I might have slept on unaware
Of the sting you had planted in me,
Except for your triumphant air,
Expressive of sinster glee.
I woke with that hideous hum,
Its meaning I well understood—
And presently rendered it dumb
For good.

Let virtue proclaim far and wide
The glorious deeds it has done,
Let it sing in self-satisfied pride,
As it basks in the light of the sun.
But creatures which basely molest
Their fellows with motives of ill—
And strike in the darkness, had best
Be still.

Spudders Drop Final To Dallas, 6 to 4, Off On Road Today

BODIE'S HOMER FAILS TO PULL TEAM ON TOP

Fink Reviere Goes Well After Bad Start, Morgan Driven Out

By MACK TURNER.

Ping Bodie hit his thirty-fourth home run of the season Wednesday afternoon at the Spudder park, but this failed to keep Dallas from sweeping the three-game series by taking the final battle, 6 to 4.

Reviere started poorly and finished like a cyclone, while Dick Morgan opened up like a million dollars, but broke down in the third and was replaced by Suds Sutherland. Suds was right and the Steers found him hard to hit.

The two pitchers engaged in an old time pitching duel in the late innings, Suds giving up one run and three hits in four innings. Reviere did a little better with three hits and no runs in six innings.

Conley Hurts Again.

Snipe Conley was again the big man in the Dallas attack by riding one of Dick Morgan's slants over the left field wall with Gross on the runaway. This drive was the winning margin of the game, yet Cowboy Segrist put things further on ice with his double to the fence and Fittzgerald's jungle heave into the Dallas dugout in the eighth.

Fittzgerald was the fielding star of the game with his great catch of Williams' long drive in the ninth after a hard run. Paddy Bauman, Dallas second sacker, was the only man that was able to get three hits. Three Dallas players and four Spudders collected a pair. Gross, Williams, and Conley were the Dallas trtio, while Metzler, Bodie, Callaghan, and Query were the Spudder four.

The Spudders scored first in the second inning. Bodie singled through the box. Tanner and Callaghan popped out. Dorman worked Reviere for a base on balls and Query singled over short scoring Bodie.

The Spudders increased their lead to four runs in the third inning on a single by Metzler, an infield out, a single by Fitzgerald, and Bodie's No. 34 over the left field wall.

Dallas broke into the score column in the fourth inning when they managed to shove over one run. Bauman and Gross singled to center, Bauman taking third on the latter's hit. Williams beat out an infield hit to first, Bauman scoring. Both runners advanced on a wild pitch. Conley swung at the third one, and Query dropped the throw, but tossed Conley out at first with no advance. Griffith popped out to Bodie. Kearns walked, filling the bases and Segrist hit to Dorman who forced Kearns at second. Dorman to Tanner.

Callaghan singled in the sixth. Distel walked and Metzler doubled in the seventh, and Query doubled in the ninth to make up the total of the Spudders to get on base off Reviere in the last six innings.

Take the Lead.

Dallas took the lead in the fifth inning by chasing over four scores. Billings walked and Reviere whiffed. Bauman smacked a single to left, and scampered to second when Callaghan let the ball get away from him. Billings pulled up at third. Gross poked a single to right scoring Billings and sending Bauman to third. Williams towered one to right and Bauman went over the pan after the catch. Conley stepped into one and drove it over the left field wall for a home run. Gross trotting in ahead of him. Griffith sent a single to left, Kearns singled to the same pastuse and Griffith took third. Morgan was given the hook and Suds Sutherland went to the firing line. Segrist hit to Tanner, who crossed the bag, forcing Kearns.

A bingle per inning was the Dallas total until the ninth when Suds sent them back in order. In the eighth they transposed their one hit into a run. Segrist leaned on one, and drove the ball to the left field wall for a two-base knock. Fitzgerald retrived the ball as it came off the fence and threw wild to the infield, the ball rolling into the Dallas dugout and Segrist was waved over the plate.

The Spudders play in Dallas today, and probable batteries will be Big Jim Roberts against Lefty Shuman. The Spudders are off on one of those heart-rending road trips that will cover twelve days on foreign soil. Today they play in Dallas. On the twenty-eighth and twenty-ninth they are in Waco. Aug. 30 and 31 and Sept. 1, they are in San Antonio and over to Beaumont for Sept. 2 and 3. The fourth, fifth, and sixth of September they are in Houston, back into Fort Worth for the Labor Day bargain bill and then home for the rest of the season, playing a pair with Shreveport and four with the Cats.

YOU KNOW ME AL — The Adventures of Jack Keefe — —By Ring Lardner

Dear Al:

Well Al I am certainly the hard luck champeen of the world. Just as I was going to get a chance to pitch vs. the Yanks why last night a taxi runned into me and knocked me for a row of flower pots and I think my arm is broke cause it pains me awfull to write with it and how I am ever going to pitch again is a misery to me. I am layed up in a hospital and the doctor says I was to be quite but the news got round that I was here and they was so many nurses come in to get a peek at me that I finely had to ask the head nurse to chase them out. Whelan is comeing to cheer me up. Well if he is as cheerful as he was the last couple wks I would just as leaf have a visit from some empire.

Detroit Will Do Honor to Cobb On Anniversary

DETROIT, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Detroit city council last night voted $1,000 to provide a fitting testimonial to Tyrus Raymond Cobb, manager of the Detroit American league baseball club. Cobb will celebrate his twentieth anniversary as a member of the club Saturday. Appropriate exercises for the occasion are planned at Navin field in the afternoon and a banquet is scheduled for Saturday night.

In asking the council for the appropriation Mayor John W. Smith said:

"Two names alone in all Detroit's history are associated with the supreme degree of achievement in their respective fields. They are those of Henry Ford and Tyrus Cobb.

The PASSING HOUR

by Wm. B. Ruggles

THE SEASON

Now comes the fall of the year when the murmuring rooters and coaches
Sum up the facts on the case—the dope and the list of the athletes—
Those that escaped English and the clutch of last spring's mathematics—
And softly croon to themselves, "Lo! we will wage much wampum—
Lo! we have in the field a team that is one peacherino—
One that will step on the grid and get thirty yards off the tackle!
Look at 'at smashing offense—look at those Berserger linemen!"
Thus they commune with themselves while the murmuring pine and the hemlocks
Nod, each to the other, and whisper: "Bosh! They are goofy."
And silently, one by one, in the infinite reaches of upsets
Blossom defeats that break the purses and hearts of the bleachers.

Helen Wills says the Vin Richards' problem lies in the back-court. And a few months back, we thought it was in the printing presses.

Dissatisfied with his showing against Willie Harmon, Pinkie Mitchell, the junior welterweight champion, returns his $5,000 share of the gate. Page the undertaker, we want to file our reservation for the end of the world.

They don't need a boxing commission where Pinkie lives. They want a sanity hearing.

Not Easy to Prove

HARPING again on the subject of John D. Martin's troubles with the Southern scandal investigation, you might note that it is never easy to prove that bribery exists in a sport and once you have proved it, you haven't gotten anywhere in particular.

In the first place, assume that player A of the New Orleans club offers a bribe to player B of Nashville to throw a game. Looks like a plain case, if proven, doesn't it? But when you come down to cases, player A has committed no crime—at best only a breach of ethics.

Then there is another angle. Suppose that the club owners advance the theory—"Yes, but he is paid under contract to give his best services to win the ball game."

Any half-way competent lawyer could knock that argument in a cocked hat by calling the contract into court, showing its illegal aspect, and probably proving in nine cases out of 10 that the player only signed the contract under the duress of threat of suspension and that he did not want to play in New Orleans anyway.

Then there is the question of punishment. A black-list for whatever reason assigned is a ticklish proposition at best under the law, and you certainly cannot hang, draw, and quarter a man for throwing a ball game.

Some years back, in the wave of feeling following the Black Sox exposure, various state legislatures, Texas among them, were urged to pass laws making throwing a ball game a felony. Few legislatures fell for it and the only one that has since had a case arise under a fool law of that sort, found it was an absurdity that could not be handled—New York in the O'Connell-Dolan mess.

Quite frequently when o'er the wall,
Some jazzbo hoists a home run clout,
The pitcher promptly tells the umps
He already had the bum struck out.

Joie Ray is planning to take up professional boxing. The sprung tendon becomes a busted mitt in that class, Joie.

Old General Alibi though is still the champion contender over the long distance endurance test in any branch of sport.

The only losing gent that never needs an alibi is the one that bumps an ace full into four duces.

No Recommendation

GRANTLAND RICE'S argument that the finals in the amateur golf championship with one exception for 10 years have been anti-climazes sounds like a good predicate for the seeding of the bracket as in tennis. On the other hand, it looks to the naked eye like a prima facie case for the open draw.

If the seeded draw in tenn's works out according to schedule as it usually does in minor tournaments and as it does to a large percentage of the entries in the biggest ones, the seeded stars clash somewhere around the semi-finals. The lesser lights who have to crash through an astonishing galaxy of speed as the tournament progresses have no chance to accumulate confidence by easy progress through a lucky bracket.

The chances are that the open bracket in golf made star of Sweetser and Marston.

Gertrude Ederle will get backing for another channel attempt. Judging by the AP report, what she needed was a more effective working stomach.

What if Hugh McQuillan's wife gets alimony at a major league salary rate and Hugh is shipped to Rochester or Timbuctoo?

TERRELL in the Texas association transfers all its home games, Austin wants to. No ball club in either the Texas association or the East Texas league is likely to make money. Three of the eight in the Texas circut will lose.

There is the situation that confronts you when someone, eyeing the gate receipts at Dallas and Fort Worth suggests slapping a heavy tax on professional baseball receipts. Put it on and you automatically cut the throats of two small leagues and drive at least two clubs out of the Texas circuit. The remaining six cannot carry a Texas league schedule through profitably. You have helped nothing—you have merely killed a business enterprise.

Weep not for Mr. Harry Greb—
His fingers smashed—his ribs caved in—
He will not have to sit around
To listen to commissions chin.

FIRST CALL

First call.

Coach Buddy McCallum of the local high school drifted into town Wednesday from his vacation, kicked his heels and announced that first practice of this year's Coyote football chasers would be held next Tuesday morning, September 1, at the Junior college. The gridders are asked to report at 8:30.

Thus Wichita Falls gets its first touch of 1925 football.

Hollis, Okla., which has been practicing for about two weeks, will be the first aggregation to be tackled by the locals, and this comes September 12 at Hollis, less than two weks from the time of the initial tryouts.

Attention has been given to the football field, a new fence has been erected, goal posts erected and everything put in readiness for the opening punt.

BROWNS POUND SENATORS FOR 11 TO 8 WIN

Washington Hurlers Hammered Mercilessly in St. Louis Ball Orchid

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns again pounded Washington's star hurlers and won from the Senators today, 11 to 8, in the second game of the series. Washington retained the league leadership, however, as the second place Philadelphia Athletics also lost. The visitors used five pitchers and the locals four in what turned out to be a slugging match. Coveleskie was retired after the first two innings. Then Reuther and Marberry were hit for a total of six runs in the third. Stanley Harris, Washington manager, was ordered from the field in the fourth inning when he started an argument with Umpire Owens. Nick Altrock, Senator coach, also was waived off the field when he started some of his funny stuff. Score:

WHITE SOX 1, YANKEES 0.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Chicago shut out New York, 1 to 0, in a pitching duel between Faber and Pennock. Hooper's double and Kamm's single in the second inning, scored the only run of the game. The visitors started after Faber in the first inning by cracking out three successive singles but the redhead tightened up and was never in danger thereafter. Score:

GIRL IS SENTENCED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Dorothy Ellingson, 17, found guilty of manslaughter Saturday by a jury which tried her on a charge of murder for the shooting of her mother, Anna Ellingson, in her home last January, today was sentenced to serve from one to ten years in the state penitentiary at San Quentin.

SLAUGHTER STORY MYTH

Man's Tale of Hidden Wealth Scouted By His Father.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26.—(AP) Coney C. Slaughter's story of a $50,000 cache is but a dream of a disordered mind, according to his father, W. B. Slaughter of this city, who today declared that his son is "merely spoofing" the authorities about it. The father bases his belief on the fact that he was compelled to support his daughter-in-law and grand daughter, after the son was sentenced to prison.

RICE OWLS NOW HAVE POWERFUL COACH STAFF

Addition of Hjertberg Gives Institute Wonderful Organization

HOUSTON.—(AP)—Now that E. W. Hjertberg, former trainer of a Swedish Olympic team, has been appointed head track coach at Rice Institute here, the Rice Owls have a coaching staff second to none in the south, in the opinion of sport followers of this city. Hjertberg succeeded John W. Nicholson, also a most capable track coach, who resigned last spring. Nicholson was a former national collegiate champion. He won championship honors when representing Missouri university on the track.

Have Great Staff.

Heading the Rice coaching staff is John W. Heisman, athletic director and head football coach. He is a gridiron mentor of national reputation, having been outstanding in this field for a quarter of a century. Heisman first won attention and acclamation when his Georgia Tech elevens sprang into prominence. He later went to Pennsylvania university. Heisman is now serving his second year at Rice.

Joe Bedenk, former All-American guard, is head baseball coach and first assistant coach in football. Bedenk was named for All-American when he played guard on the 1923 Penn State eleven. Last fall with only fair material he turned out a stalwart forward line for the Owls.

Bedenk last spring made good as a baseball coach. During the first three weeks of the conference season, the Owls were the sensational combination of the Southwest Conference, defeating Texas university, the eventual winner of the title. If "Grandpa" Woods, one of the outstanding hurlers in the conference in 1925, is eligible for baseball next spring Bedenk again will put out a contender for the diamond championship. Woods, who was a brilliant backfield player last fall for the Owls, is not eligible for football competition this fall, and Coaches Heisman and Bedenk are certain to miss his services. Woods was the first string fullback on the 1924 eleven.

Archcraft is Added.

Franklin Ashcraft, former basket ball coach at Sam Houston Normal, has just signed a three-year contract to coach basket ball at Rice Institute. He coached the 1924 five with fair success. The Owls have not had a championship basket ball team since 1918, when Kingsland, Vance, Brown, and Dodge were outstanding stars for the Owls. Rice supporters are hoping that Coach Ashcraft will be able to make of the Owls title contenders at the cage game.

GIANTS SPLIT PAIR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—New York split a double header with Cincinnati today winning the first game, 6 to 5 and losing the second, 2 to 1 in 10 innings. As the Pirates won at Boston, Pittsburgh increased its lead to five and one-half games. Irish Meusel's eighteenth homer of the season coming in the eighth decided the opener in which Frank Snyder also hit a four-bagger. The second game developed into a pitching duel between Jack Scott and Adolfo Luque. Each team scored a run in the first inning. In the thirteenth, Walker got an infield hit, took second on Holke's sacrifice and scored on Cavency's single. With the bases full in the eleventh and twelfth the Giants were unable to score. Luque allowed only six hits and but one of them came between the first and eleventh. Lindstrom was added to McGraw's list of injured players when he was spiked by Critz in the fourth inning. Score:

Giants Are Sued

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP).—Hughie McQuillan, New York Giants' pitcher who was suspended two months ago, filed two separate court actions against his club to recover an aggregate sum of $2,038.45 which he claimed was due him as salary.

McQuillan was suspended by Manager John McGraw for failure to keep in condition. McGraw recently announced that McQuillan would be returned to the lineup as soon as he was fit.

The first suit, filed in municipal court, asked specifically for $388.45 for salary for the week ending July 22. A supreme court action demanded $1,700 for salary from the end of July to September 1, under terms of his contract.

ROCKNE SAYS SAINTS WILL LACK POWER

Only Two Men Sure Of Place on This Year's Team, He Says

AUSTIN, Texas.—Knute Rockne, famous coach of Notre Dame university, said last week just before his departure for his home in Indiana that only two football players who would be available this fall for the Notre Dame eleven had convinced him they merited places on his 1925 combination. These two players are Hennessey and O'Boyle, both backfield performers. They played last season with the Notre Dame Micks, being considered the next best back of the line performers after Strudleher, Crowley, Layden and Miller, the famed "Four Horsemen" or Notre Dame.

"While I have a number of capable men who will be out for the team, I face the difficult task of replacing the 11 regulars of the championship 11 of last fall, as well as eight first class reserve players who also graduated," said Coach Rockne. "My team necessarily will be a green one, and this team doubtless will lose some games. However, even though my eleven loses as many as five contests, if it fights hard in every battle, I shall feel the season has been a success."

The nationally famed football mentor let it be known that he fears Baylor University, a Southwest conference team from Waco, that will play Notre Dame, Sept. 26, at South Bend. "I figure that Coach Frank Bridges' Bears, practically the same eleven that won in 1924 the championship of the Southwest conference, has at least an even chance to beat Notre Dame," Rockne said. "I have talked to gridiron authorities about the makeup of the Baylor team, and I know that such men as Coates, Sisco, Walker, Strickland, and Jones will be hard to beat. Coach Bridges is a highly capable coach and will get the most out of the very promising material at hand."

He predicted the veteran Baylor eleven would win the Southwest conference football championship of 1925. "With Texas University having a green team; Rice weakened by the ineligibility of many promising players; Texas A. & M. with only fair material, and S. M. U. with a green team, it must be admitted that the veteran Baylor eleven has the best chance to win the championship," Rockne said.

Mexican Beauty To Appear on Screen

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26.—(AP) Society is agog over the intention of Senora Dolores Asansolo Martinez del Rio, one of the wealthiest and most beautiful society matrons in Mexico City, to enter the movies at Hollywood, Cal.

The announcement was made at a farewell banquet given her last night by General Eduardo Iturbide, a bank president.

Senora Martinez del Rio's millionaire husband has given his consent and she is soon to leave for Hollywood.

American movies are popular in Mexico City, having devotees as enthusiastic as in the United States, but this is the first time that the lure of the screen has captivated one of society's most prominent matrons.

Michigan Straits Territory Afire

CHEBOYGAN, Mich., Aug. 26.—(AP)—The straits territory today is alive with forest fires, fanned by high winds into a menace to many sections of northern Michigan.

Crews of fire fighters fought against the spread of the fires, but with little success.

In the northern end of Cheboygan and Emmitt counties dozens of serious fires rage unchecked. They have spread to marsh lands where cedars, pines and poplars form a solid barrier to all but fire.

Thousands of acres of Michigan's finest game cover have been destroyed. Birds and wild animals race from place to place as the fires sweep their native haunts and seek refuge on farm lands and in the open spaces.

White, Thalheimer Bow to Kinseys In Long Battle

Texas Doubles Stars Put Out of National Net Competition

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26.—(AP)—One Australian threat and three American combinations entered the semi-final round of the national doubles championship on the turf courts of the Longwood Cricket club today. The quarter final matches today saw the passing of Spain's lone threat, the elimination of the national singles champion and his youthful understudy and the defeat of the sensational Texas combination of White and Thalheimer in addition to the elimination of the new team of Williams and Loot of Chicago.

The Australians, Gerald Patterson and John B. Hawkes, elevated themselves to the semi-final bracket by defeating Lott and Williams in a furious five-set match after losing the first two sets to their youthful rivals, 6-8, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

Veterans Victorious.

William M. Johnston and Clarence J. Griffin of San Francisco, the veteran team of the tournament, gained a similar ranking by defeating William T. Tilden, II, national singles champion, at Sandy Weiner of Philadelphia in another stubbornly contested five-set exhibition, 7-9, 6-1, 5-7, 6-4, 6-1.

The defending champions, Robert G. and Howard O. Kinsey of San Francisco, took three hours and fifteen minutes to reach the semi-final bracket, winning a colorless exhibition from Lewis N. White and Louis Thalheimer of Texas, 7-5, 10-8, 4-6, 2-6, 2-6.

Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., and R. Norris Williams, II, of Philadelphia, eliminated the Spaniards, Manuel Alonso and Eduardo Flaquer, in a four-set contest, 6-1, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. This was the only match of the afternoon which did not take the limit of five sets.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A tentative agreement for settling the French debt to Great Britain in 62 annual payments of 12,500,000 each was reached today by Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, and M. Caillaux, French finance minister. The total payments would thus be L775,000,000 the original debt being Lx623,000,000.

The whole agreement hinges, however, on what terms the French debt to the United States is settled and on whether the French government approves.

Mr. Churchill made it plain in a statement tonight that the British were willing to go through with the bargain he and M. Caillaux had arrived at only in the event that the United States received no more France in proportion to the size of the two loans than Great Britain.

BELIEVE U. S. INVOLVED IN FRENCH SETTLEMENT.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(AP)—M. Caillaux's conversations with Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer at London concerning France's debt to Great Britain is regarded in cabinet circles here as profoundly revelant to the forthcoming negotiations at Washington respecting the French debt to the United States.

M. Caillaux's ideas, in accord with those of his principal colleagues in the government have been gradually developing into two convictions.

First, that the settlements with the United States and Great Britain when made, must be priorities upon French resources, now that northern France is nearly restored and second that France can have no other policy than to place the United States and Great Britain upon precisely the same basis.

Believe Big Theft Ring Finally Broken

AUSTIN, Aug. 26.—(AP)—State Ranger Charles N. Davis, who participated in the arrests of Yancey Story and Shelby Stiff, and several others under Ranger Captain Tom Hickman, at Denton recently on charges of robbing banks in North Texas, reported to Adjutant General Mark McGee today, that only a few of a highly organized ring of thieves has been arrested.

Ranger Davis said that possibly scores of auto thieves, bank robbers, highway robbers and other law breakers are in the ring and that the rangers are continuing their search and expect to apprehend many suspects.

BANDITS EVADE PURSUIT.

Carry American Specialist Into Manchurian Interior.

HARBIN, Manchuria, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Manchurian bandits who are holding Dr. Harvey J. Howard, American eye specialist, of the Peking Union Medical college, for ransom, have evaded the Chinese troops who had surrounded them and have taken their prisoner by boat up the Hwachwan river to a point 20 miles from Fuchin in the Manchurian province of Holungkiang. This information was received here today in a telegram from Roger S. Greene, general manager in China for the Rockefeller institute, who added that Manchurian troops of the Holungkiang forces are pursuing the bandits.

STRIKERS CAUSE TROUBLE.

Shots Fired From Window of Seamen's Headquarters.

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Five shots were fired this afternoon from a window of the office here of the National Sailers and the Firemen's Union during a meeting of striking seamen which was in progress outside the building. The shots are believed to have been a protest against the union's action in opposing the present unofficial strike of British seamen.

Fair Heads Return From Dallas; Make Plans for Horse Show

Mayor R. E. Shepherd, H. A. Grey, Jr., and Jimmy Buford have returned from Dallas and Fort Worth, where they met several of the sportsmen of the two cities and made plans for the bringing of several strings of thoroughbred show horses to the Texas-Oklahoma fair, October 3 to 8, inclusive.

While in Dallas Mayor Shepherd spent several hours conferring with officials of the state fair of Texas regarding plans for the mutual betterment of the two expositions.

The Dallas exposition officials were of the opinion that the local fair was becoming a factor in the exposition world and had taken its place with other regional fairs of the southwest.

Cops on Guard To See That Man Is Actually Dead

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A policeman was standing guard in a morgue today watching for signs of life in the body of a man who "died" once before 12 years ago and came back to life.

This time Patrick Donahue, 61, is actually supposed to be dead. He was found on the sidewalk yesterday. Two physicians detected no breathing nor heart beating.

"He's dead," they said, "but recalling his previous "death," they ordered the undertaker to refrain from embalming the body and obtained a patrolman to watch over the body.

Twelve years ago Donahue lay "dead" in the same morgue in which his body now lies. A few hours later he threw off the white sheet, stepped down from the marble slab and nearly scared a morgue attendant to death by walking into the front office. He had been alive and well in St. Joseph's home for the aged until his collapse yesterday.

Hylan's Attacks Amazing Gotham

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Politicians were amazed today by Mayor Hylan's attack on Governor Smith, who is opposing the mayor for re-nomination.

The attack, contained in a letter to United States Senator Royal S. Copeland, is generally considered as another indication that the mayor with the backing of W. R. Hearst, will run as an independent if defeated in the primary September 15.

Governor Smith, friend of Thomas L. Chadbourne, real owner of the Brooklyn subway system, the mayor charged, had appointed four public service commissioners who tried to boost fares to 10 cents in the city and did raise the rates from 5 to 12 cents in up-state cities. Senator Walker, the mayor said, was connected with those who sold putrified meat to the people.

Better Bumper Crops Found Over Country

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Two words beginning with B, better and bumper, were the predominant note of reports from agriculture throughout the Midwest today.

Several sections reported bumper crops, many reported better crops and all heard from reported better prices for farm products, but the high note was the report of better financial conditions, which came from communities where early freeze and later drouth severely damaged crops. In these sections the farmers faced their ancient field enemies buoyed up by the prospect that better prices and better business conditions would more or less offset the damage of nature.

Values Improve.

Statistics compiled by the National Bank of Commerce of St. Louis stated that while three years ago a given quantity of farm products, when exchanged for industrial goods, was worth only 68 per cent of points 1913 exchange value, now its worth was 97 per cent. William McMartin, chairman of the board of the federal reserve bank of St. Louis, said there is increased purchasing power in the country due to large crops and higher prices.

Optimistic reports on crop conditions in Michigan were made by Verne H. Church, federal statistician, and L. Whitney Watkins, state agricultural commissioner. Wheat, rye, barley and oats were reported yielding better than expected. Corn was rated at 85 per cent, potatoes normal, beans 88 per cent and sugar beet 82.

The Ohio farmer's position was regarded as the most favorable since 1915. C. J. West, federal agricultural statistician, said there is not an important crop failure in Ohio and that prices in all commodities are average or better. Live stock production is under last year, but West said better prices are expected to put more money in stock mens' pockets.

Liquidation of many "frozen" loans in country banks of Indiana was forecast by Evans Woolen, president of the Fletcher Savings and Trust company of Indianapolis. This he attributed to the best corn crop in several years, with good oat and wheat yields, despite spring freeze and later drouth.

Everett C. Brown, president of the Chicago livestock exchange, after a three weeks trip in the western farming country, said this year's corn crop was the biggest ever raised. He reported also the greatest scarcity in many years of fat fancy cattle and predicted that money would be made out of the corn crop by feeding it to livestock.

Oklahoma sang a song of cotton. O. B. Motherhead, state banking commissioner, said:

"The condition of state banks is far better than in many years. The bumper cotton crop of last year, when more than a million and a half bales were marketed, brought an increased number of deposits."

As chorus for the million and a half bales, J. W. Jeter, vice president of the First National Bank of Oklahoma City, said:

"The cotton crop (this season) may reach the unprecedented total of 2,000,000 bales."

In wheat, Oklahoma made more than half a crop, but for the smaller yield farmers received prices nearly double those of a year ago. Corn was hurt in some sections by excessive heat, but with the prospects that better prices might bring as much money as last year's larger yield."

In South Texas there was drouth, yet C. C. Walsh, agent of the Eleventh district federal reserve bank, said:

"Even the drouth conditions will have less effect than they might had not the state been in good financial condition."

Of the crops in the rest of Texas Nathan Adams, president of the American Exchange National Bank of Dallas, said:

"I have never seen brighter and more hopeful prospects. North, east and west Texas are experiencing near perfect conditions and bumper crops should be made in all these sections."

FREDERICK

FREDERICK, Okla., Aug. 26.—Miss Katherine Fleming will have charge of the exhibits of the bureau of infancy of the state department of health at the Tillman county free fair here this week. Capacity of the city water system is consumed daily and a surplus cannot be kept stored because of the heavy tax on the pipes each day, says City Superintendent J. J. Zumwalt. A meeting to discuss the impending shortage has been called by Mayor E. U. Gamblin.

Natural gas for Frederick is practically assured, says H. E. Myers, representing the firm of Moseley and Myers of Tulsa, who are preparing a gas main extension proposition to several southwestern cities. Elections to adopt a franchise has been called for Hobart, Frederick, Cordell and Tipton. Manitou and Snyder citizens have not called a special election as yet but it is thought that all are in favor of the proposition.

Work is to be started at once on the new First Presbyterian church building, at the corner of Eleventh and Floral, the construction contract having been let to A. H. Krause. The contract calls for $23,000, and additional expense will bring the total cost of the building to $24,000, it is said.

A planing mill will be built here by A. H. Krause, building contractor.

Dr. A. L. Mitchell, who will leave the latter part of this week for Stillwater, where he will act as official physician and medical adviser for Oklahoma Agricultural and Mechanical college, was honored at a reception Tuesday evening. Members of the First Christian church congregation held a picnic dinner in his honor.

A building 25 by 40 feet has just been completed here by A. H. Krause, contractor. The Farmers Co-operative and Grain and Cotton company will use the structure as a storage for surplus tires, tubes, accessories and oils sold at their filling station.

Misses Gertrude and Irene Bracht of Oklahoma City, members of the staff of the state highway commission, were in Frederick this week making alterations and corrections on the large map of the state highway system which has been placed in Frederick under the supervision of the Frederick chamber of commerce.

Miss Laura Hall, daughter of Mrs. E. G. Hall, has accepted a position to teach music in the Davidson schools and will open a studio there September 7, at the opening of school. Miss Hall has just returned from a five weeks' summer course in the University of Colorado at Boulder, where she studied under Dr. C. A. Chase.

County Agent L. H. Beaty began distribution this week of poison to be used by Tillman county farmers in their warfare on the boll or leaf worms which have recently been making inroads on crops in several sections of the county. It probably will be necessary for many Tillman county farmers to dust their fields with the calcium arsenate, according to Beaty, and the county agent intends to lead the campaign against the infestation.

It's the "Cuban" In Dancing Circles Now

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Having "modified" the charleston until it no longer holds the lure that it did for the flappers, the American Society of Teachers of Dancing in convention at the Waldorf Astoria today turned their attention to "revealing" costumes used by members in their dances.

Mrs. O. M. Speers of Dunkirk, N. Y., and Miss K. A. McClafferty of Wilmington, Del., are leaders of the movement to drape members in more conservative garments both in practice work at the convention and at home in the studios.

Card Index System Is Added To Record Files For Police Department

A card index record of every police call, with detailed information regarding the complaint and what was done in the matter, results of investigation and the like, is the latest addition to the Wichita Falls police department's efficiency program. No lost addresses now, or forgotten phone numbers. When a complaint reaches the desk seargeant at the city hall it is completely detailed on one of the cards; when an officer is sent to an address his name is written under the complaint; when that officer returns the results of his investigation is written underneath that and the card is filed away to make a permanent record. The card remains open and on the desk until such time as the case is completely closed.

A Complete Check.

The record thus kept will afford officers of the department a complete check on what is going on, while the permanent record will fill a long-felt need here in the case of wished-for evidence in court trials.

The new efficiency program was started about a week ago when all officers, plainclothes men and motorcycle men began phoning in every hour, giving their location and what they were doing. This record is also being kept in a permanent file.

Post cards have been printed for statewide distribution to other police departments when a car is stolen now. A full description of the car is carried and detailed information regarding the theft is given.

The three items are regarded by the police department as a step in the "big city" direction, and are not usually found in cities of this size.

Poultry Men to Hold Convention Here During Fair

The Texas branch of the single comb and dark Leghorn organization will hold its state meet at the Texas-Oklahoma fair, October 3 to 8, inclusive, according to F. A. Foster, secretary of the Leghorn association clubs of the state.

This will be the first time in the history of the Leghorn organization that a meet of the breeders has been scheduled for northwest Texas. The bringing of the state meet to the Texas-Oklahoma fair will probably mean entries of 500 birds or more in the Leghorn classes than at the 1924 exposition.

Ira D. Brown, general superintendent of the poultry department of the fair, plans to have other state poultry clubs to have their state conventions during the local exposition. He believes that the poultry show this year will have approximately 3,500 individual birds entered.
