County Banks Report Assets Over 9 Million

Collingsworth county banks ended the year with combined assets near the nine and one-half million dollar mark, highest ever recorded here, and deposits approaching the eight million dollar figure, another historic high.

This closes out a year that produced a cotton crop that is still the amazement of business men and farmers, yet not by any means is the full impact of this crop shown in the reports of the county's three banks published in The Wellington Leader this week.

Due to the lateness of the crop, many growers still have cotton in the field, or have ginned their crop but have received only part of their money for it, as of Jan. 1.

Total assets reached $9,471,543.77, a little more than a million dollars above last year's figure of $8,430,471.12, and a million and a quarter over the figure four years ago.

Total deposits stand at $7,889,969.22, compared to $7,712,927.06 last year.

Of this figure, $6,325,523.76 is in demand deposits, while

Two Men Lose Fingers in Puller Accidents

Two Wellington men received injuries in separate accidents during the week end, when their hands were caught in cotton pullers they were operating.

D. C. Thomason had the two middle fingers and part of the forefinger of his right hand cut off when he caught it in the cogs of the puller.

The accident occurred Friday, Jan. 3 at his farm in the OM community, as he was about to finish gathering his crop.

He was hospitalized at St. Joseph's until Sunday and is getting along fine, Mrs. Thomason said.

Lloyd Ball had the thumb of one hand cut off at the first joint Saturday when he caught it in a puller on the Lloyd Wooldridge farm. He was working on the machine.

Wooldridge brought Ball to St. Joseph's Hospital where he remained until Tuesday.

Judge Luther Gribble Dies Suddenly Wed.

Judge Luther E. Gribble, distinguished Texas jurist whose career in law spanned 44 years, died suddenly in Panhandle Wednesday, January 8, about 6 a.m. He was 72.

He went there Monday to preside at a regular session of the 100th Judicial District court. With him when he was stricken was James Richardson, court reporter and close personal friend. The two regularly stayed in the jury dormitory at the courthouse, and it was there his death occurred.

Mr. Richardson summonsed a coroner, who pronounced Judge Gribble dead when he arrived.

Funeral arrangements have not been made.

Judge Gribble heard the grand jury Monday and petit jury cases Tuesday. He remained in Panhandle Wednesday to complete paper work before returning to Wellington.

Judge Gribble was in his 19th year as judge of the 100th Judicial District and only last week announced his candidacy for re-election.

He also was in his 17th year as presiding judge of the 9th Administrative Judicial District comprising 43 counties in the Panhandle and South Plains.

For more than 30 years, Judge Gribble served this area as a public official. He was county attorney of Collingsworth county 8 years and county judge 6 years before being elected to the district post.

Recognized and honored as a judge who seldom had a decision reversed on cases carried to the higher courts, Judge Gribble never attended law school, and as a young man his ambition was to become a teacher.

It was while he was teaching at Clarendon College that he began studying law at home. He took his bar examination in 1918, and on Jan. 1, 1919, he opened his law office in his home town of Wellington.

During his judicial career, he tried many noted cases in the Panhandle, and some of his decisions involved questions not definitely decided in Texas law.

One of these determined that a person who had committed a felony criminal offense while under the age of 17 could be tried for the felony, and if guilty punished by confinement in the state penitentiary after he reached the age of 17.

Another case concerned disputed ownership of royalties on oil wells in the Canadian River bed. The United States Supreme Court affirmed Judge Gribble's decision. He pointed to these two decisions with special pride.

He was known, too, for his concern for children in those cases involving them which he heard.

Judge Gribble was a native of Wellington and member of one of Collingsworth county's earliest and most prominent families. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Gribble, and he was born here Dec. 12, 1891.

He attended the Wellington schools and was graduated from Clarendon College and Southwestern University at Georgetown. He taught in Cherokee Junior College from 1913 to 1915, and in the Hamilton high school part of 1916. He returned to Clarendon College, then a leading Methodist senior college of Texas, in 1916 and remained until he returned to Wellington to practice law.

One of his principal interests lay in the Methodist Church. He served as a member of the board of stewards and a trustee, and for nearly 20 years taught a Sunday school class.

He was a member of the Wellington Rotary Club, the Wellington Chamber of Commerce, the Farm Bureau, and an honorary member of the Wellington Fire Department.

A 32nd degree Mason and a Shriner, he was a member of the Dallas Consistory and of Khiva Temple, Amarillo. He was a life member of the University of Texas Dad's Association, and he also was a licensed public accountant.

Judge Gribble was married to Mrs. Helen Hurst on Dec. 20, 1960.

Surviving are his wife, of the home; a son, L. E. Gribble of Newport Beach, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Sanford Bunin of Richland, Wash.; and a step-daughter, Mrs. Don Hood of Lubbock. There are six grandchildren.

Three sisters survive: Mrs. Percy Wells and Mrs. Fred Watkins of Wellington, and Mrs. Estella Cocke of LaPorte.

January 16 Deadline

Work Begins This Week on New Jail

On site construction of the new Collingsworth county jail is due to start by Friday, Jan. 10, and the building must be completed within 120 days.

Paul Spillman, acting as attorney for the county on this subject, said that M. W. Peterson, chief, Public Facilities Operations Staff of the Housing and Home Finance agency, has set Jan. 16 as the absolute deadline for beginning work.

Waco Construction, Inc., is the contractor, having submitted a low bid of $65,300 on the structure.

This is a public works project, with one-half the cost being in the form of a grant from the federal government and the remaining half financed by the county with time warrants.

Merle Walker, Prominent Plains Educator, Dies

Merle Walker, 50, superintendent at Idalou, and a leading educator in the South Plains area, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home about 4 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 5.

He was reared at Samnorwood and later was superintendent of the school there.

Funeral services will be announced by the Rix Funeral Home in Lubbock.

Mr. Walker was the oldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Barney Walker, long-time residents of the Plymouth-Samnorwood area. He attended the Plymouth schools and received the bachelor's degree from West Texas State University, Canyon. He later received the master's degree.

He then returned to his home

Name Two Directors

Water Board Election Slated on January 14

A large and representative vote is urgently needed in the election of two directors of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District, slated for Tuesday, Jan. 14.

Only two candidates have filed for the two places. They are Dan Henard and George Roberts, both seeking re-election. Henard is the current president of the water board.

1964 will be the crucial year in the county's water development, board members point out, and a large vote is necessary to show government and bureau officials that all the people are behind the county's water development program.

There will be two voting places.

Voting Box No. 1 will be at the county court room of the courthouse and will serve these boxes: North and South Wellington, Dodson, Quail, and Marella.

Mrs. Joe Terry will be the election judge and Mrs. Gus Allen and C. E. Caldwell will be the clerks.

Voting Box No. 2 will be at the Samnorwood school, serving voting precincts of Lutie, Dozier and Samnorwood. Gus Gooch will be election judge, and Mrs. J. L. Alexander and Bill Knoll will be clerks.

Henard is now serving as president of the water board, and Roberts is the only original member of the board still serving.

Any qualified voter may take part in this election. He does not have to be a property owner.

"It is urgent that we have a big vote," a spokesman for the water board again emphasized.

"Everyone here knows we are interested—vitally interested—in developing our water. Everyone knows that we have a program worked out that is big and that will do big things for our county, and more than that, a program that is workable.

"But we have to convince the state and federal officials that we are wholeheartedly behind this program.

"Many times in the past, these officials have asked about our interest. It is more important than we realize.

Directors of the water control and improvement district do not draw one cent of money for their work. It is entirely voluntary.

PTA Cancels Jan. Meeting

The regular meeting of the Elementary school Parent - Teacher Association, scheduled for this week, will not be held, according to Mrs. Clyde DeMoss, president.

The regular meetings will be resumed the second week in February, she added.

John Rainey Asks Re-election

John Rainey has authorized The Wellington Leader to announce his candidacy for re-election to the office of Sheriff of Collingsworth County, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary.

"I sincerely appreciate the fine cooperation the people of Collingsworth county have given me since I have been your sheriff," Rainey said.

"I am asking for re-election on my record during the time I have served you as sheriff. I have tried always to be fair and just in my dealings with all people handled through my department, and I will continue by this principle as long as I remain in office.

"All of you are aware, through the newspapers and TV that our county has a lower crime rate than most others, and it is my desire that it stay this way.

"I would like to be your sheriff after the new county jail is finished, for I believe this will make possible more complete and effective law enforcement.

"If you have any question as to the operation of any part of my office, or on the local enforcement of any law, I hope you will come and discuss it with me.

"I will try to see each of you before the first primary, but if I miss anyone, please take this as my personal solicitation for your vote."

Buildings Standards Body Authorized

City Council Enacts Speed Limit, Building Ordinances

The City Council Monday night, Jan. 6 passed three ordinances, two dealing with speed limits on farm-to-market highways through town.

The other ordinance provided for the condemnation of substandard buildings and created a building standards commission. This was passed as an emergency ordinance and becomes effective upon publication of the legal notice in this issue of The Wellington Leader.

This ordinance, No. 370, defines substandard buildings, made so by, among other things, by deterioration, substandard construction, or which are fire hazards.

It also provides that these substandard buildings, within the terms of the ordinance, which constitute a menace to health, morals, safety or general welfare of its occupants or of the public, shall be vacated, repaired or demolished. The procedure for action is outlined.

The Building Standards Commission shall be composed of three members, holding office for two-year terms.

The ordinances concerning speed limits on FM Highway 338 (Fifteenth Street) and FM 1035 (Haskell Street) were passed after the Texas Highway Department had completed an engineering and traffic investigation to determine the desirable speed limits.

Forty-five miles per hour is the top speed on both FM highways. On FM 338 this drops to a low of 30 miles per hour between Childress and Ruffin streets, then goes up to 40 miles per hour past the city limits to the Highway Department buildings.

The low maximum speed limit on FM 1035 (Haskell) is 40 miles per hour from Second Street to the south city limits, according to Russell Yates, city secretary.

TWO POINTS TOWARD VICTORY

This tense moment in the shampionship game of the Wellington Invitational Tournament Saturday night, came with a toss for the basket by Bobby Hudson, at center with both hands extended. Other Rockets, wearing white suits, around him are Bill Spillman, No. 54; and Roger Weems, No. 40. Gary White, No. 32, comes in from the back. The other boys are members of the Hedley team, which lost out late in the game 58 to 50.

NEWS LETTER from Congressman WALTER ROGERS

THE BURDENS CONFRONTING THE PRESIDENT

As we turn the corner into the new year, each of us looks down the long road marked "1964" to take a reading on what lies ahead in our personal and professional futures and in the future of our nation.

No man in the United States can look forward to a more imposing array of problems, a greater mental and physical burden, than those which face the President.

Having been thrust suddenly into the world's most critical leadership position by the assassination of President Kennedy, President Johnson faces challenges of a magnitude and delicacy never before faced by a U.S. President.

I have every confidence that President Johnson will meet these challenges with courage, intelligence and imagination. In meeting his responsibilities, the President will be as aware as any other American that this is an election year and that political considerations require that he establish a record in his own name before November.

But the obligation for a President of the United States to perform well goes far beyond purely political considerations; in these times the very survival of the Nation and the Free World hinge on how well a President meets the challenges that are his alone to meet.

President Johnson, looking down the 1964 road, can find his resources tested in an endless parade of problems involving our relations with the world:

—Cuba continues under armed Communist domination, a Red thorn in the side of the Western Hemisphere;

—the costly and near stalemated war continues in South Viet Nam—a war bringing a rising toll of American casualties;

—South American countries are under the eroding subversive pressures of Cuban, Russiand, and Red Chinese brands of Communism;

—France, under DeGaulle's "France comes first" leadership, poses problems for the solidity of the Atlantic Alliance;

—Italy's new government contains the threat of growing neutralism in that country and more problems for NATO;

—the political storm is rising in Britain, with an election showdown between Conservative and Labor parties likely to come this spring;

—Berlin remains a Cold War tinderbox, as does the continued division of Germany;

—the European Common Market creates new trade challenges for the United States;

— our balance-of-payments deficit, created primarily because of our commitment to stand off Communist thrusts beyond our shores, defies easy solution;

—the threat exists that France and Red China will soon become members of the "nuclear club";

—Russian subversion is again posing threats to the new states of Africa;

—tensions are rising in the Mid-East;

—the so-called "non-aligned" nations are resisting firm ties to either the Free or Communist worlds while seeking the favors each can bstow, and thereby creating new problems in the delecate power balance.

There are other problems no less vexing than these — and each requires that the President of the United States give close and judicious attention.

Domestic problems, all permeated with controversy, include tax reduction and reform; civil rights; the level of defense spending and the assignment of defense expenditures; farm problems (including wheat); medical care legislation; aid to education; unemployment; and many others. The foreign aid program, under constant fire for a number of years and sure to remain mired in dispute, could be termed a program half domestic and half foreign in nature.

The importance of proposals regarded as purely domestic is heightened by the absolute necessity of the United States to maintain its economic stability so as to be able to work in the world from a position of strength.

But foreign affairs policies, programs, and strategies are paramount considerations for a President who, by the Constitution, is charged to function as the chief architect of American foreign policy. With the other Presidents who have held that lonely post in the years since World War II, President Lyndon Johnson is well aware that a serious mistake in foreign policy could mean the incineration of the Northern Hemisphere. Despite a phalanx of advisers and staff assistants and experts of every kind, the final decisions in the foreign policy area remain the President's to make. It is hard, hard, hard — and very lonely work.

And so, I would urge all Americans regardless of political party or political convictions to respect the President and his office and the enormity of his duties; to recognize the Constitutional obligation that is his to formulate a program of legislation and to lead the Nation's foreign policy; to acknowledge the love he shares with us for our country; to acknowledge his boundless desire to see our country prosper in continued safety and full sovereignty; to support those programs we can support, to reject those we can not support —but to support or reject in a spirit of good will and with a willingness to examine the opposing point of view; and, of course, to pray to Divine Providence that our President will continue to have His guidance and be strengthened thereby.

who's doing the dishes tonight?

That's a silly question. I take it for granted you are, mom. Do you know that it's been proven the average woman puts in over sixty 8-hour working days per year in hand-washing dishes? . . . time that you can put to far better use.

An automatic dishwasher is the answer to your dishwashing chore. It will save you more than half of your after-meal cleanup time, and keep the kitchen neat and clean after between meal snacks. As sure as I'm Reddy Kilowatt, you'll have to admit that continuing to do the dishes by hand is about as pointless as laundering the clothes by hand.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, January 9, 1964

Carole Alexander, Formerly of This City, Weds James David Oates

Miss Joan Carole Alexander, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Olan Alexander of Plainview, formerly of Wellington, was married to James David Oates in the chapel of First Methodist Church, Plainview, at seven thirty Saturday evening, December 28. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Oates, of Plainview.

The bride is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grady Van Pelt of Wellington and of Mrs. Ruth Alexander, now of Lubbock.

The Rev. James Price performed the double ring ceremony, and wedding music was presented by Homer Garrison, vocalist, and Mrs. Bill Stanford, organist.

Mr. Alexander gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a formal gown of peau de soie, designed with re-embroidered Alencon lace accenting the front panel from the scoop neckline to the hemline. The fitted bodice came to a point in back and the full pleated skirt swept into a train. Her bouffant veil of imported silk illusion was held by a pearl tiara, and she carried a cascade arrangement of red roses and stock.

Miss Rebecca Hall of Olton was maid of honor. She wore a dress of rose red velveteen, styled with a fitted bodice, bracelet length sleeves, and a pleated skirt.

The junior bridesmaids were Miss Marian Oates and Miss Ruth Ann Oates, sisters of the bridegroom. Their dresses of petal pink velveteen were fashioned identically to the honor attendant, and all three carried bouquets of pink roses and stock.

The bridegroom's father, James A. Oates, served as best man, and ushers were Danny Alexander, brother of the bride, Terry Horton of Fort Worth, Bob McLendon of Dallas and Jack Meade of Honey Grove.

After the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander were hosts at the reception in the church parlor.

The bride's table was appointed in silver and crystal, and the centerpiece was a cascade arrangement of petal pink roses and stock.

As the couple left on their wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a whisper green suit with coffee accessories. Her corsage was of green orchids.

After January 1, the couple will be at home in the State House Apartments, 1607 West Oak Street, Denton, where both are students in North Texas State University.

Out of town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Van Pelt, Major and Mrs. E. J. Farmers Should Watch Social Security Credit

Many farmers lose valuable social security credit, according to Hal Geldon, district manager for social security in Amarillo.

Geldon said these are farmers who do not file income tax and self-employment reports on their farm earnings.

Geldon pointed out that Federal Law requires farmers who clear at least $400 a year to file tax returns and pay social security taxes.

Farmers who do not clear $400. but whose total farm sales are at least $600, may report this income and pay social security tax on it under special provisions for farmers only, and thus earn credit for low or no profit years.

In order to make proper reports, farmers should keep accurate records of their income and expenses. Reports for 1963 will be due soon and must be filed not later than Feb. 15 to avoid penalty.

Geldon explained that all social security benefits are based on earning credited to the worker's social security record. If the self-employed farmer does not report his earnings, there is no way the Social Security Administration can pay benefits when he reaches retirement age, becomes disabled, or dies. And he may also be breaking the law.

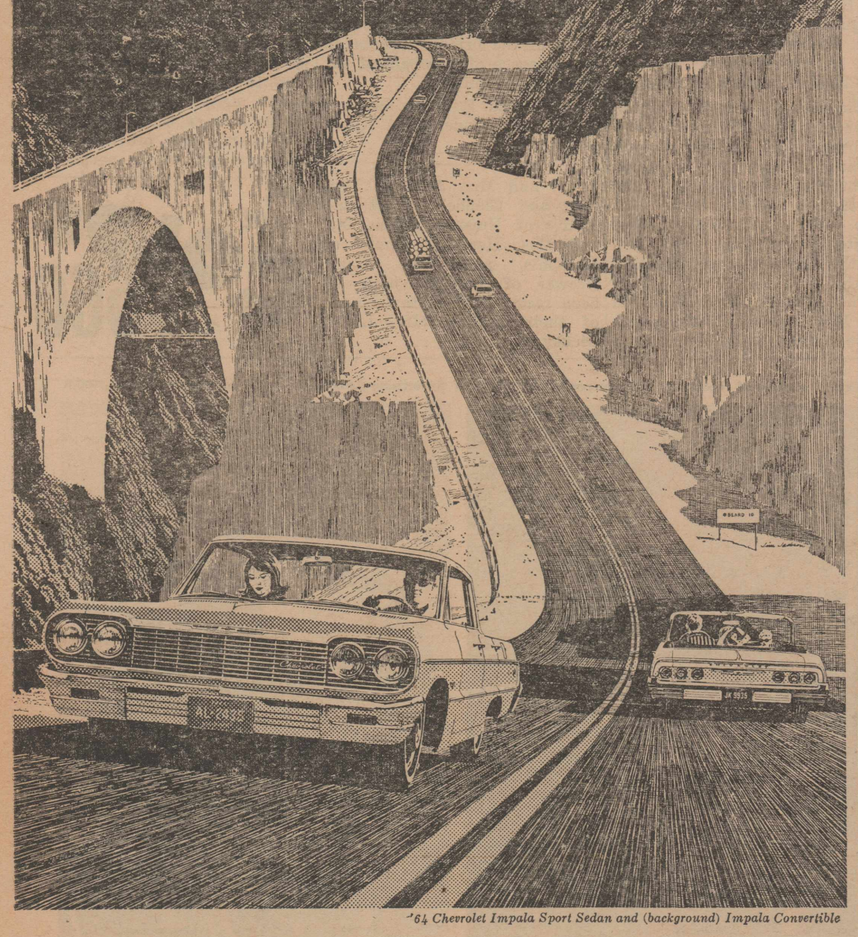

Both social security and Internal Revenue offices have free booklets that tell more about social security coverage for farmers. The social security office in Amarillo is at 1006 Adams street.

BUMPING ALONG

LaMarque, Texas., installed an 8-inch bump in the middle of a highway to deter speeders. However, the bump attracted motorists who wanted to see how fast they could take it, while others detoured through nearby yards. Now they are considering a dip instead.

The great highway performer

'64 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan and (background) Impala Convertible

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway.

You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 425-hp V8*—and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them.

And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet. *Optional at extra cost

Miss Dona Sherman Weds William Scurry in Formal Ceremony Jan. 3

Miss Dona Lynne Sherman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wesley Sherman, was married to Ensign William Clarence Scurry, junior, of Athens, Ga., in All Saints Episcopal Church, Fort Worth, at eight o'clock Friday evening, January 3.

The Rev. James P. DeWolfe, Jr., rector of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is also the granddaughter of Mrs. Lee Sherman and the late Mr. Sherman of Fort Worth. She is a member of one of this area's pioneer families, her great grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hill having been among the early settlers here.

She was graduated from Wellington high school and received the bachelor of arts degree from Texas Christian University, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. She also attended Colorado Women's College in Denver.

Mr. and Mrs. William Clarence Scurry, 5542 Winston Court, Dallas, are the parents of the bridegroom. He was graduated from St. Mark's School in Dallas and received the bachelor's degree from the University of Texas. His social fraternity was Phi Kappa Sigma.

He is now assigned to the Naval Supply School at the University of Georgia, Athens.

White gladioli and chrysanthemums were used in the altar vases and behind this, votive candles burned in tall holders. Two large arrangements of the same flowers were at the steps leading to the altar.

The junior boys choir of All Saints Church sang the wedding selections.

Mr. Sherman gave his daughter in marriage.

She chose a gown of candlelight silk peau de soie. The tightly moulded bodice was fashioned with a bateau neckline and long fitted sleeves that tapered to petal points over her hands. A crushed cumberbund effect marked the waistline and formed two looped bows in center back, accented by appliques of Brussels lace. The carpet length gown swept to a full chapel length train.

Her veil of Brussels lace, chosen by the bride on a visit to Belgium, softly framed her face and extended the length of her train. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis on a white Prayer Book.

Miss Susan Duncan of Little Rock, Arkansas, was the maid of honor and Mrs. H. Johnson of Dallas, sister of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were sisters of the couple, Miss Barbara Sherman, Miss Vickie Sherman, and Miss Gano Scurry.

The attendants were identically attired in gowns of gold ottoman. The moulded bodice was enhanced by a scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. The controlled skirt was floor length. A band of velvet ribbon in moss green marked the waistline, and their hats of matching ribbon were a ruffle with two streamers. They carried bouquets of white tulips.

John J. Scurry of Dallas, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Creed Hill of Wellington, Lane Turner of Austin, David Youngblood and H. Johnson of Dallas, the latter a brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Reception

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman were hosts at the reception in the Parish Hall.

The bride's table was laid with a white satin cloth, looped up at the sides with satin rope. A tiered silver bowl held an arrangement of white tulips and stock and other appointments were also of silver.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a gold cloth and silver appointments were used.

In the house party were Miss Barbara Johnston, Miss Nancy Sherman, Miss Jean Pardue, and Miss Martha Potts, classmates of the bride at Texas Christian University.

Later, the couple left on their wedding trip through the southern states, after which they will be at home at 175 Harben, Athens, Georgia.

Club Studies Decorations

Mrs. Lynn Courtney was hostess and Mrs. James Richardson the program leader for the meeting of the 1954 Study Club Thursday afternoon, January 2.

Films, with commentary, were used for the program, "Come Catch a Rainbow on Home Decorating."

"There are just two facts about color which we ask you to keep in mind: First — each color has three dimensions; the hue itself, or what color is it? The saturation . . . is it bright or is it dull? The value . . . is it light or is it dark, Contrasting the dimensions of colors makes for unusual decorative interest and a delightful atmosphere of living Something dark, something light, something dull, something bright," Mrs. Richardson declared.

"Color is a dynamic and delightful decorative tool which you can use to accomplish many specific decorative and architectural objectives in the home . . . it can make rooms seem warmer or cooler, lighter or darker, longer or shorter, larger or smaller," she continued.

Attending were Mrs. Calvin Hurst, Mrs. Paul Spillman, Mrs. R. L. Templeton, Mrs. Leon Hartman, Mrs. Sam Adams, Mrs. Jack Aaron, Mrs. Lynn Wright, Mrs. A. J. Fires, Mrs. Billy Ray Long, Mrs. E. W. Clement, who is a new member, Mrs. Richardson and the hostess, Mrs. Courtney.

Check Service Before Buying

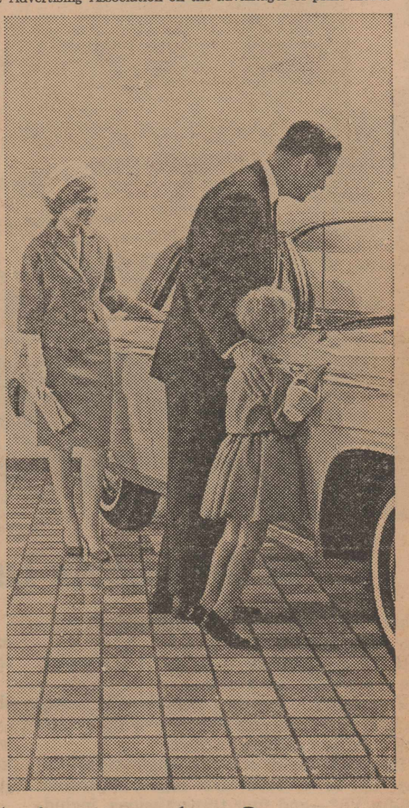

An important point to consider if you are shopping for a household appliance is whether service is available, says Mrs. Wanda Meyer, home management specialist with Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Manufacturers of appliances are working to improve their products, eliminate weaknesses and simplify service. Electronic devices now guide service men to the source of trouble; easier access to mechanisms makes shorter work of repairs, and warranties provide more coverage for longer periods.

One of a series of reports by this newspaper and the Print Advertising Association on the advantages of print media

Don't you read before you buy?

Most people do.

They count on advertising in print to give them the information they want on products that interest them—information on features . . . designs . . . and prices, for example.

People not only read about products and services, they show ads to their family and friends; they clip coupons for information and samples; they tear out ads to take along when they go shopping.

When you add it all up, print advertising—the kind you read in the pages of this newspaper—makes sense.

And because it measures up to the buying habits of most consumers, print makes sales.

Most people read—and then buy. Don't you?

LOOKING AHEAD

WORLD MARKETS

World trade must be carried on at a fairly high level if the nations are ever to enter into satisfactory relationships that are often summarized by the word "peace."

That is one overpowering reason why the whole complex of economic inter-relationships, from trade balances to labor costs, is so important to every American. It is important to the other nations also, as some of them are only beginning to realize.

If the nations of the world can learn to trade with each other freely, perhaps in time mistrust and suspicion can be turned to respect and a spirit of mutual assistance.

These hopes and aspirations alone are enough to justify the choice of the topic, "Markets in America's Future," as the theme of Freedom Forum XXV to be conducted this time in Little Rock at the Lafayette Hotel on Feb. 3 to 7, instead of being on the Harding College campus.

This will be an opportunity to study many of the problems related to America's task of competing in world markets with other nations. Specialists in world trade are being called in to instruct and inform conferees about an assortment of problems related to "Markets In Americas Future."

Stiff Competition

In the years following World War II it was no problem for American business to expand exports. Demand from war devastated countries, spurred by our foreign aid, was strong. There was little competition from other lands in the markets of the world.

Now the situation has changed greatly. The flourishing industries of Japan and West Europe are able to meet their own needs as well as provide sharp competition for the U.S. around the world.

The countries are able to hold their own in business transactions and in several areas are invading the markets right here in the U.S.

On the whole, our nation's producers and traders have held a strong position in world trade despite the stiff competition. We have expanded our exports all the while, commercial shipments for the first half of this year being up about 2% and more than double the rate in 1950. If it had not been for our strong position on exports, the balance of payments situation would be far more critical than it is.

Gold in the Balance

Our best efforts, however, have not been good enough to offset the outflow of our resources as the government spends on foreign aid and overseas military programs.

Currently, Commerce Department reports are giving credit to federal restrictions on foreign investments for having cut the dollar drain in the third quarter.

Some experts say that if this was accomplished it was done by allowing the dollar to suffer a further prestige penalty abroad. At any rate, despite some optimism, the dollar-gold situation remains very precarious. For the entire year, there isn't likely to be any significant improvement.

It can erupt into crisis in short order if we permit it to do so. With Europe outselling us in Latin America and other foreign aid areas, we still continue to send billions of dollars abroad.

Policies that protect the dollar do in fact mean protection for Europe's economy as well as our own. But Americans really do not desire any nation to produce less or sell less or buy less than it now does. It is the hope of all that trade can be increased among all nations to the advantage of both buyer and seller. The businessman of the second half of this century holds the real key to peace and world security.

Peaceful Competition

It remains to be seen whether the free world can trade successfully with the Communist nations. If Russian and China are severely disciplined by famine conditions, so that reality makes them enterprisers and traders rather than gangsters and bandits, the world prospects for peace will be enhanced. Economic necessity could make good neighbors of nations that have misbehaved in the past.

There is no denying that many U.S. industries are experiencing the greatest difficulty in meeting foreign competition, even at home, and the list seems to be growing. Besides the difficulties in textiles, shipbuilding, watches, and a host of other products, our farm exports do not look promising very far into the future.

The world could go protectionist, as Europe has done in the "chicken war." The problems are complicated, but it is necessary for us to study every possibility for greater trade in the years ahead.

It is the purpose of Freedom Forum XXV to explore these issues and search for policies that will make this possible.

STRONG HOLD—Taking a strong hold against a gust of wind, actress Dorothy Provine holds a huge beach umbrella turned inside-out. She was taking a dip in a Palm Springs, Calif., pool with the umbrella shading her from the sun when the wind came and nearly lifted her out of the water. She was on location for her latest film.

First Clay Piegons Demonstrated 1880

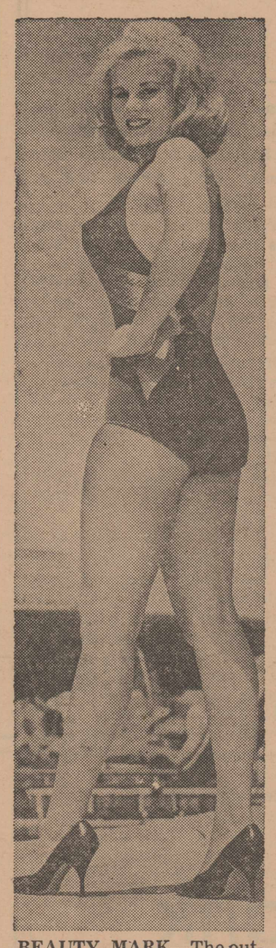

Modern clay pigeons are not made of clay and do not resemble pigeons.

The first demonstration of the original "flying saucer" which sparked the modern trap target, was held at Coney Island, N.Y., in 1880 by its inventor, a Cincinnati trapshooter named George Ligowsky.

His clay bird—it really was made of clay—was intended to replace the glass ball, designed to supplant live pigeons in trapshooting, named for the once-popular sport of shooting live pigeons as they were released from traps. The public outcry against shooting pigeons helped produce the glass balls.

HAT RACK

A St. Louis, Mo., boy received a plaster bust of actor William Frawley. He won the bust in a letter-writing contest, writing that he wanted it because he had no place to hang his baseball cap.

BEAUTY MARK—The outstanding mark of beauty for 16-year-old Terry Toles of West Hampstead, Long Island, N.Y., is that she was selected Miss High School over 24 other lovely contestants.

Moisture Good Indicator of Cotton Quality

COLLEGE STATION.— At present the only reliable method of checking the quality of cotton on the farm or at the ginning point is grade and staple length. But according to Beverly G. Reeves, cotton ginning and mechanization specialist, Texas A&M University the cotton moisture meter can be used as a good indicator of quality on seed cotton.

This device makes it possible to determine the proper time for harvesting and the way to conduct the ginning operation to preserve cotton quality, the specialist adds. The moisture content of the cotton fiber when harvested, while in storage prior to ginning, and during ginning is definitely correlated with spinning quality.

The fiber strength, the length uniformity of the fibers, and the amount of tangled fibers or neps in the cotton affect its spinning quality and the fiber moisture level in turn affects these. Research has shown that cotton harvested at moisture levels about 8% is difficult to dry for proper ginning and that cotton with excess moisture tends to deteriorate in storage prior to ginning, says Reeves.

Cotton moisture level is also affected by the amount of trash in the harvested fiber. When trashy cotton is stored for long periods, moisture moves from the trash into the cotton, explains the specialist. Therefore, dry, careful harvesting is needed to produce quality cotton and a moisture meter can help achieve this, he adds.

Reeves recommends that cotton growers buy a moisture meter if their operations justify it, or have the cotton moisture content checked at the gin —but advises that they take advantage of this aid to quality cotton production.

Whooping Cough Rate Up in State

Whooping cough — known in medical jargon as pertussis —is not the killer it used to be. But it is still causing a significant scattering of infant deaths and a spread of the sickness each year.

Its incidence seems to be on the increase in Texas. During the first week of December, city and county health officers across the state reported 19 new cases of whooping cough, brining the 1963 total to 2,312 —an increase of 530 cases over the same period in 1962.

Only five deaths due to whooping cough were reported last year, but the State Department of Public Health already has received reports of 15 infant deaths from the disease this year.

State health officials say whooping cough is a large problem in the first six months of childhood. They emphasize two words — "family cooperation" — as the key to protecting infants against this and other diseases.

Doctors advise expectant mothers to have their other children receive whooping cough shots, or boosters, at least three months before the new baby's arrival.

Honey Crop at New High

The 1963 honey crop should hit a new high with a total of more than 291 million pounds. Bees increased their production per colony by 6% to 52.4 pounds and the number of colonies increased silghtly to about 5.5 million, according to USDA.

We Said We Want Poll Taxes; Let's Pay Them

A little more than a month ago Texans showed overwhelmingly in a state-wide ballot that we want to keep the poll tax system.

Now that we have made such a declaration, what are we going to do about it?

Poll tax paying time is here, and this is something we can't pass the buck on. We can not blame state officials or high political maneuvering if we don't have a poll tax receipt when election time comes. We can't blame anyone but ourselves.

We have said we want to keep the poll tax, and no one except we ourselves are responsible for its payment.

This is one of those vital years in politics. We will elect officials on a national, state and local level. In some of the races for higher offices, the lines between liberal and conservative is already drawn by candidates who have announced.

We have to wait a little longer in others.

There are other elections—city and school district, as well as the possibility of some we do not now forsee.

Our poll tax receipt is our ticket to participate in these elections . . . It is our control over the official trend of thinking among elected officials of this state and this nation.

We can play the game of citizenship to the fullest, or we can default, and in default lies the treacherous road to loss of freedom.

This editorial does not urge the support of or vote for any individual candidate. It simply wants you to pay your poll tax. Only then can you be in a position to make your voice heard in government whether it is at city hall or in the halls of congress.

A Teen-Age Editorial

Just in case we tend to think that most of today's teenagers lack the capacity to think clearly, it is interesting to read the views of one exceptionally clear minded lad on the subject.

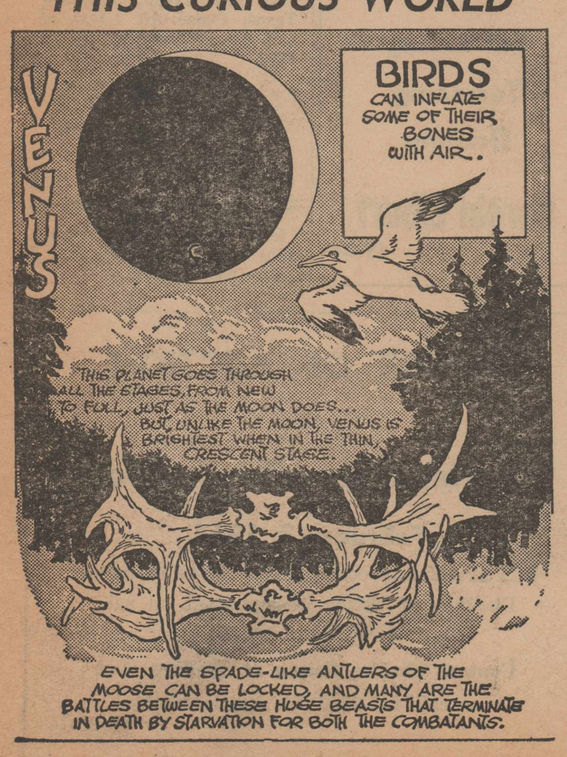

The following is quoted from remarks submitted by Dick Greg in the school paper of the Oakland, (Michigan) High School. We suggest it is good reading for adults as well as youth:

"America's teen-agers are suffering from an illusion . . . the idea that the world owes them everything. It is not difficult to perceive where this belief was given birth. Today the teen-ager is confronted with numerous examples of adults being rewarded for nothing. The Government pays people who are not working . . . and dishonesty in everyday transactions is condoned and rewarded. A teen-ager can hardly help but think that he deserves something also . . .

"This illusion has chocked initiative and destroyed self-pride. The teen-ager is no longer driven to higher goals but merely waits for things to be handed to him. The teenager no longer feels embarrassment when taking something for nothing, but accepts it as the natural course of events. Although most teen-agers feel everything should be handed to them on a "silver platter," they soon learn that is not the case . . .

"This may come as a rude shock to today's teen-agers, but the world owes you nothing . . . Teen-agers owe all their efforts to world in which they live." —Elmer (N. J.) Times

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where our new model dollar bills do not certify that the Treasury has got silver on hand to redeem them, but are just unsecured notes like our $5s, $10, $20s, etc.

Some people call this printing-press money, on account of the banks won't give you anything for it but some more paper just like it.

But my progress-tamed neighbor says he has never yearned much to swap his paper money for gold or silver, and will be satisfied as long as he can swap it for groceries, and appease the Internal Revenuers with it.

I see where President Johnson has ordered a big cut-back in the number of limousine-type cars furnished by taxpayers for high and tolerably high brass to ride in.

Now it does seem like any top bracket public servant had ought to be entitled to a large flashy car to be hauled around in, if he suffers with a status deficit.

Still, it might be cheaper just to hire people for these jobs who don't need expensive autos to elevate their status, but who are big enough that they give status to cars.

I see where an economics professor says income tax laws ought to allow deductions for a citizen's personal depreciation, due to age, accident, wear and tear, etc.

He figures a human has got a limited service life, the same as a machine, and that a tax allowance ought to be made according to how much his value depletes every year.

But my obsolete neighbor says calling a man a depreciable capital asset could backfire and make him subject to a capital gains tax every time his wife made an improvement in him.

Last couple of weeks we haven't heard much mention of old Santa Claus, who was very popular and getting lots of mail during December.

Which shows how popularity sags when you quit putting out, and likewise explains why people and cities and states write letters and keep their socks hung up by the chimney for Washington all year round.

Of course, Santa Claus also uses the government plan of taking from some to give to others, so as to get credit for free-heartedness without it costing him anything, but Santa can stand being popular only once a year, as he is not fishing for votes.

Johnny Maxwell visited during the latter part of the Christmas holidays with his brothers and sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lee Maxwell and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Maxwell in Dallas. The Ernest Lee Maxwells brought him home and visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Maxwell.

BIG FORGER

Arresting a New York forger was trouble for police. The forger, who weighs 441 pounds, and has a 60-inch waist, would not fit through the back door of a patrol car.

GOOD JUDGE?

A two-fisted drinking Irish playwright returning from New York had this comment on the United States: "Their tea tasted as if it had been made with cigarette butts."

BARK WORSE THAN PECK

A Coldwater, Kan., couple have a puppy and a parakeet. They report that the parakeet doesn't talk very well, but had learned to bark just like the dog.

New Biography of President Johnson Ready

A new and complete biography of Lyndon B. Johnson, 36th President of the United States is now available in an original paperback book published by Popular Library. The first printing came off the presses Friday, Dec. 13.

"Lyndon B. Johnson: Man and President," authored by Henry A. Zeiger, brings together for the first time the full story of his public and private lives, his Texas background and education and what he learned in the practical school of Washington politics, his personal growth, ambitions, and political philosophy.

For Americans and for citizens of other countries who want total background information on the new President so as to have a good idea what his future courses of action may be, here are presented the facts on his preparation for the highest office in the country, his ascendancy as a national political figure, his policies as expressed in his own words, the attitudes of his political friends and foes, and a delineation of the Johnson "style."

Here you will read about the life and character of Lyndon Baines Johnson and some of the forces which have helped form him, including the new First Lady. Included, too, are many of the sayings the President is fond of attributing to his "daddy," similar to the one which was framed and hung on the wall of his Senate office: "You ain't learnin' nothin' when you're talkin'."

The book, says James Tracy Crown, associate professor of political science, New York University, in a foreword, "makes a contribution to those who would go beyond newspaper stories and telecasts in making their independent judgments."

"Americans," he writes, "want to make up their own minds about their President, who, as President of all the people, may have to call upon them for cooperation and sacrifice. Voting citizens must also make up their minds about Johnson as a political leader who must be weighed in the scales of judgment against a political opponent. Events and the calendar will not permit anyone to delay in making informed judgments now."

Henry Zeiger, who wrote this human and readable story of the Texas boy who made good, is rapidly gaining a reputation for books that break with the headlines. He is also the author of "The Seizing of the Santa Maria," the story of the stormy voyage of Henrique Galvao, and "The Case Against Adolf Eichmann," the first book to appear after the capture of the former Nazi prison camp official.

Zeiger, a former New York newspaperman, is also a magazine writer and playwright.

Special Equipment for Working Girls

Household equipment manufacturers recognze that the 24 million employed homemakers are a large potential market, and they have designed equipment especially to meet their needs.

For example, dressing for business usually calls for a bigger wardrobe, and different fabrics, points out Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Extension Service home management specialist at Texas A&M University. Multi-speed and multi-cycle washers were designed to meet these needs.

To meet the needs of laundering wash and wear garments in the summer, the equipment industry came up with a washer that cools down the water, slows down agitation in mid-cycle, and claims that is the critical "de-wrinkling" action which saves ironing and pressing time. A low water-level setting is available to enable a homemaker to do small loads economically.

White gloves and fresh blouses are other problems, and equipment designers came up with a second, gentler speed on a two-speed dryer — which is kinder to frilly things.

Another time-saver for the working woman is a three-way hamper. One section can be used for overnight laundry, another for special weekend problems, and the third for towels, household linens and other items which don't have to be done daily.

Research on Fire Resistant Cotton Material

Flame-resistant cotton fabrics are being tested extensively for a number of uses, reminds Fannie Brown Eaton, Extension Service clothing specialist at Texas A&M University.

This new treatment leaves the feel of the fabric almost unchanged and holds up well through laundering. Treated fabrics also resist shrinkage, mildew, rot and wrinkling.

Evaluations of the effectiveness of the new chemical finish are being made in two large hospitals in New Orleans, where treated bed sheets, pillow cases and surgical gowns are being used. Hospitals and hotels in other cities also are planning to evaluate the flame resistant fabrics.

Treated fabrics being evaluated by the military services include uniforms for rocket fuel handlers, flight suits and combat uniforms, Miss Eaton adds.

Natives of Monte Carlo are not permitted to gamble at the casino.

Consider These When You Sell Your House

Selling a house generally is the biggest financial transaction faced by the average family, next to buying a new home. When the time comes to sell, the two most important considerations will be to sell it quickly and at the best possible price.

Home economists suggest that home owners consider the points that can help to do both: Best time to sell, how to get the best price, how to determine the price, professional selling vs. self-selling, selecting a realtor, and the prospective buyer.

Quail-Dodson Open 9-B Play on Friday

The Quail Quails and Bobwhites will play their first district basketball game at Dodson Friday night, Jan. 10.

Then on Tuesday night, Jan. 14, the Quail teams will play host to the teams from Claude at 7 p.m.

Other teams playing in district 9-B with Quail, Dodson and Claude, are Groom, Hedley and Samnorwood.

The teams will play each other twice, on a home and home basis, and then the top four teams will meet in the district tournament to be held in the Clarendon gym Feb. 20 and 21.

If the same team wins the double round robin and the district tournament, then that team is district champion. If not, the double round robin winner will meet the district tournament winner in a play-off game for the championship.

Stock Show Rodeo Set

FORT WORTH.—W. R. Watt president-manager of Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, is continuing with the successful combined producer arrangement pioneered with the 1963 Fort Worth Stock Show Rodeo.

Tommy Steiner-Hoss Inman and Associates will produce the 1964 Fort Worth Rodeo. The four producers represented in the Steiner-Inman and Associates had a total of 51 animals selected for the National Finals Rodeo at Los Angeles in November. Contestants at the National Finals, the World Series of professional rodeo, select all the bucking stock used in the rodeo.

Headlining the 1964 rodeo stock at Fort Worth will be six Canadian bucking horses recently purchased by Steiner. The horses, now located at Steiner's X-S Bucking Stock Ranch near Austin, will make their first United States appearance at the Fort Worth Rodeo.

Canadian Gus Godfriedson, former owner of the sextet, says the horses made quite a reputation for throwing respected Canadian cowboys not just once but as much as three or four times a day.

The horses to look for at the Fort Worth Rodeo are: Rattlesnake, War Cloud, Scrap Iron, Firefly, Lookout and Skimiken John. Godfriedson, who is part Indian, explained Skimiken John means "over the hill" in Indian lingo. The horse got the name from always being "over the hill" at round-up time.

U. S. Families Spend Less for Food

On the basis of our disposable income the average U.S. family is spending less for food today than ever before. In 1959 we spent 20%, compared to about 23% in 1929. The Japanese spend 42%; the West Germans 45%; and Russians 56% of their disposable income for food.

Cotton Harvest Near Finish Over Area

According to K. E. Voelkel of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's cotton classing office in Memphis, the cotton harvesting and ginning season is fast drawing to a close.

In spite of inclement weather conditions the early part of the week, the Memphis office classed nearly 14,000 samples, bringing the seasonal total to 181,230 through Friday, Jan. 3. Last season as of the same date 165,227 samples had been classed. It is estimated that about 10% of the predicted crop in this office territory of 17 counties remains to be classed.

Based on the Agricultural Marketing Service's statistical estimates, only 10% of the cotton classed during the past week was in the White grades; 62% was Light Spotted; 25% was Spotted; and 3% fell in the tinged and gray categories. The predominating quality for the week was Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 15/16 with 34%.

The amount of cotton reduced in grade because of Bark, Grass and below normal Preparation again increased over the previous week. This week 8% of the samples classed were reduced in grade.

As has been the case all season, 15/16 staple length again predominated this week, with 83% in this length. Other lengths were: 29/32 inch, 8% and 31/32 inch 9%. Nearly 3% of the cotton classed during the week was classified as Wasty. Cotton so designated means a discount or penalty of 200 to 400 points per pound or $10 to $20 a bale.

Micronaire tests, which reflect the fineness and maturity of cotton, showed 31% of the cotton reading 2.6 and below to 3.4. This was the largest percentage in this range compared with any previous week this season. Other readings were: 3.5-3.9, 26%; 4.0-4.4, 26%; 4.5-4.9, 15%; and 5.0-5.4, 2%.

Considerable cotton moved into trade channels the past two weeks. Cotton having a micronaire reading in the 3.5 to 5.0 range brought the farmers the following prices:

Middling, 15/16 — 30.90.

Strict Low Middling, 15/16—29.60.

Middling Light Spotted, 15/16—29.80.

Strict Low Middling Light Spotted, 15/16—29.25.

Middling Spotted, 15/16 — 28.65.

Strict Low Middling Spotted, 15/16—27.65.

These were average prices based on uncompressed, mixed lots in warehouses.

The price for cotton seed was generally $53 per ton at gin points.

A&M University Does Research on Beef Carcass

COLLEGE STATION.— Beef carcass research at Texas A&M University encompasses the identification of desirable carcass characteristics from the standpoint of quality, palatability and cutability.

"Cutability" is the measure of the edible meat which a carcass will yield, explains Frank A. Orts, Extension Service specialist.

Research at Texas A&M is designed to identify sires responsible for the production of carcasses which will yield at least 48% of the carcass weight in boneless, closely trimmed chuck, rib, round, loin and rump.

Identification of these superior cattle will assure the home maker of a steak or roast that is lean, yet very tender and tasty, Orts explains.

Quality and palatability characteristics being investigated are tenderness, color of lean, and marbling.

Research also is being conducted at all the major livestock shows of the state to determine the estimated cutability of all high-placing steers. This information is being made available to county extension agents in an attempt to provide a yardstick for use in selecting steers for shows of the future.

Basic measurements which agents can use from this data are covering over the ribeye, fat thickness and overall cutability in identifying sires that have produced the superior carcass at the show.

7 of 10 Texas Doctorates From the University

In the five years from 1957 to 1962, the University of Texas awarded about seven out of every 10 doctoral degrees granted in Texas' 19 fully State-supported institutions.

That estimate comes from figures compiled by the Texas Commission on Higher Education. During the five-year period, state institutions granted a total of 1,174 doctoral degrees.

Of that number, 836 Doctor of Philosophy or Doctor of Education degrees (representing slightly more than 71% of the total) came from the University of Texas. A 1960 report from the U.S. Office of Education shows that the University leads the South in the number of doctoral degrees granted.

Quail Boys Third

Rockets and Paducah Girls Champions of WHS Meet

Wellington Skyrockets won their own invitational tournament Saturday night, Jan. 4, but a quirk of basketball fate robbed the Rockettes of the championship and gave it to the Paducah Dragonettes by only two points, 44-42.

Second place boys trophy went to Hedley. The score for this game was Wellington 58, Hedley 50.

Receiving third place were Quail boys and Shamrock girls, while the consolation winners were White Deer boys and girls.

The two all-tournament teams were announced by Rocket Coach James Stavenhagen.

The six girls picked were Betty Courtney of Wellington, Deloris Sanders of Hedley and Cindy Hubbard of White Deer, fowards, and Carol Blain of Wellington, Cherry Newkirk of Shamrock and Barbara Garrett of Paducah, guards.

The five boys chosen were Pat Chesser of Hedley, Dale Morris of Quail, Gary Moran of Paducah, Gary White of Wellington, and Jim Odom of Memphis.

Championship Finals

The Rockets went into the finals after defeating Paducah in the first round, and Memphis in the semi-finals, and with the knowledge they'd have to play real ball to beat Hedley. Wellington took the game 58-50.

The defense tightened and stopped Hedley's star, tall Pat Chesser, holding him to three points, when he had been averaging better than 20.

The hustling defense also got more than its share of rebounds and on offense hit the basket well.

"I feel like we made Hedley play our type of game," Coach Stavenhagen commented. "They are fast moving, we'd get the ball, slow it down and get good shots."

Hedley led at the end of the first and second quarters, then the Rockets added 19 points in the third to move ahead 5 by the end of the third.

Bill Spillman was high pointer with 15 points and Ronny Hurst got 14. Alvin Alexander, with 15, was high for Hedley.

Girls Championship Game

The Wellington Rockettes and Paducah Dragonettes were evenly matched as any two of the girls teams in the tournament and it was hard fought all the way. Mistakes made the difference in the game.

The Rockettes led Paducah all through playing up to the final two minutes. At that point Wellington lost the lead and were never able to get it back.

Betty Courtney was the high pointer with 27; Paula Rogers made 18 for Paducah.

The game by quarters:

Paducah	9	12	23	44
Wellington	12	20	31	42

Memphis-Quail Boys

Quail, one of the stronger teams in any category playing in this part of the Panhandle, downed Memphis 63 to 45 to take third place in the tournament.

High scorers were Dale Morris of Quail, 23, and Odom of Memphis, 20.

Quail	8	30	51	63
Memphis	5	18	33	45

Hedley-Shamrock Girls

Shamrock won third place by defeating Hedley girls 48-40.

High pointers were Deloris Sanders of Hedley, 19, Diane Gragg of Shamrock, 33. Diane made 15 free throws, 11 of them in the last half.

FIRST ROUND

Shamrock-Quail Girls

Shamrock defeated Quail 51 to 33 in the tournament opener. Diane Gragg was top scorer with 19 points; Sue Saunders made 14 for Quail.

The game by quarters:

Shamrock	16	31	39	51
Quail	4	15	22	33

Shamrock-Dodson Boys

Class AA Shamrock took the first round game from Dodson 48 to 25. However, Dodson has one of the most improved teams in the area and potentially spell trouble for anybody next season.

High pointers were John Palmer of Shamrock, 12, and James Riley of Dodson, 9.

The game by quarters:

Shamrock	12	15	28	48
Dodson	3	14	19	25

Paducah-Dodson Girls

Paducah Dragonettes took this game from Dodson girls 45 to 20. High pointers were Judy Boren of Paducah, 12; Carolyn Sexton and Buchanan of Dodson 6 (tie).

The game by quarters:

Paducah	17	26	30	45
Dodson	2	3	10	20

Memphis-Lakeview Boys

Memphis was victor 63 to 30 over Lakeview, one of the smaller teams composed mostly of freshmen.

High scorers were Bill Pounds of Memphis, 17; and Sams of Lakeview, 9.

The game by quarters:

Memphis	14	28	46	63
Lakeview	7	17	23	30

Hedley-White Deer Girls

In a good defensive game, with neither team hitting the basket much, Hedley defeated White Deer 35 to 32.

High pointers were: Katherine Nelson of Hedley, 28; Cindy Hubbard of White Deer, 16.

The score by quarters:

Hedley	7	17	25	35
White Deer	8	17	29	32

Quail-White Deer Boys

In 45 seconds before time ran out, Quail took a 2-point lead and ran it up to 7, to defeat the White Deer Bucks 58 to 51.

White Deer tried to get the ball, started fouling in hopes Quail would miss and they could get possession, Quail made good use of the free throws that resulted and built up the lead. High pointers were Dale Morris of Quail, 21, and Monty Hawpe of White Deer, 18.

Wellington-Lakeview Girls

Wellington took an easy victory over the young Lakeview girls 64 to 34.

Betty Courtney's 28 points was high for Wellington, Sandy Verden made 21 for Lakeview.

The score by quarters:

Wellington	23	41	54	64
Lakeview	11	15	21	34

Wellington-Paducah Boys

The thriller every tournament sponsor hopes for came in Wellington's 1-point victory over the Paducah Dragons 52 to 51. The Rockets hadn't hit very well, especially in the third quarter and the Dragons built up an 11-point lead. At this point it looked like an easy victory for them.

During the fourth, the Rockets got within 7 points of Paducah, with two minutes remaining. At this stage, Wellington began a full court press and scored 8 points while Paducah failed to tally.

With 9 seconds left, Weems went to the free throw line on a one and one, made both free shots and that won the game. Weems and Gary Moran of Paducah tied for high with 20 each.

The game by quarters:

Wellington	16	30	36	52
Paducah	12	24	38	51

Shamrock-Hedley Boys

The Wellington - Paducah game was backed up by another just as thrilling when Hedley boys downed Shamrock 39 to 38.

As time ran out, a Hedley player fouled a Shamrock boy. The Irish player then had two free throws coming which could have won the game or tied it up, but he failed to make either toss.

High scorers: John Palmer of Shamrock, 12; Alvin Alexander of Hedley, 19.

The game by quarters:

Hedley	9	21	31	39
Shamrock	11	21	30	38

SECOND ROUND AND SEMI-FINAL

Quail-Lakeview Girls

Lakeview girls defeated the Quail Bobwhites 52 to 42 in the first game of the consolation bracket, although it was nip and tuck much of the way.

High pointers, Shirley Horton of Quail, 15, and Sandy Verden of Lakeview, 39.

The game by quarters:

Lakeview	15	33	47	52
Quail	13	26	36	42

Dodson-White Deer Boys

Dodson was hard for White Deer Bucks to handle, and White Deer had to break a 30-30 tie in the last minute and a half to win finally 37 to 32.

It looked easy for the Bucks in the early stages but Dodson played a real hard game and stretched the White Deer team to the limit.

High scorers: Larry Ellis of Dodson and Dan Simmons of White Deer tied with 11 each.

White Deer	15	23	29	37
Dodson	7	15	24	32

Dodson-White Deer Girls

White Deer won over the much smaller Dodson girls 64 to 15 in consolation play. Linder scored 17 for White Deer, and Linda Sexton 6 for Dodson.

White Deer	18	33	45	64
Dodson	3	6	11	15

Paducah-Lakeview Boys

Continuing consolation play, Paducah boys defeated Lakeview 49 to 35.

High scorers were Moran of Lakeview, 17; and Duke of Paducah, 10.

Hedley-Paducah Girls

Another thriller was a semi-finals game that saw Paducah defeat Hedley girls 33 to 32.

High pointers: Deloris Sanders of Hedley, 17, and Paula Rogers of Paducah, 15.

Paducah	3	10	25	33
Hedley	8	13	20	32

Shamrock-Wellington Girls

In one of the semi-final games, Wellington Rockettes defeated the Shamrock girls 49 to 33 in a hard-played game —but one in which the Wellington defense turned in a fine game. Betty Courtney was high for Wellington with 22 points, Diane Gragg made 23.

Wellington	14	25	39	49
Shamrock	7	17	25	33

Quail-Hedley Boys

Hedley won this game from Quail by one point, 51-50, in the semi-finals.

These teams are evenly matched, they play the same type of run and hit ball, and both were hitting the basket well, especially in the first half.

During the third quarter, Quail built up a 10-point lead before Hedley could score. Hedley then tightened its defense and gradually trimmed Quail's lead to 41-39 at the end of the third.

Quail went to the free-throw line twice in the last 30 seconds of the game but failed to put the ball in the basket.

Wellington-Memphis Boys

Wellington Rockets defeated Memphis 60 to 52 in a semi-finals game that was unusually close until the last three minutes.

Memphis started pressing, but Wellington was able to get the easy shots on them. Memphis also fouled more than they ordinarily do and the Rockets were hitting the free throws well. Weems was high pointer for Wellington with 21, and Jim Odom got 19 for Memphis.

Wellington	12	27	41	60
Memphis	13	28	37	52

CONSOLATION FINALS

White Deer-Lakeview Girls

White Deer took an easy 62 to 13 victory over Lakeview girls to win the consolation trophy.

High scorers were Cindy Hubbard of White Deer, 16, and Tommy Payne of Lakeview 8.

White Deer	18	33	47	62
Lakeview	4	7	11	13

White-Deer Paducah Boys

This was another exciting game due to the closeness of the score most of the time.

High scorers were Cal Johnson of White Deer, 14, and Gary Moran of Paducah, 16.

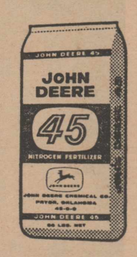

White Deer	11	23	39	50
Paducah	8	23	32	43

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Up to Tuesday afternoon over 35,000 bales had been ginned or weighed in at the gin yards of the county. The most pleasing aspect of the January harvest was that the cotton continued to be of good quality following the snow and nearly all of it was bringing a good price. There were some lower grades on cotton that was brought in wet, but the cards on that which was brought in dry have been very satisfactory.

Those of us who have been their neighbors for several years will miss the Richard Baileys when they move away for they are good neighbors in every sense of the term. Richard will be missed in many parts of our community life for his record of worthwhile activities would do credit to a much older man. The move means an advancement so we say good luck and best wishes to this splendid family.

The Wellington boys won their own invitational tournament last week and the girls lost in the finals by a narrow margin. This is the year in which we might have two district champions. Jerry Nix has some excellent action shots of some of the games in this issue of the paper.

Harmon Elliott, who is vice president of The First National Bank at Muleshoe writes as follows:

Dear Mr. Wells:

Would you please start my subscription to The Wellington Leader? My mailing address is Harmon Elliott, First National Bank, Muleshoe, Texas. Send along a statement and I will mail you a check.

My brother, Mr. Hook Elliott is Mayor of the Flats and I like to keep up with how him and John Givins and Preacher Ellison and Earl Shamblee and friends are getting along.

Yours truly,
Harmon Elliott.

Jay Taylor Livestock Man of the Year

Jay Taylor, a rancher and financier of Amarillo, this week was named Man of the Year in Livestock by the Record Stockman, a 74-year-old weekly livestock newspaper published in Denver.

Taylor, 61, will be the 21st to receive the annual award which will be presented during the National Western Stock Show in Denver.

In naming Taylor as recipient of the "Oscar" of the livestock industry, the Record Stockman cited the Teras rancher for his years of leadership in state and national organizations; his dedicated work toward the improvement and the marketing of livestock; his perseverance in the promotion of beef; his earnestness in providing opportunities for young people; his faith in the land and in the cattle industry; and his devoted leadership in community and civic affairs.

Jay Taylor was born Jan. 24, 1902 on the Suggs Ranch in Montague County, Texas. His father, the late James Taylor, was a wagon boss for the Suggs spread. The Taylor family later moved to Walters, Okla., where Jay received his early education and grew to manhood. Here, on the Taylors' Oklahoma stock farm, which is still owned by the family, Jay worked with his father in developing a registered Shorthorn herd of cattle.

He later went to work in the oil fields to earn money for college and enrolled at the University of Oklahoma to study petroleum engineering. During this time, he went to work for the far-flung Halliburton enterprises, a firm of which he was later to become general manager and executive vice president. He moved to Amarillo during the oil boom in the mid-1920s and in 1927 he and the former Imogene Herring were united in marriage.

In the years that followed, Taylor became known as one of the nation's leading cattlemen. raising Herefords on the Rafter O Ranch near Vega, Tex., and on the Double H spread near Magdalena, N.M. Here, he established one of the finest strings of Herefords in the Southwest, along with becoming an outstanding leader in the oil industry and in finance.

Of their children, Steve Taylor lives at Dimmitt; two daughters, Mrs. Barry Young and Mrs. Armin Rembe live in Dallas, and a third daughter, Mrs. R. F. O'Toole, resides in New York City.

Prison Population in Texas Down

For the first time in 18 years the number of prisoners in the Texas Department of Corrections shows a decrease.

Department Director Dr. Geo. Beto reports that the Dec. 31 county was 12,150, compared with 12,203 the year before. Since 1945, there has been a steady climb in number of prison inmates.

Beto cited these reasons for leveling off: more adequate parole supervision; opening of a new first-offender unit; a prerelease program of preparing prisoners for freedom; an expanded trusty program; and overall improvement in the prison treatment program.

Prison chief said the reduction not only will save money on prison care, but also in welfare funds spent on families of inmates, not to mention restoring prisoners to productive lives as citizens and taxpayers.

FPC Orders May Cut School Income

Texas school income will be drastically reduced unless the Federal Power Commission sets an adequate price for gas in the Texas Gulf Coast area and the Hugoton-Anadarko area of the Texas Panhandle, Attorney General Carr contends.

Carr has filed a petition to intervene in price hearings ordered by FPC to determine reasonable rates for sale of natural gas in the areas.

Earlier he filed briefs requesting FPC to set the price of all gas in the Permian Basin area at 21 cents MCF. The FPC staff sought a 9 cents MCF rate for casinghead gas, and 13.7 cents MCF for gas well gas.

Attorney General noted in his brief that Texas levies a 7 per cent occupation tax based on market value of the gas at the well head to help support state government.

He also pointed out that the University of Texas system owns more than 4,700,000 acres of land in the Permian Basin area. Bonus money and royalty income from this acreage goes to the permanent school fund for Texas education. More than 18,000,000 acres of state land are involved in the Gulf Coast hearing.

Research Pushes Study of Midge

Delbert Langford, agronomist for the High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway reports that a long-term research study of the over-wintering habits of Midge has been set into motion at the Foundation. Delbert made selections of heads of grain sorghum that contained larvae and pupa of Midge and some of the heads will be put into cold storage at temperatures ranging from above freezing to below freezing, as well as field conditions.

The purpose of the study is to find at what stage or stages Midge can over-winter under field and experimental conditions.

Langford said this study will help to determine the time of hatching after over-wintering, and thus will be able to get an idea of the size of the population of Midge for the next year.

This project will give information as to how long Midge can live and at what temperatures the insect will survive or die.
