MAN KILLED ON HIGHWAY SATURDAY NIGHT

Elmer Corley, about 55, died Sunday morning at five o'clock from injuries received in a mishap about a mile south of here in which four vehicles were involved.

Corley was crushed between a Page Motor coach and a pickup at 8:30 o'clock Saturday night at the scene of an accident a few minutes before in which no one was seriously injured.

A light automobile driven by Leo Dumas had collided with Corley's truck. Drivers of other machines, including Earnest Teaff of Knox City, in a light pickup, stopped to investigate the accident. Soon after, the bus crashed into the pickup, pinning Corley between, according to reports received here.

Dr. T. S. Edwards, who attended Corley, said he received a skull fracture and concussion of the brain. His entire body was badly bruised, the physician said.

KNOX CITY GIRL MADE MEMBER OF BAND

Ellena Fayne White of Knox City was among the fifty girls accepted by Professor Harold Bluhm as members of John Tarleton College's first girl band.

"This will be the most popular girl's organization on the campus," said Bluhm, "and from all indications we shall have a wonderful band."

Tarleton has always been noted for its military band, but no girls have ever been admitted to the organization. So many girls inquired about a girl's band that the Fine Arts Department decided that it would be a worth while project. The College is furnishing instruments to girls who do not own one. Girls who do not know how to play, but who are interested, are receiving free instructions.

MATTHEWS McCARTY DIES AT ARCHER CITY

ARCHER CITY, Oct. 10.—M. H. McCarty, 32, Wichita Falls barber, died suddenly of a heart attack in the hospital shortly before noon Monday, 50 minutes after he had been given a ride by two state highway patrolmen.

Patrolmen John Lowry and C. W. West saw McCarty standing by a parked car two miles south of Windthorst on highway 66. McCarty had been driving a coupe belonging to Clarence Knight, another barber.

McCarty was riding in the patrol car when he became sick, Patrolman Lowry said. The car stopped and McCarty apparently recovered, but had another attack as he was being rushed to the Archer City hospital. When the patrol car arrived at the hospital McCarty was pronounced dead.

Matthews McCarty was a former resident of Knox City, having been employed for several months at the Jones barber shop.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sewel Hawes of Weinert. She graduated with the 1937 class of the Weinert High School.

The couple will make their home near Knox City.

Henry Thompson and son, Wilson, carried Mrs. Thompson to Wichita Falls Thursday for medical treatment.

CHEVROLET DEALERS ATTEND CONVENTION

J. M. Ashcroft, local Chevrolet dealer, and his salesmen attended the Chevrolet Freshowing Convention held in Fort Worth yesterday. The meeting was attended by 1250 Chevrolet dealers and members of their sales organization from this part of the state.

A business meeting was held in the morning, at which time plans for the new model were outlined to the dealers and salesmen by R. W. Hill, Regional Manager, and H. Wilson, Zone Manager of the Chevrolet Motor Division.

The morning meeting was concluded with a luncheon, after which those in attendance were given the opportunity to view the new 1939 Chevrolet, which will go on sale Saturday, October 22.

Mr. Ashcroft stated that he and his organization are very optimistic about next year's business. Their present new and used car stocks are the lowest they have ever been at announcement of the new model, and with the present uptrend in economic conditions they expect to have one of their best business years in 1939.

NEWS ITEM: National Debt Reaches New All Time High, and Still Going Up.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS . . . .
By Boyce House

As you head out of Fort Worth on the way to Dallas, you may observe to the left a fence above which towers a dense hedge that hides the spacious grounds from view. Behind that screen of tropic luxuriance is a beautiful home occupied by W. K. Gordon.

Though nearing the three-quarters of a century mark, Mr. Gordon is erect and active. His hair is iron-gray and he has a close-clipped mustache. His speech still bears a trace of his native Virginia and his manners are courtly.

W. K. Gordon is the man who discovered the Ranger oil field and ushered in the biggest boom the United States has ever seen. Disregarding the unfavorable report of experts, he drilled the McClesky well and it came roaring in, assuring America and the Allies of an adequate supply of oil with which to wage the World War to a victorious close.

He was in the New York offices of the company (which was capitalized at $3,000,000) when the president told him he had just rejected an offer of $100,000,000 above the income tax for all the holdings. He added that he was a little doubtful as to whether the individual making the offer was able to carry it out. The offer was made by Harry Sinclair, who today is perhaps the greatest single figure in the field of petroleum.

Gordon now spends idyllic days in pruning the trees, digging in the flower beds and tusseling with a particularly ugly but affectionate bulldog. And, occasionally, Gordon puts down a well in West Texas.

Ranger, Eastland, Cisco and Breckenridge were villages until Gordon hit oil. The golden find at Ranger, plus the discovery at Burkburnett, gave Fort Worth its biggest impetus since the building of the packing houses. Furthermore, the McClesky started the greatest West Texas exploration, which opened scores of fields, including those which have enriched the University of Texas by millions of dollars. Seldom has one man set in motion so far-reaching a chain of events. He has much to muse about as he sits in these autumn twilights.

Governor Allred has decided "at long last" to serve out his term in the office to which he asked the people to elect him and then will accept a federal judgeship.

Of course, he could have made that announcement away back last July but—if he had done so—the Lieutenant Governor (who was running for Attorney General) would have been deprived of reams of the front-page publicity as he basked in the prospect of several months as chief executive with all the power and prestige that would mean. Certainly, nobody had any thought of aiding his candidacy in that way but it's funny how things will happen by accident and coincidence.

But, even with all that publicity and all that prospective glory, the people turned him down and elected Gerry Mann!

MALOUF DRY GOODS CO. HAVING BIG SALE

Friday and Monday marked the two big days in the sale at the Malouf Dry Goods Company, when 2,400 yards of domestic went as a special in the alloted thirty minutes Friday, and Monday morning at nine o'clock when 1,250 yards of Garza sheeting sold to many anxious patrons.

Mr. Malouf really has a reduction on his over-stocked merchandise, and by reason of having reached all the community by generous advertising he is enjoying a big business.

HASKELL BOOSTERS HERE TODAY

The Haskell Boosters, consisting of about twenty cars and a band, will be in Knox City this afternoon for a fifteen minute visit. They are advertising the Haskell County Fair and we hope that a large crowd vill be present to greet them.

GINNING REPORT

The gins are slowing in ginning since the recent rains and only 4727 bales had been ginned in Knox City at noon today. Seed is selling for $25 per ton and the best cotton is bringing eight and one quarter cents per pound. It is thought now that more than seven thousand bales will be ginned here.

County Superintendent J. L. Hughes of Benjamin was a business visitor in Knox City Tuesday.

JOHN YANCEY SHOT TO DEATH IN HASKELL

HASKELL, Oct. 9.—John Yancey, 54-year-old well digger, was shot and killed Sunday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock in the Tysinger filling station one mile east of here.

Murder charges were filed by the Haskell county sheriff's department against W. H. Tysinger, operator of the filling station.

The shot was fired from a .38 caliber revolver and struck Yancey just above the heart, killing him instantly.

Witnesses said that Yancey and Tysinger had engaged in a dispute over monetary matters.

Survivors include the widow.

NEW MECHANIC EMPLOYED HERE

Frank Hunnicut recentiy moved to Knox City from Dallas and accepted a position at the Knox City Motor Company as mechanic. While in Dallas he worked several years for the Rose-Wilson Motor Company, authorized Ford dealers. He is also an expert on Chevrolets. Mr. Hunnicut was once a resident of Knox City, and is well known to a number of people in this section. Mr. Hackfield was lucky in securing a man like Mr. Hunnicut to assist him with his work.

HANNAH—COOK

ALL-ELECTRIC KITCHEN TO BE AT HASKELL FAIR

Among the exhibits at the Central West Texas Fair in Haskell, October 19-22, will be the huge all-electric kitchen trailer belonging to the West Texas Utilities Company, according to Ralph Duncan, secretary of the Haskell Chamber of Commerce.

Duncan said that H. C. King, Haskell manager of the company, had arranged to have the big blue and gold "home on wheels" in Haskell. It will provide loud speaking equipment for the entire fair. Five loud speakers are available and will be located so that music and announcements from the trailer can be heard anywhere on the grounds.

A feature of the trailer is the broadcasting studio for entertainment and speeches. Amateur contests are planned with local talent invited to perform over the public address system. Due to limited space in the studio, however, only acts up to and including four persons will be entered. The utilities company will award prizes to winners of each night's contest. The audience will be invited to serve as judge.

The trailer has been used by the company as a model all-electric kitchen demonstration during the last year and has been inspected by nearly one hundred and fifty thousand persons. At McCamey this summer it was used as a broadcasting station for the famous Rattlesnake Derby. A sermon was broadcast through its system at Sonora and aspiring politicians used it at Quanah on the Fourth of July.

"It's been a sensation where ever shown," King declared. "Women have found it particularly interesting because it demonstrates how compact, clean and convenient the up-to-date kitchen should be. The studio and lounge are each eight by eight feet and the kitchen is eight by ten feet and contains every electric kitchen appliance on the market today."

Duncan predicted that the 1938 edition of the Central West Texas Fair "will be the greatest yet."

WILLIS BUYS BUILDING

Ray Willis, who has been operating a feed store here for the past ten or fifteen years, recently purchased the building he has been occupying during that time. He made the purchase from R. L. Hitht of Guthrie. He said he had paid for the building several times over in rent, and finally decided to purchase same.

NEW MANAGER AT ICE FACTORY

Monday morning a new manager arrived in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Arledge, and will assume charge of the ice factory and the Arledge Stock Farms before many more years. He weighed 8 pounds and has been named William Henry. This is their first child and they are receiving congratulations from their many friends. Mrs. Arledge and the baby are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Press Hitchcock and children were Haskell visitors Tuesday afternoon.

Among the college students home for the week end were Ellena Fayne White, Sallye McElroy and Dorothy Ruby Darden, who are attending John Tarleton College at Stephenville.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Speed is the important factor in the world of today. New records of speed and endurance are being created every day. New ideas, new contrivances, and new inventions are being contributed by citizens of our country in order to perfect a higher standard of living. That standard of living changes with the speed of light.

Many fields of industry and vocation arise from the elaborate minds of our American boys and girls. In order to keep in these fields of industry we must cultivate and broaden our minds through our systems of education.

Current news flashes report a bullet-type racer attaining the record speed of three hundred, forty seven and one half miles per hour. Two giant Diesel engines of approximately two hundred horsepower were installed. Cooled by fifty gallons of ice water, this giant of speed roared across the Salt Lake flats, Utah, its speed accurately recorded by electric eyes.

To the engineers of today, that new record was perfection. To us it seems almost unbelievable. All kinds of work and science are represented in that mammoth machine that traveled almost six miles per minute. To think that man has attained a speed so fast comes under the heading of an Einstein theory. However, it has been attained.

Perhaps ten years hence, a speed like that will be slow as compared to the new records.

So you can readily see the necessity of acquiring an education. An education will bring out the hidden qualities in our minds in order to give them perfection for the uses of science.

So I speak to the students of today. Your success lies in the fields of modern industry. But those fields will turn you away if you are not classed as a product of education. Your ability to succeed and lead a prosperous life in future years will depend on your ability to succeed in your studies. Do your best to get that education and success will come crawling to you!

BAND PRESENTS MINSTREL SHOW

The Knox City High School band will present its annual fund raising minstrel show Friday night in the auditorium. This show is an annual feature of the band, and everyone is urged to attend.

The plot of the show is well developed, taking place on the showboat "Anna Belle Lu." When only a baby, Rosalie Lindsay is stolen from her parents. Incidentally, Rosalie is the current attraction on the showboat. The plot continues around Rosalie and her sweetheart who is accused of stealing from the captain of the boat. As in all minstrel shows, the usual interlocutor and his retinue will present an unusual repertoire of jokes in the good old minstrel manner.

NEW VOLLEYBALL ARRANGEMENT

On Monday of last week a second physical training period was brought into the schedule. Formerly the girls in the band were unable to have a physical training period, but now all the girls who do not have classes during the seventh period are able to have physical training.

In the second group there are about eighteen girls besides the girls in the band playing volleyball. This way there is not such a large or small number in either group.

Up to now this plan has worked successfully and it will probably be used the remainder of the season.

ORIGINAL SHORT STORIES

For the next few weeks there will appear in The Kennel original short stories written by students in English II, taught by Charles Shumaker. These stories will be presented for your enjoyment and will be chosen for their evidence of the original, word usage and grammatical correctness. We hope that you enjoy them. Following is the first of this series.

SPREADING THE BULL

By John H. Atterbury

"Talking about horses," said Clint, a cowpuncher who had seen his best days twenty years ago, "reminds me of ol' Crowfoot. There never was a better horse, that is, in his way."

This was the yearly meet of all the old cowpunchers to have their lying contest. All the oldtimers leaned a little farther back in their chairs and took a little deeper puff on their pipes for they knew old Clint always told a good tale.

"When I was working for the Y-Z outfit," began Clint, "we ran short of horses because of a little too much Anthrax in that part of the country. Fall round-up being purty clost at hand, somebody had to get some horses some way. The boss, knowing I was purty good at getting horses without paying much, sent me and one of the other boys down across the border into Old Mexico, because there we could get all the horses we wanted for nothing, that is, if we worked it just right.

"When we got in the hills on the other side of the border, we weren't long in locatin' a big bunch of them cayuses. But locatin' 'em wasn't all. It took us a couple of days of hard ridin' to get 'em together, and on account of so many of them vaqueros claimin' that same bunch, we decided to cut out the old mares and start traveling. One old mare and her colt decided they wuz going with us but I had other plans for her. I chased her about two miles and thought sure I was rid of her, but the next day she was trailing along behind. Right there's where I lost my temper so I decided to get rid of her for good. I raised my old 30-30 and shot. That old mare dropped in her tracks and started kicking. Naturally I thought her colt would stay there, at least for a while, but that consarned little rascal came crowfootin' up to me like I'd done him a favor. Right there's where he got 'Crowfoot' for a handle. That hunk of horseflesh kept in ten feet of me the rest of the way to the Y-Z. He even bedded down by me at night. Why you'd a thought I was his mammy instead of the thing I shot a piece back.

"That there horse stayed right by my side for the next five years. Course he was a big help lots o' times, but it sure was embarrassing when I went to parties and had to dance with a horse.

"I had been ridin' range all one mornin' and had stopped to eat. I had unsaddled Crowfoot and divided my last biscuit with him, when I discovered that the prairie was on fire. Without takin' time to saddle I jumped on Crowfoot, but instead of going the way I wanted him to, he started crowfootin' towards the fire as purty as you please. About the time he got through the fire I fell off. The last I seen of ole Crowfoot he was toppin' the ridge with his tail on fire. I don't reckon the fire ever caught up with him."

BOYS BASKETBALL OUTLOOK OPTIMISTIC

With only a few weeks of fundamentals and basic plays the Knox City Greyhounds are shaping up into good preseason form. How brilliant the aspects are for a successful season is yet to be seen, but from reports in this section of the state it seems that the coaches feel that Knox City is the team to fear. This puts the local boys in a very difficult spot, as the surrounding teams are necessarily saying for the locals.

With the season not as yet under way a schedule of games is not ready for publication, but will be shortly.

Approximately ten boys are reporting under the competent coaching of Mr. Craig Walling, recently a member of the "Tallest Team in the World," the West Texas Buffalos. According to Mr. Walling some of the greener and more inexperienced boys are pushing the veterans out of their berths. At the present time it seems that in all probability none is assured of a berth, but that the berth goes to the man that works the hardest and has the most desire to play.

A BEDTIME STORY

Once upon a time there was a high school called K. C. H. S. In this high school there were many little boys and girls. The little children weren't exactly joys to their teachers, but each and every one of them was a joy unto himself. For instance, there was one little girl, Anita Wampler, whose favorite game was "London Bridge is falling down" but who had great difficulty in getting someone to play with her because of her little playmate, Jean Anne, and her scholarly nature. Jean Anne spent all her time reading the adventures of "Wee Willie Winkie." In Civics class each day, two of the smallest children, Glenn and Anna V., sat side by side and held hands much to the merriment of all the other pupils except one. This one was Geneva Walker, who would always sit and study about the capital of Texas and its educational features. Mary Frances Reeder, another little girl, was constantly giggling and wondering what college life was like. The most energetic member of this scholarly little group was Faye, whose greatest ambition was to be either a nurse or a doctor's assistant. Edna Warren, one of the little beauties of the school, made so much noise all of the time that the teachers could never get her to study her reading, writing and arithmetic. One of her little friends, Lillian Hutchinson, had a terrible habit of talking in her sleep and calling people names. Doyle Graham, one of the best little boys in school, had no such annoying habit, but he did have a great liking for the

BENJAMIN BUILDS A NEW SCHOOL

Recently a citizen who is interested in a new, modern school building set forth a petition for the construction of a new school building. This petition was signed by almost every citizen in the community. The people seem to be interested in the project and we assure them that the students and the teachers are backing them one hundred per cent. The petition was to vote on a twenty-five thousand dollar bond at an election to be held on Tuesday, October 18. The building will be a W. P. A. project which will be financed twenty-three and a third per cent by the district and sixty-six and two-thirds per cent by the federal government.

The building will have approximately eighteen rooms. The auditorium will be a combination auditorium and gymnasium. In the auditorium there will be stage that will be much larger than the one we have at present. When the building is completed there will be no comparison between it and the old building.

Benjamin needs a new school building! Many of the citizens who have visited the school can see the need for one, and we hope to convince the rest of the citizens of this need. We assure the citizens that the taxes will not be any higher, because this is financed by the district and federal government. We hope all the citizens of Benjamin will put forth every effort to get a new building because there is a great need for one.

PUBLIC SPEAKING

Realizing the necessity of good speech, Benjamin High School is offering to twenty students the important subject "Public Speaking." For the past six weeks we have been discussing words often mispronounced and misspelled, poise, gestures and postures of the body, and have memorized various voice selections. We are beginning to understand and to realize the importance of being able to stand before an audience and deliver messages.

But these are not the only advantages of public speaking. We will, of course, during the following months, learn to apply make-up, advantages of puppets, debating and drama.

NEW FACULTY MEMBER

This week we wish to introduce a third new member of our faculty, Miss Bliss Miller, who was born at Stephenville, Texas, October 6, 1917. She procured her elementary and high school education at Wellington, Texas, and thereupon entered Abilene Christian College, from which she obtained her B. S. degree in education and home economics. Miss Miller was quite active in her professional pursuit, having worked as assistant to the bursar at the college. At the same time, she was a member of the Home Economics Club and the Las Companeros.

Miss Miller is employed as the fourth grade teacher in our school. We consider her an efficient teacher and an inspiring asset to our community.

Last Friday night the Juniors made a huge success of their program and cake-walk. We took in quite a bit more money than was expected. The program was entitled "Object: Matrimony," a comedy with romance running through it. Three songs, "Music Maestro Please," "Old Apple Tree" and "Alexander's Ragtime Band" were sung. After our program we sold thirty-six cakes and one pie, which we considered enough to make us all feel good. We wish to thank the Seniors for their splendid cooperation.

Friday morning, October 8, the Sophomore class sponsored the assembly program. A class song, to the tune of "Ain't We Crazy," was the first number on the program; then the boys presented a negro minstrel, "Oh, Doctor," by Henry L. Newton; the concluding number was a tap dance, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," by Wilda Mae Russell.

The program was declared a big success by the entire student body. The Sophomores worked hard for this comment, and we are grateful to Miss Diersing for her direction and assistance.

TRIP TO ABILENE ENJOYED BY PUPILS

On Saturday, October 8, a most interesting and educational trip to Abilene was taken by the elementary grades, the Seniors, and several faculty members of the O'Brien school.

Sixty pupils and six teachers gathered at the school building at seven o'clock Saturday morning and began their trip to Abilene in the new Dodge school busses. Along the way points of interest were noted and plans for the day perfected.

Upon arriving in Abilene, the first points of interest visited were the Banner Creamery, the Dr. Pepper Bottling Works, Coca-Cola Bottling Company, the museum, the park and the zoo. The last stop was the Fair. After an inspection of the carnival grounds, the exhibit halls were visited and the trip home began. The only displeasure expressed was that the day was too short.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

The wheat allotments for the individual farms were mailed out last week from the County Agent's office. Knox County will be allowed to plant for harvest 16,433 acres of wheat. The original allotment for this county was set at 13,200 acres by the Washington AAA office, based on the 10-year average of harvested wheat. Through efforts of the county committee in presenting additional records of wheat acreages, the allotments were raised.

Earl Mead, State Game Warden located at Seymour, made one arrest and conviction for illegal hunting near Knox City last week. The conviction was for shooting from a public road by a non-resident of the county without a hunting license.

Charles Moorhouse, President of the Knox County Game Association, reports that a part time game warden has been hired for this county, effective October 1. This warden will work in cooperation with the sheriff's office, and is being paid by contributions from Knox County landowners who favor legal hunting on their land, and are opposed to illegal hunting and entire disregard of their property rights, stated Mr. Moorhouse.

The County Agent's office received 231 additional subsidy checks during the past week. To date Knox County has received 959 checks totaling $145,458.08.

HOME ECONOMICS GIRLS GIVE DINNER

The Home Economics III girls had the honor of Mr. Whitis and Mr. Dodgen as guests at a dinner served in the Home Economics Laboratory. There were two seperate tables, each having one guest of honor, one host, one hostess, and a daughter who acted as maid. Anita Wampler and Anna Lou Warren acted as the hosts, Zena Bolin and Annie Mae Rice as hostesses, and Peggy O'Neal and Dealva Hammons as daughters. The table was very pretty and attractive. The centerpiece was low and consisted of beautiful morning glories. This worked out lovely with the color of the table. The menu consisted of tomato cocktail, pork chops with pineapple and cranberries, stuffed celery, creamed potatoes, green beans, whole wheat muffins, individual pie and iced tea. It was a grand affair and we take this opportunity to compliment Miss Cole, the Home Economics teacher.
