Schools Must Redirect Programs Says Briscoe

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas must redirect its elementary and secondary education programs toward career education and reduce spending on higher education if it is to avoid a financial crisis, Gov. Dolph Briscoe said today.

The governor, in a speech prepared for delivery to the annual meeting of the Texas Research League, said the state is spending five times as much this year on higher education than it spent in 1966-67.

"I think it is obvious to us all that if this trend continues, financing our institutions of so-called higher education is going to break our state," Briscoe said.

He also cited a study showing more than 21 per cent of Texans over the age of 18 have difficulty coping with literacy requirements of everyday life.

"Pouring additional money into our Texas educational systems without direction or accountability is not the answer," he said.

"Rather, we must redirect our programs of elementary and secondary education within the framework of career education, so that each high school graduate will have a salable skill enabling him or her to become a productive contributing citizen.

We must eliminate unnecessary duplication of programs and expensive facilities in our state colleges and universities, and focus on coordinating the role, scope and programs of our institutions of higher learning.

The governor also said the growth of state government bureaucracy must be reversed, and said Texas needs a plan to reduce the overall number of state employees and to achieve greater productivity from each employee.

"In my opinion, it is not the duty or the function of government to solve all of the problems that exist in today's society. Attempts by government to do so have not only failed, but in many instances, through provisions of massive spending, actually created more problems than they have solved.

"I personally believe it is time to recognize that the people of this country are better off with less government — not more government. We need to return to that viewpoint in which people will look to government to do only those things they cannot do for themselves as individuals, or through private groups."

Crash Doesn't Stop Ford

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — President Ford, apparently undaunted and uninjured when struck accidentally by a flag staff held by a young boy, continued to shake hands with well-wishers on his arrival in Massachusetts today to deliver a major speech on foreign policy.

In a speech later today, Ford was expected to assure the Soviet Union and others that U.S. foreign policy has not changed despite the large-scale shakeup in his administration.

Just after Ford arrived at Westover Air Force Base and was walking through the crowd shaking hands, he was struck on the right temple with a 24-inch long U.S. flag staff held by a boy in the crowd.

A Secret Service bodyguard slapped the stick with the flag to the ground. Ford ducked for a moment, then straightened up and resumed greeting the crowd.

Ford apparently was not injured and the incident appeared to stem only from the boy's excitement. Ford continued shaking hands before going to a brief, closed session at a convention of New England newspaper editors before moving on to nearby Boston for what was billed as a major speech following of shakeups in his administration.

Pickets protesting the administration's foreign policy and other Ford policies peacefully marched outside the hotel where Ford met with the news executives at the 21st annual convention of the New England Society of Newspaper Editors.

The speech covered national security policy from détente and Strategic Arms Limitation talks with Russia, to defense of his military budget proposals, to the Middle East peacemaking effort and America's commitments to its allies, the sources said.

Ford does not want neither America's allies nor its possible foes to get the idea that the firing of Schlesinger means the administration will stand for the United States being anything less than the most powerful nation on earth, the sources said. Schlesinger is regarded in Washington as a "hard-liner" against defense cuts and on disarmament negotiations with Moscow.

Ford replaced Schlesinger, a man whose brains he respected but whose professional manner irritated him, with Donald Rumsfeld, formerly the President's chief of staff.

The Boston speech was to be delivered to the 51st annual conference of the New England Council, the regional cooperation group led by the governors of the six states of the area.

Moroccans Enter Spain

WITH MOROCCANS IN SPANISH SAHARA (UPI) — A multitude of Moroccans swept across the sands like Mohammed's soldiers of Allah and camped out in no man's land today on a symbolic "march of conquest" into Spanish Sahara.

The unarmed civilians, carrying copies of the Koran instead of scimitars, chanted "Allah be praised" as they marched to the edge of Spain's defense line of barbed wire, mine, and armored cars.

Tens of thousands of Moroccans, stopped six miles inside Spanish Sahara Thursday afternoon on the first day of a march by some 250,000 men, women and children to claim the North African colony.

At the United Nations, Spanish diplomats told the Security Council Thursday night the pilgrims for peace "could touch off a war between Spain and Morocco by trying to push past the desert defense line."

But the marchers seemed to be abiding by a reported compromise to limit the trek to the half-dozen miles of barren desert between the Moroccan border and the Spanish defense line.

We don't like to make war but we're ready and willing to repel any aggression from wherever it comes," Spanish Gen. Federico Gomez de Salazar said Thursday in El Aun, the Saharan capital.

The marchers halted at a spot where Spanish troops used bulldozers to block the beaten dirt road running from the Moroccan border to El Aun.

Behind mounds of earth piled on the road were three rows of barbed wire stretching across a wasteland of mines. Atop a ridge about a mile away stood some 60 Spanish vehicles full of soldiers.

The march would have done justice to a Cecil B. De Mille filmepic.

Hundreds of thousands of marchers bedded down for the night on blankets — a great sea of humanity spread across the sands of the Sahara Desert under a starless sky.

The Moroccans erected tents and warmed a dinner of tea and bread over fires made of desert shrubs and then bedded down beside cactus plants.

The marchers, carrying thousands of red and green Moroccan flags, ranged from unshaven peasants in flowing robes to students in Western-style dress.

At the frontier, the marchers erected a huge arch of triumph of wood decorated with Moroccan flags and large portraits of King Hassan II.

Hassan called the march to back up Morocco's claims to Spanish Sahara.

Spain wants a U.N.-sponsored plebiscite to give the colony's 800,000 inhabitants a chance to choose their future.

Neighboring Algeria, which has attacked the march as suicidal, supports guerrillas fighting for the independence of Spanish Sahara.

FPC Orders Gulf To Explain

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Power Commission ordered Gulf Oil Corp. today to explain why its deliveries of natural gas to a key customer, Texas Eastern Transmission Corp., are falling one fourth behind promised volumes.

The commission also ordered Texas Eastern to explain why it has not pressed Gulf to deliver the full volume.

The "show cause" orders were the first major case since the FPC recently announced it would press natural gas suppliers to fulfill their contracted volumes of natural gas.

Natural gas is expected to fall 13 trillion cubic feet short of the demand this winter throughout the nation, mostly in the East where there is heavy industrial and home use of natural gas.

The FPC said it will hold hearings on the show-cause orders Dec. 16 in Washington. It contended Gulf's average deliveries under its contract with Texas Eastern, which is a major interstate pipeline firm, were 398.24 million cubic feet a day during 1974 and slipped to 372.66 million cubic feet in the most recent six-month period. The contract calls for 500 million cubic feet daily, the FPC said.

Texas Eastern must show cause why it should not be required to pursue all administrative and judicial remedies available to it with respect to Gulf's failure to meet its delivery obligations under the contract, the FPC said in a prepared statement.

The Texas Eastern pipeline system reaches from Texas to the New York City area and the company serves markets in 15 states along the route, the FPC said. Texas Eastern has headquarters in Houston and Gulf in Pittsburgh.

Hearst Rule Today

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal court judge's ruling today on the mental competency of Patricia Hearst could mean her trial on bank robbery charges would begin in December.

But psychiatric experts have split on the question of whether she is mentally competent to begin her trial.

U.S. District Judge Oliver Carter said Tuesday at a competency hearing he would probably issue his decision in a memorandum at the end of the week.

Unemployment Up Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate rose 0.3 per cent in October to its highest level in four months — 8.6 per cent — primarily because more Americans were out looking for work, the Labor Department said today.

The number of unemployed persons rose by 230,000 to 8 million in October, the department said. Total employment remained virtually unchanged at 85.4 million after rising steadily between March and August.

The unexpected large increase in unemployment occurred mainly because of a surge of persons looking for jobs — the civilian labor force rose by 250,000 to 93.4 million. Some white women and farm workers also lost their jobs in October, contributing to the increase.

The increase in the jobless figures was the second round of gloomy economic news in the past two days. A Labor Department report Thursday showed that wholesale prices jumped 1.8 per cent last month — the biggest monthly increase in a year.

Julius Shiskin, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told Congress last month the unemployment picture had improved since peaking 9.2 per cent of the labor force in May and was expected to continue unchanged for the remainder of 1975.

However, there was a decline in the number of unemployed persons who have been seeking a job for six months or more and the average length of unemployment also dropped significantly from 16.2 weeks to 15.4 weeks.

The last time the unemployment rate was as high as October's figure was in June when it also registered 8.6 per cent.

Employment in manufacturing, which has been rising steadily in recent months, jumped by another 110,000 workers in October — a sign that factories are recalling laid-off workers. Most of the increases were in manufacturing of nondurable goods or electrical equipment. Employment in mining also was up by 20,000.

Employment in contract construction also increased by 30,000 and 110,000 working persons were added to the payrolls of state and local governments, 35,000 of them striking teachers who returned to work.

Big increases in steel prices, 1976 automobile models and other industrial commodities were blamed for the increase in wholesale prices, which translates into an annual rate of 21.6 per cent.

Those wholesale prices threaten another surge of inflation as they work their way into the costs of consumer goods and services.

Such inflationary pressures also did not bode well for unemployment, which fell slightly to 8.3 per cent in September after two months at 8.4 per cent.

As prices rise, consumers pay more for less. This leads to falling production and rising unemployment, similar to the recessionary cycle that was broken only last spring.

Employment in manufacturing rose during August and September as some industries, including the auto industry, began recalling some laid-off employees.

Kissinger Warns Congress To Approve Mideast Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has told Congress that failure to approve major aid for Israel and Egypt would endanger world economic development and risk U.S. Soviet confrontation in the Middle East.

Kissinger urged the House international relations committee approve $2.4 billion in economic and military aid for Israel and $750 million in economic aid for Egypt.

He said otherwise the momentum for peace in the Middle East would be disrupted.

"Perpetual crisis in the Middle East would severely strain our relations with our most important allies," Kissinger said. "And upheaval in the Middle East jeopardizes the world's hopes for economic recovery and increases the prospect of direct U.S. Soviet confrontation."

The stakes in the Middle East are big no less than war and peace. Our national interests in the area have become vitally important.

Committee members urged Kissinger that the requests face serious trouble because of President Ford's demand the projected budget be cut by $28 billion and the administration's adamant refusal to grant federal aid to New York City.

"Our new friendship for Egypt does not in any way undermine our traditional friendship with Israel," Kissinger told the committee, a traditional supporter of Israel.

He said U.S. Middle East policy "has always rested on the ability of Israel to persevere in its own defense. Our program for Israel is aimed at permitting both defensive strength and economic health."

"The case for Egypt is equally strong. Egypt has courageously embarked on the road to peace and moved from confrontation to negotiation as a means to resolve the Arab-Israeli dispute," Kissinger said.

Hillsdale College Will Fight; But Needs Funds

Traditionally, Hillsdale College, in the Michigan town of that name, has prided itself on its independence from political (i.e., tax) funding, relying, instead, on voluntary contributions from individuals who believe in what the school is doing. Because of this independence, Hillsdale has been able to maintain high standards of excellence by avoiding political pressures — quotas based on race and sex and governmentally selected textbooks, for instance — which politicized education inevitably produces.

In the words of Hillsdale president, George Roche, "We have been able to offer quality education to generations of students, without regard to race, sex or religion."

Now Hillsdale's independent status is being threatened. Via a bureaucratic ploy and an arbitrary changing of the rules, Hillsdale's independence, presumably, is to give way to the social engineers in Washington, D.C. to whom, apparently, Hillsdale's freedom-oriented courses have been a "burden under the saddle."

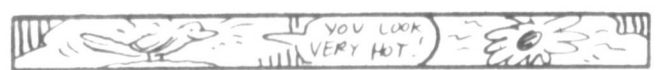

Beginning this month (October, 1975) Hillsdale College and all other independent colleges and universities are to be regarded as "recipient institutions" if they have any students on campus who receive individual funding through government programs. True, Hillsdale, like other schools, has such students on campus but, be it noted, such arrangements are between the individual students concerned and the government, not between Hillsdale and the government.

"Acceptance of such status as a recipient institution," as President Roche makes clear in a letter to friends of the college, "opens the door to federal control of Hillsdale College. The entire weight of federal guidelines, covering faculty, students, curriculum, dormitories and every aspect of our existence, would potentially dominate our campus if we once accept the premise that aid to an (which, come to think of it, is probably the best way to see it). The thing is not completed, and won't be completed until the tax siphons get maximum contracts and maximum dollars out of it.

In 1971 the National Taxpayers Union predicted the Metro would cost about three billion dollars more than its proponents calculated. "Well, we were wrong," the NTU reports in Dollars and Sense. "As of this writing, the D.C. metro system has already spent almost four billion dollars over its original estimates. And it's not even near completion. It will take at least two billion more to finish the job."

Or not to finish the job.

THE BUREAUCRATS

Shocking Growth of Bureaucracy

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN
As Americans prepare to celebrate their country's bicentennial, they should consider whether they still believe in their ancestors' goal of individual self-reliance and independence. There is much evidence that the real goal of our people today is bureaucratic dependence.

At any rate, Americans have allowed what James Blanchard calls "the imperial bureaucracy" to control the nation's life to a shocking degree.

One prominent American who is aware of this dependence and who is trying to wake his fellow citizens to the dangers in it is Pat Murphy, Editorial Page Editor of The Arizona Republic in Phoenix. He is mindful of the fact that we are very close to the conditions described in George Orwell's Novel 1984, not only in time but also in our submission to the Superstate.

In a recent address to the National Association of Accountants, Mr. Murphy warned of the dramatic and unhealthy change, in the character of America, he cited the growing power of government over the individual and the assertiveness of the federal bureaucracy.

Mr. Murphy called the roll of government interventions in business and our personal lives, saying:

"Washington decides what trains will run, what planes will fly, what trucks will roll — and when and at how much."

"Washington can roll back prices and penalize profits."

"Washington approves the design of automobiles, and what kind of gasoline they use."

"Washington approves flood control, road design, construction of baby cribs and tricycles, minority makeup of school classes and who attends what school."

Washington decides whether a business has enough toilets, whether employees' wages are adequate, whether machines are safe.

Washington decides what drugs we take, what fertilizers and pesticides we use, what clothes are safe to wear, whom we hire.

In short, ultimately Washington controls our personal destiny."

Mr. Murphy also pointed out that it is precisely this step by step intervention by government into the freedom of Americans which drove the colonies to arms against King George III 200 years ago, and which stirred Benjamin Franklin to write:

"I am a mortal enemy of arbitrary government and unlimited power."

Mr. Murphy is rightly alarmed. The bureaucracy, after all, is immune from the responsibility to the electorate. Yet it exerts the power of government every day, granting or withholding money, decreeing the approved forms of social life, and issuing regulations for every type of business activity.

Americans think of totalitarianism in terms of the image of Soviet Russia or Nazi Germany. Totalitarianism, however, can come to America in a wholly different form — in the form of a faceless bureaucracy that ordains how Americans will live and what social concepts will be acceptable.

Remove the Trash

Elected and appointed public servants who are groping for ways to improve the low esteem in which the general public holds them could do worse than have a long talk with their garbage men.

Garbage men are not surprised at a national poll indication that they are the most respected public servants. Said one: "You can come out of your home in the morning and if your trash is all gone... and your street is clean, you know that we are doing our job good and honest."

That's really all that senators, congressmen, legislators, governor, councilmen, supervisors and so forth have to do, keep the trash swept up clean — every day.

Made in America

We are not worried over much by the importation of unauthorized Bicentennial knick-knacks from Japan and Taiwan. The occasion of this nation's 200th birthday cannot escape some commercialization but that is a minor aspect of the celebration. What is uniquely our own is the heritage of our American Revolution. They can't manufacture that aboard. The storehouse of our history is crammed with values. All we have to do is rededicate ourselves to them.

CONSERVATIVE ADVOCATE

6-Bedroom Apt., $113 a Month

By WILLIAM RUSHER

How would you and your family like to live in a high-rise Manhattan triplex with six bedrooms, 11-foot ceilings and a balcony 20 feet long? Four 35-story buildings offering such accommodations, at a mere $113.28 per month including utilities, will start receiving tenants in less than two months. If six bedrooms are more than you need, smaller units are available at lower rents.

Called Taino Towers in honor of a Caribbean Indian tribe, the massive complex will boast an indoor swimming pool, a gymnasium, central air conditioning, and roof laundry rooms and playrooms, plus an underground garage with attendants 24 hours a day.

Before you pull up stakes and head for Fun City, however, make sure that the landlord, the East Harlem Tenants Council, has approved your application for an apartment in Taino Towers. The 656 units are pretty well spoken for already. First preference went to slum dwellers forced out of buildings demolished on the site, and other poor families in the neighborhood have also expressed understandable interest.

But just how does the Council expect to get by, charging only $113.28 for six-bedroom apartments? Well, partner, that's where you come in, in your familiar capacity as a federal taxpayer. For Taino Towers is a community project of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, and HUD has committed Uncle Sam to pay more than two million dollars in subsidies to this masterpiece of low-cost housing every year for the next forty years.

We are all indebted to Robert E. Tomasson, a sharp-eyed New York "Times" reporter, for this piercing insight into how the big thinkers on social problems are designing our future as a nation. In addition to sharp eyes, Mr. Tomasson clearly possesses an exquisite sense of timing; for this revelation comes just as Mayor Beame, Governor Carey and their cronies in Congress are getting ready to squeeze another few millions (or, if necessary, billions) out of American taxpayers to keep New York City living in the style to which it has become accustomed, and Taino Towers may sound just a mile excessive west of the Hudson.

It is hard to know where to focus the indignation that is quite properly generated by such a ripoff. One candidate is clearly Robert Nicol, the 40-year-old Presbyterian minister who left the active ministry altogether to accept a full-time job as administrator of the project at $17,200 a year. Another and probably better one, because he is paid by the people of this country to protect (among other things) their interests, is S. William Green, regional administrator of HUD. One would also like to know what faceless bureaucrat in Washington approved this raid on the pocketbook of every American citizen.

But let's not overlook, either, the "consortium of nine banks," headed by Chemical Bank, which put up the money to construct Taino Towers, taking 40-year 7 per cent mortgages in return. The banks cannot be accused of running much risk, since the mortgages are all guaranteed by the Federal Housing Administration (that's you again, brother), which would be the ultimate recipient of these white elephants in the event of any default and would have the unenviable task of trying to peddle them to some private landlord who thought he could rent them at a profit. As long as the federal government is ready to guarantee such loans, there will be plenty of bankers with the compassion to put up the front money.

At bottom, however, we Americans have only ourselves to blame. We have let the sociologists and the demagogic politicians walk all over us, treating the taxable income of our hard-working population as a gigantic annual Easter egg to be divided among all the special interests, from slum-dwellers and ex-ministers to bakers and bureaucrats, who can exert enough pressure and/or ingenuity to acquire a hunk of it. If we truly want to stop the sort of extravagant, inexcusable nonsense represented by Taino Towers, New York is the place — and the time is now.

Americans like their food spicy

U.S. imports of spices last year set an all-time record of 306,570,000 pounds. Coupled with domestic production, this made America's total consumption of spices about 408,500,000 pounds.

'FOUL LANGUAGE' Written Expression Needs to be Nurtured

By JOHN A. SPARKS
R.C. Holles Fellow

Hillsdale (Mich.) College
Sometimes, in the margin of a frim theme filled with grammatical and spelling errors, I have written the desperate question, "Is English really your native language?" It seems to me that I am scribbling that insulting message more and more each year. That is no reflection on my college for among our students we have some of the best young scholars with American high schools graduate. Although there are fortunate exceptions, the unadorned truth is that the typical college-bound twelfth-grader is ill-prepared in written composition.

College teachers are not the only ones who have noticed the deterioration of writing skills. Speaking of applicants for newspaper jobs, one publisher said recently, "they lack a working knowledge of the English language." A recruiter for a major U.S. industrial firm confirmed the journalist's despair when he pleaded: "give us students who can write a good English sentence and we will do the rest."

Why has good writing become so rare among high schoolers taking a college-preparatory program? First, high schools have not insisted upon rigorous composition work. Many English teachers (not all) have allowed students to "express their opinions" orally when they should have required the pupils to perfect their writing. Others have regarded the improvement of composition and grammar as the responsibility of the late elementary teacher and certainly not that of the high school instructor. Moreover, in non-English courses the students face predominantly short answer tests — "true and false" and "multiple choice." Essay tests are less and less common, reducing still further the opportunities for composition.

There are other factors that have contributed to the decline of writing ability. The widened choice in course selection given high school students has allowed them to avoid the difficult courses that require written work. What is even more distressing, many students have come to believe that the written word will not be among the media of the future. Tapes, television and movies, are the media by which they expect to converse. Apparently there will be no "men of letters" only "men of tapes" according to this view.

However, the decay of the written word is part of the general decline of cultural and moral standards. In these fields we have come to expect carelessness of dress and grooming, casual sexual attitudes and lack of respect for moral principles. Should we really be surprised to find, in the realm of language, carelessness of expression and spelling, casual attitudes toward usage and form, and lack of respect for the rules of punctuation?

Sound habits of written expression need to be nurtured once again. Otherwise we run the risk that our language will camouflage our errors rather than revealing them to us. A Orwell warned, "slovenliness of language makes it easier for us to have foolish thoughts." The fight for clear writing is well worth the effort. It is no less than a battle for the maintenance of truth and accuracy. Said Samuel Johnson: "We have long preserved our constitution; let us make some struggles for our language."

Teen Seeks To Clean Up Reputation

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1975 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 15-year-old girl with a terrible problem. I wanted to be popular with the dudes, so I smoked grass, got drunk and did things only married people should do. Now I want to change.

I haven't messed around for four months. I took a part-time job as a janitor at a restaurant and I'm getting real good grades, but I'm still called a "whore."

Nobody will give me a chance, Abby. I have no friends. Girls are afraid they'll get a bad name if they're seen with me, and I can't blame them. Boys want only one thing, and since I've stopped putting out, they don't bother with me. I hate myself. I've been so down and lonely lately. When I was a whore, at least I had someone to talk to. Shrinkers are expensive, and there are no free clinics here for counseling.

All my teachers hate me because of my reputation, and I feel too cheap and dirty to go to church. Please help me. WANTS TO CHANGE

DEAR WANTS: I'm proud of you. You have already grown spiritually, or you wouldn't have thought of going to church or changing your ways.

You're wrong, honey. Your teachers don't hate you, and you're not too "dirty" to go to church.

Pick the teacher you'd like most for a friend and meet her half-way. Also, go to church and give your clergyman a chance to help you. All you need to change your life is the will to do it. Please try and write to me again in six months and tell me how things are going. I care.

DEAR ABBY: In response to that 52-year-old woman who is going with a 34-year-old man. She's afraid her children and others will think she's making a fool of herself. She's also afraid people might think she is his mother.

I am 51, and I've been going with a very handsome, 28-year-old man for over two years.

Doyle and I don't care if someone mistakes me for his mother. After all, I am 23 years older than Doyle and that's old enough to be his mother.

The day I stopped worrying about what other people thought I started living.

I have a son who is older than Doyle, and he says, "Mom, anything that makes you happy is just fine with me."

If people limited their friends to their own age group, they'd miss a lot of fun. I say, enjoy what you have while you have it. It will all be gone too soon.

CALIFORNIAN

DEAR CAL: I'm with you!

DEAR ABBY: How does one address a congratulatory telegram to newlyweds who are retaining their individual surnames? Western Union couldn't give me an answer.

Dr. Gibboney has authored several books, been editor of a monthly journal, and currently writes a syndicated feature, "Mini-Sermon for Today," which is carried throughout the East.

He also writes and narrates a five minute radio program, "It's Worth Thinking About," heard five days a week throughout the country.

Fort Worth Press Dies

FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — The final morning edition of the Fort Worth Press bore the simple headline "30," the traditional reporter's symbol for a finished story.

But despite Thursday's second apparent folding of the 54-year-old publishing venture, the paper's management hoped to arrange new financing for another resurrection.

By Thursday evening, the newsroom, normally a chaotic, noisy place at a morning publication, was empty and quiet. An operator still answered the phone. "The Fort Worth Press," but she said the owners had left and she didn't know where they were.

The Press's struggle against death was reluctant. It was previously owned by the Scripps-Howard organization and closed in May because it was costing too much to support. The paper reopened in August with George DeArmand as board chairman and Dean Singleton as President.

But the new management was unable to halt the paper's second decline.

President Thomas Jefferson concluded the Louisiana Purchase from France in 1803.

Inmate Became Dad

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — A convicted killer, who was able to get married and father a child in the state prison despite a prohibition against conjugal visits has won a reduction in his life term.

Stan Wilson, 29, was sentenced to life in prison without possibility of parole in 1969 for the fatal shooting of fellow panderer Henry Feltus, in a Las Vegas club during a fight over a prostitute.

The Nevada Pardons Board Thursday voted 6-1 to commute the term to life with possibility of parole. Wilson will be able to appear before the state Parole Board in December 1977.

While in prison, he met his future wife, Ruth, 25, who was helping teach a college course. They were married in an uncommon prison wedding. During one visit, the couple slipped into a bathroom and consummated the marriage. A son, Hammoribi, was born.

Both the wife and son were in the audience as the pardons board listened to Wilson and his attorney Harry Claiborne ask for a reduction in sentence.

Wilson cited his accomplishments, which included completing the equivalent of two years of college. He was almost illiterate when he arrived at the prison in 1969.

Drug Hearings Begin

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Complaining of "an extraordinarily difficult time in obtaining material from the CIA," Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., opened hearings today into drug and other experiments on more than 7,000 Americans.

At least two deaths resulted from the Defense Department and CIA experiments involving LSD and other drugs over a 25-year period.

Witnesses from both agencies were scheduled to appear before the Senate Health subcommittee headed by Kennedy.

Kennedy said LSD experiments in the 1950's and 1960's "raise profound questions about the record of these two vital agencies in protecting the rights of human subjects of biomedical and behavioral research."

"The issue here is not one of national security," he said. "There is no questioning of the need for secret research. The issue is the protection of human beings who are used as subjects of that secret research."

Kennedy said he felt compelled to point out that the subcommittee "had an extraordinarily difficult time in obtaining material from the CIA."

"Much of the material we have obtained has been classified. Much of what was known about such experiments was destroyed in 1973. What is left is classified. What little has been declassified is inconsistent with what the agency refuses to declassify."

Earlier congressional investigations and a report by the Rockefeller Commission brought out that LSD, alcohol and other experiments were carried out on more than 7,000 American citizens.

Witnesses called include Carl Duckett, head of the CIA's Technology Department, and Gen. Kenneth Dirk, Army assistant surgeon general.

Some of the subjects in the drug tests were volunteers, others didn't know the nature of the experiments and still others were given "cocktails" laced with drugs so that reactions could be studied.

Previous evidence disclosed that a 42-year-old tennis professional died of an overdose of mescaline in 1963 under an Army experimental contract handled by the New York State Psychiatric Institute.

Prince Holds Crisis Meeting

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon held a crisis meeting today with his government to deal with the threat of war by Morocco's mass civilian invasion of the Spanish Sahara.

The acting chief of state chaired a cabinet session at his Zarzuela palace as Generalissimo Francisco Franco, 82, entered the fourth week of a critical heart and intestinal illness.

His doctors reported he rested normally during the night, but said he remained in grave condition.

A kidney machine kept filtering the urea poison from Franco's blood, but clots in his left leg continued to build and periodic heart fluctuations were noted, according to a medical bulletin Thursday.

The prince, who took over Franco's powers a week ago, was seeking the advice of Premier Carlos Arias Navarro and his cabinet on the Sahara crisis.

Hundreds of thousands of Moroccan civilians marched into the disputed Spanish colony Thursday and spent the night in a strip of land between the border and the first Spanish defense line.

If they marched on the defense line, the Spanish army will open fire, government sources said.

They said Zarzuela palace was in direct contact with military commanders in the Sahara as the meeting started.

The sources also said the cabinet may take decisions on the economy, which badly needs stimulation to get it out of a deepening recession.

A right-wing raid on a meeting of prominent opposition politicians gave Spaniards a taste of the conflicts building for when Franco's one-man rule ends.

The raiders, armed with submachine guns, fired one shot into the ceiling and forced all nine men to the floor, systematically beating them bloody with pistols and spiked steel balls on chains.

A cloud of tear gas covered the attackers' escape from the fourth-floor office in a downtown Madrid building, leaving the room a shambles with blood on the carpet.

All of the victims required hospital treatment, including stitches for deep cuts. One suffered two broken ribs, another a broken arm.

Police sources said the raiders were right-wing extremists intent on preserving the dictatorial regime of Franco and the reforms of leftist and centrist groups.

Political analysts have predicted the conflict between liberals wanting political freedoms and rightists favoring authoritarian rule will become even more violent after Franco dies.

A medical bulletin issued just before midnight Thursday said Franco, confined to his bed in El Pardo palace since Oct. 17, remained in grave condition.

The seven lawyers beaten Thursday represented a variety of outlawed political organizations, including the Communist-backed Democratic Junta and the Socialist and Christian Democrat parties.

The groups are now campaigning for the release of political prisoners and democratic freedoms in post-Franco Spain.

Rocky Won't Rule Out Bid for Presidency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Vice President Nelson Rockefeller has refused to rule out a 1976 bid for the presidency.

The 67-year-old Rockefeller told reporters Thursday he expected President Ford would be nominated for a full term next August. But he refused to say what he would do if Ford did poorly in early primaries or dropped out of the race.

Asked at a news conference if he still had presidential ambitions, Rockefeller said: "Listen, I wouldn't have accepted the vice presidency if I wasn't willing to accept the presidency, if God forbid, something happened to the President."

He said he had no plans to get involved in the 1976 race. But his decision to withdraw from the vice presidential race cuts his ties with Ford sufficiently to mount a campaign if the President's should fail.

Rockefeller also said he could not campaign for Ford because of restrictions in the campaign law which limit him to using only $1,000 of his own money to cover expenses when he appears on behalf of the President.

His comments apparently raised eyebrows at the White House where Press Secretary Ron Nessen immediately called Rockefeller and assured him that the President Ford Committee would pay the Vice President's campaign expenses to comply with the law.

Two More Are Charged After Arrest

Two Pampa residents were charged with possession of a controlled substance Thursday following a search of their residence, by Pampa Police Department officers.

They are David Joseph Darce, 21, and Iris Hardy, 21, both of 919 E. Francis. Justice of Peace Nat Lunsford set bond at $500 each.

The arrests were made by Lt. J.J. Ryman, Patrolman Mike Hartstock and Traffic Officer Johnie Fontenot.

Police Chief Richard Mills said the department has arrested 27 persons this week for investigation of possession of a controlled substance.

Chief Says Police Busy During Month

The Pampa Police Department's activity report was released today by Police Chief Richard Mills stating officers made 114 jail arrests during the 31 days of last month.

The department answered 973 calls, issued 328 tickets, 49 warnings and 16 parking citations.

A total of 86 accidents was investigated and the patrol division drove 18,976 miles.

The chief said that due to vacations, holidays and illnesses, the department operated four men short during October.

Probation Revoked For Densmore

A 65-year-old Pampa man, on crutches, heard his probation revoked Thursday in 31st District Court here.

Book Review

Shaw Book Entertains

By JOAN HANAUER
United Press International
Nightwork, by Irwin Shaw.
(Delacorte, $8.95)

When a fine writer sits down to deliver a book meant just to entertain, the results often can be delightful. Such is the case with Irwin Shaw's latest book about a young man in his 30s who finds himself pursuing a parcel of money across Europe. The title refers to the protagonist's occupation, a night clerk in a seedy Manhattan hotel. The hero, Douglas Grimes, has opted for a monk-like existence without ambition after being permanently grounded as an airline pilot. Then one night he discovers $100,000 in cash in the room of an elderly guest who has died of a heart attack.

With hardly a ripple of conscience, he steals the money. Then, hotly pursued by several thugs (the Mafia?), he flies to Europe with a ski tour group so that his luggage will escape inspection. All runs smoothly until he discovers he has the wrong bag. The $100,000 has disappeared.

The trail, to say the least, is hazy. Grimes' frantic efforts to recover the money are enjoyable to follow as he chases through Europe's plush resort areas, trying to make his remaining cash stretch like any other poor tourist.

Shaw's plotting is somewhat mechanical and wooden — an event early in the book clearly is inserted to be used later to provide a happy ending. But the skillful writing and the care in developing character are, as such, remarkably effective in this type of narrative.

Perhaps Shaw is saying something about money, what it can do and what it can't. But few readers will care. Settle for a fast paced, brightly written novel that will carry the reader from beginning to end with astonishing speed.

The Long Thirst, by Thomas M. Coffey. (Norton, $9.95) Today, when individual rights are guarded so jealously, the concept of Prohibition is difficult to grasp — a law that made illegal activity something indulged in by the majority of Americans. The ensuing chaos is skillfully recorded in this lively book that focuses on the maneuvering of several individuals trying to cash in on the ban on alcoholic beverages.

We follow the Prohibition careers of such opportunists as a sea captain who takes up smuggling, a taxi driver who ferries booze from Canada, and a Chicago attorney with a grand scheme to beat the new law. Some of the stories are well worn but, in all, the book is a grand depiction of a rather silly period in American life.

The Tomorrow File, by Lawrence Sanders. (Putnam, $9.95) The time is near the turn of this century and a cunning, power-hungry Nicholas Flair, a physician, schemes to extend the role of science in controlling society and the minds and bodies of its inhabitants. The author, whose previous "The First Deadly Sin" was an expert piece of entertainment, fills in the details of a future civilization with great skill, but his plotting is too obvious. Ambitious and imaginative as the book is, it misses the mark.

By JOE SEGAL
Lovett

Memorial Library Staff
Lovett Memorial Library's entertainment and information, like Howard Johnson's ice cream, come in many "flavors." The "vanilla" of the hardback, English-language book is just the start.

We also have paperback books, magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, records, and, within a few months, we'll have cassette tapes. And each of these different types of materials comes in both English and Spanish, for our Mexican-American residents and students of that language. We have popular novels, in paperback and hardback, in Spanish: for example, we have several books from the best-selling EL VERDUGO and EL DESTRUCTOR series, and Spanish translations of American best-sellers, such as Mary Stewart's COMENZO EN VIENA (AIRS ABOVE THE GROUND).

In non-fiction, we have useful books in Spanish on car repairs, the art of make-up, how to be a secretary, and the mysterious craft of speaking English. American-style. For Hispano-Harvesters, we have books and records to teach Spanish to tongue-tied Anglos. Finally, for your leisure hours, we loan out records by popular Latin American bands and singers, such as Lucho Gatica and the Trio Los Panchos. And OUR "twenty-six flavors," unlike the hospitable Mr. Johnson's, are completely free: anyone who lives in Gray County can come down to the Library, at Houston and Foster streets in downtown Pampa, and get a library card, without paying one cent, in two minutes! So, to our Spanish-speaking or Spanish-seeking residents, Pampa's public library says: Bienvenido a vuestra; Welcome to YOUR library! Libreria.

El entretenimiento y informacion de la libreria Lovett Memorial es como el helado de muchos sabores. La "vainilla" del libro solido en Ingles es solo el comienzo. Tambien tenemos libros de bolsillo, magazines, el periodico, papeluchos, discos y, dentro de unos meses, tendremos cintillas de cassettes; y cada uno de estos clases de diferentes materiales vienen en Ingles y en Espanol, para nuestros Mexicano-Americanos residentes y estudiantes de esa lengua.

Tenemos novelas populares en libro de bolsillo, como tambien libros solidos, en Espanol; por ejemplo tenemos varios libros que se han vendido mas, como "El Destructor" y "El Verdugo," y libros en Ingles que han sido transferidos en Espanol, como el libro de Mary Stewart, Comenzo en Viena. En otra seccion de la libreria ayara libros que explican como reparar su carro, como ser secretaria, como hablar Ingles estilo (muy misterioso) Americano.

Para los "Hispano-Harvesters" tenemos libros y discos para aprender Espanol, a los Anglos lengua mocha.

Finalmente para sus horas que estea desocupado, le empretemos discos por bandas Latinas Americanas y cantantes como Lucho Gatica y el Trio Los Panchos. Y todos los "bieneses sabores," no como los de Howard Johnson's, son completamente gratis en cualquiera que vive en el Condado Gray, puede venir a la libreria, que esta por las calles Houston y Foster en Pampa, y levantar su tarjeta de libreria, sin pagar ningun centavo, y sin malgastar dos minutos. Entonces para el habla Espanol o para el que busca Espanol, residentes: la Libreria Publica de Pampa, Lovett Memoria Libreria, le dese, Bienvenidos a vuestra libreria.

Mrs. Steel To Review Western Trail Book

Mrs. N. Dudley Steel will present a review of David Waggoner's "The Road to Many a Wonder" at 10 a.m. Tuesday in the main conference room of Lovett Library, 111 N. Houston.

The public is invited to the event sponsored by the Friends of the Pampa Library. A coffee and conversation period at 9:30 a.m. will precede the review.

"The Road to Many a Wonder" starts in Nevada Territory and follows the broken trail of Ike and Millie Bender as they make their way to Colorado for the Pike's Peak Gold Rush.

The Benders' experiences with people they meet along the way, their relationship with each other and their success at the end of the road are all woven into an inspiring tale based on a factual story from the Gold Rush days Mrs. Steele said.

A reviewer much in demand both in Pampa and the surrounding area, Mrs. Steele has presented reviews for local clubs, charitable organizations and churches.

20th Century Hears About American Music

"Sights and Sounds of Music" was the program topic for the Twentieth Century Club's recent meeting in the home of Mrs. David E. McGahey of 1901 Evergreen.

Mrs. Rex Rose narrated the arts committee program. The opening ritual was conducted by Mrs. John L. Rankin.

"America's music is interwoven with the development of our nation," Mrs. Rose said as she traced the history of music from the hymns of early settlers to jazz and blues of today.

Ballads and popular tunes of each era were sung by Mrs. Lloyd Hamilton and Mrs. Carlton Freeman.

Morris K. Kille, educational director of music for the First United Methodist Church of Pampa accompanied the singers on an autoharp.

Mrs. R.W. Stowers reported on Fatu - Hiva by Thor

Heyerdahl. The book gives an account of the year the author spent on the primitive Marquesas Islands in the South Pacific.

Miss Elsie Cunningham showed a special postage stamp issued in 1948 by the U.S. Postal Service honoring "100 Years of Progress of Women."

The business session was directed by Mrs. Frank M. Culberson, president. Mrs. Roy F. Braswell presented the 1975-76 budget and announced that she is now accepting orders for the fourth in the series of Bicentennial Commemorative Plates.

Attending the meeting were Mesdames Braswell, W.R. Campbell, Culberson, Freeman, Jerry Gardner, Hamilton, Paul Harbaugh, W. Calvin Jones, McGhey, Fred J. Neslage, Rankin, Luther C. Robinson, Rose, R.H. Sanford, C.E. Steel, Stowers, Miss Cunningham and a guest, Mrs. Donna Shumake of Pasadena, Calif.

Library Family of the Year
Elva, Molly, Amy and Herschel Lewis

Lewis Family Named

Reading is more than a pleasant hobby for the Herschel Lewis family, 2215 Beech, the Friends of the Pampa Library's 1975-76 Library Family of the Year.

Weekly books from Lovett Library serve as valuable aids to the Lewises as they pursue a variety of home-centered activities headed by arts, crafts and home improvements.

Lewis, who is employed by Cabot Corporation, reads fiction for relaxation, but also seeks out books that can assist him with such outside interests as cabinet making, photography and gardening.

Mrs. Elva Lewis shares her husband's fondness for gardening. She also paints, sews and does wood carvings, so her non-fiction reading focuses on these interests.

The Lewis daughters both named reading as their favorite hobby.

Molly, who is 15 and a Pampa High School student, also likes to cook, sew and play the piano.

Amy, a 13-year-old junior high school student, lists drawing and playing the piano as her other hobbies.

The Friends presented the Lewis family with a commemorative plaque and a nostalgic pictorial representation of America's inheritance from the small towns entitled, "Hometown, U.S.A.," compiled by the editors of "American Heritage."

BSP Hears Child Abuse

Child Welfare in Texas was discussed during a recent meeting of the Rho Eta Chapter of the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The speaker was John Noyes, social service worker from Borger, who described three types of child abuse including physical, sexual and emotional.

He told the group that child abusers know no economic level. They are found among the wealthy, the poor and the black and white, he said.

Laws make it mandatory for child abuse to be reported. Noyes said failure to do so is a misdemeanor, and conviction leads to a fine.

As citizens, he suggested, that the public could aid by assisting with homes for "lonely and neglected children."

"We can also help these children by becoming aware of their physical injuries, brokenness in spirit and failure to thrive. We should also offer friendship and understanding," he added.

Mrs. Jane Kadingo is the child welfare agent in this area.

Following the program, Vicki Hayes, president, directed a business session during which Connie Holland, membership chairman, announced the preferential tea for pledges on Nov. 9.

A bicentennial recipe book for 1976 has been compiled by the staff at the international office. It features old family recipes from Beta Sigma Phi members.

Borger Pastor To Preach Here

REV. PAUL BURLESON

Hugh Gegan To Preach

Hugh Gegan, director of the Living Waters Gospel Ranch, will deliver the 11 a.m. sermon at the Church of the Brethren, 600 N. Frost. He will be accompanied by some of the boys now living at the ranch. The public is invited.

The Rev. Paul Burleson, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Borger, will lead an eight-day revival at the Hobart Baptist Church, 1100 W. Crawford, according to the Rev. John Hansard, pastor.

Services for the revival, which will run Sunday through Nov. 16, will be 11:55 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Monday - Saturday. Sunday services will be 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

The Rev. Burleson is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist University and Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary. He has served in Oklahoma and Texas churches and is president of Palo Duro Baptist Association Pastor's Conference. He and his wife, Mary, have four children.

Revival music during the week will be provided by Scott Johnson, minister of Education, Youth and Music for Hobart Baptist Church.

Services are open to the public.

Old Time Revival

Religious and inspirational music by the Master's Four, a Dallas-based singing group, will lead off the old time revival and gospel singing at the Hi-Land Christian Church, 1615 N. Banks. The family services will be 7:30 p.m. tonight and Saturday and 10:45 a.m. and 6 p.m. Sunday.

Minister Names Topic

The Rev. Norman D. Dow Jr., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at 525 N. Gray, has announced the sermon topic for Stewardship Sunday, Nov. 9.

The 10:45 a.m. worship service will be "The Results of Gracious Giving" with scriptural text taken from II Corinthians 9:11-12. Elder William J. Chambliss will assist.

The Chancel Choir will sing "Now Thank We All Our God."

under the direction of Mrs. Waneta Hill. Mrs. Doris Goad, church organist, will provide accompaniment.

A training session and lunch for all canvass workers will immediately follow the worship services in the Fellowship Hall. The Christian Education Committee will hold their regular monthly meeting Wednesday in the West Room and choir rehearsal begins at 7 p.m. each Wednesday.

Civil Religion's 'New' Look

By CLAIRE COX
Copley News Service

NEW YORK — Civil religion in America has come under close scrutiny on the eve of the nation's Bicentennial celebration.

Protestants, Roman Catholics and Jews are taking a new look at the common religion of the American way of life as expressed in presidential politics, the absorption of ethnic groups into the melting pot and the celebration of holidays — religious and patriotic. The Watergate scandal figures prominently in the resulting observations.

In preparation for a Philadelphia convention in November, the International Religious Education Association published a symposium on civil religion and education in its journal, Religious Education. The theme of the convention will be "Patriotism, Piety, and Pedagogy: Confronting Civil Religion."

Setting the tone for the discussion, Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, national director of the Interreligious Affairs Department of the American Jewish Committee, identifies civil religion as "the embodiment of central ultimate American values such as belief in progress, the dignity of the individual, social justice, political democracy, religious tolerance, restraint in outward conduct and thrift."

He noted that proponents of civil religion find that its beliefs and ritual systems register on the public consciousness as sensitivity to and appreciation of commonly shared Jewish and Christian values.

nature of the world food crisis and the extent of domestic hunger became increasingly known and publicized, denigration after denigration, across the religious spectrum of Catholic, Orthodox, Protestant and Jew, adopted resolutions on the subject.

Each resolution recognized that old methods of dealing with the food problem were not sufficient and that it was necessary, as the Roman Catholic bishops declared nearly a year ago, to move from charity to justice in the churches' view of aid and development.

Behind each resolution, there also was an unspoken question: What can the person in the pew, the grass roots believer, do to affect policy, to aid the shift from charity to justice?

Bread for the World, headed by the Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, former general secretary of the World Council of Churches; and Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, auxiliary bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Detroit, has come up with a first step in a campaign to involve citizens across the nation in the effort to help shape policy.

The plan involves a nationwide "offering of letters" in the churches this November to be directed at members of Congress in order to demonstrate broad public support for a "right-to-food" resolution introduced in Congress by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., and Rep. Donald Fraser, D-Minn.

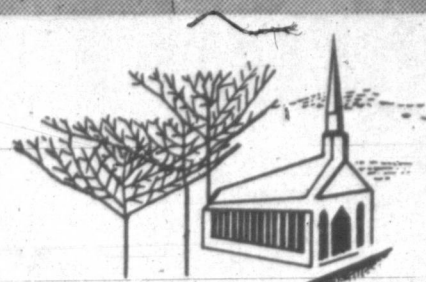

Churches throughout the country will be asked to have members personal letters to their representatives in Congress in support of the resolution and then place the letters in a special collection basket on one of the last three Sundays in November.

"We want enough letters to descend on Congress to show unmistakably what the will of the church is, and what we think the will of the nation should be," said Blake.

The resolution is, of course, only a first step.

READY FOR New CARGO

This ship has been emptied of its cargo, and now stands ready to take on fuel and more cargo for further service. If this ship were to remain empty, it would be of no value and would be failing in the one thing that it was built for.

Man was created to be a companion to God, and when he does not join in worship with God, he is failing in the reason for his creation. Make your life mean something for God...

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Pampa Offensive Line Set for Dons

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

With only one starter back from last year's team and having almost no depth, Pampa High's offensive line appeared to be the team's weak link. But, that was at the start of the season.

The line now has eight games under its belt and it would appear that the down people and ends have vastly improved. The line will be relied upon heavily today, as Pampa will try to unleash a potent running attack against Amarillo Palo Duro at 7:30 p.m. in Harvester Stadium.

There have been no complaints from the running backs about the line's performance. Halfback Ricky Moore has 676 yards and nine touchdowns on 110 carries. Quarterback Garland McPherson has carried 115 times for 459 yards. Halfback Mike Glover and fullback David Caldwell, have 330 and 259 yards, respectively.

Pampa assistant coach Phil Pirkle, a fullback in college, says much of that yardage is due to his offensive line.

"We're better right now at this point of the season than we were last year. We're making fewer mistakes and, all in all, we're more aggressive than we were last year."

"If you take us by size, weight and experience, we're not as good, but there's a heckuva lot of difference looking at a team (offensive line) on paper than looking at them on the field."

Pirkle still gives credit to the backs. "One thing about our backs is all four of them are very unselfish people. There's no doubt that Moore, Glover, Caldwell and McPherson are excellent running backs — those guys can score."

"They do an excellent job of blocking for each other. They complement each other real well. Consequently, they're easier to block for. And, they're very appreciative of the line's blocking."

Joe Coats (205 pounds) is the returning starter, at right guard. "He's real aggressive," Pirkle said. "His experience has very definitely helped him. He does a good job helping us adjust the offensive linemen." The other guard is Tommy Doggett (180). Pirkle grouped him and left tackle Jim Crocker (190) together in a summation of the two.

"When you talk about one of those guys, you need to talk about both of them. They work together well. I don't think we've had one breakdown on blocking on their side all year."

"They've worked together and they know what each other can do best. We're pretty right-handed and Crocker and Doggett are on the left side. We do need to run to their side more — they do a good job blocking."

"We're gonna have a hit Palo Duro on both sides."

On the other side of the line are Coats and right tackle Ben Wilson, a 225-pound junior.

"Benny moves good for a big player. Benny has improved these last two weeks as much as anybody on the team."

About the right side, Pirkle said, "What they do best is come off the ball. They're both big strong players."

Center David Skoog (185) will have the unenviable task of blocking Palo Duro's big all-state noseguard, Wesley Roberts (240).

"I think Skoog can block him. I thought David Hampton did a good job blocking him last year. David's (Hampton) gonna have to be extremely aggressive and persistent. He's looking forward to it. It's gonna be a challenge. "I think Roberts has all-American caliber. He's big and strong and real quick."

Pampa's ends are Gary Steel on the tight side and Jerry Rhoades and Mike Hunnicutt alternating on the wide side.

Receiver coach Honnie White says the ends are will be used for blocking purposes more tonight than receiving.

"We won't pass unless we have to," White said. "We're a running offense — that's what we do best."

"I think Rhoades is probably one of the better ones in the league. Steel does a good job blocking and receiving. Hunnicutt is a scrappy-type kid."

Oilers To Challenge Steelers

United Press International
The Pittsburgh Steelers, whose defense was awesome last season, especially in the playoffs and the Super Bowl, Sunday take on a young Houston club that has given up even fewer points this season.

Houston's 79 points allowed is tied with Los Angeles for the best in the National Football League, with Pittsburgh right behind at 85.

Both clubs are 6-1 and in a three-way tie with Cincinnati for the American Conference Central Division lead. Also significant is that fact that the 6-1 mark is the equal of Miami, the AFC East leader, and better than AFC West leader Oakland's 4-2, opening all sorts of wild card possibilities.

Pittsburgh has won five in a row, one short of its club record.

Youth Center League Needing Some Teams

The first organizational meeting for the Youth Center's basketball leagues in the men's and women's divisions was held Wednesday.

Attending the meeting were eight men's and four women's teams. There is still a need for a few more teams in each division and also for some individual players for each team, according to George Smith, director of the center.

"If anyone has an organized team, whether in town or out of town, and did not get to attend the meeting, he needs to contact me as soon as possible. Or anyone desires to play on a team, he needs to contact me at the Youth Center."

Entry deadline for the pre-season tournament to be held Nov. 19-26 is Nov. 12, with entry fee being $20.00. Entry deadline for the league is Nov. 24.

while Houston, under first-year Coach Bum Phillips, has won four straight since its only loss, by two-points to Cincinnati.

The Steelers had problems with Houston's unorthodox three linemen-four linebacker defense last season, gaining only 84 yards against the Oilers' in Pittsburgh's final loss last year.

The Steelers, however, do have more offense this year. They had problems at quarterback last season and weren't settled until near the end of the year when Terry Bradshaw took over to lead the club through the playoffs. Franco Harris is third in the AFC in rushing with 502 yards and Bradshaw ranks No. 2 in passing. Lynn Swann is tied for third in receiving.

Houston's offense has been upgraded with the addition of Don Hardeman, the No. 1 draft pick from Texas A&M. Hardeman ranks fifth in rushing with 435 yards. Dan Pastorini also is having a fine season at quarterback and Billy "White Shoes" Johnson has been the big offense gamebreaker with his exciting returns.

Lynx Junior Varsity Crushes PHS Sophs

SPEARMAN — Spearman's junior varsity scored twice in the first quarter and twice in the third to hand the Pampa's sophomores their first loss of the season, 26-0 Thursday here.

The loss closes out Pampa's season with a 6-1 record.

"We didn't play good," Pampa coach Curtis Didway said. "We couldn't move the ball and they got after us. The effort was good — we just couldn't get there."

"It was a great season for them. They won about two games as freshmen last year. Plus the fact, we were playing some of them on the junior varsity — we had a lot of young kids playing."

Pampa Dumps Shorthorns 24-14

By PAUL SIMS
Sports Editor

Quarterback Mike Lancaster scored two first-half touchdowns, as the Pampa Shockers jumped out to a 16-0 lead, then held on for a 24-14 win over the Caprock Shorthorns in junior varsity football action Thursday night in Harvester Stadium.

The win gives Pampa a 6-3 season record, while Caprock ends its season at 3-7. The Shockers wind up against Borger next week in Harvester Stadium.

Lancaster gave Pampa 6-0 lead with a one-yard sprint right tackle with 8:45 left in the first quarter. The Pampa quarterback was tackled short of the goal line on the try for the conversion.

Pampa had taken over on the Caprock 35 after a 16-yard kick by the Shorthorns, who gave up the ball on third down. Eddy Keller ran four yards and Levi Bailey 13 and 12 yards prior to Lancaster's touchdown.

After Charles Gopeland gave Pampa the ball with a fumble recovery on Caprock's 32, the Shockers drove to the 11 but lost the ball on downs. Four Caprock plays later, Randy Ford blocked Bobby Dunn's punt, which rolled through the end zone for a safety, as Pampa led 8-0 at 3:04.

Caprock kicked off and the Shockers, behind a 21-yard return by Bailey, took over on the visitors' 43. Lancaster scored five plays later on a two-yard run off left tackle with 43 seconds left in the half. Lancaster ran over the conversion.

Neither team was able to move the ball consistently in the third period.

Caprock started a drive on Pampa's 42 with 1:47 left in the quarter and scored 11 plays later as Terry Daniels dived over from the one with 9:54 left in the game.

Quarterback Jim Patrick passed to split end Kent Kilian for the conversion, which trimmed Pampa's lead to 16-8. Caprock kicked off and recovered Lancaster's fumble on the return at Pampa's 31. The Shorthorns marched to the 12 but lost the ball on downs as a 12-yard pass to Doug Adams was two yards shy of a first down.

Keller ran 24 yards to the 36 but fumbled, as Caprock recovered. Four plays later, Patrick lofted a 23-yard touchdown pass to Kilian.

Daniels dropped a pass on the conversion attempt as Pampa held a two-point advantage with 5:34 left in the game.

The Shockers, behind a 15-yard roughing — the kicker penalty against Caprock, a 17-yard run by Keller and a 12-yard scamper by Lancaster, marched from their own 38 in for the score. Keller capped the 11-play drive, bursting five yards off right yard for the touchdown with 39 seconds left in the game.

Lancaster added two points on the conversion.

Leading rusher in the game was Bailey, with 15 carries for 106 yards. He had 99 yards in the first half.

Keller carried 17 times for 81 yards, while Lancaster added 12 rushes for 62.

Pampa outtrushed the Shorthorns 244-92, but the visitors held a 59-0 passing-yardage advantage. Patrick connected on four of 12 passes, while Lancaster's only attempt was intercepted.

Caprock's leading ball carrier was Daniels with 64 yards on 17 attempts. Corky Moore had 44 yards on 15 tries.

Ford, a linebacker, was in on several tackles. Linebackers Steve Harwood and Bobby Taylor and defensive backs Steve Spencer and Steve Hancock also played key parts in Pampa's defensive success.

Caprock tackle Jeff Jones and Patrick, a defensive back, stopped Pampa ball carriers on numerous occasions.

Pampa Volleyer

Jan Johnson serves for Pampa, which lost 9-15, 12-10, 15-3, to Amarillo High Thursday in Harvester Fieldhouse. Pampa, 16-5 for the season, is 2-2 in the second half of district play and meets Borger in the season finale Tuesday in Borger.

Red Whips Perryton To Wind Up Season

Pampa Junior High's eighth-grade Red team crushed Perryton 30-0 to close out its season, with a 6-2 record Thursday at Shocker Field.

In other games involving PHT teams, the ninth varsity lost to Borger 14-8, the ninth B-team fell to Canyon 28-6 and the eighth lost to Dumas 14-6.

Pampa Junior High head coach Dickie Crockett praised the eighth-grade coaches.

"Coach Steve Porter and Gary Tipton have done a tremendous job with the Red team. Pete Erwin and Mike Brent need to be recognized for their hard work with the Blue team."

"They closed out the season with a 2-6-0 mark. The record can be very deceiving. You have to remember that we split the eighth grade into two teams and the other schools we play don't."

"I would like to commend all the players for their hard work and effort."

Concerning the freshman varsity, 2-6-2 for the season, Crockett said, "I really feel that our record does not show what Pampa has coming up for the Harvesters. We have some good athletes in this class."

"If anyone is to blame for our record, I guess I am. They will do okay in high school."

The varsity will meet Canyon next week in Canyon.

About the freshman junior varsity, the Pampa coach said, "Coach Mark McMinn and Bob Young have done a very good job. Some of the B-team players have been moved up to fill in for injured players on the A-team."

The JV ended its regular season with a 2-2-0 record.

Aggies To Visit West Texas State

CANYON, Tex. (UPI) — The New Mexico State Aggies have alot going for them Saturday as they try to come up with their first winning season since 1967. They are on the road, playing under the sun and taking on an opponent they have embarrassed the past two years.

NMSU, needing one more win to assure itself of no worse than a 6-5 record, will meet West Texas State in a Missouri Valley Conference game matching up a pair of wishbone-oriented teams.

The Aggies, currently 5-3 for the year, have beaten the Buffaloes 56-14 and 41-0 the last two years and the series between the two teams had traditionally produced some very lopsided results.

Groom Pops Booker 54-8

GROOM — Quarterback Bimbo Bivens scored three touchdowns, including one on an 80-yard kickoff return at the start of the third period, to lead Groom to a 54-8 win over Booker in a District 1-B game that was expected to be much closer Thursday here.

Groom meets Lefors next week in Groom. The Tiger could win the District 1-B championship outright with a victory.

White Wants Mail Registration

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Secretary of State Mark White says a new law allowing registration by mail would solve many of the problems that surfaced in this week's constitutional revision election. White, the state's chief election officer, said Thursday his office had received many complaints from persons not allowed to vote because they had been purged from registration lists. Other complaints came from persons who failed to change registration when they moved to new precincts, he said in a Capitol news conference.

The mail-registration statute, however, is blocked by a federal suit, and state officials have been enjoined from mailing out registration forms pending a hearing before a three-judge panel.

White said the voter statements were received via a toll-free telephone service set up to receive complaints. Texas was placed under the Federal Voting Rights Act this year because of allegations of discrimination in elections, although White and Gov. Dolph Briscoe contended there was no need for the law.

"If a person was discriminated against in any fashion, he could have been in touch with me personally in five minutes," White said. "We have not received one single complaint of any discrimination in this election out of 1.1 million votes cast — no discrimination and no coercion."

'Air in Major Cities Not Safe to Breathe'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Little has been done to rid America's cities of dangerous auto pollution and unless major changes are made, the problem may never be brought under control, an Environmental Protection Agency official said today.

Deputy EPA chief John Quarles noted that 1975 was the year when, under the Environmental Protection Act of 1970, "America was supposed to have clean air."

But, he said, "the hard truth is that things are not much better... (and) the air over our major cities is still not safe to breathe. Unless some major changes are made, auto pollution may never be brought under control in this country."

In a speech prepared for a Boston public transportation conference and released in Washington, Quarles said the nation missed its clean air deadline primarily because U.S.

dependence on the automobile did not slacken.

His harshest criticism was reserved for U.S. circuit court rulings in San Francisco, the District of Columbia and Richmond, Va., that said the EPA lacks authority to make states set up and operate pollution control programs.

"Emission controls on new automobiles are not enough," Quarles said. "To achieve the primary (anti-pollution) standards, we must cut back on our use of the automobile itself."

"We have made some progress, but not a great deal," he said. "But now, even the little progress which has been made is in jeopardy. A series of circuit court rulings... may bring these efforts to a virtual standstill."

Quarles said that in 1972, EPA was required by federal courts to hurriedly create mandatory anti-pollution programs to reduce automobile use in states which had failed to develop their own plans. Because the courts set tight deadlines, he said, there was no chance of local participation, and "we made a number of mistakes." The most restrictive plan would have cut Los Angeles car traffic by 86 per cent, a goal set by the court.

"The same courts which marched us up the hill three years ago are now demanding that we march down again," he said. "Unfortunately, the basic problem remains."

Blood pressure readings urged

More Americans should have their blood pressure checked regularly, says Dr. Ray W. Gifford of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation. He even encourages patients to take their own blood pressure readings at home.

Bailey To Do 'God's Work'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pearl Bailey says she is quitting show business after 40 years to do "God's work."

"I must turn to God's work, singing in hospitals or something like that," she told a tear-filled Broadway audience Thursday night on the opening night of her return performance as Dolly Levi in "Hello, Dolly!"

With a hushed cast behind her, she bade farewell to New York first-nighters with "I'll Take Manhattan."

For the fourth time during the evening she received a standing ovation.

Then the crowd filtered out of the Minskoff Theatre onto Broadway, recalling the times they had stood and cheered for Mae Bailey, the little girl who came out of Newport News, Va., and Philadelphia to sing with the prewar big bands, and become the toast of the town in 1946 in "St. Louis Woman," the star of the film "Carmen Jones," the recording star, the nightclub favorite of London and a dozen American cities.

Above all, they will remember her in the role they saw her in last, which she first sang in 1967 and has hardly stopped singing since.

She got the first ovation Thursday night for the famous "Hello, Dolly!" number in the second act, another after the repeat which she cannot escape (and never tries), and the third at the final curtain.

After the cheering died down, the 57-year-old performer — as she always does — invited the audience to stay a while and have a party.

Then she sprang the surprise announcement: she is calling it quits at the height of her career, and will not accept any future shows after "Hello, Dolly!" finishes its six-week run here and then closes in Washington.

RR May Block Pipeline

HOUSTON (UPI) — Proposals of building pipelines to carry coal say legislation is needed to keep railroads from blocking construction of the slurry pipelines.

Gulf Interstate Engineering Co. of Houston and Northwest Pipeline Co. of Salt Lake City, Utah, have been studying a proposal for a year to build an 1,100-mile slurry line from the Powder River Basin area of Wyoming to Borden, Ore., but congressional action must come first, the official said.

Harry Eaton, vice president of Gulf Interstate Engineering, Wednesday said the pipeline, which would cost $300-500 million, would have to cross several railroads and the railroads won't allow it because of competition.

"Our problem today is the lack of the right of eminent domain for right-of-way acquisition," Eaton said. "Without that right, one of these large cross-country coal slurry pipelines may not be possible because of the necessity to cross certain railroads."

"And they're railroads unwilling to negotiate crossing permits. Not so much because of the chance of losing present business, but because of future business."

All Voted

GRAEAGLE, Calif. (UPI) — Residents of this Sierra Nevada community can boast of a 100 per cent voter turnout.

All eight voters went to the polls Tuesday, approving a $1 maximum tax rate on a 5-3 tally.

Eaton said studies have shown the pipelines, which would carry coal suspended in water, can compete with railroads on transportation costs and move the coal much faster. He said the pipelines would be common carriers just like railroads.

"The consumers would make their own purchases from the producers and tender the coal to us for transportation," he said. He said the Senate passed a bill in 1974 granting the right of eminent domain to coal slurry lines, and the House is now considering four bills on the subject.

Eaton said the earliest the pipeline could be in operation is the early 1980s. He said two routes are being considered. One would be 1,100 miles from the Powder River Basin area near Gillette, Wyo., south through the southwestern part of the state and then north to Borden, Ore. The other is a direct 800-mile line from the Powder River Basin to Borden.

From Borden, the coal would be shipped by barge along the Columbia River to major industrial consumers presently using natural gas for fuel. Eaton said many of the industries will have to switch to some other fuel such as coal because of declining availability of natural gas in that area.

COP DECORATED

CARACAS, Venezuela (UPI) — The communications ministry has given a decoration to a transit policeman who was ordered arrested after sticking a traffic violation decal on the windshield of a woman judge's illegally parked automobile.

The policeman, Consolacion Rosales, was arrested upon the orders of the judge, Mrs. Evelia Acosta de Rondon, who accused him of being disrespectful when she questioned the infraction.

What Makes Gasoline Cost So Much?

By RICHARD HUGHES
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The motorist "has a legitimate concern" about the rising price of gasoline, the American Petroleum Institute says.

"The price of gasoline has been rising over the past two or three years and, quite frankly, the motorist wonders why," the API said.

"Are the oil companies ripping him off at the pump? What about those windfall profits he's been reading about? Are they the reason the price has risen?"

No, said the API in a recent report breaking down where every penny of the price of a gallon of regular goes — a procedure it notes is difficult to do with any precision.

API said actual costs vary substantially among oil companies for a number of reasons: type of crude used, where it comes from and at what price; refinery efficiency; transportation and marketing factors among others. To break out one product — in this case motor gasoline — from the many products made from crude oil in the refinery stream can result at best in a "guesstimate," the API said.

Bearing all this in mind, it offers the following:

Out of a hypothetical gallon of regular gasoline costing 58.7 cents at the pump, the API said, the oil company makes an average of 2 cents profit, also hypothetical, but a "ballpark figure, based on government estimates and company testimony." The profit margin, it said, has remained constant for several years, before as well as after the Arab oil boycott and the 400 per cent increase in the cost of foreign crude.

In fact, said the API, federal and state governments take six times as much in taxes as the companies earn in profits.

The API noted in using the profit figure of 2 cents per gallon that, while Exxon has reported making that much, Standard of California says it earns 1.5 cents, Mobil 1.4 cents, and Phillips Petroleum and Texaco one cent.

"This profit may be derived from the sale of crude oil, from marketing operations, or from a combination of operations in the production, refining and marketing areas, depending on the individual company," the API explained.

The largest single piece of the pie is the 21.5 cents, or 36.7 per cent of the total, that goes to cover the cost of crude oil at the wellhead, according to the API. The next largest chunk is the 12 cents, or 20.4 per cent of the total, for state and federal taxes. The federal excise tax is 4 cents per gallon. While state taxes vary, the API assumed an average of 8 cents per gallon in its calculations.

The third largest piece of the 58.7-cent pie is the 10.7 cents, or 18.2 per cent, that goes to the dealer "to cover his operating costs at the service station and, hopefully, "a profit for his endeavors."

According to the API breakdown, 7 cents, or 11.9 per cent, covers transportation costs: two cents for transportation of crude to the refinery, three cents for moving gasoline to the terminal, and another two cents to get it from the terminal to the service station.

The API also figures 4.5 cents, 7.7 per cent, covers oil company marketing costs, and 3 cents, or 5.1 per cent, refinery operations and maintenance.

The end result, the API said, is a profit of about two cents a gallon to the oil companies.

"A little over 3 per cent went to the oil company for getting the entire job done — from finding the oil all the way to delivering the gasoline to the customer's tank."

HONG KONG (UPI) — A conservation drive in China's Kansu Province saved 80 million kilowatt hours of electricity, more than 170,000 tons of coal and 2,000 tons of steel materials during the first six months of 1975.

Your Horoscope

By Jean Dixon

SATURDAY, NOV. 8

Your birthday today: Organized pursuit of dream-like goals governs your whole year, with astounding moments of success when least expected. Diversification is favored; it's unfeasible to stick to narrow specialties. Any ventures involving theatrical techniques promise to thrive. Relationships evolve to fit changing conditions. Today's natives are not as determined as most Scorpions, prefer aesthetic or artistic fields.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Joint finances are up for examination and debate. Children create issues, some of which you can influence only indirectly. Don't sign contracts or make promises. Try for a lighter mood.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Circumstances foster bickering. You can relieve most of the pressure if you run a round of errands and take time out for a visit or two.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Strike compromises in existing conflicts and adjust to current situations. Caution continues to be essential. Leave unfamiliar machinery to experts.

Cancer [June 21-July 2]: Operate on the premise that today can be peaceful and productive. Smooth out differences among friends and invite some for a small party. Be thrifty since no bargains are likely.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Home conditions are subject to external influences. Everyone has a slightly different idea of what is best. Don't react in haste. Travel isn't favored. Get extra rest.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Be consistent, and proceed with plans until there's a real reason to change. Reach an understanding with people who have needs similar to yours. Romance runs a quiet, offstage course.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: If you stay clear of fast moves and the well-meant but poor advice of friends, today helps you move along to a more prosperous life. In reporting your progress, leave out the details.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Money management and business are under reasonable control. You are still concerned about distant matters and clashes among friends and backers. Don't lose time or sleep over them. Stay busy.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: By practicing goodwill and persistence, you're able to get a long-standing question answered positively now. Tidy up the local scene. Travel doesn't bring desired results.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: You have everything going for you if you just continue to use moderate methods and maintain a steady pace. Advance personal projects. Collect scattered belongings. Reorganize your work areas.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Use today for a special period of rest and relaxation from recent action. Shared pastimes help confirm a growing friendship. Call it quits early.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Focus on the situation and people at hand rather than on faraway places and false stories. Improvise temporary arrangements for a series of sudden events.
