Utility Managers Omit Comment Due to Absence From City

A camplaint that service afforded by the Southwestern Bell Telephone company here was not satisfactory and of the typ ea city of this size had a right to expect was made Saturday noon at the regular meeting of the Wichita Falls Real Estate board as a result appointment of a committee to consider the matter and report next week on what action the board should take, if any, was made.

The request that the board take action was understood to have come from an outside source. When it was broached from the floor a number of the realtors indicated that their telephone service was unsatisfactory. They expressed belief that remedy of some kind should be sought.

At the conclusion President W. S. Curlee named a committee to consider the complaints and recommend the board's future course.

Alleged Confidence Men Indicted, After Arrest By Police On Tips By Printer

Three felony indictments, one charging forgery; one charging forgery and passing a forged instrument; and one charging conspiracy to commit a felony, were returned Saturday afternoon by the 30th district court grand jury against A. Hilgarten of Fort Worth, New York city and various other points. Hilgarten was one of two alleged confidence men arrested here August 15 on the eve of what officers said was a carefully laid plot to operate in high finances on bogus checks of the First National bank of Portales, N. M. Hilgarten has been in the county jail since his arrest.

The defendant and a companion were jailed by the city police department after they had placed an order with a local printing company for a large number of cashier's checks, drafts and counter checks of the New Mexico bank. The printer, becoming suspicious, notified the police who raided the hotel rooms of the pair and seized additional papers they said were valuable.

The case will be called by Judge H. R. Wilson of the thirtieth district court, for which a special venire of 200 men has been summoned.

The case was called once before but was continued for the time being because of absence of a material defense witness. It is understood the trial will proceed when started tomorrow.

Y BUILDING IS A STEP NEARER LEADERS SAY

Meeting at Club Saturday Discusses Plans for Movement

SURVEY PLANNED

Committee Determines to Separate Structure From Auditorium

At a meeting of the provisional committee of the Y. M. C. A. for Wichita Falls, held at the Wichita club Saturday noon, Urban Williams, secretary of the Y. M. C. A.'s of Texas, was requested to make a survey of local needs looking to permanent organization and a modern building in the near future.

This provisional committee is represented by the following: Walter Cline, chairman; James Allison, J. W. Culbertson, J. C. Hunt, Mayor H. E. Shepherd and J. C. Mytinger. It was the sense of this group that the movement should be divorced from the city auditorium project, as previously discussed, and combine with the Y. W. C. A. in a joint finance effort. The buildings probably to be separate structures.

The committee was unanimous in their opinion that due to the present prosperity in this section, the great need for the provision of adequate facilities of this character for the young people of the community, that the next few months promise to be a desirable time to press the needs of the youth of Wichita Falls to a final conclusion.

Mr. Williams stated that he would secure the services of a representative of the national building bureau to visit here with him for survey purposes and present to the local committee at as early a date as possible a report on the building needs for the Y. M. C. A. It is assumed that representatives of the Y. W. C. A. will move along similar lines.

The amount of money needed for these two projects was not discussed inasmuch as that cannot be determined until careful studies and estimates are made by both organizations. Neither can the exact date of the campaign be set at this time, but with all the preliminary work necessary, probably could not be adequately prepared for and conducted before February or early March of 1926.

"The Open Water Ditch"

Editor's note: Because publication in Wichita Falls has been made of the charge that arguments for closing the open water ditch from Lake Wichita to the city water plant is nothing but propaganda, the Record News is printing a series of articles setting forth the conditions surrounding this ditch that readers may determine for themselves whether or not the ditch should be closed. Following is the second of the series.

AGAIN there is a vast body of water in the lake to that in the open ditch. Filth entering the lake is greatly diluted compared to a like amount entering the ditch.

Daily tests are made at the water department to determine the degree of purification, but it takes .4 hours to make them so that by the time a test shows bad water this same water may have traveled clear out to Floral Heights were your children have been drinking it. Of course, if the plant was 100 per cent perfect at all times there would be no pollution pass, but no plant ever built for commercial use has even functioned perfectly all the time.

The chlorine dosage may be set to take care of an excess amount of bacteia shown to exist according to the last tests but a great excess may come down the ditch at any time and it may not be taken care of. If not you will be drinking it in a day or so.

The pollution coming from the lake water is not subject to the same violent fluctuations as we have already explained. As a result there is less likelihood of a sudden mass of filth increasing the amount of death dealing bacteria at the water plant and less chance of some of them getting by and being in your drinking water. With a pipe line from the lake to the plant there will be far less chance of your catching typhoid next season.

So much for the question of filth and death dealing bacteria in Lake Wichita, the open ditch and our drinking water.

Let us talk dollars, just dollars, dollars in each ones pocketbook. Let us see if a pipe line would pay, pay in savings, and pay in direct money return to each one of us.

The water that comes down Holliday creek is soft. Holliday creek fills Lake Wichita. For 20 years or more, this city used nothing else but soft water. The water of the Wichita River is hard, very hard. Lake Kemp is fed by the Wichita. Gypsum and lime are present in great abundance. This makes it a very desirable water for irrigation but equally undesirable for domestic use or for use in power or manufacturing. It may even be bad for health as a number of our our local physicians think that it has caused an increase in kidney trouble in children.

Lake Kemp water is over 18 times as hard as Holliday creek water and would therefore, require 18 times as much soap to make it lather. Just keep this matter of comparative hardness in mind as we will come back to it again.

The present open ditch serves not only the water plant but it is also an irrigation ditch which serves a great body of irrigated land along Holliday creek south and east of town. The only way these lands can be irrigated as things now stand is from Lake Wichita through this ditch.

During the irrigation season about four times as much water is taken from the lake for irrigation purposes as is used by the city. With this tremendous drain on the lake it must be filled from time to time by running in hard water from Lake Kemp. This causes the water in Lake Wichita to become hard and as both irrigation water and domestic water must flow down the open ditch together we here in the city are forced to use hard water.

The city uses about a billion gallons of water in a year. Lake Wichita when full holds something over four billion gallons. So if it never rained a drop and we do not consider evaporation there would be enough soft water to last over four years. Weather bureau records show that no four year period has ever elapsed without enough rain falling to fill the lake.

Now if we are to make full use of this ample supply of soft water all we have to do is to quit using it for irrigation, cease running Lake Kemp water into it and provide some way to get it down to the water plant without mixing it with any hard Lake Kemp water.

TRUETT URGES SERVICE FIRST TEST OF LIFE

Nationally Known Baptist Leader Before University Club Here

"What the world needs is service, and it is agreed by college men and women that the test of life may be summed up in the one word, 'service,'" declared Dr. George W. Truett of Dallas, nationally known speaker, in an address to the members of the University club at the Kemp Hotel Saturday at the regular noon luncheon.

"Only by service can men and women vindicate their faith and great believers are great doers—faith is a passion. You cannot keep the world from following such leaders as those who serve," he said.

"The glory of life is to do a good work well," Truett declared in speaking of service that college or university men and women could do in the world.

"President Wilson said in an address to an University club in Philadelphia in one of the last speeches he ever made that the university and college people had added responsibilities of what goes on in the social order. The club to give its best, is to assist those causes which make for human good.

"The University club can play a momentous part in the tone and temper of the city," and Dr. Truett spoke of the civic clubs as an asset to the city.

"One of the most important assets in the higher and better life of the city is this club. The University club and the other civic organizations are mighty in welding into friendship the life of the city."

Judge J. S. Dickey, president of the club, presided at the meeting. He announced the speakers who are coming to the University club this year, and among them are Dr. W. M. W. Splawn, president of University of Texas; Dr. W. R. Bizzell, president of Oklahoma University; those from the political arena are Ex-Governor Pat M. Neff, Sen. J. Weldon Bailey; Lynch Davidson; philanthropy and business; Harry Rogers, Nathan Adams; Sidney L. Samuels, Cullen F. Thomas, Dr. Woods, Dr. Terrell, Dr. Carrie Weaver Smith, Ted Dealy, Louis Worthan, Dr. Nat E. Grafton, Dr. Fred T. Datson, Morris Shepherd.

Mrs. Hermione Stewart Vaughn entertained with a number of pleasing vocal solos, with piano accompaniment by Miss Emma Nala Voss.

C. A. Rogers gave a brief talk on current events, and Miss Ruth Palmer gave the book review.

State Highway Records Probed By Dan Moody

AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—(AP) Records of the state highway department were inspected personally by Attorney General Dan Moody here today. For several hours he studied the minute books of the commission, and made columinous notes, but he refused to say what his purpose is.

It has been known for some time that the attorney general has been investigating the activities of the highway commission.

Sherman & Youmans, Harris county highway maintenance contractors, today were paid $21,000 by the state for work in Galveston county, Moody said. The attorney general stuck to his reading, even after all the clerks of the highway department had departed for the regular half holiday.

Makes No Statement.

Asked if he were interested in the contract awarded some particular construction company, Moody said "I don't care to make a statement."

When Moody asked Eugene T. Smith, secretary, for the minute book, the secretary readily produced the heavy volume from a desk in his office, and invited the attorney general into the office of Frank V. Lanham, chairman of the commission, where Moody sat for hours.

State officials did not violate temporary injunction granted by Judge Walter Monteith of Harris county district court against expenditure of state funds on the Sherman & Youmans contract, when Friday a highway department warrant of approximately $21,000 was cashed by Sherman & Youmans, Moody said. He explained this money was for Galveston county work, and that Judge Monteith had ruled the temporary injunction did not apply to Galveston county work performed by Sherman & Youmans.

Listed Improperly.

The Galveston county item was improperly listed in petition for the injunction brought by Harris county taxpayers seeking to restrain payment of approximately $74,000 on Sherman & Youmans' contract.

W. G. Love of Houston, attorney who represented the commission in the Harris county injunction suit was in Austin, but refused to divulge the nature of his business.

GRAND JURORS REFUSE TO SEE SISSON CASE LIKE ALLRED

Former Druggist Not Intoxicated When Killed, Is Verdict

BILLS RETURNED

Vote Felony Indictment and Misdemeanor for Neglegent Homicide

The grand jury of the Thirtieth district court decided yesterday that, in case D. L. Tipton was found guilty of killing Ray Sisson with his automobile on the night of August 2, all the punishment he ought to get for it was three years, and perhaps a fine of $3,000, both of these punishments, of course, being maximum.

Although the district attorney's office, by its own admission, worked hard to get a sererer indictment, this is what the body ordained:

That Tipton should be tried on a misdemeanor charge, alleging negligent homicide.

That Tipton should be tried on a felony charge, alleging failure to stop and render aid to an injured person.

Sisson was run down and instantly killed as he was repairing a tire on his automobile at a point about four miles west of town on the Seymour road.

A complaint had been filed against Tipton by the district attorney's office alleging driving a motor car while intoxicated, but the grand jury returned no indictment on this charge.

Capiases for Tipton's arrest had not been issued last night but he will probably appear and be given opportunity to make bond Monday. Bonds in small amount will suffice for each of the charges, it was said. No recommendations were made by the grand jury as to what amounts should be set.

Tipton will face trial on the negligent homicide case in the county court at law and under the statutes can not be imprisoned for more than three years, fined more than $3,000, or both. The felony indictment for failure to stop and render aid is a district court case and under it a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment in the state penitentiary or a fine of $5,000 can be assessed.

Following the crash in which Sisson was killed, his heirs brought civil action for damages against Tipton and in a court hearing were awarded approximately $4,000.

These Cops Don't Chase Bandits But They Save Many Lives Here

NOT long ago there appeared in Wichita Falls a moving picture featuring Milton Sills in the "Making of O'Malley," when as Officer Tim he helped the school children across the street. Perhaps Wichitans do not realize that this city has Officer Tims who every day assist hundreds of little Wichitans across the streets keeping them unhurt through the heavy traffic in certain sections of the town.

Out at Tenth and Van Buren where the traffic on the cross streets is extremely crowded during the hours the little folk must report to school there are stationed our Officers Tims, K. B. Kinsner and Joe Pepsky; Clyde Bentley and Bill Lay, these four working in groups of two; and Arthur Haigwood who works alone. They take turns at the work in intervals of every two weeks. Their duties are to stop the traffic while these little citizens make their way safely, secure from the heavy automobiles and trucks that rush swiftly up and down.

"Come right on," is the call frequently heard where the policeman is aiding the children to cross in the traffic. And then the youngsters look to the uniformed officer, who is their hero, thank him or smile at him, and run, for they believe that it is only right to get across the street as quickly as possible.

"All traffic looks out for the babies," declared one of the officers as he stopped automobiles and allowed the children time to pass. "Occasionally there are drivers who show no consideration for the little ones, but they are few. The children have right of way over the traffic," and here he waved his hand to stop the cars so that a group of youngsters returning home from school might pass.

"He's a nice policeman," grinned a small lad, as he looked in all directions, tucked his cap on a little tighter, and ran.

The policemen at the corner of Van Buren and Tenth are the school children's friend. A group of youngsters had come from school together and had passed the bulk of the traffic. Then came a little blond, curly headed girl. Big automobiles, little ones and others waited as the officer gave the signal. The little girl started, but when she reached the middle of the street, she stopped.

"Howdy," she smiled as she looked up at the big man. He did not hear her, as he looked about for other children.

"Howdy," she called again a little louder, and when the "Officer Jim" smiled at her, she ran swiftly away, smiling her appreciation as she went.

"I got run over onet," grinned an eight-year-old boy with a big front tooth out, "but that was before the policeman came," he added, and he laughed as he saw it was time for him to go.

"Yeaw, he did, but I never did, and I'm not goin' to, either," called his companion, as the two made their way across.

There are small children in school, and to look at them, their skinny little limbs showing above their socks, you wonder just how they get along staying the day at school without their mothers. Because of their smallness, and their fear, it is necessary for the policeman to lead some of them across the streets. They offer him a hand and without a doubt as to their safety, go with him across the street.

The officers are on duty at Tenth and Van Buren from 8 to 9:15 o'clock in the mornings when the children in great groups throng to school; from 11:45 to 1:45, which takes in the noon hour; from 2:45 to 4 when school is dismissed for the day.

Street Work Is Held Up by Rain

Grading work on city streets has been practically knocked out by the rains of the last week and proposed paving matters have accordingly been delayed. Unpaved streets generally in the city are in bad condition after the showers but the street department hopes that with fair weather the coming few days the most seriously impaired stretches may be remedied.

COUNCIL MEET MONDAY TO BE BUSY AFFAIR

Two Weeks' Accumulation Of Work Faces Commissioners

With a two weeks' accumulation of business to be dispensed with, the city council meeting Monday night promises to be a long and busy one. No meeting was held last Monday night out of deference to Mayor R. E. Shepherd who was snowed under with work while the Texas-Oklahoma fair was running.

Paving matters will require considerable attention with public hearings scheduled for three or four projects, one or two new petitions to be received and opening of bids and awarding of contracts to be attended to on others.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The cotton market was fairly active for a short Saturday session and prices were reactionary mainly owing to the fact that the predicted killing frost and freezing in the northwestern portion of the belt failed to materialize although the temperatures dropped to 24, producing light frost over a wide area. After opening 22 to 41 points down, owing to selling by yesterday's buyers and the frost scare the market continued to ease off until prices showed losses compared with the previous day of 39 to 41 points. The market then rallied 15 points on evening up and covering for over the double holiday as there will be no trading Monday, which is a legal holiday, Columbus day.

Prices turned easy at the end and the close showed net losses of 31 to 36 points.

At the start the tone was easy and first trades showed losses of 22 to 31 points and prices continued to ease off after the opening call until December traded down to 20.58, January 20.58 and March 20.65.

The market rallied towards the end of the first four recovering about 15 points with January at 20.73 and March at 20.80 the buying being due to covering over the double holiday. In the final trading, however, the market eased off againalthough the early lows were not reached.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The cotton market's improvement yesterday was about lost in today's trading owing to a less favorable weather map than expected with a renewal of liquidation and hedge selling. December broke to 21.32 and closed at 21.33, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 39 to 43 points.

The opening was steady at a net decline of 21 to 38 points under reselling by yesterday's buyers who were evidently disappointed by failure of the early weather news to indicate killing frosts at more than a few points in the belt. Selling also developed on relatively easy Liverpool cables and it seemed there had been some accumulation of hedging overnight. These early offerings were absorbed by covering of shorts and trade buying, but forenoon rallies of a few points met increased offerings which seemed to come largely from the south. Last prices were at about the lowest levels of the day. October sold off to 21.40 and January to 20.56.

The mid-morning rallies were promoted by the forecasts for frosts in northern sections of the eastern belt and reports that many of the contracts sold on the opening decline had been purchased for the trade account. Aside from this, the demand was attributed chiefly to week-end covering and the market held very sensitive to selling orders in late trading.

Liverpool cables reported Manchester and continental selling in the market there, with a poor spot demand, but that Manchester accounts were more encouraging.

The amount of cotton on ship board awaiting clearance at the end of the we kwas estimated at 132,000 bales compared with 153,000 last year.

Private advances said there were light to heavy frosts at points in the Oklahoma, Little Rock and Memphis districts with a killing frost at one point in Missouri. The prospects was said to be for rising temperatures over Sunday.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK REVIEW.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 10.—Heavy declines have been posted in the cattle trade this week. The first place, receipts have been rather liberal, and again, declines have been in order on account of breaks at other trade centers. The calf trade has experienced a complete reversal of form, and losses have been unusually heavy. Heifers and yearlings also have come in for a genteel pounding, and fleshy cows have not been neglected. Canners and cutters alone have escaped the wrath of the buying forces.

Compared with a week ago, beef steers are mostly 15 and 25 cents down, heifers and yearlings showing a decrease of 75 cents to $1, flesh cows are 50 and 65 cents down, bulls have lost 25 cents and calves are $1@2 lower. Steady prices have been paid for canner and cutter cows.

The most desirable slaughter steers here sold around $7.25@7.75. Receipts of steers however, have been relatively small. As a rule, a spread of $4@4.50 has caught the bulk of the really good cows, although a few cars were marked at $5@5.50. Canners and cutters sold from $2@2.75. Heifers and yearlings of good quality and tidy weight brought as much as $7@7.75, with weighty fed heifers clearing at $7. The top on bulls has been around $4@4.25, only singles being good enough to go at that range.

Veal calves of choice quality reached $10 on Monday's market and good light calves were selling freely at $9@9.50 with heavies at $8.50@8.75. Then came the break and by Friday a desirable class of light calves was moving around $8, with the best heavies clearing at $6.50, sold at $5.50@7.10, and a large umber of cows have cleared at $2.50@3. The stocker market has been good.

Uneven trade conditions have prevailed in the hog division. Packers have held out almost daily for stiff declines, but order buying has been a factor, and top sales were usually above the packer market. An outside sale was made at $13 Wednesday ,that value representing the top of the week. Packers purchased good hogs Friday at $12.40@12.50. The general market closed 40 and 50 cents a week ago.

Except for a decrease of 50 cents on yearlings, the sheep and lambs trade has been a fully steady affair. Shorn wethers continue to bring $8@8.10. A large number of goats arrived and cleared at $2.75@3. Good lambs reached $13.50.

Saturday's Markets.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 10.—Fort Worth livestock receipts for the Saturday market were small, but about up to trade requirements. The estimate was for 500 head of cattle, 500 calves, 350 hogs and 1,000 sheep. The supply of sheep was on through billing.

Sales of cattle and calves were in line with the low levels prevailing Friday, following a week of heavy price cutting. Three cars of steers arrived, the remainder of the run consisting mostly of jackpot consignments.

Order buyers participated the entire hog run, the market being unevenly higher, but receipts were really too meager to establish a quotable basis. Hogs that were not at all choice brought $12.60.

Nothing was on sale in the sheep house.

Cattle—Receipts 1,000, including 500 calves; market steady; beeves $3.50@8; stockers $3@7; fat cows $3@5.50, cutters $2.25@2.75; canners $2@2.25; heifers $3.25@7.50; yearlings $3.50@8.50; bulls $2.25@4.25; calves $7.50@8.

Hogs—Receipts 350; no good hogs here; market unevenly higher; top $12.60; bulk $12.25@12.60; light $12@12.60, medium $12.25@12.50; heavy $12@12.25; mixed $11.75@12; common $10@11; sows $10@11; pigs $9.50@12.

Sheep 1,000, all on through billing; market nominal; lambs $12@13; feeders $10@13; yearlings $10@11; wethers $7@8; ewes $5@6; culls $1@2; stockers $3@4; goats $1@3.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 10.—Cattle 500; calves 100; bulk prices for week, fed steers and yearlings $11@13; short fed steers $8.75@10.75; grassers $6@8; fat cows $3.85@5.85; heifers $5@6.75; canners and cutters $3.15@3.75; veals $8@12; stockers and feeders $3.50@8.50.

TEXAS VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 10.—Texas again passed up fruits and vegetables in shipments yesterday and there was no movement listed from this state even in sweet potato rollings of 121 cars, 27 of which were from Louisiana. Apple movements totalled 1,490 cars and white potatoes 1,108. There were 66 cars of celery, six grapefruit, two cucumbers, 18 cauliflowers, 241 cabbage, 700 grapes, 113 pears, five spinach, 164 onions and 35 tomatoes listed.

In the shipping point markets apples of the northwest were quoted in boxes at $2.75 for extra fancy Romes in the Wenatchee valley and 75@85c for very small C grade Baldwins in the Spokane valley, both on a usual terms basis. Potatoes at Grand Junction, Colo., were stronger, and up to $1.75@1.85 for sacked Russets on round whites on a usual terms carload basis, while at Idaho Falls demand also was good for sacked rurals, cash track at $1.35@1.40. Snow and rain at Rochester, N. Y., weakened the cabbage market there. Domestic, usual terms f. o. b. went to $9@11 ton and Danish $14@18 with demand light.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Another unexpected outburst of buying in the motor shares, several of which broke through to new high levels for the year, featured the resumption of the board upward movement in today's stock market. Early gains, which ran from one to eight points were modified by the lateness of pre-holiday profit taking. Total sales fell just short of the million share mark for the two-hour session.

Publication of the monthly tonnage statement of the United States Steel corporation, showing an increase of nearly 305,000 tons in unfilled orders last month, or about double the increase expected, came too late to have any influence on the day's price movement, although the recent strength of U. S. Steel common was believed to be in anticipation of a favorable tonnage report for September. Steel moved within an extremely narrow range today, closing ⅝ higher at 123⅜.

High currrnt earnings of automobile manufacturers as a result of the unexpected large fall demand for motor cars and trucks wa sthe only explanation offered fo rthe further advance in those issues. General Motors was run up 4 points to a new record price at 119½, and closed just below the top. Dodge Brothers "A" advanced over three points to a new peak at 43⅝.

JOHN BULL AND THE DRIES

John Bull's liquor bill last year was $2,000,000,000.00. Now London newspapers says the biggest prohibition campaign yet attempted in Great Britian is about to be started after many months of secret preparation. According to the London Daily Mail, the methods adopted are similar to those which preceded the introduction of prohibition in the United States.

Organizers of the movement did not begin by advocating outright prohibition but local option. The key-note of the campaign will be an appeal to the women of the British Isles, and the real movement will be inaugurated in the great manufacturing city of Manchester on October 19. Many noted Britons have volunteered their services as speakers.

Mrs. David Lloyd George will be one of the organizers of the campaign in the larger cities. Phillip Snowden, the noted labor leader and one of the best campaigners in England has been booked for many addresses. John Bull is not satisfied with his drink bill. He says it is too large. He says there are too many saloons or public houses, and that a change must come to lift the fallen out of the wallow.

Many of the noble families of England are interested in the brewing and distilling business. Many of the leading Lords of England are large stockholders in breweries and distilleries. Many of the great fortunes of England were created by men engaged in the liquor traffic as a side line, of course.

Many of the leading ministers of the gospel of the established church of England are opposed to the prohibition movement. Regardless of all this, those who believe that the traffic should be regulated by local option and then eliminated by direct prohibition, are determined that American methods shall be employed and that a war to the death shall be waged upon John Barleycorn.

Soviet Russia has returned to hard liquor. Now the peasant will be able to drink his fill of the stuff which made him crazy before the Romanoff government placed the ban upon its sale.

According to Moscow advises, the Russian peasants or farmers threatened to overturn the Communistic government unless hard liquor was restored to them.

Finland, now a republic, remains dry. Finland and the United States are the only dry nations on the map. Of course, the followers of Mahomet are forbidden to look upon the wine when it is red or other strong drinks, but the law of the Koram like many man made laws is often set aside by its devotes. Should John Bull outlaw John Barleycorn in the British Isles then what will the Canadian providence do?

SOVIET RUSSIA READY TO TRADE

Soviet Russia is ready to trade with American business men. According to the head of the foreign departments of the Russian supreme council of national economy, Soviet Russia has a $160,000,000 worth of orders to place in the next 12 months and $2,000,000,000 worth in the following five or six years. Agents of Soviet Russia would like to place the larger part of these orders in the United States.

This head of the Russian economic council says a $160,000,000.00 will represent a year's outlay for farm machinery and electrical supplies. There is a string tied to it, American business men must give the Soviet Russians credit. This year will determine where future Soviet Russian deals will go. German manufacturers and financiers are wild to obtain these Russian orders.

Soviet Russia has come back. The greatest wheat crop in the history of the Slav has been harvested this year. And the Slav is growing wise. He is not going to export all the surplus wheat. He is going to store vast quantities of wheat for carry-over purposes.

Next year may be a lean year in the wheat regions of Soviet Russia. This carry-over supply will prevent a famine. It will enable the Russians to go through a year without buying wheat in other lands. Soviet Russiahasapurchasing organization in the city of New York. Last year this organization shipped to Russia $29,000,000.00 worth of American merchandise.

Now if they are given long credit, these agents of the Communistic government of Russia will purchase $160,000,000.00 worth of machinery here the coming 12 months. They might pledge the Baku oil fields as collateral. It will be easy to arrange a $160,000,000.00 credit if the oil kings of America are invited to take a hand in the game.

SONS OF THEIR FATHER

Robert M. LaFollette overwhelmed all opposition in Wisconsin and will begin his senatorial career in December. He was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father and will serve until 1929. He is only 30 years and Senator Irving Lenroot will come up for re-election next year.

Senator Lenroot is an organization republican, a Coolidge republican and a very conservative republican. Governor John L. Blain, a LaFollette republican, hopes to be the successor of Lenroot. There is a stumbling block in his way.

Phil LaFollette may be a candidate for the Lenroot toga. He is the son of a great father. He is the brother of the youthful senator. He is only 34 years old and now the politicans of Wisconsin are saying that he is a better campaigner than his brother, an abler and more popular leader, and there is no reason why Wisconsin should not be represented in the American senate by two sons of a great father.

Americans are queer people.

WHERE THE WIFE WAS WORSTED.

If a wife insists that her husband should live with her relatives and he balks, then she is not entitled to alimony or council fees pending a suit for separation.

This was the ruling handed down by a distinguished supreme court justice of the state of New York. He held that the husband had some rights. That living with the relatives of his wife's by order of the aforesaid partner, was an infringement upon those rights which would not be tolerated in his presence.

Has the worm turned?

IS BOOZE THE VICTOR?

Is booze the victor? Collier's Weekly returns a verdict that it is. William G. Shepherd contributed a series of articles on prohibition enforcement for the readers of the national weekly. He conducted a sort of a referendum. Agents of the national weekly interviews 263,583 men and women, in homes and offices, in the 48 American states. Three questions were asked.

Question No. 1 was, "Are you satisfied with conditions as they are?" Sixty-eight per cent of the interviewed said "No." Question No. 2 was, "Is the law enforced in your locality?" Sixty-one and two-tenths per cent said, "No." Question No. 3 was, "If not, do you consider the law enforcible?" Sixty and nine-tenth per cent said "Yes."

After submitting his figures, William G. Shepherd commented as follows, "It is obvious from the results of this inquiry that America is still wet; that a considerable majority of the Americans want it dry, but that a large minority despair of prohibition enforcement under prohibition conditions."

Texans voted as follow: Forty-eight and five-tenths per cent that they were satisfied with conditions; fifty-one and five-tenths per cent that they were not satisfied with conditions; forty-eight and two-tenths per cent voted that the law is enforced; fifty-one and eight-tenths per cent voted that the law is not enforced; seventy-four and eight-tenths per cent voted that the law is enforceable and twenty-five and two tenths per cent that the law is not enforceable.

This investigation made by a thousand bonded employees of the National Weekly demonstrated Kansas to be the driest of American states and Maryland the wetest.

VERDICT OF A SOCIALIST

Milwaukee sends the socialist to the lower house of congress. His name? Victor L. Berger. He is the publisher of a newspaper, and when he isn't writing he is talking. He was interviewed on the recent election in Wisconsin.

Berger is a very bright man. He is very caustic. He said the election of LaFollette was a foregone conclusion. There was really no opposition. The republican party in Wisconsin is a corpse. The democratic party has left no visible evidence that it every existed in Wisconsin. It has vanished completely, and this is the comment of the Milwaukee socialist lawmaker.

"All of which is only more proof of how badly we need a new, healthy opposition party based on economic issues. Every civilized country in the world except the United States has one."

There are a million socialists in the United States. Eugene Debs is their Moses. He has been their Moses for many years. In or out of prison Debs leads a forlorn hope. Berger is one of his flag bearers.

SPEAKING OF LONDON.

Speaking of London, it costs $300,000,000 yearly to run the city. Value of all the houses and offices and public buildings in London is about $1,500,000,000. London owes more than $600,000,000. It cost $75,000,000 yearly to run the charities of London.

London has 5,600 bar rooms, one bar room for every 800 inhabitants.

A baby is born in London every three minutes. There are 39,000 marriages there a year. London was the center of the fur trade of the world. Now St. Louis holds the title.

London was the financial center of the world. Now New York claims the title. London was the art center of the world. Now Father Knickerbocker's town is claimant for the distinction.

This is a world of change.

WHAT HAPPENED TO BROWN.

Frederick Brown is a New York operator and financier. He came to America from central Europe 30 years ago. He couldn't speak the language when he landed and he didn't have a dollar in his pruse.

He bought a Rembrandt picture the other day and paid $100,000 for the treasure. In May of this year, he made a gift of a million dollars for the federation of Jewish charities of New York.

He is one of the leading real estate operators of America, and heavily interested in Fifth avenue property. It was a lucky day for Frederick Brown when he made his escape from Austria-Hungary and landed on these shores.

If he had remained in central Europe he would not have known the difference between a Rembrandt and a soap box sign.

HE REFUSED A PENSION

Albert Stone of New York is only 90. He has been employed by the New York Central railroad 75 years. He began when he was 15. He lives at Woodlawn and commutes every day to the big city. He could have retired 20 years og on a pension, but refused, saying he wasn't old enough to quit working.

He celebrated his 75th anniversary with the road and all the officials from its president down attended the reception in his honor. Chauncey M. Depew delivered the address of welcome. Chauncey Depew is 92, and h has been an officer of the New York Central 59 years.

There are men the world over who are never too old to work, and there are men who never work. They live by their wits.

TWO FARMS AND TWO FARMERS.

There are farmers in Texas. V. L. Callens of Van Zandt county produced $200 worth of tomatoes and three bales of cotton on two acres this season. He estimates that his receipts will total $600 or $300 an acre.

R. E. Jordan of Smith county produced two and one-fifth bales of cotton on one acre. He did not irrigate the land. He did not fertilize it. All that he did was to give the land "a white man's chance."

There is gold in the soil of Texas. Why not dig it out?

HENRY ON THE ROAD AGAIN.

Henry Ford is on the road again. He has added a new industry to his possession. He now makes concrete trolley columns for his big railroad. A plant is now operating with a capacity of six columns, six half arches and ten caps a day.

According to the Ford engineers, they will last a life time without renewals, paint or any of the labor incident to the usual types of trolley construction. Scarcity of timber has no terror for Henry Ford.

WELL SHOD PEOPLE.

Americans are the best shod people in the land of the living. Over 185,000,000 pairs of shoes were made in the United States during the first seven months of the current year and nearly 32 per cent were made for women. American manufacturers are sending shoes to all the bargain counters of the world. They make the best shoes in the world. They use the most improved machinery in the world. Gone are the days of cowhide boots and rag carpet slippers.

Fable of Freddie and the Bow-Wows —By George Ade

Once upon a Time there was a Modern Product named Freddie. He had been seeing Life in all of it's Phases——the Sunshine and the Storm, the Smiles and the Tears, the Tranquility of Peace and the Scourges of War—ever since the Year of his Birth, 1908, so that in 1925 he was permitted to look back over a varied Career of 17 Years, checking up the miraculous Changes which had been wrought by the Introduction of the Oxford Bags, the Dance known as the Charleston and Chocolate-covered Ice Cream, to say nothing of noting with Regret the Appearance of many Influences which threatened to disintegrate Civilization.

It was Last Year that Freddie began to shave and become Misanthropic. Perhaps he had quaffed too freely from the Golden Bowl of Pleasure. More than likely he had, even as many another Man of the World, become surfeited with artificial Pleasures and was beginning to discover the Hollowness of the whole Ball of Wax.

Having run the Gamut of Pleasure and followed every Primrose Path leading to a Movie Show or a Candy Store, it is no Wonder that he became sated with Empty Enjoyments and was disposed to adopt a Cynical Attitude.

If the lifted Eye-Brow and the cold Smile lurking at one Corner of the Mouth, when the Subject of Woman was brought up. Seemed suble Indications that he held Pessimistic Views in regard to the much-discussed Sex, it must be remembered that he had drunk the Pleasures of a Dancing Academy to the very Dregs and had Whiled away the Hours with every Type of Vamp under the High School Age.

Before blaming Freddie for being so Blozzy, one should charitably consider that he was a Man who, in taking his Fling, had been played upon by the Fates and had endured and suffered.

Not long ago he crawled out one Morning and sat on the edge of the Pad, brooding over the Decadence of the whole Social Organization. There had been many Changes since the remote and glorious Days of 1924 and Freddie, surveying them in the Cold Light of Experience was compelled to admit that doggone Few of them had been to the Good.

Jewlery Strictly Banned.

For instance, there was his Shirt. Why hadn't some one taken some Action or done something in regard to Shirts in general? The Prince of Wales had made it practically impossible for any Fellow who was up to Snuff and a real Dinger to wear anything except a Blue Shirt with Soft Collar attached. At first these Blues had been O. K. Full of Snap. Peppy, you understand. They looked Great in conjunction with any kind of College Diagnola or Knitted Effect in the Cravat Line. Regular old Yale and Harvard Stuff.

Then, when the Prince had every Hot Dog in the World sporting a Robin's Egg Blue with a discouraged Collar, what does he do but pull out for Matabeleland, Rhodesia and the Argentine, leaving all the Chaps flat? They had waited Week after Week for a Genius to rise up and reveal some such Inspiration as an up-and-down striped Collar keeping Company with a clay-colored Shirt and a Butterfly Bow of rich gangrenous Shade, but evidently no Sartorial Hero had the Courage to dispute a Supreme Authority. No wonder Freddie had to sigh deeply as he sized up the hateful Garment, which was made of the material used in lining Suit Cases.

After that he permitted himself to give way to melancholy Reflections on the Matter of Stick Pins. He knew that he could not wear one without becoming a Social Pariah but he asked himself why the pleasing little Ornaments had been taken away from the Man of Fashion. He had some approximate Pearls and a ruby-red Set with Twinklers and often he longed to flash them on the World and make it a happier Place of Residence, but he had the Dope on what Men are wearing this year and he had studied all of the Sock and Clothing Ads and he knew that America's Junior Aristocracy must ever carry a Pained Expression but avoid Jewelry.

Within a few Minutes he was visited by another great Sorrow. Schooled, as he was, by Contact with a Hard World, he forgot himself for the Moment and almost made a Display of Temper. It was while he was applying the Goo which is supposed to lay the Hair straight Back, the same as on a Bird Dog, and give it the gloss of Patent Leather.

"I wish to the Dickens," he exclaimed, "that some one would get up a Gleamola that would do the Work!"

Before him, stark and threatening, loomed the Ordeal of Breakfast. Would it be Melon or Grape-Fruit and, in either Case, what Assurance did he have that it would be served cold and ripe?

On the Morning of the Day which held so much Tribulation for Our Hero, the Toast was too thick and scorched on one side and the Coffee had a funny Taste. The Pioneers who came out and built the Log Cabins did not suffer all the Hardships. We'll tell the bleeding World!

A Tough Existence.

It was during Freddie's Run-In with unsatisfactory Food and slow Service that he made certain caustic References to Modern Journalism. He said the Papers were getting punk. This candid Criticism was evoked by the Fact that he could not find under "Social Happenings" any Reference to the slick Party he had attended the Night before.

Just when he was beginning to edge out into the Sunshine he ran plump into a Cloud of Gloom and was in the Depths once more. It seemed that the Bonehead at the Garage had failed to fill the Car. If Freddie chafed under the Delay and spoke sharply to the Menial, it must be taken into Consideration that he had trained his Relatives to anticipate his wishes, consequently it irked him to be stood up like a Wet Umbrella. Especially when the Cigarettes didn't seem right. Not enough imported Tobacco in them. Life was turning out to be a bitter Experiment but he tried to bear up.

Of course, he was ashamed to drive past Gertrude's House in a Last Year's Car. Why, he asked, had he been cursed with a Dad who was not only Tight but also Tyrannical? What was the Big Idea of all this Mooching about getting Home by 2 a. m.?

As he loafed along the Country Lane, accompanied by a hardened Roue who would be 19 in January, he was doing barely 55 miles an Hour, when a Constable with Bad Manners flagged him and slipped him a Summons. He wondered if Conditions were any worse in Soviet Russia.

While he was at Luncheon he said he could remember the Time when Pie a La Mode was dandy.

The new Release at the Picture House was the same old Junk. He said they had a lot of Mutts out in Hollywood.

He walked out of the Dancing Dump after a fretful Two Hours, because the Jazz was all over Three Weeks Old.

His Parents couldn't get a Word out of him at Dinner. They had Green Olives on the Table, knowing all the Time that he preferred Ripe Ones, stuffed. It began to look like a Conspiracy.

At the Party that Evening he had to admit, in the Presence of several care-worn Veterans attending the Prep School, that Girls were not nearly as Nifty as they were away back in 1923.

MORAL: It is called the Rising Generation because you can get a Rise any Minute.

Potash & Perlmutter Discuss Income Tax Snooping —By Montague Glass

"I see where Mr. Rockefeller didn't have such a good year last year, Mawruss," Abe Potash said, looking up from the morning paper the day the income tax returns were made public. "People must be getting tired of touring or something, and instead of taking their families for a five gallon ride on Sundays, they limit themselves to two or three."

"But on the other hand, Abe, his boy is coming along nicely," Morris Perlmutter remarked. "It must be a big satisfaction to Mr. Rockefeller to see the young fellow paying so much income tax to the government. Mr. Ford's boy Ezekiel Ford ain't making out so bad neither, Abe. Him and young Rockefeller paid enough money to Mr. Mellon to run his entire Prohibition Enforcement Bureau between them."

"Did it say that in the newspapers? Abe asked.

"I didn't notice it if it did," Morris replied, "but there ain't no reason why it shouldn't. If people has a right to know who paid the income taxes of the country, they should ought to be told where it goes to, outside of paying the last raise which United States Congressmen asked from the United States Congress, and got."

"In a way, it would be no more than a courtesy to the income tax payer too, Mawruss," Abe said, "which I don't say it would absolutely repay me for the financial loss, Mawruss, but I wouldn't be unpleased to get a letter from Mr. Mellon reading: "My dear Mr. Potach: Your income tax of thirty-one dollars received, and I am much obliged for your promptness in this little matter. You will be glad to know that with it, we have made the first payment on the improved Model A a 6 of the Mathemometer Duplex Adding Machine for use in our Industrial Alcohol Department and oblige, your truly, Sigmund J. Mellon."

"But on the other hand, Abe, suppose you was a moving picture actor instead of a garment manufacturer and had to pay an income tax of $13,941.50 y'understand," Morris asked, "would you be absolutely tickled to death to learn officially that it had been ear-marked for a small part of the expenses of the Special Congressional Committee on Immigration to investigate Immigration conditions in Cannes, Nice and Monte Carlo during the fall and winter season of 1925-26?"

"I suppose the government is the same as everybody else, Mawruss," Abe suggested. "It likes to tell how much it makes, but it's a bit cagey about telling how much money it spends."

Should Explain Where Money Goes

"And particularly about telling what it spends it for," Morris added, "which every time a United States admiral visits a United States battleship and got a salute of twenty-one guns, Abe, it wouldn't make the United States Navy any more popular if the newspapers printed the information that in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Navy Department, Captain Smith of the U. S. Battleship West Hoboken welcomed Rear Admiral Brown by firing off the entire 1925 income taxes of Abraham Potash, Morris Perlmutter, the Phoenix Pants Company, Sammet Brothers and the Graphic Arts Moving Picture Corporation."

"It also ain't going to make Prohibition Enforcement very desirable for the thinking voter if he would read that a multi-millionaire like Charles Noblestone paid only three hundred dollars income tax last year on account of most of his income of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars being derived from tax free securities, y'understand, and of that same three hundred dollars income tax, understand me, two hundred and ninety-five dollars was expended by six Prohibition Enforcement officers in raiding an Italian grocery store and seizing one quart bottle of dago red containing by volme three and a half per cent alcohol," Morris continued.

"Maybe if the government devoted Charles Noblestone's three hundred dollars income tax to finding out just why it was that Charles Noblestone paid only three hundred dollars income taxes, Mawruss, it might be spent to a little more advantage in the way of law enforcement," Abe agreed, "but at the same time, Mawruss, I believe that Prohibition should ought to be carried out, whether the chips fall where they may, even when the same chips is a few grains of sawdust, y'understand. Because, Mawruss, to my mind it's only justice in a Republic like ours that if the Government is going to give its citizens publicity which they don't like, y'understand, then let the rich get the Income Tax Publicit yand the poor get the Prohibition Publicity."

"Well, if the government is going to act on the principle of Unwelcome Publicity for the rich and Poor Alike, where is it going to stop?" Morris asked. "The first thing you know, Abe, the United States Revenue Law would provide that not only should the automobile manufacturer pay a revenue tax on every automobile he makes but he should also tell who bought it and how much was paid for it, and that such information should be published in the papers along with the income taxes on September first of each year."

Publish Personal Expenditures.

"It wouldn't be a bad idea at that, Mawruss," Abe said. "You could then see how Charles Noblestone during the year 1925 paaid three hundred dollars to the United States Government for his 1925 income tax, and at the same time, he paid the Climax Motor Car Company of Detroit, Michigan, six thousand dollars for his 1925 special body Climaax Audible Eight, y'understand, and this would anyhow indicate that he was twenty times as loyal to the automobile industry as he was to the United States of America."

"Sure I know," Morris agreed, "but why should the Government pick on the automobile industry only? Why shouldn't the United States citizen be shown up in the newspapers for what he wears and what he eats? And this could be easily done by making dry goods stores and grocery stores disclose the names of their charge customers anad how much each one paid in the current income tax year for garments and groceries. With these items as a start, y'understand everybody could be made to tell how much he paid for everything except his cemetery lot and headstone, and in that way reach the stage in which this would be a country where every business man's business would be known to anybody who didn't have any business to attend to, except that of minding other people's."

"It's a wonder to me, Mawruss, that there should be such an inquisitiveness shown about rich people's income taxes," Abe observed. "Ain't it enough that the public knows about rich people's divorces and other scandals"

"Newspaper readers are never satisfied," Morris declared. "For my part, I would sooner read about the smallest murder ever committed than the biggest income tax ever paid, but that ain't the way it strikes some people. They consider that a murder is something which is public, whereas an income tax should ought to be confidential, even though it ain't. Therefore, Abe, to such nosy people, it is all the difference between looking at a lighted show window and peeping through a bathroom keyhole."

"Most bathrooms ain't got no keyholes," Abe said.

"They would have," Morris concluded, "if them income tax snoopers could manage it."

The Married Life of Helen And Warren

"Punk show!" grunted Warren, as they came out into the sign-glittered taxi-jammed street. "Pepped up in the last act—but the first two were rotten!"

"And you bought those tickets from a speculator," regretted Helen. "Five dollars a piece!"

"Better'n stayin' home in all that mess. Here's a taxi-"

Too tired to protest at this added extravagance, Helen dropped wearily into the cab.

A hectic day. Their apartment in the throes of the painters, Warren had insisted on dinner and the evening out.

It had not rested her. She would much rather have stayed and straightened up.

Tomorrow they would start on the dining room, still crowded with furniture from bedroom and library.

"That fellow who played the uncle wasn't so bad, if he'd had a decent part. Whew, can't stand that gas! Bad as the paint," lowering the window beside him. "Want yours down That girl was a flop. What a voice! Had a cold, didn't she?"

"She must've had," absently. "Dear, that corner china closet—I don't think we'll try to move that. I'll just let them paint around it—like they did the bookcase. We'll never want to change it."

"For the love of Lulu, don't start on that! Wait till we get there. Next time there's any painting done—I'll put up at the club."

A honking, halting drive through cab-congested streets. Held up at every corner, it was after twelve when they drew up before their portal lights.

From the pavement Helen glanced up at their open windows—dark, curtainless, suggesting the dishevelment within. Would the paint odor be out by now?

In the elevator she shrank from the paneled miror. How tired she looked! No, the diversion of dinner and theatre had not rested her. She could never forget her work as could Warren—could never throw it off to be amused.

"Whew, strong enough to knock you out!" Warren switched on the lights.

"Maybe it isn't so bad inthe bedroom," tiptoeing over the gritty floor. "The wind's on that side."

"Worse and more of it!" sniffing, he followed her in. "Can't sleep in here."

"How d'you think it looks? Oh, don't get against that door! I wanted a deeper cream—but you can't tell till it's dry. Don't you like the ceiling? That's a good ivory. And that stain doesn't show."

"See here, we can't sleep in this place! Make us both sick. Throw some things in a suitcase and let's beat it to a hotel."

"Oh, no, dear, that isn't necessary. And we've spent enough tonight. Be careful—that door! With these three windows—we'll get plenty of air. You won't notice it."

"Notice it now, all right. Come on, we'll take a taxi to the Mammoth."

"Warren, it's too late! I'll be almost dead tomorrow if you drag me around any more. And we really ought to move some of those things out of the dining room—so they can start there the first thing."

"Now, no furniture shiftin' tonight!" explosively. "If there's any movin' around here we move ourselves to a hotel. Know what itme it is?"

"Yes we shouldn't have gone. I wanted to stay home and get things ready."

"Had all day for that. Why wait till midnight."

"But we couldn't move the things back until they were through in here. They didn't finish until six—and I had to leave them to meet you."

"Well, I do no porter work tonight," stalking into the library. "Come uncover this table—can't get at a blamed thing."

"You're not going to read this late?" taking the protecting newspaper from table and lamp.

"Want a cigar—bummest one got Where's those stogies somebody left here? Need somethin' to fumigate this place."

"Why, Pussy Purr-Mew, what's happened to your tail? Paint! Dear, look, will it ever come off?"

"Now, you can do the worryin' about that cat's tail. Where're the matches?"

"There're some on this desk. Help me take off these papers. Be careful, don't get that kalsomine all over the floor! Roll them up. Look how she's licking it! Will turpentime do it?"

"Hugh, that's easy—bob it. I don't see those matches! In the drawer? Well, why didn't you say so?"

Warren trying to deodorize the paint with an asphyxiating cigar, she retreated to undress followed by Pussy Purr-Mew, disconsolate and humilated over her paint-stuck tail.

In her oldest paint-defying smock. Helen started to clear off the beds.

Rolling up the be-spattered newspapers, she drew Warren's bed nearest the window and laid a few fresh papers on the rugless, grimmy floor.

"Dear, you'd better undress in the bathroom and leave your clothes in there," when he came in wth a blatant yawn. "No place to lay anything here."

"That clock in there stopped," winding his watch. "Told you not to move it."

"We didn't touch it. Be careful, don't get against the window-sill. I just covered it up on the mantel."

"Well, somebody's monkeyed with it," militantly, the clock his one domestic care. "I started it again. Now, see that it's not moved."

"Oh, dear, I forgot," hastily switching off the lights. "No shades! They can see right in."

"Well, what of it? Where's all the chairs?" groping in the semi-darkness for a place to hang his coat.

"Give it to me—I'll hang it in the closet. Now, dear, do undress in the bathroom! No place to put anything here. But don't shut that door—it might stick. Leave it open just a little."

"Where're my slippers?" came his irate growl from the bathroom. "Hand 'em in."

"Oh, where did I put them? We cleared everything out of here. Can't you do without them tonight?"

"No. I can't! This bathroom floor—you could shovel it up."

"If we'd stayed at home we'd have had this room straight. But you would——"

"Now, never mind that!" volcanically. "Trot out those slippers."

To explode Warren's closet, regardless of the windows across the court she again turned on the lights.

A discouraging melee. To make ready for the painters everything had been crowded away. All the things from his chiffonier on the shelf with his shoes!

"Dear, I CAN'T find them! You'll have to do without them. Wait, I'll put some more papers down," laying a newspaper trail from the bathroom to his bed.

"How many more days of this?" stepping gingerly in his bare feet.

"Oh, wait, I keep forgetting!" switching off the lights. "Across the court—they can see right in."

"Let 'em look. Hope they like my pink pajamas! Phew, this's enough to drug you," punching the pillow. "Everything wide open? Pull down those windows from the top."

"Oh, we can't now—they're all paint. But we're getting what air there is—they're all the way up."

"Better circulation when they're open top and bottom. Here, what the Sam Hill—what's on this pillow? All gritty?"

"Why it can't be—the beds were covered up."

"Well, I don't sleep on this! Turn on those lights! What's that? Well, let 'em rubber."

A gasp—a stifled cry! Warren's again settled down.

"Hold on, leave that light on! Get some of this confounded grit in my eye. Get me a handkerchief."

But his sheet-covered chiffonier shoved front against the wall, Helen could not open his handkerchief drawer.

"One in my hip pocket," with blinking facial contortions. "Quick!"

Darting into the bathroom, the enameled chair on which she had visioned Warren's clothes held only a carelessly flung towel.

A gasp—a stifled cry! Warren's trousers—on the paint-wet door!

"NOW what's the matter?" came his bellicose shout.

"Your clothes! You hung them on the door!"

"Well, what of it? You told me to undress i nthe bathroom, didn't you"

"But the door's all paint! You knew it was—I told you not to close it. And your trousers! Oh, dear, they're RUINED!"

"The devil they are!" the paper crackled under Warren's wrathful tread.

"Just look! It'll NEVER come out. All down the side of that leg," she wailed. "No, the cleaner can't. They couldn't that spot on your coat when we painted last year."

"Of all the pinheaded idiots!" now oblivious to his eye, "Made me undress in here—where'd you expect me to park my clothes? In the bathtub?"

"Why, there's a chair! Oh, your new suit! I'll see if they've left any turpentine. While it's fresh—maybe I can get some of it off."

Out in the pantry, under the sink where the painters had stowed their cans and brushes, Helen found a greasy, labeless bottle.

"Dear, see if this isn't turpentine," rushing back to the bathroom where Warren was still glowering at his paint-smeared trousers. "It smells like it."

"Can't tell," with a disgusted sniff. "Everything smells 'round here."

"Oh, it's oil." pouring some on the corner of a washcloth. "There's another bottle out there—wait, I'll bring that in."

"No, you don't! My pants have been doused enough for one night. Send 'em to the cleaners'—see what they can do."

"Oh, I'm just sick about it—and your new suit! What'd you pay for it? Seventy-five, wasn't it? EIGHTY-five!"

"Yes, and if we'd gone to a hotel I wouldn't be shy a pair of pants," he snorted. "But you'd rather ruin an eighty-dollar suit than cough up eight for a room. That's YOUR idea of economy!"

Then as he stumped belligerently back to bed.

"Now, the next time you get the urge to change the color scheme—I'll not be around! I'll go to the club and stay there till this place is fit to live in. Now, get this straight!" savagely. "Hereafter when the painters move IN—I move OUT!"

Cool Weather Sends Us Indoors To the Radio Dial

WGHP, DETROIT TOOK THE AIR SATURDAY NIGHT

New Rapid Broadcasting Station Gives First Program

"WGHP, Detroit," is the call under which the new 1,500 watt radio station owned by George Harrison Phelps, Inc.

The George Harrison Phelps organization has gone about its entry into the radio broadcasting field quietly. Many persons have observed the antenna system outside the offices at Rowena and John R. streets, Detroit, but announcement of the plans have been withheld until now.

Big Building.

Housed in the building occupied by the concern is a broadcasting plant of the most modern type, planned and built by Harold W. Elliott, chief engineer. Its efficiency has already been tested under the experimental call of "8XAR" and the clarity of tone and strength of signal have been noted by those of the fans who cruise about the air after midnight.

Now WGHP is ready for its inaugural program and in keeping with the policy of George Harrison Phelps, Inc., it will go before the radio public without boast, awaiting the verdict of the fans as to the new station's right to a place in radioland.

A number of national celebrities have been secured for the opening programs, including Billy Murray, Frank Banta, Rudy Weidoeft, Victor recording artists.

Two studio orchestras, one a symphonic group, the other a dance band, will furnish a variety of music. Dirk Van Emmerick of the Detroit Symphony orchestra has perfected a small organization of symphony players, and William Finzel has built up a dance orchestra with special thought to radio broadcasting. Both will be heard frequently on WGHP programs.

Staff Selected.

Careful thought has been given to the selection o fthe staff that will handle the affairs of WGHP. The work of directing the station and the important position of chief announcer has been given to C. D. Tomy, famous as "The Chief," of the Red Apple club at Detroit.

Mr. Tomy, a newspaper man of long experience, opened the WCX station more than three years ago and was in continuous charge until he came to WGHP this week. That makes him a pioneer in radio broadcasting. Perhaps few men have read more fan letters, which constitute the pulse of the radio audience. His riendly voice is known wherever there are receiving sets.

As musical director, T. Stanley Perry brings to WGHP a magnificent tenor voice, as well as an intimate knowledge of things musical, and a close personal touch with the singers of Detroit. For a number of years he has been soloist at the First Presbyterian church, a position he has just left to become associated with the new station management.

Mr. Perry has a wide circle of radio admirers through his long connection with radio broadcasting in Detroit. He has a voice possessed of much sweetness, and, furthermore, he has mastered the rather difficult trick of sending it through a microphone to best advantage.

Mr. Elliott, a mechanical and electrical engineer of much experience, is one of the newer entries into the radio broadcasting field. That the tests already made at the new station have been so successful is proof that he has given to the installation of this new station the same careful thought that has always characterized his work.

Phelps at Head.

Above these men, directing the station's affairs, will be George Harrison Phelps, whose interest in radio until recently was centered in amateur transmission, and William D. Laurie, managing director of the radio division of George Harrison Phelps, Inc.

"Our organization handles the advertising accounts," Mr. Phelps said, "of many manufacturers of nationally known products, including Dodge Brothers, Graham Brothers, Wills Sainte Claire, Berkey and Gay, Iodent Tooth Paste, A. P. W. Paper company, Ajax Rubber company, Mohawk Tire company. We expect to make WGHP an adjunct to the service we always give our clients. At the same time we will go before the radio world without offense in the way of direct advertising.

"We believe we have selected a staff that is in close touch with radio listeners and these men hope to supply entertainment that will be pleasing. That is a matter that the fans must decide for us and we are presenting our first programs ready to await the verdict of those who listen in.

"Will Rogers recently said that the greatest thing about a radio receiving set was the 'turner off.' We are fully aware that you can use that little device very handily and our effort is going to be to keep your hands off of it."

Maxwell Secures Corporation Man For Radio Dept.

G. McK Douglass, who was formerly with the Radio corporation of America as general utilities man, will have charge of the radio department of Maxwell and Son Hardware Co. Mr. Douglas has been working with radio ever since 1906 and before going with the Radio Corporation of America, he worked with David Grimes, inventor of the inverse duplex system. He also served as radio operator on shipboard and helped establish stations along the Gulf Coast.

Mr. Douglas is familiar with radio problems and with him in charge, Maxwell's will continue to enlarge their radio department.

A German court, says Radio Broadcast magazine, has recently held that not only has a tenant a right to erect an antenna on a housetop bu that, owing to the importance of broadcasting, it is the duty of the proprietor to see that the tenant is enabled to put up an antenna on a house.

Broadcasters In Publicity Need

Most people are aware of the fact that publicity man is usually included in the staff of the larger broadcasting stations, but few are able to describe exactly what he does in this capacity. Writing in the November Radio Broadcast magazine, Carl Dreher explains the activities of this and other branches of a broadcasting station's personnel.

"In general the work of a broadcasting station falls naturally into two divisions, getting the programs, and broadcasting them," he says. "A third, indirectly connected function is that of securing publicity for the station's programs and achievements in newspapers and other publications. Three sorts of people, therefore, work at a broadcasting station: the program organizers, engineers and publicity representatives.

"The work of the publicity representative is probably the least unfamiliar to the general reader, since press agents antedated broadcasting. However, it is not quite the same job in a broadcasting station as in a theatre or hotel. The publicity man goes around to the various radio editors in his town and tries to keep on amicable terms with them. They are necessary to him and he is also necessary to them, for he supplies them with material for their pages, material which may be written by a copy writer or by the press representative himself. The members of the publicity staff are also in contact with the artists, who give them photographs and data for articles, which, if they are interesting enough, get into the newspapers. Part of the publicity man's duty, also, is to attend to the printing of programs well in advance, sending them to newspapers, and calling up the editors in his own town, on all broadcasting days, to make corrections in these lists, for there is many a change in the programs between booking and modulation of the carrier. This information the press man secures from the booking department of the station. Publicity activities include photographing, this being handled, ordinarily, by a professional photographer who does such work for the station as the publicity representative may direct. A scrap book is also kept," concludes Mr. Dreher, "and the publicity representative may hand in occasional reports on the amount of space he has been able to secure, since the object of every station is to be well known, and a good press agent helps in that endeavor as much in broadcasting as in saving souls or governing the country."

One of the chief problems of the home constructor is that of trying to combine sensitivity with quality. It is generally admitted that the superheterodyne represents the utmost in sensitivity but then on local stations the quality is not what it might be. Possibly this accounts for the fact that many set manufacturers are no longer making a super-heterodyne model but are going back to straight radio frequency amplification. Many receivers on the market only employ a single stage of R. F. which will be found quite sufficient for general purposes. Two stages will only complicate tuning, or if single control is employed, the full value of the two stages is often obtained.

THE DOPESTERS.

Norman Brown, eastern sports writer, averred recently Pittsburg has the better team, but he expects to see Washington win the world series.

Regardless of Norman's reasons for such a statement his prophecy seems on the verge of coming true. Brown is one of the few "experts" who had the nerve to pick the Sens to repeat. Majority of scribes have been on the fence, failing to openly express their choice. A number have doped it the Pirates will sweep through.

A minority selected Washington. Such was the case, also in the recent Dixie series, meaning a minority believed Fort Worth would win over Atlanta. Wichita Falls dopesters, or rather the great majority of this gentry had it the Crackers would topple Jake Atz's crew. Before the big time series swung under way these same lads were picking the young, exceedingly ambitious and fighting Pittsburg club to defeat the veteran Senators.

The Corsairs may win yet, of course, but Washington has more of an edge now than merely a 2 to 1 game margin.

The team that wins the Saturday game will be the one that by all odds should win the series, almost all dopesters interested agreed before the start of the game. The advantage certainly is with Bucky Harris now. He has his two veteran aces to fall back on with each having rested fully from his first encounter. Walter Johnson will get another shot today. Stan Coveleskie takes the hill in the fifth game. Buck still has the eccentric but very often highly effective Dutch Ruether to throw in if it be necessary and the southpaw may make 6 go if it be necessary and the southpaw may make a go of it regardless of the Pirates' heralded knack for wiping out portside hurlers. The dependable Marberry is still on hand for the relief role.

BURK REAL TEAM.

One point Coyote followers should take into consideration: Ludgate has a powerful little team over at Burkburnett, a scrappy eleven that any high school squad in this section will do well to get away with anything on.

That 6-6 tie game played yesterday in Burk between the Bulldogs and Electra Tigers does not necessarily augur Wichita Falls will find the going easy against Electra here Saturday in the conference opener, that is, if the game really is played.

There's a possibility, we understand, of the Tiger-Coyote tilt being postponed. For one thing, Mosley's Junior college Indians have a game gies. Two football games on succeeding days, especially of the caliber of here Friday with the Cameron Aggies these two contests, are almost too much for one gridiron. Each contest hurts the attendance of the other. Then, Wichita Falls has a game matched with Grandfield for Saturday. This was billed before the league contest was matched, and will cost the Coyotes a bit of cash to call off. Incidently, the class A games of this district were arranged with Quanah sitting in on the schedule made through mistake. Quanah is a class B team. Should McCallum decide for any one of these reasons to postpone this game he will be in his rights perfectly.

Burkburnett's line from end to end yesterday was the fightingest piece of football furniture we've seen this season. And standing head and shoulders above the lot was a little fellow by name of Barker who played left tackle. Barker made at least 40 per cent. possibly more, of the Burk tackles.

The Bulldog forward wall rushed the Tiger backs so furiously that Electra on many occasions was lucky to get as far as the line of scrimmage. Forward passing was futile as far as Electra was concerned. The Burk first line defense broke through too fast.

There was but one man on the Electra team who could gain to any appreciable extent. He was Dell Coolidge, 190-pound fullback. And Coolidge could advance on but one play, a sort of chaingang shift and off tackle drive. This maneuver was the only one on which the Tigers could get away. Coolidge, however, was stopped time and again within a yard or so because he ran high and with head up although in truth he was supposed to be "ducking the line, charging off tackle."

If Coolidge plunges the Coyote forward defense next week with head down he more than likely will get off for a number of goodly advances. This big fellow can plug any line with his bulk and power if he but use the charging methods of the average line bucker instead of going in standing up.

Lord Derby's Nag Wins York Event

KEMPTON PARK, Eng., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Lord Derby's bay horse, Pharos by Phaloris out of Scapa Flow, won the Duke of York handicap valued at 2,000 pounds sterling here today. Lord Roseberry's Joy Rider was second and Lord Coventry's Verdict third in the field of 14.

Pharos, which won the Liverpool cup on July 25, finished the mile and a quarter run six lengths ahead of Joy Rider and two lengths separated the second and third horses.

The betting against the winner was 7 to 2 against; Joy Rider, 8 to 1 and against Verdict, 33 to 1.

Pack Won't Find Electra So Easy In Tilt This Week-End

SCRAPPY BURK CLUB FIGHTS TIGERS EVEN UP, BUT THAT'S ENTIRELY DIFFERENT STORY

Coolidge May Cause Trouble in Coyote Go, But He'll Have to Plunge Lower; Barker Flashes.

BY BLONDY CROSS

Quite a number of Wichita Falls moleskinners witnessed the spectacle of the tough little Burk Bulldogs fighting Electra's Tigers to a 6-6 tie Saturday afternoon at Burk, all of which makes it unusually hard on Coyote Coach Bur McCallum this week. For Saturday, the Coyotes tackle Electra here in the 1925 conference opener, and Coyote opinion of Electra prowess sank far below par yesterday. Burkburnett is a class B team, a team that would give any high school squad a mean fight for the laurels, but because it is class B nevertheless, Wichita Falls gridders look on this club as soft pickin's, so to speak.

Electra couldn't beat Burk, so Electra must be easy. That's the mental process functioning in Coyote minds this morning. And there it is McCallum has his troubles.

For Burkburnett proved itself a first class eleven, a machine with which it won't do to tamper. Wichita Falls playing Burkburnett yesterday under the same conditions would have been fortunate to earn a tie much less not lose out entirely.

The Bulldogs, outweighted from end to end, completely outfought the Tigers. With exception of the second quarter when Electra scored, very little advance was made over the Burk line. It wasn't that Electra lacked the stuff to get away, the Tigers just weren't fighting. It will be a different story when Jim Reese sends his club against the Coyotes this week-end. There will be four times as much Electra fight out on Spudder park Saturday as there was yesterday in Burkburnett. Wichita Falls may win, and certainly should, but there's a great chance of overconfidence, psychological enemy of many a good eleven, abetted by Tiger fight spelling the Coyote downfall.

Watch Dell.

If Dell Coolidge, husky fullback, who ploughed of Burk's tackles for almost all the Electra advances yesterday, may tear through the Coyote forward wall the same way, especially so if he can learn in one weeks' time to hit the line low instead of standing up. Coolidge all but won the game for Burk, packing the oval on off tackle plays, the only style of attack Electra could accomplish much with.

Had there been one or two less athletes in the Burk line of the caliber of Barker, left tackle, Electra should have won in a walk. This youngster was in the game on his toes, fighting terrifically from star to finish, and flanked on one side by Hickham broke through the Electra line time and again to halt the Tiger backs dead in their tracks. Barker was half the Burk team defensively. Gilmore and McDonald broke through on numerous occasions to down Tiger backs on attempted wing forays. Buckner made several flashy returns of punts.

Burk missed its chance to win the game in the opening period. The Bulldogs kicked off and recovered on the Tiger 30-yard line. A plunge, tehn a pass, Wolf to McDonald, followed by a short end run by Warren netted a first down and put the Bulldogs 13 yards nearer the goal. Jarrell hit the line twice, gaining six yards in al. Warren ploughed for two, and then McDonald pushed through center to make first down by a hair. Warren plugged off tackle for a four-yard advance. The ball was alfost on the goal line. On the next play, Burk fumbled and Coolidge recovered. Tramill kicked out of danger.

Tigers Score In Second.

The game seesawed the remainder of the quarter with neither club earning an advantage. Electra started about midfield early in the second period following an exchange of punts and marched to the goal on off tackle plays. Moore and Coolidge made first down in two pluinges. They pulled the same play three times for another first down with Coolidge doing the pigskin packing. Coolidge made six yards more. Buckner was substituted for Hood of Burkburnett and the Bulldogs were penalized half the distance to the goal when the substitute talked before a play had been run off. The ball before the penalty was assessed was about 12 yards from the goal. Electra received a five-yard penalty for offside. Then successive plunges by Coolidge carried over for the touchdown. Try for point was blocked.

Shortly before the close of the half, Barker recovered an Electra fumble on the Tiger 38-yard line. McDonald broke off on a short end run for a nice gain, and it seemed the Bulldogs were on the verge of scoring, but the timer's whistle halted hostilities.

The Burkburnett score was made in the third period. Gilmore recovered an Electra fumble on the Tiger three-yard line. The misplay was caused by a bad pass from center. The Tiger line withstood three drives without giving more than a yard. On fourth down, Warren skirted the Electra right end for the touchdown. Try for point was missed.

Neither club menaced seriously the remainder of the way.

MISSOURIANS UPSET DOPE WITH A WIN

Trim the Cornhuskers 9 to 6 in Sensational Game

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Missouri Tigers today furnished the biggest upset of the Missouri valley football season to date when they romped over the Nebraska Cornhuskers, 9 to 6.

The highly touted Nebraskans, victors over Illinois last week, went into the game heavy favorites and early in the first period smashed their way through the Missouri line for a touchdown. The kick for goal was blocked. The Cornhuskers held their 6 to 0 advantage until the third period when Clark, Missouri sophomore, proved himself a hero, grabbing a pass and racing across the Nebraska line. Captain Whiteman's place kick added an extra point and the score was Missouri 7; Nebraska 6.

Don Richerson, big Tiger lineman and noted weight heaver, added two points in the final period when he broke through the Nebraska line to tackle a Cornhusker behind the Nebraska goal.

YDE TO FACE WALTER TODAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Emil Yde, a left hander who was the National league's greatest pitcher in 1924 and who won two-thirds of his games for Pittsburg this season will face Walter Johnson tomorrow in the fourth game of the world's series.

Yde and Johnson worked out for about half an hour each today despite the cold. The tall Pittsburgher will be the first southpaw to appear in the series. Gooch will do the catching ofr the Pirates.

QUANAH RUNS OVER PADUCAH

QUANAH, Oct. 10.—Quanah defeated Paducah Friday by the heavy score of 31 to 0. The Quanah backfield men ran wild and piled up a score that Paducah found too much to overcome. Despite the bad weather a fair sized crowd saw the contest.

Beauchamp and Brewster played a great game in the line. In fact, the entire Indian forward wall looked very good. Edwards at center was a demon both offensively and defensively.

The construction of an a. c. amplifier presents no difficult task and the builder will be amply repaid for his efforts by the excellent quality and great volume which will be obtained. In the new Radio Broadcast magazine for November, James Millen, an authority, describes the construction of an a. c. receiver and power amplifier which anybody can build without difficulty. He writes:

Michigan Shows Old Form to Win

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Michigan revealed a re-incarnation of her famous point a minute team of old when crushed Indiana 63 to 0 at Ferry field today.

The air was filled with Michigan passes and Benny Friedman, the former Cleveland high school star, sparkled in the smooth working Michigan offense. He scored one touchdown alone, running 55 yards through the entire Indiana team and he forward passed five times for touchdowns. In addition he kicked eight points after touchdown.

Michigan resorted only spasmodically to line smashes.

Indiana could not puncture the Michigan wall and made her spasmodic gains by passing.

He's Still Supreme in Relief Role

Fred Marberry still takes the cake as the king of relief hurlers. Marberry yesterday wasn't credited with winning the game for Washington but it was none other than the hard-working Fred who was thrown into the breach after the seventh inning by Manager Bucky Harris, and who came through, holding the Pirates at bay so the Nats could win by a one-run margin even though Peckinpaugh came very near to kicking the game away for him.

HORNSBY BATS HIS WAY INTO 'HALL OF FAME'

Has Finished Third Season With Average Above .400

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby, pilot of the St. Louis Cardinals, today takes his place in the baseball hall of fame as one of a trio of major league stars who, for three years, finished a season with a batting average above .400.

Hornsby's mark for 1925 was .403, which enabled him to join ranks with Jesse Burkett, famous member of the old Cleveland Nationals, and Tyrus Raymond Cobb, fiery lead of the Tigers.

Hornsby in 1922 batted .401, last season he established a modern high mark of .423. In 1923, although champion of the National League, he hit only .384. This is Hornsby's sixth consecutive year as champion of the National League hitters, having first topped the list in 1920 with a mark of .370.

The Old Timers.

Burkett made his marks in 1895, 1896 and 1899, Cobb led his league in 1911 and 1912 with a mark above the .400 and finished above this figure in 1922, although not leading the league. In addition to capturing the 1925 batting honors, Hornsby, according to the final unofficial figures, is the home run king of the major leagues with 39 circuit blows. He also had the highest total bases mark of .380. He made 203 hits, which, besides his four baggers include forty doubles and 10 triples.

Hazen Cuyler, Pirates youthful star fly chaser, who gave his team mate, Max Carey, a hot race for the stolen base honors, proved the best scorer in the league. He clouted 144 times. Carey finished with 43 stolen basis, the highest in the majors.

Other Leaders.

Other leading batters participating in 100 or more games:

Botomley, St. Louis, .367; Wheat, Brooklyn, .358; Cuyler, Pittsburgh, 355; Harper, Philadelphia, 354; Fournier, Brooklyn, .350; Carey, Pittsburgh, .344; Blades, St. Louis, .342; Burrus, Boston, .340; Roush, Cincinnati, .340; Frisch, New York, .331; Stock, Brooklyn, .330; Cox, Brooklyn, .330.

By launching a drive in the closing days of the American League campaign, Harry Heilmann, star outfielder of the Tigers, nosed out Tris Speaker, Cleveland leader, for premier batting honors of the junior organization for 1925.

Heilmann collected six hits in his last two games, finishing the season with a mark of .393. Speaker, who had bee nout of the line-up during the final days of the race, going in only as a pinch hitter, finished with .390. Although Speaker has been in the league seventeen years, he led the batters only once, when in 1916 he finished wih .386, breaking up Ty Cobb's string of consecutive championships. Cobb had won nine in a row before Speaker stopped him.

Simmon's Record.

Al Simmons, Connie Mack's youthful star, made three distinctive marks. In addition to scoring the most runs—122, he smashed out 251 hits, which gave him the highest total base mark of 391. He made 40 doubles, 14 triples and 24 home runs, and finished third among the regular hitters, participating in 100 or more games with an average of .384. Ty Cobb was behind him with .377.

Johnny Mostil of the White Sox captured the base stealing honors with forty-two, while Bob Meusel of the Yankees was the leading home run hirter with 33. "Babe" Ruth finished in a tie with Ken Williams of the Browns, for second place honors with twenty-five each.

Other leading batters:

FREDERICK HIGH SLAMS SNYDER

SNYDER, Oct. 10.—It was a powerful machine of Frederick high school Bearcats that crashed over the Snyder eleven here Friday afternoon, winning by the score of 40-0. The Snyder aggregation held the visitors during the first quarter but after that time it was Frederick's game.

Long spectacular runs by Hyde and Johnson were one of the features of the gate, although no member of the winning team could be spotted as a star.

Coach Keen's powerful combination climbed one notch nearer to their claim of southwestern Oklahoma supremacy by their win over the Snyder eleven, successfully defending the legend that their goal line has not been crossed yet.

They go up against the husky Carnegie squad in their next tilt, which is the first game for the Bearcats in the southwestern conference.

The Snyder aggregation, although not as heavy as the Frederick lads, fought the entire route, with a spirit that commanded respect for them from the fans. This is their third reverse of the season.

"Chicago" Is Winner Of Latonia Race

CINCINNATI, Oct. 10.—Chicago, with D. Connelly up, won the Queen City handicap $10,000 added for two-year-olds at Latonia today. Lancaster was second and Blockhead third. The time for the mile was 1:38 4-5. Fourteen started.

TRAMMEL AND ERCANBRACK TO MEET OCT. 19

There will be no boxing matches in Wichita Falls this week, announces Matchmaker Don Wofford, but Johnny Ercanbrack of Houston and Duke Trammel are to meet in a 10-round main event Monday night, October 19, in the Wichita theatre, he said Saturday morning.

Ercanbrack, although not very well known in this section, has a good reputation. The Houston miller began fistic action during the war, and there are no records to show he has been defeated. Johnny himself wired Wofford declaring he had never lost a fight.

Some of the boys Ercanbrack has knocked out are Frankie Tull, Joe Young, Nemo Favon, and Paddy Burns.

Johnny Sherrod of Fort Worth and Wildcat Monte, Wichita Falls featherweight, are billed for a 10-rounder on this card, also.

The program will mark the return of Trammel to a local ring after more than two months absence.

SEYMOUR BEATS HENRIETTA, 21-7

HENRIETTA, Oct. 10.—Seymour high school invaded the local gridiron today, and captured the long end of a 21 to 7 count. Captain Staufield, of the Henrietta club, injured his ankle which was weakened in the recent Wichita Falls clash.

Seymour's scores were marked up by three touchdowns and one field goal Davis, Henrietta fullback, carried over the only touchdown for Henrietta. Dugger and Wineman, Henrietta halves, flashed brilliantly on the offense and defense, but their efforts were not enough to hold in check the Seymour eleven. Allgood, center for the losers, and Ludiker, Henrietta end, showed up well in the Henrietta line.

WASHINGTON FORGES INTO ONE GAME LEAD BY TAKING QUEER BATTLE FROM PIRATES

Bucky Harris, Youthful Director of Champs, Outwits Veteran Pirate Chief at Every Turn of the Game.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A shivering gale that swept with Arctic fury across Griffith Stadium today left in its wake as wild and wooly a world series battle as has ever been waged.

Out of this maelstrom of excitement and thrills that left spectators and players alike dizzy as well as chilled Washington's inspired battalions left the wind-swept field victorious by a margin of four to three in the third game of the chimpionship fray gaining a lead of two games to one in the fight for baseball's greatest honors.

In this ebbing and flowing conflict the Senators came from behind to win with a closing burst of combined attacking and defensive brillance but only after a twisting and shifting struggle filled with pulse-stirring plays and bad ones, sensational hitting as well as importency at the bat, consummate strategy as well as bad generalship.

Harris Turns Trick.

Joe Harris, bulky right fielder of the Senators won the game when his smashing hit scored Stan Haarris in the seventh with what proved to be the deciding run and furnished the climax of a two-run rally that put the champions in front for the first time, but it was saved by Sam Rice, and Fred Marberry in the closing two innings of the drama.

Rice in the eighth, robbed Earl Smith of a home run with a marvelous one hand catch as he toppled over the center field bleacher barrier into the laps of spectators while Marberry, giant relief hurler, who had replaced Alex Ferguson stopped the last desperate charge of the Pirates in the ninth after filling the bases with only one out and pitching three straight balls to the last batsman, the dangerous Pie Traynor before a fly to Earl McNeely ended the threat.

Say Rice Missed It.

To cap the climax of all this possibility of a protest from Pittsburgh came after the game on the ground that Rice had not made a fair catch of Smith's drive but dropped the ball then picked it up again inside the bleachers.

The issue of this went so far that Bill McKechnie took up with Commissioner Landis the possibility of making formal complaint, based upon affidavits of spectators who volunteered to testify that Rice had missed the catch but this move was abandoned when Landis made it clear that no reversal off the field of combat could be made on a question of an umpire's judgment and in this case, Charley Rigler, making decisions, from his second base post, had ruled the catch fair and legal.

It was such a struggle fought out in a swirling gust that often clouded the infield and infrigid temperature, that marked the first of three games on Washington's soil, and was witnessed by a crowd of 36,000, with President and Mrs. Coolidge occupying a box behind the dug out of the Senators and other notables in government life braving the wintry blasts to cheer the champions on to victory.

It was battle that contained every element of baseball and at times even had the umpires scratching their heads to unravel disputed situations. It was a scramble of opportunities won and lost in which the Senators seized the greater advantage with their bats and arms while the Pirates fell down woefully in the pinches, checked three times in their rush with the bases full—twice by Ferguson and once by Marberry. It was a duel of twirling skill in which the combined effectiveness of the Washington pair outshone even the brilliant work of Ray Kremer who went the full route for the Buccaneers.

Lastly it was a test of wits in which the youthful Bucky Harris, fighting for his second straight world's championship at the age of 28, out-generaled and out-guessed his veteran rivals, McKechnie and Fred Clarke at every turn.

Strategy Wins.

In the final analysis it was this brilliant strategy employed by Harris that decided the tense and tingling conflict. It was successful first in the seventh inning rally of the Senators, when Liebold, sent to bat for Ferguson, got the spurt under way by working Kremer for a pass and Goslin who had rammed out a terrific home run to the far center field bleachers in the proceeding inning caught the Pirate flat-footed with a bunt that filled the bases.

This laid the fuss for the run-getting fires that were light immediately after by Joe Judge's sacrifice fly, scoring McNeely who replaced Liebold on the paths and Joe Harris' single, bringing in Stan Harris, whose infield tap had gotten him to base on a hit for the first time in the series.

But the master stroke of all by the young Washington field marshal was to follow. It consisted of a defensive shift in which McNeely was sent to center field and Rice moved over to right, replacing Joe Harris, giving the Senators their maximum strength and fleetness of the foot on the outer ramparts to hold the advantage their bats had just won.

The foresight of this shift had its vindication in Rice's startling catch of Smith's smash. Had the slower-footed Harris instead of the gazelle-like Rice been patrolling that sector the Pirate catcher's drive would have doubtless gone as a homer, tied the score and changed the entire aspect of the battle. then too, the value of McNeely's presence was proved when he raced in and bagged the final stroke of the game, propelled by Traynor's bat.

Tonight with the rival combatants bivouacked in preparation for the renewal of hostilities tomorrow in the fourth game, the Senators held an advantage that will take something more than an ordinary charge to overcome.

It was a crucial battle today and the Senators, gaining a margin of two to one, now are heavy favorites to scale the championship heights with their two big pitching aces, Walter Johnson and Stanley Coveleskie, primed to do the sharpshooting in the next two games.

If their previous effectiveness remains, Washington may clinch the title once more without necessitating a return to the Pirate stronghold, for Johnson was virtually invincible in the first game, while Coveleskie was beaten in the second in a close and heart-breaking fight that might have gone either way.

The Senators won today without the services of their third baseman, Ossie Bluege, who still is suffering some ill effects of the blow on the head he sustained from a pitched ball in the second game. No alarm is felt over his condition but it is doubtful whether he will be able to play again during the series.

Bluege's successor, Buddy Meyer, was a bit erratic and uncertain this afternoon in the heat of battle while Peckingpaugh, still off form, paved the way for a Pirate run with his fourth error, but otherwise there was nothing lacking in the Washington defense.

Through the earlier stages of the game the Pirates played with dashing confidence behind Kremer's steady twirling. They got off to a lead in the second inning when Traynor after tripling through Joe Harris, scored on Wright's sacrifice fly and they regained it in the fourth when Cuyler doubled and tallied on Barnhart's single after Sam Rice's single and Joe Judge's double had tied it up in the third.

Ferguson, unsteady at the start but tight in the pinches, fanned Kremer in the fourth for the final out with the bases full. Again in the sixth he struck out Carey with the bases full to check the Pirates after Peck's error on Wright's blow and hits by Smith and Kremer had produced the third and last Pirate tally.

Marberry taking up the hurling after the hectic seventh, swung off at express speed when he retired the first two men to face him, wright and Grantham on strikes, but only Rice's great play on the next batter, Smith, saved him in the eighth, while his own steadiness pulled him out safely in the ninth after successive hits by Moore and Carey and a wild toss that hit Cuyler on the arm filled the bases.

SAYRE SQUAD IS OVERRUN BY VERNON, 33-6

Lions Have Easy Time Vanquishing Visitors; Crouch Hurt

VERNON, Oct. 10.—Taking advantage of the breaks, the Vernon Lions defeated Sayre at fair park this afternoon 33-6. The visitors never had the ball in Vernon's territory until late in the fourth period, after onch Baggett had sent in a number of subs. Sayre scored the touchdown then when Bohanan covered Gelhausen's blocked punt behind the goal line.

Vernon scored first in the initial period. A series of off-tackle plays carried the ball to Sayre's 24 yard line, and Ryan passed to T. Key for 23 yards. Gelhausen bucked the remaining yard. Vernon's second touchdown came shortly after R. Key covered Miller's fumble, placing the ball in Vernon's possession on Sayre's 25 yard line. Three bucks advanced the ball six yards, and Crouch broke through for nineteen yards and a touchdown.

Ryan brought the fans to their feet a few minutes later when he received a punt and raced 52 yards for a touchdown. Ryan made several sensational runs. . Key accounted for Vernon's next touchdown when he covered a punt behind the goal line after Miller fumbled it. He also accounted for Vernon's final score by grabbing another of Miller's fumbles and racing forty yards for a touchdown.

Vernon's victory may prove costly as Crouch, Baggett's backfield star was carried out of the game during the final quarter with a wrenched knee.

Baggett's drilling on defense against aerial attacks during the past week was evident in today's game. The visitors attempted nine passes, and failed to complete any.

Two were intercepted, Vernon tried four passes, completed one and had two intercepted. The locals made ten first downs to the visitors two.

TRINITY TEARS RICE OWLS FOR 13-0 VICTORY

Ferocious Tigers Take Heisman's Team For Loss

HOUSTON, Oct. 10.—Feathers blue and grey were torn from the hide of the Rice Owl at the institute field Saturday afternoon by a ferocious Tiger from Trinity university and when the timers' shot sounded the end of the carnage Coach Bary Holton's jungaleers were found the winer, 13 to 0.

It was a doleful defeat for the young hopefuls of Coach Heisman.

Almost in every scrimmage the invaders were outcharging the Rice line; the Owl interference leaked badly; the Owls were missing tackles both in the open and on the line of scrimmage; in almost every session of the game the Owls were playing poorly, while the Tigers were giving fine demonstration of excellent football.

Score in Third.

The only scoring of the game was done in the third quarter, when the Tigers put over their two touchdowns. Early in the period an exchange of punts gave the Owls the ball on their 36-yard line. A line thrust was thwarted by the alert and vigorous Tiger forwards and Heavy Underwood called for a pass. Captain Manning who was the outstanding player of the field, intercepted the toss as it passed the scrimmage line. On a delayed buck Whittaker knifed through the right wing of the Owl line, evaded the secondary, and dashed 30 yards to the Owls' three-yard line, where he was downed by Hoculi. Schley plunged over for the score. Lowe failed to kick the extra point.

Schley in Great Run.

Later in the period, with the ball on Rice's 40-yard line, Underwood punted. Manning charged through and partially blocked the boot, the ball caroming weakly over the line. Schley, the Tiger fullback, grabbed the oval at midfield, headed diagonally across the field, toward a far corner of the gridiron, and by a sensational sprint, reached his cherished destination.

In the final period the Owls began a passing game which carried the ball to within five yards of the goal, but a pass was grounded behind the Trinity goal and the ball was given the guests on their 20-yard line, just as the game was over.

Lineup:

| Rice: | Position. | Trinity: |

OLNEY NOSES JACKSBORO HI

JACKSBORO, Oct. 10. — Olney managed to nose out Jacksboro high school here Friday by a 6 to 0 score. The score rocked along at a 0 to 0 clip until the third quarter when a forward pass enabled Captain West of the Olney club to go over for a touchdown.

This was the third game for the Olney club, having won two and tying one. Olney now has defeated Breckenridge and Jacksboro, and tied with Henrietta.

St. Edwards Defeats N. Texas Farmers

AUSTIN, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Two sensational dashes off tackle by Pat Malone, speedy halfback, each dash netting a forty-yard gain, featured the 18-0 victory of St. Edward's university over the North Texas Aggies. The Saints outclassed the Aggies in every department of play. As a curtain-raiser to the Saint-Aggie contest, Allen academy trounced St. Edward's academy, 28-0.

Alleit, quarterback, with his heady running of the team and return of punts and Captain Ryan, big tackle, also showed advantage for the victons.

Most of the Saints' gains were made off tackle, the forwards rarely failing to open big holes for the backs.

Vanderbilt Smashes Its Way to 14-6 Win Over Longhorns

TEXANS ARE OUTPLAYED BY TENNESSEEANS; INJURY TO WRIGHT COSTLY TO STEWART

Captain of Lone Star Men Not Seriously Hurt; King Goes Over for Lone Touchdown for Steers.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 10.—(AP).—Vanderbilt university smashed her way to a 14 to 6 victory over the heavier Texas eleven today in a contest that was tied, 6 to 6, until the last quarter.

Reese scored the touchdown for Vanderbilt on a 35-yard dash that unevened the score in the last quarter on a pass from Spears.

This caused Texas to send new players into the field in an eleventh hour mass of strength, but to no avail.

McKibbon scored the first touchdown for Vanderbilt in the second quarter, running 15 yards. Under the strain of the "eyes of Texas are upon you," King of Texas went over for the Longhorn's single touchdown in the same period amidst cheers from the Ward-Belmont students from Texas who attended the game in a body.

Vanderbilt scored two points earlier in the fourth quarter when Texas punted, booth blocked, a Texas man recovered and Vanderbilt scored on a safety.

Injury of Captain Wright in the second period seriously handicapped the Texans. Wright had been playing a magnificent game, his punting averaging from 10 to 20 yards longer than the Vanderbilt kicks. Wright was carried from the field but was not thought to be seriously hurt.

The line-up:

GEORGIA TECH DEFEATS PENN STATE, 16-7

Bezdeck's Men Fall Quickly Before Southerners

YANKEE STADIUM, NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A fighting and hitherto unbeaten Penn State eleven caught between a howling gale out of the north and a tornado of golden jersies from the south was swept to defeat in its annual football game with Georgia Tech at the New York American league baseball park before about 8,000 shivering spectators today, 16 to 7.

Placed on the defensive at the start of the second half by a wind storm which blew back a punt by Captain Gray almost into his face, the men of Bezdek were quickly and decisively beaten down by a Georgian attack which tactfully omitted recourse to aerial play in the treacherous atmospheric conditions. Desparately the Nittany Lions, however, hurled short and bull-like forward passes into the teeth of the gale, but no aerial tosses were safe in the east today and an intercepted throw followed by a brilliant tech march down the field finally decided the battle.

A & M and Sewanee Fight To a Tie

TIGERS FLASH GREAT AERIAL WAR ON AGGIES

Farmers' Line Impenetrable For Tennesseeans; Score Is 6 to 6

DALLAS, Oct. 10.—Sewanee Tigers and Texas Aggies fought an indecisive battle here today in which brilliant forward passing by the invaders and the almost impenetrable line of the Texans held the score to a six to six count. Mahoney starred for Sewanee and Barry for the Aggies.

The Sewanee team made its touchdown on a 26-yard pass, Barker to Gooch to Mahoney, near the end of the last quarter. The Aggies' touchdown came in the second period.

Brilliant speed work and punting by Berry, A. and M. quarter, proved a thorn in the side of Sewanee, while Gibbons, Tiger right halfback, and Mahoney, fullback, broke loose on several occasions with long gains after intercepting passes and punts.

The Aggies' touchdown came in the second quarter when Dansby blocked a punt and recovered behind Sewanee's goal for a touchdown. Hunt failed to kick.

Sewanee scored a touchdown in the fourth on a brilliant pass, Johnson to Gooch to Mahoney, for 26 yards. After carrying the ball from A. and M. 27-yard line to the two-yard line, Mahoney went through for a touchdown, but failed to kick goal. This tied the score.

Navy Victorious Over Marquette

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Showing great alterations in following the ball and taking full advantage of all opportunities, Annapolis Midshipmen triumphed over Marquette university on Farragut Field today, 19 to 0.

It was in a measure sweet revenge for the Middies, who last year were forced to bow to their intersectional opponents, when a maze of forward passes swept them off their feet. It was a different navy team today.

LOCKRIDGE IS TO ENGINEER WACO SURVEY

Recognition won as designing and office engineer on the Wichita county water improvement project and later as designing engineer on the Garza dam in the new Lake Dallas water supply project in Denton county has given J. L. Lockridge, Iowa Park man and well known in this city, an important part to play in what may be another vast impounding scheme in Texas.

Word has reached here that the newly formed engineering firm of Floyd, Lockridge and Gillespi of Dallas has been awarded a contract for research work for the city of Waco which is considering damming the Bosque and Brazos rivers to obtain an adequate supply of water for domestic purposes.

FLARING NEW STAR BOBS UP ON OHIO GRID

Buckeye Half Back, Elmer Marek, Is Very Elusive

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A new comet flamed into prominence to rival Red Grange for western conference gridiron glory today as Ohio State and Chicago fought to a 3 to 3 tie before a colorful crowd of 35,000 spectators that jammed Stagg Field today.

The new star is Elmer Marek of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, a budding young cyclone of 170 pounds, playing left half back for Ohio State. Playing his first game for the Buckeyes he revealed himself as a hard driving, elusive half back who refuses to be stopped unless six or eight tacklers are on top of him.

Marek, as near as can be accurately figured, participated in 12 plays today for a total gain of 45 yards, not including a thrilling 25-yard run which was nullified by a penalty.

The Buckeyes, revealing the breath-taking and stunning blows that made them famous a few years back, clearly outplayed the Maroons in three of the four periods today and were only prevented on two occasions from scoring the points that meant victory because the Maroons rose to superpower on the defense.

The Buckeyes scored their field goal in the first period and the Maroons did not come back to count until the third period in which session they were superior.

Baltimore Wins Over Louisville

ORIOLE PARK, Baltimore, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Baltimore nosed out an eleventh hour victory over Louisville, 10 to 9, in the seventh game of the junior world's series today. The game, played in bitter cold weather, was replete with misplays and heavy hitting.

Brainard, Sheedy and Tyson hit home runs.

Tincup fanned thirteen Oriole batsmen.

Babe Is Improved; Knife Unnecessary

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—As a result of an examination by his physician today, Babe Ruth was relieved of the necessity for going to a hospital for an extended treatment of an abscess. It was decided that treatment at home would be sufficient. Ruth, who was attending the world series, was forced to leave Washington yesterday by the discomfort of the ailment, but his condition had considerably improved today.

"Before the war the Germans had a colony, Togoland, in west Africa," writes Carl Dreher in the November Radio Broadcast magazine. "As early as 1909 they decided to place a wireless station there for communication with Berlin. The site chosen was Kamina, four miles from the terminus of the Hinterland railroad.

"At last, on the night of the 7th of June, 1911, after some two years trying, signals were picked up for five minutes from the great station at Nauen. But before this was achieved mast after mast had been destroyed by tornadoes, and when the first signals from Nauen reached them it was through a captive balloon some 450 feet up, as substitute.—At the same time they heard Pildhu, Cornwall, talking. This 'talking' was in telegraphic code, of course.

FRIGID BLASTS SWEEPING OVER EAST FAIL TO KEEP THE COOLIDGES FROM GAME

Heavy Robes Covering President and His Wife Fall to The Floor Unnoticed As Nation's "First Couple" Cheer the Senators to Victory

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The frigid blasts sweeping American league park were forgotten today by President and Mrs. Coolidge along with their more than 36,000 fellow rooters as Washington overcame the Pittsburgh lead and then checked the Pirates in a thrilling ninth inning finish.

Automobile robes wrapped about the executive and his wife, dropped to the floor, unnoticed, in the seventh inning when McNeely scampered over the plate with the tying marker and robes were still there when Mrs. Coolidge rose to cheer as Joe Harris drove "Bucky" Harris across with the winning run a moment later.

Mrs. Coolidge a Fan.

The president applauded with his gloved hands at high points in the game and Mrs. Coolidge, always an enthusiastic fan had a pencil in action on the score card despite the handicap of gloves, fur coat and robes. Both moved to the edge of their seats, however in the ninth and the robes again dangled loosely as Pittsburgh filled the bases and both were among the first up when McNeely scooped in Traynor's looping fly for the final out.

Still flushed in their enthusiasm Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge stopped on their way from the stands to congratulate some of the happy Washington players trudging to their dressing rooms. They shook hands with Manager Harris, Walter Johnson, Alex Ferguson, Fred Marberry and "Muddy" Ruel.

"That was fine," Mrs. Coolidge ejaculated as she waved a good-bye.

Mr. Coolidge participated briefly in the opening ceremonies. After posing for pictures with Managers Harris and McKechnie the president unloosened his overcoat and threw out the first ball toward Umpire McCormick but a spectator on the field nabbed it.

"Taps" for Christy.

As the presidential party, including Attorney General Sargent, Frank W. Stearns of Boston; Dr. James F. Coupal and Mr. and Mrs. Frezer Hunt of New York, entered the stands the band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner," heads were kept bare as bugler then played "taps" for the late Christy Mathewson, who was buried today.

Earlier in the day the Pittsburgh Pirates called at the White House and President Coolidge posed with them for a picture after first receiving the players and wishing them the best of luck. The president has previously posed with members of the Washington club.

Freshmen girls in the university should take part in some physical activity and belong to at least one other organization such as the Y. W. C. A. or Glee club, according to Miss Ruby Terrill, new dean of women at the university. Girls should enter these extra-curriculum activities for the sake of friendships that may be formed and every co-ed should strive to be an all-round girl, she stated.

Arrangements for the organization of a Masonic club in Baylor university are now being made, according to announcement made by members of the Masonic body, who are backing the proposed club. Purpose of the club is to organize the Masons of the university in such a way that they may be called together for occasional addresses by outside Masons. Social affairs may also be planned.

Organiztion of the Little Theatre club in Baylor university has been recently effected with 12 charter members. Drafting of a constitution for the organization is now under way. Plans are to limit the active membership of the club to 30 students, although provision will be made for the admittance of patron or associate members. Outline of the year's work will include three dramatic programs.

Lawrence Brown of Gulf, a student in the school of engineering, where he specializes in physics, will attend a Presbyterian seminary in Virginia next year, where he will prepare himself for the ministry. Brown has been a student here three years and makes high grades. Incidentally, there are three students in the school by the name of Robert Brown, one being from Austin and the other two from Dallas.

The weather man met footballdom half way at Dallas today and this city eluded the spirit of the gridiron. Happy throngs of college youths filled the streets and midway at the State fair of Texas, scene of the clash between Sewanee and Texas Aggies. Hundreds of alumni and former students of the two schools joined the students and boosters and reminisced the many former meetings at the state fair. As usual, many enthusiastic college "profs" fraternized with the "studes."

More than 70 per cent of the men students of the University of Texas are engaged in some kind of supervised physical training, according to Berry M. Whitaker, director of intramural athletics. If his present plans work out, Mr. Whitaker expects to have 80 per cent of these students taking physical work before the year ends. He has suggested that all fraternities have two basket ball teams this year, one team to be made up of upper classmen and the other team to be composed of freshmen. This plan would enable 200 additional students to take physical exercise.

Miss Virginia Harper of Austin, daughter of Dr. H. W. Harper, dean of the graduate school, has entered the five-cornered race for secretary and treasurer of the tudents' association. Incidentally, she is the only co-ed running fo rthe postion. Miss Harper received her degree last year and has been an active worker in student affairs for four years. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority. Forty-six students are candidates for student offices in the fall elections.

Following a new ruling by Miss Edna McDaniel, dean of women of Baylor university, whereby co-eds residing in the halls and annexes of the school are prohibited from riding in automobiles after 6 o'clock in the evening, a group of Baylor swains tonight procured all available old-fashioned hacks and cabs and drove out to the dormitory of the university, where a group of Baylor girls joined them for a ride. Carriages of this kind, it was pointed out, are not prohibited by the recent ruling. A petition asking for the repeal of the ruling has been presented to Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of the university, after being unanimously adopted by the senior women who reside in the annexes and halls of the institution.

ARGUE MURDER CASE.

Trial of L. P. Kirk at Ballinger Draws Near An End.

BALLINGER, Oct. 10.—Argument began in the L. P. Kirk murder trial here Saturday. Kirk is charged with slaying Crawford Tabor. The case went to trial last Monday.

COPELAND TO TRIAL

WACO, Texas, Oct. 10.—Rev. A. Reilly Copeland came to trial today in the county court here after three days of preliminary skirmishing, on a charge of criminal libel of Miss Adelade Hague.

Radio fans in British India need have no fear that their broadcasting will be polluted with advertising matter, providing the present government regulations are not altered. Sadly these regulations do not hold good in all countries of the British empire, for in Africa, for example, so much advertising matter was being broadcast at one season that many listeners literally gave up radio, and trade suffered considerably as a result. According to J. H. Morecroft, writing in the November Radio Broadcast magazine, the Indian government reserves the right to supervise and inspect all broadcasting stations, to censor them when necessary and to take them over in emergencies.

As is the case in the United States, all broadcasting stations must have a receiving set in use during the broadcasting hours. As regards the advertising, this is not exactly forbidden for stations may make up their programs with a maximum of 10 per cent of advertising matter. All government intelligence, under which heading is included weather reports, educational lectures and various emergency messages, must be broadcast free.

"Scotland Addition"

Scotland Addition is the only close in addition on the market and it will soon all be sold out. You should use good judgment, and common sense in purchasing real estate.

Vacant lots are worthless to build on unless you can secure all the modern conveniences. When you purchase a lot in Scotland Addition you absolutely know it is accessable to water, sewerage, electric lights, street railway, telephone, gas, paved highway, etc.

Why go way out several miles to buy vacant lots without modern conveniences, when they can be had close in to the business district with all modern conveniences at a saving of several hundreds dollars? We still have a few choice lots in this addition which we can sell as low as $400 each, on good terms.

If you own one of these lots, free of encumbrances you can easly get a modern home built on same where you can pay it out like rent. If you want one of these bargains you had better see us at once.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Today's planetary aspects do not presage that sense of peace and tranquility which is so essential to the enjoyment of a Sunday. The signs denote that a spirit of envy, a feeling of dissatisfaction, and an ever present desire to criticise and argue, will be evident. Only by the exercise of a strong will, of a determination to rise superior to these emotional influences, will the day be blessed with any degree of pleasure. After sunset, the aspects improve somewhat, and show that there will be an inclination to view little and petty annoyances with nonchalance, and a desire not to exaggerate incidents of relatively small importance. The signs, however, denote that more than ordinary care must be taken to avoid impulsive outbursts.

Children born today are, according to the signs, fated to suffer from the almost invariable "ups and downs" of infancy. Their quick recuperative powers will enable them to ride out the storm, and reach the haven of health and vigor. In temperament, a boy will be generous, but quick tempered. Ready, at a moment's notice, to scent a wrong, but just as ready to forgive. He will be sportsmanlike, and this characteristic, even after he has grown up, will always enable him to play the game, whether of love or business. A girl will, although externally attractive and winsome, have a very jealous temperament, and in her jealousy, will often be spiteful. She will be able to purr like a kitten, but will possess the ability, when the occasion arises, to scratch like a cat. They both, boy and girl, will be truthful and affectionate.

If today is your birthday, you are somewhat too critical of others to ever find real happiness. Much more is gotten out of life by those who look for the good characteristic of their fellows, than by those who are always contemplating their bad points. None of us are perfect. It ill becomes any of us to accentuate weakness at the expense of favorable traits, of which everyone possesses some.

You are inclined to be narrow minded in your views, and can only see things, as they happen, from your point of view, and never from the point of view of others. You are quick to criticise, slow to commend. Your cynicism, unless corrected, bids fair to sour your whole disposition. This is unfortunate, as you possess ability and keen perception, combined with a considerable sense of humor. Your friends, although you have very few, are unanimous in the belief that if you could change your mental smoke-colored lenses, and get a pair of a lighter and more roseate hue, you would not only be more companionable, but more enjoyable as an associate.

Successful people born on this date are: Paul Ambrose, organist; H. Fiske Stone, ex-attorney-general; Henry J. Heinz, manufacturer; John D. Runkle, mathematician; Henry Dexter, sculptor; Prentiss Mellen, jurist.

Peggy Piedmont

My Dear Kitty:

Well Kitty, we have just passed through the busiest week of our existence. With the clubs beginning their fall work, the Texas-Oklahoma fair, special programs and attractive visitors to be entertained, I had begun to think that my epistle to you would surely come up lacking. However, my piece de resistance this morning is a more interesting bit of news.

It came to me via the mail in a breezy, enthusiastic letter, post marked Oklahoma City. Guess what? News from the J. C. Beggs formerly of this city who have made Oklahoma City their home now for several months.

IT WAS none other than an announcement of the approaching marriage of Ruth Beggs, which will take place today at high noon at the residence of the bride's parents, George H. Coffelt is to be the bridegroom and the ceremony will be read by Dr. McConnell, pastor of the First Baptist church of that city. The bride has lived in Wichita Falls most of her life and is well known here. She is a graduate of the local high school. Her two sisters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Powell and Mr. and Mrs. Jess McLarry will attend the wedding.

And about the visitors, not a day has passed this week that something has not been given for a charming guest and Adelaide Winerich, attractive San Antonio debutant, house guest of Icy V. Larkin, has certainly come in for her share of attention, luncheon and bridge parties have made up a large part of her days and she has completely won the admiration of the younger set. Mrs. Roland Bond, who has before her marraige this summer, Sadie Adickes, is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. M. Adickes and her many relatives and friends, and she is sharing honors with Miss Winerich. Thursday one of the loveliest affairs of the fall season was given in her honor at the home of Mrs. Eugene Clark, with Mrs. J. A. Kemp Jr., joint hostess. Mrs. Bond lives in Dallas.

AND Mrs. Wiley Blair of Chicago, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kell, is also furnishing inspiration for some pretty parties.

This week there has also been a veritable exodus to the east where the world series is being played. Wichitans have gone on every train and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Timberlake, and Mr. Tom Huff will be among those present. Judge and Mrs. R. E. Huff and their son, Dr. Robert Huff, were expected home this week-end from a long summer trip taken along the western coast, Lake Louise and other Canadian resorts. The party have been gone since June the first and on one occasion was snowbound while in Canada.

A week-end party are planning to go to attend the football game at Dallas played by Texas university and Auburn. In this party will be Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Keil, the Leslie Stringers, the Landom Cullums, Allan Montgomery and others.

SINCE writing you last and especially since I wrote you that scathing criticism of Willa Cather's book, "The Professor's House," I have had such an interesting letter from a Wichita Fall's matron whose opinion I prize highly and whom I am pleased to say agrees with me. I will pass it on to you and ask you to peruse the following: "Dear Peggy Piedmont; I have just read with interest your criticism of Willa Cather's book, "The Professor's House," and agree with you and the critic you quote. I happened to be at the same hotel in Denver this summer where Miss Cather was supposed to be studying 'western life' for a new novel. There were so many Wichita Falls people there, I often wondered if we were being watched and studied for 'western life!' While in the hotel, I read her book "The Lost Lady," I would watch her from day to day and wonder why she could not write a better novel than that. It would be a very nice little short story. One you would enjoy reading out of a newspaper some afternoon, but a strong, big, novel you would expect her to write, can not be found in "The Lost Lady," nor in this last book. But it seems to me so many of our modern authors are trying to keep up with a style in writing, like we all try to keep up with the style in dress, nobody likes it but its stylish."

I WAS very glad to get this letter as I was really puzzled as to why some of the late books from authors whom we have learned to expect something good, were so poor.

Speaking of new books, have you read "The Crystal Cup?" Gertrude Atherton's latest novel will appeal to the same numerous readers with whom her other novels have been popular. For in there is the same distinct characterization, the same closely-woven story which moves along with considerable and smooth rapidity; in it there is the same artistic sense of making the most out of a given emotional situation by means of the literary trickery which one finds in even the greatest of novels.

"The Crystal Cup," however, does

Mrs. W. B. McClain Tells of Summer Trip To Paris, Junior College Teacher Declares French Capital I Art Shrine of Entire World

MRS. W. B. McCLAIN, prominent club woman and teacher at the Junior college, who with her father is a native of France, toured that country this summer and attended the University of Paris speaking of her trip says: "Going to Europe means going to France—and going to France means going to Paris. In no other land in the world. Paris the artistic shrine of the world. It is a city of parks and fountains, of broad stately boulevards, of enormous public squares and imposing monument. All the year round Paris welcomes the traveler. In the summer her countless hotels are overflowing with visitors from every part of the globe. Paris is famous for her beautiful shops, the excellent food of her famous restaurants and cafes her theatres and operas, her museums and art galleries, her churches palaces, and also her wonderful schools in literature, music and art.

Many Museums.

There are many world famous museums in Paris, the best known of which is the Louvre museum. This one covers 48 acres of ground and contains many exquisite paintings, statues and various works of art. This museum has the original "Winged Victory" and the original "Venus de Milo." It is very thrilling to see the originals of the things you have read about all of your life. The Cluny museum constructed in the 12th century and still in an excellent state of preservation, is filled with an interesting collection of objects dating from the first century of the middle ages. One could spend weeks and weeks of study going through the various museums anad learn many interesting things.

Paris is a city filled with gardens, beautiful formal gardens containing a riot of color. The Tuileries garden which extends from the Louvre to the Place de la Concorde is probably a mile long. This garden also contains hundreds of statues and many lovely fountains. The Place de lae Corncorde, the square where the guillotines stood during the French revolution, is about a quarter of a mile square. We have no conception of size until we see a city like Paris. Paris itself is like a lovely museum.

Paris has probably the most elaborate theatre in the world—the Grand Opera house, and the famous comic opera shows are all that they are heralded to be and one must be broadminded when one enters the theatre to see a French comic opera because of the lack of clothing worn by the chorus girls. Tickets to French attractions are not as expensive as they are in the United States but there is a tipping system within the theatre that amounts to quite a sum. As you enter, programs are sold in the lobby for two francs whereas if you wait until you are seated they cost you two and one-half francs. You have to check your hat and coat and that costs a franc with another extra franc for a tip, then the girl who ushers you to your seat expects a franc. You become accustomed to this constant tipping after a while but at first it proves very annoying.

Then there are the famous cafes with their tables and chairs on the side walk. There may be more than 100 tables on the side walk in front of one cafe and there will still be plenty of room for pedestrians, due to the fact that many of the side walks of Paris are 50 feet wide. You may set at the tables and only buy light refreshments such as a glass of wine or beer, a cup of coffe, a dish of ice cream, or you may order a whole meal and eat it under a canopy on the side walk. This experience is very delightful. When you receive your bill for the food or drinks, the expected tip is one-tenth of the bill. The water in Paris is 100 per cent pure but the unsuspecting tourist is often made to believe that it is unfit to drink in order that they may be sold wine or bottled mineral waters.

No matter how simple the meal, one cannot hope to be served in less time than an hour and a half, and it is utterly useless to get in a hurry when dining. It just isn't done no matter how simple the meal, it is served in courses and there is always wine. The first thing the waiter hands you is the wine list. All of the wines in France is very cheap and everyone drinks wine with meals. Very good wine may be bought for ten or fifteen cents a quart, and some for less. France is a great wine producing country because of the fact that the climate is especially suited to growing grapes of all varieties. The climate of southern France is almost the same as that of southern California, and despite the fact that France is a little smaller than Texas, there remains rooms for many lovely wheat fields. France is known as an agricultural country.

Good Schools.

The schools of France are very good. The children are taught English just the same as we are taught Spanish and French in our schools. However they are usually taught English by teachers from England, and combining this with their natural foreign accent it makes their English hard for an American to understand. Boys and girls in France go to separate schools until they enter college. The compulsory school age for children is 13 years but they may stop school at 12 years of age if they have a legitimate excuse. Paris is a great center of learning and seems to be filled with students of all nationalities. The air seems to be filled with joy here, and everyone is smiling. You see no evidence of dire poverty and there are almost no beggars, due to the fact that everyone works. Those who seem too old for active labor have lovely little flower stalls or newspaper stands alonog the sidewalks. You may buy American newspapers that are printed in Paris, every day. Noticable among these papers are the Chicago Tribune, the New York Herald and the Paris Times.

If you want to do some shopping, all you have to do on entering a store or small shop is to ask for someone who speaks English and they will immediately bring you a clerk who speaks English as well as you do. There is also someone at the desk of every hotel who speaks English and in all of the large restaurants there is always at least one waiter and maybe more who speak English. It is difficult however, to find and that problem is easily solved by simply handing the taxi driver the address where you want to go written down on a piece of paper. The taxi meters register just like ours how much your bill is, and that is always very cheap as you can ride miles for only a few cents. You can ride clear across Paris on one of the auto busses for about three cents and their subway whic his called the Metropolitan is better than the subway in New York and the fare is ridiculously cheap.

The train service is France is very good. Their second class service is about equal to our first class Pullman. Their coaches are divided into separate compartments which open into an isle which extends the length of the coach and you may pass from one coach to another just as we do. Their dining car service is delightful, with splendid food.

Difficult Now.

France today is far different from what the American boys knew during the war. The France of today is covered with lovely wheat fields, the trenches are all grown over, even Belleaux woods where so many of our boys saw action and which was entirely shot to pieces during the war, is today evergrown with fine green trees and if it wasn't for the American cemetery at the foot of the hill it would be absolutely impossible to stretch your imagination into believing that there had ever been a war in that section of the country. In the American cemetery there are about 8,000 graves of American boys, marked with white wooden crosses about four feet high with the soldier's name stenciled on them. And although there are hills on both sides, the cemetery is on level ground. In the center, there is a round plot where a large American flag is floating. There is also an office maintained by America for those who are interested in hunting up the location of any of the graves.

Chateau Therry which was so completely shelled is all rebuilt, as are all the other towns that were under shell fire.

Styles Not Extreme.

French styles are not extreme as we have always been led to believe. The clothes on display in the stores and small shops are not the bizarre and freakish models which we always associate with Paris. The clothes whether for men or women, are nearly always tailored and no matter how exquisite the material, the lines are usually very simple. The Parisian woman dresses very neatly and appears usually on the street in tailored costume. After 6 o'clock in the evening, the Parisian woman is exquisitely gowned in an evening dress and wrap. The men wear tuxedoes after 6 o'clock and always carry a cane and wear gloves. The hats in Paris look exactly like the ones worn here. Before sailing, I tried on a hat here in Wichita Falls and I saw a woman in Paris trying on the duplicate hat in Paris several weeks later. So I wondered if the women's hats were made in Paris or in America. Parisian shoes are exactly like our own and if anyone has any fear of buying shoes in Paris, I wish to inform them that there is a Walkover shoe store on one of the main streets and a Hanan store on another.

The Parisian woman uses very little rouge and that applied so artfully that it is very hard to detect. They have lovely, velvety complexions and they can well afford to keep themselves well groomed as a manicure only costs 20 cents, a shampoo, 25 cents and marcel from 25 to 40 cents.

You can also purchase almost all

Oscar Fox Will Sing Monday At Junior College

Noted Musician and Composer Scheduled to Appear Here

Oscar Fox, noted Texas musician and composer, will be presented Monday evening at the Junior College auditorium in a recital by the Girls' club of the Junior High school, and the history department of that school.

Mr. Fox has the distinction of being an artist who began his early study of music while living on a ranch. He was born on a ranch near Marble Falls, and early in his life his father bought a piano, the first one in that section of the country and the marvel of the country side.

Was At San Antonio

Later he went to San Antonio where he studied music and graduated from high school. His next move was to Switzerland where he studied music for three years. When he returned, he became organist at St. Mark's cathedral at San Antonio and still holds that position. In addition to that he is director of the Men's Glee club of the University of Texas, Austin.

He is best known as a composer of cowboy ballads, and cowboys admit that he "knows his stuff."

That he pleases his audience is told by press reports and interviews. One was from the dean of T. C. U. where Mr. Fox entertained at three different times during the year. He was applauded by the students who seemed to appreciate his concert as favorites. At a meeting of the Federated Musicians at Dallas last spring, his entertainment proved the "hit" of the evening.

In Hall of Fame

The National Federation of Music clubs has recently asked for a photograph of Mr. Fox to hang in the Hall of Fame in the Congressional library in recognition of his work.

With Mr. Fox will appear Eric Harker, tenor singer, who will sing the ballads with Mr. Fox playing his accompaniment.

Tickets will be on sale at Renfro's drug store from 10 o'clock until 6 o'clock today.

MRS. DARNELL HOSTESS TO UNITY CLUB.

Scotland Addition is the only close in addition on the market and it will soon all be sold out. You should use good judgment, and common sense in purchasing real estate.

Vacant lots are worthless to build on unless you can secure all the modern conveniences. When you purchase a lot in Scotland Addition you absolutely know it is accessable to water, sewerage, electric lights, street railway, telephone, gas, paved highway, etc.

Why go way out several miles to buy vacant lots without modern conveniences, when they can be had close in to the business district with all modern conveniences at a saving of several hundreds dollars? We still have a few choice lots in this addition which we can sell as low as $400 each, on good terms.

If you own one of these lots, free of encumbrances you can easly get a modern home built on same where you can pay it out like rent. If you want one of these bargains you had better see us at once.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

By MARY BLAKE

Today's planetary aspects do not presage that sense of peace and tranquility which is so essential to the enjoyment of a Sunday. The signs denote that a spirit of envy, a feeling of dissatisfaction, and an ever present desire to criticise and argue, will be evident. Only by the exercise of a strong will, of a determination to rise superior to these emotional influences, will the day be blessed with any degree of pleasure. After sunset, the aspects improve somewhat, and show that there will be an inclination to view little and petty annoyances with nonchalance, and a desire not to exaggerate incidents of relatively small importance. The signs, however, denote that more than ordinary care must be taken to avoid impulsive outbursts.

Children born today are, according to the signs, fated to suffer from the almost invariable "ups and downs" of infancy. Their quick recuperative powers will enable them to ride out the storm, and reach the haven of health and vigor. In temperament, a boy will be generous, but quick tempered. Ready, at a moment's notice, to scent a wrong, but just as ready to forgive. He will be sportsmanlike, and this characteristic, even after he has grown up, will always enable him to play the game, whether of love or business. A girl will, although externally attractive and winsome, have a very jealous temperament, and in her jealousy, will often be spiteful. She will be able to purr like a kitten, but will possess the ability, when the occasion arises, to scratch like a cat. They both, boy and girl, will be truthful and affectionate.

If today is your birthday, you are somewhat too critical of others to ever find real happiness. Much more is gotten out of life by those who look for the good characteristic of their fellows, than by those who are always contemplating their bad points. None of us are perfect. It ill becomes any of us to accentuate weakness at the expense of favorable traits, of which everyone possesses some.

You are inclined to be narrow minded in your views, and can only see things, as they happen, from your point of view, and never from the point of view of others. You are quick to criticise, slow to commend. Your cynicism, unless corrected, bids fair to sour your whole disposition. This is unfortunate, as you possess ability and keen perception, combined with a considerable sense of humor. Your friends, although you have very few, are unanimous in the belief that if you could change your mental smoke-colored lenses, and get a pair of a lighter and more roseate hue, you would not only be more companionable, but more enjoyable as an associate.

Successful people born on this date are: Paul Ambrose, organist; H. Fiske Stone, ex-attorney-general; Henry J. Heinz, manufacturer; John D. Runkle, mathematician; Henry Dexter, sculptor; Prentiss Mellen, jurist.

Peggy Piedmont

My Dear Kitty:

Well Kitty, we have just passed through the busiest week of our existence. With the clubs beginning their fall work, the Texas-Oklahoma fair, special programs and attractive visitors to be entertained, I had begun to think that my epistle to you would surely come up lacking. However, my piece de resistance this morning is a more interesting bit of news.

It came to me via the mail in a breezy, enthusiastic letter, post marked Oklahoma City, Guess what? News from the J. C. Beggs formerly of this city who have made Oklahoma City their home now for several months.

IT WAS none other than an announcement of the approaching marriage of Ruth Beggs, which will take place today at high noon at the residence of the bride's parents, George H. Coffelt is to be the bridegroom and the ceremony will be read by Dr. McConnell, pastor of the First Baptist church of that city. The bride has lived in Wichita Falls most of her life and is well known here. She is a graduate of the local high school. Her two sisters and their husbands, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Powell and Mr. and Mrs. Jess McLarry will attend the wedding.

And about the visitors, not a day has passed this week that something has not been given for a charming guest and Adelaide Winerich, attractive San Antonio debutant, house guest of Icy V. Larkin, has certainly come in for her share of attention, luncheon and bridge parties have made up a large part of her days and she has completely won the admiration of the younger set. Mrs. Roland Bond, who has before her marraige this summer, Sadie Adickes, is visiting her mother, Mrs. M. M. Adickes and her many relatives and friends, and she is sharing honors with Miss Winerich. Thursday one of the loveliest affairs of the fall season was given in her honor at the home of Mrs. Eugene Clark, with Mrs. J. A. Kemp Jr., joint hostess. Mrs. Bond lives in Dallas.

AND Mrs. Wiley Blair of Chicago, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kell, is also furnishing inspiration for some pretty parties.

This week there has also been a veritable exodus to the east where the world series is being played. Wichitans have gone on every train and Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Perkins, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Timberlake, and Mr. Tom Huff will be among those present. Judge and Mrs. R. E. Huff and their son, Dr. Robert Huff, were expected home this week-end from a long summer trip taken along the western coast, Lake Louise and other Canadian resorts. The party have been gone since June the first and on one occasion was snowbound while in Canada.

A week-end party are planning to go to attend the football game at Dallas played by Texas university and Auburn. In this party will be Dr. and Mrs. O. B. Keil, the Leslie Stringers, the Landom Cullums, Allan Montgomery and others.

SINCE writing you last and especially since I wrote you that scathing criticism of Willa Cather's book, "The Professor's House," I have had such an interesting letter from a Wichita Fall's matron whose opinion I prize highly and whom I am pleased to say agrees with me. I will pass it on to you and ask you to peruse the following: "Dear Peggy Piedmont; I have just read with interest your criticism of Willa Cather's book, "The Professor's House," and agree with you and the critic you quote. I happened to be at the same hotel in Denver this summer where Miss Cather was supposed to be studying 'western life' for a new novel. There were so many Wichita Falls people there, I often wondered if we were being watched and studied for 'western life!' While in the hotel, I read her book "The Lost Lady," I would watch her from day to day and wonder why she could not write a better novel than that. It would be a very nice little short story. One you would enjoy reading out of a newspaper some afternoon, but a strong, big, novel you would expect her to write, can not be found in "The Lost Lady," nor in this last book. But it seems to me so many of our modern authors are trying to keep up with a style in writing, like we all try to keep up with the style in dress, nobody likes it but its stylish."

I WAS very glad to get this letter as I was really puzzled as to why some of the late books from authors whom we have learned to expect something good, were so poor.

Speaking of new books, have you read "The Crystal Cup?" Gertrude Atherton's latest novel will appeal to the same numerous readers with whom her other novels have been popular. For in there is the same distinct characterization, the same closely-woven story which moves along with considerable and smooth rapidity; in it there is the same artistic sense of making the most out of a given emotional situation by means of the literary trickery which one finds in even the greatest of novels.

"The Crystal Cup," however, does

Mrs. W. B. McClain Tells of Summer Trip To Paris, Junior College Teacher Declares French Capital I Art Shrine of Entire World

MRS W. B. McCLAIN, prominent club woman and teacher at the Junior college, who with her father is a native of France, toured that country this summer and attended the University of Paris speaking of her trip says: "Going to Europe means going to France—and going to France means going to Paris. In no other land in the world. Paris the artistic shrine of the world. It is a city of parks and fountains, of broad stately boulevards, of enormous public squares and imposing monument. All the year round Paris welcomes the traveler. In the summer her countless hotels are overflowing with visitors from every part of the globe. Paris is famous for her beautiful shops, the excellent food of her famous restaurants and cafes her theatres and operas, her museums and art galleries, her churches palaces, and also her wonderful schools in literature, music and art.

Many Museums.

There are many world famous museums in Paris, the best known of which is the Louvre museum. This one covers 48 acres of ground and contains many exquisite paintings, statues and various works of art. This museum has the original "Winged Victory" and the original "Venus de Milo." It is very thrilling to see the originals of the things you have read about all of your life. The Cluny museum constructed in the 12th century and still in an excellent state of preservation, is filled with an interesting collection of objects dating from the first century of the middle ages. One could spend weeks and weeks of study going through the various museums and learn many interesting things.

Paris is a city filled with gardens, beautiful formal gardens containing a riot of color. The Tuileries garden which extends from the Louvre to the Place de la Concorde is probably a mile long. This garden also contains hundreds of statues and many lovely fountains. The Place de lae Corncorde, the square where the guillotines stood during the French revolution, is about a quarter of a mile square. We have no conception of size until we see a city like Paris. Paris itself is like a lovely museum.

Paris has probably the most elaborate theatre in the world—the Grand Opera house, and the famous comic opera shows are all that they are heralded to be and one must be broadminded when one enters the theatre to see a French comic opera because of the lack of clothing worn by the chorus girls. Tickets to French attractions are not as expensive as they are in the United States but there is a tipping system within the theatre that amounts to quite a sum. As you enter, programs are sold in the lobby for two francs whereas if you wait until you are seated they cost you two and one-half francs. You have to check your hat and coat and that costs a franc with another extra franc for a tip, then the girl who ushers you to your seat expects a franc. You become accustomed to this constant tipping after a while but at first it proves very annoying.

Then there are the famous cafes with their tables and chairs on the side walk. There may be more than 100 tables on the side walk in front of one cafe and there will still be plenty of room for pedestrians, due to the fact that many of the side walks of Paris are 50 feet wide. You may set at the tables and only buy light refreshments such as a glass of wine or beer, a cup of coffe, a dish of ice cream, or you may order a whole meal and eat it under a canopy on the side walk. This experience is very delightful. When you receive your bill for the food or drinks, the expected tip is one-tenth of the bill. The water in Paris is 100 per cent pure but the unsuspecting tourist is often made to believe that it is unfit to drink in order that they may be sold wine or bottled mineral waters.

No matter how simple the meal, one cannot hope to be served in less time than an hour and a half, and it is utterly useless to get in a hurry when dining. It just isn't done no matter how simple the meal, it is served in courses and there is always wine. The first thing the waiter hands you is the wine list. All of the wines in France is very cheap and everyone drinks wine with meals. Very good wine may be bought for ten or fifteen cents a quart, and some for less. France is a great wine producing country because of the fact that the climate is especially suited to growing grapes of all varieties. The climate of southern France is almost the same as that of southern California, and despite the fact that France is a little smaller than Texas, there remains rooms for many lovely wheat fields. France is known as an agricultural country.

Good Schools.

The schools of France are very good. The children are taught English just the same as we are taught Spanish and French in our schools. However they are usually taught English by teachers from England, and combining this with their natural foreign accent, it makes their English hard for an American to understand. Boys and girls in France go to separate schools until they enter college. The compulsory school age for children is 13 years but they may stop school at 12 years of age if they have a legitimate excuse. Paris is a great center of learning and seems to be filled with students of all nationalities. The air seems to be filled with joy here, and everyone is smiling. You see no evidence of dire poverty and there are almost no beggars, due to the fact that everyone works. Those who seem too old for active labor have lovely little flower stalls or newspaper stands alonog the sidewalks. You may buy American newspapers that are printed in Paris, every day. Noticable among these papers are the Chicago Tribune, the New York Herald and the Paris Times.

If you want to do some shopping, all you have to do on entering a store or small shop is to ask for someone who speaks English and they will immediately bring you a clerk who speaks English as well as you do. There is also someone at the desk of every hotel who speaks English and in all of the large restaurants there is always at least one waiter and maybe more who speak English. It is difficult however, to find and that problem is easily solved by simply handing the taxi driver the address where you want to go written down on a piece of paper. The taxi meters register just like ours how much your bill is, and that is always very cheap as you can ride miles for only a few cents. You can ride clear across Paris on one of the auto busses for about three cents and their subway whic his called the Metropolitan is better than the subway in New York and the fare is ridiculously cheap.

The train service is France is very good. Their second class service is about equal to our first class Pullman. Their coaches are divided into separate compartments which open into an isle which extends the length of the coach and you may pass from one coach to another just as we do. Their dining car service is delightful, with splendid food.

Difficult Now.

France today is far different from what the American boys knew during the war. The France of today is covered with lovely wheat fields, the trenches are all grown over, even Belleaux woods where so many of our boys saw action and which was entirely shot to pieces during the war, is today overgrown with fine green trees and if it wasn't for the American cemetery at the foot of the hill it would be absolutely impossible to stretch your imagination into believing that there had ever been a war in that section of the country. In the American cemetery there are about 8,000 graves of American boys, marked with white wooden crosses about four feet high with the soldier's name stenciled on them. And although there are hills on both sides, the cemetery is on level ground. In the center, there is a round plot where a large American flag is floating. There is also an office maintained by America for those who are interested in hunting up the location of any of the graves.

Chateau Thierry which was so completely shelled is all rebuilt, as are all the other towns that were under shell fire.

Styles Not Extreme.

French styles are not extreme as we have always been led to believe. The clothes on display in the stores and small shops are not the bizarre and freakish models which we always associate with Paris. The clothes whether for men or women, are nearly always tailored and no matter how exquisite the material, the lines are usually very simple. The Parisian woman dresses very neatly and appears usually on the street in tailored costume. After 6 o'clock in the evening, the Parisian woman is exquisitely gowned in an evening dress and wrap. The men wear tuxedoes after 6 o'clock and always carry a cane and wear gloves. The hats in Paris look exactly like the ones worn here Before sailing, I tried on a hat here in Wichita Falls and I saw a woman in Paris trying on the duplicate hat in Paris several weeks later. So I wondered if the women's hats were made in Paris or in America. Parisian shoes are exactly like our own and if anyone has any fear of buying shoes in Paris, I wish to inform them that there is a Walkover shoe store on one of the main streets and a Hanan store on another.

The Parisian woman uses very little rouge and that applied so artfully that it is very hard to detect. They have lovely, velvety complexions and they can well afford to keep themselves well groomed as a manicure only costs 20 cents, a shaupoo, 25 cents and marcel from 25 to 40 cents.

Oscar Fox, noted Texas musician and composer, will be presented Monday evening at the Junior College auditorium in a recital by the Girls' club of the Junior High school, and the history department of that school.

Mr. Fox has the distinction of being an artist who began his early study of music while living on a ranch. He was born on a ranch near Marble Falls, and early in his life his father bought a piano, the first one in that section of the country and the marvel of the country side.

Was At San Antonio

Later he went to San Antonio where he studied music and graduated from high school. His next move was to Switzerland where he studied music for three years. When he returned, he became organist at St. Mark's cathedral at San Antonio and still holds that position. In addition to that he is director of the Men's Glee club of the University of Texas, Austin.

He is best known as a composer of cowboy ballads, and cowboys admit that he "knows his stuff."

That he pleases his audience is told by press reports and interviews. One was from the dean of T. C. U. where Mr. Fox entertained at three different times during the year. He was applauded by the students who seemed to appreciate his concert as favorites. At a meeting of the Federated Musicians at Dallas last spring, his entertainment proved the "hit" of the evening.

not contain what one does find in the greatest of novels; a warmth of feeling for humanity. It seems that this wherein most of our novels are lacking. Authors it seems are so often absorbed in the mechanical aspects of the proper construction of a book that they forget that their characters and situations should be to them and to the reader—real.

OF THE many novels published each year, one critic says: "They are certainly mechanically well-nigh perfect. Of those hundreds, though, very few are possessed of that subtle quality which convinces the reader, not that he is reading a story about persons created by the author, but that he is following the careers of real people. In this, Miss Atherton fails. "The Crystal Cup" is supposed to be a psychological study of Gita Carteret. If Miss Atherton knew as much about psychology as she does about fiction writing, her book would be much better. She would take a lesson from Mr. O'Higgins, who is sound scientifically in addition to being a skillful writer.

Miss Atherton's psychology is at fault in the same manner as her writing. In her scientific conclusions she has no doubt neglected to weigh the element of humanity. Her leading character, Gita, Carteret, gives her the plot and the opportunity of introducing the sex element, however, which seems now to be the one essential thing for the author to do to get his novel published."

I AM going to close now, as there is a Conrad novel on my desk that is enticing me. Every once in a while when I become satiated with the ultra modern bunkum, I return to my beloved Conrad. So au revoir.

Free Service.

The American express company gives the traveler good service in Paris, absolutely free. The company occupies a large white stone building in the heart of the shopping district of Paris which is devoted to giving free service to Americans. One entire floor is given over to the mail department and you may have your mail sent there and when you call for it you will find the mail divided up according to the various initials, making it easy to accommodate the thousands who call for their mail daily. There is also a writing room on this floor. The first floor is given over to information bureaus and departments where you can buy railroad tickets, steamship tickets, get your money exchanged, secure a list of reliable hotels or receive advice about shopping. Their employes are all Americans.

The best way for the traveler to become acquainted with Paris is to spend the first two days on a sight seeing bus, on one of the tours conducted by cooks or the American express company or several others which are equally as good. The guides all speak English and they point out to you the main places of interest. After that you may go alone and feel safe.

There is so much charm in the personality of the Parisian—such evidence of good breeding. They are always polite, smiling, and courteous to those about them. It is indeed refreshing to be in company with French men and women.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Culberhouse of Bowie, who were guests of their daughter Mrs. John Simpson, during the far, have returned home.

Don't forget PIMPLES are caused by blood impurities

WHEN your system is lacking in rich, red blood, it is too weak to purify itself. So, impurities break out through the skin. Pimples, blackheads, rashes, boils or eczema are the result.

And the common sense thing to do is to build back your blood to where it is so rich and red and pure that the impurities can't live. More red cells are what you need—and then you just watch your skin clear up.

Now, the greatest aid for building red-blood-cells the world has ever known is S. S. S. Everybody knows that S. S. S. has proved it for generations. You can't get away from it. S. S. S. helps Nature build red-blood-cells by the millions—simply fills your system full of rich, red, pure blood.

Your skin clears right up, soft and beautiful—firm, plump flesh rounds out your figure—your eyes sparkle and there's a spring in your step.

And how good you feel after S. S. S. has put your blood in order. You enjoy eating—you sleep fine—you get up in the morning feeling fresh and fit—simply brimful of new life and energy.

Don't ever forget that pimples and skin blemishes are caused by blood impurities. And don't ever forget that these impurities can't live in the rich, red, pure blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build. That's simple—isn't it? Well, why go on and be annoyed with unsightly skin eruptions that destroy your natural beauty and make you lose confidence in your own powers? Don't do it! Take S. S. S. and get rid of these ugly things. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Satin and Cloth Frocks

Satin Frocks, which have held the center of the early fall stage are now sharing honors with the lovely cloth frocks of soft wools and velvets since chilly days are here. Both types of dresses are beautifully shown in our salons in the smart tailored lines and in brilliant showy frocks featuring.

Metallic Lace

A rose red velvet dress achieves this important style point by applique of gold kid with mental thread on heavy white lace. Sometimes the metal laces are very narrow—other times full and wide, richly gathered. Pleatings, jumper effects, metal braid, many buttons and new high collars are appealing points of the new frocks. Flares are revelling in their popularity. They are sometimes gathered, sometimes cut circularly, or perhaps inserted as a godet, but they're everywhere.

The new frocks in crepe satins, mirroleens, charmeens, velveteens and velvets range in price from

$49.75 and $75.00

ENGLAND REAL ESTATE BOOM

LONDON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Great slices of England are changing hands every month, and owners of family mansions whose forefathers would have been aghast at the thought are placing ancestral homesteads in the hands of real estate agents for sale. It is asserted by experts that 1925 will be remembered among other things for "the great shuffle of property in the "shires" and in recent months nearly 50,000 acres belonging to old estates have been disposed of in eight sales.

The burden of taxation, heavy death duties, higher interest rates on mortgages and highest costs of maintenance are among the principal reasons for these changes of ownership, and whereas the old county families are unable to meet their present day expenses, some of the newly rich are able to step in and secure bargains.

In many cases large estates have been split up, enabling buyers to obtain possession of small farms and villages or portions of fairly large towns. It is no uncommon thing for a real estate broker to dispose of 8,000,000 pounds sterling worth of property in three months and one large westend firm is credited with having sold 2,000,000 acres in the United Kingdom in less than seven years.

MANY WANT TO SEE MORGAN

Financier Is In London Again; Hundreds of Curious Seek Him.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—J. P. Morgan is in London again, and, as is usual whenever the newspapers announce that the American financier is visiting the city, hundreds of inquiries have been made for him at the downtown hotels, beginning several days before he was due to arrive.

These inquiries for the most part are made by cranks and the curious, or by persons who desire a small advance to see a talented son or daughter through school of art or music or something of the sort. Many letters also arrive for Mr. Morgan at the larger hotels, usually labelled "personal" and these are forwarded to the proper address, where they are looked over by one of Mr. Morgans numerous secretaries. Few of these letters are seen by the financier himself as he has a code system by which letters from persons from whom he really wants to hear are marked.

As a matter of fact Mr. Morgan, who arrived here a few days ago, is never seen in London hotel lobbies and only seldom in cafes and restaurants, as he has a residence at 12 Grosvenor Square, which runs full tilt whether he is here or in New York. The Morgan residence has a full staff of servants the year around. Every evening the dining table is made ready for dinner and every night the covers of Mr. Morgans bed are turned back, the curtains drawn, then lights turned on and an ash tray and book placed beside the bed, although the owner may be 3,000 miles away.

The Illusions of Hope.....By James J. Montague

"Thank Heaven I have found out at last what was the matter with my game," said Bill, as he poured a little tan colored fluid into a glass containing ice, and mitigated it with fizzy water from another bottle.

"I thought for a while that I was to blame. But I wasn't. Not at all. Nobody could have played a shot with that brassie. I have been dragging around with me. I'm here to bet anything you like that if Walter Hagen tried to use it he'd take ten on that first hole of ours and would have to pick up on the fourteenth.

"I'm just beginning to find out that this game is all in the clubs anyway. It's mechanical, that's what it is. Purely mechanical. As well expect to win a race in one of those old fashioned one lung cars as to play around under a hundred with some of these twisted shanks crooked headed clubs that they sell you nowadays.

"Now take a look at this. Its a brassie I got Arthur Draper to buy for me the last time he was in London. That's what I call a club. These lads over there know how to make 'em right. Just left it and see how it's balanced. Look at the pitch—must be right for the loft you know.

"No, I haven't tried it yet, but I don't need to try it. I know just by holding that club what I can do with it. No more slicing or hooking for me. I'll come in here this afternoon with a score that will make your eyes bulg out."

"Well," I inquired, late that afternoon, "How did you do?" "Oh, allright," said Bill. "A hundred and ten or around there. But my trouble was all with that new club. I suppose those heavy headed brassies are all right over in England, where the courses are soggy with rain, and you have to plough through the ground to get at the ball. But on hard ground like ours they bounce like rubber when they hit the ground. But the brassie wasnt all. Some of the trouble was in the putter. That thing I've got is built so that you couldn't putt true with it if it was fixed between slides like the piston on a locomotive. I was looking at it closely this afternoon, and there's a little hump right in the middle of the face that sends the ball one way or the other, but never straight.

"But I've fixed that. After I'd tried seven or eight of these putters that the pro sell, I ran into a fellow who had had one made. He owns a machine shop, and he got one of the engineers who works for him to study out just the kind of a putter that will swing like a pendulum and put just the kind of a top spin on the ball so that when it get to the cup it will just simply have to clink in. The club is absolutely fool proof. Even you couldnt miss a three foot putt with it, dub as you are.

"Well, I got him to make me one of 'em. And I'm going to have it here tmorrow. And the difference in my score it's going to make. It's a stroke, and it counts. The fellow that takes three of four putts on a green can never get under a hundred, no matter if he clouts 'em out two hundred and fifty yards or better.

"When I came in this afternoon I counted up my putts and I had forty of 'em. That's too many. Well, with one of his new putters I'll cut that down to thirty or better, and then you'll see me copping some of those medals around here that rotten golfers are getting now just on the strength of their putting. I'll have a different story to tell you when I come in tomorrow afternoon.

The next afternoon he came into the locker room and poured himself three drinks of the tan colored liquid in rapid succession. He had a curious looking short handled club in his hand.

"Say," he said, "maybe you will like this thing. I don't want it any more. A lot of fool mechanical engineers think they know more about this game than Robert Burns or Rederick Dhu or whoever it was that invented it. Did I tell you that I paid twenty-seven dollars for this apparatus? No? Well that was just the first cost. The upkeep for one day has been a hundred. That's what I bet with Jim Judson on my theory that the putter would save me eighteen or nineteen strokes. I lost every hole—every singlehole, mind you. Did you ever hear of anything like that before?

"The guy that designed this had been used to making sledge hammers and he built on that principle. Every time I'd hit the ball with it, no matter how gentle, it would shoot off the tee in an arc like a mashie shot and land somewhere in the rought or in a bunker or out of bounds a hundred yards away. It is impossible to tap with the thing. If I'd have had the sense to use it as a driver I'd have made a good score in spite of the putting, but I didn't. So I lost every hole to a bird that I can spot eight strokes and beat with my eyes shut.

"Well, I've decided that putting isn't so important. If you get on the green, any kind of a putter ought to get you down in a couple or even if you do make three you're score wont be so bad. After a good deal of thought I've made up my find that it's the approaching that makes the game. Bill Warner has got a brass mashie that is hollowed out in the middle, and the way he can pop up the hill and lay down on the green with that club would make your hair stand on end, especially if you were playing for the kind of money that he bets. He's going to lend it to me and I'm going to have one made just like it. After all, what I need is an approach club. That's where the shots are wasted, in getting on the green. I'll be some golfer just as soon as I get that club eating out of my hand the way Bill has his

A week later he came into the club and sat thoughtfully down on a bench.

"How was the new club—the one like Warner's," I asked.

"Nothing much. Got a hundred and twenty using it. But I'm through with this rotten golf, and this experimenting around I know a fellow over at Apawamis who sent over to St. Andrews and got a whole new set of those Scotch clubs they make there, and he's a bear with them. Made an eighty-five the day he got them.

I've sent for a set. They'll set me back quite a bit with the freight and everything, and it'll take me till late in the fall to get them here. But when I do get them look out. You fellows who have been playing pretty nearly even with me are going to see me hop right out of your class and join the five handicap men. I always knew I could play golf if I had the right clubs. And I'll be doing it just as soon as this bunch shows up and don't you forget it.

Overheating Harmful As Well As Wasteful

In any study of the economy of the use of natural gas in the household, we must take notice of the almost universal tendency of Americans to overheat their homes, even to an extent prejudicial to their health.

It may be taken as well established by the testimony of medical men that a temperature in winter weather of from 70 to 72 degrees is the most healthful. Yet few of us confine ourselves to that. Often in the winter time homes are heated to a degree that would be considered uncomfortable in the summer. Thereby the air is vitiated, the bodily stamina is lowered, and the outside cold is felt more acutely upon exposure.

Plenty of good fresh air, warmed to a point where it is grateful, is required in home heating. It is rarely necessary to use all the heating power the appliance can generate.

High Wages, Voss Men, Guards of Life —By Ed. Howe

By ED HOWE.

It develops that at Port Darwin, Australia, the cost of preparing a beef carcass for export, exclusive of cost of live animal, interest and depreciation, was over fifty dollars, while at the Argentine plant of the same company the cost was a little over ten dollars.

Union labor in Australia is better organized than in any other country.

The result of high wages in Port Darwin, Australia, was that the packing houses closed down, and there was no work in them for anyone.

Not only that, but cattle in Northern Australia, whether the property of large companies or farmers, had no value, and were allowed to die.

A certain man makes his living as a writer, and is better than the average. As he is young, and steadily improving, probably he will soon be one of the first raters. In a letter to me, he says: "I am convinced writing is a poor business; writers a poor lot. If I could make an equally good living in any other way, I wouldn't be a writer long." In an older day, writers had a tremendously goor opinion of themselves. But lately men who do things in engineering, mechanics, manufacturing, agriculture, etc., are being recognized as the real force in the world. People are lately pointing with pride to thsoe who have built a railroad, a tunnel, a bridge, a tall building, or done some other practical thing of real use to mankind, instead of to those who have written a book.

It is related in one of the papers that George Cohan regularly every week helps thirty-five people who have been unfortunate. The help is not in good advice, but in money. Mr. Cohan denies the story. Is there a man on the face of the earth who would do as commendable a thing as this, and deny it?

A writing man says: "Let the sheep-like crowd take the risks o its docility." A good deal to think about in this.

Goethe wrote good things, but hid them away in piles of rubbish so big that I, for one, will not wade through them.

---

The greatest trouble with Americans is the manner in which we over do good things.

I know a man so prominent that his name is almost a household word, because of his advertising. He has branches in Canada, England, Mexico, Japon, South America, Cuba, India, Australia, New Zealand, practically everywhere.

A very intelligent man, without a doubt.

He writes me that he has used one razor blade a hundred and sixty-nine times, by actual count. His experience is that the razor blades are ruined by being stropped too much.

This man has found that a comparatively few times across the strop keeps a razor blade in condition, while much stropping dulls it.

Here is a fine sermon from a preacher who amounts to something. The trouble with preachers is that so many of them do not know what they are talking about: the world is full of dull pigs preaching to foxes.

But here is a preacher who has proven his intelligence; when he talks, there is more behind it than mere sound.

I have been preaching against the American sin of overdoing many years, but here is a man who, with a little incident from his own experience, preachers more powerfully.

In India, the fact is as plain as the nose on a man's face that there is too much religion. And this religion has become so complicated, because of centuries of quarreling about it, that now no one understonds it: if it has a means of grace, no one knows how to take advantage of it. When in that country, a Brahmin priest who acted as my guide confessed that he did not understand his own religion and expressed the belief that no one did.

American politics has become as complicated and meaningless as the religion of the Hindus. In our country politicians exact a greater tax, and create more disturbance, than religion does in India. There are no ceremonies in the Hindu religion more meaningless than the ceremonies in our politics. Our orators and writers say more meaningless and foolish things about liberty, justice, etc., than the Hindus say about their Joss Man. We are neglecting simple, important, true things as regularly as the Hindus, and pay an equally great price for talk about Joss Men stuffed with saw dust.

What is the thing we call Common Sense?

It is prayer practically applied, assistance given hope.

Life is like a game of cards. Reliability is the ace, industry the king, politeness the queen, thrift the jack, common sense is playing to best advantage the cards you draw.

And every day, as the game proceeds, you will find the ace, king, queen, jack in your hand and opportunity to use them.

I have rarely examined the history of a noted man of ancient times that I was not shocked to find the statement that he was licentious. Licentiousness seems to be a human characteristic: if not proven of all, it may be because the histories of all are not printed.

---

The real thing in reform would be to reduce the expenses of government. We are spending two dollars where one would be sufficient. Considering the difficulty with which the poor pay taxes, the manner in which half is wasted, is the most foolish, cruel thing in our history.

---

Writing is a poor art. I can not say in print that a certain thing is true, and make it true thereafter. Indeed, my favoring an idea may arouse thousands to opposition, who were before indifferent.

---

Martin Luther was one of the great infidels, although some say he was a church reformer. When men attack a thing they believe to be wrong, their idea is to get rid of it, not reform it.

---

When old men write their memoirs, I find I am much like them; but when young men talk, I find I am inferior.

---

It will not hurt you to say prayers, but it is better to work intelligently for what you pray for.

---

Every man pretends to sophistication; every woman to innocence.—Floating paragraph.

"Weak and Puny"

"I WENT fishing one day, a heavy storm came up and I got soaking wet in the rain," says Mrs. Ora Carlile, of Ore City, Texas, whose picture appears above, telling of the serious complications that followed this exposure.

"I was afflicted with awful smothering spells," she continues. "My mother had some Cardui in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right. I continued the use of Cardui for a while to be sure that my recovery was permanent.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer. I would get so weak I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it and began to take it. Almost from the first dose I could feel the improvement.

"I wrote to The Chattanooga Medicine Company for the Home Treatment Book, and as soon as I got it I began taking Cardui according to the directions that specially fitted my case. It wasn't long until I was feeling a great deal better.

"I am much, much better now. I do not feel like the same woman I was last fall. My appetite is good now and I'm sure it's Cardui that's made it pick up, for in the fall I had no relish for food at all, while now I'm hungry for my meals."

MESSIAH A WOMAN

French Play Represents Saviour as Woman Killed by Bomb.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—"Fires Divine" a play in which the Messiah is represented as a woman, is drawing much comment in London. Miss Maude Royden, the well known preacher and many other prominent women have given their approval of the performance.

The play is a theosophical melodrama in which a young woman works many miracles and finally ascends with her lover to heaven. The first performances were pirvate and the play was much pruned before the general public was admitted. In the original version the young woman and her lover were killed by a bomb and made their ascent on high in view of the audience. This was eliminated and the murdered pair are now supposed to make the ascent off stage.

Mrs. Rosalind Rossmer, the author, does not pretend to be an experienced playwright, but she says the play is merely the expression of a great thought and resents the disposition of men to claim a monopoly of the Holy Spirit. She says there is no sex in soul and God does become manifest through women.

Lady Grey of Fallodon is one of the backers of the play, which also has the support of Lady Lutyens, the wife of the architect of the Cenotaph.

"There ought to be created a unified voice of the state institutions of learning that will remove competition among institutions for monetary advantages," Mr. Walton said.

YOUNG MOTHER - By FANNIE HURST

Copyright, 1925, by
The McClure Newspaper Syndicate

The World's Highest Paid Short Story Writer

Author of "Lummox", "Humoresque"

The modern theory that the best way to rear a baby is to let it express its little self naturally was being accepted by modern young women in general. But just the same, if you lived next door or two doors or three doors removed from the Tom Westons, there was something pretty nerve-racking about little Tom Jr. lying out there, sometimes two and even three hours a morning, crying, sobbing, squalling his little heart out.

Even Tom, on Sunday mornings, used to pace up and down the side lawn gnawing the short ends of his mustache and closing his hands up into fists, as little Tom Jr. squalled, but theoretically, at least, Tom agreed with Naida. They were rearing their offspring in the modern eupeptic, hygienic, physiological, and psychological fashion. Tom and Naida had theories about the rearing of children, or rather Naida had them and Tom was willing enough to fall in with them.

Well, the proof of the pudding, as the saying goes—

Tom Jr. squalled himself out of his babyhood into a lusty, vigorous boyhood. Neither Naida nor Tom ever talked baby-talk to him, spanked him or restricted his little meanderings around the house. From the time he was old enough to figure out A.B.C's for himself, Naida constituted herself a companion to her offspring.

He called his parents "Tom" and "Naida". He slept out of doors in a sleeping-bag twelve months out of the year. His baby questions were answered from the serious level of man to man. He was informed right off that there was no Santa Claus and that babies were born. His father put him on an honor system. His mother discussed current events with him.

Of course he was a real boy, too. That was part of the system. His father saw to it that he was thoroughly trained in outdoor sports and his mother, who from the very first constituted herself his constant companion, went about with him to the stadium and polo matches and learned boy-lingo.

In an era of short-skirts, short-hair, low-stockings and low-heels, it was hard to realize that Naida Weston was the mother of her son.

When Tom Jr. was eighteen and his mother thirty-six they made really a remarkable pair. Naida went to college proms with her son and was sought after by sophomores. Naida talked eugenics, biometrics, English lit., and Math 4 with her son's colleagues as if she were their own age and laboring under their own problems and college difficulties.

The boys envied Tom Weston. His mother was a brick. A pal. A regular fellow. When most of their gray-haired mothers sat around the wall at the prom, with their hands folded on their stomachs, Naida Weston was having her dances cut into by one after another of her son's friends.

The day Tom Jr. graduated from college there was a constant knot of faculty and seniors, to say nothing of juniors, freshmen and sophomores, around the slender little form of Tom Jr.'s mother.

"Gee, it's great to have a mother like that," was the general verdict of the senior class. Almost wistful verdict. Not that most of the fellows didn't have perfectly ripping mothers and all that. Would not change one gray hair of their dear gray heads, but hang it, there was something pretty fine about the way Tom Jr.'s mother managed to pal up with him. She was the sort of person a fellow liked to trot around with, exactly as if she were a fellow's sister or a fellow's best girl. Tom Jr. lighted his mother's cigarettes for her and took her off on parties that were considered just a little wild.

Tom Jr.'s mother was a pal, in the truest sense of the word. Every fellow on the campus fell for her.

When Tom Jr. was twenty-two, and just about ready to graduate from law school, the first serious event of his carefree young life crashed through his carefree scheme of things.

Young Weston fell in love. Fell in love with some one who offhand seemed as unattainable as the Polar star. The daughter of a British peer, visiting the delightful college town where the Westons made their home, dawned upon Tom Weston one day as beautiful and as austere and as remote as an ice maiden. With all of the fervor of a really passionate young nature Tom Weston, to whom all girls heretofore had been epitomized in the girlishness of his mother, fell in love.

From the very beginning Naida Weston's heart began to bleed for her son. There wasn't a chance. There wasn't a hope, that this remote, glacial beauty was within the pale of young Weston's achievement. More than that, in her heart Naida knew that Tom Jr. deserved something better than this self-contained, self-possessed daughter of a British dynasty of earldoms.

Young Tom was in for a heartbreak. Naida knew that, and something inside her twisted like a knife. For the first time in all the years of their day-by-day, pal-to-pal companionship, a pool of silence formed between Naida and her son.

Tom Jr. began to display all the classical symptoms of his malady. He didn't eat and he left the table abruptly if questioned about it. He fussed over his cravats for unholy periods. He lost his color and his lustre. Dancing no longer amused him, except when he knew that the Lady Felicia would be present.

And Naida sat back and saw it happening and wept silently for him, and, because he would not let her cross the pool of silence widening between them, remained on the other side with her arms and her affection and her pity stretched toward him. If only Tom Jr. would unburden himself to her, talk to her, even weep to her! But somehow the days marched on and the silence marched on and Tom's silence widened into moroseness. The moroseness of hot-and-cold flushes. The moroseness of starting violenty from his chair at the sound of the telephone bell. The moroseness of picking up a clump of letters from the hall table with fingers that trembled.

There is something very modern in that theory. Well, the proof of the pudding, as the saying goes—

When Tom Jr. was eighteen and his mother thirty-six they made really a remarkable pair. Naida was sought after by sophomores at college proms which she went to with her son. The day Tom Jr. was graduated from college there was a constant knot of faculty and seniors around the slender little form of Tom Jr.'s mother.

But when Tom fell in love with the Lady Felicia, frigidly lovely, what was it that Naida heard as she stood in the hall that night at the Schuylers' house party, her hand clutching at her throat?

The Schuylers gave a house party. The Tom Westons and Tom Jr. were invited and the Lady Felicia, and a youth named Gregory Scott and his mother. Tom had graduated with young Scott. His late father had made a fortune in stone quarrying and Gregory was carrying on the industry.

It was an austere, a nervous, a dull and a completely ecstatic Tom Jr. who arrived at that house party. And with the knife in her own heart, Naida knew that her son was in for a crucifixion.

It was such a cruel procedure. Almost every young man has to endure the castigation of his first unfortunate love affair. But the Lady Felicia manoeuvred with a refinement of cruelty that was Machiavellian. For five days Tom Jr., his face scarred-looking and his eyes tortured, endured under the frigid wiles of the Lady Felicia. Even Tom Weston, in his rather matter-of-fact, phlegmatic way, had the look of hurting for his son, and as for Naida, she could literally have clawed, hand and fingernailed, at the lovely frigidity of the Lady Felicia.

Mrs. Scott, who had white hair and wattles on her neck, like a peafowl, sat back in gray taffeta with her hands crossed on her stomach, while Naida danced to the radio with Gregory, who was frankly in love with her, and while Tom Jr. and the Lady Felicia glided in the frigid embrace that Her Ladyship permitted.

It was rather fun, the idea of Gregory Scott being in love with Naida Weston. It amused everybody; even Mrs. Scott, whose wattles quivered when she laughed, used to sit back evenings while the young folks danced, amused at the spectacle; the ridiculous, callow spectacle of her son dancing, obviously infatuated, with Naida Weston. Tom Weston Sr. laughed, too, and went off and played billiards with his host.

Then this happened: one night when Naida could endure the silence no longer, the silence that was twisting her son's white, stark face into a chronic expression of torture, she slipped on a white silk wrapper over her nightgown and stole over to her son's room. It was terrible that Tom Jr. would not talk to her. Could not bring himself to talk to her. The pals they had been. The years and years of a perfect companionship. Not the companionship of mother-and-son, but of brother-and-sister. Naida was proud of that. And now this new, this terrible, this torturing silence.

Tom's room was empty, but there were voices across the hall. Tom Jr. was in Mrs. Scott's room, in a huddle on the floor, with his face in the broad, the motherly sag of Mrs. Scott's lap.

"I had to tell somebody," Naida's son Tom was sobbing to Mrs. Scott. "I had to find somebody who would understand—a mother somehow. A woman with enough of mother in her to understand. You don't mind my bringing it to you? I had to tell somebody."

Olympic Showing Big Feature Play In Western Novel

"A Son of His Father," a Paramount screen version of Harold Bel Wright's newest novel of the same name, produced by Victor Fleming and featuring Bessie Love, Warner Baxter and Raymond Hatton in the cast, will be the feature at the Olympic theatre for three more days.

Miss Love, as Nora O'Shea, after the death of her mother in Ireland, journeys to Tucson, Ariz., to live with her brother, a cowboy on the ranch owned by "Big Boy" Morgan, played by Warner Baxter.

When she arrives at her destination the boy is not there to meet her. It developes that he has left the ranch to join in with a gang of cattle smugglers and gamblers, headed by one Zobster, Morgan, however, receives the girl and lies to her about her brother.

Morgan gets into a gambling session and loses controlling interest in his ranch to Holdbrook (Walter McGrail), a tool of Zobester.

In time Nora learns the whereabouts of her brother and sets out to try to win him back to honesty, only to be imprisoned herself by the smugglers. It takes "Big Boy" Morgan and all his men, backed up by an entire company of U. S. cavalry to rescue her. The brother dies protecting Morgan. Holdbrook, the gambler, gives up his interest in heart and gives up his interest in the ranch to the girl, knowing that she loves Morgan.

Every scene of the production was taken on the exact locale described by the author in his novel. Paramount set a high standard for outdoor pictures with its Zane Grey production. The same high stanadard has been maintained in bringing Wright's splendid western thriller to the screen.

Besides McGrail, other well known players in the strong supporting cast of the production are Charles Stevens, Carl Stockdale, in the role of Zobester, Billy Eugene, James Farley, Valentina Zemina and George Kuwa. Anthony Coldewey wrote the screen play.

Not Literary Era Declares Corinne Griffith, Actress

Modern fiction doesn't hold any allure for Corinne Griffith.

This beautiful screen star, who has just produced Edna Ferber's pithy short story, "Classified," which will be coming to the Strand, said so in effect in an interview she granted the other day to a magazine scribe.

"The mysticism of Hindu philosophers, the deep-seated logic and psychological development of the mercilessly incisive Russian school headed by Gorki—these real adventures in literature appeal to me far more than the standard, made-to-order brand of fiction that is stagnating the growth of literary style in our clime and age.

"Representative of these types of literature, as they come to mind, I might mention the wonderful symbolical works of Rabindranath Tagore, Hindu poet and seer; the startlingly modern analysis of Arthur Schnitzler, the German; the pungent, earthly cross-sections of Russian life that Gorki, Tolstoi and Andreiev are responsible for and which, in latter days of native authorship, are beginning to be tinged by the light of spirituality.

"I mustn't omit the Scandinavians, whose morbidity is only matched in instances by that of the Russians, but whose pathological insight into the human race is marvelous. There are, for instance, Ibsen and Bjornson.

"I do not mean to infer that the literature of our land isn't replete with marvelous masterpieces—but I do most emphatically affirm that for the most part these masterpieces were not written in this era, which is anything but a literary era for America.

"What modern work for instance, is there to compare with that masterpiece of mood, Ike Marvel's 'Reveries of a Bachelor?' Not only is this book a stranger to the modern generation, but when I mentioned the name of the author the other day, a certain motion picture executive who is a follower of the pugilistic sport thought I was referring to a prize ring gladiator.

"Of modern writers of distinctive style and unique powers I might mention Lord Dunsany, O. Henry and Tom Burke among realists and Laurance Hope, Arthur Symonds and, in his earlies phases, Robert W. Service among the poets."

restoratives. On her recovery Miss Stewart received the congratulations of David Smith, the producer, on her remarkable fortitude and her vivid portrayal of helplessness in the water.

"But I wasn't acting," cried the star. "The water was so frightfully cold I was utterly helpless and simply couldn't scream."

"Night Club" With David Griffith Is Laugh Producer

Pedestrians, who constantly dodge automobiles, are soon to have an opportunity to take a few lessons from Raymond Griffith, who claims he is an expert.

Griffith gives these lessons in "The Night Club," his latest Paramount picture, which shows on Monday and Tuesday next at the Palace.

Several of the scenes show Griffith in a Spanish town pursued by a car driven by Vera Reynolds. Miss Reynolds loses control of her machine and it chases Griffith all over the street. To save himself from being run down he emulates the climbing feats of a monkey and leaping to a street lamp suspended from an arch, pulls himself to a safe position just as the car dashes beneath him. As he drops from the street lamp the machine charges toward him again and he does some very creditable sprinting and dodging. He is certain to have the full sympathy of the thousands who walk and dodge.

"The Night Club" was adapted from William de Mille's stage play, "After Five." The production was directed for Paramount by Paul Iribe and Frank Urson, who made "Forty Winks." Players featured with Griffith and Miss Reynolds include Wallace Beery and Louise Fazenda.

"Below the Line" With Rin-Tin-Tin Coming to Strand

"Below the Line," the latest of the Rin-Tin-Tin series of pictures which comes to the Strand next Friday is a picture of thrills, romance and comedy, but especially of thrills. Undoubtedly it is the most exciting of the wonder dog's pictures, and Warner Bros., the producers, have been especially fortunate in obtaining good pictures for this sensational dog star.

"Below the Line," was written and adapted to the screen by Charles A Logue. It tells the story of a vicious pit-fighting dog in a small southern village. The dog's master, a village boy, has won the animal's affection through tender treatment. When the boy gets into trouble, the dog's fighting blood is once more aroused. The climax comes with a fight between Rin-Tin-Tin and a pack of bloodhounds that carries the thrills to fever heat.

Rinty Never Better.

The dog star has never been better. From the time he is dumped out of a crate when being transported through the village on a train to the moment of his blood-thumping fight, he develops the character with uncanny instinct for the proper effect. He is humorous, tender, strong, unrelenting, vicious, snarling, pathetic and glorious by turns. Even in the matter of make-up his trainer had him prepared for the role with utmost realism. At first he is ugly in a dirty tramp dog fashion and then, gradually, you see him develop into the beautiful beast he is. The transition was quite as startling as that made in reverse order by John Barrymore when he gradually changed from the elegant Beau Brummel to the squalid old man.

John Harron, whose juvenile characterizations are becoming more and more valuable assets to any photoplay, makes the boy potently convincing, and the lovely June Marlowe, "the girl with the soulful eyes," is a delightfully sympathetic heroine. The cast further includes Charles Conklin in a gorgeously funny county sheriff impersonation, Pat Harigan is a repulsively fascinating villain and Edith Yorke, as the little old mother of the hero, a mother with fighting blood in her veins.

Western Daring Pitted Against Circus Thrills

Diving from the peak of a circus tent to the back of a careening horse is an experience most people wouldn't relish—but there is one man who "eats it up." This is Art Acord, king of screen daredevils, world champion broncho rider, and idol of lovers of film thrills. Acord does this startling trick in "The Circus Cyclone" new blue streak Western production released through Universal, and coming Sunday to the Garden theatre.

The story is a combination of the sensations of the circus and the thrill of the Western range. It deals with the love of a cowboy for a girl rider in a circus that plays a Western border town, and his battle, against the entire circus, to save her from the plot of the brutal ringmaster owning the show.

Daring circus stunts vie with thrills of the range; a sensational mob battle adds to the thrilling detail, and there is a battle on a careening automobile on a cliff that tops it all for hair-raising suspense. Albert Rogell, who wrote and directed the play, evolved a drama in which he concentrated action down to the very essence of excitement. A pretty romance runs through it, also.

Sord is supported by a notable cast. Nancy Deaver, leading woman in "Wolf Fang" and other well known productions, is seen in the feminine lead, and Cesare Gravina, peer among character artists, plays a delightful role as an old circus clown. Albert J. Smith, famous as a villian of Western plays and other screen celebrities appear.

This Week's Bill At Majestic Has Five Strong Acts

This week's Majestic program offers a variety of numbers sure to please the most exacting, according to the announcement made of the bill.

Bobby Henshaw plays the ukelele, and he does many other things that lend a supply of entertainment, but he plays the ukelele so well that he is called "Uke" Henshaw. He gives a number of imitations, yodles, and in his act gives many merry moments.

"Radio Fun" presents Mlle. Burnell, the scientific enigma. The jaded appetite of the public and the tired business man is crying for "something new under the sun," and this act supplies it. Mlle. Burnell presents a new departure in vaudeville in "Radio Fun."

Bob Robinson and Renee Pierce, the purveyors of satirical humor in "Cross Wires," present a humorous act which is described as a shocking exposure of married life. These two take a few of the telephone experiences that happen to any Mr. or Mrs. many times and make them into a bright laughing vehicle, "Cross Wires."

A genuine Italian nobleman is Count Perrone said to be, and he with a fine baritone voice will be presented at the Majestic Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights. With him is Miss Trix Oliver, soprano, who plays his accompaniments and in addition gives a concert of her own. Count Perrone is in this country due to the fact that he was invalided home from the Italian army and being compelled to earn a livelihood, decided to use his voice.

William Brack and his company in a sensational and trampoline attraction are considered marvelous gymnasts. Their act is said to be a triumphant one in athletics and eccentricities. Mr. Brack and his company number five of the finest athletes ever brought together in one organization.

Film Star Floats In Frozen Water In Making Movie

Anita Stewart, the star of Vitagraph's "Baree, Son of Kazan," at the Palace theatre Sunday, is a 33rd degree "Snow-Bird." She qualified for membership in that select circle of all-year-round swimmers when floating on a below-zero morning down a blood-chilling black river between snow-covered, icicle-decorated banks in the face of an icy canyon breeze.

In the story of "Baree," Nepeese, the French-Indian girl, floats, not swims, down stream to a point where she is pulled out by Tubon, an old Indian. Gazing on the icy Truckee river, in California, Miss Stewart shivered. Thoughts of the muscle-paralyzing cold restrained her for a moment. Then she laughed bravely—and plunged in.

The first few yards were almost too much for endurance. They seemed like a mile. Deadening pains set in, and it was all the star could do to keep from striking for the shore. But the order was not to move arms or legs, merely letting the frigid scene bear her along as it would. She wanted to scream out her terror, but found herself breathless from the shock. It was a long time, indeed, before James O'Neill, who plays Tubon, reached out and drew her up one of the banks.

Attendants rushed Miss Stewart into a nearby tent, where a trained nurse, who was in waiting, applied

Showing At the Olympic

Raymond Griffith in the Paramount Picture "The Night Club"

At the Palace Monday and Tuesday

Stately Dances Will Be Shown In Palace Bill

Frances Howard, Helen Lee Worthing, the supporting cast in "The Swan," and a hand-picked collection of beauties from the "Follies" could be seen daily going through the intricate figures of the quadrille under the direction of a specially engaged dance master at Paramount's Long Island studio recently during the filming of Ferenc Molnar's stage play.

In addition to the leading players—Adolphe Menjou, Ricardo Cortez and Miss Howard are featured in the principal roles of the production—Dimitri Buchowetzki, the director, chose fifty men and women, among them a Russian princess, a countess and a baroness, as well as a goodly number of "Follies" and "Vanities" girls, to represent diplomats, ladies-in-waiting, officers and guests at a court reception and ball which is a colorful sequence in the film version of Molnar's play.

This scene, incidentally, necessitated the building of the largest "set" ever constructed in Paramount's Long Island film factory.

"The Swan," which Buchowetzki both wrote and produced for the screen, opens at the Palace Wednesday and Thursday. It's a romantic high comedy, laid in a little kingdom in the Balkans.

Dorothy Phillips Returns to Movie Plays At Strand

"The Sporting Chance," a Tiffany production, is the feature production at the Mission theatre starting today, and was received with a great deal of enthusiasm by a large audience who were thrilled by the various scenes as they unfolded on the screen.

The climax of the picture, a vivid, smashing race, makes the spectator fairly howl as the horses, running neck and neck, come down the home stretch. It is one of the best scenes of its kind this reviewer has thus far ever seen flashed on a screen.

The work of Miss Dorothy Phillips, who has just returned to the screen after an absence of two years, is highly praisworthy, and Lou Tellegen, George Fawcett, Theo. Von Eltz and Sheldon Lewis complete a great cast in a great picture. And "Kentucky Boy" bears out the judgement of his owner that he is a great race horse.

DR. W. B. CALDWELL AT THE AGE OF 83

"Age is not the time for constantly whipping the bowels into activity. A lash can not be used every few days."
—DR. CALDWELL

If Past Forty, Adopt a Regulating Laxative

Most men and women past forty must give to the bowels some occasional help, else they suffer from constipation. One might as well refuse to aid weak eyes with glasses as to neglect a gentle aid to weak bowels.

Is your present laxative, in whatever form, promoting regularity for weeks and often for months—or must you "purge" and "physic" every day or two to avoid sick headache, dizziness, biliousness, colds, or sour, gassy stomach?

One dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will establish natural, healthy bowel movement for weeks at a time, even for those chronically constipated. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin not only causes a gentle, easy bowel movement but, best of all, it is often months before another dose is necessary. Besides, it is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take.

Historic City Home of "Law West of the Pecos" Will Not Be Totally Abandoned By S. P.

Station Will be Moved a Mile Away in Straightening Of Road But Will Not be Given Up Entirely

HOUSTON, Oct. 10.—Bean, Texas, made famous by Roy Bean, who called himself the "Law West of the Pecos," is not to be left without railroad facilities, as the station is to be moved little more than a mile from its original site, Southern Pacific railroad officials here said. The recent report that the Texas railroad commission authorized the abandonment of the line from Langtry to Osman, led many to believe that Bean station would be left "high and dry."

The Southern Pacific is to straighten its track removing the road from the bed of Willow creek to higher ground to escape floods. In 1919 nine bridges were washed out by floods from Willow creek.

When the new portion of the line is completed it will run from Eagle Nest Canyon 10 miles west to Osman. Langtry and Bean, both named for celebrities, the former for the famous actress, Lillian Langtry, are small stations, Langtry being merely a flag stop on a siding near Bean.

Siding Abandoned.

The siding will be abandoned but Bean citizens will be able to hear the rumble of transcontinental trains, although not as plainly as when Roy Bean ran a saloon and made snap decisions in his court, "the Law West of the Pecos" river.

Mention of Bean's name stirs the memories of southwest Texas stockmen. Coming from Kentucky in the early eighties, Bean settled at Langtry, where Lillian Langtry was in a train wreck, and from whom the town obtained its name. There an old cattle trail crossed what is now the right-of-way of the Southen Pacific. Bean constructed a wooden shack and after being chosen justice of the peace, he dispensed liquor and justice therein. Over the door he placed a sign, "Judge Roy Bean, justice of the peace—the law west of the Pecos." There it clings today, weatherbeaten and fading but a shrine for hundreds who visit it annually.

Roy Bean a Judge.

Roy Bean became legal arbiter over the wide expanse of wild country from the Pecos River to the Rio Grande. He handed down opinions from which there was no appeal. He had a few law books, but only a slight knowledge of what was in them. However, he had a well trained trigger finger, accustomed to the supreme law of the Southwest, the single action six-shooter. He possessed a clear understanding of frontier human nature, and it is claimed by pioneers that no outward dissatisfaction with the judgments of his court was ever shown, and the majority of the people believed in him, and a belligerent minority dared not assert itself.

Although long under the wind swept sod of his judicial doman, Bean yet lives in memory. His jurisdiction meant nothing to him, for he decided constitutional questions with the same assurance as he settled disputes of housewives, all because he made himself "the law west of the Pecos," and the people had faith in him.

SEASONS TO BE REGULAR

Famous French Astronomer Predicts Summers Hot and Winters Cold.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—"Winters are going to be cold again and summers hot," announced Abbe Moreux, the famous astronomer-priest, from his lookout station at Bourges on the day France and England returned from daylight saving to standard time. This official recognition of the arrival of aumtumn put an end to one of the most fantastic summers ever known in Europe.

"The seasons henceforth will return to that regularity almost forgotten today," Abbe Moreux said. "Winters will be crisp and cold with plenty of snow, and summer months will be warm, with every day perfect for bathing. The coming winter will be a cold one."

Several earthquake shocks within the next few weeks or months also are predicted by Father Moreux, who for a quarter of a century, without missing a single night, has studied from his observatory the problem of solar activity, which from his observatory the problem of solar activity, which he says accounts for all seismic and climatic vagaries of our frail planet. Father Morex's predictions have proved unusually accurate, and he has gained from them a world wide reputation.

UNVEIL AJAX SIX AT FAIR AUTO DISPLAY

Nash-King Now Have New Motor On Display In Showroom

The curtain of mystery is now drawn from the new Ajax six, revealing a car whose outstanding characteristic is quality in a measure never before attained or even approximated in its price field.

The Nash King Motor company, Wichita Falls Ajax dealer had this car on display at the automobile show and is now being shown at their salesroom, 1012 Scott Avenue.

Notable among the many features it presents are a seven-bearing crankshaft, force-feed lubrication to all main bearings, connecting rod bearings, and camshaft bearings, four-wheel brakes, full balloon tires, richly distinctive body lines, and superb workmanship in every detail.

The introduction of the Ajax has been eagerly awaited by the automobile industry as well as many thousands of automobile buyers who have followed the unusual manufacturing record of C. W. Nash. This new car is regarded as the crowning achievement of his career. It is built by the Ajax Motors company, subsidiary to Nash Motors, and those who have had an opportunity to see it and drive it state that it is a contribution to the motor car industry of vital importance.

Plant Is Remodeled.

Its noteworthy performance, exceptional riding comfort, and economy of operation will arouse widespread comment. The great Ajax plant at Racine, Wis., was completely remodeled and equipped throughout with the very newest precision machine equipment and tools known to the motor car world in order that the new car should have every production advantage.

The Ajax six is available in two body styles—a five passenger four-door sedan and a five passenger touring model.

Though not as large as the Nash product it has an over-all length of 153 1-4 inches. Factory list of each model is touring car, $865; sedan $995. Both the touring car and sedan bodies are of beautifully modeled design. Their attractiveness is further enhanced by the use of a double bead at the belt line. They are mounted on a low-hung frame, thus assuring road steadiness at all speeds.

The seating arrangement in both cars provides the occupants with unusual room and comfort. The compactness of the motor construction, due to the use of the seven-bearing crankshaft, made it possible to provide this moderate size car with more than usual body room.

Well Finished.

The body construction of both touring car and sedan extremely strong and of splendid workmanship. Both bodies are finished in a deep gray green duco with black belt moldings, black baked enamel fenders, and deep gray green duco wheels. The sedan top is also in black.

The touring car seats in back are upholstered in genuine leather toned to match the body color and the sedan seat cushions and backs are upholstered in mohair of an attractive green shade patterned with black stripes. The upholstery in both cars is quite deep and comfortable.

The equipment of the Ajax six is in keeping with the high standard of quality which prevails throughout. It includes automatic windshield wiper, rear view mirror, cowl ventilator, transmission lock, cowl parking lights and headlights with dimmers. Both cars have one-piece windshields hinged at the top and there is a sun visor on the sedan.

The deft grouping of the instruments on the Ajax instrument board reflects the forethough exercised in behalf of the driver. A feature of the switch control is that one lever operates both lights and ignition.

Ignition Switch.

Turning the switch clockwise first turns on the ignition. Further movement maintains the ignition but gives dim and then bright lights. Moving the switch anti-clockwise from neutral first switches on the cowl and tail lights while further movement brings on the tail light only.

The steering wheel is large and conveniently placed with the horn button in the center of the wheel.

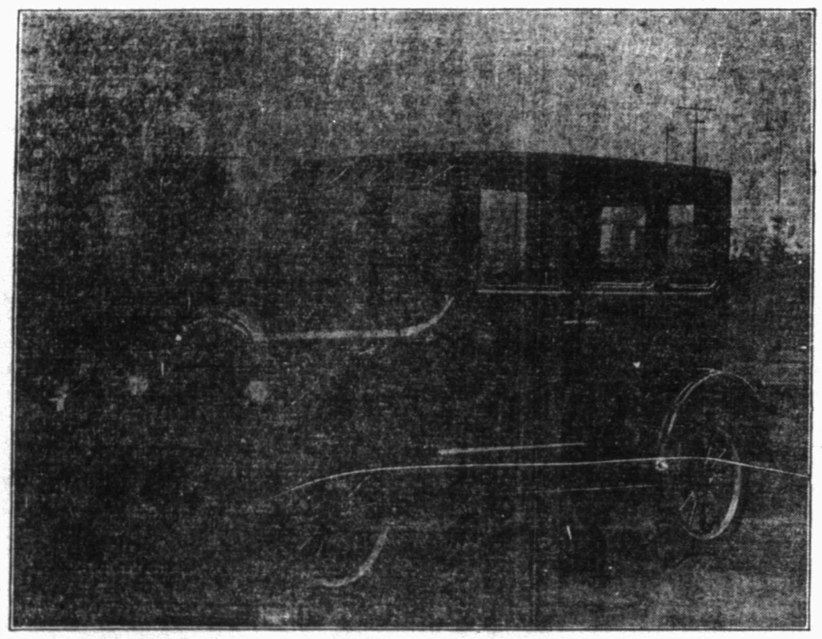

With a six cylinder 3x4 inch L-head engine, developing 40 H. P. in a sedan weighing, fully equipped, 2,600 pounds, it is only natural to look for [illegible] performance and the Ajax six has a liveliness and a rapidity of get away in action with extreme smoothness that places it among the exceptional performers of the industry.

7-Bearing Crank Shaft.

It is immediately apparent that a 7-bearing crankshaft in a car of this size and price is without precedent and this shaft plus careful and scientific balancing of reciprocating parts and precision workmanship, has developed an engine that has no rought spots throughout its entire range of speed and power.

A careful examination of the chassis indicates plainly that the engineers of Ajax Motors have gone far beyond the quality standards of its field in producing this car.

Ford Fordor Sedan Attractive

Individuality is an outstanding feature of the Fordor Sedan which has been lowered on the chassis. This reduction in height, together with body color of rich Windsor Maroon, more graceful lines and large crown fenders give distinction to this popular closed car. Upholstery in gray with a hair line of red harmonizes with the rest of the interior appointments, as well as with the exterior color.

"BEAVER," "BEAVER,"

King George's Whiskers Sacred But Rest of England Is Laughed at.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—King George's whiskers may be sacred but all other be-whiskered chaps in England are in danger. Since the "beaver game" was popularized several years ago in the music halls, the public has little respect for chin decorations. And the police force has practically issued an ultimatum that men who wear whiskers do so at their own risk.

It is true that an unruly listener at Hyde Park corner was fined for pulling the whiskers of a speaker with whom he had a religious discussion, but the fine was very slight and the smiles in the court room indicated clearly that officers and spectators alike agreed there was contributory negligence on the part of the plaintiff.

Anybody in London whose whiskers are hot extremely closely cropped is likely to be dubbed a "beaver" by street urchins who shout after him and may shy some bricks. As the Hyde Park corner orators frequently have long hair as well as long whiskers which afford an inviting handhold, policemen are hard put to restrain listening crowds to which the flowing hair acts as a red flag to a bull.

OLDSMOBILE TEST MACHINE IS UNHARMED

Efforts To Wear Out Tires Fail To Hurt Automobile

Every automobilist knows that tires have traveled hand-in-hand with automobiles in constantly providing longer and better service, but it is not generally known that the automobile has aided in the development of the tire. Tire manufacturers, like car manufacturers, do not wait for results obtained by the public, but are continually testing in advance various kinds of tires under all kinds of actual road driving to determine where weaknesses are liable to develop and where betterments can be made.

The tire testing is equally strenuous on the automobile, as the following report made by H. M. Strachan, sales manager of the Pennsylvania Rubber company of America, shows. On January 15, this year, the rubber company selected an Oldsmobile Six sedan, as it "represented about the weight car we wanted, and also believed it to be the best car in its class," to quote Mr. Strachan.

"It has been and is the duty of this car," says Mr. Strachan, "to wear out tires without the car wearing out or depreciating itself to a point where it is too expensive driven night and day by two drivers, each man driving 12 hours and covering between 150 to 200 miles during his turn. This is a daily average of from 300 to 400 miles. Sacks of sand equivalent in weight to three persons are carried in the back of the car.

"Up to August 5, this Oldsmobile covered 44,028 miles at a cost of .076 cents per mile, this cost including depreciation, repairs, gasoline, oil, all driving and operating expenses, including drivers' time, and tires. Practically all of this mileage was up and down the Allegeny mountains, with a certain per cent each day over unimproved roads. While on the road the car never travels under the legitimate speed limit, which in Pennsylvania varies according to the circumstances and the motor patrolmen.

"It is only natural to believe a car which has had this kind of service, driven by men whose duty it is to wear out tires, would be ready for the Sargasso Sea of motor vehicles, particularly when our experience has been that the average car, after it has gone 25,000 miles, begins to cost a lot of money and also a lot of delays. But this Oldsmobile runs as good now as when we got it, and both paint and upholstery are in excellent shape. The fenders have been bent and straightened several times, but no vital part has had to be replaced."

Previous to the purchase of the Oldsmobile, the Pennsylvania Rubber company used exclusively one of the heaviest and most expensive cars made in this country for test work.

Four-Year-Old Gorilla Hopes Quota Isn't Filled Before He Gets Here.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—(AP)—On the off chance that Africa's gorilla immigration quota for the month of October has not been filled, Mister Congo, who plans to settle down in an apartment in the vicinity of the Bronx, New York, sailed for the United States this week on the liner Homeric.

Mister Congo, who is one of the very few of his kind outside of his native forests, is a gorilla about four years old. He was captured by Benjamin Burbridge of Jacksonville, Fla., who followed him for weeks before he was able to trap him.

Another youngster captured by Mr. Burbridge has been presented to the Antwerp zoo, where he seems to be thriving in captivity.

We Congratulate Rickenbacker Owners

We congratulate you on your fine judgment and discriminating taste as proven by your selection of the car you drive.

You have enjoyed for three years, things which old-line companies are just now incorporating in their latest models.

Right now when they are coming out with mammoth display ads, featuring as fundamental improvements in their cars, such things as air cleaners, oil rectifiers, double fly-wheels, four wheel brakes, etc., you can feel that your own judgment was three years ahead of some of the greatest engineers—for you have enjoyed these things as long as you have owned a Rickenbacker.

And today, the used car value of your Rickenbacker is just that much more than is that of cars which, minus these features, are now obsolete.

We congratulate you.

And now we ask you—is it not reasonable to suppose that the Rickenbacker model of today—the new model just announced—is again two or three years in advance of others in engineering features and body refinements? We assure you this is so.

To prove it you need only match this car in performance against any other. Compare point for point.

Then consider how much more you get at the new reduced prices. You will on that analysis, become a confirmed Rickenbacker owner.

HUPMOBILE-8 STANDS UP IN DRIVING RAIN

Hard Trip Fails To Dampen Ardor of New Model Car

Tearing through a night that included six hours of a driving ,almost blinding rain storm, T. W. Campbell, Hupmobile distributor at Hartford, Conn., and C. E. Emery, one of the company's organization, piloted a standard stock Hupmobile eight sedan from Hartford to the Detroit ferry dock at Windsor, Ont., in 19 hours and 20 minutes elapsed time, September 20 and 1. Their record eclipses that of the fastest through limited train from New England to Windsor by more than three miles an hour. They averaged 44.70 miles an hour for the 890 miles they traveled.

The distance the car traveled is 102.5 miles further than the railroad distance from South station, Boston, to the Michigan Central railroad station at Windsor.

"The record of Major Campbell and Mr. Emery with their Hupmobile eight is the most comprehensive test of its ability since the Hupp factory completed its tests of that car last autumn before placing it on the market," says O. C. Hutchinson, general sales manager of the Hupp Motor Car corporation.

The car which made the trip bears the factory number E-961. It was bought by Major Campbell as his personal car March 11. On its arrival in Detroit it had covered some 19,800 miles.

Was an Aviator.

Mr. Campbell, who has driven motor cars for 22 years, determined to make the test of the car's ability two weeks ago, when Hupmobile distributors from all parts of the country were invited to come to the factory for their annual convention, September 22-24. He was in charge of an aviation camp during the World war.

Despite the terrific speed at which the car was continuously driven, an average of 14.7 miles was made per gallon of gasoline. Four quarts of oil were added to the crankcase. Actual oil consumption, as measured at the Hupp factory, was less than three quarts.

Campbell and Emery checked out of the main Western Union office at Hartford at 9 p. m., Eastern Standard time, Sunday, Septeber 20. They were checked in at the Windsor ferry dock at 4:20 p. m. the following afternoon by R. W. Butler, a Canadian customs officer. Before leaving Hartford a heavy rain had set in which continued until they reached the suburbs of Syracuse, N. Y., some 300 miles further west.

The Hupmobile was checke out of the Albany garage, Albany, N. Y., at 10:55 p. m., where it stopped for gasoline. W. A. Evans, a filling station owner at Cazenovia, N. Y., just east of Syracuse, checked them at 3 a .m. They crossed the international bridge at Niagara Falls at 8:30 a. m. Custom officials at Windsor reported as they checked the car that the radiator was scarcely warm. No water was added during the entire trip, according to an affidavit sworn to by both occupants. Examination of the radiator upon arrival at Detroit revealed that less than a pint could be added.

Blinding Rain.

"We started from Hartford in a blinding rain," Campbell said. "As we headed northwest for Pittsfield, Mass., it developed into one of the most difficult rain storms to drive through I have ever encountered. It continued ceaselessly until we reached the outskirts of Syracuse.

"But despite the rain we exceeded over the entire distance our schedule of 170 miles every four hours. The first four we made 161 through the constant rain including a stop for gasoline. The second four we made 167, including a wait of nearly 25 minutes to awaken Mr. Evans at Cazenovia. Between Auburn and Rochester, N. Y., after the rain stopped, we clocked ourselves as actually making 52 miles in one hour. Continuously we drove the car as fast as we dared over the wet, slippery roads that we encountered until we were nearly to Windsor. We tore over a 13-mile detour near Leamington, Ont., at from 50 to 65 miles an hour. Between Brantford and Leamington, Ont., we towed a car over a 20-mile detour at 45 miles an hour. The driver of that car was literally almost scared to death, but we explained before we began towing him that we were in a hurry.

Distributor Seven Years.

Major Campbell, president of the L. and H. Motor company of Hartford, has been Hupmobile distributor there for seven years. "The car has never been petted," he declared. "I have driven it to a fishing camp in Canada, 247 miles from Hartford in five hours and 40 minutes running time. Early this summer, with my family as passengers, I drove from Hartford to Hamilton, Ont., 512 miles, in 11 hours and 50 minutes running time, or 14 hours elapsed time. When traveling from our Hartford headquarters to our New London showroom, I often make the trip of 47 miles in 56 minutes.

"The car has never had more than ordinary service attention. Not an original part has been replaced. The valves were ground for the first time just before we left to give us an opportunity to make greater speed and afford the operation of which the car is actually capable. Other than that and tightening up the body bolts, it had no service attention.

"A Performing Fool."

"Its performance ability is so effortless that one fails to realize just how remarkably it actually does its work until a trip is completed and a definite check of results is possible. I have driven and sold several of the highest priced cars, both American and foreign, yet I have never found one that equals the Hupmobile eight. It's a performing fool, I tell you."

Shortly before leaving Hartford, Mr. Campbell was ofefred $2,000 for the car by one of his friends. Its list price at Detroit is $2,195. "I declined it," he said, "not for any business or personal reasons, but because I want to drive it until I find out just how well designed and built these cars actually are."

FIGHT INHERITANCE TAX

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP).—Indications that opponents of the federal inheritance tax were preparing to launch a concerted fight to force its abolition were given today with the announcement that a delegation led by Governor Walker of Georgia, would be heard Oct. 23, by the house ways and means committee.

OVERLAND SET NEW RECORDS FOR 15 DAYS

All Two-Week Production Former Records Passed

Faced with the greatest dealer demand it has ever experienced, the Willys-Overland factory is entering the fall months with production and shipment records that break all marks in the history of the company.

More than 155,000 Overland and Willys-Knight automobiles were manufactured by Willys-Overland in the period from January 1 to September 15, thereby establishing a new production mark greater than any production record established by the company for a similar period. Not only did production records of Willys-Overland soar over any ever established, but shipment records at the Willys-Overland factory indicate that the pressing demand from the national dealer organization absorbed production just as fast as cars could be built.

In addition to breaking the eight and one-half months, production and shipment records of the company, Willys-Overland established a new mark in shipment for a 15-day period when more than 10,500 cars were shipped to dealers throughout the country from September 1 to 15, inclusive, with the production mark during the same period greatly in excess of any schedule ever before established.

Dealer reports at the Willys-Overland factory indicate that a steady increase has been noted in sales since January 1, with an added impetus given to retail sales following the general price reduction announced three months ago, closely followed by a still further reduction in price on the Overland standard sedan rom $655 to $595, establishing a record low price on a full-sized, five passenger sedan with sliding gear transmission.

Factory production schedules, plus dealers' future orders now on hand, indicate that Willys-Knight will break all production and sales records for fall months. To care for the greatly increased demand for Willys-Overland products, President John N. Willys recently announced a comprehensive plant expansion program which will greatly increase both production and employment in the factory through an expenditure of more than $2,000,000 in new buildings and machine equipment.

Chrysler Inaugurates New Method of Checking Up In Stolen Autos

Automobile makers have long concentrated their attention upon attempts to solve the problem of preventing the millions in money losses to motor car owners on account of automobile thefts and to save them also the annoyance of the loss of time and use in being deprived of their cars, which is highly important, even if it cannot be computed in terms of money. Walter P. Chrysler, whose wonderful mechanical mind is constantly at work searching out new plans and new methods to help motorists and improve motoring conditions, has inaugurated a system that will go far to checkmate automobile thieves, if not to stop their activities altogether.

System Explained.

It has been generally accepted by automobile insurers and manufacturers that if it were made difficult to dispose of the stolen goods, car thieves who in 1924 got away with 50 per cent more cars than in 1923, would be put hard up against it. This is precisely what is accomplished by the system introduced by Chrysler.

The plan involves the use of the Fedco patented theft prevention numbering system, exclusive on Chrysler cars. It consists of a serial number plate attached to the instrument board of each car, made and fitted in such a way that it can absolutely not be changed or removed without detection. The ease with which stolen cars could previously be turned into money was the most helpful factor to the car thief and only 17 per cent of all stolen cars last year were recovered. The Chrysler system stops conversion at the source, so to say.

"The numbering system for theft prevention is a model for the industry as a whole. Chrysler leadership, so often evidenced in the development of motor car improvements, has perhaps never been better demonstrated than through the announcement of this exclusive theft prevention system," says J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales of the Chrysler sales corporation. "I feel safe in saying that no more important step has been taken toward the protection of the motor car buyer, in the matter of theft prevention.

Plate Described.

"This new plate, which is now placed on the instrument board of all Chrysler cars where it is easily visible for inspection, is made of nickel and copper, by a secret process, and is anchored in place in such a way that any attempt at its unlawful removal will result in defacement.

"At the same time, because of its unique construction, it is proof against any attempt to alter its figures. The Underwriters' Laboratories, whose approval it has, (together with that of the National automobile chamber of commerce and the National automobile dealers' association) made every possible test to determine if its purpose could be defeated but failed in every instance. It is said to be more difficult to counterfeit than money.

"The savings to owners instituted by Chrysler through the adoption of the numbering system form a particular further achievement for Chrysler owners, just as the operation of the Chrysler plan in relation to fiuance is already insuring economies running into the millions. It is impossible to over-estimate the loss in money and time and the trouble that will be saved by Chrysler owners because of the installation of the exclusive numbering system on all Chrysler cars.

"Police departments and public authorities are keenly interested in the Chrysler plan of theft prevention inasmuch as its successful operation will materially simplify their tasks and will considerably help their efforts to protect motor car users against the activities of automobile thieves."

FRENCHMAN COMES TO U. S.

Will Study at Walter Hines Page International Law School.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—The interest held in Paris by the Walter Hines Page school, recently founded at Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, for the development of research in international law and world affairs has been heightened by the recent departure for the United States of Hubert Carton de Wiart, son of Count Henri Carton de Wiart, former premier of Belgium, to enter the Page school. The young man sailed recently on the Mauretania, arriving at New York this week.

He has studied law at the University of Louvain, with a view to entering the diplomatic service and it is believed that he will be the first foreign graduate of the Page school.

His father, Count de Wiart, Belgian minister of justice in 1914, drew up the Belgian reploy of August 2 to the German ultimatum demanding free passage of German armies across Belgium. In September of that year, Count de Wiart headed the Belgian mission which went to the United States to lay Belgium's cause before President Wilson and the American people.

Hubert de Wiart is a nephew of Baron de Wiart, well known in the United States, who was 12 years secretary to King Leopold II, and is now a director of ihe Societe General, the leading bank of Belgium.

AMUNDSEN IN U. S.

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Undaunted by Arctic perils, Captain Roald Amundsen, whose polar airplane expedition barely escaped perishing last summer, arrived today from Europe to begin preparations for a resumption of the flight next summer from Rome to Nome in a semi-rigid dirigible.

EXCEPTIONAL RIDING COMFORT

The riding comfort of a motor car is not dependent upon its length, weight or cost, any more than the comfort of a home depends upon its size.

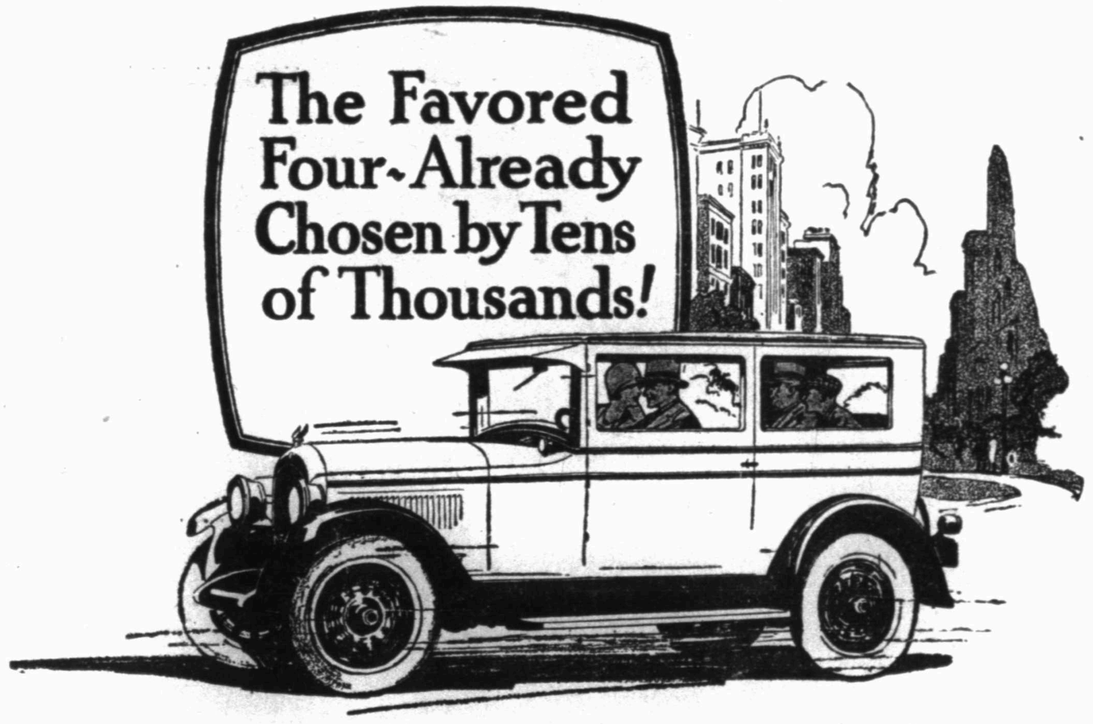

If the seats are deep enough and the proper distance from the floor; if the seat backs are correctly pitched for relaxation; if the upholstery is sufficiently stuffed and there is plenty of leg room; above all, if the springs are rightly designed and of proper length, you will have exceptional riding comfort. Otherwise, you will not.

Dodge Brothers, with characteristic thoroughness, studied and experimented with these details for years. Their findings were ultimately incorporated in the design of Dodge Brothers Motor Car—without question now a vehicle that ranks with the first in this vitally important feature.

Olney and Megargel Areas Feature North Texas Play During Week

SUN CO. OPENS POOL SOUTH OF MEGARGEL SITE

Clark-Harbin-Baldridge Extend Olney Activity To East

NO CENTRALIZATION

Five Dry Holes Completed In Olney Townsite Pool

One pool almost disappeared only to glimmer again and another showed up in north Texas this past week. Five dry holes on and just off the Olney townsite, surrounding the discovery well there in every direction except due south, almost vanquished hopes of worthwhile production there, only they have them revived with an eastward extension, while a new good well just south of Megargel makes that area look as if it is due for a good big play.

The new pool at Megargel is Sun company's discovery. Their No. 1, W. T. Richardson, located 450 feet west and 150 feet south of the northeast corner of 2,425, a quarter mile south of the old Kentucky-Litchfield dry hole, swabbed better than 240 barrels after drilling into sand at 1,436-41 feet. The well had previously tested salt water in sand at 1,416-22 feet had pulled casing, drilled deeper and set again on a new pay at 1,436-41 feet from which the discovery is now producing. It is located more than two miles from production in any direction. It is now being equipped for the pump after swabbing consistently better than ten barrels an hour. Sun company, McNeil-Harris-Pandem, Gulf Litchfield, et al, and other have all made locations in the district around the well.

Trio's Well.

To the southeast on the northwest end of the Harmel pool Trio's well, No. 2, Brom, has gone on the pump for bette rthan 450 barrels a day. There are four wells drilling around the producer, and to the northwest located 750 feet west and 150 feet north of the southeast corner of block 2,410, TE&LC survey, Cullum, et al, have spudded and are drilling on an interesting test just two locations west of the old Muse ,et al, dry hole. West of this group in the southwest portion of the northwest quarter of block 1,582, Jones, et al, are testing sand at 1,410 feet in their No. 2, Darilek; Magnolia, two locations west has set casing and is drilling in from 1,880 feet. A southwest offset by Magnolia on the Darilek is down 862 feet and drilling.

It is in this three-cornered area, bordered on one side by Trio's well, on another by the Jones, et al, Darilek well, and on the other, more than two miles away by the Sun company discovery, that southwest Archer county's biggest play is to take place if all indications now mean anything. Acreage in the intervening space is pretty well tied up and little has been sold, but there is every prospect of a fair sized drilling campaign getting under way there within the next week or so.

At Olney the completion of five dry holes cutting off development of the townsite pool in every direction save south has effectively put the damper to any aspirations that district may have had. The dry holes belong to Murchison and Fain to the southwest, Navarro and Carey to the northwest, Humble to the north and Texhoma to the east. There are a number of other tests drilling around the well, part of which will apparently be dry. The discovery well itself is pumping about 60 barrels a day.

Clark Well.

If five dry holes cut the pool off almost everywhere, the Clark well east of Olney added materially to its expanse to the east, think most of the operators here. The well, located in the southeast quarter of block 240, was at this writing, showing for possibly 150 barrels or better, and was regarded as a three-quarter mile definite extension to the pool.

An interesting outgrowth of this drilling is seen in a suit filed in the district court at Graham asking for judgment of $35,000 against Murchison and Fain, Wichita operators, for drilling their No. 1, Wilborn, southwest of the well in defiance of rule 37 of the railroad commission regulations which prescribes 300-foot spacing of wells. Murchison and Fain drilled for seven days after they were denied a permit for the well. Other suits will likely be the order as other wells drilled in defiance of the commission's ruling are finished up and the length of their volations of the rule determined.

Two "Shows."

An interesting "show" was found during the week in Terminal Oil company's No. 1, Falls county school lands, abstract 130, block 62, which looks like about 10 barrels from sand at 1,363-70 feet. The well is located some distance from production due north of the Carey pool. It has been equipped for the pump.

Another very similar "show" has been found in block 131 of the W. B. Aldridge survey, abstract 2, north of Archer City between the Barkley and Meadows area and the Atlantic pool. The Wichita Oil company and Dixie Oil company have a small well, possibly commercial, in their No. 2, Jackson, sand at about 1,558-60 feet. The well shows some water, however.

John and Jeff Pool.

In Wichita county the most striking disappointment came in the new John and Jeff pool, north of Beaver creek, southwest Wichita county, which now appears to be at best a light field. There Daniels and Rutis have proven the existence of a syncline in what was regarded as "high" in their No. 1, located 750 feet east and 150 feet south of the northwest corner of their 40 acres. The well has been abandoned at a total depth of below 1,800 feet and the rig skidded to the northwest corner of the lease for No. 2 to offset the small producer of Texhoma and Grisham in the northeast corner of their 40 acres. Texhoma is equipping Nos. 4 and 5 for the pump with the expectation of making about 75 barrel wells from the usual sand below 1,700 feet, and is drilling at No. 6 considerably below 1,600 feet. Garrett and Hammond's No. 1, east of the pool, showed about 100 barrels initial. The rig was skidded north for No. 2. Offsetting No. 2 to the north L. P. Hammond is drilling on his No. 2, John and Jeff Waggoner.

In Throckmorton county Schimmel, et al, No. 1, Stacey, in TE&LCO survey, block 1,614, southern part of the county, tapped the deepest producing stratum in that county at a depth of 4,100 feet and is reported to have a well of some sort with a considerable showing of gas. The well is a rank wildcat, being several miles from any production. It has made several good flows.

Barkley-Meadows Well.

Still flowing better than 1,200 barrels of oil a day and with a record of having produced better than 15,000 barrels of oil in less than two weeks of paying off Barkley and Meadows have what is considered the best well ever completed at South Vernon with the possible exception of two or three of the first big wells from the 2,000-foot sand. Barkley and Meadows have spudded two north offsets to the well and have started their No. 3, Stephens, offsetting it to the west, deeper from 2,330 to 2,350 feet, in the hope of matching their big producer, and have No. 4, west of No. 3, on the sand and ready to drill in at a depth of 2,302 feet. The well itself had a maximum flush of about 1,800 barrels. Sandy lime is from 2,320-50 feet. It is showing about 5,000,000 feet of gas and about 300 barrels of water in addition to the oil.

The field's production, boosted considerably by the recent big completions, reached 10,440 barrels a day this past week and is expected to pass 11,000 barrels with this week's figures. It is a peak production for South Vernon so far as pipe line runs, from which the production figures are compiled, are concerned.

Atlantic's big well of last week, after showing for between 700 and 1,000 barrels initial from a sandy lime at 2,320-46 feet, is something of a disappointment. The casing gave way and considerable water is cutting production. An attempt is being made to shut off the water.

In the Noble area, Roxana Petroleum company's No. 1, Waggoner-A, in section 43, block 4, northeast of the northwest of the northeast of the section, is a hole full of oil and swabbing at 1,922-26 feet. It looks like a 150 barrel well on the pump. It may be drilled deeper.

Landreth Production company of Graham spent itself again this week in the Noble area when it paid a quarter of a million dollars for close in acreage on production there. The deals were chiefly with McKana of Wichita Falls and Whatley of Wichita Falls, both of whom are interested in the original Noble completion. Landreth just a few weeks ago expended $300,000 here, and since their entrance into Wilbarger county, have spent approximately $2,000,000. Humble paid $2,000 an acre for stuff in between the Milham No. 1-A, Waggoner, an dthe Noble well, spending in all about $63,000 for $83 acres of land.

GRAFTON WILL REACH TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Popular Presbyterian Minister Has Been Here Ten Years

Dr. Nat F. Grafton, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will preach his tenth anniversary sermon at the church this morning. He preached his first sermon as pastor of the church October 10, 1915.

During his period of residence here, the city has had the most remarkable growth in its history, and so with the church, according to the following statistics:

When Dr. Grafton came to Wichita Falls, the church had a resident roll of 262 with an average attendance of less than 100. One hundred and fifty-three persons attended the first service. The Sunday school had an enrollment of 250 and an attendance of 175. There were only two organizations in the entire church at that time, the Ladies Auxiliary and the Helen Beavers chapter of Westminster Guild. There wes no organized class in the Bible school.

The church ranked tenth in the Texas synod in point of membership, and now it ranks fifth and third in offering.

In the years Dr. Grafton has been here, he has preached 740 sermons, and 831 members have been added to the church. The present membership is 868, making a net gain of members 606.

He has performed 227 marriages, held 117 funerals and has baptized 103 babies.

The church activities have grown until more space is needed, and within a month, plans are made to let the contract for the erection of $100,000 building adjoining the present church.

AUBURN MELON 100 PER CENT FOR COMMON

Factory Forecasts Best Year For Popular Automobile

At a special meeting of the stockholders of the Auburn Automobile company held in the offices of the company August 14, 1925 a stock divident was declared of 100 per cent on the common stock of $25 par value, increasing the capital of Auburn from $750,000 to $1,500,000.

E. L. Cord, vice president and general manager who has just recently bought out the former control in his report to stockholders advised that unfilled orders on the books of the Auburn Automobile company were the greatest in the history of the company.

"Earnings for July approximated $1.50 per share on the new capitalization of 60,000 shares after setting up a reserve for taxes and estimated earnings for the month of August will approximate $2.25 per share," stated Mr. Cord.

"Within the last year the Auburn Automobile company has retired $500,000 in preferred stock and is in exceptionally nice position. In the past twelve months we have not used any credit whatsoever having had sufficient working capital to operate our business on

"We anticipate that the complete year of 1925 will far exceed the best year that Auburn ever had in both numbers of cars and earnings."

Immediately following the stockholders meeting the directors had a special meeting and voted the issue of the stock dividend and authorized the payment of a quarterly dividend of seventy-five cents per share payable October 1st to stock of record September 20th.

The resignation of F. B. Hitchcock as a director was accepted and L. B. Manning was elected to complete that portion of his unexpired term.

BERLIN IS EATING AGAIN

Lean Years of War Give Way to Carnivorous Appetites

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—Berlin, recovering from the lean years of the war and its aftermath, is again eating as much meat as during the last prewar year. Then the per capita consumption for the city was 135 pounds a year while during the first six months of 1925 the citizens of Berlin consumed an average of 67 pounds of meat each, indicating a consumption for the year approximately equal to that of 1913. Last yearthe per capita consumption was 128 pounds.

Pork is the most popular meat with Berliners, being 56 per cent of all meat consumed. Beef constitutes only 30 per cent of the total, mutton 6.5 per cent and veal 6 per cent.

Berlin today, however, eats only three-fourths as much fresh meat as before the war but the remaining fourth is made up of imported frozen meat of which Germany used almost none before 1914. Last year the country imported about 25,000,000 pounds of refrigerated meats, and the amount is steadily increasing.

BUILDING HERE FOR LAST WEEK IS $95,975

Bad Weather for Last Few Days Causes a Slump

Although one permit for $20,000 was the largest o fthe lot, building permits for the week closing Saturday came nearly to the $100,000 mark. Twenty-seven of them reached a figure of $95,975 which is regarded as exceptionally good. Bad weather the latter part of the week, it is thought, caused a slump, too, in the business.

Ring Passes Up Male Beauty Contest for Men's Radio Event—Doctor's Bill Big Award —By Ring Lardner

To the editor:

By this time it is an old story that Miss Lanphier or something from sunny California was officially chose Miss America at the annual Atlantic City pippin konklave last mo., also that Miss Rena Jane Frew of Beaver, Pa., was formally christened Miss Radio during the world's radio exposition in N. Y. city. Miss Lanphier win the plume for being the most beautiful gal in the U. S. while Miss Frew got her medals for having tuned in on more distant stations than any other radio fan of the silly sex. Interviewed by newspaper men Miss Lanphier said she owed all her success to her mother. Miss Frew attributed hers to her antennae. Miss Frew, when seen by reporters, was in a DX static mood.

Ring a Modest Guy.

Contests like these kind is always bound to call forth a good many shower bouquets of raspberries for the judges of same as friends and relatives of the defeated candidates won't never admit that the best man win, but it seems to me like they ain't libel to be near as much injustice in the beauty contest as in the radio brawl.

The gals at Atlantic City has got to prove their qualifications in costumes that cannot tell a lie, whereas the radio queen must be elected more or less on her own lisping word and if she claims that she got Honolulu last night and Odessa the night before, why you can only say is that so or what of it. Personally I have not heard none of Miss Frew's opponents make a squawk, but if they did they would probably have more of a leg to stand on than Miss Lanphier's rivals though the legs of the last named si not to be sneezed at if the rotogravure sections speaks true.

In hi speech accompanying the presentation of Miss Frew of the diamond studded rubber heels or whatever the first prize may of been, Gov. Al Smith of New York said she had been picked as the American girl most typical of radio. This sounds kind of nasty to me and had I of been Miss Frew's brother, Mr. Frew, I would of sewed the Gov. for libel or else slapped his face and said you are a loud speaker yourself Smith.

As I say, the stories of these 2 contests is old stuff, but it may be news to my readers that as an aftermath of same there has been 3 similar competitions staged in different localities which strikes me as just as important as the ones that was given such wide publicity, and in one of these the writer took part and win first prize. Chief amongst the contests referred to was one to decide on America's most beautiful man and I don't half to tell my many admires that it was not in this one that I allowed the usuage of my name as I positively cringe from any flattering reference to my eyes, ears, nose and throat and have actually went for several days without shaving in order to distract unwelcome attention from bleating nostrils and shapely moles.

Coolidge Interferes.

No, the masculine pulchritude melee was put on without my entry which is perhap just as well when you recall how some of the gals yelped when Dorothy Knapp and Mis Ray of the chorus attempted to crash into the scrimmage at Atlantic City, and further and more, just prior to this contest (the men's) they was such a big protest vs. the presence of professional beauties like Rudolph Valentino, Nick Altrock, Jack Barrymore and Ed Wynn that these 4 C-nsuses was obliged to withdraw.

The event was held over the hose house in what Cheer, Ia., and the winner was Mr. Hal O'Flaherty a local boy. The judges was the Shuberts, Peggy Hopkins, Judge Landis and the Mayor brothers. Mr. O'Flaherty in accepting the first prize, a soup spoon equipped with a copper screen to prevent oysters, vegetables and etc., from entering the mouth, said he owed his success to a railway accident. The second prize was a mask which can be worn at all times and completely hides the face. It was awarded to William A. Lange of San Francisco better known as Bill Lange who played center field for the old Chicago Colts and caught everything with one hand including the Deuce from the management. Mr. Lange attributed his triumph to a misunderstanding.

Following is Mr. Flaherty's measurements:

Head—Normal, 67-8; Expanded, 71-4.
Neck—Normal, 14 3-4; Expanded, 15 1-2.
Waist—Normal, 32; Expanded, 42.
Ankle—Normal, 17; Swollen, 19.
Feet—Winter, 7 1-2 A; Summer, 91-2 D.

An effort to have Mr. O'Flaherty christened Mr. American was knocked for a gool by a peremptory veto from President Coolidge.

"I'm glad he win if I couldn't," said Mr. Lange. "Who is he?"

In the mens radio event it was the writer of the present article who was unanimously awarded first prize and nicknamed Mr. Radio. This contest was to decide who had come farthest from getting the farthest away stations and I was elected after relating an experience that took place no longer ago than last wk. On our radio it seems that when the arrows on the different dials is pointed to No. 70, 68 and 68 respy. why you get one of the main N. Y. stations Namely WEAF. Well one night I got tired of the entertainment on WEAF, and decided to try and get WRED which is Lansing, Mich. The numbers for this station is 28 1-2, 23 and 23 which I turned to same and in less time than it take to tell it. I heard the voice of the announcer saying this is station WEAF New York. The prize arrived in next morning's mail and turned out to be a bill for $14 from Dr. Niesley for vaccinating the wife and kiddies.

In next week's letter I will give an acct. of one of the most interesting contests of all, namely the one to select the homeliest eggs in the world male and female.

One Night I Got Tired Of The Entertainment On WEAF And Decided To Try And Get WRED Whic h IS Lansing, Michigan.

The Safeness Of a Safe

It's not always the big massive iron safe that's safest. For there is a sterner enemy than burglars—fire! And the especially built fireproof safes are deceptive in appearance. A good safe is cheap insurance. Let us tell you.

DEBT is slavery. Debt means fear, anxiety, humiliation. When you owe money, you don't OWN YOURSELF. The man to whom you owe has a mortgage on you. It's ten to one he won't keep the fact a secret.

The surest way to avoid debt—or the possibility of debt—is to SAVE part of your earnings regularly, systematically. It makes little difference if each deposit is small, so long as saving has become a HABIT. Dickens said truly: "If your income is a sixpence above your outgo the result is Happiness. But if you spend a sixpence more than income—result misery."

This bank encourages regular saving. Open an account now.
