MAKING SURVEYS FROM ENGLEWOOD TO AMARILLO

E. A. Frazee and the three Meese Brothers, civil engineers, working on the survey leading from Beaver, Oklahoma to a point they have now reached in the southwest corner of Hamford County, Texas, were in Guyton Monday finishing up their maps, blue prints etc., of the line between the points named. Their party was to finish their surveys yesterday to the point named on the Hamford County line, where they were to meet a party of engineers working northeast from Dumas, to that point.

From Mr. Frank Frazee we learned that their work was to be completed and a report made to a meeting of railroad men in St. Louis tomorrow, and they were hastening to have all their data available at that time, including tonnage shipment of grain and produce that could be expected from the territory entered.

Mr. Meese also informed us that a party of engineers was busy the last two weeks running a survey from Englewood, Kansas, the terminus of the Wichita-Englewood branch of the Santa Fe Railroad, to Forgan where it will probably make connections with the Beaver, Meade and Englewood railroad which now has a short line between Beaver and Forgan with rails running to Turpin, a grade mostly completed between Turpin and Hooker.

Mr. Frazee says that the Interstate Commerce Commission has granted permission for the construction of his line west from Hooker to Des Moines, New Mexico, or some other available point in that vicinity, and work on that extension will follow the completion of the line to Hooker.

Mr. Frazee also said that a report was current that a survey is soon to be started by the Santa Fe Railroad from Perryton, in Ochiltree county, across the line into Oklahoma and from there westward through the Oklahoma Panhandle to a point in north eastern New Mexico or South eastern Colorado. He is an optimist in the matter of railroad construction in this southwestern country during the next few months and thinks that this country is coming into its own. His reasons are the belief that the railroad interests now have the money to put into their enterprises, that the political situation favors them, that the vast oil resources of this section are realized, that the wonderful agricultural resources are becoming more appreciated, and that is the greatest present field for their investment.

It is known that recent meetings of capitalists held in Oklahoma City have given this section of the country much consideration, and it is hoped that Mr. Frazee's optimism is justified. The extension of the Elkhart branch of the Santa Fe to their main line in New Mexico, forming the Colar Cut-Off is assured, thus opening much new and rich territory, and the extension of the Manter branch, Springfield, Colorado, is seriously considered, so it would seem that the southwest may be favored section within the next few months.—Guyton Herald.

CALIFORNIA MALE QUARTET

The California Male Quartet is to appear here on the evening of Feb. 24, at the High School Auditorium, in a concert which will delight all lovers of first class harmony given by first class voices. All members of this quartet have good voices as soloists, but their strengths as an organization lies in the tonal shading, the brilliancy and snap of their ensemble work. So many quartets feature solo work at the expense of the ensemble efforts. The California Male quartet is an exception to this general rule. It is one of the comparatively few real good male quartets in the country, and local people who attend will be assured of something very fine in the work of this singing group. The Quartet has plenty of novelty features that will please tremendously. They throw this in for good measure, because their singing in itself leaves nothing to be desired by the most exacting critics.

The secret of the success of the California Male Quartet is due to the coaching of Paul L. Armstrong of Chicago, who chose so wisely and so well the members which sing in it. They will be heard here on Tuesday evening at the High School Auditorium. Each of these men is a soloist of ability, and yet their voices were picked to blend perfectly, which is the prime requirements of fine quartet singing.

In addition to the singing of many standard numbers, the Quartet provides many novelty features. There are readings and other diversions from the regular singing program, which makes an evening of varied entertainment.

The program is a delightful arrangement of classical, semi-classical and popular numbers, accompanied and unaccompanied—in quartets, trios, duets and solos. There is an ever-bubbling vein of fun throughout, a noticeable snap and go that makes the sort of entertainment that folks hear and talk about long after the average musical evening is forgotten.

SOROSIS CLUB

The Home Economics Department of the Sorosis Club was entertained by Mrs. F. A. Edwards and Mrs. Jas. W. Wilson at the home of Mrs. Edwards, on Wednesday afternoon of this week. Mrs. W. D. Tenney and Mrs. G. C. Castleman tied and upon the draw Mrs. Castleman came out winner. The remaining members drew for the "Booby" prize, which was a pretty handkerchief. After the program, delicious refreshments were served of coffee, cake and brick ice-cream, which was in the red, white and blue. Following is the program for the afternoon:

THE METHODIST CHURCH

We had 203 in Sunday School last Sunday. Were you among that number? If not, why not? All services were well attended. At the close of the evening service, one of our finest young men, presented himself for church membership, on profession of faith and baptism. The theme for next Sunday morning will be, a continuation of "The Sermon on the Mount." At the evening hour we will have a community service in honor of Washington's Birthday, and good citizenship, in which we earnestly request all citizens of the community to participate. This service will be held at the school Auditorium, beginning at 7:30 P. M. The meeting will open with a great song service, and we hope for a full house.

PROTEIN FACTORS IN WHEAT PRODUCTION

"The present value of hard wheat is being controlled by the percentage of protein, very much the same as the value of milk and cream is controlled by the percentage of butter fat," says H. M. Bainer, Director, The Southwestern Wheat Improvement Association. Continuing, he says "Wheat that produces the best grades of flour must contain from 12 to 12 1/2 percent protein. But when we stop to consider that the bulk of our wheat contains less than 12 percent, we can readily understand why high protein wheat must sell at a premium."

"General run wheat contains from 9 to 12 percent protein. The miller, in order to maintain his best grades of flour, is compelled to purchase considerable quantity of higher than 12 percent protein wheat to bring up his average to 12 percent or more. And it often happens that the miller is not able to secure enough of this high protein wheat at home is forced to ship some of it in from the outside. The premium now being paid for high protein wheat runs from 7 cents a bushel for 12 percent protein to 18 cents a bushel for 14 percent protein."

"It is true that climatic conditions have a great deal to do with the protein content of wheat but there are several things the farmer can do to increase its percentage. It is generally known that higher protein is produced in sections of limited rainfall than in humid sections and that dry seasons decrease yield but increase the percentage of protein. Sandy and bottom lands produce less protein than uplands. It is also known that protein is controlled to a large extent by the amount of available soil nitrogen. Lands that have been in rotation or have grown legumes, like alfalfa, clover, sweet clover, cow peas and soy beans always produce high protein wheat. Good seed makes more protein than poor seed. July and early August preparation of the seedbed insures more protein than later preparation. Some varieties of wheat are richer in protein than others."

W. D. Tenney, manager of the Panhandle Lumber Co., left Wednesday on a business trip to Amarillo, Texas.

VILLAGES FOUND UNATTRACTIVE BY GOVERNMENT

Nearly 20,000,000 people in the United States, for about one-fifth of the population, live in villages, and 30,000,000 farming people use these villages for purposes of business, education, religion, health, and social well-being. Yet these centers of rural population are usually unattractive and often very ugly. Villages in other countries are generally much superior to those of the United States in design, in the character of their streets and public buildings, and their approaches and recreation spots. A start, however, has been made toward beautifying the American village.

Some examples of leadership in this respect are recorded by the Department of Agriculture, which has been studying the problem of village planning from the standpoint of its importance to the rural community and particularly to the farmer.

It is more as a buying than as a selling place that the farmer makes use of the village. In marketing his principal products he generally deals with some large distributing center. But he purchases his household supplies in the village. He goes there for amusement and for social purposes generally. His children often go to school there. An attractive village, says the department, is an important influence in stabilizing farm life and in counteracting the attractions which cities have for the young people of the farms. As the farmer's chief point of contact with outside interests, the village can make a big contribution to the happiness of farm life, even if it be considered from no other standpoint than the fact that it is the place where the farmer spends a large part of his income.

Where villages are being made more beautiful, the impetus has come in nearly every case from local initiative. Villages that have well-planned streets, attractive recreation spots, and pleasing approaches are nearly always indebted for these advantages to the energy and public spirit of some small group of citizens. Under such inspiration dump heaps have been turned into garden spots, unsightly shacks and dilapidated stores have been torn down and replaced by smart, substantial business buildings, and extensive programs of landscape gardening and tree planting have been undertaken. Villages that have embarked on this path are finding that beauty pays. It improves local business and attracts tourist business. It enhances real estate values, and has a powerful influence in raising individual standards of efficiency and enterprise.

One good example of a village that was not well planned originally but that now has been transformed into an extremely pleasing place, is Weston, Mass. Weston formerly had a large swamp area in its center. This has been drained, graded, seeded to grass, and planted to pine, fir and chestnut trees. A new town hall and a fire station have been built opposite the entrance to the common. Public buildings are now centrally grouped. Old, unsightly structures have been torn down. The improvements were planned by a landscape architect. It took 25 years to put the plan through but everyone in Weston now believes that the enterprise was worth the time and money it cost.

A village that was started with a good plan and has realized it is Patterson, Calif. This village and a colony of irrigated farms, occupying 18,000 acres, were planned in 1910. Roads leading to the village were strategically located and planted with trees and shrubs. The village itself has eight streets radiating from a civic center where the public buildings are located. In the last four years the residents of the village have built a public library, a community club house, a concrete swimming pool, and a grammar school, and have provided an automobile camp park.

A town dump at Lewisburg, Pa., has become a scenic asset, through the activities of women, who formed a civic club, launched civic improvement propaganda, and accumulated funds for an improvement program. Formerly the first impression a visitor got on arriving and the last one he took away with him on leaving was one of squalor, because the town dump lay across the main approach to the village. To-day the land where the dump stood is the property of the civic club. Old shacks have been removed from it and refuse cleared away. It has been leveled and planted to grass, flowers and trees. It is spanned by gravel walks and surrounded by ornamental lighting standards. Now the visitor enters the village through a green and smiling park.

Many other examples of effective village planning have been noted by the department's investigators. Yet the idea that village planning is as necessary as city planning has taken root in comparatively few places. It has not the pressure behind it that brings results in crowded cities where congestion makes radical changes compulsory. The Government points out, however, that village planning often means great savings to the community; that it is never too early nor too late to begin it; and that the expense is almost never prohibitive and is seldom a serious handicap.

PARENT-TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

A Word from Our President:
"Just a word to the patrons of the Perryton school. We want you to know and feel that the Perryton Parent-Teachers Association is your organization. We are asking you to attend the meetings; we need you."

If you have a problem, come and bring it with you, perhaps we can help you; if you already know enough about child-training, come and help the rest of us.

Every need and every lack, whether in the school or in the community affects your child and his advancement, so to help our children we must help ALL the children. Do you realize that all the children in our community are our responsibility? Our children are our only real assets. To live, to think, to work, to sacrifice for the citizens of tomorrow is the noblest service we can render the world."

The next meeting will be Monday, February 23, at 8:00 P. M. Come, you will be most welcome.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. W. B. LaMaster, Pres

A boy, who from his earliest remembrance has been told that he will be whipped when his father returns from work, is not very likely to become chummy with his Dad; a sad state of affairs—the boy is a loser—the Dad is a loser and the community in which they live, also, is a loser.

Habit: Habit is a great thing if properly directed. If we begin when the child is young teaching politeness, gentleness, honesty and veracity, these virtues will be second nature to him when he faces this world in later life, and what an advantage he will have over the man who has not these virtues.

Keep in mind the Fathers night program next Monday night. An excellent program is being prepared.

We are expecting a large attendance. No Admission Charge.

A correction: In the Convention report in last week's issue, after the "oldest in America was founded on Mr. Miller's church," an extract from Mr. Miller's address add—"Greece gave us culture, Rome gave us law, and the Hebrews gave us our religion." This later was accidentally omitted in making copy.

Following is Report of Convention, as continued from last week:

"Tuesday evening, after a splendid musical program by members of the Wichita Falls Music Club and the singing of the Congress Song, one minute talks were made by the founder, Mrs. Ella Caruthers Porter of Dallas; past presidents of the Congress and many Dist. presidents. The principal address of the evening was made by State Supt. of Public Instruction S. M. N. Marrs. This discourse was very instructive and interesting and I deeply regret that I am unable to bring it to you in its entirety; however, I have for you some of the principal points made. Noting in the audience the very small number of men, Prof. Marrs asked 'where are the Papas?' In as much as this sixteenth annual convention of the P. T. A. has to do with the welfare of the child," said Prof. Marrs, "the man should be at least 50 per cent interested—the raising of the children should be a 50-50 undertaking for mother and Dad and must be if the outcome is successful. The father's influence goes farther with the boy than the average parent realizes; to illustrate—four lads were discussing the relative virtues of their dads, said No. 1, Papa writes an article for the paper, takes it down and they pay him $50.00. Well, said No. 2, my dad composes a poem, and its no trick for him to do that and the Magazine pays him $100.00. Pshaw, says No. 3, father is a lecturer, he talks for an hour or so and gets $500.00. Ump, retorts No. 4 proudly, my Daddy is a preacher, he works only a little while on Sunday mornings and it takes SIX men to carry the money up to him!" The State Supt., in his address, gave some interesting statistics on "The school as a factor in the Conservation and Development of Child Life." "Public school enrollment now totals 110,000,000 persons," he declared, "making one out of every five in school in 1924. In 1880 only one out of every six persons had gone to school, in 1920 one out of every 17 was in school. In 1920 there were as many children in the schools of New York City alone as there were in the schools of the Nation in 1880. This progress in education proves there is something essentially right in the schools. "Another assertion made by Prof. Marrs, "35 per cent of the population of Texas is illiterate and that these figures do not include the negro portion of the population." T was not until 1872 that the Supreme Court decided the right to support the public high school from public taxation.

Showing the positive side of education Prof. Marrs asserted "that it costs more now because it is measured in the number of dollars expended that it requires $179.00 today to do what could be done ten years ago for an outlay of $100.00; schools are doing more than formerly, because of the demands made upon them, more subjects are being taught then formerly; compulsory attendance at school has swelled the enrollment. This compulsory education, in effect since 1915, was brought about largely by the passing of the Child Labor Law. The Scholastic age should be lowered to six years. Texas is the only state in the Union that requires a child to wait until he is seven before entering the public school." Prof. Marrs also favors raising the age limit so as to permit of having night classes, at public expense, where the circumstances and attendance are justifiable. There are enrolled in the Public Schools of Texas today, 1,000,000 children under the care and guidance of 30,000 teachers. Supt. Marrs also suggested that the method of securing both State and County Superintendents be changed from elective to appointive.

Closing his remarks Supt. Marrs said "realizing that there is a gap, namely the high school period, that the State is neglecting to finance and provide free to ALL children, hence I

"Was It Insured"

The first question asked after a fire or a storm or wreck is as to whether the property was insured.

This universal query indicates the importance of adequate insurance. And the answer justly fixes the opinion of the public as to the sagacity (common horse sense) of the property owner. Isn't it so? We have for years written insurance on property of most of the wise people of Ochiltree County—about a million dollars worth. Let us also provide protection to your holdings.

Solve This Puzzle

We know an old man who is worth about $40,000. He claims that he has never had a dollar given to him and that all his earnings combined are not more than his present wealth.

And yet he has not saved all he has earned in a life time. What is the answer to this puzzle?

It is all very simple. Early in his life he began to save at least 25 cents out of every dollar he earned. This money was deposited in the savings department of the bank and from time to time he made investments when his funds grew large enough for that.

This plan has been working for more than 40 years. His total savings are only about $12,000. The balance of his wealth is interest money....

MUSCLE SHOALS. NITROGEN, OR POWER? FORD OFFERS AID. UP TO THE PRESIDENT.

At the Request of the War Department Henry Ford offered to develop the power plant, built by the people at Muscle Shoals to provide nitrogen from the atmosphere for use in war time.

Nitrogen can be made into explosives for war and fertilizer for peace.

Politicians in Washington rejected Ford's offer, although the entire South and all the farmers demanded that the Government accept it. Ford, wearied of Washington's vacillation, withdrew his offer.

And the Muscle Shoals plant, as things now stand, is scheduled to be put under control of a great power monopoly.

Every voter in this country should read Henry Ford's statement concerning Muscle Shoals made this week, in response to a message from W. R. Hearst urging him to re-enter the Muscle Shoals contest, and again try to rescue the people's property from selfish exploiters.

These are points in Henry Ford's statement that interest every American.

"I am willing to co-operate with the Government in developing Muscle Shoals into a great nitrate plant, making cheap fertilizer for the American farmers.

"In my opinion, the Shoals should be used for the production of nitrate and fertilizer.

"I believe that the Government could itself keep Muscle Shoals and run it, not as a power plant but as a nitrate plant, to help the farmers in peace and safeguard the country in war. The people of the United States spent $140,000,000 to create a government nitrate plant, not a power house. We should not lose sight of the original and biggest reason for Muscle Shoals being built.

"If the Government keeps Muscle Shoals and operates the nitrate plant by the army and navy, I shall be glad to put at their service all that the Ford company has of knowledge and experience. Our engineers have been working for three years on the problem of making cheap nitrogen from the air for farmers. We believe we have discovered improvements on the present process. We believe air nitrate can be made at a price that will materially reduce the cost of fertilizer on the farm.

"The Ford company will turn over to the Government, without cost, the results of its research.

"We will lend the men to help build up an efficient organization to run the Shoals. As a citizen's duty, we worked with the army and navy during the war. We are ready to give the same co-operation to the Government in aid of the farmers now, cost free, to the Government.

"It is a mistake to say that the Government cannot run the nitrate plant as well as any private party. This is the very kind of business the Government ought to engage in. Electro-chemical methods of air nitrogen fixation do not require great forces of employees. It is a straight job of letting the forces of nature work for you. The Government has as good men as there are in this field. We talked with some of them when we were figuring on the Shoals.

"If the Government keeps Muscle Shoals and runs it for the farmers, I will help, so far as technical help goes, just as much as I could have helped if I had taken the property over."

"HENRY FORD."

The question is, "Shall Muscle Shoals, which the people own, be developed primarily as a nitrogen producing plant, and secondarily as a power plant, both in the public interest? Or shall the great enterprise be given to private monopolists to be exploited on the usual basis of all that the traffic will bear?"

President Coolidge will decide the matter. Congress will not send him a bill if it is known that he will veto it.

Write the President and tell him what you think. Farmers, especially, should write. The President is always glad to hear from any citizen.

Under date of February 6th, Mr. Gray wrote that Mrs. Gray, who went to Arizona for her health, seemed to be improving. The Herald, together with her other many friends in this country, sincerely hope that she rapidly regains her health. Following is the continuation of Mr. Gray's letter that appeared in last week's paper:

"Monday, December 15th, we left El Paso for Deming, N. M., 112 miles, following the Rio Grande Valley 48 miles to Mesilla Park, where we had lunch, immediately beyond the dam across the Rio Grande, we entered a real desert, which was 64 miles across, surrounded by mountain ranges, constantly in view, arriving at Deming, N. M., at 3:00 P. M. This is a beautiful place 3200 population located in the center of Mimbres Valley, where abundance of water is pumped from shallow depths for irrigating profitable intensive farming lands. Here is one of the greatest zones of America and is said to have the largest Army Sanitarium in the world. The altitude here is 4300 feet. To the north, and considered in the immediate vicinity, are large copper mines, the great Gila National Forest, and many ruins of cliff dwellers, as well as many famous hot springs. After spending some two hours here, we started toward Lordsburg, N. M., 61 miles further, which is a mining and cattle town of 1400 population. Here gold, silver and copper are produced in great abundance. Because of road construction, we were forced to detour the vast 25 miles and that after dark and the rain was pouring down most all this detour. When within about a mile of Lordsburg, we were held up by two men with flash lights, who stepped out in front of our car, motioning for us to stop. We stopped and state inspectors approached, announcing their mission and proceeded to inspect our affects, then pasting red inspection certificate on our windshield, motioned us forward. We arrived at 10:00 P. M. and the rain had ceased.

LETTER FROM T. W. GRAY

Temple Arizona
January 31, 1925
Ochiltree County Herald,
Perryton, Texas.

Dear Editor:
I don't wish to burden you nor the readers of the Herald, but, as promised, will proceed further with the report of our trip. Going from Alamogordo 85 miles to El Paso, we crossed a desert country in the eastern valley of the Franklin range and Orange mountains, 35 miles in which we saw no living thing. Passing out, we came into view of Ft. Bliss, through which we passed and on into El Paso, a city of 80,000, and almost 4000 feet altitude. Here is one of the U. S. most important military posts, representing every branch of military service of our government. The bands consists of some of the best musicians. Their musical concerts, the maneuvers of the troops in contest war games, together with the aviation practices afford much entertainment to visitors.

We remained in El Paso one week, during which time the sun shone two days and snowed and rained parts of three days. This locality has quite an interesting history, really dating back to 1519. Although it seems no record shows the date settlement was established here, but in 1659 this place was found already settled. El Paso's citizens are Americans, Spaniards, Mexicans, Negroes, Indians and some Japs, but its principal traffic naturally divides into two centers, American and Mexican. The former far more important and attractive. The central part, of which (about 6 blocks) plainly designates itself as being the original old city, retaining its original ancient form and shape of the peculiarly arranged streets. None of which are square with the world, but angle in different directions, some verging as spokes in a wheel; away from this original city (although the principal business center) the streets become uniform in direction and construction. This original section is the city proper, magnificent and elegant structures, many reaching 8 and 10 stories. While in the old Mexican section of the city, most of the old adobe buildings are still in use, by Mexican and Negroes, who seem to have extensive patronage, mostly their own class.

There are Mexican merchants, whose businesses are located in the American business center, and are in every way equal in appearance, attractiveness and quality to those of his business associates among the Americans.

One morning I purchased transportation for fifteen cents, and left the United States for three fourths of a day, and went into a country where the language, manners, customs, modes of dress and style of architecture are absolutely foreign to American ideas. Juarez, just across the Rio Grande, is one of the most typical Mexican cities. Here are the bull rings arena, with amphitheatre for bull fights, and cock pits for cock fights, for Spanish and Mexican entertainments. Their big bull fight had taken place the day before, but another was scheduled for the following week. I was not one bit disappointed. Here are said to be the largest gambling houses (in the matter of floor space, and the number of games in operation) in the world. Here is a church built in 1638, still in use for worship. One can almost lose himself in thought and meditation, while noting the strange and foreign appearance of all things about him; the narrow streets, the low dingy and ancient adobe buildings and plazas, their wonderful preservation and durability, a real type of thousands of cities and towns of old Mexico, the non-progress and development of its people, their ancient mode of living unimproved. The people seems to have no energy and prefer to remain in ignorance, yet they are of the created human race, as you and I. There is a saloon on every corner. Everybody uses tobacco, even the women and children. I noticed that their saloons were well patronized by the Americans from across the river. More next week.

T. W. GRAY

The following morning was clear, bright and warm. The first summer like morning we had after leaving Roswell. We had entered the warm climate unaware. After setting our mileage register, we started for Douglas, Arizona. When our register showed 30 miles, we were passing through gap in mountain range, and 18 miles further crossed the State line into Arizona and on to Douglas. Strange to note that when at Lordsburg we were 55 miles north of El Paso and now at Douglas we were 55 miles south of El Paso. Nevertheless it is true.

Douglas has a population of 10,000, is beautiful, well located, all good buildings, every appearance of thrift. The city's south limits is International Street, whose center is the boundary line between Mexico and U. S. Here we had dinner, then went on to Bisbee, Arizona, 25 miles, entering the mountains 2 miles before reaching the city. Altitude is one mile and 20 feet. The city occupies the steep sides of a canyon, whose bed forms the main street, street car line and auto highway. All over the same narrow space which is main street. The houses and all buildings climb tier upon tier to the top and reach down into every crevice. Buildings are equal to eastern city buildings. It has a wonderful mining industry, an enterprising city, larger than Amarillo, Texas, having a 12,000 population, and has three daily newspapers. Some of its minerals are dug out from more than 2200 feet below the surface. Its industry is like that of Douglas, only 25 miles away. Douglas' monthly payroll is about $450,000, has three railroads and 2 daily newspapers.

Just before entering Bisbee, we had a blowout, so stopped here and purchased a new casing. Then continuing to climb on through the city, on and up beyond and above the city to the summit of the continental divide at an altitude of 6080 feet (one mile and 750 feet) or 730 feet above the city. From this point is a wonderful view of rugged mountain scenery and vast expanse of the big plains beyond. The descent here is uncomfortable rapid as the ascent already past. Then proceeding toward Tucson, Arizona, 107 miles, passing through Tombstone City, which at one time had 110 saloons and 1400 population, and passing by the monument or tombstone itself, 16 feet high, 20 foot base, marking the final resting place of Ed Schaeffelin, together with his canteen and pick. It also marks exact spot where his camp was located at time of his discovery of the rich mines in the deep gulch, which later became the central street through the city of Bisbee, above described. We reached Tucson just after dark, after crossing another broad expanse of naked desert."

"At Tucson, on the morning of December 17th, we woke finding ourselves, apparently in a new world, while in fact as to point of human habitation, was far the oldest we had ever seen. The bright and warm sunshine, beautiful palms and various other green trees, green shrubbery and vines, blooming flowers and green grass in the yards, the broad paved streets and paved alleys, the plazas and beautiful buildings. Such a contrast we were not expecting, but, of course, much admired. Tucson is a real city, one of the oldest of America, has a population of 25,000, which naturally divides itself into two parts. One side is the old Spanish and Mexican quarter, a relic of the picturesque days of old, while the other is a modern, and well ordered city of the up to now American type. Here 150 years ago Fray Francisco Garcer found a settlement of more than 200 people, who were engaged in farming and stock raising, and he built, for them, a little stone church at the foot of the hill, just a half mile west of the present site, and a thick adobe wall around the church for their protection and called the place El Cerro Del Tucson. Now on this side is the Spanish and Mexican quarter. This stone church still stands as first built, but the walls are mostly in ruin. Like a natural oasis in a vast desert, abundant growth of vegetation as above mentioned resulting from a system of irrigation from the Santa Cruz river near by, renders this typical of a tropical city in appearance. A square plot of ground containing 320 acres is set apart for their public buildings. This plot has all the general appearance of a well arranged and well kept pleasure park. Here are located the State University School Buildings. All of which are magnificent, well built and beautiful structure, and are so arranged as to location and distance apart, for convenience and striking appearance to visitors. Every building and all parts of these grounds can readily and conveniently reached by paved drive-ways, lined on either side with beautiful flowers, vines and shrubbery. The remaining ground, not occupied by the buildings, walks, and driveways is covered with flower beds, selected shrubbery and various specimens of ornamental and shade trees and water fountains and sprays. Wife and I enjoyed the privilege of driving all through these grounds one afternoon. Tucson, like Douglas, Bisbee and other wealthy cities of mining districts, is a supply point for numerous mining industries, in the surrounding mountains, and has several large smelting works, is the seat of the University of Arizona and St. Joseph's Academy and other institutions of education. Will say some of the wealthiest men of our country live in these western cities, or, if in the large eastern metropolis cities, the main source of their supply of wealth came from here, and a portion of their time is actually spent here. At these places, money seems to be plentiful. Their homes and surroundings, business houses, cities and streets, all indicate plenty of money and its liberal use.

After spending five days here, we proceeded toward Phoenix, Arizona, our objective from the start. Crossing another desert of 68 miles brought us to Florence, Ariz., a town of 1200 people, where tropical plants there considerable irrigation is maintained here also. The State Prison is located here, where two of our noted Oklahomans found lodging, at least for short time. The Lawrence Bros. were captured here at Tempe, where they had spent about 12 hours before being recognized. Here a death sentence was executed last week, by hanging the murderers.

Continuing toward our journey end, at 48 miles from Florence, we began to notice green fields, we cattle and sheep pasturing, then began along the highway, yards full of green trees and flowers. Soon appeared a home with a yard full of green trees with large yellow blossoms, which on nearing, proved to be orange, lemons and grape-fruit. At first we had ever seen on trees, we stopped, examined them and purchased a few, then proceeded. At this point we were entering Mesa, Arizona. We stopped no more until in Phoenix, where we found a good room and retired early. It rained all night. (Continued next week.)

NOTICE TO PARENTS

We wish to notify you that Friday, February 27th, is Parents Day at school again, that is the day that parents are asked to make a special effort to visit school. There are two of these days during the school year, one of which is the Friday before Thanksgiving and the other is the Friday before Texas Independence Day. After the second of these a report is sent in to State Headquarters of the Parent-Teachers Association. The first of these days gave us a total of sixty-three, let's try to raise the number this time. If you haven't visited school yet this year, do your best to get there Friday, February 27th, and if you have visited before, don't hesitate to go again, for it won't be long until the term is over, and that child's school years will soon slip by, too.

—Visitation Committee.

CHEVROLET SALES BREAK ALL RECORDS

The Chevrolet Motor Company broke all its previous January records for retail sales and orders during the last month. In fact the record was made in the last 28 days of the month or since January 3 when the new Chevrolet was announced. The Chevrolet dealers throughout the country delivered and took orders for approximately 40 per cent more cars during January than during either January 1924 or January 1923—the first months in the two years having the highest production and sales records in the history of the industry.

During the recent Chicago automobile show 1,107 Chevrolets were sold—a record which has never before been equalled by any car exhibited at this show during the same period of time.

In New York during the automobile show, where the new Chevrolet was shown for the first time, five times as many orders were taken as during any previous New York show.

At the Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia and other shows in the larger centres of population, held previous to the Chicago show, similar high records of sales were made.

"Such sales records made, not only at the automobile shows, but by dealers throughout the country, are indicative of the public acceptance of the new Chevrolet," points out R. H. Grant, general sales manager.

"In many cases, before the dealers received some of the models, these cars were purchased from specifications and photographs only," he comments. "The reason for this national acceptance lies in the fact that the new Chevrolet combines greater quality at low cost than ever before."

Miss Ada May Freeman and Luther Browder of the southwest part of the county were united in marriage at the Methodist parsonage in this city by Rev. J. S. Huckabee on last Wednesday.

FINANCING PAINT CONTRACTS

By E. V. Peters
President, National Paint, Oil & Varnish Association

ONE of the most progressive moves made in the current history of painting is that of making it possible for every home owner to have his house painted at the necessary time and pay for it in small monthly installments. This has just been accomplished through the medium of large national financing corporations. Behind this movement have been men of vision, who for years past have recognized the public's need, particularly the need of the man receiving a small salary, and have sought to solve the problem in such a way as to enable him to keep up appearances and at the same time protect his property against deterioration by keeping it always well painted.

The plan which has finally evolved from many years of experimenting is that of having the home or property painted at once and paying for it a little at a time until the full amount is paid. This partial payment plan has been in operation for many years along other and much simpler lines, but never before has it been applied to painting homes.

For many years, small salaried people have been able to purchase homes and furnish them on the partial payment plan. They have been able to equip them electrically and to install gas heaters and other gas and electrical equipment by making easy payments.

For a year or more, certain enterprising companies have been experimenting in the hope of applying the deferred payment plan to the painting of homes, so that it

E. V. Peters has actually been in operation for over a year with results that helped to speed it on its way, toward the standard and universal thing it has just become.

The perfecting of the partial payment plan makes it possible for every man or woman who owns a home to have it well painted as often as it needs it and pay for the work on easy terms. It is an advantage to a man in both his business and social life to have a well kept home, and with its covering of paint. It is an indication of high morals and good citizenship. His home adds to the beauty of his community and increases the respect of his neighbors.

When one stops to consider the fact that more than a billion and a half dollars worth of standing property is destroyed in this country every year by rot and rust and that insurance cannot be bought to cover this type of loss and depreciation, and that paint and varnish are the only known agents that will check the waste, the tremendous value of the new partial payment plan becomes immediately apparent to every home owner.

The steps in having a painting job done by the partial payment plan are simple. Either the home owner seeks a painter which he may do by applying for information at a paint store, or the painter wishing a job finds a home owner whose house needs painting. The painter submits an estimate of the cost to the home owner, who, in turn, providing the price is satisfactory, signs a contract in which he agrees to make a cash payment of one-fifth of the cost to the painter, and the balance to the finance company in not more than ten equal monthly installments.

When the work is finished, the painter mails the bill made out in the name of the owner to the financing company. This bill shows the total amount of the contract, the cash payment and the balance due. The finance company, in turn, mails this bill to the owner for approval. On receipt of the approved bill from the owner, the financing company pays the painter the entire amount still due after making a reduction to cover the charge for service to painter and the interest, while the home owner, himself, still has ten months in which to finish paying for the painting of his home.

MAYBE IN A MILLION YEARS

An excited dispatch from Berlin tells you that American Bankers are supplying funds for experiments that would obtain gold from baser metals. They hope that gold can be produced as cheaply as tin or copper. Hope is beautiful, considerably more beautiful than the gold that gullible American gentlemen will get for their latest attempt at transmutation of metals. When a scientist looks into an atom of pure gold, counts the electrons that revolve around the nucleus and realizes dimly the untold power, knowledge and precision involved in a single atom of any of the elements, he knows that no little human being is going to manufacture such atoms for himself offhand. Perhaps in a million years, but not now. Wise Nature won't permit man to decide in advance the sex of one unborn child. To do so would produce too many boys, too few girls. And Nature won't allow men to change the elements that he really needs, iron or hydrogen, into gold that he does not need. Don't invest your money in any scheme to manufacture gold.

THE SURE SIGN OF A DEAD ONE

It is wicked to dig up graves and disturb the dead.

It is almost as wicked to go into the place of a business firm that does not advertise in the home town paper—for that also is equivalent to disturbance of the dead.

Why wish to disturb the dead. There are plenty of live people in this world without trying to resurrect those who have gone to rest, both spiritually and physically.

A non-advertising man is a dead one.

Some folks may tell you that this statement is prompted by selfishness on the part of publishers of newspapers.

That is not true.

You point out a firm of any kind—little or big—that goes on a non-advertising policy—and we will show you one that is dead in the shell every time. Its policies being wrong in this respect is pretty conclusive evidence that it is wrong in all others and that is an evidence that in time it will go down in failure. Not alone because of failure to advertise, but because of false standards and unsuccessful policies.

When a business firm is right in one great fundamental, it is generally correct in all of its policies—and that is what wins success. When it is wrong in one, it is usually found to be equally as far off in all others.

We have yet to see this rule fail.

There have been some apparent success by disregard of this rule but the rare exceptions only prove the rule. Sometimes unusual conditions prevail which sweep them along to success in spite of their policies. If you fall into a swift current you are sure to be carried down stream whether you can swim or not. But it takes a swimmer to go up stream in either still water or swift current.

THE BOOTLEGGERS

The consensus of opinion with thoughtful and observing men and women is, that a firmer hand will have to take hold of the bootlegger. He is resorting to the same tactics of the old-time saloon keeper, who cultivated the appetite of the youth so that his supply of customers would not become exhausted in time. This greed of the saloon keeper for the youth of the land had more to do with wiping out of the saloon than any other one agency. Not all of the saloon keepers were guilty of this practice, neither are all bootleggers trying to contaminate youth but those who are guilty are uniting men and women of liberal minds around the idea of strict law enforcement and the punishment of the bootlegger. There are men who like to take their drink on the side; this is not strange for they were reared in a day when the brewery was a legitimate industry and the saloon a commercial house just as other business houses. A generation ago the liquor traffic was differently regarded from now. Today the mind revolts against a drunken youth. This revolt is earnest because it is undermining manhood.

CRITICISING THE PREACHER

No man has harder people to serve than the minister of the gospel. His critics are many, and the criticisms varied. A Texas paper comments as follows: "The preacher has a great time. If his hair is gray, he is old. If he is a young man, he hasn't had experience. If he has ten children he has too many; if he has none, he isn't a good example. If his wife sings in the choir, she is presuming; if she doesn't she isn't interested in her husband's work. If a preacher reads from notes, he is a bore; if he speaks extemporaneously, he isn't deep enough. If he stays at home in his study he doesn't mix enough with the people; if he is seen around the streets, he ought to be home getting up a good sermon, if he calls on some poor family, he is playing to the grand stand; if he calls at the home of the wealthy, he is an aristocrat. Whatever he does, someone could have told him to do better."

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Bell were in Miami last Saturday transacting business and visiting with friends.

RADIO AND FARM

Hours go by and the magic instrument is used to bring into the country home music, song, speech, from widely separated centers. In fact, the world comes and goes in a marvelous way over the radio. And the loneliness of the farm has been vanquished. Instead of being isolated and apart after the sun goes down, the country home is at once in touch with the world, through the air. That is the "Dream realized, and the question answered."

New Way to Quickly
Stop Worst Cough

A remarkable new and simple method for treating a cough gives relief with the first doses and usually breaks a severe cough in 24 hours. The treatment is based on the prescription known as Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs. You take just one teaspoonful and hold it in your throat for 15 or 20 seconds before swallowing, without following with water. The prescription has a double action. It not only soothes and heals soreness and irritation, but it quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion which are the direct cause of the coughing. People have been astonished how quickly the coughing stopped with this new treatment, and the whole cough condition goes in a very short time. The prescription is for coughs, chest colds, hoarseness, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, etc. It is excellent for children as well as grownups—no harmful drugs. Economical, too, as the dose is only one teaspoonful. At all good druggists. Ask for

Change Oil
Mr. Autoist

Don't sleep on the job while a good automobile wears out underneath you for want of new oil. It is happening every day and it may be your misfortune, unless you are reasonably regular in having the oil changed.

You may think you haven't run your car much this winter—but that does not prove that it is not in need of a change of oil. With warmer days you may need a heavier oil.

Hi-Test oil is the best oil to be had. Let us take the messy job off your hands. We can change the oil in your car in just a few minutes. Drive in this week.

Cough Remedy Mother Gave Us Still Best

Pine Tar and Honey Beat All Modern Drugs

In thousands of families it has been the custom for many years to keep pine tar and honey always on hand for coughs, chest colds, bronchitis, spasmodic croup, and throat irritations. Our mothers knew that it was good, that it often broke up the worst cough in 24 hours, and that it could be given to young and old alike, as it contains no narcotics or harmful drugs.

And now we are told that in spite of modern medical discoveries there is still no better or quicker cough remedy. Doctors say the pine tar quickly loosens and removes the phlegm and congestion that cause the coughing, also healing soreness, while the honey not only gives a pleasant taste, but helps soothe the irritation.

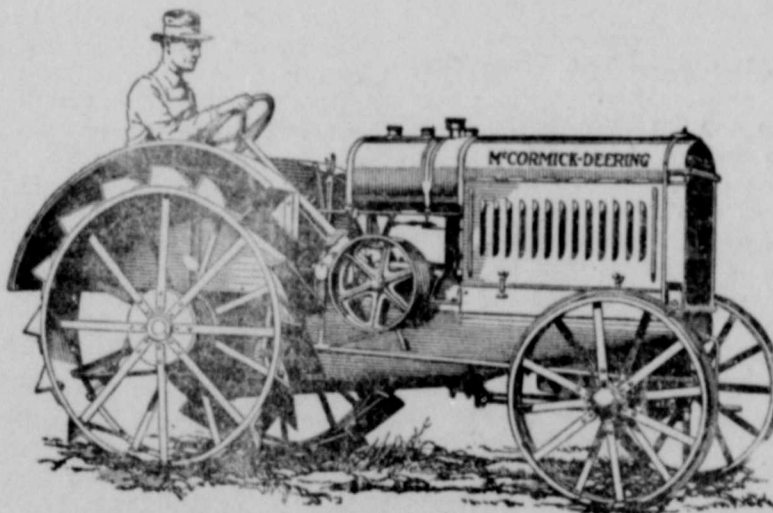

The original compound, made up many years ago and used by millions of people, was Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey.

This is scientifically composed of just the right proportions of pine tar, honey and other quick-acting, healing ingredients which the best doctors have found to aid in quick relief. If you want the original and the best, be sure you get Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey and no other. Only 30c. at any good drug store.

The McCormick-Deering Leverless Disk Harrow is a genuine tractor disk, not a made-over horse harrow. It is built for heaviest duty. It is controlled entirely from the driver's seat, without levers, yet it is very simple. Merely backing the tractor automatically sets the angle of both front and rear gangs.

When the tractor starts forward the gangs hold that angle until released by a pull on the rope. In 5 to 10-foot sizes to fit your power.
