The Junior Twentieth Century club is meeting at 3:30 o'clock in the afternoon at the First Methodist church.

The Dalet Delphian chapter is to meet at 7:30 o'clock at the Camp Fire club house.

The P.-T. A. council is meeting at 8:15 in room 101 of the Junior high school. All principals and P.-T. A. presidents are asked to attend.

Week's Social Events Are Scheduled

Among the social events for the week, heretofore unannounced in the Avalanche, are the following:

Mrs. J. H. Moore and V. V. Clark will be hostesses to the Merry Bidders club at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. W. S. Posey will entertain the Bluebonnet club at 8 o'clock Wednesday at 1218 5th street.

Mrs. Edna Edgar Shelton and J. C. Hildgraves will entertain the members of the Technological college engineering faculty and their wives this evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Shelton, 2329 19th street.

Tech Faculty Members to Attend Musical Friday Evening

Members of the Technological college faculty club will attend a progressive musical program next Friday evening at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Grayberry and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Douglas. This will be the monthly meeting of the club, according to W. P. Clement, chairman of the program committee.

L. A. Coulter Will Be Banquet Speaker

L. A. Coulter, prominent lay member of a Dallas Presbyterian church, is to make the principal address at the annual Loyalty dinner to be served members of the First Presbyterian church in the basement of that institution Wednesday evening. It has been announced by Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor.

Large Attendance at Methodist W. M. S. Meeting

With an unusually large attendance, the First Methodist W. M. S. met yesterday afternoon at the church to continue the study of "The Life and Letters of Paul." Mrs. E. W. Camp gave a review of previous chapters studied.

Church Circles Agree to Help Bring Lecturer

All three circles of the First Christian W. M. S. in meetings Monday voiced intentions of assisting the Junior high school P. T. A. in bringing Thomas Elmore Lacy here to lecture on the evening of March 28. Proceeds from this will help in sending high school students to Amarillo to participate in classical tournaments.

Circle 2 met with Mrs. C. C. Cronshaw, 2425 20th street, for a study lesson and decided to conduct a chicken sale next Saturday. The following were present: Mesdames J. C. Howies, R. R. Eakin, C. C. Cronshaw, L. S. Mast, T. Teal, W. N. Lennon, Tom Garrard, L. P. Squires, and Miss Hess Edwards.

It's all right Queen Mary's hats are not so bad. Nancy approves of one with blue flowers on it. Nancy is just 3. Her address is a children's hospital which the queen visits. They had told Nancy that the lady was a queen. But they couldn't fool Nancy. "Where's your crown?" asked the lady, trying to kid her like that. "I left it at home," said the lady. "But don't you like my hat with these pretty flowers on it?" Nancy, being too young to know that no one is supposed to like Queen Mary's hats, said, "Yes."

HONOR SYSTEM FAILED

The honor system has failed at Vassar. Last 1 be pounced upon by deans n' things, I explain myself at once. The honor system has failed in "The Retreat," a goody shop run by a senior. Cookies and popcorn balls and candy and gum were on display with prices attached, and a little box into which the price was to be dropped. But the senior girl who runs "The Retreat" now keeps her goodies under lock and key and sells them only when coin is seen. She lost $3 a day, she says. Some girls put in pennies for nickels and some put in tickets for dimes, and some didn't put in anything. Nice girls!

$1,000 BABY

How much is your baby worth? A Cleveland court gave Mrs. Mary Kolansky $1000 for the life of her baby son, Frank. A neighbor was practicing rifle shooting in his yard. A bullet went through the window and killed baby Frank, sleeping in his crib. At first thought one decides that no mother would give up her baby for even a million or a billion dollars. Is it true, though? Granting the average mother love, I imagine that in any community a few mothers could be rounded up who would sell their babies for much less than a million. I've known some sold for $10.

SUZANNE'S NIP

Eighty were present at the First Presbyterian church Monday night for the entertainment given by the senior and intermediate societies of the First Presbyterian church for the senior and intermediate societies of the Christian and Cumberland Presbyterian churches following the business session at which plans were made for attendance at the Plainview convention, March 23 to 25, the young people practiced songs and yells for their part in the meeting.

Almy $2-a-day hotel where she never gave a tip, wearing the same clothes she wore years and years ago, and adding weight to her hoard. Although not many women go so far as Mrs. Garrett, she is an extreme sample of what I believe to be more of a feminine trait than masculine—the trait of penurious hoarding. There are many good reasons why women have been made so. But the fact is that we are "tighter" by far than men.

Radio Rivals Movies in Cellist's Favor

PORTLAND, Ore., March 14—The lure of the microphone was strong enough to pull Gladys Johnson of Portland away from the movie studio. Although she was featured in two motion picture productions and was offered new contracts, she returned to the musical field. As cellist of Station KGW, Miss Johnson is widely known to radio fans of the Northwest. Besides playing in solo selections and in orchestra ensembles, Miss Johnson devotes much of her time to program arrangement.

One County 'Has Four' Women Legislators

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 11—Hudson county, a stronghold of New Jersey's democratic party, believes in electing women to office and keeping them there.

Four women represent the county in congress and the legislature. Mrs. Mary T. Norton, the first woman to represent her party in congress, began her second term in the house March 4. Miss May Curtis and Mrs. Catherine Finn are serving their fourth term, and Mrs. Marian Urbanski her second in the lower house of the state legislature.

PLEASERS OF CELEBRATED PALATES IN UNIQUE EXHIBIT

Vivia Danstrom, seas extraordinary at the salad exhibit, displaying appetizingly in her right hand "First Lady of the Land Salad," and, in her left, "Al South Salad."

By NEA Service
NEW YORK, March 14—Literally speaking, geniuses never utter their salad days.
Name and fame may touch their spirits with dignity and their hair with silver, but to the little red, a funny red tomato or an eye-bird allegator bear nesting in a pale green lettuce leaf will bring a youthful gleam to the eye.
And so, when the New York Art Center opened an exhibit of paintings and salads by masters, it was the artist that brought down the house.
Hot It Started
Henry R. De V. Schwab of the Best Foods Home Economic Center, suggested the exhibit. "The paintings of the great art stars remain as it is, but these salad displays are not to possibly something must be done!"
And something was.
An extraordinary group set out to collect the recipes of famous persons and to supervise the concoction of the salads.
Then the favorite groceries were ranged on tables beneath the pictures.
The notables were all represented, from Debe Danieles to Governor Al Smith, from Anna Loos to Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.
"First Lady Salad"
Into the bag go a half diced pear, a half diced apple, two slices pineapple, a half slice banana, and six halves fresh strawberries. Fill into hearts of lettuce, decorating with dates and maraschino cherries.
Mayor Jimmie Walker prates of artichokes and mushroom tops, and Al Smith likes a yen after Julianne (which, inquiry revealed, is Italian celery). The women go in for simple salads, endives, combination and fruit.
But one and all, humanity responds to the call of the mayonnaise!

RADIO IS ADDED TO TECH CURRICULUM

In keeping with the demands of the ever-increasing student body, Dr. E. F. George, head of the department of physics has announced the addition of a course in radio for the coming term and also for the next long session. The course will also be given in the summer school if there is enough demand for it.

The course will give a brief study of the history of radio telegraphy and telephony and also a study of the theories relating to the generation and detection of electro-magnetic waves and the principles used in different sending and receiving sets. The laboratory work will consist of resistance, inductance and capacity measurements and comparisons; finding characteristics of tubes and crystals; measurements of antenna constants; use and calibration of wave meters; and the construction of receiving, amplifying and oscillating circuits. General practice work will be included in the laboratory work and sets will be built by the advanced students of the class. The course will be named Radio Communication and numbered Physics 343.

Dr. W. H. Abbt and Prof. Harry Hill will have charge of the course which will be offered in the spring term of this year. A number of the students of the liberal arts, agriculture and engineering schools are to sign for the course. A number of radio enthusiasts are to take the course also.

MARCH BIRTHDAY PARTY TO BE WELL ATTENDED

According to reports, March will have the largest birthday party of any of the months, more than 65 students are to attend the affair Thursday noon. A number of faculty members are to be guests also. The plan of giving the birthday parties to the students was adopted by Miss Katherine Harper, director of the cafeteria. Each month she is hostess to those students who were born within the month.

The Saint Patrick motif is to be carried out in the refreshments and decorations.

SPRING TERM REGISTRATION STARTS

With the exams just getting into full swing, a large number of the students have already enrolled for the spring term. A new plan, devised by the registration committee for this term, calls for the enrollment of all of the old students during the examinations, thereby eliminating the extra two days for registration during the coming term. All new students will enroll Monday, March 21.

JUNIOR PROM ELECTION TO CONTINUE TODAY

The election of the Queen for the Junior Prom will be continued throughout today. Winfield Nicklaus, president of the Junior class announced last night after the polls had closed with only a small number of the class members voting yesterday. Scout Officials to Attend Camp School

In order to obtain the best methods of camping, Scout Executive A. H. Watts, of the South Plains council and K. N. Clapp, chairman of the South Plains campaign committee, will go to the regional camp conference which will be held at Waco, March 21 to 23. The conference will be attended by some 120 scout men of Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The conference will be in the form of a training school for camp conductors and will be presided over by L. L. MacDonald, national camp director of the boy scouts. He has been conducting the schools all over the United States and Waco was selected as the meeting place for the 9th region. Scout Park near Waco, will be the location of the school.

The latest in camping methods and various means of stirring up interest in the work will be taught in the school. It is the plan of the local officials to employ the guides obtained from the school in the Post Memorial Camp this summer which will be attended by more than 500 boys.

PROOF

Proof is not such a big word, but it means much. It stands for a great deal with some people, and in fact most of us are more or less inclined to want some proof of certain things, especially in cases where there is room for any doubt.

To write intelligent advertisements certain pertinent and demonstrable facts must be at hand. So the expert adviser asked a few questions in order that he might have the necessary ammunition with which to load the high power advertisements that were to bring the stream of newcomers to settle the vacant lands of the county.

Then more questioning brought to light the fact that there was nobody in this "county-to-be-advertised" who could help settlers solve the thousand and one local problems with which the newcomer would be confronted.

Then their expert adviser counseled the pooling of their money with the state for the employment of the best county agent to be had and full co-operation with him in making the farms under cultivation pay.

Instead of putting the several thousand collected into a few advertisements, it was invested in a first class county agent. The argument for his employment was easy to see and to understand.

Many years ago the South Plains had the very same land they have now. They had a few farms, but most of the people who were on them were satisfied to take the statements of the old-time cowmen that nothing would grow out in this country, and that this would never be a farming country. But other farmers came—very few however for a number of years. All the advertisements that could be paid for in all of the newspapers in the country would not bring people out here.

We tell the people about the wonders of the city of Lubbock, and the development is wonderful—in fact too wonderful for a lot of folks to believe. It is necessary then that we prove to a great many folks that we need many of the things that we ask for.

It is necessary that we keep up the program of work, and it is worth everything that it costs to do this. It is also a good investment to bring people to Lubbock, so that they can see first hand just what is here.

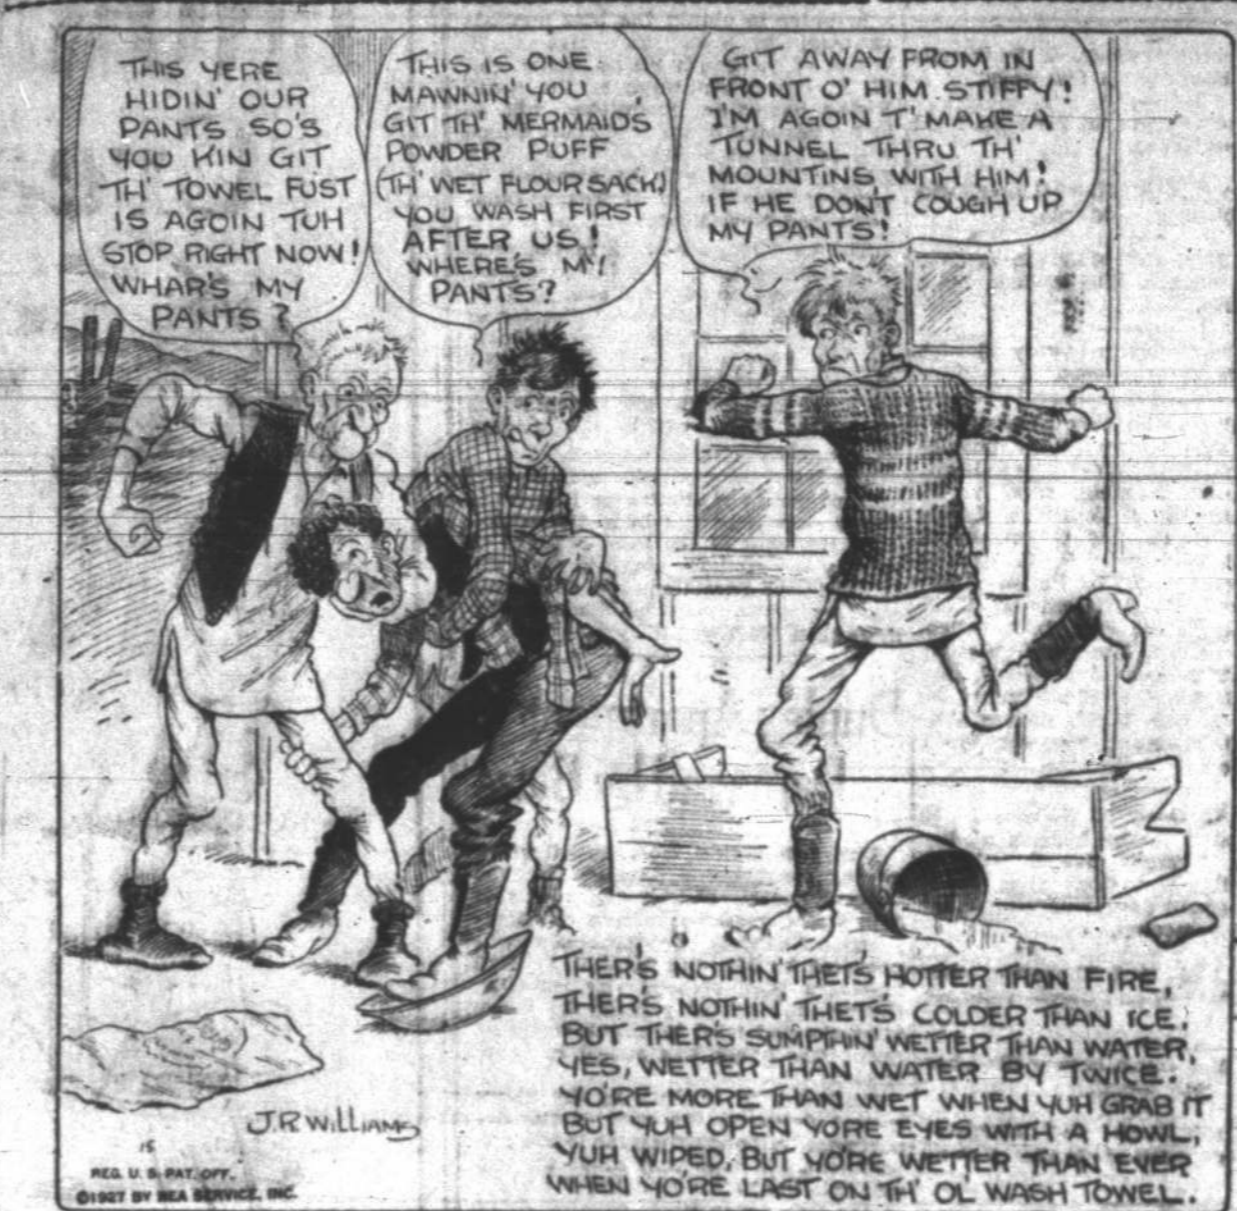

Lubbock can well spend much money in improving the streets, lighting the town, and creating new parks and playgrounds for it will be a great thing to the town.

History now is regarded as a science, rather than as a mere relation of events. In almost every land many archives have been examined during the past fifty years, and no historian worthy the name today would publish a work without thorough research.

These sales attracted the attention of a woman who had inherited numerous historical papers from a relative, and her search through them revealed a fourth Gwinnett signature, on a bond. A letter, which he signed on July 12, 1776, together with four other patriots whose names appear on the Declaration of Independence, also has been unearthed from among papers long considered worthless.

Lynch was only 27 years old when he put his name to the Declaration. At the time he was suffering from swamp fever contracted the year before while raising a company for the 1st South Carolina Regiment. He retired from public life late in 1776, and in 1779 sailed for the West Indies, where he hoped to arrange passage to France. The ship was lost at sea with all on board, a few days after leaving Charleston. Hall became Governor after the Revolution—serving one term—and died in 1790.

OUT OUR WAY

By Williams

SO THINK WE

We think it is unfair that we should blame nature with our weakness and take personal credit for the good deeds that are credited to us.

We think there is possibly not so great a difference in Texas now and when it was a howling wilderness, except that there is no longer any wilderness, and the people have a great many more conveniences.

We think there may be some towns that are busier than Lubbock just now, but there is not a town that we have any knowledge of that an investment is more sure than in Lubbock.

We think the main trouble with a great many of the laws is that the people who are employed to enforce them are men who are not capable to do so. They are people who are not suited to that kind of job—know nothing in a practical way about it, and that is the reason that there is no more success.

We think the daily press has been giving plenty of color to the news of the day. It has the yellow perils the blue laws and the red menace. How is that for variety. Yellow, blue and red.

We think there is always a crowd at the base of the ladder, but there is usually plenty of room at the top.

We think since G. Hog has decided that he can safely get out of his winter quarters, we can look for the weather prognosticator to come breezing in, and we will have more guesses on the weather.

We think the golf bug has his afternoons taken up, and the radio bug has his evenings, but the poor newspaper man has all of his time taken up, and then has to work overtime.

We think that most people have three thrills in life. One is when they first fall in love; second, the time during courtship, and another when they marry; then comes reformation.

We think that some people would let two cents stand between them and the education of the children of the state. They can't think far enough ahead to know that it will benefit millions of people while the little cigarette is even detrimental to him.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that one thieve is active in Quamah. Send 'em over here when they get through in that vicinity. They won't have to steal 'em here.

It is reported that both Smith and Meadcoo will be in the running for the nomination for President of the United States, and there is not a chance to nominate either. Then it will result in a compromise, and some one that could not be elected justice of the peace in his home precinct.

It is reported that President Coolidge will open his summer camp at Walcott, and that that place will come in for some silent waiting publicity.

It is reported that where there is much smoke there is fire, and the Texas legislature believes that where there is much smoke, there can be made a tax payer.

It is reported that business men in London are raising Bobby Burns about the eighteen inch neck allowance in trousers. These fellows should come over here for a while and they would possibly be satisfied with a six inch board.

It is reported that some folks think Jim Reed is the best bet for democratic nominee for the presidency. It seems that the democrats have just

DIVERSIFICATION BEING PROVEN

Pecan Trees Are Best Shade Says Evangelist Jones

I have been much interested in the great interest shown in Lubbock in the beautification of homes, and the planting of trees and flowers.

The black locust tree seems only a temporary makeshift, and in a few years the berry rot in it and it has to be replaced. The ash is better, and the Chinese elm promises to be the best of the three.

But why not pecans. The pecan is somewhat tardy and tender the first year after transplanting, but in two or three years gets its long root down to moisture, and is about the hardiest tree that grows in Texas. They seldom succumb to drought after the second year. It is the longest lived of all the fruit trees, being 100 to 200 years. It is a beautiful tree with dense shade and rich, green foliage. Its leaves never shed until frost gets them.

There is no more profitable nut tree grown in the world. Two or three trees will furnish nuts for the family for ten years, and half a dozen more will pay the taxes.

It begins bearing in about five years if budded trees are planted. Set them out at about 2 or 3 years of age. Do not fertilize. Dig large, deep holes, water frequently the first year. I would recommend Burkett or Halbert varieties for the west. Plant them around tanks and lakes and along irrigation ditches. They are growing and doing well at Lubbock, Crosbyton, Dimmitt and Amarillo.

Now is the time to think of pecans before you have crowded them out with inferior trees. Don't fail to plant this fall and winter.

Buy trees of West Texas nurseries—they are hardier. Lufffield Leader.

After More Cows Secretary Watson, of the Chamber of Commerce, left Tuesday night to purchase another load of milk cows. Sufficient number of farmers have signed up for cows to take the carload which Mr. Watson will select either at Sherman or Weatherford.

The success of the importation of a like number of milkers several weeks back encourages the chamber of commerce to continue its aid in bringing in good stock. The banks of the city are financing those entitled to same, and where needed, in the purchase of the animals which are brought in by the chamber of commerce and sold at actual cost, with expert selection of the milkers and at less price than could be obtained by individual action. The cows are due to arrive about next Saturday.—The Spine Herald.

Wars and Rumors of Wars; Sun Is Getting Spotty Again

By ISRAEL KLEIN Science Editor NEA Service

The sun is to blame, that's all. That great big ball of gas and fire that gives us our light and life is cutting up so these days that we're just going to smash.

We're due for a great upheaval, a war, a great mass revolution of some sort, all on account of this boiling sun. We're already under its influence, by the looks of things.

The European epidemic of influenza, which recently was threatening this country, too, is one great effect. The revolution in Nicaragua, the war in China, now more active than ever, the general feeling of tension in Spain, in Portugal, in Italy and in the near east all are eruptions from the swirling storms of hot gases in the sun.

Studies Sun's Cycles Take this warning from Prof. A. I. Tchekjevsky of the astronomical observatory at Moscow University in Russia. Prof. Tchekjevsky has made a study of the past events in relation to the recurring misbehavior of the sun in the out-erupting of sun spots. His conclusion is that every peak of sun spot activity brings with it a climax in the nervousness and sensibility of the earth's population.

We are now in the throes of great sun spot activity. Gigantic whirlpools of gases are ejecting such tremendous streams of magnetic and electric force that the earth is shaking under their influence. The Russian astronomer not alone in declaring that these great sun spots, thousands of miles across and whirling deep in to the center of the sun are affecting the earth in its regular daily rotation.

The Florida storms, the prolonged and more intense winters, the realignment of our age, which is reaching its climax today—all are due to the sun spot activity eruptions.

"Mm," said Prof. Tchekjevsky, "the slave of the sun and its vast electrical power. Alike in health and sickness, his welfare and behavior are not regulated by 'providence' or the unstable human will, but by the sun's electro-magnetic force upon the earth, which is one common organism of which man is only a part."

Runs in Fixed Periods The professor, then delved into history and reveals great upheavals, important events in the lives of great men, coinciding with the peak of sun spot activity. This comes every eleven years. Astronomers are agreed, remaining at a maximum for about three of the eleven, when the earth feels the effects of these electro-magnetic whirlpools of the sun.

We are now in the beginning of such a maximum period. So we may expect to experience some great human

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

IF BRIDGE OR WHIST

(With the usual apologies to B. K.) If you can play your hand with those about you, Are criticizing every lead you make; If you can bid, and let your partner doubt you, Or raise you when a trick he cannot take; If you can hear but never heed the chatter Of those who merely sit to watch the game, And have some stranger bring his luncheon pail; Where he may sit and note the trump you name.

If you can bid and keep the last convention; If you can think, remembering what is played; If you don't mind a stranger's jeering, Of such mistakes you thoughtlessly have made.

If you like being humiliated in a public place, Or men who keep their feet upon your chair; If you can hold your temper in such a hubbub, And never ask for cash or beg for aid.

If you don't hope to please your partner who don't play; If you can bear his converse with a grin, And smile when you see a stranger's whistling bow.

If you cannot bleed you could have gathered to; If you can pitch a portion of your salary, Upon the table when the game is done, And still be friend to players and the gallery.

I'll say that you have well-deserved your fun.

ment of Texas University here.

Refused Statement
In his cell this morning, Goddard would make no statement to newspaper men. Other city officials were close at hand when the shooting occurred. City Engineer O. E. Metcalf rushed from an adjoining office and grappled with Goddard, whom Chief of Police Littlepage disarmed shortly afterward.

Johnson had been shot five times, three times in the chest and in the shoulder and hand respectively.

The papers which Johnson said Goddard handed him had to do only with routine business concerning the health and city engineering departments. They contained reports on one completed sewer work and an exchange of letters between Goddard, Johnson and the engineering department about disposition of the report.

Had Differences
The two principals are known to have differed on administration and financing of the city health department, although there had been no open break.

Johnson is quoted by police, however, as saying that he "knew of no reason" for the shooting.

Mayor P. W. McWhadden said tonight that Goddard, a temporary employee, would have been asked to resign April 1.

the state's attorney was attempting to determine whether Nathan Leopold, previously mentioned with the escape of the six convicts from the penitentiary at Stateville, and the death of Deputy Warden Peter Klein, was instrumental in supplying funds for the Mexicans.

Belief that the Chicago police would have a stiff fight in capturing Ron was confirmed when they took into custody a Mexican who said he had talked with the convict. Ron told him, he said, that he had no intention of leaving this vicinity until his sweetheart Juana Gallardo, was released and would shoot it out with any policeman who attempted his arrest.

Mexican Found
FORT WAYNE, Ind., March 14 (AP)—The Mexican desperado who led six other convicts in the daring jail break at Joliet, Ill., Saturday was believed to be in custody at Warsaw, Ind., tonight after officers there had arrested two Mexicans who were stealing a ride on an east bound Pennsylvania train according to reports received here. One of the Mexicans answers the description of Bernardo Ron sought in Chicago.

Schools To Help
"Simmons university, Abilene Christian college and McJannet college, Abilene's three institutions of higher learning will furnish talent for the entertainment part of the banquet."

"The business meetings of the association are to be held in the auditorium, which is located near the center of Abilene's business district, near the hotels, theaters and other public places."

"The program for this affair, which was given out several weeks ago will be one of particular interest to the drug men. Several subjects of vital interest to the trade will be given prominent places. A number of prominent men in the drug business and connected industries will attend the meetings, according to announcements given out recently."

"Five hundred visitors are expected for this meeting. Ample accommodations for all have been arranged by the hotels of Abilene."

Barrier Exhibit Is A Miniature Mill

On display at Barrier brothers is a miniature model of the Postex cotton mill, of Post, Texas, furnished through the courtesy of the Consolidated Steel Co. company.

The model has been shown in leading stores in New York city and in other states, including such places as the Glenside Brothers and the Bloomsdales. It is now on tour over the southwest.

The Post mills manufacture Garza sheets and pillowcases and the model shows the manufacturing process, step by step.

Several additional series show, in proper sequence, the processes of rolling, spinning, warping, weaving, inspection, bleaching, making of sheets and pillow cases, and the packing of merchandise, ready for shipment. As the last transparency is illuminated, a freight car, on which is distinctly printed "Carload of Garza sheets and Pillow Cases for Barrier Bros., Lubbock, Texas," comes into view.

The reviewer comments upon three features. The display measures seven feet, three inches in length, two feet, eight inches wide, and two feet six inches high, or four feet nine inches high, the background in place for display.

Hereford to Enter Musical Contests

Special to The Avalanche
HEREFORD, Mar. 14.—The Hereford high school will be well represented in the Panhandle music festival, which will be held in Amarillo in April. The high school band and the orchestra under the direction of Ralph Smith will enter two contests each. Both the senior and the junior girls glee clubs will compete for honors, and a number of individuals will enter contests, here.

The girls high school glee club has won first prize and a close second place out of three years in the Panhandle festival, and the local high school band and orchestra won high honors last year.

Officials Working Upon Road Matter

Seeking to definitely secure state aid on the state highway No. 52, from Lubbock to the Hockley county line toward Brownfield, on which a contract was recently awarded. County Judge Chas. Nordyke and Commissioner N. A. Payne of Precinct No. 1 were in Austin Monday.

Judge Nordyke stated before leaving that explicit instructions to begin work on the proposed road upon a 50-50 expense basis had been received from the state department before the contract was awarded to W. F. Hudson of Alhambra, and that he hopes to straighten out the matter.

LOANS UPON WAR INSURANCE TOTALS SEVENTEEN THOUSAND

Total loans of $17,734 were made upon veterans' insurance certificates to ex-servicemen here Monday, through arrangements between the service officer of the American Legion and officers of the Lubbock National bank.

A total of 165 loans have been secured, including one for an Amarillo ex-serviceman and one for a disabled veteran now in an Arizona hospital.

Including other applications on hand, and those thought to be now in the mail it is believed that requests for loans here will total $20,000, officers of the bank stated.

Plan for Collecting R. R. Money Made

Tentative plans for the appointment of a committee to have charge of collecting all delinquent notes due on right-of-way for the Denver Railway line were laid at a meeting of the railroad committee of the Chamber of Commerce held Monday morning.

Immediate action in collecting the remaining money of the $120,000 due on the first of the year will be necessary, it was decided by the committee. Only about $74,000 of this amount has been secured to date.

Contractors who have finished completing the survey for the proposed line are expected to make their demand for the right-of-way within the next week or ten days, and the money must be on hand at that time to make purchases with, it was explained.

Construction work on the new line is to be started within the near future, it is believed.

BOYS ARE ARRESTED UPON CHARGES OF GAMBLING

Charges of gaming landed two negroes and several white youngsters in the city police court Monday morning, following their arrest late Sunday afternoon by police officers.

Pleas of guilty were entered by the group and cash bonds put up.

CLERK QUILTS JOB FOR DAIRY PROFITS

HEREFORD MAN WHO STARTED JERSEY HERD AS HOBBY FINDS IT PAYS

SPECIAL TO THE AVALANCHE
HEREFORD, March 14.—Berry Orr, former clerk of Deaf Smith county, has dairy cows as his "hobby" and now will devote most of his time to making his hobby pay. He started back in 1920, with dairy cows, purely as a side line, and in that year he shipped the first live herd Finance-Interest Jersey bull into Deaf Smith county. He now has 28 head of registered Jersey cattle, with about half this number the best Finance-Interest Jerseys.

Last year, while Mr. Orr was still in the county clerk's office, he averaged better than $75 per month from the sale of cream, and figured that the skimmed milk, which was fed to pigs, was worth about $100.

On the first of the year Mr. Orr quit the clerk's office and is now devoting all of his time to Jersey cows, and Duroc Jersey hogs. He is keeping six brood sows, and will increase this number just as soon as possible. His feeder pigs will be raised primarily on skimmed milk until four months of age and then finished on home grown grains.

Mr. Orr has just purchased 150 acres of land three miles east of Hereford on the Rio, and on the place is about fifty acres of sub-irrigated land, which will be put in alfalfa for hogs. A large portion of the place will be put in row crops. Dairy cows will be the main industry, and farming, chickens, and hogs will be the side lines on this place. The dairy herd will be increased, the Rhode Island Red flock will be increased to 500. He finds the Rhode Island Reds as good winter layers, and will prove valuable as a farm flock.

It was pretty hard starting out to build up a good dairy herd, with a wife and six children to care for, but after cream checks started coming in it was easier," Mr. Orr declared. This man is proud of his dairy herd of line-bred Finance-Interest Jerseys, and he is enthusiastic over the outlook for the dairy industry in this section. The ribbon even at the Deaf Smith county Fair last fall shows that quality of his dairy cattle.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
Death strikes GARRETT FOLSOM, while bathing at Ocean Town, N. J. It is thought at first he is a stroke victim, but investigation shows he has been stabbed to death beneath the water.

Folsom's swimming companions had been ROGER NEVILLE, a business partner; MRS. HELEN BARNABY and CAMELITA VALDON. It is established that Folsom, just before his death, had been standing next to NED BARNABY, known as the copper king.

ANASTASIA FOLSOM, eccentric and masterful sister of the dead man, arrives and takes command. At the inquest it is learned that the death weapon was a picture of a Oriental knife and that it had been brought on the boardwalk.

It is also established that one CROYDO NBEARS is a fancier of curious knives. Anastasia engages TITUS RIGGS, an architect, to work on the case. DAN PELTON, the dead man's nephew, arrives, and notices the curious French doll in Garrett Folsom's room. He tells Titus Riggs that if the murderer is discovered some unpleasant things may come to light about his uncle.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXVI

"Then, I shall have to speak plainly," said Riggs. "You don't place your late uncle in quite so high a pedestal as his sister does."

"No—he is equally frank—I don't. I never liked my uncle, but aside from that, I always felt he was—oh, pshaw, I hate to say it—was a little—"

"Go on."

"Well, understand, I mean I thought I feared, rather, that there were some transactions in which he was engaged that wouldn't stand the light."

"Dishonest?"

"Not in the generally accepted sense of that word, no. But dishonorable—oh, I don't know just how to express it."

"Have you any proofs of these accusations?"

"Oh, they're not really accusations. But I always suspected uncle was up to some devilry, and after I got aunt's wire about his death I slipped down to his room, where he was staying in New York, and I found a bag full of papers and letters, and I brought it along here with me. Now—well, Mr. Riggs, these documents go to prove that my respected uncle was deserving of very little respect, and that whoever did him in, really did the world a pretty black deed."

"And so you think it might be better to let sleeping dogs lie—"

"Yes, just that. I'm sure that to open up the hidden life of Garrett Folsom would bring to light truths of such a nature that my aunt would sink under the load of guilt and shame that would attach to his memory."

"You're not exaggerating this, Mr. Pelton?"

"No, I don't think so. I daresay you can guess the sort of nefarious business he carried on."

"From what you say, or rather from what you don't say, I can't help thinking it must be some form of blackmail."

"Yes, that's right. But not any common, ordinary blackmail or any small jobs. It's merely that he knew a few secrets concerning the lives of several people mostly his friends—I mean apparent friends—and over these he had such a fearful hold that they were forced to pay him his price or be exposed."

"This is strong talk, Mr. Pelton."

"But it is true talk. And I have proofs—that is, some proofs. However I hesitate to bring them forth, because any of them would suffice to throw suspicion on a man who may be entirely innocent."

"And, too, for your aunt's sake, you hesitate to bring forth this new side to the tragedy?"

"Oh, partly for aunt's sake, but more because I feel this way about it. It seems to me that the men my uncle made miserable suffered enough, without being brought to the bar to answer for a murder that they didn't commit. For, naturally, only some man stabbed him, and to let loose a murderer would be a thing to bring suspicion not upon the heels of a dozen others, seems a terrible thing to do."

"All this is logical and even ethical from the standpoint of your uncle's victims. But on the other hand, he was murdered, and his murder ought to be avenged. No matter how great a villain Garrett Folsom had been, it doesn't exculpate the man who killed him."

"I suppose not, but as I said, I'd hate to bring unjust suspicion on a lot of innocent men, and then, perhaps not strike the right man among them."

"It's a big question, and it will require some thinking over before we can settle it. Look here, isn't Roger Neville an associate in business with your uncle?"

"He was—in some ways. You see, Uncle Garrett had several lines of business and many varied interests, all of which brought in money. Neville was with him in some of these schemes. But I've no reason to think or assume that Roger Neville had any part in or even knowledge of these things I speak of."

"Well, we must ask Neville."

"Do it guardedly, for if he knows nothing about it all, we don't want to enlighten him."

"Then again, would it not be wise to let your aunt in on this secret? To be sure, she would be dismayed to learn of your uncle's wrong-doing, but as you have said yourself, Miss Folsom can stand shocks with fortitude. And it may be she would rather know the truth, however bad, than to be kept in ignorance of it."

"I daresay it may be so. But my aunt so reveres and cherishes her brother's memory, that it would go hard with her to learn he was less than she thought him."

"Well, leaving that question for the moment, let us get down to brass tacks. You see, your aunt has engaged me to investigate this case for her. Now, have I a right to lie down on the job, because it seems to be leading into an unpleasant field? Moreover, is there not a possibility that you are mistaken, at least to the extent or weight of these judgments your uncle held over his victims' heads?"

"You don't see it quite straight, Riggs. I have reason to believe that my uncle, while not what may be called a professional blackmailer, yet had a few victims whose secrets he knew, and whom he ground down to the last degree. I believe that any one of these set half a dozen—would have murdered him gladly if they had thought they could do it without getting caught. And now one of them did murder him and get away with it and bring forward the evidence I speak of would be to arouse suspicion on the whole set—though that's only an approximate number—and by a black accusation for life on the great majority of innocent ones. And, at the same time, probably not get the real criminal at all."

"How many of these victims you speak of are down here at Ocean Town?"

"That's just the worst of it. I know of two or three, but there may easily be more whom I do not know. Any one of the many may be the murderer."

"Complicated situation. And yet, we have to solve the matter. Must we not follow where the way is pointed out? At any rate, old man, I guess you'll have to let me look through these letters you speak of."

"The Riggs chuckled to himself at the thought that Tubby's precious secrets was thus openly announced by Pelton."

Riggs had looked forward to a diplomatic effort on his part to get the nephew of the dead man to exhibit his uncle's papers. And here he was fairly thrusting them on Riggs' attention."

"Was he, though? Was he the ingenious, straightforward character he appeared to be?"

"His attitude about wanting to shield his uncle's memory as far as possible was all right, but could Riggs be sure that the letters and documents he was now about to inspect were intact as when Pelton had found them, or had he tampered with the lot and abstracted any he chose?"

It was largely imagination or instinct, but Title Riggs did not trust Pelton. He didn't suspect him of having any hand in his uncle's death, but he did think the nephew was glad to inherit his legacy, and that if he could further feather his nest in any way, he would do so.

So, together, the two men went through the suitcase full of letters and papers.

What do Pelton and Riggs find in Folsom's papers? And who were Folsom's "victims" at Ocean Town?

Dillihay to Manage Hereford Schools

Special to The Avalanche

HEREFORD, March 14.—C. H. DILLIHAY has just been re-elected superintendent of the Hereford public schools for another term, making the fifth consecutive year of his employment here.

During Mr. Dillihay's work as superintendent he has made an enviable record. He was largely responsible for the erection of the magnificent high school which was built here in 1925 at a cost of $125,000, and he has improved the standard of the school until it now ranks among the leading ones of the state. During the past year the local high school was admitted to the Southern Association of Teachers Colleges and Secondary Schools, the highest rating that a school in this section may obtain. Athletics have been put on a clean business basis, and a number of musical organizations have been winning honors in contests of the Panhandle.

Local court officials including District Judge Homer L. Pharr, County Attorney Darwood H. Bradley, and Chas. H. Smith, court reporter, left Monday for Crosbyton to officiate in the second week of the 72nd District Court in Crosby county.

Preparations for the trial of at least two "murder" cases were being made by officials here, who stated, however, that they do not know what the week's docket will include.

College Life Cuts Danger of Suicide

Special to The Avalanche

DENTON, March 14.—College life of today tends to lessen suicide among students, according to F. O. Eppright, instructor in philosophy and education at the College of Industrial Arts. His contention is that the recent wave of suicide on the part of students results from the fact that they did not have the emotional stability to live a normal life.

"Their emotions have not matured proportionately with their intellect," he claims.

"This is not a 'recesses' age, no more than any other age," he declares. "The youth of today does no more swooning in the automobile than old-timers did in the buggy. Considering the opportunities to be had, the present generation is better than the last. The modern youth has more honest purpose and fewer concealed motives than the youth of yesterday. The percentage of downright immorality is much less now than yesterday."

"What was the subject for your neighborhood gossip," he declares, "is today published in the newspapers far and wide. The indiscretion of the youth of today is broadcast over the nation."

DAILY MARKET

COTTON IS LOWER

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—The cotton market was lower today under southern selling and continued liquidation of old long accounts. May contracts sold off to 12.77, or 20 points lower, and closed at that price, the general market closing barely steady, at the net decline of 17 to 20 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 4 points to an advance of 1 point.

There was a little buying on the fairly steady showing of Liverpool and trade buying on soft down orders was in sufficient volume to steady prices as the market approached the 14 cent level for July deliveries.

Comparatively moderate demand was filled up later, however, and the market was weak in late trading under wire price commission house liquidation and selling believed to be for southern accounts. This selling was accompanied by rumors that buyers of spot cotton were selling against supplies previously carried unhedged, while the liquidation of old long accounts was considered partly due to an impression that lower prices would be necessary to bring about an adequate reduction of acreage in the south.

Some orders were uncovered on the break which extended to 12.31 for July and 14.09 for October contracts in late trading, or about 17 to 20 points below final quotations for recent high levels. There was some covering toward the close, but last prices were lowest of the day.

The report of the census bureau showing domestic consumption of 280,247 bales for February, against 644,584 for January and 563,113 for February last year, appeared to have no particular effect on the market.

Private cables said hedging and Bombay selling had been absorbed by trade calling and continental buying in Liverpool, but that buyers of cotton cloths in Lancashire were holding off and showing less confidence in prices.

Port receipts 37,277 bales U. S. port stocks 2,702,012. Exports 48,770 making 8,068,270 so far this season.

COTTON MARKET SLUMPS

NEW ORLEANS, March 14 (AP)—Smaller spot sales and better today started downward movement at the opening of the cotton market which, although scotched by occasional rallies was not entirely stopped until the going sounded revealing net losses for the day of 21 to 23 points.

First trades showed losses of 1 to 3 points and the downward movement continued without a halt until May had edged down to 13.55 July to 13.97, and October to 14.85, 11 to 14 points under Saturday's close.

At noon a rally brought prices up 2 to 3 points but the February consumption report of 590,447 bales and added momentum to the slide and new lows were set early in the afternoon with March at 12.53, July 12.54 and October 14.04, 13 to 15 points under the previous close.

Another 4 point rally halted the movement only to give it impetus when liquidation was renewed on a broader scale and new lows were set at the end with March at 12.53, July 12.54 and October 14.04, 13 to 15 points under the previous close.

The close was steady at the bottom. Exports were 43,773 bales.

COTTON OIL HIGHER

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP)—Cottonseed oil was moderately active today with price movements irregular. March was higher on belated short covering, while later positions were easier under southern selling in sympathy with the reaction in cotton. The close was 2 points higher on March and 4 to 10 points lower on other positions. Sales 17,209 barrels. Prime crude 8.90; prime summer yellow spot 9.70; March closed 9.74; May 9.61; July 9.74; September 9.86; October 9.64.

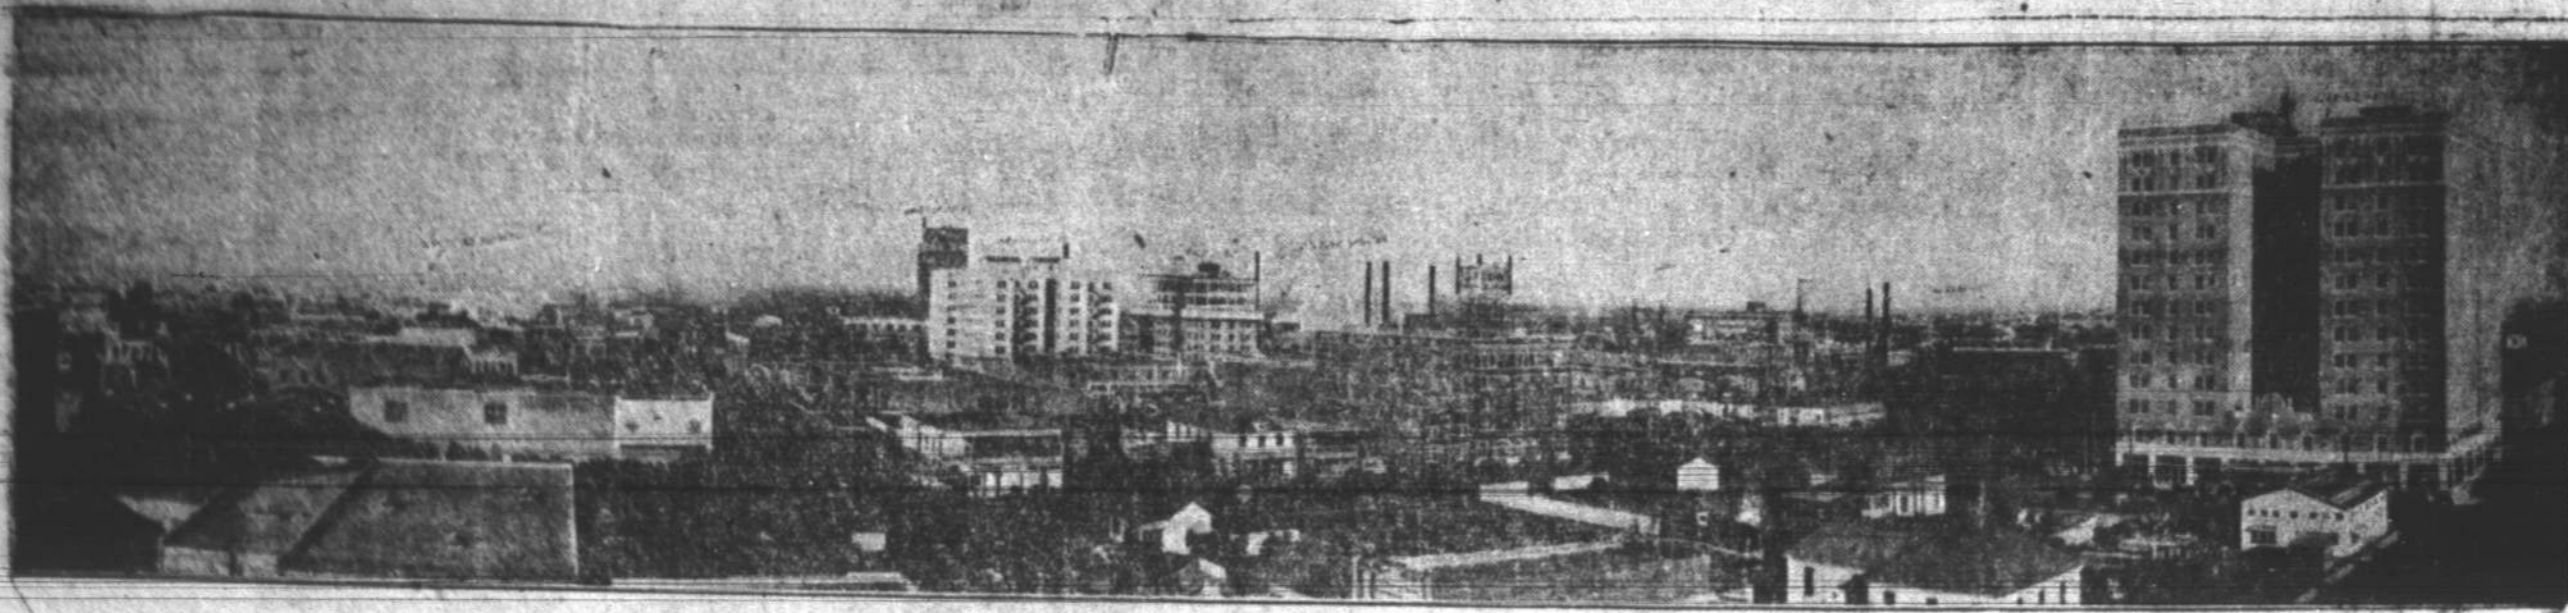

REPORTS LOWER WHEAT

CHICAGO, March 14 (AP)—Enlarging world shipments other than from the United States and Canada, together with the promising domestic crop outlook, gave a downward trend to wheat today. Export demand for North American wheat lacked volume also in all positions being only 200,000 bushels. Closing quotations on wheat.

AMARILLO

Led the Nation in 1926 Building Gain

Amarillo, the Wonder City of the great Panhandle of Texas, led all American cities in the percentage of gain in the volume of new construction for the year 1926, shown by a national survey of building figures for the year. Amarillo gained 379 per cent over its 1925 record. That this gain will be increased during 1927 is already assured. More than doubling in the past twelve months, Amarillo's population now stands at 52,153.

SPECIAL NOTE:

The figures above do not include the great revenue derived from the Cattle, Sheep, Swine and Poultry industries for which Texas is famous. Nor does it include such important items as Truck, Citrus Fruits, Nuts, Wool and such like, which industries bring Millions of Dollars more annually. The 1926 output of the above important items far exceeds that of 1925.

The Oil Capitol of the World's Greatest Oil Field

The center of oil activities of the great Panhandle field is Amarillo. That production is yet in its infancy is clearly seen; yet with the real operating boom less than one year old, it is estimated that on February 1st, the field had produced approximately 32,500,000 barrels of oil— and a favorable view of conditions in general is given as follows:

Estimated daily production during past week	128,205 bbls.
Receipts	1,772,385 bbls.
Available storage on Feb. 15	6,080,910 bbls.
Total stock in storage	11,260,090 bbls.

The field today has 827 producing wells with over 150 drilling.

$100,000,000 Business Done by Manufacturers and Jobbers Annually

Approximately $100,000,000 annually is the volume of business done by manufacturers, jobbers and wholesalers of Amarillo, according to a conservative analysis of the trade interests.

Amarillo is rapidly becoming known as one of the greatest cities of the South in industrial possibilities. With an unlimited natural gas supply, a huge 2 million dollar water project now under way and other factors which make for such a city, Amarillo is destined to attract large institutions, both in manufacturing and jobbing lines.

Amarillo's Prosperity

Deposits in Amarillo's five banks increased $14,524,418.38 during 1926.

The total deposits on Dec. 31, were $24,721,832.12 as compared to $10,197,364.24 one year ago.

Bankers report that they were never in better condition and that this is true of the entire Amarillo trade territory. With money pouring in from the oil field activities, a big building boom and the entire country reporting bumper crops of the sorghum grains and a 22,000,000 bushel wheat crop last year and excellent prospects for another bumper crop it is believed that 1927 will see an even greater growth in the deposits of banks in Amarillo and the Panhandle.

Postoffice receipts in Amarillo in 1926 were $283,889.61, an increase of $88,567.95 over 1925. The Government is now constructing a $50,000 addition to the postoffice.

Amarillo's Trade Territory

Amarillo's trade territory is marked by its distance from other wholesale centers, including Wichita Falls, Wichita, Ft. Oklahoma City, Denver, El Paso and Kansas City. The trade territory lines are reckoned between the industrial centers at the points where the freight rate breaks in favor of other cities.

The freight rate structure in favor of Amarillo is probably the greatest factor entering into the extensive business enjoyed by this city and the transportation facilities are almost unlimited, with the Santa Fe, Fort Worth and Denver, and Rock Island railways radiating over eight main lines from the city.

Over half a million people reside in rich territory in which Amarillo is favored by rail rates over any other jobbing center and which can be more effectively served by direct rail lines from Amarillo than from any other city. Railroads are realizing the importance of Amarillo as a jobbing center now and in the future and are expecting that this city will become a vast distributing point. Fifty-nine counties are included in Amarillo's trade territory, with a 1926 population estimate of 533,478 people. These counties include 44 in Texas, four in Oklahoma and nine in New Mexico.

Amarillo is the center of a wide expanse of territory that is becoming recognized throughout the world for its variety of products. In 1926, 1,100,000 acres of Panhandle wheat land produced 22,000,000 bushels of wheat, an average of over 20 bushels per acre, while the ten-year average production of the United States is only 13.6 bushels per acre. A vast acreage is also planted to grain sorghums, sudan, small grains and cotton. The figures on beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, poultry and hogs are evidence that farmers throughout this entire territory are practicing diversification. With such a wealth being produced in Amarillo's trade territory, and with her vast distributing resources, the future for 1927 will undoubtedly pass the records of 1926.

Tell the Story of Your Products to the People of This Great Empire Through The

Amarillo Globe, Amarillo Daily News Sunday News-Globe

An examination of copies of the Daily News or Globe will reveal the fact that these are unusual papers for a city of 52,000 population. They are both Associated Press papers, well-edited, employing many features rarely seen outside the large city dailies.

Tremendous gains in circulation are shown in figures for January 1926 and January 1927, respectively. In the twelve months the Daily News showed a gain of 60.7% in circulation; the Amarillo Globe a gain of 94% and the Sunday News-Globe a gain of 74.3%. These papers thus offer practically a complete coverage of Amarillo proper and its trade territory. They are the only daily papers in Amarillo. The fact that they are distributed 12 to 18 hours before other papers coming into the territory makes for a tremendous reader interest. It is impossible to effectively reach this great Empire of Northwest Texas through any other mediums.

This page advertisement is being run in twenty-one live and progressive daily newspapers in Texas, all of which are members of The Texas Daily Press League. You cannot cover the fertile and prosperous sections of Texas judiciously without using these papers.
