School Board Votes To Lower Taxes

Tahoka school taxes could drop by eight cents for 1985-86 as a result of action taken by the school board in a called meeting at noon Tuesday. The board voted to set aside enough money to pay the final installment next year on a 20-year bond issue, and this means that the portion of taxes set aside for debt retirement no longer will be needed.

Presently the school tax rate is 86 cents per $100 valuation, with 8 cents of this put into interest and sinking fund to pay bonded indebtedness. After this week's action, there will be no fund needed to pay bonded indebtedness, since the 20-year bond issue is the only one being paid out of the fund.

The 1965 bond issue was voted to expand the high school building. A payment of about $75,000 is being made this month, and a final payment of that amount is scheduled next year. Some money now in savings has been earmarked to make that payment next year.

"We just feel that this is a good time to make this move, to try to give the taxpayers some relief," one board member said.

For a person with a home valued at $20,000, an 8-cent reduction would mean $16 less on his tax bill.

The 8-cent reduction in the total tax bill would be effective only if the school board votes this summer (usually in August) to keep the tax rate the same as it now is, 78 cents for operation. The board could increase that amount, or lower it.

In other action at Tuesday's meeting, the board voted to accept two transfer students from O'Donnell, and hired a band director with 26 years of band directing experience to take over the Bulldog band for the rest of the year.

Hired to begin work immediately was Larry Sparks, who has been in private business in New Braunfels, but who formerly was band director at Sundown and Denver City schools.

Trailer House Move Ordered

Council members also heard from representatives of the cemetery board regarding maintenance, and also discussed

AN UPDATE ON FOOD IRRADIATION

Food irradiation may offer a nonchemical alternative to commercial food storage and provide advantages to consumers.

Irradiation preserves food by using high energy gamma rays, X-rays, or electrons to kill microorganisms and insects that can contaminate foods. The energy levels used are so low that they do not make the food radioactive.

Since the use of certain chemicals, such as ethylene dibromide (EDB), on stored grains and citrus fruits has been suspended, there is renewed interest in using irradiation.

The irradiation process was first patented for food preservation in France in 1930, and is currently used in 21 countries. Potatoes, grain products, chicken, fish and strawberries are among the 31 products treated by irradiation in other countries.

Today in the United States only spices and powdered vegetable seasonings are commercially irradiated. But the FDA has proposed a rule which would allow processors to irradiate a wider range of foods.

Unlike the sterilization of food by cooking, irradiation raises the temperature of the food only slightly. That minimizes nutrient loss and changes in texture, color and flavor.

In addition to destroying insects, irradiation treatment causes chemical and physiological changes that delay ripening of some fruits and sprouting in root crops, which is an obvious advantage in sorting and transporting food.

A low dose of irradiation can destroy food-borne parasites, such as trichinae, the organisms that cause the disease trichinosis in swine and humans. Irradiation also provides an alternative to chemical fumigants like EDB and preservatives like sodium nitrate and nitrite.

Irradiation technology has many implications for the American food industry and food consumers.

HOUSEHOLD POISONS

Consider the great number of poisonous substances which are on hand on most homes: washing soda, drain cleaners, chlorine bleach, polishes, ammonia, lye, insecticides, rat poison, paints and turpentine, sprays, disinfectants. Parents must be careful to keep poisonous substances out of children's reach in a locked cabinet. They should be promptly destroyed, rather than stored, when the need for each has passed.

Carriker Defends Small Schools

Efforts by State Rep. Steve Carriker (Democrat-Roby) and other legislators fended off a Republican's attack on the state's small school districts on the House floor in Austin last week.

Carriker defended State Sen. Ray Farabee's Senate Bill 1, which would ensure continuation of the small district allocation, from a crippling amendment sponsored by a Dallas Republican which would have severely restricted state funds flowing to districts with under 500 pupils. Without passage of an unamended Senate Bill 2, small school districts would have stood to lose almost $20 million.

"Our small school districts are financially hard-pressed enough without the urban areas seeking to hog more and more of the state's education dollar," said Carriker. "The passage of Senate Bill 2 will offer some help in weathering the financial storms created for small districts by the Perot bill."

Each of the 12 counties in Carriker's district 78 has one or more schools that will receive a positive adjustment due to passage of Senate Bill No. 2.

In Lynn County, only Tahoka schools have more than 500 students.

Cotton Today

Mini-Orientations Set: Cotton Council International will host a mini-orientation tour of the Cotton Belt for nine textile mill executives from France, Germany and Italy April 9-20.

The group will meet with government officials in Washington before journeying to Memphis, Lubbock and Fresno for sessions with National Cotton Council representatives, cotton merchants, producers, and cooperative officials. The April mini-orientation tour is one of two being arranged by CCI and USDA's Foreign Agricultural Service this year in an effort to capitalize on market expansion opportunities for U.S. cotton in Europe. A similar tour for a group from Eastern Europe is planned for July. The two mini-tours are in addition to the larger annual orientation tour which this year will include participants from Far East.

Group Tours Winter Cotton Nursery: A U.S. team has just returned from an inspection of the Winter Cotton Breeding Nursery in Mexico.

Team members represented the National Cotton Council, USDA, and Cotton Belt state experiment stations, which established the original nursery in 1950. They viewed the seed-increase cotton crop that will soon be harvested and met with Mexican agricultural research leaders and U.S. embassy officials.

The nursery speeds private and public development of improved cotton varieties, helping provide breeders with two generations of promising strains each year—one grown in the U.S. during the normal season and the other in Mexico during the winter. Forty-four current users of the nursery share in the project costs.

Better Packaging Sought: New developments in packaging of cotton bales will be examined by an industrywide meeting in Atlanta, Ga., March 12-13 according to Herman Propst, Anson, Texas, grower.

Propst, chairman of the Industrywide Bale Packaging Committee, said the group, in cooperation with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, annually reviews and revises specifications for cotton bale packaging materials.

The agenda for the Atlanta meeting will include reports on experimental products, laminated polypropylene, and a system for complete bale coverage.

Proposals for testing new materials in 1985 also will be considered, according to Propst, who is an advisor to the Board of the National Cotton Council.

GEAR UP FOR SPRING GARDENING

It's time to gear up for that spring vegetable garden. And two major steps are getting the right varieties and planting at the right time.

Proper planting time is important if maximum quality and production are expected.

Since such warm-season crops as tomatoes, peppers, corn, eggplants, beans, squash, cucumbers, okra, watermelon, sweet potatoes, pumpkins and canteloupes are sensitive to cold temperatures and can be killed by even the lightest frost, gardeners must be aware of the average date of the last frost for their particular areas.

According to the National Weather Service, the average dates of last frosts for various regions are as follows: South Texas, Feb. 1; Coastal Bend, Feb. 17; Upper Coast, Feb. 25;

Southwest Texas (Winter Garden), Feb. 28; South Central Texas, March 15; East Texas, March 19; Northeast Texas, March 24; Central Texas, March 25; North Central Texas, March 26; West Central Texas, March 29; Far West Texas, March 28; Rolling Plains, April 1; South Plains, April 11; and Panhandle, April 22. Remember, these dates are average which only means there is a 50 percent chance a frost may occur at a later date.

It's also wise to wait until the soil has warmed before planting seeds of warm-season crops. Soil temperature at planting depth should be in the upper 60s or in the 70s to increase seed germination and insure a good stand.

Some vegetable crops are cold-hardy and can tolerate light frosts or freezes. These include beets, broccoli, cabbage, carrots, peas, lettuce, onions, parsley, radishes, spinach, cauliflower, collards, mustard, kale and turnips. These can be planted in late winter or early spring.

Young suggests planting some warm-season crops in late spring as they will produce more high-quality produce. During the hot summer such heat-tolerant crops as southern peas, okra, eggplant, sweet potatoes, squash and small fruited tomatoes do best.

Young advises planting the best adapted varieties that are available as this can mean the difference between gardening success and failure.

4-H Horse Program Builds Character, Leadership

The care and training of a horse can build character, leadership and responsibility, and that's what the 4-H horse program is all about.

Owning a horse is a big investment in time and money, and training it is a big undertaking that requires a lot of hard work, says Greg Henley, county 4-H program coordinator. However, the effort can help a 4-H member grow and develop into a responsible citizen.

Specific objectives of the 4-H horse program are these:

1. To acquire skills in horse management by owning a horse or pony and being responsible for it.
2. To appreciate riding as recreation.
3. To learn horsemanship skills and understand breeding, training and raising horses as a business.
4. To acquire safety skills to prevent injury to person and animals.
5. To promote love for and humane treatment of animals.
6. To develop sportsmanship, cooperation, decision-making

Four Indicted By Grand Jury

Four persons were indicted by 106th District Court grand jury meeting in Tahoka this week.

Indicted were Jose Perez of Post, burglary of a habitation, involving burglary of the home of Zolzie Moore southeast of Wilson Dec. 30; Paul F. Garcia of Tahoka, on charges of aggravated robbery and forgery, involving the robbery of an elderly woman in her home in Tahoka in February; Miguel Montemayor, failure to stop and render aid, in connection with the hit-run injury of a young man on U.S. 87 south of Tahoka on Dec. 9; and Jesus Garcia of Cotulla, driving while intoxicated, subsequent offense.

No-billed was Robert Acosta, 23, of Tahoka, who had been charged with aggravated assault in an incident Oct. 14, 1984.

Two Tahoka young men were jailed in Monahans this week on charges of aggravated kidnapping after they and their alleged victim were involved in a traffic accident early Saturday morning.

Jimmy Autry, 21, was being held in lieu of $50,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace J.R. Wooten on a charge of aggravated kidnapping, and Danny Loyd Anderson, 17, was held in lieu of $50,000 bond on an aggravated kidnapping charge, $5,000 on a charge of failure to stop and render aid, and $1,500 on a charge of driving while intoxicated, Ward County Sheriff's Sgt. Ellis Butler said.

Butler said the victim of the alleged kidnapping, Frances L. Ramsey, 42, also of Tahoka, has returned home.

Two men apparently went to ability and public speaking skills through participation in demonstrations, tours, judging and exhibits.

4-H'ers with horse projects can compete at various horse shows held annually and can qualify for district and state competition. Those who excel in the project can qualify for awards provided by the American Quarter Horse Assn. including six expense-paid trips to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago each fall and six $1,000 scholarships at the national level.

Further details about the 4-H horse program as well as other 4-H projects and activities are available at the county Extension office.

Miss Ramsey's home in the south part of town late Friday night, took a shotgun from the home, forced the woman into her car and drove the car to Monahans, Butler said.

The officer said Miss Ramsey was taken to a hospital and treated for a broken pelvis and cuts on her head, and then reported she had been kidnapped.

Enrique Vela of Lamesa reported that tires and chrome rims valued at $800 had been stolen off a 1976 Ford van which had been left beside U.S. 87 about six miles south of Tahoka Feb. 24-25.

EDUCATIONAL GOAL

"Before our country's educational program can shift gears and move out of the Era of Wonderful Nonsense where it has been for so long, it will be necessary for the plain, ordinary citizen to decide exactly what he wants his schools to do." (Suffer, Little Children: Max Rafferty)

TEXAS GRAPE GROWERS TO MEET—A tour of Hill Country vineyards plus discussions on grape production and wine making and marketing will highlight the annual Texas Grape Conference at La Mansion Hotel in Austin, March 21-23. Tours of the Cypress Valley, Oberhellmann and Fall Creek wineries will begin at 8:30 a.m. the first day followed by a Taste of Texas Wine reception at 7 p.m. The latest in production techniques and wine making and marketing will be discussed the final day-and-half, notes a horticulturalist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

PCAs FUND TEXAS 4-H JUDGING—A grant from the Production Credit Assns. of Texas will fund three new 4-H judging events—livestock judging, horse judging and forest judging. The grant is to the Texas 4-H program through the Texas 4-H Youth Development Foundation. The PCA funds will be used to offset travel expenses of state-winning livestock, horse and forest judging teams that represent Texas in national contests, says a 4-H specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Chamberettes Mark 8th Anniversary This Year

RIDE 'EM COWGIRL? — Chloe Jan Wells volunteered to ride the mechanical armadillo for Chamberettes in the Armadillo Races held one year during the Harvest Festival. Several businesses and organizations sponsored a rider in the contest.

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS — Dr. Richard White holds a sign found in the Keltner Hotel denoting that a room cost $2 per day or $10 weekly. Chamberettes sponsored the cleanup of the hotel and auctioned off the furniture on Saturday, Aug. 6, 1983, to help raise funds for the renovation of the building.

BY CHLOIE JAN WELLS AND JUANELL JONES

Tahoka Chamberettes will mark their eighth year of service to the community this March, adding up more than $10,000 raised in money-making projects for the betterment of the community. All funds raised by Chamberettes are funneled back into the community to help other local organizations or to initiate new areas of involvement.

In March, 1977, at the conclusion of the Bicentennial year, several women felt the need to continue working toward building community spirit and providing wholesome family activities. In the wake of the success of the Bicentennial celebration in Tahoka, the Chamberettes organization was born. Mrs. Virginia House was elected president of this charter group.

During the last eight years Chamberettes have strived to support worthwhile community projects of their own as well as those of other groups. Among those that Chamberettes have helped are Phebe K. Warner Study Club, Tahoka 4-H, Little League, Tahoka Rodeo Association, Lynn County Hospital Auxiliary, Chamber of Commerce, Lynn County Livestock Association and various school organizations.

Harvest Festival

The annual Lynn County Harvest Festival began as a Chamberette project and became so successful that a county-wide committee now spearheads it, with Chamberettes maintaining a vital role in organizing it each year. Chamberettes sponsor the Harvest Festival Queen contest and contribute the prize-scholarship money to the winner. "This festival could well be the most popular and well-attended activity in Tahoka all year," says Mrs. Chloe Jan Wells, a charter member of the Chamberettes who has been involved in the event each year.

Mrs. Wells was named Citizen of the Year in 1976, and two other Chamberette members have been recognized by the town through the years. Mrs. Nadine Dunlap was named Woman of the Year in 1977, and Mrs. Dean Bartley was awarded the same honor in 1980.

Mrs. Melody Dawes, 1985 president of Chamberettes, stresses that "we are basically a service organization which strives to make Tahoka a better place to live, not only by organizing entertaining events for community enjoyment, but also by encouraging and contributing to projects with lasting values for future generations."

Ambitious Project

One such project, and the largest undertaken by the group thus far, is the renovation and remodeling of the Keltner Hotel in downtown Tahoka, begun in 1982. The building was donated to Chamberettes by Donald R. Dawes of Tahoka, with the stipulation that Mrs. Cubanna Daniels, daughter of the late C.B.

CLEAN-UP VOLUNTEERS — Chamber of Commerce directors volunteered to help Chamberettes in the renovation project of the Keltner Hotel by cleaning up the vacant lot next to the building, in the spring of 1983. The men chopped weeds, bushes and debris in the lot that had been deteriorating for years.

Keltner who opened the hotel in 1925, be allowed to continue living in the rear of the hotel.

Chamberettes voted to form an Historical Society to plan and implement the work in the building with an ultimate goal of making it into a useful banquet and meeting facility for the town, as well as enhancing the city by improving its appearance. Money raised by Chamberettes for this project to date totals $7,500, most of which has been used to remodel Mrs. Daniel's living quarters. Approximately $2,500 per year is donated for utilities and maintenance costs for her apartment.

Windows Next

Mrs. Dean Bartley was the first president of the Historical Society in 1983, and Jay Dee House is president now. Immediate plans are to renovate the exterior of the building and repair the windows. Chamberettes have raised $2,000 to initiate this phase of reconstruction. Donations from businesses and individuals will be sought to help with this project.

Chamberettes have engaged in many money-making activities throughout the years, including catering meals, style shows, Halloween carnivals, community Thanksgiving dinners, South Plains College summer musicals, the "Womanless Wedding", concession stands at various functions, ice cream sales, and most recently, the "Lynn County Millionaire Game."

Thousandaires

The Millionaire Game project raised more than $2,000 profit for the group, according to project coordinator Mrs. Juanell Jones. "This was a fun way for our organization to make money and the town really gave us support on this. We appreciate all the businesses who purchased a spot on the board game, and all the people who purchased games. After printing costs, we made about $2,000 and still have about 80 games left to sell."

Funds raised from the Game project are earmarked for repairing the windows on the Keltner Hotel, and will be donated to the Historical Society for this purpose.

One of the earlier projects of the group was the purchase of Christmas decorations for downtown Tahoka. They were bought in 1979 costing approximately $3,000.

Other projects include providing baked "goodies" for teachers at the beginning of each school year, running the concession stand at Tahoka's 1984 Rodeo, serving at the Old Settler's Reunion, contributing to the Tahoka Mini Park fund and the Jaime Newsom fund, and contributing to the Young American to Washington program.

Immediate projects coming up are catering the Chamber of Commerce banquet on Saturday, March 9, and the annual Spring Style Show.

Officers this year, other than Mrs. Dawes, are Loretta Tekell, vice president; Brenda Thomas, secretary; Lenda Wood, treasurer; and Juanell Jones, reporter.

"One of our goals this year is to increase our membership," says Mrs. Dawes. Dues are $5.00 per year, and meetings are held on the second Tuesday of each month at noon in the SPS Reddy Room. "We invite and encourage all women of Tahoka who are interested in making memories for young people and improving the quality of life in a small town to become a part of this non-profit organization."

If your enemy is hungry, give him bread to eat; and if he is thirsty, give him water to drink; for you will heap coals of fire on his head, and the Lord will reward you.

Proverbs 25:21-22

WOMANLESS WEDDING — Chamberettes sponsored a fund-raising "Womanless Wedding" in the mini-park during the summer of 1982. Here, J.A. Peabworth and "bride" Jimmy Huckabey begin a life of wedded "bliss", much to the amusement of the crowd.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:
 Yesterday I watched "In Search of Excellence" where companies like Walt Disney Enterprises and I.B.M. told success stories. They help their employees realize their importance; thus profits have soared. Some of the most innovative ideas have come from the assembly line, thus giving consumers a lot of our products we wouldn't have if employees were treated like "common laborers" rather than important people.
 I thought of our school system. Schools in Texas are going through a period of drastic change. If there was ever a time when we need management like these large companies, it is now. When teachers, administrators, and students are forced into making BIG changes FAST, they especially need constant reminders of importance. These people hold our future in their hands through our children. Each person in our system plays an important part in the overall success of our children's training. There are no unimportant jobs.

I want to say a special thank you to Tom Cooper who has served our system for nine years by setting an example of total honesty before our children, loving them, listening to our important teachers, as well as doing the smaller jobs required. He helps those around him realize their importance, thus increasing their performance. Our system is losing a principal second to none and an excellent teacher, Laura, if Tom's family moves from our community. No wonder a teacher in Tom's building described the atmosphere there after his resignation as "sad". It is very sad.

INSURANCE FOR SPRING CROPS--Since farming is a risky business, farmers need to think about insuring their spring crops. In addition to the drought that devastated many crops last year, crop production can be hurt by excessive rain, hail, wind, hurricanes, tornadoes, lightning, insects, plant diseases flooding, wildlife and fire. Crop insurance can take some of the risk out of farming, says an economist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Farmers who bought insurance

Mail Offer Scam Hits The South Plains

Hundreds, perhaps thousands, of South Plains consumers have received a mailing from American Heritage Redemption Center, Inc. of Los Angeles, Calif. The mailing offers consumers their choice of a RCA Model PKC-600R 45" projection television for $89 or two ATC110 three wheel Honda motorcycles for $264. The mailing includes a $1,500 look-a-like check to be returned with the consumer's check. Locally, the television set sells for $2,700 and the motorcycles sell for around $1,000 each. American Heritage is making the offer, so they say, as an advertising test.

The BBB advises extreme caution in accepting this offer. Not only is the offer completely illogical from a business standpoint; but the company's phone number has already been disconnected after being in operation for five days. Local Honda dealers have received a mailing from American Honda informing them that Honda has no arrangement with American Heritage to distribute the motorcycles through American Heritage and does not support the program. The BBB of Los Angeles has been unable to identify the company and is
