MARIJUANA DESTRUCTION

Sheriff John Rainey and three deputies pull up marijuana plants from a patch about 10 miles west of Wellington in an isolated area. From left are Deputies J.R. Nelson and Richard Keller, Sheriff Rainey and Deputy Steve Vines. Plants stand out sharply against the shadows of trees. Their height can be measured by the men standing among them.

Marijuana Patch Destroyed West of Town by Officers Monday

Sheriff John Rainey and three of his deputies on Monday afternoon, August 9, destroyed a patch of marijuana which would ultimately have had a street value estimated at $68,200.

Taking part with him were Chief Deputy Richard Keller, and Deputies J.R. Nelson and Steve Vines.

The patch was located in an isolated area approximately 10 miles west of Wellington near Buck Creek. The growing plants, ready for harvest, were between a cotton field and a dry creek, among other weeds. A person not familiar with growing marijuana plants would not have been aware of the patch.

Officers have evidence some of the marijuana has already been harvested. Many plants had the tops pinched out to make more branches grow.

Sheriff Rainey said he received the first indication of the marijuana patch from the owner of the land, who was not identified.

This man went out to fix a fence and saw other persons in the field where they had no right to be. Suspicious, he returned to town and called the sheriff.

Some of the plants were more than 10 feet tall and had a tap root going down more than two feet. These were healthy, vigorous plants.

Two weeks of observation failed to bring up the persons using the marijuana patch and officers decided to destroy it. "There's enough marijuana there to keep the whole town high for a year," observed Deputy Keller.

The sheriff and three deputies spent a couple of hours of hard work in 100 degree weather pulling up every marijuana plant that could be found in the area, which is also covered with thistles.

It was loaded onto the sheriff's pickup and brought to town. It weighed in at 280 pounds. He has the plants at the jail and as soon as they are dry enough, they will be burned.

Sheriff Rainey and his deputies believe this patch was planted last year and seeds from unharvested plants came up about mid-June. It is now seeding and could have been harvested up until frost.

Sheriff Rainey said Wednesday morning that he has made no arrests in connection with the case.

Forty-seven Rockets Look Mighty Good

Forty-seven Skyrockets received shoes Wednesday, August 4, and work-outs in shorts began Monday, August 9.

Two-a-day workouts in full uniforms begin Monday, August 16. They are presently working at 7:00 a.m. and again at 7:00 p.m., but by the time school starts, they will be taking the heat of regular practice time, 2:30 p.m.

There will be two scrimmages.

The Skyrockets will meet

Class AA Seymour at Vernon Friday, August 20, at 7:00 p.m.

The other scrimmage will be in Wellington, with Wheeler as the opponent Friday or Saturday, August 27 or 28.

"Most of the boys who are out are in good spirits and in good shape," said head coach James Williams.

"They have been working on their own a lot this summer. This group has worked out more than usual."

Two injured Skyrockets, Dan Ford and Arnie Ingram, both of whom had knee surgery, have been working on their own and are coming along, their coach said.

Williams discussed the make-up of the 1976 Skyrockets.

Thirteen seniors are back and most of these were in starting slots last season. There are 8 juniors, 22 sophomores and 13 freshmen. This group will make up both the varsity and B teams.

There is one new Skyrocket,

Robert Norris, who came here from Taylor where he also played football. He is a senior and therefore eligible to play on the varsity. The remainder of the Skyrockets have played as a unit since the seventh grade.

"We will have to solve the quarterback problem," said Coach Williams, referring to George Brewer's graduation. That is a major problem."

Right now, Shane Tarver and Carl Taylor are trying for the place. An offensive center is to be named, and Norris and Cliff Pennon are working out there.

The wingback position of Edward Thomas, another graduate, is to be filled.

"A lot of younger kids are trying out for new positions. Some of those who appeared promising after a day and half of work included Richard Garcia, and Mike Ray, sophomores, and John Birkey,

Wellington Ex-Students to Hold 25th Anniversary Meet

Wellington Ex-Students Association will observe its silver anniversary with the 1976 reunion Saturday, August 14. Final plans are near completion and were announced by Mrs. Calvin Mitchell (Patsy Harper) this week.

A larger crowd than even last year's successful reunion is expected, she said.

All events of the general reunion will be in Bura Handley Community Center. Registration will begin at 10:00 a.m. and continue through the day. Pre-registration, however will be under way throughout this week.

There is to be no program during the day, as ex-students coming from out of town prefer to visit and reminisce.

Each person will be on his own for lunch. The community center will remain open through the noon hour and visitors may return to it at any time they wish.

The Ex-Students dinner will begin at 7:30 p.m. This will be catered by Kentucky Fried Chicken. Tickets will be on sale at the reunion.

Wellington merchants have donated a wide variety of door prizes, which will be given away at the dinner, and recipients must be present.

There will be a dinner program, featuring the Liberty Singers, a group from the Bicentennial Musical, I love America.

The singers will include Mrs. B.M. Sims (Lennie Lou Coleman) and her son, Randall Sims, Mrs. Billy Wilkerson (Jackie Barton), Miss Vikki Saunders and Benny Kilgo. In charge of sound and lights will be Zeldon Jenkins and Billy Wilkerson. All this group except Mr. Kilgo are graduates of Wellington High School.

Closing out the Silver Anniversary Reunion will be the alumni dance, to the music of the Show Buds of Childress. It will begin at 9:00 p.m. and last until 1:00 a.m.

There will be 5 class reunions:

The Class of 1946 celebrating its 30th anniversary, a luncheon at noon Saturday, the home of Bethine Atkins Wolf, 1301 Arlington St.

Class of 1951 its 25th anniversary, a dinner party at Hay Camp Country Club, Friday night.

Class of 1956 its 20th anniversary, Greenbelt Electric Co-operative Saturday, 1:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Class of 1966 its 10th anniversary, a barbecue at Hay Camp Country Club swimming pool, Friday evening.

The classes of 1928-29 will hold their joint annual luncheon at Carroll's.

(Additional information on these class reunions are carried on other pages of this issue.)

At least one family in Wellington is holding a large reunion and will bring its members to the reunion for dinner.

There will be a short business session during the dinner also, then members will be asked to decide on the date of future reunions, Mrs. Mitchell said. It has been proposed that the reunions be held in July, as the present date in August runs into school openings for some ex-students who now have families or who teach.

More Funds Sought for Fireworks

Two weeks remain for the Collingsworth County Bicentennial Committee to meet its financial goal that provided for the biggest fireworks demonstration and celebration the county has ever seen.

This is scheduled as the Collingsworth County Fair closes Saturday, September 11, according to Henry Sullivan, chairman.

The closing ceremony of the fireworks display will be a giant United State Flag and the playing of "Taps."

The goal set if the Bicentennial Committee is to put on the memorable fireworks display it wants is $2,500.

At present, $1356 has been raised.

Mr. Sullivan has announced the recent donors: Sam's Garage, Wellington Flying Service, Dudley Coleman, Hale's Equipment, City State Bank, Ralph Owens, Saied's Department Store, Warrick's Inc., Robert Owens, Lyman's Auto Supply, Singley Mill, C&H Pharmacy, Hatch Dry Goods and Kendrick Oldsmobile.

Geodesic Dome Open House on Saturday

A new concept in home building will be seen by the public Saturday, August 14, when Mr. and Mrs. Paul Range hold open house at the geodesic dome, 1303 Graham Street, that will be their home.

Hours will be 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

Visitors may also see three other domes, in two sizes, now going up on adjoining lots.

The young owners stress

this will be the only date it can be viewed by the public.

This house incorporates one of the newest of architectural forms with many traditional ideas.

Wellington residents have watched with keen interest the construction of this new type home. Paul and Vicki Range say economy of construction was a consideration in their selection of a geodesic shape. They consider it one of the most functional of all shapes—and the most convenient.

They cite other factors: economy of heating and cooling, durability to extremely high winds, strength of material used, and the number of variations that may be worked into the design.

The Range home is 32 feet in diameter, 16'4.5" high, giving a two story house with standard 8-foot ceilings. There is 832 square feet of floor space on the ground floor and an additional 400 square feet on the second which contains a loft bedroom and large walk-in closet.

Construction is of 2x4 framework, covered on both sides with five-eighths inch.

The school calendar during the first few weeks of school was announced.

On Friday, September, 10, the opening day of the Collingsworth County Fair, younger students will be brought into Wellington by bus for the opening parade and accompanying events, then returned to the school. Most, if not all, of the Samnorwood High School will be involved in Fair exhibits and activities.

Pampa Man Gets Probation in Burglary Case

Twenty-three year old James Kirk Douglas received a 10-year probation sentence in 100th district court Monday, August 9, on an indictment for burglary, according to District Attorney Charles Darter. Douglas pled guilty to the charge, jury trial was waived and the case was heard by District Judge Robert Montgomery.

Douglas was indicted for the burglary of Pruden Drug in December 1975. He was living in Pampa at the time of his arrest.

The district attorney said that Douglas, who had a record of drug-related arrests, had been held in voluntary custody in the Borger jail, after telling officers that he was afraid he would get back on drugs if he were freed.

One of the provisions of his probation was that he stay in a drug-abuse center in Houston for one year, and upon completing the course there, to continue outpatient therapy for as long as it takes.

Kirk was one of several persons charged in the Pruden Drug burglary.

The man, who has a wife and two children, became involved with drugs about three years ago, Mr. Darter said.

It is covered on both sides with a fiberglass coating. The Wellington domes are painted white to reflect sunlight, but they can be in any color, Range pointed out.

The interior is a surprise. Paul and Vicki Range, who chose the most modern of architectural forms, have a genuine interest in simpler ways of life of their forefathers.

They intend their house to be completely self-sufficient. Downstairs, there are a living-dining room, kitchen, utility room, bedroom and bath.

Sitting beside the wood-burning fireplace, using the same flue, is a camp-size, woodburning cook stove. Other woodburning stoves will be installed in other rooms. Range is keenly enthusiastic, on the practical level, in wind as a source of power.

"We project it(the house) will be totally windpowered some time in early October," he said. "It will be easily adapted to solar heating and solar cooling later." For the present, it is an all-electric home.

Range is a builder of dome homes and owner of Dome Homes, Inc. Wellington will be the future headquarters, and he has assembly line equipment for dome home kits which the home-carpenter may use to build his home. The assembly plant is in a temporary location near Wellington.

He has had 5 years experience in building geodesic domes. "These are considered isohedron truncated frequency half-sphere geodesic domes," said Range, giving the technical description.

He built his first dome in 1971 in California. Since then he has put up 22 in New Mexico at Albuquerque and Taos, and at Trinidad and Pueblo, Colorado. He does not give the names of people for whom he builds dome homes. Dome homes have been constructed in the east and on the west coast for some 20 years. Those put up by Dome Homes, Inc., are Range's own design, a variation of those found in the east.

Range is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Byron Range, formerly of Shamrock, now of College Station. He graduated from Shamrock High School in 1966, then served six years in the U.S. Army Special Forces, four years in Vietnam. He graduated from Texas Tech University with a degree in business in 1972.

His wife is the former Vicki Vaughn of Friona, who graduated from West Texas State University in 1972. The couple have a son, Jeremy, one year old.

August is here and it is hot and dry. I thought it was time to get another news letter in the paper. We have been so busy here at the center all summer during the month of July. We did 2116 hours volunteer service for other people. Don't we have some wonderful people here in Collingsworth County?

Our volunteers are still quilting and painting pictures in oils--both are doing a wonderful job.

Our August monthly luncheon will be the 18th. Please be here by 11:15 a.m. as we have a good program planned for you.

Our blood pressure clinic is always the second Wednesday of each month, so please come by and have yours checked.

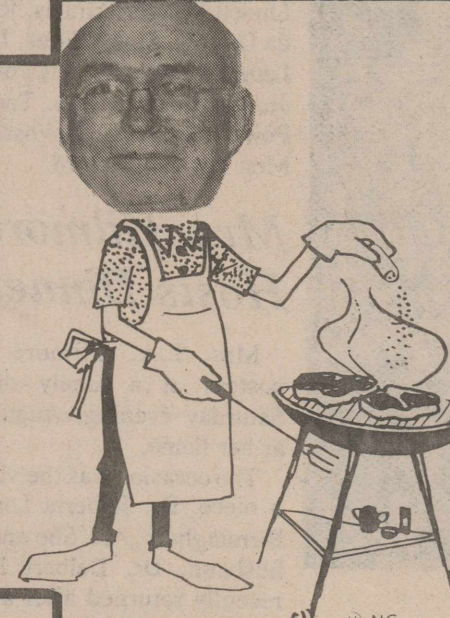

Volunteers having birthdays in August are Mrs. Ozro Bartlett, Mrs. Sid Harrison, Mrs. Beatrice West, Mrs. A.V. Mote, Mrs. Morris Barton, George Brewer, Mrs. Tom Parker, Willie B. Harwell, Mrs. Oliver Young, Jack Cristy and Claud Black.

If anybody has anything they think might sell, and would donate it to the Retired Senior Volunteer Program to put in the Country Store at the Fair, we surely would appreciate it. We need everything we can get to help with expenses.

Money will buy only things which are for sale and happiness is not one of them.

She wore a matching lace camelot veil seeded in pearls and accented by a finger-tip lace veil, with a second tier edged in lace and enhanced by tiny satin bows. ## Body of Bill Morris Found On August 5

The body of William Walter (Bill) Morris, 57, was found at his home in the extreme northwest part of the county Thursday, August 5.

His death, apparently due to natural causes, has been set at Thursday, July 8 by Mrs. Beatrice McKinney, justice of the peace, acting as coroner. Mr. Morris lived alone.

Since his time as a prisoner of war of the Japanese, Mr. Morris had marked off each day on a calendar. July 7 was the last day he had marked. Mail had accumulated in his mail box since July 7, also. Those aware of this thought he was probably visiting members of his family in the Rio Grande Valley, as he sometimes did for periods of several weeks, according to Creed Lamb, McLean mortician.

His death was discovered when County Commissioner W.R. Breeding went to his house Thursday on business concerning paving FM Road 3070, which passes in front of the Morris home, according to Kenneth Martindale, part-

Norwood Lions Plan Family Night Aug. 16

W.R. Breeding, boss lion, is in charge of arrangements.

The Lions Sweetheart, Donnie Knoll, will represent the club in the county Centennial Pageant at Wellington Friday, August 20.

There will be one o-time deputy Sheriff who conducted the investigation. Unable to locate Mr. Morris, and feeling that something was wrong, Mr. Breeding went to McLean for Farris Hess, and together they entered the house. It is believed he was stricken while taking a bath.

There is nothing to make officers believe his death was due to anything other than natural causes, Mr. Martindale said.

Mr. Morris spent much time alone, and those who knew him did not think it unusual that they did not see him.

He was a veteran of World War II and was taken prisoner by the Japanese. He was a survivor of one of the death marches American troops were forced to undergo.

Mr. Morris was born September 7, 1919, at Mobeetie, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. E.T. Morris. In 1935, the family moved to the farm where he was living.

He was a Methodist. Graveside services were conducted at Hillcrest Cemetery, McLean, Sunday at 3:00 p.m., with the Rev. Z.A. Myers, pastor of the Assembly of God, officiating.

Lamb Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Survivors are a brother, Val Morris of McAllen; and three sisters, Mrs. Mildred Ross of Mission, Mrs. Julia Maye Lane of Beaumont, and Mrs. Georgianna Gipson of Seagoville.

The cost of that canned fruit you have been buying at the grocery store is headed higher very soon. In the past two weeks, more than tons of peaches, apricots, pears and canning tomatoes rotted in the fields in California's central valley while cannery workers shut down 70 canneries over a wage dispute. The canning companies lost $1 million per day and the growers lost four times that amount while the strike was on, so Washington held marathon negotiating sessions between the workers and the canneries in order to get things settled. They did—with a new contract which increases pay 32% over the next 36 months.

Labor is more than 50% of the cost of canned goods. The new wage package will add 2 cents to 3 cents to the cost of a can of cling peaches or peeled tomatoes. Canners and growers fear that the new wage settlement will put the California producers in an "uncompetitive" position.

The canners came through the strike in fairly good shape, but the growers are the ones who had lots riding on their crops which went unpicked and unpacked. Canners had a high "case carryover" from the last season. This is why no shortages are expected even though the consumer will pay more for canned fruits and vegetables. Cannery workers start with a base pay of almost $5.00 an hour.

The loss in canned fruit and vegetable production is another factor in the jump in canned goods.

California produces all of the canned apricots eaten in this country and 85% of the processed tomato products. During the week long strike, growers estimate that over 30% of the apricot crop, 14% of the cling peach crop, 5% of the pear harvest and almost 3% of the processed tomato production were lost and irreplaceable.

Cotton Varieties to Be Reviewed at Field Day

LUBBOCK -- Officials have started the countdown toward the 67th annual field day of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock, with the satellite station at Halfway serving as host. The premiere event is set for Sept. 14.

Dr. Bill Ott, resident director of research, and Dr. Bill Lipe, research scientist and field day chairman, say they expect some 1,200 visitors for the September afternoon agricultural exposition.

"We believe our guests will be impressed with research developments at Halfway," Lipe adds. "Among the particular studies dealing with cotton, for instance, field-day attendants will get a close look at water requirements, seasonal limitations, and newly developed narrow-row varieties and glandless cottons. These studies comprise one of five field tour stops on tap for this year's event."

Dr. Levon Ray, cotton geneticist with the Experiment Station at Lubbock, heads the field day cotton presentation, Lipe says.

Over 50 cotton variety studies will be reviewed by Ray and Dr. Douglas Owen who has supervised the production of tests.

"Less water use by cotton is especially attractive to growers who do not have irrigation water or only a limited supply," Ray says. "Increased energy costs also have caused producers to search for ways to use less water," he adds.

Pointing to other items of interest for field day viewers, Ray says area cotton growers encountering low temperatures and early freezes may be interested in seeing cotton varieties which are a week to 10 days earlier maturing than conventional varieties.

"These varieties, in conjunction with narrow-row planting techniques, can produce a higher yield of more acceptable fiber," Ray explains.

The scientist says he believes the glandless cottons at the cotton variety test site also will draw much attention. "These glandless types do not have the toxic substance known as gossypol in the seed," he adds. "Newly developed varieties have a great potential for expanding the cottonseed meal market. This would include the higher priced human food market since glandless cottonseed meal could be used as a high protein flour," he says.

Foster Homes Needed Here

Foster homes for teenagers and younger children are needed in Collingsworth County, according to Mrs. Colleen McCall of the Department of Public Welfare, Amarillo.

At present there are none in Collingsworth County and Mrs. Nancy Floyd, protective services worker, takes children to an emergency foster home in Memphis.

The foster home program provides for children whose own homes have been disrupted for one reason or another—death, desertion or crippling illness of one or both parents. In other cases mistreatment, abuse and neglect disrupt the home, said Mrs. McCall, emphasizing these children need a foster home where they feel secure and wanted.

There are few foster homes

A reception for students, family and friends will be held in the college cafeteria immediately after the graduation.

CITY STATE BANK

Working for someone without a retirement plan can create a special feeling of insecurity... anytime you start thinking about retirement.

Consider the Individual Retirement Account (IRA), a method you can use to build a tax-sheltered retirement fund. All it takes is 15% of your income or $1,500, whichever is less, in cash. And all contributions, within the limits set by law, serve as a direct reduction of your gross taxable income, too. The amount is taxed only when withdrawals begin.

Say you invest $1,500 annually for 20 years at an interest rate of 5 1/4%. You end up with $54,478 while putting in only $30,000. And in 30 years you get $112,339, putting in only $45,000. Not a bad return on your money.

Look into IRA. It's worth its weight in fishing poles anytime.

THE WELLINGTON (TEXAS) LEADER
Thursday, August 12, 1976

AUSTIN — Gov. Dolph Briscoe has recommended an $825 million rescue program for the 71,000-mile Texas highway system.

He proposed re-routing road-user taxes and federal aid to make up for declining revenues and the "ravages of inflation" on road-building.

By 1980, he said all available revenue now earmarked for highways may be required for maintenance alone, with nothing left over for new construction or upgrading obsolete roads and bridges.

Over the next 20 years, less than $2 billion in state and federal funds will be available to finance a backlog of $11 billion of construction and right-of-way purchases.

Briscoe offered these recommendations, with endorsement of House Speaker Bill Clayton:

—Dedicating three-fourths of auto sales taxes — $203 million in fiscal 1978 — and $45 million a year in car tire, tube, auto parts and accessories sales taxes to highways.

—Switching $50 million a year in road user taxes now going to support the state highway patrol to the highway fund. The Department of Public Safety would, under the proposal, get needed replacement money from general revenue.

—Setting aside $100 million a year in federal revenue-sharing funds during the next biennium for safety and improvement work, including widening of facilities and repair or replacement of unsafe bridges.

The program was assured of opposition. Comptroller Bob Bullock opposed the idea of statutory dedication of more money to highways. Common Cause said the whole idea was "irresponsible."

Saving Recommended

An actuary told the State Insurance Board motorists could save $55 million if required to have deductibles on their collision and comprehensive coverage insurance.

The proposal would still mean rates will go up — but only 5.9 per cent. Companies have asked a 27.9 per cent overall increase.

The staff-recommended change would send rates up $200 million a year.

Actuary Charles Edwards of Dallas recommended $50 deductibles on comprehensive coverage and $200 deductible collision coverage. He said paying the first $50 or $200 from a driver's own pocket would encourage safe driving.

Rate changes are not expected to go into effect until October 1.

Yarbrough Hit

State Supreme Court nominee Don Yarbrough of Houston has been slapped with 30 allegations by a State Bar grievance committee.

A dozen or more of the charges stem from a lawsuit against Yarbrough brought by former business associates. At the trial, Yarbrough was found to have engaged in civil fraud in law practice involving a 1975 bank transaction.

Yarbrough has been given the opportunity to defend himself against the grievances filed with a Houston Bar committee.

Wayne Paris, assistant general counsel for the State Bar of Texas, said if grievances against Yarbrough are found justified punishment could range from a public reprimand to disbarment.

GOP's Ready

It's the Republicans' turn for the spotlight, and Texas' 100-member GOP delegation (and 100 alternates) will be heading for Kansas City and their national presidential convention August 16.

All delegates and alternates are solidly bound to former California Gov. Ronald Reagan for president.

The delegation is divided in its enthusiasm for U. S. Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania as Reagan's running mate but apparently prepared to stand behind the nominee's choice.

Speculation that former Gov. John Connally is high on the list of President Ford's prospects for the vice presidential nomination appeals to many Texans, but Connally emphasizes he has no commitments. The Texan faces strong opposition.

Gov. Briscoe acknowledged that Connally, if nominated, would be a "factor" in the Texas campaign, but he predicted the Democratic ticket of Jimmy Carter and U. S. Sen. Walter Mondale of Minnesota would carry the state regardless of who the GOP nominees are.

Tourist Spending Down

Tourists liked Texas more but spent less during early 1976.

Spending by visitors was down 18 per cent from the same period a year ago, according to a tabulation of more than 10,000 questionnaires.

Attend the 25th Anniversary Of Wellington Ex-Students

Wellington Ex-Students Association observes its silver anniversary with the reunion Saturday, August 14—twenty-five years of bringing together the people who were once part of the Wellington scene and who built so many traditions now a part of us.

Congratulations are certainly due the small group of men and women who through the years have been responsible for the continuing success of the reunion. To be commended also are the present slate of officers and directors, headed by Patsy Harper Mitchell. Some of those helping her were among those who worked that very first year.

Besides making possible the sharing of camaraderie and once-a-year sharing of reminiscences, these reunions have served to strengthen the loyalty of a great many men and women to Wellington, who otherwise would not have stayed in contact so closely.

It has helped many of them measure the advantages of living and bringing up their children in a small town, and to view this in the context of the new trend of people all over the country returning to the smaller towns and rural areas. They will see some of Wellington's fine young leaders who have done just this.

At the same time, these reunions give all ex-students the opportunity to see the success which so many Wellington ex-students have achieved in so many fields. And we ask, is there something special about this town that inspires the qualities of leadership?

If there is one thing we would ask for at this silver anniversary reunion, it is that Wellington ex-students—those still living in Collingsworth County, attend. We have always been a little lax in this, and each year, visiting exes say—"But I wanted to see more of the people who still live here."

The Last Straw

After 10 years of dormancy the idea of requiring corporations to be chartered by the federal government is rearing its ugly head again.

At the present time each state charters corporations under its own state law, but under a proposal by the Ralph Nader organization, this authority would be taken from the states and placed under the federal government, thus giving the bureaucracy more controls over business and industry, as well as the economy of the states.

As recently noted by Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson, the federal government, with this authority, would be in the position of directing management, acting as an internal auditor, with veto power over business decisions, including the hiring of people.

The Nader proposal would create a federal board to oversee such matters as employees' welfare, shareholders' rights, and the method of financing the business operation. It would also determine and publicize all matters relating to the business conduct affecting the environment, social data, analysis of employees by race, sex and incomes, advertising data, substantiating claims of products, and other management activities.

This proposal would represent a giant step toward nationalization of industry and the destruction of the free enterprise system which is the foundation of our entire economy.

The idea that the federal government can right all wrongs is ridiculous. Its interference into private business and industry has already created a maze of red tape, contradictory and costly rules and regulations and many other problems. Giving the federal bureaucracy the right to charter corporations would be the last straw.

While no legislation has been introduced in Congress proposing this governmental takeover, Burleson said it does have an advocacy and there are moves for more controls. Surely our Congressmen will have better sense than to even consider such a proposal.

—Amarillo News-Globe

Increased frugality of the visitors was compensated in part by the fact they stayed an average of 9.9 days longer than the early 1975 crop of tourists.

Tourist industry watchers will be keeping a sharp eye on the summer-quarter reports (which cover the greatest influx of visitors) to see if reduced spending is a continuing factor. That report will be out next month.

Appointments

Don G. Humble of Cameron was named by the governor as 20th district judge succeeding W. C. Wallace of Cameron who resigned.

Briscoe also appointed Victoria Mayor Charles C. Carsner Jr., to the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. He replaces Mayor

Alfredo Gutierrez Jr. of Del Rio who resigned the position.

Textbook Hearings

Seventeen groups or individuals will protest material submitted for 1976 state textbook adoption at a week of public hearings here August 16-20.

The State Textbook Committee will begin balloting on the books September 14, and the State Board of Education will hold its own textbook hearing November 11-12. Formal adoption of the texts by the board is scheduled November 13.

How high will gas bills go, and when will they level off?

There is no sure answer. It depends, to a large extent, on what Lone Star has to pay its natural gas suppliers.

Just a few years ago, Lone Star paid only about 19¢ for a thousand cubic feet of gas.

Today, we have to pay almost $2 for a thousand cubic feet of new gas.

But you are still being charged at a much lower rate than that. You see, we are still buying old gas at lower rates under old contracts. So the average cost for gas, the cost that primarily determines your bill, is still just a little over $1 per thousand cubic feet.*

As our older contracts expire, and new, higher-priced gas is purchased, the average price will continue to rise (even if we don't buy any new gas). We can foresee an average price of around $2 per thousand cubic feet in a few years.

That's quite a big increase. We know because we're almost paying that price right now for new gas. But it should rise much more gradually in the next year or two than it has during the past year.

*Monthly reports on gas purchases filed with the Texas Railroad Commission are public record.

FIRE—that bone-chilling word heard in the middle of the night! Home fires are said to be on the increase. For an investment of less than $50, families can provide an early warning fire detection system in their homes.

Smoke-detector alarms are an increasingly popular appliance. Every fire department can relate stories of preventable life and property loss—if they had only discovered the fire sooner.

There are three basic types of smoke-detectors.

--Battery-operated models are assured to operate when the fire is electrical or occurs during a blackout. But they require regular battery checks. All provide a warning that sounds when the battery's power reduces. Because a separate electrical circuit is not required, they may be the least expensive type to install.

--Electrical-powered models are of two designs. One plugs into a 110-volt outlet. The other is wired directly to prevent it from being accidentally unplugged and to avoid the use of its outlet for another purpose.

Installation instructions recommend a separate circuit be used. This prevents overloads and other circuit-breaking events from cutting off power. These models also can be installed easily if adequate power is available.

SMOKE-DETECTOR ALARMS PROTECT HOMES

Smoke-detectors are different from heat detectors. Smoke-detectors can sense fumes from combustion before smoke may be visible and before the temperature of the fire is high enough to trigger a heat or flame detector alarm.

Another important aspect is that smoke is usually the killer—fire victims many times are overcome by smoke and toxic fumes before the heat or flames reach the area where the occupants are sleeping.

All services are offered on a non-discrimination basis regardless of race, color, or national origin.

She added that at present visitors must limit the length of their stay.

Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Yell of Dumas were guests of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fourmentin, and her sister, Mrs. M.L. James and other relatives Monday and Tuesday of last week.
