County Commissioners Ask Legislative Investigation of Fee Collections Here

PROBE AIMED AT COLLECTOR, SAYS KUNTZ

But Bundy Denies Court Has Any Particular Office in View

RALEY IN HOT REPLY

Tax Official Scores Action Of Commissioners In Questioning Fees

An investigation to determine just how much money the fee system turns into the coffers of Wichita county officials was invited Monday afternoon when the commissioners' court passed an order asking the state legislative investigating committee, studying conditions in other large counties of Texas, to include Wichita county in its itinerary.

Kuntz Seeks New Law

The investigation was sought by L. L. Kuntz, commissioner from Iowa Park, in a motion seconded by H. H. Haynes, representing the Electra district. Mr. Kuntz explained that certain county offices, especially the collector's office, are allowed to collect fees for which they are not accountable.

"I think the public ought to know just how much money these offices bring in," the commissioner declared.

"They take in money of which no account is ever made. I want conditions explained to the public so that they will get behind a movement to pass a law making all fees accountable."

It was explained that the state committee has been studying the operation of the present laws in Tarrant, Dallas, Bexar and other large counties in a preliminary survey before recommending the passage of regulatory legislation at the next session of the legislature. Members of the court here Monday expressed the view that conditions in Wichita county should be taken into consideration before the proposed new laws are drafted. Efforts to alter and standardize the system of remuneration for county officials, begun during the last session of the legislature, have so far been unsuccessful, it was pointed out, and the special investigating committee was appointed with a view to clearing the way for definite action during the next session.

Disagree on Aims

Miss Lucile Campbell, clerk of the court, was instructed to mail a copy of the resolution passed Monday to Pink L. Parrish, chairman of the committee, at Austin. No date for the proposed investigation has been set.

The motion asking for a visit from the committee was passed unanimously and without much discussion from members of the court.

M. A. Bundy, commissioner from precinct 1 including Wichita Falls, said after the meeting Monday that the court was aiming at no particular office in seeking the investigation but was simply trying to have the situation made clear. Mr Kuntz, however, specifically asserted that he is anxious for the fees collected in the office of the tax collector be made known to the public. The motion calling for the probe was passed without opposition.

RALEY REPLIES TO COMMISSION'S ACTION

Indignant at what he believed to be the attitude of the county commissioners court in asking for an investigation of the operation of the fee system in county offices and especially in the office of the tax collector, Guy C. Raley, collector here during the past seven years, Monday evening declared that he did not purpose to allow the commissioners to jopardize his interests. He expressed resentment at the action of the court in aiming at the collector's office and declared that he would insist that

Arabs Mass For Attack On 40,000 Jews

Moslem Riotings in Jerusalem Assumes Serious Proportions; Threatened City Awaits Aid of British Troops

JERUSALEM, Aug. 26. (UP)—The rapid spread of ruthless fighting between Arabs and Jews tonight increased the gravity of a situation already desperate in various sections of Palestine.

Rioting which assumed the form of organized attacks on the Jewish colony at Tel-Aviv caused authorities to hurriedly order a detachment of troops to that town. The Arabs are concentrating their forces for a new attack on Tel-Aviv, where there are about 40,000 Jews, according to Jewish sources here.

One Jew was killed and 20 Jews and 50 Arabs were wounded in earlier fighting at Tel-Aviv, where Arabs were repulsed. Martial law was proclaimed in that region.

The Arabs also attacked the Jewish colony at Rehobot. The situation was still tense at Jaffa, where clashes were halted by arrival of troops yesterday.

Arrival of British reinforcements is anxiously awaited.

Although British troops and volunteers have taken extreme measures here to end rioting which started last week, advices from outlying regions revealed that the authorities are unable to cope with the situation in many instances and the danger is by no means passed.

With more than 100—and possibly 150—dead, including 12 Americans and hundreds wounded, advices from Jaffa, Nablus, Talpioth and Tel-Aviv reported clashes and considerable loss of life. The agricultural regions in Galilee also were in constant danger and some

Texas Boundary Committee Refers Oklahoma Dispute to Legislature

Texans Make No Recommendations as to Settlement of Question; 'Doesn't Look Like Progress,' Says Oklahoman

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 26. (UP)—Oklahoma's proposal to keep the wedge-shaped piece of land recently found to be a part of Texas was referred to the Texas legislature today by vote of the Texas committee authorized to consider adjustment of the dispute.

Texas committee members, meeting here jointly, with the Oklahoma legislative committee, made no recommendation for or against the proposal and reserved the right to support or oppose it in the next legislative session.

Lancaster Opposes It

Representative Ray Holder of Lancaster was the only Texan voting against the decision.

"I am not willing to cede any territory to Oklahoma," Holder said, "and I am not willing to put any proposition to do so up to the legislature."

James Nance, speaker of the Oklahoma legislature and an ex officio member of the committee, was plainly disappointed at the action of the Texas committee.

"It does not look like much progress," he said before the Oklahomans left for home.

Compact Presented

The proposition submitted by Oklahoma was that the heretofore observed boundary between Texas and Oklahoma along the 100th meridian be recognized as the true boundary; that Oklahoma pay $150,000 as expenses of litigation over the boundary; and that each state bind itself to take no action to affect the rights of the individual claimants to the land.

The written compact was presented by Senator W. C. Austin of Altus, Okla., together with an oral statement that Oklahoma was not seeking to buy territorial rights. The state acted merely in the interests of the residents of the disputed strip, he said. He urged the retention of the present accepted boundary as a matter of justice to them.

Woodull Disagrees

Walter Woodull, Texas senator from Houston, pointed out that such an agreement would place the trial of a suit over titles to the land in Oklahoma courts.

Vigorous protest against ceding any land to Oklahoma was made at a meeting of the Texas committee prior to the joint session of the two state committees.

R. H. Ward of Houston, attorney for heirs of the late John Wortham of Dallas, said that Wortham acquired a right to 2,000 acres of the 40,000 acres in dispute when he applied for a Texas title to the land.

Wortham endeavored for years

BLASTS ROCK CHINESE CITY

17 Killed by Explosions In Nanking

NANKING, Aug. 26. (UP)—The outskirts of Nanking were shaken and great damage was done by a series of explosions today which killed 17 persons.

The blasts, which were of tremendous force, destroyed an ammunitions dump in the suburbs. About 50 horses nearby were destroyed. Officials estimated damage would reach several million dollars.

The explosions terrified the entire city of Nanking. A state of martial law was established to maintain order in the stricken area.

Border Raids Cease

LONDON, Aug. 26. (AP)—The past few days have seen a cessation of the reports of border raids in Manchuria which at one time appeared approaching the status of open warfare but tonight signs of any approach to reopening negotiations on the Chinese Eastern railway dispute still were lacking.

China and Russia showed reluctance to yield in the slightest degree to the viewpoint of their respective opponents.

Foreign Minister T. C. Wang at Nanking, today said his government refused to restore the status quo on the railway as a preliminary to negotiations in the face of continued ample proofs of the persistence of Soviet propaganda. He expressed willingness to adhere to terms of the railway agreement of 1924, which provided for joint direction of the railway by Chinese and Russians.

Plane Crash Victims Released From Hospital

FORT WORTH, Aug. 26. (AP)—Miss Nell Kines, 18, Dallas, and her brother-in-law, J. L. Holden, 34, Fort Worth, both have been released from a Fort Worth hospital where they were taken after being injured in the crash of an airplane northeast of Fort Worth Sunday. The plane, an old Jenny, was piloted by Holden, former motorcycle policeman, who had been flying several years. Holden was released Sunday but Miss Kines was not released until today. She was unconscious for several hours.

Louise Thaden Wins Lady Birds' Race to Cleveland Air Meet

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 26. (AP)—The curly-haired and bronzed head of Mrs. Louise McPhetridge Thaden, smiling Pittsburgh air pilot, was the first to nod before the cheering throng at the national air race today as the women's transcontinental air derby raced to a thrilling close at the Cleveland municipal airport.

Mrs. Thaden, holder of the women's air speed record, won the Santa Monica, Cal., to Cleveland speed test by more than an hour.

She brought her plane across the finish line at 2:14 p. m. Only 20 hours, 19 minutes and 4 seconds of flying time had elapsed since she soared from the Pacific coast last Sunday, Aug. 18.

O'Donnell in Second

Negotiating the final 120 miles from Columbus, Ohio, in only 44 minutes, the smiling Pittsburgh aviatrix maintained her lead over Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Calif., who won second place with an elapsed time of 21 hours and 30 minutes. Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., who in third place at Columbus, crashed making a landing there and was forced out of the race. She was injured and her plane wrecked. Miss Nichols' misfortune moved Amelia Earhart, the transatlantic flier, to third position with an elapsed time of 22:06:37.

Aside from the tragic death of Miss Marvel Crosson of Los Angeles, who fell to her death in a parachute leap while flying over Arizona the second day of the derby, the transcontinental race ended successfully.

The all-Ohio derby for civilian pilots was won by H. C. Speer, Mar-

PLAINS CITIES ASK AID IN WATER SURVEY

$6,000,000 Pipe Line Will Supply Towns In Wichita Area

MEETING SEPT. 10

Quanah, Vernon, Electra And Many Other Cities May Consider Plan

Representatives of Quanah and Vernon Monday afternoon placed before the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce a request for this city to join in a survey designed to determine whether or not soft water can profitably be piped from the plains to supply Wichita Falls, Quanah, Vernon, Electra, Chillicothe, Childress and possibly Estelline and Memphis.

Officials Here

The proposition was presented to Hubert Harrison, general manager, and Ed Howard, chairman of the water committee, of the chamber of commerce here, by Carl Guinn, chamber of commerce secretary, and Dr. Thomas D. Frizzell, mayor, both of Quanah, and Grady Shipp, chamber of commerce manager at Vernon.

According to Mr. Guinn, who stated that he had been engaged for more than a year in an extensive study of the possibility of providing the cities named with adequate supplies of water from the vicinity of Plainview, two preliminary surveys have been made by private corporations. The first carried an estimate of $6,000,000 as the lost of laying pipe from Plainview to the cities in question. The second proposed drawing the water from three sources, Roaring springs Quitaque creek, and Plainview, mixing the three waters before placing in conduits to destinations. The latter survey estimated the cost of such a plan to be about $7,000,000.

Such a project as that proposed by Mr. Guinn and his associates would have to be handled by a private corporation, they said, for the reason that the cities for which the water supply is proposed could not assume additional bonded indebtedness in the required amounts.

Gravity Flow

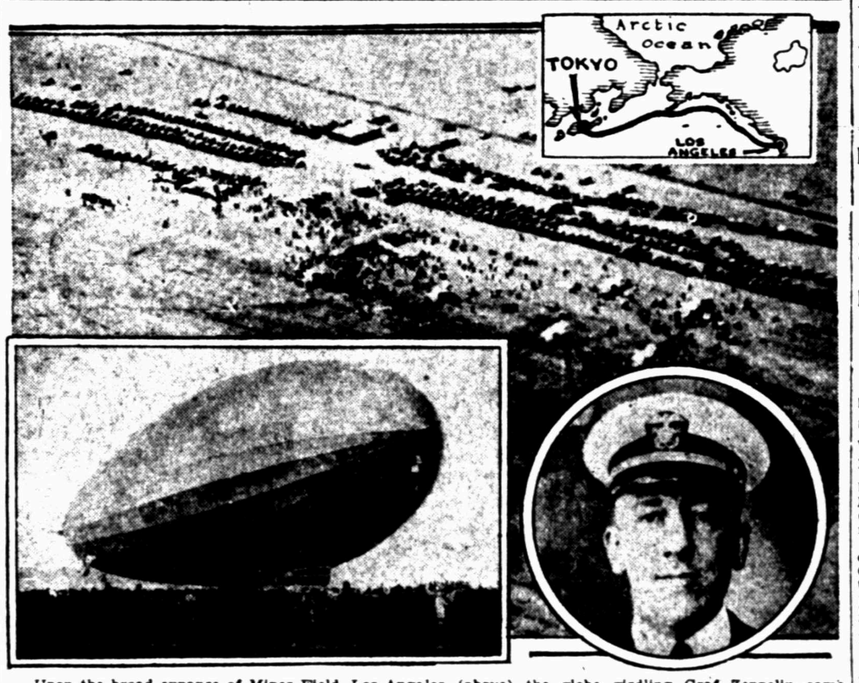

It was shown that Plainview is more than 3,000 feet above sea level, while all cities from Memphis to Wichita Falls along the Denver railway are sufficiently lower to afford gravity flow of water to all such points. Statistics and analytical reports were shown by Mr. Guinn to reflect the low degree of hardness, alkilinity, and content of solids of the water available in the Plainview district. Wells there which have been producing since 1911 without any show of diminution in supply, it was said, indicate the abundance of desirable water.

Feasibility of the plan, according to the preliminary surveys already made, would require a tentative demand for about 20,000,000 gallons daily, it was stated. Childress, Quanah, Vernon, Crowell, Paducah, Chillicothe, and other cities considered tentatively as users would represent a total demand of approximately 7,000,000 gallons daily, it was estimated.

Members of the committee stated that should such a plan be found practicable, assumption of municipal water distribution systems in the various cities by the supply corporation would be involved.

Mr. Harrison and Mr. Howard agreed tentatively to have this city represented in a conference to be held on Sept. 10 for discussion of the matter, subject to the approval of the water committee and board of directors of the chamber of commerce here. The latter two bodies will be asked to pass on the question within the next few days. Place for the meeting on Sept. 10 has not yet been announced.

Where Graf Zeppelin Ended Pacific Voyage

Upon the broad expanse of Mines Field, Los Angeles (above) the globe girdling Graf Zeppelin came down early Monday morning after completing its voyage across the Pacific. Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, shown in inset, aided by 300 marines, supervised the landing. In its flight across the continent to Lakehurst, N. J., the dirigible is expected to take a route leading over Midland and several other West Texas towns.

FINAL WATER VOTE DELAYED

Council Postpones Decision On Bond Issue

Final action on the ordinance authorizing an election on a $1,400,000 bond issue to provide pure, soft and adequate water for Wichita Falls was deferred until next week at the meeting of the city council in the Memorial auditorium Monday night.

Only three aldermen were present at the meeting and the final reading of the ordinance was delayed until next Monday night when a full council is expected. The motion of Alderman J. M. Spoonts that the third reading be postponed was seconded and passed unanimously. First and second readings were passed without a full council.

Three Selections Proposed

It was indicated that the council would give consideration to the proposal that the ordinance be changed to provide for an election on three different bond issues at the same time. By this means the choice of the voters could be indicated and the size of the bond issue determined in a single election, it was pointed out. The election ballot would name the $1,400,000 issue, one of about $500,000 and another of a still smaller amount and the voter would check his preference or vote against any issue named.

It was pointed out by city officials during the past week that the probable means of paying off the bond issue would be through a raise in the water rates, in preference to a raise in taxes, since the burden of payment would be evenly distributed by the former method. The aldermen stated that their attitude favored the raise in water rates but that the decision rested with the opinions expressed by citizens.

Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the water department, who attended the meeting Monday night, told The Record News that any

Sinclair Denies Consolidated Oil Will Be 'Absorbed' in Merger

If There's Any Merger, Sinclair Will Do the Absorbing, He Says in Terse Announcement From Jail

By KENNETH G. CRAWFORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (UP)—Harry F. Sinclair, now a prisoner at the District of Columbia jail, has no intention of quitting the oil business or of allowing his vast holdings to get out of his control, he announced today.

He emphatically denied printed reports that the Consolidated Oil corporation, one of his companies, is about to be absorbed by the Prairie Oil & Gas company. If any merger or consolidation takes place, he said, the Sinclair company will be in control of the new concern.

A terse statement dictated by Sinclair to one of his business associates who visited him today was given to the United Press at the jail.

It was learned at the same time that Sinclair, although he has lost some weight since his incarceration last spring, is in good health and is keeping a close watch on his business enterprises while serving as the jail's chief pharmacist.

Today's statement, the first he has made for publication since the night he entered the jail, follows:

"I assume that the basis for rumors regarding the consolidation of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation and the Prairie Oil & Gas company is that engineers are now surveying the properties of both companies for valuation purposes. There are many obstacles to be overcome before any merger or purchase can take place. Properties valued at $800,000,000 owned by 50,000 stockholders are not usually disposed of by 'gentlemen's agreements' or without the consent of the owners.

He'll Do Absorbing

"Meanwhile, it would be interesting to know who or what interest feels qualified to place in circulation on unnamed authority accounts of matters at most are merely in the stage of preliminary discussion.

"All that can be positively said now is that if the purchase or merger takes place it will not be by absorption of Sinclair by any other company and that I have no intention of retiring from the oil business."

Sinclair started serving a three-months' sentence for contempt of the senate on May 6. After he had served about six weeks of this term, he was sentenced to six months for jury shadowing in the Teapot dome trial here. The district of Columbia supreme court ruled the two sentences could be served concurrently and he immediately started the second term.

ALLIED DEBT OFFER SPURNED

Britain Holds Out in Its Demand for Spoils

THE HAGUE, Aug. 26. (AP)—British Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden today told representatives of France, Italy, Belgium and Japan that their new offer on division of reparations did not satisfy British claims but said he would remain here in case they desired to discuss the matter.

Before the answer was made, it was semi-officially said in French circles that the four creditor powers had made their last concession to the British. Late today Ambassador Abachi, Japanese delegate, called on the chancellor to find out how negotiations might be continued.

The four leading creditors, other than Britain, worked intensively on Saturday and Sunday to meet the Snowden demand for a concrete offer which would give Britain a greater share of German reparations than was contemplated under the Young plan. It was handed to Snowden last night and he conferred over it today with British financial experts.

The outcome was his rejection. He criticized the offer point by point. He said it was the equivalent of only 57 per cent of the amount Britain claimed as her share. Other creditors had claimed it approximated 75 per cent.

Woman Sues for Fees Allegedly Due Husband

DALLAS, Aug. 26. (AP)—Close upon the heels of the legislative investigation of fees of county officials, in which back fees were discussed, Mrs. John M. Lowry, widow of a former Dallas tax collector, today petitioned the county commissioners court to pay her $80,262.29, alleged back fees due her husband's estate.

The petition lists the fees due for the fiscal years from Dec. 1, 1920, to Nov. 30, 1926, ranging from $6,371.34 for the first year to $21,770.68 for the last year. The figures were certified as correct by Henry Schupback, chief deputy clerk under Lowry.

Archer City's Mayor Comes to Work Clad in Cool Pajama Ensemble

Special to The Record News

ARCHER CITY, Texas, Aug. 26.—Pajama fans who hitherto have been fearful of the long arm of the Puritan regime needn't have any more qualms about the matter, for Archer City's mayor, S. M. Power, appeared on the streets here today so clad.

His pajamas were of the ultra cool variety, witnesses reported, and on his head he wore a comfortable straw hat.

His appearance in such attire was the occasion for no little excitement, tongue wagging and speculation. A large crowd congregated about the city official as soon as the few who first saw him reported to their friends and acquaintances lining the streets that an unusual thing had happened. The crowd followed him about for some time. And then the mayor retired quietly to his office and started in the day's work.

It was a matter of speculation whether Mayor Power kept on his pajamas for the rest of the day. It was said that the excitement of so much notoriety had led the official to return home and don more conventional clothes. But the matter is in doubt, as he was not seen to emerge from his office the rest of the day.

GREAT LINER HEADS ACROSS WEST TEXAS

Dirigible Expected Over Wichita Falls Area From 2 to 5

ROUTE IS UNCERTAIN

Hundreds Over Northwest Texas to Get Glimpse Of Ship Today

Wichita Falls may have an opportunity Tuesday to view the giant Graf Zeppelin on its eastward voyage from Los Angeles to New York, according to press dispatches received by The Record News Monday, and confirmed by C. P. Logan, manager of the municipal airport.

Wichita Falls is almost directly on the route between Midland and Oklahoma City, two points which the Graf Zeppelin is expected to pass over, Mr. Logan said. If the huge liner does not pass over Wichita Falls it should go over Burkburnett, Mr. Logan predicted.

Crosses West Texas

Whether or not the Zeppelin, which is expecting to complete a round-the-world tour in 12 days or less, passes over Wichita Falls, thousands of residents of northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma are expected to see the big ship today. The Graf is due at El Paso around 10 o'clock or earlier Tuesday morning, and should reach the Wichita Falls vicinity between 2 and 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, it was estimated. The air liner will go from El Paso to Midland, and is then expected to take a direct course toward Oklahoma City across West Texas and northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma.

READY TO TAKE OFF

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT, Los Angeles, Aug. 26 (AP)—The ground crews swung the tail of the Graf Zeppelin to the West at 9:35 p. m., preparatory to unhooking the nose from the 60-foot mooring mast for the take off on the the final leg of the around the world cruise, Los Angeles to Lakehurst, N. J.

The exact route of the liner is mapped according to weather conditions, and its route may vary from one which would carry it along from Midland to Throckmorton, Truscott, Crowell, Benjamin, Vernon, Frederick, Okla., and Lawton, Okla., or it may swing far enough to the east to take in Haskell, Seymour, Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Electra, Iowa Park, Grandfield, and other towns roughly along that line from Midland to Oklahoma City.

The giant dirigible was to leave the Los Angeles airport about 11 o'clock Monday night (1 o'clock Wichita Falls time), cross the Rocky mountains by moonlight and was to soar over El Paso during the early morning hours.

Sirens to Sound

Arrangements have been made by the Record News to announce the coming of the huge liner of the air if it arrives here by blowing of sirens, horns and whistles in all parts of the city. Fire Chief J. L. McClure stated that he would instruct each fire station in the city to run their fire sirens full blast if the Zeppelin is sighted. Railroads have agreed to blow whistles on the round-houses and on locomotives in the yards at the given signal. Officials of the Wichita Ice company stated that they would run the wild-cat whistle at their plant on Ninth street. Local airports will watch the skies all during the day.

Motorists in the city also are expected to aid in announcing the dirigible by blowing their automobile horns when the sirens and whistles give notice of its arrival.

MOORS AFTER MASTERING STORMS OF PACIFIC

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Graf Zeppelin swung idly at its mooring mast here today after triumphantly completing the third lap of its planet-circling flight while preparations went feverishly ahead for the craft to soar gracefully away before midnight for Lakehurst, N. J., on the final swing around the globe.

In the golden shimmer of sunrise the mighty ship of the air moored today after conquering the stormy Pacific on the flight from Tokyo. Reaching the coast line at San Francisco amid the rays of the setting sun yesterday, Dr. Hugo

WILLEBRANDT OFFERS CURES FOR PROHIBITION PROBLEMS

RIGHT MEN CAN ENFORCE LAWS

Mabel Anticipates Better Days in Future

THE INSIDE OF PROHIBITION
Can Prohibition Be Made Effective?

By MABEL WALKER WILLEBRANDT

(Copyright, 1929, by Current News Features, Inc. All rights for publication reserved throughout the world).

(In this article, Mrs. Willebrandt, admitting that prohibition is not being effectively enforced at present, states exactly what must be done to heal the sores. She handles without gloves the situation as she sees it.)

"You admit that liquor is being sold in large quantities throughout the country," a western lawyer said to me recently, "and you do not claim that it is much harder for a man who wants a drink to get it now than it was eight years ago, though millions and millions of dollars have been spent for enforcement. And if you still contend that the law can be enforced, how in h— do you propose to enforce it?"

I think that is a perfectly fair question, and I think the profanity is justified in view of the apparent inconsistency between the facts that I have related and my belief as to the possibilities of enforcement.

Prohibition is NOT being effectively enforced. I have stated some of the reasons. Because the prohibition law is being violated, often with and by the connivance and collusion of public officials, we are told by anti-prohibition organizations and by many newspapers that a new and alraming threat to our whole system of government has been created by the 18th amendment. I will not argue this other than to simply call attention to the undisputed fact that in the days of the open saloons and local or state option, there were countless violations of the laws regulating the liquor traffic.

Ten Years Against a Hundred

The difference is that regulation was attempted with utter failure over a period of more than a century, while enforcement of the national prohibition act has had less than 10 years' trial.

Another anti-prohibitionist said to me recently: "You are retiring from office after eight years futile attempt to enforce an unenforcible law. Why not be honest and admit enforcement is impossible?"

My answer to that was and is that all my experience tends to strengthen the belief that the prohibition law is enforcible. It is as enforcible as any other law was in its early stages—the law against burglary, against murder, against embezzlement. I know of no law that is not violated, and frequently violated. A law is a failure not when there are frequent violations, but when it fails to protect society as a whole against destructive forces.

The mere fact that prohibition closed 178,000 saloons, where liquor might be obtained night or day in almost unlimited quantities, is the outstanding proof of prohibition worth. Even if proof could be adduced that for these saloons were substituted 178,000 bootleggers, or even 278,000, there would in my estimation still be justification for prohibition. No one will seriously contend that the bootleggers, however numerous they may be, are selling as much liquor as the saloons. No one will seriously contend that the majority of people approve or fail to condemn the business of bootlegging. How many of my readers, or their friends, will knowingly entertain a bootlegger in their family circle?

The sale of intoxicating liquor has not only been outlawed by law, but in the hearts and minds of the majority of the people of America. That one fact makes it possible to say with assurance that prohibition can be enforced.

But how?

How to Make the Law Work

I shall now state as definitely and as concisely as possible some of the measures necessary to make prohibition enforcement really effective.

In the first place, let me deny that there is anything very complicated or intricate about the problem of enforcement of the prohibition law. The task of enforcing that law is in its essentials as simple as that of enforcing any other law. There is just one way to bring about enforcement of a law. That way is to definitely establish personal responsibility for enforcement.

Let me illustrate. In each county of the United States, there is one person whose responsibility it is to finally enforce the law against murder. If that person fails to prosecute murderers, or connives or conspires with murderers, his term of office will be short; the community will not tolerate a condition that is dangerous to it.

The failure of prohibition enforcement, its lack of effectiveness so far, is due very largely to failure to definitely center personal responsibility.

The condition was well illustrated in a cartoon drawn by J. N. Ding, entitled "When the Commission to investigate law enforcement begins to investigate (exhibit A)."

The cartoon showed a party of distinguished gentlemen, with high hats, carrying note books, and in charge of a guide, making an investigation of "The Buckpassers' League." The "Buckpassers' League" was represented as a long row of men leaning back in their chairs, with their feet on their desks and blithely engaged in tossing about high in the air, from one to another, a straw man labeled Law Enforcement. Those who sat at the desks and who were engaged in this sport were labeled "Courts," "Police," "County Attorney," "Grand Jury," "Detective," "Sheriff," "Expert Witness," "Alienist," "District Attorney," "Jury," "City Government," etc.

The Crime Commission's Job

This is a true picture of present conditions. It is a condition that can and should be corrected. I do not doubt that out of the investigation of the president's law enforcement commission will come recommendations that will be of value in doing away with red tape and centralizing and definitely establishing responsibility. But long before that commission is ready to make its detailed report, a great deal can be done to put prohibition on an effective basis.

Every law, whether applying to a single village or the whole nation, must be locally enforced if it is to be effectively enforced.

I am not seeking by this statement to relieve the federal government of any responsibility for enforcement of the prohibition law. Every speech I made in the last presidential campaign was directed to driving home to the people the realization that the president of the United States can almost "make or break" the constitution, not only with respect to prohibition enforcement, but enforcement of the other laws enacted under federal authority, the anti-trust laws, the pure food laws, the laws for the protection of men employed by railroads in interstate commerce, etc. If the president (and I am speaking in general terms now and not of any particular president) is of such a disposition or temperament that he avoids conflict, or endeavors to assure his own reelection by incurring the favor of politicians controlling state delegations, he can make prohibition enforcement difficult or ineffective. He can appoint unfit federal judges, district attorneys, marshals and other officers of the law. He can fail to remove from office men who have deliberately violated their pledge to enforce all laws, including the prohibition law. He can appoint to or retain in office men who are only half-hearted or incompetent in the administration of the prohibition law.

Local Cooperation Needed

The president appoints the heads of the various principal departments of the government, including the secretary of the treasury who has general supervision over the work of the prohibition unit or division. The secretary of the treasury supervises the collectors of internal revenue, customs agents, and inspectors, and various forces of investigation whose duty it is to detect violation of the federal laws. Furthermore, the president appoints the attorney general who supervises the United States district attorneys through the country in prosecutions under the prohibition law and other federal statutes. An indefinite or hostile or incompetent attorney general can prevent effective enforcement of the prohibition or anti-trust law, or any other federal law of importance. The responsibility goes back to the president, in the final analysis.

No official in Washington, however—not even the president—can enforce the prohibition law or any other law throughout the United States, without local cooperation. The president, acting through his attorney general, may appoint an honest, sober, competent district attorney in one of the larger cities of the country, but if the people in that city are indifferent to their obligations to vote, to keep or make the municipal and state governments honest and efficient, the United States attorney will be hampered and thwarted in his efforts to enforce the law.

If the head of the city government is a mayor who appoints a chief of police who protects bootleggers and divides the graft with politicians large and small; if the county or state prosecuting attorney is of the same type as the mayor, the United States district attorney cannot possibly hope to effectively enforce the prohibition law.

It is impossible for a comparatively small force of federal prohibition agents to do the work of local police in small bootlegging cases and when all such cases are diverted to the limited number of federal courts, with only one or two judges in a large district, jury trials cannot be had for months or even years. This enables bootleggers to continue to operate even while under indictment.

I have pointed out in another chapter what I now repeat here as one definite, practical step, to insure more effective enforcement of prohibition. That is to systematically divide and apportion responsibility between the federal government and state and local governments so that there will be no overloading of part of the machinery of law enforcement, and, on the other hand, no lack of a high type of personnel for difficult cases beyond the reach or strength of local authority.

4 MEN FIGHT BANDIT HORDE

Mexican Bandits Slay Town's Only Defenders

TORREON, Mexico, Aug. 26. (AP)—Persons arriving here from San Juan de Guadalupe, Durango, say that Jose Rodriguez, chief of police, and three gendarmes put up a fight to the death in an effort to save the town from being sacked by an armed and masked band that attacked it the night of Aug. 17.

The four police constituted the town's entire garrison and the attackers numbered more than 100. The main body of the latter had been hiding in houses in different parts of the town and rushed out into the streets, firing at random, at a signal given by seven men who dashed into the main plaza in an automobile.

Pedestrians were shot down ruthlessly and the policemen, who made a stand in front of the jail, was riddled with bullets.

The bandits are reported to have shouted "Viva Triana!" while looting the place. Martin Triana, an agrarian leader, had been ousted from his post as military commander of the district a few weeks before on complaints of the inhabitants.

After looting the town and freeing the inmates of the jail, the bandits made off with a number of prisoners, who were released after having been carried about 10 miles into the country.

The exact number of persons killed and wounded by the bandits has not become known here, although the casualities are said to have been more than 20.

MAYORS MEET AT QUANAH

Plains Towns' Water Problems Discussed

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Aug. 26.—Solving the water situation in several towns in this section was the subject of a conference of mayors recently called by Mayor T. D. Frizzell of Quanah. Mayors C. E. Carlock of Chillicothe, George E. Ragland of Electra, H. D. Hockersmith of Vernon and R. Mitchell of Childress were present and participated in the conference.

Reports were made by all present that their towns were either facing an inadequate supply of water at the present time, or that growing demands would require additional supply at an early date.

H. N. Roberts, engineer of Lubbock, who had made an exhaustive investigation of the feasibility of bringing water from the caprock Plains section of Texas, connecting with the several towns along the line, and who had made an estimate of the supply, gave the officials the benefit of his findings.

It is the consensus of opinion that the Plains water would be the ultimate solution of supply for the lower Panhandle towns.

Tentative plans call for a holding company similar to the large oil pipe line companies, to construct and operate a water pipe line from the caprock, connecting with the various cities and towns along its line, selling water to the cities in much the same manner as gas and oil are now being handled to refineries and cities.

It was decided to secure additional data and information, and another conference to be called upon.

Gale McFadden, engineer of Childress, was present and aided in the discussion with figures and estimates.

PRETTY SOFT

Capitol Scribes' Room To Be Renovated By State

AUSTIN, Aug. 26. (AP)—The press room at the capitol is being renovated. The regular session of the legislature passed an emergency appropriation of $1,000 to redecorate and refurnish the room, where correspondents from every big daily paper and of the news gathering organizations labor day in and day out and in emergencies (such as during the legislative sessions) sometimes night in and night out.

The appropriation was authorized last January and it must be expended before Aug. 31, the end of the present biennium, or revert to the treasury. Discovering that the expenditure had not been made the board of control made hasty plans to start the work and it is now under way. A few more days and the correspondents will be in new quarters. In the meantime they are pounding out coupy in the governor's private reception suite on the second floor.

25 MURDERERS ELUDE JUSTICE

22 Slain in Houston in the Last Seven Months

HOUSTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Perpetrators of 25 slayings in Houston and Harris county during 1928 and the first seven months of 1929 so far have escaped the bar of justice. One of every 67 persons who died in Houston last year was killed by another. Of the 51 killings, 17 or one-third have not been paid for.

Of the 25 victims whose killers have not been caught, 22 were slain in Houston and three in other parts of the county. Thirteen were white and 12 were negroes. In some instances the murderers are known but have eluded officers. In others the crimes are still shrouded in mystery.

The case of the baby whose body was found severed and stuffed in a lard can in White Oak bayou, the double murder of Olena Wansche, 18, and Edward Stone, 21, victims of shotgun wounds, who were last seen alive at Spring and whose bodies were found three miles apart, the killing of Howard Gauge, 20, and serious wounding of his girl companion, Lillian Bissitt, as they sat on the cushion in front of their automobile at the bayshore probably are the most noted of the unsolved crimes.

COUNTY SEEKS FEE PROBE

Raley Says Books Open To State Legislators

other offices in the county be also scrutinized.

"I was the first to condemn the fee system and fight for a straight salary," the collector asserted. "But I stand for a salary commensurate with the duties and the obligations of the office. I welcome the investigation and will give it every assistance, but I want the committee to take a look at the fees collected in the office of the county attorney, the sheriff, and the county clerk. The county attorney makes as much if not more than the collector and has done so since I have been in office.

"So far as that goes," Mr. Raley continued. "I haven't noticed that these same commissioners are turning down any extra money since the legislature raised all their salaries."

The collector said that he has made a motion at a recent collector's convention at San Angelo through which the association went on record as opposing the fee system and favoring a straight salary. He said he had personally invited Pink Parrish, head of the investigation committee which has been invited to study conditons in Wichita county, to speak before the San Angelo convention and explain the wants of the committee to the assembled officials.

"We already have a skeleton bill which we expect to present to the next legislature," the official continued.

"And we have $3,000 in the treasury to back it. We do not purpose to let the county commissioners or the members of the state legislature jeopardize our interests.

Heavy Bond

"The collector has to pay out a lot of money to get the office," Mr. Raley went on, "and he is under a heavy bond which remains a mortgage over him for all time or until an audit is completed which gives him clearance. During the seven years I have been collector in Wichita county, the office has handled an average of $1,812,000 each year. I have employed from 10 to 15 clerks, and I believe I have had the most honest staff it is possible to obtain. But a collector can never be sure that one of his force is not going to fail him in honesty and involve him heavily. The office carries duties and obligations much heavier than other offices and the salary should be greater than that of the average county official."

The collector repeated his eagerness for the coming of the committee.

"I want them to see what we get and what obligations and duties we assume to get it," he repeated. "Our books have been audited by the state and by the county—and found without a flaw. Let the commissinoers bring on their investigators, I'll do everything I can to help them."

FEE PROBE MAY CAUSE EXTRA SESSION

AUSTIN, Aug. 26. (UP)—An additional prospect of a November special session of the Texas state legislature was held out here today when the legislative committee investigating the fee system in Texas conferred with Gov. Dan Moody.

Forty-seven counties, the committee reported, have made tax collection contracts while county officers still receive the tax fee. The committee suggested that a law be enacted prohibiting such contracts.

The governor said that if the prison investigation committee was ready to report he would be willing to submit the fee topic at a special session along with the prison report.

Last week Speaker Barron forecast a November session, saying the prison committee likely will report by then.

Holder Undecided Which Office He Will Run For

AUSTIN, Aug. 26. (AP)—Ray Holder of Lancaster has not made up his mind definitely whether to run for lieutenant governor or try for reelection to the legislature, he said here today.

He said were he to run for lieutenant governor the opposition would base its fight against him on his vote against the race track and fair association bill during the regular session.

"I have not made up my mind definitely whether to run for lieutenant governor or to run for my present place in the house and again organize and lead to victory the moral forces who would prevent the return of legalized gambling in Texas after more than 50 years of clean, moral government," Holder said.

Speaker of the House W. S. Barron of Bryan said in Austin recently that if Holder did not run for lieutenant governor, he would consider doing so.

World of Low Standards Waits Unborn Generation, Says Moreland

"Old Men Make War and Young Men Die," Pastor Declares In Second Revival Sermon Here

Low social and national standards were pictured as the greatest curse facing the unborn generation by the Rev. Pat Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, in the second sermon of the city-wide young people's revival meeting being held at the First Methodist church.

"The unborn generation will come into a world prepared for it," he said, "a world of low standards."

Low Standards

Marriage problems and the complexities of modern divorce courts were also scored by the pastor.

"We are starting at the wrong end of it in our criticism," he said. "We wait until the harm is done. My heart goes out to the man and woman who have sincerely tried and failed to make a success of marriage.

"We are going to have to study this divine companionship which God has ordained, and elevated it to the high standard for which it was created.

"The unborn generation will come into a world of low national standards. It's the old men who make war and the young men who die. There are unborn children who will go out to die before you and I are dead, not knowing why they go or why they die.

"I remember a promise made to a generation 10 years ago. They said: 'You will make the world safe for democracy, safe for peace.' I saw a hundred thousand men marching to the strains of victory, but war is not glory. It is beastial and horrible and terrible.

"Until the church of Christ preaches and lives the gospel of Christ the world will be stained with the insanity of war. The romance of Christ and the challenge of the gospel is the greatest thing in the world. We don't need more eloquent preachers. We need men and women to live the gospel of Christ more eloquently."

Musical Program

E. F. Bohmfalk led the congregational singing and also sang a special solo, "My Mother's Prayers Have Followed Me." Miss Elizabeth Wright and Miss Mildred Anderson at the piano were assisted by Durwood Park's all-church orchestra in the musical accompaniment for the congregational singing.

Council Delays Vote on Bonds

bond issue smaller than the $1,400,000 proposed issue would not provide for a conduit from the lake to the water plant and that if it were not voted the present open ditch would remain as the means for bringing the water to the city. When asked if the ditch had been cleaned out during the summer, Dr. Douglass said:

Conduit Needed

"The department had made plans for dredging the entire ditch to remove weeds, mosses and other impurities, but the work was stopped when farmers along the canal obtained legal restraint of the process on the grounds that it would cause seepage and damage to their lands.

"Due to this action on the part of the farmers we have been unable to clean out the ditch for several months. The department has experienced further trouble with the open ditch method during the last several weeks by breaks in the canal which have required constant watching and immediate repair work to prevent loss of water and damage to property. The city needs, and should have, a closed conduit of iron, concrete or wood to bring water from Lake Wichita to the plant."

The council Monday night held only a short discussion of the water problem. A contract to provide light and power for the city-county hospital (Wichita General) was referred to City Manager George D. Fairtrace for his signature. Other matters of routine business were disposed and the council adjourned after a 30-minute session.

Realtors to Hear Convention Reports

Arabs Mass For Attack on Jews

of them had been raided by Arabs.

Shooting and looting continued today in the suburbs of Jerusalem, British patrols, supported by machine guns and armored cars, established some order out of the confusion in the city proper, but the suburbs were still the scene of fighting.

Two machine guns were posted in the Jaffa station and Brtish warships with many troops, were making full speed for that city, but the fighting was not entirely halted. Arrival of a contingent of troops from Egypt aided in restoring order at Jaffa.

Arabs set fire to a colony in South Talpiot and attempted to burn a synagogue at Hebron, where 12 Americans and 33 others were slaughtered Sunday in an Arab raid.

Clubs, knives and guns were used by the Arabs in fighting through the suburbs of Jerusalem yesterday and last night. Defending forces employed rifles and were backed by machine guns, but Arab snipers continued their activities.

Moslems Repulsed

Moslems attacked the Synhedrios district, but were repulsed, as they were in several other sections. Civilians aided in the defense because of the shortage of police forces. Oxford students studying here were especially bold in turning back the raiders.

The fact that shops have been closed since the fighting started caused nervousness about the food supply.

Appeal to Stimson

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (UP)—An effort may be made tomorrow to lay before Secretary of State Stimson Jewish complaints against the British administration of Palestine where communal riots over the week-end cost the lives of 12 American citizens.

Representatives of the New York Zionist organization are schduled to arrive early tomorrow. They will confer among themselves, the United Press was informed, before seeing Stimson. Whether direct criticism of the British Palestine policy is to be made will be determined at the conference, it was said here tonight.

Texas Mother Has Healthiest Child

Mrs. Lena Rolling is perhaps the happiest mother in Houston, and it is all because her little son Royce Lee finally got over a spell of sickness which pulled him down terribly.

"His blood must have gotten very thin because he broke out so badly all over his little legs," said Mrs. Rolling in her home at 3011 Harrisburg Blvd. "From the time I started giving him Nature's Remedy Juniors it so thoroughly cleaned out his system that all the broken out places healed and others did not come back as they did before. Now he is in so much better health that I wish every mother could see him and see what those little chocolate candy NR Jrs do for ailing children."

All drug stores which sell Nature's Remedy, the safe dependable laxative and corrective also have NR Jrs. They are just 25c.—Adv.

20 ENTERED IN FLYING CLUB

Half of Membership Listed By Junior C.-C.

Practically one-half of the 40 active memberships required to launch the proposed Junior chamber of commerce flying club have been reserved by payment of initiation fees, according to reports given Monday night when about 20 men met in the Staley building to further plans for completing the organization at the earliest date possible.

Details of the plan under which the flying club will operate were discussed by Paul Hines, under whose leadership the movement was inaugurated and is being forwarded. Of the 40 active memberships, 30 are to be placed in Wichita Falls, the remaining 10 being reserved for out-of-town members which it is expected will be supplied by nearby cities. Associate memberships, of which a number have been sold, will be limited to 35, it was said.

Fees Arranged

Following the payment of an initiation fee of $40, each active member will pay $10 monthly dues, and while receiving instruction, will pay $6 per hour. After qualifying for solo flying, which it was estimated would require about 10 hours with an instructor for the average student, the member may take time in the training ship at $4 per hour, which it was said is approximately the cost of keeping the plane in the air.

It was pointed out by Mr. Hines and others present Monday night that the cost of learning to fly through the club plan has proven practically the only means available to the majority of young men because of the comparatively high cost of flying courses in existing commercial schools. Such courses, it was said, usually charge $20 per hour for instruction, and a commercial pilot's course averages $3,000.

Those in charge of the organization now being formed here have selected an Eaglerock plane as the first training ship to be purchased, it was announced. The initiation fees and monthly dues, it was explained, were so designed as to make the purchase of the first ship and to create within about one year sufficient reserve to add a second training plane. The club will operate at Staley field, Mr. Hines announced, primarily because of its easier accessibility. Conveniences of the class room and other flying school accommodations at that field for the use of flying club activities has been granted by the Wichita Falls Air Transport company, it was announced.

Grandfield Men Present

Completion of the club organization, with election of officers and adoption of necessary rules and by-laws, will be effected immediately upon the receipt of 40 active and 35 associate memberships as approved by the aviation committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, it was said. Memberships will be transferable at any time, according to information given Monday night.

Among those present at the meeting were S. H. Williams and W. A. Owen of Grandfield, Okla.

Zeppelin to Pass Over Wichita Area

Eckener, its commander, circled the bay region and then headed for Los Angeles, hovered the city through the hours before dawn and headed for the mooring mast as the new day broke.

Lands at 5:35 A. M.

By 5:35 a. m., the aerial visitor had been made fast and the happy passengers descended from the cabin.

There was Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer of many strange lands, who said the trip had been "marvelous," and a "wonderful experience." Equally as enthusiastic was Lieut. Com. Charles E. Rosendahl, hero of the Shenandoah disaster, who characterized the ocean crossing as the "finest flight" he had ever had. The other passengers expressed their enthusiasm in the superlative.

A 48-hour hop to Lakehurst, starting about 11 o'clock tonight, was expected to complete the around the world cruise. Twelve days of actual flying, the shortest time in which man has girdled the globe, is believed by the Zeppelin officials an achievement almost within sight.

Picks Southern Route

Dr. Hugo Eckener plans to take his 771-foot dirigible with 52 persons aboard along the southern route across the Rockies, and then move into the middle west to pass through Cleveland Wednesday morning and land in Lakehurst Wednesday night. The decision to cross the Rockies at night by moonlight was understood to have been made to take utmost advantage of climatic conditions.

The exact route of the Zeppelin will be determined largely by weather conditions, favorable winds being the deciding factor. However, if conditions are favorable the following cities and communities on the air lanes between them may expect to see the great silver cruiser of the skies.

San Bernardino, Calif.; Phoenix, or Tucson, Ariz; Lordsburg, N. M.; El Paso, Texas; Midland, Texas, Oklahoma City, Muskogee, Tulsa, Okla.; Kansas City, Jefferson City, St. Louis, Mo.; Springfield, Chicago, Ill.; Toledo, Cleveland, Ohio, thence on through the Mohawk valley through Syracuse, Buffalo, Albany, New York, and Lakehurst, N. J.

While the great silver ship swung idly at the mooring mast, ground crews pumped the fuel gas and replenished supplies aboard. It was none the forse from the record shattering 16,880 miles which it has left behind on its 10 days of actual flying since it left Lakehurst, N. J., on Aug. 7.

It was the third lap, just completed, which added new laurels to achievements of Dr. Hugo Eckener, and in the opinion of many marked a new epoch in lighter than air commerce. This was the first nonstop airflight ever made across the broad Pacific ocean, a hop of 5,800 miles from Kasumigaura, Japan, near Tokyo, to Los Angeles.

Boundary Dispute Goes to Solons

to get a court settlement of the territorial jurisdiction. Once he planned a prize fight on the strip to force a court contest to determine whether the strip was in Oklahoma or Texas.

Dates Back to Treaty

The dispute dates back to the treaty between the United States and Spain in which the 100th meridian was made a part of the boundary. Mexico secured the Spanish title and Texas the American title. Oklahoma became the western extreme of the land covered by the United States title.

Five different surveys have placed the meridian at five different places. The fourth survey, run by John H. Clark, was observed for years. A new survey, ordered by the U. S. supreme court, supports the Texas claim that the Clark line is too far west at its junction with the Red river.

Announcement was made that an effort will be attempted to have the U. S. supreme court delay acceptance of the new survey until after the Texas and Oklahoma legislatures have an opportunity to agree. The suit is due for a court order in October unless a delay is granted.

The message read: "We are now starting home. Have had a wonderful trip. Boys have had a great time. All well and happy. Sleep at Lubbock Monday night and at Seymour Tuesday. Creighton."

YOUR score in the postage stamp department is irreproachable; your showing in lead pencils and rubber bands is par; everybody admits your star performance as a purchaser of office stationery and engine room supplies.

But when the sales record counts the number of thousand dollar chances you let slip, while avoiding 10 cent risks, dividends moan at your misguided "efficiencies."

You're not a force, but an obstruction. The mirror of conceit reflects a shrewd, far-sighted, conservative—the "safety valve" of the concern—the deliberate, judicial, cross-checking partner.

But close acquaintance detects the ass pelt under your lion skin, and accurately estimates you as a narrow-gauged, stubborn reactionary—an enervating creeper, retarding the growth of a healthy business—sustained by the strength and energy of abler but handicapped associates.

Dry Weather Damaging Cotton County Crops

Special to The Record News.

WALTERS, Okla., Aug. 26.—Continued dry weather in Cotton county is seriously damaging the cotton crop and with no rain in the next few days only about half the average crop will be gathered this fall. Early cotton is doing very well but the late crop has been cut short and will not mature. No rain has fallen in some parts of this county since July 4.

S. P. Solves Dairy Problem

STATE PRESS, otherwise known to his family and a few intimate friends as J. J. Taylor, the big editorial smash of the Dallas (Texas) News, writes the home folks every day what he sees while on his vacation in North Carolina. Saturday, writing from Biltmore, N. C., he wrote of the giant Vanderbilt estate there. "It has two rivers running through it," he was quick to observe, adding, "Heavy crops of alfalfa, corn, TOBACCO, etc., are grown on these alluvial soils and fed to the Vanderbilt DAIRY CATTLE."

State Press didn't write that last sentence exactly as it appears above. We instructed our composing room to fix up the prominently displayed words in black caps.

So now the problem of milk production is solved.

And North Carolina, if we read State Press aright, deserves all the credit. For we infer the following domestic scene on a prosperous, up-to-date North Carolina farm:

Time: 5 a. m.

Place: A well groomed cow lot.

The setting: Farmer Jones is seen attaching a milking machine to Old Bossy. He punches the button and the process starts. The pail is finally half filled, but the amazed Jones sees little chance of getting a full pail of milk from his pet cow.

Jones: "H'm. Wonder how that happens. That thar cow has been my best producer. Now I get only a bare gallon."

(Slowly he paces the floor of the dairy barn, going from one switch to another to make sure the electric milker is getting enough juice. Then he approaches a medicine-chest looking affair labeled "Havana Fillers—for Sluggish Mornings." He opens it. The tobacco leaves are carefully packed. None has been touched. Farmer Jones opens an adjacent cabinet labeled "Cut Plugs—for Dieting Cows." Opening it, he finds at least a pound has been taken out.)

Jones: "O Lord, the ole woman got 'em mixed up agin. That cow ain't dieting. Expecting to get any milk out of such treatment! What brains these wimmin have got!"

(He goes back to the "Havana Fillers" cabinet and pulls out about two yards of the juicy leaf. He goes back to Old Bossey.)

Jones: "There, Bossey, take it easy, old gal. Here take a chew. There, that's right. Best chew in all C'alynee, gal. Now, feel better?"

(He strokes Old Bossey's back affectionately, and then turns on the milking machine, which had been discontinued during the tobacco process. He goes back after a short interval to find his half-filled pail near overflowing with milk that could come from none other than a Contented Cow. He rushes for the farmhouse for another pail. . . .)

(Curtain.)

Wishing a Courageous Man Success

IN THE midst of a dry, dull summer the West Texas Chamber of Commerce finds itself about $18,000 "in the red" and with little or no prospect that the deficit can be met through curtailment, of the expenses of the organization have been pared to the limit and collections from subscriptions already made will not be more than sufficient to carry on the organization's work until after the annual meeting in El Paso in October.

In such a situation B. M. Whitaker, agricultural and exhibit agent of the organization, comes forward with an offer to attempt to raise the deficit. Single handed and alone he proposes to go through West Texas and obtain sufficient additional subscriptions to make up the amount. Under the present conditions this might look like an unattainable task but Mr. Whitaker is equipped, first, with a strong belief in the merit if his organization and, second, he has the courage and determination to carry through.

Mr. Whitaker in his work with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce has seen many things that seemed miraculous. He seen waste places made to bloom; he has seen towns grow into modern cities; he has seen uninhabited places populated. To such a man the task of raising $18,000 in such a territory does not seem impossible. He starts on his work with conviction, and courage and determination. Nobody could help but wish such a man success.

Reconciling the Irreconcilable

BECAUSE we gain nothing by fighting over issues now dead, peacemakers within the Democratic party of Texas are doing a laudable work, even though it is quite likely that its influence will at best be little more than temporary. Texans should not be hard to convince that the battle over Hoover and Smith, Tammany and anti-Tammany, rum and Romanism is now fruitless, but it will be many a day before there will be a reconciliation in the fundamental differences which guide the two factions.

No two groups could be further apart in thought, understanding and methods of reasoning than those which emerged from the schism last year in the ranks of Texas Democracy. There is almost no common ground between the group which would accord the same principles of sincere patriotism to a Roman Catholic from the sidewalks of New York and a Methodist bishop of Virginia, and the group which finds a violent distinction between having the Catholic church and the Methodist church meddling in affairs of state.

The divergence on these two lines of thought really marks the party lines of the nation, as compared with which the distinction between a Democrat and a Republican is a thing of shadow and fiction. The real party lines are drawn between liberalism and fanaticism, tolerance and prejudice, freedom and regulation. The elements which constitute the two groups are not of the type to fuse readily; metamorphism will be a long and painful process.

CHATTY — GODDESS OF CAB

By BEATRICE BURTON, Author of: "HER MAN," "HONEY LOU," "SALLY'S SHOULDERS," "MONEY LOVE," "LOVE BOUND," etc.

COPYRIGHT 1929, CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N, INC., CLEVELAND, OHIO.

READ THIS FIRST

Charlotte Chatterton, nicknamed Chatty, is a born gossip. Her mother, a widowed dressmaker, has one wealthy customer, Mrs. Van Nuys, and through her Chatty gets a position as switchboard operator in the Van Nuys bond house. There she meets and falls in love with David Jordan, handsome young bond salesman.

Chatty's busy tongue creates havoc in the office. Agnes Herford, Mr. Van Nuys's secretary, leaves on account of Chatty's gossip. David Jordan knows that Chatty is responsible, and drops her. Chatty begins to go with a new salesman, Bryant Dunning, who says he is married but has left his wife. Chatty's friends are Billie Langenau, a file clerk, and Winnie Talcott, Mr. Van Nuys's new secretary. After some lively parties Chatty makes up her mind to quit going with Bryant.

The next day David Jordan brings a girl to the office, and Chatty, in a rage of jealousy, makes another date with Bryant. But she does not love Bryant, and determines not to have any more dates with him. After an argument with her mother about Bryant, Chatty goes across the hall to see Billie. Despite all her good intentions, Chatty still goes around with Bryant and his crowd. She asks Bryant to teach her to drive his car.

Chatty and Bryant go to the Lollypop, a roadhouse, where Chatty is sure she sees Winnie Talcott with Mr. Van Nuys. The next day Chatty tells the girls. Chatty has been mistaken about Winnie, and when she refuses to apologize Winnie tells Mr. Van Nuys. Chatty is told she will be fired if there is any more gossiping in the office.

Now Go on With the Story

CHAPTER XXXVI

Chatty was very subdued all day long. She did not want to lose her position. She did not want to lose the friendship of the girls. It hurt her, somehow, that Winnie had turned on her so.

She knew Winnie would have gone to the roadhouse with Mr. Van in a minute if he had asked her.

Perhaps that was why she was so mad!" thought Chatty. "Because he took someone else!"

His daughter and a friend of his daughter! Applesauce! Did Mr. Van think he had put that over? There was a cure for that, if he did!

She had written one anonymous letter, "doing her duty," and she could write another.

But something inside of Chatty whispered caution. It is one thing to send an anonymous letter when no one accuses you of being a trouble maker. With this fracas just over, if Mr. Van knew an anonymous letter came to his wife, he'd probably fire her out of hand, without waiting to make sure she wrote it.

He wasn't going to fire her! That was just a threat! She knew too much.

It was bravado, and in her heart Chatty knew it was bluff. She was thoroughly frightened. But she comforted herself with the thought that it was all a mistake. That she had really talked too much, or that she had jumped at an unjustifiable conclusion, that she had no right to repeat what she had seen, even if it had been true, never entered her pretty head.

Billie came to her switchboard at lunch time. "Come eat with me, Chatty, dear!" she begged. "I'm lonesome."

That was just like Billie. To be nice to people when they needed it. A flood of gratitude to her real friend came over Chatty. "Only I hope she won't want to talk and ask questions," she thought.

But Billie did want to ask questions. Hardly were they seated at the table in the little cafeteria which they frequented than she began.

"Was it really Mr. Van you saw last night, Chat?"

"Of course it was! And he tried to put it over that he was with his daughter and a friend of hers!" answered Chatty.

"Well, it wasn't really Winnie, was it?" persisted Billie.

"Yo-o-o-o, I suppose it wasn't!" confessed Chatty.

"Then why don't you apologize to her?" suggested Billie. "If you are wrong, why not say so?"

"I will not!" cried Chatty. "Nasty, stuck-up thing—"

Billie laughed. "Oh, Chatty! When I think of how you've chummed with her—and now calling her names! Don't you know, child, that to apologize is just to say you are wiser now than you were before? And no one need be ashamed to have become wiser!"

Chatty thought that over all afternoon. She had never had the thought put before her like that. Billie was really very clever to put it that way. Chatty had no idea that it was a famous saying of an eminent philosopher called Emerson.

The more she thought of it, the better she liked it. She didn't know she was just seeking an excuse to right herself with Winnie. Way back in her mind was the thought of all the fun she had had with the "Famous Four." If Winnie "stayed mad" there would be no more parties in her apartment, no more roadhouse expeditions, except just with Bryant; no more chance to show Dave Jordan how little she cared—

How much of the office fuss had Dave heard? How much had Winnie told him? Is she hadn't told him yet, maybe she wouldn't if Chatty apologized—that is, said she was a wiser girl now than she was and, of course, no one must be ashamed of wisdom—

At closing time Chatty watched Winnie, and when she went to the dressing room, followed.

"I say, Winnie!" she began. "I was wrong. I know better now. I am wiser than I was this morning. It was all a mistake. Please don't be sore—"

Winnie turned dark, smouldering eyes to her.

"I got a right to be sore!" she stated, but without passion. "You talk too darn much!"

"I—I'm sorry!" Chatty repeated herself. "I truly thought it was you, Winnie—really I did."

"That only takes you out of the liar's class!" flamed Winnie. "It still leaves you a gossip and a trouble maker—"

"But I'm not! I won't again. Ah, Winnie, have a heart and be a sport! Want me to get on my knees?"

Like most red-headed people, Winnie had a hot temper and a quick one, which cooled as fast as it heated.

"Not in those stockings—they're mine!" she laughed. "Remember, you borrowed them when I spilled cocktail all over yours? All right, old thing. I'll call it a day. But—watch that three-foot tongue of yours! Some day you'll talk yourself into real trouble!"

"You'll forgive and forget?" Chatty put out both hands. "Honestly, Winnie, I'm sorry—"

"Oh, can the sorrow and come over to the house tonight and fling a foot to the radio! Ask Bryant before he gets away—"

And Chatty left with her heart as high as it had been low when Mr. Van Nuys threatened to fire her.

Somehow, straightening the fuss up with Winnie seemed to make everything all right again! Chatty shed trouble of her own making as a roof sheds rain. After all, she hadn't really done anything! The only one who had really sinned was Mr. Van. He went to the roadhouse—and not with his wife. His daughter! The cat's off-hind whisker, his daughter! Now, who do you suppose it really was?

Chatty wished very much she knew who the girl in the red dress was, where she worked, what she did—but it didn't matter. No one would complain about her talking again! And she'd find some way to square herself with old Van Nuys, see if she didn't.

That the way to square herself consisted in doing her work and not making trouble didn't occur to her.

For a few days Chatty was very, very good around the office. She even refrained from listening in on phone calls.

She felt very virtuous, indeed.

Perhaps Dave Jordan would notice how good she was, how she had changed. Perhaps he would get tired of the "must have ten thousand a year" girl. Perhaps—

At the very lowest part of the bottom of Chatty's heart was an ache that would not still. Bryant, Winnie, the "Famous Four," hipgin, roadhouses, learning to drive a car, even talk and scandal—all right in their way, but not Dave.

Chatty sighed. What was Dave doing? Who did he go with? 'Could she ever, ever get back in his good opinion again? She knew herself safe from his telling about the diary, but she wanted to forget it—

Buz-z-z-z! The telephone drop indicated David Jordan's line. And the number he asked for was that of the girl Chatty hated because—well, because Dave liked her.

Chatty made the connection, then opened the line, craftily. She'd be very careful—he wouldn't know, this time—

To herself Chatty admitted that the unknown girl had a sweet, refined voice. So had he—but what was that she heard? She pressed her ear phones tighter to her head, listening avidly. They spoke very low. Chatty's ears burned, and her face flamed—for David spoke of her!

"Well, of all the goo and mush!" cried Chatty to herself.

At noon she collected a little knot of girls around her. Her back was to the door as she spoke to Billie, Winnie, Lola and one or two other.

"Listen to this!" she cried. "Over the phone this morning, that girl Dave Jordan likes so! He had sent her some candy, evidently. She said it was too soft, and made her mouth sticky. What do you suppose he said?"

"Oh, spill it!" demanded Lola. "Mush?"

"He said: 'Love to kiss 'oo 'ittle sticky, kissie mouf,'" laughed Chatty. But in her heart was no laughter. And then her face flamed and paled, as a quiet but stingingly angry voice came over her shoulder.

"I see you cannot learn your lesson! The eavesdropper never hears any good of herself! Had you told all, you would have said that you heard me advising my friend not to say anything she didn't wish repeated, as our phones were, unfortunately, in charge of a dangerous busybody who, having no business of her own, spends time in making trouble, carrying gossip, and stealing words not meant for her ears. You can take this statement, and my utter contempt, and do what you like with them!"

David Jordan, his face white with repressed emotion, looked at her with blazing eyes before which her own fell. His glance passed contemptuously over the girls who listened to her idle chatter, and rested on Billie. Then he shrugged, turned, and left the room.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who expresses jealousy insults love."

The surest way of losing the love of a beloved one is to give expression to thoughts of jealousy. If you find yourself obsessed by this demon, use all the power of good within you and throttle it at once. It will bring you nothing but sorrow and grief if you permit it to have any power in your thinking.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Sometimes it seems to me that New York has more practical jokers, in proportion to its population, than any other place in the country. It can't be the altitude, so it must be the humidity, or something like that.

I have a friend who has rigged up a private telephone, connected with his radio. He can step into a closet in another part of the apartment and talk into a transmitter, and his voice comes out of the machine just like a radio announcer's. He pulls some startling tricks on his friends, especially those who come in from out of town. He will start the radio, and while the friend is listening, will excuse himself and step to the distant transmitter. Then a series of startling news bulletins, from "back home," will come to the visitor, apparently via radio. "The bridge at Johnson's Crossing, Alabama, was swept away today and 19 people, including the mayor of the town, are unaccounted for," and bulletins of like import will come floating in.

Personally, I wouldn't give a hang for such a contraption, but if one has a practical joke complex it's hard to beat. Anyway, my friend says he gets more "kick" out of it than from the radio itself.

A Suburban Jester

Another friend of mine, who lives in a fashionable suburb, runs to the spectacular in his practical joking. He had the whole community pop-eyed by putting on his dress suit early in the evening and going out and picking up kindling wood from neighboring places where new apartments were going up. When he had gathered an armful of wood he solemnly deposited it on a neighbor's porch.

High Finance

People get odd prejudices in favor of certain books. I found that out the other day when a friend complained that a small bank in which he had a checking account had blown up in his face.

"How come that you ever banked there, anyway?" was the natural question.

"Well," he said, "they were always so doggone nice about sending me a new blotter every month with my statement!"

Forehanded

Speedboating is a great and growing diversion in and around the Long Island resorts. I went out with a friend for an afternoon's relaxation. We had on bathing suits—it's either those or oilskins on account of the spray—and even in this light clothing it was hard for two persons to squeeze into the little craft. I asked my pilot why he didn't buy a boat that was a few inches larger.

"This stowaway problem is getting to be too acute," he replied. "I don't intend to let one of those fellows put anything over on me."

Weather Notes

New York's hot, dry summer has been rough on the taxi men. It is hard to get fares when the weather is pleasant. The taxi man's hay is made when the rain falls.

On the other hand, the concessionaries at Coney Island have reveled in exceptional business. The same is true at all other beaches near New York. The crowds have been enormous and business has been the best in years.

Lined up with the taxi men, on the red side of the summer ledger, are the sidewalk salesmen who provide umbrellas, at a dollar a piece, to theater-goers who are caught in the rain. At theater closing time, on a rainy night, these salesmen come fry from mysterious haunts and sell umbrellas which may or may not last you until you get home. They seem to have a justifiable case against the weather man.

The Seal of Approval

The scene is on the Coney Island boat, bound for the city. We pass Liberty, and everybody is gazing in silence, wondering just how much greater thrill the transatlantic home-comers get out of same picture. That is, everybody is silent but a middle-aged lady, who has been talking about the dear children in her kindergarten. She looks the statue over critically and says, so everybody on the afterdeck can hear:

"Do you know, that is a very effective piece of work. Rather severe, but on the whole very effective."

The Ladies Air Derby

LOS ANGELES—Sixty-two women fliers are gathered here for the first coast to coast Ladies-Only Air Derby. They will hop off as soon as they complete their "facials."

PHILLIPS

The start was to have been made today, but too many of the contestants were still tied up in beauty parlors at noon.

LOS ANGELES (Later)—All but one of the contestants in the Ladies-Only Air Derby hopped off late this afternoon. This was Miss Olga Mooch, who recognized among the fliers a girl who once made a disparaging remark about her figure. "I wouldn't fly in any event in which that hussy was allowed," she announced flatly.

DENVER, Colo.—Six contestants in the first Ladies-Only Coast to Coast Derby came down here today and abandoned the trip. They were forced down by an illuminated sign advertising a big sale in women's and misses' frocks.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The coast to coast fliers flew over here today. By special orders of the city safety council all inhabitants had been ordered off the streets until the girls passed. After the people had decided to brave the city streets again the police ordered them off again for another hour. "There is just a possibility they might fly back," said the chief.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Nine contestants in the Ladies-Only Derby came down here today. They decided that they had traveled far enough without talking. A tenth, Mrs. Nellie Glimpbaum, known as "The Flying Mommer," came down shortly afterward, abandoning the flight, she announced, because she had discovered one of the fliers had copied her costume.

ALBANY, N. Y.—Four fliers in the Ladies-Only Derby are over this city today. They are now engaged in the novel experiment of trying to re-beautify in the air. Pierre Sarasec, the city's best known beauty specialist, took off in a Wasp shortly after 10 a. m., maneuvered to a position just above Miss Dolly Zilch and lowered a cable to her plane. He then descended on the cable to Miss Zilch's plane and gave her a "facial" and wave in the record time of one hour and 10 minutes. He then left to establish contact with the other planes.

"Once it is shown that re-beautifying in the air is a possibility air derbies for women wil become commonplace," said Mr. Sarasec.

THE CIRCUS IS GONE

They've taken the circus away!
The sawdust's still there
And there are the tracks
The chariots made
With their wheels,
And there is the place
The elephants were—
And the ponies and dogs
And the seals!

The tigers and lions,
The camels and things,
The lady that danced
With the bear!
The acrobats too,
The men on the rings—
And the wonderful clowns
That were there!

But everything's gone today—
They've taken
The circus
Away!

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

We read that Norma Shearer takes a starch bath at least each week in order to preserve her beauty. We've been marvelling over it ever since. Why starch? It would be so sticky and uncomfortable that even if it would help one's beauty, it seems that it would ruin one's disposition. Anyway, why would it preserve beauty? Oh, well, if one hasn't beauty, why worry?

Again and again, we have heard, "There's no such thing as luck." All the time, we knew there was. And now, Julius Rosenwald, prominent and successful, says luck plays a large part in man's life. And Oliver Cromwell said a man never went so far as when he did not know where he was going.

There's a new Mexican opera based on the stories echoed down from buried civilizations. It comes just at the time Chichen-Itza is being exhumed in all its glory, which should make it doubly interesting if one is interested in the bloody religions and as bloody loves of the past. Love and religion are kin in more ways than one. They give strongest devotions and strongest hates.

It was old Ben Jonson who said, "Of all wild beasts, preserve me from a tyrant; and of all tame, from a flatterer."

A tyrant rides rough shod; if it is inborn tyranny, no love, no tenderness will save one who stands in the path. Women have loved tyrants, but only to find their hearts and souls crushed. A tyrant must have his own way in spite of right or wrong. He never reasons—his way (to him) is right.

A flatterer is one who lacks the strength and ruthlessness that would make a tyrant. He wrecks insiduously, when a tyrant would blast his way.

And there are other tyrants than men. There are women who tyrannize by demanding everything just because a man is a husband, and who keep a man's nose so pressed to the grindstone that life is just a treadmill.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (US)—"Now, Dick, this is how a maid is, she'll swear she's dying for thee, and she is dying for thee, and she will die for thee; but she'll fling a look over t'other shoulder at another young feller, though never leaving off dying for thee just the same." (From "Under the Greenwood Tree.")

And then again:

"Wives be such a provoking class of society, because though they be never right, they are never more than half wrong."

Then this:

"I was thinking," said he, "how different you in love are from me in love. Whilst those men were staring you dismissed me from your thoughts altogether, and showed upon your face a pleased sense of being attracted to 'em."

Over in London the men say they are tremendously amused by the look of women after a trip in a cross-channel air-liner. The trip does such strange things to rouge, and the women look ghastly in daylight. It is the appearance of "emphatic rouge" when the skin beneath it turns from white to green.

An English publication has the audacity to criticize American hats. It says in its society column:

"America is heard on all sides. Munich is full of lovely girls from the United States, improving their culture. All have wonderful poise. All wear hats crammed down on their heads. All talk incessantly like bored macawa."

You have seen English hats, haven't you? From Queen Mary down. If there is anything they can do to improve us, it won't be to lend us their hats.

American women are no longer resorting to face lifting, so we are informed from abroad. "Instead they keep lines and sagging muscles at bay by means of treatments, skin foods and a good disposition rather than draw them up unnaturally so that the shape and the expression of the face are changed."

These English tell us that we so envy their complexions that we are patting our faces with water for 20 minutes at a time to imitate the London rain dew and mist and get to look like them.

American women don't try to imitate. All they want is to be entirely different.

Immunity From Love Difficult, Says Dorothy Dix

Can a Girl Tell Whether She Is Immune to Love? A Stepmother Repents of Her Bargain—How to Shake Off a Too-Devoted Mother.

Dear Miss Dix—Is it possible that a girl should be so constituted that she is incapable of falling in love? I am 24 years old. Considered beautiful. Have traveled extensively, and am at present employed by one of the largest firms in America. I have come in contact with men of all classes and types. Many of them have found me attractive and I have had numerous opportunities to marry.

But while I enjoy the society of men and the good times they give me, I never have been able to bring myself to consider marrying any one of them. Yet I shudder at the thought of having to spend the balance of my life in spinsterhood, for I have a woman's normal desire for husband and children and a home, but I simply cannot imagine marriage without love being tolerable.

Do you think that Mr. Right will ever come along, or am I one of those unfortunate beings who are immune to love?—KATHERINE.

Answer—It would take a bolder one than I to venture a prophecy concerning what Cupid is liable to do to any woman, especially when she is 24, which is the age at which a woman just begins to be capable of the grand passion.

Because you haven't been afflicted by sporadic cases of sentiment up to that time is no sign that you won't have a fatal attack of heart trouble later on. Indeed, you are all the more likely to have it, and have it badly, for love is like certain juvenile complaints—the later in life we catch them, the harder they go with us.

Most likely the reason you haven't fallen in love is because the man hasn't come along who possessed that intangible something that set your pulses tingling. What this mysterious quality is you do not know, but some day a man crosses your path who is no better-looking, no cleverer, no tenderer, kinder, more considerate than other men, no whit superior to the men you meet every day, yet somehow you know that he is it and you freely lay at his feet all the treasures of your heart that you have refused to other men.

There are many women capable of a great love who go through life without ever being in love because they never met the man who can call forth their affections.

Sometimes these women, in despair of ever finding their real mates, marry the men who want them, instead of the men they want. Sometimes, having the glory of a great love before their eyes, they refuse to subtsitute a lesser love for it and remain unwed.

And there are some women who are celibate by nature. They are incapable of any feeling for a man stronger than friendship. They often marry because they fear the loneliness of spinsterhood, but they make cold and unloving wives and always find their husbands a bore and a burden.

Nothing but a great love offsets the inevitable sacrifices of matrimony and so I think you will be very wise not to marry until you are sure that you have found some man with whom you are so romantically in love that life without him would be cinders, ashes and dust. A woman such as you are, with a good profession, finds the lot of girl bachelor a most agreeable one. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—A few years ago I married a widower with three children. I find that I am not consulted about the affairs of the children. My husband and they settle their problems among them and I don't count with them. My husband also complains about hard times and tells me that we will have to cut expenses and economize, but he gives the children what they want. He expects me to do without things so that the children may have them. I don't think life is worth living like that. What do you think?

—STEPMOTHER.

Answer—I think that the career of a stepmother is the most difficult and hazardous one that any woman could possibly choose. To fill it properly, she should have the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job, the tact of a Talleyrand, the sense of humor of a Mark Twain, the long-suffering endurance and the ability to take kicks of an army mule and a mother heart as big as the world. And then some.

For the stepmother essays an almost impossible task, that of motherhood, without the love of a mother that makes the sacrifices she is called upon to make sweet instead of bitter, and that blinds her to the faults; that deafens her to the noise of the children that she must live with and put up with.

Did you ever watch a woman's face when her own children were howling and shrieking and raising a ruction that disturbed everybody within earshot? She is peaceful, interested, entertained and you know she is thinking what lovely, high-spirited little darlings they are. But let somebody else's children do the same thing and it gets on her nerves and irritates her and she calls for somebody to stop those little brats. That is the whole case in a nutshell, Stepmother,

Because these children are not your children you are jealous of their father's love for them and of their confidences together. You resent it, but you would think it was too sweet if your children and their father had that sort of comradeship together.

And because these children are not your children you are not willing to sacrifice anything for them, but if they were your children you would want the girls to have pretty new frocks, even if you had to wear your old ones, and you would deny yourself anything possible to put the boys through college.

Just try to look at the situation from a real mother's point of view and reflect that there are few mothers who do not have to sacrifice for their children and that there are few children who are properly appreciative of their own mothers. Be patient. In a very little while these children will be grown and off on their own resources and you will have your husband and his money all for yourself.

Any way you look at it, the stepmother's lot is a hard one, but you went into it deliberately, knowing what you were doing, so be a good sport and carry on.

And remember this, that the good stepmother will have the brightest crown in the whole shop when she comes to reap her final reward.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to the greatest girl ever. We would be the happiest people in the world except for my mother, who never leaves us alone a minute that she can help. She is financially independent and has a number of children, but I am the youngest son and have been living at home with her. My mother seems to think that whenever I go out in my car she should go with me. If I go to call on my sweetheart, she goes along. In a word, we can't shake her.

My fiancee naturally objects to this, but what can I do?

—COMMUTER.

Answer—The only thing you can do is to have a very frank talk with her and tell her that she is ruining your life. Tell her that you want to be alone with your sweetheart and ask her if she doesn't remember her own courting days and how three were a crowd? There is no more insoluble problem in the world than the mother who is a spiritual parasite on her children.—DOROTHY DIX.

Aviation Funds Won't Be Slashed

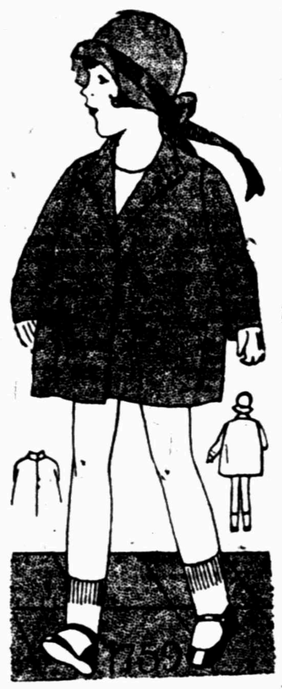

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Any reduction in army and naval appropriations for aviation development during the next fiscal year, which those departments may decide upon, will be in the natural course of budget making.

At the White House today this statement was coupled with a flat denial that there was any intention on the part of the administration to scrap the national defense aircraft program.

It was explained that since the five-year aircraft programs were started three years ago, there has been a substantial development in civilian aeronautics and it might be the departments, especially the war department, might not regard it as necessary to spend quite as much money in forwarding military aircraft developments during the next fiscal year as during the present fiscal year.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

ONCE A WEEK CUSTOMERS

There ought to be law passed that on one evening a week wives should be treated like customers.

What wife has not marvelled at the transformation of her husband's disposition when he is out with a "buyer," a client or even the remotest big prospect!

The affability which radiates from a husband's countenance! The mingled cordiality and deference of his manner! The hearty laughter with which he greets the most feeble witticism of his guest! The nonchalant ease of his spending!

Where shall we dine?

And what would you like to do later?

I've tickets for the best show in town but if you've seen it we might drive out to a roadhouse or to the beach. Or, he seems to imply, to Miami Beach, the Columbia Highway, to Banff and Lake Louise. Does distance make any difference to him? Not a bit of it. No place is too far for him to drive!

Wives are occasionally treated to this spectacle and never do they observe it without a wonder that is akin to awe.

The husband, whose domestic conversation consists of uh-huhs and unch-huhs mingled with complaints about the food and the children, suddenly blossoms out into a raconteur, a humorist, a tolerant and understanding philosopher.

The same man who does a Jojo, the Wild Boy act, if dinner at home is 10 minutes late will cool his heels for hours in a hotel lobby waiting for the customer to keep his appointment.

And does he display chagrin, does he risk alienating the big prospect by exhibiting ill-temper?

He does not.

Certainly he hasn't been waiting long and of course he doesn't mind!

Once a week wives should have the thrill of being treated like customers.

That oasis in the desert of domesticity would give them strength and refreshment to face a multitude of missed trains, lost collar buttons, grouchy silences and economy lectures.

He was informed that his daughter, Helen, 6, who had been playing "bonfire" in the barn with Robert, had perished in the flames.

NEW WAISTLINES

The wandering waistline has come home to roost, if one calls the normal waistline the logical place to put it. Whether gowns belt themselves, are cut princess or have yokes that shape up to a waistline, there is no getting away from the attention the normal placing now draws.

VENIRE CALLED IN STRIKE CASE

16 Face Trial for Cop's Death

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 26. (AP)—After preliminary legal skirmishes this morning, an enforced lull in the court battle for the lives and freedom of the 16 charged with the murder of the Gastonia police chief followed while a venire of 200 was summoned.

Changed from Gastonia where the defense featred it would be unable to obtain a fair trial, the case opened in the Mecklenburg county superior court before Judge Barnhill, North Carolina's youngest jurist.

The selection of the jury to try the labor leaders and strikers accused of murdering Police Chief O. F. Aderholt on the night of June 7, is to begin Wednesday.

The police chief was shot as he and four other policemen entered the tent colony near Loray mill in Gastonia to investigate reports of fighting there. He died the next day.

Arthur Garfield Hayes of New York, chief counsel of the American Civil Liberties union, made most of the arguments, taking the lead for the defense.

Judge Barnhill refused to quash the bills of indictment, and also refused to strike from the bills certain phrases which, to the defense, were objectionable. He ordered Solicitor John G. Carpenter to make the bill of particulars more specific as requested.

It was predicted today that a week would be consumed in selection of the jury. The state will have 48 peremptory challenges and the defense 192. The state has four challenges for each defendant and the defense 12 each.

The state added another attorney today, Jake F. Newell, Charlotte attorney, bringing the total to 10. The defense has nine attorneys.

Women Use Tons Of Beauty Aids

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (AP)—American women went in heavy for beauty aids last year; 4,000 tons of powder alone, and enough lip sticks to reach from Chicago to Los Angeles by the way of San Francisco.

Figures presented today at the tenth annual convention of cosmeticians and hair artists went further. There were also used: 552,500 tons of cleansing cream; 26,250 tons of skin lotion; 19,109 tons of complexion soap; 17,500 tons of nourishing cream; 8,750 tons of foundation cream; 6,562 tons of bath powder and 2,375 tons of rouge.

"Women are five to 10 pounds lighter than they were a year ago, because of diet and exercise," said Mrs. M. B. McGavran, president.

AID IN PEST WAR SOUGHT

Hyde to Ask Congress For Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—The department of agriculture has completed its plans to ask the special session of congress for an emergency appropriation of $36,000,000 for eradication of the Mediterranean fruit fly in Florida, where the pest menaced the entire fruit and vegetable industry.

Secretary Hyde said today it would take that amount to finance an extensive campaign necessary before the fly is completely stamped out.

Present eradication measures and the inspection and certification of fruit and vegetables placed in interstate shipment will be continued and intensified. Border inspection designed to prevent the carrying of the fly into other states will be increased.

Agriculture department officials, particularly those in the plant quarantine and control administration, have been apprehensive of the spread of the fly from Florida into neighboring states and stringent measures have been taken to prevent such spread. With the coming of winter it was felt greater attention can be given to eradication, as colder weather to the northward should retard the spread.

If the $26,000,000 is made available it will bring the sum appropriated for fighting the pest to $30,500,000 as $4,500,000 was made available soon after infestation was found near Orlando last winter.

Nuisance Statute Aids Enforcement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Collaboration of state authorities with the prohibition bureau in closing places selling liquor under the nuisance statute where there is no prohibition law was said today by Assistant Secretary Lowman to be proving helpful in the enforcement of prohibition.

The practice relieves the government of part of the enforcement burden, he pointed out, and aids in preventing further congestion of the federal courts calendars. He added the bureau would seek to increase cooperation from state authorities.

The use of the nuisance statutes to close speakeasies was started several months ago, Lowman said, after the court of appeals of New York, the state's highest court, upheld a decision of a supreme court justice that state authorities could padlock places convicted of maintaining a nuisance through the sale of liquor.

Conferences were held by special agents of the bureau with prosecuting officers of various states with the result that state cooperation proved much assistance to the bureau.

Lowman did not make public the names of other states where the plan is now in operation.

SLIM FIGURE NOW UNFASHIONABLE

Women and Girls Can Now Be Healthy as Well as Stylish

That excessive and unnatural slimness that ruined the health of thousands of women and young girls is no longer fashionable. Paris couturiers are developing clothes for the rounded figure. Musical comedy producers are searching for healthy, normal figures for the stage. All the world is getting health-wise where the human figure is concerned.

This means that women and girls will be encouraged to eat enough varied foods at regular meals to supply the requirements of health. It means that tuberculosis, anemia and other dangerous results of undernourishment may be more easily averted. And to the eyes of discerning men and beauty experts, it means that women will be more natural and more beautiful.

Eat cereals, milk, fruits, vegetables and meats daily. Do not gorge or overeat, but eat variety. Remember that flavor is the one important factor in causing people to eat varieties of foods, and that sugar is nature's supreme condiment for developing the flavors of nearly every healthful food.

The necessity of a dash of sugar for making cereals, fruits and milk desserts delicious is well known. Women cooking experts recently discovered that a dash of sugar in vegetables while they are cooking revolutionizes their freshness and natural vegetable flavors. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

PAYNE'S 24TH WIN PUTS SPUDDERS GAME AHEAD OF BUFFS

Johnny Tobin, Former Major League Outfielder, Is Signed By Spudders

WICHITA BATS 12-4 DECISION

Galloways Hammer Three Hurlers for 17 Hits

Special to The Record News.

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 26.—Spudder bats, practically muffled for several days, broke loose today at a most opportune time. Hammering out 17 hits behind the cagy hurling of ol' George Payne, the Galloway gallopers scored a 12 to 4 victory to get an even break in the four-game series.

The victory while the Buffaloes were losing sent the Wichita Falls club ahead of Houston by a full game, and with the indication that the batting slump is ended, and with the pitchers going at top speed, the Spudders entrained for San Antonio tonight with renewed confidence.

Larry Bettencourt was the batting leader with four hits, including a double. Jack Crouch hammered three blows and Fitzgerald, Benton, Hermann and Turgeon clouted a brace of hits apiece. Both of Fitz' smacks went for two bases and one of Hermann's. Pete Turgeon whanged a home run and a double.

Easy for George W.

Payne continued his marvelous chucking by holding the Exporters to seven hits and with his mates making lots of runs it was just a breeze for the screw-ball wizard. Save in the fifth round when Bob Petrie hit a home run with two runners on bases Payne was master of the situation at all times.

It was the 24th victory of the season for George against 11 defeats, and further strengthens his hold as the leading pitcher in the league.

Two pitchers, Grimm and Douglas, were batted off the hill by the Spudders and Tom Estell finished on the mound.

After Fitzgerald doubled and scored on Benton's single in the first inning, the Spudders were held runless until the fourth, when they scored five tallies.

Turgeon and Hermann doubled, scoring Pete. Hermann was trapped on Bettencourt's hit to third but Duke was hit on the back by Swanson's toss and was safe at third. Bettencourt going to second Crouch singled, scoring Hermann Payne and Stapleton were passed. Bettencourt ambling home. Douglas replaced Grimm and walked Sullivan, Crouch riding home free. Fitzgerald hit into a double play, Payne tallying.

Turgeon Hits Homer

Two more were added in the fifth. Turgeon hit over the left field wall. Bettencourt doubled and scored on Crouch's single.

Akers beat out a hit and Easterling singled in the Beaumont half and Petrie's drive over the left field fence scored both runners ahead of him.

Benton walked in the seventh. Turgeon sacrificed and Rabbit scored on Crouch's double.

The Spudders scored three in the eighth. Sullivan tripled and scored on Fitzgerald's sacrifice fly. Benton singled. Turgeon was hit by a pitched ball and Rabbit tallied on Hermann's hit. Bettencourt's single scored Turgeon.

Davey walked in the Shippers' eighth, advanced to third on Swanson's infield out and Lamb's single and scored on Hermann's wide throw on Huber's grounder.

The Spudders open a three-game series tomorrow at San Antonio.

35,000 WATCH CUBS NIP REDS

Hornsby's 29th Homer Is Help to Trim Rixey, 9-5

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (AP)—The Cubs refused to be stopped by Eppa Rixey today and after trailing for seven innings, loosed a vicious attack in the eighth that brought seven runs and a 9 to 5 victory. A crowd of 35,000 turned out for the first contest of the two-game home series to see the Cubs lift their margin over the idle Pirates to 13½ games.

Rixey allowed but six hits in the first seven frames, Hornsby's 29th home run of the year bringing the only runs. In the eighth a walk and two singles drove him from the mound. Rube Ehrhardt replaced him and was touched for five more hits.

A freak home run by Norman McMillan, which took a bounce into the stands after starting out as an ordinary single, finished the Reds' downfall by bringing in the last four counters. Score:

Damon Runyon Praises Babe Hunt, Texas-Oklahoma Heavy Champion

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1929 by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—'Tis a chancey business, putting your finger on some young man and saying, "This bloke will be a great fighter." A chancey business, indeed, because in nine cases out of ten—well, eight, anyway—he will immediately do something to prove you a false prophet.

I sometimes wonder what has become of all the lads for whom I predicted great fistic futures. Not many of them lived up to my predictions, or by the time they did I had decided they wouldn't do.

So they cross me up coming and going. But I mean well. I really do. I am always interested in that ever-oncoming phalanx called youth, and if a word of encouragement helps the kids, why not give it to 'em, say I; the only drawback to this helpful idea is that the young blokes often make a mugg of you. But you get used to that, too.

I'd hate to start in on a list of the busts that I heralded as great pugilistic promises. I got a letter from one not long ago. He is driving a truck in a little town in Iowa. He is only 25 years old now, and at 20 I thought he was one of the coming contenders in the heavyweight division. He was a handsome specimen, and dead game.

But it wasn't altogether his fault, and it certainly wasn't my fault that he got nowhere. He had a manager who chucked him in against all the tough guys on the Pacific coast before he was fully matured, and he wound up with his good looking features battered out of shape, and his brain a bit addled. 'Twas his bad break to draw such a manager.

"You Never Can Tell"

And yet other young fighters seem to survive mismanagement and come on, and up, while many carefully nurtured lads wind up back of the well known eight ball. The critics say of some young gladiators, "They picked 'em too soft for him," and of others, "They picked 'em too tough."

Well, I suppose fate has a lot to do with pugilistic success, or failure, as anything else, and yet Mr. James J. Tunney, formerly Gene, under-developed, soft handed, uninteresting and unpopular, defied what seemed to be his fate and became champion of the world.

There are a half a dozen young heavyweight gladiators around the country right now, all in their early twenties, all unusually gifted by nature, and all about equal in the matter of opportunity and development. It is interesting to watch them, to see how each comes on, and to speculate on their future possibilities.

I am indebted to Ed Prell, night sports editor of the Omaha Bee-News, for some interesting data on one of these youngsters—Babe Hunt, of Oklahoma, whose name has frequently been mentioned in this column. Prell formerly worked in Ponca City, Okla., the home of Hunt, and is well acquainted with the young man.

Interested in Hunt

I have been particularly interested in Hunt because of his steady adance. He is managed by Denny McGirl, brother of Art McGirl, a pretty good fighter of years ago, once handled by the ubiquitious Doctor Jack Kearns, and later by Eddie Mack, the Boston matchmaker. Denny McGirl seems to have been moving his man up notch by notch in the matter of opponents, until he finlly hooked him up with the young king of the cane brakes, Willie Stribling.

Stribling beat Hunt by decision in their first fight, and lost to Hunt on a foul in their second meeting. Now a youngster who is able to compete with the king of cane brakes on fairly even terms must have plenty of promise. I'm not saying Hunt is a coming champion, but at least on his record to date he has as good a chance as anyone else.

He is strictly a non-leading fighter, and I don't care for that type. Still, that's a mechanical faul that can easily be overcome. Cord doesn't disclose many knockouts. His name is Alvin Hunt, and he is just 22 years old. He is six feet four inches tall, and of the long, lean, rangy type of human architecture.

Prell says Hunt was married just a few months ago and makes his home with his wife, and mother, who is a widow, and his brothers and sisters in Ponca City.

Native of Texas

He was born in Texas, and his father went to Oklahoma during the oil boom and died there. The family originally lived near Comar, Okla., an oil-boom town. When Babe's father died, the youngster was forced to make a living for the family and he worked as a roustabout in the oil fields. Comar is about 10 miles from Ponca City, which is 110 miles north of Oklahoma City, and the same distance north and west of Tulsa.

At Comar, Prell relates, there was an athletic club where the oil field workers congregated after working hours to box and indulge in other sports, and Babe used to hang out there. He was persuaded to box by some of his friends, and had his first fight in Ponca City in the summer of 1927.

Since then Hunt has done most of his boxing around Tulsa, Oklahoma City, and Wichita, where he is a big drawing card. Some of the fistic wayfarers who have gone into Oklahoma to fight him report that it is very difficult to get a square rattle against the home boy, but I am inclined to dismiss this indictment without much consideration. You always hear the same thing from guys who go into another fellow's territory and get licked.

Babe Is Improving

From some of his fights, Hunt couldn't be rated very high just yet, but the point is he seems to be constantly improving. Prell saw him fight Stribling in Wichita some weeks ago, and says that while Stribling won decisively he was much more marked up than Hunt.

Stribling knocked him down in the fifth round near the middle of the ring. It was the first time Hunt was ever on the floor. He hunched himself over to the ropes, took a nine count and got up unhurt.

Breaking Through to Match Play

En route to Pebble Beach and thinking of this and that in connection with the amateur golf championship which starts next Monday, the first note to consider is the number of harassing moments most of the field must know when they begin to wonder about qualifying.

Pebble Beach is a long, long way off for a large number of contending golfers—a long, long way to travel for the trick of missing a short putt and passing out of the tournament almost before it has started.

As only 32 of the 160 players can survive about the only two who feel comparatively safe are Bobby Jones and George Von Elm. One hundred and twenty-eight must fail and this list will include a flock of fine golfers who are quite capable of doing much better. Jones and Von Elm are the two best medal players in the crowd; a statement you can prove from several open championships. Sweetser and Tolley, two fine match players, have not been as consistent at the medal play stuff. There are something like 50 west coast players on hand who know Pebble Beach, and at least 10 or 15 of these will make the grade. Which doesn't leave so many open spots for the rest of the round-up.

Pebble Beach is full of trouble and it doesn't take many mistakes in a qualifying round to drop even a star player from the list. Especially if he happens to run into more than his share of groggy luck, which is a factor not to be overlooked. If Monday and Tuesday are windy days the scramble will be terrific.

It will be terrific anyway, since every member in the list figures to play well enough to qualify, if he is on his game, yet there is room enough for only 20 per cent. You can sense in advance the strain that must follow this situation and the number of nightmares that will assail those who have traveled from 3,000 to 7,000 miles for their shot at glory and their chance to meet where it's man to man.

Qualifying Upsets

These qualifying tests have always been full of sudden shocks. In 1909 Bob Gardner won the amateur championship and in 1910 he failed to qualify at Brookline.

Jerry Travers won the title in 1912 and in 1913, at Garden City, over one of his favorite courses, he took a 7 on the last hole, a par 3 and finished in a tie for last place with a dozen others. Jess Sweetser won the championship in 1922, went to the final round in 1923 and failed to qualify at Merion in 1924.

Cyril Tolley came over as British champion in 1921 and failed to qualify at the Engineers. So did Wethered and several other British stars.

Francis Ouimet, Chick Evans, Bob Gardner, Max Marston and several other stars all failed to qualify at Oakmont in 1925.

They all know it can happen. It has happened to almost every star except Jones and Von Elm, who are the two best medal play scorers in amateur golf. For that matter they haven't done so badly in open championships against the picked professionals of the world. These two won't have so much to worry about. But the others will. George Voight failed to qualify at Minikahda in 1927 and then won the qualifying medal at Braeburn a year later. That is golf and one of the mystic ways of golf. The ancient game has a way of lifting a lead pipe and suddenly cracking a star or duffer over the head at the most unexpected moment.

One or two shots out of bounds or in the water, a bad lie in a bunker, a loss of putting touch, and almost any one entered may be hooked before he knows just what had happened. When the picked stars of the game are in the jousting field and you can only be one out of five to survive, you are going to spend considerable thought and meditation on the subject.

The strain of a qualifying round is the heaviest in sport. This may sound ridiculous, but it is true. For the strain in golf is all a matter of nerves and the mental side, where is little physical action to relieve the tension.

The Heaviest Strain

The strain of a football game is largely over after the first play. From that point the physical action is fast enough to eliminate most of the nerve jumping. The same is true of tennis.

But in golf the pressure on the nervous system is heavy and constant. There is no resting spot. The tension gathers force and tension is always beyond any human control. No one knows at what moment it will eat its way into the heart, even for the gamest of all competitors in golf. It can be suppressed in other sports by violent physical action. But the harder one tries in golf, the surer one is to encounter the storms. Golf demands repression of conscious effort, and when one is up against it the first natural thought is even greater effort.

The normal trend of human nature is to try harder when you are behind. In golf, the only safe way out is to relax and make the point of an easier, smoother swing.

There will be a lot of suffering at Pebble Beach Monday night when those on the ragged edge remember the missed putts that might have given them a better chance. And by Tuesday night just 80 per cent of the traveling flock will be spectators for the rest of the week.

French, Brown and Wilson Star In Wellington's 5 to 4 Victory

Special to The Record News.

CORDELL, Okla., Aug. 26.—Paced by the great pitching of French, Wellington today won the fifth game in the Texas-Oklahoma playoff, reviving hopes of the Texans' that they will win the series.

French allowed only seven hits, while his teammates were batting Hell for 12 blows, and Wellington won by a score of 5 to 4.

The victory was Wellington's second in the series, while Cordell has won three games.

Brown and Wilson were other important factors in Wellington's play. Brown was the leading hitter with three blows in four times at bat and Wilson made a sensational catch that averted a hit and possibly a run.

Trailing 3 to 1 in the seventh inning, Wellington scored three runs in that round and added another in the eighth. Cordell rallied in the ninth but after tallying one marker was stopped.

The sixth game will be played here Tuesday. If a seventh game is necessitated, the site will be determined Tuesday night.

Texans Win In National Tennis

Bell and White Spring Upset in Doubles Play

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 26. (AP)—Seeded American and foreign doubles teams striving for titular honors in the 48th national doubles championship tennis tournament today overcame strong opposition in the opening play here with but one exception.

The only dent in the preferred list came when Guy Cooper and Paul Diricou, the Anglo-American combination on the Oxford tennis team, bowed to Berkeley Bell and Lewis N. White, Texans, in straight sets, 7-5, 9-7, 6-1.

Johnny Van Ryn of Orange, N. J., and Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, winners of the Wimbledon and later the Davis cup doubles in the play with France, drew E. W. Feibleman of New York, and J. Brooks Fenno Jr., of Boston, the 1921 intercollegiate champions, in their first round match. They held them well subdued and won by scores of 6-3, 6-0, 4-6, 6-1.

G. M. Lott Jr., Chicago, and J. M. Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated Bruce Barnes, Austin, Texas, and Philip Neer, Portland, Ore., 6-2, 6-1, 6-4.

Town Named After Chisox Owner to Be Abandoned

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 26. (UP)—Comiskey, Kan., named by a follower of baseball after the "old Roman" of the diamond, has been swept off the map by a railroad expansion program.

Comiskey never became much of a town but it was entered on railroad maps. A baseball fan who was building Missouri Pacific tracks through Kansas in the '80s, named a whistling post after Charley Comiskey, present owner of the Chicago White Sox. A small settlement sprang up nearby.

Daily Dope

By LARRY DAILEY

NEXT WEEK is to be chock-full of important sporting events, locally and nationally, and followers of athletic pastimes will have their interest centered on several events of great import. From the Wichita Falls viewpoint the outstanding affairs will be the second annual golf tournament of the golf and country club, and the play of the embattled Spudders.

Golfers from 70 clubs in Texas and Oklahoma will engage in the tournament here, and with leading southwestern experts of the ancient and royal game competing it will be eyed by all enthusiasts of the sport. The tournament starts Monday with qualifying play and is to end Thursday.

The Spudders will continue to fight on alien fields, returning home Thursday, where they of course will be tendered a royal and inspiring welcome to make the battle for the pennant in the last 11 days of the season.

GOLF and baseball also will vie in the national limelight, with the major league clubs entering the final month of play on the diamond and the National amateur links championship to be defended by Robert Tyre Jones in California.

Double-headers are scheduled in all leagues Monday.

Another baseball event that will attract great interest in Wichita Falls and Texas will be the three-game series between the local and Fort Worth champions in the State Amateur Athletic Federation tournament. The Producers creamery of Wichita Falls and the Kelsay Lumber company of Fort Worth will be the contending teams and they are to play Sunday and Monday at Athletic park, with a double-header to be played Monday if three games are necessitated.

Football will start its bid for a place on the sports pages, here at least, with the starting Monday of his training camp by Coach Barry Holton of the high school. Holton is to put his charges through a strenuous siege of preliminary training, with the lads to be quartered at the Junior college under his watchful eye, and football enthusiasts, greatly optimistic and interested over the outlook with the advent of the new mentor, will follow the development of the embryo Coyotes with close attention.

IT HAS been no fault of the pitchers in recent days that the Spudders are not now enjoying a comfortable lead in the race. On the contrary, and with the achievement of superb form by a flock of chuckers, has come a batting slump that finally resulted in Skipper Jim Galloway shaking up the hitting order.

In addition to Payne, who for a time was the only consistent hurler, Steengrafe, Wiltse and Messenger have achieved the effectiveness to be expected of them, and Lester White, brought in from the ranch at Abilene, has developed into a winning and highly valuable pitcher, either in a relief role or in starting a pastime.

It isn't conceivable that the Spudders will be submerged much longer in a batting slump, they are apt to start a terrific clouting pace at any time, and with Red Bennett back in the lineup they are still very much contenders in the chase for the old gonfalon.

HERE'S ANOTHER WANER

KEOKUK, Iowa, Aug. 26. (AP)—Travea Waner, cousin of the famous Pittsburgh baseball players, has been sold by Keokuk to Des Moines of the Western league, Dr. C. R. Logan, president of the local fans association said today.

NEW PLAYER 10-YEAR STAR

Joins Wichita Falls Team Today at San Antonio

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Johnny Tobin, former outfielder for the St. Louis Browns and Boston Red Sox, is a Spudder. The acquisition of the gardener who for more than 10 years dazzled major league fans with his brilliant outfielding and base-running was announced last night by President J. Alvin Gardner of the Wichita Falls club.

Tobin accepted terms late yesterday at his home at St. Louis and left at once for San Antonio, where he will join the Spudders.

Great Leadoff Man

The new Spudder was one of the greatest leadoff men in the history of baseball. Possessed of great speed and an uncanny batting eye, he was one of the hardest batters to pitch to. A consistent .300 hitter, Tobin for several years rated as one of the foremost outfielders in the major leagues.

He went South with the Red Sox for spring training this year but with the Boston club building a new team was given his unconditional release. A 10-year man, Tobin could not be sent to a minor league club. For the past two or three months Johnny has been playing semi-pro ball and working out with the St. Louis major league clubs.

Help to Galloway

Gardner believes Tobin will supply a lot of speed and dash and that he will be valuable as an aid to Jim Galloway as a coach.

Three players from Abilene joined the Spudders at Beaumont yesterday. They are Catcher Art Bradbury, and Outfielders Red Anderson and Clyde Pratt. Bradbury and Anderson were here in spring training this year.

GOLF'S AMATEUR Challengers

By BRIAN BELL

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (AP)—Jack Neville, California amateur golf champion for the fifth time, will not have to learn the tricks of the Pebble Beach course in preparation for the amateur championship.

He is connected with the Del Monte Properties company and has spent many hours on the remodeled course.

Neville won the last unofficial state championship at Del Monte in 1909 and in 1910 won the first official title. He repeated in 1911 and won again in 1919 and 1922.

Neville, who is 38, has regained his excellent game after a siege of sickness in 1927 and 1928. He hits a long ball from the tee and believes in giving the ball a chance by playing his irons boldly for the pin. His only serious worry has been an inclination to hook. Pebble Beach does not encourage hooking.

MIDWICK FOUR WINS

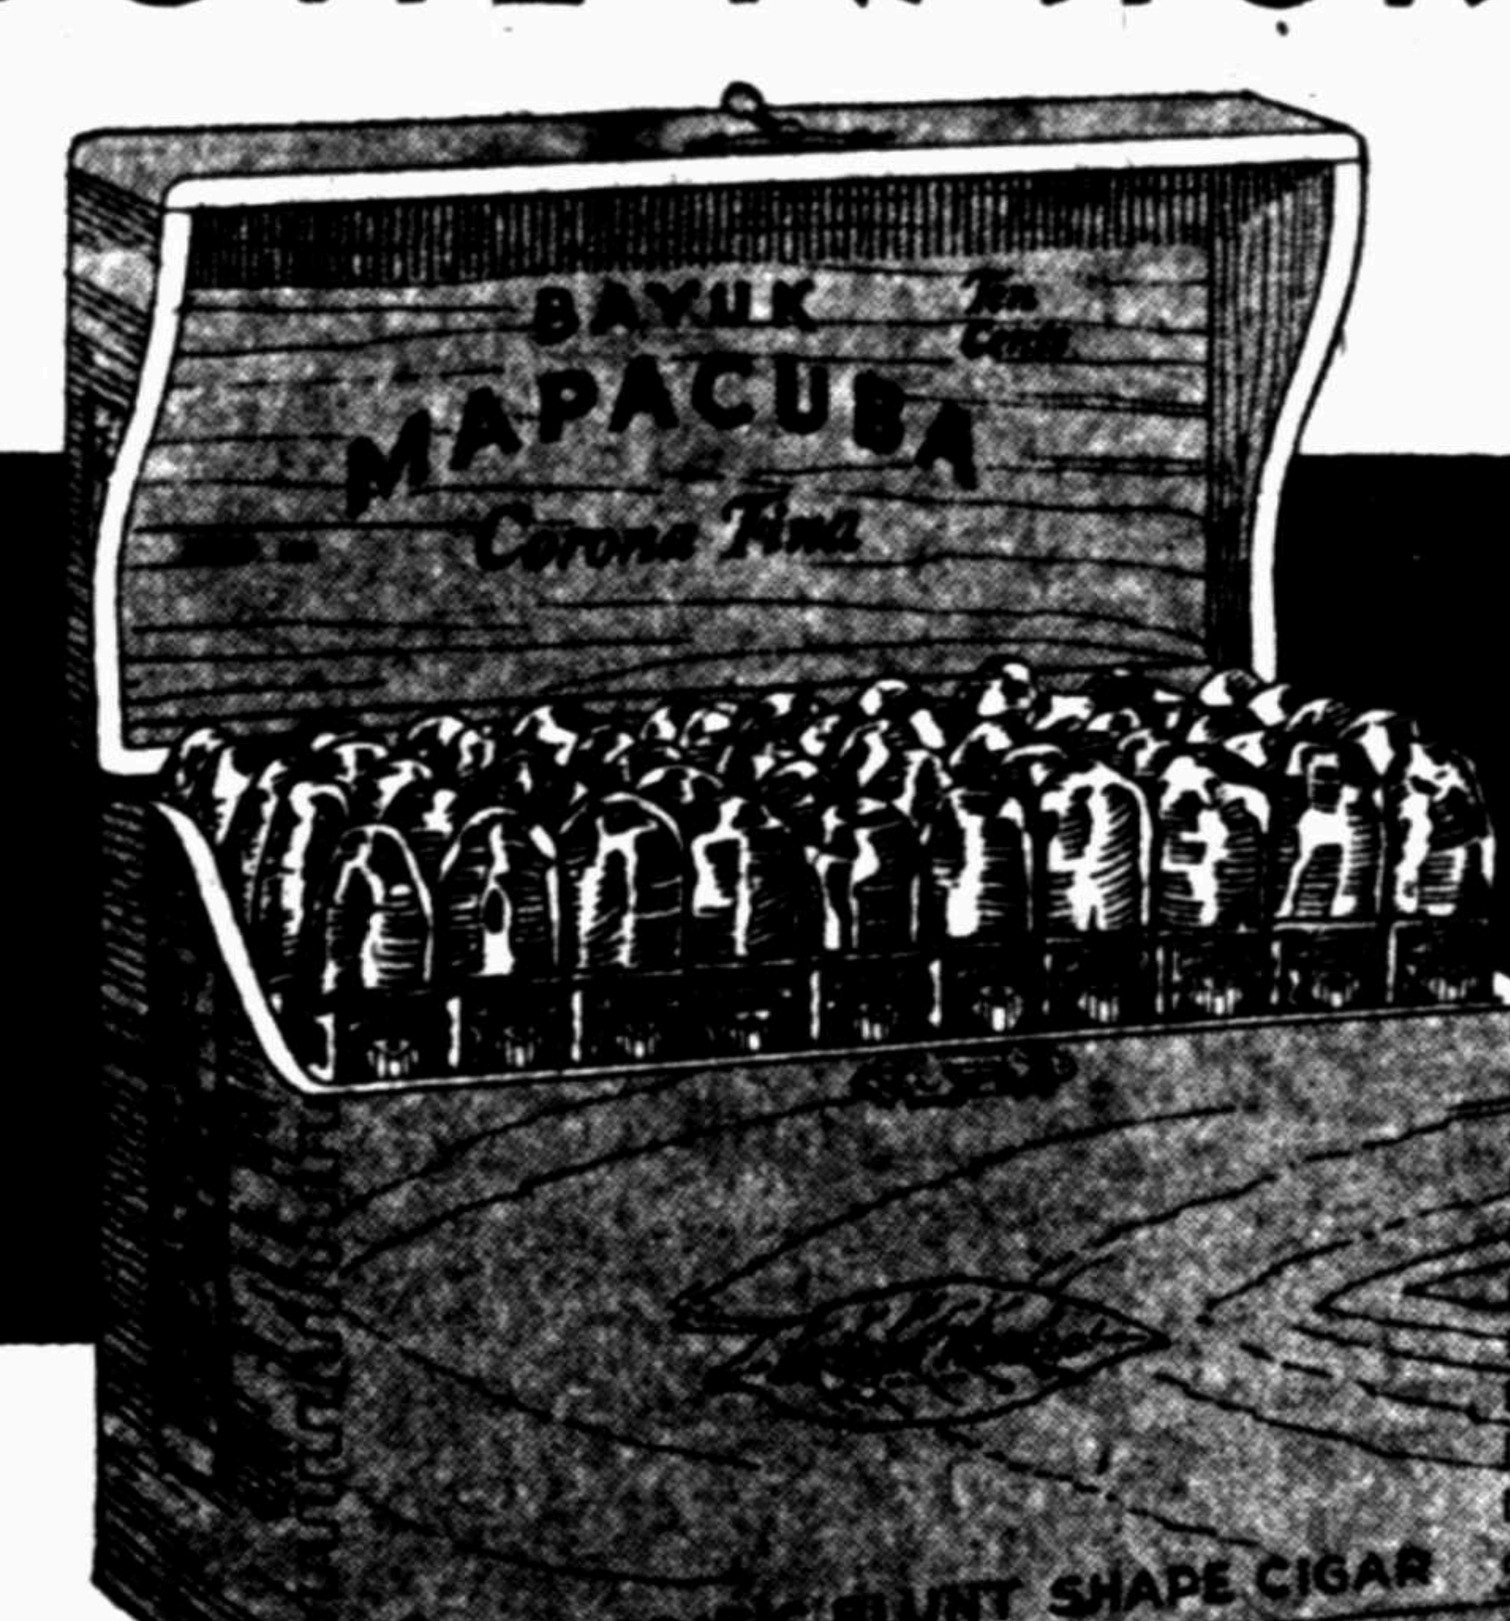

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (AP)—The Midwick club of Pasadena, Calif., today won its second national polo title within two weeks, defeating Fort Leavenworth, Kan., 11 to 7 in the finals of the U. S. polo association 12-goal championship. The Midwicks last week won the intercircuit championship.

Factory Canned Foods

Next to canned milk, the various forms of canned tomatoes are next in importance. The main reasons tomatoes are canned in such large numbers is that they grow abundantly, they are easy to pack, and easy to sterilize on account of their acid content. They also may be used to prepare a great many dishes, such as soups and stews, served plain, or as a sauce, used in salads and for catsups. They are the cheapest vegetables in cans, and have been found to have a great deal af value because of their vitamin content.

Tomatoes sometimes have a bad reputation with dyspeptics because of the fact that they are used in wrong combinations with other foods, principally with starches. Because of their large amount of acid, they do not combine well at any time with starchy foods, but may be used freely with protein meals or taken by themselves as any other acid fruit, for they are really an acid fruit growing on a vine or small bush.

Next to tomatoes, more peas are canned than any other vegetable or fruit. The peas are shelled in a modern cannery without having the pods picked from the vine. The vines are pulled and the whole thing taken to the canneries where machines shell them. They are then cold packed, that is, put into the can raw and then cooked. The vines are picked early in the morning, rushed to the factory, and are in the cans in a few minutes.

The great advantage that a factory has over the home cannery is having the machinery which does away with the laborious shelling and picking of the pods which has to be done on the farm by hand.

Helen of Troy probably enjoyed eating peas as we find dried peas in some of the ruins of Troy. They have also been recently found in Egyptian tombs.

Corn is the next most popular vegetable. It is put up in three styles. The "Maine" style means that the tops of the kernels are cut off with a knife, then the cop is scraped to get the pulp off afterwards. The result is a creamy mixture. The "Maryland" style means that the whole kernel is cut close to the cob. Corn is also packed with several whole ears being put into the can and the whole ears of corn cooked.

Two modern developments of the canning industry are vegetable and fruits salads consisting of mixture all ready to serve as combination salads.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Psoriasis

Question—H. G. H. writes: "I have had psoriasis on the left leg for 10 years, perhaps 12 spots. At odd times I have spots on my face. A specialist told me just to let it go—that there was no cure for it. Would be glad to have your advice."

Answer—Every case of psoriasis can be cured through dieting, but seldom through the application of remedies to the skin. Send for my special article on the subject of "Psoriasis."

Cholecystitis and Appendicitis

Questn—H. G. asks: "Can cholecystitis and chronic appendicitis be cured without an operation? Have been ailing for three years."

Answer—Most cases of cholecystitis and appendicitis can be cured without an operation. The first thing for you to do is to improve the functioning of your intestines. The Colitis which precedes appendicitis must be eliminated. When this has been accomplished, any inflammation which may exist in the gall bladder or liver usually disappears, a sthese biliary organs become irriated mostly because of insorbed, from conditions of colitis testinal poisons, which are reabsand intestinal inflammation.

The Fruit Diet

Question—Mrs. D. W. asks: "Of what fruits does the fruit diet consist, and haw taken? Am troubled with sour stomach after eating. Would this diet relieve it?"

Answer—An exclusive fruit diet would be helpful in overcoming your sour stomach. Only one kind of fruit should be taken on any one day, but you may use as much as you desire. I have found the following fruits to be most useful for this purpose: Apples, apricots, peaches, pears, grapes, oranges, grapefruit, plums, berries, tomatoes, pineapple and melons.

Birthmark

Question—H. F. Writes: "My girl 12 years old has a birthmark on the forehead, right over the eye, and it is beginnig to come down in the corner of the eye. The doctors call it a cyst, something like a blood tumor. Is there anything that can be done to remove it without an operation?"

Answer—Birthmarks can usually be removed by the proper electrical treatment. I advise you to take your girl to a skin specialist who understands the treatment which will be necessary.

Bird Collection to Be Shown at Troup Fair

TROUP, Texas, Aug. 26. (AP)—What is claimed to be one of the largest bird habitat groups in the South will be shown to visitors at the Troup fair Sept. 4-6. The collection of mounted birds was presented to the Troup public schools by Steve A. Krom, Troup taxidermist.

For 40 years Krom has been collecting birds from all over the nation. After coming to Troup four years ago he transferred his activities to East Texas. With the help of local hunters, bird lovers and a "bird gang" of Boy Scouts, he added a number of East Texas specimens to his collection.

While the crowds waited the arrivals of the various racers they were kept thrilled by stunts and maneuvers of other pilots. The piercing whine of diving planes, the deafening roar of squadrons in battle trials made the airport a din throughout the day.

There was some anxiety felt when Ruth Elder failed to finish the women's air derby on scheduled time. She finally landed several hours late, reporting she had lost her way and gone to Akron, where she obtained fuel and her bearings.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (AP)—Nervousness over weather conditions in the Southwest and uncertainty as to the showing of the approaching end-month reports was reflected by a comparatively quiet and irregular cotton market today. After selling up to 18.90 at the start, December contracts reacted to 18.73 but recovered partly and closed at 18.76. The general market closed steady at a net decline of 2 to 8 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 12 points in response to steady Liverpool cables and reports of continued dry weather in the Southwest. October sold up to 18.61 and March to 19.17 on the initial demand, but these prices attracted considerable realizing. Prices fell off to about 18.42 for October and 19.02 for March contracts during the middle of the morning, or about 5 to 9 points below Saturday's closing quotations.

Closing quotations were within 2 or 3 points of the lowest.

Cable advices reported that hedging and liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and covering in the Liverpool market.

Port receipts today 27,404. U. S. port stocks 575,528. Exports 5,861, making 169,618 so far this season.

Railroads Take Over Leadership On New York Stock Exchange

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (US)—Railroads took over leadership of the market as industrials succumbed to profit taking this afternoon. Reaction in the industrials was regarded as entirely technical and speculative sentiment was not disturbed. Central finished 3¾ higher, Chicago & Northwestern 5¼, Pennsylvania 2 and St. Paul gained a point. Steel closed 3¾ lower after climbing up close to its high value while the late realizing caused 4½ net loss in Can, 6 point drop in Westinghouse, and Johns Manville declined 4 points. A few utilities and specialties finished higher. American Telephone was one of the early features and closed 3 points higher. Allied Chemical gained 5½ and Brooklyn Union Gas 8 points. Cannon Mills gailed over 4 points on light turnover coincident with report of record breaking income. Coppers were quiet and steady while the oils slipped a little. Call money held at 7 per cent throughout. Turnover remained below the 5,000,000 share level.

There is worry that money rates will go higher over the month end. It is confined to speculative circles, however, as bankers look for no material change in conditions until toward the middle of next month unless a big increase in speculative activity forces renewed disciplinary action. Dividends and interest payments as of Sept. 1 are not particularly large. Toward the middle of September, however, the banks have to prepare for income tax payments and also to take care of the new treasury financing planned for that date. After that there will be the third quarterly commercial disbursements to be handled so that a disturbed money market appears likely for the last half of next month. Washington advices indicated that the administration and the federal reserve governors were "satisfied" with money conditions at the moment.

Strength in Allied Chemical not alone reflects the continued gain in earnings of the benefit likely to accrue to stockholders from the advance in steel common. Allied is one of the largest holders of steel common. After the steel corporation completes its reorganization and recapitalization plans it would be no surprise if special distribution was made by Allied Chemical. Buying of St. Joe lead was influenced by brokerage advice telling of the prospect for further increase in the price of the metal. Every cent advance in the price of lead, it was maintained, meant earnings equal to $2.50 a share on St. Joe stock. New pool work was started in industrial alcohol with several brokers sending out advices that earnings were running at a rate to indicate more than $12 a share this year.

American Telephone, new high above 300, was due mostly to buying for the long pull prospects, for eventual splitup seems certain. American International continues the subject of most favorable reports as practically all the stocks it now holds have been among the bull leaders of recent months. U. S. Freight continued to be taken because of the probable increase in earnings due to its control of the short haul freight traffic of leading railroads. Those interested in general foods are preparing a comprehensive survey of the property and its outlook. Both Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward are expected to issue report of record sales for the current month. Forthcoming report of Savage Arms is expected to show 100 per cent gain in earnings as compared with last year.

Interest in the rails was enhanced by publication of favorable earnings reports and special brokerage advice to shift from the industrials that were threatened with technical reaction. Hudson and Manhattan's strength was enhanced by report that a good deal of buying recently was for the same bankers who have shown increasing interest in Lackawanna. The First National people, it was stated, were keeping close watch on all buying. New Haven directors are expected to increase the dividend at today's meeting. Pennsylvania will do likewise before long. St. Paul's report for this month will show even larger gain in earnings that has been estimated.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Aug. 26. (AP)—Wheat prices rallied in a narrow range today, their tone depressed by liquidation in September and the absence of export demand. Trading was dull.

Corn sold down actively because of beneficial rains in the firing corn fields of the Northwest. Closing quotations were 1⅛ to 1⅝c lower than Saturday.

Wheat finished ⅞ to 1⅝c down. Oats ¼ to ⅜c lower, and provisions were weak, lard selling off 12 to 20c. Ribs and bellies finished unchanged to 7c down.

The bottom level of the day was about three cents a bushel under Saturday's final figures.

The visible supply of wheat increased 7,459,000 bushels to a total of 176,827,000, somewhat less of an advance than many traders had looked for. The increase last week had been 13,355,000 bushels. Corn supply diminished 1,306,000 bushels to 5,799,000.

Provisions were under strong pressure, lard particularly falling off rather sharply.

PROTECTION OF POULTRY URGED

Flocks Need Attention, Says Amour Manager

Suggestions for protecting and conserving flocks of chickens and turkeys in this vicinity during the coming few weeks were offered by Victor Pringle, manager of the local Armour Creameries' plant, Monday afternoon.

Following the prediction of an unusually large crop of turkeys in this section about a year ago, Mr. Pringle said, a reduction of approximately 25 per cent was experienced before the turkey market opened. Spread of worms and other poultry ailments which with proper precautions could have been almost entirely prevented, it was said, occasioned the loss of growing birds. From now until the first of October, Mr. Pringle said, is the time in which the crop will be retained or materially reduced, and he urged that growers treat their flocks against such infections without delay.

Numerous reports have been received recently also of heavy depredations by coyotes in this community, many flocks which were inadequately protected having been almost wiped out.

With egg production rapidly falling off, Mr. Pringle suggested that before cotton picking commands the entire time and man power of the agricultural sections, nonproductive hens should be culled out in order to save expensive feeding of such stock during the winter.

NO SCANDAL THERE

Pajamas Worn All Time In Texarkana, And There's No Riot

TEXARKANA, Texas, Aug. 26. (AP)—Pajamas for street wear may create a riot in some towns, but in Texarkana they would be just some more pedestrians. On certain streets there are those who have strolled year in and year out, bedecked in nothing more than the modern substitute for the nightgown.

From one end of the street to the other they strut their stuff, creating no more sensation than a man in overalls. They are convalescents of a railroad hospital and they believe in fresh air.

CONSERVATION 'NOT NEEDED'

More Oil Required on Market, Emerson Says

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 26. (UP)—Oil conservation is not needed in the western states, Gov. Frank C. Emerson of Wyoming today told members of the governor's conference, meeting here to consider problems facing the 11 western states.

"Oil is produced in Wyoming as well as in many other states represented here, in an efficient manner," Emerson said. "It is not wasted and additional oil is needed for the market."

Emerson said the people of the United States have a common misunderstanding relative to oil conservation and that untrue reports of great waste have been heard.

INFINITE FIGURES

NEW YORK—Although it is popularly recognized that the universe is infinite, Dr. Ludwig Silberstein recently told the American physical society that he had measured it. His calculations, based on Einstein's theories of velocity to the motion of distant stars, gave as a result a radius of 32,500,000,000,000,000,000,000 miles or more than 35 million times the radius of the earth.

On Jan. 1, 1923, there were 78,000 paupers in the almshouses of the United States.

AKRON, Ohio, Aug. 26. (UP)—Samson, the 32-foot python whose [illegible] evoked general discussion and speculation concerning his gastronomical abilities several weeks ago when it was discovered he had swallowed an army blanket and was having some difficulty in digesting it, apparently was only fooling the public.

He was having no trouble at all with his digestive apparatus. He would have felt the same way had he swallowed an unusually dry young porker instead of the succulent 50-pound pigs he had become accustomed to, according to O. N. Potter, advertising broker and snake expert.

Today no one knows where Samson is. He and his owner left Canton a few days ago with the blanket still reposing snugly in the snake's tummy, and left no forwarding address. But Potter is quite sure Samson will suffer no ill effects.

"That snake," Potter said, "will digest that blanket as if it were a handful of sweet crackers."

"A snake," he went on, "can digest anything. Anything, that is, excepting feathers. There's a curious thing about a snake—an acid in its system will dissolve metal and bone but it can't digest a handful of feathers."

Brigham Young, the famous Mormon leader, had 56 children.

There Is No Summer Slump

The Realty Market is always active during the summer months WHILE there is always great activity in building and allied lines.

Summer time is home building time. The month of August claims more new built homes than any other month of the year. There is a demand for lots to build on. This means business for the owner of lots and acreage. Someone must be employed to build a new home—so the contractor is called upon. Complete homes must be furnished, which stimulates business for the furniture dealers, interior decorators and the neighborhood grocery stores. Plumbing and heating must be installed before the new home can be completed. The painter must be called upon—so naturally business in these lines at such a reasonable time is very good. To be certain, there IS NO SUMMER SLUMP in the real estate, building and allied lines during the most enjoyable days of the year.

Consider this, Mr. Reader and Business Man—General Satisfaction and his Classified army actually sell real estate, locate the contractor, painter, the plumber and even the major part of the furnishing. Business organizations who continually employ and use Daily Times-Record News Classified Advertising Columns are the one who reap the biggest summer time profits. It pays to advertise in the Classified Advertising Columns of this newspaper—ask any advertiser.

HUGH BUTLER HELD AT HILLSBORO AFTER ARREST AT SHAMROCK

FORMER STORE HEAD JAILED

Wichitan Faces Charges In State Courts

David Hugh Butler, under indictment here for the robbery of the Silver's store last June, charged with murder in Hill county, and with burglary and jail breaking in Dallas county, has been re-arrested and is being held in the Hill county jail, according to information received by Sheriff W. G. Lralley Monday. Butler was arrested in Shamrock, Texas, by Hill county officers upon information furnished by the sheriff's department here, Mr. Bralley said.

Butler and Hub Stanley were indicted by the July grand jury here on both robbery and burglary charges in connection with the loss of $700 from the safe at the Silver's store early last June. Butler was former acting assistant manager of the store. He made bond here and was later re-arrested in Dallas on burglary charges. Two months ago he escaped from the Dallas county jail, remaining at large until Thursday of last week. Hill county authorities reported that he was working as "Jack Coy" in a five and ten cent store at Shamrock at the time of his re-arrest.

The murder charge pending against Butler grew out of the shooting of two men in Groesbeck several years ago, officers here have been informed. Butler was first sentenced to 99 years imprisonment and then acquitted of the murder charge in connection with one of the cases, and the second is to be called soon, authorities at Hillsboro say.

Trial of the cases against Stanley and Butler here is set for Sept. 9, in the 30th district court, but Mr. Bralley expressed the opinion Monday that the prisoner will be held in Hill county until the murder count is disposed of.

Electra Child Hurt When Hit by Auto

Special to The Record News

ELECTRA, Texas, Aug. 26.—Velma Lou Calander, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Calander, 709 Wilbarger street, suffered painful injuries when she was struck down by an automobile as she ran across the street about 7 o'clock Monday afternoon. Mr. Calander, carrying a younger child in his arms made a futile effort to grasp the little girl when he saw her danger. She ran in front of him in spite of his efforts to stop her, was struck in the shoulder, and dragged several feet.

The child was rushed to a local hospital where physicians thought her injuries would not prove serious. Mr. Calander completely exonerated the driver of the car in his account to investigators.

Judge Halts State Insurance Ruling

AUSTIN, Aug. 26. (AP)—Three Dallas insurance companies, the Gulf, Commercial-Standard and Utility, today won a legal victory when District Judge J. D. Moore issued an injunction restraining the state board of insurance commissioners from interfering with agent contracts.

The controversy will be settled in October when a court trial will determine the validity of an order issued by the insurance board, setting a 20 per cent flat rate on fire insurance commissions and a 25 per cent rate on automobile commissions.

Judge Moore told litigants that if the order is upheld, the three Dallas companies would be subjected to penalties and forfeitures for its violation while the inpunction remains in effect.

Ocie Nix Sentenced To 99-Year Term

TEXARKANA, Texas, Aug 26. (AP)—Ocie Nix, 22, convicted at New Boston in July for poisoning his 17-year-old wife, Vinitia, was sentenced to 99 years' imprisonment here today. He displayed little emotion.

Nix was found guilty after one of the swiftest murder trials in the history of Bowie county. His wife died June 18 after taking a capsule given her by the husband. He was convicted July 1.

Wichita Ranch Owner's Wife Makes Statement

"I Suffered From Acute Indigestion but Since Taking Orgatone I Am Entirely Relieved," She Says

"It's the truth, before I had taken one bottle of Orgatone, I began to notice a big change in my condition, and was feeling much better," said Mrs. W. M. Coleman, of 3009 Tenth street, Wichita Falls, Texas, wife of a well-known ranch owner.

"I have suffered from acute indigestion for about five years, and just couldn't get hold of a medicine that would relieve this trouble. I had gas that formed on my stomach after every meal, and I was very bilious and had severe nervous spells, and at times couldn't rest well at nights. I got so I just didn't feel like eating anything for I knew that I would suffer afterwards, and had to be very careful of what I did manage to force down.

"Orgatone was advertised so highly and so I decided to give it a trial. I haven't had a spell of indigestion since I began taking it. I eat anything now I want, and am not bothered in the least. I'm not bilious or do not have the gaseous condition, and am feeling better in every way. Orgatone has certainly done me a world of good and I am glad to give this statement."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile preparation and is sold in Wichita Falls, exclusively by Allison's Drug Store, under the personal direction of a special Orgatone representative.—Adv.

MAJESTIC: "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu." Warner Oland in another conspicuous characterization. Edward Everett Horton in "Ask Dad." Screen song. Movietone news.

STRAND: Billie Dove and Rod LaRocque in an Elinor Glynn spree in "Man and the Moment." Vitaphone vaudeville. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: "The Girl in the Glass Cage." A movie about a movie ticket seller. Comedy. Pathe news.

GEM: Tim McCoy in "Morgan's Last Raid." Western picture. Comedy.

Frequent comments and inquiries recently have indicated a more than average local interest in the coming of New York's four Marx brothers in "The Cocoanuts," which opens Friday at the Majestic. F. C. McClung, director of the Wichita Falls Little theater and with years of experience in vaudeville and legitimate drama, not only saw the talking picture version of "The Cocoanuts" a few days ago, but was closely in touch with the initial comedy performance given by the now famous quartet of brothers. At the request of this department, Mr McClung made the following comment on the week-end attraction:

"Cold, misty rain was falling on the bleak, dimly lighted village of Commerce, Texas, about 15 years ago. Back stage in the only theater the village supported sat four blue, very blue, ham actors, waiting for the usual winter night audience. In a tumbled down hotel across the street lay their mother, seriously ill, nursed by their sister, the sixth member of what was then the Marx vaudeville troupe.

"With the two most important members of the troup missing, the four brothers decided to 'go on with the show.' The curtain rose on the bewildered but determined brothers, who created an entirely new two-hour show to the obvious delight of the audience. Thus the comedy team of the Marx brothers, Zeppo, Groucho, Chico and Harpo, came into being.

"A few nights ago this writer enjoyed witnessing a fitting climax to their long and colorful career in the form of Paramount's all-talking screen presentation of their crowning effort, "The Cocoanuts." Not in the least is this popular Broadway musical comedy dwarfed by its picturization. Rather, one is impressed with the brilliancy with which it has been filmed, with lavish settings, beautiful costumes, and well trained chorus groups.

"Groucho Marx, possibly the most talkative comedian of the stage, furnishes at least a laugh per minute. Harpo, however, is a relief in that he utters not a word, his expressive pantomime and inspiring playing of the harp being sufficient to make him the outstanding member of the cast. Chico and Zeppo add individual roles of comedy which is no less effective than it is unique. Mary Eaton and Oscar are featured in the romantic leads, and are delightful in their interpretation of the Irving Berlin theme song, 'When My Dreams Come True.' One is aware that all the music is too Berlinistic, however.

"As musical comedy goes, The Cocoanuts' ranks foremost in entertainment value, and the sound-photography used to transplant the production to the screen proved more than adequate."

Generally accorded approbation as one of the best picturized mystery plays thus far produced, "Dr. Fu Manchu" at the Majestic is being forced to share honors equally with a short comedy played by Edward Everett Horton on the same program. Warner Oland's portrayal of the many sided Chinese character exceeds Mr. Horton's performance in point of time, but does not excell it in dramatic finesse.

"Ask Dad," as the comedy now showing is styled, follows on the heels of "Trusting Wives," which appeared with the same actor three weeks ago at the Strand, to impress local theater-goers with the quality of entertainment brought by Mr. Horton to the short talking films. Lines which are consistently innocent of raucous or heavy "humor" convey pleasant nuances of meaning through the media of rarely sensitive hands, mobile eyebrows and a taut voice which poignantly suggests the emotional turmoil within.

Mr. Horton's comedies promise to become to the present era what the delightful sketches of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew were more than a decade ago. They will effect a laudable elimination of night-club orchestras with madly gyrating conductors.

FIREMAN'S LIFE

Company Ends Six-Mile Run to Find Blaze Already Out

A six-mile run by the fire department to the home of Sam Williams near the Sand Beach swimming pool on the Iowa Park road about 7:30 o'clock Monday morning resulted in the discovery that a small section of wallpaper had been scorched and burned by flames from a gas stove which were extinguished before the trucks arrived.

City's Investment in Young People Over $100,000, Moreland Tells Club

The prime object of the young people's revival now under way at the old First Methodist church building under Junior chamber of commerce auspices is the protection of a potential investment of $100,000, Rev. Patrick D. Moreland, pastor of the Grant Street Methodist church, told members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon at the Kemp hotel.

Basing the valuation of young people in this city upon Roger Babson's estimate of the average investment in a child's education, the speaker declared that the present meeting is designed to guarantee that such investments be made profitable through the building of dependable character.

A. W. Roper, pianist with the Crimm evangelistic party which is now at Electra, gave a short talk decrying the prevalence of "jazz" and gave a piano solo. A singsong was led by Erwin F. Bohnefalk.

It was said that 15 members of the local club have indicated their intention of attending the district Kiwanis convention at Tulsa next week.

100 SIGN FOR TRADE TOUR

Schedule Changed to Reach Frederick at 1 p. m.

Changes in the schedule for the Junior chamber of commerce goodwill tour for next Wednesday, Aug. 28, made Monday by officials of the organization, call for shorter visits than originally planned in the first five towns to be visited, and for arrival in Frederick, Okla., about 1 p. m.

Following dinner, which will be taken at Frederick, the afternoon and evening will be spent in attendance at the Tillman county fair, Wednesday having been designated Wichita Falls day by the fair management.

Practically all automobile dealers in this city have made preparations to furnish cars and drivers for the trip, A. D. Lightsey, chairman of the trade trip committee said Monday, assuring transportation for all persons who desire to join the delegation. Registrations reported Monday indicated approximately 100 young business men already pledged for the trip. The committee has set 200 as a goal to be reached by time for departure, at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Attired in linen dusters and with colored parasols, the caravan will stage brief parades and band concerts in Burkburnett, Devol, Grandfield, Loveland and Hollister before going to Frederick.

Wholesalers and jobbers of Wichita Falls have been invited to send representatives with samples and literature with the expedition. For the information of those making the trip, Mr. Lightsey said, the only expense to be incurred will be the price of one meal.

Accompanied by a 30-piece band transported in a Wichita Falls Traction company bus, the delegation will leave Lightsey's garage, 704 Scott avenue, at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

JUST THE Baer Facts

By Bugs Baer

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (US)—Golf is an important game—even outdoors.

Like swimming the channel—more people are talking it than doing it.

However, it has taken its place among our national deficits.

The national amateur championships will be held at Del Monte next month. There will be crowds watching the golfers endorsing their favorite cigarets.

It is to these crowds we wish to speak. A golf crowd is known as a gallery. It follows the golfers from tee to tee, paying for the best and hoping for the worst.

Now gallery, you should have rules just the same as members but not quite so expensive.

First of all you should be scenery and not heard.

Don't applaud while a contestant is swinging his club because we assure you that the admiration ain't mutual.

Don't walk on the greens. Run.

Don't run up the fairway. Ride a bicycle.

When an indignant player breaks his club, don't laugh in his face. We have bunkers for the purpose.

Women galleryites wearing high heels will please switch to rubber boots on the greens.

Don't fidget while a player is putting. Even Rockefeller institute concedes that fidgets are contagious.

The clicking of dollar kodaks is a very enjoyable sound to a player about to toss off a two-foot put. If you haven't got a kodak, you can imitate the noise with your teeth.

Don't change your position in back of a player. Be a man and stand in front of him.

Never pick up a ball while it is rolling. Stop it with your foot.

Any player can drive out of a six-foot circle. It requires only two-hundred galleryites to hem in a golfer so that he cannot even scratch his back with a niblick shaped like Harry Lauder's cane.

So try to make your favorite golfer feel at home in a match. Be clubby. Pal around with him on the fairways. Let him know that you are with him body and soul and asthma.

You have paid your five Andy Mellon certificates to see the contest and five dollars ain't hay.

If golfers can check up the number of strokes they smack the pillets then a galleryite is entitled to count the number of strokes he made them miss.

TYSON BURIAL RITES PLANNED

Military Services Wednesday for Tennessee Solon

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 26. (AP)—Arrangements for a military funeral here Wednesday for Sen. L. D. Tyson went forward rapidly today.

A guard of honor of 12 reserve officers will be detailed by Carry F. Spence, a colonel in Senator Tyson's world war brigade. He said he had been notified that at least 10 of 17 senators named by Vice President Curtiss to attend the funeral would arrive tomorrow with the body. The remainder of the senators are expected Wednesday.

Bishop Thomas F. Gallor of the Episcopal diocese of Tennessee and the Rev. Charles T. Whitaker, rector of the St. Johns Episcopal church here, will officiate.

The soldier and statesman will rest beside the body of his son, McGehee Tyson who was killed in England during the war while learning to fly.

Babies Die After Playing 'Doctor'

GROVETON, Texas, Aug. 26. (UP)—Three tiny children of Mrs. Margarite Rogers were buried in a joint funeral here today while two other children continued to fight for their lives.

The five tots, Mrs. Rogers' entire family, were playing "doctor" Sunday in their new home near Centralia.

One of the boys discovered a box of pills. He dissolved them in water and after taking the "medicine," passed it around to his other four "patients."

The medicine was strychnine, left in the house by a former tenant.

The mother, seeing the children with the medicine, tasted it, became alarmed, and called on her neighbors for aid.

Two of the children died within 15 minutes, and a third soon after. They were 4, 5, and 7 years old. The two seriously ill are 4 and 10. The children's father died two years ago.

Youth Pays County Fine For Striking Girl At Dance

A young man who went to the lake to a dance and stayed to quarrel with his girl friend, even to the extent of two brisk slaps on the cheek, Monday afternoon pleaded guilty to simple assault before Judge Irvin J. Vogel in the county court at law. His fine was $1 and costs, making the total about $23, or $11.50 per slap. The youth told Wayne Somerville, county attorney, that he believed moral suasion might prove less expensive in the future.

Balky Propellor Riles Lindbergh

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26. (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh lost his wonted inscrutability today, although it was probably no less than any other flier would have done after 15 tugs at the propeller of his plane in an effort to start a balky motor.

The colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh visited the national air races at Municipal airport on their way out of town after spending the day with Parmley Herrick, son of the late ambassador to France.

Mrs. Lindbergh took the controls as her husband winged the propeller. Fifteen times he spun it and stepped back, but the motor would not start. He perspired freely but said no word. After 12 more tries the motor roared and the colonel grinned. "We" took off for an unannounced destination.

RUSTLERS BUSY SAYS SHERIFF

County Employs Deputy To Chase Cattle Thieves

Employment of an additional deputy sheriff to help check an epidemic of cattle rustling in the ranching section near Iowa Park was authorized by members of the county commissioners' court upon the application of Sheriff W. G. Bralley Monday afternoon. Mr. Bralley announced the deputizing of Grady Wigley at a salary of $40 to be on duty especially on the Tom and Will Burnett, and the Jeff, John, and Merle Waggoner ranches, where cattle thieves have been busy during the past several months. The sheriff explained that protection has hitherto been inadequate in that section of the county and that he has had to try to meet frequent calls for a deputy on duty here.

During the afternoon session of the court the commissioners considered the work of Jess Leverett and C. T. Bradford, county motorcycle officers working under Mr. Bralley in connection with the regular weekly report. It was the general sense of the court that the officers were to work rather to serve the county in expediting traffic and preventing accidents than in collecting fines. The commissioners decided to leave the direction of the officers' work entirely in the hands of Sheriff Bralley.

A new order calling for the employment of an additional clerk to help collect material for delinquent tax suits was passed by the court late in the afternoon. The clerk is to work under Wayne Somerville, county attorney, and is to receive not more than $175 a month to be paid out of the fees of office. The arrangement stands until the first of the year. Mr. Somerville said Monday afternoon that he had not ye tdecided who would be offered the position.

The court sent bids on a new water system for the courthouse to the auditor for tabulation. They will be considered and the contract let at the meeting on Tuesday of next week. No session will be held on Labor Day.

Neighbors Oust Farmer From Well

ALLEGAN, Mich., Aug. 26. (US)—George Peet, 31-year-old farmer, was rescued from his well-prison at 5:45 o'clock this afternoon after having been imprisoned for more than 50 hours.

Three cave-ins blocked the crew of more than 200 men who had worked since early last Saturday afternoon to free him. It was planned today to amputate Peet's foot if other rescue efforts failed but Mrs. Peet objected to this move.

A physician went down into the well and after examining Peet suggested that an anaesthetic be administered and Peet then pulled from the well by main force.

"KID" STUNTS ON VAUDEVILLE

City to Award Ribbons For Unusual Pets

The weekly free vaudeville bill at Bellevue park Wednesday night will be entitled "kid stunt night" and will present a new series of laugh-inducing tricks and stunts in which the boys and girls in the audience will take part, it was announced Monday by C. C. Bunnenberg, city park superintendent.

The kid program was planned in answer to the persistent requests of children who attended a similar bill at the park several weeks ago, Mr. Bunnenberg said. In addition to the regular concert numbers by the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds, and the stunts, a pet show for the children will be staged. Each child is requested to bring his pets, regardless of what the pet might be, and to enter it in the show.

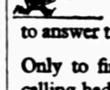

A blue ribbon for first prize and a red ribbon for second prize will be awarded to the best and most unusual pets. Anything from pet mosquitoes to elephants, with dogs and cats in between, will be accepted for the show, Mr. Bunnenberg stated.

A black flat crepe frock of real distinction has a round collar and tab front of unusually lovely old embroidery in an ivory tone. The tight, long sleeves have winged tabs of the same at the cuff.

Forgery Charge Filed Against Wichita Man

Charges of attempting to pass a forged instrument were filed Monday afternoon against J. A. Roberts, 26, arrested Saturday night when he presented an $18 check at the Lotus grocery store on Ohio. A statement from Roberts, in which he said another man wrote the check involved, was taken Monday afternoon by Geo. W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, before the prisoner was lodged in the Wichita county jail.

McBAIN rushed all the way from the garage to answer the telephone—

It's a good idea to wait a minute or so before abandoning a call.

GLASS

POINTS OF EXCELLENCE—
In auto glass for every window in your car—and for the windshield, too—include the following: The glass must be of a quality in keeping with your car; it must be firmly set to resist jarring and jolting, and it must—of course!—be priced moderately.
