AMENDMENTS HOLD LEAD IN EARLY RETURNS

Temperature Registers 106 Degrees Here Tuesday, Breaking Season's Record

PREVIOUS HIGH MARK BROKEN BY ONE DEGREE

Heat Wave Gains in Force, Soaring Above June 22 Peak of 105

PAVING IS SPONGY

Many Find Relief at Bathing Resorts; Water Pressure Low

Driving even the hardened natives and sunburned, bareheaded youths in search of shade, and converting the asphalt paving of the city streets into spongy, deep-tracked surfaces, Tuesday's scorching heat drove the mercury to a record height for 1929, registering 106 degrees about mid-afternoon.

Following several days of low barometer and constantly increasing temperatures which reached a mark of 104 Monday afternoon, the thermometer Tuesday jumped one degree past the season's former high mark of 105 degrees set on June 22. The new record is only two degrees below the highest temperatures recorded during the last several years.

Asphalt Gets Spongy

Slight variations in feminine gaits among pedestrians downtown were observed during the afternoon as ultra-high heels hesitated awkwardly in the yielding asphalt.

While housewives put in emergency calls for additional supplies of ice, children jumped quickly with startled screams from sidewalks and steps on which they unsuspectingly had planted bare feet. So numerous were the demands made upon the city water supply for sprinkling thirsty, parched lawns that at sundown Tuesday the pressure was greatly reduced.

Many Go Swimming

During the afternoon hotel lobbies, shaded and cool, found their lounging accommodations filled to capacity, while crowds of customers hung lingerly about cold drink emporiums. From 5 o'clock until near midnight bathing pools near the city harbored many hundreds of patrons intent upon relief from the day's sultry heat.

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 16. (AP)—Heat set its fangs in Oklahoma today more angrily than ever before this season.

At Oklahoma City the mercury was boosted to 101 degrees. Fairview reported a temperature of 110 and Hollis 106.

CHINESE SAY RAIL ROW CAN END AMICABLY

Conciliatory Note Follows Tension Created By Rail Seizure

TO ANSWER DEMAND

Accused Nation Plans Full Reply to Russian Ultimatum

NANKING, China, July 16. (AP)—The Nationalist government at midnight, just within the three days alloted by Soviet Russia, replied to the latter's demands in the Chinese Eastern railways of Manchuria dispute.

The Chinese made two demands. The first was that the Soviet should release all Chinese imprisoned in Russia, which were estimated in an earlier official statement at 1,000. The second was that the Soviet government should adequately protect Chinese nationals in Russia from aggression and repression.

Moscow was informed that a Chinese plenipotentiary was leaving Nanking for that capital to discuss all pending matters between the governments.

By EUGENE LYONS
United Press Staff Correspondent

MOSCOW, July 16.—The Chinese national government tonight sent a preliminary and conciliatory reply to the Russian ultimatum demanding a conference for settlement of the controversy arising out of Chinese seizure of the eastern railway in Manchuria.

The reply from Nanking officials said the question could be settled amicably on the basis of existing Chinese-Russian relations.

The note from the Nanking government, which was received here late tonight, said that China would reply soon to the full text of the ultimatum which the Soviet dispatched in connection with the railroad seizure.

The Chinese reply took the form of instructions to their charge d'affaires here.

Authoritative sources close to the foreign office said that Russia does not intend to reply to the preliminary note until a definite answer is received to the text of the ultimatum.

Conference Opposed

The proposal for a conference of all interests, which would include Japan, naturally is not acceptable to the Soviet, which considers the question only as between Moscow and China.

A curious sidelight was whispered about on the streets today as the Moscow parades and demonstrations against China continued. It was said that the removal recently of the body of Nicolai Lenin from the Red square—pending repairs of the burial place—was responsible for the threat of war.

"As soon as Lenin's body was tampered with the war clouds began to gather," the superstitious whispered.

EXTRA SESSION ENDS SATURDAY

Adjournment Date Fixed as Last Money Bill Passes

AUSTIN, July 16. (AP)—The third called session of the 41st legislature voted today to adjourn sine die at noon next Saturday. It accepted conference reports and finally passed the last of the general appropriation bills, and enacted a law withdrawing from the market all unsurveyed public school lands and river beds and channels.

The house passed the Coltrin bill making it more difficult for condemned prisoners to obtain a trial on insanity in an effort to escape execution. It would require an affidavit from a sheriff, county physician or warden of a state prison to obtain a stay of execution and trial on the insanity issue.

Members Start Home

The house adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow, the speaker's desk having been cleared. The senate will meet at 9 a. m.

Most members were leaving for their homes tonight, only enough remaining over to keep the legislature technically in session until Saturday in order to comply with the constitutional provision that bills to become law must not be introduced later than three days before final adjournment.

Appropriation bills aggregated $47,782,935, more than $3,000,000 under the combined total of those vetoed by Governor Moody at the termination of the second called session on July 2. The total of the discarded bills was $51,161,614.

NEW MEANS OF ENFORCING DRY LAWS URGED

States Would Be Relieved Of Federal Agents By Latest Plan

MAY CHANGE LAW

Governor's Conference Hears Report of Hoover's Law Commission

By CEDRIC W. FOSTER
United Press Staff Correspondent

EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 16.—George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's commission for the study of law enforcement, in a letter read today at the conference of governors here, presented a program for a division of prohibition enforcement between the states and the federal government.

The letter was read by Gov. Franklin Roosevelt of New York, to whom Wickersham had addressed it.

Would Divide Duties

It proposed that the federal government devote itself to prevention of illegal manufacture, importation and transportation of liquor and that the states assume responsibility for the prevention of sale and the eradication of saloons and bootleggers. In other words, Wickersham proposed the federal government concern itself with the wholesale end of the liquor business and the states with the retail end.

He did not indicate directly whether this division should be accomplished through actual change in the Volstead act or through machinery already existing.

At his office in New York, Wickersham refused to comment upon his letter, pleading a press of other work. There seemed to be a tendency among those at the conference, however, to interpret the proposal as implying a change in the law.

Commission's First Step

Great importance was attached to the letter not only because of its direct bearing upon prohibition but also because it marked the first utterance of the president's commission upon the prohibition question. There was a general belief that adoption of such a plan would em-

Broke but Hopeful, Rule's Pair Of 'Croquet Cronies' Land in Dallas

DALLAS, July 16. (UP)—A patron to support the newest American art, that of conducting croquet marathons, was demanded tonight by R. F. Walton, manager of the two Texans pioneering the movement.

With Walton in Dallas today was C. G. Hart, barber, and L. S. Rose, tailor, who discovered that socking a croquet ball for 100 miles did not bring much in the way of financial reimbursement. But "Galveston to Gotham" was still their motto.

They had hoped to raise money by playing exhibition croquet games along the route. Their hopes went "ker-flop." They found Texans willing to watch their slow procedure along dusty roads, but none willing to pay big money for the privilege of socking with them.

So the "crazy croquet cronies," miles from their scissors with which they had prosaically clipped hair and clothes for a living, went broke.

Officers Hunt Two Couples In Attack on Club Ground Keeper

I. J. Gotcher Beaten Into Unconsciousness by Drunken Party On Golf Grounds

County officers continued their search Tuesday night for the party of two men and two women who attacked I. J. Gotcher, 48, as he worked on the No. 18 fairway at the Wichita Falls Country club shortly before 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mr. Gotcher, who was beaten into unconsciousness and who suffered several severe knife cuts, was allowed to leave the Wichita General hospital Tuesday afternoon after emergency treatment had been administered.

According to a story told by J. A. Hannay, secretary of the club, who rushed to the assistance of the workman and watched the attackers flee to their car, he was first awakened about midnight Monday by the screams of women heard a few yards away, from the club house. A few minutes later the man who worked at night with Mr. Gotcher ran to Hannay for help, and armed with clubs and a fire chain, the two hurried to the scene of the struggle. Their coming was the occasion for the flight of the attacking party who disappeared in an automobile. They all gave evidence of being drunk, Mr. Hannay said. The injured man, unconscious, was taken to the hospital.

The workman told Charlie Gant, deputy sheriff, that he himself had seen only one woman.

He said she first left a car where two men waited, started toward him, then suddenly returned to the machine, which drove away. It returned a few minutes later while the ground keeper continued his work, and the two men approached him and began the attack before a word was spoken, the patient at the hospital asserted. He was unable to give a definite description of the men or of the machine in which they drove. No arrests had been made late Tuesday.

STATE VOTE IS APATHETIC

Few Votes Polled Indicate Changes Win

DALLAS, July 16. (AP)—Texas today held possibly the most apathetic election in her history when an indicated less than one-tenth of her eligible voters balloted on proposals to increase the salary of the governor from $4,000 to $10,000 a year and to enlarge the state supreme court from the present three to nine members.

Tonight compilations of the returns from many cities and towns gave the proposed constitutional amendments an advantage in a ratio of about four to three, but the known opposition lay in the rural districts and but very few scattering returns were available from country precincts.

Cities Favor Changes

The larger cities gave the two proposals overwhelming majorities, comparatively speaking, although the voting was so slight that any negative balloting of even medium strength in the rural communities easily could overthrow the indicated result.

When the complete returns from 41 cities and towns had been tabulated this vote was shown:

For increasing the governor's salary, 3,926; against 2,971; for in-

Flour Jumps 45 Cents As Wheat Prices Soar

MINNEAPOLIS, July 16. (AP)—An increase of 45 cents per barrel for flour was recorded in the Minneapolis market today following the upward trend in wheat. Halliburton Predicts Direct Air Service to Wichita Within Year

Predicting 20-hour letter delivery service by air from Wichita Falls to New York over a transcontinental air mail route within a year, Erle P. Halliburton, president of the S. A. F. E. airlines, discussed informally the development of commercial aviation before a group of local men at the Wichita club Tuesday night.

Referring to the possibilities of mail transportation by air, Mr. Halliburton declared that all letters in this country could be carried by plane now at a cost of three cents each, instead of two cents, and would save approximately half the time required for delivery under present conditions. Under the plans outlined by the speaker, the proposed transcontinental service would enable a letter mailed in Wichita Falls at noon to be in New York the next morning.

Mr. Halliburton was accompanied here by his brother, John Halliburton, and Robert Cantwell, chief pilot of the S. A. F. E. lines. Those present at the dinner included C. H. Clark, C. E. McCutchen, W. M. McGregor, Charles I. Francis, Joe B. Carrigan, L. P. Hammond, Fred Gates, Dr. Bailey R. Collins, Thornton Lomax, J. Glen Groves, J. W. Chatham and Hubert M. Harrison.

WICHITA VOTES 3-1 IN FAVOR OF CHANGES

Early Returns Indicate Adoption of Two Amendments

LIGHT VOTE POLLED

Rural Ballots Go Against Amendments, as Cities Approve Change

By H. I. KIEFER
The Record News Staff

Wichita county joined with the state Tuesday in its apparent endorsement of amendments to the state constitution proposing to increase the governor's salary from $4,000 to $10,000 per year, and to increase the membership of the state supreme court from three to nine.

The virtually complete returns in Wichita county indicated that the vote here conformed to the heavy majorities given the amendments in other large cities of the state. Reports to The Record News from the Associated Press showed the cities voting heavily in favor of the changes, while the rural precincts as a rule were rolling up an opposition vote.

Incomplete returns at midnight Tuesday night indicated that the hope for adoption of the amendments depends upon the size of the rural vote. If the balloting in the rural precincts was light compared to that in the cities, it is believed the amendments will hold a majority in the final tabulations, while a comparatively heavy rural vote would be sufficient to overcome the heavy leads given the changes in the cities.

In Wichita county it was assured that substantial majorities—probably not less than three to one—would be shown by final returns to favor the amendments.

12 Boxes Closed

Returns from 39 of the 45 precincts in Wichita county, as compiled by The Record News, showed the following totals:

For the governor's salary amendment, 590; against, 191.

For the supreme court amendment, 617; against, 162.

No elections were held in 12 of the precincts accounted for in the returns. Attempts were made, however, to notify voters in such precincts that they might cast their ballots at other boxes.

Of the precincts from which no reports had been received, all were outside the Wichita Falls limits, and it was regarded as certain that elections were not held in some of them.

The total vote in the 39 precincts accounted for was 773, representing

WOMAN SHOOTS UP COURTROOM

Disappointed Client Makes Judge Seek Cover

CHICAGO, July 16. (US)—Mrs. Ida Dembo Burt lost a lawsuit today and Judge John Haas, lawyers and spectators in his courtroom, almost lost their lives when the woman drew a gun and took pot-shots at everyone in sight.

Mrs. Burt was in court seeking to have a $1,000 judgment, for attorney fees obtained by Morris Kaplan, vacated.

Judge Haas refused the plea and suggested that she take the case to the appellate court.

Screams and Shoots

Mrs. Burt, muttering to herself, turned from the bench and walked into Kaplan.

The woman screamed and drew a revolver from her purse. Kaplan saw the weapon and did some extra fancy foot-work while Mrs. Burt blazed away at him.

Judge Haas stood up and attracted the woman's attention. She turned the gun on him and fired twice at the same time starting toward the bench.

The jurist dropped to the floor and scurried from his chambers and slammed the door in Mrs. Burt's face.

Sensing that she was about to be attacked from the rear the woman turned and was felled by a blow to the jaw. Police and court attaches revived her and rushed her to Dr. William J. Hickson for an examination and later lodged her in a police cell.

Adjudged Insane

The authorities later said that she was adjudged insane in 1914 and sent to the Elgin asylum. In March of this year the county court held a hearing and reported her officially restored to sanity.

Following the shooting Judge Haas returned to the bench and continued his call calendar. He and his official family admitted they were "a bit shaken" by the demonstration. Contestants in many cases were driven from the court room and failed to return.

Extra Session To Adjourn Saturday

cated that the unofficial totals would prove acceptable, although he intimated that he would probably veto sufficient items from them to bring the aggregate appropriations for all purposes by this legislature to $50,000,000.

The land bill by Sen. C. C. Small of Wellington was amended in the house, but the senate promptly concurred in the changes. Under Senator Small's original bill, all public lands, surveyed and unsurveyed, as well as vacancies and river beds and channels would have been taken from the market. The amended bill withdrawn from sale the surface and mineral rights to only unsurveyed lands and beds and channels or rivers.

Storey Wanted Change

Rep. Cecil Storey of Vernon and others, who advocated the amended bill, claimed that the original Small version would have affected the relinquishment act. The amended bill finally passed, 104 to 3.

The appropriation bills as finally passed were as follows:

Judiciary $5,060,485.
Departmental $10,432,983.
Educational $16,451,282.
Eleemosynary $10,372,136.
Claims and accounts $476,049.
Rural aid $5,500,000.

The money measures vetoed by Governor Moody appropriated as follows:

Judiciary $5,056,465.
Departmental $12,638,225.
Educational $16,496,545.
Eleemosynary $10,482,836.
Claims and accounts $987,543.
Rural aid $5,500,000.

"Well, the extra session was worth the money after all," Governor Moody commented when told the aggregate total of the money bills had been reduced more than $3,000,000.

New Dry Law Changes Heard

body an important governmental recognition of state's rights for it would mean the withdrawal of the federal government from local enforcement leaving all such responsibility with the states.

Wickersham's discussion of prohibition came at the close of a lengthy letter in which crime in general was discussed. He commented upon the lack of data on crime conditions and urged the governors to follow the example of New York state and bring about passage of laws which would supply this need.

Attitude Criticized

"Every intelligent person must be aware," Wickersham said, "that the general attitude of the American people towards the law has fallen far short of what it should be. It is not only shown in the open disrespect for the Volstead law, but in the general attitude of 'beating the law' so long as one can get by with it."

He told of the commission's study of protection against crime and said it revealed that in Boston, where the city has the largest police force for its population in the country, there has been a decrease in crime in the last 10 years.

"Justice to be effective," he said, "should be speedy. It is freely charged that much of the delay is the result of political influence with the police, the prosecutors and even the courts. These are difficult matters to investigate."

Prohibition Most Serious

He then passed to prohibition, saying:

"Of course, prohibition enforcement being one of the most serious subjects will be investigated by our commission. The amendment confers on the states concurrent jurisdiction with the national government for enforcement of this measure. Thus far the government alone has borne the brunt of this enforcement.

"It seems to me the governors' conference might well consider approaching the federal government on some feasible proposal to share this burden.

"If the national government were to attend the preventing importation, manufacture and shipment in interstate commerce of intoxicants, the state undertaking internal police regulation to prevent sale, saloons, speakeasies and so forth, the national and state laws might be modified so as to become reasonably enforceable and one great source of demoralizing and pecuniarily profitable crime removed.

"Every state governor has sworn to support the constitution of the United States. The eighteenth amendment is a part of this constitution just as any other part. Surely it is pertinent to the governors' conference to suggest and consider how best to carry out this solemn undertaking."

WICKERSHAM'S IDEA ATTRACTS CAPITAL

WASHINGTON, July 16. (UP)—A considerable stir was caused today by the recommendation of George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, for more clearly defining the fields of national and state governments in enforcing prohibition, with a suggestion that "the national and state laws might be modified so as to become reasonably enforceable."

The burden of Wickersham's letter to the conference of governors at Eastern Point, Conn., was directed at greater responsibility by the states over the "retailing" phases, such as the organized manufacture and transportation on a large scale.

Wickersham's suggestion of modification attracted attention among wets and drys, as the word "modification" in connection with prohibition generally is interpreted as meaning a change in the alcoholic content of one-half of one per cent prescribed by the Volstead act.

considerably less than 10 per cent of the registration. It was certain that the total vote would not total 1,000 in the county out of a total registration of 12,393.

Heat Cuts Vote

The fact that voters were called upon to go to the polls during the hottest day of the year thus far officials declared, undoubtedly reduced the vote in this county. The thermometer rose to a maximum of 106 degrees during the afternoon after having ranged high throughout the day.

Of the precincts reported, only three each gave majorities against the amendments. Precincts 2, the Travis school here, and 32, Iowa Park, gave majorities against both amendments. No. 3, the Barwise school an increase in the governor's salary, but favored additional members of the supreme court, the majority in each case being one vote. In No. 24, the Sam Houston school, the governor's amendment was a 3-3 deadlock while the supreme court amendment was opposed, 2 to 4. In No. 34, the salary increase was endorsed while the vote on the court proposal was 7-7. In No. 35, at Electra, the vote on the salary was a 7-7 tie while the court increase was favored, 10 to 4.

The heaviest vote of any precinct was cast in box No. 5, at the courthouse, where the poll totaled 94. It was accounted for, however, by the fact that the box for precinct No. 4, also situated in the courthouse, was not opened, and the further fact that many business men took advantage of its convenient location when they were uncertain as whether their own box would be open.

46-1 at Spoonts

The biggest majority for the amendments was given in precinct No. 18, the Spoonts Drug store at Ninth and Van Buren streets, where both amendments were endorsed by votes of 46 to 1. Precinct No. 23 was almost as strong in its approval, the vote for each proposal being 38 to 1. In No. 45, the Crockett school, each amendment received six votes with none against either.

The prize "anti" box was in precinct No. 2, the Travis school, where the vote was 3 to 19 against the salary increase and 5 to 17 against the supreme court amendment.

The election in Wichita county developed one or two unusual features. One was, according to reports from veteran election officials, that perhaps a fewer proportion of women took part than in any poll since they have been given suffrage. Another was the small number of mutilated ballots. The apprehension had been expressed that many ballots might be improperly marked. Fewer than a score such were discovered, reports said.

STATE VOTE IS APATHETIC

Few Votes Polled Indicate Changes Win

creasing the supreme court membership 3,899; against 2,964.

With 50 per cent complete, including three from outside the city, Dallas voted 1,714 to 373 to increase the governor's salary and 1,730 to 371 in favor of enlarging the supreme court.

1,000 Votes at Austin

Austin voted 811 to 225 in favor of the court amendment and 793 to 218 for the salary increase, being the first city to report a complete balloting of more than 1,000.

Galveston favored the two proposed amendments by 537 to 225 and 535 to 222, the salary increase receiving the larger vote.

As additional returns came in it became increasingly evident that the fate of the amendments lay in the unreported rural returns, and that the country majority would have to be decisive, considering the weak poll, to prevent the proposals carrying.

Beaumont reported returns from 37 of the 46 Jefferson county boxes showed both proposals leading by wide margins, that to increase the governor's pay by 1,606 to 182 and the court amendment by 1,582 to 223, one of the largest majorities reported.

Another of the state's largest cities kept up the ratio when San Antonio reported 3,052 to 621 in favor of adding to the governor's salary and 3,780 to 330 for seating more judges. Only one San Antonio box produced more than 200 votes.

Panhandle Votes No

Numerous cities and towns in West Texas and the Panhandle voted almost solidly against the proposed amendments. Incomplete returns from Tom Green county indicated the antis had the upper hand. San Angelo reported an exceptionally light vote, the city giving majorities of 263 to 224 in the gubernatorial matter and 292 to 206 for adding judges, but observers held no hope that the rural vote would not change the score.

With a very light vote in El Paso county, tonight's final tabulation showed: salary, for 1,127; against, 21; court, for 1,095; against, 29.

Leaving Houston the last large city in Texas to report, Fort Worth produced a reduced ratio in reporting this urban vote for complete returns from 59 of the 100 Tararnt county precincts:

Salary, for, 1,000; against, 459; court, for, 971; against, 487.

When 71 of the 111 Dallas county precincts had reported, the vote was: salary, 2,327 for and 625 against; court, 2,324 for and 618 opposed.

Archer City Entertains Wichitans, And Plans Golden Anniversary

Special to the Record News

ARCHER CITY, July 16.—Thirty-five members of the Wichita Falls Junior Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by a 30-piece band, took possession of Archer City Tuesday afternoon, staging a parade and getting acquainted with every business house in the city.

The visiting delegation was headed by Walter Nelson Jr., president of the organization, and A. D. Lightsey, master of ceremonies. They formed an automobile caravan to this city, and were followed by an airplane belonging to L. P. Hammond of Wichita Falls. Many local citizens and members of the Wichita Falls party were given short hops during the afternoon.

The visitors were guests of the Archer City Chamber of Commerce at a dutch lunch given at the American Legion hall at 8:30 p. m. at which about 75 men of this community were present. Among the old-timers at the meeting were J. D. Powell, ex-sheriff of Archer county; J. S. Scott, retired rancher man; C. O. Covington, former ranchman, and Dan Hardy, now of Wichita Falls.

Following the lunch, plans were laid for the golden anniversary homecoming jubilee to be held here in November, when all former residents of Archer county are expected to reassemble for a week of celebration.

McBride Trial At Albany Starts

ALBANY, Texas, July 16. (UP)—After hastening from Tulsa to Albany when informed by attorneys his trial was ready to begin, C. B. McBride, charged with the murder of John Glenn, was here today when his second trial opened in district court.

Examinations of jurors began when court convened late today. In a first trial McBride was convicted and sentenced to 45 years for the alleged killing of Glenn on Thanksgiving, 1927. The supreme court reversed the decision. The case was brought here on a change of venue from Stephens county.

McBride was not required to forfeit $15,000 for failure to appear in court.

HASKELL VOTERS FAVOR CHANGES

Special to The Record News

HASKELL, Texas, July 16.—Both constitutional amendments carried by a small majority in Haskell Tuesday. There was little interest in the election and a light vote was cast. No returns were available over the county. The vote in Haskell was 122 for and 104 against the change in the state supreme court; 121 for and 105 against the increase in the governor's salary.

U. S. TO MAKE MORE WHISKEY

But 'Twill Be for Medical Purposes Only

WASHINGTON, July 16. (US)—The government is taking preliminary steps to authorize the distilling of 1,500,000 gallons or more of new whisky in the near future, it was learned at the treasury today.

It is planned to make a new supply each year thereafter, in order to replenish and maintain the country's medicinal stock, which has been dwindling for some years.

A high treasury official said Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran is working on the problem, gathering data on supplies and future needs.

Instead of conferring a monopoly of distilling upon a single great corporation, as was proposed in the plan congress knocked in the head three years ago, the treasury intends to authorize a number of distillers to make the whisky.

Enforcement of Strike Order Brings Protest

WASHINGTON, July 16. (UP)—Protests against the use of United States marshals in enforcement of a federal court injunction against picketing in New Orleans were made today to Attorney General Mitchell by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor.

WOMAN'S DEATH BAFFLES POLICE

Body Hurled Out of Car as It Speeds By

HATBORO, Pa., July 16. (AP)—The death of Mrs. Ethel Scott, 28, whose body came hurtling out of an automobile as it sped past a garage here late Saturday night, mystified the authorities today.

Theories of the investigators differed. Some held she had been slain before being hurtled out of the car, others that she had resented the attentions of a man in the car and leaped to escape, fracturing her skull in the fall. Physicians said death had been caused by a blow from a blunt instrument, and the woman probably was unconscious when she left the automobile.

Mrs. Scott's body was identified by her brother and sister, Harry and Lena Fox, of Rising Sun, Md., where she formerly lived. Fox said his sister had married William Scott about five years ago shortly after she was divorced from her first husband, Orville Hendrickson, of Avondale, Pa. Fox said Scott lived in Philadelphia.

Dallas Prosecutor Flays Magazine Yarn

DALLAS, July 16. (UP)—William McCraw, fiery titian-haired Dallas county district attorney, today wrote to the editor of Collier's magazine in New York, declaring that the article "Dripping Dry Dallas" in that publication last week was "a silly, vile assault on the citizenship of a great city."

In his letter McCraw pointed out that the prohibition law is violated in New York, the home of Collier's, more than it is in Texas.

"We are not going to write you up as being a city of drunkards and thieves, however," McCraw wrote, "and we feel that you and your paper should be as fair with Dallas."

In a scathing criticism of the work of Owen P. White, author of the article, McCraw declared that the article has been rivaled in fancifulness only by Grimm's Fairy Tales.

"White pretended that he had visited Dallas," the letter said. "From the text however he never emerged from the 'nigger hop joint' in which he first landed."

Fort Worth Flier Dies Of Crash Injuries

FORT WORTH, July 16. (AP)—Clyde Spracher, aviator for Texas Air Transport, Inc., who was injured Friday when an airplane he was stunting crashed, died tonight. Spracher, whose wife lives here, formerly lived at Houston.

The world's rarest stamp, for which nearly $38,000 was paid recently, is on exhibition at the National Philatelic Exhibition at Havre, France.

Coltrin Fights Insanity Pleas

AUSTIN, July 16. (AP)—Affidavit of a sheriff, county physician or warden or physician of a state prison would be necessary to get a defendant a sanity trial under terms of a bill introduced today by Representative George W. Coltrin of Mathis.

Coltrin comes from the home of Harry J. Leahy, under death sentence for murder, who has been granted a sanity trial in Williamson county, where he was convicted, on the affidavit of a woman who states she had reasons to believe the prisoner had become insane since his conviction.

Under the present law it is mandatory upon a district court to order a defendant condemned to death before it for a sanity trial where anyone files an affidavit that he has reasons to believe the prisoner insane.

ACCORD TO BE MADE BINDING

Hoover to Proclaim Kellogg Pact in Force July 24

WASHINGTON, July 16. (US)—A ceremony unique in American history will take place at the White House on Wednesday, July 24, when President Hoover formally proclaims the Kellogg pact for the renunciation of war binding upon the 64 nations which have signed it.

Present at the ceremony will be the diplomatic representatives of most of the signatory nations and high officials of this country.

The ceremony of proclamation will take place in the historic east room of the White House. At its conclusion President Hoover will be host to the diplomats and officials present at a luncheon in the state dining room.

While the state department was announcing the forthcoming ceremony of ratification, it was significant that the shadow of war was hanging over two of the signatory powers, Russia and China.

Russia, which has no diplomatic representative here, will be represented at the proclamation by Ambassador M. Claudel of France. China will be represented by its minister, Dr. Wu.

Never before has a treaty of such worldwide significance been proclaimed by American officials in such a ceremony.

THE GOODNESS

of old-time cooking . . . in an easy, modern way

WHEN housewives of Colonial days ladened their tables with savory, steaming, Dutch-oven dishes, they set traditions of good cooking that only the Westinghouse "Flavor Zone" Oven can equal. For this most modern of electric ovens cooks by the same method that produced the crackling brown roast turkeys, fragrant gingerbread, rich baked beans and spicy puddings of long ago. It first browns the food to perfection, then cooks it to wonderful tenderness, without any watching or tending during the whole cooking process.

You can put the entire evening meal in the cold oven when you are clearing up after lunch — or during the morning, if you want most of the day free from household duties. Then you set the clock and adjust the thermostat on the oven door. The current comes on automatically at just the right time. At just the right temperature, it is automatically shut off. Cooking continues by stored heat until everything is done to a turn. Delicious results are certain because every step in the cooking process is controlled with scientific precision. And you can always duplicate your best results.

Mrs. Archie Kautz Honoree at Luncheon

One of the loveliest social functions of the summer season was the surprise bridge luncheon and shower given Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. G. Holmes, 1717 Huff, honoring Mrs. Archie Kautz. Mesdames Horace Robinson, G. F. Reppy and G. E. Goddard were hostesses with Mrs. Holmes on this occasion.

The suite of rooms used for the games was full of lovely flowers. Zinnias of every color, pink roses, baby's breath and exquisite cup shaped blue wild flowers were everywhere in baskets, bowls and vases.

In the dressing room, the bronze trumpet vine blossoms matched the Indian rugs.

Mrs. R. C. Lipscomb was high in the games and Mrs. J. C. Foster low. Their trophies, however, did not compare with those of the honoree, whose many beautiful gifts were a complete surprise to her.

A delicious two-course luncheon was served to the honoree, Mrs. Kautz, and Mesdames W. G. Williamson, W. B. Hughes, W. F. Brainerd, A. M. Lloyd, Milton F. Meyer, Katie Ozier of Temple, W. W. Ports, F. Henderson, H. A. Eklund, E. A. Schambs Jr., C. F. Whitehill, R. C. Lipscomb, J. C. Foster, C. P. Burton and the four charming hostesses, Mesdames G. F. Reppy, G. E. Goddard, Horace Robinson and A. G. Holmes.

THE STAR FISH

How many legs has a starfish got?
One-two-three-four-five,
I don't know if they're legs or not,
It hardly seems alive.

What in the world does a starfish do?
Just stay like that all day?
I'm glad I'm not a starfish, too.
I'd hate to be that way!

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. N. CASON

James Cruze, director of "The Covered Wagon," whose salary for a long time was $1,000 a day whether he worked or not, last week sued John Decker for $200,000 damages. Decker commissioned to paint a Cruze portrait, tried to impart significant character to his portrait. "Sensing something prisoned about Director Cruze," he painted him behind bars. Mr. Cruze said he was never so surprised as at the "funny picture,"—mouth "like a gargoyle, face like a frog," and refused to pay for it.

Mr. Decker displayed the portrait in a Hollywood art store window with the notation, "James Cruze—in prison for debt." Then came the Cruze suit. But it is rumored it will be settled out of court.

Love and patience and care are the things necessary to make home beautiful; there are some mansions whose yards are not so beautiful as those of cottages. We have seen a little white cottage on Monroe street whose yard shines for all passersby. There are beds of scarlet glowing down the sides of the walk from the steps to the street. Foliage in brilliant colors, periwinkle and daisies and petunias glorify the corners of the yard and cover the boulevard in front. We do not know who lives there, but we know it must be a home lover.

Wichita has so many lovely things to be thankful over. We must warn our readers we have more to tell them about trees. People have told us of trees we did not know before. Almost every day, we hear of a tree, newborn to this land.

There's another autobiography out that deals with stirring times. "Memoirs of an Old Parliamentarian," by T. P. O'Connor, familiarly known as "Tay Pay" promises more thrills to us than any novel could. A man of the world, who knows politics in Ireland, England and internationally, but the person who rouses his emotion is Charles Stewart Parnell. His story, "Tay Pay" seems to think, is a Greek tragedy.

We met a young man in his early twenties who was disgusted with humanity. When he was young, he said, he had ideals and believed in the good intentions of others. But the older he grew, the less use he has for mankind in general.

It is in the twenties, when one's first dreams and ideals are sometimes hit hard, that disillusioned young folk become cynics. Bitter, uncompromising cynics. But, speaking from experience, we believe that visions are re-born and ideals reformed. The cynic of twenty odd, often makes the broader minded person of 40 and 50. It's the cynic of 50 and on that we dread.

A recent survey of unoccupied properties in San Antonio was discussed by C. Y. Tully. Members of the board suggested that such surveys should be called real estate surveys instead of "vacancy" surveys.

Roscoe Staton, J. W. Reynolds, Clarence Dodge and Ray Keith were named on a committee to obtain a large delegation of local realtors to the annual state convention to be held in Amarillo next month.

Writer Defends "Old Bachelors" In Staying Single

Not Every Man Remains Single in Order to Shirk the Responsibility Of Marriage, Declares Dorothy Dix—Very Often He Has Sacrificed His Own Happiness to Insure the Welfare of Others.

A feminine correspondent asks: "Haven't you a contempt for old bachelors? Don't you think the reason that men do not marry is because they are too selfish and cowardly to take upon themselves the responsibility of a family?"

Certain I do not regard bachelors with contempt. On the contrary, I look upon them with awe and wonder as those who have passed through great perils and miraculously escaped. Besides which, it seems to me, that marriage in the case of both men and women is one of the things in which the individual is pre-eminently entitled to the right of self-determination, without criticism or prejudice from outsiders. Moreover, not every single man remains unmarried from choice. There are plenty of men who have bachelorhood thrust upon them by fate.

There are innumerable reasons why men do not marry. Of course, there are plenty of men who are celibates by nature. They are old bachelors in their cradles. As babes they bite their mothers and scratch and kick their nurses. As small boys they pull the hair of little girls at school. As youths they flock with other boys and never at any time in their lives does any siren ever warm up the ice water in their veins.

They regard women as an inexcusable blunder of nature, and when they think of matrimony it is in the terms of bills and brats and somebody who moves the position of the brushes on a man's chiffonier and hangs things on his hooks in his closet. There is no trouble about that type of man staying unmarried. He is foreordained and predestinated for single blessedness and he would sooner face the electric chair than the altar.

Which is fortunate indeed for some woman, because no man is harder to live with than the prim, precise old bachelor husband, who is always snooping in the garbage can and running his finger along the mantelpiece to see if there is any dust on it, and who eats his meals as if he were making a chemical analysis of every article of food and determining whether it was too hot or too cold, or had too much salt in it, or too little.

Then there is the accidental bachelor who never marries because he never happens to meet Miss Right. There are many apparently commonplace and prosaic men who really cherish most romantic ideals of women. The dream girls that fill their fancies are beautiful and alluring, with violet eyes and golden tresses, who move laguidly about in trailing garments while they work their spells. They are as little as possible like the practical, up-and-doing, sport-clothes girls with whom the man works or plays, so while he is looking for his ideal the years slip by and he has passed the marrying stage before he knows it.

Or, more likely, he never marries because he never chances to attract any woman enough to make her go out and get him, and insidiously and artfully turn his thoughts toward matrimony, and persuade him that she was the one he had been seeking. The accidental bachelor is good husband material and some woman misses a mighty good life partner when he stays single.

Then there is the selfish bachelor who never marries because he wants to spend all of his money on himself and to preserve his personal liberty. No woman ever looks as good to him as his own pocketbook. No home has for him the atttractions of a club and he never really ever loves any human being but himself.

He makes the kind of bachelor who is a perpetual week-end guest and diner out, and who fastens himself on the prettiest and most attractive woman he knows and monopolizes her society until he drives all other men away. She thinks he is always on the point of proposing to her, but he never does, and when she gets passe he passes on to a younger and fresher girl.

Then there are the bachelors whose mothers wish bachelorhood upon them. They would like to have married in their youth, but their selfish jealous mothers broke off every love affair they had. Or their mothers threatened to die if they married. Or their mothers made them promise never to marry and leave them. And so the poor victims of the mother complex are kept dangling after mother and fetching shawls and filling hot-water bottles instead of establishing homes of their own.

Most pitiful of all are the men who would like to have married, the men who craved wife and home and children of their own, who have, perhaps, loved some woman whom they have had to give up because they could not afford to marry when they were young. Perhaps they had old parents to support, younger brothers and sisters to educate, family duties that they were too noble to evade, and so they sacrificed themselves for others. These are the old bachelors to whom every one goes in times of trouble, the Uncle Johns who are doing for other people's children what they would like to have done for their own.

No the old bachelor is not always a figure of contempt. He is just as often a martyr.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of a girl who won't kiss a fellow when he has been taking her out for two weeks? Does that mean that she is bored with him and does not want to see him again? Should a girl be easy to make friends with and should she make any advances? Does the refined, ladylike, conventional girl really get anywhere? Is the lady of leisure a better hit than the working girl? Is the good-natured girl who is jolly and easy to get along with, and with the smile that won't come off, the kind that a boy should look for? Should a girl talk to a fellow about her other boy friends?

—ARGUING JACK AND JILL.

Answer:—Well, Jack and Jill, I should think you might go up the hill and come down again many times before you settled all of these problems, but here is what I think about them:

I don't think it means that a girl is bored with a boy and doesn't want to see him any more if she refuses to kiss him, even if he has spent two weeks' time dangling around her. To my mind it merely indicates that she is a modest, refined, discriminating young woman who doesn't indulge in promiscuous vulgar petting. And I think if the boy is a gentleman he respects her for it.

Certainly a girl should be easy to make friends with. There is no place for the stand-offish, high-and-mighty maidens in these days, but that doesn't mean that she should pick up boys on the street or begin flirtations with strangers.

The refined, ladylike, conventional girl may not get to as many wild parties as the Sheba, but she gets to the altar oftener.

The working girls as a rule have far more beaux and dates than the society girls because they are thrown more immediately in contact with men.

The amiable, good-natured, jolly girl is undoubtedly the type that a boy should look for if he wants a good pal or a pleasant wife.

A girl should never talk to another man about her other boy friends. It is rotten sportsmanship because it is betraying confidences. Besides, it is a bad policy. No man likes to think that she will be telling some other man about all the sweet nothings he said to her and laughing with him over them.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Oh, These Women

By LEOLA ALLARD

NEW YORK, July 15. (US)—A lady arrives in Chicago and piles into a taxicab. Only one color of cab allowed in the taxi entrance, and a very busy man there to see that no others trespass. Much shouting, and scraping of wheels.

Lady gets into taxicab.

Driver whirls around corner and over a big hole in the street and lady's head hits the top of the cab with a plink. You know the sound, like an empty gourd.

Driver leans over courteously and apologizes: "Sorry lady. Them streets is awful."

Silence from the stunned lady within.

"You see," said the sympathetic driver, "our politicians stole all our money and we can't fix our streets. Ain't that awful?"

Appreciating his efforts to distract her attention, the semi-conscious lady answered "Yes."

"They talk a lot about this town," said the driver, "but it's a swell place."

The lady noticed the glass slide-window between her and the driver. There was a bullet hole through it, and a sunburst pattern in the glass, made by the whizzing bullet.

She looked farther, and there were two bullet holes in the top of the glass in front of the driver. And just then a tire of the car standing next to them on the boulevard blew out, and the lady slid to the floor, in a scared little heap.

A girl suing a man for a quarter of a million for breach of promise in Chicago, got on the stand and said: "He was awfully nice to me, really he was simply precious."

She twisted her hanky and looked coy when she said it.

"But," says the Chicago girl reporter, "it was the man she is suing who suggested a pre-nuptial agreement. He wanted to be sure she didn't get more than was coming to her. How could he think about money when he was in love? Seems to me he was guilty of a breach of something."

"I asked him," she went on, "if he ever offered to settle with her so his love letters wouldn't be read in court. He said no indeed. If men did that where would society be?"

Pre-nuptial agreements are only confessions of mutual doubt. They will both take a chance on marriage if they are sure neither of them will lose any money in the transaction.

Women may be mercenary, but I know of two men who got married, the first turned over all his interest in his father's estate to his sisters before he married, and told his wife after she became his wife. And she didn't care. Another deeded what worldly goods he had (real estate) to his sister, and told the girl first. She married him anyway.

In other words: "I'll take everything you've got, but I'll make sure what I have stays in my family."

A couple of big hearted boys, who thought all women tried to get all they could. So they would make sure that their gambles were sure things.

Good sports, they can't lose much.

COURT UPHOLDS DECISION HERE

Marchman Hotel Lease Held Valid on Appeal

The court of civil appeals in Fort Worth has sustained Judge P. A. Martin in instructing a verdict for the defendants in the lease cancellation suit brought by O. F. Marchman against the McCoy Hotel Operating company, according to information given by attorneys here Tuesday. The suit involved a 10-year lease on the Marchman hotel here with rentals aggregating around $190,000.

In the original trial in the 89th district court here last October, through which Mr. Marchman sought to cancel the lease held by the company, Judge Martin gave an instructed verdict for the defense. The ruling was appealed to the court of civil appeals, whose opinion upholding the verdict has just been received here. It was understood Tuesday that the plaintiffs would carry the appeal to the supreme court.

The petition filed by Mr. Marchman sought to break the lease on the grounds that Mr. and Mrs. McCoy had transferred their stock and the management of the hotel to the Hilton Hotel Operating company. The plaintiff claimed that the contract required the McCoys to remain in personal supervision of the establishment.

In the opinion received here Tuesday, the appellate court ruled that a contract such as that claimed by Mr. Marchman in his suit would not be legal or enforceable.

Mr. Marchman was represented by John C. Kay, Guy Rogers and Bert King, attorneys. The firm of Hexter and Rice of Dallas acted for the Hilton interests and Weeks, Morrow, Francis and Hankerson represented the McCoy company here.

Aulsbrook Cleared In Jury Verdict

Dan Aulsbrook was acquitted of aggravated assault charges by a jury in the county court at law Tuesday afternoon after a young woman who described herself as one of his best friends had taken the stand in his defense. Aulsbrook was accused of trying to force another girl into a car here several weeks ago.

The witness for the defense told the jury that she and Mrs. Slaughter, wife of E. D. Slaughter, acquitted on a similar charge last week in connection with the same affair, had watched the actions of the two men and the girl from a short distance and had seen nothing objectionable. The complaining witness charged the two with attempting to make love to her and to force her into the machine.

EXILED TRIBE RETURNS HOME

Peaceful Mexican Indians Get Home Back

MEXICO CITY, July 16. (AP)—After nine years of exile from their homes along the Yaqui river in southern Sonora, the "Torocoyolis" or "Friends of the Whites" are en route back to till the soil that belonged to their ancestors for many generations and from which they were ousted by their more warlike Yaqui neighbors in 1920.

They are traveling in a long caravan from El Aguila hacienda near here, where they have made their homes during the period of exile. Men, women and children, numbering several hundred, are trudging over the rough trail, driving before them their few beasts of burden and other domestic animals.

Once back in their homeland, which has been restored to them by order of the government, they will make merry with the noisy "apascolas" and "matachines" for several days, singing in their native "caita" and celebrating with feasts of thanksgiving. Thereafter they will settle down to agriculture and cattle breeding.

The tribe, viewed with disrespect by neighboring tribes because of its peaceful inclinations, was driven from the banks of the Yaqui in disdain and ever since has been subjected to persecution when bands of "guarrero" or warlike Indians came near its new home.

SMALL LAND BILL IS PASSED

Measure Would Halt Sale Of School Property

AUSTIN, July 16. (AP)—Without opposition, the senate yesterday passed the Small bill withdrawing from sale or lease all lands owned by the state until the legislature at a future day may provide for a resurvey of the tracts.

Action on the measure was the aftermath of a message by Governor Moody last week, pointing out that vacancies had resulted from prior surveys of state-owned property and that the public school fund faced the prospect of losing millions of dollars unless the condition was relieved by legislative action.

If the house agrees with the bill, disposal of approximately 1,500,000 acres of school land set for Sept. 1 through failure of purchasers to pay interest will be blocked.

In its first session in January, the lawmakers withdrew all lands owned by the University of Texas from the market.

Today's action affects asylum lands, river beds and both surveyed and unsurveyed school property.

Okla. Bribery Charges Aired

New Probe May Result From Investigation

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 16. (UP)—George Callihan, Oklahoma county attorney, said today that evidence he has uncovered tended to show that charges of bribery in the last legislature to defeat the anti-loan shark bill "probably are well founded."

"Indications are that money was used in the house of representatives to defeat the bill," Callihan said.

Investigation of the charges have been postponed for several days pending word from Joe Sherman, Republican representative from Major county, who made them. Callihan has written Sherman telling him that a probe probably will corroborate the charges made by the representatives the final night of the special session of the legislature, July 5, it was disclosed today.

Sherman has been invited to come here and aid the county attorney in his investigation.

THE ALSATIAN BLUES

Daily Editorial

ALSACE is not singing the Marseillaise with the same hysterical fervor as in 1918.

The kidnaped daughter of France, after wailing and pining for reunion, discovers that long separation from the Motherland has weaned her of many essential family habits.

A strong sentiment for autonomy is sweeping the province, partly, of course, the fruit of German propaganda, but not entirely inspired by the Teuton bloc.

Following the now-it-can-be-told vogue, which apparently permits a general uncorking of confidences and lets all sorts of war-cats out of the bag, the writer decides to spill a few beans also.

Two years after armistice, a high government official, then chief of a certain reparations section, confided that all was not well along the Rhine area—an observation verified on a personal visit to the district, during which various repatriated citizens frankly picked bones with conditions under the new regime.

The French were indifferent administrators; the French were inefficient; the French were condescending, patronizing and procrastinating. There was no sense of civic discipline at Paris—and so ad infinitum.

The truth of the matter is, that Alsace had, after 50 years, grown Teuton-minded.

Her folk for two generations had spoken and largely thought in the language of their conquerors. And the speech of a people is the mould of national consciousness.

Alsace was living under one flag and still thinking under another.

GERMANY had trained the Alsatian to be methodical and thorough.

There were rules for everything and everybody; one knew what to anticipate from day to day.

Economic and social routes were plainly marked, and both privileges and prohibitions precisely indicated.

A goose-step system, but shrewdly founded on the knowledge that your average human hates to decide anything.

Then came freedom—the cage was at last open and the canary turned loose.

Make the experiment and watch the consequence.

Alsace had dwelt under an autocratic paternalism until the instincts of self-determination were numbed and atrophied—and so was at sixes and sevens when thrown on her unpracticed resources.

Therefore, bewilderment and disgruntlement, followed by sullen rebellion when school terms became indefinitely extended, because her children must relearn in French what had just been taught them in German.

Not to mention the remobilization under the Tricolor of every person within military age limit, regardless of the time previously wasted at similiar Prussian command.

The Chinese have a saying that people shouldn't wish for things which, if granted, will leave them unhappier than they were before.

Peculiarly pertinent to the situation in point. Alsace has the moon she'd been crying for, and it isn't at all what she expected.

Now she wants to hold a plebiscite and decide by popular vote—whether to remain "with the folks" or set up a semi-independent establishment.

Who was it that referred to the sting of serpents and ungrateful children?

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who lightens the burdens of others and shows them kindness, is a gentleman."

To be a gentleman a man must be a gentle man. As you contact those in sorrow, pull up a weed and plant a flower. A little kindness and a word of cheer, is a knock-out blow to worry and fear.

Professional parachute jumpers make good incomes, but not all people would lower themselves to do it.

A new radium tipped pencil enables a man to write down his thoughts in four colors. A big demand is reported from golfers.

A Denver man told police he had lost his canary the other day so they sent out the flying squad.

The Men Who Can't Be Hurt by Laughter

FEAR of physical danger is not such a terribly hard thing to overcome. The human race is fairly sturdy, and brave men are not uncommon. But the man who is not afraid of ridicule is a rare person; and when he appears on the scene he is almost certain to make a stir.

Unluckily, we don't usually recognize that kind of bravery. The word "crank" slips off our tongues too easily; once we apply it to a man he is blasted and his steadfast bravery can never hope for a nod of recognition.

In the city of Massillon, Ohio, there lives a man whose very name has been a folk-lore comic picture for more than 30 years. His name is Jacob S. Coxey—and the famous Coxey's army of 35 years ago has been looked upon for a generation as one of the low comedy incidents in our national drama.

Yet this man Coxey, who is now getting ready to go on a tour of the country to speak for a new paper money proposal he has devised, is a man of rare courage. He is not in the least afraid of being laughed at.

And we, who enjoy laughing at him—well, how many of us can say that about ourselves?

The ability to withstand ridicule gives a man an almost dangerous power. For laughter is our dealiest weapon. When everything else in our arsenal fails, laughter usually succeeds. The man whom it can't hurt is apt to go a long way.

It doesn't matter in the least whether you agree with Coxey's ideas or not. His money scheme may be a stroke of genius or it may be a brainstorm. That, for the purposes of this discussion, is irrelevant. The point is that Coxey, who has been laughed at for 35 years and who is ready to go out and be laughed at again, is a member of a great brotherhood; the brotherhood of cranks, fanatics, clowns—and world-changers.

Stonewall Jackson was the laughing stock of the confederate armies for months; but before he died any southerner would cheerfully have shot the man who dared so much as smile at his gaunt, angular personality.

Lincoln excited the titters of all of Washington's better people when he first entered the White House; but now his graven image looks out of a classic temple toward the Washington monument, and people enter with bared heads.

Roosevelt, the "dude cowboy," drew a perfect salvo of ridicule when he entered politics, and today the children of the men who laughed at him speak his name with a reverent, wistful admiration.

So it goes. Laughter has killed off many a cause, good and bad, and has sent many a leader to the scrap heap. But when you find a man whom laughter doesn't hurt—watch out for him.

The Dangers in Speed

MAJOR GEORGE A. PARKER, state registrar of motor vehicles for Massachusetts, points out that the average speed of automobiles on Massachusetts highways has increased 10 miles an hour in the last two years, and believes this is an important factor in the steady increase in traffic accidents.

"Probably the vast majority of motorists have not the slightest idea of the potential striking force of their cars, and they go blissfully on their way until they bring up against a bridge-head, a tree or a telegraph pole," he says.

Major Parker remarks that most drivers who come to grief while traveling fast try to alibi themselves. They will blame a bump in the pavement, a slippery road or a too-sharp curve—never realizing that their own speed was the primary factor in the accident.

Fast driving is all right, provided that you remember that high speed calls for increased care and forethought. Mishaps that are unimportant at 20 miles an hour become extremely dangerous when the speed rises to 40.

The Perils of the Submarine

WHEN the American submarine S-4 went down off Provincetown two years ago there was a great deal of criticism of our navy department. The sinking of the S-4 was the second big submarine disaster we had had in a comparatively short time; and many people felt that our naval executives must be somehow slipshod or careless.

Now, however, the tragic accident to the British submarine H-47 puts a different light on things. For it develops that Britain, too, has had submarine disasters in peace time. In 1922 the British H-42 went down with all hands after colliding with a destroyer. In 1925 the M-1 went down with 68 men. In 1921 the H-5 sank and took 57 seamen to their death. In all, the British have lost 14 submarines since the war.

The plain truth is that the submarine is a risky sort of contrivance to handle. Even with the best of management, one of the undersea boats seems bound to come to grief every so often. And unfortunately, the submarine is an essential arm of the service; all the navy men can do is carry on, and look for new ways of making the under water craft a little bit safer.

Quotations Worth Noting

"Whether we discuss cabbages or kings, cucumbers or common stocks, the inevitable result of an increase of demand without a corresponding increase of supply is a rise in price. And that is exactly what has been taking place in the common-stock market during the past few years."—Arthur S. Dewey. (World's Work.)

"Individually, indeed, we have not so much cause for vanity. We are clever by proxy. We travel in automobiles that others have designed; we speak over a telephone that another has invented; we listen over the radio, the products of other minds."—Alfred J. Lotka. (Outlook and Independent.)

Some One Interrupts

Adele felt an overwhelming weakness dragging her down. The room swam in crazy blurs before her eyes. Doctor Moffett's words and the smiling, murderous look that accompanied them jumbled chaotically in her brain. Her head felt curiously unsteady, as if all the blood had deserted it. She reeled, staggered and would have fallen if Axelson had not caught her.

With surprising strength for a man who looked so old and feeble, Axelson carried her to a chair. Her head fell limply to her shoulder.

"Fainted," he announced.

Doctor Moffett nodded. "Pretty young thing," he observed musingly, then shrugged. "Too bad!"

Axelson stared at him out of his shrewd, bleary eyes. "You are not thinking of—"

"I am not thinking at all," Doctor Moffett interrupted. "I am merely acting in accordance with certain inflexible rules and safeguards which I have formulated for my self-protection and the success of our pleasant little enterprises."

"But she is worth a hundred thousand dollars to us."

"I know." The doctor smiled faintly. He looked at his watch. "Half-past one. You will get word to Castle, Axelson. I can trust you to state the situation as—er—graphically as is necessary. Tell him to rake together one hundred thousand dollars in currency or securities and come here tomorrow afternoon and get his daughter."

"Yes, but I thought—"

"Don't think," Doctor Moffett advised. The smile insinuated itself a little more deeply into the lines of his face. "It isn't necessary to tell Castle that he may not find his daughter in the full bloom of health and youth."

"I understand," said Axelson, his voice shaking a little, "but—er—do we have to—"

"Please don't argue," Doctor Moffett interrupted. "I want to live in peace. Miss Castle has unfortunately discovered my identity. How many peaceful moments do you suppose I would have if she were permitted to go back and prattle about her discovery? And what would become of our plans?"

Axelson nodded, but his gray face twitched uneasily. Apparently the argument had persuaded him, but he gazed uncertainly at the unconscious figure in the chair.

"She will need a—ahem!—stimulant after a while," Doctor Moffett murmured. "You have seen the small bottle with the blue label on the shelf in the pantry. Next to it is a still smaller bottle with a white-and-red label. It would be a natural mistake—"

His voice trailed off into a silence more eloquent than words. Axelson shuddered a little. Doctor Moffett had been contemplating the floor, but now he raised his head.

"You needn't delay," he said softly. "This present undertaking of ours has been full of surprises. You had better act before the next surprise comes along. We never know—"

He broke off abruptly. A long, loud peal went through the house. His lips tightened and a shadow of annoyance crossed his face. Axelson had turned deathly pale.

"See who it is," directed Dr. Moffett evenly.

Axelson went out. The doctor took a pistol from his pocket, examined it carefully, and dropped it into his pocket again. Without a glance at the unconscious girl, he paced the floor until Axelson returned.

"It's Castle!" announced the old man excitedly.

"Castle?" Dr. Moffett stared for a moment. "Virgil Ellsworth Castle?"

The old man nodded in a perturbed way.

"That's curious. Still another surprise!" The doctor chuckled mirthlessly. "How did he find his way here?"

"I didn't ask him."

"Is he alone?"

"He seems to be."

The doctor reflected. His wrinkled brow showed that this was a development that did not fit into the scheme.

"Turn on the green light in the sitting room," he directed. "I'll be sitting room," he directed. "I'll see Castle there. And," with a glance at the girl in the chair, "you need not hurry about the—er—stimulant."

Axelson looked somewhat relieved.

"After you have shown Castle into the sitting room," the doctor went on, still gazing at the unconscious girl, "take this young lady upstairs. She seems to be coming to."

Adele was stirring drowsily in the chair. Her eyelids moved sluggishly.

Axelson proceeded to obey orders. Soon the visitor was ushered into the same room in which the interview between Adele and Dr. Moffett had taken place. He carried himself with an air of spurious fortitude, as seemed natural for one coming on an errand of this sort. When Axelson had withdrawn and closed the door, he sat down and looked about him bewilderedly. He seemed a little nervous, and the curious character of the illumination appeared to puzzle him.

"Hello, Castle," said a voice.

The visitor's stick clattered to the floor. A look of stark amazement crossed his fine, classical features. His fingers fumbled nervously at the carnation he always wore in his buttonhole. Until this moment he had seen no one in the room, and even now he saw only a shadowy figure seated about six paces away, and this dim shape appeared to have no head.

With a mutter of surprise he sprang to his feet.

"Sit down," said the voice. "I am Dr. Moffett."

The visitor stared in stupefaction in the direction whence the voice came. He stroked his high forehead, surmounted by gay-springied hair neatly parted on the side. The strange sight—a human figure whose torso tapered off into a greenish mist—seemed to unnerve him completely. As if to support himself, he gripped the side of the table.

"Sit down," said Doctor Moffett again. His voice was a little gruff. "Tell me why you came here, Castle?"

A hoarse exclamation trembled on the caller's lips. The green light accentuated his pallor. He sank weakly into the chair.

"Extraordinary!" he mumbled. "Something seems to have happened to my eyes. I—I can't see your face."

"Nothing has happened to your eyes. I prefer that you shan't see me. Compose yourself and tell me why you are here."

The visitor shook himself, recovered the stick he had dropped, moistened his lips, and did his level best to conquer uneasiness he felt in these strange surroundings.

"It's the green light, I suppose," he reasoned aloud. "It isn't as bright as an ordinary light. That's why—"

"Oh, no, not the light altogether, Castle," the doctor interrupted. "I can see you quite clearly—almost as clearly as in an ordinary light. But let's not waste time over that. I am still waiting to hear what brought you here."

The caller drew up his shoulders a little, as if striving for his characteristic poise. "Very well. One of your eccentricities, I take it, Doctor Moffett." He paused for a moment. "I suppose it would be a waste of time and breath to express my opinion of you."

"An absolute waste."

"Then"—he appeared to choose his words—"my daughter came here tonight."

"How do you know that?" was the instantaneous rejoinder.

"I learned it in a rather peculiar way. Tonight my telephone kept ringing incessantly. I—er—had determined to answer no telephone calls tonight, but the persistent ringing made me change my mind. At length I answered, and some one inquired if my daughter was at home."

"Who was the inquirer?"

"I don't know. He refused to give his name. He implored me in a very excited manner to ascertain whether my daughter was in her room. I went to her door and knocked. No answer came. I opened the door and looked in. Her bed was untouched. I went back to the telephone and my mysterious informer told me I would probably find her here."

"The Picaroon," said Doctor Moffett grittily under his breath. Then to the visitor: "Did he tell you how to find my place?"

"He gave me very elaborate directions."

"I see." The doctor's tone was faintly sarcastic. "And you came out here hotfoot on no stronger evidence than an anonymous telephone message?"

"My informant spoke very impressively, emphasizing that it was a matter of life or death. I was worried about my daughter. In the circumstances I couldn't ignore what he said."

"Curious!" mumbled Doctor Moffett. "I don't see how the Picaroon learned how to reach this place."

"Who?" exclaimed the visitor catching the subdued remark.

"It doesn't matter. Well, Castle, now that you are here, what do you intend to do?"

"My daughter is here, isn't she?"

"Yes," came the answer after a moment's hesitation.

The visitor sat silent for a time. His shoulders heaved a little. His voice, when he spoke, was thick with emotion. "Moffett," he said. "I am not going to waste time telling you what I think of a blackguard who uses a young girl in his nefarious schemes. You are beneath my contempt."

"The mysterious Mr. Graves is speaking in a very lofty tone," Dr. Moffett sneered.

The other smiled wanly. "Your sneers can't hurt me, Moffett. I have passed that stage. I made a mistake—a grievous mistake. You can crush me and break me. But I can still hold my head high. When I compare myself with you, I have nothing to be ashamed of. I don't have to hide my face as you are hiding yours. I never fought with dirty weapons. I never stooped to the infamy of fighting women and children. I—"

"Very pretty, Castle," the other interrupted. "You ought to carry a pulpit along with you on your travels. But suppose we drop the oratory and get down to business? What do you want?"

The visitor, as was his occasional habit, tapped the table slowly with his knuckles.

I suppose it will be utterly useless to appeal to a spark of manhood and decency in you, to ask you to confine your warfare to me and let my daughter alone?"

"It would. I use whatever methods I see fit to adopt."

"Then what are your terms?"

"You know them—one hundred thousand dollars. You are getting double value for your money, Castle. In the beginning you were to receive only the Forrester papers. Now I am throwing in your daughter for good measure."

"I can't pay it," the other declared flatly. "I couldn't even pay half of what you ask."

The doctor laughed contemptuously. "I don't believe you. The mysterious Mr. Graves can easily get his hands on a little extra money, especially when his lovely daughter's safety is concerned. Now listen Castle. I shant argue this matter further. I hold Miss Castle's check for one hundred thousand and I—"

"What?"

Doctor Moffett elucidated. "Tomorrow," he went on, "this house will be deserted. The present occupants, including the charming Miss Castle, will be gone.

"In the morning you will go to your bank and procure $100,000 in cash or easily negotiable securities. About 11 o'clock you will receive a message from me directing you where to go to redeem the check and claim your daughter. These terms are final and unalterable. There is nothing further to be said."

The other's jaw sagged a little. He peered irresolutely into the green sheen where only a vague blur indicated the speaker's face.

"Yes, one thing more," he protested. "Even if I should be able to procure the money, what guarantee have I you will surrender my daughter and the papers?"

"None. You will just have to trust me."

"Trust—you."

"You have no other choice." The dim figure at the other end of the room got up to indicate that the interview was ended.

The visitor had also risen. With head hung low he peered at the grotesque shape in the distance whose face was only a greenish blur in the emerald light.

"Just one more word, Moffett." There was a trace of doubt in his voice. "As you remarked yourself, I came here on rather insubstantial information. I don't know who my informant was and—"

"I can tell you where he is," the doctor interrupted. "He is in jail. That's where your information came from."

The visitor appeared not to understand. "Anyway, it was a rather dubious item of information. You have confirmed it. You tell me my daughter is here, but it may be only a bluff."

"Oh! Well, just to satisfy you—" Dr. Moffett chuckled. There was a blurred movement of a hand. A little pause ensued, and then a gaunt, old man entered.

"Bring Miss Castle here, Axelson," Dr. Moffett directed.

The old man nodded and withdrew. The visitor showed signs of nervousness. He quickly began to move about.

"Keep still," the doctor snapped. The other stopped and leaned slightly against the table. Restlessly, with his cane, he drew imaginary figures on the floor. Soon the door opened again. Adele walked in, and behind her was Axelson. She was deathly white and she leaned weakly against the door frame while she stared into the green illumination.

"Dad!" she suddenly cried, and then she sprang forward.

In a moment the visitor's arms infolded her. He whispered in her ear, and a quiver ran through her.

"Convinced?" asked Dr. Moffett.

The other, with one arm around her neck, caressed the girl's dark hair. He was mumbling endearments.

"That's enough," said Dr. Moffett impatiently. "Take her away, Axelson."

The old man came forward, but the visitor wound his arm more tightly about the girl.

"Not yet," he said, and there was a strange, defiant quality in his voice. "This is the end of your game, Moffett. I didn't come here alone. There are three policemen in the woods outside the gate. In a few minutes"—he glanced at his watch—"in exactly two minutes and a half they will hammer their way in."

A dead silence fell. It was broken at length by the sound of footsteps. A gleam of steel flickered in the green light. Dr. Moffett was coming forward. He moved in a slow, creeping manner, like a beast crawling upon its prey. The ugly outlines of an automatic emerged out of the green mist. The doctor's arms, legs and torso came into clear relief, but still the face was only a green blur.

"I think that's a lie," he declared evenly.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, July 16.—New York hostesses who wonder just how much entertainment they should provide for visitors could do worse than look to Wall street for the answer. For the entertainment problems of the financial section are vast, and must be handled with great tact. The visitors are heads of out-of-town brokerage concerns, who come to New York to look into certain stock issues, or the profit possibilities of say, a certain investment trust. The hosts are those who are trying to sell their stock in wholesale lots. And when I say wholesale, I mean wholesale. If an out-of-town customer indicates that he wants to buy a hundred thousand dollars' worth of these, and a half million dollars' worth of those, the quoted price is reduced a point or two so that he gets a bargain. Naturally, such important customers must be entertained. But how much? They are taken through the hosts' offices by impressive young men who wear the right sort of clothes and speak good English. Then, perhaps, they are taken to lunch at one of the big downtown clubs. Lunch is a delicate question. The meal must not be too elaborate, for the visitors might raise an eyebrow over extravagance. On the other hand, they must not be too simple, or the hosts' financial soundness might be questioned. And a straight 10 per cent tip must be left for the waiters; more would be recklessness. Then there is the question of a show. Getting a block of 50 tickets to the hit of the season is no mean job, and if thrice the value of the tickets must be paid a speculator, nothing is said about it. The show should be a musical comedy, and one of the better sort. No leering should be done by Wall street men.

Liberal Reward

The conservatism of Wall street sometimes exceeds reason. The other day a boy found bonds worth $100,000 in an envelope in the gutter. He promptly delivered the envelope to the address written thereon—and was given $2. True, the bonds were not negotiable, and would have done the boy no good whatever had he decided to keep them. But, at the same time, the cost of affidavits and clerical work connected with replacing them would have amounted to many hundred times $2.

The Elephant Hotel

Mrs. Margaret Milligan came home to Brooklyn the other day. She had left it 45 years ago, and went to Scotland to live. She doesn't like New York very well now. You can't get a five-room house for $10 a month, within walking distance of Brooklyn bridge. And the old Elephant hotel at Coney Island is gone. There was a hotel. Five stories high, it was, and built to look like an elephant. The sairways were in the legs, and there was a bar room in the trunk. However, the street numbers are the same, so she doesn't get lost during her evening strolls about the old neighborhood.

Rebuilding Theaters

For some time now theatrical men have been complaining that there are too many theaters in the Broadway zone. "No wonder we have bad plays," they say. "The rent on these houses must be paid and it is better to get a little money with a bad production than to get nothing at all from a dark house." Maj David M. Oltarsh, an architect, has a plan for saving cast-off theaters from the clutches of the movies. He would turn them into swimming pools. The sloping floors he says, make it easy to build the pools, with deep water for the brave and shallow for the timid and young. To prove he is right, Major Oltarsh is building a pool in a motion picture house at Broadway and Canal street—several miles south of the main theater zone. This cinema palace has been a complete failure, having been occupied only four months since its opening two and a half years ago.

Yo Ho Ho!

So much is said about the subways, taxicabs and skyscrapers of New York that few realize what a seafaring people we are. Thousands of us go to work every morning aboard ferries from New Jersey or Staten Island. Each ferry trip is as good as a sea voyage. No, better, because it is short and smooth. The more daring among us take the sea trip, to Coney Island, and the truly hardy take the night boat up the sound to Boston, if there is a valid reason for going to Boston. But nautical folk that we are, we can't tell north from south in the wilds of Brooklyn and six bells means six o'clock, for all we know.

Mother Kills a Bear

(SAUTE STE MARIE, Ontario.—With a papoose on her back, Frances Zucigesick an Indian woman, killed a bear which, followed by two cubs, attacked her today. She slew the animal with a small ax.—News Item).

"It was nothing . . . nothing," said Mrs. Zucigesick through an interpreter to a reporter for this column today. "Really, I had almost forgotten the little incident. I can't understand why such a fuss is being made over it."

PHILLIPS

"Mothers all over the world are interested in your story," said the reporter. "The porper care of the baby is a foremost topic these days. Speaking more particularly for the mothers of America, I beseech you to go on and tell your story in your own way."

"But there is nothing to tell," insisted Mrs. Zucigesick. "I was out airing the baby when attacked by a bear, and I just knocked it bowlegged, that's all. A good mother could do no less."

"Please go on, Mrs. Zucigesick."

"Well, if you insist, I was walking along with little bunnikens—that's the baby—on my back when I saw the bear come from the woods with her cubs. Now you must never run from bears. That's one of the first things I teach my children. The kiddies are inclined to be frightened at first and it takes a lot of patience to teach them not to run, but it can be done. Well, as I was saying, I stood my ground and waited for the bear. She came quite close and then circled me several times. Then she sat down and growled. She would not go away and she wouldn't attack. This was most exasperating as I had a lot of shopping to do and had left a roast at home in the oven.

"I tried to provoke her by throwing rocks at her, but she just sat there. For a time I wished I had brought my knitting.

"Then the baby, amused by the bear at first, began to cry from sheer boredom, and I realized that if the bear would not attack me I would have to attack the bear.

"We clinched and fought for about 15 minutes. It was really a very short battle. I could have ended it sooner, except that baby was so amused and kept crying 'More, mommer, more!'"

"But there was that roast at home in the oven to think of and I finally decided to kill the bear and go about my business. So I just gave it the ax with everything I had and knocked it cookoo. That's all there was to it. Why do you newspaper men make so much of trifles?"

Architects of Health

It is quite within the possibility of reasoning to suppose that all disease will eventually disappear from the face of the earth. There are many individuals now living who have never known a serious illness. Once the means by which these people remain well becomes generally known, there is no reason why everyone cannot experience a continued state of health.

Many doctors are now coming to realize that it is far more important to build up the natural immunity of the individual against all diseases than to vaccinate against specific diseases. Hygiene and sanitation are now recognized as being a very important part of health maintenance. Prevention is better than cure, because every disease must leave its destructive scars and weakening influence.

The time will undoubtedly come when a doctor will be regarded as an architect or builder of health rather than an antagonist of disease. But it will probably require the passage of many years before we have completely discarded the idea that disease is a sort of enemy or evil thing to combat. We must substitute the thought that health is a possession to be treasured. When everyone has learned to live by healthful habits and has the heritage of health from several generations of healthy ancestors, the human body should be so resistant as to refuse to act as a host to disease.

Every child, from the cradle up should be taught the habit of health, not only by words, but by example. Once a health habit has been formed, it is just as hard to break as any other habit, and it is so important that the correct habits be formed during the time when the child's body is molding and becoming set into its adult form. A Strong, healthy child is not only more intelligent in school, but has a reserve of vital energy to carry him through many of the squalls and typhoons of life which would swamp a frailer craft.

Among the more important habits to cultivate is a fondness for outdoor games. One who enjoys playing in the sunshine and fresh air is much resistent to infection. One should also be taught to like the right kind of foods. There is no reason for believing that wholesome foods are more unpleasant to eat than unwholesome ones. The desire for the right kind of food is largely a matter of positive suggestion and good cooking.

A regularity of sleep is more important for building health, especially with children. Good mental habits, too, play their part in the health regime. If these more important habits are strongly developed, it is likely that other healthful processes will come naturally, such as deep breathing, regular elimination, exercises, etc.

The doctor of the future should be able to examine the patient and determine which part, whether physical or mental, needs developing, and he should be able to create a prescription of healthful practices in such an attractive manner that the patient will soon follow it of his own accord.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Buzzing in Ears

Question—H. K. L. writes: "I had my tonsils removed three years ago and ever since have had a buzzing in my head and ears which is worse at night when I lie down. Does this trouble come from having removed the tonsils, and what can I do to relieve it? Am 56, and well otherwise."

Answer—The entrance to the ear tube leading to the ear from the throat is sometimes injured by the tonsil operation, but such injury is hard to determine. It may be that the buzzing in your head is caused by the same catarrhal condition that you had before the tonsils were removed.

Soda in Cooking

Question—Mrs. S. asks: "Is the use of soda in food harmful, as putting it into tomatoes while cooking."

Answer—I do not believe there is any harm in killing food acids with soda, except that the fruit acids have a value in stimulating digestion and this help is lost if the soda is used.

Exercise

Question—J. H. J. writes: "Please state what the final results will be if a person who has been used to an outdoor life, such as farming, is shut off for months from the exercise that such a life gives."

Answer—Of course, the results will be bad if a person who is used to outdoor exercise does not substitute some other kind of exercise, such as that which may be taken in a gymnasium. A half hour of vigorous handball, volley ball, or regulated calisthenics will give anyone doing sedentary work all of the exercise needed to keep the muscles in good condition.

Crash Kills Man Pursued by Agents

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., July 16. (UP)—Elijah Belgard, 27, of this city, was killed today when his car overturned on a sharp turn while being pursued by two customs agents.

The agents were F. L. Coveney and Weldon J. Cheatham, who figured several weeks ago in the fatal shooting of Arthur Gordon, 20, a suspected rumrunner. Cheatham is at liberty under a $10,000 bond pending a hearing on a manslaughter charge in the Gordon case.

Coveney and Cheatham took the injured man to a physician's office and when he died, reported to Coroner Edwin H. Sartwell. They said they found two bags of ale in Belgard's car.

The accident occurred at Mooers crossroads, six miles from Mooers station, where the Gordon shooting occurred.

Fire Destroys Famous Yacht; Mate Missing

GLENCOVE, N. Y., July 16. (UP)—The luxurious yacht Wenonah II, owned by James A. Stillman, banker, was destroyed by fire and explosion today as it lay in Hempstead harbor, with 12 members of the crew aboard.

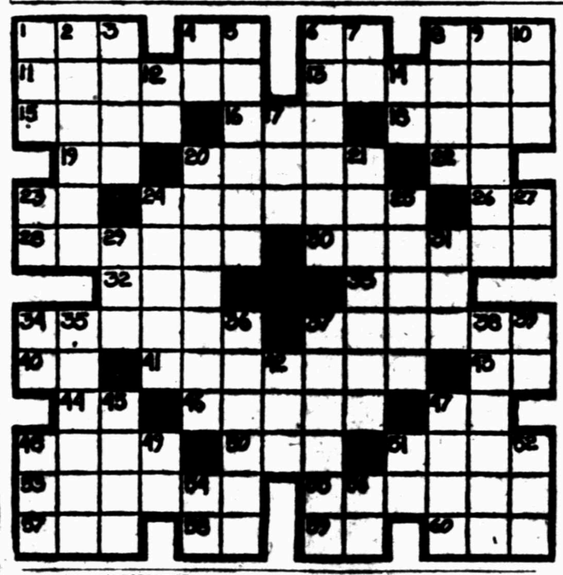

The first mate is missing and is believed to have been killed. One sailor was taken to a hospital. The other 10 men aboard escaped by leaping into the water.

Bootleggers Abandon Saloons for Cafes

KANSAS CITY, July 16. BEAUMONT BEATS SPUDS IN OPENER AND COPS LEAGUE LEAD

HANSON HURLS 6 TO 3 VICTORY

Exporters Bat O'Neal Hard, Sullivan Leads Attack

Special to The Record News.

BEAUMONT, July 16.—Beaumont is celebrating tonight. For the first time in more than a decade except at or near the start of the season, the Beaumont club is occupying first place in the Texas league, and the good citizens of this town who have waited long and patiently for that event are making the most of the occasion.

Thanks to a 6 to 3 victory today over Wichita Falls in the opener of the three-game series while Waco and Fort Worth were losing, the Exporters took the league lead, although their margin is only mathematical over the Cubs and Cats.

The Spudders in fourth place are half a game behind the leaders.

Hanson Is Effective

The Exporters won by pounding Skinny O'Neal for four runs and seven hits in the first six innings, and made one tally with the aid of two hits off Bill Goff who was batted out in a hurry and their sixth score and tenth hit while Milt Steengrafe was on the hill in two rounds. O'Neal is charged with the loss.

Elmer Hanson held the Galloways to seven hits and after the first inning in which the Spudders scored twice, hurled superb ball.

Swanson was batting leader of the day with three hits, including two doubles. Sullivan led the Spudder attack with a triple and a single. Wetzel hit a home run and there were eight two-base hits poled.

Fielding was fast with each club making but one error.

The Spudders scored two in the first inning. Benton and Turgeon doubled, scoring Rabbit. Sullivan's triple tallied Turgeon.

Shippers Score in Third

Beaumont counted one in the third. Davey was safe on Hermann's error with one out. Hanson singled. Swanson's double scored Davey.

Wichita Falls scored its last run in the fourth. Sullivan beat out a roller after one was out and continued to second on Swanson's wild throw. Hermann hit for two bases, scoring Sullivan.

The Exporters tied the count in their half. Wetzel hit his homer over the left field wall. Easterling doubled and scored on Boggess' single.

Beaumont took the lead, 4-3, in the fifth. Swanson walked and scored on Kelly's single.

Hanson and Swanson greeted Goff with doubles in the seventh, which scored Elmer. Petrie walked and Steengrafe stopped scoring that round but the Exporters tallied one more in the eighth. Max-Sharkey May Battle at Boston

BOSTON, July 16. (UP)—Possibility of a fight between Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, and Jack Sharkey of Boston, loomed tonight when William F. Carey, manager of Madison Square garden, New York, spent several hours attempting to straighten out Schmeling's contract tangle.

It was learned that Schmeling's contract to fight Con O'Kelly of Ireland, in this city had been canceled, and a release had been signed by Tom O'Rourke, O'Kelly's manager, releasing any claim on Schmeling.

Tech Football Star Plays Good Baseball

ATLANTA, Ga., July 16. (AP)—Bob Parham, husky backfield ace of Georgia Tech's "Golden Tornado," has proved his prowess in another branch of sport by winning his spurs as a regular outfielder with the Atlanta baseball team of the Southern association.

When Parham graduated in June, R. L. Spiller gave him a contract and shot him into the Cracker line-up without ceremony. From the start Bob showed ability and has been moved up to third place in the batting order as a reward for his consistent hitting. He bats above .300, fields his position well, and has a good whip to home.

CLEVELAND, July 16. (AP)—Three Indian errors gave the Athletics six runs and allowed the Mackmen to win their third game in four starts, 7 to 5, here today in 10 innings.

The Indians batted Bob Grove from the box in the fifth and later tied the score at the expense of Jack Quinn, but the latter got credit for his second victory of the series.

A fumble by Tavener when a double play would have been easy, gave the Mackmen their winning runs in the tenth. Score:

PHILLIES HALT LOSING STREAK

Klein's 2 Homers for Total Of 28 Beats Cubs, 6-5

PHILADELPHIA, July 16. (AP)—After dropping seven straight the Phillies won a ball game today by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 5. Chuck Klein hammered out two more homers, bringing his season's total to 28.

Klein's homers were made in successive times at bat, and coupled with one he hit his last time up in the second game yesterday, gave him a new modern major league record. Elmer Smith of Cleveland hit three homers in three official times at bat Sept. 4-5, 1921, but a base on balls broke up the continuity. Bobby Lowe, who hit four home runs for the Boston Braves May 30, 1894, hit four in successive times at bat, and this feat still stands as the all-time major league mark.

Klein's mark of five homers in three consecutive games also tied the major league mark shared by Babe Ruth and several other players. Score:

BATTLE OF CRIPPLES

SAN ANTONIO, July 16. (AP)—Two patched up ball teams with a pitcher and shortstop playing the outfield and a couple of catchers alternating at first base put up fairly good exhibition here Tuesday, marking the opening of the series with the Dallas Steers, which was won by the San Antonio Indians, 7 to 6.

After the Steers scored six runs off Neal Baker on 13 hits for a lead, Glazer was sent to the hill in the fifth inning and shut out the Bovines the rest of the way. Score:

Miniature Golf Course Tests Skill and Accuracy

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., April 16. (AP)—This city boasts one of the shortest golf courses in the world—a layout of 1,000 yards on which only a putter is used.

The course has all the attributes of a full grown country club layout. It is located in the city park where duffers and stars alike are finding trouble aplenty in negotiating it.

The novelty of the putter idea has swept the city's golfers into enthusiasm for its training. They are forced to shoot over concrete bridges, through pipes, around irregularly placed posts and even through shrubbery.

Amateurs Will Face True Test At Pebble Beach in September

DEL MONTE, Calif., July 16. (AP)—Strung out along the shores of the Pacific, its shimmering green fairways linking the lowland with the high, is a fantasy in golf creation that will test the skill of the nation's best amateur golfers here in September.

The Pebble Beach course has been fashioned with painstaking exactness for the 1929 national amateur championship, Sept. 2 to 7. Its builders point with pride to the fact that some of the greatest professionals of the game have trod its tricky terrain and acknowledged it "a true championship course."

Eight of its holes border directly on the Pacific ocean, a water hazard from which no balls are returned to play. Wind flurries swoop in to annoy the player, then depart as suddenly as they appeared. A network of barrancas, treacherous in their irregularity, cleave the surface of the earth from the first hole to the eighteenth.

Jagged coves, into whose recesses the great Pacific thunders its waters or swells them lazily according to its moods, bite deeply into the fairways on the homeward stretch. Nature has invoked its most ingenious handiwork to create this bit of western scenery . . . Man has seized upon it to provide a golfing layout that should test the utmost skill of even the peerless Bobby Jones.

Since its revision, not one professional or amateur has equaled the par 72 of Pebble Beach. Walter Hagen and Johnny Farrell, professionals whose deeds need no recounting, have bucked up against its hazards and both came out second best. Farrell posted the better card and it totaled 75 strokes.

After the round, Farrell said: 'Pebble Beach was a great enough and hard enough course before it was stiffened for the 1929 national amateur championship; it is now, without a doubt, one of the supreme championship golf tests in the world." Hagen's comment was: "Pebble Beach is, indeed, a great course. The scenery and climate are splendid and the golf course is entirely in keeping with its marvelous surroundings."

The Pebble Beach course was revised by H. Chandler Egan, twice national amateur champion and winner of many sectional and state titles. Its par 72 is sketched over 6,661 yards. The outward journey, calling for 36 strokes, is 3,192 yards.

BRADDOCK OUT TO SCORE K. O.

Odds Against Jimmy Halting Tommy Tomorrow

By GEORGE KIRKSEY ....

NEW YORK, July 16. (UP)—It may be just good psychology but they're crowning James J. Braddock light heavyweight champion several days ahead of schedule.

Around the young New Jersey boy's training camp at White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., he's already "the winner and the new champion."

All Braddock has to do to fulfill the predictions of his backers, friends and handlers—even his own—is to go out and put Tommy Loughran down for a count of 10 some time inside of 15 rounds at Yank stadium Thursday night.

Can He Find the Spot

It will be a good trick if Braddock can do it.

Braddock can hit, but what's more important in connection with the outcome of this bout is, can he hit Loughran in the right spot at the right time?

The odds are against it unless Loughran really has gone way back as many believe. During his almost 10 years in the ring, Loughran has fought Gene Tunney, Harry Greb (six times), Jack Delaney (twice), Young Stribling (twice), Mike McTigue (twice), Georges Carpentier, Jimmy Slattery, Pete Latzo (twice), Johnny Risko, Leo Lomski, Mickey Walker and other powerful punchers and he has never been knocked out.

Tom Knows Himself

"I'll never be knocked out," the heavyweight champion said in a chat at his training camp at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., last week. "They may put me down, but they'll never keep me there. I have made a study of my own body and I know that I'm still as good as ever was. When I feel I'm slipping I'll quit the ring, but I'm far from through right now."

Loughran, however, is near the end of his days as a light heavyweight. He can't make the weight any longer.

"I'll make it this time," Tommy said, "but it'll probably be the last."

Daily Dope

THE POWERS of United States tennis are not looking toward the future, if their selection of Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter to play in singles against Germany this week is an indication. Tilden and Hunter may be expected to defeat the Teutons and with the aid of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, playing the doubles, advance to the challenge round with France. But there is only a remote possibility of Hunter and Tilden defeating the French holders of the Davis cup and while the younger members of the United States team doubtless could not attain that achievement, they should have been named to play in singles to give them experience for the future.

Tilden and Hunter were decisively defeated in singles in the recent tournament at Wimbledon. They are veterans, whose day as stars in international competition is fast waning. It is too much to ask Allison, Van Ryn, George Lott and John Hennessey to beat Cochet, Borotra and Burgnon. But the reign of those great Frenchmen will end within a few years, and so long as we are to be defeated anyhow it would be better to turn that defeat into use.

MR. JAKE Atz at leisure as they say in the acting profession, is making lots of good copy for the boys who write pieces for the sports pages. It first was rumored that Jake would succeed Lena Blackburne as manager of the Chicago White Sox. Now "they say" that the genial former skipper of the Panthers is considered to lead the St. Louis Cardinals.

Atz' record as Fort Worth pilot, including the winning of six straight pennants, might offset the fact that he is comparatively unknown in major league circles. Save for a year or two as a player a decade and a half ago Atz never pestimed in the fast time. That would not be held against him, however, as several major league managers have been without impressive records as players. But the thing that might militate against his appointment to lead a big league club is that Jake is not a young man; he is nearing middle age and your club owner usually prefers a leader who still has the fire of youth.

SAN ANTONIO is to receive some apparently badly-needed pitching reinforcement. The decision of Judge K. M. Landis in awarding Joe Giard to the Washington club in its dispute with Atlanta was good news to Pat Newnam, skipper of the Indians. Clark Griffith, owner of the Nationals, had promised to send Giard to San Tone if the pitcher was awarded to the Washington club. Griffith has fulfilled that pledge and Giard is to join the Tribe at once.

IT MAY or may not have any significance, and probably doesn't. But perhaps editorial writers could use it for a subject for a learned discourse, and as such I pass the idea along. It is that Germany is forging to the front in international sports competition, while France and England are losing ground.

Max Schmeling is undisputed heavyweight champion of Europe and an outstanding contender for the world title. Carpentier was the last great French fighter and England has had nothing but such horizontal champions as Joe Beckett, Tom Cowler and Phil Scott for years.

The other day Germany defeated England in Davis cup tennis and meets the United States this week for the bowl emblematic of world net supremacy.

The Teutons evidently discarded mass athletics along with their kaiser and are going in more for individual competition.

FIGHTERS READY

Three Title Bouts Stir Interest in Boxing

This is the lineup for a busy round with the champions and challengers beginning with the Loughran-Braddock bout July 18 and ending with the Mandell-Canzoneri fight Aug. 2.

These championship bouts which are getting scarcer every year will come in bunches for two weeks beginning tomorrow night.

Between then and Aug. 2 three titles will be put on the block and the dope is that at least one of them—the welterweight crown—will change hands.

The firing on crowned heads of pugilism begins at the Yankee stadium when Jimmy Braddock, pride of New Jersey, tries out his vaunted right on Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight king.

Seven days later Jackie Fields, the Pacific coast clouter, with a string of hard-earned victories behind him, battles Joe Dundee, much-abused welterweight ruler, in a Detroit ring.

Probably the most important of the three scraps comes Aug. 2 in Chicago, when Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, meets young Tony Canzoneri, former featherweight titleholder.

U. S. and German Net Teams Named

Allison to Play Doubles With Van Run

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, July 16.—A combination of youth and age, of dash and experience, will represent the United States in the inter-zone finals of Davis cup play against Germany at Berlin this week.

To those two reliable veterans of Tennis, William T. Tilden II, and Francise T. Hunter, who will play in the single matches, the selection committee has added the pep and power of the Wimbledon doubles champions, Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn.

The opposing line-ups of the inter-zone matches to determine which nation goes on to meet the French challenge round will be as follows:

Germany—	United States—
Dr. D. Prenn	W. T. Tilden II
H. Moldenauer	Frank Hunter
H. Landmann	Wilmer Allison
H. Kleinschroth	John Van Ryn

The Germans, now practicing on the courts of the Rot-Weiss club in Berlin, will have to do an "iron man" stunt if they hope to stop the Americans. It is doubtful if they can do so in any event, and the betting is two to one on the United States.

The occasion for the "iron man" stunt is this: Landmann and Kleinschroth, the regular German doubles combination, are not strong enough to cope with Allison and Van Ryn. Doctor Prenn and Moldenauer form a stronger team than their countrymen, but they must play in the singles as well.

Unless Germany wins both of the opening day's singles matches, which is unlikely, if not impossible, the Germans must gamble everything upon stopping the American youngsters in the doubles.

Two singles victories and a win in the doubles will be sufficient to put the United States into the challenge round. It is not unlikely that they will win all five matches from the Germans, although the latter will provide the sternest competition our players have encountered outside the challenge round since losing the trophy.

If the Americans win at Berlin, the same team may be named to oppose the French at Paris in the challenge round, or a change may be made next week.

The Search for Color

If V. Campolo or J. J. Braddock can walk in or walk out and knock their opponents a trifle stiff at Ebbetts field or the Polo Grounds there will be color added to a somewhat colorless set of pugilistic personalities.

If De Kuh and Loughran win it will mean nothing, since they have been around too long and their ways are too well known for either to be regarded as going anywhere.

Campolo has all the physical qualities any one needs to knock De Kuh halfway back to Italy. Whether he has the rest of it is another matter. If he has 60 per cent of Firpo's spirit he can go a long distance through the collection now hanging around.

Tommy Loughran is one of the nicest fellows in the boxing game and one of the smartest of all boxers. But he can't hit a lick, nor a half a lick, and if Braddock will only wade in and take his chance he has a big shot in his mit. Loughran has been boxing most of them and he has never jarred any one for a long time. He can outbox Braddock and most of the others, but Braddock can outpunch him four to one. If Braddock will tear in and start popping he has a great chance to win with a knockout. If he lets Loughran turn the matter into another light tapping boxing contest he will be outtapped, although he may finish without a mark.

The pugilistic whirligig needs much more color. As it stands now in the heavier circles it is largely a drab gray or a faded indigo. There is no one around approaching a Jones, a Ruth, a Tilden, a Hagen, a Wiesmuller or a Hack Wilson. Most of the boys seem to be getting morbid. The next two fights may bring about a change, but that part of it is still a guess.

Lucky Courses

"There must be few golfers whose minds are at once so well regulated and so intolerably prosaic that they do not believe certain courses to be for them lucky or unlucky," writes Bernard Darwin in The London Times. "To belief that a course is lucky is one to be cherished, but I only know one way of doing so successfully for any length of time, and that is never to play there. It is akin to the faith which some of us have, though we may keep it to ourselves, in a certain tie or a pair of stockings. If we wear them too often the magic departs. I possess a drawer full of these faded disillusionments. At long intervals I turn them over with fingers at once sad and reverent, remembering how the mighty A bowed the knee before the knitted one, while those garish stripes were too much for B. Alas! the end of the story is always the same; the pitcher went once too often to the well, and C, an utterly ignominious person, with a chronic half-topped slice and a faculty for jumping bunkers, consigned stripes to a perpetual retirement by a matter of six and five.

"There is a difference between a belief in a lucky course and a belief in a lucky tie. It is capable of a rational explanation, though often an unflattering one. If we are short we shall find as likely as not that our lucky course is short also; if we are long and erratic misfortune dogs our steps where the fairway and the rough are clearly defined and there is plenty of heather. A course where all the out-of-bounds hedges are on the left gives the slicer a strange sense of happiness and well being, for which he may be at a loss to account, but which his kind friends will be ready to explain to him. Like Mr. Blotton, of Aldgate they will 'presume to state a view of the case, as degrading as ridiculous.'"

"Most of these younger ball players," writes Old Timer, "batting against Grimes have never hit a spitball." And they haven't learned a lot about hitting a spitball with Grimes in the box.

Jake Would Take Card Job Has Other Offers

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 16. (UP)—Jakie Atz, deposed manager of the Fort Worth team of the Texas league, would neither confirm or deny tonight reports that he would pilot the St. Louis Cardinals next season.

Reports current today were that Atz had been chosen to fill the shoes of Billy Southworth, Cardinal manager, but Atz claimed all he knew was what he had seen in the papers.

He admitted, however, he would accept the position were it offered him, and added that he had received several offers from Texas and Western league clubs.

The Come-Behinder

I

Down on the floor
And up again—
And down again—
And up at ten—
Blood in his throat, and blind as a bat, or blinder.
Back to his corner
And snorin' there—
With rumpled hair—
And a silly stare—
Bong! The gong! And he's offa his chair—ah, gimme that come-behinder!

II

Down on the deck
And the claret flows—
From a busted nose—
"Oh, there he goes!"
Mebbe a halt by the referee 'ud be kinder.
Back with a grin—
And a will to win—
And wheelin' 'em in—
Bop to the belly and wop to the chin—ah, gimme that come-behinder!

III

Down on the floor
But up again—
And down again—
And up at ten—
Gropes for his corner and needsa guide to find 'er.

IV

Over them ropes
His face a smear—
With a squashed up ear—
And his legs bent queer—
Gimme that guy who comes from the rear—gimme that come-behinder!

NEW YORK, July 16.—I encountered Mr. Louie Magnolia, the sweet-monogered referee, the other afternoon, and publicly chided him for a lapse I observed in the pull-and-haul between Otto Von Porat and Meyer K. O. Christner, the semi-finalists at the milk fund show.

Mr. Magnolia was permitting Meyer K. O. Christner to wrap his left arm around Otto's lean neck while pummeling Otto with his right, all of which I contended constituted holding and hitting, a practice greatly frowned on in these parts in the days of Ol' Har' Wills and Harry Greb, the greatest h-and-h's of their era.

"Well, I kept warning the guy," explained Mr. Magnolia, "but I think he's hard of hearing. Anyway, why spoil a good row?"

The late Tex Rickard's dressing room interview with Jack Dempsey just before the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, at the demand of certain high officials of New Jersey, and the promoter's plea: "Be easy with him awhile, Jack, and give this wonderful crowd a little run for its money. We're afraid of trouble if you flatten him too quick."

Jack's acquiesence, which got him a clout on the gob and almost cost him his world's title.

My own interview with the same Dempsey before the Dempsey-Firpo fight, and my plea: "Don't hurry with this big egg, Jack, because I've been boosting him to give you a good fight, and if you tilt him quick I'll look like an awful mug."

Jack's acquiesence, and his knock down of Firpo with the first punch he let fly, and his desperate effort to finish the wild bull in the next few seconds.

The good Doctor Kearns' enigmatic declaration in Dempsey's Atlantic City training camp one day before the Dempsey-Carpentier fight, when the doctor was steamed up over something: "When this fight is over, it'll be years before any man will dare walk down a street anywhere in the United States and say he is a fighter."

Which bred in my callow mind the horrible suspicion that the boys were planning a barney.

Well, maybe they were.

The same Doctor Kearns as a promoter at Sand Point, in Idaho, with Abe Attell, then featherweight champion of the world, hocking his diamond ring to give the doctor money enough to promote a fight between the said Attell and Doctor Kearns' own fighter, Eddie Merino.

The said Attell then "carrying" Eddie Merino and making him look very good, indeed.

Mr. Eddie Mack, the Boston promoter, getting very mad when the New York Boxing commission refused to force Herr Max Schmeling to fight Con O'Kelly for him before the milk fund bouts, and walking out saying, "I wash my hands of the bum," although Herr Max offered to sign a contract then and there to fight Jimmy Maloney for Mr. Mack if he beat Paulino.

The Schmeling-Maloney fight would have drawn $300,000 for Mr. Mack.

GIANTS OF OIL INDUSTRY GATHER IN LONDON FOR CONFERENCE

DISTRIBUTION TO BE STUDIED

Future Peace of Oil World Is at Stake

By HENRY CAVENDISH

LONDON, July 16. (US)—Eight giants of the American oil industry have arrived in London for conferences with the executives of the Anglo-Persian and Royal Dutch Shell Oil companies regarding the distributing of oil in the marketing areas of the entire world.

Upon the conferences, which will be held in London in the next week or 10 days, rests the question of whether the immediate future of the world oil industry will be one of peace or war.

To Study Conditions

The American executives who will take part in the conferences are J. A. Moffitt, vice president of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey; L. B. Stanford, of the Sinclair interests; George P. Whaley, president of the Vacuum Oil company, and his associate, Mr. McGuire; Messrs. Anderson and Garrabrant of the Atlantic Refining company; and Mr. Holmes and Mr. Rieber of the Texas company.

In an exclusive interview with Universal Service this afternoon, L. B. Stanford gave some indication the trend of the conversations will take when he said:

"We are all competitors in the American field, but we are here to study together the conditions under which we can best operate in foreign territory."

Stanford denied specifically that the American executives are planning to confer with British executives regarding the restriction of production of British oil producing areas to conform with the possible restriction of production in American areas.

He explained that the greatest cause of losses in the oil world today was the problem of marketing, saying:

"It is possible that an American company having oil at New Orleans or Houston might find it cheaper to supply orders from New York and the eastern market with oil from a transocean base rather than by shipping its own supplies all the way to New York."

Russians Won't Co-Operate

In this statement Stanford tacitly made the admission that the American companies might find it advisable to make concessions to Sir Henri Deterding in American eastern markets in return for concessions on Deterding's part in Oriental markets.

The main fly in the ointment is the fact that the Russian oil interests, through the official Soviet organization, the rop, decline to take part in the conrversations.

STOCK-A-DAY

Incorporated in January, 1928, the Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., is engaged in performing various services to the motion picture industry. It develops motion picture negatives, prints the positives and delivers them as instructed by the producer or distributor. The company does work for the majority of the large picture producers of the United States. It also owns 50 per cent of the stock of a company making titles for films. The company operates six plants, two in New York city, two in Hollywood and one each in Long Island city and Fort Lee, N. J.

Profits in 1928 were 38 per cent higher than in the preceding year although the reduction in raw film cost which was passed on to the company's customers caused a cut in gross of $800,000. Net amounted to $1,575,966 as compared with $1,141,488 in 1927.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding includes 300,000 shares of $2 cumulative participating preferred of no par value and 400,000 shares of no par common. The preferred participates in all profits after the common shall have been paid $2 in any one year. The preferred is callable at $35 and dividends. It has no voting power unless four consecutive dividends are in arrears. No dividends may be paid on the common which would reduce current assets below $2,400,000. The present rate of dividends on each class is now 50 cents a share quarterly.

As of Jan. 1, 1929, total current assets were $4,392,847, current liabilities amounted to $1,634,280 and net working capital was $2,758,567. Book value applicable to the no preferred shares was $17.58 exclusive of good will and patents.

Court Dismisses Ex-Mayor's Case

OMAHA, Neb., July 16. (INS)—The case against Harry Zimman, former mayor of Omaha, now a prominent and wealthy merchant, charged with violation of the prohibition law and with resisting prohibition agents, was dismissed here today by Judge George Holmes.

The jurist severely lectured the agents and asked that Zimman file charges of assault and battery against them. This Zimman said he would not care to do, pending any action the federal government might take against the two men. Zimman, at the time of his arrest, exhibited a "black eye" and other marks of violence which he said the agents administered.

DIXIE BUYS AMERADA LAND

Unique Oil Deal Involves $10,000,000

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, Okla., July 16.—An oil deal that looms unique in many angles is the purchase by the Standard Oil company of Indiana through its subsidiary, the Dixie Oil company, of an undivided half interest in some 490,000 net acres of the Amerada Petroleum corporation for $5,000,000 in cash and as much to be paid from future oil production.

All of the acreage is in Oklahoma and Kansas, and on which some 17 drilling wells are situated. The deal was signed Saturday, July 13, but was not made public until Monday morning, when it became effective.

Both Concerns Gain

The Standard of Indiana-Amerada deal will benefit both concerns. It puts the Standard more firmly into Oklahoma and Kansas, through the Dixie, and it affords the Amerada plenty of cash, and places its financial position in a splendid condition, pushing its current assets above current liabilities by about $11,500,000, equivalent to more than $12 a share on the outstanding stock.

None of the Amerada's production was sold, and this is what makes the deal seem so outstanding, for it proves that the Standard of Indiana accepted the Amerada's judgment upon the value and quality of the acreage acquired. Much of it has been highly geologized other tracts are on checkerboard spreads and still others on blocks.

Month's Negotiations

The Standard-Amerada deal followed a month's negotiations, during which conferences were held in Tulsa, Shreveport, Chicago and New York. A. W. Peake of Shreveport, La., president of the Dixie, and A. Johnson of New York, president of Amerada corporation, made frequent trips to Tulsa and Chicago. The actual signing of the papers took place between Messrs. Peake and Johnson on Saturday. A. M. Blow, vice president and manager of the Amerada Petroleum corporation, made public the following statement:

"The Amerada corporation announces that an agreement was signed on Saturday, July 13, 1929, for the sale to the Standard Oil company of Indiana through its subsidiary, the Dixie Oil company of an undivided half interest in that part of the Oklahoma and Kansas leasehold of Amerada Petroleum corporation on which production has not yet been developed. A half interest in some 490,000 net acres is being sold for $10,000,000 of which $5,000,000 is to be paid in cash, and an additional $5,000,000 is to be paid free of all cost to Amerada out of one-half of Dixie's interest in oil produced from the properties.

"None of the productive leasehold of Amerada is involved in this transaction. The properties involved in the deal will be developed jointly by the Amerada and the Dixie who will share equally in the production obtained, after the $5,000,000 in oil has been paid to Amerada.

"After the sale of this leasehold, amounting to approximately 20 per cent of its non-productive acreage, the Amerada still retains some 930,000 net acres in the states of Oklahoma, Kansas, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, California and Mississippi, as well as interest in some 700,000 acres in Venezuela.

"The Amerada has no bank loans or funded indebtedness and with the receipt of the $5,000,000 cash consideration, will have about $7,500,000 in cash, and in current assets will exceed current liabilities by about $11,500,000, equivalent to more than $12 per share on the outstanding stock.

"This strong financial position will enable Amerada to intensify its campaign of further development and expansion. The community of interest with the Dixie in the extensive joint holdings in Oklahoma and Kansas will no doubt, upon consummation of the transaction, result in a development program that will greatly strengthen the production situation of both companies in the mid-continent field."

Earnings Lower

A glance at the 1928 annual report of Amerada shows that its earnings were at the rate of $2.40 a share, or $2,214,109.63, against $3,706,715.18, or $4.02 in 1927. Low prices of oil caused the decline. It produced 6,286,507 barrels of oil, at the rate of 17,176 barrels a day in 1928. Its natural gasoline output was 21,759,465 gallons, or 59,452 gallons a day. In 1928 it drilled 81 wells, 45 of which were oil wells, five gas wells and 31 dry holes, and on Jan. 7, 1929, it was operating 600 oil wells and 20 gas wells, and 35 drilling wells.

Amerada's leasehold, exclusive of 700,000 acres of the Esperanza Petroleum corporation in Venezuela, amounted to 1,252,127 acres. At the end of 1928 the Amerada had 1,111,795 barrels of stored oil, and room for 350,000 barrels in its steel storage tanks.

Mid-continent oil men say that the Standard-Amerada deal is unique as it provided for the sale of only undeveloped acreage, all of which has a high value. Other oil deals have called for production. It may be the forerunner of similar deals, the petroleocrats say.

Stump Well Comes In Near Holliday

E. J. Stump and associates No. 1 Mrs. Crudup located 1049 feet south and 150 feet east of the northwest corner of block 10, Denton county school lands north of Holliday, but in south Wichita county drilled eight feet into a sand topped at 1803 feet and in the first 24 hours on the swab produced 453 barrels of oil. The well is an offset to the E. J. Stump No. 1 W. H. Chilson completed a few weeks ago in the same pay with an initial production of 200 barrels.

Stump and Monninger made location for their No. 1 J. H. White and have spudded in 150 feet north and 150 feet east of the southwest corner of lot 3, block 41, A. T. N. C. L. survey. The newt test is also located about three-quarters west of the three-way station, in Archer county.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 16. (AP)—Cotton was higher today on covering combined with local and commission house buying which seemed to be inspired by a less favorable view of the weather in eastern and central belt sections and renewed apprehensions of boll weevil. October contracts sold up from 17.95 to 18.42 and closed at 18.39, with the general market closing steady at net advances of 35 to 47 points.

Opening was steady at a decline of 3 points for July but generally 3 to 7 points higher on the active months, while September was 15 points higher. The early bulges met considerable realizing, but it was absorbed readily and the market worked gradually higher on reports of showers in the eastern and central belt. There were some rather less favorable crop reports from West Texas, including complaints that plants were very small owing to dry hot weather. They probably contributed to the advance which became rather more active during the last hour when the covering seemed more general.

The highest figures of the day were reached in the late trading when July sold at 18.00 and January at 18.64, with active months generally showing net advances of 35 to 40 points. The close was slightly off from the best under realizing. Cable advices stating that the British ministry of labor was intervening in the Lancashire dispute may have had a favorable effect on sentiment but was not mentioned prominently in connection with the advance. Liverpool cables said trade buying on limits had absorbed continental and Bombay selling in that market.

Exports today 15,345, making 8,104,982 so far this season. Port receipts 2,704. U. S. port stocks 654,355.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 16. (AP)—A sharp upturn in cotton wiped out the decline of yesterday, bringing advances of 15 to 16 points early in the day.

Rain in the belt in addition to boll weevil damage created a firm tone, shorts covering and advancing prices 42 to 44 points. October traded as high as 18.27, up 44 points and closed at 18.23 or 40 points net higher for the day. The general market closed steady at net gains for the day of 39 to 40 points.

First trade here showed no change to 7 points up and as soon as the Lancashire wage strike intervention report became known, prices advanced. By the end of the first hour October traded as high as 17.98 and December 18.20 or 15 to 16 points above the previous close.

After a reaction of 5 to 7 points prices again advanced sharply in afternoon trading, October reaching 18.27 and December 18.46, 42 to 44 points above hte previous close. The market closed a shade under the best with October at 18.23 and December at 18.43.

Strength in Steel Common Serves To Rally Stocks on New York Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, July 16. (US)—Strength in Steel common offset a 12 per cent call money rate and rallied the market today. Monday's reaction was carried over at the opening but recovery started coincident with announcement that the Steel corporation directors would hold special meeting after the close. Numerous rumors as to what would be done caused consistent demand that caused new high record price level for Steel and net gain for the session of 4⅜.

Allis Chalmers advanced 13½, Auburn Auto 24, Columbia Carbon three, General Electric six and Fleischmann 5¼. Railroads met profit taking and closed somewhat lower. Coppers continued under quiet but steady pressure but held to fractional loss on the average. Skelly Oil advanced 2⅝ and Pan American added to its gain under special influences while other Oils remained soft. Turnover remained above the 4,000,000 share level with the call rate holding at 12 per cent.

Decision of the Steel Corporation directors to retire $133,372,000 five per cent bonds is bullish for the long pull but is likely to have a bearish effect tomorrow morning. It was the numerous rumors concerning "stock dividend" etc. that helped rally the market. Now that it is learned there is to be no immediate melon cutting the fear of the money situation may induce heavier liquidation throughout the list for a while. With all its bonds out of the way, however, the Steel Corporation is in a position to adopt a more liberal method of bookkeeping and disburse a larger share of earnings to stockholders. If business were to hold up as indicated for the remainder of the year there would be reason for expecting a split up of the shares and a higher return to stockholders.

Utilities felt the improved sentiment and gave further indication that the leaders of the industry are nowhere near finished with their merger plans, etc. National Power and Light displayed continued good buying as early announcement is expected of special development that will prove of benefit to stockholders. Utilities Equities, the new holding organization, responded to activity of group that is best informed on plans of the management. There was a new group at work in Foundation coincident with reports of increasing earnings and outlook for further improvement during the last half of the year. It is learned that those interested include operators who were identified with the last big advance in the stock.

Auburn's new high was accompanied by announcement of record earnings and plans of dominant stockholders for further addition to income. Split up of the shares was forecast for the near future. The Continental Can group showed a little more aggressiveness in operations. There is one block of stock reported hanging over the market and obstructing the activity of the pool but hope is expressed that this can be taken care of by private agreement. Strength of Allied Chemical reflected expectation of benefits it would derive from its large holdings of Steel common. American International enjoyed popularity also for in addition to holding many Utility stocks that have advanced materially in price it is holding a good sized block of Allied Chemical.

Pan American and General Asphalt were in demand despite the bearish technical development in the oil industry. Reports of further increase in Crude Oil production were accomplished by announcement that Mid-Continent crude had been cut 25 cents a barrel. It was expected that reduction would be announced soon for Pennsylvania and other fields. The strength of Pan Pete resulted from belief that offer from Standard Oil of Indiana for minority stock would be announced soon. One and a fifth shares of Standard of Indiana for each share of Pan American was the general report. Strength in General Asphalt results from knowledge of plans of the management which may mean special distribution to stockholders. The charter has been changed so as to permit of disposal of the asphalt and roofing business.

TEXAS CASH PRICES

FORT WORTH, July 16. (AP)—Good demand for high protein wheat at unchanged values featured the Fort Worth cash grain market today, although exporters were not taking wheat except at concessions of 1½ to 2 cents and mills reduced their bids on ordinary hard wheat a full 2 cents. Corn was still strong and grain sorghums in active demand at an advance of 10 cents on both milo and kaffir.

Export Grain—Wheat 2c off; exporters bid as follows, delivered Texas gulf ports: No. 1 ordinary export $1.34@1.35; No. 1 soft red mixed $1.34@1.35; No. 2 barley slightly higher at 75 to ½.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, July 16. (AP)—Enormous profit taking sales spilled wheat values down today, and smothered buyers at least temporarily.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at 1c to 1⅜c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed ⅜c to ⅞c down, oats ⅜c to 1⅛c off, and provisions varying from 2 to 5c decline to a rise of 10c.

The Liverpool market today practically failed outright to reflect yesterday's advances in prices on this side of the Atlantic.

On the other hand, special attention was given by many traders to Canadian dispatches from leading Chicago crop experts, one of whom telegraphed that rain now can only maintain the present status of the Canadian crop, that recovery is out of the question.

Corn and oats were sympathized with wheat price setbacks.

Provisions were easy, influenced by selling on the part of packers.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 16. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Better grades of native fed steers and yearlings today found a fairly active outlet at most points around the 11-market circuit, at steady to strong prices. Chicago had a top of $16.35 on medium weight steers and the same figure was realized at Omaha on heavy steers. Highly finished yearling heifers at St. Louis made $15.60. Kansas City obtained $14 for good Texas cake feds and received $19.75 for a 10-car string of common 1,032-pound South Texas grassers. Aggregate receipts were estimated at 35,300, a shortage of around 3,500 from last Tuesday and the corresponding day a year ago.

Hogs found a slow outlet at prices unevenly lower than Monday's best time. The day's extreme top was $12.40 paid early at Chicago. Total offerings were around 81,600 as compared with 96,333 the same day last week and 78,903 a year ago.

Curtailed receipts stimulated demand for fat lambs and trade was moderately active at steady to 25 cents higher figures. Choice native lambs in Chicago scored $15. The supply approximated 38,900, a decrease of 25,800 from a week ago and 13,000 short of a year ago.

POULTRY PRICE SHOWS GAINS

Packing Plant Here Announces New Gradings

Slight increases in poultry prices and a change in the method of grading such produce were announced Tuesday by Victor Pringle, manager of the Armour Creameries plant here, formerly operated by the Wichita Poultry & Egg company.

Effective Tuesday, chickens brought to the plant are to be graded not only by weight, but according to the breed, Mr. Pringle said. Those of heavier stock, such as Rhode Island red and barred rock chickens, will be distinguished in the price classification from those of smaller breeds, it was said.

Eggs advanced from 22 to 24 cents on No. 1 eggs, and 26 cents for inferties.

Deliveries of spring chickens are increasing gradually, Mr. Pringle stated, many of them coming from branch stations in northwest Texas and southern Oklahoma. Efforts will be made to handle even more of the poultry grown in the immediate vicinity of Wichita Falls than has been packed here in the past, according to the new management.

SEA MONSTER SEEN IN LAKE

At Least Three Fishermen Make the Assertion

WILLSBORO, N. Y., July 16. (UP)—Three young fishermen, still excited today they had seen the famous Lake Champlain sea serpent, whose existence has been affirmed and denied by a confusing commission of fact and fancy during the more than 300 years since the lake's discovery.

Thomas Bridge of Willsboro village and two companions, Davis Riley and Wesley Quimby, were fishing at the mouth of the Boquet river Sunday when what appeared to them to be a huge serpent or fish thrust its head high above the surface of the lake. The monster began shaking its tail violently, lashing the water into a sea of foam.

Terrified by the spectacle, Bridge did not stop running until he had reached the village two miles away. Riley and Quimby also retired precipitately. The water was disturbed for acres around, they said.

Bridge previously had ridiculed tales of a Lake Champlain sea serpent. The serpent has been something of a legendary figure in this section, and the last time he was reported seen was 20 years ago, when he appeared between Port Henry and Crown Point.

In the chronicles of Samuel De. Champlain, who discovered the lake in 1609, it is related that a fish 12 feet in length, with a great mouth lined with rows of sharp teeth, was encountered. Attempst were made to spear the creature but its hide was so tough poniards had no effect or were broken against it.

Troy Weems has joined the U. S. army since the divorce.

New Lobbying Probe Coming

Caraway, Arkansas, Points To Crowded Corridors

WASHINGTON, July 16. (INS)—A new and general investigation of lobbying in Washington will be demanded by Senator Caraway, Democrat, Arkansas, when the senate reconvenes Aug. 19.

"The corridors of the capitol are swarming with tariff lobbyists and hundreds of other representatives of various groups are grafting upon their supporters and selling senators behind their backs," Caraway declared.

The investigation Caraway favors would include the Anti-Saloon league, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the American Federation of Labor, the National Association of Manufacturers, and others of lesser importance.

Caraway's resolution, which he said he would press for passage as soon as the senate convenes, would empower a special committee to investigate and report on:

"The activities of these lobbying associations and lobbyists.

"To ascertain of what their activities consist, how much and from what source they obtain their revenues.

"How much of these moneys they expend and for what purpose and in what manner.

"What effort they put forth to affect legislation."

The promises were made at the request of Kuo Min Tang, semi-official organization of the San Francisco Chinatown.

Suen Foo, chancellor of the Chinese consulate here, who also was implicated in the case, agreed to leave by Aug. 5, if his innocence could not be proved before then.

News Clerk Is Doing His Part

Helps Suffering People by Telling His Experiences With Orgatone

"It didn't take many doses of Orgatone to satisfy me, that I had found the right medicine for my case at last," declared J. J. Jones, a well known clerk at the Noble Gray News Stand and residing at 1704 Austin, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"For eight years," continued Mr. Jones, "my stomach and kidneys were in such a terrible condition that everything I would eat bloated me up with gas until I was miserable most all the time. My appetite went back on me and I just had to force down what little I did eat and was constantly bothered with biliousness. My nerves were in such a wretched state that I couldn't half sleep and I would get up in the morning feeling so fagged out that I couldn't do anything like I wanted. I was weak and run-down from constipation and my kidneys bothered me continually. This made me feel so tired and worn out all the time that I was hardly fit for a thing.

"I got me a bottle of Orgatone and began to pick up right off. My appetite has improved so much that I can eat and enjoy everything set before me and I never have any trouble with gas or sour stomach now. My nerves are getting in fine shape and I sleep like a child. I am stronger and have more energy than before, and I can go about my work with more satisfaction than in a long time, and I'm doing my part to help suffering people by telling what Orgatone did for me."

Genuine Orgatone is manufactured by one of the world's largest laboratories and is not a so-called secret or patent remedy but a new scientific bile treatment and is sold in Wichita Falls exclusively by the Allison Drug store.—Adv.

African Scofflaw Bird Makes Its Own Home Brew, Says Missionary

And What's More, the Native Cannibals Have 'Speakeasies' Where Choice Human Morsels Can Be Bought

By SAM LOVE
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 16.—Gather 'round, maties, and hear about the scofflaw bird that makes his own home brew—and about the African speakeasies where the local cannibal addits can sink their teeth into a forbidden human thigh bone.

Pull up your cracker boxes and have a seat—things as would make your blood run cold, out there on the dark continent, going on right now while you are eating your cereal and eggs from the chain store.

Gets Pie-Eyed

This scofflaw bird, according to the Rev. W. F. Logan, who has been a missionary in Africa for six and a half uninterrupted years and just got back on the Leviathan with his wife and three young Logans born over there—is a reprehensible little creature who spends a large part of his time in getting pie-eyed. He's bigger than a wren but not so large as a robin, and could lick both of them put together.

Up on the headwaters of the Zambesi (where Trader Horn used to exercise before he went into the novel and motion picture businesses) is where the scofflaw bird may be found.

Makes His Brew

"This little bird is a real home brew drunkard," said the Rev. Mr. Logan today. "He will work like a Trojan to make a little pothole in the clay and then let it bake hard. Next he will fill it with fruit and let the fruit juice, diluted by rain water, ferment.

"Then he and all his friends will get quite 'stewed' or 'pickled' as one might say, and make themselves disgustingly ridiculous about the place."

It is nothing for one of these scofflaw birds to make a pass at a lion, and the mortality among the little inebriates would be high if lions had wings.

Until they started "home" to Buffalo, N. Y., the three little Logans had seen more lions than they had white people and had as oddly twisted an idea of the world as Miss Joan Lowell, who was recently raised and educated on a three-masted schooner bound from Tahiti to San Francisco with a cargo of copra and old long bows.

Sly Cannibals

To the three Logan children the world was inhabited by a number of tropically clad dark spinned persons of varying sizes and smells, a half dozen large white ones and three little ones who mustn't do certain things—the latter, of course, being themselves.

Cannibalism still exists in Central Africa, but it is now done only on the sly, said the Rev. Logan. It is recognized as illegal to hanker for a neighbor's wishbone.

"One might compare the present status of cannibalism in our part of Africa to bootlegging as we are told it exists here," said the Rev. Mr. Logan. "It is furtive and confined to the old people. The younger generations have learned better."

The consensus of opinion among ship news reporters was that this wasn't exactly what the Rev. Mr. Logan had meant to convey, and that an explanatory note should point out again that he had not passed through the port of New York since 1923.

Public Sale of Creamery Plant Authorized in Creditors' Meet

The public sale of the James Brothers Creamery plant was authorized in a first creditors meeting presided over by Walter Nelson, referee, in the non-jury room at the courthouse Tuesday morning.

The sale, to be made through sealed bids, is to be held at 10 o'clock Friday morning in Mr. Nelson's office, 714 Staley building. The bids are to be opened at once. The plant is situated just off the Henrietta road about one mile from the city.

At the creditors meeting Tuesday A. H. Drake, appointed receiver for the company upon its admission of bankruptcy in the United States district court several weeks ago, was elected trustee for the creditors and authorized to make the sale. Charles I. Frances, attorney, represented the receiver at the conference.

A petition in involuntary bankruptcy, signed by six creditors here and filed in the federal court, was recently followed by the company's admission of bankruptcy and the appointment of a receiver.

Heat Plagued Editor Dons Pajamas To Overcome Weather and Worries

Bradley Gives Talk At Ad Club Luncheon

"Business houses should build up such prestige through honest advertising that the name of the concern would be a recommendation of anything it sold," said T. A. Bradley before the members of the Ad club Tuesday noon in an address on "Tying Up Retail Business with National Advertising."

Jacob B. Price, director of the 10th district, who attended a district directors' meeting at Waco last Friday, reported the air trip to Waco and the session held there.

Pilot Snoozes Soundly While 'Record' Is Checked

SCHNECTADY, N. Y., July 16. (UP)—While airport officials were endeavoring to check on the attempted endurance flight of Harold Hotaling, 20, here today, believing the youth had successfully stayed aloft during the night, Hotaling had landed after being up for 12 hours and gone home to bed without notifying anyone of his failure.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C., July 16. (UP)—Pajamas worn with snug fitting trunks or shorts are sensible hot weather departure from heavy sticky leather belted apparel men generally wear, in the opinion of W. O. Saunders, editor of the Elizabeth City Independent, who appeared here Sunday attired in pajamas.

"I wore light tan or conventional Palm Peach color set off with a necktie to match," Saunders said. "They looked respectable enough for street wear. It is nothing new with me. I frequently don pajamas over white rayon shirts, put on my house slippers, and lounge on my front porch or come down to my office."

The Sabbath appearance of the editor in pajamas created little or no excitement here. "My, how cool you look," was one comment brought brought by his pajama apparel.

Henrietta Boy Stranded Here When Older Brothers "Hop Train"

Home Now Looks Good to Boy Adventurer, Abandoned by His Companions

Because he couldn't grab the freight train that carried his two older brothers north Tuesday morning, a 13-year-old Henrietta boy, small for his age and very tired of trying to keep up with the 18-year-olds, spent Tuesday night as a runaway in the juvenile ward of the Wichita county jail.

It was a very desolate little boy, barefooted and wearing blue overalls and an oversized cap, who watched the train move out of sight across the Wichita river bridge early Tuesday morning, taking the careless big brothers with it and leaving him miles from home in a world that had suddenly become a menace instead of an adventure.

He was a hungry child, too, so hungry that he conquered his fears and trudged back to a cafe within the downtown district and asked for breakfast. He got the breakfast, but a lot of questions went with it. He was too small to be unobserved and too obviously scared.

So he was handed over to the care of James A. McDonald, juvenile officer, who placed him with Mrs. Winifred Graham, matron, in the children's ward at the courthouse.

"I wanted to go back home last night," the boy declared, his eyes filling with tears in spite of all his efforts at nonchalance. He pulled his cap as far down over the eyes as possible in an effort to conceal the tears.

"We were going to Amarillo, but when we got here I wanted to go back home. They wouldn't. They hopped the train this morning, but it was moving too fast for me. I didn't know how to do it. I watched until it was gone, then I started back. I want to go home tonight."

By an odd coincidence another runaway, who is also 13 years old but about twice as big as the runaway Henrietta boy, lay on a nearby bunk in the ward Tuesday afternoon reading a magazine and casting glances of mingled scorn and tolerance at the frightened little beginner. This youngster has come all the way from Wichita, Kan., alone and on foot, and he intends to be right out on the road again as soon as he gets sent back. No word has yet been received from his parents, but he isn't worrying.

"It isn't being 13 years old that counts, it's the amount of experience you've had," explained the seasoned wayfarer. "Don't bother about him. I'll look after him tonight and he can run to his mammy tomorrow."

DEMOLAY TO INITIATE SEVEN

Ceremonial and Election Scheduled Tonight

Seven neophytes will be initiated into the Order of DeMolay in the summer ceremonial to be held at Maskat temple on top of the City National bank building Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, it was announced Tuesday by Robert Crocker, master councilor.

The boys who will witness the ceremonial and be instructed in the secrets of the order are Pat Boruff, Guy Ashby, John Cameron, Edward Herlacher of Electra, James C. Mytinger, Cliff Taylor and Kenneth Wagoner. George Napier, who was also to have been initiated Wednesday night, will be unable to attend the ceremonial because of illness. He will be initiated at the next ceremonial in the fall, it was said.

Burris C. Jackson, past president of the Past Master Councilors' association of Texas, will be present at the meeting and will witness the presentation of both the initiatory and the DeMolay degrees.

Election of new officers will also be held at the meeting, Mr. Crocker said. Installation of the elected officers will be held some time within the next few weeks. Presentation of four medal awards will be made at the meeting, for ritual work, petitions, attendance and merit. The medals are awarded by the grand council of DeMolay.

New Orleans Rides Again

But Only Those Armed Take First Trip

NEW ORLEANS, July 15. (UP)—With shot-guns protruding from almost every window, the first street car to move unmolested on New Orleans streets for two weeks made an uneventful run shortly before noon today.

It was manned by strike-breakers guarded by armed deputy United States marshals, and accompanied by automobile loads of armed policemen who trailed along beside it.

Upon its return to the barn approximately 20 other cars were run from the five city barns. Others followed at 15-minute intervals until full service had been resumed on most of the lines.

Each car carried a squadron of deputies armed with shotguns. More than 1,000 policemen patrolled streets through which the cars passed and were on the alert to combat any attempts at interference with service.

Christopher Sower, in 1740, established a type foundry at Germantown, Pa. He cast types for an edition of the Bible in German, and later cast English types.

Man Given Suspended Sentence Here to Face Perjury Charge

Charging that Walter Gorman gave false testimony in an effort to obtain a suspended sentence in his forgery trial Monday, the district attorney's office Tuesday filed a perjury complaint against the defendant early Tuesday afternoon. Gorman was released under a two-year suspended sentence in the 30th district court Monday morning.

George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney, was in possession Tuesday morning of a certified copy of a jury verdict from Waco, finding "Bill Gorman" guilty of burglary and giving him a five year suspended sentence. The complaint filed here Tuesday charges that the defendant in that case is the same man tried here Monday.

In his application for a suspended sentence, made when he pleaded guilty to forgery, Gorman told the jury that he had never been convicted on a felony charge in the state of Texas or in any other state, Mr. Anderson asserted. The attorney said that Gorman continued to deny any previous conviction in spite of the new complaint filed against him.

Street Sign Bids Called

City to Purchase Markers For 1,400 Intersections

Wichita Falls streets are to be marked at approximately 1,400 intersections with eight-foot street markers made of two signs crossed at the top of the pole, indicating the name of the street and the block number, it was announced Tuesday by W. B. Ward, city purchasing agent.

Specifications have been mailed out and calls for bids have been issued. Bids will be received until July 29, Mr. Ward said. The signs will be blue and white in color and will be constructed of heavy reinforced metal so as to eliminate the necessity of replacement for several years.

SMALL BLAZE

Several fire trucks were called to the corner of Tenth and Austin streets about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night when a small blaze broke out in electric wiring near the building of the First Church of Christ. The flame was put out by an extinguisher and no damage was reported.
