First Herefords Came To Area Back In 1896

By SUE MUECK
BRAND STAFF REPORTER

In 1896, the first Hereford cattle came to Hereford. There was no railroad; the cattle had to be driven all the way from Amarillo.

When a Santa Fe Railroad surveyor was surveying for right-of-way for a railroad, a Mrs. Brady, whose ranch was touched by the railroad, was watching the surveyor. He asked her what they decided to name the town.

She told him that the name had not been decided. He said all he saw that looked any good were Herefords, and that they ought to name the town "Hereford."

That's how Hereford, Tex., was put on the map.

In the late 1880's, 90's and 1900's, there was a tremendous importation of Herefords from Herefordshire, England.

One of the leading importers, Finch and Nelson, imported many cattle to Texas. Gugell and Simpson from Missouri bought the bull, Anxiety IV, and produced most of the foundation Hereford cattle. Finch and his

Young Bowler Gets On Team By 404 Series

A young Hereford bowler, Gary Gore, 12, Wednesday rolled a 404 series to secure a spot with five other youngsters who will compete with a team from Milwaukee, Wis., in the Young America Bowlerama.

The youngster rolled 131, 110 and 163 games at the Western Bowl in Amarillo, in the 13 years and under age bracket.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gore, 810 E. Third, the boy will be on a six-player team which will match scores with bowlers in Milwaukee at Wednesday. Running tabulations will be kept in the two cities by teletype while the tournament is in progress.

Winning team will make a trip to Los Angeles to bowl in the national Bowlerama, scheduled Sept. 1-3.

Gore has bowled for about a year. If he is on the winning team, he will have a side visit to Disneyland while in California.

He qualified for the Amarillo tourney here Aug. 10.

More than 350 bowlers entered the Amarillo tourney, which is sponsored by AMF. Top candidates were named last Wednesday. (Continued on page 2)

The highest price heifer selling at $5,200, which was a world record price, was bred here by McDonald. The Mousel Brothers gave $100,000 for 30 heifers to start a herd.

The highest average sale at a Hereford auction was in 1919 at the Bull Barn in Hereford. In the early 1900's this area was the source for Hereford foundation breed cattle for all over America. The descendants of some of the great cows are still in this area.

In the last three or four years, there has been a revival of interest in Hereford cattle in this area because they were the kind of cattle that Hereford breeders in America felt would improve their cattle.

There are 42 registered herds in this county. Bill Dameron has won the Senior Calf Car Lot Show in Denver for two years in a row. Walter Graham bought the best bull for $20,100 at the recent Bridwell Sale. Jack Renfro bought the top bull for $16,000 two years. Cameron Gault bought a new bull in Denver, and Lee Cocanougher bought two bulls in Denver.

Hereford has truly become the Hereford Capital of America, and it has become a common statement throughout the country that "you can see more of the right kind of Hereford cattle in the Hereford area in one day than anywhere else in the country."

"At first, writing society news was very difficult for me," she remembers. "I was afraid I would get something wrong, which I did at times. I cried my eyes out when people criticized me. But soon I got used to my job, and it became fascinating — a way of life for me."

She had never touched a typewriter before, so she learned the finer techniques of the "hunt - and - peck system."

"And I still use it," she added. "Shortly after becoming society editor," she commented, "I began to read and learn to make society news bigger and better."

They tabled discussion concerning use of facilities for special meetings and conventions as premature at this time.

"Right now, let's concentrate on getting the club open and in operation," said president Decker. "Primarily, it is for the convenience and use of members, but I feel sure that the board will be liberal in cases of community service. We are going to have one of the nicest small clubs in Texas. It is a community asset, and certainly we want it to be a part of the community, in which every citizen will take pride."

Present plans include grounds improvement and a paved parking area, along with building completion and furnishings by the Oct. 1 date. Landscaping, trees and shrubbery will not be finished, however, by the opening. Directors also discussed, but failed to act on a proposal to hold an "ardor day," at which time members would each secure and set out a tree in conjunction with the overall planting plan provided by Texas Tech landscaping engineers.

Texas Department Public Safety Marks Anniversary

The Texas Department of Public Safety this week marked its 25th anniversary as the state agency responsible for the enforcement of laws protecting the public safety and providing for the prevention and detection of crime in Texas.

Governor Price Daniel and other state officials congratulated Col. Homer Garrison Jr., department director, and all employees of the department upon the occasion of the agency's quarter-century of progress in the field of modern law enforcement.

The Governor said: "Texas Department of Public Safety in its first 25 years has become one of the outstanding law enforcement agencies in the world. Much of the credit should go to Col. Homer Garrison Jr., who has directed the department for 22 years. I congratulate Col. Garrison, his staff and all members of the department on this 25th anniversary."

Garrison, who served as assistant director for the first three years before being named director, said: "All of us who have been concerned with the public safety in Texas are proud of the strides that have been taken in state law enforcement and the regulation of the traffic flow in our state since the inception of the Department of Public Safety on Aug. 10, 1935."

"However, we face today much the same challenges we did 25 years ago this week—a relatively small force to combat increasing crime and traffic accidents due to ever-changing techniques and population increases."

Garrison pointed out that the DPS in its first year had the task of patrolling some 20,000 miles of rural highways with a force of 140 patrolmen; while in 1960 it is responsible for 53,000 miles of rural highways with 773 patrolmen.

"Statistically speaking," he said, "This would mean that in 1935 we had one patrolman for every 145 miles of highway, and in 1960 we have one patrolman for approximately 70 miles of highway."

"While this would appear to be an improved situation, however, it is completely offset when it is considered that there were less than a million and a half vehicles on the road then—compared with four and a half million today."

In today's modern operation of the state safety agency, Garrison, as director, is in charge of enforcement of the laws relating to the operation of motor vehicles, criminal law enforcement in cooperation with local authorities, educating citizens in public safety and law observance, police training, police records, scientific crime detection, and a statewide police communications systems. He performs his duties under plans and policies established by the Texas

Public Safety Commission, a three-member board appointed by the Governor.

In a 1957 survey report, the Texas Research League said the department "has earned an enviable reputation for the manner in which it has served the people of our state over two decades."

This reputation extends beyond the borders of Texas. National recognition has repeatedly been given the department for outstanding accomplishments in the fields of criminal law enforcement and motor traffic control.

The Research League noted at that time that "few if any states have gone so far as Texas in placing in one state agency so many different functions in the general field of crime and highway traffic control."

The DPS was created by an act of the Legislature on Aug. 10, 1935, at a time when it was recognized that the state's in crime prevention and traffic control was inadequate and improperly organized.

STUFFING EGGS?

For half a dozen hard-boiled eggs to be stuffed, mash the yolks with a quarter cup of mayonnaise-type salad dressing, half a teaspoon of dry mustard and salt and pepper to taste. The sharp tines of a kitchen fork will "flute" the stuffing after it has been piled back into the egg-white cavities.

NATURE TO RESCUE

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—George Michael Pace, aged 3, was really loaded. X-rays confirmed the suspicions of his father, Police-man John G. Pace. A missing 45-caliber cartridge had been swallowed by the boy.

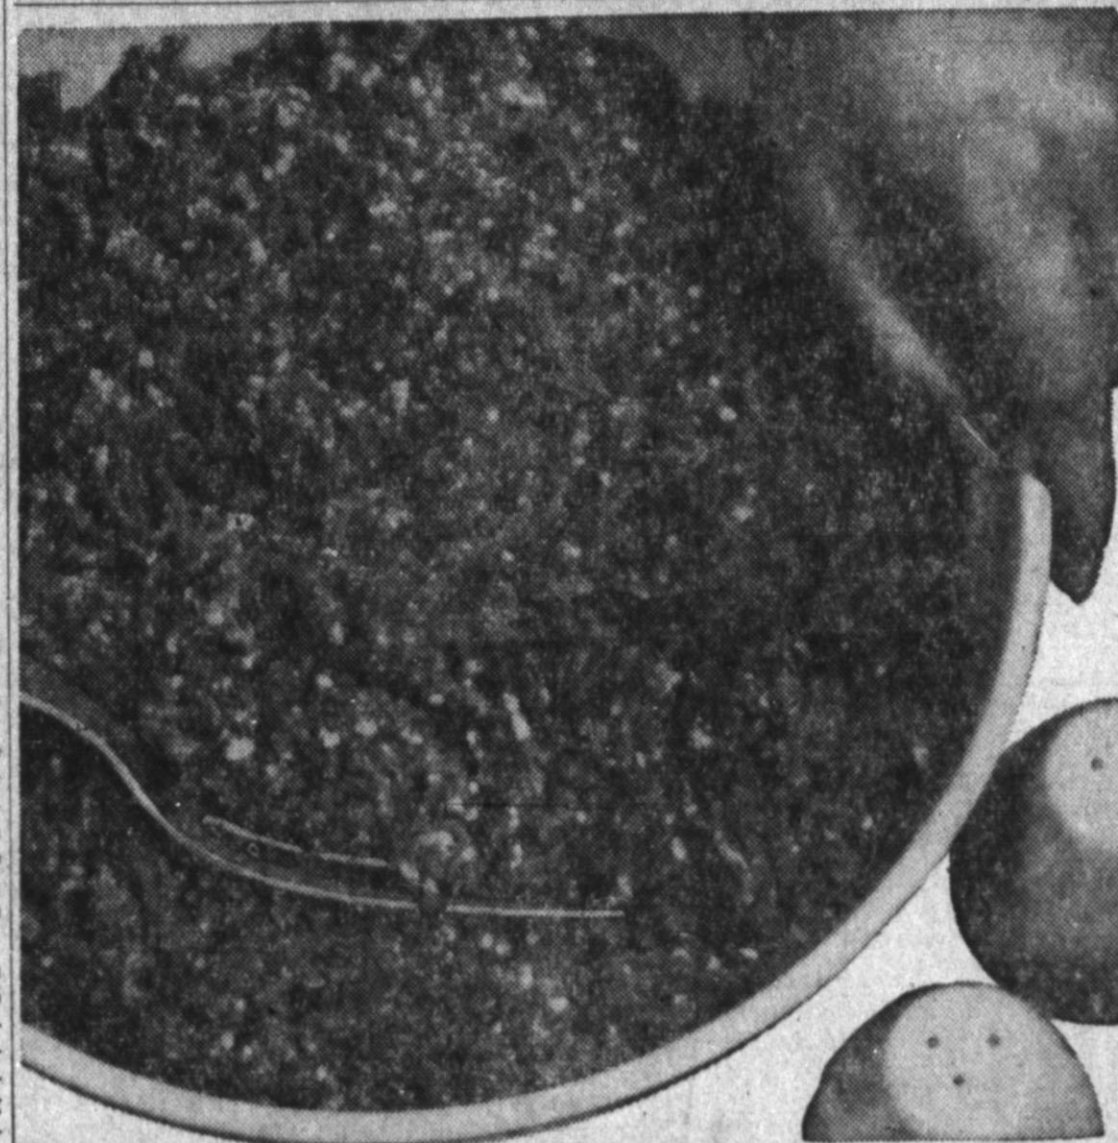

SMOKE, NO FIRE

WILLCOX, Ariz. (AP)—Movie-goers saw what they thought was smoke coming through open air vents. Someone yelled "fire" and the audience headed for exits. Theater manager Cecil Frank reassured them there was nothing to worry about. The "smoke" was the only insect spray being sprayed in a nearby alley.

TIME'S UP

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—To keep arguments at public debates within reasonable length, Columbus City Council has ordered a timer with a special feature—a raucous buzzer.

Oh! the scrumptious eating you can enjoy with Safeway's

Moisture Lowers Yield Of Safflower

Due to unusually heavy rains during final stages of growth this year, yields on the 1960 safflower crop in Deaf Smith County were light, it was reported this week by County Farmers Union president Bill Gentry.

Gentry grew 50 acres of the relatively new crop to the High Plains on test plots northeast of Hereford.

Taking into consideration the amount of rainfall this year, "the crop did about as well as could be expected," Gentry commented.

Rainfall during final stages of crop's growth resulted in hollow and light seeds, he explained. He added that safflower grown in other areas having less rainfall produced better yields.

He completed harvest of his test plots last week. The plots were planted during a three-week period, from the last part of March to the middle of April.

Gentry said the safflower planted during the second week filled better, weighed more and produced better yields. The last week of rainfall during the oilseed's growth caused the most extensive damage.

His best plot produced about 1,000 pounds to the acre. Some of the safflower planted later produced very light yields, he said.

Gentry said the future of safflower in this area does not look too encouraging at this time. He commented that he was surprised that some of the crop could be harvested at all, considering untimely rains.

Eight Deaf Smith County farmers signed contracts to grow 500 acres of safflower in 1960 after a meeting held April 7. Contract price for the crop this year is $55 a ton, and seed was purchased at $12.50 per hundred pounds.

Last year, 25 county farmers planted more than 300 acres on an experimental and educational basis, on dryland and in irrigated fields.

DRAINAGE PROBLEM
 MUSKOGEE, Okla. (AP) — Passers-by made a double take when they passed Ollie Rodden's service station. He put several decoy ducks in a puddle of water in the street to draw attention of the city that the drainage was not good.

OVER-DOSE
 PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Two men conceded they probably used more dynamite than necessary to blow out a tree stump. Deputies said William D. Smith and James Horton used 15 sticks. The resulting blast shook a number of homes and showered a two-block area with debris. No one was hurt.

The number of cattle in the United States increased from 53 million to 97 million during 1958.

He is also a Texas Tech graduate. Mrs. Francis is home-making teacher at Marshall Junior High School.

The Russian trial of Francis Powers, U-2 pilot, has resulted in varied and controversial reactions in Hereford. Some people figure Powers to be a near-martyr in behalf of his country, while others will tell you that he is an outright traitor for not blowing himself up with the plane and information. The reaction is most unusual, especially when you stop to consider that everyone has been pretty well exposed to the same reports. Personally, I think Powers is anything but a hero. The spy business is a profession within itself — and the first thing an operator learns is that he is expendable in behalf of his country. It is a hazard of the $30,000 — a — year job, and I cannot feel that Mr. Powers filled his mission ala prescribed methods.

Too, I was quite surprised that they did not order his death. The situation is strictly one of propaganda — and it does seem to be having the desired effect Russia anticipated with many people in the United States.

Those robberies Thursday night must have been rougher than I thought. Troy Moore says, in addition to items stolen, the thieves left his office looking worse than the top of my desk. If true, you can't blame him for being upset. Bill Knox lost $25 and a razor, which might furnish a clue. At least, very few people these days know how to shave with one of those barber shop razors.

Coy Phillips, a croquet fan, says the courthouse gang is missing a bet. He was looking down from the third floor on the nice, flat top of the jail — and has decided it would make a wonderful croquet court. He says it is even shaded in the afternoon by the larger courthouse structure.

The news department worked up a nice feature about Mrs. John McLean, who is retiring as Brand society editor after 24 years of service. Her outstanding work has contributed much to the awards the paper has won over the period. I know that the entire community will miss her as an individual, and as a society editor. She and John will spend the winter in Austin — doctor's orders — but plan to come back to Hereford next Spring. Meanwhile, Ruby Brewton will assume the duties of society editor, and we feel sure that she will do an excellent job.

Mrs. McLean started on the job Aug. 1, 1936, around 18 months before I became associated with the paper. We have had changes in every other department except society, but she has always been capable, thorough and most loyal. I have no idea how many words she may have written — but they would be hundreds of thousands. Some of the first brides she wrote about are now grandmothers — and there are not many women's page editors with this distinction. Probably fewer than a dozen in the whole nation.

Needless to say, we will miss Mrs. McLean. Her ideas have often been brilliant and she has been a tireless worker. We know that you will show Miss Brewton the same co-operation and consideration, however. She will be full time at the office. The phone number is EM 4-2039.

All of the ready-to-wear people are heading for Dallas to attend the Fall Market. Most of them will fly down Sunday and probably be back Wednesday or Thursday. They keep telling me this is hard work. Real hard! They also get a bit miffed, upon returning, if you asked if they had a good time.

Bill Morris is thoroughly sold on Hereford's 1960 football squad. He announced a meeting for organization of a Quarterback Club at the hospitality room in the First National Bank Tuesday, 8 p. m., and predicts that we will field an exceptionally strong, well-trained team. Bill has been watching the workouts, and says that the boys are in A — One physical condition. This sounds like a good deal. We need a QB Club, and if we turn up with a district winner, the town will probably go stark, raving football mad.

Jack Renfro says this town needs some place to adequately store 100 watermelons. He pulled some strings and managed to get the melons, especially hand picked and imported, for the Hereford Tour Monday. Jack says you can keep them about 12 hours in the ice house before they freeze, but they have to come out through the chutes where the 300 — pound ice blocks are dispensed. He also says you just about have to ride each melon down the chute to keep it from smashing at the bottom — and he isn't near as good a watermelon jockey as he was 25 years back. Fortunately, it isn't a problem you encounter every day, so I guess he will manage somehow, somehow.

Bill Dameron has been working up a storm this past week as the finishing touches were put on the Hereford Tour. The 1960 tour, they say, will even outdo the 1959 version.

Ezra Norton is the one man I know who really has the lawn watering situation well in hand. Ezra got himself a rocking chair, which he located under those big Elm trees at his home on McKinley. Ezra sits in the shade, admires the view and when the hose needs moving, he is right on location to make the shift with a minimum of effort.

"I got tired of having to come out of the house and change the water all of the time," said Ezra. "Besides, I kept forgetting it, so I just installed the outdoor observa-

Thompson Attends Counseling Institute

Robert L. Thompson, 403 Union, has completed a nine-week Counseling and Guidance Training Institute at the University of Texas.

Dr. Royal Embree, University educational psychology professor, directed the summer institute to give advanced training to school personnel engaged in counseling and guidance. The counselor's role in motivating talented students to attend college and select vocations critical to the nation's survival received major emphasis at the institute.

Thirty — one secondary school counselors and teachers participated.

Henry Sears got back from Washington Thursday evening, leaving Jim Witherspoon, Lee Benefield, Jack Bradley and some of the other boys on the job. He reports that the group worked like Trojans, and saw a lot of officials in behalf of proposed sugar legislation which would leave the door open for this territory.

"We have hopes that it may go through," declared Henry, "but you never know about Congress until it passes. Things happen mighty fast in Washington. We've got our fingers crossed."

STRETCH IT OUT

You can stretch a beef or lamb stew with canned drained peas and small whole white onions.

REMOVE THE FAT

If you have trouble skimming the fat from a meat stew make the dish the day before you are going to use it and refrigerate. The fat will harden at the top in a solid cake and may be easily removed.

How Can I?

Q. How can I discourage moths and silverfish in my rugs?

A. These pests have a hearty dislike for printer's ink, and you can capitalize on this by spreading layers of newspapers under your rugs. Put the papers between the rug and the pad, if you have one — if not, use a heavy layer of newspapers and it will serve as a cushion, too.

Q. How can I prevent screws from working loose in plastered walls?

A. Make a tiny opening in the plaster where you wish to drive your screw, then fill this with some plastic wood. Drive your screw in while the wood is still soft.

Q. How can I remove daubs and splashes of paint on some of my window glass?

A. Easy! Just rub gently over these spots with some fine steel wool.

Q. How can I remove grease from silk?

A. Take a lump of magnesia, rub it well on the spot, let dry, and brush off.

Life Membership To John McLean

John McLean of Hereford was presented as a candidate for life membership of Lions International at the Wednesday meeting of the Hereford Lions Club. The life membership will be confirmed as soon as the national board meets.

McLean has served the Lions Club in Lions International for 31 years. He was secretary for 12 years, Zone Chairman for four years, Deputy District Governor three years and District Governor in 1947-48.

The other part of the program was provided by Poke Robison, assistant athletic director at Texas Tech. He brought as his guests Lee Jackson, the executive secretary of the Red Raiders Club, and Coach Red Phillips.

Coach Phillips gave a run-down of the prospective players for Tech and then the football schedule. This is the first year that Texas Tech has been in the Southwest Conference.

Auxiliary Holds Writing Contest

The opening of the 26th annual National High School Writing Contest was announced today by the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The topic will be "Law and the Free Citizen."

Students in all public, private and parochial high schools are eligible to enter the contest. National prizes are: First, $1,000 cash; second $500; third $250; fourth $100; and 20 other cash awards for honorable mention. State and local contest winners receive additional Auxiliary awards which vary with the community.

The writing contest was begun by the V. F. W. Auxiliary in 1935 to encourage young people to think and write on patriotic subjects. During the last school year more than 30,000 students from all 50 states entered the national contest. Leo Hoegh, director of the Office of Civil and Defense Mobilization, served as chairman of the national judges.

Further information on the 1960-61 contest may be obtained from local Auxiliary units, or from the Contest Department, V. F. W. Auxiliary, 406 West 34th Street, Kansas City 11, Mo.

Auxiliary members annually give more than three million dollars, and more than six million hours, to volunteer service for hospitalized veterans and their families, community service, Americanism programs, assistance to youth groups, civil defense and legislation benefiting veterans and their families. Members are the wives, mothers, sisters, daughters and widows of veterans who have served overseas in the U. S. armed forces, or women who have themselves had overseas service.

Merchants Hold Meeting Friday

A group of Hereford merchants met Friday in the Jim Hill Hotel ball room to discuss further plans for the Fall Mall to be held here Saturday, Oct. 22, from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m.

The group decided that blocks two, three and four of Main Street will be blocked off to parking, and car dealers, implement dealers and other exhibitors will be asked to display an exhibit in the show. Each dealer may have one-third of a block on each side of the street.

Also at the meeting individual merchants were named to be in charge of Christmas decorations for their assigned block. The group brought out that Christmas decorations will be put up the Sunday after Thanksgiving.

WELCOME to the HEREFORD CAPITAL

The Latch-String is out... we are glad you are here. Your hosts, the area Ranchers and Breeders have looked forward to this occasion since last year. The highest compliment you pay a Hereford breeder is a personal visit to his ranch and the inspection of his herd. We therefore, are especially grateful for your presence.

We hope that you will recognize the Hereford Tour as an occasion upon which we hope to present for your inspection ALL of our Herefords, and not necessarily to draw attention to any individual cattle, or any individual breeder.

It has been our objective to provide adequate information through our Tour Guide booklet, which you will receive... and in case we can personally be of assistance in helping you in any matter, please feel free to call upon us.

*We'll be seeing you on the tour
as you visit our various ranches*

Brown-Roberts Wedding Read In Lamesa Church

Vows were exchanged at 7 p. m. Saturday in the First Methodist Church of Lamesa by Miss Emma Jane Brown, daughter of Mrs. C. O. Brown, of this city and Angus M. Roberts of Lamesa, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Roberts of Lamesa, with the Rev. J. Lloyd Mayhew of Lamesa, uncle of the bridegroom, officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

The altar area was centered by a white arch covered with pink and white flowers and supporting white pedestals holding white wedding tapers.

Mrs. Jake Lippard, organist, played a medley of nuptial music preceding the ceremony and accompanied the bride's sisters, Mrs. Albert Kinsey of McAlester, Okla., and Mrs. Jack Burris of Canyon, who sang "No Other Love," "Indian Love Call," and the "Wedding Prayer" as the couple knelt for the benediction. The organist played "Bless This House," softly as vows were spoken and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride's sisters, Mrs. Albert Kinsey and Mrs. Jack Burris, attended her as honor matrons and bridesmaid, Mrs. Kinsey wore a white embroidered nylon organza frock with Paris pink cummerbund and matching accessories, and carried a white fan topped with pink rosebuds. The bridesmaid wore pink embroidered organza with pink cummerbund and matching accessories. She also carried a white fan accented with pink rosebuds.

Sabrina Burrus, niece of the bride, wearing a frock similar to that worn by the bridesmaid, served as flower girl.

V. M. Roberts of Lamesa assisted his brother as best man and ushers were G. L. Trice, Dupree Sanders, Herman Maule and Don Roberts; all of Lamesa. Candel lighters were Pat Sanders and Dickey Roberts of Lamesa.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Emmett Brown of Canyon, wore a floor-length gown of white lace and tulle over tulle. The fitted lace waist had a low square neckline and short sleeves which were met by matching lace gauntlets. The full skirt was fashioned of tiered ruffles of net and she carried a white Bible topped by cascading white rosebuds and gardenias. Her waist-length veil of tulle fell from a lace half hat ornamented with seed pearls.

The brides mother wore a two-piece rose suit of Tropica suiting with navy accessories. The bridegroom's aunt, Mrs. Lloyd Mayhew, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Neil Roberts, who sat within the ribbons, wore similar dresses with harmonizing accessories. Their flowers were corsages of white roses.

At the reception which followed the wedding in Fellowship Hall, the bride's table was laid with a madra cloth laid over pink and centered with the attendants' bouquets. The tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink rosebuds.

Assisting with the reception were Miss Betty Mae Sanders, Mrs. Dupree Sanders, Mrs. Herman Maule, Miss Melody Edwards, all of Lamesa, and Miss Margaret McAdams of Abilene.

For traveling to points in Colorado, the bride donned a green linen suit with boxy jacket accented with brown accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias. Upon their return they will make their home at 206 N. Avenue M, in Lamesa.

The bride is a graduate of Hereford High School and of West Texas State College, Canyon. While there she was a member of Tau Beta Sigma (Band fraternity) Kappa Pi (National honor Art Fraternity), WT Band and Wesley Foundation. For the past five years she has taught art in Lamesa Junior High School. For the past three years she has served as director of the West Texas Girl Scout Camp.

The marriage of Miss Lovilla Finley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Finley, 301 Irving, to Delton Cochran, son of Mrs. Zona Cochran, 206 Grand Ave., took place Saturday, Aug. 13, in the Temple Baptist Church. The Rev. Russell Pogue of Petersburg, former pastor, read the single - ring ceremony.

Altar decorations consisted of white flowers and greenery with white nylon lace over bridal satin. The Princess style full length dress was sleeveless and the full flared skirt fell into a chapel train. She wore a lace Eton jacket featuring a high Queen Anne collar and long petal point sleeves. Her veil of illusion was caught to a lace tiara. Her flowers were long stemmed American Beauty roses arranged in a sheaf.

A reception in the church social hall honoring the couple followed the wedding. The refreshment table was centered with a miniature bridal couple standing on a white net base, and the blue and white wedding cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Miss Maria Free of Canyon and Sue Savage presided, with Mrs. Gienna Janssen, sister of the bride, serving at the guest book.

The couple are graduates of Hereford High School. She is employed in the office of Drs. Westlie Owen and J. W. Barnett, dentists. Cochran is employed at the Pioneer Natural Gas Company.

They will make their home here at 501 E. Fourth St.

BERRIES, AND NO BEARS
MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin berry crop was good this year. As a result, tourists were disappointed.

Why? Bears in the northern resort country were so happy with their ample supply of wild berries they didn't bother to venture into isolated town dumps looking for food. Tourists often parked their cars near these dumps to watch the bears.

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Charles Shaw, curator of reptiles at San Diego Zoo, was called to the steamship President Van Buren to treat a lizard with a hangover.

During the trip from the Philippines, the ship's crew had discovered that the lizard liked soda water. Then, somebody spiked the soda with whisky. The lizard was being taken to a trade fair at Oakland, Calif.

Flowerpot Covers

Aluminum foil makes attractive covers for clay flowerpots, as it is easily shaped to the contour of the pots and stays in place without other fastenings. At the same time, the loose foil covering permits the pot to "breathe" in a manner approved by professional florists. The sheet of foil must be large enough to fold up over the rim of the pot.

When you're annoyed at having your clothes stick to the varnish of a chair during warm weather, you can cure this by treating the chair with a turpentine rubdown, following this by rubbing briskly with a cloth moistened with boiled linseed oil. Let the surface dry after each application.

PRODUCERS TAKE CHANCES
COLUMBUS, Ohio (U) — The most productive workers on a factory assembly line also take the most chances with their safety, an Ohio State University professor says.

After a 23-day study at a Columbus plant, during which he observed workers from a catwalk overhead, Dr. Thomas H. Rockwell concluded that a certain amount of risk may be necessary for maximum productivity.

Violations he mentioned include failure to use goggles when necessary, running, tools underfoot and working beneath suspended loads.

How Can I?

By Anne Hubley

Q. How can I repair chipped porcelain on my stove?

A. There are a number of porcelain glazes on the market for this purpose. The area to be fixed must be free of grease and dirt, and completely dry. Apply a thin coat of the glaze, wait 30 minutes, then apply another thin coat. Keep applying these thin coats until the damaged area is built up so that it is level with the surrounding surface. The trick is not to try to fill the chipped area with one single thick coat. Have denatured alcohol on hand for use in wiping off any surplus glaze.

Q. What can I do about rust stains on the fixtures in my kitchen sink?

A. Scour them with a paste made of equal parts of hydrogen peroxide and cream of tartar. Let this remain on about 15 minutes, then rinse off.

Q. How can I remove water from an ear?

A. Tip the head down toward the ground or floor on the affected ear side, and jump up and down on the foot of the same side.

Q. How can I prevent a screw-type glue-jar cap from sticking?

A. Put two scraps of waxed paper over the mouth of the jar before you screw on the cap. Then, while one piece of paper will stick to the jar, and the other will stick to the cap, the waxed papers will still slide against each other for easy removal of the cap.

Q. How can I remedy a loose tile in the hearth of my fireplace?

A. Lift out the loose tile, pour in some hot paraffin, then quickly replace the tile. It will remain in place indefinitely.

Q. How can I remove paint spots from shoes?

A. The quickest way to do this is to use a kitchen match. Dip it into cold water, and apply to the paint.

Mrs. Richard Walker of Newcastle, Wyo., was the bride's matron of honor. Deaf Smith Grand Jury Sets Pace, But Modestly Missed One Orchid

Grand juries are generally construed as august bodies which meet, return indictments, and occasionally throw in a few complaints about jail conditions for good measure. This week, however, a Deaf Smith County 69th Judicial District Grand Jury turned tables, and came up with a pair of orchids in behalf of good government.

True enough, the 12 men and women did return indictments in true and ancient form but, upon completion of their accepted duties, the jury took time to express appreciation of the community in behalf of some accomplishments. Retiring Sheriff Charles Skelton was recognized for the businesslike, efficient manner in which he has organized and operated the sheriff's department. The Commissioners Court was also officially recognized for efforts and careful spending which has transferred the Deaf Smith County courthouse into a modern building at a minimum of the replacement cost.

Needless to say, The Brand agrees with the grand jury on both counts. Nowhere in the country can you find a better functioning sheriff's department, along with the modern crime detection methods and strict, but impartial enforcement of the law. The courthouse, too, stands in tribute to thorough planning, adaption of existing facilities, and careful spending. It would have been much easier for the commissioners to have torn down the old building and replace it — at many times the cost — with a new building which would have been far less attractive and far less serviceable. Examples of this procedure may be found all over the nation.

Compare these two situations with the recent scandals in neighboring Randall County, and you will begin to see what the grand jury had in mind when they started passing out bouquets.

The grand jury, in our opinion, looked over one point which deserves mention, perhaps above even the other two. That is the action of the grand jury itself. Public servants have come to expect criticism and censure; too often, sincere efforts are rebuffed through political aspirations and by opposing groups. The fact that a grand jury found time in their busy lives to say "Thank You" is indeed an innovation in the modern way of doing things. No doubt, it will stand as a guiding beacon to other public servants who may come to feel that efforts in the right direction are appreciated.

A careful study of conditions, along with censure or praise as the occasion warrants, seems to us the first sensible approach we have seen in many years toward a better government . . . by the people . . . and for the people.

Equalization Is Still Question

What happened to the tax equalization proposal?

Frankly, we cannot tell. It seems that the city and school districts are ready to go, but the county is still on the fence. Why? This, again, we cannot tell.

Certainly, we realize that there are two sides to the survey question. We further recognize that many people oppose a survey on ground that it would be expensive; others, for selfish reasons may not wish to assume their just portion of the taxes.

We note that another meeting has been scheduled for the future, and from this session will perhaps come some clear-cut answers from all three groups, along with voting records and reasons.

Taxes vary from other board actions, chiefly because they are collectable at the point of immediate or ultimate confiscation of property. Equalized taxes are the basis of our American form of government, regardless of how the equalized values are achieved.

Democratic freedom has depended, and always will depend upon equalization, whether it be in justice, in privileges or in taxation.

Yule Lights On Easy Payments

Hereford's 1960 Christmas decorations will reflect at least two changes when the lights go up next November. They will be new, attractive gold tinted in design, and they will have been purchased on the installment plan.

The merchants, we understand, had quite a discussion over the three-year purchase payment plan. Some contended that a purchase of this type should either be paid for in cash or forgotten; others said that their own payments came in the form of installments over similar periods, and things were fit-for-fat.

Like many other questions, this one seems to depend upon one's point of view. If you see the Christmas decorations in the same category with equipment, fixtures, merchandise, remodeling and improvements, the time payment plan would be acceptable to most merchants. On the other hand, if the decorations are seen as unnecessary, unproductive and non-essential, most business men would turn thumbs down.

The matter is that simple. Credit is a wonderful asset, if properly handled and payments can be made on schedule.

The POWER of FAITH by Howard Brodie

"It is by his example, rather than his works, that he has exercised an influence on civilization, and that he deserves a place to himself amongst the men who have ennobled humanity."

Bernard Palissy, a 16th Century French potter, was so enthralled by a specimen of Chinese porcelain that he worked for 16 years to discover the secret of its manufacture. Impoverished and with a family to support, Palissy struggled through his experiments without pay, even burned his furniture to keep his kilns going.

Palissy never found the secret of making Chinese porcelain, but his devotion to his art made him the greatest potter of his age and enabled him to create objects that are treasured in museums today.

This devout Huguenot firmly believed that "the talents a man has received from God, he should endeavor to multiply, following His commandment."

Faith of such caliber enabled him to face an even greater test later in life. At the height of his career, when he was patronized by the royal court and named "inventor of rustic pottery to the king and the queen-mother," Palissy suddenly found himself imprisoned for his faith. The king said he was compelled to turn him over to his enemies and pleaded with him to compromise his beliefs.

"It is rather I that should pity you, who utter such words as these 'I am compelled,'" answered Palissy. "This is not the language of a king, and neither yourself . . . with all your people shall compel me."

The potter was mightier than the king.

Will Rogers Still Deep In Hearts Of Mankind

By MRS. R. L. CRISWELL

Aug. 15 marked the 25th anniversary of the death of Will Rogers and Wiley Post in an air accident in Alaska.

Will Rogers' name has not been entered in the Hall of Fame, but I am sure that when the allotted fifty years have passed, someone will enter it. He was one of the truly great men of his time.

His very simplicity made for greatness. He was just as happy swapping jokes with the lowliest cowboy as in talking with the great or near great. He could joke with presidents, ambassadors, princes and kings and never lose the common touch.

Indeed, they seemed to love it, not one could resist that homespun grin, and they loved him for his dry wit and humor in the most unexpected places.

One of the greatest, if not the greatest, of his sayings was: "I never saw a man I did not like." I am sure there was never a man that met Will Rogers that did not like him.

He loved rodeos and travelled miles out of his way to attend one. If it was amateur, he enjoyed it even more.

Will Rogers was a cowboy and he understood the cowboy and his work. He knew just what it meant to get on the 'drag' and inhale dust for miles on end as the hours slipped slowly by.

He knew just how dry and cracked one's lips and throat could be after riding in the trail dust, and how to appreciate just plain cool water.

I can see him yet, as he sat on the wagon - tongue of the SMS Chuckwagon, enjoying small talk with the cowboys, most of them entrants in the "The Cowboy Reunion," Stamford, Tex. It was the largest amateur rodeo of the Southwest.

One cowboy rolled a cigarette and offered the 'makins'. He took the sack of Bull Durham, expertly did the same, and handed the tobacco back to the owner. As he smoked, he answered questions or told them of other rodeos he had attended.

One asked: "Are you scared when you get in front of a crowd to do an act?"

"No need to be scared," he said. "The crowd is only people like you and me; no I ain't scared."

His way of moseying onto the stage or into the arena was amusing to people, and they thought of it as an act. But it was just his way.

He never hurried and his manner of speech was slow, and it was his nature to walk slowly, but he was ready for anything. His observation was keen and so was his mind. He was never at a loss for words.

The cowboys marveled at his hominess, his friendliness; they were amazed at his personality and his ability to talk with any and all he might meet. Will Rogers will never be forgotten, for his love of men and people will live on in the hearts of those who met him. His movies, acts in rodeos, in his many Wild West shows, that toured the world will keep him alive in the

OLD WEST RETURNS

The old west lived again briefly Thursday afternoon as riders from all over Hockley County swung into their saddles to stage a Pony Express ride to Morton — the second within two years. A fair and cool day greeted riders after rain Wednesday cancelled the final practice session. Some 60 riders, relayed at about half mile intervals, were to carry the mail to Morton to open the 10th annual Last Frontier Rodeo there. The ride was held for the first time last year and marked the 30th anniversary of a mail route between Levelland and Morton. Spearheaded by the sheriff's posse of the two counties the event was set up again to announce the opening of rodeos in both cities. The Levelland rodeo will begin next Thursday and will also be kicked off by a pony express ride as the Cochran County riders haul the mail here. Following the ride a parade was to be held in Morton with the rodeo scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. A ham dinner for the public, sponsored by the Cochran posse, was also on the agenda. —LEVELLAND DAILY SUN NEWS

SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS TOTAL $63,000

Social Security is paying $63,736 per month to Lamb County residents, the payments going to 1,242 persons, John G. Hutton, Lubbock, manager of the district office, said Wednesday. The figure is based on payments at the end of 1959 as Social Security marked the start of its 25th birthday. Hutton said payments now are up 16 per cent over February, 1959, the last previous date for which Lamb County figures are available. The law creating the Social Security act, was passed just 25 years ago, and since that time, the law has been amended and broadened several times. The first law was passed Aug. 14, 1935. Nationally, about 13 and three-fourths million persons were receiving old-age survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits at the end of 1959 at an annual rate of more than $10 billion. At the close of 1940, the first year in which monthly benefits were payable, beneficiaries throughout the nation totaled 200,000. Almost half a million disabled workers beneficiaries and their dependents receiving benefits at a yearly rate of over $400 million are included in the figures for 1959. The number of wives, husbands, and children of disabled-worker beneficiaries receiving monthly benefits increased sharply in 1959. Such benefits were first payable for September, 1958. Nationally, from February to December, 1959, the number of these beneficiaries more than doubled from 60,000 to 126,000. —LAMB COUNTY LEADER (LITTLEFIELD)

JAYCEES SPONSOR CLEAN-UP

Dimmitt JayCee Clean-up Campaign turned out to be probably the best ever conducted — but it was mostly a case of too many weeds. About 200 lots were estimated cleaned off over town by a score of tractor-mounted shredders. However, the going was slow as men and tractors tried to plow through weeds as high as a tall man's head. The JayCees attacked weeds lots mostly. Little or no cutting of small random patches was carried out by the group. There was also a smattering of general citizens who pitched in and cleaned up around their own places. The JayCees kept at least one mower going the remainder of the week, but by far the big effort came on Monday. There were a few business firms and individuals who donated either trucks, tractors or mowers to the drive. In fact some donated all three. Many Latin-American workers were furnished by various companies. —CASTRO COUNTY NEWS (DIMMITT)

The BOOTLEG —Philosopher

Editors' note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his bindweed farm probably is unnecessarily concerned about the current session of Congress, his letter this week indicates, but that's his worry.

Dear editor:

I don't know how it happened and I hope it never happens again, but this idea of a session of Congress before an election instead of afterwards, has me worried.

What I'm afraid of is it will destroy one of the most cherished things in American political life, from the precinct level to Washington, namely, PROMISES.

Next to a handshake, I guess a promise has been the strongest weapon a man could have when he's running for office, although this doesn't mean a wife and kids don't help too; and I'll never understand how both parties managed to get in a position like they are now where they have a chance to deliver on their promises before the election. It seems to me it's undermining the entire system of politics.

In the first place, a promise should be dangled in front of a man longer than from July to August of the same year. How much fun would kids get out of Christmas if they didn't start wishing till Christmas eve?

A man lives on promises, at least us farmers do. Pick out any year you want to, and if the average farmer had not thought the next one wasn't gonna be better than that one, you wouldn't have much farm population left, or any crops.

The same is true of politics. The least a voter can do is enjoy a set of promises from convention time in the summer to legislating time along in early spring of the next year, but this idea of promising in July and dashing hopes in August, takes all the fun out of life. If a man can't dream of a better life, of more aid and fewer taxes, longer than two or three weeks, reality will get him down and politics will begin to lose its appeal. It's the craziest thing I ever heard of, trying to deliver on a set of promises before the people have a chance to vote on you. Let's get back to the old system.

Both parties have promised to help the farmer, but if they're wise they'll wait till the planting's all done next spring before they tackle the job.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Herefords Have Marked Advantages, Study Shows

HIGHLIGHTS OF CARCASS STUDY — The diagrammed Hereford steer shown above points out the highlights of the carcass study conducted on the Chicago market.

Hereford steers emerged with a marked advantage over the other breeds of beef cattle on numerous competitive points in a comprehensive carcass study conducted on the Chicago market.

The study was carried out by Armour and Company of Chicago, under the supervision of Dr. Robert W. Bray, in charge of meats work at the University of Wisconsin, and Dr. Robert A. Merkel, formerly of Wisconsin and now of Kansas State College, in cooperation with the American Hereford Association. The completed study, announced by Secretary Paul Swaffer of the American Hereford Association, included data on 1,013 steers divided as follows: 440 Hereford; 362 Angus; 211 Short-horns.

Here are the highlights of the study:

1. Prime Herefords topped other breeds in percentage of loin cuts in the entire carcass.
2. Prime Herefords topped other breeds in percentage of rib cuts.
3. Prime Herefords topped other breeds in percentage of round cuts.
4. Less brisket and plate (low priced cuts) in Herefords than other breeds.
5. Herefords have 1/2 per cent less kidney fat. 6. Herefords have 1.01 per cent heavier hides, yet produce as much carcass or dressing per cent as the thinner-hided breeds. 7. Despite larger loin and rib in Herefords, eye marbling appears to be key guide to grade and value.

"An all important point receiving considerable attention on beef people in recent years is area of eye muscle in the loin and rib as a criterion of the red meat on a carcass. It was significant that the Armour study showed the average area of eye muscle for Herefords as one-half inch larger than average for the three breeds," Mr. Swaffer said.

In all summary tables and correlations, marbling of the eye muscle stood out as the key factor to carcass evaluation. Analysis of the data indicated that the extent of marbling in the eye muscle was somewhat higher for another breed. This factor when considered in the evaluation of the carcass created a small price differential, despite the higher percentage of high priced cuts and less of the cheaper cuts for the Hereford cattle.

This factor was emphasized determinant of grade and price; subject to modification by amounts of finish." In this connection, research studies are underway at several colleges on the question of eye marbling as a guide to carcass evaluation and as an indicator of the tenderness and quality of the meat from a consumer standpoint.

CURE FOR DIVORCE CHICAGO UP — Parents could cut America's high divorce rate if they'd take a lesson from India, and help their children choose mates, says Dr. Marine Finger Bale. The Methodist missionary-educator has spent the last five years in India, where matches are made by parents and divorce is almost unknown.

Beauty At Home

Q. Is there any cream or lotion especially designed for removing bags or circles from under the eyes?

A. While there are creams that will HIDE these blemishes, there are none that I know of that will CURE them. Only intelligent living and good health will ward off these things.

Q. What kind of sun-tanning oils do you especially recommend?

A. If economy is a big item in your life, you can use olive oil, almond, sesame, or peanut oil — which, confidentially, do the same job the high-priced "suntan oils" do, at a lot less cost.

Thousands Of Herefords Cross Border Each Year

One of the United States' most effective ambassadors to Mexico is clothed in the red and white coat of a Hereford bull. Literally thousands of these purebred Herefords cross the border annually to serve in the herds of Mexican ranchers. In return, many thousands head of stockers and feeders are exported to this country by the breeders from south of the border.

These Hereford ambassadors do not have an easy life, yet they are producing some calves that are equal to those anywhere in the world. This in itself is a triumph for the bulls and their breeders since most of the Mexican herds started from plain, common cows of nondescript origin. The white faces and red bodies seen in the cow herds today are the trademarks of several generations of Hereford bulls.

The terrain in Chihuahua and Sonora ranges from snow-capped mountains to rolling plains resplendent in their covering of lush grama grasses. Pastures are divided in 7,000 to 30,000 acre areas, with 25 to 50 acres per cow. Stock water is a major problem. The cattle must have the stamina and ability to cover a large area for food and water. Today, following a near disastrous drought, the Mexican ranchers are more aware of this situation and are building hundreds of stock tanks to remedy it.

they are called upon to perform their duties over a seven-month period on a diet low in phosphorus and with a negligible amount of vitamins. This accounts for the fact that most Mexican buyers want their bulls well grown out and developed before they are turned into the herds.

The color and character of the cattle coming through Mexican stockyards prove that over 90 per cent of the Mexican ranchers breeding improved cattle use Hereford bulls. They want bulls with some age and with as much quality as they can possibly get for the money they have available. They prefer to buy as many bulls as possible from the same herd since they are striving for uniformity and feel they can get this trait from Herefords. Their preferred bull does not differ greatly from the choice of United States ranchers except they want a little more size. This size preference is not because they want big cattle, but rather that they want middle-of-the-road type cattle, and they are still working with some cows which carry enough native blood to make them a trifle small for the rancher.

Mexican ranchers have chosen Herefords because they are widely known for their ability to convert grass to beef, efficiently. Herefords are blessed with the strong constitutions necessary to withstand the climate and diets available in Mexico. The wide selection of Herefords from which to choose, the ability of Hereford bulls and cows to produce large calf crops and keep the calves alive, and the equally important quality of adaptability to all types of terrain and conditions... these points plus inherent quality have made them the ranchers' choice in Mexico.

Mexico has a few purebred herds scattered throughout the country, but most ranchers prefer a commercial operation. Pastures are, of necessity, too large and qualified men available to work purebred herds are scarce. Armando Varela Jr., has the nucleus of a purebred herd in Cananea, Sonora. He sells very few bulls and uses most in his own herds. He is building his cow herd until such time as he can offer other commercial ranchers a fairly large group of bulls. When Varela has sufficient numbers he expects to have a heavy demand for Mexican home-raised and acclimated bulls. A large operator in Sonora is J. Armando Montanol who registered over 200 Hereford calves last year. Juan Pedro Camou, Benjamin Hill, Hacienda De Bacanuchi, Cananea, and Diego Redo Vidal, Bocoachi, are all purebred Hereford breeders in the state of Sonora.

A Mexican range bull generally will last from five to nine years in service, while the cows start calving at two years of age and are through in about seven years. The calf crops of herds carrying mostly Hereford blood will run from 75 per cent to 90 per cent depending primarily on the terrain on which they run and the nutritional level of the cows.

Armando Raynal, Chihuahua, weans his commercial Hereford calves at six to six and one half months of age weighing around 400 pounds. These calves are dropped in May and June and are weaned during the first days of December. There were 7,200 cows bred on the various Raynal ranches this year with an over-all average calf crop of more than 80 per cent. Rancho Ojo Caliente, Chihuahua, owned by the Guerarra family, covers over 450 square miles of all types of terrain.

In 1933, purebred Hereford bulls were turned in with the native cows and today the calves on this ranch are weaned weighing around 430 pounds. The bulls in this herd run from April to December and they are brought in and fed for three months.

Lynch Gratton, Nueva Casa Grandes, Chihuahua, reports the same good results from his straight Hereford cows. This herd runs on 60,000 acres of lush native grama grasses and other local forage bringing in hundreds of fat, healthy calves every year.

There is always a demand for good Hereford calves and the ranchers of Sonora and Chihuahua.

The ranchers cure very little hay and the Herefords have to depend on the native grasses for their food the entire year. Some few cattlemen are beginning supplemental feeding for their cow herds but that is primarily because of mineral deficiencies in the native pastures. While some ranchers feed their bulls during the time they are not in pasture, many never take the bulls out of the herd.

Urbanovsky - Kershen Vows Are Repeated

In a double-ring ceremony at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Church in Abbott, Tex., at 3:45 p. m. Saturday, Aug. 13, Miss Marie Urbanovsky became the bride of Ronald Kershen.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed F. Urbanovsky of Abbott, and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kershen of Westway.

The Rev. W. Pechal read the ceremony. Mrs. E. H. Grimm provided organ music, and accompanied Barbara Archer, cousin of the bride, who sang "Ave Maria," and "Mother, at Your Feet We're Kneeling." The choir, the Knights of Columbus, from West, also provided nuptial music.

Among selections sang by the choir were "Remember Holy Mary," "Happy We Who Thus United," and "Jesus, Jesus, Come to Me."

Miss Patsy Urbanovsky, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. Kay Kershen, sister of the bridegroom, of Hereford, was bridesmaid.

Niece of the bride, Deborah Urbanovsky of West, served as flower girl. Ring bearer was her nephew, Michael Urbanovsky, of Fort Worth.

The ring was carried on a white satin pillow.

The groom's attendants were Charles O'Dell, Dallas, and Bernard Knezek, Fishers were the groom's brother, Drew Kershen, and the bride's brother, Eugene Urbanovsky. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of taffeta with a tulle overskirt. The bouffant skirt, falling to a chapel train, was attached to the bodice with white roses. The have only one outlet... the United States. There is a growing demand for grass - fat beef in the dense population centers of Mexico which presents a tremendous problem in transportation. Mexico is not as yet equipped to transport large numbers of cattle through the interior of the nation consequently the only market available are export. The export market is open only to steer calves. No heifers are admitted to leave Mexico except on special permits which are obtainable at this time.

The marketing process is costly. The calves are, for the most part, contracted on the ranch by buyers from the United States. The export quota for each state in Mexico is set by the government and administered by the Cattle Union. The Mexilance bodice was accented by sequins and pearls on the sabrina neckline.

The long petal point sleeves were edged by pearls and sequins. Lace - covered buttons were featured at the back of the dress, and the fitted waistline was accented by lace inserts applied with sequins.

The fingertip veil of illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls and sequins.

She also wore a diamond cross, which was a gift of the groom.

Her bouquet was of white stephanotis, centered with an orchid. She also carried a mother - of - pearl rosary, a gift from her parents.

The bride graduated from Abbott High School and attended Texas Tech. Kershen attended Hereford High School two years, graduated from Price College in Amarillo, and attended two years of schooling at Notre Dame, South Bend, Ind. He received his B. S. degree from Texas Tech, Lubbock, in May of 1959. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in ROTC. He was stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., for service training and at Fort Hood for active duty.

can rancher gathers his calves and may have to drive them many miles to the railroad or truckloading docks. By the time of his arrival at the border stockyards, his cattle have a shrink from seven per cent to 15 per cent. If the price on the ranch was 36 cents, the rancher gets 31 cents. It also costs him about six cents per pound to cross the border. This cost includes the Mexican export duty and the United States import duty as well as freight and handling charges at the stockyards. The Mexican government's export duty can be increased at their discretion. The next price then is 25 cents per pound when his cattle are delivered. Before delivery the cattle are dipped individually and placed on a truck sprayed. They never touch Mexican soil again after they are loaded.

If you ask the Mexican cattlemen about their greatest need, they will give the same answer you get in the United States.

"We need better bulls and as long as we can afford it we will buy better quality Hereford bulls."

Here, as in every other cattle country quality is recognized as determining factor in selling cattle for a premium and every progressive rancher keeps it uppermost in his everyday ranching operations whether it is buying bulls, picking replacement heifers or selling steers.

Social Security Benefits Paid To 571 Persons

At the end of 1959, as Federal social security was starting its 25th year, old - age, survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits were being paid in Deaf Smith County to 571 persons at the rate of $3,792.24 a year, according to Hal Geldon, manager of the Amarillo Social Security Office.

Payments in the entire Panhandle were going to 17,391 persons at the rate of $11,880,036 a year.

Nationally, Geldon said, about 13 and three - fourths million persons were receiving old - age, survivors, and disability insurance monthly benefits at the end of 1959 at an annual rate of more than $10 billion. At the end of 1940 - the first year in which monthly benefits are payable - beneficiaries throughout the nation totaled 200,000.

Almost half a million disabled worker beneficiaries and their dependents receiving benefits at a yearly rate of over $400 million are included in the figures for 1959.

As social security celebrates its Silver Anniversary (the original Act was signed into law on Aug. 14, 1935), about 74 million working people are in covered employment or self - employment in the course of a year. They are building old - age survivors, and disability protection for themselves, their dependents, and their survivors under the social security law.

BIG ASHTRAY

ST. LOUIS — What may well be the biggest ashtray in town was emptied recently and a surprise lay at the bottom. The ashtray is a hole in the center of heavily traveled Clayton Road at equally busy Skinner Boulevard.

For months motorists stopped at a traffic light whiled away the time by emptying their car ashtrays into it.

Director of Streets Henry S. Miller found out about the practice and ordered the hole cleaned out. At the bottom workmen found a manhole cover, which hadn't been raised when the street was resurfaced.

REMEMBER WHEN?

BY CHARLIE SEEDS

He was just a rookie pitcher that nobody knew. Bill McKechnie, manager of the Cincinnati Reds that year, thought the young hurler was a comer and had confidence in him. Although he'd only won five games in the minors the year before, McKechnie made him a regular on his staff. His name was Johnny Vander Meer.

Johnny got off to a good start that year, tossing a shutout in his first game . . . but there was nothing in his record to prepare the baseball public for what happened in June.

On June 11th against Boston, Vander Meer was suddenly catapulted into national fame when he pitched a no-hit game. Few hurlers ever achieve this greatest of pitching feats . . . and it's likely that no pitcher will ever match what Vander Meer did . . . for on June 15th, against Brooklyn, he accomplished the incredible by pitching his second successive no-hit!

Remember the year?

In those days a car buyer was suspicious of the incredible . . . especially claims of unbelievable savings on a new car. He had to be shown in black - and - white that he was getting more than "paper savings."

The year was 1933.

We'll be glad to show you in black - and - white just how much we can save you on the longer, lower new FORD. We don't make wild claims . . . but we can give you a better deal and we'd like to prove it! Come in this week!
