Administration Of Long-Range Plan Set Forth

In its tentative report on a long-range plan for the city, the firm of Harland Bartholomew and Associates outlines a proposal for administration of the plan.

"With the completion of the comprehensive plan, the planning process may then begin," Bartholomew reports. "The plan itself is meaningless unless it is followed and eventually carried out."

Various activities of private developers and various public improvement projects will constitute major activities in the development of the city. With the completion of the comprehensive plan, the planning commission should seek the advice and support of local citizens in the community—which is now being done with the formation of citizens advisory committees.

In the process of studying and evaluating the various provisions of the plan, a thorough understanding of the planning process and the need for various improvements should result. Once there is agreement on these projects, the method of financing should be identified so that the implementation of the plan may be carried out.

Planning legislation in Texas provides that cities may prepare and adopt a comprehensive plan. Control measures utilized to bring about the provisions of the plan include the establishment of zoning controls within the corporate limits of the community and the enforcement of subdivision regulations within the city and an area of extraterritorial control extending from one to five miles outside the city depending upon the size of the city.

The planning legislation along with its amendments provides that the planning commission may do the following:

1) Prepare and recommend to the city council a comprehensive plan for the future development of the community, including recommendations for streets, public areas, and other important community facilities.

These recommendations may cover an area extending into the extraterritorial control zone beyond the city limits. The plan may be implemented by ordinances which establish zoning, subdivision and housing controls.

2) To prepare and recommend to the city council plans for specific improvements which either conform to the official comprehensive plan or constitute an amendment thereto.

3) To aid in the carrying out of public improvements through public hearings or through meetings designed to stimulate understanding and support.

4) To act in an advisory capacity for the city council, preparing recommendations on the various proposals dealing specifically with the comprehensive plan or regulatory measures adopted to implement the plan.

While the functions and responsibilities of the planning commission are essentially advisory, these responsibilities

Wild Chase Ends In Arrest

A wild 100 mile an hour chase to Highways 136 and 181 south of Sinton ended Tuesday night in the arrest of a 23 year old Michigan youth.

Patrolman Joe Dominguez started the chase on Austin Street in Rockport and the 23 year old man ran the stop sign at Market and 35 nearly causing a wreck and then proceeded on Highway 881.

Radio communications brought Portland Police Department units and units of the San Patricio County Sheriff's Department to assist Patrolman Dominguez.

The car was finally stopped at the intersection of Farm Road 136 and High 181 by Dominguez and Sgt. Pierce of the Portland Police Department. The subject is in the Aransas County jail at this time as he was unable to pay a $100 fine imposed by City Judge G. D. Johnson. He was charged with speeding, running a stop sign, driving on wrong side of road, and failing to yield the right of way to an emergency vehicle.

Parent-Teacher Assn. Considers Closing

"This year will tell," said Mrs. Melvin Moore, president of the Rockport-Fulton Junior Senior High Schools PTA, as she led the local unit's executive board Monday in a lively discussion of attendance and purpose.

The board concluded that the purpose of the PTA—"to promote better understanding between the school and the community"—was not understood by parents and agreed that every program this year would be clearly related to this stated purpose.

Mrs. Moore reported that parent attendance at PTA meetings last year was less than 1/10 of one per cent of the parents available. A strong program to publicize and explain the purpose, value and function of the organization was set up by the board. The need for down-to-earth programs directly related to parent-teacher understanding was apparent as the board expressed its feeling that: "if parents are not interested in better education for their children, the PTA has no reason to exist."

In addition to the meeting set for Monday, Sept. 16, 1968, four meetings for 1969 were scheduled: January 27, March 10, May 5, and September 15. The board agreed to wait until after the meeting on Sept. 16 to decide whether or not to continue.

Aransas County Judge John D. Wendell will be the featured speaker for the Monday night meeting. As Judge Wendell expressed it: "Better understanding of our school and community to me means parents and teachers coming to know and understand each other as human beings with common interests and common problems." A social hour to encourage acquaintances between parents and teachers will follow the meeting. Also, membership dues ($1.00) will be accepted.

All parents and teachers of students in the Rockport-Fulton Junior High and Senior High Schools are strongly urged to attend the meeting on Monday, Sept. 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Junior High Cafeteria.

Rifle Season Opens At Aransas Refuge

The rifle season for shooting deer at Aransas National Wildlife Refuge opened Wednesday, Sept. 11.

According to refuge figures, 167 hunters of 200 selected for the first two days of shooting showed up by midafternoon. And by 3:30, they had accounted for 32 deer, 12 of the bucks.

Largest of the batch by that time was a 96-pound, 10-point-er and only two hunters had limited. That means each had two deer, of which one had to be a doe.

And because the weather was cool, refuge manager Gordon Hansen figured a lot of kills still weren't reported. Hunters simply hung their deer in a cool shade and waited for the second one. The 32 deer reported probably was not a good indication of what was actually killed and when the main bunch of hunters checked out last night they hoped the number would be larger.

Rifle hunters, at the maximum rate of 200 a day, will hunt the refuge until Sept. 30, or until the first whooper arrives, if it arrives before then. Under the plan, 1,800 hunters will be allowed two deer each.

The idea is to thin the refuge herd, which for years has been as great as the range can healthily accommodate.

Hansen said everything was going smoothly for the first day of rifle hunting—ever—on the refuge.

Last Sunday's rain washed out the second day of the Directors Tournament at Live Oak Country Club. As a result, players may complete the tourney Saturday, Sept. 14. EDITOR'S VIEWPOINTS

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS

Concern over the third party candidacy of former Gov. George Wallace has reached the point now where the other presidential candidates and some congressional leaders are advocating a pre-election agreement to deal with the possibility of the election going into the House of Representatives. The issue arises out of the possibility that the third party movement—and possibly even a fourth party—will draw off enough votes from the two major parties in the electoral college to prevent any presidential candidate from getting the necessary majority of 270 votes in the Electoral College.

The Constitution provides that in such an event the election will be decided in the House, with each state having one vote. The sponsors of the bipartisan plan now being put forward would arrange a previous agreement among the candidates for the 81st House—seated and non-seated—that they would vote for the presidential candidate who received a plurality of the nationwide vote.

Wallace has objected to the plan on the grounds that it is unconstitutional. Whether it is can be debated. The Constitution merely specified that the decision shall be in the House and that each state shall have one vote. It does not specify how that single vote should be decided. The question still remains whether this is a wise move. Such an arrangement could result in the election of a president on the basis of the votes of the people of a few popular states and this leaves most of the states bound to the vote of the few.

There is need for reform in the presidential election procedure as the possibilities this year clearly demonstrate. The method by which the House would decide such a failure of the Electoral College system should be spelled out, probably on the basis that the vote of each member reflect the vote of the constituents of his district.

Sponsors of the bipartisan movement should be given a plus mark for their concern about the system. They will be due even more credit, however, if their concern extends beyond the fourth coming election and results in the constitutional revision that is being shown to be necessary.—Memphis Commercial Appeal.

THE UNIVERSE WE LIVE IN

The planet Earth looms large to the tribes of human beings who inhabit it. But astronomers assert that our earthly habitation is very small in comparison with the known universe.

Most of us hesitate from contemplating the vastness of our immense universe, because its enormous size and scope make us human beings appear to be so inconspicuous and unimportant.

But we must live our lives and do our best to be useful. However, we had better not attempt to peer too deeply into the mysteries of astronomy. But we still can admire the beauty of the night sky; and then we can go our ways, untroubled by the thought of infinity.—Brooks (Alta.) Bulletin.

CARING FOR NON-STICK COOKING UTENSILS

College Station — The new non-stick cookware utensils are a joy to clean and use, says Mrs. Elsie P. Short, home management specialist, Texas A&M University.

All non-stick utensils should be conditioned the first time they are used by applying a thin coat of cooking oil or shortening. If they appear dry from repeated use, an occasional oiling will improve them.

Non-stick utensils may become stained if high heat is used to fry foods. The causes fat splatters to burn on the surface of the pan. These stains can be easily removed by boiling one cup of water, one half cup of liquid laundry bleach, and two tablespoons of baking soda in the pan.

Mrs. Short says to wash the pan and treat it with cooking oil to recondition. This formula removes the stain and eliminates sticking, a common complaint after food has burned in the pan. Avoid extreme high heat, as this may crack the non-stick coating. And Mrs. Short says, remember to use nylon coated, rubber, wood, all non-stick and plastic coated metal spoons and spatulas with non-stick coated cookware.

What to Wear On An Autumn Trip

Herb Beck, veteran travel editor and writer, makes this interesting comment:

"Dress comfortably and travel light, but don't forget that autumn weather can change on short notice. And don't forget to take along an extra pair of well broken-in shoes. Be sure to wear seat belts at all times in the car.

As for your car, before starting out, see that your tires have plenty of good wear left, and the same goes for your brakes.

Among the most important items of wear are the windshield wipers. No matter whether the wiper mechanism still works like a metronome, if the blades streak you can't trust them. Have them refilled or replaced.

Don't wear signs or doodads or swinging knickknacks in the windows of your car. Keep your visibility as clear as the clear blue sky.

Take along a raincoat or a topcoat that you can wear when needed away from home.

Art Guild Gatherings

By JAN WENDELL

The Art Guild selects its "Artist of the Month" by putting the eligible artist's names in a hat and drawing out one name. For first "Artist of the Month," Yvonne Wendell's name was drawn at the regular meeting of the Guild Monday night. A representative collection of her paintings and sketches will be on display at the Gallery from Sept. 15 to Oct. 15.

As a student of Kit Dinger, Yvonne has been painting nearly a year. In the 4th of July show, she won a ribbon for her sketch of a cruet set, a pleasant distinction for a beginning student. Yvonne paints for pleasure and relaxation and leans mostly to still life, "subject matter that is always available," she says. She has also tried her hand at portraits and included in her work displayed at the Gallery will be a number of still lifes in oil as well as a self-portrait done in an impressionistic style. Patrons are invited to view the first "Artist of the Month" display beginning Sept. 15.

The Labor Day sale was a success in the attendance by local and out of town patrons as well as in sales. Now, as every artist knows, the great majority of people buy pictures to complement a certain decor in their homes or offices, regardless of the artistic content. If the color, shape, or subject matter is right, the picture usually sells. Now, this type of selection doesn't hurt an artist's feelings in the least, but at our recent sale, a discriminating couple was viewing a painting to buy. The lady said:

"This painting is right for our room but I think I'll just take a little blue paint and make that brown bottle blue!" The husband replied, somewhat indignantly, "You'll do no such thing! You'll have it as is or not at all—no tampering with it."

They bought the painting and we'll never know about that bottle, but we artists do appreciate this man's convictions. Blessing on you, sir!

Miss Nancy Burdick of Garden City, N.L., will arrive today to visit Mr. and Mrs. Pat Tedder, III. Miss Burdick and Mrs. Tedder graduated in the same high school class at Beirut, Lebanon. When Miss Burdick returns to New York she will begin her junior year at Adelphi University where her father is a professor.

Football and Its Fans

By Dan T. Oliver

Football is considered one of the toughest and greatest sports there is; it is also one of our nation's most talked about sports.

You will find many people today who have their own favorite team, such as the Dallas Cowboys, the Green Bay Packers, or the New York Jets.

But there is one team that I wish to write about and that's my favorite team, the Rockport-Fulton High School Fighting Pirates.

This year the Pirate team is a fresh one. It is made up of only six seniors, 14 juniors, and two sophomores, but seven being returning lettermen of which three are seniors.

Although being a new team it is made up of 22 boys who have the spirit, attitude, and the desire in their hearts to win the 1968 district 28AA championship, these boys need more than desire, they need you, their fans.

In the past few years the Pirates have been supported quite well, but this year they need it more than ever in order to win.

The Pirates can always depend on the Greenbackers, who always do a great job, and the Pirate Band that keeps playing better music each year. Each member of the team is grateful for this support.

This year they are looking for new supporters and that is you, the fans.

You don't know what it means to the players to look up from the field and see fans from their home town in the bleachers, yelling for them to move to the goal. This makes a player want to win not only for himself, his school, or his home town, but for you, their fans, as well.

Let's support our team this year, let's help them win the district 28AA championship for 1968.

Debra Rogero, a junior at Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos, left Wednesday to attend the fall semester. She was accompanied by her mother and brother Mrs. Roy V. Rogero, Sr., and Roy V. Rogero, Jr.

Sauce for the Gander

Ran Wilde Swings At Trumpet or Skillet

The Wilde family of Dallas will provide your party with two separate bands, one for the adult, sedate style of dancing and another with the live, cool sound of today.

Ran Wilde is a veteran bandsman who has 45 years in the business and whose career began in a college band in 1929 and continues today. Ran Wilde Orchestras and Productions, 4069 Stanford (EM8-8530), features "Shows & Music Styled by Wilde."

The youthful part of the sound is supplied by Tim Wilde (who will enter SMU this fall) and his Blues Circuit, for which he plays lead guitar.

When Ran Wilde, the father, was a 13-year-old youngster in Ogden, Utah, he took trumpet lessons from the father of Red Nichols. The father would call over young Red and say: "Play some for this boy so he will see what practice can do."

Ran continued fingering and blowing the trumpet, but later when his railroad father was transferred to Oakland, Calif., he found a better jazz market for male pianists around the University of California and Berkeley.

Came the crash of '29 and college ended abruptly and young Wilde and his band fortunately booked into Dollar Steamboat Lines for cruises. "At 19, we went to the Philippines on the President Wilson, then from San Francisco took the President Van Buren around the world," he recalled. "It was great adventure for any young man."

At 20, young Wilde gazed in awe at the Hotel New Yorker lobby, comparing it with San Francisco hostilities. "I never guessed that seven years later I would be playing there. I followed Jimmie Dorsey there, and Henry Busse followed me."

Wilde's orchestra played the biggest hotels of the nation, and when he opened at San Francisco's Swank Club Deauville for instance he had congratulatory wires from such contemporaries as Paul Whiteman, Anson Weeks, Harry Sosnik, and others.

His pictures and orchestra were on the covers of some of the big song hits of yesterday: "Josephine," "These Foolish Things," "When My Dream Boat Comes Home," and "It Can Happen to You."

In 1936, SMU journeyed to the West Coast and beat the dressing out of the Berkeley football team. A trainload of Dallas fans included the late Dick Andrade, III and Buddy Foelson, both oil men, who wound up at Club Deauville.

"At closing time, they made arrangements for us to keep playing," said Wilde. "These were the first Texans I remember. They went around and invited about 40 of the patrons to stay on after closing, and the party went on to 6 a.m."

The Dallas pair told Wilde he should come and play in Dallas. And soon, he was booked into the Hotel Adolphus (May, 1937) following Leon Belasco and the Andrews Sisters.

"You know why you're here?" asked the manager. "Dick Andrade and Buddy Fogelson told me if I didn't hire you, they would buy the hotel and fire me. And they could have!"

Joe Reichman's orchestra was playing across the street at the Baker. "These were fabulous days in Dallas, with the Centennial and all," recalled Wilde. "We played the Adolphus off and on until they booked the ice shows."

One identification Wilde had with his bands was the girl harpist. "I wanted to create a new style, something different from Kay Kyser or Guy Lombardo," he said. His was a nationally known band, having broadcast three times weekly over NBC radio from the Club Deauville.

In recent years, Ran Wilde has traveled less and played the Dallas area more. Now, as a booking agency, he provides both music and talent for the area shows and places.

"Playing society parties is more fun because all you do is help them have fun," said Wilde. "And you enjoy the party with them."

"In a hotel, people come to eat, and sometimes the steak or lobster are more important than the show and music," says Wilde, who at 59 stands 6 ft. and weighs 200 pounds even, and has black hair beginning to gray.

"I walk almost every day around University Park," he said. "If I miss a day, I feel draggy."

The orchestra leader has a benevolent attitude about his son's music. He remembers when his generation grew ecstatic over such epics as "The Music Goes 'Round and 'Round," and "Itty Bitty Fishes."

"It's a period, like anything else," he said. "I believe the young musicians who like it are good musicians. To the young today our own music would seem idiotic."

Wilde, who is constantly thankful that he followed his first career desire, remembers as a little child he would climb on a chair and lead the band playing on the family Victrola. No other career has ever intrigued him.

He is intrigued, however, at the idea that his son will now enter SMU, the same school that 30 years ago sent the football team to California and inadvertently brought him to Texas and Dallas.

In his earlier San Francisco days, Wilde and his band would often spurn the fancier hotel fare and go to Joe's on North Beach, to eat his special then 75c, later $1.50 and now, who knows.

"It's a dish that takes 10 minutes to prepare, is delicious and since I do most of our cooking, easy to fix," says Wilde.—Dallas Morning News.

Fishing Hints
By Danny Adams

IF the big one didn't always get away, then the fish population would be in serious trouble. This always seems to be the trouble with fishermen. The big ones generally get away. Of course there is sound reason for this. The modern fishermen are fishing with spinning gear of light tackle with 6-10 pound test line and this leaves the odds in the fish's favor. Granted, I also use extremely light tackle and I lose a lot of big fish (generally over-estimated) but when I do land a nice trout or red I certainly enjoy saying that I caught him on an 8-pound test line.

A prime example of the above statements is illustrated by one night this past week when a fisherman hooked a real good one. It was about 11 p.m. when the call came for the dip net. I grabbed the net and hopped on my bicycle and headed for the seventh light on the old Copano Causeway. The man was having a lot of trouble and I soon was to see the reason why. He was fighting with a light open face spinning reel with 6 pound test line. The fish he had on, which was fighting on top of the water about 30 feet out from the pier (hold on fishermen, I'll vouch for this one myself), was a speckled trout that would go at least 12 pounds. Well my friends, we didn't stand a chance. When that trout got through playing with us he just left, and being unable to follow him, we just watched him go. Another fish tale, perhaps, but I was there.

Another fisherman who had his share of troubles this week was a local man, Henry Schmabel. Fishing at the end of the pier for gafftop, Henry was using heavy tackle, but as it turned out he needed a winch truck. He hooked, fought for about an hour, and almost landed a gar that would have tipped the scales at approximately 150 pounds.

However, not all the fishermen let them get away. A few of the lucky ones this week were Mary Jane Montes, of San Antonio who caught 44 specks, V. A. Suggs of San Antonio who landed 16 trout, Mrs. Dan Burrow of Nordheim who caught 33 trout. Mr. and Mrs. Montes, also of San Antonio, Mary Jane's brother and sister-in-law, caught a whopping 116 specks off the causeway. Mr. and Mrs. Nando Vargas from the HemisFair city snagged 37 specks. That's it for this week and remember! The Good Lord does not subtract from the allotted span of man's lives for the hours spent in fishing.

JIM BEAM BOURBON— MAKING NEWS SINCE 1795

CLERMONT, KY.—173 years ago Jacob Beam started making Beam Bourbon here in Kentucky. It is still being made here today. And still by the Beams.

Along with inspired skills, the making of a Bourbon like Beam requires an unusual combination of land, climate and natural materials. And it's all here, in north central Kentucky.

There's the ancient, underlying limestone springs that supply sweet, clear water—a vital ingredient in the making of fine Bourbon.

The rich, fertile, surrounding valleys and plains provide the needed corn, rye and barley.

And then there's the great forests of white oak. It's in new this cant wood, from the all-imp takes place.

The qu Beam Bou much to th tion and adherence to the original formula. But it owes even more to the fact that today, as for over 173 years, it's the Beams who make Jim Beam.

Every glass of today's Beam Bourbon is the best from nature and that was passed on to David to David Baker and Booker N 173 years.

sheriff of Aransas County, which is considered tantamount to election.

Council passed a resolution authorizing city attorney Hatch to write to Mobil Oil Corp. officials instructing them to take immediate steps to correct fire hazards which Mayor Delmar R. Hiller said exist at the corporation's bulk station here. Hiller said he inspected the bulk station at the urging of Fire Marshall Mullinax and noted "gasoline seepage from at least one tank and gasoline dripping from some valves."

Council set Oct. 14 for a zoning request from L. A. Newman who wants to locate a mobile home at Pearl and Orleans streets.

It was announced that a drive-in window will soon be installed at the north end of the city hall for the convenience of residents in paying bills.

involve several important planning activities.

Those activities are a vital part of the implementation program and include the following:

- 1) Evaluating and approving new subdivision plans;
- 2) Studying and recommending changes in zoning district, both by the request of property owners and on the initiative of the commission in an attempt to keep the plan abreast with changing conditions within the community;
- 3) Keeping the public informed on activities of the commission and the need for major improvements in the community; and
- 4) Keeping the comprehensive plan up to date so that it may reflect the best possible judgments as to changing conditions and needs within the city.

Adopting the Comprehensive Plan

With the adoption of the comprehensive plan, its provisions may reflect current judgments as to policies of the city and programs which need to be implemented to achieve overall objectives of the community.

After the city planning commission and city council reach final decisions on the recommendations and proposals to be included in the plan, a public hearing should be held which would enable the general public to voice their opinions on its recommendations. Following the hearing, the city may adopt the plan as recommended or it may make additional modifications.

An ordinance specifically adopting the plan should then be acted upon by the city council. It is particularly beneficial to adopt by ordinance those features of the plan dealing with community facilities, such as open spaces, major thoroughfares, schools and parks since these are so specifically related to subdivision control.

Public Support and Understanding

Planning for the future growth of the city is a part of the democratic process. Therefore, the plan should be widely understood by the citizens of the community so that needed improvements may be implemented with broad public support.

Building a desirable community is not the sole responsibility of all local citizens. To achieve the widest possible public understanding and support, the details of the plan should be readily available to all residents.

Articles in local newspapers would contribute materially toward widespread public understanding and support. Discussions of the plan at local club meetings and before civic organizations are also an effective means of communicating the major objectives and proposals found in the plan.

The comprehensive plan should also be studies in the public school system so that young people of the community understand what their city may become in the future. Planning reports should be available for study in the local library.

As a part of a growing metropolitan area, Rockport and Aransas County will continue to feel the pressures of urbanizations. As an important, emerging tourist and recreation center, the city and its residents have an opportunity to capitalize upon major economic stimulants by attracting outside residents into the community to take advantage of its natural recreation assets.

The Coastal Bend Regional Planning Commission has been established to evaluate problems on a region-wide basis. Cities within the region should plan a role in the regional planning process.

The coordination of major public improvement projects such as the realignment and construction of new highways, establishing major park and recreation facilities, and constructing major improvements such as the countywide water system need to be coordinated at the regional level.

Rockport, as a major beneficiary of the regional planning program, should plan an active role in evaluating and implementing major proposals of the regional plan.

With the adoption of adequate control measures in the surrounding urban area, Rockport and the residents of Aransas County will be better able to meet the anticipated pressures of urbanization. At the state level, planning legislation is needed which will enable counties to adopt zoning control measures. Residents of the county need to understand fully the benefits which may be derived from controls of this type.

A part of the implementation program should be designed to educate local residents as to the benefits of these measures so that their representatives in state government will be able to assist in providing needed legislative provisions.

in providing moral support, by taking an active interest in the troop's progress, by suggesting service projects, and to help maintain continuity of leadership.

Lots of work is needed to repair the Little House to make it usable. The last major repair was done following Carla. It is necessary for adults to volunteer for this work and all volunteers are welcome. It is only necessary to have a strong arm and a willing heart to do this work. Every adult with a participating Girl Scout should feel an obligation toward seeing this project through.

This is credited with being the most progressive council in the United States and we are proud to be a part of it. The girls from this area will benefit highly from this council and already many preliminary plans are in the making for both the girls and their leaders.

Pirate Band On the Go

By Dan Oliver

The Rockport-Fulton High School Fighting Pirate Band has really been on the go.

It first started when the band members attended band camp at Schreiner Institute in Kerrville last July 28 through Aug. 2. The purpose of band camp was to prepare the band members for the coming football season.

One week after arriving home, they met twice a day for practice once in the morning and once in the evening.

Besides working hard on their marching and playing, the band members have been out selling community birthday calendars for '69 which turned out successfully.

Last Friday, Sept. 6, the band elected new officers for 1968-69. They are as follows: President, Freddy Jackson; secretary, Joan Mixon, both for their second term; reporter, Dan Oliver.

Following the election of officers, the band then chose a girl and boy to represent the band as their band sweetheart and beau for 1968-69. They are as follows:

Band Sweetheart, Mary Pat Wallis, who is a senior and first year attending RFHS.

Band Beau, Freddy Jackson, who is also a senior and received this title last year.

Talking with the band director Robert Massey, he stated that he is very pleased with the work the band has done in the last few weeks in order to get ready for this year. They are also working hard to put on an exciting halftime show for this Friday night's football game here at Pirate Stadium.

Massey went on to state that the public is in for a special treat Friday night. The Pirate Band will be wearing their new flashy uniforms that have not been viewed by the public as yet.

What do they look like? Sorry, I can't tell you, but the entire band wishes each and everyone out to the game Friday night to observe the new Fighting Pirate Band of RFHS, who's motto is... Fighting Pirates Never Quit—Results not Excuses.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vettors of Copano Cove returned last Wednesday from an extended trip to Idaho, Canada and the West Coast. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ailes Mathis, Sr., of Wharton and spent several days at the Mathis 'Welcome' ranch in Idaho.

Then they toured through Glacier and Bamff National Parks and crossed the Juan de Fuca straits by ferry into Washington state. They also went through the Red Woods and returned to Texas via Las Vegas.

CONSTITUTION WEEK PROCLAMATION

Whereas, September 17, 1968 is notable as marking the one hundred eighty-first anniversary of the adoption of the Constitution of the United States of America by Constitutional Convention; and

Whereas, To accord official recognition to this memorial anniversary, and to the patriotic exercise which will form a noteworthy feature of the occasion, it seems fitting and proper;

Whereas, In accordance with Public Law 015, the President of the United States has issued a Proclamation designating September 17 through 23 as CONSTITUTION WEEK;

Whereas, Therefore, I Delmar R. Hiller, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the City of Rockport in the State of Texas, do hereby proclaim the week of September 17-23, 1968, as CONSTITUTION WEEK in the City of Rockport, and urge all our citizens to pay special attention during that week to our Federal Constitution and the advantage of American citizenship.

In witness, THEREFORE, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City to be affixed this day in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and sixty eight—and the independence of the United States of America, one hundred and ninety-second.

Signed: Delmar R. Hiller

NATURE TRAILS

Now comes September. Vac-

Nature goes her regular ed by many persons to tell a little more of the cultural effects of the beautiful lotus, here goes:

The lotus is of deep symbolic meaning in oriental countries, especially Egypt,

India and Japan. In Egypt it is the god of light and life.
In India it's known as the flower of Buddha; many pictures show the god as springing from the flower. In Japan it was accepted as the symbol of purity. Its symbolism continues today.

The season for looking at known birds in unknown plumage has come. Scissortails with no scissortail; barn shal-lows with no forked tail; blackbellied plovers with no black belly, just a plain gray bird; dowitchers with no russet underparts; and ducks minus the lovely colors we enjoy seeing them display in Little Bay.

Look for the white spoonbills, brown laughing gulls, the young of the black-headed gulls you saw all summer, lovely wood ibis (storks) that remain only a few weeks, pintail ducks with pintails.

Just look, look, look, and give thanks to the Creator for all the beauty that is giving unto man to enjoy.

Forget the war on poverty.
We're waiting now for the politician who will promise everybody a haircut.

4-H FOOD PROJECTS SHOW WAY TO BETTER EATING HABITS

Today's teenager spends a lot of time away from home, has plenty of pocket money, and often substitutes "snacks" for meals.

These facts directly affect teenage eating habits, which in turn may impair health. It's also a fact that half the teenager's food intake for a day is eaten after school and before bedtime. Furthermore, a survey of 12th grade students revealed that 25 per cent missed one or more meals, and 10 per cent of 7th graders reported the same.

So with buying snacks, eating at odd hours, and skipping meals, how can a growing boy or girl get the required daily foods to ensure growth and vitality?

They can join 4-H and get involved in a food and nutrition club or project. More than 650,000 youngsters throughout the country are participating in the national 4-H Food-Nutrition program. Friendly competition is underway right now for county, state and national awards offered by the program sponsor, General Foods Corporation.

Eating may seem a necessary nuisance to busy teens who have little or no concern about nutrition. Younger children are better off nutrition-wise because mother still has the say-so about what they eat. But no matter what the age, 9 or 19, the 4-H program is versatile and has projects that are fun to do and educational as well.

A popular project for older 4-H'ers is the food fare where menus are planned, food cooked and served by the members. Unusual, foreign and snack (the nutritious kind) foods are popular at these events.

Another approach to foods and nutrition is to visit a restaurant, look the menu over carefully to see if any dish offered is unfamiliar, and then try the never-before tasted foods. The restaurant idea combines the foods and project with lessons in etiquette, how to order, and choice of places to eat. Meanwhile, the young people are learning why three balanced meals a day are necessary for good health, good looks, good times and good grades.

The Cooperative Extension Service invites boys and girls to join 4-H and start a food-nutrition project for the coming year. More information can be obtained from the County Extension office.

Miss Wright, Sgt. Dyson, Exchange Vows

Miss Doralyn Wright became the bride of Sgt. Ludwig M. Dyson, Jr., in a candlelight ceremony in the First Baptist Church, Friday, Sept. 6.

Rev. Charles Fake officiated and sang "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Norman McLead, aunt of the bride, was organist and Mrs. Freddie L. Geese sang "Each for the Other."

The altar was decorated with an archway of Spanish ironwork covered with lemon leaf, carnations and gladioli, centered with silver wedding bells.

Baskets of white gladioli, and blue carnations and Spanish candelabra were on each side of the archway. The pew markers were large blue ribbon bows.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Franklin Wright. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ludwig M. Dyson, Sr.

The bride chose an empire formal length gown of candlelight satin with a bodice of Spanish lace embroidered with seed pearls. Two full length panels of Spanish lace trimmed the front of the skirt. Her floor length mantilla was also of Spanish lace and seed pearls.

She carried a white Bible topped with a bouquet of white gladioli and stephanotis trimmed with silver leaves and white streamers tied in love knots.

The groom wore his dress blue Army uniform for the ceremony.

Miss Darlene Rouquette was maid-of-honor and wore a gown of moss green with a satin bodice. The skirt had an organza overlay and the empire waistline was trimmed with a deep green velvet ribbon sash. She wore a short three-tie red veil of moss green trimmed with white flowers.

Bridesmaids were Misses Judy Dyson, sister of the groom, Debra McLead, cousin of the bride, and Becky Wickoff. They wore gowns of wedgewood blue trimmed with green velvet sashes. Their head dresses were wedgewood blue trimmed with blue flowers.

All wore moss green shoes and white gloves and carried fans of Spanish lace with cascading blue carnations.

Flower girls were Kay Satsky, niece of the bride, and Becky Arthur. They wore dresses of pale green with a deep green velvet sash at the empire waist. They wore white gloves and carried Spanish baskets of rose petals.

Shane Wills, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer. Mike and Pat McLead, cousins of the bride, lit the candles and assisted Jimmy Cessac, cousin of the groom, as ushers.

Paul Brumley of Decatur, Georgia, was the best man. Groomsmen were Pat Jenkins of Collegeport, brother-in-law of the groom, Bob Farrar of Waco and Allen Cessac, cousin of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a peacock blue knit suit trimmed in white with beige accessories and a white hat. The groom's mother wore a navy blue knit suit trimmed in white with a white hat and accessories. Both wore blue carnation corsages.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Dyson, Sr. A rice tree, trimmed with lovebirds, rice bags, and wedding bells decorated the foyer table, where Miss Courtney Johnson presided at the guest book.

Debbie Fake and Kim Harper passed out the rice bags.

The bride's table was covered with a white, lace-trimmed cloth centered with an antique gold epergne holding green candles and blue carnations backed with silver leaves. The wedding cake was three-tiered, decorated with white love birds, bells, lily-of-the-valley and satin hearts.

Miss Diane Shults served the cake and Miss Denise Washburn served the punch. Miss Margie McNorton served the groom's cake, a large chocolate ring trimmed with white roses.

The groom's table was decorated with rust and gold chrysanthemums.

For traveling the bride wore a lime green suit with a glammellia corsage and beige accessories.

After a wedding trip to Hawaii, the couple will be at home in Monterrey, Calif., where the groom is an instructor in the drill sergeant school at Fort Ord.

The bride and groom are graduates of Aransas County High School. The bride attended Baylor University and the groom Del Mar College.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were:

Mrs. Pearl Wright, Portland; Miss Donna Sue Miller, Taft; Mrs. James Dyson, Abbeville, La.; Mr. Vockel Dyson, Kaplan, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Pat Jenkins and family, Collegeport; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Eireman, Corpus Christi; Dr. Reeves Smith, San Antonio; Mr. Bob Farrar, Waco; Mr. J. J. Theobald, Corpus Christi; Mr. Paul Brumley, Decatur, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Wickoff of Houston; Miss Margaret Smith, Bakersville, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Satsky, Lake Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Terry W. Wills and family, Alvin; Mr. Jimmy Mills, Port Lavaca; Mr. Frank St. Clair, Houston.

Couttes, so popular with women today, were worn by men during the French Revolution and were worn by aristocrats only.

AUTUMN RAINS SPARK DRIVING PROBLEMS

During the past summer we had much beautiful weather to enjoy, but from now until Christmas, we can expect some of the worst. Rain is sure to ruin many autumn outings, many trips to games, many routine drives to and from work.

Rain quickly slows traffic to a crawl. Worse yet, it causes streaky windshields and obscures drivers' vision. The Highway Visibility Bureau points out that 90 per cent of driving decisions depend on sight.

If you wear glasses, be sure they're clean when you drive. Be sure your windshield is clean and your windshield wiper equipment — arms, blades, and washers—is in top condition.

Wiper arms should exert a pressure against the windshield of an ounce to each inch of blade length. If pressure is right and wiper still streaks, it means the blade is dead and calls for replacement or refill.

Headlights should be accurately aimed and all lights in working order.

Quail and Dove Management

With the fall hunting season approaching, we often hear the question asked—How can I increase dove or quail numbers on my place?

Habitat improvement is the key to quail numbers. Approximately 80 per cent of each year's quail crop is lost due to hunting, predation, adverse weather, etc. This leaves only 20 per cent to start over with each year, but if suitable habitat is available this is more than enough to insure a bumper crop of birds the following year.

The two main habitat needs for quail are food and cover. These must occur in a favorable relationship for highest quail production. In other words, the distance between food and cover must not be greater than the birds can travel with safety. An ideal situation is for them to be next to each other.

A quail's diet varies from season to season. During the spring and summer they thrive on insects, green plant material and grass and weed seeds. This is usually a time of plenty for quail as the food is abundant. During late summer and early fall they feed mainly on berries, acorns and seeds.

Winter is the critical period for quail. From the time of the first killing frost the supply of food gets smaller. Other birds and rodents compete for food. This is where the landowner can give the birds a helping hand. Small areas of grain sorghum and corn left standing can provide enough food to carry the birds through this critical period. If this food is next to good cover it can make the difference between a small or large crop of birds the following year.

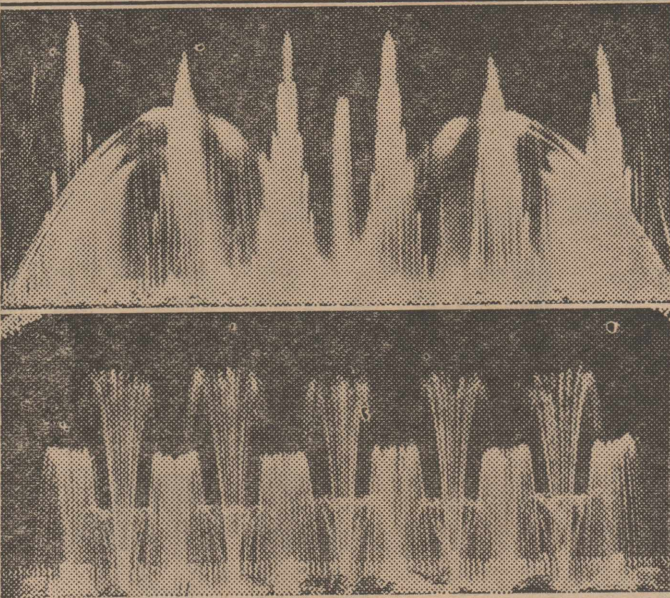

Water is not a critical factor in quail management. They can get by for long periods on the moisture from insects and dew; however, they do better where there are many ponds and available water.

Quail need a variety of cover in order to reach highest numbers. Most farms usually have some type of cover on them. This may be the form of fence rows grown in brush or weeds, or small clumps of brush left in selected areas. Probably the most important type of cover for quail is called "escape cover" or "tangled cover." This may be motts or clumps of thick brush or vines. Examples of these are condalia, gum elastic, lote bushes, rose hedges, grapevines and others. This is where the quail go to escape from predators. This is another area where the landowner can give the quail a helping hand. Selected shrubs such as Russian Olive, Autumn Olive, McCartney Rose or other suitable trees may be planted in fence rows or odd areas to provide better cover for quail. These shrubs also provide berries for food during the winter months.

Doves are migratory and do not stay in the same areas all year. However there are several things that can be done to attract them to an area.

NEW FREE MUSICAL WATERCOLOR CONCERT FEATURE AT 1968 STATE FAIR IN DALLAS

FOUNTASIA, featuring Dancing Waters in a Musical Watercolor Concert, will be the title of a four-acre extravaganza of light, color, music and moving water at the 1968 State Fair of Texas Oct. 5-20 in Dallas. The spectacular area will be bounded by the Main Entrance, World Exhibits and Automobile Buildings, and the Texas Hall of State. All of the trees will be artistically illuminated from below and each will be filled with a myriad of twinkling lights. The fountain-filled reflecting pool, centerpiece of the Esplanade, will feature Dancing Waters in six free outdoor performances daily. Other fountains will play in the pool when Dancing Waters is not in presentation.

They are strictly seed eaters and waste grain or volunteer grain left for this purpose will usually attract them to an area.

Also, idle fields that have been disked to allow weeds such as cotton or dove-weed to grow can be great attractions for doves. One of the best methods of improving dove hunting on a farm is to have a farm pond constructed. While serving as a water supply for cattle it will also attract many doves. Unlike quail, doves need water daily and will fly a great distance to obtain it.
