Brick work of the side and rear walls is going up rapidly, and has reached the third floor now, and the side work of the brick masons is also progressing. The front of the building is being finished with white stone and glass, with windows in white also, with the rest of the building red, which will look like the office building of the Plains.

MULLICAN RULES AGAINST CITY GAS TAX

CITY LEVY RULED ILLEGAL AS BIG FIRMS FIGHT TAX

Ruling that it would be unconstitutional to permit a municipality to levy taxes against corporations already taxed through provisions of the state statute, District Judge Clark M. Mullican presiding over court here yesterday afternoon, upheld the injunction of three large oil companies restraining the City of Lubbock from collecting the half cent per gallon tax on all gasoline sold within city limits.

The case was strictly a matter of translation of the law and was tried without a jury. After hearing the evidence from both sides Judge Mullican handed down his decision, based on Article 7865 of the 1925 revised Texas statute.

Money To Be Used On Streets. Some time ago the commissioners of the city decided to place the tax upon gasoline retained in Lubbock, the money to go to the streets and alleys department. Upon notification of the commissioner's decision three large oil companies doing business here, the Magnolia, the Texas and the Gulf companies, retained the law firm of Bledsoe and Cranshaw to represent them and a temporary injunction was applied to halt the collection of the tax, which, in round numbers, would have meant about $1,000 per month to be spent on improving and maintaining the city's streets and alleys.

The City of Lubbock, through its attorneys, Pean and Klett, contended that since Lubbock was one of Texas' 15 or 16 "home rule" cities, incorporated under the state's famous "home rule" statute the municipality had the right to levy what taxes it saw fit to levy and that the state legislature had no control over the city's action.

Appeal To Be Taken. Immediately after Judge Mullican's decision Attorneys Pean and Klett gave notice of appeal to the civil courts of the State. Attorney Charles C. Cranshaw argued the case for the oil companies, W. H. Bledsoe being absent from the court room due to his attendance at the special meeting of the state senate in Austin.

Johnston And May Home From Session. Sheriff H. L. Johnston and Chief of Police T. E. May have returned from Eagle Pass, where they attended the Sheriff's convention during the past several days.

According to Chief Deputy Sheriff Vernice Ford the only thing the two peace officers had to show to prove their attendance was a key-ring case but both the "High Sheriff" and the Chief are expected to be proudly showing their convention badges to refute Mr. Ford's allegations.

HIGH SCHOOL IS BADLY CROWDED

Three Rooms in Junior High Being Used; Teachers To Meet Saturday. With one week of the current school year past, the schools of the city are settling themselves into routine of the year, according to Sup't. M. H. Duncan and classes are holding regularly and running on schedule.

Even with the addition during the summer of two large study-halls to the Senior High School building, all rooms are crowded and overflowing, Mr. Duncan said and three of the rooms of the south side of the building, the Junior High School, are being used to accommodate the large number of students enrolled in the High School of whom there are 150 more this year than last.

Teachers' Meeting Saturday. Saturday morning, 9 to 12, teachers of the city schools will meet, at the Senior High School, Mr. Duncan stated, for the first teachers meeting of the year.

From 9 to 10 o'clock, a general assembly will be held in the auditorium at which time Mr. Duncan will address the teachers; at 10 o'clock, departmental meetings will be held and at 11 o'clock, a meeting of the superintendents and principals of the city schools is scheduled.

Lubbock Invaded By Tahoka Boosters. With G. H. Nelson, secretary of the Tahoka Chamber of Commerce heading the delegation, a large band of Lynn County citizens invaded Lubbock late Thursday evening, paraded up Main Street and gave a concert on the court house lawn. Mrs. Nelson in a short talk between numbers of the concert, urged Lubbock citizens to attend the fair.

SURVEY RESULTS IN FINDING 462 FREE CUSTOMERS

AT LEAST $800 MORE TO BE AVAILABLE EACH MONTH TO CITY. A complete investigation of the inefficiencies of the city water department a probe which has been under way for the past several months and which has included a city-wide survey of water mains and auxiliary lines, will be closed in three near future and will add at least $800 per month revenue to the water department of the city government, Freedland W. Groce, city secretary estimated today. Thus far a total of 462 non-paying water customers have been discovered through the investigation, which when finished, is expected to reach 500 or more.

Lack of system in the department and a slipshod method of keeping accounts, together with the rapid growth of the city have caused the discrepancies in the water department, officials say, and the investigation instituted by action of the city commission and City Manager William H. Peaslee, was supposedly launched to better conditions.

Many Errors Are Found. In many cases the city-wide survey showed a number of houses being served from one connection which were billed at the end of each month on the flat rate plan. Other cases were found where connections had been made and not posted in the books while some other instances showed customers continuing to receive water service despite the fact that they were in arrears in their accounts.

One instance in particular was pointed out by Mr. Groce. A man erected a house on the corner of a plot of ground and had a water connection made. He was billed at the rate of $2 per month for the service. Later he erected a number of houses and piped water to them from his connection.

(AP)—William "Red" Donaldson, a former Texas cowboy, was found guilty of murder in the first degree of Joseph Mullins of Gary, by a jury here today with a recommendation that he be sentenced to life imprisonment. Donaldson was charged with having fatally shot Mullins so that he might marry Mrs. Mullins.

Sentence was deferred so that defense attorneys might consider an appeal. Mullins was shot from ambush while walking in a park with his wife last April. Donaldson, a boarder at the Mullins home was arrested and signed a confession. Every effort was made to nullify the confession when the trial began on the ground that it had been made under duress.

Mrs. Mullins, who was indicted jointly with Donaldson, testified against him.

Lockney Lassies Coming Here

The justly famous Lockney Chamber of Commerce ukulele band, composed of nine young high school girls, will appear daily in Lubbock in connection with the 1926 Panhandle and South Plains fair. H. B. Adams, secretary of the Lockney Chamber of Commerce has promised. The girls made their first appearance away from Lockney last spring at the district convention of the West Texas "Number of Commerce" at Lufkin and were one of the "hits" of the convention.

SNYDER GIRL IS SUICIDE VICTIM

Shoots Self Because She Was Tired Of Being An Orphan. Relatives Believe. SNYDER, Texas, Sept. 17. (AP)—Although Gladys Evans, 16, high school student, wrote two notes declaring that "this is an awful thing to do" and that "you will never know why I did this," friends and relatives Friday expressed belief that Miss Evans shot herself through the heart because she could no longer bear to be an orphan.

The girl's father and mother died of influenza on the same day several years ago and since then she and her brothers and sisters have lived in five different places, distributed among relatives.

Thursday Miss Evans was playing the phonograph in a room by herself and Mrs. John Cole, her cousin with whom she was staying, heard a shot. She rushed into the room in time to see the dying girl thrust a revolver under the mattress.

Cotton Pickers Needed All Over South Plains. The South Plains section now is very much in need of cotton pickers, according to farmers of this county who are constantly appealing to chamber of commerce officials and others for information that might lead them to the source of labor. Cotton is now opening exceptionally fast due to the warm weather of the past few days, and the demand seems to be general over this section of the state.

Cotton on the South Plains this year is opening from two to four weeks earlier than it has ever been known, and as the crop is about that much late in other parts of the state, the harvest will be carried on almost simultaneously throughout the state. Efforts are under way to line up sufficient pickers to handle the crop.

Meeting In Interest Of Trade Trips Held. Although the trade trip announced for Friday by the Panhandle-South Plains Fair officials has been called off, a meeting is being held this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce rooms to which business and professional men interested in the welfare of the city were invited. A date is to be set for the trip and pledges will be taken for participation.

The directors have pointed out that business is good over the South Plains and that an era of prosperity seems to be approaching and that it is necessary for the Lubbock merchants to advertise in their trade territory and to show the proper friendly spirit to surrounding towns.

FORCE ENTRANCE INTO HOUSES OF WORSHIP TO ROB

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN AND METHODIST CHURCHES ARE $300 LOSERS. Forcing an entrance into the First Presbyterian and the First Methodist churches under the cover of darkness, vandals made their first appearance in Lubbock for a period of twelve months Thursday night, and made their escape with two typewriters and an adding machine. The typewriters were taken from the study of Rev. Jack M. Lewis, of the Presbyterian church and the adding machine from the office of H. W. Richardson, secretary to Rev. E. E. White, of the Methodist congregation.

Both pastors discovered their losses at an early hour this morning and appealed to both city and county officers for aid in recovering out the matter. Up until a late hour this afternoon, however, the announcements of losses were forthcoming from the officers.

One Theory Advanced. According to a statement issued this morning by Desk Sergeant Wiley L. Metcalf, of the police department, officers are working on the theory that a student or students of the Texas Technological college are responsible for the thefts of the typewriters and the adding machine. About the time the college opened last year similar thefts were reported to officers and on the surface, at least, it appears that the theory may be a correct one, officers believe.

Entrance was forced into the Presbyterian church by tearing away the screen on the south side of the structure, one on the basement floor and the other on the church floor, while a like method of attack was employed at the Methodist church on the west side but only one screen was removed by the thieves.

Loot Totals $300. All three of the machines stolen were practically new. The Methodist congregation recently paid $125 for the calculator, Reverend White said, and it hadn't seen much use. Reverend Lewis stated that both of the typewriters were in good condition and one of the machines was practically unused. He values them at $175.

Man Jailed Claims He's Texas Ranger. A man giving the name of Miller and laying claim to being a member of the Texas Rangers, is being held in the Lubbock county jail on a charge of drunkenness, Deputy Sheriff Vernice L. Ford said this morning. According to Mr. Ford's statement Miller hails from Borger, the new oil field town in Hutchinson county.

When arrested Miller, who officers claim was under the influence of contracts containing a heavy percentage of alcohol, insisted that he was a member of the Ranger forces but officers, believing his statement to come as the result of the alleged intoxication gave the matter little thought. This morning, however, the man had returned to his normal state and still insisted that he was a member of the famous body of peace officers. No disposition has yet been made of the case, pending investigation.

Journal News Reel. Thieves lost two local churches of pastors' equipment Thursday night. District Judge Mullican rules against city gas tax in upholding injunction recently granted oil firms operating here. City treasury enriched considerably as result of investigation carried on in water department. Snyder girl, 16, shoots self to death leaving two notes saying "you will never know why". Plans completed for annual Peddlers' Jubilee here Saturday. Enrollment at Lubbock high school increased about 150, but other departments not yet checked for number. Texas alone vote additional state probe after session adjourns, and recess until Monday.

There is a good old English word that is in danger of becoming obsolete. Would it not be an interesting thing if our children's children should have to look in the dictionary for the word "must."

Next that school days are with us again and summer schools with all manner of special courses for teachers have closed their doors, one feels that never in the world's history has the young idea had such an opportunity for target practice.

I heard a doctor say that methods in treatment changed about every five years. A doctor's education is never finished. He studies as he works. He has no time for play. It is fast becoming the case with the teacher. She must keep up with progress and modern methods—and methods are changing almost yearly. Each is a step up.

There have been methods and methods all good, but often extreme. Now in the laboratories of education, the best ideas are being taken from each and combined to make a more perfect whole. Never has your child had such an opportunity for an excellent education.

Not only have teachers taken money and time to equip themselves with new ideas—and I assure you the new ideas are fine, although they may seem radical to the lay mind—but towns and school boards are spending money to procure for your child the most advanced text books on the market. Do not say, "what was good enough for me is good enough for my son." It isn't good enough for my son. It isn't good enough for your son any more than the style of clothes you wore as a boy would do for him now. He has a battle to fight in an advanced world. And the advanced world does not wait for back numbers.

No, what you need to do the most of all to help him, is to get the dictionary and point to the word "must." All the new methods and text books and every month in special colleges for teachers will be lost if your boy does not do his part with all his might and main, with you behind him.

WOMAN'S DAILY ABROAD
BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—That remarkable 15 hour and 32 minute swim across the choppy English Channel was not the most successful one of Miss Gade Corson's life, even if it is the most heralded one.

Granted, it took her from Gris Nez to Dover, but her first swim around Manhattan Island back in 1921 landed her from the Hudson river into the Sea of Marmara, and gave her the valiant Clem Corson as a husband. He merits the share in her newly won honors which she so eagerly awards him.

The sudden rise to fame of this swimmer, a delightful romance and reveals a bit of enviable comradship and a wholesome home life with a salty flavor to give background to the victorious feat.

Miss Gade came to this country some nine years ago. From Denmark she became a swimming instructor in the Harlem branch of the Y. W. C. A.

Played Cupid
Perhaps she decided it would be the quickest way to get around in the city of New York, when she decided to swim around Manhattan Island—on any rate, she conceived the idea and, not knowing the procedure, went down to the militia training ship, "Illinois," stationed in the Hudson river, and took up the project with Allen W. Walz, superintendent of the New York reservation.

And unconsciously this very practical navy man assumed the role of "Cupid." For he was very busy when the ill, blonde descendant of the Vikings walked into his office, so he turned her over to Clem Corson, his assistant, saying:

"Help the lady out, will you, Corson? See if you can't dig up the maps and the information she needs."

"Are you, sir?" replied Corson, who has a reputation of being one of these strong silent men, and who had managed to get safely into his 30's without being lured to the altar.

"I've got the whole day off today, and she can have all of it, if she needs it," he volunteered generously.

Apparently the deal was made her think she did. For his whole day was spent mapping out her swim. Then he offered to row the boat alongside. She accepted his offer. They took their first joy ride around Manhattan, and she circumnavigated it in 15 hours and 32 seconds—a record time.

After this, when Clem didn't spend as much time with the men at the ship as formerly, his friends began to suspect that his interest in the swimmer was not entirely in her swimming, though he confided in no one.

Now were they surprised when, three months later, Clem rowed the boat when Miss Gade swam from Albany to New York, a 142-mile trip, done in six installments.

Now were they able to say more than "I told you so," when shortly after this the two were married. There was something fatalistic and inevitable about the whole affair.

Afterwards, the man on the ship, which is permanently stationed at the foot of 94th street, had a chance to become better acquainted with Clem's wife, because he brought her to live at the reservation in a little frame house just across the gang-plank. Here they have lived ever since—and here the children were born and reared.

A very great interest in athletics, and a devotion to their two children has characterized the married life of the Corsons.

To keep in training, Mrs. Corson used to arise at daybreak, before the children had stirred from their sleep, and run four times around the reservation in Central Park. Then she would track home, put on the coffee pot, start the bacon and eggs sizzling and change from athlete to housewife by the time the children were ready to get up.

The Corsons have never been well off in a material way—Mrs. Corson has been very hard on about swimming, because she wanted the money for her children, but they have been rich in the happiness which comes from love and congeniality.

Federation Plans To Entertain 2 State Officials

Tentative plans for the entertainment of two officers of the State federation were made Thursday afternoon at the first fall meeting of the City Federation of Women's clubs at the First Baptist church with Mrs. Garland Woodward, president, in the chair. Committee chairman reported that 17 Tech girls have been placed in homes to work this winter, that all federation debts have been paid and that there is money in the treasury and that few women have paid their dues.

Two new members were accepted at a meeting of the executive board preceding the meeting. They are Mesdames J. N. Michie and Charles F. O'Neil.

Miss Elizabeth West, Tech librarian, made the principal address of the afternoon on "You and Your Library." She spoke of the necessity of every one learning to read and to know books as a means of life and that, experiments have shown that children who have read extensively usually test higher in mentality.

She advised the members of the city federation to promote good reading and an excellent county library and to cooperate with Miss Frances Hoyt Ford, county librarian, in securing the books most in demand here and the ones that will make for a better balanced library.

Mrs. Richard Douglas, accompanied by Mrs. Joe Flaig, sang two songs. The program was prepared by Miss Ruth Horn.

The members voted to give a reception for Mrs. R. E. Buchanan, State parliamentarian, who has written that she expects to visit Lubbock in October and to invite Mrs. Douglas, State chairman of art, to visit Lubbock October 12 to speak to the public and to school children.

Cosmopolitan Club In Meeting With Mrs. J. P. Giles

LOCAL FIREMEN HOST TO SADLER COMPANY HERE

BANQUET SPREAD AT ELK CAFE COMPLIMENTING DRAMATIC TROUP

The Lubbock Fire Department was host Thursday night to Harley Sadler and his entire company of about 33 people when a banquet was spread at the Elk Cafe in an effort of the fire department to show its appreciation for the sunny favors extended by Mr. Sadler and his company. The Sadler company has for the past several years played under auspices of the department each year in their engagements here.

Mayor Pink L. Parrish, of Lubbock presided as toastmaster at the request of the arrangements committee, and in his preliminary remarks explained the occasion of the meeting, and paid a high tribute to Mr. Sadler both as a showman and a citizen of West Texas, to which Mr. Sadler responded with a few remarks expressing his thanks and explaining his attitude toward the show business in West Texas, saying he is glad to be classed as a citizen of this great part of the state.

Other speakers included City Commissioner J. H. Hankins and A. V. Weaver, Fire Chief W. E. Twitty; O. R. Phillips, president of the Lubbock volunteer department; J. H. Bryan, former president of the volunteers, and one of the pioneer members of the department, and several members of the Sadler company, who were called upon at random by Toastmaster Parrish.

One of the very interesting sidelights of the program was a short talk by "Bud" Nairn, of the Sadler company, who said among other things that he had been in the show business for thirty years, had seen its ups and downs, and the time when show people such as the company he is now with were looked upon practically as outcasts, unfit to mingle in respectable society. Now, however, he said, things have changed, and are fast growing to be just the opposite. "It just sets under my hide on an occasion of this kind," he said, "to feel that I and other members of my profession can mingle with the best people of a city on an occasion of this kind. It just naturally makes a man feel more like life is worth living."

LONHORN CREW TO BE INSPIRED BY NEW STADIUM

ATHLETES PLAY UNDER SHADOW OF ONE UNIT OF NEW BUILDING

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 12. (AP)—Lonhorns gridiron aspirants who will report to Coach "Doc" Stewart here Friday for the initial workout of the coming season will see under way the construction of a $125,000 unit to the memorial stadium.

As the doughy prospectors complete their faces, they will be inspired by the thought that when the Lonhorns meet the Texas Aggies here Thanksgiving Day accommodations will be available for 40,500 spectators.

The turf of the gridiron of the half million dollar stadium plant is in perfect condition, though before the close of the season it doubtless will be worn bare in many spots by cleated shoes.

When Coach Stewart took charge of the Lonhorns in 1923, he was greeted by a squad of veteran performers, most of them playing their third season. Stewart whipped this tried material into a combination that went through an undefeated season, its record marred only by a 7-7 tie with the Baylor Bears, and a lucky 25-0 at that. The most notable triumph of the eleven was a 76-0 victory over the Vanderbilt Commodores at Dallas.

This year, the Steer material is almost as promising as it was in 1923, and unbiased critics are predicting the Lonhorns will go far in the title chase.

Coach Stewart, however, is predicting he will have a fighting team, and nothing else, demonstrating he has learned something in his years of coaching experience, for "anything can happen in football."

Provided he can develop a long distance runner, Stewart should be satisfied with his backfield. The Steers have had a splendid winter, since Stewart took charge. In 1925, they had Eckhardt and Robertson; in 1924 and 1925, Wright and Fred Thompson.

Although there is available a comparatively large number of tried backfield performers, but two backs at this time seem assured of regular berths. Captain Mack Saxon of Temple, sturdy, brilliant defensive half, should have an even more successful season than in 1925, when he won all-conference honors. "Rammin'" Rufus King of Austin, who hits a line like the presidential ton of brick, will be a permanent contender for All-Southwestern fullback honors. King weighs about 185 pounds, is fast, and should cause opposing coaches much worry in his second season of intercollegiate play.

"Roxy" Stalter of Eastland, the fleet Johnny Estes of Dallas, and "Porty" Allen of Lubbock are promising half-backs from last year who will make determined bids for jobs. Stalter was a regular last season, and stamped himself an excellent runner of interference and handler of punts.

Joe King of Dallas, letter man of last year, and Ed Hester of Beaumont, captain of the 1925 "Steer" eleven, will fight it out for the quarterback's job with the likelihood they will divide time at this important post.

As far as hurlers of passes are concerned, the Lonhorns should be able to bash a deadly overhead game. Joe King, Rufus King, Estes, Stalter, and Saxon are all good passers.

Tora Hughes, a big back from Texas, who weighs around 185 pounds, and is exceptionally fast, is a freshman recruit who may break into the regular lineup.

Prospects for a formidable forward wall are not so bright, though "Wild Bill" James, assistant coach, who starred in his day for Centre College, should be able to fashion a line of steel. The strongest veteran prospects in the line are "Ox" Higgins of Dallas and Murray Moore of Electra. Higgins, who played tackle last season, may be shifted to end, while Moore who was used at guard and tackle in 1925, is practically certain of a regular tackle's job.

Other letter men who will be out for the berths are: Aubrey Couch of Evans, tackle who weighs 210 pounds, Basil Penney of Kerens, guard; "Potty" McCullough of Waco, guard and center; and Ed Oile, Platoon, end.

The letter men will have to fight determinedly for jobs, because a number of star recruits from the '25 freshman team will be bidding for places in the line. The most promising, center on the '25 "Fish" eleven, He is powerful, speedy, loves the game, and is smart. He is practically assured of the first string pivot job.

Other outstanding members of the 1925 "Fish" team who will be out for the team are: Jack Cowley of Blossom, big tackle, who is extremely powerful; Orval Rhonda, center and from Dallas, who may be Oile's running mate on the sidelines of the line; and Harry Phillips of Dallas, who will be a candidate for guard. At least 10 other members of last year's freshmen will be out for the varsity.

The 1926 schedule will test the mettle of the strongest team Stewart is able to fashion. There is not a "soft" assignment on the card. The most formidable opponents will be the Rice Owls, Southern Methodist University Ponies, the Baylor Bears, the Texas Aggies, Kansas Aggies, and Vanderbilt Commodore.

In a letter to six prospective teammates, Captain Saxon said the Commodores, Ponies, and Aggies are the teams the Lonhorns will be "scrambling" for. Last season, the Commodore defeated the Steers at Nashville by making the most of the "breaks," while the Steers and Ponies played a scoreless tie. The Aggies in winning the championship of the conference overwhelmed the Lonhorns 25-0, in perhaps the most humiliating defeat during the long relationship between the two schools.

The schedule:

Sept. 25—Oklahoma, Southwest Teachers College, at Austin.

Oct. 2—Kansas Aggies, at Manhattan, Kansas.

Oct. 9—Phillips University, at Austin.

Oct. 16—Vanderbilt University, at Dallas.

Oct. 23—Rice Institute, at Houston.

Oct. 30—Southern Methodist University, at Austin.

Nov. 6—Baylor University, at Waco.

Nov. 11—Southwestern University, at Austin.

Nov. 25—Texas A. & M. College, at Austin.

SCOUT WORK TAKES ON NEW INTEREST

With the re-opening of the school members of Boy Scout Troops over the city are taking on new interest in their work, according to Scout officials here.

While the Scouts have been active during the summer months, with their hikes and camps, to say nothing of the opportunity for quicker advancement in rank, the school-time brings them close in touch with their fellow scouts, and boasts the spirit of meetings, as well as attendance.

This evening all troops of the city whose regular session comes on Friday, will meet for the first session of the school year, in regular places, with the exception of Troop 4, which will meet with Troop 1 at the High School building.

At this joint meeting, when interested onlookers will be staged, and, according to S. A. Henry, city scoutmaster, come up unexpectedly. L. S. Harvey, Area Commissioner will relate a ghost story to the combined Troops, which will be the central feature of the program.

French Deny Troops Are Sent To Italy

PARIS, Sept. 17. (AP)—Formal denial of reports published in Berlin that France was concentrating troops on Italian frontier was issued by War Minister Painleve today.

"It is regrettable that such news should be disseminated by Germany on the day after her entry into the League of Nations," M. Painleve said.

The report was reprinted in the Berlin newspaper Gazette de Voss by its Paris correspondent, who said he had learned from well-informed circles that France had concentrated in recent days no less than six divisions in the region of the French Alps and had correspondingly strengthened the frontier fortresses.

Outwardly he added, France was observing the correct reserved attitude in the face of most bitter attacks from the Italian press, resulting from the attempt on Mussolini's life by an Italian exile who had lived in France.

she do it? Boys had buzzed around her like bees around a honeypot since her grammar school days. And Faith had had only two or three sweethearts in the five years she had been allowed to go with the boys—Benny Gorman, whom the other girls wouldn't have anything to do with; Arthur Higgins, who was working his way thru college, but whom Cherry made fun of because he was the son of a butcher; and Chester Hart. Now Cherry had vamped Chester away from her.

Faith's footsteps dragged as she entered the room she shared with Joy. Without intending to do so, and despising herself for her weakness, she took a small package of letters from her worn bureau drawer and sat down on her unmade bed to read them. Not many of them—Chester had kept out of town very seldom in the year that he and Faith had gone together. Stiff, uninteresting letters, little more than notes, chronicling the weather, his health, his business activities.

"Now a great show last night!—Rain. Gee, it was great! Wish you had been there with me. It's hot as blazes today—"

Of course she hadn't been in love with Chester. Hart! Stupid, heavy thing! But as she tore the letters and postcards to bits, she dropped angry, hurt tears upon them. After all, she had been someone to go about with, someone to take her to the movies, to the country on Sundays in his flivver. And Cherry hadn't needed him. Now there was no one—

But there was too much to be done for Faith to spend many minutes in grieving for a man she had never loved anyway.

Seven hours later Faith heard her father calling her in his jovial company-manners voice, to come to the living room to meet Bob Hathaway. She tucked in a strand of straying brown hair—she had never bobbed it—dabbed at her flushed face with the powder puff she had concealed in the pocket of her one-piece, much-washed pongee dress, gave a last quick glance at the dinner table, and walking slowly and with the dignity which was her heritage, went to meet the man on whom her father was counting so heavily. She must try—oh, she must try hard, she told herself—to make a good impression.

"Mr. Hathaway, like you to meet my daughter, Faith, the pick of the lot. She's been adding another cup of water to the soup for you."

Faith's heart leaped in her breast as her hand went into the warm clasp of Bob Hathaway. How could she ever have wept, even in anger, for Chester Hart?

MOODY FORCES WIN FIRST FIGHT IN LEGISLATURE

(By the Associated Press) AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 17.--The first taut battle alignment on the floor of the special session of the Texas legislature broke Thursday with a victory for the forces backing Dan Moody. When the house by a vote of 104 to 22 ordered a sweeping investigation of state departments. When the tide of victory for Moody's friends became apparent, numerous representatives who had supported 4 Governor Ferguson flopped against her. Orders Committee of Nine The house ordered that a committee of nine members, to be named by the speaker start its investigation, centering on the state highway commission, text book commission and board of pardons, after adjournment of the special session and report to the fourth legislature, which convenes next January. This action will throw the investigation under the incumbent, Moody regime, whereas Governor Ferguson had asked that the matter be taken up during the present special session. Speaker Lee Satterwhite recently asked Attorney General Moody for an opinion on the legality of an investigating committee appointed during the special session reporting to the following session of the legislature. Moody ruled that such action was legal. Political speculation here Friday whirled about the personnel of the investigating committee. Speaker Satterwhite will name the committee early next week. He said he had as yet given little consideration to the personnel. Prospective Members Among Moody leaders who are expected to be given the most serious consideration by the speaker for committee places are, R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo, slated for the speakership of the 40th and Alfred Patsch of Fredericksburg, floor leader of the investigation resolution proponents. Members of the legislature after meeting four days, returned home Thursday night. Both the lower and upper house adjourned until Monday to give the clerks time to catch up with the work on the many validation bills for road districts, which have been engrossed and passed. Joe Burkett, former state senator and former member of the state highway commission, said he would welcome an investigation into the affairs in which he participated while a member of the highway commission. Mr. Burkett resigned last November.

Cotton Markets

NEW ORLEANS TRADING NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17. (AP)--The cotton market opened steady with first grades showing a gain of one point on October, no change on December and a decline of 7 points on January. Prices eased off after the call on continued good weather, active months showing losses of 3 to 5 points compared with yesterday's close. Later the market rallied on news that one of the storms raging in Southern waters might reach the cotton belt. October trading to 16.40c, December to 16.55c, and January to 16.61c. The market eased off during the morning on hedge selling and liquidation due to favorable weather. October trading down to 16.45c, December to 16.30c and January to 16.30c or 22 to 25 points below the early highs and 18 to 21 points below yesterday's close. Near mid-session, a storm bulletin announced the raising of storm signals on the East Florida coast due to the tropical hurricane scheduled to pass Nassau tonight checked the downward trend and caused a rally of 11 to 12 points from the low. The market ruled firmer after mid-session. October traded up to 16.55c, December 16.50c and January to 16.57c or 17 to 20 points from the lows and to within 4 to 5 points from the early highs, early in the afternoon the market was quieter and showed signs of easing off.

NEW YORK TRADING

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (AP)--The cotton market opened steady at a decline of 3 points to an advance of 2 points, most of the active months being lower under overnight selling by the south and realizing. Initial offerings appeared to be readily absorbed and the market soon steadied on covering promoted by relatively steady Liverpool cables and the uncertainty of the tropical storm situation. December sold up from 16.49 to 16.57, the general market showing net advances of about 6 to 9 points at the end of the first hour. After December had advanced to 16.59 in the early trading, prices reacted. There appeared to be some apprehension that one of the tropical storms would hit the South Atlantic coast and that another would probably cause showers or rains along the Gulf coast, but except for covering, the market appeared to be without much support and offerings increased. December sold off to 16.53 with active months generally showing net losses of 9 to 12 points at mid-day. The early afternoon market was quiet, but steadier of reports that one of the tropical storms was approaching the Florida coast and might pass into the East Gulf of Mexico was selling around 16.50c at 2 o'clock, when the market was about net unchanged to 2 points higher.

Slain Mexican's Body Be Exhumed in Probe

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Sept. 17. (AP)—The body of Tomas Nunez, Mexican citizen, who was one of the five men killed in an ambush near Raymondville on the afternoon of September 7, will be exhumed and brought to Brownsville today for investigation. An announcement of this decision was made this morning by Mexican Consul A. C. Casquet, who left Raymondville with an undertaker at noon.

Members of the Nunez family have stated to the Mexican consul that the elder Nunez was beheaded and this his body bore marks of severe blows. Two Brownsville doctors will view the body today and file their reports with the Mexican consul, and it is probable the report will also be submitted to the grand jury now investigating the killings which occurred in Willacy county last week.

Knife Hurlled Into Royal Lunch Party

TOKYO, Sept. 17. (AP)—A knife was hurled towards Princess Louise of Sweden, Sir John Tilley, British ambassador, and Albert de Bassompierre, Belgian ambassador, yesterday while a luncheon was in progress at the British embassy. The weapon struck Roger Tilley, son of the ambassador, near the heart but was deflected by a gold cigarette case. Young Tilley was uninjured. The would-be assassin escaped.

British and Japanese officials are reticent concerning the incident.

U. S. OFFICIALS FILE PROTEST IN BANDIT ATTACK

PROMPT ACTION DEMANDED IN APPREHENSION OF SLAYERS

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Results of the investigation of the American embassy at Mexico City into the death of Jacob Rosenthal and the result of a United States representation to the Cuernavaca government were awaited today by the state department officials who had been stirred by news of the New York business man's murder by Mexican bandits.

Charles Schienfeldt was under instructions from Secretary Kellogg to impress upon the Mexican administration that an offense against its nationals demands prompt action by the Mexican authorities.

Officials Say Beaten To Death
Official advices say that Rosenthal had been "beaten to death" by the brigands who seized him Sunday not far from the Mexican capital and held him for $10,000 ransom. The slaying followed the killing of two of his captors by federal troops.

News dispatches, however, said the outlaws stabbed the aged American who was weakened by a recent illness because he hampered their flight and because they preferred not to have him rescued alive by the federal soldiers with whom they were engaged in a running fight in a wild portion of country less than 40 miles from Mexico City.

The pursuit was halted to recover the body, which bore many wounds, but was resumed immediately under orders to redouble efforts to capture or kill the outlaws. The body was taken to Cuernavaca and will be removed to Mexico City.

Letter Urges Payment
A letter received Wednesday from Rosenthal was turned over to the American embassy in Mexico City. He said he was very ill, had been compelled to sleep in rain, and was suffering from exposure. He requested that the $10,000 ransom be sent quickly. The outlaws had appended to the note instructions that messengers with the 20,000 pesos in gold meet them at a certain spot.

Mexican officials laid a trap for the brigands, which failed. Soldiers in civilian clothes simulated the messengers and carried a sack piece of iron instead of gold. It was planned to capture the bandits' envoys and force them to guide the soldiers to their camp. No details of the miscarriage of the plan have been received.

Troops In Pursuit
A belief was intensified, however, that the Calles government had shown good faith in dispatching a detachment of troops in pursuit as soon as the kidnapping of Rosenthal had become known.

The abduction of the New York business man was the latest in the long list of similar acts against Americans in recent years. Several of these have been committed in the Cuernavaca district and drew repeated protests from Washington. The extent to which the incident may indicate a recurrence of outlawry remains to be established.

If a change of American policy toward Mexico is determined upon, it is evident that it will be only because the most serious considerations appear to demand such a decision. President Coolidge's administration has been making a studied effort to maintain relations with Mexico City upon a friendly basis, and even the fundamental differences over the new Mexican land and oil laws have not been permitted to reach a crisis.

STORM MOVING NORTHEASTWARD

Turk's Island Badly Damaged As Winds Of Hurricane Force Sweep Island

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. (AP)—The tropical storm that was off Cape Hatteras Thursday morning has recurred to the northeast and is central this morning about latitude 29 degrees north and longitude 83 degrees west, the weather bureau reported. This would place it about 135 miles southeast of Nantucket light ship.

The storm which passed near Turk's Island Thursday afternoon is apparently central in Bahama waters about latitude 23 degrees north, longitude 74 degrees west, and moving rather rapidly west-northwestward, attended by winds of hurricane force near its center.

"This is a very severe storm," a weather bureau warning said. The third tropical disturbance noted in the past few days has moved westward through the Florida straits, the bureau said, and practically dissipated.

Turk's Island Damaged
TURK'S ISLAND, Bahamas, Sept. 17. (AP)—Enormous damage to property was caused by the tropical storm of hurricane force which passed over Turk's Island yesterday. There were no fatalities. Nearly all the lighters in port were lost.

One recent improvement in this world is the idle rich have ceased to be the idol rich.

Bratcher Contracts Concessions At Fair

A. A. Bratcher has closed a contract for the concessions at the Panhandle South Plains fair grounds, according to Walter A. Myrick, Jr., president of the association. He is to be on the fair grounds or at the Chamber of Commerce most of the time after Saturday planning for booths to feed the crowds in attendance. He plans to increase the number of concessions this year, thinking that there will be a much larger attendance, he stated today.
